BRIEFS

Economic Indicators down

WASHINGTON — The Commerce Department reported today its index of leading economic indicators fell 1.2 percent in November and economists said the report is another reflection of an economy in recession.

The index, which measures the performance of a variety of economic indicators ranging from factory orders to building permits, slipped to 139.7 last month after decreasing a revised 1.3 percent in October and 0.8 percent in September.

The October revision stemmed largely from weaker orders for consumer goods and materials.

Economists said the report is a further proof that the economy has slowed considerably in recent months.

"There was another real thud when they fell," Robert Dederick, chief economist at the Northern Trust Co., in Chicago, said of the indicators. "I look at this as one more signal that the recession is clearly in full bloom and has far to go. The basic thrust was decidedly toward further weakness."

Eight of the 11 indicators that make up the report contributed to the overall decline, which economists said shows the downturn is widespread throughout various parts of the economy.

Money still unclaimed

TALLAHASSEE — Lottery officials in Tallahassee said this morning that no one has come forward to claim the $154,254 Fantasy Five prize with the winning ticket sold in Longwood on Monday.

"We figure they'll probably wait until after the new year," said a Lottery spokesman. "It usually takes people a little time to get their affairs in order before they come for a big prize."

Six players matched all five winning numbers in Monday's drawing. So far, none have come forward according to lottery officials.

NEW YORK — ABC edged out NBC in the ratings race last week, with Dolly Parton's Christmas special and Monday Night Football giving some holiday cheer to the network.

Although NBC had the highest rated show with "Cheers," ABC's Monday Night Football took second place for the week of Dec. 17-23. ABC also had the fourth and fifth-highest rated shows with the Dolly Parton special and "Roseanne."

For the week, ABC posted an 12.8 rating and a 22 share, while NBC posted an 11.9 rating and a 20 share. CBS was slightly behind, with an 11.7 rating and a 20 share.

Ratings watchers said ABC's ratings were boosted by a special Saturday night playing of "Monday Night Football," which came in 47th place for the week. Despite its ranking near the middle of the pack. See Television, Page 5A

In the theater

HOLLYWOOD — "The Godfather Part III" outgunned its competition, garnering seven nominations Thursday for the 48th annual Golden Globe Awards including best picture, best director and best supporting actor.

The runner-up in number of nominations was Kevin Costner's "Dances With Wolves," which received six, including best picture, best director, best actor and best supporting actress. Golden Globes are voted in 24 categories by 86 members of The Hollywood Foreign Press Association, representing 48 countries.

In addition to motion picture categories, the association ballots include nominations for television series, TV mini-series and films.

The Golden Globe Awards are considered by some as precursors of the prestigious Oscars of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, whose nominations will be announced in February.

This year's Golden Globes will be awarded at a Beverly Hills banquet. See Movies, Page 5A

Gasoline prices plunge

Jeff Murray of Highway Oil, Sanford, pumps gas at $1.19 per gallon.

Gas price falls to lowest level since September

By VICKI DESORMIER
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — The average price per gallon of gasoline in Seminole County reflected the national trend downward as the cost of a gallon of regular unleaded gas hit as low as $1.199 at some stations this morning.

Most stations were slightly below the national average price of $1.289 per gallon of regular unleaded gas.

Melvin Hall's Airport Blvd. Chevron was selling gas at $1.239 per gallon.

"It's been dropping about two cents a day over the last few days," said Hall of his cost. "One day we had a four cent drop."

Hall said he has lowered his prices at the pump seven cents over the last week.

At his service station at 3001 U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, premium unleaded gas is selling for $1.299 per gallon and the superior grade of gasoline is selling for $1.399 per gallon.

Regular unleaded gasoline sold nationwide dropped by 8.9 cents a See Gas, Page 5A

Man awarded $10,000 for loss of dog

United Press International

BELLEVUE, Wash. — A couple that sold dogs to laboratories for medical research was ordered Thursday to pay $10,000 to a man who gave them his mutt in the belief they were going to give it a good home on a farm.

In 1986, Don Johnson rescued a mistreated dog named Soshia, but a few months later he realized his job was keeping him away from home so long that he was not able to take proper care of her.

He put an ad in the local paper, and when a jovial middle-age couple named Donald and Judge Peters responded and promised that Johnson could visit Soshia on their farm any time he wanted, he carried her out to their See Dog, Page 5A

Top Lake Mary cop runs city

By LACY BOWEN
Herald People Editor

LAKE MARY — City Manager John Litton is in surgery. Finance Director Robert Lockridge is off for the day. Who's running Lake Mary?

Director of Public Safety C. W. Lauderdale said yesterday Lake Mary residents need not panic. He has things under control. He's been in charge before, for a full year before Litton was hired.

"There's no need to panic when the general is out. That's what colonels are for," he said.

Lauderdale explained that he was not supposed to speak to the press about anything other than matters of public safety.

"Any other matters have to be authorized by the city manager. I guess that's me. I give myself permission to talk to you," he jokingly said.

Lauderdale said the job of running the city entails coordinating activities of department heads.

"We all know the city charter. Everyone here is capable of filling in," he said. "I just want to assure the taxpayers it's a very simple procedure. Virtually any of our department heads can make do."

"He just said not to do anything he wouldn't do and if we sell the place get a good price for it," Lauderdale said.

Litton had circulated copies of procedure to department heads, according to Lauderdale.

"We all have copies of the S.O.P." (standard operating procedures) Lauderdale said. "Each department head does his thing. If there's a problem, they come to me for a year or so. If I don't know, we wait for Mr. Litton or Robert Lockridge, who is actually the acting city manager, to return."

What would the city manager for a day like to try in his new capacity?

"Deploy the city to the midwest," he laughed and said. "Seriously, I don't intend to do anything out of the ordinary. Things are running smoothly. I don't know of a single citizen that has not gotten an answer to a question today."

State must act now to save Florida waterways

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — If north Florida's waterways are to avoid the pollution that has turned many south Florida rivers into large ditches, state leaders must act now, a university researcher said Thursday.

"Most of the northern rivers are in good shape because population pressures aren't there yet," said Dean Jue, a research associate in the Florida Resources and Environmental Analysis Center at Florida State University.

"We can ensure that many issues that affect rivers in the southern part of the state never crop up in the north."

Jue and his research team studied sections of 50 Florida rivers — more than two-thirds of them north of Gainesville — to determine water quality and to develop profiles on nearby land use, recreation sites, plant and animal life and historical and archaeological resources.

The 452-page report, compiled for the Florida Department of Natural Resources, presents a river-by-river assessment of current river resources and the human pressures that may affect their future.

Pristine rivers still exist in south Florida, but many others have been polluted by runoff from farms, factories and cities. That runoff has turned some of the waterways into large ditches, destroying resources such as plants, animals and historic structures.

"Up north, we need to coordinate and identify resources to protect before the population crunch hits," Jue said. "We need to know what's there so we can protect it."

The study cites the need for better monitoring of water quality and pollution sources, improved evaluation of plant and animal life along river corridors and increased knowledge about water sources and movements.

Water movement is critical to preserving north Florida waterways because numerous underground passageways allow water used in one location to flow to other areas and be used again hundreds of miles away, Jue said.

"In general, the rivers don't appear that bad," Jue said. "More than anything else, the major concern is a lack of uniform direction See Waterways, Page 5A

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Child-care worker arrested

SEFFNER — A state child-care worker has been arrested for having sex with two teenaged boys at a group home for mentally handicapped children with criminal records.

Larry Barton, 22, was a night guard at the Hillsborough Alternative Residential Program center, run by the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Hillsborough County sheriff's deputies arrested Barton on charges he had sex with a 16-year-old and a 17-year-old in a storage room last Friday. The boys told authorities that Barton covered a surveillance camera with a cloth so the other guards would not know what he was doing.

Barton turned himself in Thursday. He is charged with two counts of sexual activity with a child in custodial authority. Each count could bring a 30-year prison term.

Authorities said a background check was run on Barton before he was hired and he had had no problems with police.

Teacher to undergo psychological tests

MONTICELLO — A Jefferson County teacher who hit a student in the head with a brick-sized rock has been ordered to undergo psychological evaluation before he can return to the classroom.

Charles Parrish was suspended over the incident last March, and then the school board decided not to rehire him. The 14-year-old boy required four stitches.

But Parrish was defended by the local NACCP, which launched a school boycott over the affair. The boycott eventually fizzled out.

In a Dec. 10 ruling, the state Education Practices Commission ordered a letter of reprimand be placed in Parrish's personnel file. Before he returns to the classroom, he must be evaluated to determine if he is a threat to children.

Additionally, Parrish would be placed on probation for three years and take classes on how to administer discipline.

Parrish said he hit the student after the boy grabbed him from behind. A group of students had begun rough-housing while walking across the school yard.

Concert causes big stir

JACKSONVILLE — A concert featuring the controversial Miami rap group 2 Live Crew is causing a bigger stir with city officials than with residents.

Fewer than 500 tickets have been sold for Sunday's show at the 11,000-seat Jacksonville Coliseum.

Some city councilmen and other political figures have been leaning on Mayor Tommy Hazouri to cancel the show in the city-owned facility. Former state Rep. John Lewis said groups like 2 Live Crew "add absolutely nothing to our community standards." He said everything possible should be done to stop them.

Hazouri said he conferred with city lawyers, and they said the city cannot lock the doors of a public facility to the group.

Some undercover vice officers and a lawyer from the state attorney's office will be in the audience during the show.

Chief Assistant State Attorney John Delaney advised city officials that if they ignore 2 Live Crew, the group will "die on the vine and disappear."

Three members of the Miami rap group were acquitted of obscenity charges in October for performing songs from their album, "As Nasty As They Wanna Be," in a Broward County nightclub. But a Fort Lauderdale record store owner was convicted for selling the album, which a judge ruled obscene, to an undercover cop.

One lead found in diary

YULEE — The only lead in the Christmas Eve murder of a New York woman on Interstate 95 is an entry in her diary referring to someone named Bob.

Shirley Lewis, 62, was found shot to death in her car parked on an on-ramp at Yulee. She was traveling to visit a relative in Deerfield Beach.

Her sister in Olean, N.Y., said police told her Lewis kept a travel log in which she wrote, "Bob is now riding with me."

Cot. Rocky Minter of the Nassau County Sheriff's Department said Bob may be a hitchhiker Lewis picked up, but they really don't know. She was known as a good Samaritan and friends in New York said she planned to skip motels and rest in her car if she got tired.

