BIBLE VERSE TODAY

There is a technique in healing prayer. If several join in the same prayer the effect is multiplied and the prayer will be firmly held in complete faith, not wavering. Pray for one another that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man avails much.—James 5:16.

Governor Shivers of Texas reveals that he intends to vote for General Eisenhower whether the Democrats like it or not. "A Stevenson administration," he says, "would be Trumanism with a Harvard accent."

Those who do not believe that the proposed school amendment to the Constitution should be adopted on Nov. 4 should come up with a better idea for financing the construction of school buildings in Florida. It is not enough to say that this plan is not perfect. No plan ever is. It must be made plain that you have a better one, for if you do not, then surely this amendment will have to be adopted because Florida must have more school buildings. If we do not, and if we do not get busy building them in the near future, we might as well admit to the world that our public school system is a failure and we do believe in education for all.

Some of Florida's political leaders who have been trying to oppose both Eisenhower and Stevenson, or rather to support neither of them, should be interested in a cartoon on the front page of the Tampa Tribune Wednesday which showed a poor old donkey split right in two in the middle by a fall of "Florida Democrats," with the front end labeled "Pro-Like" and the rear end labeled "Pro-Adlai." The caption reads: "Seems There's No Way to Ride the Middle."

There is not much choice, from a health standpoint, between General Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson. General Eisenhower is a little older, but his blood pressure is a little better. Stevenson's having a tendency to be a little low. The General has a couple of operations on his tonsils and the other has an appendectomy, but the Governor had a kidney stone only last June, and had it removed. He is now all right. The General plays golf for exercise, the Governor tennis. So we suppose the golf club will have to vote for Eisenhower, the tennis fans for Stevenson.

We hear a great deal about government checks and how much money the Truman administration is pouring into our county for this, that and the other; we do not hear so much about how much the people of this county are pouring into the federal treasury in Washington. But the Bureau of Internal Revenue admits that the federal government took $415 from every man, woman and child in this country last year. That is to say, figuring Sanford's population at 15,000, it took $6,225,000 from Sanford alone. Now what couldn't we have done with that money, or any reasonably large part of it, by way of repairing our city streets, improving our sewers, building schools or hospitals, had it remained at home?

The Sanford Ministerial Association has urged Seminola County commissioners to approve the County essential health team, stating out that it is the Christian duty of all citizens to help provide for the sick and injured of any community. Modern science and common sense have both told us that the most economical way of doing this is to have all the sick and injured to be treated in one place where medical men can take care of more people in less time than they could if they were to spend their time driving from one home to another. Those who argue against the hospital are in effect arguing that we should not take the case of all of those without adequate hospital facilities.

Invisible Decrease

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports cheering news this week in an announcement of a drop in food prices. They fell exactly eight-tenths of one per cent between August 25 and September 25. Just what was responsible for this not quite noticeable drop in the cost of things we eat has not been explained to our satisfaction. Maybe some think it means a general recession is on the way and that soon food may drop another one-eighth of one per cent in price. In that case there probably will not be any profit in entabes at all and we can give up the idea of peddling cookies from door to door.

Still, this decrease in prices can mean something. Translated into tangible things, it must be almost equal to three or four of the tomato seeds in that ripe, red beauty we had in a salad yesterday. Three more seeds for the money. If you plant those seeds and get more tomatoes, look at the added benefits of this little eight-tenths of one per cent decrease. But don't let word get out to the Agriculture Department. Something might happen. Remember the southern tobacco farmer who accidentally overplanted his crop and was told he couldn't give the profit to charity? He had to dig it all up again. Such is life in a bureaucratic world.

Taxes Trouble Lassie

Many a harassed family head has paused while figuring out his taxes, taken a long look at the family dog lying relaxed on the rug, and sighed with envy. But Mr. Taxpayer had better take another look. Here's a dog with tax troubles.

When Axel Carlson of Massachusetts left a legacy to Lassie, his pet collie, he meant that the dog should be provided for as long as she lived. He willed her $5,000 and asked that she be sent to live with his sister.

Sure enough, a New England tax collector got wind of the lucky dog and demanded payment of the inheritance tax. With a bookkeeper's thoroughness, the collector figured up all the depressing details such as surtax and warned that the dog would have to pay income tax on any yearly sum her legacy might earn or pay.

All in all, with the tables turned, it is rumored that Lassie has taken to sitting disconsolately in a corner saying to herself: "I wish I were a human being. A poor one." Lassie doubtless now agrees with the popular saying that some days a fellow can't lay up a nickel.

Time To Call A Halt

Fire is taking an increasingly heavy toll of life and property in the United States.

Deaths totaled over 12,000 in 1951, a new high. About half of this number died in fires in their own homes. Four thousand, almost a third, were children under fourteen years of age. Thirty-five hundred lived on farms or in rural areas. The total was within 500 of the number of Americans killed in the first year of the Korean War.

