FARMERS
 Watch the farmers in their fields and marvel greatly. They are so very calm and sure. They have such dignity. They know such simple things as well. Although their learning's small, they find a steady, brown content where some find none at all. And all their quarrels with God are soon made up again; they grant forgiveness when He sends blizzards, tardy rain. Their pleasure is so grave and full when gathered crops are trim; they know they think their work is well done.

In partnership with Him, then, why, when there are fields to bury, and little fields to rent, do I still live so foolishly? Wisdom and discontent? —William Alexander Percy

The grand jury's investigation in Miami raises the question whether it is a crime to ask for a bribe if you don't get it.

The Palm Beach Sun unreservedly supports Mark Wiecz for Senate, and the Palm Beach News repeats this endorsement in full, indicating the possibility that the Sun may support Wiecz too. So far as we have observed this is the first indication of newspaper support for any of the candidates.

The failure of the State Democratic Executive Committee to elect Chairman Hodges last week because of his criticism of some parts of the New Deal, affords some indication at least that one does not have to approve everything that is done in Washington in order to remain a Democrat. Hodges had severely criticized such impractical expedients as the unemployment experiment to restore prosperity, the NRA, and the wage-hour bill. For this heresy there were some who shouted "Off with his head!" But the more sensible members of the committee voted them down. Just as those who voted against Al Smith in 1928 were threatened with excommunication, but later were welcomed back into the party, so now some who like Hodges criticize some aspects of the New Deal will be Democrats right on through to come.

The Palm Beach comes the news of the death of Mrs. Ella M. Smith at the age of 84, one of Palm Beach's first settlers. In 1878 she migrated with her husband from Illinois stopping in Jacksonville while the men built a road way through the wilderness of the southern part of the state looking for a place to build their home. Charmed by the beauty of Lake Worth, they finally arrived after a long journey of weary weeks of travel, and settled in Palm Beach. She was years later buried in the old cemetery, but her remains were re-interred in the new one.

The Concert Series

The efforts of the Woman's Club to bring a series of high class concerts to Sanford have reached a point where it is possible to feel assured of the ultimate success of the undertaking and where it is timely to express publicly our appreciation of the fine work which the committee in charge has done.

Working under a peculiar handicap in that it was impossible to announce who the artists on the concert series would be, the committee members nevertheless were able to inspire such confidence in their undertaking that a sufficient number of tickets have been sold to provide only the most creditable performances.

Success in the particular stars which the Woman's Club is able to bring here depends to some extent upon the amount of money raised through the sale of tickets, and the more tickets sold, the better will be the concerts which can be arranged. It is highly desirable that all lovers of good music make their reservations for memberships before six o'clock tomorrow night. It will not be possible to obtain them after that.

This concert series is something which is sorely needed in our civic life and will provide a source of entertainment which is bound to prove both cultural and enjoyable for all of us. It is something which should be, and undoubtedly will be, continued throughout the years, growing better and gaining in popular support as the years go by. Only one more day remains in which to join in this wholly worthwhile movement to provide Sanford with the best of concert entertainments. You will be helping your town, and helping yourself too, by subscribing for a membership before it is too late.

Selling Out The People

Floridians everywhere were shocked to read in their newspapers last night and this morning that the mayor of Miami, and two city commissioners, as well as a special rate expert employed by the City, have been indicted by a Dade county grand jury for soliciting a bribe of $250,000 from the Florida Power & Light Co.

For some years there has been a controversy between the City of Miami and the light company over the rates which have been charged for electricity. The city has sought to get these rates reduced; the light company has contended that the existing rates were essential to proper service. The case finally got into the courts where it has been for a number of years.

Last month Miamians were startled to see in their daily newspapers large advertisements in which the president of the light company asserted, "I will not pay a bribe," and charged the City officials with soliciting a $250,000 bribe in return for a settlement of the rate case out of court on the light company's terms. A grand jury was immediately summoned and began an extensive investigation with the result that the city officials were indicted yesterday.

As a result of this disclosure a cloud of doubt and uncertainty has been cast over numerous other acts of the city officials which include such important financial transactions as the city's $25,000,000 bond refunding program, the granting of a bus franchise to the Miami Transit Company, and numerous other measures involving large sums of money.

