

IMPORTANT MEETING HELD AT JACKSONVILLE STANDARDIZING CRATES

SANFORD MEN WERE THERE IN FORCE

The meeting in Jacksonville last Wednesday and Thursday of the railroads, crate manufacturers and growers of the state has without doubt resulted in more good than in all previous meetings combined.

One thing has been accomplished at least and that is the standardization of crates and hampers. From the Sanford section the growers and shippers were well represented by Rex Packard, president and D. C. Marlowe secretary-treasurer, of the Sanford Truck Grower, Inc., C. E. Henry of Weinert & Co., F. W. Talbot for John Russell, S. O. Chase and W. A. Lester, for Chase & Co. and B. J. Starling.

The railroad were very favorable to the grower. In that the grower stood out for better crate and hamper, while it was alleged by several present that the mill men generally did not wish to improve the carrying qualities of the containers. During the session it was observed by the growers that at the meeting in New York of the crate manufacturers and railroads, the word "vener" was used exclusively where specifications for the manufacture of crates was concerned. This was challenged by the growers generally and it was decided that the words "or newed" should be used wherever the vener crates were mentioned. This move gives the grower the option of using either venerated or sawed crates, provided they live up to specifications to be provided them later.

There is but little change in crate and hamper specifications as is now being used in Sanford. The 10 inch celery crate will be used for the coming season and in ordering new crates 10 inch size must be specified. This however does not prohibit growers who have 12 inch crates on hand from using them. At the request of the Sanford Truck Growers, Inc., and the Manatee Growers Association a light was given Messrs. Packard and Hutchins to file specifications for a heavier celery crate, one with corner post 1 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches, with only one board or slat across the top. Arrangements will be made to experiment with this new crate and if found satisfactory its general adoption will take place in July, 1919. The new crate is on the order of the California crate and was a fine record U. S. Bureau of Markets.

Letting hampers with or without wire top fasteners may be used this season. However a lettuce crate will be used whose dimensions will be 7 1/2 x 18 x 22 inches inside measurement. The crate is to be cleated all around with no fasteners on the center cleats but with two 3d cement coated nails in the end of each side slat. There is also to be used a plain lettuce crate built along similar lines of the other, but not cleated. The standard bushel crate for potatoes, cucumbers, onions, etc., will also be effective, as will loading these commodities in standard hampers. Pepper crates will be standard as used and cleated.

In the loading regulations, cucumbers and all commodities in hampers of a heavy weight must be loaded on end, top of hamper and bottom to bottom and must be loaded three high in car. Sanford growers opposed this method of loading for lettuce and similar light commodities, such as casserole, romaine, etc., and their protest was granted, which means that the old method of loading lettuce, etc., on sides will be continued.

In shipping cabbage, either the "Norfolk" or "Florida" cabbage barrel crate may be used, the dimensions of either being 12 x 18 x 33 inches, inside measurements. The Florida crate has a solid panel head with three wide slats on each side, while the Norfolk crate has a three slat head and four narrow slats on either side and it is contended that either side and it is contended that the Norfolk crate is preferable because of its better ventilation qualities.

The tug of war came between the railroads and citrus fruit growers on the "bulge pack" the railroads being positively set against the bulge pack. However, on Thursday when the citrus growers, led by Mr. Stewart, general manager of the Florida Citrus Exchange, got a square chance at the national committee, who were the final say in authority, the growers won out and until further notice, in packing fruit, the "bulge" on oranges shall not be greater than 1 1/2 inches above the center head and on grapefruit not more than 2 1/2 inches above the center head. This compromise was approved by all growers present and the compromise was instigated by Mr. S. O. Chase, who advocated the "give and take" method in the matter.

In the matter of refrigeration and ventilation, the carriers asked that the growers and shippers say under what conditions and temperature vents or plugs should be opened or closed while car was in transit; it was also suggested that shippers themselves, close drain-pipes on refrigerator cars. This brought a protest from the Sanford Truck Growers and the Manatee Growers Association, introduced by D. C. Marlowe, on the ground that drain pipes, vents and plugs were a device on the equipment of the carrier that the average grower knew nothing about, and that further it was the duty of the carrier handling the growers' produce to care for methods of ventilation and refrigeration because of their expert knowledge of such things. It was agreed to discuss the matter and have the growers and shippers express themselves, but not authoritatively and the matter was ended by referring the matter to Mr. Ramsey of the Bureau of Markets for a ruling. This referred to vegetables only, the Citrus Exchange agreeing to specific rules in a sense, because of their experience with fruit refrigeration and ventilation.

The two days spent in attendance at this meeting was well worth the time and the growers in general will undoubtedly appreciate the interest manifested in the matter by those attending from this section.

Farmers' Furloughs

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—Many inquiries have been made by Florida farmers to Congressmen Sears of Kissimmee and Drane of Lakeland and to Senators Park Trammell and Duncan U. Fletcher, regarding how they should proceed to get soldiers released from the training camps to help harvest the crops.

In reply to these inquiries the war department has prepared this reply as to "the procedure to be followed in securing agricultural furloughs:

"The soldier himself may make application to his commanding officer for permission to return to the farm, or his relatives (or the person interested) may make application for his return on forms provided for that purpose, through the local board where the man is registered. The local board, after approving the application will forward it to the commanding officer of the camp where the soldier is stationed. If approved by the commanding officer, he will issue the necessary furlough order, directing that the man be returned to agriculture."

