Sanford 'Refinement'

A Closer Look At Police Setup

By DENNIS FEOLA
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford City Commission's recently approved organizational chart for the police department provides a glimpse at the inner workings of the department, its structure and chain of command.

"There was a need within the department to re-structure," explained Sgt. William Bernosky. "The lines of authority were there before, but it has been honed down. This is an in-house refinement," he said.

The citizenry top the organizational chart in keeping with every police department's philosophy that it serve the public.

The city commission is designated by the city charter with the responsibility for operating the police department.

The commissioner for police is a relatively new addition to the organizational structure. Elected to the post was Commissioner John Morris. "I think it's a good thing," Bernosky said.

"It provides a liaison route between the city commission and police department. It's like a buffer zone. It's definitely a good move," he said.

Beneath the commissioner on the organizational chart is Police Chief Ben Butler. He is responsible for the day-to-day operation of the police department. His newly hired secretary is 21-year-old Toni Osborne of Sanford.

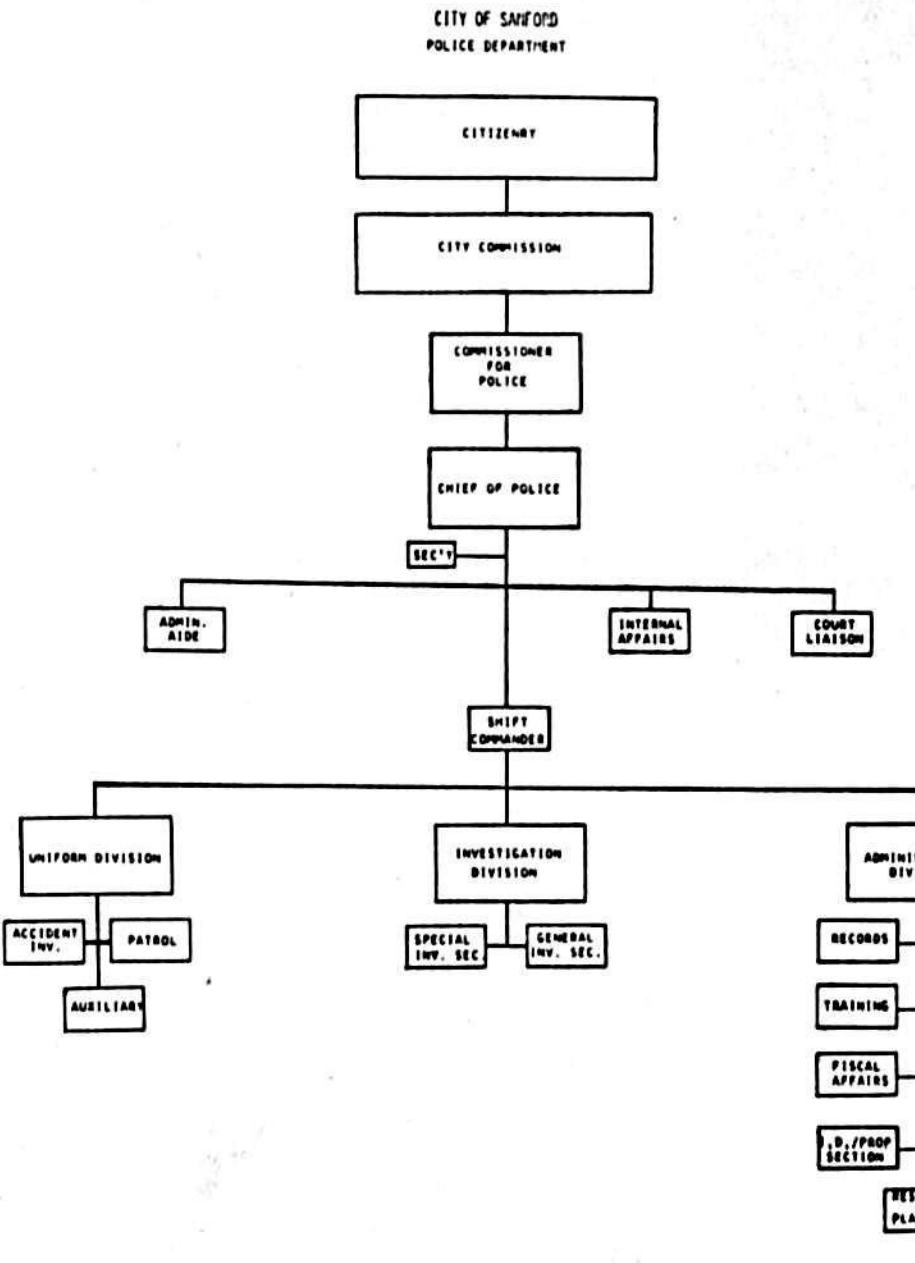

The men on the next level of the chart comprise what is, in essence, the chief's personal staff. They report directly to Butler. They are: Steve Harriett, administrative aide; Sgt. Roy Williams, internal affairs and Bernosky, liaison officer.

Harriett is responsible for the bulk of the chief's required paperwork including studies, forms, reports and organizational charts. Harriett is also in charge of evidence at the department. Like other administrative employees, Harriett's functions spill over into several administrative departments.

Williams is not only responsible for internal affairs, but is responsible for any investigation into the areas of organized crime, vice, corruption in public office and police

Choice For City Officials: To Disclose $$ Or Not...?

(A four-member committee of the State Ethics Commission would give a city the option of adopting an ordinance requiring any municipal official or employee to disclose net worth and major income sources. How would our local officials greet such a requirement? We checked a few.)

"I would have no problem with such a law, in fact I would favor it," said Sanford City Commissioner Eddie Keith. However, he added the law should apply only to elected officials and not persons hired by the city.

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore said the inclusion of certain city employees, such as sanitation workers, "would be ridiculous."

Moore also felt the requirement should specifically exempt persons serving on advisory boards.

"These people who voluntarily serve on quasi-judicial boards should not be caught in this thing," commented Moore. "Sanford has lost some good people from these boards because of this sort of thing already."

"I think a man selected to public office should be expected to be exposed to the public view, but not these other people."

Lake Mary City Councilman Cliff Nelson said he felt the intent of the law can be handled by requiring conflict of interest reports to be filed by elected officials and city employees.

"I really don't believe it is anybody's business where you get your income except where there is a conflict and then it is incumbent on the individual to reveal that," said Nelson.

He contended the law should be explained to each elected official and employee and those employees should be required to sign a form pledging to reveal any conflicts that might arise in the future.

