Support group organized

OSTEEN - Families and friends of U.S. service men and women in the Persian Gun now have a support group in Osteen.

Carole Lally, of Osteen, has no relatives serving in the war, but was driven to organize the group after attending a support group meeting in Deltona, she said. The group organized in early February, she said.

The group will meet Fridays at 1 p.m. at the Osteen Civic Center, located on New Smyrna Boulevard just east of County Road 415.

"We'll meet every Friday - until it's over." Lally said.

At the first meeting Feb. 15, the group distributed names for the Adopt-a-Soldier program. Of 42 names supplied to the group, she said, 21 names have already been assigned. The group has also made yellow ribbons to sell to benefit families of local troops. For more information, call Lally at 321-6974.

SANFORD - It might have been a pep rally for a big high school football game, where about 120 people rallied around a popular Sanford coach.

Or it might have been a spiritual revival, where the same man, also a minister, urged faith in a supreme being's will for peace on earth.

It was, in fact, a gathering of families who sought comforting words from a man who had been teacher and coach and minister to many of their grown children now fighting in the Persian Gulf war.

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia - The allied mine hunt in the Persian Gulf took on new urgency today with word that a mine blast had disabled a billion-dollar warship, the biggest material U.S. loss of the war so far.

As the allies marshaled land, sea and air forces for a possible all-out assault, Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz was quoted as saying lraq's offer to withdraw from Kuwait was "a serious measure."

The offer, put forth by Iraq on Friday, was rejected by the allies because of conditions attached. Aziz's comments were carried by the official Iranian news agency after he met in Tehran with Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani.

Aziz was on his way back to Bagndad from Moscow, where Mikhail S. Gorbachev offered a new peace plan Monday. It is said to include a guarantee that Saddam Husseln can stay in power if he pulls his armics out of Kuwait now.

The diplomatic efforts brought no pause in the allied air war. Baghdad came under repeated bombardment overnight, the heaviest onslaught in several days. AP correspondent John Rice reported from the Iraqi

Robins flock to South Florida

WEST PALM BEACH - Robins, traditional harbingers of spring in many states, have been wintering in sunny South Florida in greater numbers than usual this month.

The annual robin migration first hit Palm Beach County and the Treasure Coast earlier this month brought on by a midwinter storm, according to University of Florida ornithologist Tom Webber.

It's not unusual for robins to wait until late in the tourist season to make their Florida sojourn. Traveling in flocks of up to 50,000, they hit Gainesville early this month — probably forced out of Georgia by inclement weather, said Webber, a bird specialist at the Florida State Museum of Natural History.

Residents across South Florida have been sighting the rust-breasted birds in great quantities and Audubon Society offices have been swamped with excited calls.

Homeless man returns $29,200

ORLANDO - For a few minutes, homeless person Darrel Tell could include a bundle of $100 bills totalling $29,100 among his meager worldly possessions.

He says he was tempted to keep the cash but couldn't. "I was too afraid of God." The money was the life savings of an elderly woman who had lost it in a field, according to sheriff's deputies to whom Tell had returned the money.

The woman gave Teel $200 for returning her savings, and he spent $40 of it Monday on "booze and food." And whole cigarettes, not just the butts.

Workers injured by chlorine gas

TAMPA - At least 44 workers were injured when they were caught under a cloud of chlorine gas that floated over the Tampa Shipyard, a fire department dispatcher said.

The gas cloud appeared in the vicinity of the National Seafood Processing company at about 6 p.m. Monday, said the dispatcher, who asked not to be identified further.

Firefighters searched the National Seafood building and the surrounding area for several hours afterwards but found no source for the leak, the dispatcher said.

All but five of the workers were treated for respiratory problems and throat irritation at area hospitals and released, the dispatcher and spokeswomen for the hospitals said.

Case workers charged with violence

LAKELAND - Two case workers with minor roles in the Bradley McGee case have been charged in recent violent incidents.

None of the charges involved HRS clients or occurred in job-related situations, and neither of the workers involved in the McGee case was among those charged in the boy's death.

