Surprise road delay

by J. BARK BARFIELD Heraid staff writer

SANFORD - Construction of the Seminole County Expressway could be delayed a year and cost nearly $10 million more if the Florida Department of Transportation requires its own construction schedule to be followed, it was confirmed Wednesday.

The Seminole County Expressway Authority was ready to begin construction of the 12-mile road between State Road 426 and U.S. Highway 17-92 in November with local financing. Then in June, the Florida Legislature set aside two years of political quibbling and approved a $1.1 billion tollroad construction program ranking the Seminole County Expressway as one of its top projects.

Bonds for the construction projects will be sold in early November, meaning construction could begin by early February, only a four-month delay. if the expressway authority was directing the

Landscaping project to make Sanford expressway centerpiece

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Sanford will be the centerpiece of the Seminole County Expressway under a 83.9 million landscaping proposal approved by expressway officials Wednesday.

To enhance the expressway as a gateway to the city, expressway consultants proposed developing the expressway-U.S. Highway 17-92 Interchange into the most vegetated section of the 1244-mile road both through preservation of natural growth and plantings. "Deep pink" flowering trees will provide contrast to the palm and oak trees in the area between Airport Boulevard and the Interchange.

Tim Jackson, of Glatting, Lopez, Kercher, Auglin, said the landscaping concept was designed to protect existing homes from the visibly intrusive expressway, preserve and accent natural vegetation and use plants both natural to central Florida and those that require the least maintenance.

in one objective statement, the landscaping proposal states a goal is to "Provide the expressway traveller a continuing scenie

Miami oceanographers hitch a ride

MIAMI - Miami oceanographers will hitch a ride on a Soviet icebreaker in a chilly joint venture to explore the bottom of the East Siberian Sea for oil pockets and seismic clues to the formation of continents

The expedition is a unique venture among the Soviet Union's only privately owned geophysical company, a Norwegian scismic company and the University of Miami's Rosenstiel School of Marine and Atmospheric Science.

The scientists are scheduled to leave from Seattle aboard the teebreaker Mezen in mid-August. They will conduct seismic surveys of the remote continental shelf that lies under the East Siberian Set and the Laptev Sea, north of the Soviet Union on the border of the Arctic Ocean.

The region is frozen year-round, except for four to six weeks In late August and September. "It'll be a nightmare." Bruce Rosendahl, dean of the Rosenstiel School, said Wednesday. "When you have to use an icebreaker, it's going to be cold. Subfreezing. Quite frosty and windy."

Restaurant owners sue over liquor tax

MADEIRA BEACH - The Florida Restaurant Association has collected almost $100,000 from its members to pay for its court fight against the state's new tax on alcohol sold in bars and restaurants.

The 2,400-member organization also reports an increase in new members, largely a result of angry bar and restaurant owners who say the tax is hurting their businesses and creating a bookkeeping nightmare.

Florida has some 40,000 restaurants and 20,000 bars.

The association's lawsuit, filed July 13 in a Leon County circuit court, claims that the tax discriminates against bars and restaurants by requiring them to levy the tax -10 cents per ounce of liquor. 10 cents per 4 ounces of wine, and 4 cents per 12 ounces of beer.

Vendors who sell packaged beverages do not have to collect the tax.

'The tax is very unfair and the bookkeeping is a nightmare." said Walter. "If the state really needed the money, why didn't they put an excise tax on the bottle instead of the drink?"

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE Martinez opens ethics initiative

By MICHAEL MOLINE United Press International

TALLAHASSEE - Gov. Bob Martinez created a bi-partisan task force Wednesday to draft and marshal public support for ethics reforms that were spurned by the Legislature earlier this year.

The panel will conduct public hearings around Florida and devise a reform package for the Legislature's November organizational session, Martinez said.

The panel will consider limiting or banning gifts and honoraria to public officials, broadening the jurisdiction of the Ethics Commission and lifting the veil of confidentiality from ethics complaints. Martinez said.

"I think the people of Florida want it." he said during a news conference. "A large number of the elected officials want it. The question is, when is it to be done?"

I think the people of Florida want it. A large number of the elected officials want it. The question is, when is it to be done?

