Dr. J. J. Morgan of the Christian church, DeLand, was welcomed at this time.

A report on Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. work was made by H. T. McClelland.

Will Play Basket Ball A meeting of the Boys Athletic Association was called by Coach Connor for the first meeting of this year, Monday, Sept. 24th. It was decided that we play basket ball this season, leaving football off altogether. The practice started Tuesday, Sept. 25th. We have prospects for a good team and expect to show Sanford a team to be proud of—a winning team.

Before adjourning the following officers were elected: Israel Kannar, president; G. W. Spencer, vice president; Percy Packard, secretary; Robt. Cobb, treasurer.

As nothing else came before the house the meeting adjourned until some other business might be sighted by our boys.

Big Merchant Fleet Washington, D. C., Sept. 26. — Within a little more than one year the United States will have a merchant fleet of more than sixteen hundred ships with a tonnage of more than nine million, according to the announcement just made by the shipping board.

SANFORD NOW WILL LAY THE SECOND DRAFT NEEDED TO FILL BIG ARMY ON THE EUROPEAN PLAN

PERMANENT ORGANIZATION WAS PERFECTED LAST NIGHT

Sanford Chapter of the American Red Cross Society was formed here last night with Miss Ruth Rich, district organizer present. The meeting was a most enthusiastic one and the county units were well represented. Sanford chapter will include all the county precincts with the exception of Oviedo, which city will have their own individual chapter.

The following officers were elected: D. C. Marlowe, chairman, Mrs. Deane Turner, vice chairman, Mrs. W. P. Carter, secretary, B. F. Whitner, treasurer.

An executive board to appoint all committees was composed of the officers and Mrs. Galloway, Mrs. McLaulin and Dr. S. Puleston. The executive committee will meet next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock.

Interesting and helpful talks were made by Dr. Neal, the retiring chairman, D. C. Marlowe, the new chairman and Miss Ruth Rich and with the united efforts of the people of Seminole county the new chapter should be one of the best in the state.

With the population of Seminole the new chapter should have many more members and all are urged to come in now and assist in this great work during the winter months when the men in the trenches and the men in the various camps and the boys in the navy will need all the many comforts that the Red Cross and the other organizations can give them.

MASONS WILL HAVE CHARGE OF THE PROGRAM

Dr. Oliver J. Miller, Worshipful Master, Sanford Lodge No. 52, F. & A. M., has just received telegraphic dispensation from Grand Master A. S. York, to lay the corner stone of the Federal building now under construction, and it has been decided to conduct the ceremonies on Monday afternoon, October 1st, at 4 p. m.

The following officers of the lodge will assist in the work:

- Oliver J. Miller, Worshipful Grand Master, Frank L. Miller, as Deputy Grand Master, James Moughton, Grand Senior Warden, S. G. Kennedy, Grand Acting Junior Warden, G. W. Spencer, Grand Treasurer, O. L. Taylor, Grand Secretary, F. P. Forster, Grand Chaplain, W. C. DeCoursey, Grand Senior Deacon, J. D. Jenkins, Grand Junior Deacon, W. M. Haynes, Grand Senior Steward, John Stemper, Grand Junior Steward, C. O. Bradbury, Grand Tyler.

Several local speakers will make addresses, the Sanford Band will furnish the music and the exercises will be most interesting. As this is Sanford's first public building the occasion should be made a half holiday and steps have been taken to ask the merchants to close the stores during the hour of the ceremonies. Programs will be printed today and distributed over the city in which the outline of the exercises will be given.

May Move to Moscow

Petrograd, Sept. 26.—Although there is no sign of a panic among the city's population and indications point strongly to the return of confidence, yet a partial evacuation of Petrograd is proceeding irrespective of whether the capital is removed to Moscow or not. Art and holy treasures have been packed and are ready for immediate shipment.

17 NATIONAL GUARD DIVISIONS TO BE FILLED

Washington, Sept. 26.—There is little doubt now that a large deficiency of men will be shown when reports on the first increment of the National Army—687,000 men—have been made.

Seventeen National Guard divisions must be brought up to war strength and several special reserve forces organized out of this reservoir, for the number of drafted men. Then seventeen guard divisions hardly will be sufficient to organize the sixteen national army divisions at a full strength basis. Whether incomplete division will be formed or a call for men issued has not been indicated.

Secretary Baker said tonight that definite figures as to the number of national army men it would be necessary to transfer to the national guard were not available.

The fighting strength of the new division is now fixed at 27,500 men. The seventeen guard divisions on that basis will have a total strength of 457,500 men.

The guard probably brought into the Federal service a total of not more than 300,000 men. It will take therefore at least 157,000 national army men to fill up the guard divisions.

Another 100,000 of the national army will go to the air service and certainly as many more to other special services. That would leave not more than 250,000 men to form the sixteen national army divisions which should have an aggregated war strength of 433,000. By adoption of the European regimental and company standard, every guard regiment which was to be included in a division had to be expanded. Regiments and parts of regiments are being consolidated to furnish the 3,600 man regimental unit now desired.

The guard consolidation has brought upon the department a new source of trouble. Numerous colonels and regimental staffs of the guard are certain to be left without commands, since the number of regiments has been reduced. This has also proved a fruitful source of protest from state officials, the policy of the department, it is said, will be to find places for such guard officers in other forces as far as possible and desirable.

Stenstrom Recovering

Orin Stenstrom was in the city a few days visiting his home folks. He has been in the Waycross Hospital, for several months and while his recovery from the accident to his leg is slow it is sure and he hopes to be able to use the leg some time in the future. He returned to Waycross yesterday.

McDougal is Getting Fat

George McDougal, the popular air-brake man and Sanford farmer who is now at the Waycross shops as foreman comes home every week or so to visit home folks and his change to Georgia is good for him as he is getting fat. Mac says Waycross is all right but Sanford is much better.

