Southeast Leads Nation In Beef Cattle Production

ATLANTA 19.—The Southeast in the past five years led the nation in rate of increase in production of beef cattle. The Atlanta field office of the U. S. Department of Commerce has reported.

The 1,044,000 beef cattle and calves on farms in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and the Carolinas on Jan. 1, 1952, was a 32.8 per cent increase over Jan. 1, 1947, and exceeded the gains of other regions.

Merrill C. Lofton, office manager, said the Southeast has increased up to 11.5 per cent of the national output.

South Carolina, with a rise in beef cattle of 122 per cent, and Mississippi, with a 100.1 per cent gain, led all other states in rate of advance in the half-decade. Other noteworthy increases were Georgia's 65.9 per cent and North Carolina's 79.9 per cent, third in the nation.

Alabama was another excellent leader with a 54.2 per cent increase, seventh in the United States. In Florida, the gain was 18.5 per cent, and in Tennessee 15.7. All but Tennessee exceeded the advance for the nation as a whole, which was 14.5 per cent.

CHAPTER 24

"OLIVER succumbed scarcely at all to Anita's charms," Leone said to me. "But he had driven her home once after work, he'd come up with her for a nightcap . . . it was before he and I . . . before we'd fallen in love. She did get him to admit she was a very attractive young woman. Oh, to be honest, he did get excited about her, but it was more ludicrous than lust. But, as Anita pointed out to me, if she played that tape over the P.A. system at the school . . . which she threatened to do . . . he'd be laughed right out of business. Actually, he would have died of shame. You know Oliver Bell."

"So there was nothing at all for me to do . . . except move out of Anita's apartment as soon as I could. I don't know if Oliver ever learned about the existence of that recording. Certainly he never humiliate him by mentioning it. But I think he doesn't know. I can't believe Anita would ever have gone so far as to try to blackmail Oliver. No matter what the consequences might be, I'm certain he's too moral a man ever to pay blackmail."

"So you understand, Heister," Leone said emphatically, "I'm convinced that Oliver would never be suspected of Anita's murder. It wasn't to save him from that that I wanted the tape. It wasn't that important. But I was working late at the school last night. I heard one of the policemen talking on the phone; they were going to take the guard off Anita's place. I still had a key to her apartment . . . and I knew where the tapes were hidden. I saw the chance to eliminate the possibility that Oliver might be embarrassed by that tape if the police . . . or some unscrupulous person found it. I'd just got inside her apartment when I heard someone in the hall. I was terrified. I waited and waited . . . then I heard someone at the window. I grabbed one lamp . . . it was all I had time to get . . . and made a dash for it. The all there is. But I'm sorry I hit you, Heister."

"You hit me with the lamp?"

"Yes . . . I didn't know it was you. I'm . . . I might have hurt you badly."

"Even if you had known it was I, you still would have hit me, wouldn't you?"

"Yes," she said. "Of course."

"We smiled at each other, Leone and I. Then she said, 'I wish I could prove to you that I destroyed all the tapes I found.' 'I'm not worried,' I said. 'I know you won't be blackmailing me. Nice conversation, isn't it?' 'Isn't it? Let's break it up. Shall we? I have to get back. Aren't you going to eat your sandwich?'"

"No, I don't want it."

Artists To Inspect Finger Paintings Of Chimpanzee

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A committee of artists will inspect the finger paintings of a chimpanzee this week to determine if they are worthy to hang in an outdoor exhibit at the very gates of the University of California.

The chimpanzee is Betsy, 7, a resident of the Baltimore Zoo and potentially not properly in the art world. She has already sold eight paintings at $50 apiece.

In fact, the Winnipeg, Man. Tribune is reported to have commissioned her to do a work on the theme, "Winter in Winnipeg."

Last week, Nora Hampton, director of the annual Berkeley sidewalk art show at the Sather Gate entrance to the University suggested that Betsy be invited to exhibit.

"Well," said Mark Mohler, president of the Sather Gate merchants Association which sponsors the annual show. "We'll even waive the $1 entry fee."

The "money business" received a frosty reception from Berkeley artists. One of them, a heard abstractionist named Charles Modecks, said:

"It'll be a x x x if I'll exhibit with any chimpanzee!"

Other artists agreed with him and a future appeared to be in the making.

However, at a jam-packed meeting at the Berkeley Women's City Club, the artists agreed to appoint a committee of six to pass on Betsy's paintings, which will be flown here for a special preview next week.

Spain's Civil War Church Shrine Nears Completion

MADRID.—Engineers are seeking to complete by spring Spain's controversial $4,000,000 monument to its Civil War dead—a cross as high as the Eiffel Tower built atop a church hewn from a massive rock.

The cross and cavernous church which Spaniards hope the Vatican will name a cathedral, dominate a wooded glen christened "the Valley of the Fallen." There more than a quarter of a million persons will be able to gather to hear open-air mass. Work on the project is now in its final stages.

Chief of State Gen. Francisco Franco conceived the idea of this monument to the heroes and martyrs of the 1936-39 civil strife and visits the site at the foot of the Sierra, 30 miles from Madrid, five to six times a year. But Diego Mendez, sole architect and author of the project and director of works since 1939, denies that the shrine is to be Franco's tomb, as has been freely and frequently reported abroad.

"This is a monument to the men and women who died fighting at the front, or fell executed in our Civil War," he said during a visit to the valley. "General Franco has never mentioned the possibility of his burial here."

Friend And Foe

But thousands of war veterans will be laid to final rest in the vaults built on either side of the church deep in the mountain. There will be no political discrimination of friend or foe. Republican or Nationalist, according to Mendez.

"The only qualifications needed for a victim of our Civil War to be buried within the monument is that he or she was a Spaniard and that rule eliminates Communists, members of the international brigades which fought against Franco and many of the anti-clerical factions of the Left. But Catholics who fought for the Republicans will be eligible."

This is to be consecrated ground; we could not accept non-believers or atheists," Mendez pointed out.

It seems unlikely that families of men who died fighting Franco would ask such victims be reburied in the monument. Many of them have opposed the idea of the "Valley of the Fallen" on the grounds that it is awakening old arguments best forgotten.

Francisco and his followers on the other hand visualize the glade, with its peaceful but austere setting against a background of the rocky rugged Sierra, as a place where the spiritual will predominate and the material aspirations of men be forgotten.

Rock Blasted

The whole valley forms a "natural church" with the cross's rock foundation serving as the high altar. Fourteen little chapels, linked by a rough path, are dotted around the valley's five-mile circumference.

A giant square at the foot of the cross will accommodate at least 250,000 persons. It is here that the open-air masses will be celebrated.

More than 1,000,000 tons of rock have been blasted away with dynamite to make the huge artificial cave in which the church has been built.

Thousands of tons of reinforced cement have been poured into the walls and ceiling of the church to safeguard it against any rock falls, a thin protective shell of a water-resisting rubber material enshrouds the whole structure to keep out the damp which permeates the rocks.

The visitor to the cross-piece 270 meters up for a bird's eye view the valley. Madrid is clearly visible on a good day. But the cross is not designed as a tourist attraction.

The crowds will stand and kneel under the shadow of the great cross built with 110,000 tons of concrete, towering 300 meters above them. The rock stands 150 meters high, and the centerpiece of the cross another 150 meters. That makes it as high as the Eiffel Tower.

A lift, or 1,700 steps, will take

Citizens' Faith In County's Growth, Progress Important

The route which means PROGRESS to Sanford —

The Gulf of Mexico by way of the Cross State Canal to Canaveral Harbor to the St. Johns River and Sanford — Then to Jacksonville, Savannah, Ga., Charleston, S. C. and Newark, N. J. Millions of tons of freight can be transported along the route proposed through the St. John's River into Port Canaveral by way of Sanford, with additional tons coming into the Central Florida port at Sanford from Texas by way of the Gulf of Mexico and the proposed Cross State Canal.

This avenue of shipping, like hundreds of others along the inland waterways of the nation, will mean lower freight rates, added tonnage, new raw materials, for the industrial minded Central Florida.

The potential is beyond the estimates of those who know what the Sanford-Titusville Canal will mean to us here at Sanford.