-Gov. Bob Martinez

This year the Legislature did vote to send the voters a proposed constitutional amendment extending Florida's open meetings laws to all legislative meetings. Lawmakers also banned the solicitation of gifts by public officials.

Those votes followed news reports about officials shaking down lobbyists to pay for parties, vacations and other favors. One beneficiary of the practice was Lt. Gov. Bobby Brantley.

However, proposals to ban or limit gifts, i ban campaign fundraising during the 60 day legislative session, and to give the Ethics Commission broader power to in vestigate public officials were quietly killed.

"Somewhere along the way, they go sidetracked." Martinez said.

Ethics Commission Chairman Richard Gilbert resigned to protest the Legislature's inaction. He was tapped by Martinez to hear the new state task force.

Other members are Secretary of State Jin Smith, former state Supreme Court Justice Alan Sundberg, inc ming American Ba Association President Talbot "Sandy" D'Alemberte, former lawmaker and ethics commissioner Don Reed and former ethics chairman Mark Herron.

Gilbert said the main job of the task force will be to build public support for reforms.

"The people will force the Legislature to make changes," he said.

Brother says police coaxed confession

United Press International

FORT MYERS A man on trial in the torture slaying of his stepson was "probably exausted and coaxed" by authorities into confessing he repeatedly plunged the boy headfirst into a toilet, the man's brother testified Wednesday.

Defense attorneys began their case a day after Sheryl McGee Coe, the wife of Thomas Coe, 23, testified her husband brutally abused Bradley McGee, 2, for weeks before the toddler's death. The six-man, six-woman jury also heard Coe's taped confession.

"I know that he put it on the tape," said Thomas Coe's brother, Jerry. "But I also know that he was probably exhausted and coaxed on by both the state and the (Polk County) Sheriff's Department.

"I don't think it's true at all, sir." Jerry Coe told prosecutor John Aguero. He told jurors Bradley seemed to be more frightened of his 21-year-old mother than of his father.

"(Bradley) was just hanging all over Tom and was afraid of Sheryl." Jerry Coc said. "Sheryl was screaming at him and hollering at him for him to come over there. But the kid was afraid of Sheryl, definitely."

"My opinion is, and this is strictly my opinion, is that he for Bradley more than she did," Coe said.

Officials sold on gigantic development

United Press International

GREEN COVE SPRINGS - State and local officials are excited about what they say will be the largest planned development ever built in Florida, a 90-square-mile project to build seven "urban villages.

Union Camp Corp. is planning the 58,000-acre development - dubbed "The Villages of Seminole" - for Clay and Putnam counties in northeast Florida, much of which will remain as undeveloped wetlands and forests.

State officials and planners say it's a model for growth management, allowing residents to walk to shops and work in villages surrounded by trees.

"It's probably the most unique development Florida has ever seen." said Brian Teeple, executive director of the Northeast Florida Regional Planning Council.

Economic developers in the two counties are thrilled with the preliminary plans. which show the first phase of development. in an area south of Green Cove Springs. Orien Pass, executive director of Clay County's Economic Development Council. called the project "fantastic."

Preliminary plans given to the state

Department of Community Affairs by the paper company. Union Camp, show seven self-contained and planned villages, each with its own shops, industries and housing. said Tom Beek, chairman of the DCA's Bureau of state planning.

In addition to homes, shops and industry. the plan calls for agricultural areas. Teeples said. And he said the seven villages will always be surrounded by trees.

The project would not be allowed to damage any wetlands, and it would have to provide protection of threatened or endangered plants and animals. The DCA has final approval over the plan.

Sanford man declares education candidacy

By MICHAEL MOLINE United Press International

TALLAHASSEE - Claude Kirk, the former governor and perennial candidate now running for state education commissloner, gave incumbent Betty Castor straight Fs Wednesday for her performance in the job.

Kirk's "report card" for Castor cited Florida's graduation rate of 58 percent, the drop-out rate of 42 percent, a 7-point drop in scores on the Scholatic Aptitude Test, and a 25-percent "increase in political cronies."

Kirk said the "cronics" are represented by 374 new employees in the Department of Education.

It is a race in which a Sanford man, Amelika D. Geuka, is also a candidate.

