

SEC'Y REED WANDERS ON THROUGH FASTNESS AND WITHOUT ASSISTANCE

Gives Figures on Pacific Peace Past But Received no Notice

NOT AN ARGUMENT

WAS ADVANCED AGAINST HIS FIGURES AND PLAYED REPUBLICANS FOR NON-SUPPORT

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 17.—The campaign of the irreconcilables against the four power Pacific treaty continued without abatement in the Senate yesterday despite signs of waning interest and the disposition of leaders to regard ratification of the pact as a foregone conclusion.

For more than three hours, in a Senate chamber which most of the time was all but deserted, Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, assailed both the four power and naval treaties, which he said would fit together to put the United States in a position of "helplessness" in the Pacific. He charged that the facts underlying the 5-5-3 naval settlement had been misrepresented and put into the record figures of his own destined to show that superiority of speed, armament and auxiliary craft would greatly increase the relative strength of the British and Japanese navies.

The Missouri Senator's address was interrupted by senators who questioned him on minor points of information regarding the naval estimates he submitted, and when he had finished the debate drifted to other subjects. The administration leaders made no effort to reply to the attack, maintaining that Wednesday's agreement to vote finally on the treaty on March 24 had crushed all possibilities of an adverse vote.

Toward the end of his argument Senator Reed trained his fire on the apparent diminution of interest in the debate, noting for the record that only two Republican senators were present, and flaying the Republicans who had stood with him against the Versailles treaty but now were supporting the four power pact. These men, he said, had heard the commanding voice of their political party, but kept away from the debate on the Senate floor because they were "ashamed."

In the view of senators who have canvassed the situation carefully, the two big issues remaining to be settled in the four power treaty fight revolve about the foreign relations committee's "no alliance" reservation and the compromise reservation that is to be proposed regarding participation of outside powers in conferences over Pacific questions.

MASS MEETING FOR BONDS WAS MOST ENTHUSIASTIC AT COURT HOUSE LAST NIGHT

Fine Crowd Present and Many Good Points About Roads Brought Out

The mass meeting held in the court house last night to discuss the proposed bond issue or issue of the time warrants for county roads and improvements was well attended and made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers. George W. Knight acted as chairman and several good talks were made on the question of the roads and the improvements that must be made in order to keep intact the roads that have already been built.

The action of the county commissioners in calling for the bond election was unanimously endorsed by the meeting and it was also decided to make an active campaign over the county in order that the question could be taken up in its entirety and no one left in ignorance of where the roads would be made and where the old roads would be repaired and improved.

It was also decided by Attorney DeCottles that in this particular bond election that any qualified voter in the county could vote in the election. The meeting was a unit for the bonds and demonstrated that the people are greatly interested in making new roads and preserving those already built.

Revival Service Continue to Draw Large Crowds

Methodist Church the Scene of Many Touching Scenes

Those who attended the revival services last night at the Methodist church, witnessed a fine sight. When Dr. Walker made the call to penitents, a father who was holding a sleeping child, arose, carefully placed the child in the arms of another, turned, and followed by his wife, who carried a sleeping baby in her arms, went to the altar. As for me and my house, said this father and mother, we will serve the Lord. Truly none need the wisdom and strength promised to those who fear Him more than do the parents of this generation.

In addition to this husband and wife there were a number of other conversions following a fine sermon by Dr. Walker, who preached a religion of joy and optimism. "One of my sons, once expressed his pity for me," said Dr. Walker, "What are you pitying me for," I asked. "Because you can't have any sort of a good time," he replied. "But he was mistaken. There isn't a single good thing in this world any Christian cannot enjoy." The service tonight is especially to the young people of Sanford. Come to the meeting.

Shared Honors With Sgt. Woodfill, Greatest American Soldier FLORIDIANS SPEAK

JEROME WIDEMAN, STATE COMMANDER; PENSACOLA NEXT CONVENTION; HYMAN WON

(By The Associated Press) PALM BEACH, March 17.—Jerome Wideman, of West Palm Beach, attorney, was elected commander of the Florida Department of the American Legion today; Pensacola was chosen the next convention city where the convention will be held June 14, 1923. Dr. Jack Halton, of Sarasota, and H. Neil Kirkman, of Palatka, opposed Wideman for election. Halton dropped out after the first ballot, and Wideman was elected on the second ballot.

Sketch of Jerome Wideman

Jerome F. Wideman, an attorney of West Palm Beach, has been prominently identified with the Legion post of that city since its organization, having served in various official capacities. He was a delegate from this state to the last annual convention of the American Legion at Kansas City and is a retiring member of the Florida department's executive committee. He was a prime mover in the elaborate arrangements perfected for the entertainment of the visiting legionnaires to the convention just closed.

During the war Mr. Wideman served as a first lieutenant with the doughboys.

WEST PALM BEACH, March 17.—Hannford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, was the guest of honor at the fourth annual state convention of the Florida department of the American Legion in Palm Beach yesterday. Mr. MacNider was accorded an ovation, which lasted for several minutes when he had been introduced by State Commander Lowry, the packed convention hall became a riot of cheering and songs, which the national commander vainly tried to still. He was accompanied to the platform by Colonel J. McA. Palmer, of the war department and Dr. Davis Foster, national executive committee man from Florida.

Mr. MacNider said in his address no price could be put on patriotism and that such remarks were an insult to the ex-service man. He concluded his speech by saying: "We must build this legion of ours so big and fine and strong and keep it so clean and straight and American, that when we ask for certain things for the ex-service man—for the disabled man who must live through the war forever in the homes and hospitals of this country, and for those men who are financially disabled—our communities will say if the Legion is for it, we will be for it."