Property losses totaled $829,500,000 in 1951, also a new high. Not satisfied, Americans apparently are going to burn up $855,000,000 in property in 1952. About a fifth of this loss will be in homes we've needed so badly and have been building so quickly. A quarter, almost $250,000,000 will be in industrial plants. A little more than a hundred million dollars' worth of farm buildings will go up in smoke and flame — far more expensive to rebuild at today's costs than they were when built.

Perhaps there is no way out. Perhaps such losses are inevitable, but the National Fire Protection Association, source of these statistics says, "No, we can stop burning ourselves up if we will."

Here's a 7-point program that the NFPA says will prevent 90 percent of the fires in homes: (1) Be careful with matches and smoking. Don't smoke in bed. (2) Be careful with flammable liquids. Don't use explosive cleaning fluids. (3) Throw out papers, rags, old furniture out of attics, closets and basements. (4) Inspect and clean chimneys once a year. (5) Keep heating plants clean and in good repair. (6) Recover combustible wood shingles with fire-resistant roofing, such as asphalt shingles. (7) Don't overload electrical circuits. Replace frayed cords. Don't substitute a penny for a fuse. — Fraymager.

The South's Call To Foresters

The South's need of foresters is wide-spread and urgent. Most of the region from Virginia to Texas, but particularly in the Pine Belt, holds as yet unutilized, but certainly large-scale opportunities in tree-farming. Since the newspaper, kraft paper and synthetic fiber industries have come South, a capacious home market has opened for pulpwood. Today the pine lands contain millions of trees of a proper size for cutting. If the harvesting is done scientifically, a new crop will be left for next year and for every year. A trained forester — who might be on State extension service payroll or be employed by a timber-owner co-operative — could enlighten the tree-cutters on those points.

There are numerous ways in which the forester might earn his pay: He might discover insect pests and tree diseases before they have done serious damage, and organize eradication campaigns. Besides, the cotton South has many million acres of worn-out farmland better suited to trees than to any other crop. When it comes to planning, planting and cultivating, the forester's counsel would be most useful. Moreover, a corps of trained foresters is required for research and experimentation. Particularly through the new hybrid varieties, plant-breeders have contributed importantly to forest resources.

How obtain the needed field men and research scientists? How persuade qualified young men to choose forestry as a career? Representative Southern educators, meeting at Daytona Beach (Florida), recently named a special committee to seek answers to these questions. Tentatively, the educators proposed that the States become partners in establishing and operating regional forestry schools. For the Gulf Southwest, Lufkin, Texas, would be an excellent site for such a school, which might well be a unit of Texas A. & M. College System. — San Antonio Express.

STANWYCK DENIES RUMOR
HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Barbara Stanwyck denies there is any truth to rumors that she and Robert Taylor are about to become reconciled—even though they were seen holding hands at Ciro's Tuesday night.

Mrs. Stanwyck, divorced from Taylor early this year, said yesterday that the hand-holding "doesn't mean a thing except that we remain good friends."

"There has been no talk whatever of remarriage," she told a newsmen.

As for Taylor, his studio said he had no comment.

THE WORLD TODAY
By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Everybody says "poor Gen. Eisenhower and Gov. Stevenson, they must be awfully tired from this campaigning." It's been tough on them, all right. But it's time somebody began to sympathize with the voters. They've been pretty tough on them, too, trying to keep up with the campaigners.

After the Chicago conventions last summer the unsuccessful candidates, who had been campaigning around the country for the nomination, scattered in all directions for a rest.

But that was only the starting point for Eisenhower and Stevenson. They spent the month of August mostly getting their campaign organized, with only a few days out for vacation.

Their ordeal began with the arrival of September. Now, after a month of planes, trains, rear platform talks, major speeches, motorcades, handshaking and speech writing they must be completely weary.

Yet they still have a month to go. But so do the voters who seem to try to follow the whole campaign. Not only Eisenhower and Stevenson, but Sen. Sparkman and Sen. Nixon and President Truman, too.

Just trying to keep tabs on what they're all saying would be a monumental task for any man who attempted it in his living room with the help of his newspapers, radio and TV set.

To do it in an orderly way he would have to keep a file; not just a day by day file but a topic by topic file, broken down into what each one said on foreign affairs, taxes, Korea and all the rest.

That itself would only be a starting point. For then the serious man would have to examine what each one said on each topic for contradictions and for comparison with what he had read.

Too much already has been said for any individual to keep it all filed in his head, and it would be a rare voter who kept any other kind of file. Most voters probably retain general impressions and pieces of what's been said.

The present campaign is the traditional kind, since the candidates seem to think the endless talking and repetition and personal appearances have the magic for election.