Geuka, the first black candidate to run for the top spot inthe Department of Education is one of three Republicans in the race. However, he has failed to win the support of his party.

Geuka, the former state director of the Division of Examination and Licensure for the Department of Professional Regulation estimates he has about $1,500 in his campaign account after paying the $5,500 qualifying fee to enter the race.

Kirk unveiled the report card in the playground of the school operated by Florida A&M Uniucation high-rise building as his backdrop.

He said the building represented a "bloated bureaucracy" that has seen a 40-percent increase in funding, to the current level of $6.6 billion, during Castor's term.

Kirk said his statistics were from the federal government. but Castor spokesman David Voss said the numbers are simply wrong.

Voss said more accurate numbers compiled by the state's more sophisticated data collection system show a 71 percent graduation rate and a 7.5 percent dropout rate.

"He's counting dead kids as dropouts," Voss said. "That's such a disservice to the public."

Kirk was the first Republican elected governor of Florida since Reconstruction, serving a single. turbulent term between 1967 and 1971. He has run for a number of different state posts in recent years under numerous party labels.

Until last week, he was a candidate for the GOP nomination for governor, but switched races in a show of unity.

He insisted he is serious about his current campaign.

"Obviously, I've paid the filing : fee," he said. "You don't attack somebody unless you're serious about winning.

ORLANDO - Rep. Bill McCollum. R-Fla., has paid his top congressional aide $50,000 in political consulting lees so far this year while the aide was working full time. drawing a federal salary of $82,500.

McCollum said the money, part of $105,000 in political funds paid to Vaughn Forrest over the past three years, was for political work done alter hours, on weekends and holidays.

Most members of Congress who use congressional statiers on their re-election campaigns have them take leaves of absence or federal pay cuts before adding them to campaign payrolls.

But McCollum and Forrest told The Orlando Sentinel in a story published

Wednesday that there were no plans for Forrest to do either "It's a consulting fee - not a hands-on ing his sixth term this fall, and for the first time since 1982, he faces opposition. Orlando salesman Bob Fletcher, a Democrat making his first bid for public office.

McCollum's re-election campaign paid Forrest $30,000 on April 3 and $20,000 on June 14, according to reports filed with the Federal Election Commission.

Last year, a non-election year, the campaign paid him $25,000, and in 1988, when McCollum won re-election without opposition. it paid him $30,000. Rep. Charles Bennett, D-Fla., who wrote

Congress' first ethics legislation in the 1960s, said if his top congressional aide were to perform campaign work, he would "absolutely take him off the payroll."

"I think people would wonder how much time he is putting in doing his job in my congressional office when he is doing the campaign politically," said Bennett,

Forrest had asked for the $50,000 early in the 1990 campaign because "he had a wife and child on the way." said McCollum.

Forrest has been a key political operative since McCollum's surprise election to Congress in 1980. He joined McCollum's congressional staff the following year and has been paid political consulting fees every year since 1982 for which records are available, congressional and election records show

SUBSCRIPTION RATE:

EDITORIALS Cable competition

Deregulation does not always promote competition, as cable television subscribers have learned to their sorrow.

Since the cable industry was deregulated in January 1967, basic subscription rates have risen 29 percent nationwide. Some communities have experienced rate increases of more than 100 percent. And service has suffered.

Since deregulation, cable companies that overcharge or provide poor service cannot be held legally accountable to consumers, because each company has a monopoly in its service area.

A cable re-regulation bill now pending in the Senate is being touted as providing relief for subscribers. But the House version of the bill offers consumers better protection. And both bills would open up competition from new technologies.

The Senate bill would set rates for basic cable service, and regulate rate increases on "premium" programming. But there are giant loopholes: The law would leave cable companies a window of 60 days after the law is passed to raise rates as much as they like. Consumers could not challenge rates until the operators raised them again, after the 60-day grace period. And consumers would have to prove that the rates were "significantly excessive."

The House bill is more likely to lead to rate rollbacks in the foresceable future. It allows consumers to challenge rates right away, and only requires them to prove that charges are "unreasonably" high.

The cable operators are much more worried about provision in both bills that would require programmers like HBO to sell their programming to direct broadcast satellite and wireless cable companies, which hope to . compete with cable. Right now, cable operators have the exclusive right to show cable programming.

