752 Florida Service Stations are ready to Serve you

The King of Motor Fuel crowds Power and Extra Mileage into your fuel tank . . .

It does what gasoline CAN'T do!

Greeting to You from Your Neighbors

To the thousands of Florida motorists who were former residents of neighboring states, Woco-Pep needs no introduction. They're glad it's here. You will find them at the Blue and White Stations today eager to renew their acquaintance with the King of Motor Fuel. They know the performance that Woco-Pep alone can give.

For eleven years Woco-Pep has been the fastest selling motor fuel in Georgia and Alabama. Years ago it was introduced in North and South Carolina. Thousands and thousands of your neighbors use it every day. Woco-Pep service stations dot the highways and state roads in these states as they now do in Florida and form a convenient network of over 1,000 service stations to give you Woco-Pep coming and going.

Woco-Pep comes to you sponsored by a long record of performance in the motors of your friends and neighbors who are glad to tell their Florida neighbors that Woco-Pep is the leading motor fuel of the South because it does what gasoline CAN'T do.

Now you can have Woco-Pep—"The King of Motor Fuel" in your car. It's here—in Florida. 752 Blue and White Service Stations have waited for this day to serve you. Drive into the nearest one. Look for the Woco-Pep trade mark, the yellow pump with the red fuel—fill up your fuel tank and expect a series of thrills that Woco-Pep alone can give you. Then, step on the starter. The motor flashes into action as if to welcome its new friend . . . smooth running, eager, ready to go! Let out the clutch. Expect greater speed. You're off—through traffic easily, smoothly, quietly. Thrill at the acceleration which gives you the lead at every signal change and sweeps you far out ahead, past other cars.

Woco-Pep's giant power is now stored in your fuel tank. Power on the straightaway, the hill and the detour—power to throttle down in dense traffic. Many more pleasant miles of driving with every fill of Woco-Pep now await you. Less carbon and less of those chattering motor knocks—Real economy, too—whether for the family or business car.

Today, with the introduction of Woco-Pep to Florida motorists, we bring these long-awaited thrills of motoring to you because Woco-Pep, the "King of Motor Fuel" does what gasoline CAN'T do!

Woco-Pep is an easy name to remember—it's surpassing performance is not easy to forget.

LEST WE FORGET

Here lies in dust a Romanist,
 And there is marked a Jew's Grave; their names are writ in memory's list
 And chiseled with their country's brave.

We asked no test of faith or creed
 When sacrifice supreme they gave,
 But stood in each countless deed
 Beneath our flag's immortal wave.

A torch from falling hands they threw,
 With call to us to hold it high;
 They fought for country's weal,
 For you.

Of many creeds they dared to die,
 Shall we break faith with those who sleep,
 And let some dogma now or erst
 The oath our fathers swore to keep?

May God forbid, lest we forget!

King George continues to improve, and people hope that he will not, like the man in the story, die of improvement.

A Tennessee man held off a crowd with a revolver while his fifteen year old son whipped his school teacher. This teacher probably thinks he has pretty concrete evidence the man is descended from the gorilla.

Dr. C. S. Noble of Raleigh, N. C. would let nothing prevent his wedding. Taken sick in New Or-scheduled day regardless of his illness. True love knows no bounds.

D. J. Dunkle, big man of Palm been sentenced to five years in prison after being tried for embeal-was president of the Palm Beach Realty Company. There will be many who will scoff at Dunkle now who would have done just as he did if they had been in his place.

Germany and Bolivia are both seeking arbitration. Neither is a great country. The army of Bolivia is about seven thousand of Germany three thousand, scarcely a match for the United States.
 Should these countries enter into any contract of arbitration, they would emerge as victors. Seeking them for arbitration is a bold move on the part of German nations in Europe and South America.

Eliminating Noises

In inaugurating a world-wide movement by which she hopes to eliminate noise from the face of the earth, Mrs. Anna P. Gray of New York deserves respect for her courage and all the praise we can express for the worthiness of her cause. Mrs. Gray has declared war on slams and bangs of almost every description and in the new way of such matters they will all be banished to the lower regions of the earth, a report of which will be published in a fortnight amid the quiet of which it has so long been deprived.

Mrs. Gray is especially vehement in her denunciation of early morning noises, which she has found to be particularly annoying. She objects to newspaper boys hawking their wares at the unearthly hour of six and finds little or no pleasure in listening to street sweepers, and janitors dumping trash into garbage cans. Squawking radios are also among the list of noises for which Mrs. Gray has formed an extreme antipathy. She finds practically no pleasure or enjoyment in the grinding sounds that emanate from street cars nor the raucous horns of passing automobiles. The screeching of brakes, the backfire of exhaust pipes and numerous other noises are placed on the blacklist.

