Panel To Examine Sanford Race Relations

By Rick Brunson Herald Staff Writer

When Robert "Bob" Thomas was a youngster growing up in Sanford in the 1930s, he couldn't walk on the same sidewalk with white boys. It wasn't his place, they told him. Neither could he sit at local restaurant counters and eat grilled cheese sandwiches with white folks — that wasn't his place either.

Fifth years later, Thomas found his place - a seat on the Sanford City Commission, with white folks. Between his boyhood days and now, something Thomas fondly calls "the change" occurred in Sanford and around the nation. Integration, detonated by federal laws and civil rights activism. 'You still have rednecks but thank God there aren't many of them. I can't see that there's that much of a (race) problem right now. The committee might not have that much to work on.'

-former city commissioner John Kader crumbled barriers between the races that had stood stalwartly for years.

But while the "whites only" signs over drinking fountains and restrooms have disappeared in Sanford, the subtle underpinnings of racism - fear and misunderstanding - still exist. Thomas says. And that keeps Sanford, a city of about 19,000 whites and 9,000 blacks, from becoming the "family" he envisions.

So what does the city's first black city commissioner plan to do about it? Not start a march down French Avenue, that's for sure. Neither is he going to lead a group of sit-in demonstrators in a chorus of "We Shall Overcome" or shout racial rhetoric over a bullhorn. These methods are too confrontational and belong to a time gone by, he said. Strangely enough, his first line of

"I want people to just to get to know me," Thomas said recently. "Once they see I'm all right, maybe they'll open up a little bit to others (black people).

Thomas' second strategy is keeping a promise he made while stumping for his commission seat - the formation of a bi-racial committee to promote racial harmony in the city.

So far, he has eight people - five blacks and three whites - who have agreed to serve on the panel. He is looking for three more to even its composition. The group will hold its first meeting the first week of May. Thomas

15 Americans Hurt In Explosion

Lake Mary High School students in Carol Jentry's art class are bucking a national trend that is placing less emphasis on arts education. But in Seminole County, the fine arts seem to be flourishing despite new state graduation reguirements that place more academic demands on students.

Is Art As Important As The Three Rs?

By Roger Simmons Herald Staff Writer

"Art is basic to education - as basic as math, science and language."

It's that simple. No equivocation. No apologies. It's not a luxury, secondary to the fundamentals.

That is the heart of a report prepared for the Getty Center for Education in The Arts on the state of the fine arts in America's public schools. The report concluded that the current wave of back-to-basics hysteria in education is sweeping over the fine arts and needs to be stemmed. In some areas, arts classes, including band, have been dropped along with such extra-curricular activities as athletics, clubs and student government.

Based on extensive discussions with leaders in the art education field, we have have concluded that art can be taught as a serious academic subject — as serious as math, language and science," the report said. "And like those subjects, it should be taught in a systematic, rigorous way if it is to move from the sidelines of instruction to a more central place in a balanced school curriculum

Unlike the rest of the nation, the fine arts seem to be safely entrenched in Seminole County School and in fact are flourishing. emphasis on arts is support from the top.

Terrorists Suspected In Blast That Killed 18 And Injured 82

MADRID, Spain (UPI) -Authorities said today they suspected a terrorist bomb caused the explosion that destroyed a steakhouse filled with U.S. servicemen, killing at least 18 people and injured another 82.

The Friday night blast blew out the front of the Descanso restaurant, 9 miles from Madrid near the U.S. Air Force base at Torrejon, bringing the upper floors of the 3-story building down on the dinner-hour crowd. 'If They're Not Guilty, Does That Mean Jackson Isn't Dead?'

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

A man was murdered, gunned down in a ditch. but no one will go to prison for killing him, a jury decided Friday when it returned a not guilty verdict in the case of a Sanford man who was charged with first-degree murder as an accomplice.

The other suspect in the case was acquitted in January.

When the not guilty verdict was read, defendant Rodney White, 19, of 1703 W. 14th St., jumped to his feet then sat quietly down, covering

"I was happy, man. I was facing life for nothing. Wouldn't you be happy?" he later said. If convicted. White could have received up to life in prison with no possibility of parole for 25

The eight-man, four-woman Seminole Circuit

Court jury deliberated two hours before returning the verdict at 6:50 p.m. in the fifth day of trial.

Jones was charged in the Aug. 10 shooting death of Benny Jackson, 39, of 95 Seminole Gardens, Sanford. He was tried under a state rule that permits accused accomplices to be charged and tried the same as prime suspects in a case.

While White did not actually pull the trigger that killed Jackson - and the state did not contend that he did - Assistant State Attorney Bob Fisher said White was deeply involved in the deadly caper.

White and Edmond Jones, 20, of 1294 W. 18th St., Sanford, were arrested Sept. 4 for the shooting after a Sanford woman. Linda Harrison. Jones' 18-year-old former girlfriend, told authorities she saw the men shoot Jackson.

The Full Moon And Lunacy: A Connection?

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Ah. the moon. That mysterious, glimmering sphere which for eons has spurred fantasy, fear and romance has a scientifically proven pull on the tides, but does it have a smilitar effect on us?

Is the power of the full lunar phase strong enough to transform us, if not into werewolves, at least into weirdos?

Despite the fact that man has trod the dusty surface of that cold, barren, rockey satellite, we still don't know. It's a question that puzzles many, and even some doubters find it difficult to totally free themselves of the primeval forces that draw man to the

But most skeptics scoff at such silliness.

They are a study in its fallaciousness, they say, pointing out that they undergo no mystical metamorphosis of behavior under the glow of a full moon. So why, they ask smugly, should the moon have the power to drive others to madness, murder or mischief?

Among those who deal with the results of negative human behavior no matter what the cause - lawmen, rescue workers, hospital emergency room staffers, ambulance attendants, firefighters, and mental health care providers - you'll find a mixed bag of lunar opinions and even conflicting beliefs within an individual

Sanford Dr. James Quinn, who has over seven years experience as a hospital emergency room physician, said our tendency to blame the moon for bizarre behavior is a self-fulfilling prophesy. "If we're busy and look out and see a full moon, we blame it on the moon. If it's quiet and there's a full moon, we don't say anything. If we're busy and look out and see it's almost a full moon, we say it's close enough. I don't think there's a correlation." Quinn said. Seminole County sheriff's deputy Eric Bryant agrees and goes Quinn one better. Bryant, who has been a deputy for two years, says moonglow madness has become practically a tradition.

Collision-Damaged Carrier Limps Back To Home Port

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) - The aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea limped back toward its home port today to repair damage from a clear-weather collision with an Ecuadorean tanker while on training maneuvers in the Caribbean Sea.

There were no injuries in the grinding collision Thursday evening south of the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, but a Navy spokesman said it will take four to six weeks to repair the damage.

The 38-year-old oil-burning carrier, which had completed a $200 million overhaul on Jan. 29, was expected to arrive at Norfolk late next week.

Navy officials declined to say who was responsible for the accident but rushed investigators to the area within hours after the 63,000-ton carrier collided with the 574-foot tanker Napo.

Officials said the tanker appeared on the Coral Sea's radar before the ships collided in clear weather with 7-mile

White House On The Defensive

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) - President Reagan, faced with a public relations disaster, may alter his itinerary for a state visit to West Germany next month to mute an outcry over a planned tribute to German war dead, officials say.

Reagan, described by spokesman Larry Speakes as "disturbed that anybody would question his sensitivity." saw his travel plans come under new review Friday amid sharp criticism from Jewish leaders, veterans and members of Congress

But there was no indication the White House anticipated the strength of the negative reaction that greeted the announcement that Reagan - after rejecting recommendations he visit a Nazi death camp - would lay a wreath at a military war cemetery where German soldiers from the two World Wars are burted.

Another event may be added to the schedule - perhaps a visit to a synagogue -- to add "balance" to the president's activities May 5-6 in West Germany.

"Visiting the grave sites of one's former enemies is an act of grace," said Nathan Perlmutter, national director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith. "Doing so while bypassing the gravesites of the victims of that enemy especially so brutal an enemy - is insensitive."

Archbishop Jailed For DUI

ST. PAUL. Minn. (UPI) — Archbishop John Roach says he plans to pray and catch up on his reading while serving a weekend sentence for drunken driving.

"I'll bring some good books." the spiritual leader of 500,000 Roman Catholics in the 12-county Archiodese St. Paul and Minneapolis said after he pleaded guilty last month. "That could be a pretty rich prayer time.

Roach, who gained national recognition for his liberal stands on nuclear war and social issues while he was president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops from 1980 to 1983, vowed to quit drinking after his arrest.

He reported to juit Friday and should be able to leave about 3 a.m. Sunday, in time to celebrate mass.

In addition to the jail term, Roach earlier paid a $400 fine pairs $45 in court costs and began an outpatient abcohol abuse treatment program. He will be on probation for about 11 months after his release.

70,000 Expected At Funeral For Black Riot Victims

UITENHAGE, South Africa (UPI) - Police and troops tightened security around the white city of Uttenhage on the eve of the funeral today for 27 black riot victims expected to draw about 70,000 mourners.

Organizers said Bishop Desmond Tutu, a Nobel laureate. will be among the mourners to attend the services in a sports stadium in the Kwanobuhle black township, adjoining Ultenhage, 20 miles northwest of Port Elizabeth. Nineteen of the people to be buried were killed March 21 when police fired into a crowd of about 4,000 people marching to another funeral for riot victims, The remaining eight are among more than 20 blacks killed in subsequent clashes with police and soldiers.

The organizers said some of the 70,000 mourners were traveling from as far as 600 miles away to join what is expected to be the largest funeral crowd in South African

Brazilian Leader Near Death

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) - President-elect Tancredo Neves, his lungs and kidneys failing after seven operations in one month, is being kept alive "on an hour-by-hour basis," doctors said.

Neves underwent the seventh operation early Friday, a six-hour procedure in which surgeons removed three abocesses in the president-elect's abdomen.

Presidential spokesman Antonio Brito said officials at the Clinicas Hospital were trying to stem the tide of bacterial infection in Neves' blood, but signs of the infection returned Friday afternoon in the form of fever and above-average heart rate.

The 75-year-old Neves was being kept alive with the help of a respirator to push oxygen directly into his trachea and a dialysis machine to clean his blood.

Shuttle To Launch 2nd Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - The crew of the space shuttle Discovery pressed on today with plans to launch a second communications satellite while ground controllers tried to troubleshoot a potential problem with a shuttle antenna.

"Well howdy, partners, we're still here," said co-pilot Donald Williams after mission control beamed up a wake-up recording of 'On Top of the World" by the Carpenters. "We like your musical selections.

Commander Kabol Bobko, Williams and crew members Rhea Seddon, Jeffrey Hofiman. David Griggs, Charles Walker and Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, took off Friday on the fourth anniversary of the original shuttle Columbia's first flight.

The major item on the agenda today was the launch of a Hughes Aircraft Co. satellite. the third in a series of four leased by the Navy for military communications.

Engineers on the ground detected potential trouble with the shuttle's high-data rate KU-band antenna overnight and television pictures from the open payload bay at one point showed the dish gyrating on its mount

"Discovery, we were seeing a lot of uncommanded motion on the dish," said David Hilmers in mission control.

Spokesman Steve Nesbitt said if the antenna could not be fixed, it would have little impact on the mission other than to limit the amount of television the astronauts can beam down to Earth

With congressional observer Garn looking on Friday, a radio relay station owned by Telesat Canada was successfully launched during the first day of the flight

The mission was delayed five times because of a string of technical problems and an accident that dinged the shuttle's left payload bay door last month. Launch Friday came 55 minutes late because of rain in the area

The poor weather continued today with steady downpours and the arrival at the spaceport of the new shuttle Atlantis from Ellington Air Force Base near Houston was delayed for the second time in two days.

Out at the space agency's lone shuttle launch pad, technicians are racing the clock to repair blastoff damage in time for the shuttle Challenger's trip to the firing stand Monday for a flight late this month.

Garn worked in public silence Friday. The 52-year-old lawmaker received star billing before launch for his unprecedented role as a congressional observer in his capacity as chairman of a subcommittee that monitors

NASA's budget. Walker is a McDonnell Douglas engineer making his second shuttle flight to operate a medicine refining machine mounted on a bulkhead in the lower lever of Discovery's cabin. He reported the machine was work-

The astronauts' first day in orbit was a busy one marked by the launch of the Canadian communications satellite and the activation of the biological processing machine and a new medical heart monitoring instrument

A rocket aboard the satellite successfuly pushed the $65 million satellite toward a stationary outpost 22,300 miles high, and all systems aboard the satellite were operating normally.

Seddon, a physician and the fifth American woman in space, used a new soundprobing instrument Friday to examine her heart and those of Garn and Hoffman to see if weightlessness affects cardiac operation.

Gingrich: Kill Drug Traffickers

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Newt Gingrich called for the death penalty for drug traffickers and stiffer penalties for drug dealers and users in a speech at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner sponsored by the Seminole County Republican Party Friday night

"The drug trade poses an enormous threat to America," he said, claiming that there is an active alliance between cocaine traffickers and terrorists in the world. And the only way to halt the rapidly growing illicit trade is to let traffickers know they are running the risk of a death penalty.

Dealers should be made aware they are running the risk of losing everything they have, he said, urging that those convicted of dealing in illegal drugs should have all their material possessions confiscated.

Gingrich called ridiculous the fines of $500 or $5,000 imposed on rock stars who are caught with illegal drugs. "A fine of $2 million" might get their attention, he said, and send a message to the country that drug users won't get away with their crimes.

After his fire-and-brimstone attack on druggles, the four-term Georgia Republican congressman, a former college history professor, took on the Democrats who preach gloom and doom, saying Republicans should "be very positive and reach out for opportunity."

He said a major difference between the two parties is that Democrats believe in a "liberal welfare society" while Republicans seek a conservative opportunity society based on traditional values - selfgovernment, free enterprise, the work ethic and saving rather than borrowing.

Members of the "liberal welfare society (the Democrats) believe the only way to solve a problem is to set up another bureaucracy," he said. "In a free society we start with ourselves.

"Democrats are sincere, misguided people. They are not reasonable men and women," Gingrich insisted

Had the social welfare philosophy been around in Thomas Edison's day, he said, CBS News would have reported that the candle industry was threatened and "three Democrats in the House would have introduced bills to protect candle-making."

He predicted that high technology will create a great luture for Central Florida. He said by the year 2020, commercial space shuttles will be taking passengers into space at about the same cost as a flight to Hawaii.

Man Jailed In Sexual Assaults On 10-Year-Old Girls

A Sanford man, arrested after a 10-year-old girl said he molested her, was hit with an additional charge when a second 10-year-old girl said she was forced to have sex with the man several times during the past two vears.

The second victim said the assaults started when she was in the third grade.

According to a sheriff'd arrest report. a Sanford girl inschool said she was molested in the man's home while she was visiting two girls who also live there.

She said she stayed overnight and was sleeping on the sofawhen she was awakened by a man, nude from the waist down. who was rubbing her. She said she got up and ran into the room where the other girls and stayed there until the man left.

After the girl made the report, the second victim said the same man has had sex with her since August of 1983.