Now two workers who had peripheral roles in the case are facing charges of violence themselves. They have been removed from counseling duties and are doing paperwork until the charges are resolved.

Bill Siedlecki of Lakeland, 40, was arrested earlier this month and charged with breaking his wife's wrists during a fight. If convicted felony spouse abuse, he could be sentenced to up to 15 years in prison.

Lake Mary interchange on schedule

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — The construction of a new interstate 4 interchange at Lake Mary Boulevard is on time, a construction spokesman said Monday.

"it's moving right along," said Betty Hardy of the Winter Park engineering firm Reynolds, Smith and Hills, "Although we had a few days of rain, we haven't had any delays that have set us back."

When construction is complete by next June, a $8.9 million four-lane bridge with three lanes for entrance and exit movements will replace the current 24-year-old two-lane bridge. When I-4 was completed in 1962. Lake Mary Boulevard passed over but did not connect with the new super will be removed. The existing bridge embankment will be enlarged to accommodate the new structure. The lone concrete pile seen on the northeast side of the current bridge was placed there to assure the stability of the gournd, Hardy said. The interiocking metal columns next to the bridge embankment are there to hold in new fill, she said.

Hardy said construction crews are completing the two drainage systems for the interchange. All drainage on the west side of I-4 at the interchange will flow to a lake in the northwest section of the interchange near International Parkway. All stormwater on the east side of the interstate at the interchange will flow to an area in the southeast quadrant near the future north-bound I-4 exit ramp.

Hardy said crews are also completing placing the limerock base for the ramps in the southeast quadrant. Those ramps include a two-lane 1,600-foot exit ramp from northbound I-4 lanes ending at a traffic signal for east- and westbound Lake Mary Boulevard traffic. The quadrant will also feature a 1,600-foot looping ramp for eastbound Lake Mary Boulevard traffic to enter northbound 1-4 lanes.

Earthwork has been substantially completed for ramps in the northwest quadrant, including a 1.200-foot exit ramp and a 1,500-foot two-lane looping ramp for westbound Lake Mary Boulevard traffic entering westbound I-4 lanes.

Hardy said no 1-4 lanes closings are expected for another three to four weeks until work progresses.

Other ramps will include a 1,600-foot entrance ramp to westbound I-4 lanca for eastbound Lake Mary Boulevard traffic and a 1,600-foot ramp to eastbound 1-4 lanes for westbound Lake Mary Boulevard taffic.

The annual robin migration first hit Palm Beach County and the Treasure Coast earlier this month brought on by a midwinter storm, according to University of Florida ornithologist Tom Webber.

It's not unusual for robins to wait until late in the tourist season to make their Florida season to make their Florida sojourn. Traveling in flocks of up to 50,000, they hit Gainesville early this month — probably forced out of Georgia by inciem-ent weather, said Webber, a bird specialist at the Florida State Museum of Natural History. Residents across South Florida have been sighting the rust-breasted birds in great quantities and Audubon Society offices have been swamped with excited calls.

"This is one of the years that we get great quantities of them. I have no idea why," said Gloria Hunter, a Lake Worth birder and member of the Audubon Society of the Everglades.

Robins migrate annually to Florida, some coming from as far north as Nova Scotia, said Herbert Kale, a Florida Audubon Society ornithologist.

Robins start to trickle into Floride in early November and depart by the end of March, Kale said.

"People are reporting them," anid Ann Weinrich, an instructor at the Pine Jog Environmental Education Center in West Palm Beach. "They wonder how come there are so many of them. We have had several hundred robins here (at the center) over the last couple of weeks."

Forward march

South Africa's march toward democracy has taken another momentous stride with President F.W. deKlerk's call for repeal of the Group Areas Act, the Land Acts and the Population Registration Acts. These raceseparation laws constitute the last three pillars of apartheid.

The Land Acts of 1913 and 1936 restrict black ownership to less than 14 percent of South Africa's land. The 40-year-old Group Areas Act enforces residential segregation. And the Population Registration Act, the most onerous of all the apartheid laws because it undergirds the existing constitution. legally classifies all South Africans by race at birth.