The newest member of the Sanford City Commission, David Farr, said he did not feel the proposal was "totally objectionable."

He said he would not favor a total breakdown of the money an officeholder has.

"All they're really asking for is two figures, your net worth and income; I don't think that should be a problem," said Farr of elected officials.

"As far as the employees are concerned, I don't think they should have to do it."

Carter's 'Lean, Austere' Budget Heads To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter this weekend was getting ready to send Congress what he calls a "lean and austere" inflation-fighter $31.6 billion budget for 1980.

In it he proposes increases in national defense, cuts in many domestic programs and the smallest deficit in six years.

The budget is for the fiscal year beginning in October and ending Oct. 31, 1980 — six days before the presidential elections. It will go a long way toward shaping the presidential campaigns.

Carter kept a promise he made last fall to propose a deficit under $30 billion. The figure he came up with was $29 billion — half the amount just before he took office.

And he projected that if everything falls into place and taxes are not cut, by 1982 the budget could have a $32 billion surplus — the government's first black ink in a decade.

"I have sought," Carter said, "to reconcile the need for extraordinary restrictions on government spending with the need to maintain a strong defense, to implement a national energy policy, to assist people in need and to continue important public services and investments."

However, Carter said he budgeted "adequate" funds for the poor, listing $4.7 billion more in such programs as food stamps, Medicaid, subsidized housing, education of disadvantaged children and "block grants" for community development.

The president said his "firm intention" is to balance the budget "as soon as economic conditions permit."

The budget is only a set of proposals. Congress will write the definitive federal budget — first a target version in May, then a final one in September. All legislation enacted for the fiscal year is supposed to fit within this budget, although in practice that does not always happen.

Here is what the president proposed in specific budget areas:

— Defense: An increase of 7 percent in weapons, ammunition and equipment purchases, intended primarily to boost firepower in Europe, plus speeded development of new weapons such as the MX strategic missile.

— Jobs: The existing $25,000 public service jobs would be scaled down to $67,000. The cut would come in job slots designed for persons unemployed because of the economy. Those for the hard-core unemployed, who have difficulty finding jobs in the best of times, would be continued.

— Youth employment: Summer youth jobs, which now go to those 14 through 21, would be scaled down from 1 million to 725,000 by dropping 14-year-olds from the program.

— Energy: Energy spending has peaked and is on the decline in the new budget, ending a period of sharp growth going back to the 1973-1974 oil embargo. Carter proposed spending $9.6 billion, a 4 percent reduction from this year. Solar energy was the only increase forecast, climbing from $639 million to $804 million.

— Social Security: Carter will ask Congress for specific reductions in Social Security benefits, including limiting the number of work years that may be disregarded in computing benefits, modifying parents' benefits, eliminating minimum benefits for new recipients, and cutting double dipping. He proposed no Social Security tax rollback now but said this could be considered in 1981.

— Taxes: He proposed no income tax cuts for individuals.

The budget does include a $2.5 billion proposal for real wage insurance, part of Carter's anti-inflation package. Under it, groups of employees whose pay raises are within the president's anti-inflation guidelines generally will be eligible for a tax credit if inflation exceeds 7 percent.

— Community development: Carter proposed $7.3 billion in community and regional development funds, a $1.7 billion cut from last year, largely due to phasing out of anti-recession and disaster assistance programs. But Community Development Bloc Grants would be increased. Carter renewed a proposal which got nowhere in Congress last year — for a National Development Bank.

— Housing: Carter seeks $5.3 for housing assistance for poor and moderate income families, an increase of $900 million.

— Resources: He proposed $11.5 billion in 1980 for preserving natural resources and improving the environment. The Environmental Protection Agency budget would grow to $4.7 billion from the present $4.1 billion, with major emphasis toward controlling toxic substances.

— Consumers: Outlays for consumer safety activities would grow to $644 million in 1980 from $637 million at present.

House-Fixing Program Wins New CETA Job Funding

New federal funding under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act to provide two-to-three additional jobs for young people 16-19 years old in Seminole Community Action's (SCA) weatherization program has been approved.

According to the Seminole County CETA office, the funding for the additional jobs and fringe benefits totals $31,686. The program is to extend through October 1979.

Under the program, prior to the new allocation, six young men and two supervisors were hired and are working on the renovation of privately owned homes of low-income families in the county.

The major thrust of the work is concentrated on window, roof and door repair. The owners, however, may pay materials' costs for additional repairs while the two crews are working on weatherization of the homes.

Shelly Cox, program planner for SCA, said $4,896 remains in the program for materials costs. Other federal grants are expected to be received for additional materials, she said.

The emphasis of the program is to give training in construction work to high school dropouts while the youths are paid the minimum wage and are helping their community at the same time.

Rev. Amos Jones, executive director of SCA, told the organization's board of directors that participants in the program have contributed $7,489.84 for materials so far.

"We do encourage clients to participate in the purchase cost of the materials," he said, adding the degree of participation is "remarkable." It is estimated, Mrs. Cox said, that 120-140 homes will be worked on before the program expires.

In other action at the SCA meeting, Ed Tossie, school board representative on the board of directors, was asked to find out if unused facilities at the Rosenwald School near Alhambra Springs can be used by SCA's Headstart program.

Tossie was asked to look into the possibility after Mrs. Portia Spencer, Headstart director, reported it would cost $6,800 to bring the Winwood Park building, currently used, up to fire standard and to build an additional 30 feet by 16 feet classroom to the facility.

She said another $2,300 would be needed to install central

'We do encourage clients to participate in the purchase cost of the materials' heating there. Mrs. Spencer said 40 students are enrolled in the Headstart program at the Winwood Park center.

Tossie reported that the school administration is willing to permit a study to be conducted of the program made of Headstart students in the public school system since the Headstart program began in Seminole County 10 years ago.

Tossie said the information which the organization would like studied should be prepared and the study would be conducted by computer.

He said the identities of the students would not be revealed in resulting computer print-outs, adding that the list of former Headstart students would have to be made available to the school administration.

Tossie also reported that negotiations are in process between SCA and the school administration on the possible purchase, lease or rental of the old Hopper School where the SCA administrative offices are now located.

New officers elected were: Bill Carpenter, Sanford attorney, chairman; John Moore of Oviedo, vice chairman; Teri Burattl, of the Georgetown Association, secretary; Jerry Connell of Longwood, treasurer; and Tossie, member of the executive committee-at-large.

All Rhetoric Ends Sunday For Cowboys, Steelers

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — All the rhetoric ends Sunday... The Pittsburgh Steelers and Dallas Cowboys will play a football game. Finally.

