Arraignment set for Taylor

SANFORD — Arraignment for Darrick Taylor is scheduled July 27 at 1 p.m. at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility courtroom J-1.

Darrick Taylor

Taylor, indicted by a grand jury for first degree murder Tuesday, appeared before Judge Donald Marblestone Wednesday. Taylor has been held in jail without bond since he turned himself into authorities earlier this month. Marblestone ruled Taylor will continue to be held without bond.

Taylor is charged with stabbing his girlfriend, Kimberly Grace, in late June. The public defender has been appointed to represent Taylor.

Budget meeting tonight

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission is holding a special called meeting tonight. The purpose is to begin budget discussions for fiscal 1993/94.

Scheduled on the agenda are considerations of projected revenues and expenses, various capital projects, and the proposed millage rate.

City Manager John Litton has recommended the city consider maintaining the same millage rate as established last year, 3.7648. One mill in Lake Mary is projected to represent $481,967. The amount is $26,753 higher than the income from one mill in fiscal 1992/93.

During his budget message last week, Litton advised the commission to initially consider a higher millage then reduce it if possible. "Remember," he said, "you can always reduce the millage prior to final reading in September, but it is a very difficult and expensive process should the Commission decide to go the other way."

The special called meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. tonight, in the commission chambers of the Lake Mary City Hall, 100 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

Python strangles 15-year-old

COMMERCE CITY, Colo. — A 15-year-old was strangled in his bedroom by his brother's 11½-foot pet python.

The 80-pound snake was "quite aggressive, hissing and reacting" when police found Derek James Romero dead on Tuesday, Capt. Michael Maudlin said.

The boy had snake bites on his body, and an autopsy found he was suffocated. Pythons suffocate their prey before swallowing it whole. But there was no indication the snake tried to swallow the boy, Maudlin said.

The 8-year-old Burmese python, named Sally, had been a family pet since it was only a foot long.

What is Main Street?

Money goal near as organizers define program

By NICK PFEIFAUPE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — If you think Main Street will turn downtown Sanford into a stuffy museum of the city's past, you're wrong, says one organizer of the project.

In conjunction with a fund-raising drive, co-chairman Chris Cranias, along with co-chairman Hal Welch, Kay Bartholomew, fund raising chairman Lee P. Moore, and members of the Main Street Association, have prepared a statement of purpose for the program.

"The document is worth everyone's time to read," Cranias said. "If anyone has any doubts about what we are trying to do, and how we would like to go about it, this will be a big help."

In addition to distributing information, efforts are continuing in the fund raising campaign. Earlier this week, with a $1,000 contribution from the First Street Gallery, the total received increased to $26,500, with an ultimate goal of $30,000.

In the "Welcome" statement, the document says the purpose of the Sanford Main Street program is, "to restore, promote and maintain the historic character of downtown Sanford for the education and enjoyment of residents and visitors to North Seminole County."

The connections with the National and Florida Main Street programs are also identified, including the observation that with over, "...700 small

Masked intruder attacks Sanford woman in home this morning

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Another Sanford historic district resident was terrorized by a burglar early this morning. The 69-year-old woman was struck several times with a lamp, but did not require medical attention, according to police.

Sanford Police Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire said the woman reported at 2:10 this morning, she was reading in bed when she was startled by a young white man with a red ski mask covering his head entering her room. The woman reported the man jumped on her bed and began striking her with a lamp from her bedside before fleeing.

The woman did not require medical attention, Whitmire said. No possessions were reported taken, he said.

The assault marks the fourth time in a week a burglary occurred to an occupied Sanford-area home. Whitmire said this morning police are uncertain if the three burglaries are related.

SANFORD — School taxes for Seminole County residents may decrease this year if the school board approves the budget that has been recommended to them by Supt. Paul Hagerty and the school district staff.

According to staff members, the amount of taxes due on a $100,000 home with a homestead exemption of $25,000 will be $753.23, an average of $2.10 less than the owners would have had to pay for that same home last year.

An increase in the number of homeowners in Seminole County over the past year will allow the district to slightly lower the "operating fund-local required effort" millage rate while still bringing in a bit more money.

The Operating Fund-local required effort millage rate is required by the state as a condition for the district to receive the state operating funds. The rate is set annually by the state Legislature. The current 6.465 rate is a decrease of .028 mills from the 1992-93 rate of 6.493 mills.

The Operating Fund discretionary millage, also set by the state Legislature, will remain at .510 mills. School district staff warns that though the levy is classified as discretionary, it would severely restrict the district's educational programs to be without the $4,991,676 it would provide.

The $10,453,157 raised by the 1.068 mill debt service millage levy will be used to pay the principle and Headache for motorists?

Interstate exit may not help traffic flow just yet

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — A planned relief-valve for Deltona and Orange City residents north of Lake Monroe could lead to a big headache for the next year.

Since Deltona was begun in the early 1970s, the only access to I-4 has been at one interchange at Dirkson Drive. At one time, one interchange may have been adequate, but west Volusia County has grown.

Deltona now has nearly 51,000 residents and neighboring Orange City has more than 5,300 people, according to the Volusia County Planning and Zoning Office.

Each day, more than 25,000 cars stream south from Volusia County along Interstate 4, U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 415, according to a 1988 study performed for the Seminole County Expressway Authority.

County hikes utility tax for drainage improvements

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners signed off on a 3.5 percent increase on the utility tax charged to unincorporated homes and businesses to pay for drainage system improvements.

The utility tax increase would raise up to $3 million per year to finance studies and repairs to the county's 16 drainage basins to upgrade stormwater quality as well as quantity. The improvements are required by state and federal legislation. Tuesday, commissioners OK'd cuts to property taxes to help compensate for the fee increase.

The current 4 percent utility tax costs residents an average of $50 to $80 per year. The proposed 3½ percent increase would add another $34 per year to the taxes, said Jean Kassab, county budget officer.

The current tax is charged on local telephone service, electricity, water natural gas and fuel oil, and similar services. The proposed increase would affect water and fuels. The telephone increase would be limited to 3 percent.

Anticipating the requirements, the county commissioned a study in Juvenile holds hostages at gunpoint

OCALA — A juvenile prisoner held three fellow detainees hostage at gunpoint as they were being transported to a detention center, police said.

The youth's efforts at escape were thwarted when his hostages apparently realized the weapon was empty, overpowered him and tossed him from the state van, police said.

The van was transporting the four unidentified youths from Leesburg to a Division of Youth Services facility here on Wednesday.

When it reached Ocala, one youth yelled, "I have a gun," and said he wanted out of the van, witnesses told police.

A minimum of 35 officers, including sheriff's deputies and police SWAT teams, were called to the gas station, where the van had been parked, the Ocala Star-Banner reported.

The hostage situation lasted about 45 minutes. Police said it appeared the unnamed youths ganged up on the one with the gun after his ammunition was spent on the locks of the door.

State not obligated in boys transplant

FORT LAUDERDALE — A federal judge has ruled the state is not obligated to pay for a toddler's liver-bowel transplant even though the boy will die without the surgery.

"I don't know how a person could be so mean and so cruel to deny a little boy a chance for life," said Ramona Pope, whose 14-month-old son, Lexen Pittman, suffers short bowel syndrome.

U.S. District Judge Norman Roettger ruled Tuesday the state has the discretion to determine which transplant operations it will pay for. He said the high cost of Lexen's surgery might compromise the state's responsibility to its other Medicaid recipients. The surgery costs between $300,000 and $500,000.

Lexen suffers an intestinal birth defect that keeps his body from absorbing the nutrients. He is being kept alive by intravenous feeding, but it is causing a deterioration of his liver.

Homeless detained in corral

FORT LAUDERDALE — Some of the homeless living in a park here are being fenced-in after dark, and will face arrest if they do not stay inside within the chain-linked corral.

City commissioners voted Tuesday to create the special camp, about the size of a basketball court. In response to complaints the homeless were fighting, defecating and loitering in their neighborhood.

Police can arrest or remove homeless people who sleep in other parts of the park once the camp is finished. Work began hours after the decision and is expected to be finished by the weekend.

The camp, considered a safe zone, will have portable toilets, drinking water and a place for weekday meal programs. The only shelter will be under a few trees.

An estimated 100 people hang out at the park. Though the park closes at midnight, police so far have been reluctant to enforce park hours because the homeless have nowhere else to go.

Sanctuary charged with violations

PUNTA GORDA — A wildlife sanctuary has been charged with violating federal law in caring for captive animals, including a lack of uncontaminated food and drinking water for them.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, which inspects zoos and wildlife sanctuaries, charged the Octagon Wildlife Sanctuary in Charlotte County with violating more than a dozen violations of the Animal Welfare Act.

The complaint stems from three inspections made by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service in 1991 and 1992.

Those charges were denied Wednesday night in a prepared statement by Octagon president Peter Caron. The sanctuary doesn't have any problems, he said. "We tend to our animals properly."

The inspection service requires exhibitors to provide their animals with adequate housing, handling, transportation, sanitation, nutrition, water, veterinary care and protection from extreme weather and temperatures.