Few state contracts awarded to women

TALLAHASSEE — Businesses owned by minorities and women received as little as 4 cents of every $10 in state contracts let between 1985 and 1989.

That was the finding of a study commissioned by the Legislature and delivered to the state this week.

The state let $4 billion in contracts in each year of the survey period. But despite a state law requesting agencies to give 15 percent of their business to firms run by minorities or women, most of the contracts went to white men.

Mr. USA 1988 guilty of smuggling

United Press International

WEST PALM BEACH — Mr. USA 1988 has pleaded guilty to smuggling anabolic steroids into the country from France and said he used the drug for 11 years to promote muscle growth.

John Defendis, 32, faces a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine when he is sentenced Feb. 27. He entered his plea Wednesday before U.S. District Judge James Payne.

"I used steroids, not to get an edge on the competition, but just to compete with the competition," he said after court, in referring to the prevalence of the drug in professional bodybuilding.

Defendis said he underwent withdrawal from steroids after he was arrested by federal agents in May. He founded a support group called Steroid Use Rehabilitation and Education, a group which was the subject of a story in a recent edition of Muscle Training Illustrated.

He said the group has helped four people attempting to get off steroids.

The use of anabolic steroids has been linked to liver, heart and kidney damage and other health problems. Defendis said his primary problem with the drugs has been hair loss. He said he has had hair transplants since his arrest.

The U.S. Customs Service began investigating Defendis for importation of steroids in April, when a customs agent in Atlanta called the West Palm Beach office with a tip about a package containing steroids from France that was addressed to Defendis, assistant U.S. attorney Jeff Levenson said.

A postal inspector delivered the package to Defendis May 2. Defendis signed for it and agents obtained a search warrant and seized the package at the home.

The package came from a French bodybuilder. The man won a Mr. France title after staying with Defendis while training, Levenson said.

Defendis said the man, who he knew only as Paul, offered him money as compensation for his stay, but Defendis turned down the offer.

"Then he said he would send some steroids," Defendis said.

Cities suffer, feds boast state grants

By JANET BASS
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The federal government boasted Thursday it has sent states nearly $4.5 billion in anti-drug block grants since 1987 and claimed victory in unplugging obstacles that have delayed the flow of money to states.

However, the U.S. Conference of Mayors was unimpressed with the report by the Office of National Drug Control Policy, contending the money is not making its way to local governments in cities such as Miami and Jacksonville, which are bearing the violent brunt of the drug crisis.

John Walters, acting director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy presented the results of an eight-month examination of the federal government's three large anti-drug block grants to states. The grants are for law enforcement efforts, distributed by the Justice Department; treatment, distributed by the Department of Health and Human Services; and prevention, distributed by the Departments of Education and Health and Human Services.

The report said the three grant programs have provided nearly $4.5 billion to state and local anti-drug efforts since 1987 and that the annual funding level has more than tripled since 1988 to $1.4 billion in 1991.

It also said federal block grants to local projects "has become significantly more efficient and timely" in recent years.

Twelve to 18 months could go by between the president's budget request to Congress and actual awards to states. And delays also are caused by state legal and fiscal requirements, the report said. "And by far the longest delay in the process of block grant expenditure involves congressional appropriations," it said.

"Nonetheless ... delays in block grant funding transfers have been sharply reduced since 1987," the report said, adding states have improved their delivery of funds to local projects.

"This report demonstrates that more federal resources are reaching more local anti-drug programs, more quickly, each year. The federal-state-local partnership created by these programs is working," Walters said.

Change habits after quitting cigarettes

United Press International

GAINESVILLE — Smokers who make New Year's resolutions to quit cigarettes can prevent weight gain by making a second resolution to change their lifestyle, a university researcher said Thursday.

"Smokers often fail to understand that they are in control of their life and have the power to make any changes they want," said Jill Weisenberger, a University of Florida nutritionist who developed a smoking cessation program for the Alachua County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

By noticing when they light up, smokers can prepare to substitute an activity that doesn't involve eating, Weisenberger said.

"Some smokers mark the end of a meal by sitting back and having a cigarette," she said. "When they quit smoking, they can avoid the temptation of second and third helpings by immediately removing themselves from the table and finding something else to do."

People gain an average of seven to 10 pounds when they quit smoking, most within the first two months, Weisenberger said.

Ex-smokers are prone to gain weight because metabolic rate, which increases with nicotine, returns to a normal level and they may eat more food as a substitute for having a cigarette in their mouth, she said.

Weisenberger recommends ex-smokers keep cinnamon sticks in their cigarette cases instead of candy because they have no calories.

She also suggests that people gradually decrease fat in their diets by doing such things as eating lean cuts of meat, trimming the skin from poultry and broiling or baking foods instead of frying them.

The average person who drinks two cups of whole milk a day could lose as much as 13 pounds in a year just from switching to skim milk, Weisenberger said.

"People don't have to give up chocolate cake or apple pie — they just need to eat them in smaller quantities or less often," she said. "There's no such thing as a good or bad food. There's usually room for all foods."

Little research has been done on changes people can make when they quit smoking not to gain weight, Weisenberger said.

In a study comparing the weight patterns of ex-smokers who received nutrition advice with those who did not, Weisenberger found that the informed group gained an average of nine pounds less.

These seven ex-smokers gained an average of only 2.6 pounds in the six months after they quit, compared to 11.9 pounds for the five people who were not given nutrition information, she said.

The holidays can be a difficult time for people to maintain their weight when they kick the habit because it is tough to make changes in diet, Weisenberger said.

"Smokers who do choose the New Year should make sure they really want to quit and not just simply need a resolution because they made one last year or their friend has one," she said.

"Even if people quit smoking and gain weight, they have still increased their chances for a longer life, Weisenberger said. They would have to gain 50 pounds before the risks of obesity outweigh the risks of smoking cigarettes, she said.

"And even if they try to quit smoking and don't succeed, it's not an automatic failure," Weisenberger said.

SANFORD — So far this year, 27 persons have died in Seminole County traffic accidents, according to the Florida Highway Patrol in DeLand.

Statewide the New Year's holiday traffic death toll is predicted at 49, the FHP reports. The holiday period begins at 6 p.m. today and ends at midnight Tuesday, for a total of 102 hours.

"This means Florida will have one highway traffic death every two hours and eight minutes," FHP Director Bobby R. Burkett said.

Most fatalities during the holiday are alcohol related. Last year 59 percent of the New Year's holiday traffic deaths involved drivers impaired by alcohol. "Even a couple of social drinks can impair a person's ability to drive," Burkett said.

Besides the possibility of death or injury from drunk driving the economic effects are far-reaching. A first time DUI conviction can easily cost the defendant $7,000 or more in court costs, attorney's fees, fines and insurance increases. This doesn't include hidden costs, such as time lost from work and home. The inconvenience of losing one's driver's license and the embarrassment of facing one's family and co-workers can take a far greater toll than mere dollars, Burkett said.

Suspension of a driver's license is one effect felt instantly under a law enacted this year, which allows immediate suspension of the license of a person having a blood alcohol level of .10 or more, the legal intoxication level.

"No one can force an individual to drive while under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Drivers have to take responsibility for their own decisions," Burkett said.

He added all available state troopers will be on patrol for the holiday with efforts focused on alcohol-related offenses and speeding.

The public is urged to report sightings of suspected drunk drivers to lawmen. Use of seatbelts and child restraints are required by law and urged by the FHP.

Florida restaurant among tops

United Press International

NEW YORK — Twenty three restaurants including a roadhouse in Kansas City, Mo., have joined the annual Conde Nast Traveler's list of the nation's most distinguished restaurants selected by the magazine's food editor and staff.

The 50 restaurants on the list published in the January edition of the travel magazine are located in 14 states and the District of Columbia and range from the elegant and sophisticated to Stroud's roadhouse in Kansas City and Mustard's Grill, a cafe in tiny Yountville, Calif.

The restaurants are selected by food editor Mimi Sheraton and randomly tested by editors of Conde Nast Traveler. The quality of the food accounts for about 75 percent of a restaurant's score and service, cleanliness and decor also are considered.

New York City led the list with 11 restaurants followed by Los Angeles, San Francisco, Washington, D. C., Chicago and New Orleans with more than two restaurants each.

The winners were:
• Vincent Guerthault on Camelback in Phoenix and Cafe Terra Cotta in Tucson.

• California: The Lark Creek Inn in Larkspur; The Ivy, 17 Ermitage, Restaurant Katsui, Sushi Ko and Tulipe in Los Angeles; Saint Eatopie in Manhattan Beach; Campton Place Restaurant, Postrio and Tadich Grille in San Francisco; John Ash & Co. in Santa Rosa; and Mustard's Grill in Yountville.

• Connecticut: Bertrand in Greenwich.

• Washington, D. C.: The Bombay Club, Jean-Louis at the Watergate, Occidental Grill.

• Florida: Mark's Place and Rascal House in Miami.

• Hawaii: La Mer and Roy's in Honolulu.

• Illinois: Carlucci, Prairie and Topolobampo in Chicago and Cafe Provencal in Evanston.

• Louisiana: Commander's Palace, Galatoire's, and Henri in New Orleans.

• Massachusetts: Jasper's and L'Espalier in Boston.

• Missouri: Stroude's in Kansas City.

• New York: Arcadia, Bouley, Da Umberto, Dawat, Felidia, La Grangeville, Le Cirque, Lutece, Palm, Sammy's Roumanian Steak House, and San Domenico in New York City and La Panetiere in Rye.

• Pennsylvania: The Garden in Philadelphia.

• Rhode Island: Al Forno in Providence.

• Texas: The Mansion on Turtle Creek and The Riviera in Dallas and Cafe Annie in Houston.

• Washington: Fullers in Seattle.

A stamp of disapproval

Postal employees earn about 25 percent more than the average American worker, yet they somehow feel inadequately compensated. They are seeking a 22 percent pay increase over the next three years, unlimited protection against inflation, a 35-hour work week and an additional paid holiday beyond the 10 they now receive.

And these are just a few of the more than 50 demands brought to the bargaining table by the American Postal Workers Union and the National Association of Letter Carriers in negotiation of a new labor contract with the management of the U.S. Postal Service.

The APWU and NALC represent more than 90 percent of the postal service's 660,000 unionized employees, who have been working without a contract since Nov. 20. Because management and the unions are far apart on terms of a new agreement, arbitrators have been called into thrash out a binding agreement.