It is an appalling commentary on our Democratic system of government when officials elected to serve the people deliberately offer to sell out the people in return for bribes which they put into their own pockets. It is a discrediting affront to all advocates of decent government when the agents of government, charged with the protection of all its citizens, attempt to hold up one of them, after the manner of a common bandit, and illegally extract a quarter of a million dollars.

If the rates of the light company were too high, they would have been brought down by a court order. But the city officials would have prevented this saving on the part of the public by asking a bribe from the light company. If the rates of the light company were proper, they would have been approved in court and essential revenues of the company would have been protected. But the city officials would make the company pay them $250,000 for this simple justice.

When such instances of corrupt government are brought to light, they deserve the utmost condemnation from the public.

 ore with the club members at the Country Club this afternoon, "at which time the matter will be taken into consideration."

The installation of a cast iron water main from the City's water pumping station was discussed at length by members of the Commission to replace the present wood pipe line which has been causing considerable trouble and will, no doubt, have to be replaced soon.

Although the initial cost of the cast iron pipe is considerably higher than the wood pipe, the members of the Board discussed respective responsibilities of the two materials in comparison to the price. Definite action on the matter was deferred awaiting recommendations of an engineer regarding the size of cast iron pipe required.

The present pipe line was installed during the boom and was expected to last 25 years. It was built, however, in the present condition of the city and the Commission is now faced with the problem of replacing it.

DISPELLING THE FOG

By CHARLES MICHENER
 Democratic National Committee

About twenty years ago Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, exasperated at what he considered the hypocrisy of his Congressional colleagues in both Houses, passed a measure forbidding the transportation of alcoholic liquors from wet territory into dry.

National Prohibition had not yet been enacted, but the rule of law was clear. A "dry" Congressman was passing everything he could get his hands on to the "wet" territory, while the "dry" territory was suffering from the lack of liquor. However, the administration's opposition has still time to get to work. An oath that could be taken in the President's declaration of the illegality of the holding company system an assault on all business and the wreck of all the operating utility companies may be able to discover something equally invidious in a reform that has been advocated by Presidents of all parties for the better part of a century.

Washington Daybook
 by FABRIZIO GIOVANNI
 WASHINGTON—A thoroughly detailed and carefully compiled directory in congress over the winter hour bill that, at most, only half a bill may come through this session.

The house threw it back into committee in spite of intense administration pressure to salvage it, and there it lies, with labor divided on it, congress split wide and the President the only force solidly back of it.

But stout adherents of the bill are working without excess haste to frame something that congress can understand quickly, steady a bit more calmly, and perhaps present.

The present bill, in general terms, requires that any products moving in interstate commerce be subject to a system of price fixing, to avert a form of unfair trade practices. It may be a really meritorious bill—at least there are valid arguments for as well as against it—but it has no more relation to local taxation than the aurora borealis.

Of course, the project of permitting the President to veto individual items of a bill without rejecting the whole of it is hailed by some few of those who see behind every act of Franklin D. Roosevelt a covert seeking of more power, and the old cry of usurpation and abandonment of Congressional functions is once more heard in the land but that childish nonsense is pretty thread-bare now.

The veto of an item means no more than any other veto. Congress could overrule the item veto if a President attempted to block anything that Congress deemed important enough to merit reversal. Moreover, the advantage of having an acceptable law in operation promptly, while any doubtful provision was held in abeyance until Congress acted on a veto, is worth something. It may take a Constitutional amendment to accomplish what ought to be a very simple thing, but to a layman it would appear that the measure now before Congress, which has already passed the House and apparently will be passed by the Senate shortly, ought to be sufficient.

At all events, it will probably put a stop to the practice while the matter is pending in the Supreme Court, to which it is bound to go, I suppose; if the Supreme Court sustains the act that, of course, settles it. If not, it will undoubtedly be offered to the country as a Constitutional amendment.

The modification of the President's present veto power in this respect is an slight, the necessity for it is so compelling, and the objections to it are so trifling and technical, that it ought not to take very long to have the amendment ratified, if it comes down to that.

Up to date, nobody has suggested that the enactment of the reform be going to change the country into a dictatorship, or that it can be used to justify the kind of arbitrary government, or lead to straight communism or fascism. However, the administration's opposition has still time to get to work. An oath that could be taken in the President's declaration of the illegality of the holding company system an assault on all business and the wreck of all the operating utility companies may be able to discover something equally invidious in a reform that has been advocated by Presidents of all parties for the better part of a century.

from the well was the result of a cave-in and advocated halting out the eight inch well, the water of which is better than that of any of the other wells. Mr. Cut estimated the cost for this work at $75.