Stowaways arrested

RIVIERA BEACH — Three stowaways from the Dominican Republic were arrested after two of the men dove from the container ship into the Lake Worth Inlet.

The U.S. Coast Guard picked up the two men Wednesday morning as they awoke toward Peanut Island near the Coast Guard station. A third man was found on the ship, U.S. Border Patrol agents said.

Tropical Shipping Co. spokeswoman Karen Frausto said the men were scheduled to be deported on a ship leaving for Puerto Plata, Dominican Republic, at 4 p.m. Wednesday. The Border Patrol said they were not charged.

The stowaways apparently boarded the container ship at Puerto Plata, the ship's last port of call before it arrived at the Port of Palm Beach on Wednesday.

Arvida pledges $150,000 to SHS

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Arvida Company recently announced a pledge to donate $150,000 to Seminole High School's Academy of Health Careers.

The money will be awarded to the school over the next three years. The company said that they have made a "long-term commitment" to the school.

Arvida is the development company responsible for the Heathrow community east of Lake Mary.

Recently, David L. Frame, vice president of Arvida, presented a $50,000 check to principal Gretchen Schapker and Nancy Julian, director of the health academy.

"Arvida has always taken a great deal of pride in the exemplary students of Seminole High School and we feel the Academy of Health Careers is a project worthy of support by the business community."

Seminole High School, though the district's magnet program, will kick off the inaugural session of the Academy of Health Careers this fall.

It will enable ninth through 12 graders to develop the academic and technical skills required for careers in the health professions.

One of the unique aspects of the Academy is the opportunity for students to gain hands-on experience in a variety of health care fields as well as in the use of state-of-the-art computers and laboratories.

David L. Frame, vice president of Arvida presents a $50,000 check to Gretchen Schapker, principal of Seminole High School, and Nancy Julian, director of the Academy of Health.

Arvida also donates $2,500 annually to Seminole High School in the form of a scholarship based on academic excellence and need, as well as providing grants for teachers continuing their education.

Also, they provide employee mentors to help tutor students and contributed financially to the re-landscaping of the school. "We want to do as much as we can to support the school," said Frame.

Schapker is pleased with the support the company has given the school.

"Arvida is an outstanding example of business and education working together for our young people," she said. "Through their commitment of energy, resources and funds, Seminole's students will benefit from additional state-of-the-art technology, software and reference materials. Arvida has proven time and again that they care about our community."

Records indicate truckers repeatedly violating weight laws

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Hundreds of trucking companies that are repeatedly cited for violating Florida weight limits could find it more profitable to overload and pay the 40-year-old penalties, state records indicate.

A dozen firms have amassed more than 100 citations apiece this year among the estimated 23,000 violations found by the state.

"It pays now to run over the limit," David Kerr, chairman of the Florida Transportation Commission, said Wednesday. "You're making more than it costs to pay the penalties."

A Department of Transportation computer analysis obtained by The Associated Press of truck overload citations for the first six months of 1993 shows that 367 trucking companies had 10 or more violations and a dozen had more than 100. Sixty-one companies were cited between 30 and 99 times.

"These companies have a total disregard for the law," said Senate Transportation Committee Chairman Mario Diaz-Balart, R-Miami. "It tells you the state's ability to deter them is inadequate."

But the Florida Trucking Association, which has lobbied hard to keep an outmoded fine system in place, said no company wants to lose money in penalties.

"It's not profitable at all. They can lose their shirts," said Atkinson E. "Ed" Pooser, director of operations for the FTA.

The 12 biggest violators haul all kinds of goods and materials over Florida's roads. All told, they combined for 1,818 violations and were a total of 5.3 million pounds overweight; they paid $260,782 in fines.

House Transportation Committee Chairman Ed Healey, D-West Palm Beach, said it is time for lawmakers to establish larger fines and a method of targeting repeat offenders, possibly by keeping them from doing business in Florida. He said the fine schedule has not been changed since 1953.

Healey said there is ample evidence that overweight trucks damage highways and bridges, costing taxpayers. And questions of safety abound when a truck is thousands of pounds overweight.

"They've got so much weight, when they try to avoid something, they can't control those things," he said. "The main thing is not the revenue. It's keeping the roads safe and cutting down on the damage to the pavement."

Most of the overweight penalties were paid for more than 1,000 pounds in overload.

Hurricane Center director warns of nightmare storm

By RANDY SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Despite its toll as the nation's most costly natural disaster, last summer's Hurricane Andrew fell far short of the nightmare it could have been, says the director of the National Hurricane Center.

A shift of 20 miles in the storm's path could have tripled the $25 billion in estimated damage and caused "horrendous" loss of life, Robert C. Sheets told a National Press Club luncheon Wednesday.

That small change would have brought the hurricane to downtown Miami instead of south Dade County. And it would have crossed the west coast of Florida at Fort Myers instead of the Everglades.

And, Sheets said, such a storm, just a bit to the right of Andrew's track, would have then have proceeded to strike New Orleans directly, putting that city under 18 to 20 feet of water, he said.

"Now, that's our nightmare storm," Sheets said.

Andrew's estimated $25 billion damage figure is more than the total estimated cost of the two previous worst hurricanes, plus the Loma Prieta earthquake. Sheets said. Damage estimates in the Midwest flooding currently total about $10 billion.

Sheets said that while many large coastal communities evacuation plans, implementation would take much longer than the warning time available.

Americans have relaxed because of the small number of major hurricanes in recent years, but it is possible that many more could occur, as in the 1940s and the 1950s, he warned. If that happens, he said, millions of people would be threatened.

Sheets called for improved warning systems, educating the public about evacuation, development of "shelters of last resort" for those who can't or won't leave, improved building codes, and restrictions on some coastal development.

Sheets praised authorities in the Florida Keys for their hurricane preparations but was critical of other regions including New Orleans, New Jersey, Ocean City, Md., and coastal Alabama.

POLICE BRIEFS

Two theft arrests

Sanford police arrested Alvin Powell, 19, 1810 W. 3rd Street, and Alonzo Campbell, 19, 404 Maple, on Tuesday. Police said the two had reportedly been involved in the theft of three tires on July 17, from a Toyota parked in an empty lot near 420 S. French Avenue. The tires were valued at $357. An estimated $300 in damage was reported to the vehicle. When officers investigated, they located the tires in a shed, behind Campbell's home. Each of the two men was charged with grand theft, and burglary to a conveyance.

Warrant arrests made

- Sheldon Raymond Richards, 223, 811 S. Sanford Avenue, was found sleeping on a sofa at 2806 1/2 Bungalow Blvd. by sheriff's deputies Tuesday, after they reported being unable to locate him at his home during several attempts. He was wanted for violation of parole on a conviction of robbery.
- Roderick Christopher Proctor, 19, was arrested at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Tuesday. He was wanted on a warrant for grand theft.
- Phillip Steven Miller, 17, of Lake Monroe, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at the jail Tuesday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of driving with a revoked license.
- Steven Williams, 25, 4220 S. Orlando Drive, was arrested at the jail Tuesday. He was wanted on a warrant for sale of cocaine.
- Randal Rae Hopkins, 20, 400 Cidermill Place, Lake Mary, turned himself in at the jail Tuesday. He was wanted on a warrant for violation of parole on a conviction of theft.
- Lotis Troutman, 39, 4510 Richard Allen Street, Lake Monroe, was served a warrant at the jail Tuesday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Incidents reported to the sheriff

- An automobile was reportedly stolen Tuesday while in a parking lot at a bar on highway 17-92 in Longwood. The vehicle was discovered a short time later parked in Altamonte Springs.
- An address book and miscellaneous papers were found in a parking lot at Sabal Center, on Wekiva Springs Road in Longwood Tuesday. Police reported the papers belonged to a man who is presently incarcerated in the Columbia Correctional Facility in North Florida.
- A 1993 Oldsmobile was reported found with the doors open, in the parking lot of Market Square at Heathrow on Tuesday. The vehicle was listed as stolen in Orange County.
- $1220 in equipment, including a music and sound control system and TV, were reported stolen Tuesday from a home being renovated, on Baywater Court, in the Chestnut Hill section of Lake Mary.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

- Police received a report of vandalism at Scotty's Truss Plant, 901 E. 20th Place on Tuesday. The report said someone had thrown a 2x4 into the glass portion of a lunch room door, and stolen a video tape player.
- A lawn mower and weed eater valued at $750 were reportedly stolen Tuesday from a storage shed at the rear of a home in the 600 block of E. 14th Street.
- A business in the 3000 block of S. Sanford Avenue was reportedly burglarized Tuesday. Police said entry was made by breaking a hole through the roof. $200 was reportedly stolen from a strongbox, and a VCR was said to be missing.
- A 1981 Toyota was reportedly stolen Tuesday, while parked on the right-of-way on Lake Mary Blvd. near Sir Lawrence Drive. Police did not give a license number. The vehicle had been parked on a lot with a "For Sale" sign on it.
- A burglary was reported early Wednesday in the 700 block of W. 3rd Street. 45 items were said to have been stolen. Police did not give a listing.

Four tourists die in plane crash

SANFORD — A single-engine plane that had taken off from the Sanford airport crashed near Bronson in Levy County yesterday. All four men on board were killed.