In terms of U.S. policy toward South Africa. the repeal of these three laws - along with the Separate Amenities Act, which was lifted last October - would satisfy virtually all the pre-conditions for removal of economic sanctions. Those pre-conditions were spelled out by the Comprehensive Anti-Apartheid Act of 1986.

In hailing deKlerk's decision, Archbishop Desmond Tutu acknowledged that sanctions by the United States and other Western governments may be lifted soon as a result of the recent progress: "It's going to be very difficult for us to continue to ask for sanctions."

The African National Congress (ANC) was similarly enthusiastic. It acknowledged in a statement that deKlerk's reforms amounted to "a fundamental departure from the apartheid framework.

In addition to proposing repeal of the apartheid laws, deKlerk laid out his "Manifesto for a New South Africa." The document called for universal suffrage, equal totection mudel the man and other cal

Still to be resolved is the thorny matter of political prisoners. The law passed by the U.S. Congress requires that all prisoners of conscience be released before sanctions are lifted. But there is a wide difference of opinion between the government and the ANC over what consitutes a political crime.

So far, 100 political prisoners have been set free, including ANC leader Nelson Mandela. But the ANC insists that several thousand more remain behind bars. Whatever the case. President deKlerk has pledged to resolve this issue and release all political prisoners by the end of April.

Despite intense opposition from ultraright parties, there is little doubt that Mr. DeKlerk will be able to implement his planned

A little over thirty years ago you folks took a 19-year-old from upstate New York and made him feel at home at NAS Sanford.

Since then I have been lucky enough to visit most of the cities of this world.

I read (recently) in the Herald that you guys are going to pay a guy (city planner — Andres Duany) from Miami over $4,000 a day for a visit. Now I'm sure that the "movers and shakers" know what they are doing but after reading national headlines and watching TV. I kind of thought somebody from Miami should be paying Daytona Beach Where to pay phone bills?

Could you please tell me why it's so difficult for Sanford to find a place in town that will accept our telephone bills. I know I'm not the only resident that misses Faust's drugstore. It was a convenience to pay the bill there and also give the store the extra business it deserved.

One trip to the Eckerd's in Deland with your late telephone bill will make any Sanford resident wonder why can't banks or drugstores here in our hometown save us the long trip.

Blacks record of valor long

NOTE: The month of February is designated as "African-American History Month." To mark the 1991 observances, here is Part Two of "The African-American Experience," a series produced by Newspaper Enterprise Association. (This segment was revised and adapted from a previous landmark series bo NEA.)

Before the guns fell silent in America's bloodiest war some 200,000 black soldiers and sailors fought for the Union cause. Nearly 40,000 black soldiers died: 21 blacks won the Medal of Honor, 12 in one battle alone.

Unlike their white comrades, black soldiers had to contend with lower pay (until near the end of the war) and with little chance to become officers. Neither did the South accord them the rights of prisoners of war.

African-Americans also had to fight or the right to fight. For more than a year after Fort Sumter, Abraham Lincoln, fearful of losing the border states to the Confederacy, resisted appeals that blacks be allowed to enlist. Later,he was to say that without them, the cause would have been lost.

On Jan. 1, 1863, Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation, freeing slaves in all territory held by the Confederacy. In 1865, the 13th Amendment banished slavery com-former slaves. In March 1865, the Freedman's Bureau was established, the first attempt by the federal government to directly aid individuals.

Food distributed by the bureau saved thousands of blacks — and whites — fromstarvation. The bureau resettled displaced persons, protected black workers and act up hospitals and schools, including universities like Howard, Fisk and Hampton Institute. Both whites and blacks answered the American Missionary Association call to teach the Under President Andrew Johnson, though, the "Radical Republicans" in Congress were seeing their civil rights bills vetoed and former confederate generals and politicians regaining power. Legally, by means of restrictive "Black Codes," or illegally, by means of terror tactics, the slavocracy seemed to be restoring in peace what it had lost in war.

By 1867, however, the radicals, led by Thaddeus Stevens in the House and Charles Sumner in the Senate, had achieved a two-thirds majority in both Houses and effectively seized the reins of government. They moved to make sure black rights would be protected in the "reconstructed" South. which was divided into military districts and occupied by Union troops.

