Summerwood Trail in the unincorporated Maitland area of Seminole County. Just after 11 p.m., a family member found Steven Mark Miller, 47, and his wife, Brenda Kay Miller, 53, dead in the garage of their home.

They had both apparently died of a gunshot wound, but the Medical Examiner's Office will determine the official cause of death.

According to the investigator, it appears Steven shot Brenda and then shot himself. It appears they were both willing participants in the event. According to the investigator, they both took part in writing a note, which detailed why they decided to end their lives. The investigation is continuing.

SHA board director resigns

Editor

SANPORD — The chairman of the Sanford Housing Authority board of directors submitted a notice of resignation last

In a Jan. 17 letter to Mayor Brady Lessard, Joe Davis said his resignation will become effective following the Jan. 31 board meet-

"It's time to move on," Davis said in an interview. "I think we made progress. We've got an executive director in place."

Davis recently passed the Florida bar and said he wants to commit more time to his growing law practice, as well as his duties as

After making huge strides forward, Davis says it's time to move on

"Look, I work in black radio and along with that comes a responsibility to do what's right for the black community," Davis and. "I took this position as part and parcel of what I do on the radio. I made the commitment. We've hired a director, made some progress and hopefully pointed this thing in the right direction.

"Now it's time to concentrate on me," an on-sir personality and program director of WCFB-FM Star 94.5.

Davis added. "Till be 43 in April. I don't think it's selfish to concentrate on my broadthink it's selfish to concentrate on my broadcasting job, to expand my law practice and to improve my fishing prowess."

Deputy City Manager Roger Dixon, who recruited Davis for the position, said he was pleased with Davis' tenure as chairman.

He's done a good job at the Housing Authority," Dixon said. "In volunteering, oe came away from what he normally does. He's not an expert in housing, but in a short period of time, he has been extremely effec-tive."

Dixon, in a memo to City Commission, provided a list of the Housing Authority board's accomplishments during Davis' tenure as chairman. In addition to hiring an executive director, the board has:

Paid ail vendors with past due bills.

 Prepared and adopted new policy guidelines required by HUD.

 Decreased the vacancy rate to 3 percent from 32 percent.

 Established a regular schedule for pest control and lawncare service.

· Re-opened the waiting list for units.

Commission passes trails protection ordinance

By Christopher Patton Staff Writer

SANFORD — As county offi-cials wrapped up the details of a new trails protection ordinance, Commissioner Grant Maloy and several citizens were eager to review another issue facing the county's trails system.

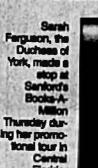

Commissioners voted unanimously for the new ordinance that was originally slated to be heard in late October. Over the last four months, information gathered through extensive meetings helped balance the unerties of all tent user groups in the continence, said user groups engineer Jerry McCollum. According to county staff, no other county in the state has a trails reprised to configurate. trails protection ordinance.

After the in-depth meetings with groups, much of the controversy surrounding the new ordinance disappeared. At the Oct. 23 board meeting, almost a dozen people filled out forms to Tuesday only one individual requested to speak and he was in favor of the proposed trails regulation.

The ordinance requires any resident or business to apply for a permit of permanent trail access. Anyone with access before Oct. 1, 2001 will be grandfathered in, McCollum said. The county engineer, plan-ning and development department director and leisure services department director will consider permit applications and make comments with the county engineer making the final decision.

Commissioner Randy Morris congratulated McCollum for considering the "diverse interests" of all in the ordinance, but was wary of the county engineer's ultimate control over permit decisions. He required, with the approval of the trails ordinance, to have McCollum sub-

Commission to allow us to sign a letter of intent so we can go ahead : and begin talking to tournament officials," said Lisa Jones, superintendent of the recreation department.

The letter of intent does not lock the city into hosting the tournament, Jones said, but is a starting point to determine how to plan for the event, how much to budget and what services must be provided.

With any large tournament like this, there are many issues to work out, from souvenirs to stadium usage," Jones said.

If successful in its bid, Sanford would host the tournament May 15 to May 18, 2003.

