Remembering William

25-year-old mystery still surrounds boy's death

By Lacy Lear
 HERALD EDITOR

SANFORD - William Oglesby, 12, spent the summer of 1973 perfecting his cannonball dives off the pier into Lake Monroe, his pale skin freckled from the sun, his blond hair bleached white gold. Endless bright days William spent fishing with his sister and pal, Ruthie. At summer's end, he put away his fishing pole; tucked the faded swimming trunks in a drawer. On the first day of Sanford Middle School, Sept. 4, he was ready, pencils sharpened, notebooks new.

On the second day, he died. Classmate Sammy Geter, 13, who had been expelled for fighting by Principal Dan Pelham just hours earlier, was charged with Oglesby's murder. If convicted, Prosecutor Newman Brock considered seeking the death penalty.

"They arrested a boy, and there was a trial. We heard that the attorney who represented him wanted to adopt him. We also heard he was supposed to serve 25 years. My mother was told that he died in the jail fire (1975) but we didn't hear any more." William's sister Ruth Rogers said this week, 25 years after her brother's death. Both Pelham and law enforcement veteran Steve Harriett, now chief deputy for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, said they had also heard rumors during the mid-70s.

"But I haven't heard it mentioned at all in more than 20 years," Pelham said.

"I heard the jail fire story. But it isn't true. His name was not on that list," Harriett said.

Rogers said the family was never contacted after the trial in Brevard County, moved by Circuit Judge Dominick Salti after death threats were made against Sammy, the slight, 88-pound boy accused of beating William to death over $1 that William didn't have.

Memories of Sammy and his flamboyant Barlow attorney, T. David Burns, the man who always wore white, faded over the years, like smoke from a fire, seemingly into thin air.

Death and a murder trial

Barely a breeze stirred that second day after school, Sept. 5, 1973. William Oglesby, Wallace's and Lula's dutiful and cheerful son, bounded down the school steps, blond hair sticking to his forehead in the 91 degree heat. An afternoon rain had fallen, rising now in humid steam from the sidewalks. Leaving school, too, was Stanley's and Darlene's brooding.

Lake Mary co-ed's death ruled murder

 HERALD STAFF WRITERS

LAKE MARY - The March death of a Rollins College student has been ruled a homicide by the Winter Park Police Department, but police are saying very little about the details of the murder and why it has taken so long for the death to be considered a killing.

The body of Jennifer Leah Kairis, a 19-year-old sophomore, was found March 31 in her dormitory room. Details of the case are not being discussed by police. They said to do so would reveal information about her death that would be known only to the killer.

Kairis' parents, Lake Mary residents John and Barbara Kairis, are extremely devastated by the recently released information.

"Jennifer was an exceptional, caring young woman. It is beyond our comprehension why anyone would want to harm her," said John and Barbara in a written statement. "She was pursuing her dream of a career in Theater Arts. She will be missed by all who knew her."

Hearing that police are now considering Kairis' death a homicide has created more questions than it has answered for those who knew her.

While he won't discuss anything about the case either, Bill Elascie, who is the drama instructor at Lake Mary High School, remembers Kairis as a popular young woman who was interested in all aspects of theater.

"She was a determined young lady who wanted a life in the theater," he said. "She was a great kid."

Kairis was a member of the LMHS Theater Department for four years and a member of In-

Commissioners want to know if administrator is resigning or not

By Maria Orem

LONGWOOD - The plot thickens in the continuing saga of whether City Administrator W. Shelton Smith will remain or resign from his current job position.

A special Monday meeting called Friday morning by Mayor Rusty Miles to discuss a resolution accepting the resignation of Smith based on philosophical differences; and providing for severance compensation, was canceled Friday afternoon for lack of a letter of resignation.

Miles said it was his understanding there was a letter from Smith pending and that is why he initially called the meeting. Since the letter had not been officially submitted, however, Smith canceled the meeting, which had been scheduled 15 minutes prior to the regular Monday commis-

 Once an active and productive farm, the fields of Astor Farms now lie fallow. In its heyday the Cains, shown here are Aaron (on wagon from left) Steve, Eldon and Paula (Steve's daughter, driving the tractor), harvested many crops, such as cabbage.

Change is coming, say owners, to what was once productive farm land, though neighbors and environmental groups are trying to stop development.

SANFORD - It was a simple farm life, a way of life Don Cain calls "tranquil and quiet," but that way of life has come to an end.

One of a few hundred small farms operating in Seminole County in mid-century, Astor Farms was the heart and soul of Eldon and Ola Cain.

Related Story Page 2A

"My dad had a love for the land and he was on the farm every day of his life, even when he grew too old to farm," said Don, the oldest of four siblings. George Cain, Eldon's father, came to "Monroe" in 1916 and built a homestead on 10 acres at what is now the Port of Sanford. He farmed eight of the 10, and barely got by, said Steve, the Cain's third child. "You were poor, but you didn't know it because everyone else was poor."

Florida was hit hard by the Depression, "but not as severe as other places," said Steve. "You could make a living off of 10 acres," said Don.

Eldon worked the farm with his father until the beginning of World War II, when he went to Savannah to help build ships for the European war effort. Trained as a welder, he was making more money than he had ever seen in his life. He sent money home and started buying land from George Hiers, 10 acres at a time.

"They bought a piece at a time," said daughter, Rebecca, "as they were able to afford it."

Astor Farms was part of the John Jacob Astor Grant, which incorporated thousands of acres in Seminole, Lake and Volusia counties. (Yes, the John Jacob Astor, noted financier, who died on the Titanic.)

Eldon and Ola eventually purchased 100 acres and grew row crops such as cabbage, lettuce, peppers, beans, cucumbers and potatoes. Eldon Please See Farm, Page 6A

Getting a run for your money at this festival

The second weekend in September is always set aside in Yuba City, Calif., to celebrate the fine qualities of the favorite by-product of the plum.

The California Plum Festival will include celebrity chefs, entertainment arts and crafts, children's activities, an antique car show and a photography contest. (We have no idea what the subject matter for such a contest might be.)

Prunes are yummy, the organizers remind us, and they're good for us as well. What better reason to celebrate a food?

Sierra Club delivers complaint; 'we're prepared to sue'

By Justin Sapp
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

SANFORD - On Thursday morning, Sierra Club members ushered extremely concerned, yet friendly independent forces through the County Services Building up to the Commissioner Chambers Office.

Documented ammunition was in the form of a high profile, verified complaint. This complaint is a prerequisite to filing action with the Circuit Court. It challenges the Aug. 11 amendment to the Seminole County Comprehensive Plan that changes both land use designation and zoning of Astor Farms, the 130 acre tract of farmland located in part inside the Wekiva River Protection Area. The complaint ultimately seeks to invalidate or amend the county's decision to rezone Astor Farms to Planned Unit Development (PUD).

The morning confrontation had less to do with commissioners or with Seminole County Attorney Lonnie Groot than with a multitude of curious reporters and key members of Friends of the Wekiva River, Seminole Audubon Society, Sierra Club Central Florida Group, Seminole Estates Homeowners Association, and a half-dozen individual homeowners around Astor Farms. Keith Schue of the Sierra Club knows this is a significant act. "We're filing a big complaint. We're not just addressing the land use change, but also challenging the zoning... We are prepared to sue."

The organizations and individuals involved with the complaint claim the approval of rezoning by the request of Astor Farms applicants Dan and Rebecca Pelham and developer Allan Keene is inconsistent with the Seminole County comprehensive plan and land development regulations.

The 10-page verified complaint chronicles the year's procedural history of proposed Astor Farms project. During two meetings in February, area homeowners spoke against land use change and rezoning application. Consensus desired to retain the rural character of the land. The county's Planning and Zoning Board recommended denial of land use and zoning change. Also, county staff with the planning and zoning department expressed opposition to both the Planning and Zoning Board and to the Board of County Commissioners.

In August, all the petitioners of the current verified complaint spoke at a public hearing against rezoning, providing scientific and technical justification for their position. And once again, the county staff, planning and zoning department, while directly involved in the Wekiva Small Area Study, recommended against rezoning during a hearing with the County Planning and Zoning Board.

"If all this sounds repetitive, then that should best explain the reason for a verified complaint. Please See Astor, Page 7A troubled son, Sammy Geter. Dan Pelham, entering his third year as principal, had expelled Geter less than an hour earlier for his involvement in two fights that day.

"He exhibited aggressive behavior, so he was sent home. Back then, principals had power to make immediate decisions to keep things safe on campus," Pelham says.

But off campus, life was far from safe for William.

Sammy confronted William in a French Avenue parking lot, two soft drink machines shielding them from casual passersby. "Little Sammy Geter hit William in the chest, caused his heart to stop, and he died," Newman Brock, who prosecuted the case, now explains.

There were marks on my brother's body from the shoes the boy wore. He kicked and kicked him. We heard my brother had been hit in the nose with brass knuckles. He was beaten so bad, it didn't even look like him. They had to have a closed coffin. When my mother asked for his clothes and books, when it was over, they told her there was so much blood that they had to burn them," Ruth Rogers says.

Geter was booked for manslaughter as a juvenile. But the Seminole County grand jury soon indicted him as an adult, charging him with first degree murder.

Defense attorney T. David Burns was known for his insolence toward judges, once arriving in court like a majestic sultan, his litter actually a stretcher on which he lay pleading with the judge that he was too sick to try a case and needed a continuance, says Hillsborough County attorney Dave Partlow. Burns' signature white linen suit and string tie were topped by his jaunty straw hat. His theatrics were legendary. He was the champion of the suppressed, fighting for equality from the moment he was admitted to the Florida Bar in 1952.

"T. David Burns was a character," retired Polk County Judge Eddie Flood says. He could be a little flaky, but he International Theatrical Society Troupe #3506. In addition to performing, she worked behind the scenes as crew head, technical supervisor and assistant director. Her senior year, Kairis played the lead role of Golde in Fiddler on the Roof.

Eiselle said he doesn't know who would want to kill her or why.

He said, however, that the 1996 honors graduate of Lake Mary High School was a cheerful leader. Her whole family was always involved in the plays.

Throughout high school and college, Kairis was involved with the youth programs of the Orlando Civic Theatre during the summer seasons. She choreographed for the programs, and had directed Bye Bye Birdie for the Children's Summer Program.

Kairis played the lead role in the Rollins production of Agnes of God. In addition to her theater projects at Rollins, Kairis worked in the school bookstore and Theater Department office, and volunteered for the Year 2000 Habitat For Humanity Project. She made the Deans List at Rollins.

Majoring in theater at Rollins and minoring in dance, her goal, according to her parents, was to teach theater at the high school or college level.

Her older sister, Christina, now a student at the University of South Florida in Tampa, was also involved in the Lake Mary thespian troupe. She was not available for comment after the police announced the new findings regarding her sister's death.

"It is our sincere hope that the Winter Park Police Department will be able to find the person(s) responsible for her death and that our court system will bring justice in the end," said Kairis' parents.

The Kairises prefer not to comment further until a suspect or suspects are apprehended, but suggest that questions concerning the investigation be directed to the Winter Park Police Department.