What everyone is hoping this time is that Pittsburgh and Dallas will provide what most Super Bowls have lacked — a good football game. And they just might.

“Our philosophies are much different,” Dallas Coach Tom Landry said at his final pregame news conference. “On offense, we use multiple sets, or offense if that’s what you want to call it, to try to confuse the defense and force it into mistakes. We don’t strive for individual efforts through constant repetition. Pittsburgh on offense relies mainly on Franco Harris’ running and Terry Bradshaw’s passing.

“On defense we use a coordinated system that emphasizes covering areas, while the Steelers are an aggressive and very physical team.”

“We have a tough image,” said Rocky Bleier, the Steelers’ veteran running back. “A lot of images are involved in this game. We have always been a tough, hard-hitting team but I resent the implications that we don’t play within the rules. I guess this game will be pictured as the good guys against the bad guys.

—affluence, money. “We have that bad guy image. We play rough, we wear black shirts. Pittsburgh has the image of being a tough city, although it really isn’t.”

Oh, What A Night! Local Fives Dumped

It was another bad night at Black Rock for Seminole County high school basketball teams Friday night as Seminole, Oviedo and Lake Brantley each came out on the losing ends of games.

Seminole was defeated by Pine Star Conference jockeyer Daytona Seabree, 75-60; Oviedo was knocked off by the Pats, 58-55; and Brantley fell victim to a hot shooting night by Daytona Mainland, 102-66.

Bruce McCray played his usual steady game for Seminole and came up with 14 points. But Seabree’s balanced attack was too much, ripping the game open early with a 42-22 lead at halftime.

Jon Klob hears all this expert Super analysis, all these man-to-man comparisons, not to mention some of Hollywood Henderson’s inflammatory statements, and he can’t help laughing over all the foolishness.

“I turned on the radio this morning and this DJ was talking about Sunday’s game and making it sound like World War Three,” Klob said. “On the one hand, he’s a professional wrestler from Dallas, who has become a good friend.

“He and I were in the World’s Strongest Man Contest in Los Angeles and we were staying at the same hotel,” said Klob. “I had seen him wrestle several times on TV and whenever he was interviewed, he’d always speak in broken English...”

“When I saw him in the hotel lobby, in person, I was fascinated,” Klob went on. “I said to my wife, ‘There’s Ivan Putski!’ He must’ve been because he came over and said, ‘Jon Klob, I’ve been a fan of yours for years. I’ve got a new autograph for my two boys.’ He said all this in the softest, smoothest Southern accent you ever heard. I was so stunned, all I could say to him was ‘I don’t know you speak English.’”

In a game with Cleveland this season, Klob picked one point in the contest to kick Jerry Shurt, the Browns’ defensive tackle, how things had been going for him inasmuch as he hadn’t seen him in awhile and he was back in the same place at Oklahoma State.

“Shut up!” Shurt barked back at him. “I’ll talk to you later, not now.”

Tennis Anyone?

Interpreting The Rules

A recent article appeared in “World Tennis” magazine concerning some common rules that are often misinterpreted or misapplied. After reading the article I found that these are the same questions that are asked time and time again by the inexperienced tennis player. I thought it would be a good idea to pass these along to our readers because I’m sure several of these things have occurred in their matches.

1. Reaching Over The Net. It is legal to reach across the net to hit a ball that has landed in your court and because of extreme backspin is bouncing back toward the court from which it came. It is also legal to follow through across the net as long as you don’t touch the net.

2. Who May Serve Next? You must serve and receive in order throughout a set. In singles this order must be maintained at the start of the next set. In doubles you may change which partner serves first and you can also change the side in which you receive but the team rotation must stay the same.

3. Must My Return Go Over The Net? No. A shot that goes past the end of the net, either above or below the level of the net, is good if it lands in the intended court. A ball that goes “through” a net is not good. Example being a hole in the net or the space between the net and post.

4. Is A “Whiff” A Fault? Yes. If the server misses the ball in attempting to strike it, the service is a fault. 5. A serve of mine hit the net and sailed behind the baseline and hit my opponent before it touched the ground. Whose point? No one, the serve is just a let. (c) A serve of mine, without touching the net, hits or is caught by either of my opponents before it touches the ground. Whose point? Your point.

Records Fall In Philly

By United Press International

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The magic seven-second barrier for the indoor 60-yard hurdles has been broken, but it could go time and again if Renaldo Nehemiah and Greg Foster continue to hook up in head-to-head duels.

Nehemiah, the NCAA indoor champion from Maryland, and Foster, the collegiate outdoor title-holder from UCLA, completed a memorable duel with a dead heat and a world record of 6.95 seconds Friday night in the 60-yard hurdles at the Philadelphia Track Classic.

The race wiped out Nehemiah’s week-old world mark of 7.02 seconds set last week in College Park, Md.

From what Nehemiah and Foster say now, their best races are ahead of them. “The next few meets, I’ll work my way up,” said Nehemiah, a sophomore. “I haven’t gotten into much speed training yet.”

Trailing after these three periods, 80-70, the Bulls managed to grab an 87-84 lead when Artis Gilmore dunked in a basket with 8:32 left to play, but baskets by Hayes and Kupchak, the latter coming with 7:48 left to play, put the Bulls ahead for good, 88-87.

“They’re just a great team, overpowering,” said Bulls Coach Larry Costello. “They have all the ingredients. That’s why they’re champs.”

Well, Since You Asked...

Q. Could you tell me how the word “hike” was derived from the play-laying snafu from center, and who was the first to use the term? — Sam Fien, Redlands, Calif.

Credit to Allison Danzing’s “The History of American Football” is given to John A. Heisman — for whom the famed collegiate trophy is named — as the originator of the “hike” to put a play in motion. The year was 1898 and he was then the coach at Auburn. He also used “hep” as another oral signal for the center snafu. You should know the center snafu itself wasn’t introduced until 1894 by Amos Alonzo Stagg. Why “hike” or “hep”? I couldn’t tell you.

Q. Through the Cincinnati Reds’ history, who do you think is the best all-around player? — Chester Nakatani, Watsonville, Calif.

For what it’s worth, my pick as best all-around player is none other than that recent defector, Pete Rose, simply because of his consistency over 16 years and his versatility — second, third and left field — defensively. I was tempted to mention Johnny Bench, who dominated his position as no other has and swung a more productive bat in terms of homers and RBIs. But nagging injuries have cut him down recently. The old timers might want to argue for Hall of Famer Ed Roush, who hit 322 over 16 major league campaigns.