Sheriff's Office once again puts motorcycle patrols on the road

By Christopher Patton Staff Writer

SANFORD — When current Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger took over the position from the ailing Sheriff John Polk in January 1991, changes were all but expected.

In just his first year, the former City/County Investigative Bureau leader helped create several significant programs including the process he labeled the "civilianization" of the sheriff's office. Eslinger helped assign more deputies to patrolling the streets by removing sworn deputies from non-haz-ardous desk jobs and replacing them with lower paid civilians. Seven months after being thrust into the position, the county commission signed off on Eslinger's

$28 million budget, and the sheriff's office was embarking on another first - four new motorcycle units. He actually requested five but could only persuade com-missioners to fund four. A fifth motorcycle would be donated less than a year later by the city of Lake

Due to a "reorganization and reengineering" of the sheriff's office, the motorcycle squad was disbanded only a couple years later, Eslinger said. That old idea is new again, as 2002 marks the return of deputies patrolling the streets perched atop Harley Davidsons.

"It's a new beginning," Eslinger

The 12 new motorcycle riding deputies - two for each district is just a small part of the sheriff's new strategic traffic plan to stop aggressive driving in Seminole County. The addition is expected to help increase law enforcement visibility on roads that are log jammed with traffic snarls.

Motorcycles' small size, rapid acceleration and short turning radius make them invaluable in heavy traffic areas, said Lt. Jerry Riggins, program manager of the motorcycle squad.

Law enforcement motorcycles are also safer for other drivers. When directing traffic for a school, an officer can stash a bike off to the side so they will not hinder a driver's vision. They are some of the first to respond to traffic accidents too, said Deputy George Burfield, a sheriff's office motorcyclist for

Stanley Marcus was truly a great American

Stanley Marcus is the only man I knew who would send you a letter asking exactly when you intended to answer his last one. He would send you a note about something or a clipping, and then a couple of weeks later would come a note asking why you weren't interested enough to let him know your

> That, of course, happened only once.
> From then on, his mail was the first I read and the first I answered. He was quite a guy, the Marcus of the Neiman Marcus department stores. Someone once wrote that he was hard to like but easy to admire. Well, I certainly admired him — he was one of the world's great merchants, after all - but I liked him, too. More than 20 years ago, he called me and said that his son-in-law, Henry Raymont, a reporter with me at The New York Times, had told him I was writing a book retracing the American travels of Alexis de Tocqueville in the 1830s. When I was next in Dallas, he said, would I have lunch with him and his family to talk about that?

I did, of course, and he grilled me for a couple of hours, asking better and much tougher questions than most of the book critics I encountered in those days. He had, it turned out, something important in common with the author of "Democracy in America." They both cared about the mid- die of the country, the America generally ignored in New York and Boston, and later in San Francisco and Los M Angeles.

It was not that he did not know the East. He had begun college at Amherst, leaving because in those days they would not allow Jews in clubs or fraternities. He moved on to Harvard, where he earned both an undergraduate degree and an MBA. But then it was back to Texas and work in the store his father had founded in 1907 with his brother-in-law, Abraham Lincoln Neiman. "Mr. Stanley," as he was called, made Neiman Marcus into a national icon of fashion, luxury and taste — not the easiest thing to to do with your main stores in Dallas and Fort Worth. To my mind, Neiman Marcus, like the GI Bill of Rights, public television and the first national distribution of The Wall Street Journal, were among the forces that spread the talent of coastal America, attracting and keeping educated young people and dynamic enterprise in smaller cities across the country — and making the United States a bigger, better and stronger nation in every way.

Marcus retired sometime in his late 70s and then began doing what I do, writing a newspaper column, for The Dallas Morning News. It was a column I ignored that earned me the letter I began with here. It was good stuff by a wise man who did have to fight a certain tendency toward pomposity. He died this week at 96, but he was in good enough shape to give a final interview in his office to Maria Halkias of the News. He told her a story that he had - and probably anyone else who would listen and I've always thought it was one of the amazing things I've ever heard.