When the Reagan administration pushed to end regulation in 1984, it argued that deregulation would increase competition. But it didn't, because the same corporations that own cable programmers also own cable operators - so any financial gains obtained by selling their programming to competing technologies would be offset by a loss in cable subscribers.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Conservatives: prepare for battle

President Bush's nomination of Judge David Souter to replace retiring Justice William Brennan makes conservative control of the Supreme Court almost inevitable at last.

It has been nearly a quarter of a century since the American people tired of liberalism. But as Robert Whitaker noted, the Supreme Court is traditionally "the last bastion of dying establishments." The liberals, thanks in large part to Justice Brennan, have managed to continue imposing many of their views on a reluctant nation, by discovering them hidden in previously unsuspected clauses of the Constitution.

With any luck, that sort of nonsense is about to end. But it probably won't end without a fight.

In the battle over Judge Robert Bork's scholar), a "strict nomination by President Reagan, Senators constructionist," and Edward Kennedy, Howard Metsenbaum and Joseph Biden dragged the once-dignified process of senatorial advice and consent squarely into the political pit. and there it will fester until higher-quality men and women are elected to the U.S. Senate.

Even if those experienced mud-gunners were disposed to let Judge Souter take his sent without undue delay, the screaming battalions of the abortion activists and their liberal allies wouldn't enough high-octane billingagate. They have already decided to block

Judge Souter, and they can probably induce the Benate's liberals to resist his confirmation. On the evidence to date, there is every reason to believe that Judge Souter is a brilliant judge (he was, for one thing, a Rhodes a solid, sound judicial conservative. That is quite enough to rouse the venom of the Senate liberals.

As the first nominee over the parapet, he will very probably be treated to the worst down-and-dirty tranhing that the fertile minds of Kennedy. Metzenbaum, Biden and their leftist staffs can devise. It may turn out (as it did in the case of let them. They have learned, or think they have Chief Justice William Rehnquist) that he was a learned, that a court nominee, no matter how poll-watcher for Goldwater in 1964 and got into a well qualified, can be defeated if subjected to quartel with a black Democrat. He may have been seen spitting on the sidewalk outside an ERA rally. Somebody may be found who will testify, truthfully or otherwise, that he once naw the judge, as an undergraduate at Harvard, smoking a marijuana cigarette. With that much stanulus, Democrata who know better, like Howell Heflin of Alabama, will probably sell out again to their black constituen-cies. Such near-beer Republicans as Arlen Specier of Pennsylvania will once more follow their supple consciences down the well-worn path of tiberalism. Across the land, liberal megaphones tike Norman Lear's People for the American Way will indulge (again) in techniques that even Kennedy and Metsenbaum can't bring themselves to use.

I don't envy Judge Souter his forthcoming ordeal, or predict his confirmation. Sheer political dishonesty has its victories, no less renowned than war's.

This is, however, a game that President Bush is bound to win in the long run - just as President Reagan won the last one by ultimately nominat-ing Justice Anthony Kennedy, who has proved, if anything, slightly more conservative than Judge Bork might neve been.

I also know there are a larger number of vets here in this area than anywhere else in Fla. walking in my shoes. From my door in Sanford, Fla. to the VA Hospital in Gainesville, it is 131 miles one way. I have made as many as two trips in one week. All of my appointments are 8:00 a.m. and my auto insurance company will not insure me for night driving. I am 78 years young. Rated service connected 50% to 100%. The appointments are for exposure survey data update evaluation. I am never out of the hospital until late afternoon.

Yes, we atomic veterans have known for 45 years of a coverup of four records by several departments of the federal government. For 45 years the government lied to everyone until 7/10/90 about radiation perils. Government admits leaks at atomic bomb plants - big headlines. "President Signs Radiation Bill," What good has it done? All veterans need fair share. Drop-by-drop, like Chinese water torture, we have been in a living hell waiting for today's crop of politcians to let need overcome greed. I blame inequities, in part, on Congress' refusal to design a fairer system. Too often pork barrel politics decide who gets what or who kills the deal - bottom line is greed.