A scholarship fund has been started in Kairis' name to provide scholarships for college bound theater students and scholarships to the civic theaters of Central Florida's Children's Theatre Program. Donation checks can be sent to: Jennifer Leah Kairis Memorial Fund, 700 Remington Oak Drive, Lake Mary, FL 32746.

son season at 7 p.m. "I understood that an FYI copy of a letter dated Sept. 3 went to the city, but nothing official has been brought in yet," Miles said. "There has been some controversy on whether I called the meeting prematurely, but I was merely responding to his pending letter."

Miles, who has previously expressed his dissatisfaction with Smith's performance as city administrator, said the issue of his job status "is like those old television serials that were continued each week."

"Things just aren't getting done for all the money we're paying him," Miles said. "It's just not happening."

Last month, Miles called a special commission meeting to discuss the reorganization of city government. The main thrust of the session, however, turned out to be a discussion of Smith's shortcomings and lack of performance on the job. Miles subsequently called for a motion asking Smith to step down. The motion did not carry.

At that meeting, Commissioners Annamaria Vacca and Ron Sergeant agreed that Smith was not performing up to par. Commissioner Paul Lovestrund had called the meeting an orchestrated effort veiled under a misleading agenda heading. Commissioner Steve Miller did not attend because of a job commitment, but later said, had he known the true intent of the meeting he would have definitely attended. Miller has criticized Miles for not following the proper procedure. He also criticized Vacca and Sergeant for placing all the blame of the city's problems on Smith, when they themselves were part of the problem.

Vacca said Friday that Smith does not communicate enough with commissioners and does not follow through with projects. One example, she said is the residential sewer lines that should have been completed many years ago. He also changes his mind on issues and does not communicate problems to the commission, she said.

"He's gotten wishy-washy and does not bring things forward that need to be discussed," she said. "We've supported him through the years but he hems and haws.

"He's a great person with the public but not supportive of his staff."

Sergeant on Friday said though Smith was great with the public, he questioned the city administrator's effectiveness with his employees and getting projects done.

"I like the man and he has always treated me with respect, but it's time for the city to move in a different direction," Sergeant said.

"I don't like this or want this to happen...but I don't think he (Smith) should be in that job."

Smith has declined to comment.

Lake Mary: Well run, well done

With all the political wrangling recently, much of it with a mean-spirited edge, it's refreshing to see one city's election process move along with nary a glitch.

Recent county elections turned acid near the end, with poison arrows aimed in debates and in brochures at opposition on both sides.

Washington D.C. and the nation have screamed to a halt over the Clinton affair. We do wonder just how appropriate it has been for our fellow media mavens, mostly on television, to judge our president so harshly. His offenses may be indictable, but impeachable? God and Hillary may give him a hard time for his sexual peccadilloes, but we think impeachment is more appropriate for crimes of high treason and for using the office of the president to negatively impact the running of the government. As Richard Nixon did in Watergate. Iran Contra came close. But it is ludicrous to think that luscious Monica Lewinsky should disassemble a nation that has been running pretty smoothly.

And everyone is so mean about it! Not so in Lake Mary. We are happy to note that residents there are content with the fine way their government is humming along. Three incumbents, Mayor David Meador, Thom Greene and Gary Brender just returned to office unopposed, as qualifying for election ended Friday at 5 p.m.

Good luck, gentlemen. We would offer you cigars in congratulations, but...

Candidate says thanks

I would like to offer my sincere thanks to the many, many people in Brevard and Seminole counties who supported and voted for me for Circuit Judge in the September 1st primary. Your votes put me in first place in a three-man race, and I am both thankful and humbled by your faith in my candidacy. I hope I have earned your continued support in the November 3 general election.

Sincerely,
Jeffrey Thompson

Who's paying for this?

Once again deceit comes gushing forth from the City of Winter Springs dais enabling the commissioners, plus staff, to travel to Tallahassee overnight to apply for grant points for the future lavish spending envisioned by present city government. Obviously, the City of Winter Springs has no one capable of presenting an application, on behalf of the city, to the political power structure in Tallahassee, as a representative of the city, in a formidable manner.

With the personal political posturing the citizens are experiencing from the dais, fewer people to make this presentation in Tallahassee would greatly enhance the probability of receiving the necessary grants.

WHO'S PAYING FOR THIS ORGANIZED FARCE?

If the funds are not forthcoming, will the citizens be reimbursed for this frivolity? After all the citizens just paid for commissioners' travel to Miami Beach for four days to folk in the sun, sand, and etc.

Oh yes, I forgot, maybe you can get Bobby Guthrie to figure out a method to get "bond coverage" for this commission's "capital" improvement. Now, that might be a dollar well spent, before the coffers are dried up by the reigning "brotherhood".

I loved the Guthrie rendition of "sunshine violations", when asked by the commission. He ought to have a vast repertoire of answers backlogged since he was involved in the investigation by Attorney General Butterworth and an opinion rendered citing Martin County in violation. Martin County had to change Guthrie's "behind-close-door-practices."

Those vans being rented by the city, all aboard for Tallahassee, ought to be installed with non-stoppable recording devices. It's a shame that the travel time isn't convenient all at the same time. Greyhound Bus service has multi-departure schedules. The citizens ought to put these people on a bus with a pay as you go plan.

Mass transit, the economy and Clinton

I couldn't believe what I was reading in another newspaper: a proposal for a mass transportation terminal in Hood's Hood, a.k.a. Orlando. Do you think that the great city of Hood's Hood in Chapin County has its ear to this little City of Sanford and this column? We proposed the idea in depth a very long time ago and even faxed the concept to Hood's Hood, Chapin County, and the developer. Hey, we sent renderings.

This mass transit situation and the entire transportation system is in need for people who can think. Vision, where are you? There has been a major waste of money to date, a lack of direction and no plan or at least none that makes sense. We have a group of people involved that are picking up paychecks for, I don't know. The State of Florida doesn't seem to be paying much attention either. I don't know when I've seen any program in what appears to me, such disarray.

They ought to pick up this newspaper every week and save themselves a couple of wasted years. The problem is that when you "adopt" other peoples' visions, you usually mess things up because you don't understand the entire concept. Look for that to happen next. Enough is enough, I can't think about it anymore. Dollars down the drain, no vision, poor public education, people out in front who can't relate to the public. What else can I say? Much, much more but not today.

You liked it!

What about the idea of moving the voting precincts into the schools. Hold political debates in the schools and give credit to students who attend with their parents? A real family value idea. You liked it! Good, now let us see what our public schools and those responsible will do with this concept. By the way, I have been informed it is done elsewhere. What better way to educate our children about the importance of voting? What better place than in our public schools?

The economy

While others were putting a spin on the Asian and general global prospects as being "not too bad," I said, "look out!" Of course, it was just a hunch or maybe an educated guess based on my own perception. I also said there would be a cut in interest rates. There was no possible way to deter that from happening, I even went as far as to say that we could be looking at a bottom rate of 5 percent.

I've been right so far, but the downturn in the economy can be softened if the proper measures are taken immediately. In which case we would probably bottom out at 5 1/2 percent. The problem lies in Washington. The first steps should be to resolve the Clinton situation in a manner that is best for the country and to do it quickly.

We need a president and the office of the presidency stable. The second step would be to cut interest rates. If our representatives in Washington and the federal reserve fail to take those first two steps within weeks at most and then follow through with other measures there is going to be, in my opinion, a real decline and a dangerous world. We cannot afford the luxury of delay, nor the continuation of the soap opera in Washington.

The first item on the agenda in Washington should be the economic global distress and how do we best protect the United States while trying to keep other nations afloat. There is nothing more important.

Difficult times

Difficult times lay ahead based on what I've stated above. There should be no consideration of tax increases. Little discord should come from the Board of County Commissioners and an effort to act in accord with the state of the nation, whatever that will be.

In other words, tax increases should not be on the agenda. Fuel should be removed, provide the services needed, don't add items that cannot be defended. In that, I would include the implementing of more speed humps, unless paid for by those who want them, and other non-essential items.

Sanford airport

Domestic flights from the Orlando Sanford Airport? Great idea. A thought that may work. Sanford to Philadelphia or New York. Two large cities. Another would be Baltimore/Washington, New York.

Simple solution for everyday heroes

Deep down inside of us, hidden away from public view, is that which makes us individual. It is our hopes, fears, dreams and desires. It is the little girl and the wizened old man, each with a role as life plays its limited run. When we are young, we dream of deeds of valor-knights slaying dragons and rescuing beautiful princesses, or as cowboys saving the ranch from the rustlers.

As a child, the dream of being a hero begins with reading storybooks. When the days pass into years, the dream flickers in intensity heightened at times by best sellers and magazines telling us stories of other's valor and bravery. Sometimes the dream is brighter--but for many the dream slowly dims. Weighted down and buried under job and then family, our hidden dream of being a hero is one which most of us never seem to reach. There is too much to do to dream about being a hero in middle age--let alone the opportunity to be one. We set aside the dream of individual heroism through personal battle for the comfort of daily survival.

But once in awhile, due to cosmic forces, karma, or whatever, the dream of being a storybook hero becomes reality. For one split second in time, an opportunity arises to do the thing that dreams of heroism are made of. Sgt. York found his opportunity during WWI charging an enemy machine gun. Others find opportunities to become heroes during disasters. Moms lift cars off of toddlers--dads crawl out on thin ice risking their own frigid death to rescue another man's child. It may well be an instinctive reaction to lifelong dreaming, an unconscious, sub-conscious instinct that drives our reactions to threats or danger and results in heroic deeds.

Not all heroes are revealed in feats of strength or daring. Many times it is a faith, like that of Mother Teresa, that reveals the depth of personal heroism. Or it is wisdom that stands unchallenged through the ages--like that expressed in the Gettysburg Address of Abraham Lincoln which reveals a personal heroism that has withstood the challenge of the ages.

All of us dream of being a hero of personal valor at some time during our life. Some of us get the chance to be one--most of us don't. We live our lives without standing on the pedestal in front of adoring fans, or admirers. For most people, there will never be an editorial recognizing their act of heroism--no 15 minutes of fame a la Andy Warhol.

There is a way though, that each of you can be a hero--and be one every day. Today, tomorrow and next week be a hero to your children--no matter what their ages. Talk to them, do something with them--say a word of praise or recognition of their effort. Substitute something positive for something negative every day when you talk to your child. Whether they are in kindergarten or own their own business, I promise you that you will become their biggest hero. And your childhood dreams will come true!

was a helluva trial lawyer."

As chief assistant prosecutor, Newman Brock relished a good fight, holding in 1973 the best prosecuting record in Florida. "We were ready to go with that trial," he says.

The case had been moved to Brevard County to quell racial tensions. Geter, who is black, had been threatened. Oglesby was white.

Despite prior legal maneuvers that included Brock accusing Burns of contempt of court, and Burns taking a constitutional law question all the way to the Florida Supreme Court, an hour after the trial opened, it ended. Burns and Brock had met for lunch earlier that week and agreed to what would best serve justice in this controversial case.

"They entered a plea. We took it," Brock says.

"The issue we were struggling with at the time is whether or not a death sentence would be applicable to a 14-year-old. We were looking for alternatives to adult jail, which was very difficult for kids. There were no juvenile facilities. It was a blessing for someone (Burns) to come in and take him in," Salfi says.