Among the other distinguished visitors who made speeches were Sergeant Samuel Woodfill, world war hero, former state commanders General A. H. Blanding, of Bartow and Judge J. L. Billingsly of Miami; Mrs. Homart, first national president of the Women's Auxiliary; Julio R. Embil, of Jacksonville, Cuban consul; Adjutant General Lowell, of the Florida National Guard, and George L. Berry, president of International Pressmen's Association.

A resolution presented by James W. Morris, jr., chairman of the resolutions committee, that appropriate legislation be passed and action taken to cancel naturalization papers of those citizens who violated their oath of allegiance to this country during the world war, was adopted.

Morris McElyea, of Miami, acting chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee presented a resolution giving every post, regardless of its total number of members, the privilege of sending three delegates and six alternates to the conventions was opposed by M. M. Givens, of Tampa and finally was recommended for presentation at the next session.

BANKERS' ASSOCIATION HAD GREAT PROGRAM, BIG MEETING YESTERDAY

Apopka, Apopka was selected as the next meeting place of Group Number Three and the new officers selected for the ensuing year were as follows: For president, William Edwards, president of the State Bank of Apopka, and Fred C. Allen, president of the Orlando Bank and Trust Company, as secretary.

M. DeSaussure launched into the realms of international finance when discussing foreign indebtedness to the United States.

J. R. Slattery, secretary of the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta, in a short address, spoke of the workings of the system and asked that each banker assist in educating the people in his locality to a full meaning of what the Federal Reserve System meant to the business interests of the nation.

LABEL YOUR VEGETABLES

The Herald has advocated a standard pack and a standard brand for the Sanford growers for many years. It means more money and satisfaction at both ends of the line. The Herald Printing Co., is printing a big order of beautiful labels this week for the Sanford Truck Growers, Inc., for their Seminole Brand. The work is done in red and black ink and make a very distinctive label and one that will take its place in the markets of the United States and Canada. The Sanford Truck Growers Inc. believe in a standard pack and are not afraid to put their label on their goods for they believe in a good pack and a guaranteed pack and in advertising. Incidentally they also believe in having their labels and other work done in Sanford by Sanford printers.

WILL ROGERS FIGHTS IN "ONE GLORIOUS DAY"

He never had a real fight in his life, said Will Rogers, but he has had several screen scraps and the most thrilling one, probably, occurred during the filming of the Paramount comedy, "One Glorious Day," in which he plays the leading role, with Lila Lee as leading woman, and Alan Hale as the villain, which comes to the Star Theatre tonight.

It is with Halo that Rogers has to indulge in a real rough and tumble fight and as the former is a big man, well muscled and in fine physical condition, the latter had to do some tall hustling to keep from being damaged.

When he had finished the scrap, he grinned and after puffing for a few minutes, observed:

"I've been in places where I've had to do some arguing to get out without a fight, but I never had a regular scrap. I'd rather tell 'em a riddle or two and get their minds off the trouble."

MEMBER THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Patrick's day dawned bright and early.

Very little news stirring in the world today. Notice it?

Dr. Davis Forster at the Legion meet in Palm Beach yesterday seems to have "cut a Mellon."

Tavares is about to start a perfume factory. Quite a change from a bat factory of the early days.

Lady Asquith is touring America and writing her impressions. If they don't quit that stuff we will publish our impressions of England.

"Legion Joins Dry Ranks In Search for Liquor" says headlines in Jacksonville paper. (At first glance we thought it might have happened at Palm Beach.)

We ought to hear something from Palm Beach today by radio—something that says Sanford obtained a place on the official staff of the state association, American Legion.

Man indicted for bigamy having thirteen wives in Indiana says when he leaves the pen he will become an evangelist. He could certainly do some tall preaching on King Solomon.

Sanford is growing. Even the most pessimistic citizen of this city admits it. All we need to do is to keep things moving this summer instead of going to sleep on the job. We have the goods. We should sell them.

That Ghost stuff that is keeping Halifax in a constant stew and cluttering up the press despatches resolves itself into a young girl who was doing all the devilment, braiding cow's tails, throwing rocks against houses and other pranks.

The big Chicago fire taught the fire departments of that city many things. They have no facilities for fighting sky scrapers and can't stop fires in fire proof buildings any better than we can in Sanford in our pine buildings and are probably no better than our own little department.

Despatch from St. Augustine says that President Harding mingled with the crowd on the streets "just like a common person." And why shouldn't he? The president of the great American republic is supposed to be just that kind of a man and being a newspaper man President Harding is more human than the average president, yes.

NEED MORE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

"What is the matter with the public schools?" The only answer is that there is too much public, too little of the school. From one end of the land to the other we need more and more schools. More schools, so that the cherished hopes and ideals and hard work of the whole teaching force from the superintendent to the assistant teacher may serve the nation as they so sincerely aspire to and plan for.

The quotation is from "The Teacher and the Taught," an article in the March issue of Harper's Magazine, written by Grace Irwin. Every friend of the Americanization feature of the work of the public school should read it; every legislator who raises a hand or a vote against liberal support to the public school should be tied to a stake and made to listen to it. For it is not only the child of foreign parents or the child born abroad and emigrant to the United States who needs Americanization; it is the street child, the child of poverty and ignorance and wretchedness, who must have it. And it is here that he gets his first and often his knowledge of what real American citizenship may be; here in the public school, he learns not only the three Rs but what truth, honor and decency mean, and what the rights of others stand for in young lives otherwise lived only in selfish egoism.