Members of the Commission unanimously voted to donate $100 to the Florida Exhibits to aid in payment of expenses incurred in carrying exhibits in a number of the principal cities in the North.

City Engineer Fred T. Williams appeared before the Board and requested its endorsement of a John WPA project for the City and County, which provides for the opening and concreting of a drainage ditch which at present is filled with sand and is causing water to stand on the Country Club Road.

The board voted to work in conjunction with the County, furnishing materials on hand for the work.

Art Davis and His Franco-American Film in Orlando

Capt. Art Davis and his Franco-American Film will appear at the new Orlando airport on Jan. 24 with a program of exciting aerial stunts that have been seen in many parts of the country. Capt. Davis announced this morning.

Capt. Davis and his group were sponsored by the Orlando Chamber of Commerce two years ago. They have since been named a prominent part of their act. The film, which was made with the latest flying but his plane has been admirably fitted, according to reports, by a mechanic, Charles E. Smith, of the Orlando airport.

Smith is acclaimed the ace of the airport as he not only makes his wings jump but also does the dangerous "Human Glider Stunt" in which he takes off from the top of an automobile and lands on it. The aerial show has been seen at several places in Florida during the past year.

are trying to get along without the aid of such legal technicians as Tommy Corcoran and Ben Cohen. These two attempted to draft the original wage-hour bill, but beyond the many Supreme Court decisions on the subject.

The new legislation, based by a court deemed likely to look more liberally upon "liberal" legislation, are working out all the defense programs, simplifying language and clarifying aims.

The theory back of the compromise measure is that if a 40-cent minimum wage is fixed, the south will not be in such a powerful position to induce spinning mills to leave New England. On the other hand, New England mills, because of more skillful labor, and long established business, can offer its labor good hours and a better wage and still compete with the long-hour labor of the south.

Most Of "Bad Men" Were "Bad Women"

The ten most interesting "bad men" of history were mostly women. This radical statement comes from Wallace Berry, one of the screen's most famous impersonators of bad men, whose latest screen appearance is in "The Bad Man of Brimstone," showing tonight and Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre. "I know all about bad men," the actor explained judiciously. "You can't play as many bad men as I've played and no: learn all there is to know about their history. "What I'm talkin' about now," he stipulated, "are the real wild and woolly days—the days when men were men and so were women!"

"In these days everybody was a bad man, compared to what they are in these days and even the little kids were bad men before they got long pants on 'em. There was a time in the West when a baby in his crib'd stab you with a safety pin as soon as look at you. And for nothing, too! You'd just be standin' there and he'd up and stab ya!" "Of all the gangs and outlaws, though, not one of the men could hold a patch on the women. Alongside the women, these tough hombres was just so many milkmaids scared to milk a marshmallow cow."

"The wildest of the whole wild lot—men, women and children—were Wild Bill Hickok, Billy the Kid, Mike Pink, Bill Tighegan, the Rose of Cimarron, Belle Starr, Calamity Jane, Madame Mostache, Virginia Slide, Cattle Annie and Little Britches."

Little Britches, Wally explained, was a woman. She got her name because of the fact that her "abdomen" bristles were somewhat bigger than the pins she packed at either hip—but only somewhat.

Someday, if he has time, Berry would like to sit down and write the history of the West as it should be written.

"And if I do," he concluded, "you can bet your bottom dollar a lot of those here so-called tough guys is gonna slip in their graves and take notice!"

More has been written about Theodore Roosevelt than about any other American.

Superintendent Scott said the Indians were taught to clear and cultivate the land, grow food stuffs, build fences, plant trees, drill wells, plant cane, build roads, make their camps more sanitary and improve their hunting areas.

"All of the Indians have shown unusual industry," Scott declared. "Many of them have shown more than average mechanical ability and are being trained by competent instructors for mechanics, truck drivers and tractor drivers, not with the idea of setting them interested in commercial work of this nature but for the purpose of training them to operate, repair and maintain the equipment he used and necessary for improvement and operation of their own farms, gardens and grazing units."

