Lyman Graduate Is Fechtel Aide

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

State Rep. Vince Fechtel (R-Leesburg) and a college student who served as an aide during the last session of the Legislature, were special guests at this week's Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Personality Breakfast.

Fechtel was the guest speaker.

Steve Powell, son of U. S. Army Col. (ret.) and Mrs. Joseph Powell, of Rolling Hills, is a 1974 graduate of Lyman High School, and will begin his second year at Florida State University in the next few days. Powell is majoring in government and plans to become an attorney.

Having met Fechtel while he was president of the senior class at Lyman, Steve made it his business to get in touch with "my representative," while visiting the state Capitol building.

Steve said Fechtel accepted his offer to assist him with research and wherever he was needed. He did research in the Department of Natural Resources concerning the Wekiva River.

"It was a lot of fun," he said, adding that in line with legislation Fechtel was proposing concerning correctional institutions, he got information from other states and put it all together. Much of the research, changed his position and voted against it.

"I go along with the argument that it is not necessary," Steve said, "even though I did not work on that particular project with him. ERA was supposed to pass by 10 votes in the House and it failed 62-38," so maybe a lot of others were listening to the voters too.

"I thought the entire experience was enjoyable," Steve said. "I had an idea that laws are not passed with blinding speed and I found this is true."

"But, it is too easy to pass legislation. Many things would get through that are not necessary," Steve said.

Born in Honolulu, Steve lived for a time in Germany while his father was stationed there and in many places around the continental United States.

"Politics, government, law—the whole area—interests me," he said, adding there has never been a lawyer in the Powell family nor has any close friend been a lawyer.

"You will find a lot of people trying to get into law," he said, "and there are probably enough lawyers in Florida. But, there is always room for good ones."

At Florida State, Steve is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and a member of the Student Senate.

Sims, Feather Dissent In 3-2 Vote

8.6-Mill School Taxes Eyed

By JOE ASKREN
Herald Staff Writer

After hearing a taxpayers' appeal to cut the new $82.2 million budget and seek more financial help for Seminole County's older schools, Board members in a 3-2 vote Wednesday night agreed to advertise an 8.6 millage levy to support the new operational and debt service budgets.

Each mill equals $1 per $1,000 of appraised property value and is used to determine property taxes.

Board members Dave E. Sims and Chairman Robert G. "Bud" Feather opposed the successful motion made and seconded by members E. C. Harper Jr. and Pat Telson.

Feather said he believes more of the budget should be "shaved off" this year when everybody is "tightening their belt." He said the time has come to "fix up our older schools."

"We need to tighten our belt, too," said Feather.

The new budget, down from last year's $52-million, will be advertised Monday along with the eight mill levy for the $39.5 million operational budget and the 8.6 mill levy to pay off or retire 1958 and 1968 bond issues.

A public hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. Sept. 15 on the new school budget and millage and the total 8.6 millage levy will be (Continued on Page 12-A)

Five-Minute Maximum Block Sought

Railroad Crossing Ordinance To Go To Public Hearing

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

A railroad obstruction ordinance limiting trains to five minutes at any Seminole County crossing has been approved for public hearing by county commissioners.

The measure holds railroad personnel liable for any blocks longer than five minutes.

The penalty is a $500 fine and/or 60 days in jail. Commissioners on Tuesday agreed to hold a hearing on the ordinance and instructed County Administrator Bob Ellis to set a date.

Ellis said his office is in the process of setting a hearing.

The ordinance was presented Tuesday by County Attorney Tom Freeman.

Commissioner Dick Williams asked Freeman if the time limit couldn't be cut to three minutes—instead of five at any crossing.

"Couldn't we reduce it to something lower?"

The measure holds railroad personnel liable for blocking an intersection more than five minutes. The penalty is a $500 fine and/or 60 days in jail.

Williams asked.

Freeman said it could be done, but he said it's proper to set the time each train is allowed to block a crossing at "reasonable" limit.

The ordinance is in response to trains blocking the SR 46 crossing, which has caused concern among county residents who have been forced to wait sometimes as long as 40 minutes before crossing near Seaboard Coastline Railroad's Rand Yard.

SR 46 is the main artery from Interstate 4 and the probable route an emergency vehicle would take en route to Seminole Memorial Hospital.

If railroad officials wish to block a crossing longer than five minutes, they must appear before the commission and state the reason, the ordinance provides.

At the next regularly scheduled meeting, the commission will rule on the request.

If the reason is deemed valid, the railroad must take out an advertisement in the local newspaper advising the citizens of the crossing to be blocked, the reason and the length of time.

Modular Construction Firm Prepares Jail Cell Contract Bid

By MICK LOCHRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford modular construction firm is preparing a bid on a $632,950 state contract for prison cells and anticipates submitting other bids on more than $11-million in contracts for additional construction, a spokesman for Standard Systems, Inc., said Wednesday.

The initial contract is to provide an additional 75 cells for Lake County Correctional Institution by the first of 1976, said Percy Folsom, architectural engineer manager with the State Department of Offender Rehabilitation, formerly the Division of Corrections.

Folsom said he expects the state cabinet to award the 75-cell contract in early October.

Ray Hart, Standard Systems controller, said the bid package, with plans and specifications for the contract is being prepared by company production officials and architects. Bids must be submitted by late September, according to Folsom.

Folsom said bid packages for the remainder of the $11.7-million emergency fund for prison additions will be awarded in a "continuing process" for phased construction by February, 1976.

The 1975 state legislature appropriated $11.7-million for additions to four state correctional institutions, including Lake, to relieve overcrowded conditions.

Other prisons include 200 cell additions for Lawdell and Zepherous and a 350 cell addition for Lowell.

Hart said Standard Systems, located at the Port of Sanford, will consider bidding on the remaining three projects.

"Sure, we will be very interested," said Hart of the

Three County Agencies To Split State Funds

Seminole County Commissioners, in an 11th hour decision have designated three agencies to receive almost $18,000 in state funds.

The lion's share of the money—more than $8,000—will go to combat sickle cell anemia. A $1,750 grant is slated for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), and the remainder of the $17,000 was earmarked for training retarded adults.

County Administrator Bob Ellis informed the commission Tuesday this year's application to the state was the Sept. 1. But without agencies designated as fund recipients, the letter of application was held up.

It was at the insistence of Commissioner John Kimbrough that OMAE was appointed to

JUDGE ROBERT WARE

Judge Ware Funeral Set For Friday

Funeral services for former Seminole County Judge Robert W. Ware, 83, who died Tuesday night at his residence at Wesley Manor Retirement Home in St. Johns County, will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, at First United Methodist Church with Rev. Leo King officiating.

A native of Lincoln, Ga., he moved to Sanford in 1925 from Warrenton, Ga., and was a resident of 711 Palmetto Ave. He moved to Wesley Manor four years ago.

He was an attorney, member of First United Methodist where he was first elected in 1925 Sunday School Class which was named in his honor. He was a member of Sanford Kiwanis Club.

Survivors include a son, Rev. H. Melton Ware of Winter Park; five grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

oversee" the agencies, because Kimbrough said the Seminole County programs "must meet state requirements."

The commission was informed that the county is required to make up funds in the event they are "squandered" by one of the designated agencies.

Ellis has had sole responsibility of monitoring the agencies.

Now, the admin. water will be assisted by OMAE. Ellis said he made a number of field trips and checked books to insure himself the recipients were operating by proper county standards.

Kimbrough agreed, but he also insisted Ellis write the state and insure Seminole remaining contracts.

Standard Systems, which moved into a building at the port in May has been idle while waiting on work, according to Hart. He said the firm, based in Winter Park, is in "stand-by status" because of lack of work orders.

The company contracts modular concrete units which can be modified and used for motel rooms, nursing home rooms and jail cells. Hart described the units as "egg crate design."

The Department of Offender Rehabilitation in the spring approved for state use a prototype jail cell constructed by Standard Systems, Folsom said.

Folsom said modular construction firms hold an advantage over other construction methods because of the speed in which modular units can be constructed.

"Someone that's already got their forms for the units set up and made will be the only ones which can have the cells ready by the end of the year," Folsom said. "We've simply got to move people in by the first of the year."

Folsom said if Standard Systems can meet state specifications and price the company "most assuredly will be considered" for the contracts. He said five other firms, some modular construction, had picked up bid packages by Wednesday.

According to Hart, Standard Systems is capable of making 12 cells a day by employing 50 workers. He said 25 people would be hired if the company is awarded the $632,950 contract.

"The initial one (contract) is not anything more than a pilot project," Hart said. He called it "not a big job."

The PUD consists of 782 undeveloped acres and, due to the present economical status in the land development areas, it was felt that it would be advantageous to allow the postponement.

Browning also asked the council to consider the possibility of presenting the development plans in four phases. This will be discussed at a later date.

The resolution authorizing the financing of the fire truck was made public. The cost of the fire truck is $28,000. The city used $57,748 from the general fund. Several proposals were made by Mayor Olliff, one of which was the soliciting of commercial contractors by non-city garbage collection agencies.

The monthly expected expense of running the building is $215, which is close to the existing expense at the present location, according to the mayor.

There will be a public hearing Oct. 6 to discuss the changing of zoning for home occupations and private schools. There will be property up for bid by the city in Mead Manor. Bids must be submitted by 7:30 p.m. Sept. 15.

Teacher, Second Man Charged In Robbery

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer
Sanford police have arrested two men — one of them a teacher at Lakeview Middle School — on robbery charges in connection with a July 31 strong-arm robbery.

Booked at county jail on $10,000 bond each were Sylvester Denmark, 39-year-old vocational instructor, and Alonzo Teague, 21, of 1108 W. 10th St., Sanford.

Denmark was arrested by Detectives Walter Jones and William Bernsby at his 2022 Lake Mary Road residence.

Teague, according to jail records, was arrested at Sanford police headquarters. Police said Denmark and Teague were charged in connection with the July 31 strong-arm robbery of Lou Dritz at his auto parts business at 110 N. Holly Ave., Sanford.

Officers said two men approached Dritz on the pretext of buying parts and one of the men grabbed Dritz about the throat, choking him while saying, 'Give us your cash and you won't get hurt.'

The second man removed Dritz's wallet, taking $250 in cash and credit cards.

Gunman Releases Hostages, Surrenders To Police

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A tense vigil outside a downtown coffee shop ended after 17 hours early today with the release of nine hostages and the surrender of their armed captor.

Robert Roscoe Jr., 33, of Washington, D.C., was to be arraigned in police court later in the day after being taken into custody about 8 a.m. said Albany Police Chief Edward McArthur.

Two of the hostages were John M. Koutellis, 59, and his wife, Angie, 43, owners of the luncheonette. Asked if the gunman ever threatened them, Koutellis said, "No, I can only say the man was a gentleman. That's all."

Police said Denmark and Teague were charged in connection with the July 31 strong-arm robbery of Lou Dritz at his auto parts business at 110 N. Holly Ave., Sanford.

Officers said two men approached Dritz on the pretext of buying parts and one of the men grabbed Dritz about the throat, choking him while saying, 'Give us your cash and you won't get hurt.'