Would there were more Grace Irwins and more Harper's Magazines to publish articles like this; articles which show the American public school in a more grim light than that which illuminates merely pretty buildings on a West end avenue to which the children of opportunity go. For it is to the public schools, down in the slums, standing often the one clean spot in a wallow of civil, political, moral and actual filth, to which America must look for the fires which boil the melting pot. And the more we know the facts, the more we read and understand the truth, the more will we demand of our city fathers that these, the cradles of American ideals for all our youth, be well maintained and adequately supported.

IT CAN'T BE DONE—BUT—

Every day some optimistic fellow jumps up and says "we are going to build here" and the pessimistic grouch jumps up and "says it can't be done" and then it is done nine times out of ten if the optimist predominate over the pessimists. If the reverse is the rule you see a dead town because that "can't" business never built a town and never will. All the progressives can do is wait until a kind providence steps in to aid them. Down in Orlando the optimists predominate and Orlando is a growing city that does things, thinks things, dreams things and puts them over. When the editor of the Herald lived in Orlando we would have a meeting of some kind every night about something big for Orlando. They did not put them over always but they hit the bull's eye nine times out of ten and out of all the hot air we would get a proposition that would help to build Orlando. There were a few who said "it can't be done" but very few. Two or three down there now in the person of Ange, Ryan and others said they would build an eleven story hotel. "It can't be done" said some. Well, the eleven stories of steel are up and the rest will follow. It is being done. Messrs Ange and Ryan and others are now contemplating a trolley line from Sanford to Plant City. We contemplated the same line fifteen years ago and obtained the right of way over the greater part of it. Folks said "it couldn't be done." They say it now. They will tell Ange about it. However, it can be done and will be done and when it is done it will be the greatest thing for this part of Florida that has ever been accomplished and will prove a good investment to the people who put their faith and dollars in it. A trolley line from the St. Johns river south means that the river traffic can be distributed cheaper in this part of the state than ever before. It means that with a trolley line the St. Johns river will really be the great artery of highway and travel that it should be—the greatest in the south. It means that government recognition will be given the St. Johns river and we will have deep water to Palatka and on to Jacksonville and big ships will be tied up at our wharves. It means that the dreams of our big hearted boosters who have been doing so much here for water transportation will see their dreams come true. It means that the troubles of the promoters of the Central Florida Water League will almost be over since the trolley line will feed the ships as nothing else will do.

It means that Sanford and all this part of the state will go ahead and prosper as no other part of the south.

However—always remember that "it can't be done."

It is a fine slogan for the kickers. For the knockers. The nuts.

HIGH FREIGHT RATES AND THE SPECULATOR

Newspapers throughout the state are calling special attention to the trucker that shipped a carload of cabbage to New York and received in return for same $543.00; if we remember correctly the freight on the carload amounted to something like $500, leaving the trucker $43 for the produce.

The story was used as an illustration of how the railroads are robbing the truckers and growers of the inland towns of Florida. It was also used as an excuse for plowing under hundreds of acres of cabbage because the truckers were afraid it would not pay freight charges.

UNCLE HANK

One of the consolations of old age is, a feller hain't expected to keep his trousers pressed.

The Star has advocated lower freight rates, it also believes that in land towns of Florida, should not be discriminated against in favor of other Florida towns located on water routes that are given advantage of competitive rates. But what we want to bring out is that before freight rates went up we recall several instances of where Floridians shipped oranges to Eastern markets and were requested later to send enough money to pay the freight. Therefore this condition is not altogether chargeable to railroads. Had the freight rate been lowered 20 per cent the trucker would have only received $135 for his cabbage, which would not have paid for his crate material and labor in crating and loading it.

Suppose we traced that cabbage after it arrived in New York, we would probably find that it was selling for eight and ten cents a pound (solid fancy heads) this means about 25 cents a head, when purchased at the local grocery stores in the larger cities. There is quite a difference between the price the trucker received and the amount the ultimate consumer paid. Where is the joke? We wonder what the commission man sold that same cabbage for to the wholesaler and how much the wholesaler sold it for to his retail trade and then how much profit the retailer figured he needed in order to handle a commodity that might spoil on his hands?

When truckers in Florida and every other state quit shipping to the commission men and two or three middle men (only in the game for speculation) cabbage and other produce will not be plowed under. The chances are ten to one that Mr. Ultimate consumer would be mighty glad to be able to order his cabbage direct from the grower and pay him a fair price, too.

It might be interesting to know while we are on the subject what strawberries are selling for in the Northern markets today. The grower is receiving about twenty-five cents per quart and the consumer is paying out about a dollar for the same quantity. 'Tis true the railroads or common carriers get their share, but they attempt to furnish in a measure some value received, while two or three people between the grower and the ultimate consumer take their little ante, keeping up the cost of the commodity, while the trucker does the work and receives the least.

Co-operative marketing will eliminate the speculator. It can make money on your crop, no matter what it is, you can do likewise. 'Tis all very well to get behind the railroads and have freight rates lowered and also discrimination existing against inland cities, removed, but while we are at it let's get behind the rest of the evil and find out why two or three middlemen should get their finger in the pie when they had absolutely nothing to do with its making.—Lakeland Star.

PROSPERITY FOLLOWS CO-OPERATION.

