Longwood Council Impounds City Financial Records

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer LONGWOOD — City Council in a special meeting this morning ordered acting public safety director James Pickens to take into custody all city financial records and deliver them to city auditor Harold Hartsock for a complete city-wide audit for the past two years.

Sanford artists Faye Siler (left) and Phyllis Senark brought a little of the spring countryside into the Lakewood Nursing Center, Sanford, recently when they completed this beautiful 20-foot mural in the Center. Members of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association and Beta Sigma Phi Society, both women agreed without the help and encouragement of assistant administrator Susan Castrianni and activities director Jane Miller, and of Eddie Senark who primed the wall surface, they could not have completed their mammoth task in just 20 hours. The patients are understandably delighted with the mural.

City Offer Could Hike Phone Bills

By MICKEY LOCHRIDGE Herald Staff Writer Sanford City Commissioners yesterday handed a Southern Bell Telephone Company offer for a 20-year franchise, which after two years may cause an increase in phone bills.

The franchise allows the phone company to use the city streets, alleys and other right-of-ways to conduct its business. At the end of the two-year period, City Commission then holds the option to increase the franchise fee to two per cent for the remaining 28 years, an increase which will be passed on to the telephone subscriber.

Jail Break Foiled; Suspect Arrested

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer An attempt by Seminole County Jail prisoners to break out Sunday night was revealed today by Sheriff John Polk after agents arrested a west Seminole woman on charges of aiding an escape, smuggling contraband into the jail and conspiracy to commit a felony.

MARY JANE SHAZER Authorities wouldn't say how the saws got upstairs to the cellblock S-1 occupied by 18 men but it is standard practice at the jail to allow visitors upstairs.

Federal Funds Sought For Working Students

By ED FRICKETT Herald Staff Writer City and county officials seeking more federal money to provide summer jobs for young people and students are pleased with President Ford's announcement that he will seek $112.7 million in additional funds from Congress.

John Gunther, executive director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said the cities got $385 million for summer jobs last year. He said he welcomed the announcement by Ford, but added: "The only problem is they're not acting big enough."

SANFORD AIRPORT FENCING GOES UP Reeves Southeastern Corp. is replacing 80 per cent of the fencing around the air operations area at the Sanford Airport Authority. Low bid for the project was $10,716.39 with 75 per cent of the costs picked up by the federal government, 12.5 per cent by the state and 12.5 per cent by the Airport Authority from accumulated airport revenues. The air operations area includes ramps and runway. Resurfacing of the runway has also begun.

NATION IN BRIEF

Oil Producing Nations Seek Price Commitment

NEW YORK (AP) — The oil cartel's plan for linking petroleum prices to the cost of its inputs is being read here as a ploy prepared for talks with the consuming nations later this year. Some analysts feel the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries may be willing to grant short-term price concessions in return for assurances that present oil profits can maintain their purchasing power. "What they're looking for is some kind of a commitment from the consuming nations regarding a stable price, which they may get if we are big enough fools to sign," says Prof. Maurice Adelman at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At the conclusion of their Algiers summit, the OPEC members said Thursday they were "prepared to negotiate conditions for the stabilization of oil prices." But they said such stabilization would include linking the price to such items as the price of manufactured goods, inflation and the cost of technology for the development of OPEC nations.

'He Got It And Hung On'

TOMAH, Wis. (AP) — Frank G. Andres was an early riser who liked to open his hardware store by 7 a.m. He shunned some innovations embraced by other Tomah merchants, such as staying open Saturday nights. But when he died, he left the community the bulk of his estate — perhaps $1 million or more. His enterprise, thrift and shrewd investment amassed the fortune in well over half a century in this west central Wisconsin community of about 6,500. "He had a good business, and he was a man who guarded his money very carefully," recalled Homer Wailey, a retired hospital worker and close friend. "He got it, and he hung on to it," added fellow merchant Forest Kennedy. Andres died last August at 83. In his will, the bulk of the estate is set aside for a trust, with the interest used "for any worthwhile and necessary gifts for the Tomah community."

GOP In 'Serious Trouble'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing a poll showing only 18 per cent of Americans consider themselves Republicans, GOP Chairman Mary Matalin warned today that the party is in serious trouble and that "time is running out." "Unless you and I get together and work for this party, we may have no party at all," Mrs. Matalin said in a speech launching a two-day meeting of Republican leaders.

Re-Hearing Stated On Turner Extradition

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Circuit Court Judge Richard B. Muldrew is scheduling an April re-hearing on the state of New York's efforts to extradite super salesman Glenn Turner to face a six-month contempt of court sentence. Judge Muldrew yesterday granted, in a four-minute hearing here a State of Florida motion for a re-hearing on the extradition proceeding.

Turner, colorful south Seminole resident facing re-trial at Tampa on federal mail fraud charges, and his attorney, Edward T. M. Garland, of Atlanta, were both absent from the brief Thursday hearing.

Assistant State Atty. Richard Hyatt told the court that he had talked by telephone with Garland and although Garland was unable to appear in court he was agreeable to the re-hearing. Judge Muldrew said he was tentatively setting the new hearing for March 20. Hyatt said Garland had requested a date in the first week of April and Muldrew said, "Then we'll hold it about that time."

The court noted that the state, in a brief filed in support of its petition for re-hearing, has raised questions concerning an apparent conflict in Florida's extradition statute. Judge Muldrew ruled Feb. 6 that New York state papers forwarded through Gov.

Reubin Askew's office were not sufficient under Florida law and that Turner couldn't be forced to go to New York. Florida's law reads that a state seeking to extradite a person must show the person jumped bail, broke parole or escaped confinement. The New York papers didn't show that Turner had done any of these.

The state has, in the petition for re-hearing, taken the position that there is no conflict in the Florida extradition statute. The state's brief cites another section of the statute that states that a defendant doesn't have to be in the state if alleged to have occurred. During the February hearing Garland said New York had offered no proof that Turner was present in that state during the one year period in which the alleged contempts were made. The contempt citation stemmed from a consent order Turner signed in November 1970, agreeing to halt alleged deceptive practices in the sale of distributorships for Kosco Interplanetary Inc. cosmetics and Dare-to-be-Great Inc. motivational courses.

In January 1973, the New York attorney general's office charged Turner with violating the agreement and with criminal contempt. A judge then sentenced Turner in absentia to six months in jail and a $65,450 fine and New York asked for his extradition from Florida.

AUTO HITS
DeBARY HOME

No. 11 wasn't a hurricane or tornado that caused this damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neswome, 100 Columbia Road, DeBary, yesterday. Rather it was an automobile, driven by Mrs. Mariel Cheek, 138 Verona Road, also of DeBary, that ran out of control. The car careened through a flower bed and finally came to rest in the bedroom of the Neswome home. Fortunately, the Neswomes were not home at the time of the accident, which caused approximately $1,000 damage to the auto and $5,000 to the home.

Christian To Face New State Bribery Charges

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Special prosecutors say they will file charges that former Education Commissioner Floyd Christian accepted $20,000 in bribes. "We anticipate they'll be filed in the early part of next week," Asst. State Atty. Robert Willis said Thursday. Willis said the nine bribery and conspiracy charges would be refiled directly with the Leon County Circuit Court. He said recovering a grand jury and accounting with the case would take too long and be too costly. "Our only problem is purely a logistics one," he said. Prosecutors do not plan to refile 10 dismissed counts that charged Christian with lying to a Leon County grand jury, he said. Willis' statements came after a meeting with Special Prosecutor T. Edward Austin and Asst. State Atty. Aaron Bowen, both of whom had guided the grand jury probe of Christian.

Judge May Close Jail

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Charles R. Scott has ordered Duval County jail officials to explain why they haven't made court-ordered jail improvements. Scott said Thursday he will close the jail "in whole or in part" unless officials answer a show-cause order on March 26 stemming from his Jan. 21 demands for improved housing and treatment of inmates. "I don't know how we can possibly handle the situation," Sheriff Dale Carson said of the show-cause order. He said unless the crime rate decreases or state Prison Director Louis Wainwright decides to accept additional prisoners, "we'd just have to go over the cap in about two months." The designed capacity of the 20-year-old jail is 412. Officials said 412 prisoners currently are housed there.