One phase of the new inland waterway will mean additional revenue for Sanford and Central Florida—that of pleasure craft alone. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the 45,000 pleasure craft plying the inland route will choose to come by way of the St. Johns River and the Sanford-Titusville Canal for scenic beauty and restful cruises—for fishing and fun. This will mean a continual stream of pleasure boats estimated at a minimum of 22,500 per year. At a very minimum, this will bring 62 boats a day, 365 days a year, by way of Sanford and all that Central Florida has to offer this type of tourist.

The St. Johns River is presently taking care of nearly a half million tons of freight each year in barges from northern ports — and it is already estimated that over a half million tons are ready to come to Sanford from the South. This is in just one type cargo alone — imagine what would happen with the Docks and Terminals project at Sanford! The estimate is beyond an immediate picture.

Many years ago, the flimsy terminals at Sanford were discarded. And there was a perfect reason to do so. Sanford at that time was a one-economy-area — agriculture. This type of product could not be transported by barge — it would have been foolish to do so.

Now that Florida has set agriculture to one side as a "main economy" and has turned to industry — building — and allied businesses, the type of cargo going both ways, north and south has changed.

There is aluminum, cement, steel, brick, roofing, oils, gasoline, heavy road machinery, automobiles, trucks, lumber, lime, fertilizer, and thousands of other bulk commodities that will readily lean toward water and barges.

The picture, with the Sanford-Titusville Canal, the Cross State Canal, Sanford's Docks and Terminals, is one of the most brilliant ever painted for Central Florida.

We haven't started to grow yet — we haven't ever scratched the surface. Seminole County soon — with the advent of the Sanford-Titusville Canal, the Docks and Terminals project — and the Cross State Canal — can rack up a 200 per cent increase in population by 1965.

Along with the growth in population — or even before it — will come industry. Not one industry plant but dozens of them, all lining the lake front facing the greatest advantage in a natural resource Sanford has ever had — its water.

Many of the economic advantages have been added in Sanford and Seminole County. We have a brand new, modern hospital. We have a new sewer and water system. We have a new and modern — even the latest to be had — dial telephone system. We have new and better roads with more to come. We have the big new New York Giants Farm System dormitory — the Mayfair Inn and its golf course and Annex. We have many things that other communities lack.

And then — to make Sanford and Seminole County more attractive is the Naval Air Station and its potential in the future.

The one thing that we MUST have — the one thing that must become an indelible impression on the entire citizenry of Sanford and Seminole County is FAITH—faith in the future progress of our city and county. We must have projects that are placed before us to cause and bring progress. We must have faith in our leaders who stand for aggressive growth and the improvement of our economy.

Agriculture is important — don't let that slip by. For food and produce is necessary to feed millions of people coming into our State. But agriculture, like other modern enterprises and industries, is becoming mechanized. With the advent of farm machinery which each year brings improvements — fewer and fewer people are employed. Where small farms were once necessary, the modern farm consists of hundreds of acres — not necessarily in one place — but a vast business enterprise — planted by machinery, cultivated by machinery, harvested by machinery and prepared for market by machinery.

There must be industry and employment for the millions of people who are coming into Florida. Sanford and Central Florida must be among the leaders, providing the natural resources for the better location of whatever industry might want to choose the finest and most central section to build and grow.

The prediction has been made that Sanford would be a thriving city of from 50 to 65 thousand people by 1965. As a matter of fact — with the St. Johns River opened to water freight—the Sanford-Titusville Canal a reality—the Cross State Canal put into operation — the docks and terminals constructed, Sanford can well surpass that figure by many thousands.

As it was once said "If we're going to be big — let's think big."

If Sanford and Seminole County is going to grow — let's all grow with them.

One of the most brilliant futures ever set before a community in now the goal of local leaders. It seems as if that goal is going to be reached.

The figures also showed 29,822 persons were injured in traffic accidents. Fifty per cent of the fatal accidents occurred at night and 18 per cent of them were caused by the driver speeding or driving while intoxicated.

No county in the state managed to get through the year without a fatal accident although only one fatality each was reported in DeSoto, Dixie, Franklin, LaFayette, Union and Wakulla counties. ## Rebellious Spirit Developing In GOP

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's second term honeymoon may last no longer than President Roosevelt's.

While no real revolt is in sight, a rebellious spirit is developing among members of his own party in Congress.

Some are complaining about what they consider major irritations like the still sizeable foreign aid program and the record peacetime budget of $71.8 billion for the coming fiscal year.

Others are grouching about minor annoyances. They do not want to learn first from their newspapers about government action affecting their constituencies or their committee chores in Congress. They want to be consulted.

Trouble For Administration
All this can spell trouble for Mr. Eisenhower's legislative program. How serious it may be will be more apparent by next summer.

Republicans and Democrats have a healthy respect for the vote polled by Mr. Eisenhower last November. But some veteran Republicans in Congress believe there will be a growing tendency for each man "to go his own way" in voting on the administration's legislative program.

One reason for added sensitivity to the home front is that the House's entire 435 seats and one-third of the Senate's 96 are at stake in the mid-term elections of 1958.

Some Eisenhower partisans in Congress want the President to give them more concrete help to

GOV. JAMES COLEMAN of Mississippi, appearing before the Senate Civil Rights subcommittee in Washington, states firmly his opposition to anti-segregationist legislation. ## Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Last week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

Danger of new fighting between Egypt and Israel arose in the Gaza area in Palestine.

United Nations forces took over the area from Israelis who had held it since their invasion of Egypt last October.

With the agreement of the U.N., President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt named a governor general to assume civil administrative control.

Israel objected angrily, and threatened to take military action if Nasser moved troops into Gaza.

Rebels Storm Palace
Cuban rebels stormed the presidential palace in midtown Havana in an attempt to overthrow President Fulgencio Batista. At least 36 persons, including an American tourist bystander, were killed in a two-hour battle before palace guards routed the invaders.

Hungarian Communist authorities took extraordinary precautions to head off a threatened new uprising in face of indications that anti-Communists planned an outbreak today. Warned by the arrival of troops and tanks in Budapest, underground leaders distributed leaflets urging "all freedom fighters to refrain from any action on March 15."

GAZA

When Israel, at the demand of the U.N., withdrew its troops from the Gaza Strip area on the Israel-Egypt border, Israel Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion said that he would not tolerate its reoccupation by Egyptian forces.

Troops of the U.N. Emergency Force occupied the area.

Nasser, who regards the U.N. occupation as temporary, named a governor general to organize Egyptian control of civil affairs. But Israeli leaders believed Nasser might plan to move Egyptian troops into Gaza later. They left no doubt that if he did, Israel would attack.

CUBA

Fidel Castro, 30, a student leader who had been living in Mexico, landed a small force of rebels in Oriente Province, in the extreme eastern part of Cuba, last October to challenge the rule of Batista. Since then, the rebels have been holding out in the mountains against strong army units.

The rebels who stormed Batista's palace in Havana Thursday were believed to be allied with Castro. Cuban authorities charged that both groups are supported by former President Carlos Prío Socarrás, now in Florida, whom Batista ousted in 1932.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

JOHN STRALEY tells about a G.I. who was having such a ball while on leave that he put in a long-distance call to his top kick. "Look, Sarge," he begged, "Lemme stay over a couple days. I've got a beautiful party going on. Sixteen of us. If I leave, I'll break up the whole affair."

"Whaddya mean?" mortared the sergeant. "One person out of sixteen leaves and it breaks up the party? Who are you, that you got so important?"

"You see, Sarge," explained the G.I., "the other fifteen are G.I.s."

Heard about the brave hunter who came back to camp with his hands full of splinters? Seems he caught a timber wolf bare-handed.

I take my wife absolutely everywhere," boasted a veteran, battle-scarred husband, "but it's no use. She always finds her way back."

Conring The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

Forgot to mention that Paul Speltz was in town for the week-end. I saw him only briefly, carrying a tremendous fish in each hand, and smelling like a rose, naturally. He and Retta are very happy in Washington. They have a nice house, close to school, and he likes his job. So Washington doesn't sound so bad, does it? They should form a Sanford Club, like the After-Fivers.