Shooting at Monroe

J. A. Moffat was shot near his home at Monroe Saturday by Henry Tomalo, a French Canadian who has been employed by Mr. Moffat. The men were engaged in conversation over some details concerning the farm and as Mr. Moffat turned to leave Tomalo pulled a pistol and shot him in the shoulder the bullet afterward being extracted by Dr. Denton who rendered medical aid and Mr. Moffat is now on the road to recovery. Tomalo was promptly jailed by the sheriff's office and at a preliminary hearing before Judge Housholder was bound over to circuit court. There is but little doubt in the minds of those who know him that Tomalo is demented, as he had been in trouble before and as he had been in trouble against Mr. Moffat and no grudge against Mr. Moffat and they had no trouble of any kind there was no excuse for the shooting.

GERMANY IS SCARED BY EVENTS DRAFT LAW THIS MONTH MEANS MANY

AMERICA'S ENTRY AND ALLIED SUCCESS TOO MUCH MEN OF AGE BETWEEN JUNE 5 AND AUG. 24

London, Eng., Aug. 16.—Germany is scared white. She's scared first of all, over the turn of things on the western front; over the thousands of Americans regularly outfitting her; over the hundreds of thousands of Americans waiting to get into the line; over the millions of other Americans "on the way."

This information comes from an allied source whose business it is to know conditions in the enemy countries.

She's frightened about Austria. She doesn't know what moment Austria may blow up. She knows what is known and conceded in official allied sources—that the Austrian economic situation is worse now than it has been since the opening of the war, and the people are bolder.

She's frightened about Russia. Allied warships and American troops up north have puffed out her hope of getting her hands on the hundreds of thousands of tons of military stores at Archangel, there since the revolution; she can't take a step toward Petrograd or the northern railway lest these allied forces swoop south; and for all she knows they may be going to swoop south without waiting for that menace she can't spare men from the west front, and armed intervention by Japan and the allies in Siberia is a fact.

She's scared over the bombing raids the allies now make almost at will over her munition centers and fortified towns along the Rhine; she fears to think of the effect of these raids at home as the people grow more and more frightened.

She is frightened over the flat failure of the peace feelers she constantly sends out through scores of different routes; she expected her continued blows at the west front this summer would put the allied powers in a "receptive mood."

She is frightened over the failure of the submarines; as against her boast that the U-boat would bar American troops from Europe, the Yankees are coming over—thousands of them each week—and the losses through sinkings are less than any of the allies had dared hope.

She is scared over her after-war prospects, being constantly warned in public by her own thinking men

Pretty Home Wedding

A wedding of much interest to friends of the family was that of Mr. Eunice Douglas Smith, whose marriage to Professor Robert Fritz Ziegler, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at one o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Douglas on West Third street.

Rev. Dr. Hibern of the Methodist church officiated, using the beautiful and impressive ring ceremony. The wedding took place in the attractive living room which was lovely with quantities of summer flowers, tastefully arranged with ferns, in bowls and vases.

The bride was charming in her traveling suit of tan broadcloth with which was worn tan shoes and stockings and a chic little hat of velvet. A corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds finished the becoming costume.

The little daughter of the bride, Virginia attended her mother as flower girl and was a dainty figure of childhood in a white lingerie frock embroidered in pink silk and wearing pink ribbons.

Mrs. Ziegler is the only daughter of Mrs. Mary Douglas, an attractive and charming young matron whose home is in Macon, Ga.

Prof. Ziegler is also from Macon, Ga., where he is secretary of the Macon Y. M. C. A.

Prof. and Mrs. Ziegler left immediately after the ceremony for Columbia, S. C., where the honeymoon will be spent, after which they will return to Macon, Ga., and reside at the Y. M. C. A.

Lieut. Lewis Here

Lieut. Norris Lewis is home from Camp Grant, Illinois, where he has been taking intensive training in the officers training school and where he passed a successful examination and was appointed second lieutenant. Norris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Lewis of this city and is a graduate of Florida University. After his graduation he went to the training camp at Grant and has been working hard ever since with the fine result noted above. His many friends here and elsewhere will be glad to hear of his success and he will make Uncle Sam a good man wherever he is placed.

DRIVE PUTS ENTIRE GERMAN LINE IN PERIL

Launching an extensive local attack the French have broken through the German positions along the vital sector connecting the Marne and Picardy battlefields. This attack was over a front of approximately ten miles, from near Carlepoint, east of the Oise to Fontenoy on the Aisne about six miles west of Soissons.

It is officially reported an advance to an average depth of 1-3 miles was made.

A total of 1,700 prisoners is reported from Paris. It is reported from London an extreme penetration of two miles has been made. The villages of Nuvron Vringre and Nampcel have been captured and the French have reached the southern edge of the ravine and Andugne-court which was between Nampcel and Nuvron Vringre.

Since the situation in Picardy and along the Vesle seemed to be approaching a deadlock approaching the old trench warfare of the first two years of the war, an attack in the sector between the Aisne and the Oise has been expected. This line is vital to German positions on each side of it. Should it be broken, the whole German defensive scheme would be thrown out of joint.

While the front over which the attack was launched was short, compared with the Marne and Picardy drive, the success attained appear to point to a possibility of Field Marshal Foch breaking the enemy's resistance between the Oise and the Aisne and elsewhere.

The region in which the attack was made is quite rough and would seem to be well adapted for defensive warfare. It is intersected by ravines of some depth and has some high wooded ridges here and there. It is an extension of the hilly district along the Oise, where savage fighting has been going on for the last week.

Along the Picardy battlefield there have been local actions, in which 400 prisoners were taken by the French. London reports that the French have captured St. Mard and Beauvignes near Roye, thus increasing the peril of that bastion of the German line west of the Somme. German attacks in the Flanders sector have been repulsed.