Opening New Quarters

The store room in the J. L. Miller block on Magnolia next to The Herald office is looking businesslike this week as the carpenters are busy putting up shelves for the advent of the Gibson & Wallace music store and the Charles Electric Co., who will have quarters in the store room. Magnolia is coming all the time and to the White Way street.

Bentley Gets the Contract

The Bentley Co., of Toledo, Ohio, obtained the contract for the big cantonment at Jacksonville which means some three million dollars and this reminds us that the Bentley Co. is one of the largest in the country, having to their credit all the mammoth buildings for the Overland Co. and many other big concerns in Ohio and other states. Tom Bentley of the firm is the brother-in-law of Harry B. Lewis of this city.

HERALD STARTS TOBACCO FUND

THOUSANDS OF OUR BOYS "SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE" WILL RECEIVE THEIR FAVORITE SMOKES

The boys in the armies, in the trenches, in the hospitals and elsewhere throughout the war zones in Europe are clamoring for good old American smokes and The Herald has made arrangements with the American Tobacco Co., to furnish them. The Herald will open a fund today and if each man in Seminole county will contribute 25 cents to the fund this 25 cents will buy a nice little comfort kit with the following articles in it:

- 1 Package of Tuxedo tobacco, 4 Books of Tuxedo papers, 3 Books Bull Durham papers, 2 Packages of Lucky Strike cigarettes, 20 cigarettes in each package.

Return postal card on which to thank you for remembering him.

The 25 cents will be sent to the American Tobacco Co., direct it with your card and they will send the kit to France through the good offices of the American Red Cross who will see that the package and the card with the name of the donor gets into the hands of the American soldier or any soldiers of the vast army of the allies who are fighting for freedom.

Tobacco is a bad proposition, you say.

Well, this is no time for arguments about the boys smoking. Most of them are men grown, most of them smoked before they went to France and if we are to believe the stories that come from the trenches the men want tobacco and they want it bad and it is not for us to ask the question of whether it is good for them or not. Certainly the officers themselves and the highest authorities in army circles and medical circles say to give the boys smokes and smokes they shall have, if possible.

Since all the newspapers in the United States are in this war to win and all of them are in the campaign to give the soldiers tobacco The Herald will be in the campaign and get the boys what they seem to need as much as food. This 25 cent package means 40 cents worth of tobacco delivered to the boys at the front and will mean one dollar worth of satisfaction to the man who are fighting day and night under conditions that are unpeakable to the people who are living in comfort at home.

LYRIC THEATRE OCTOBER 4th

Among The Theatres

"The Glory of Yolanda" is a Vitaphone Blue Ribbon feature which is at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday. Anita Stewart gives her friends ample proof that she is worthy of any praise they have ever bestowed. In fact she gets right into her part and makes the role a living one. Her audience feels the trials and joys of the little Russian girl as though she was living before them and it is with regret that the story is seen to end.

In the first part of the story which was written by Mabelle Helkes Justice and directed by Marguerite Bertsch, Miss Stewart is seen as a little Russian peasant girl in whom burns an intense desire to dance. She is encouraged by her mother but the stolid father places a ban upon her high spirits and love for dancing. However, she runs off into the forest and dances with the squirrels and birds as her audience. She seems to radiate happiness and is just a little slip of a lass—a loveable little lady whom it would be a pleasure to know.

Finally her father's treatment becomes too severe and with her mother she leaves for the city to become a great dancer. In her soul burns the great white flame of purity and entirely innocent of the dangers and snares of the world she continues to act in the same way, as she did back home with the simple country folk.

Her wonder at the city luxuries and conveniences is cleverly portrayed. How the telephone mystifies her and how she gazes at the motors flying here and there.

When success comes as premier danseuse she is just as lovely and bewitching as before in the costume of the ball dancer. Her feet fairly fly over the smooth stage floor and her eyes sparkle with sheer happiness.

When her mother passes into the great beyond she registers the heart-broken girl as though she were actually suffering the great grief of a wounded soul and her fright at other happenings when her brother, coming from the country, home kills the Duke is wonderfully portrayed.

It would seem that the part of Yolanda was created especially for this young screen star who has truly won the love and admiration of motion picture fans the world over.

At Star Theatre Tonight Mary Miles Minter, the star of Metro's wonderplay "Somewhere in America," although young in years is old in experience on both the stage and screen. Mary Miles Minter was born in Shreveport, La., on the first day of April, 1902. Her first stage experience was made at the age of four years and since that time she has been constantly in the public eye, either in the spoken or the silent drama. On the stage this popular young lady has supported such well known artists as Nat Goodwin, Bertha Kalich, Mrs. Fiske, Robert Hilliard and probably her greatest stage success was scored in "The Little Rebel" in which she supported Dustin and William Farnum.

Everett Overton plays the role of Anita Stewart's leading man in the Vitaphone Blue Ribbon feature, "The Glory of Yolanda," which is the headliner on all star bills of the Lyric Theatre on Thursday. In this production which was directed by Marguerite Bertsch Miss Stewart and Mr. Overton form a most attractive combination. Lyric Thursday.

Clara Kimball Young in "Trilby," Trilby is one of those all powerful dramas of Bohemia destined to immortality.

The story of the beautiful model who is guided into the glittering web by the strange influence of the great Svengali is unfolded by master direction of those able artists Clara Kimball Young and Wilton Lackaye.

Trilby moves through a series of exquisite sets and glorious exteriors—scenes of gay Paris, and touches of Bohemian life that make one long for a share of its fascinating frivolity and delightful friendships. When the last wonderful scene fades out, you say to yourself, "I wish I could see it all over once again!"

At Lyric Friday.

Notes From Camp Wheeler
Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga., Sept. 22nd, 1917.