MIAMI, Jan. 25. "The council is not meeting in a belligerent frame of mind," he remarked in connection with the possibility that the United Mine Workers, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and other groups, whose charters are suspended might be expelled outright and their fields opened for organization by A. Borealis Has Spree Giving Europe Scare

Fantastic Display Of Northern Lights Is Seen In Many Lands Frightening People

Firemen Dash To "Put Out" Blazes

Phenomenon Is First Seen In Western Europe Since 1709

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—It was not the end of the world or a new war or even a fire. It was only Aurora Borealis that kept firemen dashing about much of Europe into early morning hours.

Firemen couldn't do anything about the scientific phenomenon so they flung water to hot and left the task of explaining it to scientists.

By press, radio and telephone officials explained that Aurora rarely seen in southern or western Europe, was caused by an electrical disturbance on the sun's surface.

Many villagers in remote sections of Europe knelt in prayer as northern lights shined across the sky.

The brilliant cascade of red beams was streaked with ever-changing bands of orange, purple, green, blue and white—the first Aurora in Western Europe since 1709, French scientists said.

Sanford Warned Of "Safety" Spoons After It's Too Late

The old saying that they looked the horse door after the horse was stolen may apply to a situation that has taken place in Sanford.

An announcement from the Florida Safety Council calls attention to the fact that "every year a flock of 'Snow Birds' come to Florida collecting money from various business houses and individuals in the interest of safety, standing on corners and creating crowds and hazards and some of them get out literature making the local merchants pay for ads thus they leave."

"Merchants," the report continues, "should spend their money with the local paper for advertising rather than with these 'fly-by-night' organs. They pull the wool over some of the local officers' eyes who are interested in safety and in some communities they get the cooperation of officers."

"This type of safety work is no good and the people who engage in it should be stopped by law...."

Sanford recently had an experience with "safety" spoons which resulted in unpleasant reactions.

It was announced today that W. McKeown, of Ocala, would have 50 boys scattered on the project in an effort to give the project a wide distribution.

The project will be supervised by the Extension Service and the Florida Division of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The chief justice has been criticized for his handling of the case of the United States against the District of Columbia, and for his decision in the case of the United States against the District of Columbia.

Justice Cardozo is 72 years old and has served on the Supreme Court since 1925.

Talk Of Public Purchase By TVA Causes Activity

Lillenthal Authorized To Negotiate With Utility Operators

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Talk of public purchase of private utilities in the Tennessee valley brought these developments today:

1. The Tennessee Valley authority authorized David E. Lillenthal, a director, to negotiate with private utilities and municipalities for purchase of electric properties in Tennessee and Alabama.

2. Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, appealed personally to President Roosevelt to reject the proposal of Governor Browning of Tennessee for joint federal-state purchase. He said he did not object to their purchase by TVA.

3. Public works officials said no PWA funds could be used for such purchases. They also said that PWA would not "sit around and await the outcome" while municipalities dithered over the question whether to buy private utilities or build their own with PWA aid.

McKellar said he objected to Browning's proposal "in the name of myself and what I believe to be a large majority of the people of Tennessee."

Roosevelt has arranged to receive Browning and TVA officials at the white house Thursday for a discussion of the Tennessee governor's proposal.

McKellar said he told the president that TVA was doing a "fantastic job" and "in my judgment, nothing should be done to hinder it. The plan, especially since the courts have upheld the act."

Public works officials said PWA has "neither the authority nor the money" to buy utilities. They explained that under the law PWA funds must be used to give employment on useful public works.

A spokesman said of these cities already lined up for PWA loans and grants to build their own utility systems:

"If any of these municipalities want to give up their contracts they may do so provided they have not already borrowed or started work. However, PWA will not take any losses on that score, nor will it hang up money indefinitely while municipalities make up their minds."

TVA spokesmen said they believed Lillenthal could negotiate for private power facilities under authority of the TVA act. As amended by the last congress, the act permits a $50,000,000 bond issue to extend credit for five years to states, counties, municipalities and non-profit organizations "to acquire, improve and operate existing distribution systems" or buy an interest in them.

Work To Commence On Molasses Tank In Next Few Days

CLEWISTON, Jan. 25.—Work will be started immediately on a new, 2,000,000 gallon, molasses tank at Clewiston, Clarence R. Bitting, President of United States Sugar Corporation, announced today.