There is, however, one disquieting factor in Mrs. Gray's proposed movement. We suspect from the various noises she has mentioned that Mrs. Gray is acquainted only with those which are ordinarily suffered in a city, and we are fearful that while undertaking to rid the world of such disturbances, she may lose sight of some which we have to endure. It is not unreasonable to assume that Mrs. Gray may even think that our noises in the small cities are inconsequential in comparison with those of the larger centers that they deserve no attention.

In other words, if noises are to be outlawed we want some of our pet aversions eliminated along with the others. For instance, if something could be done about the folk's baby crying at all hours of the night we would be most pleased. Then there is the matter of cows mooing and roosters crowing. Maybe something could be done about screeching phonographs and youngsters who thim-hammers should be used on every conceivable thing from diaphan to piano. We could also find almost no objection at all to the banishment of amateur automobile mechanics who use holidays to tinker with their machines and make the air blue with blasphemies. All of these and a thousand more—demand, we think, the attention of Mrs. Gray.

But perhaps we have misjudged the woman. Maybe she will lend a sympathetic ear to our pleadings, and give us the relief we crave. If she does she will have our everlasting appreciation and a promise to work for a monument to perpetuate her memory after she is dead. We are reminded that Mark Twain once said that everyone was always talking about the weather and no one was doing anything about it. Everyone has been talking for ages about noise; but now Mrs. Gray proposes to do something about them. May success attend her efforts.

A Mother Goes To Jail

Taking their cue from New York's famous Baume & Mercier, Michigan politicians have gone one better and provided that anyone convicted of selling liquor upon four separate occasions shall be imprisoned for life. The purpose, of course, was to enforce the prohibition laws, and that almost everyone, whether wet or dry, will agree is a worthwhile purpose.

But without a doubt all possible outcomes of the law were not clearly foreseen by those who enacted it. It was intended to protect society, not endanger it. It was meant to prevent crime and to incarcerate habitual criminals, not encourage it. But early in the life of this law is found a flaw which makes it what it was not intended to be.

Recently a woman, of only forty-eight, but who is said to look sixty, was arrested for selling liquor. It was found that she had previously been convicted three times. There was nothing to do but to send her up for life when the jury returned a verdict of guilty. But this was no ordinary woman. This was a woman, the mother of ten children, their sole means of support.

But she was, nevertheless, sentenced to life imprisonment as the law provided. Wets throughout the country now regard her as a martyr of the anti-prohibition cause, and everyone wonders what will become of her children. Will they grow up with respect for the law which has sent their mother to jail, or will they condemn it, despise it, and violate it too?

ANOTHER INDICATION OF PROSPERITY

FLORIDA TIMES-UNION

Only a few days ago, in these columns, reference was made to the fact that the report on savings deposits, showing that $3,123,348 individuals had deposits in saving banks in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, to the enormous total amount of $28,400,000,000. Comment was made to the effect that these savings indicated prosperity among the people of this country, and also that the saving of such a vast amount of money was being practiced on a very large and substantial scale.

Now comes a report of a meeting of life insurance companies, held in New York last week, in which report it was set forth that so far this year the people of this country bought and paid for more than $12,500,000,000 of life insurance.

The total amount of life insurance in force in the world, at the close of 1924 was $12,000,000,000, and that amount of $79,000,000,000 was held by residents of the United States. This shows rather convincingly that even though Americans are extravagant in some directions, they show a very large measure of thrift, and of foresight, also, by carrying considerably more than half of the total insurance carried in the world.

A very great deal could be said with reference to the splendid opportunity that is offered by life insurance to the individual who saves, and to the family and the community, and to the nation.

This Afternoon

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II

Oh heaven and thy Lady call And enter the enchanted hall!

Large-handedness with its citrus fruits can do much to lend enchantment to Florida for visitors.

The plan suggested by Commissioner of Agriculture Mayo for free distribution of orange juice at the railroad station in Jacksonville is frustrated by an exclusive contract held by concessionaires for sale and distribution of various items there. This being the case, perhaps Commissioner Mayo can persuade the particular concessionaire who sells oranges in the gate city for twenty-five cents apiece to say what he does with the extraordinary and unpatriotic profits.

Although the Seaboard's practice of distributing orange juice free of charge to passengers on its trains in Florida seems only just now to be coming in for the favorable publicity it deserves, the company has been doing this for about four years.

The custom is comparable to that of the Southern railroad in serving a demitasse of coffee free to dining car patrons as soon as they sit down to breakfast of morning. To visitors from abroad coffee gives a charming aroma of having crossed the Mason and Dixon line and come into what they have known as a stored land which is romance and quaint in custom. Florida can say with orange juice what the south says with coffee. Little things like this play an enormous part in the visitor's sense of the color and content of a land.