Stevens felt that only by giving the freedmen land could they attain true freedom and equality. The cry was "40 acres and a mule."

AFRICAN-AMERICAN EXPERIENCE

it was not to be, and both blacks and poor whites drifted into a new kind of bondage called sharecropping.

In the meantime, however, African-Americans were making stunning progress on the political front. For 10 years, between 1866 and 1876, black participation was a fact.

The history of Reconstruction has been viewed largely through Southern glasses — ignorant blacks, abetted by carpetbaggers (Northern white opportunists) and scalawage (Southern white traitors), lording it over whites in the statehouses, wasting money on gold-plated spittoons and making a mockery of parliamentary law. The facts speak otherwise.

There was some corruption, to be sure, but no worse than the South knew before and not as bad as it was to know later. It could not compare with the graft-ridden government of post-Civil War New York or the federal government during the Grant administration.

African-Americans took to politics on local, state and national levels with alacrity. Between 1869 and 1901, 20 African-Americans served in the U.S. House of Representatives and two in the Senate. P.B.S. Pinchback briefly held the office of governor of Louisiana.

Although the freedmen had a saying — "the bottom rail is on top" — in no state did blacks control the government, although in South Carolina they had a majority in the House.

It was in the remaking of the state constitutions that the black politicians left their lasting mark. Voting qualifications and imprisonment for debt were abolished, free public schools for both races were established.

and the rights of women were enhanced.

As long as the interests of African-Americans coincided with the interests of the Republican Party, they made real social, political and economic gains.

By the 1880s, however, the North was weary of the perennial problem of black rights. In 1883, the Supreme Court declared un-constitutional the Civil Rights Law of 1875 forbidding discrimination. Left to itself, the South went about the process of restoring white supremacy.

Jim Crow — or complete segregation — was born in the '80s and came to maturity with another Supreme Court decision in 1898 upholding the doctrine of "separate but

That's a high price to pay for the indulgence. Bathrooms at the front are no more than plywood and wire outhouses that offer no privacy from the waist up. And a shower may be a buddy dumping a bucket of

The biggest highlight of the day, if it comes at all, is mail call. The mail to and from the front moves sluggishly. One official told us some 300 tons of mail arrives every day and space on transport planes headed for the front is needed for ammunition and other basics.

Days off are unheard of. There is no place to go and not much to spend money on out here, but at least the British soldiers will be ready if they ever make it to the stores of Kuwait. British soldiers at the front have each been given at least $60 in pocket money to spend in Kuwait. They have been warned that it's not nice to "nick" (British for "swipe") things as the troops move through

While they wait to move, the most common activity for the soldiers — even on today's high-tech battlefield — is digging foxholes. The first step is to dig a shallow hole called a "hasty" or a "run and dive." The more elaborate holes become homes, like the hootch built by one squad of the 82nd Airborne Division with 800 sandbags layered

"It takes a lot to make my hair stand on end, but I've been hearing new words every day." said Pearson, a smiling giant of a man who has patrolled Quincy Center for 17 years.

Sitting in City Hall, perhaps 100 yards away. Mayor James Sheets was listening too, and growing angry.

'I come out of this building after work every night, and I have to listen to this profanity and vulgarity being screamed from one side of Hancock Street to the other." Sheets said. "Peo-ple have a right to expect that they can bring their families downtown and not be subjected to the kind of profanity I've been hearing."

So, in December, Sheets pushed an ordinance through the City Council banning public cursing and loitering. The measure carries a $100 fine.

Critics called it an act of overkill by the righteous, and noted that a similar law passed in 1978 had been largely ignored.

In protest, one Quincy woman phoned Boston radio station WZOU and repeated the word "damn" hundreds of times. The station said it had received several hundred calls about the ordinance shortly after it was passed and that all callers were opposed.

"Why put in a law they can't enforce?" complained Quincy resident David Dwyer as he waited for a bus recently at Quincy Center. "What are they going to do, put kids in cells? Who's going to pay for that?"

