The appearance of the 54 girls was met with applause from all sides. The girls filed across the stage, some of them wearing costumes, others, bathing suits which were furnished by the merchants they represented. Each girl then appeared on the stage alone. Applause greeted each girl as alse appeared singly, and the loud applause which was tendered at least half of them was revealed which the final count showed that it was a close race. The contestants were introduced by the Minster Doria Jackaba, Evelyn Stiller, and Marilise Torrance, members of the Betty Ball Brown Dancing School, They performed a series of acrobatic stunia just before the contestants appeared.

The bathing suits, which were said to represent the latest in apparel of that type, were purchased from the followin, merchania: Yoyell's, Speer's, Penney's, Dave's, Sadye's, and Churchwell's.