It was suggested before the campaign began that Eisenhower and Stevenson candidates' every day to a better understanding and appraisal of both of them if they met face to face in a radio-TV debate.

Neither of them showed much enthusiasm for the idea. But it would have made it easier for the

Livestock Board Of State Is Faced With Legal Steps

By F. T. MACFEELEY
JACKSONVILLE (AP)—The State Livestock Sanitary Board was threatened with court action today unless it lifts the ban on shipment of most pork products into the state.

Howard Haines, president of Haines and Company, Ft. Lauderdale meat distributor, said the sanitary code of the state requires garbage fed to hogs for human consumption must be thoroughly cooked.

"If this law were enforced, Haines said, you wouldn't need any embargo."

"I have asked why the law was not enforced," he said, "and was told it was because garbage feeding is cheap."

"You are giving protection to the hog owner that he doesn't deserve," he said.

Dr. J. E. Scatterday from the State Board of Health disputed Haines' contention that the law requires heat treatment of garbage fed to hogs. It is a recommendation but not a law, Dr. Scatterday said.

"I have gone to court on it and been embarrassed," he said.

Many packers and producers turned out for today's monthly meeting of the state board. Shortly before noon only a few had been heard.

Dr. C. Paul Vickers, the new state veterinarian, recommended the importation of boneless pork products from packing houses operating under federal inspection and within states where no venereal exanthema or a quarantine for that hog disease has ever been reported.

His recommendation also provided that each shipment of pork products be accompanied by an affidavit from a federal employee saying that after careful investigation he believed the prod-

the producers managed to get permissions to get into those files; when I was working a crime beat, staff and I tried to get the files on the "Oz" Ridge to see recipes for atoms and they used to treat me as though I were in the pay of a foreign government. Closed files were really used to, maybe the authorities discriminated against me because I never in my life was able to solve one of their cases for them.
However, I can't imagine how anyone, even with a high criminal potential, could ever contemplate a life of crime based on anything one might see on television or hear on radio. In the end they are usually shot dead, most often in an extremely sensitive if not immediately fatal spot. Or he cuts and runs from the authorities into the path of a train, automobile or lorry with a scream from a high building. In the rare cases when the criminal is let off, the accompanying record indicates strongly that he's going to spend a lifetime behind bars or is scheduled for a speedy trip down the last mile.
Even when the criminal has pulled off a real fast job, the rewards of crime seem rather small, at best. If he's not being shot, shaven, trembling and covered with ornaments, in a shabby rented room, mountain shack or abandoned warehouse, he's covering in the rear booth of some dirty limo and is so unhappy and scared that he's scarcely an inspiring sight.
In the event the villain of the piece is the bookkeeper type—the quiet, studious little mouse of a man who juggles the accounts—his plight is even less glamorous, if possible. He's in the toils of some predatory hard-hearted dame who treats him like a worm. Or the gamblers have got him.
All in all, it seems to me that radio and television paint a pretty dismal picture of crime, although I do think a lot of American small fry might be inspired to grow up to be cops. They are usually handsome, gentle, strong, pipe-smoking and above all brave and daring. And most of the policemen look as pretty as fashion models.
One trouble—actually, it's probably a good thing—with the real-life crime is that it is so unimaginative. Just recently everyone got all excited about some man who was suspected of eliminating an unwanted wife by knocking her off, putting the body in an automobile and sending it down the whole thing down a steep hill. Fiction, I say, is stranger than truth, because if any whodunit writer attempted to plot a homicide by using that weary, old-fashioned contrived method of murder, his editor would throw him and his manuscript out of the office. Police around here got pretty

My own thoughts about the state of crime in connection with TV and radio are partly concerned with the situation in the file rooms of the Treasury Department. The F. B. I. numerous police departments or any place else where they keep criminal records. As far as I can figure out, the source of most crime stories these days are the "closed files" of our courts. There are so many of such stories that I rather imagine the files must be in an awful mess with all those script writers pawing through them.
As an old police and court reporter myself I often wonder how

Mayo Denies Use Of Pressure For Campaign Monies

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Nathan Mayo, state commissioner of agriculture, has denied use of pressure to get employees of his department to contribute to the Democratic state campaign fund.

The St. Petersburg Independent said Wednesday pressure had been put on Agriculture Department employees to contribute to the fund.

The independent quoted a letter written by Leo Thompson, head of the auditing section of the Agriculture Department, to employees.

The letter, said Mayo had asked Thompson to request the employees to "send in your contributions as quickly as possible."

Thompson said State Campaign Director J. Irvin Walden told Mayo funds were needed because campaign headquarters at Orlando were being operated on a credit basis.

Mayo said the contributions were sought purely on a voluntary basis.

"They don't have to do it if they don't want to," he said.