Battle Lines Drawn

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The battle lines have been drawn between Gov. Reubin Askew and legislative leaders over the proposed creation of an environmental super-agency. A Senate Natural Resources subcommittee was to consider a bill to create the agency today, one day after the House environmental reorganization subcommittee unanimously approved the measure. The battle, shaping up as one of the hottest issues of the 1975 legislative session, pits the proposal of Senate President Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, and House Speaker Donald Tucker, D-Tallahassee, against Askew's plan to reshape four agencies into three.

Lash Given Okay On Car Lot Plan

By MICKEY LOCHRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer
The Sanford Planning and Zoning (P&Z) Commission last night unanimously approved a conditional use plan submitted by automobile dealer Jim Lash for the establishment of a used car lot at 414 Orlando Drive. Local attorney Robert Morris, representing Lash, told the P&Z board the used car lot location was on Lash's property and there would be no mechanical or body work done at the site. The board also accepted the resignation of Ed Blackburn, who is resigning as P&Z Commissioner because of his appointment to the Sanford Housing Authority. The P&Z Board will make a recommendation on a replacement for Blackburn by October. Commissioners also approved a site plan for a dental office at 84th Street and Maple Avenue, an addition to the commercial building at Bob Dance Dodge at 1801 W. 1st Street and an office building at 1808 French Avenue.

Commission Awards Variety Of Contracts

County commissioners this week awarded contracts to low bidders for traffic signal and park equipment. Florida Traffic Signals, Inc. will install a signal at the corner of SR 434 and Palm Springs Drive after it submitted a low bid of $18,821 for the work. Three fourths of the signal—which had been estimated as costing closer to $32,000—will be financed by seven cent gasoline funds to the county, while developer Lester Mandell (Greater Construction) will pay for one fourth of the cost. Miracle Recreation was awarded the contract for 80 galvanized picnic table frames for Lake Mills Park for $4,852. Super Scenic Comfort Stations had the low bid for two "comfort stations" at the rate of $24,815. The county park is scheduled to open this summer. County Parks Director Jim Buck asked that bids on picnic grills be postponed until next week until he could learn more specifics about competing firms. Also this week, county commissioners withheld the payment of $490 to the King Healy Planning Group on the recommendation of County Planner Roger Neiswander. Neiswander told the Board that planning work on camping area, nature trails and other items on the Big Tree Park master plan had not been completed, although Healy had already billed the county for the services. The Board directed County Attorney Tom Freeman to read the contract for Healy's services to determine if the payment to the group could be withheld.

Man Returned On Altamonte Robbery

A 23-year-old Orlando man, who pleaded guilty to robbery in Indian River County, was to be transferred to Seminole County Jail at Sanford today to face similar charges in this county. Authorities at Vero Beach said Gary Lee Galvin pleaded guilty to two robbery charges in Indian River County. Seminole Chief Deputy Duane Harrell said he was told by Indian River authorities yesterday that Galvin had been sentenced to two life prison terms.

Action Reports

COURTS
Seminole sheriff's Capt. J. Q. "Slim" Galway said he sent two deputies to Vero Beach today to return Galvin to Sanford to face circuit court charges of escape, robbery, attempted robbery and use of a firearm in commission of a felony.
Altamonte Springs police said the robbery and use of a firearm in commission of a felony charges against Galvin are in connection with a Jan. 5 robbery at the Bramley Square Wine-Dixie store, SR-41 and SR-49.
Details on the remaining charges were not immediately available.
Authorities today reported a 16-year-old girl early Thursday after a 16-year-old Eugene Nelson carried the blazing blanket from a patio. County fire department units from the Springwood Village station at 7:45 and SR-434 answered the alarm. Officers said damage was limited to the blanket, bed and carpeting.
In other reports, deputies said burglars broke into a Springwood Village apartment complex office taking petty cash, office equipment and an expensive antique handgun. Damage to a door and filing cabinet was reported at $106. Deputies said burglars entered the Pro Shop at the Springs at Longwood by breaking a window. An inside door was forced to gain entry to an office and a petty cash box. Deputy F. M. Stewart said items taken in the break-in haven't been determined.
Sanford police today were probing the reported theft of a 1975 Ford pickup truck, valued at $4,500, for a lot at Jack Prosser Ford, U.S. 17-92 at Lake Mary Boulevard.

Automobiles were damaged. Cote, who operates the only taxi in South Seminole, was fast asleep outside the Why Not Lounge in Altamonte Springs yesterday and was awakened by a reporter.

ALTAMONTE
Vivian Angelo, 23, of Day's Lodge apartments is nursing a sore thumb today.
She's nursing the thumb because her dog got into a tussle with another canine friend. Mrs. Angelo jumped in to break up the fight, and was bitten on her thumb for her efforts, police said.
Vandals broke into Mrs. Frances Dickson's apartment at 808 San Sebastian Place Wednesday and ransacked the home, police reported today.
Police said Mrs. Dickson, a nurse at Florida Hospital, came home Wednesday night about 11 o'clock and found the house in a state of disarray.
Mrs. Woodward also opened for inspection to the press police benevolent fund records.
The Herald, in a story last week, revealed that revenues from the sale of police accident reports to citizens had been deposited until early this year in the benevolent fund.
Mrs. Woodward said the fund was opened in April, 1973, and monies raised from newspaper ads and the police reports had been deposited there until

Pollution Problems Reduced

Polluted Howell Branch has improved since 1970, but still remains "marginal," a report declares that the quality of the water must be maintained and preserved so that "body contact is not hazardous to one's health." Unabated pollution of water and air can be extremely costly in terms of human suffering, losses of property value and reduced enjoyment of the region's "outdoor lifestyle." Dredging and filling of any Florida waters requiring a permit from both the state DPC and Seminole county pollution control office. County Pollution Control Director Langley Adair investigates the probability of environmental damage in recommending to the county commissioners approval or denial of the permit. In order to cut down on some of the red tape and overlapping actions by the four separate environmental agencies, a "super-agency" is now being planned.
Trustees of the Internal Improvement Trust Fund, Department of Natural Resources, Game and Fish Commission, and the DPC, will be reorganized into the one "super-agency" if an effort by state legislators is successful. A House subcommittee yesterday unanimously approved such a bill, and sent the proposed legislation to the house natural resources committee which will consider it next week. Under the proposed law, Department of Natural Resources head Harmon Shields would direct the consolidated agency.

Future environmental efforts, according to Senkevich's report, will pivot on:
— Funding to municipalities for construction of new wastewater facilities.
— Regionalization of sewage treatment facilities.
— Continued inspection by DPC of all treatment plants, including chemical sampling.
— Careful pollution control of storm runoff and dredge and fill activities.

Phone Hike Possible

Hunt also said it was "to the benefit of the city" to show it has a franchise with the phone company.
But concern of phone company officials over using the franchise as collateral for a loan, doesn't register much concern with city commissioners.
Commissioners, during the noon luncheon at the Capri Restaurant, expressed their desire to insure that revenues will be collected by the city in the event that the state legislature eliminates a municipal tax.
The elimination of the utility tax would be the disaster, Commissioner A. A. McClanahan said.
"If we don't increase taxes here, (the franchise fee) we will have to increase other taxes," McClanahan said.
Estimated revenues to be collected by the city on the one per cent fee is $14,000.
Records show that the electric franchise, gas franchise and cable television franchise provide more than a one per cent revenue to the city.
A consensus among Mayor Lee Moore and Commissioners McClanahan and Julian Stenstrom showed their support of the franchise.
Commissioner John Morris supported the original franchise of the phone company which provides for a 36-year period with a one per cent fee.

Commissioner Gordon Meyer abstained from any discussion or voting on the telephone franchise because his involvement in the issue would constitute a conflict of interest. Meyer's wife is an employee of Southern Bell.
Knowles said he felt the telephone company, being the only company operating in the city, has been "using" the public's right-of-ways without paying the city.
The previous franchise did not call for any fee, but provided the city with a $3 and one-third per cent discount and three free trunk lines.

Jail Break Foiled

Sources had told The Herald that a "Saturday night special" revolver had also been smuggled into the jail and disassembled and flushed down a commode when the jailbreak attempt was discovered.
Hogan, however, said today that the weeklong investigation hadn't turned up any evidence that a gun was smuggled into the cellblock.
Mrs. Shazer's husband, Lawrence Grant Shazer, 30, pleaded guilty last month in circuit court to a charge of possession of burglary tools and is in county jail pending a presentence investigation ordered by the court.
Shazer was one of four men arrested in January when sheriff's agents cracked what they called a three-county burglary ring that utilized juveniles to burglarize homes.