Many events of interest have taken place since my last letter. First and foremost in the minds of the men stands "Pay Day." Ever since our arrival we have heard daily rumors that "Today is Pay Day" and there were many shouts of approval when just after dinner yesterday Sergeant Freeman walked into quarters and yelled "Clean up for Pay Day." Right willingly did the men go at their shaving and changing to fresh uniforms and in a few minutes all dressed up, we were lined up in the company street and marched over to regimental headquarters and received our pay for August in fresh new bills. There was hardly an old bill in the whole lot given us, the coins were all newly minted and in a few minutes had taken the wings of the eagle on their back and flown. The canteen did a phenomenal business even for it, which is always crowded. Today they had to line the men up and make them take turns to get into the canteen. This won't be for long, however, soon most of us will be broke again and trying to borrow enough from some friend to make a "Trip to Macon."

Today we were lined up in the company street again and marched over to the Regimental Hospital and there vaccinated in the left arm and had the first lot of anti-typhoid serum shot into our right arm. It is quickly done but not always quickly recovered from. We were marched up to the front door where an orderly on either side rubbed our arms with alcohol. Just two steps further on one doctor shot the hypodermic in our right arm. This was just like a slight pin prick at the time, but the arm soon begins to get sore and now every one watches his neighbor on the right to see that there is no jostling. One step from the first doctor another orderly took our left arms and scratched it with a dull pin point. This was the vaccination and it was just like having the skin scratched, until broken; by a dull pin. Another couple of steps and another orderly covered the vaccination with colodion and it was all finished. Outside another medical officer examined our teeth but he only delayed us a minute. The whole regiment was treated.

Every man in our company who had taken the treatment before was loud in the praise of the man who did the work today, saying that they were by far easier than the men who handled them last year at Black Point. A few men fainted while in line, but none of these were from Company C. Some of the boys looked pale but they left it to the other fellows to do the falling out.

Today, being Saturday, was general inspection day and so everything is as clean as an old maid's kitchen. Not a cigarette stub, or speck of paper could be found on the company street when the inspectors went by. Guns and clothes were clean and bunks made up.

Sanitary regulations are very strict and even more strictly enforced. Every day and sometimes more than once during the day some officer comes around and inspects the kitchen and dining rooms. Every particle of paper and waste food is burned and the whole place is carefully covered over every day to see that nothing escapes. One cook has charge of the incinerators (where the waste is burned); another has charge of the men who clean the dining room and the third has charge of the kitchen police who clean the kettles and pans.

Every man must be his own sanitary inspector, so far as his clothes, dishes, gun and person are concerned. Each man must take a bath at least every other day, clothes and all equipment must be clean at all times. Each corporal is responsible for the personal appearance of his squad and if he expects to hold his job he sees that they are always neat and ready for inspection. The sergeants of each platoon are inspectors over the corporals and they are held responsible for continued negligence of a corporal. Nothing is left to chance; as a result it is very seldom that a man is punished for not being clean.

The company was addressed today. Two men were called home to attend funerals. Oscar Spivey leaves tonight for Sanford, Fla. His father died this morning. Alban Kindall leaves for Evergreen, Alabama; on account of the death of his sister. It has rained a little bit this afternoon and the clouds seem to foretell of another and heavier fall to-night. If it does rain this whole camp will be turned into a sea of red mud and a trip down the hill of the company street will be a dangerous one. We who have seen Georgia mud hope that it will only rain enough to settle the dust.

A joyful break in the monotony of camp life came yesterday in an unexpected visit from two Orlando people. Mrs. N. J. Merck and Miss Sebellie Smith stopped over for the day to visit Horace Merck. Needless to say, we were all glad to see them. They left last night for Atlanta.

I am going into Macon tonight. Will buy a collar for the dog and go to the movies. Will try to tell you something of the city in my next letter.

The people of our Ally, Great Britain, provide libraries for their soldiers through no less than four volunteer organizations. So it is that parcels containing libraries go forth to all parts of the world wherever the British soldier is fighting. Malta received 7,000 volumes per month, Basrah 9,000, Alexandria 8,000, Salonika 2,000, and even units in East Africa, Italy and Russia are supplied. The Admiralty requested the library to supply a volume for every sailor in the fleets.

A survey of the entire field has determined that $1.00 will furnish a book, keep it in circulation, replace it when it is worn out, and all the time pay a share of the expense of properly housing and caring for these libraries in the various camps.

One dollar apiece from the stay-at-homes will give to those who are fighting our battles some of the pleasure they crave, relieve the pang of homesickness and loneliness, and keep them in touch with the life they have vacated.

Carrier Pigeons Still Used. Even to day, when airplanes and wireless play a conspicuous role, carrier pigeons play their part as well. Fliers can be shot down, and wireless messages might be taken up by enemy operators. The pigeon, in many cases, is the safest carrier, for seldom the bird is shot down. As a rule four or five pigeons are sent off with the same message, to make sure that at least one will reach its destination.

The Golden Rule. What is known as the golden rule in morals, is the rule laid down by Jesus in the sermon on the mount, and stated by him to be the law and the prophets: "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets." (Matt. 7:12)

Ready to Make Up. Russell, who had not behaved himself in the street car, had been told by his mother that he would get a good spanking as soon as they got home. Just before entering the house Russell said, "Mamma, don't you think we better make up before we go in?"

A Phase of the Servant Question

By ELINOR MARSH

"I married an old bachelor who thought he knew more about women than any man in the world. He was constantly making deductions with regard to them. For instance, if he saw a woman pass a mirror, glance at her reflection, adjust her hat or some other portion of her apparel he would assume that she was vain. When he married me he took especial pains to discover whether I was popular with my own sex. 'I wouldn't give a fig for a woman whom women don't like,' he said in telling me of his preoccupation after we were married and in doing so paid me the compliment to say that in my case the report was favorable. I didn't consider it a compliment for my very best woman friend had never been popular with women simply because they didn't understand her.