Ruth Tully entertained her bridge club Friday. Ruth served the girls hot ham salad sandwiches made with fresh bread. Understand they were delicious. Yellow glads decorated the house. Ruth won high for all her efforts in the morning to play a mixed two ball foursome. Pete and Judy Smith carried off the high net, and a putting contest was won by Tom Blackburn and Alice Mills, who had tied for low gross with Forrest Norvell and Jean Stetson. The trophies were awarded during a tape recording being made for Beryl and Walt Swinson, and Judy's cries of glee at her first golf prize have been captured for the Pacific contingent. Jim was present with various and sundry objects for his birthday. The company "partook" heartily of the spaghetti dinner, and gave three cheers for the hostess. Included were Jean and Bill Stetson, Bill's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Rufus Stetson, who left the next day, incidentally, Bill and Betty Lemos, Jean and John Dooley, Saralee and Ike Peters, Alice and Ernie Mills, Gretchen Hall, Si and Lou Johnson, Forrest and Ruth Norvell, Jim and Louise Parker, and their houseguests, Jack and Jean Tomlinson.

A number of hearty souls congregated at the campsite of one Harry and Ruth Jean Robson Saturday night. Wally Phillips was giving a birthday party for his good wife Jane. Among those singing in the flickering lamp-light were Louise and Jim Parker, Lee and Dave Cunningham, Gretchen Hall, and Mike and Bob Stone.

I have a big public apology to make, and there is no one who hates to apologize more than I, and it comes from something else I don't like to do, and that is call and check on things, or force people to spell out every word. Obviously in the wrong business. In the mail today I received a calling card from one Kurt Kretschmann, a name which could hardly be recognized from the way I spelled it as Kurt Crutchman, and my dear husband informs me that Kurt is in VAIH-3, not VAIH-5, and that I'm a big dumb bunny. So, I'm sorry, Kurt, and thank you for using the three cent stamp to set me straight. Also I noticed that you spelled my name Cohen instead of Conn, so we are even. But that's the way life goes, and at least I'll never make THAT mistake again. In fact I think I'll go out and pull weeds (and that is not to be confused with eating worms, either.)

Fat-Less Menu Makes Dieting Easy As Pie

DURHAM, N. C. — The wives of two Duke Medical School professors have worked out recipes and menu plans that keep their families healthier and happier and their figures trim without the word "dieting."

The secret of the recipes is cutting down the overall fat content of food they prepare daily.

The lowering of fats implies lowering of calorie content, and any lowering of calories means dieting to most people, but not to Mrs. Evelyn Stead and Mrs. Gloria Warren.

"We have not put our families on a diet," says Mrs. Stead. "Instead, we've adopted a new idea in cookery, something that combines imagination, initiative and ingenuity with food, all food."

Three A Day

They say the plan enables anyone, unless under special diet prescribed by a physician, to enjoy three well-balanced meals a day, making use of the seven basic foods.

This all started when Dr. Eugene A. Stead, Jr., a professor of medicine, remarked one night that he is convinced that everyone "eats too much fat" and that excessive fat creates problems in overweight, heart disease and diabetes. It would be a good idea, he added, for every family to cut down on fat intake.

"See what you can do about it," he said, in typically husband fashion. "And why not get Gloria to help you." Gloria is Mrs. Warren, wife of Duke's Dr. James Warren.

Substitutes
The wives decided that whatever they worked out must taste good as well as being nutritious and sound. They knew that some fat was essential to good health, but how to strike the right balance was the problem. The functions of fat helped. Fat holds things together, such as with the oil in salad dressing where it keeps the dressing on the greens; to separate things, as the shortening to make pasteries flaky, and to provide flavor, as the butter on mashed potatoes.

To substitute for the functions of fat, the recipes they worked out include a series of things: gelatin and water gave body to the French dressing; an egg did the trick in pastry, and well blended low calorie cottage cheese and buttermilk seasoned with salt, pepper and chives add interest to mashed potatoes. If the substitute failed to meet the test of palatability it was discarded.

Now Hear This!

By JACKY FENWICK

There was a discrepancy in the "Plan of the Day", at S.N.A.S., regarding the proper uniform for "whitehats". From now, until March 31, it is optional to wear "whites" OFF the base! However, they are not to be worn as a working uniform until April 1.

I'm putting this in my column in hopes that a few wives might see it, and inform their husbands, who might not have heard of the correction on this!

To see what it was like, and also because it was a nice warm day, we decided to try out Lake Golden last Sunday. It does look nice, and they do have it fixed up well, but I'm the "squeamish" type, and, to be perfectly frank, would much prefer the pool. But the "snack bar" is at the lake, there's a float anchored not too far from shore, and areas screened off for the "tiny tots", and two life guards on duty, which all add up to a pretty nice recreation area. One little note I should put in though, is that should you decide to try the lake, don't sit at the first table you come to if it's the chrome one! That one is reserved for the Captain and his family, at all times. So don't make the mistake we did, and sit there!

Did I "intrigue" anyone when I wrote that little item about the "H.A.R.P.S." a few weeks ago?? If you're still wondering, I'll have to continue to keep you in the dark about what those letters stand for, as I haven't received the "word" that will permit me to let you in on it!

But since that last item appeared, they have had a business meeting and elected officers. Last Saturday, starting at 8:00 P.M., they met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Scott, in Loch Arbor, for a picnic supper of bar-b-que spareribs and all the "fixings". Mr. and Mrs. Claude Whittem served as co-hosts and hostesses with the Scott's for the occasion.

Due to lack of publicity, and very short notice, the crowd that turned out for the Chief's Club St. Patrick's Day Dance, last Friday, March 15, wasn't what they hoped to have, but I've heard from several sources that those that did attend had a terrific time; Harry Griffin and his band, (don't know what they call themselves), played for the dance, which was, as I announced, a square dance. Most of the fun developed because the majority of the couples there had never tried it before! All you have to do is enter into the spirit of something like that, and a good time for all seems to follow naturally! Was told it didn't take too many sets before everyone felt as if they had done it all their lives! Do hope that next time they have a dance someone calls me a little sooner so I can do my bit to inform those interested, and give them time to make the usual necessary arrangements about baby-sitter's etc.

Since this gets written the day before, can't report on the Enlited Men's Wives Club supper until tomorrow, because at this writing, I haven't even attended it!!! By the "same token", the news is usually very this over the weekend, which leaves me, at this point, with nothing to say except "see you tomorrow!" Remember, the new number for news is FA 2-2371. Hope you'll call.

Shower Curtains Wear New Look

NEW YORK — Shower curtain designers this year have left floral and fish patterns high and dry.

Gone are the standard aquarum-type designs of shells and shellfish or flamingoes perched among water lilies. Instead, new designs are mostly contemporary and often unusual.

Florence Isles, designer for one shower curtain firm (Jackson) said that modern patterns are high fashion because they best fit the mood of the bathroom, an essentially modern room.

New patterns include a shaving mug for men, nautical curtains with bright-colored ship pennants; one featuring travel posters, and one with lake stripes. Some are decorated with brilliants and pearls. Other feature a new process of vinyl embossing.

op colors this year are pink, yellow and green, often combined with white. Other popular shades are aqua, blue, medium brown, orange, melon and avocado.

There also is a trend toward metallics, but Miss Isles cautions against using too many because "the room will look like a tinzel package."

Designs have an uncluttered look, to give an illusion of light and space. Bathrooms usually are small, so Miss Isles said as much care should be taken to decorate them as living rooms.

Miss Isles believes floors and walls should be white. Bring in splashes of color with towels, bath mats an rugs, shower curtains . . . even doors. She said using colored accessories with plain walls gives opportunity to change the color or style more cheaply than by putting on new paint or wallpaper.

Coordinate accessories in tone and mood. And, the designer said, keep window curtains plain. Do not match them with the shower curtains if you choose a print. Too much of one pattern gives the room a cluttered, busy look.

Wrap cookies and cakes for gifts in aluminum foil.

Seminoles Open Season Tonight Against W. Park In Memorial Stadium

The Sanford Seminoles open their 1957 baseball season tonight under the lights in Memorial Stadium against Winter Park that marks many firsts in the history of baseball for the school and Sanford.