Viking Radio Repaired

CAPF CANAVERAL (AP) — Scientists hope to confirm today their belief that they have solved a problem in the launch system of the second Viking spacecraft and can radio it Tuesday toward Mars.

"With a little luck and good weather, I think we'll be okay to go on the 5th (Tuesday)," said project manager James Martin.

He said specialists Wednesday replaced a tarnished, gold-plated beryllium "bullet" in the cabling of the Viking orbiter which could have caused the loss of sensitivity in radio receivers.

The spacecraft was to have been launched on its journey last Monday to join a sister ship in a probe of the red planet. But officials had to remove the high-gain antenna and cabling system in the orbiter after the sensitivity problem developed.

Police said Denmark and Teague were charged in connection with the July 31 strong-arm robbery of Lou Dritz at his auto parts business at 110 N. Holly Ave., Sanford.

O'Brien Refuses To Help

DETROIT (AP) — James R. Hoffa's foster son has refused to cooperate with a federal grand jury and predicts he will be indicted in connection with the disappearance of the former Teamsters union boss.

Charles L. "Chuckie" O'Brien spent only seven minutes before the grand jury on Wednesday.

He declined to say whether he had invoked the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination, according to attorney said O'Brien refused to answer questions because the probe is drifting into the area of Teamsters union politics rather than sticking to the mystery of Hoffa's disappearance on July 30.

Police said Denmark and Teague were charged in connection with the July 31 strong-arm robbery of Lou Dritz at his auto parts business at 110 N. Holly Ave., Sanford.

Teamster Fund Probed

MIAMI (AP) — Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano, one of the men James R. Hoffa reportedly planned to meet the day he disappeared, is under investigation in connection with a $4-million Teamsters Union pension fund loan to a Florida developer.

Law enforcement sources said the investigation is being conducted by the Justice Department's Newark, N.J., organized crime strike force.

The loan came from a welfare fund for Teamster locals Provenzano once controlled. Since Hoffa's disappearance, authorities are taking a fresh look at transactions involving Teamster pension funds.

Police said Denmark and Teague were charged in connection with the July 31 strong-arm robbery of Lou Dritz at his auto parts business at 110 N. Holly Ave., Sanford.

Church Brainwashing Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Connecticut couple is locked in a legal controversy with the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church over whether the church has brainwashed their 18-year-old daughter.

"Our daughter is not our daughter anymore," Mrs. Ellen Helder of Guilford, Conn., told a D.C. Superior Court judge recently.

The Helderers, who have not seen their daughter since she walked out of their home on Feb. 25 and rejoined the church, have sued the church, claiming the church is holding their daughter against her will.

Police said Denmark and Teague were charged in connection with the July 31 strong-arm robbery of Lou Dritz at his auto parts business at 110 N. Holly Ave., Sanford.

Officers said two men approached Dritz on the pretext of buying parts and one of the men grabbed Dritz about the throat, choking him while saying, 'Give us your cash and you won't get hurt.'

Encephalitis Spurs Calls

CHICAGO (AP) — The encephalitis outbreak in Chicago's south suburbs makes the area's mosquito abatement district look "like a police department during a riot," says a district official.

"People from all walks of life have been calling. Some are irate, others are just plain scared," said James Pauly, the district's general manager.

"Under normal circumstances, we try to check out each complaint. But we've been getting more calls than we can handle. It's like a police department during a riot."

Police said Denmark and Teague were charged in connection with the July 31 strong-arm robbery of Lou Dritz at his auto parts business at 110 N. Holly Ave., Sanford.

Sailors Ask For Bonuses

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Five Navy men stationed here have asked a federal judge to force the military to pay them skill bonuses promised before Congress abandoned the program last year.

Similar suits filed earlier at Richmond, Va., and Los Angeles resulted in court orders to pay the bonuses, which range from $4,000 to $7,000 to a total of $25 in individuals. The Richmond order has been appealed.

An attorney estimated 30,000 personnel are affected throughout the Navy and about $125 million involved.

Fidel Castro Hasn't Changed

The embargo on trade between the United States of America and Cuba remains in force, but there is no denying that our State Department has taken a significant step toward softening its effect. A shift in our Cuban policy is clearly underway.

Technically, our government can insist that it is simply recognizing that many Latin American countries have decided to trade with Cuba, and that it is awkward to insist that subsidiaries of U. S. firms in those countries abide by our trade policies. The State Department can argue that relaxing these indirect restraints is aimed not so much at pleasing Fidel Castro as overcoming a problem in our relations with other Latin American governments.

So be it, but the facts remain that Havana is slowly maneuvering its way out of the economic isolation. The Organization of American States has relaxed its embargo policy, with tacit U. S. approval. Some credit must go to Castro's footwork for bringing this about with no major change in those policies which originally put a chill on Cuban relations in the hemisphere — his alliance with the Soviet Union, and the sponsorship of subversion elsewhere in the Caribbean and Latin America.

The Moscow-Havana axis appears to be as solid as ever, and by coincidence the United Nations provided an example of how Cuban support of subversion does not have to take the form of a Che Guevara leading a band of guerrillas in the Andes. The Cuban delegation came within two votes of getting the 24-member U. N. Decolonization Committee to give formal recognition to an independence movement in Puerto Rico and to condemn the U. S. government for suppressing it.

Cuban diplomats have been trying for years to give the impression that the Castro-supported Socialist Party in Puerto Rico represents an authentic desire for independence by Puerto Ricans. In truth, the party and its pro-independence supporters got less than 5 per cent of the votes in a referendum on the issue in 1968.

Emissaries from Havana also are in the forefront of efforts to build Latin American resentment against U.S. control of the Panama Canal. They were quick on the scene to help the late Salvador Allende try to put the principles of a Castro revolution to work in Chile. The "export" of Castroism from Cuba is not a figure of speech, and it remains an issue that Fidel Castro has not begun to address in his overtures to Washington.

Our government has gone far enough in its response to Castro. Where is the meaningful quid pro quo in this budding exchange? We haven't seen it yet.

Message Of Fear

Weighing the assassination of Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh in the coin of foreign power equations, some observers see a gain for the West. His successor, Commerce and Trade Minister Khondakar Mustaque Ahmad, is considered pro-American.

However, only a gloomy appraisal is possible if the death of the popular prime minister is weighed in moral and philosophical terms. Bangladesh was born in the bloody India-Pakistan war of 1971. It was united in the fervent hope that its people could live under a constitutional democracy. Sheikh Rahman was the epitome of that hope.

His death at the hands of his personal bodyguards cannot help but send messages of fear to every underdeveloped and unstable nation everywhere in the world.

No Action Yet

Noting that none of the 96 Watergate-related bills introduced in Congress during the last two years has passed, Sen. Lowell Weicker asked a pertinent question recently.

"How's that for a two-year congressional record of straightening out the greatest scandal in the history of the United States politics and government?" he queried.

It's a "when-are-you-going-to-stop-beating-your-wife?" question that's also long overdue. Congress either has to say that it's no record at all, or admit that perhaps it wasn't the greatest scandal of all. Well?

BERRY'S WORLD

The confidential investigative files of the Civil Service Commission contain reports on 36 Senators and 32 Congressmen who allegedly pushed GSA to find jobs for their friends.

Federal law strictly prohibits preferential treatment in civil service hiring. There is enough flexibility in the law to permit Members of Congress to endorse job applicants. But the selections are supposed to be made wholly on merit, without political consideration.

The confidential files show that more than 300 people got their jobs at GSA through political favoritism. In fact, GSA created a special unit to handle the illegal patronage referrals.

Although these violations are carefully documented, it took years for the Civil Service Commission to get around to bringing charges against eight GSA officials. But no action has been taken against the Members of Congress, whom the GSA political unit served.

The investigative files finger Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott as the most energetic patronage seeker with more than 60 jobs secured. An investigative report states that GSA maintained "a Senator's file" separate from other political referral files.

"Now the Midwest has lasting peace, just like the one I arranged in Vietnam."

Too many American children are victims of "occupational foreclosure."

So say two researchers with Pennsylvania State University's Institute for the Study of Human Development. As reported in Human Behavior magazine, Sarah I. Vondracek and Elizabeth P. Kirchner polled 282 black and white children in urban day-care centers. The kids, whose ages ranged from three to six, were asked what they wanted to be when they grew up.

Almost 70 per cent projected themselves into adult roles, including specific occupations. But the little girls put themselves into a parental role more often than the boys did. And when naming specific occupations, the girls viewed themselves in such traditional female fields as nursing and teaching, while the boys chose to be doctors, professional athletes, race car drivers, airplane pilots, policemen and firemen.

Like the females, black children also had more limited vocational aspirations, a finding, say the investigators, that is consistent with previous observations that lower-class black youths don't think they have a lot to say about their vocational futures. Blacks and women share a doubt in the "ability to shape one's future and exert influence over one's own life situation."

Equality of opportunity is not enough, conclude Vondracek and Kirchner. Children also need to be taught "equality of aspirations," and educators need to attack the "foreclosure" phenomenon in its roots in the preschool years.

One hesitates to issue a caution against such a proposition. From time immemorial the racist has claimed that blacks would be "happier" if they were not encouraged to strive beyond their allegedly inferior abilities. The same argument was used to oppose the abolition of slavery and the granting of suffrage to women.

Of course, no child's future should be "foreclosed" because of his race, sex or background, and certainly not in the preschool years. The danger would be if social reformers were to go beyond the concept of equality of opportunity and begin demanding equality of achievement as well, placing well-intended but uneven pressures on children in the process.

It's conceivably possible, for example, that some little girls just naturally want to grow up to be mothers.

The U.S. Postal Service is going to give Americans back their geographical identities. Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar has announced that as soon as the required cancelling equipment is available and in place, local postmarks will be applied on outgoing first-class mail at processing centers throughout the country.

It was thanks to the Postal Service, of course, and in the name of efficiency, that the local postmark was sent into oblivion in the first place. Except for a few large cities, the service dropped most postmarks in 1970 and began cancelling stamps in regional mail processing centers.

The U.S. Postal Service is going to give Americans back their geographical identities. Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar has announced that as soon as the required cancelling equipment is available and in place, local postmarks will be applied on outgoing first-class mail at processing centers throughout the country.

It was thanks to the Postal Service, of course, and in the name of efficiency, that the local postmark was sent into oblivion in the first place. Except for a few large cities, the service dropped most postmarks in 1970 and began cancelling stamps in regional mail processing centers.

The Clock

The Sanford-Seminole Jaycees are currently conducting a clothing and school supplies drive, which is to benefit the Redeemer Boys Ranch at Palatka.

The drive is a part of a statewide Jaycee project and will run through Sept. 12.

If you have any clothing or supplies that might be used in schools, such as notebooks, pencils, pens, etc., you may contact any member of the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees or call 322-9091.

Want to learn more about respiratory illnesses

Too many American children are victims of "occupational foreclosure."