Q. Was Roger Staubach a Rhodes scholar? I know he won the Heisman Trophy in 1963. — Robert King, Little Valley, N.Y.

Staubach, although a good student, was not a Rhodes scholar. After attending the U.S. Naval Academy, The Dallas Cowboys, who knew he had a service commitment for four years, nevertheless drafted him on the 10th round in 1964, and he reported to them in the 1969 season — an old but well-preserved rookie. A famous service academy football player who won the Heisman and studied on a Rhodes scholarship is Army’s Pete Dawkins, now a high-ranking officer at Fort Ord, Calif.

Q. What was the best year and record of the New Orleans Saints as a football team? — P.J. Bridges, IV, Mobile, Ala.

When the Saints topped the San Francisco 49ers, 24-13, on Dec. 3, they achieved six victories, a team record in one season. This beleaguered franchise has never had a winning year, going back to its debut in 1967. The top previous mark was 5-8. But Dick Nolan has the Saints turned around, and with Archie Manning matured as a quarterback, they’ll be tough.

Q. Who are some of the outstanding college basketball players to look for this season in relation to how they’ll be drafted by the pros? — George White, Ithaca, N.Y.

The prize prospect is Larry Bird of Indiana State, who’s envisioned as a bigger Rick Barry. He’s 6-9, Rick is 6-8. Bird has the same kind of multiple skills. Centers Bill Cartwright of San Francisco and James Bailey of Rutgers are next in line among the nation’s seniors.

Q. Who is your candidate as the most valuable player in the National Football League this year? Who won the honor last year? — H. Newman, Cincinnati

I feel, as of this writing, Terry Bradshaw has to be given serious consideration for the Jim Thorpe Trophy, symbolic of the outstanding performer in the NFL. He has been the one constant on the Steelers this season, and they have compiled the best record in the league. The Louisiana-born quarterback long ago licked the criticism that he’s not a thinking man’s field general. He’s also at the top of his physical skills. Walter Payton was the top man of ‘77.

Inness Stops Detroit

By United Press International

Danny Ballew has been saying all season long his Washington Capitals haven’t been getting “big league” goaltending. But Gary Inness may change his mind.

Inness, who made previous NHL stops at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, returned to the league after the WCHA Indianapolis Racers folded last month. He stopped 34 shots in Friday night’s game.

Robert Picard and Ryan Weller, who had accumulated goals 31 seconds apart to lay the offensive end for the Caps. Walker’s goal marked the fifth straight game in which the Racers had scored, setting a Washington record.

“The biggest thing is that the Capitals are playing well,” said Walker, a strong candidate for Rookie of the Year honors. “There’s only so much satisfaction in individuality.”

Walker set the record when he converted 11th of the season, a clean-shaven center, passed at 11:38 of the second period to push the score to 5-4. Picard’s 11th of the year opened a 3-0 lead on a powerplay slapshot from the left point at 11:38.

Bob Rimez, Tommy Rowe and Gary Rensing scored the other Washington goals while Paul Woods raised Inness’ shutout bid at 5:19 of the third period with a shorthanded goal.

Weather Finally Breaks For Phoenix Open Field

By PHOENIX (UPI) — After a week of rain, the sun is supposed to make an appearance today and when it does the long-delayed and now-stagnant Phoenix Open finally will get under way.

Tournament officials have been trying for two days to start the event, second of the year on the PGA Tour, but nearly three inches of rain fell in the area, about twice the yearly average, in 72 hours and left the Phoenix Country Club course flooded out in many fairways.

“But here,” he continued, “we were not under way when play was delayed. So, we are scheduling the event for 54 holes and we will have a playoff, if necessary, to determine a winner. This makes it different than anything we have had to deal with in the past.”

Miller Barber is the defending champion and he was among the early starters, as was Johnny Miller, who won here back-to-back in 1976-77 and set the course record of 61. The Phoenix CC layout is a light 6,728 yards played to par-71. As on most desert courses, the premium is on accuracy in the fairways.

Because of the conditions, Miller’s winning score of 24-under par 360 in 1976 is safe. But with the players free to pick up, clean and place anywhere on the course, there might be a number of low scores.

Play now will be over 54 holes with the tournament running through Monday. The purse has been reduced from $250,000 to $127,500 and the

'Invisible Car' Tops All

NEW YORK (UPI)—"The pedestrian had no idea which direction to go, so I ran over him."
That, says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., is among a list of explanations the company has received for automobile accidents.
Others include:
—"The other car collided with mine without warning of its intention."
—"I had been driving my car for 40 years when I fell asleep at the wheel and had the accident."
—"As I reached an intersection, a hedge sprang up obscuring my vision."

"I pulled away from the side of the road, glanced at my mother-in-law and headed over the embankment."
—"The telephone pole was approaching fast. I attempted to swerve out of its path when it struck my front end."
—"The guy was all over the road. I had to drive a number of times before I hit him."
—"The indirect cause of this accident was a little guy in a small car with a big mouth."
But Metropolitan says strangest reason of all is: "An invisible car came out of nowhere, struck my car and vanished."

Youth Corps Accepting Summer Job Applications

The Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) program in Florida is now accepting applications from young people between 15 and 18 years old for summer employment. This year about 858 young Floridians will participate in the work-learn environment of Florida's National Forests, National Parks, National Wildlife Refuges, and other public areas. There will be both residential (live-in) and non-residential opportunities. Don Percival, Forest Supervisor for the National Forests in Florida, says camps will be coeducational and last six to eight weeks. Participant pay will be minimum wage, $2.90 per hour. For information write National Forests in Florida, P.O. Box 13549, Tallahassee, 32308, or phone (904) 878-1131.

Dividends Lead Workshop

The Dividends School Volunteer Program is offering a workshop for all Dividends volunteers, parents, community people — anyone interested in gaining a further insight into specific programs of schools. It will be held Tuesday, from 9 a.m. — 1 p.m. at the Altamonte Civic Center. There is no charge.

CB Club Raising CP Funds

The Tri County Road Runners C.B. Club raised about $65 from a recent bake sale to benefit Cerebral Palsy (CP). The group continues to raise funds and will conduct a door-to-door campaign. Persons wishing to make donations are asked to call 322-4369, or 321-0510. All pledges will be announced during the CP Telethon on Jan. 27 and 28.