The crash occurred shortly after the plane had left the Central Florida Regional Airport in Sanford. No destination for the flight has been determined, but it is believed the men were on a sight-seeing excursion.

Reports indicate the plane struck a radio tower, and plummeted to the ground in a wooded area. Although there were several houses in the vicinity, none of them was hit by the debris.

Killer bees claim first U.S. victim

By JOSH LEMIEUX
Associated Press Writer

RIO GRANDE CITY, Texas — It was an unforgivingly hot day when Lino Lopez saw that bees had infested his ranch, but the 82-year-old couldn't leave a chore undone.

"My mother tried to stop him from pouring gasoline on the bees," his eldest son, Lino Jr., recalled. "My father said, 'I'm going to get them.'"

Instead, a swarm came out of a wall and stung Lopez more than 40 times. He plunged his head in a water trough, then jumped into his truck. He died on the way to the hospital of an allergic reaction — the first U.S. victim of killer bees.

Africanized bees, as they are known more formally, are tagged with the "killer" nickname not because of stronger venom — it is nearly identical to that of the more common European honeybee. Nor do they appear any more fearsome. In fact, the naked eye can't distinguish between the species.

Rather, they are more likely to attack in swarms when their nest is disturbed.

"I think my father just took it for granted that they were the other type of bees," said the younger Lopez, a 53-year-old high school band teacher.

Sheriff's Lt. Chuck Bastak identified the victims as Richard Frank Corbett, 36; Alfred G. Fenech, 48; James Ockenden, 32; and Donald J. McCredie, 58. Reports indicate three were licensed pilots and the fourth was a student pilot.

"An eyewitness says the plane broke through a cloud layer and hit the 1,350-foot tower with its left wing, then spiraled down and hit close to the base of the tower," said Bastak.

The flight for the Piper Cherokee reportedly originated in Sanford, but investigators for the Federal Aviation Agency were unable to confirm its origin or destination, said Ann Eldridge of the FAA office in Atlanta.

The FAA is conducting the investigation into the cause of the crash.

Sanford aviation director Steve Cooke said records indicate the aircraft had been at the Sanford airport twice during the month of July. "We've checked back," he said, "and I don't believe it has ever been here before this month."

Cooke said the Cherokee is logged as having received 9.8 gallons of gasoline and one quart of oil at the Sanford business known as Knight Flight, on the 20th. "That's the last record we have of any activity involving that particular aircraft," he said.

The tower belongs to Gainesville radio station WKTK, said Bastak. The plane apparently did not damage the transmission capabilities of the station, and broadcasting operations continued as normal.

Information from Associated Press is contained in this report.

Heathrow developer going strong in frozen foods

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

SANFORD — Jeno Paulucci, who gave up on Florida real estate development three years ago to get back into the frozen food business, is cooking up Chinese and Mexican entrees to go with his Italian line.

Production begins in October in an expanded Jackson, Ohio, plant on a "Yu Sing" line of frozen egg roll snacks, plus frozen fried rice and other oriental entrees, says the tireless entrepreneur.

Production and distribution of the Mexican food, named "Carlos & Maria's," will begin next year, Paulucci said in an interview Wednesday from his office in Sanford.

Paulucci is just back from Ireland, where he is negotiating to open his first European plant next year to better handle an increasing demand for his international line of frozen foods.

The self-described "food peddler" says business has "gone through the roof" since he founded Luigino's Inc. and began producing his "Micheline's" brand Italian entrees in 1991.

"I've been in and out of the food business for 50 years, and I've never had a company or a situation like this," Paulucci said.

From a standing start, he posted sales of $50 million in 1991, doubled that in 1992 and expects annual sales to top $200 million in 1993.

Paulucci, a legal resident of Florida who also lives and works in Duluth, Minn., said his timing was good when he took his mother's old recipes, cooked and refined them himself and with the aid of food chemists developed them into frozen entrees.

He went up against the industry giants. "Our quick success was because of quality and price," he says. "We had no advertising, no coupons, no big promotions. Quality is the only thing going for us in fighting the large corporations for consumer tastes."

He notes that competitors such as Stouffer's, Budget Gourmet, Healthy Choice and others "are coming after me with half-price sales, new Italian choices and heavy advertising. But we're like that rabbit on TV that just keeps going and going."

Paulucci is no neophyte in the food business. He began building the Chun King oriental food empire with a $2,500 loan in 1944 and later sold it for $63 million to the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco

Co. He created Jeno's frozen pizza in the 1960s and sold it in 1985 to Pillsbury Co. for $147 million.

He had a stint as a Florida developer in the 1980s and says, "I wish I had never got into that; it takes too long to get your money. You sell a truckload of pasta and sauce and you get your money right away."

That's why he's back in his element — at the age of 75.

"I never learned to relax, and this is just so damn much fun. I believe there is a need for what we're doing. There has been no real merchandising in the frozen entree business, and the market is there."

Gallagher says Allstate profits could affect proposed rate hike

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Allstate may not be allowed to raise Florida homeowners' insurance rates by nearly a third after reporting a 73 percent jump in second-quarter profits, Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher said.

Allstate is asking to raise rates an average of 30.3 percent effective Aug. 30.

"A large profit like this could be good for the policyholders in Florida," Gallagher said Wednesday.

But he agreed with company officials the high profits wouldn't have changed Allstate's earlier attempts to drop policies to avoid raking further losses like those from Hurricane Andrew last August.

The hurricane inflicted some $18 billion in insured losses including $1.65 billion after taxes for Allstate, the state's second largest homeowners' insurer.

Companies have since proposed dropping a total of $44,000 policies in the state. Florida barred cancellations through Nov. 14 after Allstate proposed dropping 300,000 policies.

Allstate and most others agreed to abide by the ban and await results of a study panel assigned to look for ways to limit their risk of financial damage in such catastrophic events.

"We're hopeful that a solution can be reached and we can all maintain our current customers in Florida," Allstate spokeswoman Mary Horstman said. "The ultimate goal is to be able to keep our customers."

Prudential challenged the ban in court but a federal judge ruled the moratorium can remain in effect while case is heard.

Allstate's report of second-quarter profits of $396.7 million, or 94 cents a share, a 72.8 percent jump from the April-June 1992 period, brought protests from consumer advocates.

"Here's a company that's crying that they can't possibly afford to keep 300,000 Florida customers on," said Monte Belote, executive director of the Florida Consumer Action Network.

"Those kinds of profits make a mockery of Allstate's arguments that they're teetering on the brink," Belote said. "There is no crisis, this is an artificial crisis created by the companies looking to take advantage of Hurricane Andrew to drive up rates."

Allstate spokesman Al Orendorf said profits alone wouldn't affect the need to reduce business in South Florida. "Insurance pricing is based on what may happen in the future rather than what happened in the past," he said.

"That's a different issue from the profits," Gallagher agreed. "They want to limit their one-state risk to $1 billion. We're saying it should be $4 billion. The problem is a major concentration of risk in one area, and that's South Florida."

Industry analysts on Wall Street also said the company was justified in trying to avoid another potential catastrophic loss.

"It is in the best interest of the majority of policyholders to have the company remain solvent," said Gloria Vogel, analyst for Lehman Brothers.

If the company didn't act, Vogel said, "It would affect the price that their stock trades at. Risk is a factor."

Pioneering new grounds
Mike Davis, holding Snow Puff, a six week old kitten, regional council for American Pioneer Title Insurance Company, presented a check for $1,500 to Norma Spivey, executive director of the Humane Society of Seminole County and Sue an eight week old shepherd. The donation will be added to the many other contributions being made to rebuild the animal shelter on County Road which was partially destroyed by a fire in April.

Commissioners vote to step up spending

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners agreed Wednesday to step up their spending for economic development.

Commissioners also agreed to increase Lynx support to improve bus service in southern areas of the county. They voted a $425,000 proposal to double bus service in Sanford to half-hour stops. Commissioners tentatively agreed to increase the county gas tax by a penny to pay for mass transit services.

Commissioners will continue their review of County Manager Ron Rabun's $276 million proposed spending plan for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 today.

Commissioners unanimously agreed to increase spending during the next fiscal year to attract industry to the county by $90,000 Wednesday, bringing the proposed appropriation to $249,000. Last year, the county paid $150,000 to the Economic Development Commission of Mid-Florida Inc. to perform business attraction duties for them.

The county will pay the same amount to the EDC next year under the proposal, but expand spending to hire an economic development coordinator and to perform a computer analysis of the potential fiscal impacts to various incentives, such as tax exemptions for job creations.

About 6,000 of those cars are from Orange City and Deltona and are destined for Seminole County, including about 4,500 cars headed for Sanford, Lake Mary or Heathrow.

By the mid-1980s, state road planners saw the need for another interchange and began planning a new access at Saxon Boulevard about three miles north of the Diskon interchange. Construction began in June 1992 on the $7.2 million project.

But as work nears an early November completion, construction has yet to begin to widen Saxon Avenue itself from two to four lanes. The county completed a widening of Saxon Avenue to four lanes west of I-4 earlier this year.