Controlling State's Growth Has Pricetag Of $34.2 Billion

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) -Senate President Harry Johnston has complimented Gov. Bob Graham's budget office for coming up with a pricetag for the governor's ambitious growth management plan - although even Graham's budget chief admits the bottom line is at best a rough estimate.

"I want to compliment them for getting a product to us, but I really have had no chance to study it in depth," Johnston said of the planners who estimate the plan could cost taxpayers $34.2 billion over the next decade.

"I think they've given it their best shot," Johnston added. "You need an economist, you need a futurist, you need a little bit of everything in this and I'm not going to hold them to the dollar. I just admire them for at least trying to give us something to work with.

State Budget Director Tom Herndon agreed in a news conference Friday that the $34.2 billion figure was the best his staff could do to estimate the cost of implementing the governor's plan to provide the roads, schools, sewers, prisons, hospitals and other resources necessary to support a population influx that will render Florida the third largest state by the year 2000.

Business would pay as much as $3.9 billion to help build those resources, according the planning could save Floridians $19.6 billion and the benefits in services could total $21.7 billion by 1995. "We're not holding these out to you as precise figures," Herndon said. "This gives a sense of the magnitude of the problems we're dealing with. They define the dimensions of the ballpark."

Herndon said planners will provide a more accurate bottom line after lawmakers mult over Graham's proposals during the next 11/2 months and state agencies develop more precise programs during the next year.

"They're stretched out over a period of 10 years, they're stretched out over local government, private enterprise, and state government, countles and everything," Johnston said in a separate news conference. "I really haven't had a chance to go into depth in them because this is such a monumental project. You're taiking about billions of dollars. You're talking about projecting what the interest rate will be in 1992."

After months of work and debate, Graham and the Cabinet finalized the plan shortly before the current legislative session began. But despite the urgings of Attorney General Jim Smith. Graham refused to estimate the plan's pricetag, citing the difficulties inherent in long-range budget forecasting.

However, key lawmakers suggested a cost estimate would improve the plan's chances for adoption.

"Partly it is to satisfy people who wanted a number - there's no denying that." Herndon said. "Partly it's to help people make more rational decisions."

U.S. Trade Woes Go Beyond Japan

By Donald H. May

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Frustrated by a rising trade deficit that has slowed the U.S. economy and cost several million American jobs. Congress has been directing its anger at one nation - Japan.

But Commerce Department figures show the United States' trade problem is nearly

The $123 billion total U.S. trade delicit with the rest of the world last year included deficits of $37 billion with Japan, $20 billion with Canada, $13 billion with Europe and $52 billion with the developing world

The only major group of countries with which the United States has a trade surplus is the communist world, and that is almost entirely with the Soviet Union-

Since 1980, the U.S. trade deficit has worsened by $87 billion. Some $25 billion of that shift was with Japan. In other words. Japan trade has accounted for less than a third of the deterioration

Over the same period, the United States went from a $16 bilion surplus with the European Community to a $13 billion deficit - a worsening of $29 billion. exceeding that with Japan. The Senate Finance Committee approved a bill that would direct the president to restrict imports from Japan if it does not open its markets

Japanese officials say Congress is giving Japan more than its share of blame for a problem which they contend is due in large part to U.S. economic policies

As the Japanese see it, the $200 billion U.S. budget deficit has raised U.S. interest rates attracted capital to this country and driven up the dollar, which in turn has hurt U.S. trade with nearly the entire world.

While the United States had a $123 billion trade deficit with the entire world last year. Japan had a surplus of about $45 billion.

Many economists say that stems from fundamental differences in the US and Japanese economies. Japan has a surplus of saving, which it invests abroad. Since accounts must balance, the only way it can do that is to run a trade surplus - bringing in trade money to balance the outflow of is not to irritate old wounds or to be adversarial in nature. He said he is not "bitter" about the past or the ways blacks were mistreated.

Indeed, he said Sanford was a "model" city during the days of integration. While some cities boiled in racial tensions, with riots, arson and killings. Thomas said Sanford "made the change" peacefully

Thomas said Sanford citizens love for law and order and their ability to stomach the often untasty medicinal attitude of tolerance kept the city from being torn apart by the racial upheaval of the 1960s. He also said television news, with its nightly portrayal of bloody riots in other cities, tempered Sanfordites, black and white, and gave them determination to snuff out any violence here.

"It sure went over smoother here than in other cities We didn't have any fighting I was proud and still am of the way things happened," he said.

proved since then, he quickly points out.

"I'm not saying there are racial problems in our city __ but_ I feel it (race relations) can be enhanced and advanced "

So Thomas and his committee are targeting attitudes; attitudes that keep blacks and whites in their respective neighborhoods. offices and churches and away from each other

Through communication and education. Thomas said he hopes to allay the fears and misunderstanding present in the minds of many whites and blacks. When that is taken care of, he says, white workers won't be upset about having a black supervisor or blacks won't as suspicious of white police officers. In fact, he says, changes in attitude fostered by the committee could lead to changes like having more black administrators in city hall and more black officers on the 55member Sanford police force There are only three black offleers now, according to city records

"We have good dialogue now But I think if we could do it more often and pray more together about things ... we could discover we're all just people."

While he wants to wait until the committee meets before announcing specific plans, he said one of the first things he wants to do is work with area ministers to schedule some inter-faith. inter-racial religious services

'On Sunday mornings, Sanford and other cities are the most segregated places in the world," Thomas said.

Through the services, which he said will draw people's attention to their common Maker, he hopes friendships and mutual respect will be born

Other black leaders in the community welcome Thomas' committee as a "good start" but say it will take more than talk to correct what they see as unjust practices that breed contempt between the races

Attitudes usher in practices It will be a good first step," said Amos Jones, who heads Seminole Community Action, a Sanford-based anti-poverty program. "But if that effort doesn't get beyond the talking stages it won't help. There's nothing wrong with talk but we've got to get beyond that and address the

Some of those problems are the absence of blacks on the Civil Service Board, which screens applicants for city jobs. He also cited the under-And race relations have im- representation of blacks on the city's fire and police forces and the need to award more city contracts to black businesses

That sentiment is shared by Dr. Velma Williams, a counselor at Seminole Community College one of the three black women on the committee. She said she hopes the group will address concerns of both blacks and

She envisions the committee as having an advisory and consulting role to city departments. helping to enhance relations between city officials and black

A self-confessed former "redneck" predicts Thomas' committee will better an already improving racial picture.

John Kader, a former city commissioner who came to the city in 1957, served on a Sanford interracial committee in the mid-1960s. It was that committee's job, he said, to prepare the city for integration.

'We knew it was the law, we knew it had to be done," Kader said. "So we went in twos, one white and one black, to the restaurants, other places and told them, 'Integration is here, we might as well get ready for

Now a jewelry store owner, he recalls the days he didn't like black people. He said through the influence of his best friend, Bratly Odham, and his Sunday school teacher, Herman Morris. he came to see that he was 'wrong." He believes others in Sanford have changed as well

You still have rednecks but thank God there aren't many of them. I can't see that there's that much of a (race) problem right now. The committee might not have that much to work on. but any time you can get the races together it's a good thing." Kader said

Some say Thomas is a misguided optimist; that blacks and whites will always be suspiclous of each other and that his committee will do little to

But Thomas said "Sanford is for a new era of racial ripe"

"We should be able to bring Sanford together as one big family. I believe that. Anything is possible," he said. "But if it fails, it will let everyone know what the posture of Sanford is. I'm hoping and praying Sanford

Lisle Ignites Potent Lake Mary Offense

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of "Super Sophs," the top sophomore baseball players in Seminole

By Rob Laria Special to the Herald

Like the first fruits of spring. super sophomores are popping up all over Seminole County-Each year their arrival is anticipated, but still they cause a stir when they blossom

All sports have their share but baseball - more than any other - appears to have harvested the most bountiful crop in the county.

Perhaps it is their youth that attracts people, so young yet so good. Or maybe it's just their precoclous brashness, being out there supposedly too soon. But for whatever reason, they draw attention and, in turn, they produce

Then this summer both were instrumental in the Altamonte Springs Senior Little League capturing the World Series by beating Taiwan.

It was expected that Lisle would enjoy a fine season last year but on the junior varsity. He was and all-star catcher until Coach Allen Tuttle shifted the freshman to a foreign land, the outfield. Tut-

Turner's Grip Chokes Creek

PORT ORANGE - Wrestling opponents of Tracy Turner know when the Seminole freshman gets his death grip on you, the referee's slap isn't far behind. Turner took a grip of another kind Friday but the result was still the same for Spruce Creek.

Turner, starting just his second varsity game, tightened his hold on his aluminum bat at just the right times Friday as he singled home an insurance run in the fifth inning and produced another one in the seventh inning as Seminole surprised the Creek, 8-4, in Five Star Conference baseball at Spruce Creek High School.

Spruce Creek had been playing real good baseball," said Seminole coach Mike Ferrell. We played a real good game to beat them.

The Tribe, which stole six bases Friday, returns to action Saturday night at Lyman High School against DeLand, Ferrell said right-hander Brian Sheffield will pitch in the 7:30 p.m. ballgame which closes Seminole's conference season. Seminole, 10-13 overall, 6-11 In the Five Star and 5-10 in the district, started quickly Friday, giving starter James Hersey three runs to work with in the first inning.

Sophomore Gary Derr singled to left to open the frame and dependable David Rape sacrificed. Sheffield followed with an infield hit behind second which moved Derr to third. Sheffield stole second but Tony Cox struck out. Hersey then walked to load bases and when Larry Thomas hit a high bouncer to third baseman, he beat it out to score Derr for a 1-0 lead. With Turner at bat, a passed ball scored Sheffield and a wild pitch scored Hersey.

After two scoreless innings, Hersey was touched for three runs in the third and one more uncarned tally in the fourth. Estes Johnson and Jim Mackelfresh stroked back-to-

Lake Mary's Rams also had one of their best overall meets of the season as they came in third at 73. Oviedo was fourth at 37 while Lake Howell and Lyman tied for fifth at 34.

Because of a light drizzle most of the night, it was a rather disappointing meet because a number of county records that were in jeopardy of being broken remained in the book.

"It wasn't a good night for anything," Brauman said. "I'm just happy to get it over with and natch, Lyman, Lake Mary and Boone are all sitting there waiting to take the crown from anyboby.

Nevertheless, according to their past performances thoughout the season and the conference tournament, the middle three girls for the Hawks are expected to win their positions. Patricia Enriques, Ederlita Dulce, and Emmy-Lou Dulce playing 2-4, have remained unbeaten though '85.

The number one girls position seemingly will be the toughest position to win. The rivalry between Lyman's Kim Faulkner and Lake Howell's Catherine Enriques may reach it's climax as both seniors have a chance at a final battle for the top spot.

The rivalry heated up last year at the district final where Faulkner beat Enriques, despite losing to her in the conference final which ended the chances of the Lady Hawks taking the district title.

Ironically, this year Enriques lost to the aggresive Faulkner in the semis. Depending upon draw, the two may be seeded one and two in the district tourney for a possible dramatic conclusion for the end of the Enriques/Faulkner era.

In the doubles play, the field is wide open in the girls competition, while in the boys. Lake Brantley should wipe up.

Play begins at 8 o'clock Monday morning and goes on through Wednesday. Seeding will be decided Sunday night.

Girls Stomp Competition Into Ground

During practice Thursday afternoon, Seminole's sprinters were running curves in a pack. Freshman Shownda Martin was at the front of the pack when another runner stepped on her, shoe. Martin fell to the track and the pack ran over her. Friday night, the rest of the teams in the county knew how Martin felt as the Lady Seminoles trampled all over. their county foes en route to the Seminole County Championship on a rainy evening at Seminole.

The Lady Tribe ran up 131.
The Lady Tribe ran up 131. Howell's Lady Silver Hawks who outducted Lake Mary for second. 85-68. Lake Brantley finished third at 33 followed by Lyman at 23 and Oviedo at 17.

"That's the most points a varsity team of mine has scored," Seminole coach Emory Blake said. "We basically didn't do anything differently. We had Katrina (Walker) running in three open events to get times for college coaches and Charita (Medlock) was an addition that we needed. She's just starting to come back into form."

Although scraped up a bit after Thursday's mishap, Martin slapped on a few bandages for Friday's championships and was the only one to break a record in the girls meet. The freshman flash shattered the record in the 880 run with a time of 2:15.9. The old mark, 2:17.8, was set in 1979 by Lake Howell's Lydia Blakely.

Following Martin in the 880 were Lake Brantley's Lynn: Gomezperalta (2:27.6). Lake Howell's Nancy Nystrom; (2:38.8), Lake Howell's Angle Smith (2:32.8), Lake Howell's Martha Fonseca (2:33.1) and Seminole's Viola Posley (2:34.4).

While Seminole dominated the meet teamwise, there were a number of outstanding individue al performances Friday night:

• Walker, the Lady Tribe's senior sprinter, claimed a pair of first places and a second.

• Lake Mary senior France "Flash" Gordon ran an excelleng race in winning the 440 and finished second to Walker in the 100 and 220.

•In one of the biggest sur prises of the meet. Oviedo's Kelly Price put on a dynamic comeback in the 330 hurdles to edge out Lake Howell's Rochelle. Spearman at the finish.

• Lake Howell's Lisa Samocki, a sophomore, was too strong for her opposition as she ran an impressive double in winning the mile and two mile.

Walker started off the night by taking the 100 yard dash title by edging out Gordon at the tape. Both finished at 11.4 as did Seminole's Sheila Crawford who finished third. The Tribe dominance started to show all ready as Latanya Payne took fourth (11.6) to give Seminole three of the top four finishers. Lake Mary's Tonya Lawson was fifth (11.9) and Lyman's Sheila Mandy sixth (11.9).

Walker and Gordon went at again in the open quarter and it was Walker that went out to the carly lead. This time, however, Gordon came on strong at the finish to win with a time of 59.3 compared to 59.5 for Walker. Seminole's Dorchelle Webster was third (60.9) and the Tribe. also took fourth (Payne at 62.6).

"Gordon is back in the quarter," Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson said. "She looked the best she has this year. She ran a very good strategic race.'

in the third confrontation of the night between the two seniors, Walker made it 2 out of 3 by winning the 220 with a time of 26.1 compared to 26.7 for Gordon, Seminole's LaShon Cash was third (27.7) followed by Lake Mary's Oncyke Berry (28.2) and Lawson (28.6) and Seminole's Catherine "Kitty" Anderson was sixth (28.6),

Also taking first for the Lady Seminoles was Adrian Smith in the shot put (34-9%).

Seminole also claimed first in all three relays. The 440 relay team of Crawford, Tracy Johnson, Medlock and Cash turned in a 51.0 compared to 51.3 for second place Lake Howell. The mile medley team of Crawford, Glenda Bass, Payne and Webster won with a 4:23.1 clocking and the mile relay tandem of Martin. Anderson, Viola Posley and Webster soared to first with a time of 4:14.7.

Along with Gordon's first in the 440, the Ludy Rams got a pair of firsts in the field events. Anguenette Whack launched the discus a personal best 107-7 for first and she also took second in the shot with a personal best 33-1114.