In the statement, Mr. Bitting said: "Since the beginning of the recent recession in industrial activity the United States Sugar Corporation has, through various construction projects, endeavored to do its part in helping what many claim is, another depression."

"Instead of spending our time, as we continue, trying to find someone to blame for the nation's troubles, we have endeavored to create work for the unemployed."

United States Sugar Corporation built more than one hundred cottages throughout the Everglades sugar producing area. Second, United States Sugar Corporation made arrangements for building twelve homes in Clewiston and encouraged the building of ten other structures in the area.

"Third," he further remarked, "United States Sugar Corporation guaranteed the capital for a new, larnie-wind-proof, hotel of eight rooms in Clewiston, and fourth, United States Sugar Corporation has arranged for the construction of a 2,000,000 gallon molasses tank. The cost of the building program is in excess of $500,000."

Selling Wave Hits Market On Bad News

Presidential Statement On Maintaining Of Wages Is Instrumental Factor

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Under the heaviest selling of the new year, the Stock Market pitched into a sharp decline today and losses, totaling as high as six points, were recorded in leading industrial shares.

The selling lightened a bit after midday but the rallies were feeble.

Near the fourth hour prices were around the lowest of the session.

Transactions in the first two hours totaled 1,678,000 shares, approximately double the volume in yesterday's full session.

Profit making prospects held the center of discussions in brokerage circles as corporate and railroad statements showed deep cuts in earnings.

Helping to focus attention on the corporate outlook was President Roosevelt's statement that industry should maintain wages and cut prices to stimulate markets for goods.

Roosevelt Is Mum On Suggestion To Buy Coal Fields

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declined yesterday to commit himself, pending further inquiry, on Pennsylvania Governor Earle's proposal of federal purchase of anthracite lands and regulations of mining.

Governor Earle so reported after a White House conference attended by Senator Guffey, Democrat, Pennsylvania, Thomas Kennedy, lieutenant-governor and secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, and David L. Lawrence, secretary of the commonwealth.

The President subsequently told his press conference his conversation with Earle was very much the same thing as their discussion last week. He said the Pennsylvania officials were working on some method of squeezing the water out of the coal and putting more people to work.

Roosevelt was asked about political implications of the meeting and why Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, accompanied Governor Earle. The President asked whether Lawrence was not a state official. His position as secretary of the commonwealth has "nothing to do with coal," a reporter told Mr. Roosevelt.

The President told the reporters they would be surprised to know what they talked about that would bring the secretary of the commonwealth definitely into the picture.

A newsmen suggested that would indicate state control of anthracite and the President commented laughingly, that the reporter was pretty good.

Explanation Of Celery Agreement Is Given Kiwanis

J. C. Hutchison Tells Of Fine Points In Operation Of Pact

Fine points in the operation of the celery Marketing Agreement, under which Florida celery growers will operate during the current season, were explained to members of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon in the Valdes Hotel today by J. C. Hutchison, chairman of the Control Committee for the pact.

In his address, Mr. Hutchison made interesting comparisons regarding the celery acreage and prices being received for the current year as compared with other years, declaring that the present crop is one of the largest and best in the history of the industry in this state.

Outlining the details incident to the declaration of a period of proration, Mr. Hutchison pointed out that the Control Committee must recommend to the Secretary of Agriculture the establishment of a series of weekly proration periods and after that celery shippers are requested to make applications for allotments of shipments on Wednesday preceding the week in question.

Following the receipt of the applications, the Control Committee will advise, and after consolidating the information furnished by the shippers as to amount available they will decide upon the amount available to ship.

The allotment percentage is then obtained by dividing the amount available in ship by the amount available for shipment. This allotment percentage is then applied to the prospective volume of all shippers, Mr. Hutchison said.

Regarding the value of the pact to celery growers, Mr. Hutchison expressed doubt of the efficiency of the pact until shipment of California celery ceased to be in competition with the Florida celery market. "Conditions will be much more favorable and better results will be obtained after California competition has ceased," Mr. Hutchison asserted.

Today's luncheon was the last for two prominent members of the Sanford Club, Capt. F. S. Fern and Dr. H. D. Smith and they were paid tribute by President Sidney J. Nix, who presided over the meeting.

Visitors today included Harold Coulton, of Rochester, Mich., and J. T. McLain of Geneva.