First, it will be the return of night high school baseball in Sanford for the first time in years. Second, it will be the first time the Seminoles have been a member of the powerful Orange Belt Conference.

Third, it is the first year that coach Dave Laude will be at the helm of Seminole diamond fortunes.

Fourth, it will be the first season for the Seminoles with only three returning lettermen in more than a decade.

All this, and the optimism is still running sky high for a Seminole season that should be unique if it is successful—a winning season and a building season all rolled into one.

The basis for the high hopes I have in the strategic location of the three veterans. There is one in the infield, one in the outfield, and one is a pitcher doing double duty at third base.

The nucleus of the team is around the three veterans, but the timber from which the Seminoles will base their hopes in the future ranges from juniors on down to sophomores on the starting lineup.

The lineup figures to be a conglomeration of sluggers, speedsters, and placement specialists with a lot of promise and little experience.

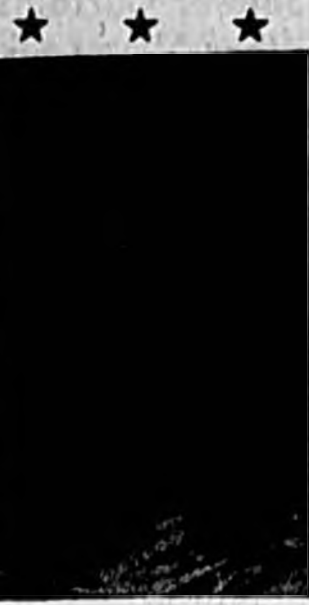

Dual mound action is expected from Eddie Barbour and Ken McMurray. Barbour is the fast ball specialist with a lot of power and endurance, but he tends to be erratic because he lacks experience on the hill. He will probably start the game and McMurray will stand by to give the opening game insurance that could mean the difference in team attitude and confidence. Barbour, a rim-fire spark-plug, will face his first opposition in regular competition, and should the pressure prove too much for him in the opener, the steady arm of McMurray will be ready to give an assist.

Behind the plate will be tiny Cecil Dandridge, the three sport hustler who makes up for his lighthearted get-up-and-go. Backing up Dandridge will be Bill Tyre, also a three sport hustler.

At first base will be Al Stanley, a steady and capable senior with a handsome attitude and agility to back it up with. Stanley will bring his veteran know-how into the infield and will be depended on to spark the action around the bases. Backing up Stanley will be Claude Hittell, a junior with a mighty arm and good frame who needs a lot of experience to give him the chance to fulfill his potential.

At second base Doyle Corley will serve as the pivot man. A junior, Corley has fast reflexes and is working hard to master the pivot maneuver for successful double plays.

At third base is the youngster who lives for baseball, David Bramlett, A sophomore, Bramlett

Brantley Schirard, captain of the Sanford Seminoles who open their baseball season tonight at 8 p.m. against Winter Park under the lights in Memorial Stadium, will be counted on heavily this year for his field experience. One of three returning lettermen, Schirard will be counted on to spark the team in their aspirations for both a winning season and a building year. (Photo by Bergstrom) is looking forward to a brilliant career of baseball for the Seminoles. He has a good eye, fast reflexes, good power at the plate, and has fired enthusiasm that will make up for much of his lack of experience.

Ronnie Russel, a speedster with a good eye, strong arm, and sure footing, will give the Seminoles a powerful boost from the short stop post. Russel is one of the promising ball players for the Seminoles who will be looking forward to another year with the fighting Indians of the Seminole camp.

The Seminoles' blasting power at the plate is centered in the offensive outfield. In right field is Brantley Schirard, team captain who bats left and throws right, and keeps a steady eye for the left field wall.

At center field is the top slugger for the Seminoles in pre-season drills, Johnny Yeakle, a jun-

Millers Have Full Schedule

After thrilling a large crowd Sunday afternoon in a close 11-10 thriller in Memorial Stadium, the Minneapolis Millers took the home field again this afternoon against Rochester for the second Miller's spring training exhibition game since their arrival here a week ago.

The Millers, triple-A American League top farm team of the New York Giants, arrived only last week, but will have an accelerated training period with action against stiff competition every day this week.

Except for Saturday, the Millers will be in action every afternoon on the diamond in Memorial Stadium.