Lawson leaped to first place in the long jump with a 17-5. Seminole's Webster was second (17-0), Medlock took third (16-11½), Oviedo's Price was fourth (16-51/2), Lake Howell's Rochelle Spearman fifth (16-5) and Lake Mary's Gordon sixth

Price, a sophomore, scored 13 of the Lady Lions' 17 points. The highlight of the meet for Oviedo was Price's victory in the 330 low hurdles, Lake Bowell's Spearman led for most of the race but Price put on a furious finish for first place.

Price, whose previous best was 48.3, finished with a time of 47.5, a new school record. Spearman finished at 47.7. Seminole's Bass was third (48.7) followed by Lake Brantley's Cathle Wild (490), Medlock (52.1) and Seminole's Johnson (52.2)

Along with her first in the 330 hurdles, and her fourth in the long jump, Price also took fourth in the 110 high hurdles with a time of 16.3.

"She (Price) worked really hard this week," Oviedo coach Ken Kroog said. "She broke a school record and that (330 hurdles) was the first time she's beaten Spearman.'

Spearman continued her dominance of the 110 high hurdles as she sailed to first place with a time of 15.1 compared to 15.8 for Seminole's Medlock. Bass was third (15.9) followed by Price, Lyman's Maybelle Bryant (16.9) and Brantley's Wild (17.5).

Another dominant figure for the Lady Hawks is Samocki. In the mile run, Seminole's Martin went out at a blazing pace but Samocki ran a great tactical race by staying within striking distance until Martin ran out of gas, then taking over.

Samocki finished with a personal best time of 5:10.8 compared to 5:13.7 for Martin. Lake Howell's Amy Ertel was third at 4:20.4 followed by Lyman's Julie Greenberg (5:27.8), Lake Brantley's Joanne Hayward (5:28.9) and Lake Mary's Jill Buddenhagen $\{5:29.8\}.$

Samocki and Ertel were a potent 1-2 punch in the two mile as Samocki won with a time of 11:39.2 and Ertel, a junior, took second at 11:45. They were followed by Buddenhagen (11:53), Greenberg (12:08.2). Lady Hawk teammate Martha Fonseca (12:30.2) and Lyman's Tracy Fisher (12:40.3).

Lake Howell also went 1-2 in the high jump as Cheryl Brinkley took first (5-0) and Kim-Hammontree was second (5-0). Lyman's Kim Forsyth is back after recovering from an appendectomy as the Lady Greyhounds' junior took third in the high jump at 4-10. Forsyth was followed by Seminole's Anderson (4-10), Bass (4-10) and Lake Mary's Lisa Shelby (4-6). It was the first time Shelby has placed in and individual event in a major meet.

Despite throwing with a broken finger. Lake Brantley's Debbie Lovelace took second to Whack in the discus at 105-6. She was followed by Seminole's Mitchell (92-3), Seminole's Smith (87-8), Lake Howell's Mary Kay Scott (85-3) and Lake Howell's Hillary Stout (83-3).

The Railroaders and D.A.V. were both victory starved for the 1985 Little National League season. When D.A.V. took a 17-12 lead into the bottom of the last inning, it looked as if Disabled American Veterans was going to post its first win of the year.

So much for looks. The Railroaders rallied for six runs and pulled up a wild 18-17 victory on Vince Mathew's clutch double in the bottom of the last inning at the Bay Avenue Field Friday.

In Friday's other Little National League game, First Federal held onto first place with a 13-8 victory over Cardinal. First Federal improved to 3-0 for the

Adcock, Chevron Coast To Wins

Adcock Roofing and Butch's Chevron staged quite a slugfest Friday night as Adcock produced 28 runs on 20 hits and Chevron ran up 23 tailies on 17 hits.

Unfortunately for Atlantic Bank and Seminole Petroleum, however, Roofing and Chevron weren't playing each other, they were taking our their offensive lumps on Atlantic and Petroleum, respectively.

• In Friday's first game at Fort Mellon Park. Ray Adeock and John Dunnph rapped four hits each as Adcock Roofing destroyed Atlantic Bank. 28-9, in Little American League action. Adeock, 3-1, trails Sun Bank by one-half game.

• In Friday's second game at Fort Mellon Park, Matt Wilk, Jeff Belford and Harvey Clinger stroked four hits apiece as Butch's Chevron plastered Seminole Petroleum, 23-10, in Little American League play, Butch's Chevron, 2-1, trails Sun Bank by one game.

Adcock Roofing jumped off to an 11-0 advantage in the first inning against loser Antonio Lattiniore and Atlantic could never recover Erskine Howard opened the inning with a walk and Tony Chavers followed with a two-run homer, Adcock, Dunnph, Corrie Williams and Al Brown roped consecutive singles for two more runs and Rusty Keeling reached on an error before Tony Holy's single scored two more. Atlantic Bank tried to get back into the game in the fourth inning when it pushed across seven runs. Anthony Duyal smacked a two-run double while Serdian Heiglar, Keith Myers, Johnell Brewington and Lattimore all had singles. Heiglar also doubled in his second at-bat in the frame.

Butch's Chevron, meanwhile, started quickly in its romp. Chevron broke loose for 13 runs in the first inning and sewed up the game with eight more in the third. Wilk and Belford socked back-to-back doubles to highlight the frame. Both added singles the first time at bat as did Brent Hansen, Clinger, Cli Blanton and Bernard Eady. Eric Washington's double chased home two more In the third, Washington hammered a bases-loaded triple and Jerry Tanner added a double. Belford, Clinger, Blanton and Benny Ferguson Seminole Petroleum put five runs on the board in the third inning. Marlon Knight's two-rundouble was the big blow. Knight led the Petromen with two hits. Teco Livingston and Tyrone Williams each added a single.

Connection's Defense Stifles Kitner, Sunniland

For the first two games of the Sanford Men's Softball League season, the Tim Raines Connection has hit the ball so hard, It has not had to rely on its defense.

However, this past week, the Connection showed that offense is not its only strong point as it played a pair of tough defensive games. The Connection took over first place. in the league by edging Kitner Surveying.

5-1, and blanking Sunniland 15-0. Against Kitner Surveying, Ned Raines provided much of the offensive power with a pair of home runs and three RBIs.

The Connection's defense turned away a number of Kitner uprisings. In the top of the first. Kitner loaded the bases with one out on consecutive singles by Joe Ervin, Terrel

Softball

Ervin and Willie Harrison. The Connection got out of the inning by turning a 6-4-3 double play.

Kitner had runners on first and third with one out in the sixth but again couldn't push across a run. Kitner's lone run came in the top of the seventh but it was too little, too Against Sunniland, the Tim Raines Connection gave up just five hits, three of those coming in the sixth. Meanwhile, Levi Raines. led the way offensively with four hits.

including two doubles and a homer. Sam-Raines drove in three runs with three hits. S&H Fabricating moved into a tie for second with Kitner Surveying by winning a pair of games, 21-4 over Mobilite, and 19-6 over Brown Boveri. Against Mobilite, S&H pounded out 22 hits included four by Barry Graham and three each by Shannon Smith, Mark Manning, Earl Manning and Julius Griffith In the win over Brown Bovert, Griffith rapped two doubles and a single and drove in four runs. Kitner managed to stay tied for second by routing winless Mobilite, 19-0. Harrison led the way with a 4 for 4 performance that included three doubles and a home run.

three relays, but none broke records. Lake Mary's Rams got their usual strength in the distance events but also a fine showing from the sprinters. The highlight of the meet for the Rams came in the two mile. Seminole's Penick, going for a double after winning the mile, went out to the early lead in the two mile but Lake Mary's Matt Palumbo took over about halfway through and never looked back. Palumbo, who finished at 9:46.4, wasn't the only Ram to pass Penick though as Bobby Howard came on to Rohr was third (10 04.1). Penick finished fourth at 10:12.

Palumbo also took second in the mile (4:31.7) and Rohr was third (4:36.4). "It's phenomenal that they back like that." Lake Mary coach Mark McGee said. "They worked harder this week than any other. Matt (Palumbo) wanted to show after running a good mile (second). Ken (Rohr) did a good job because he's been sick all week personal best.

have scored that many points. However, the Tribe's Earle without them. We've got a lot of young kids and a lot of new sprinters on the team."

The highlights for the Lake Mary sprinters came in the 220 dash and 440 relay. In the 220, the Rams took three places as Richard Burkett was third (24.1), John Curry fourth (24.2) and Anthony Hartsfield fifth (26.1). Lake Brantley's Friendly took first place with a 23.1.

In the field events for Lake Mary. Billy Caughell won the discus with a season's best 133-913 compared to 132-101/2 for Seminole's Chuck Thomas. Caughell also took third in the shot at 45-5.

Lake Brantley's Patriots don't have the depth in the sprints of Seminole or the leapers like Peterson, but they have the finish second (9.58.6) and Ken ability to score in almost every event. If they can continue to score like they did Friday night. the Patriots will surprise a lot of people in the next four weeks.

Everybody competed like they wanted to win." Brantley (Palumbo, Howard, Rohr) came coach Charlie Harris said. "It was an outstanding meet. Everyone on the 'cam should get a little piece of this (pointing to runner-up trophy). We plan to he could run a good two mile take this momentum into the conference meet."

Harris said the athlete of the meet for the Patriots Friday was and Bobby (Howard) tied his Sam Sears. Sears took second in the 330 intermediate hurdles But the reason we did as well and ran an impressive leg in the as we did is the sprinters," mile relay that almost gave added McGee, "We couldn't Brantley an upset of Seminole.

Martin overtook everyone on the final leg to pull Seminole through in one of the most exciting finishes of the night.

Along with Friendly's first in the 220, John Mondo devastated

the rest of the field in the 880 run with a time of 1:58.9 compared to 2 03.4 for Lake Mary's Harold Pitts. Brantley had the first first place of the meet as Chris Derden won the pole vault

Wedesday by clearing 12-0. Oviedo's Williams Bland was second at 11-6, Seminole's Sonny Osborne, in his first meet of the season, was third at 11-0 and Oviedo's Joe Hoppe was fourth at 10-6. The Lions also got a first place finish from Kevin Thompson in the high jump (6-2). Thompson is coming off a knee operation that kept him out the entire football season.

Following Thompson in the high jump was Lyman's Ralph Philpott at 6-2. Philpott's finish was the highest for the Greyhounds who only two years ago won the meet. Mike Crespo. making his first apperance for Lyman, took third in both the long jump (20-2) and triple jump (40-3). Wayne Straw finished third in the 880 at 2:05.

Brian King led the way for Lake Howell's Silver Hawks as he won the 330 hurdles with a 40.3 clocking. Sears was second at 41.8 and Lake Mary's Bonham third at 42.1.

Addison Holds Bargain Class For 19 And Up

Here's a great bargain for you beginners that need some help on your golf game.

Bill Red Addison, the golf director, is conducting a clinic for anyone 19 years of age or over that is sponsored through the adult education department of Winter Park High School

For $15.30, instruction will be provided for a 9-week period starting on Saturday, April 13 at the Mayfair Country Club, and running every Saturday from 10-noon. The clinic will cover all aspects of the game from the driver through the sand wedge. and putter. You must register in the Mayfair Pro Shop andpay in advance. For more information, call the adult education center at Winter Park High School. Considering that the current cost from a golf professional is $15.00 per one-half hour of instruction. this clinic is absolutely unbeitevable.

Now for the weekly tournament results. Last Thursday, April 4, the scramble that now starts at 5 p.m. had 20 golfers that teed off in a shotgun start. The winning team at 6-under par included: Craig Cooper, Wes Werner, Leo Vezina, Jack Daniels

Three teams tied at 4 under par and split second and third place prize money. These teams were: Grover Todd, Herb Pitman, John Purdy, Jim Thompson and Dennis Egbers, Joe Proudfoot, Steve Dennison, Howard Minner and Pat Partlow, Doug Bailey, Jim Freeman, Horace Orr.

Now that the scramble has been switched to Thursday and moved back to 5 p.m., more and more fellows have expressed an interest in playing. The field should pick up especially during the summer

Speaking of the summer months, leagues are being formed to play nine hole tournaments weekly after work (around 4-5 p.m.) anyone interested in forming a summer league, call the Pro-Shop at 322-2531 for more information.

On Tuesday, April 9, the weekly members dogfight produced the following winning teams: Low Net (28) Wes Werner and Stan Potter; Second Low Net (28) (tie-match of cards) Harold Hall and Howard Minner; Third Low Net (31) Al Greene, Sr. and John Johnson.

As was mentioned last week, the ladies really stomped on the head pro, Kim Young, in the annual "Beat the Pro" tournament on Wednesday, April 3, with a total of 12 gals beating him. These winners were: Mary Anderson, Irene Harris, Dossie deGanahl, Grace Sauers, Vern Smith, Margaret Botts, Thelma Vose, jane McKibbin. Miriam Andrews, Ada O'Neil, Shirley Schilke, Gloria Pro-

On Wednesday, April 10, the gals had their "Putts" tournament with the following winners:

First place:- Mary Anderson with 29. Second place: (Tie) -Dosaie deGanahl with 30. Kathryn Park: Third place: Vern Smith with 31.

Outstanding Hole Department: On Saturday, April 6. "Red" Cleveland, the Sanford Airport Manager, had a fine eagle 3 on the par 5 number 2 hole. Good Shooting, Red.

Now for a discordant note at the club. Recently, there have been several breakins involving the loss of clubs, money, etc. Anyone having information leading to the arrest of this individual or individuals may be eligible for a reward of up to $500. The club is now installing an alarm system taht will feed directly into the police, so hopefully, we've seen the last of these burglaries. The place to call with information is either the Pro Shop at 322-2532 or the Sanford Police at 323-3030.

tle already had talented Rod C.J. Metz behind the plate. Still Lisle came through.

Now, Lisle is entrenched in left field, although he could return to catcher next year. For him, the pieces have fallen into place after a tenuous beginning filled with doubt.

"I'm a lot more relaxed," says Lisle, a 5-foot-8, 165pounder who also delivered quite a hit as one of the defensive leaders of Lake Mary's unbeaten junior varsity football team. "Last year I had to show people I could play. I was always pressing but now I know I'm in the lineup.

Lisle says its helped his performance, and that he's now getting into a good groove, "Right now, I'm satisfied," he asserts, "Up until the the Colonial Classic I wasn't. But I started seeing the ball better."

He added that his move to the outfield took a big adjustment, one he is just now completing "It was tough," he says. "I hadn't taken any fly balls in I don't know how many years. I worried more about my hitting because when you catch, there's too much else to worry about. In the outfield, I was always thinking about my stance or my hitting."

The thinking has paid off. Lisle is swatting the ball at a .333 clip. He has driven in 25 runs, which is third best in the county. He said he will never forget his dramatic two-out. seventh-inning homer against Apopka in the Colonial Classic.

Tuttle calls Lisle his catalyst, the guy who makes the Rams go. "He gets things started for us," contends the second-year Lake Mary coach who has .300 hitter after .300 hitter in his impressive starting nine."He's a real fireplug. He's a lot better outflelder than he was a year ago, and he's hitting well again this year."

apray as a construction of the assault of the construction of the

With already two standout seasons in the books, an obvious question is how much better can Lisle become. He responds with no hesitation that there's still a ways to go. "I've always wondered about that. I think definitely the experience will help. With all the pitching I'm seeing now, I think when I'm a senior it will seem a little easier. I will already have been facing varsity hitting for three years. From the standpoint of experience, I should be better."