So say two researchers with Pennsylvania State University's Institute for the Study of Human Development. As reported in Human Behavior magazine, Sarah I. Vondracek and Elizabeth P. Kirchner polled 282 black and white children in urban day-care centers. The kids, whose ages ranged from three to six, were asked what they wanted to be when they grew up.

Almost 70 per cent projected themselves into adult roles, including specific occupations. But the little girls put themselves into a parental role more often than the boys did. And when naming specific occupations, the girls viewed themselves in such traditional female fields as nursing and teaching, while the boys chose to be doctors, professional athletes, race car drivers, airplane pilots, policemen and firemen.

Like the females, black children also had more limited vocational aspirations, a finding, say the investigators, that is consistent with previous observations that lower-class black youths don't think they have a lot to say about their vocational futures. Blacks and women share a doubt in the "ability to shape one's future and exert influence over one's own life situation."

Equality of opportunity is not enough, conclude Vondracek and Kirchner. Children also need to be taught "equality of aspirations," and educators need to attack the "foreclosure" phenomenon in its roots in the preschool years.

One hesitates to issue a caution against such a proposition. From time immemorial the racist has claimed that blacks would be "happier" if they were not encouraged to strive beyond their allegedly inferior abilities. The same argument was used to oppose the abolition of slavery and the granting of suffrage to women.

Of course, no child's future should be "foreclosed" because of his race, sex or background, and certainly not in the preschool years. The danger would be if social reformers were to go beyond the concept of equality of opportunity and begin demanding equality of achievement as well, placing well-intended but uneven pressures on children in the process.

It's conceivably possible, for example, that some little girls just naturally want to grow up to be mothers.

Astronaut Deke Slayton Released From Hospital

HOUSTON (AP) — Astronaut Donald K. Slayton has been released from the hospital, nine days after surgeons removed a small benign tumor from his left lung.

Slayton, 51, walked from the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute on Wednesday and said he felt "in real good shape."

He was a crew member of the recent Soviet-American flight.

Asked if he would be healthy enough for a planned tour of the Soviet Union later this month, Slayton grinned and said: "Oh hell yes."

Jackie Jackson Sued

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sigmund "Jackie" Jackson of the Jackson Five singing group has been sued for divorce by his wife of nine months.

End Arden Jackson, 21, filed the suit Wednesday in Superior Court. She said she and her 24-year-old guitarist husband had community property worth more than $10 million and asked the court for temporary support of $5,000 a month.

The couple was married last November in Las Vegas and separated Aug. 16. It was the first marriage for each. They had no children.

He Wants Liz 'Happy'

LONDON (AP) — Henry Wynberg, the rejected suitor of actress Elizabeth Taylor, was quoted by the London Daily Mirror today as saying in an interview, "I was her lover... I am still her friend."

Wynberg, a 45-year-old Los Angeles auto salesman, was divorced seven years ago and has an 11-year-old son. He left Miss Taylor last month when the actress rejoined Richard Burton, her fifth husband.

"I want her to be happy, whether with me, Richard or anyone."

Nixon Calls Presley

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Hospitalized entertainer Elvis Presley has received some getwell wishes from former President Richard M. Nixon during a 10-to-15 minute telephone conversation.

"The way it was, Elvis had called Mr. Nixon when he was in the hospital and the former president was repaying the courtesy," Maurice Elliott, vice president of the Baptist Memorial Hospital said Wednesday. "He (Nixon) told the switchboard he was just calling to wish Mr. Presley well." He said the call was made last Saturday.

Presley, 40, was hospitalized Aug. 21 for "exhaustion" and tests.

Vitamin Claims Are Overblown

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please help me with a couple of vitamin questions? Is vitamin B-2 the complex ion, and will B-6 really help one keep his weight down as I've been told?

DEAR READER — Vitamin B-2 is riboflavin. Its most important role is in the complex enzyme system that enables you to turn down your food into carbon dioxide and water to release energy. Vitamins are not energy sources, they function to enable the body to release energy from food, specifically carbohydrates, fats and proteins.

When you have enough for its important role, taking additional amounts will do nothing for you at all. It is like having enough matches to light a candle, an extra box won't help once the candle is lit.

Deficiencies of riboflavin are quite rare, because it is so plentiful in our diet. Milk and milk products are a very rich source. Milk exposed to sunlight loses part of its riboflavin. It is also present in most of all kinds, cereals, including enriched breads, flour, macaroni and spaghetti. It is hard to eat anything like a decent diet without getting enough riboflavin.

If a deficiency does occur it tends to affect the special areas of the skin, around the eyes and the mucous linings as around the lips.

Vitamin B-6, pyridoxine, also affects the skin and complexion. It is involved in enzyme systems used in metabolism. You get it in meats, vegetables and cereals, and it is almost impossible to have a B-6 deficiency if you eat anything like a balanced diet or these food groups.

There is absolutely no truth in the statement that B-6 causes you to lose weight. The truth is that a deficiency of it might cause weight loss because of interfering with normal metabolism.

Excess amounts of B-6 are not stored in the body. They are rapidly eliminated, so taking large doses of B-6 just wastes your money. I am aware of the

Could Vastly Change Power Balance

Huge Oil Boom Developing On China's Mainland

NEW YORK (AP) — An oil boom is developing on mainland China that not only could give the United States an alternate energy source but might trade billions of dollars in trade and jobs for thousands of Americans.

These are among the chief effects of the boom, which might vastly change oil markets and the international power balance over the next decade.

"The Chinese oil boom will not resound suddenly and sharply like a sonic boom," said Harned P. Hoese, an authority on the People's Republic. "It will be more enduring."

"It will rise steadily across Asian and Pacific horizons in the next five years like an advancing thunderstorm," stirring everything it encounters. It could reduce Soviet power in the Far East. Almost certainly it will be felt here.

The U.S. impact is likely to be mainly for the good. Between his ninth and 10th visits to the People's Republic since 1972, Hoese, who is the China representative for a number of U.S. companies, observed: "If just some of the specific projects now being studied by Chinese and Western representatives are consummated, billions of dollars will pour into the U.S. economy and many years of domestic employment will be provided for American labor in the next few years."

Bilingual and bicultural, being a native of China and a resident there for 23 years before the People's Republic was formed in 1949, Hoese not only represents U.S. companies but is a voluntary adviser to Washington.

In fact, he helped brief President Richard M. Nixon before his visit to the People's Republic in 1972. An attorney, Hoese is also a consulting professor of international business at the University of Southern California.

"Heavy preparations now are going on inside China as vast reserves increasingly are being confirmed," he said. Proved and probable reserves might even exceed those for the entire Middle East, he believes.

"Equipment and machinery are being assembled; refining, petrochemical and distribution systems are being expanded; and the Chinese are preparing great petroleum and petrochemical programs."

For the United States this means opportunity, he believes. "Two-way trade can be expected to rise steeply in the next four years on a floodtide of oil."

Will China cooperate with the United States? For all nations says Hoese, cooperation will be only to the degree that China's own national interests and Chinese interests may to some degree dovetail.

"Bearing in mind the geopolitical aspects, such as China's claim to large Russian land areas, the hostile border, the Communist rivalry for Communist world leadership, and the economic factors," Hoese said, "most national interests of China and the United States coincide in Asia and in Eastern Europe."

A substantial number of U.S. oil-related companies already have sent representatives to a series of Canton trade fairs and to Peking, where wide ranges of machinery and technology — even entire plants — have been discussed.

"In all discussions and as to all projects," he found, "the Chinese stress their self-reliance and the absolute requirement that China must own and control its own oil."

Hoese stresses "There will be no joint ventures, as such, and we will not be invited to invest in China's oil," but otherwise, he believes, Americans are bound to be heavily involved — "... as sellers of technology, knowledge, machinery, equipment, and construction materials, and as consultants, some for quite long periods."

"Equipment and machinery are being assembled; refining, petrochemical and distribution systems are being expanded; and the Chinese are preparing great petroleum and petrochemical programs."

For the United States this means opportunity, he believes. "Two-way trade can be expected to rise steeply in the next four years on a floodtide of oil."

Too Many, Even For Hunters

Deer Population Becomes A Nightmare In Vermont

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — The balance of nature is a theory that hasn't worked for more than a century in this pastoral state that's got more deer than it knows what to do with.

The idea may sound like a hunter's dream, but to state biologists trying to manage the size of the herd, it's become a nightmare.

The prospect of more deer dying agonizing deaths from starvation than the hunter's bullet has become reality.

In 1971 alone, an estimated 46,000 deer died from starvation and attacks by dog packs and other animals while only 6,364 were taken by hunters.

"People talk about Mother Nature like she's a living person, but that's just baloney. She hasn't balanced out things here when you have thousands of deer dying of starvation," said Ben Day, the state's chief game biologist.

Vermont's deer population is rapidly approaching 200,000 — nearly four times the size of neighboring New Hampshire's herd.

Biologists agree that Vermont's overpopulation is a result of the state's 10-year-old law which allows hunting of only male deer. Hunters in New Hampshire, which has a season of about equal duration, may take both buck and doe.

And Vermont leads all states in number of deer killed by vehicles per highway mile—2,163 in the state last year, say authorities.

Deer yards — the herds' winter feeding areas — have become overpopulated, over-browsed and in many places, stripped of food. The situation is approaching the problems that existed in 1965 when the state's deer herd grew to more than a quarter-million.

"The winter ranges were pruned bare in 1965 and 1966, and since that time the yards have gotten into even worse condition. The condition of our winter ranges now is worse than I've ever seen it," said Day.

Ten years ago, the state legislature eased the century-old moratorium and allowed limited female deer hunting seasons for a five year period. Between 1965-70, just under 25,000 female deer were taken.

"That figure was, needless to say, just a drop in the bucket. We could have had 25,000 taken in one year and not felt it," said Day.

After the five years of special seasons and the bad winter of 1970-71, the state's herd dropped to about 150,000 deer. But it has grown steadily the past five years.

"Now, the deer herd will continue to grow until we're hit on the head with another bad winter," Day said.

As a biologist, Day does not see severe winters and nature as solutions for the overpopulation.

"People ramble on about this being nature's way. They rationalize away deer dying in the woods of starvation. That's a long, long ordeal and it takes a month to die like that," he said.

Each winter, Vermont deer deplete the first and second levels of their food chain, and fall back on starvation level food before the weaker deer die.

"They devastate the yards. Everything that one day might become green is eaten. They chew the bark off trees for as high as they can reach," Day said.

Forest damage caused by starving deer has been roughly estimated at about $1 million, and the herds are now moving onto farmland for winter survival.

The Vermont Fish and Game Department feels future seasons to reduce the population would result in significant drops in the annual starvation rate and eventually, an increase in the stature of the herd.

Since 1965, management of the herd has been a legislative responsibility — a task which some state biologists feel should be within their department.

Each year, the department goes through the ritual of asking the legislature for an anti-leasing season — but only 10 such limited seasons have been approved in the past 110 years.

Cambodia World's Newest No-Man's Land

The Herald Services LONDON— The emergence at long last from Cambodia of a Red Khmer delegation, on a visit to China, suggests that the beginnings of stability are returning to that country after the chaos which followed the Red Khmer's victory in April.