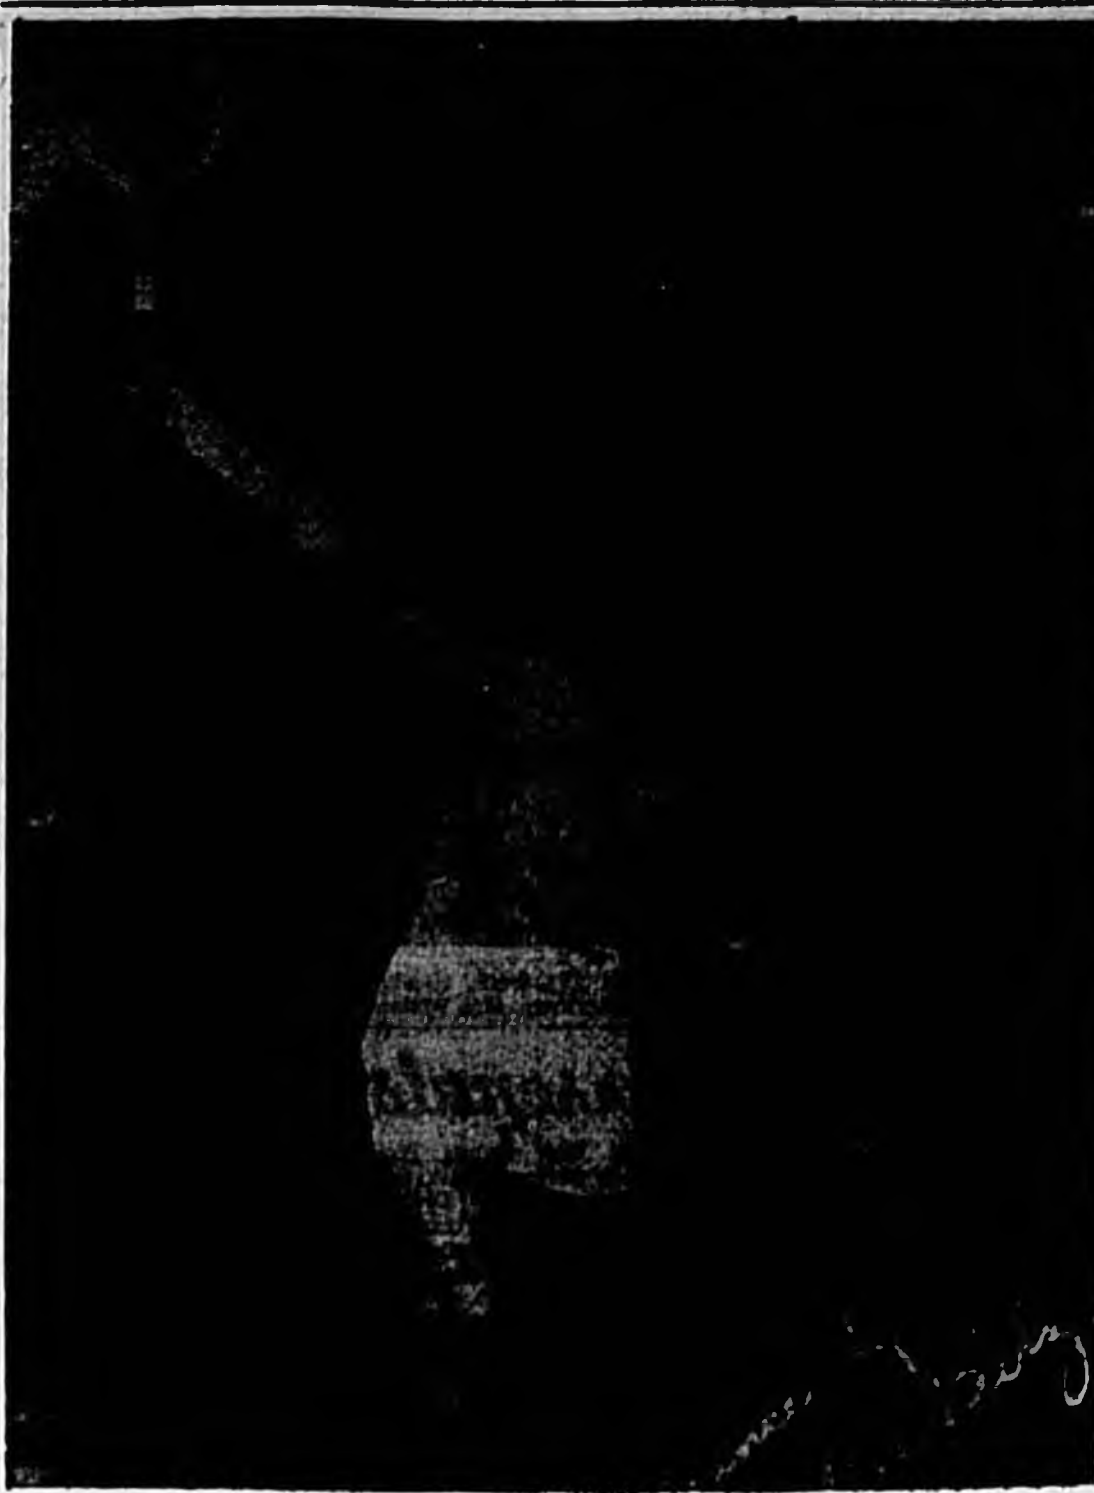

Tomorrow they take on Omaha here, Thursday and Friday they face Dallas, the AA Texas Leaguers who started a rivalry that threatened to crash through the class barriers, and Sunday they will take on Houston.

Saturday in Sanford, Dallas, who are playing Omaha in Daytona today, will face Rochester. Tomorrow Dallas will face Houston in Daytona, and Sunday they will face Omaha, also in Daytona.

los with a bright two seasons ahead of him.

John Barley rounds out the team from the left field position. Barley, a junior, has good speed, a good attitude, and the chance to carve out a niche for himself in Seminole sports if he works hard and makes up for his lack of experience.

An anticipated near capacity crowd is to be on hand tonight when the Seminoles make their debut in Memorial Stadium. Many dignitaries are expected to be on hand from both the New York Giants organization and the City of Sanford. "Play Ball" will be cried at 8 p. m.

Pauline Betz, Women's Professional World Title holder, is pictured above as she will appear on the campus of Stetson University in an exhibition of both doubles and singles. Her appearance of Miss Betz has been arranged through the Stetson Women's Physical Education Department.

Tennis Clinic Friday

Pauline Betz, four times United States Women's Amateur Singles, former Wimbledon Champion, and presently defending champion of the world in Women's Professional Tennis, will give an exhibition of both doubles and singles on the campus of Stetson University Friday, March 22, as part of her training to defend her crown in Cleveland April 10, 11, and 12.

Betz, who is currently training in Orlando, will appear on the Stetson campus playing with and against Nationally-ranked competition.

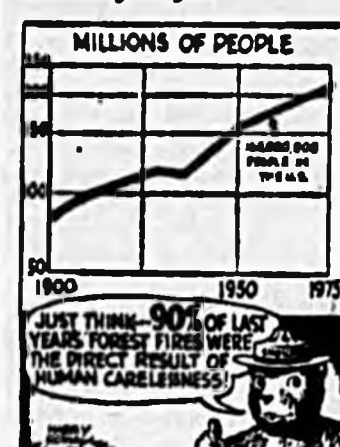

Pauline won her present title in 1953 from Mary Hardwick and has successfully defended it against such players as Madge Rurac and Doris Hart.

The public is invited to attend the clinic, which is scheduled to start at 3 p. m. at the Cummings Gym Courts on the Stetson Campus.

Return Of Cage For Regeneration Of Basketball-Besloe

By Hugh Amley
Basketball should return to the way it used to be played at the turn of the century. It used to really be a cage sport then, and it didn't have all this out-of-bounds, fouling, and domination by tall freaks that plague the sport now.

High school basketball is the best there is now; there aren't so many tall fellows hogging the backboards—the players are more equalized.

It used to be that a fellow had to be a real competitor to play basketball. That is, back in the days when it got the name of "cage"—and that's what it was, too. The early basketball court looked something like a boxing ring. The court was 40 feet wide and 70 feet long, and it was roped off. All this modern nonsense about being out of bounds all the time didn't slow the game in those days—you couldn't get out of bounds unless you jumped over the ropes.

And the basket itself—why, you had to have a good eye to make a tally in those days. There were no such things as backboards then. If a fellow was a good enough shot to make a clean shot, the team made the points. If the team members were poor shots, it showed in the score. Only a long metal arm extended over the play, and one flier supporting the basket, and one chance was all a player got.

Those were the golden days of basketball to which we should return—at least that's the opinion of the fabulous Frank Besloe, originator of the Globe Trotters, Basketball Commissioner in New York State in 1947, and author of the book, "I Grew Up With Basketball." And presently president of the Herkimer Cheese Company, who is now visiting Sanford and is a guest at the Mayfair Inn.

Besloe, who first visited Sanford in 1954, said the sunny climate and friendly smiles in Sanford made him come back for another trip. Although president of Herkimer Cheese Company, Besloe is also President of Besloe Real Estate Office in Herkimer, N. Y. and in his spare time is writing another book on the early years of basketball.

Besloe has definite opinions about basketball, a sport in which he is considered one of the top authorities, and he says he has uncovered much new information about the early years of basketball that he will use in his new book.

Besloe, who in 1902 founded the Globe Trotters, has an historic background he says. His love for the game paid dividends in 1912 when his Globe trotters first won the world championship, and it was a sad day in his life in 1922 when he gave up his team which later became known as the Harlem Globe Trotters.

Modern basketball? Besloe is among the many critics of the sport. "For one thing, all of basketball should get the 24-second rule because it has improved the stalling of the game," he said.

But Besloe is unlike the many modern critics who make many complaints but no suggestions for improvement or giving praise where it is due. "Basketball is definitely improving a little," he said. "The big fellow has dominated the little fellow so that they're now trying to get more defense. When they stop calling so many fouls as they do now, the game will be better."

Why are high school basketball games better than others? "High school basketball is more interesting and intriguing. They don't have as many of the tall players and the teams are more equalized."

Besloe is looking for the return of the roped cage. "I'm very anxious to see the cage come back into the basketball. Unless they raise the height of the basket—which wouldn't be fair to the small fellow—they'll have to go back to the old cage game which consisted of a roped cage 40 feet wide and 70 feet long with no backboards and no out of bounds—make it a game where one had to shoot clean."