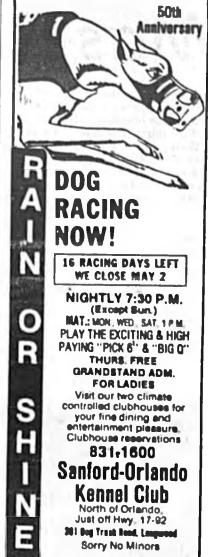

Although only a sophomore, Lisle has steered clear of the big-ego syndrome; he hasn't let success alter their strong work ethic. A prima donna he is not. "Hustle is the key and not getting mad at yourself." concludes Lisle. "I feel you can't play ball if you're mad at yourself. People get paid millions of dollars, and they strikeout. So you just can't worry about it when you make a mistake. If you strikeout, the next time to the plate you can have the winning base hit."

With his drive for success intact, the lofty goals he has set somehow don't seem so high. Liste wants to lead the county in stolen bases and bat near .500 before he's finished at Lake Mary.

Tuttle suggests his goals are realistic. "I've never seen sophomores like these," he says of his trio. "In fact, a lot of places don't even let them play. My philosophy is that if they are one of the nine best. I don't care If they're in the ninth grade or the 12th grade. I'm going to put them in the lineup It's paid off."

The dividends are clearly evident, just look at the numbers next to Ryan Lisle's

Kendrick Hits Jackpot For $175

Quick

Herald

Our Moonlight bowlers are still winning big money as Robert Kendrick won $175 last Saturday night by breaking the first game Jackpot. Robert had to pick four pins off a full rack to win the money. Congratulations, Robert. Saturday night's Jackpots are first game $50, second game $125 and third game $125.

Summer leagues are already getting their rosters ready, so be sure to get yourself and your team signed up. Summer is also a good time to try to get an office or factory league started. The 12-week summer season is an excellent way to test the interest at your place of employment.

We need entries in soon for "Best 3 out of 4" tournament bowlers. Remember, this is you last month to qualify for the end of the year Doubles Tournament where a $600 first prize is guaranteed.

On the Monday Night No-Tap league. Ron Robinson rolled a 300 scratch no-tap game and a 930 series, to be top man on the league Monday night. Max Smith came close to winning high series with a 923.

Masters Gets Hot With 3 At The Top

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) - Golfera suffering from claustria had better drop to the rear at the Masters.

It's mighty close quarters at the top. Going into Saturday's third round, Tom Watson, Craig Stadler and Payne Stewart were tled for the lead - with 21 others within five shots

Stewart could have been speaking for most of the others when he said, "I think my chances of winning are as good as anyone else's. There's a lot of golf left."

Weather could be the deciding factor. There were heavy rains Friday In Texas and the weaan said they were headed toward the Augusta National Golf Club where only a handful of the world's best golfers were able to break par the first two days.

There were a few hot rounds Friday when easter pin d 65a - by Curtis Strange and Scotsandy Lyle, but the one that meant the most was the 67 turned in by Stadler,

With Watson and Stewart shooting . 71s and first-round leader Gary Hallberg a 73, that 5-under-par effort by Stadler was good enough for a lead-tying, 4-under 140.

Hallberg was at 141 and Gary Koch (70) at 142.

There was an impressive group at 143 - two-time champion Seve Ballesteros, Lee Trevino, Ray Floyd. Bruce Lietzke and Lyle. Five-time champion Jack Nicklaus was at 145 and defending champion Ben-Crenshaw at 146.

With the leaders only 4-under, a Masters rule permitting everyone within 10 shots of the lead to make the cut allowed 60 of the original 77 entrants to stick around for the final 36 holes.

But even that wasn't enough to help Tom Kite, who finished in the top 10 in nine of the 10 previous Masters but could manage only 75.79-154 this time around.

Arnold Palmer also missed the cut. for the fifth time in 10 years, even though the 55-year-old, four-time Masters champ took 11 less shots Friday than the round-high 83 he posted on Thursday.

Strange, leading money winner on this year's PGA tour, saved himself from the cut with that 65 after an Walson, trying to keep alive a four-year cycle that saw him win the Masters in 1977 and 1981, held a two-stroke lead with three holes to go Friday, but bogeyed Nos. 16 and 17 to back into the tie with Stadler and Stewart.

"I feel like the wind was responsible for bunching the leaders together." said Watson. "I think we're all a little gun shy after putting these greens the past few days.

"Realistically, six-seven shots back now is still within the realm of winning the tournament.

Stadler, the 1982 Masters champ, has been second three times this year without a victory, but figures that will change

"Putting is what is holding me back." said Stadler, who birdled five of the last eight holes Friday.

DANIEL FORGES 3-BHOT LEAD

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - Beth Daniel almost ran away with the Kyocera Inamori Classic Friday, firing a 2under par 70 to take a three-stroke lead in the $175,000 LPGA tournawith a score of 140, 4-under par. The 28-year-old Charleston, S.C. resident apparently figured out Fairbanks Ranch, and looked for a time like she would leave the rest of the field somewhere over the horizon.

She birdled two of her first three holes and finished the par-36 front nine with a sizzling 33.

Bob Parker singled in his FSL debut Friday night.

Parker's Shaky Start Doesn't Detour Dream

By Rob Laria Special to the Herald

KISSIMMEE - He had to wait an extra hour to take the field. He booted the first ball hit to him, and he whiffed his first time at the plate. Yet it was still a big evening for Bob Parker.

Stepping on to the field Friday night at Osccola County Stadium meant moving closer toward his dream, one more rung in the climb to the major leagues.

Parker, a former standout prep baseball player at Lyman High. Seminole Community College and Mississipi State, started at second base as the Osceola Astros made their debut in Kissimmee. The Florida State. League Class A farm club of the Houston Astros was in Daytona Beach a year ago, while Parker, who went 1-for-4 and scored once in the Astros 9-8 win over the Daytona Beach Islanders, was splitting time in two lower rookte leagues.

"It's a step up," Parker said after the game, which was rain-delayed 63 minutes and lasted over three hours. "I started off slow last year, but then I finally started getting used to the wooden bat. I ended up hitting good.

"I guess they like what they saw because they moved me to this league, which is supposed to be better."

The 22-year-old Parker looks to have all the tools. After being taken in the 21st round of the draft, he was sent to the New York-Penn League, the first stop for most prospects. Despite hitting just .125 in 20 games, he was moved up to the Asheville Tourists of the South Atlantic League, where he came alive, hitting .303 in 53

He says the progress has resulted from simply learning the lessons of the game. "I had to learn to stay back more when I was swinging," said the speedy 5-faot-10, 170-pounder. "The pitching is consistently better here than in college; there are better breaking pitches. You must make adjustment or sink."

The Astros organization is banking that he will make the necessary adjustment and his present manager, Dave Cripe, is confident he can. "I'm looking for a steadying Influence from him," asserted Cripe, 33, who played briefly in the big leagues with Kansas City in 1978, "As a litter, I'm looking for him to get on base because he's an excellent base runner and a student of

'We played wide open in the spring, and I let him go. I could tell he's got a good idea of his ability and what he can do. That's important.

However, Cripe suggested that it's a bit premature to pass judgement on anyone at this stage of a professional career. "Oh, it's too early," he said. "He's played only about a half a season at a rookte league and lower. He's got some experience but it's early."

Cripe added that only over the long haulof a 150-game season can reasonable evaluations be made, especially with such young talent. He intends to put Parker and a his teammates under fire as much as possible. "It's a long season and a tough road; it lets us see if their determined," he concluded. "It's easy to get down on yourself. That's what we look for, to get all read of the guy's makeup and character things besides his ability of the field. We'll want to look at guys in pressure situations."

To avoid undue stress. Parker says he will attempt to take one day at a time. "I hate to set goals," he said. "I just want to be consistent. I do want to move up every year, which I have done so far. I'm maybe even a year ahead of myself because a lot of the guys are still in the other league (South Atlantic).

On the first pitch of the game Friday! night, a slow bouncer was hit to Parker. Perhaps a bit anxious, he bobbled it then had difficulty picking up the ball. His first chance turned into his first error. Afterwards, though, he shrugged it off. "It was wet; I let the ball play me," he said. "Nobody likes to make errors but you're going to make them. You play every night" so you can't dwell on mistakes. You have to keep going."

Batting eighth in the lineup, he struck out in the third inning and again in the sixth. However, in the next inning he got a bunt single and scored as the Astros took control of the see-saw contest. Meanwhile in the field, he was flawless in his other four chances, including neatly starting a double play.

Parker is hoping plays like those will become commonplace and so are Astros. Both as both are quick to point out, they'll Jim Presley's third homer in three games cracked a 1-1 tie to lift Mariners.

'It was out over the plate and up," Presley said of the 3-1 fastball he drilled into the left field scats in the fourth inning.

Presley, who has hit three homers in his past three games, said, "I thought he was going to throw me a slider.

"I had a pretty good swing at it. I was looking for something to drive. I swung the bat well tonight." Young was relieved by Edwin Nunez, who picked up his third save. Presley belted a 3-1 pitch with one out in the fourth. After that, Scattle had only two other baserunners - Phil Bradley, who doubled in the fifth with one out, and Spike Owen, who was safe at first after Schrom dropped a throw from first baseman Kent Hrbek while covering first. The Mariners took a 10 lead in the bottom of the first when Harold Reynolds walked, stole accord and came around to score on groundouts by Bradley and Alvin Davis.

just have to wait and see what happens. Garvey's Homers Drop Braves, 7-3

United Press International

The last time Steve Garvey hit two home runs: in a game, he did it to the San Diego Padres! instead of for them.

"After hitting only eight last year, I guess I was: due." Garvey said Friday night after homering: twice to back the combined six-hit pitching of Andy Hawkins and Goose Gossage and send the Padres to a 7-3 victory over Atlanta in the Braves's home opener.

Garvey last hit two home runs in a game on April 24, 1981, off the Padres while a member of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A crowd of 45,389 watched as Hawkins, 1-0, permitted three hits over seven innings. The right-hander struck out three and walked two. Gossage tossed the final two innings and surrendered three hits.

Braves Manager Eddie Haas was stole after the; loss, his team's first of the season. "I didn't think we'd go undefeated," he said.

San Diego took a 1-0 lead in the second off starter Rick Camp, 0-1, on an RBI single by Hawkins. The Padres increased their lead to 3-0 in the third on a two-run double by Kevin, McReynolds. Garvey hit the first of his two homers in the fourth, a solo shot off the foul pole in left off Camp.

San Diego went ahead 6-0 in the flfth on a two-run double by Al Bumbry off reliever Craig

McMurtry. Atlanta scored in the fifth on an RBI single by Chris Chambliss and in the sixth on Murphy's second home run, drawing the Braves within 6-2. Garvey hit another homer in the eighth, a solo shot to left, his second homer of the season.

Gianta 4, Dodgers 1

At Los Angeles, Jeff Leonard capped a four-run third inning with San Francisco's first home run of the season and Mike Krukow scattered eight hits in going the distance to lead the Giants in the Dodgers' home opener. Rick Honeycutt took the loss.

Expos 5, Cubs 1

At Chicago, Dan Driessen's two-run homer, triggered a four-run fourth and Bryn Smith hurled a three-hitter to lead the Expos. Expos rookie Herman Winningham hit his first major league homer. The Expos handed the Cubs their first loss of the season after two victories.

Tim Raines was 0 for 4. Pirates 6, Cardinais 4

At Pittsburgh, Jason Thompson smashed a two-run homer and Doug Frobel added a two-run single in a four-run first inning to carry the Pirates in their home opener. Don Robinson got the victory while Kurt Kepshire took the loss.

Mets 1, Reds 0 At New York. Gary Carter hit his second game-winning home run of the week and Bruce Berenyi and Doug Sisk combined on a three-hitter to lift the Mets. Cincinnati's Pete Rose went 2-for-4 to raise his career hit total to 4.102. He needs 90 to break Ty Cobb's all-time record.

Astroe 8, Phillies 3 At Houston, Terry Puhl drove in three runs with a double and a triple in a seven-run sixth inning to lead the Astros. Dave Smith, 1-0, was the winner, and Jeff Calhoun picked up his first save. Larry Andersen was the loser in relief, falling to 0-1.

IRS Will Answer Phones This Weekend

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Facing hours, until 6:30 p.m. local time. mounting pressure from confused taxpayers trying to file deadline, the Internal Revenue Service says it will keep its toll-free telephone numbers open through the weekend.

The lines have been jammed lately due to delays in processing - blamed on an unready $102 million Sperry Corp. computer system and allegations some overburdened employees have been destroying tax returns. Widespread complaints of unending busy signals have reached the IRS, some relayed through congressional offices.

Friday, IRS officials decided to put its employees on weekend overtime. The toll-free numbers for questions, listed on page 40 of the instruction booklet sent to most taxpayers, will be answered from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. local time today and Sunday.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — President and Mrs. Reagan, going public in their dealings with the Internal Revenue Service, disclosed they paid $147.869 - about one-third of their $440.657 income - in taxes last year and are due a 814.605 refund

The Reagans, nearing the end of a 10-day Easter vacation at their mountaintop ranch as millions of other Americans rushed to meet an April 15 deadline, released copies of their 1984 tax returns Friday.

The Reagans, who listed no deductions for lines will operate for an extra 11/2 charitable contributions on the first tax returns released after they moved into the White House. reported $20,616 in donations last year -$10,800 in unitemized payments under $3,000. The president again sent $5,000 to his alma mater, Eureka College.

Their income included the president's statutory $200,000 salary, as well as $26,997 in pension payments he receives from his two terms as governor of California. The Reagans earned $202,284 in interest and dividends and $3,600 in rent from the federal government for placement of an aviation navigational radio transmitter on their ranch property.

WEATHER

NATIONAL WEATHER: Most of the nation enjoyed the first springlike weekend of the year. but sporadic thunderstorms whipped up a couple of tornadoes in Texas and golf ball-size hall in Oklahoma and Minnesota. Thunderstorms were scattered early today across northwest Texas, sweeping up into the Midwest as far as Michigan. It was snowing in northeast Minnesota, and rain drenched Florida Tourists flocked to the nation's capital under warm, sunny skies today for a parade opening Washington's annual cherry blossom festival Strong thunderstorms crupted across West Texas along a weak cool front late Friday, with storm activity extending from central Kansas through northwest Oklahoma and into the Texas Panhandle.

One of these storms produced two brief tornadoes in open Texas fields, but no damage was reported. Frontal systems collided north of the Twin Cities in Minnesota Friday, causing an outbreak of severe thunderstorms. More than 800 lightning strikes were recorded across the state. Up to 2 inches of rain helped cool the potential for grass fires around the Twin-Cities area.