Stanley Marcus was 36 when World War II began, too old to fight. But he was called to Washington within a month of Pearl Harbor and given a job by President Franklin Roosevelt: Stop civilians from buying clothes during the war so that labor and material could be used to make uniforms and tents, whatever was needed by the military.

And he did it. He stopped fashion, convincing men, for instance, to wear drooping socks because rubber was needed for war. Then he stopped design changes in women's clothing, as he described it:

"We settled on certain prohibitions, such as lengths, sleeve fullness, patch pockets, ensembles, sweeps of skirts, widths of belts and depth of hems. ... The restrictions we put into effect froze the fashion silhouette. It effectively prevented any change of skirt length downward and it blocked any extreme new sleeve or collar development, which might have encouraged women to discard existing clothes."

That story ran on Christmas Day last year. Not bad at 96. The man lived a life that counted. We should all do half as

Cash-addicted politicians still crave their fix

Thousands of former Enron employees are now jobless and penniless, some of them those edging toward retirement age — with worthless retirement accounts and few prospects for the future. Those workers were betrayed, cheated, lied to and exploited by a group of fat cats who took the money and ran. There is only one way to protect the public from this sort of scam: Outlaw the scandalous campaign financing system that allows wealthy donors to buy politicians. It was through campaign contributions to both Democrats and Republicans that Enron executives gained the exemptions from federal rules and the lax oversight that allowed them to construct a massive shell game which later collapsed in the largest bankruptcy in corporate history. Huge campaign contributions also allowed Enron's accounting firm, Arthur Andersen, to elude strict scrutiny from regulators.

For a decade, discussions of campaign finance reform have induced nothing but yawns from voters who saw no connection to their everyday lives. It was a subject beloved only by editorial writers, whose treatises on the issue left readers befogged. Even the wave of early popularity that accompanied Sen. John McCain in his 2000 presidential primary run was not enough to overcome widespread apathy toward one of McCain's favorite topics: the corrupting influence of Big Money.

If there were ever a simple story line detailing the ways in which Big Money can corrupt the system and destroy the lives of ordinary people, this is It. You don't need to understand overseas subsidiaries, futures trading or derivatives to understand what happened at Enron: The company and its executives made campaign donations to 71 members of the U.S. Senate, ensuring the company had Cynthia Tucker a solid majority of supporters there. It also gave money to 188 members of Congress. It should come as no surprise, then, that Enron has been able to influence not only broad policy matters, such as energy deregulation, but also smaller ones, such as an exemption from a Depression-era law that should have prevented Enron's foreign affiliates from shifting debt off their books. While Enron's largesse led to scandal, it was simply playing by the rules all big companies use — including Arthur Andersen. Andersen was among the big accounting firms that showered politicians with money to prevent passage of strong federal regulations demanding strict oversight. Indeed, two years ago, as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Arthur Levitt Jr. was buffeted by a whirlwind of lobbying when he tried to impose tough conflictof-interest rules on accounting firms. "I have never been subjected to a more intensive and venal lobbying campaign," Levitt said. That campaign included telephone calls from senators who threatened to decrease his agency's funding if he kept up his push for tougher rules.

But that's not the end of it: Even as the evidence mounts of shredded documents and dishonest financial reports, Congress is reluctant to crack down on the accounting industry because of its ability to generate campaign contributions. Since 1990, the accounting firms have contributed more than $53 million to congressional and presidential candidates, according to The New York Times.

So, even now, with all their professed outrage, members of Congress won't crack down on the fat cats. That's because they're addicted to the campaign cash. They've sold themselves for Big Money, and they're selling out the rest of us, too.

"We can sneak in and out of sress a car can't," said Deputy George Hart, a motorcycle rider for District 4. "Were in school cones frequently and with a bike rou can put it anywhere."

While the motorcycles may be new, the deputies riding them are ar from inexperienced. Almost all of the motorcycle deputies have private motorcycle experience, and they had to complete a 30hour training course before hitting he pavement, Riggins said. Four deputies of the new group were and even part of the original squad.