Co-operation is the greatest factor in the upbuilding of any community or any business or any project large or small. Without the real spirit of co-operation no community can accomplish the big things commensurate with the bounties of nature, with the location and with the advantages that many sections possess over others. The Times Union aptly sets forth the prosperity of Florida since the co-operative spirit has been exemplified here in the co-operation among the farmers and fruit growers as follows:

"Florida's prosperity at a time when the business of the rest of the country is feeling more or less the reaction from the stress and turmoil of war and is further depressed by the chaotic condition, commercially and financially, of Europe is attracting wide attention. Among others who have been impressed by it is the editor of the Chattanooga News, who in a visit to Florida, has taken pains to study into the causes of the phenomenon. He traces it to the spirit of co-operation and tells of the prosperity and growth of our greatest co-operative organization, the Florida Citrus Exchange.

The basic factor in our prosperity, of course, is the incomparable climate of the state. That enables our farmers, whose prosperity is reflected in that of the whole state, to produce a variety of the fruits and vegetables of both the temperate and subtropical zones at a time of the year when the fields north of us are either locked in ice or blanketed with snow. Consequently, they receive higher prices for what they produce than those of any section of the country do.

In the days of individual transactions between producers and commission merchants their products often fell into the hands of dishonest receivers in the great markets and they were robbed and that much less money came into the state as the proceeds of their sales, or they often sent their commodities to glutted markets and had to accept small returns, if they did not even have to pay transportation on their shipments, because they could not know that these goods were not wanted in the markets to which they were sent.

They have the opportunity nowadays to sell their fruits and vegetables, in many cases, through co-operative associations whose officers' chief interest is in getting the highest price the markets afford for the products they sell for the growers in order that they may be able to make as large returns as possible to those growers for their labors. Receiving early information of changes in the conditions of the various great markets they are able, by a system of diversion of cars rolling northward, to avoid dumping products on markets already surfeited with those products, and they, have systems of selling through agents who are acquainted with those markets. Furthermore, they are able to employ that great engine of modern business, advertising to an extent impossible to the individual producer.

That these co-operative marketing associations are the one great cause of the state's present prosperity, to which all other factors are but contributory, there can be no doubt. It so impresses the observer from another state. Therefore the grower who refuses to join with his fellow producers in the marketing of farm and grove products is doing himself and the state an injury. He may be able to secure more in some years than his co-operating neighbors, by some lucky chance, but in the course of years he makes an aggregate considerably less, besides having an amount of worry from which they are saved.

All over the world are found examples where countries with little natural advantages have built up solid prosperity through farm co-operative marketing and purchasing associations. Even in Russia, it is claimed, the peasants, united in the co-operative associations which have existed there thru a long course of years, are able to resist the encroachments of anarchy and save the country from the utmost limit of depression in spite of the failure of the crops for to ears.

TROLLEY LINE PLANNED FROM SANFORD TO PLANT CITY BY ORLANDO CAPITALISTS

Would Form Connecting Link With St. Johns River Boat Line

The following from the Orlando Reporter-Star will prove most interesting to Sanford people who are just now vitally interested in lowering the freight rate by water transportation: "Plans are maturing for an inter-urban electric trolley line to connect five of the principle South Florida cities.

"This arresting fact was made public today through a news source, and later Frank J. Ryan, who is one of the leading spirits in connection with the erection here of the hotel Menendez granted the Reporter-Star an interview and talked at length on the subject.

"The project is being fathered by Mr. Ryan and J. F. Ange, the latter the president of the Bank of Orange and head of the Orange Hotel.

"Mr. Ryan declared that the proposal to build an inter-urban electric line has been gone into thoroughly, that he has discussed the project with bankers, citrus growers, farmers and merchants throughout all central Florida, and that the venture has met with unqualified approval.

"It is proposed to build the road from Sanford through Orlando to Plant City; and two other spurs would connect this city with Daytona and Tavares.

"The milk in the coconut of the project is high freight rates, and the plan is being pushed on the basis that at Sanford the line would connect with river traffic on the St. Johns, which means a water rate to and from the east, which according to Mr. Ryan will be the greatest boon central Florida could possibly enjoy.

"Discussing freight rates Mr. Ryan said: 'Railroad rates, as everybody knows, as so high as to constitute a handicap to all business. A million dollars worth of strawberries were grown this year at Plant City and were shipped in many instances, I am informed, at an actual loss owing to excessive freight charges.

"These charges affect us all, but the merchant and the shipper most of all. By giving to the citrus growers of the citrus belt the advantages of a water haul rate to market would mean a wonderful thing to that industry. And to give the merchants the benefit of the rate on merchandise coming into this section would confer another boon.

"So that it would be at the outset more upon the freight haul than the passenger haul that we would count for economic support. But consider what inter-urban service would do in enhancing land values in the sections which were traversed, and consider the possibilities of town building along the lines.

"Those of us who travel know what trolley service has done toward the development of rural New England. The city of Des Moines, Iowa, has grown from a population of sixty thousand people to two hundred thousand in little more than ten years, due to trolley service.

"All of central New York state has been developed by the same agency.

"In my opinion South Florida has reached the stage where this development is a practical proposition. Hard roads are essential to the upbuilding of a country, and the automobile will do much, and has played a wonderful part in our development, but in the last analysis it is the trolley line which has interlocked interior America and made it the solid country it is."

"Mr. Ryan said that if the line goes as far south as Plant City, undoubtedly the Tampa trolley service will be extended to that point to make an intersection, which will mean the road will run 'from water to water' right through the heart of South Florida.