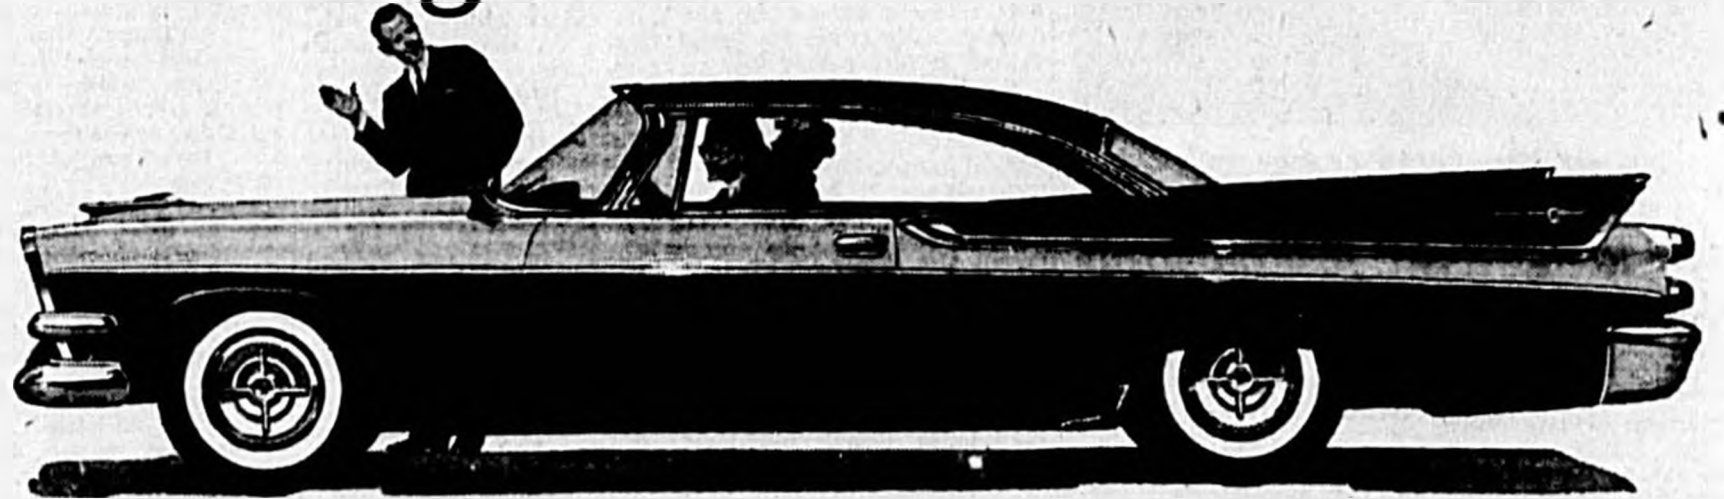

The present day officiating disgraces Besloe. "There's too much fouling altogether," he tersely remarked.

Besloe thinks that sports-minded Sanford is an ideal place to get into the friendly arguments that please his age wit so much. "There's something here in Sanford that one doesn't find everywhere," he said. "Folks should consider themselves very fortunate to live in a place like Sanford. Everywhere you see progress and along with it people are so friendly. I was surprised to come back after three years to find a new hospital—a new Shrine Club building—New York Giants dormitories—the new annex—new homes everywhere."

He cast his sharp eye from the front porch of the Mayfair Inn, where most of the progress can be indicated with the sweep of the eye and added, "Yes, Sanford is a good city—everywhere there is expansion."

His part in a building backs into the building model Susy Parker lives in. During the preparations for her "Person to Person" visit, Kirk Douglas' home town of Amsterdam, N. Actor Paul Douglas, showing Ed Murrow around his newly rented house on "Person to Person" took note on the program of a most imposing portrait on the wall, but confessed he had not the least idea who the gentleman was. Several days later the mystery was solved: A friend gave Douglas the answer: It is a picture of Wm. Carter of the Carter-Liver-Pill family—former owners of the house. ## Southern Viewpoint On Civil Rights

One of the most controversial features of President Eisenhower's civil rights program now before Congress would authorize the government to seek federal court injunctions to prevent civil rights violations. The southern viewpoint on this issue is presented in the following dispatch written for the United Press by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC), a member of the Senate subcommittee on civil rights legislation and a former associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court.

By SEN. SAM J. ERVIN JR.
Written for United Press
WASHINGTON—The right to vote, the right to enjoy all civil liberties are basic to a free people and must be protected. It is, however, a tragic error to attempt the protection of civil rights for any one group through a process which denies a liberty equally precious, that of trial by jury. The administration's civil rights proposals will do exactly this.

These proposals eliminate trial by jury by making the United States government a party to private suits brought under present civil rights statutes and substituting an equitable remedy, the injunction, for common law proceedings. The injunction is a set of rules laid down by a court to which compliance is ordered. This may sound simple enough, but the injunction is particularly open to abuse because of its possible scope and extension and because of the widespread threat of summary punishment which it conveys.

An injunction can extend to persons not parties to the action and can turn a private controversy into a means of establishing a code of conduct for an entire community and coercing innocent conduct. Clinton Injunction Labor injunctions of the early 1900s, for example, were truly said to have applied to "10,000 workers and all the world besides." Now in Clinton, Tennessee, there is in force an injunction so broad that it prohibits both speech and peaceful picketing against its integration order. It should be remembered that an injunction must be obeyed while in force and that disobedience is punishable by contempt under it even though the order itself is subsequently declared improper.

The most frightening aspect of the civil rights proposals is the power of the court to punish disobedience to the injunction by summary proceedings for contempt, without jury trial. Under present federal laws, when an individual is subject to contempt proceedings, for acts allegedly in violation of state or federal laws, he has the right of jury trial on request. This guaranty arose out of labor's experience with injunctions and judges. But it does not apply to injunction cases wherein the United States is a party to the suit. The administration asks that the United States government become a party to private suits under civil rights statutes, thus negating completely trial by jury except upon election of a judge and empowering a single judge to issue the injunction, make it initial interpretation, determine who has violated it, and punish him for contempt. It is the height of sophistry to maintain that injunction and contempt proceedings, as equitable matters, do not subject an individual to the jeopardy he suffers in ordinary criminal proceedings. There is not one particle less liberty involved in punishment for contempt and in punishment for violation of a state or federal law. Subject to Prison Beulah The real difference is that under common law proceedings an accused's guilt or innocence and his liability to damages, are determined by a jury while in contempt proceedings his fate rests with a single judge. One held in contempt, whether it be criminal or civil contempt, is subject to fine or imprisonment. Criminal contempt judgments are for a definite fine and sentence, but civil contempt judgments are of greater magnitude since actual damages are estimated as fines and the jail sentence extends for so long as the court order is not complied with. The advocates of these civil rights measures say that the injunction provides a quick, "tailor-made" remedy in this area. It is true that constitutional safeguards provided in jury trial make the punishment of an act as a crime a slower, less sure process. Constitutional guarantees do render action in the democratic process slower, more cumbersome than actions by totalitarian states. Yet should any constitutional guarantee be surrendered for the sake of quickness and ease? We should remember that the

Monthly Mortgages Can Be Called 3rd Inevitable Of Life

By ROBERT F. COLI
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Along with death and taxes, many Americans can add monthly mortgage payments as the third inevitable of life.

And with home ownership continuing on the upswing the size and type of the monthly mortgage has become one of the biggest headaches in budgeting for the homeowner.

Unless you receive outside income don't start shopping for a home that costs more than three times your present yearly income or banks aren't likely to loan you the money.

While not a hard and fast rule, it is almost as well established as the old maxim to only pay as much in rent each month as you make in one week.

Many loan sources also can be obtained from the individual you buy from—providing he wants to do it—real estate firms, building and loan associations and insurance companies. Private individuals, like relatives of the home buyer, also make loans when the situation warrants but here again it is strictly up to the lender.

The first big hurdle the buyer faces is the amount of the downpayment. Banks generally will lend up to 60 per cent of the assessed value—not the sale price him. Or he as a presidential appointee may conceive his role to be that of furthering particular policies of the government or party. Surely no good judge would want the responsibility for acting under these proposals and no bad judge should be given that responsibility.

In the zeal to insure full citizenship rights to one group let us not foist government by injunction upon this nation. We cannot increase the rights of one group by destroying the rights of all groups. The administration will not solve the racial problem but will increase race tensions and divisions to unprecedented proportions.

The only true solution to the racial problem is the lower process of raising the economic and educational level of all our people coupled with enforcement of present civil rights laws, both state and federal, but without robbing our citizens of their right of jury trial.

Wonderful World by WALDMAN

of the house. In new housing there seldom is much of a spread between the two. But in older homes it can run into money. The 60 per cent figure, of course, is not the limit a bank will advance under certain government-guaranteed home loan programs. Here the down-payment requirements are far smaller, depending on the price of the house.

At this point the second mortgage enters the picture as a means of spreading any gap between the money you have and the sum the bank requires you to put down on the house.

Second Mortgage A second mortgage usually is picked up by a private individual, attracted by the higher interest rate of six per cent as opposed to the usual five per cent first mortgage interest. In some cases an owner will take a second mortgage just to close the sale.

But make no mistake—second mortgage money is risky and hard to find. If you fail to make your payments the mortgage holder can step in and sell your house but the second mortgage holder gets only what's left after the first mortgage holder is paid off in full. In most cases the buyer will arrange to pay off in full the second mortgage holder before he begins to whittle down the principal on the first note. Meantime he pays only the interest on the first mortgage.