"If they do, it's their own business to contribute. We don't coerce our employees to do anything."

As a matter of fact, Mayo added, he had written Thompson a letter dated Oct. 3 had been in only $15 by Wednesday night.

New U.S. Note Raps Russia For Ousting American Official

By EDWARD F. BOMAR
WASHINGTON, D.C.—The United States rapped Russia last night for ousting American Ambassador George F. Kennan and for "grossly violating the traditions and customs in international intercourse developed over generations."

It said nothing, however, about retaliation and authorities here cast doubt that the Russian administration will leave it up to the new president to decide whether to expel Soviet Ambassador Nikolai Zarubin or let him stay in any other way.

The note repudiated the 1947 Soviet demand for the recall of Kennan and other American officials because of "outrageous attacks hostile to the Soviet Union." Kennan had said in Berlin Sept. 12, 1949, "America's life in Moscow is not much different from the experiences of American diplomats interned in Germany after Pearl Harbor."

The Soviet demand meant that Kennan, then in Geneva, could not return to the Moscow post he had held less than five months.

The State Department told Moscow that "Ambassador Kennan's statement accurately and in most exact language described the position of foreign diplomats accredited to the Soviet government."

The 20-word message, delivered to the foreign office by Counselor Elton S. Shaughnessy, concluded by saying the U. S. government rejected the Soviet charges against Kennan.

Although the administration is currently being hit by other "outrageous" attacks, Secretary of State Acheson said yesterday that the U. S. is continuing to examine "all aspects of our relations with the Soviet government." He said this in a message to Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) who has urged the expulsion of Zarubin and withdrawal of the recognition of the Soviet regime which the United States extended in 1933.

Nude Life Among Island Inhabitants Is Told By Writer

By P. PRESTON GROVER
ISLE OF LEVANI, France.—Late in this Mediterranean nudist colony is true for the soil and hard on the feet.

The island lies 10 miles off France opposite the summer vacation spot of Le Lavandou. I took a boat ride over.

You do see nudists. As the boat comes in to the small dock, the nudists come tumbling out from among the trees and rocks and help the passengers ashore. A big brown male nudist gave me a friendly hand across the gate to the boat and the wharf.

The nudists are more male than the women. The children are modest of all right speaking nude. The men wear a covering about the size of a folded pocket handkerchief, say five or six inches square. It seems to be enough. Some women wear halter, but most let their breasts enjoy the fine cooling breeze of the sea breezes and the warm rays of a sun which shines 300 days a year. Elsewhere the women wear only the smallest bathing suit you ever saw.

One young lassie of about 24 summers strolled by us all golden and glowing. She had been bathing along the coast of the French side wearing the necessary halter and scanty pants. On the island she had discarded the halter. She had a case of sunburn.

The law requires that the nudists wear one piece of cloth or more. We were told that a good many nudists are very particular about that when they get back into the "interior." I walked to the top of the island without seeing a nudist. In answer to my question, they said they had a case of sunburn.

Property Owners Advised About Fire Protection In Home

In connection with Fire Protection Week, sponsored by the National Fire Protection Association, Fire Chief Max J. Goodrich has advised property owners to take certain steps to protect their homes from fire.

The chief said that the most important thing is to have a fire extinguisher in every room. He also advised that property owners should have their fire insurance policies checked to make sure they are up to date.

Goodrich also mentioned that property owners should have their roofs inspected regularly to make sure they are in good condition. He also advised that property owners should have their chimneys cleaned regularly to prevent fires.

John E. Richardson Dies In Coral Gables

John E. Richardson, formerly of Sanford, died Saturday at Pratt Veterans Hospital in Coral Gables following a short illness. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson lived in Sanford for about two years leaving about 1946. Their son, Rev. Lyman H. Richardson of Gary, Ind., also resided here and served as pastor of the Assembly of God for about three years in the early 1940s.

Mr. Richardson was born Nov. 26, 1877 at Chardon, Ohio, moving to West Palm Beach in 1922 where he established and operated for several years a newspaper and office supply business. He formerly served with the State Department as assistant chief of the division in charge of providing supplies for foreign embassies. His last government assignment was with bonded tobacco companies in Tampa, from which he retired in 1942.

Mr. Richardson was a World War I veteran, member of the Home Lodge 128, F. and A. M. and the Assembly of God Church. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nettie D. Richardson; two sons, John E. Jr., city and Rev. Richardson of Gary; a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Gater, McLean, Va.; a sister, Mrs. George Preston of Cleveland; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Burial will be at Arlington, Va.

Boyle Defends His Stand In Respect To Woman's Place

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK.—I never said women ought to get up and give their seats to men in a bus or tip their hats in an elevator whenever a man enters.

These womanly gestures of civility toward the male sex certainly wouldn't be inappropriate today but I have set up my city for them.