Bill Gray, Volusia County's engineer, said the eastern Saxon Avenue widening probably won't begin until October or November and won't be complete for a year.

Until then, up to a 1,000 cars per hour will zip off of Interstate 4 and find themselves on a two-lane road. Up to 1,000 cars per hour will funnel along a two-way street to reach the interchange.

Gray said many of the owners of the 30 or so parcels of land between the interchange and Normandy Avenue didn't want to sell the seven-foot strips of their property for the widening so the acquisition process was delayed. Also, funding for land purchases wasn't always available, Gray said.

The land purchases were completed last week, so construction can begin this fall, said Gray.

Until the widening project is completed, Smith said said away have forced the I-4 ramp to remain closed, said Thomas.

Losing 'Old George' is a shame

"Old George" the alligator had to be put away.

The 50 to 60 year-old reptile was pulled from the shore of Lake Monroe Tuesday, bound and gagged, and carried off in a pickup truck for his final trip.

Many onlookers were saddened over the loss of one of the lakefront attractions. The gator has been seen close to the shoreline for a considerable length of time, and was always available to the delight of visiting tourists.

Lately, he had become a matter of concern. He was swimming too close to shore, and occasionally opening his large jaws in the direction of fishermen or boaters. He was eventually declared a nuisance.

Each year, the state issues a limited number of licenses for alligator hunting, and many are taken for their meat and hides. The loss of one more from our waterways would not normally be a serious concern.

Perhaps the thing that made Old George stand out was his ability to survive. Even though his left rear foot was missing, he has managed to live in the St. Johns river for many decades. He has avoided passing boat props, escaped from hunters, and obtained enough food to remain relatively healthy.

A licensed alligator hunter removed the gator from Lake Monroe. He is expected to kill it. The hunter should not be blamed for this death. The fault lies with the public.

Even though it is against state law to feed an alligator, people constantly throw bread or other food to the reptiles. It generally draws them closer to shore where they can be more easily seen or photographed.

Much of the feeding is done by visitors or new-comers who may not be fully aware of the law or problems which may result. Others are residents, many of which are animal lovers, who believe they are helping wildlife survival.

Experts say however, when humans begin to feed alligators, they become accustomed to this food source, and eventually rely on it. A human means food, and not knowing what is going on, a gator may begin to believe the human is food.

Chuck Volk of the Monroe Harbour Marina made a comment worth remembering. "The only enemy an alligator has is a human."

Avoid feeding the alligators, and whenever others are seen doing so, ask them to stop.

Even though they may be considered as tourist attractions, alligators are wild creatures. Let's allow them to live their lives in that manner.

Dog attack on tot

The recent incident in Umatilla where a two-year-old was "attacked" by the family Rotweiler upset me. Not only that a dog injured a child, but that the family would let a toddler play with a full-grown Rott. These people should be charged with reckless endangerment to a child. A full-grown Rott can injure an adult while playing. Any dog can become overly excited during play time. My five-month-old Rott and Shepherd mix can bite and scratch until she draws blood. She's 28 pounds; I'm 185. Go figure.

If the child had shot himself with the family gun, charges would be pending. Now a beautiful dog will probably be condemned to death because of lack of common sense on a human's part. It's a terrible shame. Maybe in these cases the families should be examined along with the dogs.

Will voters support affirmative action?

My adopted home state of California seems destined to be the lead-dog of the American sled in everything from cuisine to tax and term limitations. So it is no great cause for surprise that what may well prove the next great battle over the future of American society is taking the form of a popular initiative designed to appear on the California ballot in November 1994.

It is called the California Civil Rights Initiative, and the current proposed form of the full text reads as follows:

"The People of the State of California find and declare that race, ethnicity, national origin, sex, or religion are not legitimate criteria for conferring or denying preferential treatment to any student or prospective student in any matter in this State's public educational system; any individual or firm in any matter concerning public contracting; or any employee or prospective employee in any matter concerning public employment or the terms and conditions of public employment.

"Use of the prohibited criteria in any of the foregoing ways shall constitute a violation of the California Constitution and shall be actionable in any court of competent jurisdiction.

"Nothing in this section shall be construed as prohibiting the enforcement of, or conflicting with, federal statutes or the United States Constitution.

"If any part or parts of this section are found to be in conflict with federal law, the amendment shall be implemented to the maximum extent permitted by federal law. Any provision held invalid shall be severable from the remaining portions of this section."

At first, the casual reader may see nothing controversial about this proposal. After all, it just outlaws the commonest types of discrimination in public education, public contracting and public employment, doesn't it? Who could object to that? But in recent decades radical liberals in the White House, Congress, the state legislatures and the courts have been edging us ever closer to discrimination in all of these categories. In its most blatant form, this process has resulted in fixed quotas for various minorities, and is rightly called "reverse discrimination." More subtly, it is promoted under the rubric of "affirmative action."

Whatever it is called, however, the American people are overwhelmingly against it. Most Americans favor genuinely non-discriminatory policies - which, you will note, are exactly what the CCRI mandates. But virtually every scientific survey of public opinion shows that less than 30 percent of Americans support racial and sexual preferences, which the CCRI would outlaw. What's more, the opposition is remarkably bipartisan: A 1987 Gallup Times-Mirror poll found that, nationwide, two-thirds of identified Democrats and over four-fifths of identified Republicans are opposed to preferences.

And yet, political and judicial ideologues have kept right on shoving "affirmative action" down the throats of the American people. At last, voters in California will get a chance to have a say in the matter. If the CCRI wins, we can expect similar drives in the 22 other states that allow voters to express their will directly, through the initiative process.

Gergen will serve new master well

What follows is one of those columns that, if I am right, I will unashamedly remind you of it many times in the days and months ahead. If I am wrong, this sucker is going down the Memory Hole, its existence to be denied forevermore.

The subject: Recently appointed presidential counselor David Gergen. The question: How important will he be to the Clinton White House? My answer: Beyond measure.

How's that for a risky prediction? But I truly believe it. I think the Gergen appointment was a stroke of genius. I think he will steer the Clinton ship off the shoals. I think a decade from now, the Clinton era may very well be divided into BG (Before Gergen) part and AG (After Gergen).

That, of course, is not what you are hearing from doctrinaire liberals and conservatives. Because the 51-year-old Gergen is a centrist and a pragmatist, the right-wingers think he is a disloyal wimp. Because he wrote speeches and handled communications for Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan, the left-wingers view him as an untrustworthy double agent.

Get a whiff of this Left-Wing Hokey from New York Times columnist A.M. Rosenthal: "Fool that I am, it never entered my mind that Mr. Clinton would come to think so much of Republican positions that he would select as his top spokesman a man who had represented them so well for years. If he had told me, I might have chosen the real thing."

Or this Right-Wing Hokey from former Reagan lieutenant Lyn Nofziger: "He sold his birthright for a mess of porridge."

Or this LWH from The Nation magazine: "Now Clinton calls in the Ed McMahon of American politics (he'll pitch anything), a speechwriter turned spinmeister turned pundit turned spinmeister. ... Clinton may think this signals that he is adopting bipartisanship, but relying on a truth-bending gamesman shows he is embracing the politics of cynicism."

Or this RWH from George Will: "The amazingly adaptable David Gergen ... would cause Washington to blush if it knew how."

What you just read actually amounts to Reason One why David Gergen will be good for Clinton: He is not a zealous proponent of 25-word formulas for solving problems. He describes himself as "moderately right of center" - which is just about where two-thirds of the American people are. He believes in bipartisan solutions. His first loyalty is to the public welfare, not to rigid creeds.

Reason Two why Gergen will be good for Clinton: He is, like the president, a policy wonk with a passionate devotion to public service. (His fellow commentator on the MacNeil/Lehrer NewsHour for six years, Mark Shields, says Gergen's "idea of a fun Saturday afternoon is taking in two seminars and participating on a panel.") He is highly intelligent (Yale and Harvard Law), level-headed and honest.

Do you grasp the full import of that? David Gergen served in both the Nixon and Reagan administrations and somehow managed to hang on to his integrity. He clearly has character.

Reason Three: David Gergen is a public relations alchemist who will spin the chaos that has prevailed in the Clinton White House into gold of at least tolerable purity. Did he not guide the inept Ronald Reagan through years of relative success? What do you think he can do with a president who stays awake?

Gergen is an absolute master of long-range planning and a superb manipulator of news events for his master's benefit.

Presidential vacuum repair

The Lost Generation figured the Hoover vacuum would endure for the ages - a vacuum of presidential leadership that would never be surpassed. No such luck.

In the '70s, '80s and '90s, the Now Generation heard all about presidential leadership vacuums: our nightly news veritably reverberated with (as philosopher Ross Perot might note) giant sucking sounds: Nixon's was about criminality; Carter's, governance; Reagan's, scandals (S&Ls, HUD, Iran-contra); Bush's, the recession. And Bill Clinton's leadership vacuum, as celebrated in our nightly news, seemed to be about everything at once: genocide in Bosnia, refugees fleeing Haiti, a middle-class tax cut, assorted appointee snafus, a sordid travel office smear.