We lived in a town on the Pacific coast where the only servants to be had were Chinese. We went to housekeeping as soon as we were married, and I hired a cook named Charlie Lee. Charlie agreed to give me a month's notice before leaving, but some one offered him $2 a month more than I was paying him, and without either giving me the stipulated notice or the privilege even of raising his wages he left me the day before I was to have friends in for dinner. More than this, he demanded wages for two weeks when he had been with me only eight days. I paid him for one week and told him to go, and go quickly, and upon showing his face in my house again.

When John came home and I told him what had happened, I saw by the wrinkle in his forehead that he considered me in some way to blame, but he said nothing. I secured another Chinaman as cook, but was astonished when he told me at the end of the first week that he would stay with me no longer. 'Are you sure,' asked John, 'that you have said or done nothing to ruffle him?'

'I'm sure I've neither said nor done anything that should ruffle him.' John turned to the evening paper that he had brought home with him, and I knew he considered there was something wrong with me or I would not have lost two servants within a month. The third Chinaman stayed with me just two days.

John had refrained from speaking his mind on the servant question till this third cook left me. Then we had our first spat.

'You must admit, my dear,' he said, 'that there is some reason for the departure of all your servants.'

'You mean that I don't treat them kindly?'

'Not that, but perhaps your manner may be a trifle dictatorial.'

'I should have supposed,' I retorted, 'that you would have inquired before marrying me whether my manner to servants was defensible enough.'

'You misunderstand me. Our manner is something for which we are not responsible, being born to it. I can readily understand how these simple Chinese, exiles from their homes, may have a sensitiveness to kindness that I heard no more, for I went out of the room, and I fear I shut the door after me a trifle harder than was necessary. I determined that I would find out what was preventing my keeping a servant if I had to send to the Flowery Kingdom for a native detective. I went to a friend, told her the circumstances and asked her advice.

'These Chinese are very clannish,' she said. 'What one does they all do.'

'But how do they all know enough to do the same thing? Those I have had surely were not acquainted.'

'I have had one of them for years,' she said. 'I'll ask him if he can explain.'

Chang Wing, her servant, was called in and the case put to him. He said he would go to see me the next day after his work was finished. He came, as he agreed, and walked straight into the kitchen, where he commenced to examine the furniture and cooking utensils. Then he looked into every crevice and corner. It struck me that he was searching for evidence of the presence of mice in the house, for I had heard of the Chinese appreciation of this delicacy, and informed him that there were none and I wouldn't have them on my premises on any account. He paid no attention to the information, keeping on with his ransacking. He looked on the bottoms of the chairs and the pots and kettles, turned up the oilcloth on the floor, removed every article in the kitchen closet and examined it as well as the walls and the shelves. Finally he took down the clock and looked at its back. Then I knew from the Celestial look on his face that he had found what he had been searching for.

'What is it?' I asked eagerly.

'He pointed to some Chinese characters chalked on the back of the clock and translated them:

'Very bad woman. Doesn't pay the wages.'

Charlie Lee, my first cook, was the only one of the lot I had had any difference with about money, and, of course, it was he who had passed the word to his successors.

When John came home that evening I told him that I thought I had discovered the cause of my trouble with cooks. 'I wounded poor Charlie Lee's feelings,' I admitted. John looked pleased that he should have been right in his diagnosis of the case. Then I took him into the kitchen, showed him the inscription and translated it.

'John has never since interfered with any suggestion as to my natural inability to manage servants.'

As Mr. J. W. Bell's car was disabled he could not accept the cordial invitation to a society affair at Longwood.

Mrs. A. G. Purdon of Jacksonville is here, with her son and daughter, to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wynne. Mrs. Purdon expects to make a trip to Sanford, for both business and pleasure, for she has scores of friends there who will gladly grasp her hand and welcome her back, where she was once among the prosperous people of that prosperous city.

W. C. Post is preparing to move to Green Cove Springs.

Our population is temporarily increased by the two gangs of workmen putting in some railway improvements at the bridge over the St. Johns river.

Our new school flag is now the pride of the school and the rainy weather has been giving plenty of practice in putting it up and taking it down, but there are always willing hands ready for the service.

Mr. and Mrs. William Oglesby started Wednesday for a few days visit with friends in St. Augustine and his brother, Edward and family are taking care of his premises during their absence.

UPBALA AND GRAPEVILLE

Rev. T. V. Albertson of DeLand expects to be with us for Sunday school and church service beginning at 2 o'clock next Sunday. Rev. Albertson is the founder of our Sunday school and an earnest preacher of the Word.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Thompson with their children, Edna and Andrew were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Lundquist Sunday. They made it in their new car.

Sunday was reception day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Lundquist. Among those calling and paying their respects were Mrs. J. E. Lundquist, the mother, and the brothers, Hilmar and wife and little daughter; Elmer and wife and two children; and Leroy Hodgins and wife and little Alice. It is hard to say which was the most important as it was to celebrate three events: the arrival of Mrs. Christine Palmquist of Miami to visit her brother's family and her old home here, the new baby in the family and John Henry's thirteenth birthday. So all were given due honor, refreshments of cake and coffee being served and a pleasant time enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Glute and Miss Dovelina Farley of Sanford were pleasant visitors in Grapeville Wednesday, also calling at the homes of Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Lundquist.

The rains lately seem to be against the prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, but those that get out get a blessing from Rev. Ericson's excellent spiritual talks and we hope to see them better attended.

IN SOCIETY'S DOMAIN

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST IN AND AROUND SANFORD

In the absence of Mrs. Norma McLaughlin, Miss Virginia Brady will have charge of this department. Any assistance rendered Miss Brady will be greatly appreciated.

War Puts Blight on Social Affairs

The blight of war will descend upon the approaching winter social season and all festivities of society such as marked the season of the past will be abandoned. It will be a debutanteless winter, with no balls, no large private entertainments, and little or nothing of the gay social life that has made New York society the most brilliant in the country.

This sweeping abandonment of the winter's social routine on account of the war was learned yesterday when it was ascertained from several prominent society women, under whose direction the most important subscription and dancing classes are given, that all large formal affairs will cease altogether during the war.