Society Sets Sale For History

The Central Florida Society for Historic Preservation, the Longwood Civic League, and Christ Episcopal Church of Longwood, will sponsor the Longwood Community Flea Market on Saturday, Feb. 3 and Sunday at the Longwood Community Building, corner of Wilma Street and Warren Avenue, and on Church Street, Longwood Civic League Building. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. There will be free admission, free parking, food and refreshments. Booths available. For information call 831-7422 or 831-2491. The Bradlee-McIntyre House, 130 West Warren Ave., will be open for tours both days during the Flea Market hours.

Poetry Contest Underway

A $1000 grand prize will be awarded in the Poetry Competition sponsored by the World of Poetry, a bi-monthly newsletter for poets. Poems of all styles and on any subject are eligible to compete for the grand prize or for 49 other cash or merchandise awards. Rules and official entry forms are available by writing to World of Poetry, 2431 Stockton, Dept. D, Sacramento, Calif. 95817.

Card Party Scheduled

A card party, designed for interested area card players, is scheduled on Jan. 25, at 9:30 a.m., at the Sanford Garden Club building, Fairmont Drive, Sunland Estates. Prizes will be given for each table and a luncheon will be served by the Magnolia Circle of the Sanford Garden Club.

Prosthesis Display Opens

The Seminole County Reach to Recovery unit of the American Cancer Society has announced a new service for mastectomy patients in the area. A new prosthesis display center, the first of its kind in Central Florida, will be located in the offices of the American Cancer Society, 202 Oak Ave., Sanford, and will be open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

CPR Course Offered

The Central Florida Chapter of the American Red Cross will be conducting a Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) course for residents of Seminole County beginning Thursday evening, Feb. 8, at First Federal of Seminole, Highway 434 at 17-82 in Longwood. Advance registration is required as class size is limited. To register, call the Seminole County Red Cross Service Center at 831-3000.

Knightettes Name Officers

The Lyons Knightettes, auxiliary of the Knights of Columbus of Sanford, have elected the following officers for 1979: Mimi Kame, president; Mary Augusta, vice president; Mary Harrington, recording secretary; and Wills Mae Proch, treasurer. Eleanor Regan was the installing officer at the January meeting. All wives and mothers of active Knights are invited to join the auxiliary.

OURSELVES

One, Two — And Walla! You Have A Haiku...

But Haiku! What's That?

By JOAN MADISON
Herald Correspondent

Writing haiku will open an awareness to life that surrounds you.

"That's right," says poet Mrs. Hay (Mary) Thibodeau of Longwood. "Writing haiku should recharge your batteries to the awareness of the ever-pulsating life that constantly surrounds you." But, haiku, you say! What's that? And the poet patiently explains that it's a special form of free verse poetry, composed of three unrhymed lines. "It's written in 17 syllables which are placed in a 5-7-5 sequence," she elaborates. "It's not a new 'type' of poetry. Haiku originated over 600 years ago by the Japanese and is written in both the Eastern and Western world to suggest a mood or an emotion. They are starting to teach haiku to children in school — this is part of life. It increases your awareness of life," notes the former teacher, a native Floridian. Not only does haiku increase the awareness of life, but it challenges the creativity within the individual. The haiku poet intuitively paints a clear picture of life as he sees and feels it. "And the picture he paints should appeal to either one or more of the five senses. The haiku poet never uses abstract or intellectual words or terms that would create an obscure allusion for the reader," she informs. "While it seems that the haiku is gradually changing in today's ever-changing world, certain requirements for writing one remains the same," she notes. "A haiku must have three elements — an object or subject; a time or season; and a place."

"Writing a haiku is just as an enjoyable experience as reading one," says Mary, with contagious enthusiasm. "Once you learn the steps to writing one, it's a very simple process."

And you start to think that perhaps you'd like to try... "First," she begins, "You write any idea or experience that you would like to express in one complete sentence. Second, count the syllables in your sentence. If you do not have the exact 17, choose alternate words or terms, which say the same thing, but will give you the 17." Mary smiles and her eyes light up as she explains the final step. "Then, simply arrange these syllables into three lines, with a 5-7-5 sequence form. And Walla! You have a haiku." Mary, who now has three children and one grandchild, has been writing haiku ever since she studied it at the University of South Florida "back in the 60s." it the quickness and finality which could be felt in an actual experience," explains the lover of haiku. "I enjoy teaching it (haiku) to anyone who would like to learn it," says the poet. "I love to inspire people to write. When my students have done anything that is just great, I feel that I've added something to the world. And she teaches at every opportunity. She keeps on writing haiku to her fellow toastmistresses at the Greater Seminole Toastmistress Club at a workshop, and it was such a resounding success that plans are underway to publish a book comprised of haiku written by the newly discovered poets.

There are a lot of rewards in writing haiku," she continues. "First, the satisfaction of expressing thoughts and feelings in a creative manner as a better understanding and appreciation of poetry. Then, with a smile and a twinkle in your eye, she offers a closing thought: Look around your world, is there waiting to be found a haiku by you?"

Volunteers Never Regretted Moment Of Being Involved

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent

"There's a feeling of bringing happiness into somebody's life. You have a sense of being needed and the joy of being appreciated!" so said Josephine Grassi, as she spoke of her work with the RVSP's (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) of Seminole County. Josephine (Jo) isn't the only member of her family deeply involved in RVSP activities.

Orlando, her husband, drives a bus for the group, giving transportation to volunteers who need it. He also devotes many hours of strictly volunteer work, even acting as Santa Claus at the Christmas Store this year. Jo and Orlando joined the RVSP's when they were first organized about five years ago. "We've been involved ever since and have never regretted a moment," said Jo, who supervises the Monday morning sewing group, held at the Casselberry Community Methodist Church. Jo admits she acts as friend and confessor for the 30-member group she's established. "We've become like a big family. They generally call me for information instead of the RVSP office. If they have a problem, they call me." Jo also makes the snacks and goodies that the group enjoys during their work day. Jo and her friends are all so attuned to each other's actions and behavior, they immediately sense if something is wrong. She recently noticed a change in a woman's behavior, and after checking with family members discovered the dosage of medicine she was taking was incorrect. Jo also finds time to take her friends shopping or to pick up prescriptions. "Keeping people's interest alive is a point both Jo and Orlando agree upon. "Even though some of the members may be handicapped in some way, that doesn't stop them from enjoying the group activities. On our own time, we make clown dolls and from the money raised, we treat ourselves to a luncheon. It's the little things we're doing that helps us all active and gives a reason for living," said Jo. The Grassi's have three grown children and a delightful dog, Mimi. Jo makes her own clothes and enjoys crocheting. Orlando likes to hunt, fish and shrimp. He also has a vegetable garden each year. But the theme of their everyday life seems to be making other people happy. "How do you put a price on love? It is in giving you receive. When a woman recently smiled at me and said, 'You bring sunshine into my life' — then what needs to be added," she said.