Judge Volle Williams sentenced Geter to 10 years probation for manslaughter. Judge Salfi earlier had released Geter to Burns' custody. Now, Burns vowed to adopt him. "I'd be delighted to adopt Sammy. He is a sweet boy, with plenty of intelligence. We would love the challenge of giving him the guidance he needs," Burns said as he left the courthouse in 1973.

The elusive T. David Burns

Burns took Sammy home to Bartow. Eventually, Sammy drifted off. Burns' contemporaries lost touch with him, including old friend, attorney Jack Edmunds, who also practices law in Bartow, the Polk County seat. "I heard he had been running a drug treatment program in Brandon and may have passed away," Edmunds says.

"I don't really know what happened to him," Flood says. "He was the topic of conversation back then, very colorful character, but I don't know what became of him," Partlow says.

Now 71, Burns' last known address supplied to the Florida Bar was in Thonotosassa, near Tampa. He was disbarred in 1984 in an unrelated matter and never applied for reinstatement, according to bar records. No death record had been filed in Polk or Hillsborough counties, where he had lived most of his life.

Burns eventually felt he just couldn't help him solve. He tried, by leading Sammy to the Lord. Burns says, even personally baptizing him when a local preacher feigned illness because Sammy is black.

"He'd been with us about six or eight months. We just couldn't keep him home. When the sun went down, Sammy would disappear. We would find him alone, sometimes up under a car. He just wanted to be by himself on the streets. He was silent, too silent. I think he was miserable."

Burns contacted Sammy's grandmother, a government employee in Washington D.C. She agreed to take Sammy in. "She called me and said 'Mr. Burns, he's driving me crazy.' So I called his father, a railroad man in St. Petersburg, I believe, who told me he thought he could handle him. I thought his daddy would be his salvation. That's the last I heard."

Spiraling down

Sammy Geter's downhill slide began in Polk County, with a 1979 arrest for escape and grand theft, according to sheriff's records. He has numerous recent arrests in Seminole County, 16 compiled in 58 pages since 1986. Several of the arrests have been for retail theft.

"Suffice it to say, Samuel Geter has an extensive criminal record," Chief Deputy Harriett says.

His last known residence was near Sanford, with an aunt, Emmaline Geter-Brown, who finally asked him to leave. She believes he may be in Orlando, living near his mother.

"He stayed with me but I put him out. I don't understand. He's able-bodied and should get a job. He's a wonderful person, always been mannerly around adults. If he can, he'll do anything for you, but he's a klepto, and he's been in trouble ever since he's been back from the lawyer. He (Burns) tried to help Sammy, but I guess he couldn't. I don't know if what happened still bothers him. He never ever mentioned it again," Geter-Brown says.

Geter-Brown advises Sammy to "straighten your life out. You're too good a person to be like this."

Burns too, has advice. "Only

Judge Dominick Salfi in 1973

Sammy can help Sammy. Find a preacher you can call a mentor and hang out with him as much as humanly possible."

Graveside

Rogers, her mother and two sisters visited William's grave this past week, wiping clean the granite headstone engraved with little boy shoes, a name, and dates marking his short life. They left a Teddy bear balloon and bright red flowers to brighten his somber resting place.

"I can't help but feel in my heart that Sammy Geter killed my brother and he doesn't deserve any happiness. But I also know in my heart that William forgives him," Rogers says.

One school photo of William remains permanently on the Oglesby's wall. His mother does not like for it to be removed. She fears losing William again if it is misplaced. In the picture, he is awkward before the camera, with his shy half-smile, his blond hair carefully combed, so many years ago. Perhaps he squirmed, thinking not of school but of endless summers and how he loved to fish and swim with his sister Ruthie. Perhaps he daydreamed about the happy life stretching before him. He'll be forever 12.

Editor's note:

Although the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in Furman v. Georgia in 1972 had banned the death penalty, Prosecutor Newman Brock, originally seeking the electric chair for Sammy Geter one year later, knew state courts were confident that decision would be overturned. It was, four years later when states regained permission to execute for capital crimes.

Dan Pelham served as principal at Sanford Middle from 1970 until his retirement in 1991.

Prosecutor Newman Brock is now a judge for the 18th Judicial Circuit, Seminole and Brevard counties.

Judge Dominick Salfi served 13 more years on the bench after the Geter trial before retiring into private practice.

His office is in Altamonte Springs.

Judge Volle Williams is deceased.

Wallace, 95, and Lula Oglesby, 73, did not wish to be interviewed for this article. Daughter Ruth Rogers is a Sanford businesswoman. The Oglesbys had 10 children. William and James are deceased.

T. David Burns continues to do volunteer work with the public defender's office in Tallahassee, after the death of his wife last year.

What happened to Sammy?

Burns was located through Kekal Altice, a Tallahassee paralegal whose attorney father was Burns' contemporary. Burns also lives in Tallahassee, where he is retired, volunteering his time with the public defender's office. He remembers Sammy fondly, although he never completed the adoption. "Samuel wasn't violent. That whole incident in Sanford was a child's pushing match. The boy who died hit his head. Samuel was charged with murder because of prejudice. Seminole County was very prejudiced at that time. I never would have defended him, or had him in my home if he had been violent. He committed no offenses whatsoever when he was with us. He was respectful, never curt to Mrs. Burns or the other children." The Burnes had six children of their own. Burns' wife of 37 years died this past December.

Midway Elementary was the place to be

By Carter Gilmartin
HERALD STAFF WRITER

WOW!

Midway Elementary School was the place to be Thursday night. When Mr. Gray's 2nd grade class danced on stage, it was a put-your-hands-together good time. The crowd of about 200 parents, grandparents and staff members went wild as the children rocked to the "Sounds of Music" choreographed and directed by Georgio of Georgio's American Street Dance of Longwood. The beaming smiles on those 2nd-grade faces lit up the room.

They exited the stage to the sounds of the O'Jays' "Love Train." A yellow school bus with "Community Unity" written on the side propelled each group of children on stage, again to "Love Train."

Indeed Midway Elementary's School of Performing Arts offered a whole evening of entertainment titled "Community Unity." It opened at the P.E. pavilion with a tumbling demonstration of creative movement by Kindergarten, 1st, 2nd and 3rd grade students. Instructor Richard Burkett "spotted" each student's leap onto a stack of mattresses followed by a forward roll or cartwheel. He reminded parents this is only the beginning, the very first steps in tumbling.

Late arrivals were pressed to find parking spaces. When the show moved into the auditorium, the rows of chairs filled quickly and 40 or 50 folks stood along the walls.

There were violin, recorder and drum performances. Outside the auditorium students demonstrated use of a potter's wheel. Inside the auditorium, Theater Arts Instructor Joseph Watson introduced the musical drama of the evening, "The Three Bears." Amelia Graz was lovely in a long white skirt and white ruffled blouse as she danced through the audience to sounds of a Latin beat, while the famous bears took their stroll as their porridge cooled. The stage was set with the breakfast table, the "too hard" and "too lumpy" chairs, the beds, and of course the ones that were "just right."

Joseph Watson's script included a Greek chorus of Kindergarten, 1st, 2nd and 3rd graders standing on tiers at the back of the stage. When the bears returned home to find their privacy invaded, the chorus commented in word and song on the happenings on stage. Anthony Simmons as Papa Bear and Erica Webb as Mama Bear played their parts vociferously. Their strong stage voices could be heard without benefit of microphones. Gary Inman was Baby Bear. When he found his porridge "all gone," the chorus sang out, "Poor Baby Bear," and so on the with chair and then the bed. Gary moved easily among the props and knew his part well.

Not on the printed program was a performance by Midway's own "Solid Gold Dancers," a team of 14 teachers. Dressed all in black, the dancers wore colorful masks. They danced to a Caribbean number choreographed by Joseph Watson.

"Community Unity" was the both the theme and the reality. Many of the performers have attended Midway Elementary all their school lives as did their brothers and sisters, perhaps their parents. But it is important to remember during this first year of cluster schools, that many, many of these students attended Hamilton or Pine Crest last year, as their families had before them as well. Thursday night's performance was a huge success, theatrically and socially. The cheers, laughter and applause of an enthusiastic audience certainly left no doubt of that.

Not feeling peppy over pep rallies

Pep rallies are freaky.

There are very few functions in high school that surround a student with thousands of his classmates, involve deafeningly loud music. (Usually an eclectic mix of bad techno and bad rap) subject him to the rambling shouts that his school's team will triumph ("This year we really mean it!") from variety of peppy people. (People he thought he recognized, but those people never wore paint all over their faces) and then introduce his fellow students, who he is supposed to cheer for because they are wearing uniforms.

Now, I have absolutely no problem with supporting my school, and if a football player came up to me and said, "Alex, I need moral support, could you please yell really loud?" I would be more than happy to oblige that person. Pep rallies, however, have me packed in tight in the gymnasium, and I am not really sure who I am supposed to be cheering for. I am told I am supposed to show school spirit, but what is this abstract idea, "the school?"

My school is a combination of buildings, ground, and people. Like some of the buildings, I like the landscaping, and I like a lot of the people. Does that mean I want to bundle all these qualities into two colors and a poorly chosen mascot? No, I think my principal does a great job. I think some of the teachers are great, and I hold the opinion that there is no other high school in the county that I would rather go to. Yet, I do not like pep rallies, so I must lack school spirit.

Some people like pep rallies if only for the fact that they shorten the school day by thirty minutes. I can appreciate that position.

Still, I think I have a better idea than pep rallies: Tithing. Instead of providing pseudo-moral support, students could provide financial support, giving one tenth of their income to help buy the sports teams for better equipment, meals, and such. Now, that shows school spirit.

used a mule and push plow, as tractors were not at that time affordable, or economically feasible.

His father relished the hard work it took to eke out a living in the poor Florida soil, Don said. A very hands-on person, he described his 5-foot, 7-1/2-inch father as strong and "stout." A lot of physical energy was required to fertilize the crops. Eldon would work the rows with a wagon, replenishing his supply at each end.

Don was pressed into service when he was a freshman in high school. It was his job to help with the watering. While there were several wells on the land, there was no irrigation system, so hand watering had to be done. Don remembers carrying two five-gallon buckets, across the fields on weekends. It earned him a little spending money, he said.

There were regular hired hands who helped with the daily operation and the Cains hired upwards of 70 during the harvest.

"That was the way people made their living. You could have a mule and a cow and not go to the store very often," said Don.

Living three miles from Sanford, "we couldn't afford to go to town as often as we'd have liked to," said Don.

In the traditional extended family setting, Eldon and Ola lived in the house with his parents. Don remembers the house was two bedrooms and a "path" (to the outhouse). There was running water, but no electricity. The younger Cains eventually built a home on the same property, where they raised their two sons, and two daughters, Rebecca (Pelham) and Dorothy (Britton).

Steve took to farming and worked the land for 30 years. He calls the farm experience "addictive."

"I've never wanted to work inside," he said. When he could no longer make a living from the farm, he went to work for Cox Lumber and then Prestige Lumber, where he drives a delivery truck.

"We did have good years. We did have bad years. If you can't make a living (at farming) it's as bad as it gets," said Steve.