In the Merville sector the British have made a new advance, probably following up the Germans, who are evacuating their positions, although the fighting in the west has slackened, the initiative remains in the allied hands. North and south of the Somme they still maintain pressure on Roye, but the fighting is not as heavy as last week, when the French moved forward to within a mile and one quarter of Roye.

Northwest of Roye the British have made progress between Chilly and Fransart, while south of the town the French have taken 400 prisoners in spirited local actions south of Beauvignes. German efforts to hold the line in the sector between Roye and Laasigny have been challenged by the French with success. Since the general fighting in Picardy died down the French have been pushing relentlessly northwestward between Roye and Laasigny with the evident purpose of outflanking both positions. The British have been pressed back in violent combats as a salient given in here might easily prove disastrous for the enemy defense's systems on the present line.

From Balleuil on the northern side of the Lys salient to the south near Vaux Berquin the Germans have been pressed back steadily and now apparently have forced them off this section. The latest British gain was on a front of four miles between Vaux Berquin and Balleuil. They also captured Outtersteen, east of Merris, which probably marks the maximum progress in this region in the last week. South of the Balleuil-Vaux Berquin road the terrain slopes gradually to the valley of the Lys, on the eastern bank of which it rises again. Apparently the Germans have been pushed across the road.

"THE ROSE OF BLOOD"

Theda Bara in "The Rose of Blood" at the Star Theatre Monday

Theda Bara the eminent William Fox screen star who has just completed a new William Fox picture "The Rose of Blood" makes some very interesting disclosures about "love piracy" a phase of human nature to which she has given a great deal of study and research.

"The Love Pirate is no fanciful figure of speech" said Miss Bara. "She is a fascinating reality. Scientific and social observers definitely have fixed the type. A clever Frenchman has visualized her—embodied many beautiful buccanniers in a single woman—so that you may note her eight her sinuous proportions the color of her eyes and hair shape of nose chin and mouth and all of her characteristics of manner and speech. Painters have thus embodied a personality with more or less of the sentimental feeling of light and color; but this is a rendition based wholly on observation and scientific data.

Character of the Love Pirate "The love pirate is the direct result of the social conditions of today. She may either lack what we consider certain essentials of character or be exceedingly strong in higher attributes.

"In other words" continued Miss Bara "she is likely to be either a weak pleasure loving woman or a woman of exceeding strength of character—a sort of over-woman whose creed is 'whatever I desire is right.' The widening emancipation of woman as an individual entity is largely responsible for this type—the Cleopatra of brains and resource as well as human—and inhuman—feeling."

MABEL NORMAND Star in Goldwyn Pictures At the Star Theatre Friday in "Dodging a Million"

What She Looks Like
From a great mass of matter collected Miss Bara answers the description of the typical love pirate. The description of the composite alien is about 5 feet 5 inches in height; with black hair dark brown eyes that appear to be black and under perfect arches; warm vivid coloration the skin fair and running to olive through which the blood called up by emotions shows like roses glowing beneath amber or snow—with lips sensitive but full full of the possibilities of love and loyng; the chin of the idealist but strengthened by a certain amount of purpose; a smooth serene forehead like as till pool that may reflect every mood of the weather and then lapse back into its unruffled calm; perfect proportioned—chest measure 38—and with unstudied grace in every movement the whole giving not an unpleasant suggestion of the feline.

Inside Story of the War in Gerard Film

When on October 25 1915 the Kaiser shook his fist in the face of Ambassador James W. Gerard and told him that after the war was ended he would stand no nonsense from the United States he did not realize that the patience of Americans would soon reach the breaking point.

The whole series of incidents the plot and intrigue the broken promises the deliberate disregard of all the rights of a friendly nation in the insane desire to rule the world is clearly shown in the wonderfully vivid motion picture reproduction of Mr. Gerard's book "My Four Years in Germany."

Here you are unrolled before you the whole page of history from the Zaber incident to the gathering of the American army over there.

Every American should see this picture so that he can better understand why America must stand united against this common foe.

The picture will be shown at the Star Theatre soon.

Mabel Normand in "Dodging a Million" at Star Theatre

"Dodging a Million" the first Goldwyn starring vehicle of Mabel Normand is described as a mystery-drama of love thrills and laughter. It was written by Edgar Selwyn the famous dramatist and A. M. Kennedy. Arrabella Flynn a dresser in a modiste shop is notified that she has inherited the fortune of a wealthy aunt who lives in Guatemala and is given by a firm of lawyers a check for $800 and three trunks that she is to open one after another on consecutive days.

She moves promptly to the most fashionable hotel in the city where she begins a romance with Jack Forsythe handsome son of the coroner king who heretofore has been unable to find a girl who would take him seriously because of his father's business. She finds herself unable to spend her $800 check because her fame as an heiress has preceded her and tradesmen insist that she do business with them on credit.

The three trunks contain a quantity of paste jewelry to give her an idea of what the real collection of her aunt looks like some old fashioned clothes some poison in case she should find her lover untrue and instructions to buy herself lots of diamonds and pretty gowns.

Then the lawyer's clerk learns that he has made a mistake and should not have given Arrabella the $800 check. His frantic efforts to regain possession of the check stir the tradesmen and they demand their money only to learn that Arrabella has none. The situation develops into a big surprise the action continuing at rapid fire pace to the end.

Levy county can boast of probably the best peanut crop in her history. Everywhere do we find them in good condition. We too have the hogs plenty for home use and a goodly supply for the "Sammies." Many peanuts will be shipped for milling purposes.—Bronson Times-Democrat.

A. J. Newell the veteran farmer and hotel man has been busy this week shipping his crop of navy beans which amounted to 10,000 pounds and for which he received 12 1/2 cents per pound. He ran the beans through a hulling machine which separated the beans from the pod and the fan in the huller blew the chaff aside and left the pure white beans which he had sacked and shipped by rail.—Moore Haven Times.