Within a week it is expected that announcement will be made of the abandonment of the junior assemblies. There are a series of subscription dances which succeeded the junior cotillions, are the most important and smartest of the season and are held particularly for debutantes at Sherry's. They have been held for many years uninterruptedly.

Other dancing classes are also to be discontinued, as well as the annual autumn ball at Tuxedo, which is really older than the junior assemblies, and is an institution that has survived a generation or more, being held mostly for the younger element, particularly the New York debutantes of each season.

A prominent society woman, in speaking yesterday of the change in the plans for the coming season said: "This is no time to spend money in gayeties, and to bring out our daughters. There are too many serious things to be done now."

It was also pointed out that while there would be no formal presentations of debutantes, or balls in their honor, some people who had debutante daughters might give little family tea parties to mark their entrance into society, so that the girls would be identified in a quiet way as buds of the first year of the war.

For several weeks society in cities has been waiting on the decision of New York society, in regard to society debuts especially. Milwaukee was the first city to definitely decide against any formal presentations. Many debuts in Philadelphia are to be omitted, but nothing has been determined by the social authorities in Washington as yet.

Such institutions as the Metropolitan Opera and the annual National Horse Show, which is to be held this season for the American Red Cross, will attract society as of old, but the routine of balls and formal debutante affairs is doomed.—New York Times.

Turn Over.

A man isn't necessarily a crank because he is always starting something.

No Doubt About It.

A Babylonian tablet just unearthed says that a barbarous man covered with hair fell in love with a beautiful woman of Babylon and lost his hair. And, very probably, he was seen at the theater thereafter whenever she appeared in the chorus.

Time Will Tell.

"Alice, darling," he whispered, as mushy as could be, "I'm the happiest man alive to call you wife, but I'm afraid I'm not good enough for you." And it took him only two years of married life to prove to her that he was right.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

A BANKER'S TESTIMONY TO THE ADVANTAGES OF A DRY STATE.

Mr. Gordon Jones, a leading banker of Denver, writing in the Denver Post concerning the effects of a year of prohibition in that city, says:

"The most remarkable thing about Denver's change from a wet to a dry regime was the ease with which that change was made. There was no crisis in finances, and business affairs were conducted under the new conditions without a perceptible hitch in their machinery.

"In the banking business, especially in a bank that has a savings department, it is not difficult to trace the benefits of a cessation of common and public drinking. The fact that in the first ten months of 1916 the savings accounts in Denver banks were increased by nearly $20,000 is proof that prohibition has enhanced thrift. Tax collections in six months were as large as for the entire year of 1915, showing that the money that went into the purchase of liquor has gone to pay the expenses of government.

"I have a lawyer friend who is attorney for five former liquor dealers, and he tells me he has talked over the situation with them and that all declare they would not only never re-enter the business if liquor were restored, but that if the opportunity ever came to them they would vote for prohibition.

"To sum up the effect of prohibition on business, I can say that collections have been generally better; men are buying better goods and better food; real estate men say that their rentals are paid more promptly; there is no idleness among our workers; our people are more thrifty; but, above all, there is a spirit of cheerfulness that was never so pronounced as in the first twelve months of 'dry Colorado.'"

It has always been the policy of this store to serve the best interests of its patrons; to look after their needs, to fulfill them, and to see that satisfaction, to the maximum degree, is obtained. Furthermore, we have always been on the alert to add to our line, that which will benefit our patrons and at the same time contribute to the completeness of our service.

In accordance with this policy of progressiveness, and with an appreciation of the great and increasing popularity of music reproduced through the medium of the phonograph, we take the greatest pleasure in announcing to our friends and patrons that we have now become representatives for

STARR PHONOGRAPHS

These beautiful instruments will prove a delightful surprise to all who see and hear them. They are manufactured by The Starr Piano Company, an organization whose reputation for manufacturing the highest grade of musical instruments is world-wide.

The greatest difference between the STARR and other phonographs is in its tone. Principles of tone building have been applied in this instrument and the result is a tone of evenness, strength and sweetness with an elimination of all mechanical sounds. The STARR reproduces all of the delicate degrees of shading and coloring which are so essential to a real enjoyment of music.

IT PLAYS ALL DISC RECORDS, thus insuring you the greatest latitude in a selection of your favorite musical numbers, and this feature in no way impairs the beautiful tone.

THE STARR PHONOGRAPH is distinctly an instrument of individuality, with qualities extraordinary and in recognition of them at the Panama California Exposition, 1915, was AWARDED THE GOLD MEDAL AND GRAND PRIZE.

In appearance, that superfluous ornamentation and freakishness of design have been eliminated, and the STARR presents a most pleasing combination of simplicity and quiet dignity. We feel in offering this instrument you will appreciate the opportunity of procuring a phonograph that excels in true musical qualities and

We Cordially Invite You To See Them At Our Store.

We will give informal demonstrations daily at which you may feel perfectly free to inspect the STARR and ask all the questions you desire concerning it. This will entail positively no obligation on your part and we believe you will be pleased beyond your greatest expectations at the possibilities of phonographic reproduction.

FARMERS' DAY

Friday, October 12th has been set aside by the legislature of Florida as Farmers Day and on that day the farmers of Seminole county should plan a big meeting in Sanford—a get together meeting for the benefit of every farmer in the county.

NO DRAFT FOR FLORIDA

The governor of North Carolina using the power vested in him by the Constitution of the United States has announced his intention to draft five thousand men to protect the state in the absence of the National Guard.

WILL WE HUNGER?

The person who can see nothing but government red tape and fussiness in the food control measures can see very little below the surface in the present day situation.

FOR A CITY MANAGER

The Herald has advocated either a commission form of government or the city manager plan. If the commissioner plan then a city manager may not be needed but perhaps the commissioner could not get any better results than the city councilmen.