The shape of the new postal labor pact will not only have a substantial impact on the future productivity and efficiency of the postal service, but also on the overall health of the U.S. economy. If the new pact is overly favorable to labor (which now accounts for 83 percent of the postal service's operating expenses), postage costs are sure to skyrocket in the near term, which in turn will mean a large increase in a major cost item for U.S. companies.

Companies anticipate postage increases, much like automobile drivers expect pump prices to rise. But when prices rise dramatically in the short term — a likely scenario if the postal unions hold sway in contract negotiations — it produces a shock that in certain cases can be felt throughout the economy. We have seen this happen with oil. The same could happen with postage.

Indeed the postal service has calculated that the cost impact of the union's wage proposals would exceed $50 billion and require a 72 percent increase in first-class postage over the next three years, from the present 25 cents to 43 cents. In the real world, a company would dare not raise the cost of its product by much more than the rate of inflation. Yet the postal service is talking about a price increase four or five times that of inflation.

But, then, as we have mentioned here before, the postal service does not operate in the real world. It has a publicly protected monopoly over the mail and therefore is able to pass on the expense of its excessive labor costs to the American people.

Americans have been willing in the past to accept incremental increases in postage costs. But they will look unfavorably upon the level of increase that would provide postal unions the raises they are looking for. Postal service management must keep the prices it charges for mail in line with price increases in the real world.

A 10-count cure

People who explode in rage or go into a slow burn when the customer ahead of them in the supermarket express checkout lane has 11 items in her grocery cart, one more than the maximum allowed, may be driving themselves into an early grave. Just as many health-conscious people were giving up tobacco and red meat, the New York Times reports in a recent article that anger has suddenly emerged as a new threat.

Follow-up studies on medical and law school students, originally tested in the 1960s, found that those who had exhibited the most hostility in personality tests during their student years tended to die early. According to Dr. Redford Williams, a behavioral scientist at Duke University Medical Center, only 4 percent of the easy-going types were gone by age 50 while 20 percent of their more curmudgeonly classmates had expired. Redford and a number of other scientists say hostility, suspiciousness, aggressiveness and a volatile temper lead to heart disease and other health disorders.

Women face a double whammy. Not only is anger hazardous to their health, but trying to suppress it can be even more so. For females, at least, there's a measurable biological benefit to letting the pot boil over from time to time rather than allowing angry pressure to build without release. Oddly enough, for men, self-control produces no apparent additional ill effects.

For both sexes, whether it's suppressed or not, irrational anger can kill. When a person is angry, the researchers say, powerful chemicals — bile bullets, one might call them — shoot through the bloodstream. The heart pumps faster, arteries are stretched and livers and kidneys pummeled. The red-faced, teeth-clenched consumer of all this venom frequently dies prematurely.

Scientists say there is a cure to anger: practice serenity. Next time you find yourself in the express lane behind the woman with 11 items in her grocery cart, don't get mad. Don't even get even. Breathe deeply, count to 10 or 11, and read the back of the cereal box.

Bush hopeful Gorbachev holds firm

WASHINGTON — President Bush is keeping a watchful eye on the internal upheaval in the Soviet Union and hoping that the perestroika reform movement will not be buried in a power struggle.

The tug-of-war was highlighted with the stunning resignation of Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, a leader in the drive toward democracy, against the hardliners in the Red Army, the KGB and the Communist Party.

Shevardnadze warned of the "approaching dictatorship" without naming names but it was clear that he was sending up a red alert to his close friend, President Mikhail Gorbachev, whose regime has been buffeted by domestic turmoil and rival politicians, headed by Boris Yeltsin, president of the Soviet Republic of Russia.

Gorbachev is trying to keep a leg in each camp as he tries to hold the Soviet Union intact against revolutionary forces which are seeking total independence for each of the 15 republics.

He has sought more power for the presidency to keep control. He also has threatened to use force to quell the secessionist movement, not only in the Baltic states, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, but other parts of the Soviet Union where ethnic rivalries and dissidents are seeking total independence from the central government in Moscow.

To compromise the push for greater autonomy, Gorbachev is offering a looser federation to the republics which would still owe loyalty and allegiance to Moscow.

Meantime, the hardliners in the military, sensing a growing weakness of the Central Government, are trying to recapture their power, and the prospect of a coup staged by the top officers is not out of the realm. They have not accepted their loss of power or the demise of the Eastern European bloc without firing a shot, thanks to Gorbachev and Shevardnadze and those who stood mute as the Berlin Wall collapsed and the communist rulers were deposed.

The empty shelves, food shortages, and the freedom that the beginning stages of a transformation of a controlled society to a free market are also playing havoc with the best laid plans for an orderly transition.

Gorbachev is the first to say he's got troubles, to put it mildly. Survival is probably first on his agenda, and compromises obviously are in the making with cannons to the right of him and cannons to the left of him.

It took Bush a long time to decide that he could do business with Gorbachev, and even longer for him to declare that the Cold War is over. Now he has thrown in his lot with the Soviet leader who he believes has been on the right track to form a more open society.

But Bush and other top officials are apprehensive that the Soviet Union may revert to the autocratic ways of the past as those who are bound to lose power seek to hold on, at any cost.

In some ways Gorbachev is in a Lincolnian position, trying to hold the union together. The Shevardnadze resignation is a blow to the reformers, and to Secretary of State James Baker who had formed a strong personal relationship with the Soviet official.

Shevardnadze also was a strong supporter of the U.N. resolutions to force Iraq's Saddam Hussein to pull out of Kuwait. In fact, Saddam said that his resignation was a positive sign.

He was sending up a red alert.

State budgets tight in 1991

WASHINGTON — 1991 will not be an easy year for most of the nation's governors. At least 30 of them are faced with the largest budget deficits their states have ever seen. The remedies available are few and uniformly painful.

As the U.S. economy nosedives into a possible recession, state revenues plummet. Meanwhile, demand for state services, especially unemployment benefits and welfare payments, skyrocket. Further, unlike the federal government — which has the luxury of running massive operating deficits — 49 of the 50 governors must, by law, produce balanced budgets. In almost every state, revenues will be below projected levels by hundreds of millions or more.

New York, which saw the economic slowdown coming and budgeted accordingly, is nonetheless $1 billion short. Virginia, which budgets in two-year cycles, did not forecast the economic downturn. As a result, they are estimating a two-year revenue shortfall of $1.8 billion. Minnesota and Michigan are each $1 billion in the red. North Carolina is almost as badly off. California's Gov.-elect Pete Wilson is looking at a shortfall of $4.3 billion.

Six months ago, the New York state fiscal budget was balanced. In only six months it has gone to an expected $1 billion deficit.

So Gov. Mario Cuomo devised a plan of major spending cuts and called the legislature back into a grueling special session. It ended with state lawmakers approving $1 billion in spending cuts and revenue increases.

The cuts were not easy. New York state agency budgets will be slashed $375 million. State employees will have to forego a week's pay, which will be ultimately given back in retirement income. Another $125 million in cuts will come from Medicaid; and $190 million will come from cuts in education.

This will put even more pressure on cities and localities in New York State. They will have to come up with the funds they are losing from the state in areas like education. State taxes will not increase under the approved plan, but cities will be faced with the choice of either raising their taxes or doing without essential services.

In Virginia, Gov. L. Douglas Wilder previously cut $1.3 billion from his suggested budget for the coming year. Now, however, even gloomier revenue projections makes an additional $500 million cut necessary. So Wilder has ordered a state employee pay raise rescinded, and asked state agencies to cut their budgets by 7.5 percent. He has also handed out pink slips to a thousand state employees.

All this, though, translates into less than a third of the cuts he must still order. Even relatively tiny Maine is in the same boat. The state's annual budget is $1.8 billion. About $700 million remains to be spent in the current fiscal year. Now, because of revenue shortfall, the state must cut $110 million out of what was to be spent over the next six months.

Maine's Gov. John McKernan is scrambling to find an answer to an almost impossible problem.

A problem that many governors have — especially those who ran election campaigns this past November — is that they have painted themselves into a corner with election promises. Many ran, and won, on blistering non-new-tax pledges. Now they find themselves saddled with massive deficits, but without the ability to increase taxes.

One example is Michigan's new Republican Gov. Jim Engler. Engler made taxes his No. 1 campaign issue and narrowly beat incumbent Democratic Gov. Jim Blanchard, who had raised taxes during his four-year term. Not only did Engler promise not to raise taxes, but he also promised to roll back property taxes while significantly increasing state spending on prisons and education.

Engler says that "leadership" will get Michigan through its coming economic problem. He still insists that he can make up a billion-dollar revenue shortfall — "while still increasing corrections and educational spending — by cutting fat from the budget."

Perhaps the governor with the most unusual problem is Oregon's Gov.-elect Barbara Rogers.

She was the envy of many other governors because Oregon's economy appears resistant to the current economic downturn. Its revenues are forecast to remain strong so long as the recession is not very deep and very long.

However, this past November, Oregon voters passed a sweeping tax-cutting initiative. Now Rogers must find $650 million in spending cuts over the next year to make up for tax revenue shortfalls. In fact, her cuts will have to be even sharper than in some states with severe economic problems.

At least 30 governors are faced with the largest budget deficits their states have ever seen.

IRS workers not all squeaky clean

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service — the people who expect perfection from you — are no angels themselves. Between April and September 1990, investigators from the Treasury Department looked into 1,700 cases of alleged bribery, smuggling, embezzlement and theft by Treasury employees, and the vast majority of the culprits work for Treasury's biggest division, the IRS.

One IRS staffer, angry at an acquaintance who had sued him, retaliated by making his enemy the subject of a tax investigation. The tax man with an ax to grind controlled all aspects of the investigation and had unlimited opportunity to wield the intimidating power of the IRS.

Another IRS employee used inside information to tip off a friend — a drug trafficker — that IRS criminal investigators were looking into his financial dealings. Then the employee helped his friend draw up bogus papers to hide his assets so the IRS couldn't seize them. Congressional sources told our reporter Paul Parkinson that ethical lapses in the IRS are widespread and that a "culture of lawlessness" abounds. Treasury investigators have their hands full keeping track not only of the IRS, but of the 155,900 total employees under the Treasury umbrella. Here are some of the cases uncovered in a six-month period:

— For five years, a senior U.S. Customs Service official took bribes from Japanese citizens who wanted to enter the United States without having their bags inspected. — Another Customs inspector took a $350 bribe in exchange for not reporting the theft of two huge shipments of coffee valued at $100,000. In this case, in addition to being dishonest, the inspector had undervalued his services. — A former staff assistant at the Customs Academy bilked $7,200 out of the government by filing false requests for financial assistance in the names of former academy students. She also forged her boss' signature to collect money for travel expenses that she never incurred. — A former agent for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms helped hide a drug fugitive. In exchange for money, the agent got a deputy sheriff's badge for the man so he could evade Customs while carrying drugs across the border. Not all the crime is white collar. Some involves violence. Treasury investigators looked into more than 370 cases of assault and murder involving department employees between April and September.