AREA FORECAST: Mostly cloudy with periods of rain with a few thunderstorms. High low to mid 70s. East wind 15 to 20 mph. Rath chance 80 percent. Low in lower 60s. Southeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Sunday variable cloudiness and warmer. Scattered showers High lower 80s. Southeast wind 10 to 15

Budding Virtuosos

Parents Fascinated With Violin Players Who Are Unbearably Bored

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

It's not music to THEIR cars Three little Winter Springs violinists turn up their noses at their own music making, but their mother who is fascinated by diminutive budding maestros urges them to practice practice

At 10, Emile Jammal has been playing the violin for four years. His brother Chris 8, and sister Danielle, 5, have followed Emile in pursuing the musical dream of their mother

But the youngsters say it's all unbearably That's an attitude Ruth Ann Jammal hopes will change after her children are grown. But for now Danielle says playing the violin is dumb Everything about it is boring. She doesn't like the sound and doesn't care if being part of the family trio makes her unique Her brothers support her position and are even more adamant in their displeasure over playing the violin. They want to toss in their violins and take up drums. For a change of pace Chris, who started playing about one year after Emile, decided to try to play Michael Jackson's Beat It on the violin. Emile joined in and Mrs. Jammal called the result "interesting.

Violin lessons under the Suzuki method were established in the Jammal family when Danielle was a tiny baby, and even though her attitude has apparently changed, she seemed to be begging at that time to get involved

She started early. She was about 18 months old when she started." Mrs. Jammal said 1 heard. I thought. Chris in the other room practicing. It was her doing his lesson, so we got her a little toy violin-

"Emile and Chris started out with Crackerjack boxes with a ruler attached and covered with brown paper to make it look like a real violinand they practiced standing and holding that

With Danielle they had come out with little plastic violins and we got her one and put real-

strings on it. She played with that for two days and then put it down and said. I don't like this violin. She liked the real one better

But even before that, "She was just tiny when we started Emile." Mrs. Jammal said. "She would sit there and rock back and forth in time with the music and I knew she was just taking it

That's one of the main things. They have to listen to the records and tapes over and over again. It's amazing how quickly they pick it up when they do this." she said

Mrs. Jammal who tried unsuccessully to learn to play the violin when she was a youngster -"I just couldn't figure out where to put my fingers," and found the screechy sound of her instrument unappealing, saw hope for her children when she saw a troop of tyke violinists on television.

She began to search for a class in the Japanese developed method for Emile and through her mother Virginia Vail of Sanford. she connected with an Orlando teacher.

The method, she said, is "the same concept as the mother tongue. Children learn to speak and then later they learn to spell and write. With this they learn music more or less in their heads. As they get older they learn to read the music as

Mrs. Jammal has been learning along with her youngsters, picking up a couple of new songs with each one

"It hasn't been long since they started to learn to read the notes. They learn to clap the basic rhythm. The teacher claps the rhythm and then it's the kids turn to clap the rhythm back. It goes back and forth and they change the rhythm and play little games." Mrs. Jemmal

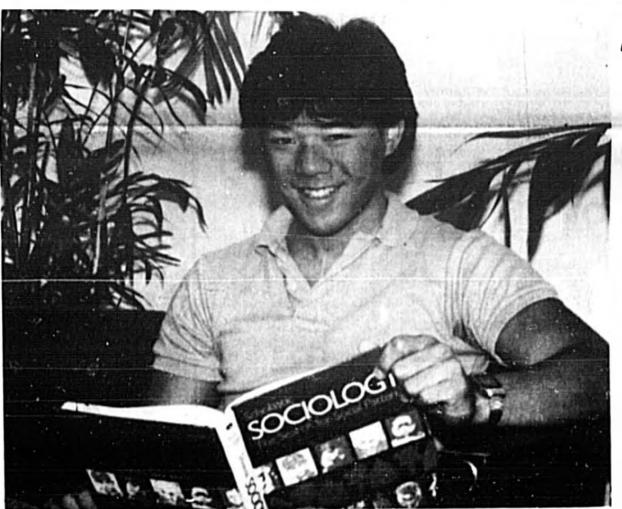

The Jaminal voungsters each take both an individual lesson and a group lesson every week. They practice for at least half an hour every morning

They're at the point where they don't want to sit still for anything. It's not always real easy to catch them." Mrs. Jammal said. "I have to kind of say if you want to got out and play. practice or study now and then go out

Even their practice is pleasing to Mrs. Jammal, but her husband, Emile, she said, has less patience when listening to the repetitive practice. But he does enjoy seeing them perform

"I enjoy it. Mrs. Jammal said. "When they get up with all the group of kids it's fascinating to watch their faces as they play it's just fascinating. You see these people watching these kids, especially the tiny ones. When they get up there and start playing everybody's mouth

Pet Health

Some Dip Products Very Toxic If Misused

Let's continue with our review of flea products that we started last week.

There are a multitude of dip products that are available. What the pet owner must realize is that some of these materials are very toxic if misused and that instructions should be followed to the letter. The main advantage to dipping is that there is better residual activity as well as a more complete kill of the flea population on the animal

Dips may contain pyrethrins, or ganophosphates (op's), carbamates malathion, and other materials such as lindane (a chlorinated hydrocarbon). Pyrethrins are comparitively safer than the rest of the group. The other products by virtue of their toxic capacity have more drawbacks. Cats are more easily overdosed by these products so that some formulations must be weakened and others such as those containing lindane should not be used at all. With cats it is better to have the animal dipped by experienced personnel who are aware of these and other species differences.

You as the owner of an animal being dipped should always be aware of what chemical is being used on your pet and what signs are associated with an overdose. Dips commonly used on cats include Paramite, malathion (50%) at 14 ounce per gallon, and VIP. Common signs of overdose include excessive salivation (drooling), shivering, tremors, uncoordination, vomiting, diarrhea, depression, and seizures. If you note these or any other changes after having your animal dipped then consult your veterinarian as soon as possible. A vital piece of information needed for overdose treatment is the active ingredient of the compound that was used on your pet. If you have your animal dipped somewhere other than a veterinarian's, have the dipper write down the dip used and its active ingredients.

Another important point to keep in mind is that some of these compounds are very toxic to the environment. Be careful of how you dispose of the dip and its containers. Don't allow these materials to contaminate lakes and ponds since some will result in fish kills.

If you are dipping at home always protect your pet's eyes by placing eye ointment in each eye before starting

Systemic Insecticides: The word systemic means that the compound circulates throughout the body's tissues. There are two main drugs utilized in this category. Proban is the best known of these two drugs and the first to be approved for use in dogs. It is given as a liquid or not control fleas without controlling the a tablet and the active ingredient is an organophosphate which is rapidly absorbed. When the flea takes a blood meal it ingests the drug-Proban is an effective flea killer but it has the same disadvantages as other op's. It should not be used in animals which are very young fless than 4-6 months), animals with liver or kidney disease, or animals which have collars or are being dipped with similar compounds.

Greyhounds appear to be more sensitive to this compound so its use is not recommended in this breed. Because it is given directly to the animal it is advisable to monitor the animal's liver and kidney for damage at least once a year. This can be done with a small blood sample. In the past when nothing else worked a dog owner could arrange to have the animal treated with a drug called Spotton. This inhterial has just recently been authorized for use. Originally developed for use in cattle it is placed on the skin of the back and absorbed into the body. It may be used every 2 weeks but if possible it should be applied less often. The side effects are similar to other organophosphates and the same precautions should be taken with its use.

You should be aware that neither of these products are approved for use in cats though they are occasionally used when nothing else works. For exotic animals compounds with pyrethrins are safest. The Home Environment: Because fleas spend the majority of their time off the animal you can environment. Remember they can produce a whole new generation in less than three weeks if the conditions are right. In addition the eggs of the flea are resistant to destruction.

In taking advantage of this knowledge it is best to treat the home at the same time you treat the animal. While your animal is being deflead the rugs should be thoroughly vacuumed to reduce the number of eggs and fleas. Add sevin dust powder or a flea collar to the vacuum bag to kill those fleas picked up. Then a professional can treat the house or you can attempt it yourself.

The house should be treated at two week intervals for at least three treatments to break the life cycle of the flea. In addition your treatment should include methoprene (Precor), a hormone which retards the development of the young flean. Be sure all animals are removed from the house especially birds.

If you use an exterminator be sure you inquire as to what chemical is being used and if possible have them leave you some literature. Don't accept a stranger's word that a chemical is safe when some side effects are a result of accumulation of a toxin over time and in our society some would rather spray first than explain later. A reputable exterminator will not be offended by your interest. Your yard may also require treatment with sevin dust (5-10%) or malathion at 2-week intervals for three treatments.

Getting rid of fleas totally is not a realistic goal but achieving a measure of control is.

For the answers to your pet health questions, write to Dr. Michael Walsh. C/O The Evening Herald, P.O.Box 1657, Sanford 32771.

Hotel Guests Should Not Take Free Souvenirs

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I went on a tour through the New England states, and we got into a discussion about what is ours to take from the hotels we stayed at Neither of use would take anything we thought we shouldn't, but we weren't sure what we were expected to take. How about the little bars of individually wrapped soap? Two new bars are left each day Would it be all right to use only one bar for the entire stay and take the unused soap home?

We know we shouldn't take towels or washcloths, but how about the shower caps? Also, stationery? In it all right to clean out the deak drawers daily and take the stationery home? My sister says the guests are expected to take the stationery The management considers it good advertising for the hotel She also said the guests are expected to take the ashtrays. too - that's why the hotel has its name on them, for advertising purposes

Can you settle this?

DEAR SISTERS: You may keep the shower cap and any soap you don't use. You may use as much stationery as you like but don't clean out the desk drawers daily and collect stationery for personal use later

.THE HOPE OF OUR COMMUNITY, OUR NATION!

Swaying on a limb outside my kitchen, a bird flapped his sleek black wings and curved his throat in a burst of pure beauty.

"Watch out!" I wanted to cry. For over by the woodpile Tabby crouched, carved in predatory silence. Stone-like she stared, as the bird warbled, and even after the songster flashed off in a streak, she sat impassively.

How like our Tabby we humans sometimes are. Caught in the frenzy of making a living, stalemated with problems, we look in-differently at our world. Forgetting that God reveals Himself in simple ways, we overlook the laughter of a child, the smile of a stranger, and the flaming colors of our landscape

Your church can show you how to find Joy in life again. Within its fellowship you can learn the happiness which comes from loving God and serving Him.

Community Methodist Choir Presents Dramatic Musical

The Casselberry Community United Methodist Chancel Choir, cast, and technical assistants will present the powerful dramatic musical I Am Thursday and Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the main sanctuary located on Highway 17-92 one-fourth mile north of state Road 436.

The production goes beyond the 50-minute musical presentation to include a visual, as well as aural appeal. The sets, costuming, and lighting are designed to portray the appearance of First Century Jerusalem. I Am has a strong resurrection theme, but emphasizes the love and care shown by Christ during His ministry, while continuing to affirm the omnipotence of God.

Both performances are free to the public.

Confirmation Service

Admirers call Johann Sebastian Bach the 'fifth evangelist," arguing his theologically informed music ranks him just behind the writers of the four New Testament gospels. Some, like musicologist Richard Dinwiddle, music director and conductor of the Chicago Master Chorale, even compare him to King David, author of the Psalms and the Bible's greatest musician.

This year marks the 300th anniversary of Bach's birth and the Easter season has witnessed an outpouring of commemorative articles and concerts that showcase the great composer's life and work.

Dinwiddie, writing in the evangelical magazine Christianity Today, finds a strong link between Bach's music and his faith.

'He based his music on a solid foundation of theological orthodoxy and consistent personal piety," Dinwiddie said.

That view is shared by Herbert Nuechterlein, minister of music at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Fort Wayne, Ind., and music critic for the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel.

"Lutheran beliefs," he writes in an article jointly published in The Lutheran and The Lutheran Standard, "were a fundamental force in the lives of the Bach clan.

'If Bach's music sometimes sinks to depths of sorrow, it more often reaches the heights of praise and glory," he adds. "But it never loses faith. Soli Deo Gloria - to God alone glory - the sole aim of Bach's music was inscribed at the end of his cantatas."

It is in the cantatas that Bach's theology shows most clearly.

Prepared for Sunday and festival congregational worship, the cantata was the principal music in the service. The text for its recitatives, arias and choruses was taken from the Biblical lessons for the day, other hymns and sometimes other poetry.

'Together with the sermon,' Nuechterlein said, "the cantata was a means for making the congregation receptive to the Gospel. Thus a Bach cantata was a kind of musical sermon."

"Bach was concerned with the hearers of the Word," added Dinwiddle, "and he frequently challenged his listener to respond to God in faith. He recognized the primacy of congregational participation, giving the people a chance to sing their own music at the end of each cantata and during his

Dinwiddle insists that Bach was more than a great musician putting Biblical and other texts to music, but a competent theologian as well.

He notes that Bach's library was filled with theological works, including two sets of reformer Martin Luther's works and that these works were annotated and underlined by the composer. At the same time, although a pious believer, Bach saw no conflict between "sacred" and "secular" music and could compose a cantata on the pleasures of drinking coffee.

He also got in trouble at his first post, as organist at the New Church in Arnstadt, Germany, for "going into the wine cellar during the sermon" and for allowing a "strange maiden" to solo in the church this at a time when women were forbidden to sing in churches.

Bach died on July 28, 1750, his final work - because of failing eyesight, dictated from his deathbed - was the unfinished chorale prelude "Before Thy Throne 1 Now Approach," with a final verse that sums up the faith of one of the world's foremost composers:

"Grant that my end may worthy be, And that I wake thy face to see,'

Dillons To Conduct Services

Evangelists Bill and Mildred Dillon will conduct services at Sanford Bible Church, 2460 Sanford Ave. beginning Sunday and continuing through April 21. Services will be held on Sundays at 11 a.m. and each evening at 7.

The Dillons formerly worked with the famous evangelist Paul Rader, Mr. Dillon was one of the founding members of New Tribes Mission serving on the executive committee and taught New Testament Church principles for many years. They have worked on the staff at the Pacific Garden Mission which produces the radio program Unshackled.

The will be playing the trombone and piano at each service. They have written many songs and choruses such as Safe Am I and To the East To the West. He has authored many books in-

Farewell Reception Set For Terry Rabun At Oviedo Baptist Church

First Baptist Church of Oviedo will honor its minister of music, Terry Rabun, on April 21. He has served the church on a part time basis since a student at Stetson University 161/2 years ago. In addition to his work at the church, he serves as principal of Wilson Elementary School in Sanford. Under his ministry a fully grounded choir program has been established and prospered and other musical groups have been formed. Enrollment went from 34 to 165 under Rabun's ministry. Due to increased church growth, a new full-time minister of music has been called and April 21 will include Rabun's ministry at the church.