So, in the third week of the sixth month of his presidency, Clinton moved to fill his real and perceived leadership void by doing, of all things, some right things:

(1) He wrapped a supportive arm around embattled Surgeon General nominee Joycelyn Elders, a target of conservatives because of her propensity for stating controversial but sensible positions on abortion and sex education in impolitic and inflammatory ways.

(2) He summarily fired FBI Director William Sessions, whose ethics, judgment and leadership were flawed; and nominated Judge Louis J. Freeh to succeed him. Now the FBI can be Freeh at last.

But then Clinton stood forthrightly before an auditorium full of military brass and announced a controversial policy on homosexuals in the military. Unfortunately, his new policy was a less-than-forthright compromise. Hoist by his own politically maladroit petard, Clinton tried to split-the-difference on a basic principle. Sadly, that can't be honorably done.

Clinton's compromise, fashioned to please the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has been labeled: "Don't ask, Don't tell, Don't pursue." Under the new policy, a homosexual cannot safely tell the honest truth about his or her sexual preference and still serve honorably in our armed forces. So, a better moniker might be: "Don't ask, Don't tell, But if you are asked, please tell a lie."

The proposed policy specifies that the military will no longer indulge in witch hunts to discover homosexuals in their midst - a significant small step for man and womankind. The military officially will not ask an inductee if he or she is a homosexual. But if the question is ever privately and unofficially asked of a homosexual in the military, there is no answer that can be both honest and free of jeopardy.

An affirmative answer may be reported to a military superior who will have the right to summon for interrogation the service man or woman who admitted to being a homosexual. The man or woman will then have to swear that he or she will never participate in a homosexual act - on or off the military base - or be subject to dismissal.

Clinton was no doubt cowed into his split-the-difference compromise by the Senate Armed Services Committee chairman, Sam Nunn, D-Ga. I have admired much about Nunn over the years, but find his unnecessarily vehement preserve-the-ban mind-set distressing. I can't help but wonder what Nunn would have been saying today if Clinton had given him the job he coveted: secretary of state.

Today, Nunn and others talk about the need to preserve unit cohesion and warn that homosexuals may compromise national security. But Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Nebr., has the best perspective on that. The Vietnam War hero noted that only by completely lifting the ban can we assure homosexuals that they can continue to serve honorably if they are forced out of the closet - so they need not yield to national security blackmail to preserve their careers. So, too, the octogenarian hawk, Barry Goldwater, who once chaired Nunn's committee, says the ban on gays should be lifted, unconditionally.

So there's at least some good news tonight: Our presidential leadership vacuum is under repair. For now, we've got a partial vacuum. We may yet clean up the decades of debris in the Oval Office.

Under the new policy, a homosexual cannot safely tell the honest truth about his or her sexual preference and still serve honorably in our armed forces. So, a better moniker might be: "Don't ask, Don't tell, But if you are asked, please tell a lie."

The proposed policy specifies that the military will no longer indulge in witch hunts to discover homosexuals in their midst - a significant small step for man and womankind. The military officially will not ask an inductee if he or she is a homosexual. But if the question is ever privately and unofficially asked of a homosexual in the military, there is no answer that can be both honest and free of jeopardy.

An affirmative answer may be reported to a military superior who will have the right to summon for interrogation the service man or woman who admitted to being a homosexual. The man or woman will then have to swear that he or she will never participate in a homosexual act - on or off the military base - or be subject to dismissal.

Clinton was no doubt cowed into his split-the-difference compromise by the Senate Armed Services Committee chairman, Sam Nunn, D-Ga. I have admired much about Nunn over the years, but find his unnecessarily vehement preserve-the-ban mind-set distressing. I can't help but wonder what Nunn would have been saying today if Clinton had given him the job he coveted: secretary of state.

Today, Nunn and others talk about the need to preserve unit cohesion and warn that homosexuals may compromise national security. But Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Nebr., has the best perspective on that. The Vietnam War hero noted that only by completely lifting the ban can we assure homosexuals that they can continue to serve honorably if they are forced out of the closet - so they need not yield to national security blackmail to preserve their careers. So, too, the octogenarian hawk, Barry Goldwater, who once chaired Nunn's committee, says the ban on gays should be lifted, unconditionally.

So there's at least some good news tonight: Our presidential leadership vacuum is under repair. For now, we've got a partial vacuum. We may yet clean up the decades of debris in the Oval Office.

Elders knew that defective condoms were distributed

By RICHARD L. VERNACI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Surgeon General-designate Joycelyn Elders decided to withhold information on possible defects in condoms that were being given to schools and clinics in Arkansas while she was state health director.

The state was distributing more than 1 million condoms a year, but officials concluded that telling the public the condoms had flunked leakage and breakage tests would cause an unnecessary scare.

"It was the judgment of Tom Butler (deputy director of the Arkansas Health Department) after meeting with counsel and other senior members of the staff that because at least 95 percent of the condoms in the worst batch were still effective, to have made a public announcement might have undermined public confidence in condoms," Victor Zonana, a spokesman for Elders at the federal Department of Health and Human Services, said Wednesday.

"The resulting non-use of condoms would have been a greater risk to public health, department officials concluded. It was a judgment call, and it's one the (Arkansas) department stands by," Zonana said.

"Dr. Elders was notified of this conclusion and concurred in the professional judgment of her senior staff," Zonana said.

Elders has been a vocal supporter of condom distribution, including in the schools, to stem teen-age pregnancies and control the spread of disease.

She has not been giving interviews prior to her confirmation hearing as surgeon general, now scheduled for Friday. A Senate panel postponed hearings on her nomination last week after opponents raised questions about her finances. Conservatives also oppose Elders because of her outspoken support of abortion rights and sex education for children.

the 1980s to review the drainage improvement needs. The study, completed in 1989, was shocking: The county would have to spend nearly $120 million during the successive 20 years to upgrade the countywide drainage system and maintain it.

The county spent $1.5 million last year, largely for studies to establish what improvements would be needed to maintain the county's adopted level of service for drainage systems, LOS C on a scale of A to D.

LOS A means all the water expected to accumulate following a storm of 24 hours in duration that could be expected to occur once every 25 years would be fully contained in ditches and drainpipes. LOS B means streets would be flooded. LOS C, the county's standard, means yards could also be flooded, but homes would remain dry. LOS D means homes would also be flooded.

The federal government will soon require the county to begin cleaning up the drainage, in addition to containing it. Included in the $1.2 million proposed spending for next year, is $375,000 simply to prepare the first of the studies and information required for the federal National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit. Another $400,000 will be needed in 1994 to complete the NPDES permitting.

For two years, commissioners have considered adopting a stormwater utility fee similar to those imposed in every city in the county to generate money for the stormwater program, but found the high cost to establish the billing system too expensive. Previously, the county has used property taxes to finance the program.

"A person does not have to be directly involved with the historic downtown area to join with us in this," he commented. "Everyone is going to benefit from the Sanford Main Street program, so everyone can become involved."

"We are trying our best to get the word out," said Cranias. "The more people we get involved, the larger success we will have."

Program

cities across the nation and 24 in Florida, the program has created almost $2 billion in reinvestment and tens of thousands of jobs in designated cities.

"One point we are stressing," Cranias said, "is what the program is expected to do for Sanford."

The statement says, "Main Street will not preserve downtown Sanford by treating it like a museum. The best way to preserve our heritage is to restore downtown to its historic and traditional purpose as a vital part of the daily lives of our residents and visitors."

"Main Street will provide historic rehabilitation assistance for downtown merchants and property owners," it says.

The back of the statement contains an overview of the entire Sanford Main Street program's structure, including organization, promotion, design, and economic restructuring.

"We are distributing it at our Welcome Center, (101-B W. First Street), the First Street Gallery, (203 E. First Street), and at other locations," Cranias said. "We are also planning to send copies to building owners in the downtown historic district. So far we have identified 90 owners, but gathering this information is all part of the groundwork which needs to be done on this project."

The document concludes with the statement, "By combining economic vitality and cultural opportunities, downtown Sanford can be vitalized for the enjoyment of everyone."

"Attached to our hand-outs and mail-outs," Cranias added, "is a membership pledge card which we hope will be filled out and returned to us. It ranges from a foundation sponsor to the offer of volunteer service."

the interest on the 1992 and 1993 Refunding Bond issues. The debt service millage is the same amount that was levied last year.

The capital improvement millage rate is being recommended at the same 2 mills that it has been for several years, the staff said.

That rate is discretionary. It may be levied by the board to pay for new construction and remodeling projects, site and site improvement, maintenance of existing schools, purchase of new and replacement equipment, payment of educational facilities due under lease-purchase agreement, instructional materials, payments on leased portable classrooms and payments of some loans.

The 2 mills being recommended is the maximum the district can levy.

The school board will meet this afternoon to discuss the proposed budget and approve it for advertising. The budget will be brought up for discussion in a public hearing during the regularly-scheduled board meeting Tuesday, July 27 at 7 p.m.

The board meets at the district headquarters, 1211 S. Mellonville Ave., Sanford.

In other decisions, commissioners agreed to increase spending for Lynx bus service in the county to change three routes in the south county. The spending will jump from $837,013 this year to $1.1 million next year largely because the Orange-Seminole-Osceola Transportation Authority, Lynx operators, has begun billing the counties for free service to the elderly and disabled.