While the Treasury Department is examining its own problems, Congress is taking a look from the outside. Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., headed a 30-month investigation into the IRS by the House Government Operations Committee. "We pulled the covers off a situation that has been intolerable since the 1980s," he said. "This is only the tip of the iceberg; we have not exhausted all of the cases out there."

A Treasury spokesman told us that, in spite of the large number of investigations into Treasury workers, the department is "not alarmed." Many of the investigations are inconclusive and no disciplinary action is taken. But inside the department, officials are scrambling to stem the tide of crime. Two task forces have been established to teach managers how to recognize the "early warning signs." The commissioner of Customs has added 68 special agents to the Internal Affairs offices around the nation. And the IRS, taking "the lecture route," has made 17,000 of its employees sit through "integrity awareness" briefings in the past nine months.

Ethical lapses in the IRS are widespread and a culture of lawlessness abounds.

Food banks establish part of help network

By TOM TROY
United Press International

Food banking, a concept that was once radical, has become so well-established that one food-banking agency has come out with products under its own label.

Food banking was founded at a St. Vincent de Paul soup kitchen in Phoenix in the 1960s. Since then, it has spread throughout the country as a way of channeling waste and excess inventory produced by the food industry to charitable organizations.

The biggest food bank is Second Harvest, founded in Phoenix in 1979 and now located in Chicago to be near the nation's food industry. It is a national network serving 183 food banks around the nation and, by extension, 40,000 charitable agencies providing help to the needy.

Linda Saran, spokeswoman for the non-profit Second Harvest, said it moves 400 million pounds of food annually, equivalent to about 400 million meals, and with what would have been a retail value of $600 million.

"I think we look at our organization as more of a stopgap and Band-Aid to help people who would normally slip through the cracks to get the assistance they need to be able to put food on their table," said Saran.

She said the people helped range from the chronically indigent to those who are temporarily disabled or unemployed. Second Harvest operates by obtaining donations of surplus food from food producers and directing it to their member food banks based on population and level of poverty in their region.

The food banks are all certified by Second Harvest and are non-profit organizations. They are audited for quality standards, and are, in turn, required to monitor the quality standards of the 40,000 agencies whom they supply.

Second Harvest and other food banks fill what is often the most difficult need in getting food to the hungry — collection and distribution.

A Pennsylvania food bank director said the hunger crisis in the Soviet Union, for example, was due not to shortages but to failures in moving the product around.

"We have some of those same problems in this country, like Gasaway, West Virginia. They have no local advantage so we have to send food from here to there," said Tim Whelan with Central Pennsylvania Food Bank in Harrisburg. "So we don't always have the type of distribution we'd like to have to target the need."

Whelan said when he joined Second Harvest in 1982, there were 14 food banks on the East Coast. Today there are 75. Nationwide, the number grew rapidly from 30 to today's 183.

gallon in the past nine days to its lowest level since early September, the American Automobile Association said Thursday.

"They don't tell me why the prices are going down," Hall said. "I'm just glad that they're doing it."

He speculated that the prices would continue to drop until at least Jan. 15 and then the market would depend on the situation in the Persian Gulf.

"I guess we'll have to see what happens there," he said.

The national average price of $1.282 a gallon represents the lowest price recorded by AAA since Sept. 5, when the price of regular gasoline sold at self-service pumps stood at $1.273 a gallon, the organization said.

The drop in price since Dec. 18 also represents the largest decline recorded by AAA since Iraq invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2, triggering the Persian Gulf crisis and a runup in price of oil.

The prices at the Sanford Amoco, 3790 Orlando Dr. in Sanford, have gone down about nine cents per gallon since last Saturday, according to an employee there.

"They've been going way down," she said. "And fast, too."

The price of a gallon of regular unleaded at that station is $1.249, premium unleaded is $1.349 per gallon and the superior grade gas is $1.449 per gallon.

He never saw Soasha again. His calls and letters to the Peters went unanswered. Johnson later learned that a dog of the same breed and weight and listed as Shasha was among the animals sold to the University of Washington laboratories the same week he had given her to the Peters. Soasha was put to death about two weeks after Johnson gave her up.

Johnson felt he had been lied to, that the couple intended all along to sell Soasha for research, but police and prosecutors advised him that he had little chance to win a legal action. He decided that if he pressed his case and lost that it would only encourage other people to enter the animal-procurement business.

But in 1989 Johnson filed a complaint against the Peters, who were doing business as M.R. Services and The Pet Connection.

Coverage terms undecided

Defense Department negotiating with news media

By JOHN ALOYSIUS FANELLI
Boston Globe

WASHINGTON — On the eve of the U.S. invasion of Panama, Defense Secretary Richard Cheney delayed deployment of a press pool of journalists until after the nightly news shows had gone off the air.

By the time the reporters and cameramen got to Panama — four hours after the American attack — it was "too late to cover the decisive U.S. assaults in that brief war," according to a Pentagon analysis.

There weren't enough helicopters to ferry the press to battle, the media were barred from key combat zones and a malfunctioning fax machine caused long delays in the transmission of what written news there was.

To prevent another such fiasco, Cheney's aides are now negotiating with the media over the terms of coverage for war in the Persian Gulf.

If Vietnam was the first war that television brought into American living rooms, a conflict in Iraq could be the first war broadcast live, or virtually live, via minicam.

Should American forces claim quick and easy victory, the resultant reports could be a public relations bonanza for President Bush and the military. But if the armed forces are forced to slog through a bloody war of attrition, such open coverage could lead to widespread revulsion.

With both sides mindful of what is at stake, the negotiations have taken time. Still unanswered are a number of questions that will define the word "access" and determine the quality and immediacy of news reports.

How many newscasters will be allowed to travel to the front lines? How soon, after the fighting starts, will they get there? Will they be able to get their stories and pictures through the turmoil of war and back to the United States? What kind of ground rules or self-censorship will exist?

The preliminary ground rules now under discussion call for U.S. government "security review" of written and filmed pool reports of battle, mandatory military escorts for all journalists in the field and a firm restriction

There was not a single photograph of American guys killed in Panama, and that is what they are striving for: no blood. Wars are just terrible, and the reality is ugly, and politicians don't like people seeing that because it costs them votes. g against transmission of material that could identify American casualties before the Pentagon has a chance to notify next of kin.

"There have been instances in which next of kin have first learned of the death or wounding of a loved one through news media reports," the prospective ground rules note. "The anguish that sudden recognition at home can cause is out of proportion to the news value of the photograph or video."

Should the rules take effect, and given the formidable technical challenge of lugging heavy high-tech equipment and generators through the desert in the wake of speeding tanks, it is highly unlikely that anything but the most distant and featureless aspects of the war could be included in live broadcasts — at least at the start.

Even print reporters chafe at such restrictions.

"Essentially, it is all designed to block coverage of dead Americans," said Patrick Sloyan, a reporter for Newsday who has recently returned from Saudi Arabia.

"There was not a single photograph of American guys killed in Panama, and that is what they are striving for: no blood. Wars are just terrible, and the reality is ugly, and politicians don't like people seeing that because it costs them votes."

American political and military leaders have tried to manipulate the press since the 19th century, when Gen. Winfield Scott shut down the Associated Press's telegraph report of the Union rout at Bull Run. Strict military censorship ruled the work of correspondents in World Wars I and II but was abandoned in Vietnam, resulting in open coverage and what is seen variously as the press's most courageous, timid or treasonous hour.

Since Vietnam taught generals and politicians the enormous influence of the media on wartime public opinion, the record of relations between the U.S. government and the press over military action has not been good.

Post-mortem analyses of the American invasions of both Grenada and Panama concluded that the Reagan and Bush administrations were able to manipulate the news and reap favorable publicity — in part because reporters were kept from the front lines in the early stages of battle.

As the American armada approached Grenada in 1983, White House spokesmen labeled reports of an imminent invasion as "preposterous" and no reporters were allowed on the island until most of the fighting was over — leaving the networks with positive images of rescued medical students and little or no footage of the cost: the 18 dead U.S. troops.

Responding to criticism, the Pentagon approved the concept of a standing pool of reporters and cameramen who would be sworn to secrecy and placed on call for American military action. The system worked well during five years of peaceful experiments, including the Persian Gulf shipping crisis in 1988.

But then came Panama. "From the outset, the newsmen and women in the pool met one frustration after another," the Pentagon post-mortem concluded.

The pool reporters were especially infuriated when "ABC personality Sam Donaldson ... arrived with an entourage" and received the red-carpet treatment, apparently because of pressure from Washington, said the Pentagon report.

Reports from the current deployment of U.S. troops are mixed. Fred Hoffman, a retired newsmen and Pentagon employee who authored the Panama analysis, said Cheney "really hasn't learned a lesson."

The study found 1,348 archaeological sites and 2,000 historic structures at or near rivers. Nearly 70 percent of the river sections had less than 1 percent of their lengths surveyed for archaeological sites.

"Rivers are a great place to find not only endangered species and unique biological communities, but they're also a very good spot to find archaeological resources," Jue said. "Most resources associated with life, either past or present, are likely to be irreplaceable along a river should that river's conditions be drastically altered."

WORLD BRIEFS

Yugoslavia vice president casts cloud

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Yugoslavia's vice president said a critical meeting of the crisis-ridden country's senior political leaders was not likely to resolve the nation's growing financial morass because of major disagreements over economic policy.

Vice President Stipe Mesic said at a news conference Thursday serious differences over economic policy would pit the four republics with nationalist governments against Communist-ruled Serbia, Montenegro and the province of Vojvodina, and the Marxist-led military.

"I expect no results from this meeting," said Mesic. Croatia's representative on the collective head of state. He is due to assume the nation's annual rotating presidency in May.

Albanian opposition angered

TIRANA, Albania — Members of Albania's first legally sanctioned opposition party threatened to call mass demonstrations to press demands for an election delay that would allow more time for campaigning.