The sheriff's office new twowheeled initiative also helps Seminole County come closer in numbers to the cavalry of law enforcement choppers in Orange County. With the sheriff's office 12 new motorcycles and the two dozen more between the Altamonte Springs, Casselberry and Longwood police departments, Seminole steps closer to the 60 plus motorcycles between the Orange County Sheriff's Office the Orlando Department "It creates good interagency communication," Hart said. The two countles will join their police motorcycle battalions together along with the Florida Highway Patrol in the coming months for a joint training session, Hart said. The training will help the agencies coordinate operations for the upcoming political season when the motorcycles will be busy escorting dignitaries up and down

"Basically, we just practice escorting a vehicle. When you work with the secret service there is certain do's and don'ts," said Hart who helped escort the president's motorcade in 1992. "When you're dealing with the president or vice president you want to make sure everything is correct."

A couple near fatal law enforcement motorcycle crashes in the early '90s was thought to be the reason Eslinger disbanded the original squad, but he said Thursday that wasn't the case at all. The sheriff's office received their fifth motorcycle in 1992 after the Lake Mary City Commission agreed to stop the program because of a near fatal crash to Officer Timothy Ryan.

Ryan was patrolling in rush hour traffic near the Seminole Community College on Jan. 9, 1992, when a Jeep broadsided his motorcycle. Twelve days, six bro-ken ribs and two hours of surgery later, he was released from the hospital, but with one of the two police motorcycles demolished, the city commission agreed to delete the program from the city police department.

Riggins said the number one safety concern with motorcycles is the lack of side protection, but the good they bring outweighs the

You can put someone out there has no idea of what they're doing and sure it's going to be danger-ous," said Burfield who has 30 years experience as a private rider. "A car can be dangerous too if it's put in the wrong hands."

While any event must still be approved by City Commission, Jones sald she believes the city has a good chance to earn the bid from the NCAA.

"Our chances are favorable," Jones said. "We have the perfect facility to host this tournament at. Once we find, out the specifics, we'll have a better idea of what will need to do to prepare."

In other business on Monday's agenda, City Commission will:

 Discuss whether to loan the Sanford Chamber of Commerce an additional $15,000. At their December meeting, commissioners agreed to loan the chamber $25,000 to pay off bills and consider another $15,000 loan if Chamber officials provided the city with a worl e busines plan.

Chamber director Angelia Gordon will present the plan to commissioners during the 4 p.m. work session; however, she said she is uncertain if she is going to ask for the $15,000 loan. She said fund-raising efforts have picked up, with the recent bowling tournament netting about $7,500.

The Chamber will repay the loan over five years. Each Dec. 28 a $5,000 payment will be due. The interest rate will be the prevailing tate of the Florida State Board of Administration, and interest will le paid quarterly.

Duchess

"This is such an exciting oppor-tunity," said Books-A-Million Area Coordinator Erin Blake. "This is the only bookstore in Florida where the duchess is doing a book signing. That's pretty neat."

To meet the duchess, people needed to have one of 500 tickets handed out earlier in the day. According to Blake, it only took a few hours for store managers to realize they were going to have a "sell out" crowd

Thursday night.

Debbie Bowlin called her friend Kim Bridges Wednesday night to tell her about the book ling. Thursday morning. Bridges was at the bookstore bright and early to get her tick-et. Bowlin, a Pine Crest Elementary School teacher, had to persuade her husband, Henry, to get her ticket.

"I asked him if he would do it, and he said he would," Bowlin said. "He was at the store at 7 a.m. waiting for them to open."

Getting the tickets early paid off for the Sanford friends. They were the first in line Thursday to meet the duchess and get their books signed. When it was over, they didn't seem to mind they waited two hours to spend only a few moments with the

"She looks so wonderful," Bowlin said. "It was really exciting meeting her."

I admire her," Bridges added. "She's had to overcome so many obstacles. And, she's been able to loose the weight and keep it off. That's an inspiration.

Following a highly publicized courtship, marriage and divorce from England's Prince Andrew, Ferguson became a spokesperson for Weight Watchers in 1997. According to the duchess, the offer came at a time of low selfesteem and bitter criticism in the United Kingdom. Weight Watchers and the American people, however, helped her overcome the daily battle she had with her weight and confidence.