These do such ideas get around anyway. All I did was to point out in a recent essay the obvious fact that as a result of the emancipation of women the clothing and wife has been replaced by the clothing and husband.

The pretentious places with her she steers the family bus, spends the money and spans the kids. He merely sits on the fence, mops his forehead and tells her how to drive. He is a lousy man to have a car like you to lean on. How did you pick up out of all the men in the world? I'm not really so much to look at. I must have read that somewhere and fat tongue mouled that man. Since they now have the freedom to use their great strength it is only natural that they should take over the job of running this troubled world. Men thus can relax into the soft glow of the sun and the sex play so often in the vast realm of nature.

Who ever heard of a king bee in a hive? Men is a shy creature at heart and the present era of stalwart womanhood at last gives him the strong shoulder he needs to rest his weary head on.

In putting down these thoughts, I intended only to pay tribute to the woman of the future—a confident, beautiful figure—riding the earth in triumph and who, like the lady spider, takes the male as a luxury and a treat and a necessity.

But the more a man prays a woman the more he respects him with suspicion. My mail from indignant women has been so heated it almost has to be handled with tongs. A few scolding examples: "Your mother must have dropped you on your head as a child." "You're a creep." "Why do you hate women, you ..."

TO PROBE CHARGES

JACKSONVILLE.—Expressing deep concern over charges by a federal grand jury that protection money is being paid city and county law enforcement officials, State Atty. William A. Hallows said Wednesday his office is making an investigation.

The implications contained in that presentment are serious and far-reaching, he said.

The grand jury last Friday said protection payments had refused to pay. The grand jury will reconvene Friday to consider contempt proceedings against the witnesses who were described by Atty. Hallows as "five or six gangsters."

MORE SELF RULE

BABAT, Morocco.—The Sultan of Morocco's speedy rejection of French independence proposals indicated today the ruler may hope to see Morocco demand for more self rule but before the United Nations General Assembly opening in New York next Tuesday.

The Sultan handed French colonial authorities a note yesterday rejecting as insufficient the proposals they made last month to meet the Moroccan demands.

DEMON CALL MEETING

WEST PALM BEACH.—E. B. Dunsell, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has called a meeting of the campaign advisory committee at 1:00 p.m. Saturday immediately after Geo. A. H. Stevenson addresses a rally there.

Dunsell said Wednesday that the meeting would take the place of a proposed session of the 134 man executive committee. He said he had received only a few answers to his inquiry concerning a meeting of the executive committee.

RENEW ANNUMENT
NEW YORK.—Composer and music critic Deems Taylor, 68, is seeking annulment of his marriage to the former Lucille Watson Little, 27. They were married in 1925.

The suit was disclosed yesterday in State Supreme Court when Taylor's attorney asked that the action be tried next month before a referee, the usual procedure when suit is not contested.

Papers in the action were sealed.

HUNTERS MAY BENEFIT
TAMPA.—Hunters may soon get to use again part of the big Avon Park bombing range, reserved by MacMillan Air Force Base for training purposes since last December.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland recently asked MacMillan to review its training needs on the range.

Col. H. B. Merchant, base commander, said he thought it would be possible to arrange training so there will be no firing Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

Holland Extolls Food Production Of Farms In U.S.

GAINESVILLE (AP)—American production of food has been the ace in the deck which gave the United States the number one spot in world affairs, Sen. Spessard L. Holland said today.

Holland spoke to 200 county and home demonstration agents here to attend the annual conference of the University of Florida's Agricultural Extension Service.

Outlining federal farm aid programs, Holland declared "our production of food has meant the difference between death and life for millions of people."

This, the Florida senator said, has been "our ace in the deck, and food has been used to produce peace instead of war."

He told of the co-operative program of the United States and Canada in controlling the hoof-and-mouth disease in livestock and said:

"Working with the hoof-and-mouth disease we became aware that such a disease could be struck as a very great blow by an enemy in event of war or even in a cold war," he said.

As a result, he said, thorough laboratory work now is being conducted to prevent the country's food supplies from being reduced by the spreading of such diseases.

Holland voiced opposition to what he termed "federalization of our seasonal labor," and said that price controls are unlikely to be extended to cover perishables.

He said Florida must be united in its attempt to complete flood control projects.

Colin D. Gunn of the Soil Conservation Service said his agency will expand its services in Florida this year.

House Committee To Continue Red Probe

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities will continue its inquiry into Communist infiltration among the professions in Southern California when its hearing resumes here Oct. 17.

The hearing was recessed yesterday after a week of testimony from 64 witnesses, including 22 doctors, 25 attorneys, six actors, four writers, a pharmacist, a film studio laborer, a social worker and an "organizational worker."

Of the eight women witnesses, three were actresses and three were attorneys.