At a stormy meeting Thursday of the Democratic Party, speaker after speaker angrily denounced Marxist President Ramiz Alia for his refusal to postpone multi-party parliamentary elections from Feb. 10 until May 2.

Opposition activists complained they have insufficient time before Feb. 10 to prepare, and launch a national campaign against Alia's Albanian Party of Labor, which faces its first real electoral test since seizing power in 1944 and creating what was Europe's most repressive communist state.

Delegation from India due here

NEW DELHI — An Indian delegation will visit the United States early next year to discuss loan terms with the International Monetary Fund, an Indian government official said Thursday.

Analysts say India will be seeking at least $3 billion from the IMF under two different loan packages. News reports here say India could seek around $600 million under the Compensatory and Contingency Financing Facility and the remainder under a stand-by arrangement from the IMF.

Algerians protest

ALGIERS, Algeria — More than 100,000 Algerians marched through the capital Thursday to protest plans to ban use of foreign languages in all official business.

Protesters said the proposal stems from political and religious intolerance and from excessively rapid Arabization of this North African country.

Hocine Ait-Ahmed, leader of the opposition Front of Socialist Forces, accused the government of "complicity" with Islamic forces who he said championed the law.

The language restriction would have its greatest affect on French speakers. French is the working language for many residents of this former French colony, but is considered elitist.

It competes with Berber, spoken by nearly a third of Algeria's 27 million people. Under the proposed law, Arabic must be used in all official transactions and schools by 1997, with fines of up to $10,000 for violators.

Growth slows in Japan

TOKYO — Japan's economic growth rate is gradually slowing and entering a period of sustainable expansion for the medium term, according to a government report released Thursday.

But the report, issued by the cabinet-level Economic Planning Agency, insisted there are "no signs that the pace of growth will slow down substantially."

The nation's economy, buoyed by steady consumer spending and continuing corporate investments in new plant and equipment, in December entered the fifth consecutive year of growth for the first time in two decades, the report said.

Bush: gulf situation 'just right'

BY HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — President Bush pledged "total confidence" in his top commanders in the Persian Gulf and says the situation there "is just right" despite suggestions that some U.S. troops may not be ready for combat when the U.N.-mandated deadline for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait expires.

Asked about reports that Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney and Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told him that some troops would not be prepared for combat by the Jan. 15 deadline, Bush told reporters at the White House Thursday: "I had a very good briefing from Dick and Colin and the situation is just right."

The president also said: "I've got total confidence in the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the secretary of defense, and the commanders out there with whom I talked over the holidays."

Bush has ordered more than 400,000 U.S. troops to the gulf region to complement a force of roughly 220,000 from the nations that comprise the international coalition aligned against Iraq.

Questions surfaced about troop readiness last week when a top U.S. commander in the gulf region said some U.S. ground forces may not be in place and ready for combat until after the United Nations deadline.

Asked if U.S. troops would be prepared to go to war, Bush declined to answer, saying it was "too provocative."

But Bush said the United States was prepared to implement the U.N. resolution authorizing the use of force to drive Iraq from Kuwait if it has not withdrawn by the mid-January deadline.

Asked if a compromise as part of diplomatic solution is possible, Bush complained "That's the problem."

"Everybody wants me to compromise."

Soviet Congress: Hardly democracy, never boring

BY GERALD HADLER
United Press International

MOSCOW — The Congress of People's Deputies, a key piece in Mikhail Gorbachev's marionette democracy, is a legislature as unique as Russia is a land — sprawling, raucous, disorderly and brutal.

In its two years of existence comprising four dramatic sessions, the compliant Congress has delivered Gorbachev ever broader powers, including his executive presidency last March.

On Thursday the legislators briefly tugged back on the strings, initially rejecting Gorbachev's hand-picked candidate for vice president, Communist functionary Gennady Yanayev, whose name was alone on the ballot.

But Gorbachev insisted Yanayev was the only man he could work with and resubmitted his candidacy. The deputy voted again, this time approving Yanayev, former chief of the docile trade unions and Communist Youth League, or Komsomol.

New votes are normal in the raucous Congress, as are the arbitrary rulings by Congress Chairman Anatoly Lukyanov and the switching off of speakers' microphones.

On Thursday, one deputy defended his right to pocket the single-name Yanayev ballot and not turn it in. When he said he did not want to be part of the "same spectacle that elected Gorbachev president" last March, Lukyanov fairly shot out of his presidium chair.

"Cut off his microphone, cut it off, you don't call the election of the president a spectacle, go sit down, sit down," Lukyanov said, scowling.

The Congress, elected two years ago in multiparty balloting to serve as a bridge to a real parliamentary system, is so large with 2,250 members

Analysis

(should they all attend) that it requires a score card to know who's who.

A new scorecard was provided for the just concluded Fourth Congress of People's Deputies — a glossy 563-page book selling at $10 with the names, pictures and biographies of each deputy.

Some deputies bought as many as eight copies. As soon as breaks in the proceedings were announced, the legislators trotted up to Gorbachev asking that he autograph their copy.

During the first Congress in May 1989, the hall lacked electronic voting, and the ballots were tallied by monitors. Now electronic voting machines have been installed. The deputies carry their multi-colored voting cards in their pockets.

But that has not solved all problems. Several deputies, perhaps ashamed at their votes that go into the record under their name, said the machine had erred, or that they put the card in the wrong slot, and demanded corrections.

"Fine," Lukyanov said, "but you can't wait three days, and must do it immediately by a letter request."

Deputies don't always make it back in time from the breaks, and one speaker upbraided his colleagues for "wandering around outside in the halls or smoking in the toilet area."

The proceedings can be brutal, reflecting the Russian propensity to slay those with whom they disagree.

Andrei Sakharov, the former dissident who became the liberal voice of the Parliament, was pilloried at one session by conservatives for criticizing the army's actions in Afghanistan. Sakharov died during the December 1989 Congress.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Contaminated denture adhesives found

ALBANY — New York's consumer watchdog and the federal government Thursday teamed up to warn denture wearers that their adhesive may contain excessive amounts of a cancer-causing chemical.

Richard Kessel, executive director of the state Consumer Protection Board, said testing of denture adhesives showed three brands with high levels of the chemical benzene, a known carcinogen.

The federal Food and Drug Administration took the state tests and concluded that three brands — Orafix Special, Brace and, to a lesser degree, Cushion Grip — have unacceptable amounts of benzene.

All three products are being recalled by their manufacturers. "While this is not believed to be an acute health hazard, it could pose a danger to denture adhesive users over many years," Kessel said.

Other denture holding products shown to contain low levels of benzene are Fasteech and Fixodent, he said.

Five other brands tested, CVS, Confident, Effergrip, Orafix Original and Super Pull Grip showed no detectable amounts of benzene, Kessel said.

FDA announces milk testing program

WASHINGTON — The government next year will begin a nationwide program of testing milk for traces of drugs that farmers use to treat sick cows, the Food and Drug Administration announced.

The agency will randomly select five of 250 target locations in major "dairy states" to test unpasteurized milk, the FDA said Thursday. Initially, testers will look for the presence of eight so-called "sulfa drugs" and three tetracycline drugs.

"These drugs are of most concern because they have been widely misused," the FDA said in a statement. "As newer analytical methods become available, milk will be monitored for additional drugs."

While the FDA did not specify which drugs it is targeting, most such drugs are not approved for use in dairy cows and health officials and consumer groups have raised concerns about the effect residues of the drugs might have on humans.

Clinically dead baby revived

PITTSBURGH — A 3-year-old girl who was revived after being found clinically dead in a snowdrift was well enough Thursday to sit up in her hospital bed and fuss at her nurses.

Doctors at Children's Hospital said Brittany Eichelberger was alert, suffering from frostbite of her hands and toes and congestion in her lungs.

"When we first took her to the hospital, I didn't think she had a chance because she just looked so bad," said Brittany's mother, Melinda Eichelberger. "Now, she's fighting with the nurses, telling them to get away."

The blond, blue-eyed toddler was found lifeless in a snowdrift early Monday, apparently several hours after she wandered outside her Elkina, W.Va., trailer home in her underwear.

In Rockford, Ill., doctors Thursday decided against amputating the frostbitten legs of a 2½-year-old girl left in a relative's car for 17 hours on Christmas night in sub-zero weather.

Kandy Shoulders was in fair condition at Rockford Memorial Hospital, hospital spokeswoman Laurie Miller said. The child's mother, Stephanie Shoulders, said she was left in her grandmother's car by accident.

Explosion, fire, halts stock trading

NEW YORK — An electrical transformer exploded early Thursday in the Wall Street district, setting off a fire, delaying trading on both stock exchanges for more than two hours and possibly exposing at least 28 people to dangerous PCBs.

Flames shot eight stories high after the transformer blew up beneath the sidewalk outside the 54-story building that houses the stock markets' computer center.

Between 100 and 200 late-night office workers fled the building into freezing temperatures after the 3 a.m. explosion.

Trading on the New York and American Stock Exchanges, usually open at 9:30 a.m., did not get started until 11 a.m. after preliminary test results found no signs of PCB contamination in the building housing the Securities Industry Automation Corp., or SIAC, the computer center serving both exchanges.

VDT safety law signed by city

By PAMELA A. HOOLEAN
United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — Declaring it as the worker safety issue of the 1990s, Mayor Art Agnos signed into law the nation's toughest video display terminal safety legislation.

Union leaders Thursday promised they now would turn the battle for regulation of computers in the workplace to the state and federal arenas.

The San Francisco measure, which will take effect in 30 days, affects 56,250 San Francisco workers in private businesses that employ more than 15 people. The figure does not include city workers, who are also affected.

The law is intended to reduce the risk of ailments caused by prolonged use of a computer terminal. Medical problems have included eye strain, muscle fatigue and carpal tunnel syndrome, an injury that can incapacitate the hand and that often requires surgery.

Agnos agreed to sign the measure after prodding labor and business leaders to compromise on amendments that will make the ordinance less costly for businesses and extend to four years, from two, the time they would have to fully comply.

"This legislation, and the accompanying amendments, will insure that San Francisco's workers are protected from painful injuries in a way that won't drive business out of the city," Agnos said.

VDT safety regulation "is the worker safety issue of the 1990s," Agnos said.

Paul Viracelli, a Service Employees International Union spokesman who pushed for the law, said it is estimated the changes mandated by the ordinance will cost private business $14 million over the next 30 months and increase to $19 million to fully comply in 42 months.

The cost to the city is expected to be $231,550, he said.