"Commenting upon the cost of the project, he said he estimated the line could be built in its entirety for from twelve to fifteen million dollars. The manner of its building will be thru a giant company, and it is planned for the stock to be taken up by those who will be served by the enterprise, the merchants and growers of the sections through which it passes."

NEEDS THE KU KLUX.

(By The Associated Press) WINCHESTER, Va., March 16.—Rather than ride in the "Jim Crow" compartment of a Pennsylvania railroad train from the state line to this city, Charles S. Gilpin, negro actor and his troupe quit the train at Clearbrook, Va., and made the rest of the trip to Winchester by automobile.

When the conductor told Gilpin the Virginia state requirements in regard to negro passengers, a heated argument is said to have followed, which resulted in some quotations from President Harding's expressed views on the negro question. The conductor refused to be persuaded by the arguments. Gilpin got off and his company followed.

EDUCATIONAL LEGISLATION

No problem of our commonwealth is being more carefully considered by our women than the condition and needs of our public schools; and every phase of this fundamental question is being thoughtfully studied by the State Federation of Women's Clubs and the State League of Women Voters have agreed to concentrate their legislative efforts for the better administration of our public schools, upon a measure embodied in the following resolutions passed by both of these organizations, which will also be endorsed by other organizations of women, and which will, no doubt, be a part of the legislation recommended by the legislative council of Women's Organizations:

WHEREAS, the State Board of Education, as at present constituted, consists entirely of ex-officio members, viz: The governor, secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer and superintendent of public instruction; and

WHEREAS, except for the last named official, the burdens and responsibilities of these offices are such that it is impossible for the men holding them to give to the question of public education the time and consideration it demands, especially since these officials are members of many other boards; and

WHEREAS, except for the last named official, the burdens and responsibilities of these offices are such that it is impossible for the men holding them to give to the question of public education the time and consideration it demands, especially since these officials are members of many other boards; and

WHEREAS, The Board of Education, as constituted, is, of necessity, a partisan or fractional body, although the schools are supported by all the people regardless of political or religious affiliations; and

WHEREAS, As constituted, a change of administration may bring into power a new and inexperienced body of men—a practice dangerous, if not fatal, to the best interests of education; and

WHEREAS, As constituted, women are probably for a long time, if not lastingly, excluded from serving on this board, a service for which our women of broad culture, educational experience, progressive ideas and leisure are eminently fitted; and

WHEREAS, Florida is one of the only nine states in the American union adhering to this antiquated method of forming its Board of Education, therefore be it,

RESOLVED, that in the judgment of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs and League of Women Voters, the constitution of Florida should be so amended as to provide for a Board of Education such as exists, and has been found effective, in most other states of the American Union; and be it,

RESOLVED, that we petition the next legislature to submit to the people of Florida, a Constitutional amendment providing for a State board of education, appointive in the main, and of which only the governor and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be ex-officio members, and upon which each Congressional District will be represented by an appointee, as well as one from the state at large.

It is no criticism of the ability to fill successfully the important state offices represented on this Board of Education, to say that the men who have held them, have probably not been qualified by training or interest to determine the policies, or to manage the operation of our educational institutions. Time was, when a board of education composed as is ours, could function with comparatively satisfactory results, for our schools were much more simple in organization and curriculum than now, and many of the present problems of finance and management were unknown. Education has now become the chief business of the states, and the women of Florida do not believe that this complicated enterprise can be left as a mere incident with a group of officials already overburdened with duties, and relying largely upon one man to keep them informed as to "What's What" in this great undertaking. This is not a one man—or one woman—job!

Florida should have a Board of Education made up of men and women of affairs, selected from the state at large, because of their fitness for this position. They should be men and women of recognized ability and sterling character, breadth of mind and vision, convinced of the importance of education, and willing and able to give time and energy to this great work. No salary should attach to the office, only expenses, thus putting it outside the pale of political spoils.

The public schools are entitled to a board of directors who can really function as such, as our institutions of higher learning have their managers in the Board of Control, a body appointed by the governor, and which during its sixteen years of existence, has been markedly free from political favoritism, because no salary goes with an appointment to its membership.

The public schools are largely the guardians of the education, physical, mental, moral and social, of our future citizens, and a group of our strongest and best men and women should have this paramount business of the state in charge.

Before this movement was launched, it had the endorsement of men prominent in the political, professional and business life of our state. A careful study was made, also of the educational methods of administration of other states.

This seems a matter which should make a strong appeal to the best judgment and common sense of the men and women of our commonwealth.

(MRS. W. F.) LUCY WORTHINGTON BLACKMAN, Chairman of Education, League of Women Voters; chairman of Educational Legislation, Federation of Women's Clubs; member of the Legislative Council of Women's Organizations.

Roberta Ambrose Killed by Automobile Yesterday

Roberta Ambrose, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Ambrose, was killed yesterday afternoon on Second street near the Harrold store by a passing automobile driven by Mr. Tolbert. The child stepped out from behind a wagon going in the same direction and the driver of the car could not avoid hitting her as he was forced to stop within a distance of four feet and also on account of the team in front. No blame is attached to the driver of the car as the accident was one of those unfortunate affairs that could not possibly be avoided and it seemed that the little girl was destined to be killed and it was not meant for her to be left here on earth to gladden the hearts of her parents who were devoted to her. Roberta was the only child and was the joy and pride of their hearts and her sudden death is a sad blow to them and the many friends of the child, her school mates and teachers and friends generally.