It also shows to whom in the communist world the Red Khmers feel their first allegiance. It is China.

China, after all, was their chief arms supplier during the war. The Soviet Union, on the other hand, incurred the Red Khmers' wrath by its persistent refusal to shut down its Embassy in Phnom Penh, then the capital of Marshal Lon Nol's government; and North Vietnam, though it has a hard core of supporters in the Red Khmer hierarchy, still suffers from the old distrust between Cambodians and Vietnamese.

But the goodwill visit to China, and the ministerial appointments announced by Phnom Penh radio on August 13, shed only a few glints of light on those obscure men who dominate revolutionary Cambodia. Since he is one of two leaders chosen to visit China, it must be assumed that Khieu Samphan, the French-educated Marxist who commanded the Red Khmer's troops in the civil war, is still a figure to reckon with.

But the Phnom Penh broadcast announced the appointment of Sen Sen, the former chief of staff, to the post of vice-premier in charge of defense, which suggests a reduction in Samphan's powers. And Samphan's companion on the visit to China is Leng Sary, widely regarded as a pro-Hanoi hardliner, who has now been made vice-premier in charge of foreign affairs.

This is no surprise, for the uncompromisingly brutal way in which the Red Khmers brutalized Cambodia after their victory in April bears the stamp of this inflexible communist, who rammed through collectivist-held areas during the war and whom Prince Sihanouk finds "too Stalinist".

The dour Leng Sary's continued promise is a blow to the hopes of moderation, not to mention Prince Sihanouk's hopes — if he still has any — of returning to Cambodia as more than a figurehead. But the man many people think is the real authority in Cambodia today continues to tell. It is now becoming clear that, in addition, several thousand Cambodians have crossed into South Vietnam over the past four months, preferring the potential hostility of the Vietnamese communists to life under the Red Khmers. Journalists who recently left Saigon say the authorities there stopped them reporting this mass exodus.

In Thailand, there are now at least 7,000 Cambodians, with more trickling over the frontier every day. So far no western journalist has been able to go more than a few yards into Cambodia to check the stories of hardship they bring out, but when peasants with no political axe to grind come over the border at points hundreds of miles apart telling similar tales, it seems likely that they are reporting some of the truth.

The main towns were forcibly evacuated after the Red Khmer victory, and are still largely deserted. The bulk of Cambodia's 7 million people are living in forest camps or among the paddy-fields. Even the villages along the main highways have been emptied as part of the communists' attempt to tear down all the old social system. In their shanties people are quite cut off; the shortage of radio batteries means that fewer and fewer of them can even listen to Phnom Penh radio.

There seems to be little political indoctrination, although anonymous local leaders give frequent evening lectures on agricultural production.

day is said to be a generous ration. Refugees say they eat berries and roots and, if they are not too weary after a grinding day's labour in the fields, they fish. There are no medicines available. The Red Khmers encourage the sick to use traditional herbal remedies. They have banned travel inside the country and punish those who violate the ban.

Some of the bosses were not on their own initiative, to avoid interruption by executives taking telephone calls.

Of course, the secretaries don't understand about the realities of business. The boss is actually using these long lunches to solve the really important problems of British business, such as how to raise productivity, reduce waste and stop inefficiency.

Secretaries View Their Bosses

The Herald Services LONDON— If participation ever reaches the office, the bosses had better watch out.

A survey of 368 secretaries by the Alfred Marks Bureau, an employment agency, reveals that many secretaries think their employers are guilty of an monumental waste of their own time (which now costs between $3.20 and $3.50 an hour according to Marks) of paper, space and almost everything else.

A third of them think there are too many bosses anyway. Many complain of unnecessary letters sent when a communications slip would do (42 per cent of secretaries alleged this); needless copying to other executives (47 per cent); bosses who alter the meaning of letters after typing (34 per cent); continual retyping of drafts (25 per cent); large-size paper for short letters (33 per cent); needless photo-copying (31 per cent).

Secretaries also complained of unnecessary and showy furniture (49 per cent said their company had some which was unused) and excessive expensive entertaining by executives (34 per cent).

Only 34 per cent of bosses gave girls work in the morning on their own initiative, to avoid an afternoon lull; 26 per cent were not even when the girls asked them.

Some of the bosses were not actually using these long lunches to solve the really important problems of British business, such as how to raise productivity, reduce waste and stop inefficiency.

Oil Boom Developing On Mainland Of China

BY JOHN CUNIFF
The Herald Services

NEW YORK (AP) — A mainland China oil boom is developing that holds prospects for vast world change with a decade, including an alternate energy source for the United States, a China authority and business negotiator believes.

The boom could also mean billions of dollars of trade and thousands of jobs for Americans, said Harned Pettus Hoose, who was born and raised in China and who represents a number of U.S. companies in business dealings there.

Discoveries and developments on the mainland, including completion of a long pipeline and the deepening of harbors, already portend the emergence of the People's Republic from an oil-scarce nation to one of huge surpluses.

Among the long-range effects foreseen by Hoose, who is a voluntary non-governmental adviser to U.S. government departments and who helped prepare President Richard M. Nixon for his trip to the People's Republic:

— A loosening of the Mideast oil monopoly power; a hastening of the industrial development of China; a massive economic challenge to the Soviet Union in Asia and the Pacific.

Of immediate significance, he believes, is that within a few years American, Japanese and European industries are likely to be heavily involved as sellers of technology, machinery, equipment, construction materials and advice.

"When the oil boom breaks open upon world markets, probably in the very early 1980s, the People's Republic will be one of the world's great oil powers," Hoose said in a brief visit here.

"China has enough petroleum and natural gas resources to floodlight Asia and more, and to export on a large scale," said Hoose, a Los Angeles attorney who spent 23 years on the mainland prior to the republic's formation in 1949.

In 10 trips to China since 1972 — he is there now — Hoose has developed sources at the highest level of Chinese industry, one of whom told him this summer that China's proved and probable reserves are larger than those now reported for the entire Mideast.

Although China's production of crude was negligible before 1957, and self-sufficiency was achieved only in the late 1960s, a serious export program began in 1972 with deliveries of oil to Japan.

China produced 65 million tons of crude in 1974, which placed it just behind Indonesia as the world's 13th largest producer. Hoose said he was informed reliably that 1975 crude production would be about 85 million tons.

Lola Gets Marriage, Apartment

By JAN MONAHAN
Herald Staff Writer

Herman Wallstrom says he's found out what the song, "Whatever Lola Wants, Lola Gets" really means.

He and Mrs. Lola Crews were married Saturday. They met just four weeks ago!

That's when Mrs. Crews first came to Bram Towers in Sanford. At that time, all she WANTED was an apartment in the Federal Housing Project for senior citizens. Wallstrom was visiting friends up north and it was understood that he would be moving to Miami when he returned. So his apartment was promised to Mrs. Crews. But in the meantime, Wallstrom had decided to stay on at Bram Towers.

"The next thing I knew," says Wallstrom, "she was knocking on my door wanting to meet this man who wouldn't let her have an apartment."

And Saturday, with over 100 family and friends attending the first ceremony ever performed in Bram Towers, Herman who really says he's 72, took Lola, who's "quite a bit younger than I am," as his wedded wife.

The Rev. Joe Webb of Lake Mary officiated at the afternoon ceremony. The bride wore a long blue gown with a bodice of white eyelet.

Witnesses for the couple were Wallstrom's long-time friend,

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wallstrom wed at Bram Towers

Stephen Yates and the bride's granddaughter, Pamela Crews.

The new Mrs. Wallstrom has two daughters who live in Miami, a son James C. Crews, in Sanford and eight grandchildren. When asked what she would say if one of her daughters decided to marry after a three week courtship, her reply was, "She would be young and foolish; I'm old and lonesome."

They both agree that their age and experience make a big difference. Wallstrom explains, "In younger, courting days couples spend so much time billing and cooing they don't have time to talk about the facts of life. We've seen each other every day since we met and think we know each other pretty well."

With the exception of their tastes in food... "I like my meat well done, he likes his rare," says Mrs. Wallstrom, "they find they have a lot in common including their birthdays which are really only a day apart in July. There's also that important fact that 'We love each other.'"

But they did have one problem. Lola had finally secured an apartment three floors directly above Wallstrom's. Again, Wallstrom gave in to Lola. "You know all the things women collect," he says. "All I had to do was find a suitcase that would hold a suit and a pair of pants and we moved into her apartment."

Following the ceremony the couple left on a wedding trip to San Francisco.

'Music Man' To Open Theatre Season

WINTER PARK — Meridith Wilson's classic musical "The Music Man" will open the 1975-76 Rollins College Annie Russell Theatre season with performances set for Oct. 16-18 and 22-23. The performance will be one of five major productions revolving around the country's Bicentennial theme.

Centered around rural America at the turn of the century, "The Music Man" features the shenanigans of Professor Harold Hill as he tries to hoodwink the townspeople of River City, Iowa, and gets hooked in the process.

The second performance of the season, slated for Dec. 4 and 11-13, is "The Front Page" which promises to provide a full evening of irresistible comedy and thrills. "The Front Page," authored by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, is set in a Chicago newsroom and explores the seamier side of journalism and politics in the mid-west during the '30's.

"The Rainmaker," scheduled for Jan. 29-31 and Feb. 5-7, depicts a touching romantic tale, told with incredible skill by N. Richard Nash. In the midst of a severe drought in the west, the swashbuckling Starbuck rides into the lives of a rancher family, his two sons, and only daughter, who despairs of becoming an old maid. The silver-tongued Starbuck persuades the rancher that he can bring rain for a fee, and in the process, awakens the girl to the realization of her own inner beauty.

The classic American play, "The Little Foxes" will be the fourth production of the season scheduled for March 18-20 and 22-27. Written by Lillian Hellman, "The Little Foxes" is an engrossing story of a rapacious and scheming southern family. Rounding out the season will be Dion Boucicault's "The Streets of New York" set for the stage May 6-8 and 13-15. The musical will be performed in true melodrama style with the setting in New York during the '90's.

For information and tickets phone the Annie Russell Theatre Box Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Schweickert celebrate 50 years together

Their Hair Has Turned To Silver As They Celebrate Golden Years

By DORIS WILLIAMS DIETRICH
Herald Correspondent

"When your hair has turned to silver, I will love you just the same..." has been the theme song of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph (Marian) Schweickert for half a century. The couple reaffirmed their wedding vows at Lake Mary Church of the Nativity Sept. 2, the date of their golden wedding anniversary.

A celebration Sunday at Sanford Moose Lodge No. 1851 honored the couple on this memorable occasion. Mickey Goff registered about 250 guests who called during the appointed hours, 2-8 p.m., to dine from a buffet prepared by community friends and dance to the music of an orchestra.

Marian greeted the guests in a gown fashioned with a gold metallic skirt and champagne lace bodice enhanced with a gold arch corsage. Ralph wore gold slacks and a gold carnation boutonniere in the lapel of his off-white jacket.