United Nations May Hold Mideast Key

President Anwar Sadat has disclosed — and U.S. officials have confirmed — that a formal treaty pledging the United States of America to the defense of Israel has been proposed as a possible guarantee of any peace settlement that finally emerges in the Middle East.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger surely would argue that this is putting the cart before the horse when he is working for a step-by-step settlement, concentrating first on a new agreement between Egypt and Israel. He is still confident enough in that strategy to plan another trip to the Middle East this month. By then, his recent missionary work in Tel Aviv and Cairo will either have taken root or withered.

Nevertheless, Mr. Kissinger would find it hard to argue that a settlement negotiated step by step would not eventually have to deal with a final step providing guarantees for both sides that agreements will be observed. It is simply not in the cards that Israel could be persuaded to give up its "defensible borders" she gained in the 1967 war without ironclad assurances that she would be protected against future aggression.

The Arabs would have a right to the same assurances and, if there is talk of a U.S.-Israeli defense treaty, there surely will be talk of a Soviet-Arab treaty as its counterpart.

This is the least attractive approach to the problem of guarantees for a Mideast settlement. The danger all along has been that warfare between the Arabs and Israelis would escalate into a confrontation between the nuclear superpowers. Bilateral defense treaties linking the United States and the Soviet Union to opposing sides would make that confrontation more likely.

Then how can a settlement be guaranteed? Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin has rejected the idea of Israel tying its security to a U.S. commitment, and this is not surprising considering the mood in our country against "getting into another Vietnam." Obviously a Mideast settlement must be backed by guarantees that are international in scope, and Israel has reason to be skeptical on that score, too. The United Nations has not performed well in the past in efforts to police disputed frontiers in the Middle East.

The credibility of the United Nations as a referee between Arabs and Jews has been undermined by the domination of the U.N. by the pro-Arab Third World bloc. When Mideast peace negotiations get to the final step — and we can only hope that they progress to that point — then all of the countries involved, great and small, may find that the U.N. offers the only hope for insuring the peace.

The U.N. at that point would have to prove that it is not the captive of the Arab cause or all the previous steps toward peace would turn out to have been taken in vain.

BERRY'S WORLD

Can't we make our program a little more complicated — too many people might understand

Around The Clock

The following is from "Jack Horner's Corner" — a mail-order from the Executive Manager of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Particularly appropriate for these days and times is the description of THE GOOD GUY: "I'm the fellow who goes into a restaurant, sits down and patiently waits while the waitresses finish their visiting before taking my order."

"I'm the fellow who goes into a department store and stands quietly while the clerks finish their little chat."

"I'm the fellow who drives into a service station and never blows his horn, but lets the attendant take his time."

"You might say that I'm the good guy. But do you know who else I am?"

"I'm the fellow who never comes back."

"It puzzles me to see business spending so much money every year to get my business — when I was there in the first place."

"And all they needed to keep me coming back was some service and extend a little courtesy."

It might be well for business managers to clip this little "story," and post it onto their employees bulletin board. (Usually the one who does take the time to clip tid bits like this one, isn't the businessman who would tolerate the conditions described above, either. It's the one who doesn't care who gets into trouble with his business, right?)

On another matter concerning collections of accounts procedures at county hospitals, "The hospital lacks legislative authorization to offer a cash discount for prompt payment, to impose a penalty for late or non-payment of accounts, and to increase the amount of an account for non-payment. The hospital is authorized to sue for collection of such accounts."

Thought for today: An error is a blunder when it is repeated.

Interesting "tid bits" contained in Atty. General Robert Shevin's monthly Digest of Official Opinions.

For example, a traveler may be reimbursed for long-distance telephone calls necessarily made in connection with the traveler's official duties; however, personal long-distance calls to the traveler's spouse are not reimbursable "communication expense" under the state statute.

On another matter concerning collections of accounts procedures at county hospitals, "The hospital lacks legislative authorization to offer a cash discount for prompt payment, to impose a penalty for late or non-payment of accounts, and to increase the amount of an account for non-payment. The hospital is authorized to sue for collection of such accounts."

Thought for today: An error is a blunder when it is repeated.

TOM TIEDE Creditors Chasing Politicians

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Although lately public debate concerning campaign funding reform, few have created one twist about a secondary aspect of the same scandal: campaign debt. Small wonder, their reluctance. The history of campaign debts is that the less said about it, the better. If one wants it out in silence, very often the creditors give up and go away.

So little is heard about the subject officially that its magnitude can only be guessed. Records of campaign financing are kept now by the Office of Federal Elections, but they are incomplete at best, hopelessly tangled at worst. And prior to that, it was established in 1973 statistics, presumably including debts, were kept by the clerk of the House of Representatives and for some reason, it takes a subpoena to gain access to those logs today.

But even a small peek at the debt notes that are available is an indication of a large political shame. Hubert Humphrey's 1968 presidential campaign still owes hundreds of thousands of dollars to American Airlines. Terry Sanford, the widely unknown North Carolina in-and-out candidate, still owes $400,000 to individuals and firms for 1972. And this is just a small peek. Says a former campaigner for Edmund Muskie, himself a forgotten creditor: "I'll bet a donut that everybody who ran for president in 1972 still has at least a few people who are begging for loans. Money. Some have whole armies of creditors. I'd say $3 to $4 million easily is still owed, of which most will never be paid."

Though alarming, the $3 to $4 million estimate may be conservative.

Just one of Humphrey's 1972 presidential group, the Committee for the Nomination of HHH, Inc., has filed a report with the OFE stating $903,668.40 in debts and $63.23 on hand. Besides this, the Minnesota senator has numerous smaller committees throughout the nation continuing to report other debts. One of the smaller debts is the Detroit Committee for Humphrey which reports no assets, no hope for further incoming funds and $23,000 owed to 17 Michigan creditors.

In many cases, of course, the campaign money owed is never expected to be collected. Humphrey still owes $175,000 to Cleveland executive Joseph Cole, and some $500,000 to other fat cats who lent the cash out of political sympathy. But the $23,000 owed in Detroit is almost entirely little people's loot, everything from: $12.48 to a postal machine firm to $1,192 to the Goodwill Printing Co.

Usually, no doubt, the commercial creditors fight as long as is prudently possible for the money. Dan Stanley of Chicago's Progress Printing Co., says he still intends to get an ancient $2,000 debt out of Humphrey because, "They don't stick me, buddy." As a practical matter, though, the older a campaign debt becomes the less likely its eventual collection. "What you do is hope," says a representative for Detroit's Goodwill Printing, "but we don't want to push it much because we don't want any adverse reflection. We don't call anybody any names."

DAVID POLING Texas Impact On Church

We have argued that the prejudice against operation was discarded, these black ladies held off from seeking other work for some three weeks, to see if it would be possible for them to continue to work together as a team. For many years they had worked together (one for 29 years). These few ladies have a certain pride in their work and skills that is a precious intangible. . . . On the basis of their faith and confidence, I have continued to operate, under my private ownership, The Old YW Cafeteria."

The dignity of work, God calling man to a special task, has been an essential theme in Christian theology. But lately the topic has been blurred and the discussion nearly silenced in the seminaries and the large church conferences. Yet, out of Texas is coming some fresh input which will have certain impact in the years ahead. Last year, David Smith, president and owner of the hugely successful Chemical Exchange, stunned the downtown Houston community by buying the story Ben Milam Hotel. A historic landmark, the massive hotel had recently served in a variety of trades — most recently as a residential YWCA, but now no longer serving the program needs of the "Y". Smith, along with other downtown businessmen, enjoyed the cooking, service and atmosphere of the old YWCA cafeteria. Smith was particularly impressed with the loyalty and devotion of the black cooks and service ladies at his favorite place for lunch.

RAY CROMLEY Thinking As Soviets May Think

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — To a surprising degree, our defense strategy and defense spending are based on a psychological analysis of what the Russians think, and what they would do in any given situation.