The cotton and castor bean crop of this section are doing fine so far and it now looks like both of these crops will realize good profits to the growers. The army worm which has been such a menace to these crops at other places south of us has done but little damage here so far. All farmers are watching and spraying where necessary and it is now thought that these crops will come through all right.—Fellsmere Tribune.

Bryan & Meanson are packing and shipping avocado pears this week. The pears are nearly all large and perfectly sound and good color. One box of six pears which was weighed together totalled eleven pounds two ounces net the largest weighing a little over two pounds. If there is any place in the south that can beat Broward county growing pears please trot them out.—Ft. Lauderdale Sentinel.

Howard Sylvester left the first part of the week for the western mule markets to purchase the first carload of mules of the season. He expects to return Saturday and the stock is expected here the same day. Mr. Sylvester is one of the largest dealers in mules in Quincy and during the last several seasons has shipped many head to Gadsden county.—Quincy Times.

Chairman Hurley of the U. S. Shipping Board, Postmaster General Burleson, Food Administrator Hoover, and Samuel Gompers appeared before a senate committee having up the question of prohibiting the manufacture of beer and argued against it. This in face of the fact that in the manufacture of beer last year it required $55,000,000 worth of barley; $31,000,000 worth corn; $7,200,000 worth of rice; $4,600,000 worth of rye; $2,000,000 worth of molasses; $11,000,000 worth of hops. Besides more or less of minor products. Secretary Daniels spoke in favor of complete prohibition.

The 187 counties of Texas, the largest state in the Union, and larger in area than the empire of Germany is now bone dry. The last of the 800 saloons in the state closed their doors on June 26.

Two bulletins published by the State Experiment Station at Gainesville, that should be in the hands of our farmers are: "Florida Truck and Garden Insects," by Prof. J. R. Watson and "Some Important Diseases of Truck Crops in Florida," by Prof. C. D. Sherbakoff. These bulletins describe insects and animals, and fungus and bacterial diseases, and tell how to control them. Insects, bugs and fungus growths annually inflict great loss in farm crops, but with knowledge and effort much of the loss can be prevented.

You have heard of the postal zoning system. It is a scheme by which the distance of a town from New York increases the expense of transporting magazines and newspapers to it from the metropolis. It is a part and perhaps a necessary part of the revenue program.

The further a town is situated from New York the less effectually it is served with periodicals on which it has depended to keep it in touch with vital developments in our national life. Communities like ours are the bone and sinew of the body politic, and we depend on metropolitan distributing centers for the links which bind us to similar communities and to the great republic of which we are all a part.

This journal will do its share in plugging the gap. We undertake this duty in no spirit of presumption but in humble appreciation of the privilege which the responsibility confers, with a firm resolve to avoid any change in our fundamental character. It is our aim at all times to reflect in every printed line the sterling spirit and individual quality of the district which it is our privilege to serve.

Attila's Hoard Never Found.
Alaric the Goth plundered Rome and got together a vast amount of treasure. When he died, the legends relate, this loot was buried with him at the bottom of the Suesento river, and all the captive slaves who were forced to build his tomb were slain, so that the Romans might never find his resting place. The rich spoils of Attila, the story runs, were buried in a cave. Neither hoard has ever been discovered.

OUR PLEDGE

Appreciating to the utmost the supreme unselfishness of our American manhood which is offering its very life upon the altar of freedom for the world, we, the members of the South Florida Press Association, in semi-annual session assembled, do hereby Resolve, That in this crisis and as long as life shall last, we dedicate all that we are and all that we have to the support of our glorious nation, our righteous cause, and our illustrious government. And be it further

Resolved, That every newspaper holding membership in this association display this resolution in bold type at the masthead of its editorial page throughout the month of August, and that copies be sent to the president and our representatives in congress.

Done and ordered in the city of Wauchula, state of Florida, this 12th day of July, 1918.

SAME HERE

Those merchants who go to sleep at the switch board should bear in mind that the catalogue houses "kill their engine" on a hill. A few tons of new catalogues reached Orange county this week. If it didn't pay to advertise, those folks would quit.

NO NEW NEWSPAPERS

Because of absolute necessity of curtailing the use of paper, the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board has ruled that during the war no new newspaper shall be established.

After October 1 any newspaper which mails copies to a non subscriber who has not paid in advance may lose its second class rate.

The boys and girls about Sanford are having the time of their lives picking cotton. Not only are they helping to solve the labor problem, but at the same time they are making money, a goodly portion of which is being invested in thrift stamps, according to the Herald. The youngsters deserve encouragement, and it is to be hoped the farmers are allowing them a bit more for their labor than is usually paid; they deserve it.

BRICK ROADS PAY DIVIDENDS

DeLand is beginning already to reap the benefit of her brick roads. At the meeting of the board of county commissioners last week, the budget for the ensuing year was made up. The Daytona Halifax district spent $400,000 on its road system, not yet complete. The budget for maintenance calls for $50,000, of which amount $35,000 is for oiling the new road between DeLand and Daytona, yet to be built, leaving $15,000 strictly for "maintenance."

New Smyrna spent $250,000 on its roads. The budget calls for $20,776.68 for maintenance. DeLand spent $350,000 on its roads. The budget calls for $9,600 for maintenance.

Daytona's roads are of asphaltic concrete; New Smyrna's roads are of snell, while DeLand's roads are of cement grouted brick. The brick roads have already begun to pay dividends in the matter of upkeep expense.