Commissioners didn't like the increase for the same level of service.

"We're progressing to the point to pay our fair share but we're not getting any expanded service," said commissioner Dick Van Der Weide.

Commissioners Van Der Weide, Pat Warren and Daryl McLain banded together to form a majority to increase the spending by another $117,000 to create unified routes along State Road 436 and along south State Road 434. Commissioners Bob Sturm and Larry Furlong opposed the increased spending.

were assaulted in the break-ins. Robert Ansley of Celery Avenue required medical attention for the beating he received from his two assailants.

Whitmire said despite the alarming aspect of the assaults, Sanford, so far, has not been subjected to a "home invasion" similar to those seen regularly in Orange County. Seminole County Sheriff's spokesman George Proebel did describe last Friday's assault on Ansley as a home invasion because the home was forcibly entered by the assailants kicking in the door.

"For as long as I've been here," we've never had a home invasion," said Whitmire. "We've had burglaries to occupied homes, but no home invasions."

Whitmire said in a home invasion, no effort is typically made to conceal the entry to the home. Also, the invaders seem to be equally motivated in terrorizing the occupants as burglarizing them.

Ginsburg: Right to abortion rooted in Constitution

By LAURIE ASBEO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Ruth Bader Ginsburg is deflecting many questions from the Senate Judiciary Committee, but she states one legal opinion clearly: The right to abortion is firmly rooted in the Constitution.

"This is something central to a woman's life, her dignity," Ginsburg said Wednesday on the second day of what is becoming more of a lovefest than a Supreme Court confirmation hearing.

"It's a decision that she must make for herself. And when government controls that decision for her, she's being treated as less than an adult fully responsible for her own choices," said Ginsburg, a former women's rights lawyer and federal appellate judge.

Even though Ginsburg was forthright on the abortion issue, she avoided giving her own opinions on issues such as gun control, voting rights and Indian tribal rights that she said might come before the Supreme Court or involve policy questions that must be left to Congress.

Asked about her views on the death penalty, Ginsburg said she "would not like to answer that question any more than I would like to answer the question of what reproductive choice I would make for myself."

She said she would make her Supreme Court decisions based on the law, precedent and discussion with her colleagues in which she would urge a consensus rather than a split decision on any given issue.

Sometimes, she said, "I'm going to squelch my view" and go along.

The Senate committee hopes to finish the hearing by Friday and take a vote next week that Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., predicted will be unanimous in Ginsburg's favor. A closed committee session, intended to explore any questions about Ginsburg's personal life or conduct, is expected to be brief, Simon said.

Ginsburg endorsed the concept of a constitutional right to privacy, on which the Supreme Court based its 1973 Roe vs. Wade ruling that legalized abortion nationwide.

The right to abortion also is provided by the constitutional guarantee of equal protection, she added.

"I've always said both — that the equal protection strand should join together with the autonomy of decision-making strand," she said. "It was a question of choice either way."

Ginsburg has criticized the Roe ruling, saying the country might have been better off if the right to abortion had been established more gradually. But she has never said the ruling was wrong.

Many senators praised Ginsburg's stamina as she calmly parried their questions for eight hours on a wide variety of topics and discussed many legal cases from memory.

"How do you feel about arbitrary caps on damages [awarded in lawsuits]?" asked Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D.

"Senator, I think you loaded the question by saying 'arbitrary,'" Ginsburg answered.

She said she still was a booster of the Equal Rights Amendment as a symbol of the nation's commitment to women's rights, but not so much on legal as on symbolic grounds. Approval would "send a clarion call" that America considered men and women equals, she said.

She said use of affirmative-action goals and timetables, not rigid quotas, to settle employment discrimination claims might be a "better, healthier thing for society" than fighting bitter lawsuits.

She noted she has disagreed for years with Justice Antonin Scalia — her former federal appeals court colleague — on whether judges should try to interpret ambiguous laws by looking at the written record of what Congress intended when it enacted them.

"I turn to the legislative history with an attitude that I can best define as hopeful skepticism," Ginsburg said. Scalia insists that judges should ignore that history.

Nonetheless, the soft-spoken judge said Scalia "is one of the people in the world who can make me laugh, and I appreciate him for that."

Scalia said earlier this year that he would like to be stranded on a desert island with Ginsburg.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, said there have been no fireworks this week because Ginsburg is qualified for the job and most Americans agree with her views.

But he added, "There is some suspicion, in some circles at least, that you are basically a political activist hiding in the restrictive robes of an appellate judge and that those restrictions will be cast aside" if confirmed to the Supreme Court.

Looking westerly on Fulton Street from the intersection of Laurel Avenue, sewer work has an entire city block closed in downtown Sanford.

Downtown sewer lines updated and divided

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Work got underway Monday on sewer line improvements in the downtown Sanford area and is expected to last approximately eight weeks.

Sewer line work started at the corner of highway 17-92 and Fulton Street. It is to go easterly to Laurel Avenue, then south on Laurel to Second Street.

Charlie Turner, with the city Utility Department is managing the operation. "Parts of the downtown area have an old combined sewer system," Turner said. "The old lines originally handled stormwater run-off as well as sanitary sewers. The line terminated at our sewer plant. "Whenever we had heavy rains," he continued,

"there was too much coming down the lines, and it resulted in an overload at the plant. Now, we will be separating the lines, which will allow us to run only the sanitary sewer drainage to the plant."

Although the smaller streets involved in the project will be closed during the installation of the large sewer pipes, First Street may be able to be kept open at least for partial traffic.

"When we start to cross First Street," Turner said, "it's wide enough so we hope to have only half of it closed at any one time. It may be an inconvenience to people coming down west First Street, but at least traffic will be allowed to continue."

Turner said the city will continue to provide signs at the other sewer construction locations during the project, to indicate suggested detours.

Castro foe arrives in U.S.

By Associated Press

MIAMI — Two years after his release from a Cuban prison, Mario Chanes de Armas arrived in the United States and spoke defiantly against his former ally, Fidel Castro, who held Chanes captive for 30 years.

"Fidel Castro is leading Cuba to disaster, to a holocaust," said Chanes, the longest-held political prisoner in the communist island country. "Cuba under Castro is a total disaster. It is becoming the embarrassment of the world."

Chanes and his wife, Caridad, were hustled through Miami International Airport after their flight arrived Wednesday from Cuba. Metro-Dade County police kept away television crews, along with fellow former prisoners who had turned out to greet Chanes, now 67.

There was no public word on whether Chanes, who only recently received Cuban government permission to leave the island, would remain in Miami. The Chilean government had granted him an entry visa, after Cuban authorities declined to let him leave on a U.S. visa.

Once a trusted member of Fidel Castro's revolutionary movement, Chanes broke with Castro soon after he took power in 1959. In 1961, Chanes was sentenced to 30 years in prison for allegedly plotting against Castro.

Police investigate 13-year-old murder

By Associated Press

POMPANO BEACH — Homicide detectives are trying to investigate a long-ago beating that occurred 13 years ago after the victim died this week from head injuries he suffered during the assault.

John Ringer, 36, died at a Pompano Beach nursing home on Monday where he had been a resident for about two years.

The Broward Medical Examiner's Office ruled the death a homicide, the result of blunt head trauma suffered in May 1980.

On Wednesday, detectives at the Broward Sheriff's Office and the Fort Lauderdale Police Department were trying to build a murder case against Ringer's attackers.

Nancy Martin, Ringer's mother, was unable to throw any light on the beating incident, but in 1991 Ringer told two different stories about the way he received his injuries.

Football officiating clinic

LONGWOOD — The Central Florida Officials Association, Inc. (CFOA) is offering a clinic for anyone interested in officiating high school or little league football this fall.

The clinic starts tonight, July 22, at 6 p.m. at Orlando Edgewater High School, and will meet each Monday and Thursday through August 19. For information, contact Tom Storey (813) 614-3010 or Rick Corby (644) 2-1600.

AROUND THE STATE

Marlins, Rockies cap series

MIAMI — It's fitting that the winner of the expansion series between the Florida Marlins and Colorado Rockies receives a cartoon.

The first annual Surtin Tart Award — a framed drawing of a mountain and a fish — went to the Rockies. Florida beat them 6-4 Wednesday night, but Colorado still took the season series, seven games to five.

In a season like we're having and I'm sure they're having, Colorado right fielder Dante Bichette said, "you're not going to win a lot of games. So whatever good things happen, you tend to be happy about."

The Marlins were happy Wednesday about the performance of rookie Esteban Rapp, who singled home two runs and pitched six strong innings for his first major league victory.

Bucs sign DuBose; Curry next

TAMPA — Top draft pick Eric Curry is the one Tampa Bay Buccaneers rookie unsigned as the team announced second round draft choice Demetrius DuBose signed a three-year contract.

Curry, the sixth player taken in the first round, is working out with the team despite not having a contract. Negotiations continued Wednesday with agent Eugene Parker, and Bucs vice president Rich McKay is hopeful that an agreement will be reached by the weekend.