A lot of factors contributed to the downfall of small farms such as Astor Farms. Don called it the "economics of scale," larger farms could buy in quantity the equipment, seed and fertilizer they needed, at a lower price, making their return on investment higher.

Steve said the industry, in Seminole County, peaked in the 1960s and when celery left the area, that was the beginning of the end. "You used to have an infrastructure that supported farmers," he said. It is virtually gone now.

All that remains is the land, a legacy to the children and grandchildren of Eldon and Ola Cain.

The dispensation of the land has been an issue of controversy to neighboring residents and environmental groups. The family wants the best use possible out of it, for generations to come. They have gone to the county for a land use change and with a proposal to build 345 homes in an area surrounded by conservation lands and five-acre lots.

The Sierra Club calls the proposed development plans "urban sprawl." On Thursday, the group filed a complaint with Seminole County that could lead to a law suit.

Don said he has empathy for the homeowners, who want to see the land developed at a lower density. He said growth is coming to that area, whether they want it or not. "Everyone wants it somewhere else, not in my backyard."

"What they have to realize, it's going to change in spite of anything," said Steve.

The Cain brothers and sisters, and Dave and Tonya Rowland, who bought an additional 30 acres from George Hiers, have spent a lot of time and money to get a return from the land they say has not paid for itself, as farmland, for the past 10 years. The Rowlands are still farming but the rest is rented, said Steve. "We've paid more in taxes than we've collected in rent."

"We'd love to see it utilized in the most appropriate way," said Don. The current zoning would allow for 130 homes with 130 wells and 130 septic tanks. "That doesn't seem right," said Don.

The Cains argue that central water and sewer is more "ecologically friendly," but higher densities are required to make that cost-efficient.

profit organization of 200 members dedicated to promoting responsible land development within the Wekiva River basin, has questions of his own. "Where do we draw the line with urban sprawl?" Seminole County officials have 30 days to respond to such petitions. County Attorney Robert McMillan said, "We will process it and ask the board for direction." After county response, the group of petitioners is legally allowed another 30 days to file suit.

Fred Harden of Friends of the Wekiva River, Inc., a local non-

Steve said they had approached the state and county about the purchase of the land, but funds were not available through either agency. Seminole County already owns more than 3,800 acres of land in the area between State Road 46, Interstate-4, the St. Johns River and the Wekiva River, land that will probably never be developed.

The Cains are concerned that they are being viewed as the bad guys, about to be fabulously wealthy from the sale of the land. In truth, said Rebecca, a total of 17 people stand to gain from the proceeds. She and Don, Steve and Dorothy divide 90 acres. Steve's son Aaron owns 10. The Rowlands own the other 30. (The land is only combined for the purpose of the land use change.)

To Aaron, the sale would mean a chance to earn a college degree. A 1991 graduate of Seminole High School, he has been married seven years and has three children. Like his father, he drives a delivery truck. He farmed his piece of land for awhile, but couldn't support his family. He works 60 hours a week, but wants something better.

"If it doesn't sell, I'll never get a chance to go to school," said Aaron. Tuition and books, and maybe a down payment on a house, "that's all it will go for."

"They've got their five acres," Don said of the homeowners who live adjacent to the farm. "One would hope that would be enough."

Steve said the homeowners on the five-acre lots are lucky to have their paradise. "That (property) was their dream. All we want is ours."

Contractor helps business evolve

WINTER SPRINGS - As vice president for marketing of construction services, a Winter Springs contractor has helped Keene Construction Co. become one of the nation's largest retail builders.

Tuskawilla resident Dale E. Scott joined Keene four years ago. Scott had been vice president of a national retail contractor in Tampa and

Dale E. Scott

"The company is not trying to be the biggest. We're trying to be the best we can be," Scott said. "We pride ourselves on long-term relationships with clients. Once we build for a client it seems like we do multiple projects for them."

The Marland company's local landmarks include Altamonte Crossings and Oviedo Marketplace mall tenants Bed Bath and Beyond, EYE and Jos. A. Bank Clothiers.

In a segment dominated by national contractors, Keene, a Southeast regional contractor, has grown to be the country's eighth largest retail builder with more than $100 million in annual sales, as ranked by Shopping Center World.

"We do a lot of other types of construction," Scott said. "But our bread and butter are grocery-anchored shopping centers."

Keene also builds power centers, large urban entertainment complexes, like the recently completed multilevel Las Olas Riverfront center in Fort Lauderdale, and industrial warehouses.

The business has evolved since Scott joined the firm. Keene bid on almost 100 percent of its jobs four years ago, but now negotiates with major retailers and developers 82 percent of its projects. The company has a pre-construction department that works with property owners.

"We've proven ourselves to be effective in what the developers are trying to accomplish," Scott said. "We do a lot of pre-construction services, up-front management working with the architect and owner. We're brought in as part of the developer's construction team."

Scott is active in many construction industry organizations. He's a frequent guest speaker at industry events and often lectures at universities and vocational schools.

Last year, Scott served as chairman of the program committee of the International Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC) 10th annual Center-Build conference. He is the first contractor to hold the chairman position.

Scott has been named vice chairman for the ICSC Florida Conference and will be conference chairman in the year 2000. Also, he serves as chairman of the joint task force addressing the planned new International Building Code.

Keene Construction built stores for several tenants at Oviedo Marketplace, which opened in March.

Extra Points...

Jeff Berlinicke
Herald Staff Writer

It's time to empty the bank of some random thoughts

SANFORD - Just a few random observations:

I think: Lake Howell will have a grad playing for the NCAA national football championship this year, but it will be Joe Ferrar (Notre Dame), not Tam Hopkins (Ohio State).

I know: Tiger Woods became a better golfer this year. He only won one tournament instead of the four he won last year, but he learned to play the game, not just out-hit everyone on the course.

Woods finished in the top-10 in all four majors and learned that you have to play a different game at the British and the Masters than at the U.S. Open. People are saying Woods was a flash in the pan, but this year meant more to him than last.

I think: The new Legacy Course at Alauqua Lakes will be the new crown jewel of Seminole County golf. It's gorgeous and accessible to players of all skill levels.

I know: No matter what Sports Illustrated says, it won't be Jacksonville and Tampa Bay in the Super Bowl. Maybe one, but not both.

I think: Sable Point Golf Club in Longwood is the best golf bargain in the county. Great prices and a great track.

I know: The St. Louis Cardinals deserve tons of credit for making Mark McGwire's 62nd home run a classy experience. The organization could have gone overboard and done something really tacky, but instead the homer was granted all of the dignity and respect it deserved. Sometimes, more isn't always better and the Cardinals proved that.

But couldn't his teammates have given him something more than an autographed lineup card as a gift? That's almost as bad as when the Baltimore Orioles gave Cal Ripken a granite rock for his lawn when he broke Lou Gehrig's record.

I think: Without upsetting anyone, hopefully, Oviedo has the loudest and rowdiest fans overall of any school in Seminole County.

I know: Lake Mary girls' soccer coach Bill Eisele is as good a drama teacher as he is a soccer coach. He won a state title in soccer last year, but his productions deserve one also.

I think: The halftime shows at all of the Seminole County football games are great and they all have themes. This year, for instance, Lake Mary had a Simon and Garfunkle tribute last week.

But it's about time someone put together a tribute to the greatest rock and roller of all-time, Bruce Springsteen.

I know: Speaking of music, the pre-game noise at volleyball games this year is too loud.

I think: I've said it before. Winter Springs will be the dominant overall athletic program in Seminole County in two years.

I know: The Lake Brantley swimming team deserves much more credit than it gets, especially from this column. The Patriots may be the best public school team in the state.

Last Second Shot: I may be two weeks too late in saying this, but Lake Brantley's football team seems to be better than I thought.

Seminole wins district opener with rout of Pine Ridge

By Kelle Werner
HERALD STAFF WRITER

DeLAND - They're Baaaaack! After a mediocre season opener against Lyman last week, Seminole High School traveled to DeLand and put a whipping on Pine Ridge at Spec Martin Stadium, showing that it is back to the form the Fighting Seminoles held last season.

Now 2-0 overall and 1-0 in Class 5A-District 5, the 'Noles trounced coach Jim Worthington's former team 48-7. Until there was only a minute left in the game, Seminole had a shutout brewing.

The win came after Seminole almost let Lyman slip back into the game last week when the defense all but shut down in the second half. That didn't happen this week.

"I think the defensive problem last week was more mental than conditioning," Worthington said. "Plus it was really hot and that can make a difference. When you're putting points on the board it also gets the adrenaline going so that can change things."

On its first possession, Pine Ridge looked good. Keith Alexander and Dominic Laurenza split the ball carrying duties when quarterback Markie May wasn't hitting receivers Larry Schriber and Austin Goff. The Panther's first possession culminated in four first downs, a fourth down conversion and 59 yards. Then they stalled...and were very quiet for the rest of the game.

Seminole exploded on its first possession, when a hand-off to Mario Frederick resulted in a 90-yard touchdown run. Matt Nixon's extra point was good and Seminole had a quick 7-0 lead with only 8:30 off the clock.

On the kickoff, Pine Ridge fumbled and Seminole's Justin Nettles fell on it at the 10-yard line. That drive also resulted in a score off a one-yard rush by Frederick.

Pine Ridge did nothing to retaliate and on its possession...

Patriots pull off upset of DeLand

By Alex Kane
HERALD STAFF WRITER

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Do not tell the Lake Brantley Patriots that their game against the DeLand Bulldogs was a case of David and Goliath.

Instead, you could congratulate them on being the better team, and winning one of the biggest games in school history.

DeLand, ranked eighth in the state in Class 6A and the defending 6A-District 3 champions, fell to the Patriots in front of an ecstatic crowd at Tom Storey Field on Friday night, 21-14.

Lake Brantley, a major underdog in many people's eyes, got incredible performances from its offense, defense, and special teams.

On Lake Brantley's first possession, quarterback Regan Russell and fullback Arnold Celeste combined for 50 yards of rushing, ending in an eight-yard Celeste touchdown run, giving the Patriots a 6-0 lead.

DeLand stormed back, however, and on third and 12, quarterback Craig Candeto ran to his left, and scampered for an 83-yard touchdown. The extra point gave it the lead, 7-6.

Lake Brantley again ran the ball down the field, controlling the clock while steadily progressing.

On third and seven on its own 43 yard line, the Patriots caught the Bulldogs off guard with a halfback pass from Arnold Celeste to Corby Dryden. On fourth and one at the DeLand 21, however, Lake Brantley fumbled, and the drive ended.

DeLand went three-and-out on their next possession and the Patriots started out on their own 43, and marched down the field due to a controlled running game and a 23 yard pass from Russell to Lanier Bush.

Unfortunately, Lake Brantley again fumbled, this time only three yards away from the end zone.

On the next play, the defense turned lemons into lemonade, and tackled Bulldogs quarterback Craig Celeste.

This was the scene for most of Friday night's game as the Lyman defense bottled up Lake Mary star running back Lawrence Rudolph in the Greyhounds' 20-7 Class 6A-District 3 and conference victory over the Rams at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

'Hounds howl in win over Rams LAKE MARY - The Lyman Greyhounds went to an old-fashioned style of football on Friday night and it worked to perfection in a 20-7 victory over Lake Mary at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

Lyman looked like a throw-back to the '60s as it used a strong defense and a power running game to win its first game of the season.