TO BE SPECIFIC THERE WOULD HAVE BEEN NO PRICE SET ON WHEAT HAD NOT THE GOVERNMENT FORSEEN THAT LONG BEFORE A NEW CROP COULD BE HARVESTED THE SCARCITY OF THAT CEREAL WOULD SEND THE PRICE OUT OF REACH OF ALL BUT THE AFFLUENT.

But enacting food control laws and appointing executors is not, of itself going to safeguard the country. There is another factor to the situation and the principal one—the people.

ELISAYNE DRIVE IS IN ITS DEPLORABLE CONDITION.

It would be up to him to have it remedied, if he had to fire the engineer and all the street department to do it.

It has taken many years to arouse the people to a realization of the fact that a city is simply a form of an incorporated business, that the people are the shareholders and that it is as foolish to put this business into the hands of hit or miss politicians as it would be for any business concern to secure its business officers by means of partisan politics.

PLOTTED AGAINST WILSON

I. W. W. in the West Had Revolt All Planned

Washington, Sept. 26.—How a small coterie of active anti-war workers, operating under the direction of the Industrial Workers of the World persuaded hundreds of Oklahoma farmers to take up arms against the government's enforcement of the selective draft law is revealed in papers seized by Federal agents in the recent nation-wide raid of I. W. W. headquarters.

Testimony given at Enid, Okla., recently to the effect that a national uprising was planned in which towns would be seized, cities attacked, bridges burned, was taken by officials here as an indication that the Oklahoma farmers really believed the plans would carry. As a matter of fact, officials assert, even the most radical leaders of the movement knew that it would accomplish but little more than local disturbances.

The farmers were incited to take up arms with the full knowledge that the movement would lead to nothing, simply as an expedient to embarrass the government temporarily. The anti-draft demonstration started as an agrarian movement, the records show, in Oklahoma where a number of illiterate farmers obtained an exaggerated idea of the law's operation. Certain I. W. W. leaders learned of the secret meetings held by the farmers in churches and other buildings at night and sent agitators to the scene to fan the discontent into open rebellion; it is said, by playing upon their fears.

"Ready to Unite" It was represented to the farmers that thousands of their neighbors in Missouri, Kansas City and Texas were ready to unite in an armed uprising, that millions of "men working for wages" would join them in other states and that the movement could not fail to result in an overthrow of the government.

With the government overthrow, there was to be a general division of the money of the rich among the "men working for wages," and other benefits of wide dimensions were to be obtained. Department of Justice agents, operating in the vicinity, learned of the ambitious program and prior to July 17, the night set for the general uprising, brought the project to an end, with the arrest of the alleged ringleaders of the movement.

At no time, it was said, was the disturbance more than local in character or regarded here as likely to spread. The fomentation of this trouble is only one of many activities which authorities here are investigating in connection with the recent seizure of I. W. W. papers throughout the country.

Our national conscience is clear, but that is more than can be said of many of the individuals who compose the nation. We'd hate to have our own sins spread broadcast.

Woman Cures Horse Colic

The men were away as usual. The horse was bad. A lone woman could not "drench" in the old way. She called up a neighbor, and her men were away—but: "We have Farris Colic Remedy that you drop on the horse's tongue," says Mrs. Neighbor. So she came over and dropped Farris' Colic Remedy on the horse's tongue and the horse was well when the men came home. Moral: Get Farris Colic Remedy so the women can cure horse colic. We sell it at 50 cts; a bottle on the Money Back plan. L. Allen Seed Company.

Feed out Your Hogs Six Weeks Earlier

In every lot of hogs on feed two or three weeks quickly and actually eat less than others. If all would fatten like these, the entire drove would be ready for the market six weeks earlier and to save six weeks feed is an item that you fully understand.

The hog that fattens easily must be in prime physical condition. The B. A. Thomas Hog powder is a conditioner for hogs. It keeps their system clean and healthy and enables them to fatten quickly without falling a prey to the usual diseases of hogs. The B. A. Thomas Hog Powder is not stock food. It's straight medicine and we took the agency because it enables you to feed out your hogs much earlier. L. Allen Seed Co.

Who Is The Home Merchant? The home merchant—who is he? He is the man who gives you credit when you are financially embarrassed and carries your account when you are unable to pay.

He is the man who gives you back your money or makes exchanges when you are not satisfied with what you have bought.

He is the man who stands back of his guarantee and makes restoration of all losses you may sustain on goods you buy from him.

He is the man who meets you at the door with a handshake and lets you out with a message to "the kids" and a real "come again" goodbye.

He is the man who takes a neighborly interest in you, your family and your affairs.

He is the man whose clerks live in Sanford and spend their money with you and other people of the city.

He is the man who pays heavy taxes to help support the schools, build and maintain the streets and all public institutions. He helps to support the churches and charity organizations.

He is the HOME merchant—YOUR neighbor—YOUR friend—your HELPER in time of need.

Don't you—or won't you realize that every dollar you send out of town goes to strangers who never spend a cent here?

Be fair to the home merchant—your friend and neighbor—Buy in Sanford at all times—

Announcement is made by the Florida Brewing Company of Tampa that in the very near future its big plant will be converted into a large sugar refinery. The plans of the company are only tentative, and the officers of the company refuse to make any statement. Tampa is a logical place to manufacture sugar, as it is close to markets in Cuba, from which raw sugar is imported here by the United States than in other mainland ports of this country.

Another test as to whether or not St. Johns county shall remain in the wet columns of Florida counties will be had on the 13th of October, when a wet and dry election will be held upon orders of county commissioners, conveyed by resolution adopted by the board in session at St. Augustine. In the previous elections the vote has always predominated notwithstanding vigorous campaigns which have been waged by the prohibitionists. The present campaign which will be opened promises to be a hot one and the outcome is uncertain.

The paving of the brick road from DeLand Landing to DeLand Junction is well under way, about one-half of the work being completed. Lug-cut brick are not being used, but the same are being grouted. It is a good road and compares favorably with other brick roads in that county.