It's not that hard now. It's mathematics. McKay said, mindful that Curry is the only unsigned draft pick and that there is only so much left under the team's rookie salary cap of about $2.8 million.

Jacksonville's NFL dream over?

JACKSONVILLE — This city's 15-year pursuit of a National Football League franchise came to an abrupt halt when Touchdown Jacksonville Ltd. announced it was pulling out of the race.

A celebration had been planned by Touchdown Jacksonville Wednesday when the group intended to have a ceremonial signing of the lease agreement with the city.

Instead, the City Council voted to send the lease back to committee for study after board members found themselves renegotiating a proposed $112 million cap for the renovation of the Gator Bowl, and the organization decided it was the last straw.

AROUND THE NATION

Duper signs with Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio — The Cincinnati Bengals have added experience to their wide receivers corps by signing Mark Duper and agreeing to terms with Eddie Brown.

Duper, a free agent who was released last week by the Miami Dolphins after 11 seasons, signed with the Bengals on Wednesday for an undisclosed amount.

He reported to training camp at Wilmington College, but he may not get in much practice for a while. He broke a bone in the little finger on his right hand Wednesday while catching passes.

Thomas signs for $13.5 million

FREDONIA, N.Y. — Thurman Thomas became the NFL's highest paid running back, agreeing to a four-year deal with the Buffalo Bills for $13.5 million.

The contract calls for Thomas, who rushed for a career-high 1,387 yards last season, to receive $4 million this year. His salary decreases to approximately $2.8 million for each of the next two years before jumping back to about $4 million in 1996.

Weiss to guide Clippers

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Clippers, spurned by Lenny Wilkens and Hubie Brown, hired former Orlando Magic assistant coach Bob Weiss to replace Larry Brown as coach.

The 51-year-old Weiss, fired as coach of the Atlanta Hawks after last season, is 183-227 in five seasons with San Antonio and Atlanta. Brown resigned to become coach of the Indiana Pacers.

Prather gets job done for Oviedo American All-Stars

By TONY DeSORMIER

OVIEDO — Jonathan Prather did a little of everything Wednesday night, leading the Oviedo American Little League All Stars to an 8-6 win over Arlington in the Section I tournament championship game Wednesday night at the Oviedo Little League complex.

The Oviedo Americans now advance to the state championship tournament, scheduled to start Saturday at Citrus Park Little League in Tampa.

Wednesday's win capped a frantic two days for the Oviedo Americans, who went from undefeated to scrambling for their tournament lives after a 7-6 loss to Arlington Tuesday night.

Until then the Oviedo Americans had enjoyed a relatively easy run through the All Star season.

"These last two games were the most difficult ones we've had to play," said Oviedo manager Randy Reno. "We played Arlington in the first game of this tournament and beat them out. We were full of confidence going into last night's game. Then they came back and beat us."

Tonight I told the boys that there was no way they could beat us two games in a row. Our guys have hit the ball well all tournament. And we emphasize to the boys that as long as we hit the ball then the other team has to have great pitching to stop us.

Had it not been for some crucial contributions by Prather, the Oviedo Americans could just as easily be sitting at home this workend. Originally scheduled to bat second, Prather hit seventh and started the game in right field. Before it was over, he also played second base and behind the plate, drove in Oviedo's first two runs with a bases-loaded ground ball, added a two-run double and made the final out of the game when he curtalled a wild pitch and tagged out a runner trying to score.

While his ground ball in the second inning (which came with Oviedo trailing 2-0) and his two-run double in the fourth (which gave Oviedo an 8-5 edge) were vital offensive contributions, it was Prather's work on defense that may have to aid the most for Oviedo.

After starting the game in right field, Prather moved to second base in the third inning when starting second baseman Justin Holmes went in to pitch in relief of starter Jay Roland. In the fourth inning, Prather had to go in to catch when starting catcher R. J. Blake took a foul ball on the right hand.

While Holmes allowed only two runs, one earned in his 4 innings of relief, it wasn't an easy assignment for Prather to catch him as Holmes uncocked five wild pitches. In both the third and fourth innings.

LAKE MARY — One impressive comeback and one overwhelming pitching performance highlighted second round action in the National Amateur Baseball Federation high school summer league tournament Wednesday night at Lake Mary High School.

The top-seeded Oviedo Marlins rallied from an early 5-0 deficit to knock off the Longwood Bullets 10-5 in the first game before Mitch Schardt tossed a one-hit shutout in the nightcap to lead the Altamonte Springs Dodgers to a 7-0 win over the Lake Mary Mudats.

Two elimination games are scheduled for this evening at Lake Mary, weather permitting, the Bullets (Lynn's summer squad). See NABF, Page 2B

Thanks to a huge contribution by Scott Hagge (No. 22 running), the Oviedo Marlins were able to rally from an early 5-0 deficit to beat the Longwood Bullets 10-5

Wednesday. With the score already 5-0, Hagge came in to pitch for the Marlins in the third inning and shut out the Bullets on two hits over the last five innings.

Heilig Meyers, Illusions, Playtime share first place

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — When the Sanford Recreation Wednesday Men's Slowpitch Softball League wrapped its regular season last night at Chase Park, the final standings were knotted in a pair of three-way ties.

Score At Touchdown opened the night with an 11-1 win over Heilig Meyers. Sportsmart then edged Crazy Wings 5-4 before Playtime Darts blanked Illusions 9-0.

Beer, 30 had the bye this week. Heilig Meyers, Illusions, and Playtime Darts share first place with 8-4 records while Score At Touchdown, Sportsmart, and Crazy Wings are tied for fourth place at 5-7. Beer, 30 finished its season at 3-9.

While there was no official word, it appears that Heilig Meyers, Illusions, and Playtime Darts will have to come back for one more week to decide the league championship.

Score At Touchdown struck for four runs in the top of the first inning and, after adding a single run in the fifth, blew the game open with a six-run outburst in the top of the sixth inning.

Brett Moller led the 15-hit attack of Score At Touchdown with a triple, three doubles, two runs, and two RBI. Blake Murray added three singles, a run, and an RBI. Jerry DiBartolo doubled, singled, and scored a run while Joe DiBartolo contributed two singles, two runs, and an RBI.

Kyle Brubaker chipped in with a single, two runs, and an RBI. Joe Ferpes, Kent Brubaker, and Vic DiBartolo each had a single, one run scored, and an RBI.

For Heilig Meyers, which collected five hits, Willie Walton tripled, Robert Stevens singled and scored the only run on a sacrifice fly by David Jones. Sammie Edwards, Dale Peters, and Calvin Bryant each hit a single.

Sportsmart and Crazy Wings each scored three runs in the second inning of their game.

Crazy Wings broke the tie with a run in the bottom of the fourth when Don Macher singled and scored on a double by Jim Nulty. Sportsmart came right back in the top of the fifth, Arnie Vanzyll hitting a double and scoring to tie the score before Dwayne Towery singled and came home on Jim Troxell's double.

Neither team got a runner past second base the rest of the game.

Vanzyll finished with a double, single, two runs, and an RBI to lead Sportsmart's nine-hit effort. Troxell had a double, single, and an RBI. Greg Register added a double and an RBI while Tim Wilks had a single and an RBI.

Towery and Gary Chambers each singled and scored a run. Pete Kinsley singled. Chris Collin scored a run.

Tom Winkle hit two singles, scored a run, and had an RBI to highlight Crazy Wings' 11-hit offense. Macher singled twice and scored twice. Dave Goldstick had two singles and a run scored. Craig Appel also hit two singles. Nulty had his double and RBI. Heath Short singled in a run. Stacy Bliz also singled.

In the nightcap, Illusions appeared to take a 4-0 lead on a sacrifice fly in the top of the first inning, but the runner was called out for leaving the base early, negating the run.

Ponder wins WRS, Late Model events at Volusia County oval

By BILL GIBBERT
Special to the Herald

BARBERVILLE — Tony Ponder went into last Saturday night, July 17, trailing Cam Gibson by one point in the race for the Winston Racing Series points lead at Volusia County Speedway.

But Ponder took his Steel & Post/West Orange Pump No. 01 car to the lead of the Volusia Performance Late Model Stock 30-lap feature by the end of the eighth lap and, coupled with Gibson running into problems when his motor let go halfway through the race, vaulted back into the points race led by 81 points.

Then, after a quick post-race interview with track announcer Tom Tipton, Ponder jumped into his stand-by Buick, old No. 15, and raced from pole position to checkered flag in the 25-lap Late Model feature for a double victory.

In other divisions: ● David Clegg was the winner in the Kinco Window and Doors Sportsman feature. ● J.D. Clark returned to the winner's circle in the J.L. Hags Auto Body Hobby Stocks main event.

● Jerry Gilliard claimed another win in the Ranken Repairs Mini Stocks. ● Jeff Miller ran to the front in the Budget Mobile Homes Street Stocks event.

● Ray Mark claimed a win in the Pate's Drywall/Benny's Racing Equipment Florida Modified feature. In a special six-lap Delco Oil/Fina Express Mart Dash for Cash for Florida Modifieds, Wray Shaffer of Lake Helen raced from the pole position to the checkered flag to pick up a quick $100.