After failing to loosen up the Rams defense with its passing attack in the first half, the Greyhounds went to a tight wing formation and ran the ball right at Lake Mary.

"Our defense was playing so well that we needed to go to something that could control the game," said Lyman head coach Larry Baker of the decision to change offenses.

And while the attack only netted a pair of field goals by Travis Rothstein, it did take time off the clock and wore down the Rams.

The pounding also forced Lake Mary's offense to pass a little, and the impressive Lyman defense took advantage, forcing two fumbles and...

Bears blanked in home opener

By Amy Hawkins
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

WINTER SPRINGS - Winter Springs came into Friday night's home opener straight off a 54-0 win in its first ever varsity game last week.

The Bears learned it isn't always that easy. The Winter Springs Bears were a little overwhelmed by the Berkeley Bucas, as the Tampa squad handed their hosts a 9-0 loss.

The defense for Winter Springs played an impressive game, holding the Bucas to only a safety for the entire first half.

Juniors Kirk Blaine and Llewelyn Baytopps both had one and one-half sacks on the night and were a strong effort on holding the Bucas to so few points.

The Bucas scored a safety in the second quarter and then a touchdown in the third quarter.

The first and fourth quarters were stand-offs between the Berkeley offense and the Winter Springs defense.

The Bears coach, Mick Harris, said that the team came out "flat" from last week's overwhelming victory. Winter Springs junior and quarterback, Brandon Blake completed three great passes on the night, and many other great plays.

Blake's cousin, Johnnie also had a few terrific runs on the night, including a reception from his cousin.

These efforts were not enough, however, to overcome the Berkeley Bucas.

The Bucas' junior fullback, Andy Schember, had too many carries on the night to count and he led the team to set up the touchdown in the third quarter.

Coach Harris said that the Bears were "not ready to play" last night. He also mentioned that they would have to step it up for the home game next week against the Lake Brantley Patriots, who are currently 2-0 for the season. That game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

In other football action this week at Winter Springs - the junior varsity team suffered a 28-6 loss to Oviedo, while the freshman squad defeated the ninth-grade Lions 22-14.

DeJesus drives Silver Hawks past Lions

By Tony DeSormier
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

OVIDO - Apparently, the only difference for the Lake Howell Silver Hawks between last week's season-opening loss to Winter Park and Friday night's 24-10 Class 6A-District 3 win over the Oviedo Lions at John Courier Field was intensity.

"We were much more intense on both sides of the ball," said Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia. "We were really flat last week against Winter Park. The defense didn't move to the ball and the offense didn't execute."

Tonight, we played with a lot more intensity and that was the difference. The difference was personified by senior running back Christian DeJesus, who bulled, slashed, dashed, stumbled, and lunged for a game-high 124 yards on 19 attempts.

"Christian is a tough running back," said Bisceglia with visible admiration. "He's a third-year varsity starter. He did a tremendous job tonight, getting us yards when we needed them."

DeJesus broke a 7-7 tie at 8:02 of the second quarter when he scored on a 5-yard run to cap a drive that began with him rumbling 49 yards through the heart of the Oviedo defense.

He later iced the victory with an 11-yard scoring rush with 48 seconds left in the game.

In between those two carries, DeJesus gained 36 gritty yards on 11 carries during the third and fourth quarters. The rest of the Lake Howell offense only managed 35 yards during that stretch.

While the Silver Hawks were hanging on for dear life, trying desperately to avoid a repeat of last year's result (when Oviedo rallied from eight points down in the final minutes of the game to win in overtime at Lake Howell), the Lions were hunting just as desperately for a break.

In the second half, the Lions (0-2) outgained the Silver Hawks 115 yards to 80 and advanced inside the Lake Howell 50-yard line on three separate occasions, but came away without any points.

One possession ended at the Lake Howell 24 when the Lions turned the ball over on downs.

Another was snuffed when Larry Cummings intercepted a pass in the end zone. Steve McCheaney recovered an Oviedo fumble at the Silver Hawks' 27-yard line to end a third drive.

Lake Howell took advantage of a bad snap on a punt attempt to set up a 42-yard David Lantigua field goal early in the fourth quarter. DeJesus' second touchdown came three plays after Scott Petroff intercepted a Lion pass at the Oviedo 30-yard line.

"The guys deserved a better result than this," said Oviedo coach Greg Register. "We just didn't catch any breaks tonight. We had our chances and I believe we had a good game plan. We just..."

What's Up In The NFL..... Week No. 2

SANFORD _ I hate to start the column by patting myself on the back, but I have to. After eight grueling months of the off-season, I was proud to open the season with a LOCK OF THE WEEK victory.

As promised the Tennessee Oilers disposed of the Cincinnati Bengals, even after their star quarterback went down with an injury! Hopefully you cashed in, and from the calls I've received, many of you did.

If you decided to sit on the sidelines last week.....get in the game! As the CRYSTAL BALL OF FOOTBALL, I'm feeling good again today.

Let's take a quick look at Florida's teams starting with Tampa Bay.

It looks like once again this year, the Bucs aren't going to get started until Week Four or Five. The Minnesota Vikings thrashed this team and for the first time in years, it wasn't Dilfer's fault.

I put a call into Coach Dungy's voice mail and left a simple message, "Make some changes, or I will."

The Jaguars can't be much happier after their squeaker over the Bears, but remember, a win is a win. Chicago played the best game of the year and after the heartbreaking loss, look for them to collapse.

Jimmy Johnson has to be pleased with his squad's performance in Indianapolis. The Fish have usually had a tough time winning there but did so effortlessly last week.

I was very impressed with Peyton Manning's play and look for him to be a star VERY soon.

Opening day had a few surprises, most of which you already knew about from the CRYSTAL BALL OF FOOTBALL.

Seattle absolutely throunced the grounded Eagles and look very tough.

The New York Jets gave a scare to San Francisco but showed they still don't have the maturity to make the "close."

The scoreboard may have said Kansas City blew Oakland out on Sunday night, but the truth is the Raiders were done in with penalties. By the end of the game they had given up nearly 200 yards in penalties! That's right, they gave up two football fields! Now you know why I often refer to them as the Oakland Cheaters.

The Saints are trying to get a little feisty with former Gator Danny Wuerffel at the helm, but face a little tougher test this week against the Panthers.

This week we're having a little contest for my readers. What N.F.L. team will score the most points this week? The winner gets a giant free pizza and they will be inducted into the Football Guru Hall of Fame. E-mail or fax your answers in by the 1 p.m. Kickoff Sunday afternoon.

Enough house cleaning! It's time to find some winners in the CRYSTAL BALL OF FOOTBALL.

GREEN BAY (-7) VS TAMPA BAY

I hate to admit it, but it looks like the Bucs are going to start slow. I can't bet against the Bucs, but if I needed the money I sure would today! The Packers looked solid against the Lions and still remember their slow start last year. They'll look to win this one early and in the air! Packers 31, Bucs 13.

MIAMI (-6) VS BUFFALO

This rivalry in the A.F.C. East goes back and forth every year, and I'm afraid it's Miami's turn. Pride rather than talent may keep the Bills close, but it wouldn't shock me if the Dolphins beat them mercifully. Dolphins 30, Bills 17.

JACKSONVILLE (-4) VS KANSAS CITY

This should be a great game, maybe the best of the week. The Jags are coming off a sluggish performance against the Bears, but should be awake today. The Chiefs defense looked good against the Raiders last week, but they face a much better line in this one. TOO CLOSE TOO CALL.

BRADY LESSARD

PITTSBURGH (-10) VS CHICAGO

Look for the Steelers to dominate this game from start to finish. It's really that simple. Steelers 34, Bears 12.

NEW YORK JETS (-6) VS BALTIMORE

Another tough game for both of these teams. The Jets and the Ravens were both losers last week and they both looked pretty good. In this one I'll go with Parcells at home, but I sure wouldn't bet against the Ravens' defense. Jets 18, Ravens 14.

CAROLINA (-5) AT NEW ORLEANS

The Panthers are one of the three road teams favored this week and they don't deserve to be. They looked anemic last week against the Falcons, while the Saints proved they were a fun team to watch. Ditka has this team excited and believing in themselves. I'm taking them at home in an upset special. Saints 23, Panthers 17.

DETROIT (-7) VS CINCINNATI

I refuse to pick the Bengals in any game until they return Sanford native Jeff Blake as the starting quarterback. This team could have beaten the Oilers last week if they had played their star. He'll be back, but until then, Cincy loses. Lions 27, Bengals 10.

MINNESOTA (-7) AT ST. LOUIS

Now I can understand the Vikings being a touchdown favorite on the road! They looked very good last week, and play the hapless Rams who spent a lot of energy losing to the Saints last week. Vikings 41, Rams 20.

TENNESSEE (-7) VS SAN DIEGO

The Chargers barely got by the Bills last week while the Oilers showed they are ready to make a run at the playoffs. I'm telling you folks, look for this team to make a mark as the season continues. Oilers 27, Chargers 14.

OAKLAND (-2) VS NEW YORK GIANTS

The Cheaters look to inject life back into their season after they embarrassed themselves last week. Look for better pass protection and very few penalties from this talented squad. The Giants are going to have a difficult keeping up with Oakland's speed. The Chiefs did too, but the plays where they were beaten kept being called. Chargers 34, Giants 20.

SEATTLE (-8) VS ARIZONA

When was the last time the Seahawks were favored by eight points against anyone? I like both of these teams to improve from last year's performance. The Seahawks should be able to score some points, but not as many as against the Eagles last week. The Cardinals have much more to prove today than Seattle. Seahawks 19, Cardinals 17.

NEW ENGLAND (-11) VS INDIANAPOLIS

This is quite a few points for the Patriots to cover. I think Peyton Manning will be able to take this team deep, and with Marshall Faulk, he will keep the defensive backfield honest. I'll take the eleven point and cross my fingers. Patriots 28, Colts 21.

SAN FRANCISCO (-4) AT WASHINGTON

I think the Niners worked the links out last week and will look to put up a lot of points Monday Night. The Skins may be biting off more than they can chew here, have you seen Steve Young's record on Monday Night??? Niners 35, Skins 18.

Have a great afternoon watching football and remember that it's impossible to pick the spread winner in every game, concentrate on a few matchups.

To continue the winning streak and the listing of my readers' pockets I'm releasing the OAKLAND RAIDERS (-1) OVER THE NEW YORK GIANTS as my LOCK OF THE WEEK.

After intense research and contemplation, I am convinced that you can feel confident with a heavy play in this one. The Raiders look to turn their season around after a horrible start last week and they have more than enough talent to do just that.

Don't forget our contest! Fax or e-mail questions, comments, and entries to me at 330-1987, or "Brady32405@aol.com"

Enjoy the games and remember, you can always pay the kid next door to mow the grass, otherwise you may miss kickoff!

P.S. - Satellite update.....Keep calling and writing, I think management is about to break down and reimburse me for my Direct T.V. Football package. You have no idea what joy technology can bring to a football fan!

Lyman

turning them into a pair of touchdowns to build a 20-0 lead.

"The defense was a scrappy bunch tonight and I couldn't be more proud," said Baker. "They kept us in the game in the first half."