Now that Editor Hanson of the Louisville Star-Advocate has new offers for his press the light that always lies in his editorial comments is fairly dazzling.

The Atlanta Constitution thinks that Florida has proved good Governor Democrat and work well time-biting for the president-elect when he comes here on his vacation. We will hope so at any rate Mr. Hoover makes noble experiments with the intoxicating waters of Florida's lakes and streams.

Nothing, thinks the Constitution, can stop tourists from going to Florida and enjoying its incomparable all-year climate so long as Florida shows an appreciation and continues to build and properly maintain a system of protected and permanently paved highways, to the construction and upkeep of which visitors from other states are large contributors. Is this the Constitution's way of accepting Doyle Carlton's invitation to all parties to make suggestions on the state's gasoline and other tax problems?

Editor Lambright of the Tampa Tribune does his bit for Doyle Carlton in the matter of taxation advice by suggesting that the one cent of the gasoline tax income which is now distributed to counties be retained by the state, the income therefrom to be placed in the general fund and made possible the elimination of the state's ad valorem tax on property.

This, as he points out, would result in no increase in the gasoline tax and even though it would take from the counties the present receipts of a part of the tax, the citizens of each county would be relieved of the state millage on property. But, oh, how the motorists would howl!

The valuation of new buildings for which permits were granted during November totaled $27,740. Budget Director J. J. Barry announced today. This helps the total for the first eleven months of 1925 to $2,128,000, and leaves Miami Beach in second place, ranking next to Jacksonville and ahead of Tampa, Miami, St. Petersburg and Pensacola. The valuation of new buildings for December will exceed $100,000, inasmuch as a permit for construction of the South Beach pleasure pier will be awarded for this amount. The total for 1925 probably will be Miami Beach in second place among Florida cities—Miami Beach first.

AMBUSH

BOLIVIA'S WAR CRY

Sometimes the blindness of the human race makes you wonder if it deserves ever to have peace, prosperity and contentment. In La Paz, city of the republic of Bolivia, the public was exposed to a fever of excitement. Diplomatic relations with Paraguay had been broken, and the war clouds were gathering. Crowds massed in the streets before the presidential palace. Detachments of military clattered grandly and fatly up and down the pavements. Torches flared, bands played, flags were waved. War was imminent. Now, in such a situation, when a peace-loving people is suddenly brought to the edge of war, one might imagine that they would be crowding together like that to tell their president: "Can't you find a peaceable solution so that we won't have to go out and be killed?"

Well, one might imagine it, but one would be dead wrong. These Bolivian crowds that jammed the streets kept shouting: "We want war, Mr. President! We want war!"

At first glance one is tempted to ascribe all of this to the excitable Latin-American temperament. But then one is forced to remember how our own level-headed, matter-of-fact country has acted in similar crises.

Every time we have gone to war we have greeted the declaration of hostilities with cheers. We have rung bells, blown whistles, chanted songs and formed parades. Like the Bolivian crowds, we have actually demanded war. The "little group of wilful men"—remember that. When the sight of a room overgrown with holly suggests the empty woods the holly will be safe—hardly sooner.

Henry Fisher, who has been successfully operating the Nu-Grape bottling plant here for the past several years, is just completing a new home for his plant, on the corner of Elva and Canal streets. This new building will be 50 by 50 feet, built of iron, with concrete floor, and will be ready for occupancy within the next two or three weeks—Miami Gazette.

THE VANISHING HOLLY

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

Holly trees once grew on Manhattan Island; ground pine scrambled through the woods, and Christmas ferns drooped over the rocky ledges. This month holly trees all the way down the coast to the Carolinas have been hunted out, and their brightest branches torn down to supply New York's Christmas wants: small boys have gone into the woods in Jersey, Pennsylvania and New England stripped whole carpets of ground pine to be worn into wreaths for New York. And if New York and the other cities go on demanding the holly tree may become as rare five hundred miles from New York as it already is within fifty miles, and the ground pine become as scarce as arbutus.

The plants of Manhattan, at least, were doomed by the invasion of brick and stone and mortar. Lays to preserve wild flowers or trees help only in so far as they tend to develop a public opinion against despoilment of the roadside; they cannot be enforced. The rising price of Christmas greens may help to save the holly, and the increasing popularity of the use of artificial greens will also help. There are those who think the preservation of holly trees green until the next year, and others who point out that holly can be grown in pots from seed; but Americans are not a patient people, and few of us would remember to water our holly pots through Christmas weeks of the year. A few more of demand would save greenery, and holly would be as common as ever.