The government estimates are based largely on how we think we would react if we were Russian Communists. And since very few of us, the top men in the Pentagon were Russian or Communists, this theorizing may hold no water at all.

The Vladivostok accord was based on this simplistic, involuted reasoning. As is well known, the ceilings allotted to the Soviet Union and the United States in that agreement are so great that neither country is hampered in building all the missiles it can possibly want.

The reasoning here is that the Soviet leaders will eventually become appalled at the cost of reaching these missile ceilings, and the cost of technical development necessary to take full advantage of the loopholes in the agreement. Yet the pressure will be there to make the attempt so long as the buildup is permitted on both sides of the iron curtain.

The main point to remember in all this is that the Vladivostok accord, despite the high numerical ceilings allotted, in a real sense turns the arms race into a technological battle in those very areas — computers, guidance and other forms of advanced electronics in which the United States has consistently excelled and the Soviet Union has lagged.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Kissinger Makes 11th Peace Mission Today

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger headed into his 11th Middle East peace mission today amid speculation whether the Palestinian guerrilla led Tel Aviv diminished his chances of success.

Kissinger was due in Egypt tonight after a stop en route in Brussels to meet with Greek Foreign Minister Dimitrios Birtzes. The official Cairo paper Al-Ahram said President Anwar Sadat would tell his visitor the terrorist attack Wednesday night proved the necessity of "defusing all reasons for explosion in the area."

However, Al-Ahram said Sadat told it was "optimistic" that Kissinger would arrange an agreement for another Israeli troop withdrawal in the Sinai Desert to be followed by a similar accord for the Syrian front.

Ship Stealing Is Charged

QUEBEC (AP) — The story of the runaway ship Answer has moved from the high seas to the courtroom as Capt. Brian Erb pleaded innocent to a charge of stealing the vessel.

A preliminary hearing was set for May 14. Judge Gilles Lahaye of Sessions Court released Erb on his own recognizance, on the condition he does not board the ship, which is on its way to Sept-Isles, Que.

Erb was arrested Wednesday when Royal Canadian Mounted Police boarded the Answer near the Magdalen Islands, where it was stuck in ice-clogged waters. The captain was charged with stealing the ship on Feb. 23 and setting off with a young crew of 12 men and seven women.

Israeli Vengeance Anticipated

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israelis enraged over the guerrilla raid on a Tel Aviv hotel waited today for their armed forces to wreak vengeance on Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon.

But there was speculation that the counterattack would be delayed until after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's visit in search of a new Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

"They will be punished," Premier Yitzhak Rabin said after the terrorist attack Wednesday night in which seven of the eight Arab raiders, four hostages and three Israeli soldiers were reported killed. Five soldiers and six civilians were wounded.

One-Third Of Term Should Be Served, Shevin Declares

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The legislature should require prison inmates to serve a minimum one-third of a sentence before parole is considered, says Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin.

In a list of recommendations to the 1975 legislature, Shevin said Thursday that judges should be required to set minimum sentences that must be served before parole can be granted.

Shevin said that in the years 1972-73, three categories of inmates served less than one-third of their sentence. "These individuals had been convicted for the crimes of murder, forcible rape and armed robbery," he said.

"In a case where life imprisonment has been imposed, a mandatory 25 years should be served before parole is considered," he added.

Before any parole is granted, the Parole and Probation Commission should be required to contact the sentencing judge and the prosecuting attorney for their recommendations, Shevin said.

He said judges should be allowed to impose extended sentences on habitual criminals and that the law should be changed to make it easier to deny bail to a person awaiting appeal after conviction of a serious crime.

"There is no constitutional right to bail after conviction," said Shevin in his annual message to the legislature. Shevin also recommended a permanent special prosecutor for the statewide grand jury; banning of the sale of so-called cheap handguns known as "Saturday night specials;" and banning of dog and chicken fighting.

The attorney general also suggested that the Judicial Qualifications Commission be the final authority for determining whether justices should be removed from the Florida Supreme Court.

O'Malley Ex-Partner Before Grand Jury

MIAMI (AP) — A Miami attorney sentenced to jail for refusing to testify before a Leon County grand jury in investigating state Treasurer Thomas O'Malley has appeared before a federal grand jury that is reportedly probing O'Malley's financial affairs.

Bennett Gordon Feldman, 37, a former law partner of O'Malley, appeared before the federal grand jury in Miami on Thursday, but refused to tell reporters following his appearance whether he had testified.

Prosecutors had met about three times with the Miami grand jury and witnesses had testified.

The sources said federal investigators of possible criminal income tax violations by O'Malley.

'Sunshine' Hearings Set For Bank Charter Delays

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — "Government-in-the-Sunshine" hearings will be held on 33 conditional bank charters revoked earlier this year by Comptroller Gerald Lewis, officials say.

Lewis announced Thursday that he has scheduled the first seven public hearings, beginning March 25, in Tallahassee.

He revoked the conditionally approved charters six weeks ago, saying that his predecessor, Fred Dickinson, had granted them despite staff recommendations that they be rejected.

Lewis said he has prepared guidelines for consideration of bank charter applications. The guidelines call for open hearings and would open most application information to public scrutiny although there is a provision to keep secret any personal financial information.

O'Malley Ex-Partner Before Grand Jury

Feldman is currently out on $10,000 bond while he awaits his conviction and six-month jail sentence handed down by Leon County Circuit Judge John Ruddy for contempt of court.

Ruddy charged that Feldman refused to testify before the Tallahassee grand jury that re-indicted O'Malley. Ruddy charged that Feldman's refusal to testify thwarted the grand jury's investigation. The refusal reportedly prevented the grand jury from re-indicting O'Malley on charges of taking $40,000 in kickbacks from Feldman and Ricardo Cravolo, another former law partner.

O'Malley was indicted by the grand jury on charges of perjury, accepting $10,000 in unauthorized compensation and pressuring an insurance company to lend $2.36 million to a business partner.

Fund Dinner To Assist Boy's Surgery

Little Jacob Spivey, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Spivey of Lake Harney, faces surgery for collapsed ear drums.

To help raise the needed funds to finance the operation, community organizations will sponsor a spaghetti dinner Saturday, 6-8 p.m., at the Geneva Community Center.

Cooperating in the project are Geneva Genealogical and Historical Society, Geneva School PTO, Geneva Civic Association, Geneva Volunteer Fire Dept., the Garden Club, Homemakers Club, Geneva Church of the Nazarene, Baptist Church and United Methodist Church.

The dinner is open to the public with tickets available at the fire station or at the door.

Thanks

Your Response and Interest in our display at the Homemakers Show was tremendous. We are sorry we were not able to furnish everyone with an entry blank for the drawing. . . . If we missed you, please fill out the one below and mail or bring it in this week.

Less Cambodia Aid Hinted By Ford

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford will settle for less than the $222 million in emergency aid he previously said was essential for the survival of Cambodia, White House officials say.

This tilt toward compromise was acknowledged after Ford told a news conference Thursday night that Cambodia could fall to the Communists if Congress doesn't approve more military assistance within "10 days or two weeks."

Still, while saying that "time is running out" and "there is no hope" without aid, there is no hope "without aid from the Southeast Asian nation, Ford never used the $222 million figure so prominently advertised in the past as the necessary amount."

The White House sources would not disclose exactly that Ford might accept otherwise, but Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., has been proposing a $116 million sum since he returned earlier this week from a fact-finding tour of South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Although the issue of Cambodia took the largest share of the half-hour, nationally broadcast news conference, Ford also was questioned on the economy and politics, and he made these points:

—Unemployment, which stood at 8.3 per cent in January, could go as high as 9 per cent, although "I have doubts that it will."

—Whatever the climb in the jobless rate, "a greater tax reduction," not an increase in federal spending, would be preferred.

—Whatever the size of the tax cut, middle-income Americans should get greater relief to spur consumer spending, Ford added. The big problem "is not the size of the tax cut, but the slowness with which Congress is acting on it," he said.

—Congress is making alarming moves toward increasing the already burdensome $52 billion federal deficit he has proposed. "That figure is too much, and anything above that is very, very bad," he said.

Cambodia that was on his mind and the minds of the reporters. In fact, it wasn't until the news conference reached its 21st minute that questions turned to the economy.

Ford opened with a prepared statement outlining his argument for more Cambodian aid and said "there is no hope of success unless the Congress acts quickly to provide the necessary means for Cambodia to survive."