"I also want to give credit to our defensive coaches. They had the kids ready and had a great game plan. We knew we had to stop their running back (Lawrence Rudolph), he's a great runner."

The game opened like it was going to be an offensive shootout.

Eric Coleman took the opening kickoff for the Rams out to the 40-yard line and three plays later Lake Mary had a first down at the Lyman 45 after an 12-yard pass from Corey Cooper to Robert Perez.

But the drive stalled as the next three plays lost eight yards and the Greyhounds then blocked the punt, taking over the ball at their own 49.

Lyman quarterback Brian Krause hit Dominic Cleveland with a 26-yard strike on first down. But two plays later a bad snap resulted in a 19-yard loss and a recovery by the Rams Javier Ruiz.

Neither team showed much offense for the rest of the half as the defenses bore down and played super football.

Lake Mary had a couple of chances as it claimed an interception and another fumble recovery, but the hosts hurt themselves with a couple of crucial dropped passes and the game went to halftime scoreless.

A pair of penalties on the Rams before they even kicked the ball off to start the second half and a 28-yard return by Brad Harris gave the Greyhounds the ball at their own 46.

Lyman then ran the ball 10 straight times, taking 5:33 off the clock and ending with a 21-yard field goal by Rothstein.

After a 10-yard loss killed a potential Lake Mary drive, the Greyhounds took over on the Rams' 48-yard line.

Seven plays got the ball down to the 18 and Rothstein came on to boot a 35-yard field goal, giving Lyman a 6-0 lead with 11:55 left to play.

"Travis (Rothstein) was determined to make his field goals tonight," said Baker. "He felt real bad after missing that field goal against Seminole that could have won the game last week."

The Greyhounds then turned the game over to the defense.

Matt Pickelimer recovered a fumble at the 15 on Lake Mary's next possession and Krause went to the air to find James Talley for the touchdown. Rothstein's extra point made the score 13-0.

The Rams fumbled again on its next possession and Russ Feist recovered for Lyman at the Lake Mary 20.

Five running plays later, Kit Kaminski bulled his way in from the one and Rothstein followed with the game's 20th point with only 6:20 remaining.

The Rams finally got its offense going and went on a 14-play, 68-yard drive with Matt Mergo scoring on a 12-yard pass from Cooper. Russ Abrams added the extra point, but only 1:58 remained on the clock.

Both teams will play non-district games next Friday with Lyman going to Edgewater and Lake Mary hosting Pine Ridge. Both games start at 7:30 p.m.

The Greyhounds and Rams are both 1-1 on the season, but the win gives Lyman, which outplayed a tough Seminole squad in the second half last week, a load of confidence and a 1-0 record in both the Seminole Athletic Conference and 6A-District 3 races.

"We've (the Lyman squad) had so much spirit even when we weren't winning," said Lyman Principal Sam Momary. "I don't know what will happen next week."

Patriots

Candeto for a safety.

On the free kick, the Patriots again fumbled, and DeLand took over at their own 33.

Candeto tossed a 32-yard pass to receiver Travis Padgett, setting them at the Lake Brantley 15 yard line. The next play saw a questionable pass interference call advancing DeLand to the seven.

Two plays later, running back Kenon Atkins scored, giving the Bulldogs a 14-8 lead which they carried into the locker room at halftime.

On the opening possession of the second half, the Patriots mixed a passing and running attack that brought them down the field, with Russell and Celeste eating up yardage, and Russell threw a 35 yard pass to Trey Keeley.

Lake Brantley again could not capitalize, and turned over the ball on a loss of downs on the DeLand 29.

The Patriots' defense again came through on the next drive, forcing the Bulldogs to punt after only three plays.

Lake Brantley's offense took charge on the next series running for all of its yardage down the field.

The only attempted pass turned into a broken halfback pass as Bush ran all the way from the left sideline to the right, and gained 18 yards.

Russell finished the drive with a one-yard quarterback keeper. The extra point put the Patriots ahead, 15-14.

Lake Brantley's defense again stymied DeLand's offense, and the Bulldogs punted after another three play series.

Following the punt, it took the Patriots only three plays to plow from the DeLand 46 to the end zone, scoring on a 10-yard Lanier Bush touchdown run.

After the two teams traded possessions, DeLand took over at its own 25 with 4:26 remaining.

Lake Brantley's defense again held, and the offense ran out the clock, and the scoreboard would have read (had it been working) 21-14, the Patriots on top.

Lake Brantley coach George Clayton called the game "one of the greatest wins Lake Brantley has had."

Russell, Celeste, and Bush played incredible games.

The defense proved practically immovable with outstanding performances from linebacker Steve Baggs and defensive back John Miller.

Kicker Trey Keeley kicked three out of four of his kickoffs out of the end zone for touchdowns, and the other one proved to difficult to return, putting DeLand at their own 15. Keeley consistently gave DeLand poor starting field positions.

Coach Clayton mixed up his usually rush-only offense with passes and trick plays.

Defensive captain Clint Hanson said, "The togetherness that we've gotten over summer made this possible."

The Lake Brantley Patriots, a team which walks onto the field holding hands and takes a knee whenever a player is down on the field, regardless of what team he plays for, won Friday night in a game most thought they would lose.

They won with effort, determination, and teamwork. And they won with class.

Lake Brantley is now 2-0 on the season and will play a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at Winter Springs next Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

Tribe

next possession which spanned the second quarter, Seminole's Deon Howard rushed 22 yards for his first touchdown of the season. Only 30 seconds into the period, Seminole was up 21-0.

Seminole's next attempt at a score was a field goal, set up off a fumble recovery by Bobby Williams. The 29-yard attempt was blocked, but Howard got his hands on the loose ball and ran it back to the 12-yard line.

Pine Ridge put together another drive, thanks to a couple of Seminole penalties. That drive stalled on the 39-yard line and without any points.

The Tribe closed out the half with another touchdown and PAT to leave the field with a 28-0 lead.

Seminole again had possession in the third quarter, but the drive was cut short when Pine Ridge intercepted a pass by 'Noles quarterback Garrett Goldsmith. The Panthers fumbled three plays later and Joe Watson came up with the recovery.

Seminole and Pine Ridge traded possessions until the beginning of the fourth quarter. On its first possession of that period, Goldsmith put six more points on the board for Seminole with a seven-yard quarterback keeper. Nixon's extra point brought the score to 35-0. A sack by Williams on Pine Ridge's attempted fourth down conversion late in the fourth gave Seminole the ball on the nine-yard line and the score was 42-0 two plays later when Clarence Lattimer rushed for a six-yard touchdown.

Williams was a madman all night. His energy on the field converted into big plays and he came up with big tackles when needed. The secondary player was instrumental in setting up Seminole's scoring drives and stopping Pine Ridge dead in its tracks.

"Every game is a big game for me this year," Williams said. "I am a senior and it is important to me that I make a good impression on the college coaches that are looking at me, live up to the expectations of my coaches and don't let my teammates down."

"I am taking the games more seriously this year and I truly love being out here. I take my role as a senior on this team very seriously and I try to be an example not only to my teammates this year, but also for those who will come behind me."

Pine Ridge fumbled yet another kick-off return, setting up a score by Frederick, this time on a 15-yard scramble off a hand-off by back-up quarterback Paul Hughes.

Down 48-0, Pine Ridge finally held onto a kick-off return, rushed for a few flat down and completed a few passes to finally put some points on the board with 1:00 left in the game. Laurena put six points on the board with a 1-yard run and Gordon Stimpson added the PAT to bring the score to 48-7.

That's how the score would stay, giving Seminole its second win in as many weeks and breathing new life into a team that was not completely satisfied with its performance the week before.

"I was very pleased with the showing the offense made tonight," Worthington said. "Most of Garrett's plays were audibles from the line and he made some very good decisions."

"We need to work a little more on our pass coverage, but that will come with time. Once our secondary gets a little better, it will all fall into place."

Next up for Seminole is its home opener against county rival Lake Howell at 7:30 p.m. on Friday night at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

Pine Ridge (0-2) will take on another Seminole County foe, traveling to Lake Mary next Friday night to challenge the Rams at Don T. Reynolds Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

need to do a better job of finishing off our opportunities.

"Lake Howell played a great game. Coach Bisceglia always has them ready."

The loss puts Oviedo in a deep hole early in the 6A-District 3 race.

"There's no-way we can afford another loss after this if we expect to make the playoffs," said Register. "Our next district game is against DeLand, which is ranked in the top 10 in the state. We have our work cut out for us."

"We've dug ourselves a deep hole, now we have to climb out of it."

Lake Howell will travel to Sanford for a Seminole Athletic Conference contest against Seminole at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium, while Oviedo travels to Winter Park for a non-district game at Showalter Field against the Wildcats next Friday night. Both games are set for a 7:30 p.m. start.

Spirited comedy opens Players' season Blithe Spirit's final performance is Saturday but there's more to come from Lake Mary troupe

By Alex Kane
HERALD STAFF WRITER

LAKE MARY - A spirited performance of a Noel Coward play opened the season for the Lake Mary High School Players of the Arts.

Anyone who has seen the original version of Blithe Spirit might want to check out the Lake Mary version. (If you hurry, you can catch the final performance, Saturday night at 7:30) as it contains a few differences from the original including a different ending. For the most part, however, the script remains loyal to Coward, and the scenes with principals Charles and Ruth Condomino showcase hysterically witty dialogue. Elvira's charming character, performed with the ease of a professional by the talented Melissa Ortiz, is as interesting as almost any other literary character.

Play review

The play concerns a modern day Miami couple, Charles and Ruth. (The original Coward version takes place in England.) Charles decides he wants to gather material for his book about a fraudulent mystic. He tricks a psychic he supposes to be running a scam - Madame Arcati - into performing a seance in front of him, his wife, and their friends, the Bradmans. Things do not turn out as expected for Charles, as the ghost of his first wife, Elvira, is conjured. Highjinks ensue.

The play has two casts, a blue cast and a yellow cast. Both contain the same actress as Madame Arcati, Erin Dyer, who stole the show as the eccentric seer. Her acting and delivery of the more comic moments of the play earned her the loudest applause from the audience at the end of the night. Constantly impressive, and smooth even when things outside of her control malfunctioned, (When a CD player was supposed to start playing, and the music never came on, Dyer looked over and announced, "I think I broke your stereo," without even breaking stride), she indeed was the star of the show.

Other notable performances came from Blue Cast members Emily Taylor as Ruth, Melissa Ortiz as Elvira, and Erin O'Neil as the maid, Edith. The Live cast also includes Joshua Duke as Charles, Ben Hoyer and Brandon Gillotti as Dr. Bradman, and Kat Littig as Mrs. Bradman.

Drama director Bill Eissele again put on a tremendous show, with a great cast and crew. Equally as impressive as the cast was the aesthetically pleasing set.

Head of make-up was Constance Katsafanas; head of props were Summer Aleshe and Shawn Harris; head of sound was Kellie Warren assisted by Becca Atkins; head of house was Danielle Bates; head of costume was Stacy Allegro assisted by Kate McDonald; head of publicity was Becca Atkins and Kellie Warren; and head of lighting was Adam Del Medico assisted by Stephen Pugh.

A tremendous job was also done by Director Mike Gamble and Assistant Director Sara Honaker.