The customary monthly mortgage payments is divided into two parts. One part is interest on what bankers call the "unpaid balance." The other portion is a monthly whittling down of the total amount you borrowed—or "principal."

As the months go by the interest portion of the payment drops, since it is figured on what is left of the total loan less principal payments made.

Jan Wallis' Life, Death Inspiration To Many Youths

By HUGH ANSLAY
A young American pilot once wrote, "When I'm above the clouds I feel that I can touch the hand of God." He gave the world those lines of inspiration and then crashed to his death during World War II. Similar was the case of Jan Wallis, one time student of Seminole High School, who crashed to his death in the mountains of Korea en route to Japan Feb. 22.

Jan was not an outstanding athlete, not an outstanding student; he was the average red-blooded American young man personified. He was a teacher's prayer. College material and promise.

Teachers had approached Jan about the possibilities of attending a college. Like many other youngsters, Jan showed hesitance about taking on the task. But teachers everywhere are on the lookout for people like Jan; people who will mold the new world of a powerful democracy.

Late in January Dr. J. Bernard Root, English teacher for Seminole High School, received a letter from Jan. He wanted to go to college. He had seen another world in Korea. He wanted to take advantage of the American way of life and get the most of it when he got home.

Yet less than a mile from the dividing line between Communism and Democracy — that line that had given Jan a new hope and purpose in life, he crashed to his death in the freezing waters of the Han River.

Jan was on his way home and was aboard the 90-ton C-124 — the P.S. Air Force's biggest type transport plane. The plane fell and burned on a small island in the Han's mouth just after taking off from Kimp'o airfield for Tokyo.

Lying on a stretcher at Tachigawa Air Base in Japan, the injured pilot told the story of the tragedy. "We lost power on No. 3 engine."

"It caught fire and started to throw chunks of metal through the fuselage. They hit No. 4 engine and it started to lose power. Pieces of metal were coming through the fuselage, cutting holes big enough for a man to walk through."

"The metal cut the alternator cables. We couldn't turn around so I decided on the Han River. It all happened in four or five minutes."

"We landed on our belly. The first impact was smooth, but the second was a lulu. The next thing I knew I was in the water."

"I crawled on an ice floe and I nearly froze. People were pouring out of the plane and struggling onto a sand bar 50 yards from shore."

The landing on the tiny island above the water only at low tide was described by an Air Force officer as a "one-in-a-million" shot that saved most of the lives.

Jan's life — and death — has been an inspiration to many of the youth in Sanford. Although he graduated in 1953, most of the students of Seminole High still remember him. Many of them have a special place for him among their recollections of heroes who died for a cause. But more important is one of the last statements he made public. He had seen the world as it really was and he wanted to go to college. A lot of the students, especially the seniors, have heard his words and made applications to various institutions of higher learning.

While attending school at Seminole High, Jan lived with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walter, at 2605 Sanford Ave.

Pine Tree Beetles Spreading In State

by Albert Lunday

County Farm Forester, Orange Lake Seminole

Because of dry weather our pine trees are now susceptible to the attack of bark beetles. These beetles bore into the pines and in a short time some of the pines are dead. Ifs and Black Turpentine beetles are spreading throughout the entire State at an alarming rate. They can get a start in fire damaged trees, trees damaged in clearing, or any wound that weakens the tree.

A mixture of Benzene-hexachloride (BHC) and diesel oil can be sprayed on the tree to stop the attack of you detect it in time. Look for yellow or red colored crown foliage and for redish pitch tubes near the base of the trunk. Often it is necessary to cut the dying trees to prevent the spread to healthy trees.

Immunization For Rabies Tried

CHICAGO — A new approach to protecting persons who, because of their occupations, are exposed to the possibility of bites from rabid animals is being developed.

The new technique is presently being tried on volunteer veterinarians throughout the United States, the American Veterinary Medical Association said, and would replace the current and painful Pasteur treatment which involves a 14-21 day series of shots after exposure.

The method involves giving very small doses of rabies vaccine, or a few doses of vaccine developed from nerve tissue, followed by a simple booster dose of vaccine given only after a bite from a suspected rabid animal.

"In their practice, veterinarians are often exposed to rabid animals and the new treatment, if successful here, will offer greater safety for all persons, who may be frequently exposed," the AVMA said.

Rabies is a disease which affects all warm-blooded animals and, according to veterinary researchers, bats are the only animals believed to recover from the disease. They added, however, that rabid bats are suspected of infecting other species such as cattle, wolves, coyotes, dogs and man.

New Repellent For Summer Pests

WASHINGTON — Uncle Sam says a summertime blessing is on the way—a new insect repellent that is the nearest yet to an all-purpose "scat" signal to outdoor pests.

The repellent is diethyl toluamide, which in solution can be applied to the skin or clothes to protect against at least five pests—mosquitoes, ticks, chiggers, fleas and flies.

The Department of Agriculture said the repellent was synthesized some years ago by its research scientists and then was tested at the department's entomology laboratory in Orlando.

The department said diethyl toluamide is non-greasy, has lotion-like consistency, a pleasant odor, and long-staying qualities. It is safe to apply to the skin and will not stain fabric.

S. A. Rose Speaks At 4th Session

Another overflow crowd attended the fourth session of the Sanford Garden Club's Landscape and Gardening School heard Sylvester A. Rose last night as he spoke on Maintenance of Landscape Plantings.

The Asst. Ornamental Horticulturist of the University of Florida Agricultural Extension Service divided his evening lecture into three phases: (1) preparation of soil, (2) planting and transplanting and (3) pruning plants.

Following the lecture a question and answer period on the topics discussed was held.

Rose, a native of Rhode Island, received his education at the University of Rhode Island and Ohio State University.

He owned and operated a commercial florist business in Cincinnati, Ohio for seven years. Following this experience he taught floriculture and ornamental horticulture courses at Ohio University for 5 years.

Rose joined the Agricultural Extension Service in September of last year.

The instructor, in his discussion relating to the preparation of soil explained also the removal of debris and undesirable material as well as the preparation and inclusion, too, the addition of organic matter and fertilizer.

He emphasized, in his planning and transplanting discussions, the selection of plant material until set out, digging of holes for plant placement, after planting care, and reasons for the failure of newly planted shrubs and plants to grow properly.

Rose pointed out the reasons why pruning is necessary and then turned to the time for pruning and how to accomplish both the trimming of shrubs in pruning and trees, due to the interesting phases of his discussion the development of a good healthy hedge from the ground up and the care of large "wounds" to prevent decay.

Home Retirement Subdivision To Be Erected Here Soon

An agreement to move a ditch 300 feet east on the north side of the County Club Road brought out plans yesterday for a 300 home retirement subdivision.

George H. Garrison, an Orlando developer, requested the Board of Seminole County Commissioners at its meeting yesterday to move the ditch to make way for construction of the homes which is estimated to start in about 60 days. A 40-foot easement was granted, the county for moving the ditch.

Garrison told the Board of County Commissioners that the 99 acre tract will be called Country Club Estates and that homes will be in the $7,500 dollar bracket.

The developer described his property as being approximately 800 feet from the Sanford City limits.

Weather
Fair today, tonight and Thursday; tonight 52 to 58.

Primary Road Budget Hearings Set Mar. 25

The possibilities of a causeway across Lake Monroe came up again yesterday at the meeting of the Board of Seminole County Commissioners when discussions arose concerning primary roads and the budget for the next year.

Hearings will be held to set up the county's primary road budget with the State Road Department in Deland on Mar. 25 at 9:30 a.m. It was also proposed that a survey be made for a causeway across Lake Jesup into Oviedo. The Board of Commissioners agreed that the survey should be requested.

Number one item in the next year's primary road plan would be the Otwell Bridge on State Road 415, the extension of State Road 46 west from Mellonville Ave., and the causeway across Lake Monroe from French Ave.

A secondary road program was set up. However, the Board of Commissioners were advised that there was no money in the secondary road funds for work in the county during the next fiscal year.

Bratley Odham, chairman of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Long Range Highway Planning Committee told the commissioners, "We definitely need to survey the secondary needs of the county and determine what we should have."