The funeral will occur from the residence of the parents on Second street at four o'clock this afternoon, Dr. Brownlee, of the Presbyterian church, officiating and interment will be made in Lakeview cemetery.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the grief stricken parents in their hour of bereavement.

H. S. NOTES

Monday morning in chapel, Dr. Hudson, traveling missionary from China, entertained us very much with his fine talk on the customs and manners of the Chinese boys and girls. He told the stories of the three best boys and the one best girl in China, and also why the white, brown and negro races have different hues. He ended his talk with an incident of a Chinese teacher giving his class an examination to see if the boys could become fine men, and though only one boy in the class passed, because he guessed the secret, "Light," the others guessed music, flowers, firewood, hay, etc., but Dr. Hudson said, if you have the light of God in your heart, all the others will come to you.

Marion Hand will give a party for the Seniors at her home on West First street Friday night (tonight).

The H. S. girls are selling lunches at the High School every Wednesday at recess and dinner, to help pay for a Domestic Science course next year. Buy your lunches from them—it's going to a good cause.

Lillian Shinholser, in History the other day, made us all laugh, while reading the sentence, "Our government is a dual government," pronounced "dual" as "do-all."

Track practice is being held regularly. Thursday afternoon the boys interested in base ball met in the auditorium to discuss the organizing of a school base ball team. We're expecting great things from these fellows!

Miss Sara Muriel—"Frederick, what does the word 'impecunious' mean?" Frederick—"Well, I can tell it in my own words, but—"

Miss M.—"Proceed!" Frederick—"Well, I just can't tell you, exactly."

Wednesday in chapel—Miss Humphries starts to play the phonograph, but finds it is locked, and greatly embarrassed (?) asks Frederick to get the key, which he did, and then we were enabled to hear two fine records loaned us by the General Extension Division of the University of Florida, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," and "O! For the Wings of a Dove," by Lucy Isabella Marsh.

"The Hoodoo" the Senior play, is being rehearsed regularly. We wonder if the boys like to rehearse the kissing part (?), or the girls, too, for that matter.

Miss Sara Muriel has had 'as her guests, teachers from Rollins College. They certainly had some nice things to say about our school.

Miss Elizabeth Humphries during the past week-end visited Orlando, Kissimmee, Haines City, Lakeland, Plant City and Dade City. She says the Plant City strawberry fields are beautiful.

Dr. Walker and Mr. Boyd again visited us in chapel Friday and invited us to the special services at the Methodist church tonight. He called upon the teachers to sing, "Smile and Keep Sweet," but only two responded, Miss Williams and Mrs. McKay, but they were greatly applauded. He then asked eight boys to sing it, but they sang only after great persuasion.

Special mention should be made of William Mallem, one of our Seniors, who on Armistice Day last year, was fortunate enough to win the first prize given by the Woman's Club for selling the most flags. He sold over $40 worth. Anybody with pep enough to do that is going to make a big success in life, so say we all.

FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT BREAKS PAST BARRIER INTO LAND OF NATIVE SONS CAUSING GREAT CALIFORNIAN CONSTERNATION

Forgotten for a day was the Jap question, the Arbuttle trial and other Hollywood sensations; for a few brief moments the native sons even overlooked referring to the "wonderful climate" for California was much and greatly shaken; yes, even more than by the San Francisco earthquake.

A stranger was discovered within the gates; an interloper was exposed; an imposter unmasked—a Florida grapefruit had treacherously and insidiously slipped across the boundary line into the sacred precincts of Los Angeles.

So related an afternoon newspaper of that city, according to a clipping sent back by a Duval county girl who is temporarily a resident there. Hubbub, uproar clamor and all of that was unceremoniously and a squad of horticulturists turned out on the double when the lone grapefruit was expanded, by gossip, into crates of luscious Florida citrus delicacy.

Traced to its source, the story was revealed that a woman received one grapefruit neatly done in soft tissue paper. It came by parcel post contrary "to the peace and dignity of the State of California" since there has been an embargo on Florida citrus fruit in that state since 1916, yet it was too late to prosecute the innocent recipient of "Sealdawet" propaganda, since she, poor lady, had already eaten the evidence. Whether the native sons of the M. D. contingent hold any hope for her recovery is not stated.

Who knows but that she may be evicted from California on the biblical precedent laid down in Genesis, where "forbidden fruit" led Adam and Eve into the same predicament. Turned out of this modern "Garden of Eden" and still possessed of an insatiable longing for grapefruit, the lady may have to move to Florida.

Which would not be so bad as her California neighbors might alleviate—Times Union.

TRIBUTARIES OF THE MISSISSIPPI RISING

MEMPHIS, March 16.—With tributaries of the Mississippi river rising rapidly, flood stage before Sunday night was predicted yesterday by J. H. Scott, United States weather bureau forecaster here. Residents of low and unprotected lands between Memphis and Helena, Ark., were warned by the bureau to move to higher ground immediately.

Heavy and continued rains, not only in this section, but along many of the tributaries of the Mississippi, will result in a "pronounced flood" here, the warning states. The Mississippi will continue to rise steadily for ten days or more after Sunday, Mr. Scott says, but makes no estimate of the height the crest of the flood will reach. The gauge at six o'clock last night showed at most 33 feet, a rise of .3 of a foot during the day. The flood stage here is 35 feet.

Back waters from the Mississippi have already covered low lands north of Memphis, and residents have moved their possessions safely.