The Yellow Cast will perform the last showing Saturday; Jennifer Cipolla as Ruth; Dara Reinhold as Mrs. Bradman; Julie Ruth as Elvira; Jonathan "Stew" Stewart as Dr. Bradman; Erin O'Neil as Edith; and Cory Warren as Charles. The production contains a mixture of physical and verbal comedy, and is nothing if not entertaining.

If you missed Blithe Spirit, you have several chances to catch the Lake Mary Players. Other productions for the year include Death of a Salesman (Oct. 27, 28, 29 and 31); Babes in Toyland (Dec. 7); Nunsense (Jan. 9); and Hello Dolly (March 24, 25, 26 and 27).

Emily Taylor and Joshua Duke play Charles and Ruth Condomino in the Lake Mary High School Players of the Arts' production of Noel Coward's Blithe Spirit.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday

Sunday, Sept. 13, 1998

That for which you've worked long and hard could bear fruit in the coming year. In fact, it might be a bumper crop that will make up for the long drought in the past. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Don't limit your perspective to your present concerns. Strive to be a visionary today, and look for additional ways to brighten your tomorrows. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Early in the day, you're likely to be more ambitious than you will towards evening. Put tough tasks at the top of your must-do agenda. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Important decisions should not be made in haste today. Time is your ally, so make ample use of it to weigh and balance your choices. Winners operate on detail awareness. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You won't be deceived by surface appearances today. That which escapes detection by others will be clearly perceived by you. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be appreciative of small opportunities today, as good may come from things others overlook or cast aside. You'll know how to get blood from a rock. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Instead of looking out for your interests today, try to be of service to others. When helping them, you will benefit in equal or better ways. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Those you associate with today will be impressed by your methods and conduct. You'll know how to assert yourself in ways worthy of emulation. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Pay heed to your fundamental business instincts, as they could put you on the power side of heart to dummy's jack, and fessed the spade queen. West won with the king, but had no winning ripoise. A moment later, after losing two club tricks to East, South claimed nine tricks, having lost one spade, one diamond and two clubs. From the points that appeared in the dummy, East knew West had little. Also, as West had led a fourth-highest diamond two, South had to have three cards in the suit. So, the defenders had no sparkling future in diamonds. It was necessary to look elsewhere. East should have switched to the club six at trick two. Then, as long as West started with at least two clubs and could win a trick before declarer had accumulated nine, a club return through the dummy would give East four tricks in the suit. Think first, defend second. ©1998 by NEA, Inc.

Networking for fun and profit

By Shari Brodie
HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

LAKE MARY - John Connelly, dressed in a suit and tie, face beaming with a broad smile, offers his business card.

"I sell telephones," said Connelly, a Lake Mary community activist and fixture more commonly seen in casual clothing.

Connelly is the newest member of L.E.A.D.S. (Leads Exchanged Add Dollars), a business referral group established in Lake Mary in 1991.

Former president of the group, Melodie Bergeron, a gift specialist from Sanford, was the third member of the group, which was organized by Lake Mary business owners who were also members of the Lake Mary Heathrow Chamber of Commerce.

"When I first started, I had no business," said Bergeron, who joined the chamber and then joined the leads group. "My largest accounts have originated from this group."

Similar to networking groups in other areas, the group functions as a marketing tool for proactive business owners, mostly sole proprietors.

The Lake Mary group isn't just Lake Mary business owners. One longtime member, Richard Starcher, who owns Safeguard Business Systems, drives in once a week from Ocoee. Podeswa is also from out of town. He bases his entertainment business out of Orlando, but he said he finds his involvement in the Lake Mary group invaluable.

"The purpose of our organization is to provide an environment where we can meet and build a good working relationship with one another, so we feel comfortable referring our friends and business associates to each other," said Bob Brenner, a hypnotist.

"One of the main reasons for the existence of the group is to network with other business professionals," said Frank Podeswa, president of L.E.A.D.S. The group meets every Wednesday, except the first Wednesday, at 7:45 a.m. at the Pebble Creek Apartments' clubhouse. On the first Wednesday of the month, the group attends the Lake Mary Heathrow Chamber of Commerce meeting and then holds a casual after hours event to which spouses and friends are invited.

While membership in chambers, other business organizations, or service organizations such as the Rotary Club, is encouraged, membership in other leads groups is restricted. Similarly, only one member of a certain category of business is allowed to join, so there will be no competition for business within the group.

The current membership is between 25 and 30 and Podeswa said the dynamics of that size group is good. But, in order to keep the engine churning, and to give every person interested a chance to be a member, no more than three absences are excused. The group collects dues, $75 for each year. The group's year runs from June to May. Besides Podeswa, the current officers are Byron Clinger, who is the vice president; Ralph Keilman, who is the treasurer; and Dave Shidemanite, who is the secretary.

"I think the thing that makes this group successful is that we are a tight knit group," said Podeswa. That is the key, others say as well.

To be a member in good standing with the group, one is required to bring in one lead to each meeting. If you don't bring a lead to the meeting, you are fined a dollar, said Bergeron.

"The purpose of every meeting is to give a lead to someone else," said Bergeron.

"If you give leads consistently, everyone profits," said Podeswa.

Often these leads are for services required by a friend, a family member, or another business associate. Bryon Clinger said he doesn't want a referral from someone who isn't going to give good service, so he won't give a referral unless he knows the business he is referring is qualified to do the job.

"My business is word of mouth," said Clinger, who owns a carpet cleaning service. "I believe in word of mouth advertising." It's critical to get good leads and it's critical to give good service, he said.

"Service is a key point," said Podeswa. "That's something money can't buy."

High quality work reflects well on the fortunes of the leads group, which does require references

The theme was a 'Jimmy Buffett Bash' and members of the Lake Mary L.E.A.D.S. group dressed for the occasion. The group co-sponsored the recent Business-After-Hours at the Lake Mary SunTrust, a Lake Mary Heathrow Chamber of Commerce event. Present and from potential members. "If you don't (do high quality work), it going to get back to the group," said Podeswa.

"We're kind of a support group among ourselves," said Dave Shidemanite, owner of First Choice Travel.

But, as the saying goes, all work and no play makes for a dull group. This leads group knows how to play.

While most members don't join for the social aspect, said Podeswa, "there are great friendships formed within this group."

"When you have fun at what you do, you don't work another day of your life."

The after-hours events are one aspect of the fun the group tries to promote. They are casual where the morning meetings are structured.

For the fourth year, the group co-sponsored the sixth annual Rock & Roll Business-After-Hours at SunTrust in Lake Mary. SunTrust has sponsored the event for six years, in cooperation with the chamber, and the events have taken on music themes ranging from the 50s and 60s, to Biker Bash to the recent "Jimmy Buffett Bash".

"SunTrust sure was a lot of fun," said Clinger. The group also tries to plan picnics and day outings. A fall or spring social is planned, in addition to a holiday party. Last fall, Shidemanite used the resources of his travel company to arrange a cruise for interested L.E.A.D.S. and chamber members.

L.E.A.D.S. is involved in the community in other ways as well.

Keilman, whose wife was the local co-chair of the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life, said the leads group was involved "in a big way" with the event. This is the second year the group has supported the relay, which raised $40,000 this year for cancer research.

Emphasizing the social aspect of doing business really helps to bring the group together, said Podeswa. It adds an element of trust he said. "People tend to do business with people they know and not people they don't," said Bergeron.

"For the new business person," said Podeswa, "it's a great way to get started."

Jews set to celebrate High Holy Days; Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur

By Rabbi Moshe Elbaz
CONGREGATION BETH EL

In the book of Leviticus, Jews are instructed that on the first day of the seventh month (first of Tishrei) a day of rest will be observed. "Proclaimed with the blast of horns." This day has become known as Rosh Hashanah, the New Year and the first of the Ten Days of Repentance, the period of spiritual self-examination that culminate Yom Kippur. Rabbinic tradition states that the Almighty passes judgment, when every human being and his actions are judged individually.

Thus, on Sunday, Sept. 20 at sundown Jews throughout the world will gather at their synagogues as they usher in the Jewish New Year of 5759. Rosh Ha'shanah-New Year is commemorated through intense prayer services for two days, which focus on the concept of T'shuva-Repentance. According to Jewish tradition Repentance is achieved through three major principals: First, Tefillah-Supplication or Prayer Services.

The Shofar-The Ram's Horn is sounded on the morning of the first and second day of the New Year. It reminds us that we can do better with ourselves, our family members, our community, our country and the world. We promise to continue with the task and bring our promises to successful completion.

Second, T'shuva-Repentance Third, Tzedakah-Charity and giving for the perpetuation of Judaism.

Thus, it is customary to involve household members prior to the New Year with Mitzvot, Good Deeds and participating in generous contributions to worthy causes. Through such actions and resolutions to improve one's religious and social commitment, Jews are granted a year of peace and happiness.

Jews greet each other with "L'Shanah Tovah Tikatevu-May God inscribe you in the Book of Life."

On the Jewish New Year, Jews celebrate creation and renewal and the responsibilities of men to his Creator and His world.

The New Year Eve begins with sitting at tables, surrounded by those whom we love, and celebrating the fact that Jews finished a year together, and that we have been Rabbi Moshe Elbaz given a new year of life.

The table is decorated with the best dishes and tableware, flowers, candles and wine. In addition, Round Chaloh-Egg Bread filled with sweet raisins and apples dipped in honey are extra on the New Year, saying "May God grant you a sweet year."

Upon arriving to the synagogue, the Cantor and the Rabbi lead the congregation with prayers being recited in a special melody.

Jewish New Year also is the start of the Ten Days of Awe which end the culmination of Yom Kippur-Day of Atonement.

The Day of Atonement, the most solemn day in the Jewish year, is the culmination of the Ten Days of Repentance. "On this day shall atonement be made for you, to cleanse you; from all your sins shall you be clean before the Lord." Lev. 16:30. Yom Kippur was first established as the Day of Repentance for the Jewish people when Moses returned from Mount Sinai, carrying the second pair of stone tablets. He had learned that God had forgiven the Children of Israel for the sin of worshipping the golden calf which they committed while Moses was receiving the original tablets.

Yom Kippur, Sept. 30, is a day when all work, eating, drinking, washing, etc. is forbidden, a day to be devoted only to prayer and supplication. The synagogue is the focal point, from the opening Kol Nidrei service to its close with Ne'ilah.

On the fourteenth of Tishrei, four days following Yom Kippur, Jews celebrate the Festival of Sukkot-

Feast of Tabernacles. It is a festival of rejoicing that recalls the way in which the Almighty looked after the Children of Israel during the 40 years, following the Exodus, that they spent as nomads in the desert.

A fragile Sukkah is built where Jews spend time and eat meals for eight days. Another important element in the observance of Sukkot is in the participation in the synagogue services with the four species: three branches bound together—a palm, (Lulav), myrtle (Hadas)—and a perfect citron (etrog). These four species have been compared to differences in the character of people.

The High Holy Days season ends with Simchat Torah-The Rejoicing of the Law. This is the last day of the festival of Sukkot and is the annual cycle of the reading of the Torah in the synagogue is completed and the new cycle is begun.