But Sheets stands his ground. The city wants to turn the area into a historic park to attract tourists, and he wants the air clean.

City Solicitor Stephen Mc-Grath said that while the old ordinance was too broad to be effective, the new measure deals specifically with people who accost others with foul language on city property. It also allows police to arrest people for lottering and other rowdy behavior. while the old law does not, he said.

Sheets said the ordinance is designed "for someone who walks up to a senior citizen on a bench and screams at them. I've seen that happen."

Researchers say young people may have simply become inured to all the foul talk.

Timothy Jay, a psychology professor at North Adams State College, counted more than 400 swear words in the film "Do The Right Thing" and some 230 in "Platoon." One song by the rap group "2 Live Crew" had more than 200 expletives.

"We're exposed to more swearing on TV, cable, even comic strips. People aren't aware of the extent of it," Jay said.

Reinhold Aman, editor of Maledicta, a journal dedicated to profanity, laments that with profanity proliferating, swear words have lost their punch.

"We've had a few very nasty words in the past that used to be reserved for very upsetting occasions. Aman said. "Nowadays, we use them if we break a pencil. Once the terms have been drained of their force, they're lost."

Aman believes that oppressed societies with few weapons compensate by developing a powerful swearing vocabulary. But citizens of violent, powerful nations like our own are pathetic cussers, he said.

But still we swear, and with increasing frequency.

'We are much more stressed out," Aman said. "People are losing their jobs, they can't make ends meet. And women have increased their use of profanity, since they're in the workplace now. They weep less and cuss more."

Profanity can act as a safety valve when people curse to let off steam instead of resorting to physical violence, Aman said.

First gene therapy patient improving, researcher reports

BYPAULRECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON - History's first patient to be treated by gene-replacement therapy appears to be improving from a severe immune disorder, a National Institutes of Health researcher reports.

Dr. R. Michael Blaese, co-researcher in the experimental gene therapy, said a 4-year-old girl being treated for an immune deficiency is showing signs that a replacement gene first injected last September is doing its job.

"We're starting to see improved immune function," Blacse said Monday at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Blaese said he and his co-researcher, Dr. W. French Anderson of NIH, are now treating a second child for the same genetic deficiency.

Both children were born without a gene that produces an enzyme called adenosine deaminase, or ADA, which is essential for a healthy immune system. Most children born with ADA deficiency die of infection by the age

The NIH researchers developed a technique in which the missing ADA gene is inserted into the patient's blood cells and the blood is then returned to the patient.

Once they are in the patient's bloodstream. the genetically altered cells begin secreting the missing ADA.

Blaese said the first child has now received three infusions of the treated cells, and her ADA levels are now about 20 percent of normal.

He said there is a "striking increase" in isohemaggiutinin, a component of the blood that is a measure of the immune system.

"This child is showing an enhanced gene response following this therapy," said Biaese.
In another type of gene therapy, two adults are being treated for advanced malignant melanoma, a usually fatal type of skin cancer that causes tumors throughout the body. Dr. Steven A. Rosenberg, also a co-researcher in the NIH gene therapy program. said the two adult patients have received four infusions of blood cells that carry an inserted gene designed to attack their cancer tumors.

The patients, identified only as a 29-year-old woman and a 42-year-old man, are at home waiting to see if the therapy will reduce their tumors, he said.

Rosenberg's study involves genetically altering a type of blood cell called tumor infiltrating lymphocyte, or Til. These cells, a part of the immune system, naturally attack cancer and will migrate to tumor sites.

To enhance their cancer-fighting ability, a gene was added to the TIL cells. This gene causes the cells to make a substance called tumor necrosis factor, or TNF, a powerful type

Abortion-rights bill OK'd

Anti-abortion activists say they'll ask for vote

By JOHN ROLL Associated Press Writer

ANNAPOLIS, Md. - Maryland's governor signed a law preserving a woman's right to an abortion even if the U.S. Supreme Court overturns its Roc vs. Wade decision. Anti-abortion activists promised to put the issue before Gov. William Donald Schaefer signed the bill

Monday after the House approved it 84-52. The Senate passed It 29-18 on Feb. 11. The bill was the focus of a yearlong legislative into state law key elements of the 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision, which legalized abortion naflonwide for the first time. The bill was launched amid indications the high court might reverse the Anti-abortion activists promised to try to overturn the bill through a referendum on the November 1992 ballot. They need to collect 32,300 signatures.