Sixty-one of the witnesses refused on constitutional grounds to answer questions regarding membership in the Communist party.

Only three—two writers and an actor—were co-operative. They named some 30 writers and actors, chiefly in radio, as members of a Hollywood "cell" of the party.

After yesterday's session, Miss Betty Selden was fired from her job as a Los Angeles County social case worker, a post she had held for 17 years.

Belated Testimony Protects Grunewald

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald's belated testimony before a federal grand jury in Brooklyn has won him dismissal of a government motion that he be cited for criminal contempt.

The contempt motion against the Washington mystery man was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Matthew T. Abruzzo, who acted at the request of the U. S. attorney's office.

Grunewald first was threatened with the contempt motion last August when he failed to answer a subpoena. He blamed his absence on illness.

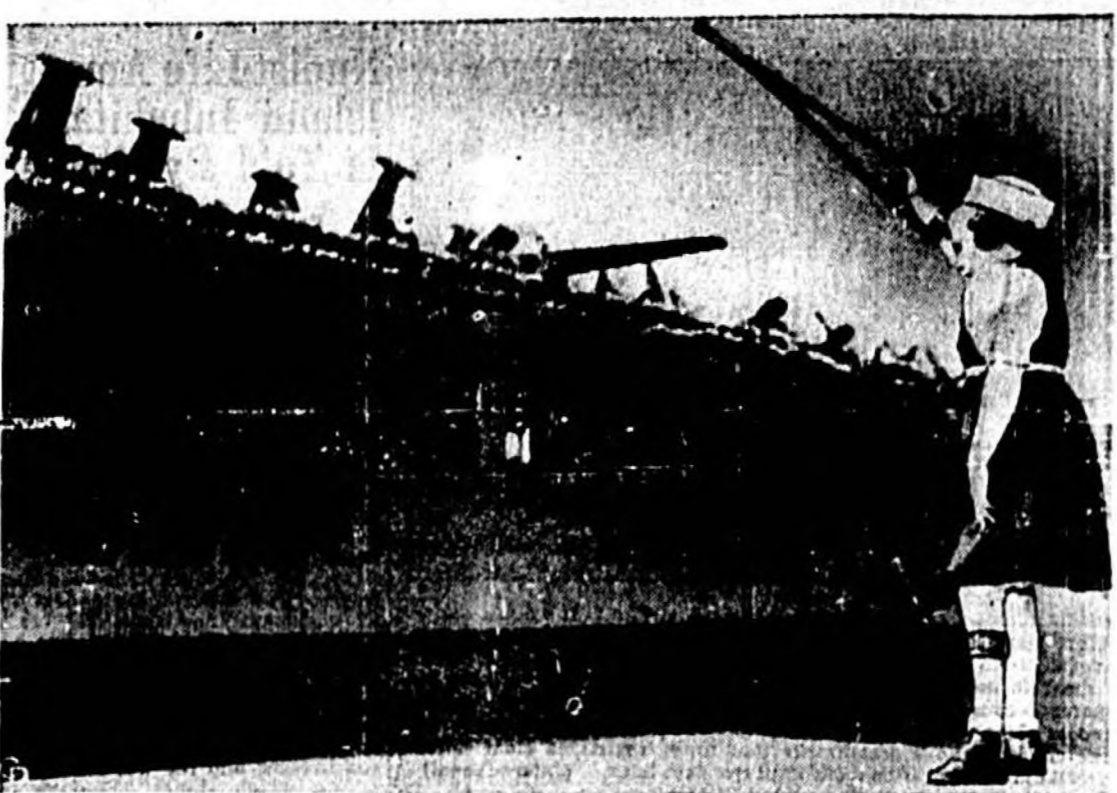

But since that time he has given testimony at six appearances before the grand jury, which is probing tax corruption.

POLO VICTIM Barbara Gay Ward, 7, of San Leandro, Calif., waves her crutch at crewmen aboard the U.S.S. Boxer as the carrier docks at Alameda, Calif., after returning from third combat tour in Korean waters. Barbara was chosen by the men on the ship as their mascot. On the carrier was Aviation Radioman James Patterson who flew the "mother" plane of all five of the radio-guided flights of "drones" craft against enemy targets in Korea. It was one of the factors' most distinguished "firsts." The Boxer still bore evidence of the fire that raged through her hangar deck when a jet plane exploded, killing nine men.

Chinese Seize Hill Top, Mass Fresh Troops

Fanatical Reds Rush Over Slopes With Screams, Curses To Rout Defenders

SEOUL (AP)—Chinese Reds battled their way to the top of White Horse Mountain, Friday night and massed 18,000 fresh troops within easy striking distance of the blood-soaked hill.

Intelligence officers said the Communists could commit two fresh divisions to battle at any time.