DAVID S. BRODER Independence is not easy

KIEV -- "When I was six. I knew all that I know now that I am 60."

The man who told me that is the man some admir is are calling the Lech Walesa of the Ukraine. His name is Mykhailo Horyn, and with his younger brother, Bohdan, he supplies the great public passion and rudimentary political skill which has made Rukh - the alliance of Ukrainian independence groups - a growing force in this second-largest Soviet republic.

Bohdan Hornyn is the leader of the new Republican Party, the most militant element in Rukh. in Lvov, the western Ukrainian city where independence senitment is strongest. Mykhailo Hornyn is the chairman of the Rukh secretariat, the coordinating committee for the whole republic. Both are members of the first freely elected Ukrainian parliament, now in session here.

In both its strengths and its weaknesses. Rukh is symptomatic of the independence movements that have emerged in the past six months to threaten fragmentation of the Soviet Union. Its idealism and its naivete spell both hope and danger.

Mykhailo Horyn and I were seated at a bare table in the shabby complex of offices. downhill from the parliament building, where Rukh has its headquarters. It is a warren of unlighted corridors and uneven floors. A visitor must dodge around a long-abandoned refrigerator in the hallway and ignore the stench from a broken tollet upstairs.

I had asked Horyn when Ukrainian in-dependence had become his goal, and he answered, "When I was born." His parents had been in the Ukrainian resistance movement. which fought first the Nazis and then the Russians. They were deported to Siberia for their actions.

The brothers are both short and stocky, with thick hair and bristling moustaches - gray for Mykhailo and black for Bohdan, who is seven years younger. Their most striking features are the burning eyes of the true believer. I had met Bohdan Horyn a night earlier, as the last light faded in a room of the Writers' Union. Long after the rest of his face had faded into shadows, his bright eyes shone in the gathering darkness.

He told how he and his brother had been jailed by Brezhnev, but had emerged in the late Seventies as leaders of the Helsinki Watch human-rights group in the Ukraine. The Republican Party, founded only last April, has its organizational roots in Helsinki Watch.

The Horyn brothers are uncompromising. For them, the Soviet Union is "the empire" and Mikhail Gorbachev is simply the man trying to halt its inevitable decline. "In order to keep power, the imperialists talk of a new foundation, but we completely reject such talk." Bohdan Horyn said.

They are equally uncompromising in their demands. "To me," Mykahilo Horyn said. 'sovereignty means an independent Ukraine. with our own army, currency and banking system. And complete control of our own destiny." Rukh has its skep tica - and its critics. The editor of Kiev's largest newspaper, a man who regularly finds fault with the communist regime. says that an immediate move for independence in the Ukraine "would produce civil war." Even Rukh partisans concede they have much less support in Kiev and the eastern Ukraine than in the western Ukraine where the Horyns were raised. Velodja Pastukhov, a political scientist now working in Moscow, notes that 40 percent of the republic's population is non-Ukrainian. He argues that large numbers of Russians and Jews in the Ukraine have grave misgivings about Rukh's brand of nationalism.

Its idealism

spell both hope and

The Jewish question is a particularly sensitive one for Rukh leaders, given the area's history of anti-Jewish pograms. Mykhailo Horyn strtessed to me that Rukh had several Jews in its leadership, was establishing three Jewish cultural centers in Kiev, had issued three statements decrying anti-semitism and had sent a prominent Jewish psychiatrist from Kiev as its first unofficial "envoy" to the West.

But a Ukrainian geography teacher I met while doing random on-the-street interviews in Moscow said that while he admired Rukh's ideals. "I fear the people who have come under its banner." Since Rukh came to power in his home city, he said, anti-semitic slogans have been scrawled on the walls of the elevator in his apartment building. "and my children for the first time are afraid."

As worrisome to many, including the editor and the political scientist, is the blithe assumption the Horyns and other Rukh leaders make: that once independence is achieved, productivity will increase, investments will arrive from abroad and prosperity will quickly follow.

The Rukh leadership is heavy with heroes of past imprisonment, artists and intellectuals. But it is light on economists and engineers. Governmental experience is inevitably lacking among these non-Communists.