The Formative Years.

In the "Woman's Home Companion" a writer says: "Fathers must realize, as well as mothers, that the first five years of the child's life are the most important in the child's development. It is then that he is most formative, most impressionable; it is then that he needs most serious and careful thought from both parents. And if the child is properly handled through this period, half the battles of the future man in the child are won."

Sixteen-year-old Texas Youngster Is Boxing Champion of Naval Station

No one would suspect this unassuming, soft voiced southern lad of being the possessor of a pair of hands and arms that give him the respect of the whole station. Whenever he enters the ring he is at once the favorite of the crowd in the big natural amphitheater where the jacks' weekly boxing matches are held. Popularity, however, has not spoiled him, although it will might. Moreover, he is not especially keen about becoming a championship fighter.

Boxing has become one of the most popular sports at the Great Lakes station. Under the leadership of Gunner Jack Kennedy, former lightweight champion of the north Atlantic fleet, the recruit is trained to use his natural weapons with advantage, and unlucky will be the German commander who attempts to try the old fashioned hand to hand method of encounter if the Great Lakes trained jacks are aboard.

NOW IT IS "LIBERTY BREAD."

Leaf of Flour Substitutes to Have New Name Given It.

"Liberty bread" is the term to be encouraged by the food administration, as applied to loaves made of substitutes for wheat flour, rather than the phrase "war bread," used in other warring countries.

"The name 'war bread' gives the impression that there is something inferior about the breads made of substitutes for wheat," says an announcement. "The fact is that breads made from wheat substitutes are healthful and just as tasty as those made from wheat." Use of substitutes will be encouraged at the food training camps to be held in connection with the fairs and expositions in the near future.

One of the latest to add his unqualified endorsement to Martin's Liver Medicine is John Bunyon Johnson, of Macon, Ga. In a letter dated August 25, 1917, he says:

"It affords me pleasure to report that I have taken Martin's Liver Medicine and obtained most desirable results. Martin's Liver Medicine is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe nor inconvenience the taker in any way. It acts positively and yet gently upon the liver and it is my opinion that it is superior to any liver medicine sold."

Martin's Liver Medicine is strictly vegetable in ingredients, contains no poisonous calomel, is pleasant to take and is sold with the standing guarantee that if it does not give the effect desired, the empty bottle can be returned to the drug store and the 50c paid for it will be refunded. A Brave Man Under a Cloud

By WARREN MILLER

A large amount of silver plate and jewelry had been taken by burglars from a rich man's house. The burglars escaped without being seen. The police got busy and tracked some of the plunder to a pawnshop. The pawnbroker declared that it had been brought in by a respectable looking man who represented himself as a man of business who had been well to do and had met reverses. The pawnbroker was suspicious of him, but he told so straight a story that the pawnbroker was finally convinced and bought several hundred dollars' worth of articles from him. The next day the purchased goods were identified as having been stolen.

That is as far as the police got in the matter till one day the pawnbroker met a man on the street who resembled the broken down merchant who had sold him the stolen goods. He followed the suspect and on coming to a policeman turned him over. The captive showed a great deal of indignation at his arrest and threatened the pawnbroker with suit for damages as soon as he had been acquitted. He said that he was not a merchant and had never been a merchant. He was a seafaring man and had been ashore only a few weeks. He gave his name as Patrick Dugan and was a native of Ireland.

When the trial came off the prisoner claimed that on the date of the theft or, rather, the sale of the plunder to the pawnbroker he was not in America at all. The prosecuting attorney asked him where he was at that time. Before replying he asked the date and was reminded that the pawnbroker's entry in his cash book of the payment for the goods he had purchased was Aug. 15. The prisoner scratched his head thoughtfully, but could not remember where he was on the date named. He thought he was at sea, but was not sure. Asked if he kept no record that would prove his case, he said that he didn't even know how to write.

This statement threw doubt on his accuser's statement that he had paid himself off as a merchant in reduced circumstances and gained sympathy from the jury. Even the prosecuting attorney tried to help the poor man to get evidence to prove his alibi.

"If the captain of the Mark Hutchins was here," said the prisoner, "he could tell where I was on that day, for all that summer I was sailing with him."

"Where is the party?" asked the prisoner's counsel.

"He was here for two weeks till yesterday. I seen him in the street and tried to speak to him, but I lost him in the crowd. I seen by the papers that his ship was to sail last night when the tide served."

"What's that yer sayin'?" said one of the spectators. "I'm cap'n of the Mark Hutchins and I haven't sailed neither I sail tomorrow. One o' my crew told me that an old mesmate, Pat Dugan, was to be tried today for sellin' stolen goods. Dugan was a good man, and I thought I'd come round and see if the man bel'n' tried was him. But that feller isn't Pat Dugan. He's a fraud."

"Cap'n," cried the prisoner, almost in tears, "don't say that. I'm Pat Dugan sure enough. I've cut my beard since you saw me. Don't you remember that night when we was roundin' Cape God with the wind blowin' a gale out o' the north and fo'castle covered with ice and the main jib had to be lowered?"

"Are you the man that went out on the bowsprit at the risk of aildin' overboard and lowered that jib?"

"Why, sartin, cap'n. Don't go back on me now. I stood by you and the crew that awful night."

"I reckon you did stand by me. That was the bravest deed in my reckonin'. It was purty nigh sure death. There was nothin' but slippery ice to hold on to."

"Let the witness take the stand," said the attorney for the defense. The captain having been sworn the lawyer proceeded to question him.

"Was the prisoner a member of your crew in the summer of 19—?"

"Where was your ship on the 15th of August of that year?"