The legislation protects employees in San Francisco who spend more than 50 percent of their work hours in one week working at a VDT.

It requires employers to provide adjustable workstations and chairs; sets minimum design standards such as lighting and use of anti-glare screens; requires 15-minute alternative work breaks after two hours of continuous VDT work; and requires that workers are trained on health and safety concerns associated with VDT use.

The law has attracted national attention because it is the country's only municipal ordinance regulating the use of computer terminals in private business.

Snow storm shuts down East Coast this morning

By KEN BROWN
United Press International

Snow paralyzed the East coast from Virginia to Massachusetts Friday prompting many people to stay home from work in this quiet work week while more arctic air headed toward the West coast and chilly weather continued in the Plains.

More than 5 inches of snow fell on New York City's Central Park Friday while higher amounts were on the ground in suburban areas, prompting the National Weather Service to tell residents to stay home Friday.

"We knew it was going to snow, but there seemed to be a second storm system out of North Carolina that is causing the secondary snow," NWS meteorologist George Klein said. "It will stick and then taper off tomorrow."

The storm already more than doubled the 68-year-old snowfall record for the date in the city and was on its way to becoming the worst storm in nearly four years.

Snow moved north and east during the night, dumping up to 10 inches of snow in parts of Maryland and Pennsylvania and taking aim on southern New England, prompting winter storm advisories for Connecticut.

Early morning commuters faced snow covered and slippery roads Friday morning in southern New England. Sanding and salting crews were out working the highways, but sidewalks were extremely slippery. The snow was the first of the season in Boston and conditions were expected to deteriorate through the day.

Nearly a foot of snow fell on West Virginia and winter storm warnings were posted in Delaware and most of Virginia, where temperatures hovered near the freezing mark.

With schools closed and holiday vacations common, the week between Christmas and New Year's is traditionally one of the slowest of the year, so many people opted to stay home from work rather than battle the weather.

The storm set two weather records in Philadelphia. When the flakes began to fall about 3 p.m. Thursday it was the latest date in the season for the first snow, shattering the old record of Dec. 14, which was set in 1923.

Fortune teller in evil spirits scam sought

United Press International

ARLINGTON, Va. — Police are investigating the case of a maintenance worker who was bilked out of his life savings when he asked a fortune teller to remove a curse on him.

Police want to speak with other people who may have been victims of the scam two months ago, police detective James Griswold said.

Griswold told The Arlington Journal on Wednesday that a Spanish-speaking woman between 35 and 40 set up a fortune teller's shop in Arlington.

A maintenance worker at an apartment building believed he was having bad luck so he went to the fortune teller two or three times, Griswold said. The man, who was not identified by police, had been told "someone had put the evil spirit in him." The fortune teller lit candles, told the man to strip to his underwear and rubbed his body with raw eggs.

She then told him that to remove the curse she would have to bless his money overnight. She asked him for $20,000 so the man came up with $6,000 of his own money and borrowed $10,000 from friends, which was close enough for the fortune teller.

The victim left the money with the woman and went home.

"He came back at noon the next day and she was gone," said Griswold, who works in the police department's white collar crime unit. "She had disappeared. That was his life savings and probably the life savings of several other people."

IN BRIEF

YOUTH BASKETBALL

Sanford girls basketball

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department will offer a girls basketball league for players ages 10-15. Registration and tryouts will be held at Lakeview Middle School on Saturday, Jan. 5, 1991 starting at 2 p.m. Registration fee is $8 and girls born between the 3-15-75 and 1-5-81 are eligible. A copy of birth certificate is required for proof of age. All girls signing up will make a team. Coaches are also needed for the girls leagues. For further information, contact Jim Adams or Jim Schaefer at 330-5697 at the Sanford Recreation Department between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 6 p.m.

FOOTBALL

Bucs, Jets play for pride

TAMPA — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers, out of the playoffs after a six-game losing streak, still have a shot at finishing second in the NFC Central and recording their most victories in nine years. They also can finish fifth — four NFC Central teams are tied at 6-9 behind the Chicago Bears. Tampa Bay, 6-9, can claim a chunk of responsibility for the logjam in the division with all but one of its victories coming against Central opponents. Outside of the division, however, Tampa Bay is 1-6 and the Buccaneers end their season Sunday against the New York Jets.

Bowden, Paterno in Blockbuster

MIAMI — Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden thinks his Seminoles might be playing the best team in the nation when they meet Penn State in the inaugural Blockbuster Bowl Friday night. "That may be true, that is, 'if Penn State isn't playing the best team in the nation,'" he said Thursday. Bowden says the two teams, both 9-2, were playing better than anyone as the regular season wound down. Eighth-ranked Penn State is riding a nine-game winning streak and No. 5 Florida State has won five in a row.

Liberty: Air Force beats OSU

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Carlton McDonald had only two interceptions and three pass deflections during the entire 1990 season. He picked a good time to double those numbers Thursday night. The first-year starter picked off two passes and returned one for a touchdown, leading Air Force to a 23-11 upset over co-No. 20 Ohio State in the Liberty Bowl. Quarterback Rob Perez scored twice from 1 yard out to lead Air Force, 7-5, and was named the game's Most Valuable Player. Ohio State, 7-4-1, had entered the game as a 17-point favorite.

COLLEGE HOOPS

Hurricanes lose in 2OT

WEST PALM BEACH — The battle of Ohio will be played out in Florida tonight, as Ohio State and Miami, Ohio, match up for the championship in the fifth annual Palm Beach Classic. In the opening game Thursday, Ohio State edged Mississippi State 82-80 in a battle of unbeaten teams. The 9-0 Buckeyes had to come from behind for their victory over the previously unbeaten Bulldogs, who now are 7-1. In the second game, Miami, Ohio, beat the host University of Miami Hurricanes 101-99 in double overtime at the West Palm Beach Auditorium. The Hurricanes' Joe Wylie led all scorers with a tournament record 39 points. He also had 17 rebounds. However, he was held to four points all on free throws the final 7½ minutes of regulation, and didn't score in overtime.

BASKETBALL

Heat gets second road win

DENVER — Sherman Douglas had a career-high 42 points and Willie Burton a career-high 27, rallying the Miami Heat to only its second road victory of the season, 124-114 Thursday night over the outmanned Denver Nuggets. The Heat, winning for just the second time in 13 games overall, is now 2-10 on the road. Control of the backboards highlighted the victory, in which four Miami players were in double figures in rebounds. Billy Thompson led the way with 12 rebounds while Ron Seikaly and Burton pulled down 11 apiece and Grant Long 10. The Heat outboarded the Nuggets 64-75.

Unbeaten Hawks two wins shy of Pizza Hut crown

By TONY DESORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO — In recent years, the Lake Howell High School boys' soccer program has had an unenviable reputation of excessively physical play and self-destructive emotional outbursts. Not anymore. Under first-year coach Anatole Popovich, the Silver Hawks are the paragon of poise and control. Not only that, but they're the only undefeated team in Seminole County, advancing to 6-0-2 after beating Dr. Phillips 1-0 in the quarterfinals of the Pizza Hut Invitational at Boone High School Thursday night. Lake Howell advances to play defending Class 4A state champion Miami-Killian in one semifinal at 2 p.m. while Valrico-Bloomington (runners-up to Killian last year) plays Clearwater Central Catholic (defending Class 2A state champion and ranked No. 1 in the nation in a preseason poll) at 6 p.m. in the other. Killian advanced by beating perennial state power Tampa-Leto 2-1 on penalty kicks at Boone's Norton M. Baker Field. At Bishop Moore High School, Bloomington eliminated Lyman 3-2 and CCC bounced Daytona Beach-Seabreeze 4-0. In consolation action Thursday at Boone, Winter Park beat Lake Brantley 2-0 and Lake Mary blanked Boone 5-0. Meanwhile, at Bishop Moore, Oviedo got by Evans 3-1 and Bishop Moore topped Boca Raton (the defending Class 3A state champ) 2-1 on penalty kicks. Today's schedule, all of which will be played at Boone, has Lake Mary facing Winter Park at noon before the Lake Howell-Killian game. At 4 p.m., Oviedo takes on Bishop Moore with CCC and Bloomington taking the field at 6 p.m.

Three games are set for Saturday, the fifth place game kicking off at 2 p.m. and the third place game starting at 4 p.m. The championship game is set for 7 p.m.

For Chris Brown, one of three seniors on the Lake Howell roster and the scorer of the goal that beat Dr. Phillips, the Silver Hawks' turnaround is a welcome change. "I'm not complaining," said Brown, whose

Bloomington checks out Lyman; Oviedo still alive

By ROBBIE STOCK
Herald Correspondent

ORLANDO — Quality always beats quantity. Lyman, despite outshooting Valrico-Bloomington 15-11, couldn't put one in when they needed it Thursday and fell 3-2 to the Bulls in a quarterfinal match of the Pizza Hut Invitational played at Bishop Moore High School Thursday. In other action, Oviedo downed Evans 3-1 and advanced to a losers' bracket semifinal match at Boone today at 4:00 p.m.

Lyman's Greyhounds certainly didn't lose because of a lack of opportunities. They thumped left-footers, right-footers, headers and even tried to punch the ball past Bloomington goalie Erin McCray. But in the second half, nothing was going in the net.

Lyman might have lost because of a lackluster effort by their starters in the first half. The Bulls capitalized for two quick scores before the Greyhound reserves came in and the cut the deficit to 3-2 before halftime.

Two of Bloomington's goals came after Lyman defensive breakdowns that gave the Bulls easy scoring opportunities in front of the net. In two games, the Bulls have scored six goals on only 21 shots.

"It's unfortunate that we dug ourselves such a hole in the first half," said Lyman coach Ray Sandidge. "In the second half, we gave a super effort. But if you only play 40 minutes of the game (out of 80), it will be tough to win."

In the second half, Lyman recorded 10 shots on goal — one of which hit the crossbar while several others nicked it. The only time the ball entered the Bloomington net was after Frank

Kohn, Silver Hawks rebound to beat Hialeah-Miami Lakes

From staff reports

ST. PETERSBURG — Lake Howell's Josh Kohn made Hialeah's Miami Lakes High School pay for his frustration by breaking two school records and leading the Silver Hawks to 72-71 triumph in the consolation round of the Great Sun Coast Shootout at Eckerd College Thursday morning.

Kohn, who was held scoreless in the after scoring 17 first-half points against Clearwater Wednesday night, nailed seven three-pointers en route to scoring 41 points, both school records, as Lake Howell won for the seventh time in its last eight starts.