"We've got 17-92 into Sanford," said Commissioner John Krider, "and somehow we've got to get it out."

"If we don't do something about it we will lose the road entirely," he said.

Krider explained that it would be a million dollars cheaper to build a causeway across Lake Monroe than to four-lane the lakefront route.

Odham told the board of Commissioners, "I don't think the interstate highway will be of any benefit to our local economy."

"The causeway across the lake is the answer and we need somehow, somehow to insist that the State Road Department work out the traffic problem between Orange City and Sanford," he said.

There will be an early April letting on 17-92 commissioners were told and State Road 46 into Mellonville Ave. is scheduled in this year's budget.

County Refuses To Approve Plat For Druid Hills

The Board of County Commissioners yesterday refused to approve a plat for Druid Hills Park in the south section of Seminole County when streets planned did not tie in with streets of other plats.

"I am not in favor of approving a plat until streets are matched," said one commissioner.

Commissioner Krider commented, "It would take a guide to get out of this one."

A plat for the Prairie Lake area was tabled for approval pending the determination of proper drainage for septic tanks in the area.

Two other plats were approved by the Board of Commissioners. Longwood Park and South Sylvan Lake Shores were okayed.

ST. PETERSBURG — Florida's long-awaited dream of having natural gas will become reality within 12 months, bringing with it a multi-million dollar investment program and the change of hands of gas distribution systems throughout the state.

Hardly a single area of the state will be unaffected by the huge program announced Tuesday night here by F. E. Stanley.

Stanley, president of the Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corp. and the newly formed Houston Corporation, said establishment of the natural gas industry in the state will involve investments of more than 130 million dollars.

He said both corporations plan to have their headquarters in St. Petersburg.

Big Payroll Involved
Stanley said the investment will amount to $132,657,000. He said the two companies plan an annual payroll of nearly 4 million dollars and a roster of 797 employees when the system is complete. More than 3,100 persons will be employed in Florida alone during the construction period.

The Texas Industrialist said construction of the 2,600-mile pipeline system and new distribution facilities is scheduled to get underway this year and will be completed in about 12 months.

Stanley announced plans for acquisition of a major segment of the state's gas distribution systems, previously confined to the use of manufactured gas. They are to be operated by the Houston Corporation, organization papers for which were filed in Tallahassee Tuesday.

He said distribution properties to be acquired are Miami, Florida Power and Light Co., Lakeland and Daytona Beach, also from FPL; Jacksonville, from present stockholders of the Jacksonville Gas Co.; Orlando and Winter Haven, from the South Atlantic Gas Co.; and Eustis, Mt. Dora and Umatilla, from the Triangle Gas Co.

Hobby Warns Against Throwing Trash On Roads

Sheriff Luther Hobby issued a warning yesterday to those who are dumping trash and garbage along the roads of the county.

"We are going to watch these roads very closely," Hobby stated, "and those found violating the health and sanitation regulations of our county will be prosecuted."

The warning came following an announcement at the meeting yesterday of the Board of County Commissioners when a report was heard that citizens are dumping trash and garbage along county roads.

Garbage dumps are provided for the proper disposal of garbage and trash, Sheriff Hobby said.

Doctors Battle To Save Injured Workmen's Lives
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Doctors in five hospitals battled today to save the lives of workmen who were injured critically when a construction hoist fell five stories, killing five of the riders.

The big hoist, operating in an open frame outside the new Duval County Courthouse, hit the bottom with an explosive sound when a cable broke at the end of the work shift Tuesday.

Waring R. Barber, who ran up the scene from his motor company across the street, said the men "couldn't talk, they couldn't scream—most of them just lay there stunned or out."

Sounded Like Explosion
Barber said he heard a noise "that sounded like an acetylene tank exploding" and when he arrived, "all I could see were mangled men piled on top of each other like cordwood."

Four men were killed in the bust and another died at a hospital. All the 14 injured were in serious condition at hospitals, where 10 underwent surgery during the night. Doctors said two others were so deeply shocked that they could not safely be given needed surgery.

The men had boarded the platform at the fifth floor. Others

Time Now Or Be Retarded

Announcement of an enabling act to be introduced as a local bill in the 1957 Legislature to "allow County Commission to employ additional personnel to assist Mrs. Mary Earle Walker to conduct a reappraisal and to employ outside appraisals for a reassessment" broke out into a heated discussion at a meeting of Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, Seminole County Board of Commissioners, Sanford City Commissioners, and representatives from Seminole County communities last night.

Discussions were opened when Commissioner John Krider said "It is almost compulsory that we conduct a reassessment now."

"We're in a position now where a raise in millage will hit only certain people—the business people," he said.

Krider pointed out that "we need schools, a reduction of taxes, and funds for new and improved roads. If we can afford to build $15,000 homes," he said, "We can pay something for our county."

"New industry is coming in and we have some new commercial buildings," but what do we have to operate our county? Krider commented.

"I think the time has come," said Krider, "we'll either do it now or our county will be retarded 20 years."

Bratley Odham, entering the discussion, stated "I don't see how we're going to grow in the county unless we have a reassessment and get our system on a reality basis."

"We're doing without an awful lot of things that we could have," he said.

Giving one example of taxes being paid, Odham stated "I purchased a piece of property for $40,000 and the taxes paid on it in the past year was $2."

Superintendent of Schools H. T. Milnes spoke emphatically on the need for additional money for the schools and said "We are just as much interested in holding taxes" (Continued on page 2)

Standard Retains Gasoline, Oil Bid

Standard Oil Company, represented by Earl Higginbotham, retained the award of a bid for gasoline and oil in the climax of discussions before the Board of County Commissioners yesterday.

J. C. Davis a representative of the Texas Company and Carl Williams of the Cities Service Company requested the Board of Commissioners to look into the award. Davis claimed that Higginbotham's bid was the high bid.

However, during the discussions Commissioner John Krider told Davis "I think you placed the burden on the commission to determine the price. We didn't call for bids to determine prices but for you to quote them."

The Board of Commissioners offered to reopen the bids. Davis declined and stated that "If the award is made the full bid should go to Higginbotham."

Board Okays Bill To Allow Hiring Of County Manager

An enabling bill to allow for the employment of a County Manager was approved by the Board of Seminole County Commissioners yesterday after a discussion that at one time indicated the proposed bill would not meet the approval of the Board of Commissioners.

Commissioner Lawrence Swoford told the board "It's time for planning."

"We're five years late now," Commissioner John Krider remarked.

However, Chairman of the Board of Commissioners, Fred Dyon asked "Are we big enough for a county manager?"

Clerk of Circuit Court O. P. Herndon entered the discussion and asked the board "Just what would a county manager do? Tell this board what to do? What are his duties going to be?"

Commissioner Krider commented "We need some efficient operation in this county and we shouldn't wait any longer for it."

"I'm thinking of a man that is an engineer with intelligence enough to set up a system," he said.

Commissioner Homer Little stated "If we're going to have a county" (Continued on page 2)

Local Bills For '57 Legislature Talked Over At Joint Meet

The announcement of 17 local bills proposed to be introduced in the 1957 Legislature led off discussions last night at a joint meeting of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, the Seminole County Board of Commissioners, Sanford City Commissioners and representatives from Casselberry, Lake Mary, Altamonte Springs, Geneva, and Oviedo.

Local bills affecting Sanford measure which would follow the City by petition or by referendum. "If the majority of the property owners in any one specified area agree to annexation that area may be annexed," said City Attorney William C. Hutcheson who presented the several bills for the city.

Also included in the city's proposal bill is a pay raise for City Commissioners. The new measure would raise the commissioners from $10 per month to $20 per month with Mayor drawing $75.

Frank Evans, representing Lake Mary, told the group of about 30 that "If Sanford would take Lake Mary in I would be tickled."

Evans then told the group "I'd like to see Seminole County incorporated into one town with one Mayor and one tax. We're going to have a growth here that is staggering—beyond expectations," he said.

Bill Kilbee, a former County Commissioner, representing Geneva, said "I just want to see Frank Evans idea go through."

An enabling act, presented and proposed by George Tushy, would allow Seminole County to acquire property for a landing strip in order to provide a landing area for planes coming into the Sanford area.