IT WILL BE "SOMEWHERE IN GERMANY"

The Kaiser is preparing for the inevitable. He foresees that the time is not far distant when the allied forces will be crossing the bridges of the Rhine on their victorious way to Berlin. Even now he is organizing a picked force of 500,000 men to guard the Rhine. He is determined, if possible to prevent it, that such waste and desolation as he has spread over France and Belgium shall not be repeated on German soil.

When we consider what the Americans did to his crack Prussians and Bavarians on the banks of the Marne and then reflect that there will be two or three times as many Americans over there by the time the Rhine rivers are reached, we smile at the thought that half a million Prussians will prove effective in checking the invaders. They will be swept as de like so much chaff and the war with all its horrors and bloodshed will be carried into Germany. The four years to date of "Somewhere in France" will be changed to "Somewhere in Germany" and the Hun will be given a taste of their own bitter medicine. Not that the allied forces will be guilty of anything like the indescribable outrages perpetrated by the Huns in Belgium and France. That is unbelievable. The allied forces are not made-up-of-beasts nor do they make war on defenseless children but there will be an inevitable waste and want and destruction accompanying the march of an army through the land and there will be little sympathy was ted on this side of the water if Germany gets a battering from the "malded fist" of which her rulers have talked so much.

The very fact that they are preparing to defend the Rhine is proof that they realize the defense will be necessary. They have never before thought it was. They considered that their armies in the field would furnish all the defense required. But as they see those armies crumbling into disorganized fragments under the sledge hammer blows of Foch they realize that the final battles of the war may be fought on German soil and they are preparing for it. Only the final collapse of German resistance can avert it and while that will come eventually we can hardly hope for it yet awhile.

A RUSH ON THE PARSON

No sooner did it appear that the draft limits would be extended than there was a rush on the parson. And it is significant that the rush was not made by boys of 18 to 21 but by bachelors of 31 to 45.

Don't you know that the hearts of many maiden ladies were made glad when they happily answered "yes" to the question they had been patiently awaiting for many years from their too reluctant and too procrastinating swains?

But don't you know, too, that the hearts of those newly made matrons were made sad when they began to realize just what reason impelled their long time courtiers and short-time husbands to their hastily and unexpected avowals?

John Philip Sousa has just written a new wedding march to replace the strains of the German composer, Mendelssohn. Don't you know that when this wedding march is a few months older its every note will be a stab into the heart of every one of those belated ant-draft brides who hear it.

There is a psychology of patriotism. Years from now gnawing conscience will make double cowards of the slackers of today, whether they married in haste to cheat their country of their services, or whether they smothered their conscience and made their tongues declare that they were unable to assist with money or with time and effort at home.

The grandchildren of these anti-draft weddings will ask greybeards questions about the year of 1918 that will cause slow hearts to skip a beat and sluggish blood to halt in hardening arteries.

No man who gives less than his best this year will ever regain a conscience clear and free.

NUMBER YOUR LETTERS

Before Ralph M. Alexander, son of Water Superintendent W. J. Alexander of St. Augustine left home to go to war he and his father agreed to number their letters to each other after the boy had sailed for France, the father numbering each letter he wrote the boy No. 1, 2, etc., the boy doing likewise. They have done this systematically, and the result has been that each one knows how many letters the other has written, whether they have all been received or not. In fact, Mr. Alexander has received No. 14, but Nos. 12 and 13 have never arrived. He, therefore, believes that the two letters which failed to reach him went down on one of the returning transports that the German submarines sunk, but he knows the boy thought of him and wrote the letters. Some of Mr. Alexander's communications have failed to reach the boy for one cause or another.

What a splendid ideal! Others who have relatives or friends dear to them overseas might adopt the numbering system to advantage.

Another good plan is to let the soldier in France know that one letter written by him will do for all the family. When a letter is received from the boy send it to all the people on this side who are interested in him, and let him know that you are doing this. He will feel more like writing and he will know that he is killing more than one bird with every stone he throws. Soldiers in France have little time to write letters. For weeks at a time they haven't a minute, but when the chance comes to scratch off a word, the fighting man should have the satisfaction of knowing that all his relatives and friends are going to hear that word. Furthermore, never wait for a soldier to answer your letter. He wants to hear from home; for if he wants to hear from you as often as you can write and more. He lives for news from home; for it he is constantly hungry. Don't think they are never homesick; they are. They have their blue periods, but these can be lessened and brightened by letters from home.

Be sure your letters contain good news and cheerful messages. Tell them nothing that will depress them, for in the hour of battle, when the mind must be clear, there should be no distracting thought of unhappiness at home. Your boy may be in a hand to hand fight with a Hun; they say at such times one's life passes in review as when drowning. Your last letter will be in his mind. If it was not of the right sort it may "rattle" him at the time when a clear head means life for him and death for the Hun, or the opposite. That's morale, and nothing makes for a strong morale like the right kind of news from home—and lots of it.

Tell the boys they are missing nothing here, that everything is going along like it was when they left, except that we at home are more interested in the war the longer it lasts. Nothing else matters to us now. We are thinking of nothing but the war in Europe. Tell him that we grab every crumb of news from him and the Americans in France, that your every crumb of news from him and thought now is of him and his comrades.

Letter writing to the boys in Europe will help to win the war; do it well and often.

TIME EXTENDED

For Filing Capital Stock Tax Returns

Jacksonville, Aug. 19.—Collector of Internal Revenue James M. Catchart has just received instructions from Commissioner of Internal Revenue Daniel C. Roper, extending until September 30, 1918, the time for filing capital stock tax returns for the fiscal year from July 1, 1918 to June 30, 1919.