Another powerful Democrat, Rep. George Mahon of Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said the recommendation of some of the fact-finding teams have "softened some resistance to the request."

However, Mahon added, "I don't think Congress will approve the full amount, but some rescaled more can be worked out."

Getting Rid Of Blood Clot

DEAR DR. LAMB—Would you please help me settle a running argument in my family? One member insists a blood clot in a vein can be removed by surgery and the other says that it is not at all possible and must be dissolved by medicine. Which is correct?

Dr. Lamb
By LAWRENCE E. LAMB

DEAR READER—You can do either one in the right case. To use a simple example, when a person has a thrombosed hemorrhoid he really has a small clot in the vein. A common form of treatment is to open the thrombosed hemorrhoid and remove the clot. In some locations and because of the nature of the clot, surgical removal is not a good form of treatment, and in others it is fine.

To use a slightly different example, a clot in an artery often must be removed surgically and fast. Rarely during heart surgery, clots within the heart may escape

Eastern Admits Gamble In 'No Frills' Program

MIAMI (AP)—Eastern Airlines officials admitted they are gambling with the firm's financial stability by joining National Airlines in a "no frills" or "no frills" service between certain cities.

Eastern, trying to keep its hold on a 55 per cent share of the lucrative New York-Miami route, announced Thursday it would cut fares by as much as 35 per cent.

A spokesman said Eastern would include an economy section in all its planes on certain routes. National's three-class plan, announced last week for a dozen test markets, is limited to wide-body jets.

Both proposals need Civil Aeronautics Board approval. Eastern executives said the plan, set to begin April 14, could prove a costly mistake if it fails to lure new passengers.

Gurney Jury Effort Near Last Stage

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An unemployed waitress has survived the latest round of jury challenges in the bribery-conspiracy trial of former Sen. Edward Gurney after saying she couldn't recall with which political party she was registered.

The last 13 potential jurors were instructed to return for questioning today, the 10th day of jury selection in the trial of Gurney and four co-defendants.

All but 22 of the 113 prospects queried to date have been rejected by U.S. District Judge Ben Krentzman, prosecutors or defense attorneys.

Pastor's Corner

By REV. CLEO J. JENKINS
Church of our Lord Jesus Christ
Apostolic Faith

The Bible is the only ground for unity. Christ prayed for unity.

"Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe in me through their Word; that they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and in Thee, that they also may be one in us: That they may believe that Thou hast sent me." John 17:20-21

The Bible is not productive of conflicting teachings with reference to God's relation to man before salvation — what God has done through Jesus Christ on man's behalf — how man responds to Christ's work for man — how God wants man to conduct himself in order to strengthen the relationship between God and man, and the work God wants to accomplish through man, one cannot get a working knowledge of the Bible.

The Bible is truth. "Speak the same thing and be of the same mind now I beseech you brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no division among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment." 1 Cor. 1:10

The Bible is not an ordinary book. In fact, it is not just a book, it is a collection of books by many inspired authors, however, all of the books come together to make a complete unit. This is one of the unusual features of the Bible — even though the authors did not see each other or know each other with each other, they all came up with a well-integrated

Religion And Handicapped Outlook Workshop Topic

Outlook Central Florida, Inc. of Longwood, will conduct a workshop for area churches on "The Role of Religion in Rehabilitation" March 15 in Winter Park. The seminar will feature Dr. Harold H. Wilke, international authority in mainstreaming handicapped persons into community life.

An ordained minister of the United Church of Christ, Dr. Wilke is an expert in varied aspects of rehabilitation having lectured in almost three dozen countries and all 50 states and served as consultant to government groups and voluntary organizations in Europe.

Yes, the Bible speaks of his will for He died for you, and for your gift to Him is to live for Him. You should know and understand the Resurrection of Jesus Christ. It carries a message of hope for forgiveness, and salvation through faith in Jesus Christ.

The workshop will be held at the S&S Cafeteria at 613 S. Orlando Ave. and the Lake Island Recreation Center (behind Mt. Vernon Motor Lodge). The breakfast is open to the general public, 8:30 a.m. at S&S with Dr. Wilke speaking on "Being Human". From 9:45 to 10:15 he will meet with ministers and their families.

A session on "Removing Architectural Barriers" will be held especially for lay leaders from 10:11 at the recreation center featuring a panel of representatives from the Paraplegic Assn., Florida Council on Handicapped Organizations, Governor's Committee on Employment of Handicapped Persons, Easter Seal Society and American

Seven Cardinal Virtues Temperance Is Neglected Virtue

By DAVID POLING
The Herald Services

"Without standards," argued naturalist and author, Joseph Wood Krutch, "without standards, society lapses into anarchy and the individual becomes aware of an intolerable disharmony between himself and the universe."

Temperance is the lost word, the buried virtue. It became a throw-away line for night-club comedians, the final putdown of the post-Prohibition culture. Temperance vanished with Al Capone. A term once identified with total abstinence, its promise declined with the repeal of Prohibition. Yet Temperance is a cardinal virtue which we all should prize if we all could understand its fullest meaning.

In his treatise on the cardinal virtues, Dr. Josef Pieper suggests that we have lost the value of this term through our ignorance of its Latin root, temperantia, which was fully understood by St. Paul when he wrote: "God has established a harmony in the body, giving special honor to that which needed it most. There was to be no want of unity in the body; all by an over-indulgent society on one hand and an emasculating asceticism on the other. Without moderation each of us can be quickly destroyed by the basic drives and yearnings of life. With temperance we discover a full and sustaining joy of God's creation, for we have learned to coordinate the inner balance of personality with the harmony of daily desires. For those who quietly recover the meaning of this cardinal virtue comes a radiance of personality that the world can neither give nor take away. This is what the first followers found in Christ and hoped to find in their own existence."

Goin' Places, Doin' Things

By JEAN PATTESON
Women's Editor

Wonderful to see so many of you at The Herald's Homemaker Show Tuesday night. Not that I saw all of you too clearly, for you see, when they asked me if I'd model some of Nora Gordon's lovely lingerie I agreed, thinking there'd only be a handful of people at the show... so why not?

But when I saw thousands of eager show-goers streaming into the Civic Center, panic struck! There was only one thing to do: I took off my glasses and couldn't see beyond the front row. With only (apparently) a handful of people watching, I had the courage to go through with it.

Actually, wearing the garments Nora selected for me combined with those magnificent wig from Irma's Wigs in the Interstate Mall, I wanted to show off how they transformed me!

Thank you all for attending.

When Rose Southward announced a couple of weeks back she would soon be marrying Albert O. Payne, she caused a stir of happiness among her many friends in the Sanford area. The ceremony was brief and intimate, but many Sanford women had the opportunity to personally wish the new Mrs. Rose Payne well Friday at a bridal luncheon given in her honor at the lovely home of Ametie (Mrs. Kenneth) Wing.

Hostesses included Carolyn (Mrs. Burch) Cornelius, Millie (Mrs. William) Stempier and Florence (Mrs. Douglas) Stenstrom.

Invited guests were the honoree's daughters, Mrs. Susan Foster and Mrs. Candy Lull, and her aunt, Mrs. Robert Cole. Also, Mrs. Richard Egan, Mrs. Donald Flamm, Mrs. Ralph Jarvis, Mrs. Joyce Jones, Mrs. Douglas Kieckhefer, Mrs. A. C. McNeely, Mrs. Milton E. Smith, Mrs. Ralph A. Smith, Mrs. William Southward and Mrs. Fred Wilson.

Rose was charming in a dusty pink suit and chocolate brown blouse, with matching corsage of pink roses. She was presented a silver tray as a hostess gift.

WOMEN Fashion Show Features Bride's Dream

A day in the life of a bride-to-be — her girlish dreams of a romantic bridal gown, beautifully attired attendants and elegant mother of the bride... this was the theme of The Herald's Homemaker Fashion Show in the Sanford Civic Center Tuesday night.

The bride's dreams include sophisticated night-on-the-town-wear, racy sportswear and, of course, ultra-feminine lingerie.

Coordinators of the fashion show were downtown business women Rose Edith Jacobson of Holly's, who also M.C'd the show, and Nora Gordon of Merle Norman Cosmetics, who touched up the models' makeup to transform them into real beauties. Mrs. Jacobson presented an attractive collection of sports and formal wear, and the tempting lingerie and loungewear were all from Nora Gordon's shop.