The Silver Hawks improved to 8-3 on the season and will play again today against an unnamed opponent.

Despite Kohn's outstanding performance, it took a basket by Thomas Dumps with two seconds left to pull Lake Howell from behind for the victory.

Dumps scored 19 points to follow up his 20-point, 15-rebound performance against Clearwater.

Also scoring for the Silver Hawks were Ryan Thomas (six), Joe Smith (four) and Roger Johnson (two). The Hawks hit 29 field goals for the contest and returned to normal at the free throw line by hitting 6-of-8 charity tosses. They were an uncharacteristic 8-of-14 against Clearwater.

Orangewood Christian falls

ORLANDO — Ft. Lauderdale Westminster Academy jumped to a 18-10 lead after the first period and maintained its advantage the rest of the way in taking the measure of Orangewood Christian 79-69 in opening round action of the Highlander Holiday Classic at Lake Highland Prep Thursday night.

Westminster Academy improved to 5-2 with the victory and will play Trinity Prep in a winners bracket game at 6 p.m. tonight. The loss dropped the Rams to 5-6 (6-6) for the first time this season.

Orangewood Christian will try to get back on the winning track versus Lakeland Christian at 4 p.m. today.

Ehren Walhoff, a 6-5 first team all-State player last year, led Westminster Academy with 29 points and 12 rebounds. Walhoff earned All-State honors after leading his team to the Class 1A state finals where they lost to Wymore Tech.

Also having a big game for Westminster Academy was Dan Kanell, who hit 5 of 8 three-point attempts en route to a 22-point outburst. Kanell was just named the Class 1A all-State quarterback after leading Westminster Academy to the 1A football state championship.

Also scoring in double figures for Westminster Academy was Maxwell Voe with 12 points.

IN BRIEF

Crooms classes to celebrate

Crooms Classes of the 50's Class Reunion will begin with a banquet and dance, Saturday night Dec. 29, at 7 p.m., at the Hilton Hotel, S.R. 436 and Interstate 4, Altamonte Springs. Guest speaker will be Sanford City Commissioner Robert (Bob) Thomas, a graduate of Crooms Academy in the 50s.

Dr. Stephen Wright

Sanford Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe will be the site of the Holiday Regalia for the Crooms Class of 1968. The event will get under way at 8 p.m. Guest speaker will be the Rev. Emory Blake, pastor of the Progress Missionary Baptist Church, Sanford, and also head football coach for Seminole High School. He will also be the speaker at the morning worship service on Sunday, Dec. 30, at the church. The community is invited.

The banquet for the Crooms Class Reunion of 1968 will be held at the Park Suite Hotel, Altamonte Springs, Friday, Dec. 28, at 7 p.m. Guest speaker will be Wilbur E. Hawkins, a 1966 graduate of Crooms, who is now employed by the state of Florida.

Video Express Train takes kids on entertaining journey

Local singer and actress Gina D., left, and actor Tracy Frankel are the stars in a new children's program, Cornelius Colossal's Video Express. The program is the brainchild of the Emmy Award-winning husband and wife team, Joey and Bernadette DiFrancesco of Pro Star, Longwood. Gina D. and Frankel, cast as Colossal, are cartoon characters who transform into real people and take kids on an entertaining and educational journey aboard their video express train. The trip will introduce the kids to sports, hobbies, music videos and animals. The producers plan to syndicate the program nationally but area viewers will get a sneak preview on WFTV Channel 9, Saturday, Dec. 29, at 11 a.m., immediately following New Kids on the Block.

Woman asks if lawyers date clients

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can answer my question in your column because I'm too embarrassed to ask anyone I know.

After 12 years of marriage, I filed for divorce. A little background: My husband drank heavily and became so physically abusive that if I had not taken our young child and left him, I might not have been around to write this letter. I am now in counseling and doing well.

Because there is a custody battle and a good deal of money involved, I have retained a top-notch lawyer. He's single, and I am sure he is ethical when it comes to lawyer-client relationships. So what's the problem? I find him very attractive, and when this mess is over, I'd like to date him. We have similar backgrounds and have enjoyed pleasant conversations together. I don't know if he has interest in me.

Abby, in general do good, ethical lawyers ever date their clients after their cases have been closed? And if they do, how should I proceed after my divorce is over?

HOPEFUL

DEAR HOPEFUL: Good, ethical lawyers have been known to not only date their clients, but marry them. But it might be wise to put out some feelers to learn if he's already involved.

Attraction usually works both ways, so after "this mess is over," invite him to escort you somewhere. If he's interested and available, he'll accept. Nothing ventured, nothing gained.

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is similar to "Dog Tired's" — only worse. The house next door is only 8 feet away, and the woman who lives there has 12 barking dogs! We have two small children who are constantly awakened by the dogs.

We complained to the police and were told to sign a complaint and take our neighbor to court, which we did — twice! The first was a waste of time. The second time, she was fined $30, but the dogs continued to bark. We finally decided to move, so we put our house up for sale.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

One couple came back three times to look at the house, and the last time, our neighbor let all her dogs out and they all started to bark, so we lost the sale of our house.

We are now living with my mother for the time being, as we don't know what else to do. Any suggestions?

IN THE DOGHOUSE

DEAR IN THE DOGHOUSE: I checked with the police department in your borough. They say, "Four dogs is the limit." Apparently your neighbor was able to get around it by invoking the "grandfather clause." (She had the 12 dogs before the four-dog limit was passed.)

However, when people cannot sell their home, and their children suffer loss of sleep due to the constant barking, it's time to review the law regarding the number of dogs one can keep in a residential neighborhood.

Readers, to find out what the laws are in your area, call your local animal protection league.

DEAR ABBY: I must agree with "My Turn in L.A." concerning class reunions. I, too, number among the ranks of those not included in the "in" crowd, which consisted mainly of the rich kids, the athletes and the cheerleaders.

After observing their snobishness, I had no desire to associate with them. The few friends I did have in school have remained my lifelong friends.

I recently ran into an old classmate who had never given me the time of day in high school. I must have looked prosperous, because she engaged me in a rather lengthy conversation as if we had been bosom buddies. I parted by saying, "It was nice to have met you."

She got my subtle message and replied awkwardly, "Oh, I guess we never did speak that much in school."

Abby, my most cherished and meaningful life experiences have taken place outside the walls of that school. And I can say without bitterness that I have no desire to share them with self-made strangers. Sign me...

THEIR LOSS

DEAR LOSS: "My Turn's" letter prompted a surprising number of letters from readers who echoed your sentiments. One reader recalled a remark I once made — in jest — concerning high school reunions: "Only the rich and the thin go back."

DEAR ABBY: I know this question has been the subject for debate for a long time, but I'm interested in knowing how you would answer it.

When a child goes wrong, which factor do you think is more responsible: heredity or environment?

CURIOS IN NAPLES, FLA.
DEAR CURIOS: I'd say it's 50-50. But one thing is certain. The parents will be blamed for both.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HADIT UP TO HERE IN HOUSTON: Move on. A good artist knows when a painting is finished.

Leisure Time Classes to start

Leisure programs at Seminole Community College announces that the following classes will begin during the week of Jan. 14:

Bakery I — Tuesdays, 1/15 — 2/12, 7-9 p.m. This course will teach the techniques for weaving three traditional rib-style Appalachian baskets using round and flat reed; flat bottom egg basket, potato basket and little egg basket. Students should bring the following items to the first class meeting: bucket or small pan for soaking reed, awl, small wire cutters, 4 to 6 cloths/pans, and a small towel. The reed may be purchased from the instructor in class if preferred. Cost: $35.

Gentle Exercise for Seniors and/or Handicapped Individuals — Wednesdays, 1/9 — 4/10, 10-11 a.m. at Hunt Club site or Wednesdays, 1/16 — 4/17, 3-4 p.m., B-119 on main campus. Exercise class specifically geared for seniors just getting started on an exercise program, or others of any age with special limitations such as wheelchair bound or recovering from strokes or heart attacks. Instructor utilizes many Yoga techniques, such as special breathing exercises, to help the students get gentle but maximum effectiveness out of the exercises and release stress and tension. Cost: $1 per person for the entire 14-week class.

Charcoal Drawing — Thursdays, 1/17 — 2/21, 7-9 p.m. Course emphasizes the fundamentals of charcoal sketching and working in color. Students work from still life and landscapes and are to furnish their own supplies. Cost: $35 per person.

Color, Makeup and Wardrobe — Thursdays, 1/17 — 1/31, 6-9 p.m. This course covers personal color analysis, makeup selection and application techniques, and development of an effective wardrobe. Cost: $35 per person.

Other classes beginning this week include: Floral Design Workshops: beg. & intermediate, Private Pilot Ground School, Watercolor Greeting Cards, Dog Obedience Training, Understanding Men, Relationships: Addictions or Love, and Motor cycle Rider.

City hosts party

The city of Sanford Recreation Department hosted a Christmas party for about 100 children and their parents on Dec. 20 at the Downtown Youth Center, Sanford City Hall. Open to all city children, the party featured Santa Claus who distributed stockings with toys to those attending. Refreshments were served and the young guests enjoyed a variety of games. The party was also attended by several recreation department staff members.

A New Year... A New Life

Strains of "Auld Lang Syne" fade into the dawn of yet another New Year's Day. As we discard paper hats and streamers, we resolve to discard unwelcome habits and negative attitudes.

Ahead of us are 365 opportunities to improve the quality of our body, mind, and spirit. A brand new year is about to begin! Yet, it may be difficult to alter those negative characteristics which have been so long a part of us.

There is one resolution, however, which will surely aid in reaching our desired goals. That is the practice of attending our chosen house of worship each Sabbath.

Through prayer and meditation, God will provide the strength needed to make positive changes in your life. Each week as you worship, your outlook will be refreshed and hope renewed.

IN BRIEF

New Year's revival announced

SANFORD — Pastor Max Poole and the congregation of Calvary Christian Center, 4th Street and Laurel Avenue, invite the public to attend a New Year's Revival on Jan. 6-13. International guest speaker will be Norma Woods from Charlotte, N.C. She has been a pastor, evangelist, teacher and missionary for many years and has appeared on television and radio nationwide. Come and be blessed by this servant of God. Services are held Sunday 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. and nightly at 7 p.m.