"The American people have helped me gain the confidence to go on," Ferguson said. "I am so grateful to Americans who have accepted my new life as a working mother. I am a regular person. I am

The duchess has penned numerous books for Weight Watchers, including "Dining With the Duchess," "Dieting With the Duchess," and "Win the Weight Game." She said her most recent book, however, isn't just about losing weight, it's about a way of life.

"It's about being proactive in life," she said. "It's about making choices. The book is for thin people as well as people with weight problems.

On Thursday, people of all shapes and sizes waited petiently in line to meet the duchess. And, Ferguson seemed almost eager to meet them.

I like to meet people, and I like to make eye contact," she said. "The book signings allow me to do this. Otherwise, I would only see the Los Angeles and New York people. This gives me the opportunity to meet the regular people."
For Patsy Bouzianis of Sanford, a few moments with the duchess was the pirmacle moment in her royal watching.

"I've always followed the sto-ries on royalty," Bouziania said. They are always showing such fabulous things.

"When I heard about her visit, I knew I wanted to meet her so I bought the book days ago," she said. "It was worth it, because meeting the duchess was really

Mall walkers celebrate six years of walking

The Seminole Strollers are celebrating more than six years of walking their way to a healthier lifestyle. Several members have walked over 3,000 miles. To celebrate, an open house was held on Friday, Jan. 25, at 8 a.m., at the Seminole Towne Center Food Court.

Doris Jones, who celebrates her 84th birthday on Feb. 9, was awarded a plaque as Seminole Strollers top walker — she has walked over 4,000 miles. The award was presented by Lisa Jones, Superintendent of Recreation, city of Sanford; and Rodney Smith, CEO of Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Rams seniors shine on their night

By Dean Smith Sports Editor

LAKE MARY — Coach Carl Brown gave his senior players a chance to show off for the home fans one final time Thursday night, and they responded with a strong effort as Lake Mary eased its way past Lake Howell, 50-39.

Playing their final home game on Senior Night, the No. I Class 6A State Ranked Rams started seniors Jodi Gregory, Bryn Mosler, Rachel Whelan and Jackie Beik along with sophomore Meghan Chamberlain and the group responded by rolling to an 11-0 lead.

The very young Silver Hawks (8-14) finally got on the board when Abby Kohn dropped in a three-pointer with 4:54 left in the first quarter.

With the rush of adrenaline from the opening game ceremonies having worn off, Lake Howell fought back to within 12-7 and had a chance to get even closer but missed a pair of free throws.

The Rams (25-0) regrouped to take a 16-9 lead after one period and then pushed the advantage to 16 points, 32-16, at halftime with the regulars back on the court.

Both teams opened the second half with a rush, combining to hit five straight shots, including three three-pointers, but the Silver Hawks cooled off and the hosts built leads of over 20 points before both teams went to the bench.

Lake Mary, which led 46-22 after the third period, went strictly with the bench in the final eight minutes; While Lake Howell experimented with different combinations in trying to get ready for the upcoming district tournament.

Beik was the only Rams player to score in double figures, finishing with 10 points. She also had three rebounds, two assists and three steals.

The other seniors also contributed with Mosler scoring eight points, pulling down three rebounds, handing out three assists and getting a

Gregory had four points, three rebounds, three assists, and four steals, and Whelan had four points, five rebounds, and one assist.

Sophomore Brittany Green had a big night off the bench for Lake Mary with nine points, six rebounds and two blocked shots. Junior star Elexa Kane was 3-of-4 from the floor for seven points, and also had four rebounds and two assists in limited action. Chamberlain and sophomore Angie Pressey also played sparingly and scored just two points

For the Silver Hawks, Kohn, daughter of Lake Howell boys head coach Steve Kohn, had a big Denis Codrey, had a good all-around game with seven points, six rebounds, three assists, three steals and a blocked shot.

Kat Luetzow chipped in with seven points, three rebounds and an assist.