Washington public interest law group. filed the suit in 1986. The defendants include acveral major and minor players in the Iran-contra scandal. Not trusting the American criminal justice system to bring the players to account, Avirgan and Honey such them personally under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act. known as RICO.

The suit alleges that the Iran-contra supply operation amounted to organized crime involving drugs, guns and murder. The claims revolve around a 1964 attempt to kill maverick Nicaraguan contra leader Eden Pastora at a press conference in Nicaragua. A man posing as a journalist carried a bomb into the press conference. Pastora survived, but four people were killed and Avirgan and Honey were among the injured.

At the time. Pastora was an outspoken critic of the main contra group and the Central Intelligence Agency had warned him to join those contras. The Avirgan and Honey lawsuit is based on the strong racketeering law that Congress is about to dilute.

(Seminole County congressman) Bill Mc-Collum, R-Winter Park, is a co-sponsor of the changes and a big supporter of making them retroactive to cover suits already in the courts. He also stands to take some heat from the Avirgan and Honey lawsuit, which was dismissed once but is now on appeal.

Oliver North recorded in his notebooks that in 1985 McCollum and three other members of Congress were briefed by Robert McFarlane on the status of the contras. They talked about a plan that included, "$25-$50 M. (million), third country support and CIA intel (intelligence)"... McCollum now claims the meeting was about a "lobbying effort" to get Congress to restore aid to the contras.

As a member of the congressional Irancontra Committee that later investigated North's operation, McCollum signed a minority report finding that North did not break the law.

McCollum's top aid, Vaughn Forrest, has also been linked to the network that the Avirgan and Honey suit seeks to expose. In a deposition in that suit, one of North's couriers confirmed that Forrest knew John Hull, one of the defendants in the racketeering suit.

Hull is an American who lived on a ranch in Costa Rica in the mid-1980s and used the airstrips on his ranch, near the Nicaraguan border, to supply the contras.

On the night that Pastora was bombed. Forrest was with Hull at one of Hull's safe houses in Costa Rica. Hull has since been charged with murder in Costa Rica for his alleged role in the bombing. He now lives on a farm in Indiana while the United States and Costa Rica debate his extradition.

North's notes show that a U.S. official briefed him on Pastora's whereabouts four days before the bombing.

project. said Geraid Brinton, executive director of the authority.

But Brinton said Wednesday DOT officials believe even if the authority does direct the construction, it must follow DOT rules. Under" those rules, construction bids can't be sought until all the land is acquired. Expressway rules would allow bids to be sought while land purchases are being completed. The added time to complete land purchases under DOT rules could delay the opening of the expressway from Dec. 15, 1992 to Nov. 15, 1993. The costs of the expressway would escalate from $181.5 million to $191 million during the 11 months, Brinton said.

Brinton said under expressway regulations, if the the owner of land needed for the road disputes the authority's offer, the authority can condemn the land and receive title to it with the final cost decided afterwards either through negotiation or a condemnation hearing.

Under expressway authority rules, the land needed for the road will be condemned in January and construction could begin that month, Brinton said. Bids were already sought in May and Brinton said after the Legisliture applied the tollroad construction program, prospective contractors were told to delay submission of their bids until they are notified. But Brinton said DOT rules require the land buys to be complete, including final payment, before the project can be advertised and construction can start. Under DOT rules, land buys wouldn't be complete until August 1991, after a four-month bid advertisement and review process, expressway construc-tion wouldn't begin until Nov. 1991, a year after the authority originally planned to begin construction.

The issue has created concern with the Florida Transportation Commission, the governor's appointed board charged with developing policies for the state's transportation needs.

David Kerr, commission chairman, said the commission will hold a public hearing in Tallhassee Aug. 9 to determine the impact of authority vs. DOT

"Our concern is for the pro-gram." Kerr said. "We advocated the tollroad program from the very beginning and we want to see the program becomes a reality in as expeditious and cost-effective manner possible."

Kerr said the Seminole County Expressway and a Tampa expressway proposal are the first projects in the state to be affected by the DDT policy and will serve as case studies for the entire $1.1 billion road-building program.

His attorneys contend the state's electric chair is broken and would impose cruel and unusual punishment.