Secret Workshop $$ To Benefit School

The Santa's Secret Workshop at Casselberry Elementary was a success, according to Liz Gail, PTA chairman of Ways and Means Committee.

Over $400 profit was made which will be used to pay expenses for the children's field trips and other projects.

"The children got a kick out of it," Liz said. "One smart consumer even asked, 'Do you gift wrap?'"

Happy Birthday to Miss Lisa Miller of 600 Laurel Way. She was treated to a special night out with her dad, Bob. The couple celebrated her 11th birthday by dining out and later going for a birthday sundae.

Lisa also had a birthday party at her home. Susy Carasona, Jerry Campbell and Lisa won the dance contest.

Other guests were Sheri Elston, Dennis Slover and Ronnie Gardner. The white birthday cake was decorated with petite daisies and edged in pink.

Also attending the event were Articia Howard, Jennifer Drexler, and Debbie Prince, who all stayed later for a slumber party.

Betty and Don Young, former area residents rolled into town in their mini-motor home last weekend for a visit. The couple recently returned from Oregon and now are living in Cocoa Beach.

"Don keeps in shape by riding his bike to work every day," Betty said. "I rode it four miles to work in Oregon until the snow got too deep," commented Don.

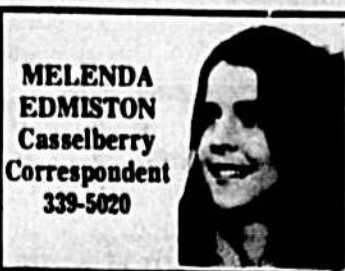

All area youth are invited to attend a series presented to the St. Augustine Church Senior High School Group on Sunday evening.

Speakers are drawn from area organizations which deal with the problems of youth. Last week, Kathleen Perry spoke on the Beta House in Orlando.

This week, several teens who belong to Alcoholics Anonymous will be the guest speakers.

Brendon Lawlor from the Juvenile Detention Center will speak on January 28.

Club Scout Pack 546 will hold its Pinewood Derby Monday.

A beautiful centerpiece of five candles, a white Bible and red roses was the focal point of her talk. The flickering of the candlelight was to symbolize the love, Velvet's friends have for her, which will live on, and the roses of the friendship and the church. Velvet gave to the Garden Club.

The club viewed a movie entitled "Nature in Conservancy." The efforts of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs to save land and preserve Tiger Creek in Lake Wales was discussed by the members.

Mrs. Maxine McGrath, Mrs. Charlotte Otto and Mrs. Mary Monas were the hostesses.

Happy Birthday to Claire Wright who celebrated by dining out with her husband, Bob, and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowman.

Congratulations to Patricia Wright who recently received her GED diploma at Seminole Community College. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wright, and sister, Mrs. Teresa Arias came from Miami to attend the graduation.

The "Over 30's" and "Under 30's" of St. Augustine Church will have their own Super Bowl game Sunday when they play football, at 2 p.m., at Casselberry Elementary School field.

Publicity Procedure

The Herald welcomes organization and personal news. The following suggestions are recommended to expedite publication:

1. Releases should be typed (lower and upper case), double spaced, and written narrative style (third person).
2. Do not abbreviate.
3. A contact person's name and phone number is necessary.
4. Keep releases simple.
5. Organization releases (the program should lead the meeting account) must be submitted no later than two days after the event.
6. Advance notices should be submitted one week prior to publication date.
7. Photographic coverage requests should be made one week in advance.

CITY COUNCIL

Mrs. Christine Jones was guest speaker at the City Council of Beta Sigma Phi recent meeting. Mrs. Jones presented the future plans for the Seminole County Children's Village.

The village is being established for mentally retarded citizens and will be located in Seminole County. The home will need public support. Donations can be made to the village or through a BSP member.

The January meeting was held at First Federal of Seminole and President Helen Hamner had all chapters review the plans of the upcoming Valentine Ball. Tickets were given out to chapters by Gamma Lambda Chapter and may be purchased by contacting BSP members for the annual event.

THETA EPSILON
Members of Theta Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi recently traveled to Cassadaga to hear psychic Anne Gehman. Miss Gehman talked with several members describing relatives and past and present experiences.

In And Around Lake Mary They Enjoyed Every Minute Of Vacation In Exciting Vegas

Our end of the year five days vacation in Las Vegas was just fantastic.

This is the city where life goes on at night and continues throughout the day. You get very little rest or hardly any at all. The gorgeous shows, the food, drinks, keep you going all day long, and the main attraction? The slot machines.

The minute you step in one of those casinos, they are facing you. Immediately you feel this hypnotic trance saying to you: "please feed me. I need your coins." Take your choice. The expensive ones or the cheap ones. And you play it all hoping that your good luck is with you.

Pretty soon the machines get fatter and fatter and your pocketbooks skinner and skinner. That was my luck! My husband Larry was busy playing poker and black jack trying to keep up with my losses, to no avail. He lost! Anyway, the beautiful shows, the terrific food and the breathtaking casinos on the Strip made our stay. We enjoyed every minute of it.

With us for this trip were my sister-in-law and her husband Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black from Chanute, Kansas.

It is more than fair to mention the January party at the Forest Grove at the Keenagers Club with an attendance of 180 people.

Our congratulations to Ted and Fran Reina, the couple in charge of the overall arrangements for this party. Thanks to their hard work, nothing was overlooked. They did a perfect job!

The decorations throughout the club house were centered around their theme "Out in the Sun." The tables were decorated with a program job thanks to Marion Mensing, Alice Swenson, Marge Lokenhart, Jean Potter, Marion Finmore, Lou Lambert and Ted and Fran Reina.

They worked for days making the decorations — a saucer moon with an astronaut at its side with the flag in his hand greeting the people at the main entrance. Hanging from the ceiling were silver stars, planets, the sun and the earth. Decorating the tables as centerpieces were silver rockets with astronauts and the glass windows around the clubhouse had comets and stars, a beautiful sight and a very artistic job.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. (Betty) Lindmeier are busy and happy these days. Their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Rod (Gail) Munford are here visiting them from Canada with their children Scott, Kerri and Brad.

Another daughter, Lee will have a plant exchange at their next meeting on Valentine's Day at the home of Mrs. F. E. Donaldson. A pot luck luncheon will be served.