Collector Cathcart has also been advised that a supply of forms for these returns has been forwarded to the revenue officer at Jacksonville. As soon as they are received they will be mailed to all of those corporations required to make returns. However, any person required to file the returns who do not receive forms within the next few days should then make application for same to the collector's office at Jacksonville. The forms are to be properly executed and filed in the collector's office by September 30, 1918.

Sears Dives for His Fishing Tackle

Congressman W. J. Sears is a good sport and goes after the things he wants real bad, even if he does not always get them. Friday afternoon he was on the bridge fishing, and his mind was probably in the congressional hall, for suddenly his rod hit the water with a splash. Joe gazed at the ripples only a moment, when he asked a man standing near:

"How deep is that water?" "About twenty feet," was the reply.

"Reckon it's cold?" asked the Congressman.

"Not very," was the reply. With this assurance, the distinguished fisherman took a "header" for the bottom of the river. After making several attempts without success, he gave up the search, deciding that he would save time by coming to town and purchasing another outfit. He says he got to the bottom every time.

Gallagher to Atlanta

Bandmaster J. M. Gallagher and family left today for Atlanta where Mr. Gallagher will be the leader of the band for the Georgia Military Academy. Mr. Gallagher has been here for several years and gave Sanford a first class band in every respect and one of which we are proud but he has a much better offer at G. M. I. and goes to that institution with our best wishes. Mr. Gallagher is an old army band man, having served many years with the regulars in this country and in foreign service. He is one of the best in the business and will make G. M. I. the kind of band leader that G. M. I. is anxious to secure.

At the wet or dry election held in Okeechobee county recently the county was voted dry by a majority of approximately five to one. The new county of Okeechobee, which was created about two years ago from portions of the counties of Palm Beach, Okechola and St. Lucie has always been dry, and it is due to the efforts of Governor Catts and Judge E. B. Donnell who espoused the temperance cause to a great extent during the campaign that the county remained in the dry column.

But we've no doubt of you.
You've always had the habit of Seeing big things through.

Do you know what loyalty is?
Have you ever analyzed it? I'm a great stickler for loyalty, and I have my own notions about it. Loyalty means a great deal more than simply "not betray." More than acquiescence. Such things are negative; loyalty is a positive virtue. It is more, than personal also. Loyalty accepts the big idea, whatever it is, and accepts it whole heartedly, once the thing is decided on. Loyalty means full accord with the plan, absolute harmony with the purposes and projects of the house. In short, loyalty is like playing a violin; you have got to get it in tune before you can play.

Well, the war is a great leveller. Two of those old fellows who were sore on me last week for getting their goat have come in and said that they were off their base and renewed their subscriptions to the paper. Said they were misinformed by friends as to the person meant in the article and since the man who caused the fuss did not stop his paper there was no reason why they should worry about the Curbatone. And that is the principal joke about the article. The man who I really meant by an old fossil has never taken the article to himself at all and has never stopped the paper so you can never really tell just how thick one's hide may be or how thin the other fellow's might be. But they do read the Herald it seems and none of this stuff and nonsense misses them. And whenever I throw a brick the majority of them seem to dodge. Which is all in the day's work and if I could not work off some of my foolishness now and then I could not stand it here at all.

I do hope that the real enterprising people of this city will get busy even in this hot weather and clean up their yards and by yards I mean also the back yards and vacant lots. We must keep eternally at it and keep Sanford looking clean and tidy at all seasons of the year. We have visitors all times of the year and a good appearance means new people located here. The town's first appearance is always the magnet that draws new people and new people are what this town certainly needs. And then if we keep our town clean it will be a healthier and better place in which we will reside and thus we are helping ourselves all the while.

Mr. Editor—This is written by one who is in the selective draft, and is taking his turn when his number is called. I answered my questionnaire honestly, and was justly classified, and am willing to go, but I wonder how a certain few feel about how they got their classifications. I wonder how certain men feel who made out their affidavits. I wonder if their mothers do not feel selfish that their boys are staying at home and

I am going away from my mother and taking his place. I wonder if when I get back, if I do, that these boys will have the (I don't know what you call it— to come and shake my hand and say "We are glad you are back." I pity them if they do. Everyone knows who they are, their names are common talk. I wonder how long the community will stand for these certain few to get by. We are in this war and some of us have to go and are going honorably, while others have done and are still doing everything in every way to keep out. How can they look their mothers and their fellows in the face! They have no blood in their veins! It is only yellow fluid forced through their veins that they may live for their own little selves—while myself and five million others go and fight to protect his wife, sweetheart and mother. I wonder what kind of a being a slacker is. How long will he be allowed to mingle with human beings?—A Drafted Boy.

What do you know about the Miracle Medicine? I know that the people of one town discovered that when they were sick they had no need of him, nor of any other doctor. So this Miracle Medicine is not a secret remedy? No. Nothing secret about it. NOTICE
Believing that FIRE INSURANCE RATES charged by old line stock companies are too high, I have secured the agency of the FLORIDA MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY of Tampa, Florida.

This company saved its policy holders 20 per cent last year and hopes to do better in the future. The company is organized under the state law and selects its risks carefully, and the profits go back to the policy holders instead of being paid in dividends to stockholders.

Being a mutual company, the policy holders are pledged to pay the premium the second time in case the company needs more money than the original premium in order to pay losses. This adds to the security of the policy holders and is necessary because there is no capital stock. However, the chances that such an assessment will be made is very remote.

If interested before your policy expires, bring it to my office at Room 8 in the Court House, and make application for its renewal in the Mutual Company.

Sanford Palmetto Broom Factory: I want to express my highest appreciation of your brooms.