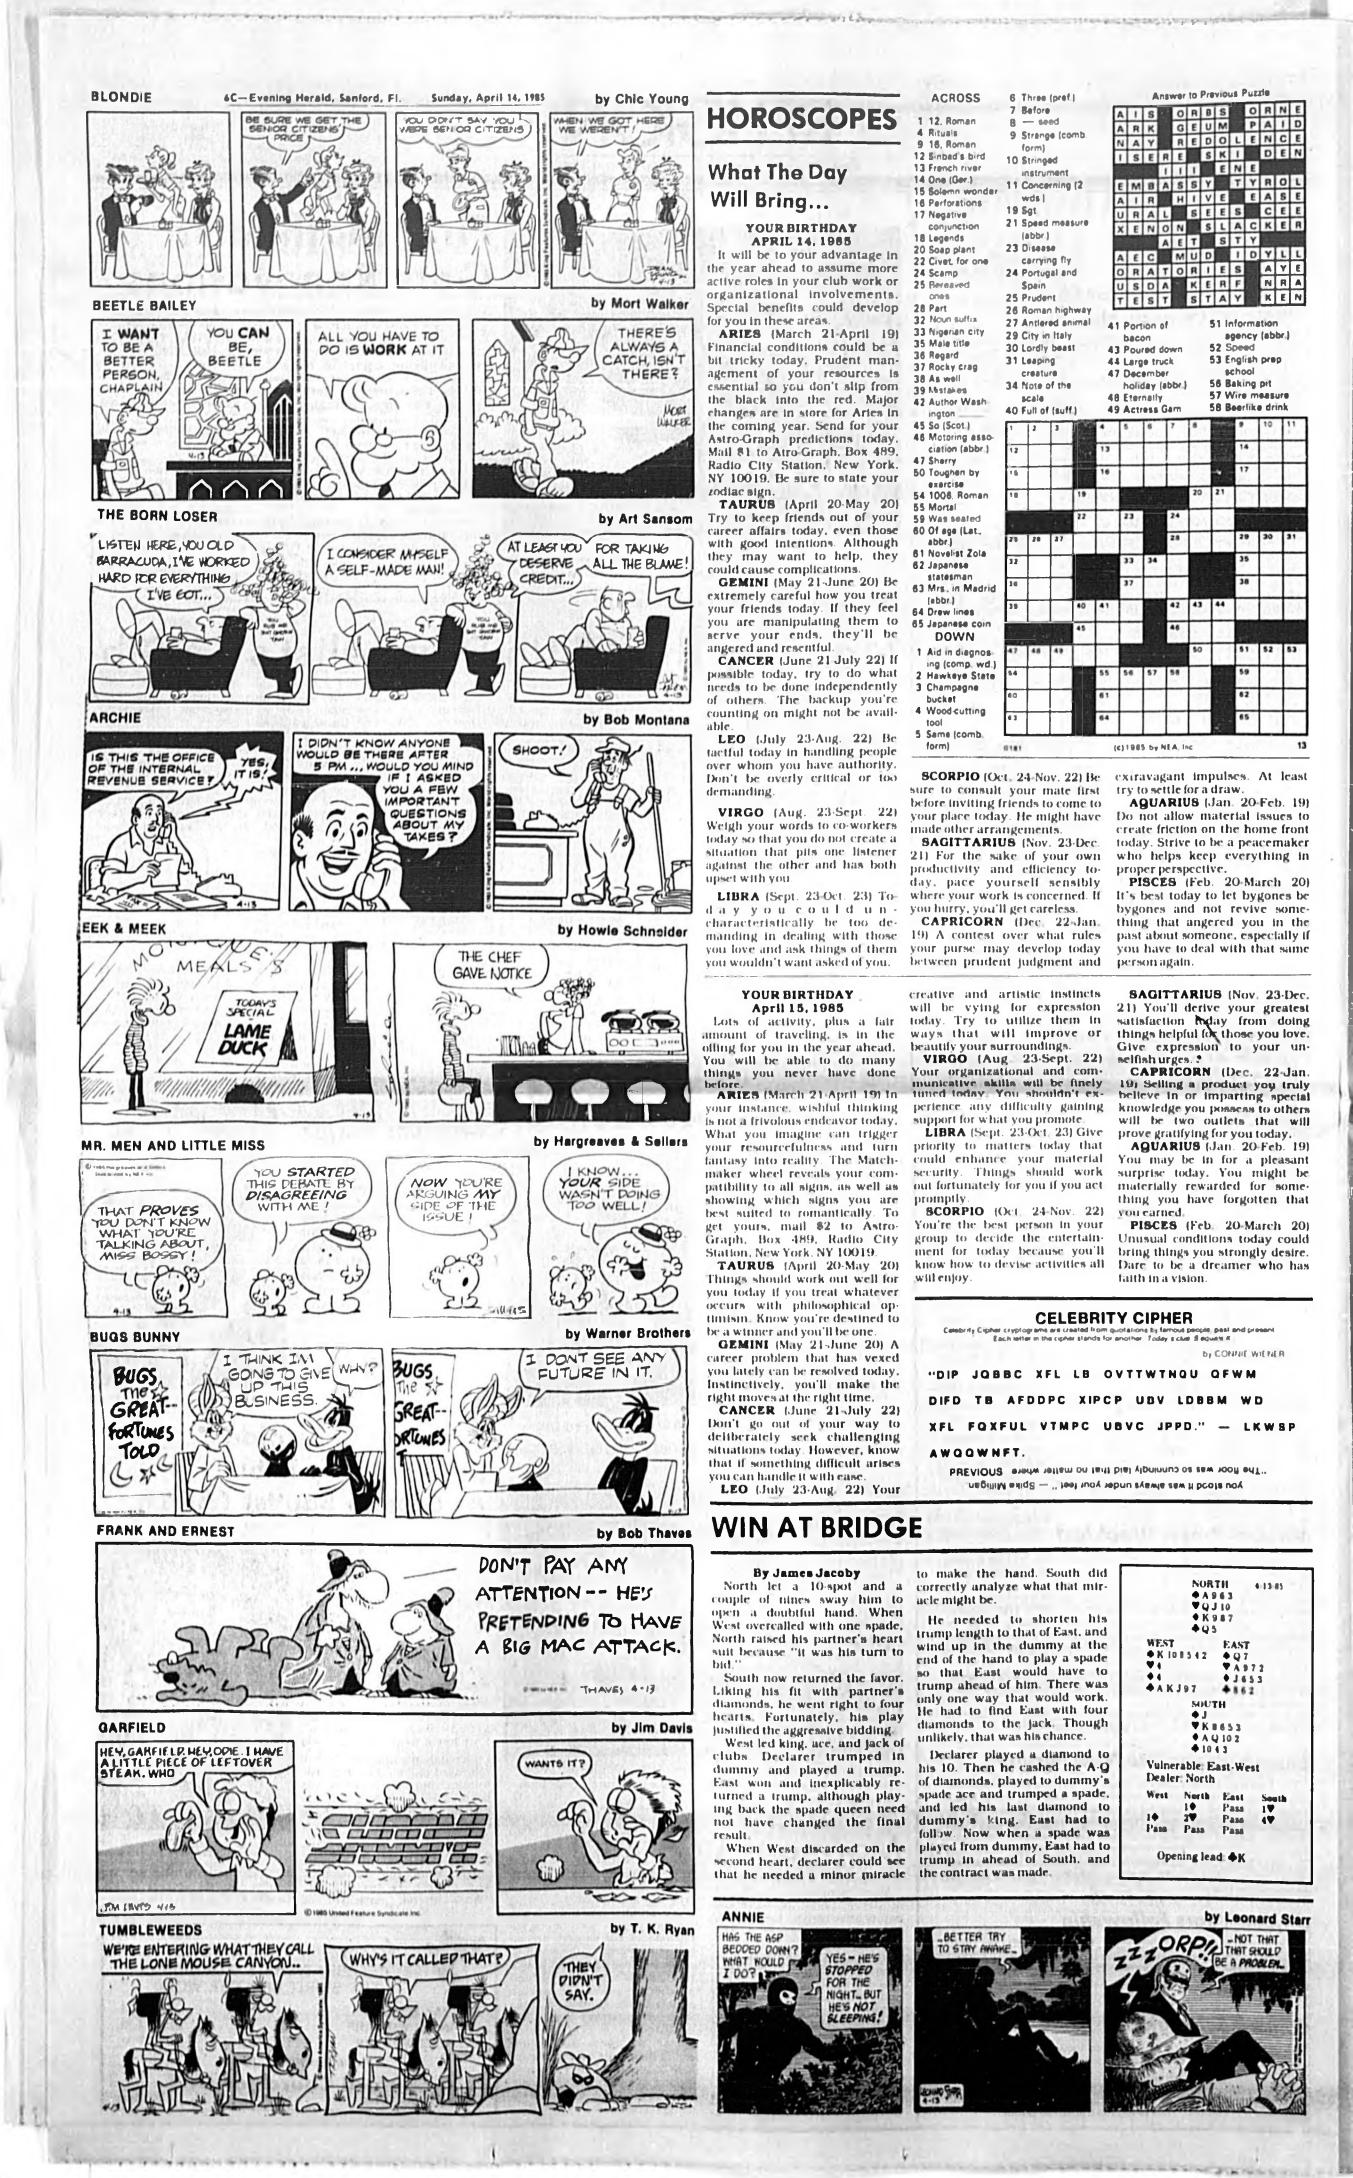

There will be a reception at the church at 4 p.m. with singing. refreshments and testimonies, send greetings in care of First friends attend, participate or Oviedo, Pl. 32785.

Molesting Children: All In The Family?

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

Is there a child molester in your neighborhood?

If there were, would you be tempted to describe him as a dirty old man who entices children with candy?

If so, you're probably not identifying the typical child molester in Seminole County. according to arrest records kept by the Evening Herald during the past 14 months. In fact, the dirty old man enticing kids is probably the rarest of all child molesters anywhere.

And as a concerned parent, you also may not be suspecting a large group of unreported molesters, women.

Since January, 1984, the Evening Herald has reported at least 54 arrests of people charged with some form of sex crime against children. The arrests for such crimes have averaged almost one a week for the 14-month period with more arrests reported near the end of

The typical person arrested for a child sex crime in Seminole county, according to Evening Herald records, is a white male nearing 31 years of age. His victim will most likely be a white girl nearing the age of 11. She will know him and will probably be fondled more than once while in his home. In at least half of mony or description of what she those cases reported, he (the saw, However, the same woman molester) is a member of the family - father, step-father - or mom's boyfriend. The molester is rarely a stranger, according to room. reports and law enforcement school is in session. In all the reports compiled over the 14month period, none was said to have occurred at a school. The molester usually has no known prior history of such behavior and will probably receive less than a year in jail, the recommended sentence.

If convicted, those with a history of molesting tend to get harsher sentences.

Assaults that generally occur within the family and over an extended period of time, usually bring the convicted molester a harsh sentence, compared to one-time fondlings by someone outside the family.

The child who is molested, according to the Evening Herald reports, is likely to tell a parent the mother more often than the father - and the investigating agency is likely to be the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services first, and then the Sheriff's Department.

Of the 54 arrests for child-sex crimes involving 63 victims reported by the Evening Herald, 53 suspects were male, one female. The charge against the woman was dropped. She was accused of a lewd and lascivious act in the presence of a child, a 6-year-old girl. Authorities said the woman engaged in sex with her boyfriend at a motel, while her daughter was in another bed. The state attorney's office reasoned it would be difficult to convict the woman and her boyfriend since prosecutors couldn't relie on the girl's testiwas also charged with child abuse, misdemeanor, for having left the child alone in the motel

My neighbor Ben, age 4, became something of a Chicago Cubs fan last summer. He has, as a result, gotten caught up in the Great Chicago Lights Controversy

For those of you who have been fooling around with less important matters such as paying taxes and trying to find some spare money to squirrel away in an IRA, a bit of background on the controversy may be in order.

Wrigley Field, in which the Cubs play their home games, is the only major league field which is unlighted. It has other virtues as well.

Its outfield fences are wrapped in ivy. Its field is covered with a material called natural turf, or "grass." It is surrounded by houses rather than parking lots: people arrive at the park by public transport

Best of all, it has a scoreboard which reports information about the status of the game. This information comes in the form of numbered cards, which are hung in places by human hands. There are no animated electronics to instruct patrons to consume more beer or to say

None of this, of course, fits the mold of what is still called baseball. The most important difficulty, however, is the absence of lights.

Teams with unlighted home fields must play in the daytime. This didn't matter when the Cubs were perennial losers whose only fans were a handful of locals and some expatriates who kept rooting for them to assuage the guilt that came from having left America's best city.

But last year the Cubs almost got into the World Series. Suddenly everyone was rooting for thein. It mattered that they couldn't play at night, and therefore couldn't play in prime television time. Because there is some danger the Cubs will do well again this year, they have sought to bring lights to Wrigley Field.

To block this, the Illinois legislature passed a law prohibiting night games at stadiums in which night sporting events were not played before July 1, 1982. The city prohibited night baseball on enclosed fields that have more than 15,000 seats you want to do now?" and that are located within 500 feet of 100 or more dwelling units. Wrigley Field is the only stadium fitting these rules.

The Cubs went to court to try to get around these restrictions. Last week, Circuit Court Judge Richard Curry ruled against the spond with readers. Write him at Cubs. The only thing which the Evening Herald.)

motivated the Cubs, he announced with apparent horror, was "greed." The Cubs, he declared darkly, shall not have their lights.

"Is it true that the Cubs were being greedy?" Ben asked.

Well, the owners probably thought they could make more money from television rights if the Cubs could play at night," I replied. "I guess you could call that 'greedy.'

But the reason they'd be making more money would be that more people would be able to watch their games. Is that so awful? A lot of people do things to make money, but they also end up providing something for people in exchange, I don't see how this is any different."

Ben has a logical mind. He will never be a Judge.

I explained that the neighbors didn't want the lights.

"But people in cities live with lights all the time," he objected. 'And it's not as if the Cubs would be playing every night. And games don't last all night scenis to me," he continued, "that the benefit to people who could watch games after work would be a lot greater than the cost of some bright lights on some evenings.

I told ben that some people also objected on aesthetic grounds, arguing that baseball was intended to be played by

"Aesthetic grounds?" he in-terjected. "Have you ever wat-ched a baseball game?"

I had to concede his point. No one who willingly watches a game in which the participants chew, spit, scratch, and dress as baseball players do can claim

"Let's go play tennts," I sug-gested. "I hear there are some courts that a greedy entrepreneur keeps lighted at night.

What Vietnam War Did To America-10 Years After

By Fox Butterfield The war in Vietnam ended 10 years ago. By dawn on April 30, 1975, communist forces began moving into Saigon following the collapse of the U.S.-backed government. It took the largest helicopter evacuation on record to remove more than 1,000 Americans and nearly 6,000 Vietnamese.

The Vietnam War defies description. It was certainly America's longest war, lasting from 1945 to 1975, or counting only the time American combat troops were involved, from 1965 to 1973.

It was the first war America lost, though because of superior U.S. firepower and mobility it won virtually

It was the first war brought into the family living room by television.

For the soldiers, or grunts, who fought it, it was a war maddeningly without front lines, against an enemy who often wore civilian clothes, and it had no clear objective other than the "body count." By those cold numbers. it cost the lives of 57,939 Americans. $150 billion in U.S. military spending and produced 4 million killed or wounded Vietnamese on both sides, a 10th of the population of North and South Vietnam.

It was also the most divisive conflict for Americans since the Civil War and perhaps the most misunderstood war in American history.

The Vietnam War was so frustrating and baffling and stirred such embittered passion on all sides in the United States, that with the signing of the Paris Peace Accords and the withdrawal of the last U.S. forces in 1973, Americans went into a trance of collective amnesia.