Orange Blossom 100 produces late fireworks

SAMSULA — Travis Kittleson blasted into the lead one lap from the end of the 30th running of the Orange Blossom 100 Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway, as he skillfully avoided Justin Drawdy who lost the right front going into turn three a lap and a quarter from the finish.

Drawdy held the lead for most of the race and looked like the odds on winner when the tire blew. Two weeks ago, Drawdy had been the class of the field taking top honors in the Red Eye 100, oddly enough in a wheel to wheel battle with

The duo had renewed their on track feud at the drop of the green flag, with Defending Champion Jack Cook, David Rogers, B.J. McLeod, and Barry Willoughby thrown in for added excitement.

The top six staged a tremendous battle for the first 85 laps when a late race caution bunched the field. Cherry red brake rotors were an indication of the intense competition. On the restart, Drawdy and Kittleson opened a short lead on the competition setting the stage for what should have been a shootout to the end. The dramatic finish found Drawdy skillfully avoiding the turn four wall, and Kittleson streaking underneath the white flag, holding on to take the win.

"I really feel good with this win," an obviously happy Kittleson said in victory lane. "I want to thank my crew for all of their hard work, and also thank the fans that came out tonight to watch us race. We have worked very hard for this win, and it really helps us get off to a good start for the 2002 season.

In other action, Dave Snodgrass posted his first late model win of the year. Snodgrass showed he was in a take no prisoners mood when he made the smooth move of the race going into turn one of the first lap. The brilliant blue number 22 seemed to fly through traffic in the corner as Snodgrass calmly made his way to the front. This team is always a strong contender, and their hard work on the car has really made a difference.

"This win feels great," Snodgrass said. "My crew has put in a lot of time trying to figure out this car, and this win is for them. We want everyone to know we are working to run the GoodYear Late Model Challenge this year and this win tells us we are going in the right direction. I also want to thank the fans for their support."

Mark Vandevender drove his number 7 modified into victory lane following a spirited battle with Skip Honaker, Paul Duncan, Geoff Marquand, and Chad Elliott. Vandevender wasted no time climbing from the car and accepting his trophy.

"This feels good," Vandevender said. "I don't get to race as much as I would like, and winning with this car is great. Thanks to my team and also to the fans that support us every week."

The mini stock feature found Dale Casteel flying under the checker. Casteel held off challenges from David Castello, Dick Laslo, and Rex

The bright spot of this race was a fire under the number 81 of Jamie McCague that lit up the night in turn two. McCague skillfully brought the car to a stop where he came to the immediate attention of the track safety crew. Fortunately no one was injured during the incident, and McCague said he would be back to race again.

The tough break of the race goes to Trisha Gray for her second exploded engine in two weeks of racing. Gray had been among the leaders before the engine went away. Gray plans to be a regular competitor on the Florida Mini Stock Challenge Tour for 2002.

The super stock feature found Tim Ewing holding off a strong field in a race car he plans to sell. "Since we decided to sell this car it has run great. I may have to rethink my decision," Ewing

Rick Johns staged a strong battle with Rich Clouser, Doug Samion, and Randy Hecker to record a sportsman feature win. Johns was able to take any line he needed around the speedway, making the win look easier than it really was.

One of the most exciting starts for the evening was in the strictly stock main event. This division has some of the hottest racing at the speedway, and four and five wide starts are normal. This time the field was five wide in turn three with Curtis Smith, Tim Edmonson, James Dyal, and eventual winner Bob Trombley pacing the field.

Trombley would hold on with his "Spirit of Sanford Special" to take the trophy.

The next event at New Smyrna Speedway will be the 36th Annual World Series of Asphalt Stock Car Racing. Nine nights of racing from Feb. 8th through Feb. 16th. Reserved seating is available in the main grandstand, and special VIP seating packages in the GoodYear Tower is also an option. Grandstands or en each night at 5 p.m., with rec-ing starting at 7:30 p.m. For more information about the 36th Annual World Series of Asphalt Stock Car Racing or the 2002 FASCAR season, please call New Smyrna Speedway at 386-427-4129.