FLORIDA CATTLE RAISERS' ASS'N. ELECTS OFFICERS

GAINESVILLE, March 16.—The Cattle Raisers Association of Florida closed a most interesting and instructive session in this city yesterday and the greater part of the 150 or more men in attendance left on the afternoon trains for their respective homes. The main business of the morning was the election of officers which resulted as follows:

G. Murphree, Bradenton, president; S. M. Burt, DeLeon Springs, first vice-president; A. L. Jackson, of Gainesville, second vice-president; Sam Summerlin, Cocon, secretary; J. H. Pylant, Bartow, treasurer.

The executive committee is composed of McQueen Chaires, Old Town, chairman; R. H. Redding, Ocala; F. R. Knight, Bradenton; W. J. Sanchez, St. Augustine; Jabe Turner, San Mateo; E. H. Miller, Freeport; C. F. Raulerson, Ft. Pierce; C. E. Crumb, Bushnell; W. L. Graddick, Jacksonville; H. T. Lykes, Tampa; S. P. Potter, Leesburg; Joe Cameron, Sanford; S. C. Clyatt, Otter Creek; H. O. Barton, Kissimmee.

SECOND GROWTH OF PINE TAKEN UP BY EXPERTS FOR THE U. S. GOVERNMENT

Reforestation Policy of Florida Receiving Attention from National Government

JACKSONVILLE, March 17.—"Serviceable second growth long leaf pine can be produced in Florida in one-third to one-half the time required to grow the virgin crop of timber," was the statement recently made here by R. D. Forbes, of New Orleans, director of the Southern Forest experiment station, while in Jacksonville conferring with officers of the Florida development board and others, who are interested in promoting a reforestation policy, regarding arrangements for some investigational work on rapidity of growth of second-growth long leaf pine in various parts of the state.

Commenting upon the work of the Southern forest experiment station he said:

"There has been sufficient work done in Florida to justify the statement that second growth timber makes more rapid growth than was experienced by the virgin timber and there are reasons for this condition. In the first place, now trees could only become established in the original forests when a few of the old trees died or were blown down by a storm, permitting sun rays to reach the ground and stimulate the tree seed to sprout and thrust its head upwards.

"The older trees with their ramification of roots took up most of the moisture and the little tree had a hard time getting sufficient growing elements, sunshine and moisture to raise its top upwards. Taking the second growth as we find it coming on today in cut-over lands where nature has been kind enough to prevent fires from killing all the little pines, they are about uniform in size, each having an equal opportunity to get all the elements necessary for growth.

"Fred H. Miller, one of my assistants will arrive here soon to begin, in co-operation with land owners, an extensive investigation, so we can point to definite areas and know from careful cruises of the timber thereon, just how much cord wood is standing on that area, or just how much saw material, depending upon the varying ages of timber on the different tracts. We do not care to investigate any trees under ten years of age, but hope to have a considerable number of tracts on different types of soil, showing varying ages of trees from ten to twenty years. Then we can compute with accuracy the rate of tree growth and tell whether it will be profitable to reforest cut-over lands having certain types of soil. For the purpose of these investigations we desire not less than one acre areas fully wooded, furnished by interested owners without cost to the government, and we will not damage the trees.

"A little later in the season a representative of the Southern forest experiment station and another from the forest products laboratory, at Madison, Wis., will be sent to the Florida national forests to make some detailed investigations on turpentine trees.

"We are a part of the United States forest service, which is a branch of the department of agriculture, trees being considered a crop the same as corn or cotton, although requiring a longer time for maturing.

"The most important requirement in successful forestry is to prevent forest fires for at least five or six years after nature has distributed the seed over the cut-over land. The little pines may survive burnings during the first few years until the crown gets several inches from the ground, after which the bark becomes more exposed and easily killed, but every exposure to fire stunts the tree to some extent and delays its progress.

"Under the present conditions about all the owner raises on his cut-over lands is a healthy crop of taxes. The land decreases in potential value every time a fire burns over it, consuming humus which should become a part of the soil. Careful surveys show that there are approximately five million acres of cut over land in Florida, which have not been reforested and a large majority of the responsibility for lack of trees on those acres now is due to burning of the woods to get green wire grass. The little seedlings have been killed and there were no seed trees left to scatter a new crop of seeds, so the land is barren.

"In the past there has not been a large amount of data to prove that growing of tree crops is profitable in the Southern states, but we hope to be able to show within a few months by figures based on actual conditions in Florida and in other Southern states, that with proper fire protection, the growing of timber crops is a profitable investment.

M. M. SMITH AGAIN HEAD OF FLORIDA AUTOMOBILE ASS'N.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 17.—Hereafter the name will be the Florida Automobile Association, the word "State" having been dropped as being superfluous at the annual meeting of the former Florida State Automobile Association held here yesterday. To maintain its honor and good name the organization will appeal to its one thousand and eight-seven members to contribute ten dollars each for the payment of an existing floating indebtedness of some six or seven thousand dollars, leaving enough to operate the association for the ensuing year.

A resolution of sympathy was sent to Senator Park Trammell on his bereavement.

The meeting also decided to incorporate the association. President M. M. Smith was re-elected for another year; Senator W. M. Igou, of Eustis, was elected first vice-president; Sam T. Harris, of St. Petersburg, second vice-president; John Baas, Orlando, treasurer, and Clarence Woods, of Lake county secretary, the last named offering his services without salary for a period of one or two months until a successor could be named.