Also showing fashions were Mary O'Day from the Singer Sewing Center, Geri Johns from The Vogue and Caroline Holtzclaw from Milady's. The fine collection of truly lovely wigs were styled and presented by Irma Orino of Irma's Wigs in the Interstate Mall.

Anyone who has ever dreamed of visiting the cradle of the Renaissance can do this summer during seven weeks of study and travel in Italy offered through Florida Technological University (FTU). The summer program, made possible through an agreement with the University of Urbino, will welcome teachers and students alike, with or without a knowledge of Italian.

Dr. Anthony V. Cervone, Chairman of Foreign Languages at FTU and director of the summer study program, noted students will be able to earn up to 14 quarter hours of transferable credit during their stay in Italy. Applicants accepted for the program will not be required to undergo the regular FTU admissions process.

The program is open to all students in the Florida State University system plus those at other campuses in and out of the state.

Gratis II Not Gratis

The three-play presentation by the Florida Technological University Village Players on March 13, 14 and 15 is not a free performance as previously stated in error. There will be a general admission charge.

The three plays include Sartre's "No Exit," a collection of Ray Bradbury's best works combined to create "The Unlimited Future," and George Bernard Shaw's "Passion, Poison and Petrification or The Fatal Gazogone."

It's Three To One For Cutting The Cord

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the 25-year-old girl who signed herself "Over Protected." She wanted her own apartment, was able to support herself, but her mother said: "Only tramps have their own apartments. Nice girls live at home."

Abby, I had the same problem. Only my problem was my father. I was 23 when I wanted to move out of my parents' home and into my own apartment. I was able to support myself, but my father insisted that I wanted to move so I could have men running in and out of my apartment all hours of the night. In fact, after I moved, he even watched my apartment for weeks, hoping he could say to my mother: "See! I told you so!"

Well, it never happened. Abby, I was raised in a religious home where I was taught right from wrong, and I never forgot my upbringing. Parents should realize that grown children need to get out on their own, make their own decisions and become self-sufficient. And if they had the proper training and example, they will not be corrupted by temptation.

Your advice to "Over Protected" was great... "Cut the cord — and don't feel guilty!"

FREE, 24 AND RESP. Thanks! I needed that. Some parents wrote to tell me to drop dead with that kind of advice, but the mail is running three to one in my favor.

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Made My Plans" wrote that she wanted to leave her eyes and kidneys to medical science to benefit anyone who needed them after her death. Her problem was her daughter, who said: "I am not going to let them cut you up, etc."

I wish "Made My Plans" and her daughter could have been at our house last Sunday when my husband, who desperately

BRIDE HONORED AT LUNCHEON

Club Notes
Star Club
Members of the Deltona Star Club were pleasantly surprised at their meeting Feb. 22, in the Deltona Community Center by an unofficial visit from Mrs. Val Ledbetter to contribute $25 to the Star's annual paper sale drive which took place Feb. 23 and Mar. 1 in Deltona, and $15 to the Southwest Volusia Outreach Center, located in Deltona.

The president appointed a nominating committee of three: Marguerite Morrissey, Mary Brown and Helen Butler, to present a slate of officers to be considered for 1975-76. They will report at the March meeting, which has been moved to the Third Friday (instead of the usual fourth Friday) of the month at 10 a.m. in the Community Center.

Mrs. Ledbetter praised the members for their work and loyalty to their respective Eastern Star Chapters in their home towns and stated that there was great potential in the area for good Eastern Star members. She informed the membership that at the last Grand Chapter session of Florida, it had been voted to allow dual membership. This meant that anyone in good standing in their chapter in another state, can become a member in one of Florida's Eastern Star Chapters without relinquishing membership in their former chapter.

Dual membership has long been desired by many Eastern Star members who do not wish to leave their home state chapters.

However, the big surprise came when the Worthy Patron informed members that the Grand Chapter of Florida would welcome a new chapter in Deltona, something which many Eastern Star members wanted many years ago, but were refused.

Heating the meeting and luncheon which followed at 11 a.m. were Ruth Jackson, Peggy Hubach, Jerry Moltroze, Wilma

House Delays Impeachment Probe In Dispute With Dekle

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A House impeachment committee has interrupted its investigation of Supreme Court Justice Hal Dekle after sharp friction evolved between committee members and Dekle.

The main issue was Dekle's refusal Thursday to answer a question. But Chairman William J. Rish, D-Port St. Joe, earlier chastised Dekle in the committee room for one of his answers. Rish continued his criticism of Dekle in a hallway during a brief recess.

Rish said he will call the committee back into session in about 10 days but the panel's course was uncertain.

Left pending was a motion by Rep. Alan S. Becker, D-Miami, to throw out all of Dekle's defense testimony since the Justice wanted to answer selected questions.

Dekle had taken the stand after Justice Joseph Boyd completed more than five hours of testimony.

Frederick Karl, the committee counsel, asked Dekle, "Do you have any recollection of any contact with any district court of appeal judge or circuit judge about a case pending or about to come before them?"

Dekle's attorney, Robert Ervin, called the question improper, advised his client not to answer and threatened to terminate the testimony on the grounds of separation of powers. He said the legislature should not be questioning a member of the judiciary.

Dekle said he would follow the attorney's advice and not answer any "open-ended questions."

Karl reminded them that Dekle was allowed to testify

only on agreement he would answer questions from the committee.

"It would be grossly unfair to the committee to let him say what he wants to and not to submit to questions. We would have an incomplete record," Karl said.

Then a motion by Rep. Granville Crabtree, R-Sarasota, that the committee not hear any more testimony for the rest of the day was approved unanimously.

Karl reminded them that Dekle was allowed to testify

Horoscope

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Saturday, March 8, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Be careful with whom you associate today. Avoid those who act on the spur of the moment. One friend is a bit too wild.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
It's good to be competitive, but today you're apt to take things a little too seriously and try to steamroller the opposition.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Your impatience will be hard to reign in if things don't go your way on the first try. Shut tasks where you lack competence.

CANCER (June 21-July 21)
Be careful. Don't become overly involved in another's complicated affairs, especially if his problems are of a material nature.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22)
You're going to be perturbed by a close companion you felt was in agreement with you when she changes her mind at the last minute.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Be extra careful today how you handle tools or sharp instruments. Also, be sure those you're working with do likewise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
It's not a good day to try to draw to an inside straight. If you take any financial flyers, be sure they're penny ante stuff.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Be careful how you handle fragile household items. Something you're found of will get broken if you move things carelessly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Fan your moves well in advance today. Things you try to do in haste or as an afterthought are apt to get all fouled up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Possessions you prize will get lost or stolen if you leave them lying about or treat them with indifference.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You're a better follower today than you are a leader. Have definite goals or you'll be going off in two directions at once.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
It doesn't become you to contemplate tactics that aren't out in the open to spite one whom you feel has wronged you.

Palmer: Army General; Barber: Lone Soldier

By TOM KEYSER
Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO — You could tell when Arnold Palmer teed off. His Army moved down the 10th fairway like an attacking sea of ants. They balled for a glance at golf's superman and they ran for position to view a Palmer shot.

When Jim Barber teed off, no one noticed.

No Army, let alone a spectator, scurried over the bridges and through the woods to see him boom a drive or tap a putt. No one knew Jim Barber.

Both golfers shot 72 Thursday in the first round of the Citrus Open at the Rio Pinar Country Club.

Chuck Courtney fired a six-under par 66 to lead the 153 pros. Pat FitzSimmons and Mark Hayes carded 67.

The second round is today. The golfers who make the cut, which will be around par, will compete Saturday and Sunday in the final rounds. CBS will telecast the weekend rounds.

Palmer started slow, bogeying No. 10, a par-five, 500-yarder. His drive and fairway wood were in the rough, and he missed the green with his pitch. Then he dubbed a shot and chipped on for a tap-in.

After he smacked his drive into the rough on the par-four, 410-yard 11th hole, a spectator said, "It doesn't do something soon, I'm going up and watch Homero (Blancas, in the threesome ahead of Palmer)."

Palmer parred No. 11, the par-three, 165-yard No. 12, and on the first shot, after 18 holes, that was in the fairway.