PERSPECTIVE

Even before the final collapse of the Saigon government in 1975, Americans somehow resolved simply to forget Vietnam. Returning veterans were treated as pariahs. Unlike the fall of Nationalist China to Mao Tsc-tung in 1949, there were no postwar recriminations, no blame for who lost Vietnam.

But now, a decade later, Vietnam has quietly made the transition from controverstal public issue to history, and gradually a better understanding of the war is emerging, based on new scholarship. It is now possible to see that the war was more complex, more morally ambiguous, than either the doves or hawks maintained.

Indeed. Vietnam was a war nobody won. North Vietnam achieved a military triumph, of course. But in "liberating" South Vietnam the communists themselves have become at least as corrupt and repressive as the regime they overthrew; they have impoverished both halves of the country through economic mismanagement and they have driven hundreds of thousands of their compatriots to flee by boat, an exodus unprecedented in Vietnam's long tragic history of warfare.

With the benefit of hindsight and the new scholarship, some facts about the war now emerge more clearly.

Although most Americans were unaware of it at the time, U.S. involvement really began in 1945 at the end of World War II with President Truman's decision to back France's reconquest of its former colony, Vietnam.

Each succeeding president then made a further commitment, narrowing the choices for his successor. Eisenhower helped empower Ngo Dinh

Longwood Moving Ahead

Things seem to be settling down at Longwood City Hall. And now that a unanimous city commission has hired City Clerk Don Terry as Longwood's new city manager, things should get even better.

Terry has been city clerk in Longwood since 1980 and has always impressed those with whom he works as a level-headed and astute administrator.

Some Longwood city commission meetings have been disrupted in the recent past as a result of a heated political climate. Several changes have occurred at the legislative and administrative levels where there now is a new guard, and the dust seems to be settling. We hope so.

Longwood is an admired city among its Seminole County counterparts and it has a promising future. Terry should be a moving force in directing the city's inevitable con-

The city commission should give him every opportunity to do so by working with him in as cooperative a manner as possible.

Terry is a retired Navy Lt. Commander who has a bachelor of science degree in business administration and personnel management. His quiet, but firm manner in dealing with problems he's had to solve as city clerk should serve him well in administering the city's day to day affairs.

Mayor Harvey Smerilson, the new man heading the city's legislative body, seems to be a determined public official trying to lead Longwood in the best possible direction.

He and his commission colleagues are agreed Terry is qualified for the city manager post and should do an excellent job. He'll need that confidence and support when the heat rises every so often. He should have it:

Safe Water Landings

The voice of the flight attendant is soothing. In the "unlikely event of a water landing" that means crash - hold onto "the flotation cushion," But in reality, those cushions — the only FAA-required passenger precaution against drowning on most domestic flights are about as bouyant as rocks, and as supportive as a roller coaster in rough waters.

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering requiring life vests on all flights. not just those whose planned routes take them more than 50 miles offshore. This step, though opposed by the cost-conscious airlines, is a good start. The bill would be negligible and the benefits tangible. At 215 U.S. airports, planes take off and land over water. That's the time when four airplane mishaps in five occur; providing life vests would make it more likely that passengers could survive a crash.

But the FAA's life-vest rules themselves need tightening. Presently, most planes that do fly over water carry World War II vintage models that are hard to extract from under the seat, harder yet to put on. Just three of the 58 passengers on a National Airlines plane that crashed in Escambia Bay at Pensacola, Fla., in 1978 could find and don their vests; the others survived because they were quickly rescued from the warm, shallow water. Only one of six passengers to survive a 1982 Air Florida crash into the Potomac River successfully put on a vest; four others clung to the wreckage until help came, but one died. What's needed to avert such problems are the newer, more quickly and easily donned life vests that are now on the market.

There hasn't been a major airline disaster at sea, the airlines argue. But it shouldn't take a headline tragedy to get action from the airlines — or a tougher rule from the FAA.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - As little as we most modern egg-handling equipment "is covered or otherwise out of sight," making it difficult "to pinpoint where breakage occurs."

It no longer is necessary, however, to hire human droppers to determine how much stress eggs can withstand. That task is now handled electronically.

What is more, the research service says the "plastic egg-shaped instrument" that radios information "about the forces being exerted against the shells of real eggs" has been

The new "Humpty Dumpty" rides through the handling equipment and transmits data that "allow operators to locate places where egg breakage is likely to occur.

That is good news indeed for supermarket customers, for it indicates a possibility of electronically determining their own breaking

According to the research service's count, technicians "broke 300 real eggs" to calibrate. the plastic model, which is about the size of an 'extra large'' egg laid by a hen.

"They found that the minimum force required to break eggshells was roughly equivalent to dropping an egg onto a hard surface from a half-inch height." the article says. "To locate points of possible egg breakage, the operator interprets peaks and valleys printed on the chart during the egg's journey." it adds

Most supermarket customers are tough eggs. They could be dropped at least a foot onto a hard surface without breaking anything, including their feet and the contents of grocery

This is not to suggest, however, that they are not subjected to impact forces as they make their way up and down the aisles, past the shelves where the eggs are on sale.

If dropped from a peak into a valley, for instance, they surely would break.

Such forces as the impact of grocery carts, being jostled by other shoppers and waiting in the "express" lane while other consumers cash checks also need to be measured.

Determining the breaking point of egg-buyers could be even more important than research on the breakability of eggshells.

Noble Goals Go Astray

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Among President Reagan's more sagacious selections of domestic initiatives that the federal government ought to abandon is the obscure but extravagant program that dispenses Urban Development Action Grants.

Many of Reagan's choices of programs to be curtailed or eliminated are neither logical nor defensible. Indeed, some of his decisions have reflected gross insensitivity to the needs of the people who desperately need assistance.

But the UDAG program is in the category of federal initiatives that should have been scrapped as soon as it became apparent that the creators' noble goals almost certainly would never be attained.

When the UDAG program was conceived in the late 1970s, it was promoted as an innovative attempt to encourage real-estate developers to help arrest the urban blight that afflicts many of the nation's major

To stimulate private investment, promote economic development and create new jobs in deteriorating neighborhoods, the Department of Housing and Urban Development shares in the cost of industrial, commercial and residential construction projects that qualify for UDAG participation.

But one of the criteria is the age of the community's housing stock, a standard which produces an inherent bias in favor of applicants from the Northeast and Midwest.

Idea That Won't Die

again and again?

Like "Jason" in the never-ending movie series "Friday the 13th." the notion of creating jobs for young blacks by paying them less never seems to die

Alive since Richard Nixon's first term, this economic ghoul has recently been given new life. And for the first time, even a group of black mayors has endorsed the idea of an "experimental" subminimum, summertime wage as a spur to black-youth employment.

Once again the notion needs to be buried — like Jason — and this time for good.

Soon after taking office, Nixon named a special task force to look at a youth sub-minimum wage. The task force concluded that the effect of sub-minimum wages on teenage. unemployment becomes difficult to ascertain "when population and school employment - both variables - are considered."

Even Nixon's second secretary of labor, James R. Hodgson, in his 1972 report to Congress, said that minimum-wage increases granted to all workers had "no discernible effect on employment levels."

But Reagan's first secretary of labor, the currently unemployed Raymond Donovan, estimated in 1983 that a youth sub-minimum wage would "create a minimum of 150,000 to 640,000 new Jobs for under-21-year-old workers."

This history, and much more, is Why does it keep coming back found in a 1983 article that appeared in The Journal of Socio-Economic Studies: "Sub-minimum Wage: Sub-Par Idea" by Sol C. Chatkin and Phil Comstock. The article ought to be required reading for anyone even remotely attracted to lowering wages as a panacea for the staggering rate of minority youth unemployment.

> Chaikin, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, says that the youth subminimum wage will increase racial strife and add an economic incentive to existing racist behavior.

Chaikin and Comstock demonstrate that the supposed benefits of lowering the minimum wage for a small portion of the labor force would be outweighed by the damage likely to be done to the larger group of workers.

With almost 70 percent of the labor force over 21 (and therefore ineligible for the proposed lower pay), employers would have a powerful and profitable reason for hiring workers whose only qualification would be their birth dates. Anyone born before 1964 need not apply.

The Reagan lower-pay legislation forbids replacing older workers with younger ones. But a Princeton University study quoted by Chaikin and Comstock reported that, in 1980, there was only a 59 percent compliance rate with minimumwage laws for workers aged 17 to

The statistics support Bentsen's contention: Last year, more than 60 percent of all UDAG money went to five states in the Northeast and Midwest - New York, New Jersey. Maryland, Illinois and Ohio — while

Beat The Tax Man - Write It Off

By Jack Anderson And

Joseph Spear
WASHINGTON — Millions of Americans may be dreaming a little dream this weekend along the lines of, "Wouldn't it be nice if I saved enough on my income taxes to take a trip abroad?" For some nervy taxpayers, it may be no fantasy. An outfit called Kephart Seminars International is offering junkets to Zurich and Vienna next month for instruction on the advantages of Swiss or Austrian tax shelters

And the best part of it is that - if Kephart has interpreted the tax code correctly - the cost of the working vacation will be deductible from this year's income.

In other words, the rest of us unimaginative stay-at-homes will be picking up the tab for the junketing tax avoiders.

quite that baldly, of course. It simply states that "your entire trip. even the pleasure part, is fully tax-deductible." So whether you're learning the financial wizardry of the fabled gnomes of Zurich or drinking May wine in the Vienna woods, you can write it all off, according to the brochure.

Kephart's seminar depends for its deductibility on the Internal Revenue Service code section 274(h)(1). which covers foreign conventions and business meetings. Kephart's lawyer, Michael Savage, told our reporter Mark Woolley. "In my opinion, it is reasonable for this country." It certainly appears to be a travel bargain. Those who sign up for "Investment Planning the Swiss Way" get seven nights in Zurich for seminar to be held out of the Kephart's brochure doesn't put it $735 (single occupancy, not including air fare) plus expert advice on financial privacy in overseas investments, offshore tax havens, the outlook for gold prices and other tricks of the international taxavoiding game. The "Austrian Alternative" is about $50 less. The seminars are conducted entirely in English.

Can this be legal?

> An IRS source said that each individual taxpayer's claims for deductions are considered on their merits, and would not give a blanket yes or no to the question of the Kephart scheme's legality.

One IRS rule allows deductions for all ordinary and necessary expenses for the maintenance or production of income, and another allows deduction of the entire cost of business-related travel, even if the taxpayer manages to work in a little pleasure along the way.

But the question, of course, is whether a seminar on avoiding taxes qualifies. It may produce more income for the taxpayer - but less tax for the government, which may not be what the IRS has in mind when it allows deductions for the expenses of producing income.

At least one member of Congress has had no trouble making up his mind Rep. Fortney "Pete" Stark. D-Calif., who was shown a copy of the Kephart brochure by a staffer who got it in the mail, has introduced a bill titled, "No Tax Deductions for Tax Evasion. Stark's bill would take dead aim at the Kephart caper by denying tax deductions for any expenses incurred in overseas seminars or conventions that include discussions on avoidance of U.S. taxes. Robert D. Kephart expressed surprise at learning of Stark's proposed legislation.

Importance Of A Commercial Republic

Freedoms Foundation Features

A favorite target of the critics of this country, internal as well as external, is American "bourgeois values." The term covers a multitude of societal sins, but it is most frequently used to indict the "crass commercialization" which our critics believe pervades the American system and the American spirit. If we were to be dragged before some cultural court of high opinion to face up to our transgressions, we would have to stand there, comic book and hot dog in hand, and plead guilty. Unrepentantly guilty! For indeed, a spirit of commerce does permeate the American scene. Furthermore, it is supposed to.

Secretary of Education William Bennett, writing in the Fall, 1984 National Forum, stated: "The secret of a free, bourgeois society is that although it is often attacked for its emphasis on commerce, it also makes possible much of what we value. We must remember two facts: first, commerce had a central place in the ideas of the Founders, and second, commerce itself has been a major contributor to our prosperity and strength as a nation and to the genesis of unparalleled and unprecedented opportunities for the wealth of the spirit."

Bennett's reminder is particularly relevant as we approach the bicentennial of the Constitution. This anniversary presents Americans with a welcome opportunity to reacquaint ourselves with the basic tenets that undergird this society. Comprehending the role of commerce is as important as understanding the roles of our various political institutions.

The Founders envisioned a large commercial republic. The Constitution they drew up was designed to facilitate that end. Some of the best evidence of this intent can be found in The Federalist, a series of essays authored by Alexander Hamilton, James Madison and John Jay to explain and defend the new Constitution.

Hamilton would make a strong statement of this case in The Federalist No. 12: "The prosperity of commerce is now perceived and acknowledged by all enlightened statesmen to be the most useful as well as the most productive source of national wealth, and has accordingly become a primary object of their political cares. By multiplying the means of gratification, by promoting the introduction and circulation of the precious metals, those darling objects of human avarice and enterprise, it serves to vivify and invigorate all the channels of industry and to make them flow with greater activity and copiousness.

Hamilton offered additional insight when he wrote in The Federalist No. 11 of "the adventurous spirit, which distinguishes the commercial character. of America..." Commerce in the new United States would be bold and entrepreneurial.

Madison not only concurred with Hamilton but found an additional benefit to the creation of a commercial republic. The potential dangers of the rise of political factions concerned Madison greatly. But a people whose energies were directed into commerce would be less disposed to invest great energy in the formation of political

Much as the separation of powers would serve as a check on abuse by any branch of government, the competing interests to be found in a commercial republic would serve as a check on abuse of power not only by government but by other interests. Madison wrote in The Federalist No. 51: "Ambition must be made to counteract ambition ... It may be a reflection on human nature that such devices should be necessary to control the abuses of government. But what is government itself but the greatest of all reflections on human nature? ...

"This policy of supplying, by opposite and rival interests, the defect of better motives, might be traced through the whole system of human affairs, private as well as public. We see it particularly displayed in all the subordinate distributions or power, where the constant aim is to divide and arrange the several offices in such a manner as that each may be a check on the other — that the private interest of ever individual may be a sentinel over the public rights."

Those "bourgeois values" so frequently disparaged are not only responsible for the material well-being of this nation. They have also contributed to the stability necessary for our political well-being.

How To Appeal Medicare Ruling

Q. I live on a fixed income and depend heavily on Medicare to pay for my medical care. Recently, I was admitted by my doctor to the hospital with severe chest pains and an abnormal heartbeat. My doctor thought I might have suffered a slight heart attack and ran a series of tests. Luckily, I was much better in a couple of days, and the tests proved negative. Last week I got a notice from Medicare saying that they were not going to pay for my hospitalization because it wasn't medically necessary. I think this is extremely unfair. Is there any way that I can protest Medicare's decision?

A. If you disagree with a decision on whether the services you received are covered by Medicare or on the amount Medicare will pay on a claim, you always have the right to ask for a review of the decision. Your local Social Security office can help you request a review of any Medicare hospitalinsurance claim.