"There's no problem getting those signatures. We've had 80,000 signatures in front of the governor without a bill to raise the people up," said Steve Shaneman, director of the anti-abortion Family Protection Lobby.

Abortion-rights activists said they expect a major fight and plan to raise $1 million, the amount anti-abortion proponents said the battle

Eltonhead, Goodpastor star in wins

From staff reports

LONGWOOD - Jon Ellonhead and Jason Goodpastor were the pitching stars as Seminole and Lyman high schools opened the Seminole invitational Baseball Tournament with victories at Lyman High School Monday night.

Eltonhead tossed a five hitter and allowed one carned run as the Tribe tripped Deland 5-3 and Goodpastor won his first game of the season as he hurled a four hitter in an 11-0 whitewashing of Trinity Prep.

Tonight Lyman and Seminole will square off at 7 p.m. in the winners bracket after DeLand and Trinity Prep meet at 4 p.m.

The win was Elionhead's second in as many decisions. He struck out three and walked three as Seminole evened its record at 2-2. Eltonhead has now struck out 13 and allowed five runs, only three carned runs, in 14 innings of work.

The Tribe scored three runs in the top of the second inning when W.L. Gracey singled and advanced to second when Jay Adcock walked. Jeremy Chunat then grounded out second to first but an ensuing error allowed Gracey to score. Adeock also scored on an error off the bat of Demmy Beamon and Beamon scored the third run on an RBI single by David Eckstein.

After the Bulldogs scored a run in the second and two in the fifth to tie the score Seminole came back with two runs in the top of the sixth.

Gracey was hit-by-a-pitch and sacrificed to second by Adeock. Gracey and Beamon both scored when David Eckstein's single got past the center fielder for an error.

Eckstein led the way at the plate for the Tribe going 3-4 with two RBI. Also getting hits were Chunat (1-3, triple), Gracey (1-2, two runs scored) and Scott Fergerson (1-2). Beamon added two runs scored. while Adeock also scored a run.

There was some bad news for Seminole despite the win, however, as Fergerson, the Tribe's starting short stop, suffered a broken

Sanford Jaycees name Players of the Week

By DEAN SMITH

SANFORD - Koscia Kennon. Kerry Wiggins, Pamela Williams and the Seminole Community College men's team have been chosen this week's Sanford Jaycee's Players of the Week.

Kennon averaged 17 points, 7.5 rebounds, 6.0 steals, 6.0 assists and 1.0 blocked shot per game last week as the Tribe won three games to hang onto the No. 5 spot in the Class 3A state rankings. Kennon, who has signed with Stetson, hit 19 of 23 from the free throw line last week and also played very good defense as the girls tune up for the district tournament.

Wiggins continues to be impressive on the hardwood as he averaged 17 points, eight rebounds. two steals and one assist last week. He has helped the Seminole boys win 13 of their last 17 games since starting the season 0-6.

Williams carns the honors for the Raider women after scoring 13 points (hitting 5 of 6 shots from the floor and 3 of 3 free throws) and grabbing seven rebounds as SCC made a strong second half comeback against Florida Community College at Jacksonville last week.

All nine of the SCC men's players. as well as the coaching staff, carns the JUCO men honors this week.

The Raiders have railled together as a team after suffering injuries to five of its players, including the three leading scorers at forward.

SCC coach Bill Payne and associate coach Mike McClintock have done a superb job of getting the team prepared and the players have responded to having to play added minutes and pick up the scoring load.

This was especially evident in the Raiders' come-from-behind 73-71 win over Valencia last Saturday night. The Matadors had beaten SCC earlier this season and had been playing as well as any team in the conference of late.

Kirk nominated to legal board

Bush has nominated W.L. "Bud" Kirk, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kirk, Sr., Sanford, to serve on the Board of the Legal Services Corporation. Kirk joins eleven other presidential ap-pointees to this board, all of whom are subject to Senate confirmation.