STATE PLANT BOARD HAS NEW WORKER

GAINESVILLE, March 17.—Reginald Hart, who has spent several years with the Cuban Agricultural Experiment Station engaged in plant sanitation work has become an attaché of the State Plant Board of Florida to do regular inspection work. Mr. Hart, a native of Vermont, holds a bachelor of science degree from the Massachusetts Agricultural College where he graduated in 1916. As a student he specialized in entomology and forestry.

He was later connected with the Cuban Agricultural Experiment Station for a year and a half, and still later with the Cuban Bureau of Plant Sanitation. His principal work in the latter was in the inspection of plants and fruits and the eradication of injurious insects and diseases of these plants and fruits.

POLICE DROPPED THROUGH SKYLIGHT ON POKER GAME

(By The Associated Press) KKEY WEST, March 17.—One of the players was about to lay down a pat, straight flush at a poker party in the rear of the Rex Cafe here Thursday night when Captain of Police Roker and Patrolman Richardson dropped down through a skylight and interrupted the game. The officers rounded up all the money and seventeen persons as the result of the raid and they said one participant was making for a door, with a bottle of liquor when they dropped into the midst of the devotees of the goddess of chance. Roker attempted to raid the place several weeks ago but was balked by a bolted door. This time he descended upon it from the skylight, making a twelve foot drop into the room.

ORANGES SELLING FOR $5.00 A BOX

Citrus fruit is bringing high prices all over Orange county and there is at present a splendid market for all of Florida's products in the North, a survey of the opinions of leading growers and shippers in Orlando disclosed yesterday.

Although oranges are now selling in many cases for five dollars a box on the trees, a warning is sounded to the grower that there may be a break in the market a little later, but despite this declaration there are many who are inclined to take a chance on prices going even higher.

A well-known resident of Mt. Dora recently sold the crop from six acres of tangerine trees for $22,000 net, which is it must be admitted, a good price even for this section of the state. A well known Ocoee grower is reported to have refused five dollars a box for his crop, which will be larger this year than ever before.

Shipments of Valencia are going out daily from the packing houses of all the local concerns as well as the late crop of pineapple oranges. Thus far, the season has proved more profitable to the individual grower than to the large shipper, it was said yesterday in an authoritative quarter.—Orlando Sentinel.

Causes Considerable Excitement in Italy Today

(By The Associated Press) CONSTANTINOPLE, March 16.—A Greek destroyer seized an Italian steamship, the Africa, in the Black sea and after a search for Turkish passengers, including personnel of the Turkish sanitary corps, declared prisoners of war.

PACKED FOUR QUARTS OF LIQUOR IN GRAPEFRUIT

(By The Associated Press) MIAMI, March 17.—A new method of packing liquor for shipment north was uncovered by officers near Orange Glade several days ago when they raided a packing house and seized 118 quarts of high grade whiskey. George Wheatley, arrested in the raid, admitted that he was packing the whiskey in boxes of grapefruit, the officers said. In each box were two small compartments, in each end, and layers of grapefruit were placed on each side of the compartments making it impossible to distinguish the box of fruit from an ordinary crate, unless it was opened for examination. Each compartment in the box held six quarts of liquor.

RHODE ISLAND TO GIVE WOMEN 48-HOUR WEEK

(By The Associated Press) PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 16.—After a bitter struggle in which repeated efforts were made by opponents of the measure to have it shelved, the house of representatives yesterday passed the Lavender bill providing for forty-eight hour working week for women, and children under 16 years of age. The bill was 64 to 25.

The bill now goes to the state senate, was amended to permit of exceptions in case of "seasonal occupation." Women and children engaged in such occupations which the state board of labor is to define, may work a maximum of 2 hours a week, according to this provision.

While the house was debating the bill, the senate judiciary committee held a public hearing on two other bills defining hours of labor for workers. One of these, by Senator Barry of Central Falls, would order a general forty-eight hour week for men, women and children. Proponents of a forty-eight hour law for women and children only at the hearing expressed belief that the Barry bill would be unconstitutional. The second bill that of Senator Noel of Westwarwick, is similar in its provisions to that passed yesterday by the house.

DE VALERA LAUNCHES A NEW ORGANIZATION

(By The Associated Press) DUBLIN, March 16.—Emonn De Valera issued a manifesto last evening launching a new Irish organization to be called the "Cumann Na Poblachta," or Republican Association and asked financial and moral support of it.

According to the manifesto the new organization takes its stand on the proclamation of the Irish republic in Easter week, 1916, and its ratification in the declaration of independence of January, 1919. Mr. De Valera signed the manifesto on behalf of the republican members of the Dail Eireann and their standing committee.

The main objects of the organization, as stated in the manifesto, are to secure international recognition of the Irish republic, to maintain the undiminished sovereign authority of the dail and to repudiate the proposed agreement with Great Britain as humiliating to the nation and destructive to its status and rightful claims.

BUCKETING PROBE ENDED

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 17.—Chief City Magistrate McAdoo yesterday completed his "John Doe" inquiry into the charges of alleged bucketing by members of the American cotton exchange and announced he would make known his findings and conclusions not later than this morning. George Gordon Battle, counsel for members of the exchange, and Albert Massey, attorney for the exchange itself, asked that if a complaint was returned against the defendants that they be given the privilege of a hearing in a magistrate's court instead of a grand jury action.

Any indictments, they declared would be injurious to the property rights of the 600 members of the exchange, many of whom are scattered throughout the south. Magistrate McAdoo explained that future action would be at the discretion of the district attorney's office.