Bertolotti's stay is the fourth granted by the appeals court since the May execution of Jesse Tafero, who was condemned for killing two law enforcement officers. Flames shot from the chair's headpiece and it took three surges of electricity to complete the execution.

Bertolotti was sentenced for the Sept. 27, 1983 murder of Carol Ward. Court records say he approached her and asked permission to use her telephone. then after she let him inside her house he robbed her of $30 and stabbed her 14 times.

ARLINGTON, Tex. - Nolan Ryan failed in his bid for his 300th win Wednesday night, but the Texas Rangers pulled out a 8-7 victory over the New York Yanksen on Raisel Palmeiro's two-run homer in the 11th inning. Ryan left the game after eight innings trailing 7-4, but averted the loss when Texas scored three in the ninth and won in the 11th.

Julio Franco grounded a on-e-out single of Mark Leiter, who lost his first major-league decision. Palemetro then lined a 2-0 pitch over the right-field fence to end a three-hour. 56minute game. Palmeiro's 11th homer made a winner of Kenny Rogers, 4-5, who pitched three innings of one-hit relief, striking out elx.

Ryan, the third of six pitchers since 1980 to fail in their first attempt at 300 wins, is scheduled to make his next try at becoming the 20th 300-game winner either Monday or Tuesday when the Rangers visit Milwaukee.

After a sharp beginning only seven balls in 48 pitches over the first three innings - the 43-year-old faltered in the middie three when he threw 29 strikes and 23 balls to disapppoint the eighth largest crowd ever to see a game in Arlington Stadium, 41.954.

Ryan allowed seven runs on nine hits, walked three and struck out nine over eight innings. The all-time strikeout king, Ryan threw nearly 141 pitches in a valiant bid to become the first 300-game winner since Don Sutton in 1986. His fastball was clocked at 93 miles per hour in the eighth inning, and his high was 95 mph in the first.

Solo homers by rookie Kevin Maas and Roberto Kelly in the fourth inning put New York ahead 3-2, and Bob Geren belted a two-run shot in the eighth to make it 7-3.

Police are banner away for stranded motorists

DEAR ADDY: My grandson. Greg. now 21 years old. devel-oped fluid on the brain at the age of 14. Since that time, he's had several operations. Last April, while Greg was at the hospital recovering from the last operation, he took a turn for the worse during the night. I was called and told that his condition was critical.

iny friend barbara overed to drive me to the hospital. En route, her car broke down on the highway. Fortunately, she had a "Call Police" banner in the glove compartment of her car. No more than five minutes passed from the time we displayed the banner until a state trooper arrived!

What a happy coincidence: Last October, I read about those "Call Police" banners in your column and sent for 50 of them to give to friends and relatives as Christmas gifts. Barbara's "Call Police" banner had been a gift from me! Little did I know that I'd be the one to benefit from it. The trooper told us that numerous cars have telephones these days, which explains why the response to the banner was so immediate.

Greg's operation was successful, thank God, and he graduated from Boston College on May 21,1990. Thanks Abby. DEBORAH J. TOCCO, READING, MASS.

DEAR DEBORAH: Thank you for sharing your experience with me so that I can remind others to order "Call Police" banners. To order, write to: W.C.I.L.

DEAR ABBY: I am the father of a beautiful 2-year-old daugh-ter. I enjoy taking her out for breakiast once a week for some special "one-on-one" time with her daddy. The problem arises (inevitably) when one of us has to go to the restroom.

I wouldn't think of leaving her alone at the table when I go, not in this day and age when there are nuts who would grab a child in a minute. But, with her at age 2. I'm not sure it's cool to take her into the men's room with me, either.

When she has to go "potty," I am unsure of which restroom she belongs in. (Believe me. Abby, I have had some strange looks from women entering the restroom as I am leaving it with my little girl in tow.)

So, on behalf of all of us fathers. I am asking you: What is the safest and most proper way to deal with this problem?

SEATTLE FATHER DEAR SEATTLE FATHER: Little boys are routinely taken into ladies' rooms by their mothers, so why shouldn't little girls be taken into men's rooms by their fathers? (Better a small girl in a men's room than a grown man in a ladies' room!

Obviously, if there is a stall with a door in the men's restroom, that is the one you should choose