Weekly Bible study scheduled

SANFORD — A group is being formed to begin a systematic study of the New Thought spiritual philosophy. A weekly Bible study for this purpose will begin on Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 7:30 p.m. This course is being offered under auspices of the Golden Rule Inspirational Fellowship of Friends (GRIF), and is intended to lead to formation of a New Thought Christian Fellowship in Sanford. For further information and details, contact Amelia D. Geuka at 322-9513.

Missionary to speak

SANFORD — Missionary Walter A. Routh, Jr. will be guest speaker Wednesday, Jan. 2, at First Baptist Church, 519 Park Ave., at 6:25 p.m. Pastor Routh, a Sanford native, and his wife, Pauline, will be returning to Vietnam in February, using the Philippines as a base.

New Year service announced

LAKE MARY — First Baptist Church Markham Woods, will be having morning worship service on Dec. 30 at 10:45 a.m. The evening service will be a Vesper Lord's Service at 6 p.m. All other activities are cancelled for the day. For information, call 333-2065.

LIGHT Internationals to hold concert

ORLANDO — The LIGHT Internationals, one of America's most exciting young musical groups, representing Liberty University in Lynchburg, Va., will be appearing in concert 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 4, at Riverside Baptist Church, 7719 Forest City Rd.

This dynamic international ministry will be presenting "Hold Forth The Light," a stimulating concert utilizing a unique video presentation featuring the recent LIGHT '90 evangelistic campaign to South America.

For more information, contact Riverside Baptist Church at 295-3850.

Wish committee events set

ORLANDO — The World Peace Wish Committee is launching the last decade of the 20th century on Jan. 1 by asking people to drive on that day with their lights on and yellow ribbons for peace displayed on their cars.

On Jan. 13 the committee is asking churches to unite in peace prayer. A gathering will be held on Jan. 13 at Lake Eola to show support for the peace movement. On Jan. 14 schools will be asked to announce to students to think about World Peace and to especially show kindness to fellow students on that day.

The movement is in awareness to the crisis in the Middle East and to bring people together to pray for guidance.

Orthodox church holds Bible readings

LONGWOOD — The Orthodox Church of St. Stephen, 1895 Lake Emma Road, has adult Bible reading and study classes each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

For those unable to attend the Wednesday evening classes, an additional class will be held before Vesper services on Saturday evening beginning at 5 p.m.

For further information, please call Father Ealy at 668-6020 or Mary Burke, 851-9357.

Let us know what's going on

The Sanford Herald welcomes news about church activities and news for publication in the Religion page each Friday.

The following suggestions are recommended to expedite publication:

1. All items should be typed or written legibly and include the name of a person who can be contacted and a daytime phone number.
2. The deadline is 11 a.m. Wednesday before publication. There is no charge for publication.

Steamboatin' southern style

By KELLEY MITCHELL
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Enjoy an evening of fellowship and beauty on the Rivership Grand Romance as New Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church members go steamboatin' southern style down the St. John's River.

Rev. Thelma Shaw Young, pastor of New Bethel AME Church, and the congregation invite one and all to join them in an experience of fellowship, good food and live entertainment.

A soul inspiring sermon will be given by Bishop Philip R. Cousin, presiding bishop of the 11th Episcopal District for the State of Florida and Bahama Islands.

Bishop Cousin is also chairman on the Board of the Trustees for Edward Waters College in Jacksonville and has been cited as one of the most influential black Americans by Ebony Magazine for the past two years. He was chosen to dialogue with Pope John Paul II in an ecumenical meeting in 1987 and recently presented $200,000 to Nelson Mandela on behalf of the National Council of Church of Christ.

The evening will begin with a Seminole County sheriff escorted caravan led by Bishop Cousin, in a limousine supplied by Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary Inc., from New Bethel to the harbor.

Mayor Bettye Smith will then present Bishop Cousin with a key to the city before boarding the riverboat.

Boarding will take place from 4-4:30 p.m. with the dinner cruise beginning at 5 p.m.

Proceeds from the event will go towards renovations and repairs on the church.

Confirm your reservations now, space is limited.

Tickets are $35 for adults; $19.50 for children age 4-12 and infants to age 3 are free of charge.

Advance reservations must be made by Jan. 9.

For information and reservations, call 323-8815 or 323-9004.

Bishop Philip Cousin

A child is born

The Church of the Nativity celebrated the Feast of the Church and the Birth of Christ with a living nativity scene presented by the high school students of the parish. The students reenacted the story as the choir sang the story of Christmas, top right photo. Children of the preschool religious education program of the church presented the birth of Christ at their annual Christmas party. The children studied the Bible stories of the Savior's birth and the real meaning of Christmas.

Tom Melanik, Peter Falk, Ed Waldrop and Angela Troser reenact the event.

Muscle spasm may cause backache

DEAR DR. GOTT: For 20 years, I've suffered from backaches that are relieved as soon as I get out of bed. For three months, I have had chest pain that leaves me instantly when I arise also. During the day, I feel 30 years old, yet at night I feel 90. New mattresses aren't the answer. What is?

Treatment for such conditions often requires physical therapy, braces or corsets, surgery and modification of activity.

Patients with chronic back pain often discover that the pain is relieved by movement and worsened by inactivity. Thus, symptoms may increase at night and diminish during the day.

MEDICINE

DEAR READER: Backache is one of the most common symptoms that prompt people to seek medical attention. It has many causes - some trivial, some serious - and treatment depends on the cause.

For example, everyone at one time or another experiences back pain from prolonged sitting or standing, sudden movements (such as twisting or straightening) or heavy lifting. Back muscles, like other muscles in the body, can ache and cramp under certain circumstances. Stress and fatigue can lead to back pain, as can fever, flu and strenuous activity.

Ordinarily, this type of muscular backache can easily be treated with rest, heat, massage, gentle exercises and pain medicine, such as aspirin or ibuprofen.

On the other hand, back pain can result from more serious conditions, such as a herniated disc. The intervertebral discs are doughnut-shaped structures separating the spinal bones. When portions of a disc slip or protrude out of position, they may press against spinal nerves, causing pain that extends down the back and into the legs. In addition, arthritis of the spine often causes pain. Both spinal arthritis and herniated discs can lead to severe spasm of the back muscles, further aggravating the severe discomfort.

Other common causes of back pain include scoliosis (curvature of the spine), spinal fractures (as seen in osteoporosis), and spondylolisthesis (forward displacement of one vertebra over another).

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Today's deal, taken from Frank Stewart's "Bridge Player's Comprehensive Guide to Defense" (Simon & Schuster), emphasizes how a good defender must place himself inside the mind of the declarer to properly thwart that declarer's strategy. Against three no-trump, West led his five of hearts. Declarer ducked the first two rounds of hearts and then won the ace. Even if South could duck a diamond into the East hand and find the diamond suit dividing 3-3, that would still be only eight tricks - not enough for the contract. So declarer rightly decided that he must attack spades to gain the needed tricks. Accordingly South played a spade to dummy's king. His intent was to come back a second spade. If East played low, he would rise with the ace and play a third spade, hoping that East would have to win the queen. If, on the second spade, East put up the queen, declarer would let him hold that trick. A good plan, indicating that South was thinking ahead in the play. But as it turned out, South had no monopoly on foresight. East could see what would likely happen. He could also see that there was little chance to defeat the contract if declarer had as much as A-J-x-x-x of spades. So, when the king of spades was played from dummy, East simply threw the queen away. There was no longer any way for South to set up his spade suit without letting West on lead, and the contract was duly defeated. (C)1990, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

You should find the year ahead filled with an abundance of activities and interests geared to satisfy your restless inclinations. Exciting, fun times are in the offing, so hang onto your hat.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Services you perform for a loved one today will bring him/her happiness and you personal fulfillment. Make your requirements secondary to his/hers. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your greatest asset today is your ability to make persons with whom you'll be involved feel they are very important in your life. This works because of your sincerity.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't get rattled today if things don't start off the way you hope. It's the finish line that counts and you're extremely strong in this area.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your ideas and suggestions will be readily accepted by friends today, especially those with whom you'll be involved on a purely social basis. Good feelings enhance relationships.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There are strong indications you might be luckier than usual today in matters that are meaningful to you materially. If there is something good you already have going, it could get better.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is a favorable day for getting in touch with a person who has been much on your mind lately who you've been unable to reach. Lady Luck wants you to link up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You might be rather fortunate today in ways you'd least expect and through persons who have never been particularly helpful to you previously. Your benefactor could be anyone, so be nice to everyone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you think big, are positive, hopeful and optimistic today, you may be capable of achievements that might even surprise you. This is not a time to put limitations on your outlook.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be intimidated by competitive developments today, especially if there is something of importance at stake. Lady Luck is in your corner and she'll do the handicapping.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions in general are very favorable for you today where your hopes, wishes and expectations are concerned. Strive hard to make what you envision a reality.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your financial aspects look very encouraging today and you could turn a profit, but not necessarily through your customary channels. The rewards relate to a side venture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Advantages can be generated today through individuals with whom you'll be dealing on a one-to-one basis either socially or commercially. Try your hand at both.

SEMINOLE SCENES

Help find missing children

Joe Matchett, manager of the NCNB Bank, Sanford, fills the Missing Children's Center Christmas tree with brochures. Customers at five bank locations made donations in each child's name.

Shop 'till they drop

Students and teachers at Wilson Elementary School shop at the PTA's holiday gift shop for items costing between 25 cents and $8. Students learned to budget their money in the PTA's attempt to teach economics.

Store opened for two days

Jacquelin Robinson, (l) Sanford, decides which toys would be appropriate for her two daughters ages 6 and 8. The Salvation Army Toy Store was opened December 19 and 20 to provide needy children with Christmas presents.

When on assignment, the pictures shot by Herald photographers vary in angle, pose and content, and not all of them are published immediately. From time to time, the newspaper takes a second look at those news and features scenes from around Seminole County.

Clowning around

Dorothy Nipper, Lake Mary, adjusts a clown in her yard. The clown is part of a Christmas display found and returned after being stolen. The Nipper residence was awarded "Best Decorated House" for the holidays by the CIA in Lake Mary.

Head-on with grief

Donna Miller, Sanford, visits the grave of her son, Donald, 13, killed in a car accident by a man police confirmed had a high blood-alcohol content at the time of the collision. Miller is now an active member of Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

New Kiwanian

Susanna Huaman, center, a lifelong Sanford resident, joins her father, Dr. Gonzalo Huaman, (l) as a member of Sanford Kiwanis Club. Bill Fraasa, (r) inducted Huaman in a recent ceremony.