"This (Steel & Post/West Orange Pump) car has been hooked up all year long," said Ponder after winning his eighth race in the Winston Racing Series' 12-week season and his 10th since the Late Model Stock track points season got underway back in March. "We were sitting with nothing (after blowing an engine last week) and worked the midnight oil to get back out here."

Gibson's motor went south after 12 laps, leaving Mike Hunter (last week's feature winner) and Jim Grotha to chase Ponder the rest of the race. Ponder, Hunter, and Grotha led the way to the checkered flag with Wayne Lockett and Mike Luddent rounding out the top five.

Despite getting some pressure from Tony Newsum early and Hobby Blake late in the Late Model main, Ponder ran away from the rest of the pack in his flag-to-flag victory.

Blake stayed in to finish second ahead of Johnny Walker, Newsum, and Ed Woodring. Miller tightened the points race in the Street Stock division with his win over Chris Lawrence, closing to within three points of Lawrence, who finished second. Scott Laughlin took third, Todd Stevens was fourth, and Steve Turner came in fifth.

"We had no oil pressure all night long," Miller said, happy to finish the race as well as eek out the victory. "I don't know, I think Valvoline ought to come down and sponsor me because that's all we were running on."

Mark paced David Inveritt, Ted Richard, John Rethwill, and Wayne McCall for the top five finishers in the Florida Modifieds while Gilliard led Derick Luthie, Earl Mark, Phil Orr, and Rick Fairbanks in the Mini Stocks.

Clark's win in the Hobby Stocks broke John De-benedictus' two-race win streak. De-benedictus was second ahead of Mike Bellevue, Robert Milam, and Tom Lowe.

Clegg led the way in the Sportsman feature, pacing Rusty Ebersole, Mark Stevenson, Karl Stairs, and Bill Morris across the finish line.

to hold them (Longwood) there. But when you say that to a pitcher when you're already behind 5-0, you kind of saying it tongue-in-cheek. At that point, it's almost mop-up duty. But he shut them down and we had a chance to win because he did."

Walks (20 in all) were a big part of the game, two coming during Longwood's big inning and Oviedo using six during its seven-run explosion.

In the Longwood second, T.J. Dixon walked, Ted Koller singled, and Mike Krupa walked to load the bases. Jason Gronert then hit a ground ball that was misplayed for an error, allowing Dixon and Koller to score. Fred Young followed with a single to score Krupa and Gronert.

After stealing second, Young scored on Mark Thielsen's two-out single.

Ted Brown and Tim Slavik walked before Mike Rugenius singled to load the bases in the Oviedo third. With one out, Metcalf walked to score Brown and Koller to score. Fred Young followed with a single to score Krupa and Gronert.

Brad Vanderweide led Altamonte Springs with a two-run double and a run scored. Keith Welsh, Jeff Butler, John Anderson, and K.T. Slawson each contributed a single and an RBI. Brian Krot also singled. Jeff Shaw and Joey Harner each scored a run.

Anderson also anchored the Dodger defense with a brilliant performance at second base. In the Longwood-Oviedo game, the offense came in bunches, the Bulls scoring all five runs in the second inning while the Marlins scored seven times in the third frame and added three in the fourth.

Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell credited relief pitcher Scott Hagge, who relieved starter Mark Metcalf in the third inning with the score 5-0, with giving the Marlins a chance to win the game. "I'm so proud of Scott Hagge," said Ferrell. "We were already down five runs in wet conditions, but he sucked it up and kept us in the game."

Longtime businessman honored

By SHIRLEY K. BAKER
Herald Correspondent

On Sunday afternoon, July 25, from 4-8 p.m., friends, business associates, relatives and fellow church members will pay homage to D.C. McCoy in the Sanford Civic Center annex.

Having lived in Sanford since 1932, D.C., as he is affectionately addressed by his friends, has been in the dry-cleaning business for 58 of those years, and a member of Historic St. James AME Church for almost as many years. At Historic St. James AME Church, D.C. has served in many capacities. He has been a steward for 30 years and is presently vice-chairman of the steward board and a member of the Christian Education Committee. He has also been president of Choir #1 for 21 years, a Sunday School teacher and a class leader.

He and his wife, Rose, will celebrate their 54th wedding anniversary on Aug. 2. They are the parents of three sons, Donald, Eldred, and Charles, and one daughter, Karen. They have three grandchildren and one great-grandchild. When asked to describe her husband, Rose quickly said, "he is devoted to his family and people. He is kind, cooperative and generous to a fault, sometimes."

Stewart Baker voiced the opinion of all who know McCoy when he stated, "D.C. is a real friend who is truly interested in people and will do all he can to help others."

In addition to his church responsibilities, McCoy has been very much involved in civic and community activities. He was a member of the Housing Authority for six years, Exalted Ruler of the Celery City Lodge #542 for five years, a member of the local and state Antler Guard, member of Concerned Citizens of Sanford while it was under the leadership of Dr. J.C. Ringling, a member of the Voters League for many years and chaplain of COMA, which is under the leadership of Rev. Pitts and Bernard Mitchell, president.

The recognition of McCoy's devotion and dedication to his church and his Christian and caring and cooperative attitude when interacting with others will take the form of an appreciation roast.

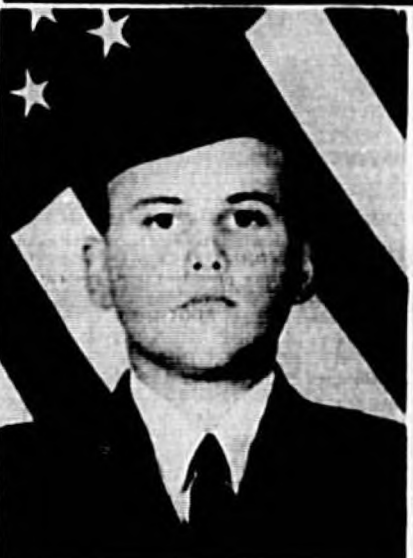

The roast will feature Fannie E. Miller as toastmistress and music will be provided by Evelyn Clark, Rayfield Humphrey, the McCoy-Eaverly Male Chorus, and Elaine Turner, niece of McCoy. Other participants are as follows: Marvin Ellison, Dr. Jean Jones, E.C. Wilson, Cab Bookman, Myrtle Ashley, James Webster, Jerome Guy, Bernard Mitchell, E.N. Smith, Rev. Nolan T. Pitts, and the honoree.

Coordinators of the appreciation roast, Dr. Jean Jones and Sylvia Stallworth, invite all interested persons to attend this program and give honor to one D.C. McCoy who has worked and given tirelessly toward the improvement of his church and community.

Tasty refreshments will be served.

In the service

KENNETH W. LACKEY, JR.
LACKLAND AIR FORCE BASE, San Antonio — Airman Kenneth W. Lackey Jr. has graduated from Air Force basic training here.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Lackey Sr. of 1430 Crestridge Drive, Kissimmee.

His wife, Michelle, is the daughter of Roberta Driver of Chuluota.

Mom who kept mum allowed son's imagination to run amok

DEAR ABBY: "Colorado Mother" was very wise to have kept her child home from day care because she had accidentally fallen and had some ugly-looking bruises on her face...she might have been accused of child abuse.

I worked as a school nurse and saw many children with suspicious-looking injuries that had occurred at home. I advised parents to send a note to school with the child, explaining how the child was bruised; otherwise we must rely on the children to tell us how the injury took place. All suspicious-looking injuries must be reported; that is the law, we are told.

We cannot always rely on the child to tell us the truth. One kindergarten student came to school with a nasty gash on his earlobe. He told me that his mother had put tape over his mouth to keep him quiet and when she went to cut the tape off, she accidentally cut his ear.

We called child protective services and they investigated the case. They learned that after Mom had read a story to her children about Egyptian mummies, they got silly and taped each other up with masking tape.

I wish that mother had told us. She could have saved herself — and the school — a lot of unnecessary trouble.

SCHOOL NURSE

DEAR NURSE: Thanks for the input. Mothers, fathers, teachers — are you listening?

DEAR ABBY: I will need the wisdom of Solomon to handle this dilemma. I am an ex-daughter-in-law who has always had a close and loving relationship with my mother-in-law. The grandchildren were the glue that cemented our warm relationship.

Last year, my "ex" remarried and his new wife made it clear that his mother must end her friendship with me. I did not want to create a fuss, so I did not attend my former in-laws' 50th wedding celebration to which I was invited. (I simply "left town" the weekend it took place.)

Now my ex-father-in-law is in the hospital (terminally ill) and I cannot go see him because I was told that my former mother-in-law thinks it would be better if I stayed away. I am hurt that I cannot share this loss, but I will not go against her wishes.

I am very uncomfortable and very hurt to have been suddenly excluded from this family to whom I was so close for nearly 30 years. Where did I go wrong?

THE LONELY MOURNER

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR LONELY MOURNER: Who empowered your ex-husband's new wife to exclude you from the family celebrations — and hospital visits? And why does your former mother-in-law, with whom you've always had a close and loving relationship, now permit her new daughter-in-law to cut you off from the entire family? And what about your whimsical "ex"? Shame on all of them for knuckling under to such mean-spirited demands.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)