The unique decorations, under the direction of Donna Davis and Pat Christie, carried out a gold and white motif. The cake table was centered with a four-tiered cake accented with gold candelabra and two floral arrangements. Also on display were the couple's original wedding portrait and other treasured memorabilia of 50 years.

Hosting the event with community friends were the honored couples children attending with their families. These included Mary Ann Buonanno, Akron, N.Y.; Lois Liams, Green Cove Springs; Eleanor Woodward, Lake Mary; and sons, Edward, Mattland; and Louis, Lake Mary. Betty Beasley of Santee, Calif., was unable to attend and two other children are deceased.

Married in Springville, N.Y., Sept. 2, 1925, the Schweickerts lived there until they moved to Lake Mary 20 years ago. They have 37 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

A lifetime Moose member, a former builder and contractor, Ralph built the present Moose Lodge nearly 15 years ago. He still works parttime and enjoys gardening.

Marian, who said she had been "only a housewife" all her life is also an avid gardener. She grows orchids and at one time had 600 orchid plants.

Daughter, When Lonely, Has To Sleep With Dad

DEAR ABBY: My brother's wife recently died leaving him with a 13-year-old daughter. When the child feels unhappy, afraid or lonely, or when there are houseguests and a shortage of beds, her father allows her to sleep with him. (This occurs every two weeks.)

He says he doesn't want her to grow up remembering that her father made her stay alone at night when she was blue or upset. He worries about her emotional security as she has demonstrated a fear of losing her parents since she was adopted as an infant. The recent death of her mother was very traumatic for her.

Could you or your readers offer some experiences that would enlighten this father or me?

DEAR SIS: Under NO circumstances should a 13-year-old girl be sleeping with her father. In fact, my psychiatric consultants state that beyond the age of four, no child should sleep with a parent of the opposite sex. If your brother tries to justify his actions, he desperately needs professional help.

No doubt he is also lonely, but substituting his daughter for his wife (which he could unconsciously be doing) is sick.

DEAR ABBY: We are the parents of a 1-year-old daughter. We both work and do not plan on having any more children.

How do you feel about raising an only child? I am tired of hearing that it's "unfair" to our daughter to be raised as an only child.

We feel that as long as she gets plenty of love and discipline she will be all right. Have you any statistics to support or oppose raising an only child?

TULSA PARENTS: Don't look for statistics. You have the right idea.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I had dinner at an expensive restaurant and the total bill (for eight people) came to $60.

When the waiter handed me the bill he whispered, "A 10 cent tip is not included in the bill."

Is it proper for a waiter to try to hustle a tip this way? He caught me off guard.

WONDERING: DEAR WONDERING: It was not only "improper" but a good way for the waiter to lose his job. You would have done him a favor had you warned him of the consequences.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 8970, S.A., Calif. 95049. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Write to write letters: Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 122 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212; for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (10 cent) envelope.

Scarves Get 'Rope-Wrapped'

The newest scarf look for fall is "rope-wrapped." To get it, fold a square scarf (cotton one works best) into a triangle, then into an oblong length and twist the scarf over and over until it's a tight rope-like coil. This around your neck, making a square knot and leaving the ends free or tucking them under the coil as shown above, right. Note the fall hairstyle is still soft and full, with a lot of interest over the forehead.

A terrifically ombred T-shirt (above left) makes the perfect foil for a double rope-wrap. Instead of a square scarf, use a long thin one. Twist it into a rope-wrap, loop it twice around the neck and tuck into top of T-shirt, a beetle pin and stunning straw hat give that every-day-top a really dressed-up look.

Creative Aggression Classes Set

As a follow-up on the workshop on Creative Aggression conducted by Dr. George Bach, the author of the book "Creative Aggression, Adult Education at Seminole Community College (SCC) is offering a series of classes on the subject.

The first course of the series, "Introduction to Creative Aggression," will meet on Tuesday evening, from 7:00 p.m. in Room H-113 on the S.J.C. campus, beginning on Sept. 9 and ending on Oct. 23. The instructor will be Dominick J. Soll, who has been involved in several previous workshops with Dr. Bach. Soll will discuss the principles behind Creative Aggression, and teach the technique of learning to fight and argue as a valuable skill in improving relationships in the family. The principle recognizes that it is normal to

Tips For Do-It-Yourself Home Canners: Be Sure Goods Are Fresh, Sound, Clean

Despite occasional discovery of contaminated food in commercially-canned products, more often than not cases of food poisoning have resulted through improper home-canning procedures.

Here are some safety guidelines on home-canning methods for the do-it-yourself home-canner, as reported by the Health Insurance Institute.

Always see to it that only young, fresh and sound products are chosen. Do not use overripe fruit since they lose acidity, and always make sure there are no soft spots or bruises. Never overpack as this could lead to underprocessing and spoilage.

Your utensils should be thoroughly clean and a high level of sanitation should be maintained through the canning process.

Meat, poultry and most vegetables should be processed in a pressure canner. Be sure, however, that it is in proper working order and that each step of the canning process including time and temperature directions is followed rigorously.

It is unsafe to can meat, poultry, or vegetables in a boiling-water bath, an oven, a steamer without pressure, or an open kettle. None of these methods, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture home economists, will heat these foods enough to kill dangerous bacteria in a reasonable time.

There are some exceptions: Tomatoes and pickled vegetables and fruits can be processed in a boiling-water-bath canner. The Department of Agriculture recommends when canning tomatoes to mix citric acid — one quarter teaspoon to the quart, to make doubly-sure that botulism will not occur.

Generally, all vegetables, pressure-canned or not, should be boiled for at least 10 minutes after the jar is opened and before its contents are tested. Spinach and corn should be boiled for 20 minutes.

If you are not absolutely confident about your pressure canner usage and your canning technique, it is suggested that you boil home-canned meats even before tasting. Heating often makes any spoilage odor more noticeable.

In fact, if you suspect any food is contaminated, don't try to confirm it by tasting. It may turn out to be dangerous.

For specific directions on fruit and vegetables, write to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Ask for Bulletin G-1 and enclose 45 cents. For directions on canning meat and poultry, enclose 30 cents and ask for Bulletin G106 at the same office.

Homemakers To Host Convention

Florida will play host to more than 2,500 Extension Homemakers Sept. 14-18, when the 39th Annual Conference of the National Extension Homemakers Council meets in Orlando.

Louise Gill, Seminole County's extension home economics agent, will be participating in the conference. Also taking part will be Rae Artman, local Homemakers Council president; Phyllis Branson, serving as Seminole County Committee chairman in charge of pages, hostesses and ushers; and Florida Day hostess, Ellarae Roderick.

There are still about 20 vacancies to be filled and Homemakers interested in serving as pages, hostesses and ushers are urged to contact Mrs. Branson as soon as possible.

Florida's official gift to delegates will be plastic rainbonnets decorated with a Florida citrus motif. Fifty of these bonnets were made by local Homemakers.

The conference theme — "Wonderful World of Women" — will be woven into the week's program. "We hope to create a greater understanding of woman's role to self, family, community and the world at the conference," said Dr. Olive L.

Merrill, assistant dean, Home Economics Programs, Florida Cooperative Extension Service. Miss Lora Kiser, Extension Home Economist, and advisor to the Florida Extension Homemakers Council, is coordinating the conference.

Extension Homemakers from 43 states and Puerto Rico will participate. A delegation of more than 500 Florida Extension Homemakers will be hostesses for the National meeting. Conference headquarters are the Sheraton-Towers Hotel.

Mrs. Martin Muchow, President of the National Extension Homemakers Council, of Sioux Falls, will open the general session at 8 p.m., Sept. 15. Mrs. Myrtle Esser and Daniel H. Kruger, Consider how public interest is affected by licensing practices and policies.

It's Back To School For Consumers, Too

By VIRGINIA KNAUER
Herald Services

This is the time of year when students of all ages "get back to the books" after the summer vacation season.

Some books, of course, are required reading for some classes. Other books are on lists for suggested reading. Others are books you read just for fun or for your own information.

From time to time I have used this column to list different types of books that consumers — whether enrolled in a school or not — might find informative and stimulating. Here is an updated selection for the "back-to-school" consumer.

Consumer Complaint Guide 1975, Joseph Rosenbloom. Tells people where to write when they have complaints.

Consumerism: Search for the Consumer Interest. Edited by David A. Aker and George S. Day. Contains 38 reading selections.

Consumer Sourcebook. Edited by Paul Wasserman. A directory and guide to Federal and state government offices, associations, media services and businesses.

Consumer Survival Kit Adapted by John Dorfman from a television series on the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting. Tells what to look for and what to avoid in food, clothing, shelter, money and other consumer goods and services.

Economic Issues for Consumers. Roger L. Miller. Unusually readable textbook covering basics of personal finance in addition to consumer issues of a practical nature, such as making decisions about children, the credit maze and using small claims courts.

Great American Blow-Up! Puffery in Advertising and Selling. Ivan L. Preston. Raises questions about advertising, such as why laws exist that permit sellers to make false claims.

Information Seekers. The H. Thorelli, H. Becker and J. Englewood. Contrasts consumers who are information-minded with the average consumer. Points out differences in how they buy.

Occupational Licensing: Practices and Policies. Benjamin Shimbreg, Barbara F. Esser and Daniel H. Kruger. Considers how public interest is affected by licensing practices and policies.

Poverty in the Dual Economy, A Dale Tussing. Explanation of poverty in terms of why it is better to be poor in a poor society than where the majority is well-to-do.

School Board Votes To Advertise 8.6-Mill Tax Levy was dropped July 1) is earmarked for improving and upgrading the county's older schools.

One resident told Laver the board "can't take credit" for the four mill reduction "since it was voted by the people."

"We have no need for new buildings any longer," said Laver.

Laver said he believes the new budget "is not extravagant in any way," and "it will meet the capital outlay and operational needs for the coming school year."

He said this year's $39,303,412.59 operational budget, up $4 million over last year's, is due to the increased and anticipated increases in utility costs.

Roger Harris, assistant superintendent for finance said the opening of four new schools this year alone amounted to 11 per cent of the rise in maintenance and operational costs.

Harris said more than $4-million coming from the total

$6.8-million capital outlay portion of the budget (which involves no new tax dollars this year), is actually earmarked to upgrade and improve the county's older schools.

"This is our major thrust this year," said Harris.

Harris said last year only about a half million dollars went to improve older schools, since most of last year's $14.7-million capital outlay budget was used to build new schools. Included in this year's $6.8-million capital outlay budget is $1.4-million of state money and $5.4-million "carrier over" from $4,964,260.78 in local capital improvement money from dropping the four mills, and $319,989 from state funds, according to Harris.

The school board's debt service budget, which requires the .6 millage, rose from $3,018,876 last year to $3.2 million this year. And the federal carryover budget has increased from $366,243 last year to $803,692.84 for this year, Harris said.