The women play the first game at 6 p.m. and both squads are having tremendous seasons. Coach Ken Patrick's SCC women had the worst overall record of any M-FC team heading into conference play (10-8), but no one has been better since.

The Raiders (12-8 overall, 2-0 in M-FC) extended their winning streak to seven games and also pushed their conference winning streak to 10 games over two years with a 70-68 upset of No. 18 nationally-ranked Daytona Beach Community College last Saturday.

The victory was also the third straight for SCC over DBCC (21-3, 2-1), which bounced back on Wednesday with a 111-68 thrashing of Santa Fe (10-10, 0-3 in M-FC).

Freshman center Yelena Leuchanka has been the force for the Raiders all season, with sophomore leaders Gabrielle Blankenfeld and Yolanda "Yo" Johnson, both all M-FC performers last season, also playing important roles.

Other top players for SCC have been sophomores Narrie Berggren, Brandi Davis, Charnesia Bailey and Sheri Harrison, and freshmen Tiffany Vann, Ditte Jakobsen, Kwanzaa "Kay Kay" Thompson and Danielle Richardson.

The Stars of FCC-J are an impressive 19-3 overall and 1-1 in the conference after falling at home to Central Florida Community College of Ocala (20-3, 1-1), 66-54, on Wednesday and Raiders need a win to keep their M-FC lead.

The men's game is set to follow at 8 p.m. and it should be a barnburner as well. Coach Stan Cromartie's men have also been playing very well since the new year began and will be looking for a huge win to get back to the .500 mark and also stay in the confer-

FCC-J improved to 18-4 overall and 3-0 in the M-FC with a victory over CFCC (14-7, 2-1) on Wednesday.

The Raiders (10-11 overall, 1-1 in the M-FC) suffered a tough 10-point loss, 60-50, at Daytona on Saturday. SCC shot NO free throws in the contest.

SCC is led by sophomore shooting guard Jason Currington from Leesburg, an All-Conference performer from last year, and freshman center Kitus Witherspoon from Orlando, who has emerged as a force inside.

Other important contributors for the Raiders are sophomores Antwain Tennell, Chris Jackson of DeLand, Cedric McHaney and Che' Morgan, and freshmen Jonathan Sterling and Daniel Jackson.

Garrett

Continued from Page 7C police officer and later as a manager of airport security and airfield operations. Though he's worked at the Sanford airport for three years, Garrett said he is still very familiar with the operations in Salt Lake.

"I still have a lot of the contacts I made over the years," Garrett said. "Basically, my job will be as a trouble shooter. When things go wrong, I'll know what resources are available and how to access them."

His knowledge of the Salt Lake City airport was the sell-ing point he used to convince his former boss, Ron Malin, general manager of airport development and airport operations, that he was the perfect person for the job.

"If they hired someone else, they would have to bring them up to speed, which basically means they would have to spend 18 months on the job prior to the Olympics just to become familiar with the operation," Garrett said. "On the other hand, they can hire me for five or six weeks, and I bring years of experience with me.

Garrett is no stranger to coordinating large events. While in Salt Lake, he helped plan several presidential visits, worked with the studios in providing space to film major movies, and arranged security measures for the crowds swarming to meet the Utah Jazz during the team's bid for the NBA championship against the Chicago Bulls. Garrett also assisted with planning a visit by the Space Shuttle to the Salt Lake City International Airport, one of only two non-military airports to host the spacecraft.

There were 120,000 people who showed up," Garrett said.
"We obviously didn't have parking for all 120,000, so it was a logistical puzzle."

As athletes, spectators and the media arrive in Salt Lake, Garrett expects to be very busy, but once the Games begin, he will have some free time to attend the competitions since all of the athletes will have arrived.

"The tickets are pretty scarce right now, but I understand that once the Games begin there will be opportunities to go to some of the events." Garrett said.

Once the games end, Garrett expects to log long hours before heading back to Sanford.