The Legal Services Corporation is an independent, federally-funded, non-profit corporation which administers federal funds to provide the poor with legal assistance in civil matters. The LSC has an annual budget of $300 million which the Board distributes in grants and contracts to independent legal services offices across the country.

Last year, the Legal Services Corporation's Board funded Bud Kirk

1.150 local offices staffed by over 6,380 attorneys and paralegals. The Board is also responsible for overseeing the activities of these various programs around the country.

Kirk, who now lives in Orlando, attended Seminole High School. He received his J.D. from the University of Florida Law School in 1968 where he served as executive editor of the University of Florida Law Review. After two years as an assistant professor at the University of Florida Law School, he moved on to private practice.

In 1979 he joined in founding the Rumberger, Kirk and Caldwell law firm in Orlando. Beginning with five attorneys, the firm Rumberger, Kirk, Caldwell, Cabaniss, Burke and Wechsler has grown to more than 75 attorneys with offices in Orlando, Miami and Tallahassee. The firm specializes in products liability defense, professional malpractice defense, insurance defense, and commercial litigation. It is one of the largest firms in Florida, with a client roster that numbers General Motors. Ford, General Electric, Nissan. Piper Aircraft, and other Fortune "500" companies.

Kirk is a member of the Federation of insurance and Corporate Counsel, past Florida Chairman of The Defense Research and Trial Lawyers Association, and a member of the board of directors of the Florida Defense Lawyers Association.

Kirk is married to the former Nancy Crable. They have two children, Jonathan and Susan.

Teen's pregnancy turns prince into frog

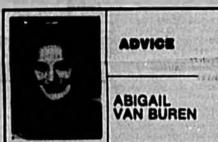

DEAR ABBY: When my daughter was 1614, she met what we thought at the time was a nice young man, 18. He was her first real boyfriend. He came over a lot; we met his parents. They told us what a fine Christian family they were.

We thought it was odd that all of a sudden he decided to transfer to college out of state. We found out the weekend after he left that our daughter was pregnant! I went to his folks and told them. That next weekend, they had their son come home from college and they all came over.

They said that they would like to help out financially, but couldn't because they had two kids in college. They bought their son a sports car and a motorcycle. My daughter asked him to pay $8 for half her vitamins. He refused. She got a few letters from him, then a phone call saying he had a new girlfriend, and she should just find someone else (when she is seven months pregnant?).

My daughter was planning on going through adoption; her boyfriend's parents said they sure didn't believe in abortion. Well, the adoption didn't go through. She kept the baby. Since she lives at home, she doesn't qualify for support other than medical care for the baby. We have expenses for formulas, dispers, etc. She wants to finish her senior year in high school. Meanwhile, the boyfriend is driving his sports car and motorcycle. He called and asked why she didn't let him know she kept the child, but refuses to help out financially.

I only hope this letter will help some teen-ager realize she is too young to listen to the boy she thinks is the greatest. My daughter thought he could do no wrong, but found out differently — the hard way.

LINCOLN, NEB., GRANDMA DEAR GRANDMA: This young man is legally responsible for the child he fathered at age 18. The legal system is on your side - and you should find out to what extent. Please don't wait. See a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I am not writing for a solution, but hope that sharing our family's experience might benefit others.

After our daughter had been married for a couple of years, we decided to give her and her husband her "inheritance" early so they could buy a house. They had gone together for a number of years, and we felt confident that this marriage would go the distance. We were wrong.

They are now being divorced, and he is getting the house! In our ignorance, we gave them a large sum of money to buy the house. The papers were drawn up in both their names. Big mistakel Details would make this letter much to long, but our daughter is getting the short end of the stick and is losing much of the money we intended her to have.

Abby, please advise anyone considering giving a sizable check to a married daughter or son to make it out in the name of your child only. Naturally, any appreciation on the house or interest earned on money becomes joint property, but the initial gift would have been our daughter's if we had made out the papers and checks in her name only.