I was in your factory a few days ago and purchased a broom, and have used it with finest effect. I offer three cheers for this Florida industry! Just what is needed now, and as this palm is so plentiful in our lovely state, why can't we have more factories?

Also, why can't we have more moss mattress factories? This moss, when properly cured makes beds almost equal to hair mattresses. Moss is abundant and beds are scarce and high. The field for this industry seems easy and promising.

Perhaps not all Sanfordites may know that this broom factory (whose location I had to learn) is standing on the left side of the street (Park avenue) leading up from the ferry boat—the first house. Call and see and buy a broom.

Sincerely,
Mrs. F. A. Taylor,

Kissimmee's new bathing pavilion at East Lake is nearing completion and it is expected that it will be finished by the latter part of next week. A good graded road has been completed from the Boggy creek road out to the beach, and large numbers of Kissimmee people go out every afternoon to enjoy a swim.

It is estimated that 100,000 acres of peanuts are being cultivated in Jackson county this year. The oil mill of the Florida Peanut Oil Company of Malone, Jackson county will not be able to handle anything like this crop and realizing it the people of Greenwood are now building another mill at that place, which is only six miles from Malone.

Farmers in Hernando county are continuing to plant sweet potatoes, and one of them are picking over their cotton for the first time. Several dipping vats have been finished and the farmers are dipping their herds as fast as they can get them up off the ranges.

To show cause why the East Coast canal should not revert to the state of Florida because of failure of the company to comply with its contract and keep the canal at the required width and depth, a hearing is now being given in the state supreme court, arguments being started in the court recently. It is expected that this will hasten the final hearing.

By a vote of nearly two to one the citizens of Wauchula voted recently to issue bonds in the sum of $24,000 for taking over the electric lighting plant and installing new machinery, $20,000 being the price for the present lighting plant and $4,000 for machinery.

Irish potatoes and navy beans, as well as field beans are being planted in the East Palatka section. Several acres will be put in this fall as the prospects for good prices are promising.

A company for the manufacture of fruit and vegetable crates was recently organized at Lake Wales with a capital stock of $50,000. It is expected to have it in operation in a very short time!

The canning factory at Moore Haven is hard at work putting up tomatoes, of which it is getting an abundance, as also in the elderberry business. It doubled its force last week for the rush.

Official Order
TO ALL DEALERS IN SUGAR,
(Wholesaler, Jobbers and Manufacturers.)

All certificates issued from the office of the Federal Food Administrator of Florida are good for the purchase of granulated sugar, as restrictions on Class A certificates in reference to Louisiana Second and Third Sugar have been removed. It is urged that where possible a lower grade of sugar be used, thereby conserving granulated sugar, but certificates issued from this office will be good for all or any grade of sugar desired, and will be honored alike by wholesalers and refiner.

Wholesalers must deliver to the office of the Federal Food Administrator of Florida on or before Aug. 25th, 1918, sugar distribution certificates out of the interim certificates issued to them, or out of certificate rates receive by them upon sales of sugar to others and amount equal to one-fourth of all interim certificates issue directly to them for the month of July; and on or before July 15th, an additional amount equal to three-fourths of all interim certificates issued directly to them for the month of July. He shall not use any of such certificates for the purpose of buying sugar.

Note.—Interim certificates were issued to many wholesalers for the month of July in order to prevent any hold-up in the distribution from the refiners, pending the installation of the certificate system. Hereafter certificates for each month will be issued before the 1st of the month, and there is no reason why jobbers should not be able to do business with a stock equal to that of July is, or replenish only when new certificates are turned in by retailers or others.

Presented With Hymnal

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First M. E. church met for a business session on Tuesday, Aug. 13th at four o'clock in the parlors of the church for the purpose of electing a treasurer to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. W. W. Abernathy who is leaving Sanford to make her home in Daytona. Mrs. W. P. Fields was elected treasurer and Mrs. G. W. Spencer assistant treasurer.

A motion was made and carried that our meetings be changed to the first Monday of the month, until further notice.

At this interval Mrs. L. P. Hagan, president of the Truth Seekers class in a very impressive manner presented to Mrs. W. W. Abernathy, our treasurer for the last nine years, a handsome Methodist hymnal on Oxford India paper, bound in morocco, with her name engraved on the back in old English letters, from the class, in token of their love and friendship.

Mrs. Abernathy is one of our most worthy members, we will greatly miss her from our monthly meetings, for she was always present, and performed her duties in such an efficient way that her place will be hard to fill. We can truthfully say that she has been an inspiration to every one who knew her, and she will leave Sanford accompanied by the good wishes of many friends.

GERMANY IS SCARED BY EVENTS

that her position among nations after the war is hopeless without a thorough, sincere house-cleaning. She is frightened over her dwindling manpower and the possible fruits of the Kaiser's extravagant promises in the spring of "victory this time." And Voss' Gazette in an inspired article says the German command's new motto is now "economy in human life." The Gazette adds "A new method of attack has been evolved, which consists in calling a halt directly resistance is too stubborn and trying again elsewhere."

In an "all-is-hell" editorial confessing real anxiety over the Russian situation, the Hamburg Nachrichten pessimistically summarizes: "The danger grows from without and within."

The Vosalsche Zeitung throws light on food conditions in Germany by these naive remarks: "The first two years of our war our troops in the field received extra food from their relations at home. Today all that is reversed, and food parcels from the front play an important part in nourishing the home population."

Brute force—"might is right" has always been the German motto, but fright does strange things to people. We find Captain Erich Von Salzmann, German military critic trying to cheer up the people as follows:

"The position on the west front, the whole of it, can only be described as one of the greatest anxiety. We certainly do not underestimate the additional strength that the entente has derived from American contribution in human material. But in the great game that is to be played out in the coming months spirit will oppose brute force. This truth comforts us."