"As people arrive before the Games, they will come in waves," he explained. "But once the Games end, they all want to leave on the same day. That will be a major logistical accomplishment. That day, Feb. 25, is shaping up to be the busiest day in the history of the Salt Lake airport — by far." Garrett will actually per-

"Part of the justification for allowing me to be gone for five weeks is that I would keep up with my work here," Garrett said. "Although, I'm a little concerned that if I'm out of the office for that long and no one misses me, then I might not have a job when I get

"There's not a chance of that happening," chuckled Larry Dale, president of OSIA, when told of Garrett's comments. "With the technology we have today — faxes, laptops, pagers, cell phones — we'll be in touch with Bryant almost as much as if he were in the office.

"This is really a good experience for Bryant and the airport," Dale added. "He'll gain some valuable experience and knowledge that we can utilize on a smaller scale here in Sanford."

Garrett said he's looking forward to his Olympic duties and returning to Salt Lake

"It's neat to see your hometown at the center of an international event like the Olympics," Garrett said. "It will be a lot of hard work, but it's a once-in-a-lifetime experience.

The India Hawthorn: A very attractive flowering shrub

India Hawthorn, a member of the rose family, is native to southern China.

This attractive small shrub grows well in all areas of the State of Florida, is tolerant to low-temperatures and relatively pest-free. It has nice dark green-colored leaves and produces abundant apple-like flowers in the spring.

Small, round, dark blue fruits follow the Small, round, dark blue fruits follow the blooms, adding to the beauty of this plant in the landscape. This attractive flowering shrub requires very little care and has many uses in the landscape.

The Plan

India Hawthorn is an evergreen shrub, with a slow rate of growth, reaching about 5 feet tall and 5 feet wide. The leaves are simple, up to 3 inches long, alternate, leathery, finely serrated, and clustered at the tip of the branches.

Dark green in color above and light green and often brown pubescent on the veins on the under side. Flowers are pinkish to white, fragrant, about 0.5 inch in diameter, with five narrow pointed petals that grow in 3 to 4 inches long, loose terminal panicles in the spring.

The fruits are small, round, about 0.5 inch, purple to black in color.

Culture

Plants will grow and bloom best in full sun, but will do well in partial shade. It prefers fertile, slightly acid, well-drained soils but, will grow well in most types of soils. If tolerates moderate draught once established. During severe drought periods, watering will be necessary to avoid stressing the plants and making them susceptible to pest problems.

When planting, prepare a hole twice as wide and as deep as the root ball, making sure that the plant will remain at the same soil level it had in the container. Fertilize lightly in the spring and fall with a complete fertilizer. It is mainly propagated by cuttings but can also be propagated by seeds and air layering.

There are varieties that

There are varieties that will grow to different heights in their adult forms, buy varieties according for the use intended and avoid most pruning practices. A yearly pruning will be necessary if a small, compact plant is desired and the variety grows too tall for the desired effect.

All pruning should be done immediately after blooming ends, in late spring or early summer.

If grown as small hedge, trim lateral branches. For lateral growth, thin out the upright branches. It is an ideal plant to grow in containers for patios and terraces, because it is a prolific bloomer even when small, grows slowly, and requires very little maintenance.

Mulching is recommended for this plant.

Varieties

The variety 'Rosea' has deep pinkish flowers, and has a compact type of growth; 'Compact' is a dwarf variety; 'Alba' has white flowers. Other varieties planted in Florida include 'Elizabeth', 'Clara', 'Peggy', 'Rose Janice', 'Majestic Beauty', and 'Spring Rapture'.

Use

It is mostly used as a foundation shrub or informal hedge, in containers, and in planters. It is also planted in middle of the roads as a ground cover.

Pests and Diseases

Scales, leaf spots, fire blight, and nematode problems affect this plant. Leaf spot problems are more severe by excessive watering with over-head sprinkler irrigation. Entomosporium leaf spot is one of the most common fungal diseases of this plant. Morning sun is helpful in discouraging leaf spot and other fungal diseases.

If fire blight occurs, prune infected branches during dry weather and apply a copper fungicide immediately after pruning.

Make sure to discard all infected tissues removed from the plant to avoid new infections.

If scales become a serious problem, an oil spray should be used on infested plants to control this pest.