If you are still not satisfied after the review and if the amount you are appealing is $100 or more, you can ask for a formal hearing. If your case involves $1,000 or more, it could eventually be appealed to a federal

If you disagree with Medicare's decision on a Medicare medical-insurance claim (doctor's services, outpatient hospital care, home health services, and others), you can ask the Medicare carrier that handled your claim to review it. If you are not satisfied with the carrier's review and your appeal is for $100 or more, you can request a hearing by the carrier.

To reach the $100 amount, you can count other claims that you have had reviewed within the past six months. The decision reached at this hearing is final. Under Medicare medical insurance, the law does not provide for federal court review.

The notice you receive from Medicare, which tells you of the decision made on your claim, should also tell you exactly what appeal steps you can take. Read this important information carefully. If you need more information about your right of appeal and how to request it, you can call any Social Security office.

Your Social Security office should also be able to provide you with a copy of Your Medicare Handbook, which contains answers to many important questions about the Medicare program. This helpful guide includes information on what Medicare will pay for and what it will not, how payments are made, and how and where to file your claims.

Q: I heard that many older folks are moving out of the big cities. Is this true?

Yes. The geographic distribution of older Americans is shifting to rural, small-town and retirement areas. While the number of seniors living in central cities has declined over the past decade, the majority of older Americans still live in metropolitan areas. The elderly also move less often than younger Americans. They change residences at about one-half the rate of the younger population.

Tuition Hike Wrong

As student member of the Board of Regents, appointed by Governor Graham, I understand the temptation to raise fees. But students are one of the poorest groups in Florida. They pay many costs to go to college: housing, transportation and educational materials. Many must work and/or rely upon financial aid. Recently the Reagan administration decided to substantially cut federal aid to poor and middle-income students. Knowing this, should our state government ask these students and their parents to also pay more tuition?

Minority students would be hard hit. Florida is now in the final year of the court-mandated affirmative action plan. Creating new economic barriers for the very students we need to attract is a serious error.

The State University System just completed a fee study requested by the Legislature. Its report proposed indexing tuition to legislative appropriations of general revenue up to a ceiling of five percent. This study was unanimously endorsed by our university presidents and the Board of Regents. An indexing policy is simply better than the Governor's plan.

Higher tuition theoretically provides funds to improve our universities. We students support Governor Graham's efforts to create educational excellence. We are willing to do our fair share. But it is unreasonable to expect a single generation of students to pay the entire cost of educational improvement.

Reagan: Wrong Track On Amtrak

The Reagan administration is on the million each year in salaries, and operating today at its 1977-78 funding level, there would be little if any deficit crisis. Amtrak is doing just that. Amtrak's federal subsidy was $600 million in 1977 and $716 million in 1978, but 1985's fiscal budget is only $684 million. Amtrak has had good success at streamlining its operation and making itself more efficient. Amtrak hopes to cover 60 percent of their operating cost by 1986. This is up

$14 Million For Contras Should Be Spent Here

The (Tallahassee) Florida Flambeau President Reagan made an interesting little gaffe in his weekly radio address Sunday. He mentioned worldwide support for his proposal to send $14 million in aid to the Nicaraguan contras in one breath and budget compromise in the Social Security - but he hoped they would be wise enough to cut loose a miniscule chunk of $14 million help those brave

'freedom fighters" in Nicaragua. His advice isn't bad; he's just got it backwards. If that $14 million is so unimportant, why can't we spend it at home?

Those in the Reagan Administration who have conceived its Central America policies ... say that vital U.S. security interests are endangered by left-wing forces in El Salvador and by the Sandanista revolutionaries in Nicaragua. ... they evoke a need to protect hemispheric shipping lanes and warn of the disastrous strategic consequences that would follow more Cubas in the U.S. backyard.

A strategic rationale for the proxy wars that Washington sponsors in El Salvador and Nicaragua cannot be confined, however, to the Central American isthmus. To be truly strategic, the administration's policymaking would have to take into account how the world views the effects of U.S. actions.

A recent study by the Council on Foreign Relations suggests that the very foundation of American's global strategy, the NATO alliance, might be jeopardized should the Reagan adminstration follow its policy premises to their ultimate conclusion - an intervention by U.S. combat troops.

..What Vietnam Did To America

Diem as South Vietnam's first leader after the 1954 Geneva agreement ended France's rule. Kennedy stepped up the number of American advisers and, by sanctioning the coup which led to Diem's death in 1973, increased America's sense of involvement. Johnson made the fateful decisions in 1965 to begin bombing North Vietnam and despatch U.S. troops to the south

Paradoxically, none of these presidents had a plan to win the war. They were trapped between their fear of being blamed for the fall of Vietnam and widening the war so much it might bring in China or the Soviet Union

So each did only the minimum necessary not to lose it during his tenure in the White House. They nibbled the bullet rather than bit it.

The strategic initiative was left to Hanoi, which calculated that in a war of attrition. America would eventually lose patience.

Much of this might have been avoided if Americans had realized Vietnam had a 2,000-year history of battling for its independence against China, France and Japan and that for many Vietnamese. Ho Chi Minh was the legitimate inheritor of this tradition. The Saigon government never had this appeal to nationalism.

But it is also clearer now that, much as Washington claimed, Hanoi was instrumental in organizing the Vietcong in the south and began infiltrating regular North Vietnamese army units sent U.S. troops there.

The critical turning point in the war may have been the communists' Tet Offensive in 1968. We now know that Hanol expected it would cause the collapse of Saigon. In fact, the opposite

By finally exposing themselves in open battle, the communists suffered more than 50,000 killed, a disastrous military defeat, as General William C. Westmoreland claimed. But the ferocity of the communist attack stunned Americans, who had been led to believe they were winning, and it greatly undermined remaining popular support for the war at home.

In the aftermath of Tet. President Johnson announced he would not run for re-election and halted further escalation of the war.

frontcally, in the period after Tet the United States finally began to make progress in the war.

Militarily the local Victong were largely wiped out, while the North Vietmanese who came south to replace them were battered. Politically, the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu proved more stable than its predecessors. And economically, American spending helped create a new affluence for many South Vietnamese. By 1970, 90 percent of the countryside was officially "pacified," compared with only 33 percent in 1965, a crude though significant index.

But the American public had tired of the war, liberals believing it was into the south in 1964, before Johnson immoral, conservatives that it was unwinnable.

With increasing domestic pressure to end the war. President Nixon in 1973 agreed to what turned out to be little more than a face-saving formula for withdrawal - the Paris Peace Accords. The POWs came back, but North Vietnam did not have to remove its troops from the south.

With the settlement. American interest in Vietnam rapidy waned.

Congress cut back steeply on U.S. aid to Saigon; and the problems of corruption and imcompetence which had long plagued the South Vietnamese were

In 1975, Saigon collapsed in panic after a communist attack that was intended only to be preliminary to a full scule offensive a year later.

A decade later, the trauma of Vietnam is still with us. It has created doubts about U.S. power and how and when to use it.

But the lessons of Vietnam are unclear. What should have been done? Perhaps the one clear message is that the United States cannot go to war without popular support, as retired General Frederick C. Weygand, the last once wrote.

American commander in Vietnam,

'There is no such thing as a splendid little war," he said. "War is death and destruction.... The Army must have the price of involvement clear before we get involved, so that America can weigh the probable cost of involvement against the dangers of noninvolvement. For there are worse

No More Vietnams, by Richard Nixon. (Arbor House, 240 pp., $14.95).

Ten years has not mellowed, only reinforced and revised, Richard Nixon's thoughts on Vietnam.

Nixon's fifth book since leaving office. 'No More Victnams' wastes no time in getting to his point. The opening sentences: "No event in American history is more

Nixon, who came to office in 1968 with a secret plan to end the war and who inally extracted American troops after 15,000 more American lives were lost, uses the book to tell the tale how he won the war and how Congress lost the peace

No more Vietnams can mean we will not try again." Nixon says in explaining his title. "It should mean we will not fail again."

The vintage Nixon rhetoric retelling the Victnam story provides no startling disclosures. He continues to believe the chance for an "honorable peace" was "thrown away in a spasm of congressional trresponsibility," and that the tidal wave of American sentiment against the war was insignificant in ending U.S.

But Nixon does offer his own dos and don'ts for the next Vietnam. It begins with his 1969 "Nixon doctrine" of not committing combat forces to a Third World country that is a target of communist takeover unless another major power has already intervened. But Nixon does not mean the United States has abandoned the Third World or the use of American military strength in a cause that can be won and won quickly such as Grenada. Carter: Sadat, Begin Personally Incompatible

The Blood of Abraham: Insights Into the Middle East, by Jimmy Carter. (Houghton Mifflin, 257 pp., $15.95).

Former President Jimmy Carter, touring the Middle East as a private citizen. awoke early his first morning in Jerusalem, pulled on his jogging shoes and set out with a Secret Service agent for a run around the old city.

Carter's record of the events that followed, told in "The Blood of Abraham," is a parable mirroring the ancient conflict between Arab and Jew.

As Carter stepped outside the King David Hotel, two Israeli soldiers approached and said they would lead the way.

The group headed to the Jaffa Gate. turned north and ran along the walls of the city to the Jericho Road, where a group of elderly Arab men sat by a curb reading their morning papers.

"The sidewalk was almost empty and wide enough for us to pass easily," Carter recalls. "But one of the soldiers cut to the right and knocked all of the newspapers back into the faces of the startled readers.

"I stopped to apologize to the men, but they could not understand me. Then I told the soldiers either to let me run alone or not to touch anyone else in a belligerent manner.

"They reluctantly agreed, but added that one could never tell what was hidden behind the newspapers."

Carter met the same belligerence, the same misunderstandings as president when he invited Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to a summit meeting at Camp David.

The Camp David Accords, signed in September 1978, brought a negotiated peace between Israel and Egypt after decades of warfare. It became the hallmark of Carter's presidency and the consternation of most of the Arab world.

But it was no easy feat.

"Begin and Sadat were personally incompatible," Calter says. "We decided after a few unpleasant encounters they should not attempt to negotiate with each

Instead, Carter worked with each of them separately or with their representatives. He writes that this eliminated "the rhetoric and personal arguing between the two leaders."

When his presidency ended, Carter was not content to abandon some of his priorities. He returned to Georgia and established the Carter Center, a division of Emory University in Atlanta.

The first undertaking of the center. which focuses on conflict resolution, was a November 1983 meeting between Arab. Israeli and Palestinian leaders. "The Blood of Abraham" is an outgrowth of that conference.

Historian Kenneth Stein heads the Carter Center. Stein assisted in the historical aspects of the book, and Carter liberally credits him.

Carter advises American leaders it is a serious mistake to abandon the role of peacemaker and points out leaders on both sides of the Mideast conflict have hidden aspirations and selfish motives.

For that reason, "The Blood of Abraham" is certain to irritate — it is brutally honest.

But it is also fair to each side.

Carter is sensitive to the belief of Jews that the nation of Israel is the fulfillment of prophecy. But he also insists no Mideast peace can last if it ignores the desire of Palestinians for a homeland.

'The Blood of Abraham" cuts through the labyrinthian misunderstandings that embroil the Middle East to conclude that the blood of the ancient Hebrew leader "still flows in the veins of Arab, Jew and Christian," and too much of it has been

he said, saying such testimony helps convey the emotionalism of the crime to the jury and demonstrates that sometimes the only way a child could know such details was to be molested.

Erlenbach, who reportedly was the first state attorney in Florida to use a child's videotaped testimony and psychological-trauma-expert testimony as evidence in child sex cases, said it can be beneficial to the child's mental well-being to have the child in court.

"A guilty verdict is worth 20 therapy sessions for some kids. It tells them they were believed and the bad guy wasn't," he

Erlenbach said the Seminole County State Attorney's office has tried some "landmark" cases in the area of child sex

He said the office is trying cases which in the past it would not have pursued because they priority. He said the fact that the office is deciding to prosecute such cases and winning them makes them landmarks. particularly cases with scant phayical evidence Erlenbach said not only are prosecutors more willing to go ahead with such cases because of changing public attitudes - but also because police. and other agencies believe it is an important enough issue to investigate and submit for prosecution.

"I feel really good about the way this office has been prosecuting these cases." he said-

Even jurors are beginning to think the crimes are worth prosecuting, he said.

If such cases were considered priorities in the past, repeat offenders would still be in custody rather than on trial again, he said.

Erlenbach said papers written by psychologists in fields related to child abuse say women are molesting children at a high rate, though not as much as men. He said that type of crime is highly underreported.

Erlenbach suggested that one possible reason why a boy may not report being molested by a woman is that peer pressure could be exerted on him if his friends found out.

In a related matter, one study printed in the Journal of Sex Research. November 1984, said that men, when judging a hypothetical situation, tended to blame boys more for being involved in a molestation than blaming girls for being victims. Women in the study did not place a significant difference of blame on boy or girls.

The authors, Dr. Caroline Waterman, of New York State University, and Dr. Deborah Foss-Goodman, of William and Mary College, said that 15-year-old boys were probably blamed more than 15-year-old girls for being molestation victims because of stereotypical behavior.

The author said a second study, by D. Finkelhor, Sexually Victimized Children, New York Press, showed that males are more active in sexual encounters than females, and people tend to read more consent into the behavior of victimized boys.

and Foss-Goodman, there has charge.

been a lot of study of how females feel about being sexaully abused, specifically raped, but no studies about how boys teel about being sexually abused.

They said men may assign more fault to men who have been abused than to women in similar situations

The study also indicated that the older the child victim, the less sympathy the subjects showed in the test Children were blamed less for their involvement when the molester was a parent (male or temale). than when a neighbor or, as in the study, a "repairperson," was the molester.

Gretchen Gross, directer of Guardian Ad Litum, a Sanford organization that provides help for victims of child abuse, agreed that there are women molesting children, though not at the same rate as men.

She too said the report rate versus the possible incident rate - is low, and mentioned one study that said out of 200 reported molestations, women were involved in only 3 as the offenders.

Ms. Gross said there could be several reasons why women molesters are not reported.

She said boys may have a better concept than girls of what is right or wrong sexual behavior and won't tolerate female abuse. Further, because they have a good notion of what is good and bad they might not report such incidents because they find it humiliating, she

Men tend to be the sexual abusers of children, she said, because they take out their anger sexually while women in similar circumstances tend to physically or emotionally, rather than sexually, abuse a child. Or, she said, women may relieve some of their anger at a child by allowing a man to sexually abuse her child. Sexual abuse by a regressive molester is a hostile act towards the child, she said... Some people are concerned that with the increase of reports of molesting, people go to extremes and report innocent acts or cultural behavior as molesting, such as during diaper changes or "tweaks" of a child's private parts by grandparents. Or, as in a recent case in Seminole County, a paramedic was accused of lewdly touching a teenager while she was being transported by ambulance to the hospital. The jury determined after only a few minutes of deliberation that given the girl's injuries, the man was acting well within the limits and needs of emergency medical treatment when he touched her near a breast. Erlenbach said the physical act of an accused molester and his or her intent is considered by

What makes it a crime, is when it is done for the perverse benefit of the abuser," he said.

He said a jury is told that to find a person guilty of molesting a child they must determine that not only did a physical act occur, but also if the person did what he did with a "wicked" or 'sensual" intent.

He said he did not know if that argument would be a successful According to Dr. Waterman defense against such a molesting