Harris said the total utility costs for the county school system is up 35 per cent over last year. The breakdown of utility costs for the new budget includes:

- $300,000 for electricity, gas and water
- $1,391,400 for telephone and grease
- $113,600 for telephone service
- $90,300 for fuel oil

Harris said the average homeowner's property value

Harris explained the increase in the county's tax base after one Spring Lake Hills resident said he is "frustrated" with what he termed a 48 per cent raise in the tax base. Harris said this is what the figure would have been "if there had been no new additions to the tax roll."

"The state legislature has played a few games with the taxpayers millage rate in the last three or four sessions," said Laver.

Lyman To Jam Tonight

LONGWOOD— Dick Copeland hopes to learn something about his Lyman High School football team tonight.

The Greyhounds play Boone in one quarter and Colonial in another in the Metro Conference jamboree at Evans High. The jamboree begins at 6, but the Greyhounds have the last two time slots — 9:30 and 10:30.

Coach: Greyhounds Will Surprise People

Every so often Dick Copeland gets a gut feeling about one of his teams. He didn't have it last year, but did immediately before that 10-0 season when Ricky Browne was a junior. Ditto for an 8-2 and three 7-3 seasons.

In short, he's had it only about half the 13 years he has been head coach at Lyman High School, and this fall happens to be one of them.

"I can't explain it," he said Wednesday afternoon at the school in Longwood. "But I know we are going to surprise some people."

Copeland was shocked to learn that that of the seven opposing Metro Conference coaches, six picked Lyman last in a preseason poll.

Last year's 3-7 record must still be on their minds. To be certain, Lyman is no favorite in the tough Orlando league, but for the Greyhounds to finish last with a well-balanced team like this year's they would have to field their junior varsity.

If Copeland is all smiles at this early state of the campaign, it is because coaches simply love to be picked last in anything. They, regardless of the outcome, they can keep smiling.

Copeland isn't predicting an undefeated season or anything of the sort. He simply feels he has a winner at hand. Reading between the lines, he is probably thinking of a strong conference contender with a 7-3 or 8-2, but he didn't say it.

"Too many variables," he added. "An injury to Jerry Human, Bob Riazzi or Bob Burkhardt would mean we lost someone we can't replace. It could be crippling."

Understandably, the native of Tennessee quickly changed the subject.

"I'm going to stop drawing for the time slot in jamborees," said Copeland, referring to the fact his team had the last two quarters tonight in the eight-way affair at Evans High.

Seems for the third straight jamboree, Lyman has drawn the same time slots.

Same time, different chance?

Haynes' Hunches

"Right," said Copeland.

Copeland, his brown hair neatly in place, picked his words carefully, but with a great deal of ease. Next week, with game time upon him, he will probably be just as relaxed, because that is his nature.

It was a coon's age ago that Copeland and Carlton Henley started out as assistants at Hamblin, Tenn. Henley is now Lyman's principal. Copeland, a halfback in his playing days for Bethel College, coached Shelbyville, Tenn. teams to 8-2 and 9-1 finishes before making the transition south to rejoin Henley.

Though the years Copeland has been one of the backbone coaches in Seminole County. He has had some great teams, to be sure. But he isn't among the number who have permitted greed for personal glory to dim his ideals.

The Copeland philosophy, according to Dick, is a firm belief that the most important ideals he can instill in a young man's mind is that winning is important, but that there are other things which carry more weight.

"Learning to get along with your fellow man is one of them," said Copeland. "Now don't get the idea we don't try and win. But when you stand back and evaluate everything, love of one another is more important than winning a game. The football thing isn't going to last forever, but the other lessons will be with a player for the rest of his life. The moral aspects of football are the most important phases of the game."

followed by a barbecue supper at 5:30 and introduction of the football team.

In case of rain activities will be held in the school cafeteria.

Principal Carlton Henley, at a meeting of the Athletic Boosters Club Tuesday night, lauded the group for having raised $206,000 over the past 13 years for things necessary to the school's athletic program. Currently the club owes $30,000, which was borrowed to complete the $45,000 Junior Olympic swimming pool at the school.

Officers of the organization noted Booster funds come primarily from concession stands manned for the most part by football parents.

The principal added that football is the only athletic program that pays for itself, and many of the other programs as well.

Bryant: Rule Evens Things For Everyone

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — "The big thing is that it will even it up for everybody," Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama said after a federal judge revised new rules on the size of football teams Wednesday night.

The judge threw out an Aug. 15 ruling adopted at a special convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association that limited travel expenses to 48 members and home squads to 60.

This rule, said U.S. District Court Judge Sam C. Pointer, was contrary to the NCAA's bylaws which indicate that all rules "be in line with fair competition."

Pointer changed it to allow each opponent to field 60 players in a game and extended his temporary order to all NCAA members, although the suit had been brought by the University of Alabama.

His ruling is effective immediately.

An attorney for the NCAA said after the four-hour hearing that he was sure everyone will abide by the order and that any further steps would be up to the NCAA after it studied the matter.

Missouri, which meets Alabama in a nationally televised game at Birmingham Monday night and Auburn, Alabama's final opponent of the season, had entered the case as friends of the court.

Bryant said after the ruling that he appreciated Missouri and Auburn coming to his side and added: "Not many want to buy chickens but there'll be a lot of people wanting in on the gravy. A lot of people will be mighty happy."

Alabama had asked that all squad limitations be thrown out, contending that its practice of playing well over 60 in most games had helped in recruiting and had reduced injuries.

The NCAA had adopted the limitation as an economy measure. Pointer said. "The evidence on economy is tenuous," but also ruled out Alabama's contention that the rule would force it to break verbal contracts with the signees.

Bryant said during his 70 minutes on the witness stand that all Crimson Tide signees were told they would have good opportunity to play because of the large numbers his team used.

The judge denied Alabama's claim that the NCAA violated its own methods of making changes in adopting the 48-60 rule.

Pointer said his ruling also applied to other sports — that the NCAA cannot require any school to field fewer people than an opponent.

Coaches Laud Judge's NCAA Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

News of a federal judge's ruling in Tuscaloosa, Ala., got Johnny Majors out of bed.

"It was worth it," the University of Pittsburgh football coach said.

U.S. District Court Judge Sam Pointer ruled late Wednesday night that college teams will be allowed to field 60 players each in football games this fall. The temporary injunction, sought by the University of Alabama, was made a stay action matter and applied to all National Collegiate Athletic Association schools.

The NCAA had adopted a rule Aug. 15 limiting traveling squads to 48 members and home teams to 60 players.

"I cannot allow the association to enforce the 48 and the 60 rules together," Pointer said, "so I am applying the 60 limitation to both teams."

The ruling was immediately welcomed by the majority of the nation's major college football coaches.

"I'd like to shake the hand of the judge who made that ruling," said John McKay, coach and athletic director at Southern California. "You don't change the rules on kids who were recruited already."

At the University of Iowa, Coach Bob Comings said the injunction "is a marvelous thing. The NCAA limit was asinine in the first place."

Majors, whose Panthers open the season this Saturday at Georgia, said he has already posted his travel squad for the game. "But my first priority in the morning will be to check it. I don't believe there will be major changes, but there might be five or six additions."

Because the ruling was made only three days before the opening of the collegiate football season, Majors said he anticipates some difficulty in looking travel arrangements for more players.

North Carolina State Coach Lou Holtz said "it's tough enough to play away from home as it is without having the disadvantage of having 12 less players."

However, not all coaches, athletic directors and college presidents were pleased with the decision.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno said he approved the 48-player rule because it was aimed at saving schools money. And although Michigan Athletic Director Don Canham said he agreed with Alabama's opposing the NCAA rule, "I'm sorry they took it to court. I didn't think that was the way to get things changed."

Miami Dolphins Hit By Injuries To Key Players

MIAMI (AP) — Safety Dick Anderson, an Associated Press all-National Football League selection in 1972-73, was to undergo knee surgery today and may be lost by the Miami Dolphins for the 1975 season.

And Coach Don Shula said Wednesday that 34-year-old middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti has been lost "indefinitely" after surgery for a broken right thumb.

Shula said Anderson's left knee would be operated on in Atlanta by Dr. Fred Allman, one of the nation's leading orthopedic authorities.

"We'll have to make a determination afterward on whether he can play this season," Shula added.

Anderson, 29, was entering his eighth year with the club. He first injured his left knee in the Pro Bowl game last year. It gave out under him in Monday night's exhibition game against Minnesota on a play in which he was not involved in bodily contact.

Anderson's injury left the Dolphins, Super Bowl champions of 1972-73, with only three safeties on the roster. And one of them, Jake Scott, could be out for several weeks after suffering a slight shoulder separation in the 26-7 Minnesota loss.

Scott, 30, an AP all-NFL choice the past two years, was playing in his first game of the preseason against Minnesota. He had undergone knee surgery after the 28-26 playoff loss to Oakland last year and had been given extra time in training camp to recover from the operation.

The other two safeties on the roster are fourth-year reserve Charlie Babb and rookie Barry Hill from Iowa State.

Buoniconti's absence leaves Shula looking at two rookies who have been impressive so far this season — Bruce Elia of Ohio State and Steve Towle of Kansas.

Mike Kolen, the starter at right linebacker, has experience playing the middle and Shula even moved reserve Bud Mathison to a starting outside position if Kolen is needed in the middle.

Also out of commission is regular defensive end Bill Stanfill, who hasn't practiced since he suffered a pinched nerve in his neck in the Aug. 9 exhibition opener against Cincinnati. Shula said Stanfill still is not ready to play.

Shula was to cut two more players today to get down to the NFL limit of 49.

Cincinnati Thrashes Los Angeles, 13-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pete LaCock smacked the first grand slam homer of his career, capping a five-run seventh inning that carried Chicago over St. Louis. The bases-loaded homer by LaCock came off St. Louis veteran Bob Gibson, 31-0, who earlier wild-pitched pinch-runner Gene Hester to snap a 6-4 tie.

Giants 3, Astros 4

Wille Montanez and Gary Matthews each drove in two runs to lead San Francisco past Houston. The Giants scored eight of their runs in the first three innings to provide plenty of support for Pete Falcone, 11-9.

Padres 10, Braves 9

Dave Roberts' two-out single capped a five-run rally in the ninth inning that lifted San Diego over Atlanta before a crowd of 1,119, the smallest ever to watch a major-league baseball game in Atlanta.

Premonition Comes Through For Cooper

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cecil Cooper had this feeling, and about four years later he sent the Baltimore Orioles reeling. Cooper, a young batting star who has been overlooked in the hoopla over Boston rookie sensations Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, got the notion late in Tuesday night's American League East showdown between the Red Sox and the Baltimore Orioles that something big was going to happen.

"I'm not a home run hitter," says Cooper. "But I was in the clubhouse about the seventh or eighth inning and I told Reggie Cleveland and Luis Tiant that I was going to hit one."

"I just felt like I would," he said, and he picked the right time for it. Cooper's blast leading off the 10th inning broke up a sparkling pitching duel between Boston's Rick Wise and Baltimore's Jim Palmer and gave the Red Sox a 3-2 victory, stretching their lead over the Orioles to seven games.

Palmer held the Red Sox hitless for 4 2/3 innings and finished with a seven-hit, striking out 10.