The fanatical Chinese stormed up the slopes with screams and curses and pushed valiant South Korean defenders off the ridge line.

The bone-weary U. N. troops scrambled right back to the top and battled the Reds hand to hand in a drenching rain for half an hour before surrendering the crest again.

The wild fighting broke off at 9 p. m. with the Chinese in control. The South Koreans hugged the south slope 150 yards from the top.

Earlier reports said a "hilltop brawl" erupted around the peak in almost pitch darkness. Reds and South Koreans fought it out with grenades, rifle butts and bared bayonets.

It was the seventh time Friday that intense close-in fighting swept across the rugged crest of the vital peak.

A pelting rain started just after dark. It soaked the weary soldiers who have been fighting continuously more than four days.

A front line officer said it was so dark on the crest that the Republic of Korea troops had to grope their way forward to close with the Reds.

He said the South Koreans had one simple rule for fighting in the dark: If they left a heated head in the hand-to-hand fighting they knew it must belong to a Chinese.

Commission To Study Program For City Streets

Plans for renovating Sanford streets may come up for further discussion at the meeting of the City Commission Monday night, Tom Lenton, City Manager, said today, as he outlined matters which will be presented at the session.

Experimental resurfacing projects on First Street and Seminole Street have been completed to ascertain some idea of the overall cost of a full-scale street improvement project, have shown the cost will come to approximately $200 a block on First Street and about $100 a block on Seminole Boulevard.

Rain has delayed the completion of both projects.

These are wide streets, he pointed out, and the cost to resurface them would apply to other, narrower streets in the city, which would cost somewhat less for resurfacing.

He also brought out that sub-surface material in the two experimental streets were in good condition.

Nixon Accepts 'Backbone' As Major Issue

Slur Of Stevenson At General Ike Taken Up By Senator Who Likes Challenge

By DICK HOENIG

ABOARD NIXON TRAIN

SEN. RICHARD NIXON'S 11-hour speech winds through seven Northwestern Pennsylvania cities today with the California senator ready to consider the "backbone" of the presidential race. He indicates a major campaign issue.

The Republican nominee for vice president will give six rear platform talks at New Castle, Meadville, Oil City, Titusville, Corry and Sharon in his second six-hour, 14-hour day plugging for Pennsylvania's 32 electoral votes.

He is scheduled to make a major address at Erie tonight before leaving for a tour of New York State.

Nixon brought up the backbone issue in every one of six speeches through Central and Eastern Pennsylvania yesterday. He explained it stemmed from a statement by Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate, which Nixon said implied Dwight D. Eisenhower lacks backbone.

"I am willing to accept this as a campaign issue," Nixon said. "Where was Stevenson trained in his time? He was trained under Dean Acheson. Never has there been less backbone and more spineless policy than that of the present State Department."

"Stevenson has about as much backbone as Acheson and that is as little as a man can have, in my opinion," he continued.

"The backbone issue of the day before an announced crowd of 16,000 at Wilkes-Barre in the Luzerne County college region, Nixon predicted.

"Stevenson's slur regarding Eisenhower's alleged lack of backbone was as big a technical error as his 'missus' remark," Nixon said. "It will plague him from now until election day."

He attributed to Stevenson the senator's slur regarding Eisenhower's alleged lack of backbone. "It is a slur on Stevenson's part," Nixon said. "The people of the United States as well as 15 million ex-United States will resent this slur against Eisenhower."

Warren made the keynote address before the fourth annual session of the governor's highway safety conference and the first session of the highway safety conference since it opened here today and will continue through tomorrow.

An audience of about 1,200 heard Warren, the two gubernatorial candidates, Dan McCarthy and H. H. McHenry, particularly, told what they have done to promote highway safety and what they plan to do.

"I have done what I could to leave to those who follow me as your governors a sound foundation for a practical, workable safety program," Warren said.

McCarthy praised the highway patrol, urged that the drivers' license laws be strengthened, and asked that "death traps" be eliminated, spots for more driver education in schools and on the job, and that to build bigger and wider roads for safety.

Swan asked for uniform traffic laws throughout the U. S., tighter enforcement of traffic laws and driver education in the schools and homes.

Eisenhower To Make Public Statement On His Finances; Adlai Thinks Reds Thwarted

Stevenson Says Best Way To Keep Russia Off Balance Is To Retain Demo Plans

By JACK HELL

OKLAHOMA CITY, P. Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson turned his campaign headquarters today with the prediction that Russia may abandon its aggressive policies because American-sponsored collective security has "worked so well."

But the Democratic presidential nominee, contained in an address prepared for a City Auditorium rally here that the United States must be on guard against "trickery" in any Soviet attempt to substitute peace for war.

And he declared that even the chance he now sees for long run peace, the "peace" brought all but safely altered if the Republicans win in November and proceed to do what they say they will do.