But it didn't matter to the Army that Palmer was spraying his drives and scrambling to survive and not sinking putts. And it didn't seem to bother Barber either.

"When TV started and they began television golf," one spectator said, "Palmer was the young, good looking one who was winning the tournaments and making the vaillant charges. He's the daddy, and these people have not forgotten it."

"There's just something about the guy," another said. "I'd be damned if I know what it is."

Palmer has the draw of a magnet. When your eyes focus on him they don't want to look away. They want to see all that this man is.

The face is golden brown and the hair is silver gray. The stride is confident and the expressions flow from frustration, sternness to happiness. The hair waves in the wind.

Everything about Arnold Palmer is definable.

But there were athletes among the spectators. On the 15th green after Palmer chipped to within 12 feet of the pin with his

Carroll Curtis Trinity Prep Track's Miss Everything

By CHUCK MCCLUNG
Herald Correspondent

She strutted slowly across the infield of the Lake Brantley High School track. Silence was her partner.

We exchanged greetings and she replied, "I'm not having a very good day."

Her name is Carroll Curtis and she is Trinity Prep's track team's Miss Everything.

Although not having a "very good day," Miss Curtis captured first in the four events she entered, producing 28 of the 37 Trinity team points.

"On the track, I'm there to think about one thing," said the Trinity star concerning her solitude during a meet. "I've always liked running. When I was little, I used to always have races with the people my age. I used to beat all the boys and they would get mad. I like that."

But running has not always been the dream come true. She first entered competition last year as a swimmer, stroking along side her older sister, Cindy.

"Swimming has always been fun. I would do what my sister did. She started swimming, so I started swimming."

Her record breaking feat first occurred in the pool. She holds the school record in the breaststroke.

"Last year I would get up in the mornings for swim practice (which started at 6 a.m.) then I would put in six hours of school, and then run track after school. Then I would go horseback riding, my favorite hobby, which gave me a full day. Boy, I was busy then."

But she was faced with a difficult decision at District time.

"Both the track and the swimming Districts came on the same day. The athletic director came to me and told me I had a decision to make. So I decided to run track."

Her choice was influenced by shoulder problems that she's had since the seventh grade that bothered her when she swam.

"The only reason I run is because I love it. Even if I was terrible, I still would run. When you start getting better and better, it's more exciting. I've always wanted to run, but never had the chance. I've always wanted to be on a team, you know, a little track team. I finally got my chance."

But the chance didn't come easy.

"I had to convince Coach (George) Austin that I could run. So I told him I can hurdle a little bit, I did while I was up in camp last summer."

"He just said 'all right, let me see.' So I went up and jumped a hurdle and he said 'hmmmm.' That's when he first started taking an interest in me. He said 'well, maybe we'll think about it.'"

Austin thought seriously about the hurdling demonstration, for Miss Curtis now holds the county record for the 110-yard low hurdles with a 16.8 second timing.

"I used to always jump things too," said Miss Curtis. "I used to run and jump as high and long as I could."

Even with the guidance of Miss Curtis, Trinity Prep is suffering a hard season, standing at 2-4.

"We have a promising team," she said. "Most of them are seventh and eighth graders." Miss Curtis is a ninth grader.

The Freshman Flash gives most of the credit to Austin. "He always made me work harder. All he said was 'we'll see, we'll see.' And I kept running harder so he would notice me."

Though stardom has anchored itself around the ankles of Carroll Curtis, she isn't satisfied.

"I don't want to be known just for my running. You know, people say 'there goes Curtis the runner.' But I don't like that. I want to be known as Carroll Curtis. I want people to know me as just Carroll Curtis the person, not Carroll Curtis the runner."

"I'm real competitive. I'm a perfectionist. I can't stand anyone ahead of me. That bothers me."

Evans Meets Miami Jackson In State

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "Both of those teams are super," Tampa Robinson Coach Herman Valdes says, contemplating the prospect of meeting either Orlando Evans or Miami Jackson for the state high school Class AAAA basketball title Saturday night.

"Let me enjoy our victory over Pensacola Woodham a little while before I think of playing Evans or Jackson," he said. "But, I'll tell you we'll show up."

Robinson rolled over Woodham in a 72-55 breeze Thursday. Not even with six men on the court for 2 1/2 minutes of the final quarter could the undermanned Pensacola team stop Herb Allen, Jerry Henry and the rest of Robinson's Knights.

"Our offense was down but our defense was up," Valdes said. "I can't say enough about how good Allen is. He scored 19 points, and it seemed he had more than the eight rebounds they credited to him."

The Class AAAA defending champ, West Palm Beach North Shore, also sailed through its semifinal, 62-46 over Coach Beach; St. Thomas Aquinas of Fort Lauderdale beat Cottontale 64-54 in Class AA and Laurel Hill finished strong, 62-50, over Greenville in Class A.

Other semifinal games were scheduled today, determining the lineup of Saturday's four championship games.

This afternoon, Frostproof and Miami Christian tangled in Class A while unbeaten Lake Weir and Lake Butler met in Class AA. Tonight, Bartow and Jacksonville Bishop Kenny play in Class AAA before defending champ Miami Jackson and Orlando Evans, with exciting 6-foot-10 Durrell Dawkins, battle in Class AAAA.

Coach Floyd Andrews of North Shore said "size was a factor in our beating Cocoa Beach and it may be on our side in the final. We'll have to be better Saturday to beat either Bartow or Bishop Kenny."

Gerard Nelson at 6-foot-5 and Carrol Nicholson at 6-foot-5 dominated the boards for North Shore as speedy Curtis Brooks led the fast break and scoring, with 20 points. Nelson and Nicholson had 12 each.

St. Thomas came from behind in the second half for its victory over Cottontale and the power behind the winning surge was Gaines Wright, who scored 35 points. He also handled the ball to perfection in the fourth quarter as the winners built their margin.

BOOK REVIEWS

FAWN. By Robert Newton Peck. Little, Brown. 134 Pages. $5.95.

In 1755, the French built Fort Carillon. The British, who later were to rename the stronghold Fort Ticonderoga, decided they wanted the fort and set out to take it from the French. The British assault on the fort provides the backdrop against which this story of the maturing of the love between a father and son is played.

When Henri Charbon, a French Jesuit, was captured by the Mohawks he was given the choice of marrying the crippled daughter of his Indian captor, Old Foot, or being put to death. Before she died, the woman bore Charbon a son, Fawn. Since the father is ill equipped to provide for the boy in this as yet unclaimed land, Fawn grows up primarily under the tutelage of his Indian grandfather, and he grows to think of himself as a Mohawk.

Now he is 17, his grandfather is dead, victims of a French soldier, and Fawn and his father face a critical choice: The British are coming to attack the fort and they must stay or leave. The father elects to join his fellow French in defending the fort, Fawn refuses to take sides and slips into the woods where he has a number of interesting adventures, including meeting a youthful American named Benedict Arnold.

After the battle, father and son are briefly united and it is in these scenes that Robert Newton Peck, author of "A Day No Pigs Would Die," is at his best as he shows how both father and son have matured and realize that, despite the fact that the love they have for each other but long concealed has

County Unemployment Rate Jumps To 9.9 Per Cent

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

The unemployment rate for Seminole County reached a new high of 9.9 per cent in January with 4,877 of the county's work force idled, a labor market analyst confirmed today.

The Department of Commerce analyst and Ralph Prescott, the manager of Florida's employment office in Sanford, agreed, however, that the 9.9 per cent rate should be the highest figure seen for the remainder of this year.

"I don't think it's going any higher," Prescott said. "I think the rate is pretty close to a standstill." Of the county's 49,242 workers, about 44,365 still have jobs, Prescott said.

December unemployment figure was 8.3 per cent.

Seminole County's rate is slightly higher than the 9.5 per cent rate which showed up in January for the Orlando Metropolitan Area. Tom Lawton, Metropolitan manager, says the 9.5 per cent rate means 25,000 Orlando area workers are jobless, up from the 20,100 the month before.

Lawton said the increased rates are due "primarily to the heavy influx of out-of-state workers in January, continued declines in construction and Post-Christmas layoffs."

And, Prescott added to that reason the fact that state officials are using the labor force that lives in Seminole County to compute the rate as opposed to basing the calculation on the number of persons employed here.