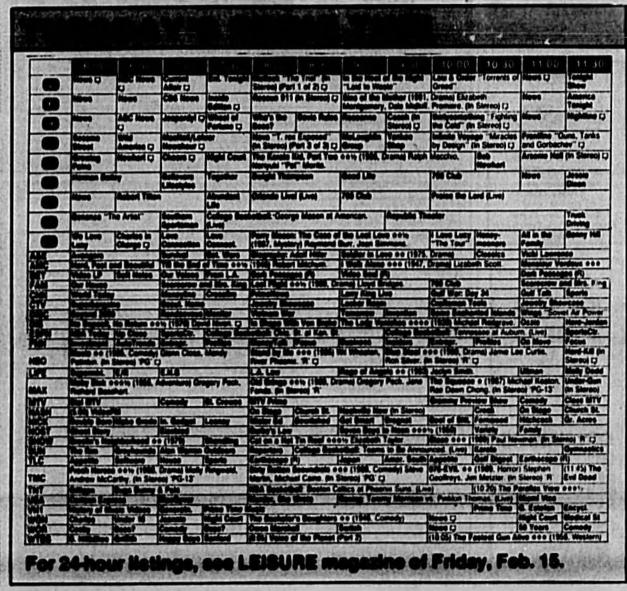

OLDER AND WISER DEAR OLDER AND WISER: Thanks for a valuable letter.

DEAR ABBY: What is the significance of wearing a single carnetion on Mother's Day?

DEAR MIMI: A red carnation is worn to signify that one's mother is living. And a white carnation signifies that one's mother is deceased.

There should also be an identifying flower worn by those whose mothers chose motherhood by raising a foster child. adopting a child or raising a stepchild.

And a special place in heaven awaits those mothers who chose an "imperfect" child. knowing that physically or mentally handicapped children require not only special needs, but also a superabundance of love. understanding and patience.

Zinc not good cure for eye disease sentle macular degeneration. I've lost the vision in one eye. and the disease has spread to the other one. Recently, I heard that 200 milligrams of zinc a day would stabilize the condition, but then was subsequently told that consuming more than 15 milligrams of zinc daily could have adverse effects. What do you think? DEAR READER: Macular degeneration is a condition of unknown cause marked by a malfunction of the portion of the retina needed for primary (central) vision. This is the leading cause of visual impairment and blindness in the elderly. There is no known medical treatment; some cases can be helped by laser surgery.

Zinc will not affect macular degeneration. The Recommended Daily Allowance for the mineral is 15 milligrams daily. Doses above this can cause anemia, nausea, abdominal cramps and fever. Therefore, taking 200 milligrams of zinc a day could result in dangerous toxicity.

To give you more information. I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I — Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed as having several salivary stones in my mouth and jaw area. My oral surgeon suggests leaving them alone, since they don't bother me. Do you have any information to provide?

DEAR READER: Hollow, fluid-containing organs — such as the galibladder, kidneys and salivary ducts - are particularly prone to stone formation. Dissolved calcium is present in body fluids and can precipitate as granules under certain-circumstances, much the same way ice forms on the surface of a pond. The reasons for this chemical reaction are unknown but are probably related to the acidity/alkalinity of the fluids,

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have coupled with poorly understood genetic influences.

Salivary stones are common. They can be large or small and can affect the saliva-producing glands themselves or the ducts that supply saliva to the mouth. Ordinarily, these stones do not cause symptoms and are left alone. They do not affect health. On occasion, however, salivary stones result in blocked ducts, leading to swelling, pain and inflammation. When this happens, the stones should be removed. I agree with your oral surgeon: Leave the stones alone unless you experience symptoms from them.

The deal was not over yet. Declarer next played to dummy's queen of diamonds and played yet another club from dummy. Garozzo was still up to the right play. He put up the 10 of clubs. That smothered his partner's nine-spot, but more than that, it guaranteed that declarer would not develop extra club tricks without letting East on lead to come through the Q-7 of hearts.

Remarkable defense. Any time that you or I try to play as well as that, declarer winds up holding A-K-9-4 of clubs, and we give up overtricks. Che sara, sara. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