Ladies interested in joining the club are asked to contact Jo Ann Decker, 322-1005, or Kay Sassman, 322-3283, for information.

Congratulations are in order for Douglas Gehman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. (Lola) Gehman.

The Seminole Community College has selected Douglas along with 37 more students from Seminole County to appear in the "Who's Who" guide in American Junior Colleges for its annual publication.

Nominations are based on the students' academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extra curricular activities and potential.

For six years Doug has been a very active member of the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Dept., serving as president for two different terms of one year each during the years of 1976 and 1978. Keep up with the good work Doug!

Also our congratulations to Mark Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holland of Lake Mary. Mark, a senior at Seminole High School, just won the annual "Good Citizenship" contest sponsored by the Sally Harrison Chapter of the D.A.R. in Sanford.

Word from Susan and John Whichel is they needed to return to Boca Raton to recuperate after an exciting visit with family and friends in their former hometown, Lake Mary.

Their days were filled with lots of tennis. Susan has become quite a star in Boca. The highlight of their visit was an elaborate party given by Connie and Charles Fox.

The Lake Mary Garden Club

will have a plant exchange at their next meeting on Valentine's Day at the home of Mrs. F. E. Donaldson. A pot luck luncheon will be served.

Ladies interested in joining the club are asked to contact Jo Ann Decker, 322-1005, or Kay Sassman, 322-3283, for information.

Rejected Minister Is Being Punished

DEAR ABBY: I am an ordained minister in the Presbyterian Church. I have tried in all good faith to fulfill my duties as a husband and father (we have two young children), but my efforts have been rejected by my wife.

She left me for another man. Soon after, she decided she wanted our house and children (but not me), so she petitioned the court and was awarded temporary custody of the children plus possession of our home. This meant that I, who had cared for the children after she deserted us, had to pack up and leave.

Abby—this automatic favoritism the courts have toward mothers is unjust. My wife has shown herself to be unfaithful and unfit to raise the children. Yet I am the one who is being punished.

I want my house and children back. What should I do? (P.S. Yes, I have a good lawyer.)

BACHELOR FATHER
DEAR FATHER: You say you have a good lawyer. Good. You need one. Take his advice. Be patient. The wheels of justice sometimes grind slowly. Practice what you preach: "The Lord never gives us a heavier load than we can carry."

DEAR ABBY: In response to the dieter who finds it tough to turn down dessert-pushing hostesses, may I offer the following solution: When the insistent hostess brings on the dessert, simply say, "Sorry, I'm allergic to it." Then add, "It makes me break out in fat!"

It's straight to the point and it's true.

WEIGHT WATCHER
DEAR WATCHER: Thanks for a timely reminder to take off those extra five pounds we put on over the holidays. I've already done it, which entitles me to the "no-belly prize."

DEAR ABBY: I borrowed $200 from a friend 14 years ago. Nothing was said about interest at the time.

I am able to pay the money back now. My friend says I owe her interest because if I had borrowed from the bank I would

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OOL

For Sunday, January 21, 1979

YOUR BIRTHDAY January 21, 1979 You may be exposed to some character-building situations...

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may be a bit too dictatorial today for your own good...

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Getting others to pull together could be extremely difficult today...

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Normally you're the outgoing type who likes to share things...

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Any bright ideas you have about your home or things related to your family should be put to rest today...

IT'S FROM THE ALUMNI FUND...
THE ALUMNI FUND? WHAT DO THEY WANT?

"DEAR FUTURE ALUMNUS: AS YOU NEAR THE MIDDLE OF YOUR JUNIOR YEAR, NO DOUBT YOU ARE ALREADY BEGINNING TO FEEL A SENSE OF GRATITUDE TOWARDS YOUR COLLEGE."

WE ARE?
"WHAT CAN YOU POSSIBLY DO TO RE-PAY THE COLLEGE FOR THE VISTAS IT HAS BROADENED, THE OPPORTUNITIES IT HAS PROVIDED? WELL, THE ALUMNI FUND IS ONE BIG WAY."

"YES, YOUR EARLY GIFT WILL INSURE THAT TODAY'S SOPHOMORES WILL ENJOY THE SAME HIGH STANDARDS OF EDUCATION IN THEIR JUNIOR YEAR AS YOU NOW DO IN YOURS."
I DON'T BELIEVE THIS...

"IT'S UP TO YOU. THE BALL'S IN YOUR COURT. PLEASE GIVE GENEROUSLY."
I JUST DON'T BELIEVE IT! I'M HERE ON SCHOLARSHIP, FOR GOD'S SAKE!

"P.S. FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE, YOUR GIFT CAN BE DEDUCTED FROM YOUR SCHOLARSHIP."
YOU GOT A LIGHTER ON YOU?

Prince Valiant
by Hal Foster

Our Story: ALTHOUGH OUTNUMBERED, HROTHGAR ORDERS HIS MEN TO BEACH THE SHIPS AND FORM RANKS ASHORE. AGUAR HAD ALWAYS FAVORED PEACEFUL NEGOTIATIONS AND SUCH A MILKSOP COULD ALWAYS BE BLUFFED.

HROTHGAR WALKS SLOWLY TOWARD KING AGUAR: "IT IS A FOUL DEED FOR AN OLD, DECREPIT LECHER LIKE YOU TO SEEK MARRIAGE WITH A PURE YOUNG GIRL LIKE MY LITTLE DAUGHTER, SIGRID."

"YOU SHOWED ME THE WAY. DID YOU NOT FORCE EARL CNUTE TO SIGN A MARRIAGE AGREEMENT GIVING YOU HIS YOUNG DAUGHTER IN WEDLOCK? DRAW, YOU HYPOCRITE!"

AGUAR MOVES HIS SHIELD SLIGHTLY TO HIS LEFT. HROTHGAR TAKES ADVANTAGE OF THE OPENING AND AIMS A MIGHTY SWING, BUT HIS WRIST IS CAUGHT ON THE CROSSPIECE OF AGUAR'S SWORD HILT, NEARLY BREAKING HIS ARM.

MANY A DAY WILL PASS ERE HROTHGAR CAN AGAIN SWING A WEAPON. BUT HE COULD STILL HATE.

KING AGUAR CALLS HIS SECRETARY WHO HAS ALREADY MADE OUT AN AGREEMENT FREEING THE LADY GRACE FROM THE FORCED MARRIAGE CONTRACT.

THAT NIGHT PRINCE ARN SEES THE SIGNAL FIRE THAT TELLS HIM GRACE IS FREED FROM HROTHGAR'S CLUTCHES AND HIS HEART DANCES.