Allied officers whose duty it is to cull over the enemy press know Germany's scared. And the allies have other, even more certain ways of finding out about conditions in Germany. All that can be said is that they know Germany's having a fine mental sweat.

This doesn't mean they think the war's about over. Germany still has close to 40 fresh reserve divisions on Rupprecht's front with which to start a "big show" in Flanders almost any time she feels like it. And if Germany's offensive year is ended, the war isn't won.

But the German fright, which becomes more and more evident every day, does show that whether the war's short or long, Premier Hughes of Australia knew what he was talking about the other day when he said "The turning point in the war has come. It's our turn now!"

Uncle Ike Murrum.

AMUSEMENT

Bessie Barriscale in "Within the Cup" at Star Theatre Friday

One of the climactic scenes in Bessie Barriscale's second Paralta play, "Within the Cup," deals with an ancient superstition that the future is mirrored at the bottom of a teacup and may be read from the arrangement of the tea leaves. "Tea-Cup" Ann, in the play is an old woman, broken and withered, who has spent in the reckless manner against which she warns all that she meets. She is an habitue of Washington Square's most adring cafe in the artist section of New York City and amuse the other patrons who frequent the place. When "Thisbe Lorraine," played by Miss Barriscale, comes to the cafe one evening "Tea C Ann reads her fortune from the leaves. The result terrifies Thisbe. The seerss judging more from Thisbe's past and present than from her future touches the string that sounds in harmony with the woman's fears. "Love is your cross and your curse," she cries. "In your climb to fame you have denied morality and mocked at love. Always you shall pursue it, but never shall you attain it!" Thisbe realizes the possibilities, the truth of the prophecy, and from that time on her life is shaped by them. She meets love, sincere and pure, and is afraid of it. The incidents which follow Thisbe's warning from the soocress are complete and interesting. They deal with the complete transformation of Thisbe's outer character, her apparent purification and a change which covers the tarnish of her former life. But always she knows and realizes the corruption within her soul. The struggle against the inevitable, the fight to regain the honor and respect with which she has always scoffed are the themes of some of the strongest and most dramatic scenes which have ever been screened. "Within the Cup" will be the Attraction at the Star Theatre on Friday.

T. R. Praises Openness of Gerard's Book

At a recent reunion and supper at the Harvard Club, Theodore Roosevelt told the gathering of New Yorkers that no ambassador he could recall, except Charles Francis Adams, who represented the United States in London during the Civil War, had occupied a post as difficult as Mr. Gerard's at Berlin.

Mr. Gerard's interpretation of Germany Col. Roosevelt said should have made German-Americans aware that they could not keep up an "ambidexterous relation." He concluded "Germany knows the wooden guns and the dummy carriage. If we try to conceal our blunders in the day of battle, we'll find the only ones fooled are ourselves."

That Mr. Gerard's position at the Imperial Court of Germany was indeed difficult and that America did everything that a nation could possibly do to keep out of the war without dishonor is poignantly shown in the big film production of Mr. Gerard's book, "My Four Years in Germany."

The film goes back to the very beginning of the war cloud in Germany and how with pitiless clarity the whole series of incidents that forced America into the battle for the safety of the world.

If you would have a better understanding of this tremendous page in the history of nations, by all means see "My Four Years in Germany" at the Star Theatre soon.

THE BARRIER

By Rex Beach—At the Star Theatre Thursday—In Ten Reels

A powerful picture is "The Barrier," an adaptation of Rex Beach's novel. Director Edgar Lewis has really given us Mr. Beach on the screen with fe and only minor changes. It is a picture not to be rated by average standards. The story with its many crises forlids that. The people with whom it deals are far removed from your average picture hero, heroine and villain. Not that the picture is devoid of dramatic conflict. Far from it. But the parties of "The Barrier" don't stoop to picaresque quarrels. Their fight is over something big, and you are immediately caught with the bigness of the whole thing. To our notion, it is there that the power of "The Barrier" lies. It is bigness spelled in capitals.

The barrier is the barrier of race. Lieutenant Burrell loves Necia, and Necia is thought to be a half breed. The prologue has let you know that Necia is a full blooded white girl, but that knowledge doesn't detract from the suspense of the love affair one whit. Rather does it add to it. And when the lieutenant after a stormy session with himself, decides to throw all prejudice to the winds and marry Necia anyway, you are pleased to the point of tears. And speaking of tears, there is cause for many in the picture. Necia is also loved by Poleon Doret, an Alaskan, of French Canadian extraction. Poleon's is a losing fight, and after all he paddles away in his canoe, singing at the top of his lungs.

Necia and her lieutenant stand on the shore and smile because he is laughing and they think him happy. But the old squaw stands apart and grunts a few words to the effect that Poleon is sad and that is why he sing. We have yet to see such a likable character as Poleon in a motion picture.

To make such a long picture as "The Barrier" a really powerful picture must have been something of a difficult task. But the underlying theme practically always defies any thought of the clock. The several climaxes that appear at one time or another seem to emphasize the theme. The producers give you flights galore, real fights that make you shiver at their very realism, but each of them has its place in the story. And while of a necessity the interest drops a degree or so after each big episode has drawn to a close it is quickly picked up again with the commencement of the next.

Letter From Tracy McCuller

Tracy McCuller wrote the editor a nice letter yesterday and said it was not for publication. He seems to be enjoying the army life and is now on German soil but just where of course is left to conjecture. He speaks in highest terms of the Red Cross, especially the ladies over there. All right, Tracy, we will not publish the letter but will see you "over there" soon and see if what you said is really true.