"Well, now, if you'd asked me where I was on the 1st of that month or the last of it I couldn't have told you without lookin' over the log. But I can never forget the middle of that month of that year. We run aground on the coast of Africa and couldn't get off. A party of cutthroat niggers came off in boats to murder us and take the ship before the tide rose and let us off. Pat Dugan there suggested that we fight 'em with hot steam from the boilers. He took one hose and I the other. We beat 'em off, and if it hadn't been for Pat's suggestion we'd have all been heaved overboard as dead men."

The prisoner was the center of the admiring vision of the court and spectators. He bore his honors modestly, and no one would have taken him for a hero had it not been for the witness' story. The jury acquitted him without leaving their seats.

A few days later a policeman, who had been on duty in court at the trial, saw the captain of the Mark Hutchins and the man for whom he had proved an alibi getting into an automobile. The policeman had seen the owner get out of it and, suspecting that something was wrong, stopped them. They were tried for attempted theft and sent up for a term of years. They were both old crooks.

Tell them to go ahead

You might as well have the use of that building you are planning—there is nothing to be gained by waiting. There is no prospect of prices going down for some time after the war is over. Go ahead and let your contracts.

When it comes to the roof you can make a real saving, and get a better roof by specifying

Certain-teed Roofing

CERTAIN-TEED is not cheaper because the quality is lower, but because it is a less expensive roofing to manufacture. It is better, not only because it is cheaper, but also because it is light weight, weather-tight, clean, sanitary, fire-retardant and costs practically nothing to maintain.

It is now recognized as the preferable type of roofing for office buildings, factories, hotels, stores, warehouses, garages, farm buildings etc., where durability is necessary.

CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

There are many roll roofings on the market, but only one CERTAIN-TEED. It pays to get the best. It costs no more to lay a CERTAIN-TEED roof than it does to lay a poor roof, but there is a vast difference in the wear. You can't tell the quality of a roofing by looks or feel. Your only safety is the label. Be sure that it is CERTAIN-TEED—then you are certain of quality and guaranteed satisfaction.

Certain-teed Slate-Surfaced Asphalt Shingles are supplanting wood and slate shingles for residences. They cost less, are just as good looking, wear better, won't fall off, buckle or split. They are fire-retardant, and do not have to be painted or stained.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes are the best quality paint materials, ground and mixed with mechanical accuracy. Made for all uses and in all colors. With paint, as with roofing, the name CERTAIN-TEED is a guarantee of quality and satisfaction.

WHEN GEN. HAIG TURNED THE TIDE

Coolness on Menin Road Saved the Day at Ypres.

WORKED PASSAGE TO SEA

Cooks, Servants and Orderlies Went on Firing Line and Man Who Exchanged Frying Pan For the Rifle Achieved Record For Bravery as Imperishable as That of Comrade Trained to Fight

Of the two heroic army corps—the famous "First Seven divisions"—that Lord French took to the rescue in France in that historic August of 1914 (the intrepid array, by the way, that the Kaiser called "the contemptible little English army") Haig commanded the first, which included much of the cavalry, says Isaac F. Marcosson in Everybody's Magazine.

From Mons to Ypres he was in the thick of battle; never depressed, never elated, his courage and example acting like a talisman of strength on tired and war worn troopers who fought valiantly against odds the like of which had hardly been recorded since Thermopylae. It was such a continuous tale of heroism, in which the humblest Tommy had his full share, that it is difficult to extract a single incident.

Out of all that welter of work and fight let us take one story which, almost more than any other, reveals the grit and stamina that are Sir Douglas Haig's. It was at the first battle of Ypres, when that immortal thin line of British khaki, bent but not broken, stemmed the mighty German avalanche and blocked the passage to the sea.

Outnumbered more than ten to one in some places, it fought with that desperate and dogged tenacity which has always been the inheritance of the British soldier. Every impromptu trench was a Valhalla of English gallantry. Deeds that in other wars would have stood out conspicuously were here merged into an endless succession of deathless glory.

Lord French, the commander in chief, had been down to the front line. "We can't hold out much longer," said a colonel. "It is impossible."

"I only want men who can do the impossible," replied Lord French. "You must hold." And the line held. To the right of Ypres things were going badly. The deluge of German shells was well nigh unbearable. Even the most heroic courage could not prevail against such an uneven balance of strength. The cry was for men, and yet every man was engaged.

It was on that memorable day—forever unique in the history of British arms—that cooks, servants and orderlies went up in the firing line, and the man who exchanged the frying pan for the rifle achieved a record of bravery as imperishable as his comrade long trained to fight. Still the lines shook under that mighty Teutonic assault. It seemed more than human endurance could possibly stand.

Meanwhile Sir Douglas Haig had been ordered into the shambles with the first corps. They manned the bloody breach and won for all time to come the title of the Iron Brigade, even as Haig himself in other and equally strenuous days had gained the sobriquet of "Ironside." The old metal rang true.

Now came the event which bound the silent Pifer to his men with bands of steel. For twenty-four hours the furies of battle had raged. The German bombardment was now a hideous storm of dripping death. The Prussian guard rose like magic legions out of the ground. They had just broken through one British line, and small parties of khaki troops were in retreat.

Suddenly down the Menin road, with Ypres shrouded with smoke, rode Sir Douglas Haig—trim, well groomed, serene, sitting his horse erect and unafraid, and with an escort of his own Seventeenth lancers as perfectly turned out as on peace parade. Overhead, all around carriage reigned. A thrill of spontaneous admiration swept those tired and battered troops, for the spectacle they beheld was as unlike war as night is unlike day.

The effect of that calm and confident presence acted like a cooling draught on a parched tongue. It galvanized the waning strength in the gory trenches; the retreat became an advance, and the broken line was restored. Haig had turned the tide!

I have seen that Menin road down which Haig rode with his unuttered message of faith. Two years had passed, but it was still the highway of death, for shrapnel rained all around. It was accessible to the civilian only if he was willing to take his own risk. How much more deadly was it on that day when the blue eyed man who now rules the British armies in France gave that amazing evidence of his disregard of danger!

First Step to Greatness.