NEXT WEEK - Hrothgar's Return

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

YOU DID.

COMPLAINTS

ARE YOU THE STORE'S COMPLAINT DEPARTMENT?

IT SHOWED ALL DAY YESTERDAY, MY BLOW STICKS IN DAMP WEATHER.

AND MY TOAST BURNED THIS MORNING. THAT'LL BE ONE DOLLAR, PLEASE.

THAT'S RIGHT, PAL...

... MY FEET HURT, I CAN'T SLEEP AT NIGHT

WHY DO I HAVE THE FEELING THAT I DIDN'T GET MY MONEYS WORTH THIS?

AMAZING SPIDER-MAN

NOTHING'S GONE RIGHT SINCE SPENCER AND HIS STAFF-- AWH SOON MUSCLED IN!

UNTRUE, PARTNER! DIDN'T HE DOUBLE OUR BUSINESS BY HIRING THE WALL-CRAWLER?

BUT WHERE IS SPIDER-MAN? WHY DID HE DISAPPEAR?

FUNNY THING-- IT SEEMS LIKE EVERYBODY MISSES SOMEONE...

MR. JAMESON, HAVE YOU SEEN PETER PARKER?

WHERE ARE YOU GOING, LOVER?

I BETTER SEE WHAT HAPPENED TO MONK!

YOU'LL FIND OUT, MISTER-- SOONER THAN YOU THINK!

NOT LATELY-- AND THAT'S HOW I LIKE IT!

NEXT: NEVER STRIKE A SPIDER!

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Some time ago, a mother of several boys wrote to say that there were spots on the bathroom floor...
My daughter-in-law, who has a fine sense of humor, has three boys. She put this sign in her bathroom:
"My aim is to keep this bathroom clean. Yours will help!"
M.F.

DEAR HELOISE:
Will you please suggest that all parents make sure their child's purse or billfold contains some identification?
We have found two little girls' purses in the last few weeks with no I.D., no "lost" ad in the papers, so no way to return them.
Karin Thomsett

DEAR HELOISE:
For extra stability, the bottles could be filled with sand, colored pebbles, water, or whatever!
As a last beautifying touch, I covered the shelf with adhesive-backed plastic to match the rest of my cabinets. It has been in its little home for at least a year-and-a-half and is most satisfactory.
So is your hint! A real boon to other metal cabinet owners, especially, though it could be used in all types of cabinets. The filled bottles would add to the shelf's attractiveness, as well. Hugs and kisses, Karin, for sharing your tip.
Love, Heloise

DEAR COFFEE PAL:
When I have out-of-town visitors, I get out my camera. I try to get a snapshot of them arriving -- at the airport, unloading the camper, or whatever. I snap other interesting shots during their visit and try to get one of their departure.
Then I buy one of those little pocket albums in the dime store for about a half dollar. After the guests are back home and settled down again, it is a lovely reminder of their trip to receive this cute album with about a dozen snapshots in it.
Oh, yes! The last shot in the album is one of me waving goodbye and saying, "Y'all come back!"
M. Schulz

DEAR HELOISE:
When taking your pillow along when traveling, use a brightly colored pillowcase on it.
It is not likely to be left behind.
V. Marshall

DEAR HELOISE:
I used to bite my nails often until, one day after polishing them, I put perfume on them. I forgot about having it on until I put them in my mouth and started to bite my nails, as usual.
Boy! What an awful taste! Since then, I keep the perfume on them and have finally broken myself of the fingernail-biting habit.
You can use your favorite fragrance and it makes you smell heavenly while serving as a reminder to not bite your nails.

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. Arm is moved. 2. Purse is smaller. 3. Picture is missing. 4. Drums tick is moved. 5. Letter T is missing. 6. Rug is missing.

● SEE HERE! I saw a man behind a man. I saw a man before. Between the two there were in view exactly half a score. Yet, I can say, and this is true, though strange it seems to be, that only one, and he alone was all my eyes did see. Subject is the native of an isle famed for its cats. Who?

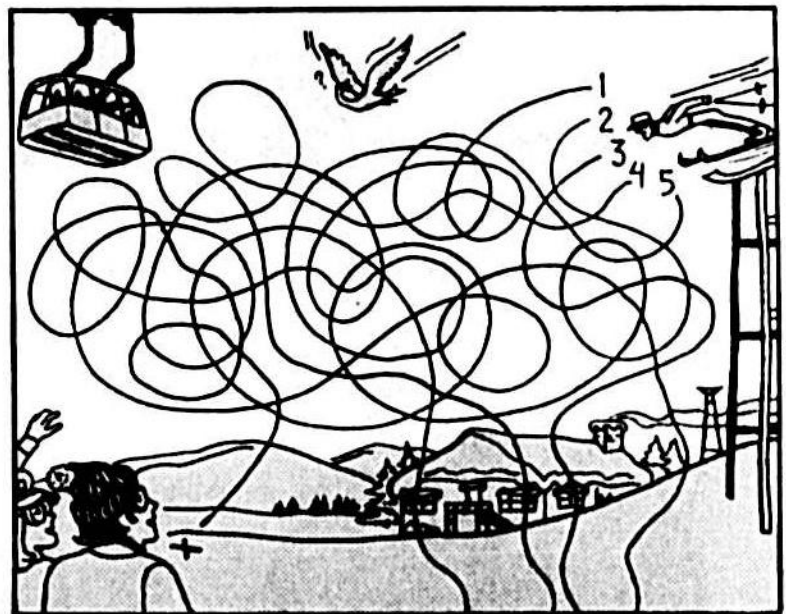

- A Manxman, native of the Isle of Man, famed for tailless cats.
- Raise one leg straight forward. Place it on a thigh-high table or chair. Now, untie and retie your shoe, if you can. Some can; some can't.
- Fill blank: "___ is one percent inspiration and 99 percent perspiration," said Tom Edison. The missing word is "genius."
- Tongue Test! Six sweltering sculptors shed soiled and sweaty smocks for spic and span sport shorts and spotless short-sleeved shirts.

CARD TRICK IS SUM FUN

Ask someone to pick a card, ace to 10. Have the person double the number, add 1, multiply by 5, and then add 1 for spades, 2 for hearts, 3 for diamonds, 4 for clubs. Given the result, you can name the card!

Here's how: The first number (or numbers) of the total reveals the card. The last number is 5 more than the sum added for the suit.

It works every time. Give it a try.

GIVE IT A GO! X marks the spot where our ski-jumping pal above hopes to land pronto. Can you see him through?