The Commerce Department analyst said unemployment probably "will level off" in February and begin to drop because many of the out-of-state workers will be leaving the Sunshine State.

Prescott said the key in Seminole County is the construction industry. When that starts up again, he said, unemployment will drop.

"That's going to help everything," he said. "Construction is the trigger."

Meanwhile, President Ford says unemployment across the nation could hit nine per cent before the current recession is over, and he says Americans shouldn't expect any drastic improvements until at least the end of this year.

As Ford spoke Thursday night, the Bureau of Labor Statistics prepared to release statistics for February joblessness — figures which several administration economists say could easily hit 8.5 per cent, up from 8.3 per cent in January.

Ford also said, however, that he doubts the nine per cent mark will be reached and indicated he is willing to accept a greater tax reduction than the $16 billion he originally recommended. A $1 billion tax cut bill has been recommended. A $1 billion tax cut bill has been approved by the House and is being considered by the Senate.

Record Impounding Was No Real Surprise

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD—City Council's order Friday impounding all financial records for a complete citywide audit for the past two years came as no surprise to Acting Public Safety Director James Pleicones as far as the police department was concerned.

"I asked Councilman H.A. Scott, chairman of the public safety committee, early in the week for an audit of the entire police department," Pleicones told the Herald. "I just wanted the department to start fresh from the first day I took over. I wanted to be sure everything was right and start out from there," he said.

A story in The Herald last week revealed revenues from the sale of police accident report copies to citizens had been deposited in the department's benevolent fund was a surprise, however, Pleicones indicated.

Ex-Police Chief Tom Hennigan, in a telephone interview with The Herald, also pled ignorance about the accident report monies being channeled into the benevolent fund.

"That would be illegal. That money should have been turned in to the city," he said.

"I did not handle the books on the benevolent fund at all. All expenditures were voted on by the men," he said, identifying a $200 check to the South Seminole Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) as a "loan." Hennigan admitted he signed all checks, but there is no written agreement with the FOP to repay the "loan."

He said the money was to help get started the organization which the police department has designated as its bargaining agent with the city.

Hennigan admitted he signed all checks for expenditures from the fund.

A benevolent fund check signed by Hennigan had notation on its stubs indicating payment was made last year for tear gas. Other checks were to pay for painting police cars, to benefit a police officer's family and to support a home for troubled boys.

The ordinance was not sent to then Mayor Eugene Jacques for his signature before he went out of office. The ordinance has been mentioned several times since, but each time it has been noted that rates must be inserted before it can become effective.

LONGWOOD—This city's government, expecting to be hard-pressed for cash before the fiscal year ends Sept. 30, has lost forever untold dollars.

It was revealed this week that although Sanlando Utilities, a privately owned and operated water and sewer company, serves four city subdivisions, no effort has ever been made to collect utility taxes.

An ordinance, adopted in the late 1950's, calls for the levy of a 10 per cent tax with a maximum of $1 per utility monthly on users of water, electricity, telephone and bottled gas.

But, when city fathers decided in late 1971 to permit Sanlando Utilities to serve the new areas west of SR 42 and north of SR 434 with water, no provision was made to grant a franchise or execute an agreement with the firm to have the utility tax collected.

Council members J.R. Grant, H.A. Scott and Jerry Connors discovered Friday the tax was not being collected in Winsor Manor, Sleepy Hollow first addition, the Moorings and Devonshire developments as required by city law. No immediate estimate of loss has been determined.

Lester Mandell, president of Sanlando Utilities said Friday, his firm did not know a utility tax was due from the residents in the city areas it serves. "There is no agreement," he said.

The city did adopt a utility franchise ordinance last year in a rather unusual way. The ordinance was recorded and played inaudibly from a desk at the side of the council chamber while remaining agency business was completed.

The ordinance was not sent to then Mayor Eugene Jacques for his signature before he went out of office. The ordinance has been mentioned several times since, but each time it has been noted that rates must be inserted before it can become effective.

Seminole To Take Cultural Step In New Library Contract

By MICKEY LOCHRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County is on the threshold of taking a tremendous cultural step forward.

The vehicle of the move is the implementation Oct. 1 of a county-wide library system to work hand-in-hand with and administered by the nationally recognized Orlando Public Library System.

The Seminole County Commission, whose light has shone favorably on the library system since last November, is expected on Tuesday to approve a contract between the county and the Orlando system.

The approval of the contract, which will bind Seminole County to the Orlando system, also will make the county eligible to receive up to $100,000 from federal and state funds.

But, without the contract to provide for professional administration of the library system, Seminole County will not be eligible to receive the grants, according to Mrs. Helen Smith, chairman of the Seminole County Library Advisory Committee.

The contract, at a cost of $50,000 will entitle Seminole County residents the right to utilize all the facilities of the Orlando system, and also will provide for an upgrading of the library systems in Seminole.

The advisory committee was appointed last year by the County Commission to investigate and report on a regional or county-wide system.

But, probably the most favorable aspect of the entire proposed system is the fact that the Seminole County voters have already endorsed the funding for the system by a positive straw ballot vote last November.

On the straw ballot, voters effectively told county commissioners the residents were in support of the system by saying they were willing to tax themselves up to 6 1/2 mill in taxes that the county residents wanted the program," Mrs. Smith said.

Details of the program call for two branch offices to be established in the county. One in the north county, one south.

The proposed locations are the Sanford Municipal Library and the South Seminole Library in Altamonte Springs.

James Jernigan, director of Sanford's Recreation and Parks Department, and in charge of Sanford's Library has announced his full support of the incorporation of Sanford's library into the county-wide system.

Jernigan's reasons are two-fold: the county-wide system will provide a better system for area residents to enjoy library benefits and will save the city money.

Sanford City Commissioners also have given their blessing to the county-wide system and the use of the Municipal Library.

Mrs. Smith said the advisory committee has not received a definite response from the board of directors of the South Seminole Library.

Board Chairman George Hearn could not be reached for comment.

Mrs. Smith said if either the Sanford or South Seminole Library did not wish to become part of the county system, then the county would rent a building to house the branch libraries.

Jernigan said becoming a working component of the Orlando Public Library system would be beneficial for everyone involved.

"As far as the citizens of Sanford are concerned, there will not be a drop in services but they will receive additional services and more benefits," Jernigan said.

Indications reveal that the same positive qualities will be true for all Seminole County residents who will be able to have two complete county library systems at their disposal.

Man Dies In Altamonte Apartment Complex Blaze

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS—A 25-year-old Orlando man died early Saturday morning when he was killed in a fire in an apartment unit at the Spring Lake Hill Apartment, 825 D. Wynmore Rd.

Police said Albert Corritti, 25, a student at Florida State University in Tallahassee, was pronounced dead at the scene after his body was removed from the gutted two-bedroom apartment at 7:15 a.m. Saturday.

Corritti died while trying to make his way into a bedroom to use a fire extinguisher to combat flames that broke out inside the apartment occupied by Ms. Kathy Brice and her five-year-old son.

Officers said Corritti, his brother, Joe, and Corritti's girl friend, Judy Wilson, along with Ms. Brice had reached safety when the fire was discovered about 6:30 a.m., but that the young man—after making certain the rest of the group were okay—went back into the apartment.

"It was evident at that time that the woman residents wanted the program," Mrs. Smith said.

Witnesses said that Corritti could be heard screaming from inside the bedroom and that a neighbor smashed a window trying to free the youth, but that air from the broken window caused the fire to become so "hot" that rescue efforts were impossible.

The Corritti's and Miss Wilson were visiting Ms. Brice at the time and Ms. Brice's son had been left with a babysitter over night in another apartment complex, police reported.

Firemen said the blaze was confined to the bedroom in the lower floor apartment, but that smoke and water damage forced at least two other apartments to be evacuated. No other injuries were reported.

David Meadows, owner of the apartment complex, said the damaged apartment was occupied by Ms. Brice.

Meadows said the fire caused smoke damage to the rest of the apartment and to an apartment directly above the death scene. He said the occupants of the downstairs apartment would be forced to move temporarily, but that the upstairs area was not "that badly damaged."

Meadows said the fire was reported about 6:30 a.m. and Altamonte Springs firemen arrived at 6:34 a.m.