Yankees 8, Tigers 6

Catfish Hunter, 13-13, tossed a five-hitter for his 20th complete game of the season for the Yankees, and Thdrman Munson backed him with four runs batted in, including a two-run homer.

Hunter needs only one more victory to become the third man in AL history to win 20 or more games five consecutive seasons, joining Hall of Famers Walter Johnson and Lefty Grove.

Indians 11, Brewers 3

Buddy Bell knocked in two runs with a home run and a single and Duane Kuiper capped a four-run ninth inning with a bases-loaded single to pace the Indians. Fritz Peterson, 11-7, was tagged for 10 hits in six innings but posted his seventh consecutive victory.

Royals 5, White Sox 4

Al Cowens belted a two-run triple in the 10th inning to give Kansas City its victory. John Mayberry and George Brett homered for KC, Jorge Orta for the White Sox. Mayberry's homer was his 20th.

Rangers 5, Angels 1

Tom Grieve belted his 12th homer and knocked in three runs to help Texas beat the Angels, who suffered another blow when it was announced that pitching star Nolan Ryan would probably have to undergo surgery to remove bone chips from his right elbow. Ryan, who has complained of stiffness for the past eight days, was supposed to start tonight but has been lifted from the Angels rotation.

Eagles Still Suffering From Line Woes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The exhibition games so far have indicated that Philadelphia's Coach Mike McCormack hasn't solved his offensive line dilemma, and thus the running game is still far short of what's needed to contend in the National Football League.

The Eagles can't hope to figure in the NFL National Football Conference East race against the likes of St. Louis, Dallas and Washington until they can balance their attack. Quarterbacks Roman Gabriel and Mike Boryla are almost helpless as opponents set their defenses against the pass, daring the Eagles to run.

M McCormack is still optimistic. He's not going as far as he did last year when he predicted the Eagles would make the playoffs. But the former Washington assistant believes he has a better football team than the one that finished fourth in the conference last year with a 7-7 record.

The running game is one of three areas McCormack made marked for improvement as he worked and dealt this winter, trading young quarterback John Hayes and a future draft pick to acquire 270-pound offensive tackle Stan Walters. Walters has a reputation for being a strong blocker up front. He dropped Steve Smith and Roy Kirksey from last year's offensive line and switched Tom McCormack to right guard.

M McCormack picked up running back Art Malone from Atlanta, and John Tarver from New England. He also got speedster James McAllister from Oakland, giving the club its first outside threat since the 1974 season, and Gabriel was benched in favor of rookie Mike Boryla. The record was 4-7 at the time, and Boryla rallied the club to the 300 level with three season finishing triumphs.

Elsewhere, the Eagles have a good corps of pass receivers in Charlie Young, Harold Carmichael and Don Zimmerman. Walters teams with Jerry Sizemore at tackle, while Wade Key and Lukens run at guard and Guy Morris holds down the center job. Rookie Jeff Breaux from Penn State has impressed as an offensive tackle and center.

M McCormack also traded placekicker Tom Dempsey to Los Angeles for a draft pick, and then acquired Herb Mulhaupt from Cincinnati, claiming Mulhaupt is a better short yardage kicker than the strong footed Dempsey.

Jim Otto Ends Brilliant Career

OAKLAND (AP)—Jim Otto realized two days ago that the end of his football playing days were drawing near, but he kept it to himself and worked as hard as ever at the game.

"The coaches couldn't tell if that was perspiration or tears in my eyes," the Oakland Raiders' center said Wednesday in announcing his retirement after 13 professional seasons.

"This ends a chapter in Oakland Raiders' history — a brilliant chapter," said Al Davis, the former Raiders coach who now runs the National Football League team from the front office. Davis announced that Otto will become the Raiders' business manager.

On Oct. 27, wiped a few tears from his eyes at the news conference called by the Raiders to announce the retirement and the coaches couldn't tell if that was perspiration or tears in my eyes," the Oakland Raiders' center said Wednesday in announcing his retirement after 13 professional seasons.

"The running game is one of three areas McCormack made marked for improvement as he worked and dealt this winter, trading young quarterback John Hayes and a future draft pick to acquire 270-pound offensive tackle Stan Walters. Walters has a reputation for being a strong blocker up front. He dropped Steve Smith and Roy Kirksey from last year's offensive line and switched Tom McCormack to right guard.

Dibbs To Meet Heavyweights

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Eddie Dibbs, a feisty little pepper pot from Miami Beach, played the most important match of his career today when he stepped in with the heavyweights at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

"I feel I'm playing the best tennis of my life right now," said Dibbs Wednesday night. "I thought that since they changed the surface from grass to clay I would do all right here. Now I think I can win this tournament. I really do."

Dibbs made his bid for glory in a quarter-final match against 19-year-old Swedish star Bjorn Borg seeded fifth. The match opened today's card on the center court at the West Side Tennis Club. Dibbs has played Borg, one of the tournament's favorites, twice and lost both times, once on clay and once on grass.

The Dibbs-Borg showdown is the first of four men's quarter-final matches on tap today. Connors met Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia, Nastase played Manuel Orantes of Spain and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina went against Chile's Jaime Fillol in the others.

In women's play Wednesday, top-seeded Chris Evert continued her awesome display with a 6-2, 5-1 romp over Australian Kerry Melville Reid. The 20-year-old Floridian has now won 22 straight matches on clay and has dropped just eight games in four matches here en route to the semifinals.

Evonne Goolagong, the 24-year-old blithe spirit from Australia who doesn't believe the sun has hurt until her ears get wet, survived a scare to slip by Japanese player Katuko Sawamatsu 7-6, 7-5. She came out from a 2-4 deficit in the first set, staving off a set point with a forehand that hit the top of the net and trickled over, 2-5 disadvantage in the second, winning the final five games with the loss of only five points.

Prisons Eyed For Football Talent

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP)—Scouts Branch Rickey and Gene Baker continue today their tour of some of Illinois' toughest prisons in search for baseball talent to make the Pittsburgh Pirates a winner for years to come.

They are blunt in their pre-tryout talks with inmates, and in their appraisals of the players after the session.

"I'll be honest with you," Baker told some 38 prospects who showed up for the tryout Wednesday at Pontiac's 1,222-inmate maximum security prison playing field. "The percentage of signees is very small."

He told the players only two of some 600 players who showed up for baseball tryouts earlier this year were signed.

"But our job is to find players, and we don't care where we find them," he said.

The two scouts went to Stateville Correctional Center today and wind up a four-prison tour Friday with a tryout at St. Charles Youth Center near Chicago.

"We had a few volunteers Tuesday at Menard (in southern Illinois) to chase after any balls hit over the wall," joked scout Rickey, the grandson of the late baseball pioneer of the same name who signed Jackie Robinson as the first black player in major league baseball.

Rickey said he believes the Pirates are the first major league baseball team to send scouts to prison yards.

The Detroit Tigers currently have two players who were first spotted while they were in prison.

"I think most of us were skeptical when we first heard the Pirates would be here," said one inmate from Chicago serving a 2-to-6-year term for burglary. "I didn't really believe it until I saw them walk in today."

The scouts had set down some ground rules for their one-day visit to Pontiac. They were looking for fast runners and good throwers between 18 and 25 who are eligible for parole within 18 months.

NFL Charities Donate $10,000 To United Way

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Pete Rozelle presented a $10,000 check to the United Way charity campaign Wednesday on behalf of National Football League Charities.

Thirty-nine NFL personalities will appear on a series of radio and television spots in support of the United Way campaign this season.

Nastase Enters Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ilie Nastase, fined $8,000 by tennis officials Wednesday, will be trying to win some of a $100,000 international tournament prize here later this month.

Nastase's official entry in the tournament scheduled Sept. 22-29 at the Cow Palace was announced Wednesday. The tournament is sponsored by Firemen's Fund Insurance.

Licata To Defend Title

BOSTON (AP)—U.S. middleweight champion Tony Licata will defend his title Sept. 20 against Matt Donovan of New York in a 12-round bout at the Hartford Civic Center in Connecticut, boxing promoter Sam Silverman announced Wednesday.

The bout will precede the closed-circuit telecast of the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight from Manila.

Thrill Named By A's

OAKLAND (AP)—Sey Thrift, who formerly worked with the scouting departments of the Kansas City Royals and Pittsburgh Pirates, was named Wednesday as Oakland A's director of minor league operations and special assignments.

Thrift, 46, worked the past three baseball seasons with the Royals' organization but was released this spring. He will join the A's Saturday.

ace and leads the suit back. Now put yourself in South's position. If his opponent makes old-fashioned leads, he knows where the queen of spades is. He rises with his king and loses the club finesse, but it doesn't cost him his contract. West's queen blocks the suit. There might even be an unexpected dividend. West might drop his queen to unblock and thereby establish South's jack.

South might make the same play against South's three trumps. It is a colloquialism of bridge and means that declarer is sure to make it. Not that all card contracts come in. Sometimes they are only sure fire if declarer knows how to play them.

(Do you have a question for the Jacobys? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be used in the column and writers will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

What do you lead from a three card suit? The old rule was to lead the top unless leader by an honor, in which case you would lead the lowest.

The modern expert practice is to lead the bottom from three small. Today's hand shows the advantage of the modern practice.

Blue Grass Stars To Shine Saturday

Eleven hours of blue grass picking and singing, featuring Grand Ole Opry stars Jim and Jesse and the Virginia Boys, will reel off Saturday at the American Legion Field in Sanford.

Price at the gate will be $6 for adults and $3 for children. Billed as a "super blue grass festival," seven groups will perform from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Also appearing will be the gospel singing Lewis Family from Georgia.

Other performing artists include the Blue Grass Gentlemen, the Blue Grass Partners, the American Express Blue Grass, the Orange Blossom Blue Grass and the Blue Grass Generation.

Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, September 5, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be extra-attentive to safety procedures while working today. Use proper tools and select them with care.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Don't make too much of a party day. Your self-discipline isn't all it should be. Some form of overindulgence is probable.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Try to keep your temper when you meet with domestic frustrations today. A few fiery words will make the pot boil over.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You've not completely forgiven someone for an indiscretion. Today you may look for an excuse to rehash the issue.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Be protective of possessions today. Otherwise, loss is likely through carelessness. Don't leave a car unlocked at the shopping center.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Though you may be ambivalent today, little of value is to be achieved. Your goals are far too fuzzy. Get on target.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't be too busy about acting on flashes of inspiration today. Sleep on your bright ideas — they may be burnt-out bulbs.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A friendship should be placed in jeopardy today over something of a material nature if you let it become an issue.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Consider the interests of others today, not just your own. Be to self-centered won't be appreciative of the rebuffs.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't try to impose your ideas on unwilling ears today. You won't be appreciative of the rebuffs.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Proceed carefully in handling dealings today. Don't buy merchandise whose quality you may be suspicious of.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) You're very susceptible to being persuaded into agreeing to things or doing something you know you shouldn't today. Watch out.