As part of modern festivities, the Scrolls of the Law are paraded seven times around the synagogue by the congregation and all are called to read from the Torah. Children play an important part in the festivities. They join in the procession and participate in the singing and dancing, usually with flags and miniature scrolls.

Stubborn cold could be more; it could be sinusitis

By Debra Wood R.N.
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

A cold that just won't go away could be something more serious—sinusitis.

If you go to the doctor with a typical cold, you can treat it and feel better in a week; ignore the symptoms and they will go away in seven days, according to Dr. Robert M. Naclerio, a nationally renowned sinus specialist.

But if symptoms last more than a week, it's definitely time to see the doctor. Persistent nasal congestion, drainage, coughing and headache pain are symptoms of sinusitis, an inflammation of the air spaces within the bones of the face.

Normally, there is a free flow of air and moisture between the nose and four pairs of sinuses. However, a cold or allergy can cause the mucous membrane that lines the nose, nasal passages and sinus cavities to swell, blocking thick secretions from draining out of the sinuses. That causes pressure to build, which results in pain.

"You've got a cold, and then you get significant pain over the sinus area. You start having a lot of thick, what we call purulent, drainage from your nose. It becomes stuffy, and usually you have coughing," explained Naclerio, section chief of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery at the University of Chicago.

Other sinus symptoms include toothaches, swollen eyelids, earaches, neck pain and a sore throat. Fever, weakness and fatigue occur less frequently.

Naclerio recommends people seek medical attention "any time there's involvement of the eye, any swelling of the eye or difficulty moving it. Any severe headache or changes in mental status, extremely high fevers or exacerbations of asthma, which is often associated with sinusitis, would be reasons to come to the doctor urgently."

Nasal congestion can also result from medicines, alcohol intake, and exposure to pollutants, perfumes and cold, damp air.

"Then there's a form called chronic sinusitis where the symptoms are much less pronounced," Naclerio continued.

Chronic sinusitis can last for months or years. It is most commonly associated with allergies, but structural defects or nasal polyps can also cause the chronic condition. The National Institutes of Health estimate that 32 million Americans suffer from chronic sinusitis.

"Always, the key in my mind is that you have to know what you have," Naclerio said. "You could have a persistent cold, and it could really turn out to be an allergy. Treatment is different."

Treatment focuses on getting the sinuses to drain, relieving pain and fighting infection.

Humidifiers, warm compresses and other home remedies sometimes ease the discomfort, but they cannot cure the infection. Although decongestant nose drops and sprays seem to help at first, they can increase the severity of the congestion, if they are used for more than a few days. Over-the-counter antihistamines can also make things worse, by thickening the secretions.

Fluids and rest will help. Naclerio recommends sinus sufferers stop swimming during an acute episode, but leaves decisions to participate in other athletic activities up to the patient.

"Any physical exertion would increase the pain fairly significantly as you increase the blood flow up to the area," he explained. "On the contrary, exercise is the best decongestant for the nose. If you can get the sinuses to drain, you actually can make things better. It's kind of a two-edged sword."

In addition to resolving the acute episode, treatment focuses on allergy management, avoiding those things that trigger attacks and controlling symptoms. Surgery may provide relief in people with structural abnormalities or polyps.

Don't suffer in silence. Next time you have a cold that won't quit, call your doctor. It could be sinusitis.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Gordon Treftz

Sharon Thomas, Steven G. Treftz exchange vows

Sharon Elaine Thomas of Sanford, and Steven Gordon Treftz of Chinook, Mont., were married June 27, at 1:00 p.m., at All Souls Catholic Church in Sanford. Father Richard Trout performed the traditional ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Allen and Colleen Thomas of Sanford, and the bridegroom is the son of Pat and Gordon Treftz of Chinook, Mont.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white matte taffeta gown, fashioned along the princess silhouette, with a white organza overskirt and cascading train. The short-sleeved fitted bodice, overskirt and train were lavishly embellished with seed pearls. A pearl headpiece secured her veil of imported illusion and she carried a bouquet of miniature roses and ivy arranged on the small white Bible her mother carried at her wedding 40 years ago.

Tammy Quadagno of Vero Beach, attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a yellow crepe and organza tea-length dress, princess-styled, and carried a white lace fan arranged with yellow flowers accented with a black bow.

Bridesmaids were Barbara Thomas of Sanford, and Cheri Cash of Orange City. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Junior bridesmaids were Krista and Andrea Kelly, from Sandy, Utah. Their floor-length gowns were identical to the honor attendant's and they carried nosegays of yellow flowers.

Norman Williamson, from Chinook, served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Phillip Benblatt, Lake Mary; Douglas Thomas, Orange City; and Jeffrey Thomas, Sanford.

Sarah Thomas, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Brandon Thomas, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Following a reception at the American Legion in Sanford, the newlyweds departed for their home in South Florida before taking a honeymoon at a later date.

Homecoming Irwin returns to perform in free concert

Andy Offutt Irwin is coming home.

A strange combination of singer-songwriter, comedian, thespian and storyteller, Andy will perform in a free concert, open to the community, Saturday, Sept. 19, at 7 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church.

Andy, a former youth director at the church during 1987-89, will likely saunter to center stage carrying an old beat-up guitar which he plays while singing and telling his wacky tales, many of which he has written.

A cracker from Covington, Ga., Andy adds lots of homespun humor and philosophy to his lively performances...including shades of the eminent comedian, Jeff Foxworthy. "I play in churches and I play in clubs and I play mostly the same material in both," he said. "To have the club people ask, 'You play Clarence in churches?' and have the church people ask, 'You play Peter in bars?' gives me a bit of impish pleasure. It's funny to learn how people perceive the lives of other people."

Andy tours a lot, but when he's at home, he gets to be the Artist in Residence at Oxford

His other show-biz and non show-biz jobs, he says, include: actor, camp counselor, playwright, youth director, janitor, political satirist, deputy voter registrar, theatre orchestra conductor, garbage man, teacher, carpenter's flunkie and bullfrog tadpole catcher.

Andy and his wife, Kathleen, a former ballerina, have one son, Tristan, whom they call "a full-time Kapoo."

from 5-8:30 p.m., on the 19th, prior to the concert. Admission is $3.00 for adults, and $10.00 per family. The public is also welcome to this dinner.

On Sunday, Andy will appear at both services as well as an ice cream social and concert that evening at 8:30.

GARDEN CLUB SETS GRANNY'S ATTIC

The Garden Club of Sanford Inc. has opened the season with a bang with president Ann Hoohehan leading the troops. While other organizations recessed for the summer, the garden club members whipped up jar after jar of homemade jams and jellies up for grabs at the Holiday Bazaar in December. "We had a lot of fun," Fran Morton said.

The club's first event of the new season will be "Granny's Attic," a delightful potpourri of items, to be held at the clubhouse on Friday, Sept. 18, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The public is cordially invited.

The next event will be a card party, fashion show and luncheon at the clubhouse on Oct. 22, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Reservations must be made in advance. The luncheon tab is $5.00.

NEW BEGINNINGS

New Beginnings Services, Inc. "Redirecting Destiny's" is the brainchild of Rev. Greg and Carmo Thomas.

This group home for girls, ages 12-16, was founded in March of 1996. This facility will house 12 girls who will be there three through six months.

Rev. Thomas says, "Juvenile Justice Department has given us a grant, but there are many things that need to help make for improving the lives of the youth who live at New Beginnings and become viable citizens."

Most of these youth are children from broken homes and who have not been exposed to just the everyday necessities of a better living. Thomas says the girls are under various levels from one through four, where they work to improve themselves and move up to higher levels.

Girls are required to attend school daily where they learn to read, boost self-esteem, have the desire to succeed and become a new person. They must pray, have a spiritual belief and want to be successful by choice. Thomas says he is with them in all of their levels and they can become a new and changed person. The girls are taught to bond. Lake Mary clubs gear up for fall season

Now that Labor Day has come and gone, summer is officially over. That means all the clubs that took off for the summer are back in session. The club schedule is as follows:

LAKE MARY
MARY ROWELL

AARP

The Lake Mary Chapter of the AARP will resume their monthly meetings on Tuesday, September 15 at 1PM. The next meeting will be about the use of magnetic therapy for pain. The group meets the third Tuesday of every month at the Lake Mary Community Center and is open to anyone 50 or over. If you're interested in joining, just stop next week's meeting or AARP President Jim Carmona at 323-9249.

LAKE MARY WOMAN'S CLUB

The next meeting of the Lake Mary Woman's Club will be on Wednesday, September 23 at 10AM at Timucuan Country Club. It will be their first meeting after their summer break. The speaker for this month's meeting will be Linda Dennis from the District Woman's Club. She will be explaining the details of the state's new membership drive, "Membership Magic". Every member that brings in a new member will receive a special reward. The FFWC, the state organization, wants to double membership throughout the state.

For those unfamiliar with the Woman's Club, it is a very active organization that strives to serve others. The club raises money for their scholarship fund and other charitable funds. Each year, the club awards an SCC scholarship to a displaced homemaker. Last year, the club also gave donations to the Lake Mary Historical Museum, Safehouse of Seminole County, Special Olympics, the Good Samaritan Home, Hacienda Girls Ranch, Missing Children and Rescue Outreach Mission.

One of the ways the club raises money is through their annual Italian Feast and Holiday Craft Show. This year, it is scheduled for Saturday, November 7 at the Community Building in Lake Mary. If you'd like more information on joining the Lake Mary Woman's Club, you can call Ann Kirkendall at 302-9331.

LAKE MARY ROTARY

The Lake Mary Rotary Club did not take the summer off. They meet every Thursday at 7:30AM at the Marriott Courtyard at the corner of I-4 and Lake Mary Boulevard. Rotary is a service club that is involved in local and international service projects. Locally, Rotary has been responsible for such programs as "On Track With Education". This program provided athletic shoes to stand-out students. They've also donated money to the Stardust Girl Scouts for their Uniform Fund.

Rotarians also volunteer their time. They clean up Rhinehart Road once a month. In the past, they have also donated their time to Better Living for Seniors, Health Services and other organizations.

If you'd like to know more about Rotary or if you'd like to join, call Mike McLean at 324-5662.

LONGWOOD-LAKE MARY LION'S CLUB

The Longwood-Lake Mary Lion's Club meets the first and third Tuesday of every month at 7PM at the Ramada Inn North in Longwood.

In 1925, Helen Keller spoke to a Lion's Club and asked them to take responsibility for helping the blind and the deaf. Now, the Lion's Club provides hearing aids and glasses for those who need them.

Locally, the Lion's Club also hosts a Police Officer and Firefighter Awards Banquet every year. They provide recognition to both a firefighter and a police officer from Longwood and from Lake Mary every year. The Lion's Club also helped out at the City of Lake Mary's 25th Anniversary during August, cooking hundreds of hot dogs for the audience.

If you're interested in joining the Longwood-Lake Mary Lion's Club, call Marie Kuhns at 869-1052 for more information or stop by one of their meetings.

GARDEN CLUB

The Lake Mary Garden Club meets the fourth Thursday of every month at 10AM at Lake Mary Community Center. The club is responsible for picking a Yard of the Month in Lake Mary. In the past, they have also planted flowers at various places throughout the city. If you're interested in joining, stop by for their next meeting September 24.