Heading for New Orleans and an appeal to the Southern States by rebels against the Democratic ticket, Stevenson fired heavy artillery here against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on what the Illinois governor called the principal issues of the presidential campaign—peace and prosperity.

He said if there is any weakening of American defense and foreign assistance programs the Kremlin can change its signals quickly.

"We all know in our bones that it is dangerous to talk tough unless we are ready to act tough," he declared. "The new Republican policy and I am sorry to say this in talking tough while we simultaneously weaken our defenses and alliances."

"That just doesn't make sense to me. That is a sure road to disaster."

He previously had criticized Eisenhower's assertion the United States would "never rest" until the people of the satellite countries were freed. Stevenson said this was "reckless" and that some "reckless action" might be taken by Eisenhower later said he was speaking only of peaceful means, not war.

Stevenson has contended that Eisenhower's call for a 20 billion dollar budget cut would mean a "disastrous" situation.

Accusing the Republicans of trying to trap the bipartisan foreign policy he called into Eisenhower.

"In fact, the campaign has clearly brought out that the Old Guard of the Republican party wants to scrap that bipartisan foreign policy and that the candidate with the new look, the General of the army, has either forsaken his own great past or he has the policy partner of Sen. Taft and some other Senators, particularly recently named Republican members of the Senate Committee on International Relations."

Campaign headquarters were located on the second floor of the Tomberlin Hotel, and Mr. McHenry, secretary of the campaign committee.

In accepting the appointment Mr. Williams said "the people of Florida have showed their support of the past five years. The fact that the public administration left us with a strong economy today, that I think is largely to be credited to the leadership of our Governor, the Florida's senators and representatives in the Congress, have placed a prominent part in making possible this fine record."

"This progress has certainly increased our feeling of national dignity and security," he continued.

"That is the human meaning of the foregoing facts."

Today nearly $2 million American have jobs.

2. High employment and increased production methods have boosted the value of total national output, AFTER all price adjustments, to more than three times the level of 20 years ago.

3. American's personal income AFTER all taxes and AFTER allowing for increased living costs, have on the average almost doubled since 1932 and are 43 percent higher than in 1929, the peak of Republican "prosperity."

"The people of Florida have gained with every one, he continued. We stand to lose with everyone if the Democratic policies which have brought us so far were to be reversed. While I recognize that the Democratic platform contains certain statements that all Democrats do not agree with, I am confident that men like Senator Russell of Georgia, our own Senators Holland and Smathers, and our Congressman A. Safe Highways In State Are Urged In Warren Speech

DAYTONA BEACH (AP)—Florida should aim for the time the state can boast of its safe highways as it does of its weather, Gov. Warren told a combined session of two safety conferences here today.

"If we are going to continue to bring tourists to Florida," said the governor, "we should make our highways safe for them."

Warren made the keynote address before the fourth annual session of the governor's highway safety conference and the first session of the highway safety conference since it opened here today and will continue through tomorrow.

An audience of about 1,200 heard Warren, the two gubernatorial candidates, Dan McCarthy and H. H. McHenry, particularly, told what they have done to promote highway safety and what they plan to do.

Ike Reveals Plan After Reports He Intended Not To Disclose Income Data

PHOENIX, Ariz. — General Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he will make public before the election a report on his financial status.

Arriving at Phoenix, Eisenhower was asked this question.

"May we have an answer directly from you to the question whether you intend to make public election time your income tax returns or a financial statement giving substantially the same information?"

Eisenhower replied, "Of course. If anyone is interested they can have a report as soon as it is completed. It is virtually all a matter of public record anyway."

By DON WHITEHEAD

ERB.—The Eisenhower command was included in count California's 32 electoral votes in the Republican column today after a tumultuous sweep through the state which went Democratic by a narrow margin four years ago.

With 11 states behind him in his current 28-state tour, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower moved early this morning to Albany, where a day's schedule called for appearances in Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz., Albuquerque, N.M., and Salt Lake City, Utah. He left his special train in Phoenix to travel by plane to the Des Moines.

In California the general stirred up a storm of controversy wherever he appeared. His financial disclosure was a promise a promising sign of victory in the state come Nov. 4.

"I think we're safe in predicting a Republican victory," said the general's close advisers.

Los Angeles gave the GOP candidate a roaring reception to match the spectacular San Francisco welcome he received last night. 2,000 people jammed into the Pan Pacific Auditorium to hear him.

An estimated 20,000 stood outside to hear his speech over a public address system.

He promised it elected that the Republicans would promote a program of social welfare which would bring increased security to anything yet achieved under Democratic administrations.

Eisenhower insisted it was time to take a new look at the Social Security law to extend it and to make it fair to all. That is what (Continued on Page Six)