Buddy Rich Claims A Rich New Style

By MARY CAMPBELL

AP Newswriters Writer One daydream of the jazz musician is to open his own place, to musicians who would be treated right — he'd know what that means — and high-quality jazz would reign. Also, he'd play there himself and not have to traveling all the time.

For Buddy Rich, that daydream is a reality. He opened Buddy's Place in New York, seeing 200, closed it after about a year and then in April opened Buddy's Place again, this time in the Penn Station area, seeing 375.

For this one, he had a band conductor of young musicians. A 16-piece band of young musicians.

68th Year No. 13—Friday, Sept. 5, 1975 Sanford, Florida 32771—Price 10 Cents

Raises To Total $40,000

Top County Officials To Get Pay Increases

Thousands of dollars worth of pay increases will be doled out to top ranking Seminole County officials — including county commissioners and school board — beginning the first of next month. In all, a little publicized Florida law will have the county's taxpayers reaching into their pockets for about $40,000 this year to pay 16 elected officials.

1. Gov. Jim Williams detailed the $2,000 to $5,000 pay hikes — made possible by the 1973 Legislature — in an Aug. 8 memo to all Florida counties.

State officials say the cost of living in Florida this year jumped 11.1 per cent above current salaries.

Raises go to members of the school board, the county commission, the supervisor of elections, the property appraiser, the tax collector, the clerk of the circuit court, the sheriff and the school superintendent.

Dubbed the County Officials Salary Act, the law provides the highest pay raises to School Supt. W. P. "Bud" Layer, Sheriff John Polk, Art Beckwith, clerk of the circuit court, and Property Appraiser Terry Goebel.

A salary schedule, prepared by the Florida Department of Administration and mailed to county financial officers, lists the following pay hikes mandated by the Legislature:

- Superintendent of schools, from $25,858 yearly to $31,315.
- Clerk of the circuit court, sheriff and property appraiser, from $21,858 to $28,893.

- Tax collector, from $20,550 to $25,258.
- Supervisor of elections, from $17,358 to $21,021.
- County commissioners, from $13,545 to $16,403.
- School board members, from $4,752 to $5,657.

The law provides for a maximum salary as listed above, or it allows a maximum 20 per cent increase.

— If an official wasn't earning top pay. Some officials here weren't earning the maximum.

But in the case of the sheriff, his salary listed in the 1975-76 county budget fails to correspond with the figures from Williams' office.

Polk's salary is higher.

According to Williams' scale, a Seminole County sheriff earns $23,858 and will go to a maximum of $28,893.

County records show Polk earned $24,984 in fiscal year 1974-75 and is slated to go next year to $28,916.

"I think mine is right," Polk said. He said his department went in to a "great amount of detail" figuring his salary, and he said it's "figured right."

The supervisor of elections' pay rises from $18,692 to $19,302 per year, while the property appraiser's yearly salary goes from $24,150 to $28,306.

Clerk of the circuit court presently earns slightly more than $22,000. A 20 per cent increase would put Beckwith's salary at $41,121.

The department of administration memo was sent to all Florida counties. Seminole County salaries were based on a population estimate of 134,000.

The law sets salaries according to a county's population and the cost of living. Salaries may be adjusted up or down, accordingly.

"The cost of living increase for this year is approximately 11.1 per cent," according to Williams' memo.

Shevin Opinion Won't Stop Funding

Knowles: Chamber Unaffected

Florida Attorney General Robert Shevin's opinion that cities cannot properly grant public funds for general purposes to chambers of commerce or permit chambers to use municipal facilities rent-free does not affect the City of Sanford or the Greater Sanford Chamber, according to City Manager W. E. (Pete) Knowles.

Knowles said the City of Sanford "in its astute wisdom" adopted a resolution designating the chamber the city's publicity organization.

Knowles said the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has been using the city-owned building on E. First Street at E. Seminole for at least a quarter of a century.

"The chamber was well established there when I came here 22 years ago," Knowles said, adding there is no lease arrangement nor rental fee charged.

The opinion may, however, affect the Altamonte Springs Chamber of Commerce's use of the Altamonte Springs Community House in a lease arrangement with the city for $1 annually.

Altamonte City Commissioner Helen Keyser, a prime mover in organizing the chamber and the one who sponsored the lease through the city commission, said today publicity given the Shevin opinion has caused her to throw her hat into the ring in this year's November city election.

Mrs. Keyser refused to say whether she will seek reelection to her city commission seat or will run against incumbent Mayor Norman Floyd, whose office is up for a three-year term this year.

Mrs. Keyser said, "I feel I would be letting the citizens of Altamonte Springs down if I didn't stay in there and fight."

Floyd said today Shevin's opinion also raises questions about the propriety of other city election.

Bankers Back Hiring Of Theatre Consultant

The Bankers' Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, Thursday endorsed a motion to raise $10,000 for the hiring of theatre consultant Dr. George Eisenhower to study the feasibility of erecting a performing arts center in Sanford.

Howard Hodges, chairman of the Bankers' Committee, suggested half the amount be raised in the community and half by the City of Sanford and recommended John Krider be chairman of the fund-raising drive. No action was taken on this suggestion.

Hodges, Kriker, Engineer Carl Conklin and Architect Carl Guttmann met with Eisenhower on Aug. 12.

At that time, the theatre consultant said he would be willing to undertake a feasibility study in the Sanford area. He said he could probably begin the study before the end of the year, would take three to four months to complete it, and his fee would be about $10,000.

Eisenhower, who is based at Yale University, is renowned both nationally and internationally for his work as a theatre consultant, is currently advising the City of Orlando on the renovation of its Municipal Auditorium and is consultant for Florida Technological University (FTU) new fine arts complex.

"He (Eisenhower) will tell us what we need—if anything—and what the Sanford area could support—if anything," said Hodges. "Our committee feels there is sufficient cause to employ him. The study, even if negative, will throw light on other projects the city might consider."

Guttmann added that Eisenhower "would not have his name associated with something that was not feasible," and Eisenhower, if hired to conduct the study, proposed holding a series of public hearings to determine the feelings of local persons and organizations on building a center and what kind of performances they would support.

The Bankers' Committee will present its proposal to raise Eisenhower's $10,000 fee for endorsement by the Chamber's Board of Directors at an October meeting.

Hodges expressed confidence that the community would support a drive to raise the money and said he felt certain the money could easily be raised.

Sewer Help Okayed

Sanford's regional sewer plant committee received some good news late Thursday with the willingness expressed by the Seminole County Commission to participate in the federally sponsored project.

City Manager Warren E. (Pete) Knowles said Thursday night he received a letter from County Commissioner Chairman Sid Vilhen Jr. agreeing to three commitments:

- The county will join the sewer committee's efforts in participating in the $128,000 study, required before the city can apply for a grant for the sewer project, estimated at $6 to $15 million.
- The county will pay up to $15,000 of its share in preparing the study.
- The county will make available its staff and utility consultant when available.

"This kind of settles the second item on the agenda for our 7:30 p.m. meeting next Tuesday," said Knowles.

This item involved discussing the cost sharing on the study, which includes the $93,735 federal share which the city accepted last week, $15,000 committed by the city, $5,000 committed by Lake Mary, and $15,000 sought from the county.

Thursday's meeting with the three-man committee was called to determine the county's interest in a joint effort to develop the inflow-infiltration study for the project in North Seminole County.

Cal Conklin, consulting engineer with Clark Dietz & Associates of Sanford, a city hired firm, is expected to explain the $93,735 federal study plan, what it will cover and the estimated time schedule for the project.

Knowles appealed earlier for county support of the required study, saying if the paperwork is not done together, then each area will have to do it individually.

The sewer committee membership consists of Chairman John Morris, Vilhen and Lake Mary Councilman Harry Terry.

NEW BUSINESS IN SANFORD

Ex-Officers Transferred

Two former Sanford policemen and an animal control officer, serving prison sentences in connection with a burglary ring, have been transferred from the Lake Butler state prison reception center to a medium-security facility in Lake County.

State Department of Offender Rehabilitation (DOR) officials said Raymond Bennett, 30; Hiram Hamlin, 22, and Robert Ray Campbell Jr., 23, all of Sanford, were taken from Lake Butler to the Lake County Correctional Institution last weekend.

Relatives of one of the ex-policemen said the three men, whose lives reportedly had been threatened at the Lake Butler facilities, report their surroundings are much better than they were at Lake Butler.

At the reception center, the inmates were isolated in a six-by-eight-foot cell, designed to hold one prisoner, and housed with a fourth inmate after the alleged threats to their safety.

Defense attorneys have filed notice of appeals in the cases and reportedly are preparing legal briefs to submit to the Fourth District Court of Appeals at West Palm Beach. Sources indicate it may be six to eight months before the appellate court considers the appeals.

After action by the appellate court it is possible that defense attorneys could ask the local circuit court to reduce the sentences given the former city employees who pleaded guilty and were sentenced on June 17. Bennett was sentenced to seven years prison and eight years probation; Hamlin to five years prison and five years probation; and Campbell to 10 years prison. Campbell's sentence was later changed by the court to six years prison and four years probation.

Two major items which Commission Chairman Sid Vilhet Jr. says could be cut are purchase of the Montgomery Ward complex in South Seminole and construction of a county library.

But, he says, neither is a viable alternative because the Montgomery Ward building represents a "massive savings" to taxpayers and the library was approved by voters last year. Knocking out the library would reduce the budget by $25,000 and the Montgomery Ward purchase is slated for $400,000.

The first public hearing on the budget is set for 7 p.m. on Sept. 9 at the Seminole County Courthouse.

Rail Crossing Hearing Slated

Seminole County Commissioners are scheduled to hold an Oct. 14 public hearing on a proposed railroad obstruction ordinance that may be almost impossible to enforce. The proposed law would limit trains to five minutes at any crossing under the railroad. Railroad personnel would be liable for any blockage of traffic for longer than five minutes, except in cases where the railroad had previously advised county commissioners of the time and reason a crossing would be blocked and the blockage advertised prior to its occurrence.

County Administrator Bob Ellis said the proposed crossing ordinance would be a "sworn testimony identifying the driver of the vehicle (train)." However, another possibility might be subpoenas for railroad records to identify the train personnel, the source said.

Herring, contacted at his Titusville office, said he will review the proposed crossing ordinance.

The proposed ordinance is in response to trains blocking the SR-46 crossing west of Sanford and complaints from citizens. SR-46 is the main artery into Sanford from Interstate Four.

Seaboard Coast Line Railroad has recently reouted some of its long freight trains to use facilities at Wildwood instead of the Sanford yard.

Sheriff John Polk said if county commissioners pass the ordinance "we'll do all within our power to enforce it."

But, Polk noted, enforcement could tie up manpower since an officer would have to be at the crossing, time the blockage, and then go by highway to another point to possibly stop the train and arrest the personnel.

"There's no way we could stop a fast freight," Polk said. "But we might be able to get engine or train numbers and go to the railroad company."

Officers can't arrest for misdemeanor offenses unless they occur in the officer's presence.

Another route the enforcement could take would be time-consuming and frustrating, officials said.
