Martinez Names Investigator To Probe Yankee Lake Deal

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

Gov. Bob Martinez has appointed a state attorney to investigate allegations that Seminole County's $7.5 million purchase of Yankee Lake property for a regional wastewater treatment facility was filegal.

Martinez appointed State Attorney Ed Austin of Jacksonville. Both Norman Wolfinger, state attorney for the 18th Judicial Circuit, which includes Sanford, and the Sanford City Commission asked for the investigation.

"We won't have any problem getting to the bottom of it," said Austin Tuesday.

Austin, a state attorney for 16 years, said it will be a week to 10 days before he can get a lawyer and an investigator to the area to start gathering information about the issue. Austin said he expects full cooperation from local officials. Wolfinger said his office intends to assist Austin in every way possible during his investigation. Austin received written confirmation of the appointment Tuesday.

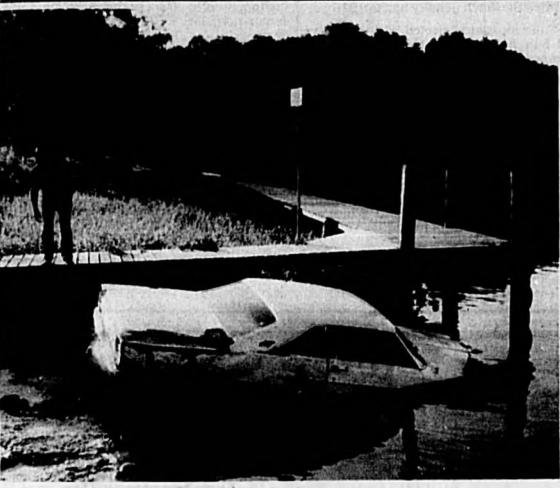

Critics of the 1985 purchase say state law was violated when the county bought the 2.876 acre tract because it did not follow established procedure. They also maintain that the purchase was part of a larger conspiracy to benefit elected. officials and developers.

Former Gov. Bob Graham appointed State Attorney Robert Eagan of Orange and Osceolal countles to look into the matter. Eagan's investigation, however, was called a whitewash by some of the grand jurors he worked with.

Inouye Rebukes North's Attorney On Demands

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, acknowledged today he was fed up with the demands Lt. Col. Oliver North and his attorney Brendan Sullivan put on the congressional Iran-Contra strict committee rules, ordered North to wait until Thursday to deliver an opening statement.

Longwood Chief's Bad Management Not Theft: Gunter

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

"I'm not accusing (Longwood Police Chief Greg) Manning of stealing anything," City Commissioner Dave Gunter said today, "but I am accusing him of bad administration and allowing things to go on for years when there was no ordinance on the books to allow it. If there was such an ordinance, it would be unlawful."

It was erroneously stated in a story in Tuesday's Sanford Herald that a "theft charge" was brought by Gunter against Manning personally.

The Longwood City Commission voted unanimously Monday night to direct City Administrator Ron Waller to investigate each and every charge against Manning made by Gunter, whose motion to dismiss Manning was previously voted down.

Waller said he met with interim City Attorney Ann Colby Tuesday to discuss how to proceed with the investigation.

"I'm going to start by gathering as much information as I can," Walter said, "going through the list of Mr. Gunter's charges. I'm basis of many of Gunter's charges. sure as usually is the case on interview will lead to other items that need looking into. in the beginning I will be heading the investigation and we will see how it proceeds."

Manning, who is on vacation, was reached at his Lake Mary home Tuesday. He said he would hold back any comments on the specifics of Gunter's claims for the time being. He said when he returns to work on Monday he plans to get with Waller and see "what he wants to do."

"This is not a vendetta as some have called it," Gunter said. "This is the question of city funds being misappropriated and he is the head of the department. I'm not saying Greg stole one stupid penny, but it is his involvement in allowing public funds to be converted to a private concern. He was manager of same and should be when at least $1,300 was turned over to held reponsible, accountable, for this happening.

"I think Greg Manning is a real nice raised for the city from the auction." gentleman and a decent man, but what he has allowed to happen is uncalled for," Gunter said. "When I campaigned for election I said I was going to look after the taxpayers' dollars and that is what I have been trying to do since I took office in January.

Monday, Gunter made a motion to have the city administrator dismiss Chief Manning from all city service immediately after he (Gunter) read a nine-page list of alleged violations of city code and complaints about the way the chief has run his department over the past several years.

Gunter said the police department has diverted public funds from the sale of confiscated, abandoned or recovered property by taking money from the auction and putting it in the Police Benevolent Association Fund.

Gunter said he learned through a chance remark about a December 1986 report on an internal investigation of Police Officer Don Knight revealing some of these questionable procedures. Ironically, it was this report ordered by Manning which was the

"In my presence," Gunter said, "and that of Mr. Waller, Mr. Manning defended the taking of money from auctions and putting it in the Police Benevolent Fund for parties because people in public works sold off city scrap materials and the like for their parties. He further stated that the city fathers had approved of this practice. I challenge anyone to come forward with proof of that assertion."

Gunter said he has asked for all the records on the sales of confiscated, abandoned or recovered property and how much was put into the PBA fund as far back as they can obtain. "I have asked for five years, but need them as far back as 10 years," Gunter said. "So far they have only been able to come up with two years-1985 PBA and 1986 when this practice was supposedly discontinued and $276 was Longwood's top choice for city attorney has declined to accept the job.

Attorney Declines Job

Former Volusia County Assistant Attorney Daniel R. Vaughen, DeLand, the Longwood City Commission's first choice from three finalists recommended by a screening committee of three lawyers, said today he won't take the job for personal reasons based on a "complicated combination of factors."

Selection of a city attorney, scheduled for Monday night's commission meeting, was delayed because Vaughen had asked for more time to consider the city's offer of $45,000 annual salary with possible raise to $48,000 Oct. 1, the date the new fiscal year begins.

There was no word early today on when the city would resume interviews or decide whether to make an offer to another finalist.

Seminole County Assistant County Lonnie Groot, also a finalist for the Longwood attorney job, previously withdrew his application.

Giving From The 'Heart' Is New Way

United Way organizations in Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties have given final agreement to a merger into a single unit to be known as Heart of Florida United Way, Inc.

The action by the volunteer leaders of the three groups climaxes discussions and negotiations that have taken place since 1984.

Each county will be represented on the governing board of the new United Way and there will be area boards to determine local needs.

For a number of years, according to Bob Walko, executive director for United Way in Seminole, the three counties have conducted a joint campaign and the agreement to merge truly establishes a United Seminole County United Way President Emeritus and 30-year board member George Touhy said. A 49-year-old rural Longwood woman who allegedly refused to move from a Seminole County right of way in front of her Markham Road home at about 11:23 a.m. Monday has been jailed on a charge of resisting without violence.

Seminole County sheriff's deputy Michael Weippert reported he was called to the scene by the Seminole County traffic engineer who alleged Alma Irene Vogel of 1750 Markham Road refused to move and was blocking road construction in front of her home.

Weippert reported Vogel allegedly continued to refuse to step aside after he told her she was "illegally restricting a legally authroized person, the Seminole County traffic engineer, in the lawful execution of his duties."

She was arrested and has been released on $500 bond to appear in court July 15.

Arrested For Alleged Threats

A man who allegedly brandished a gun at his girlfriend and her sister as the girlfriend was moving out of his home at 865 I Ballard St., Altamonte Springs, was arrested by Altamonte Springs police on a charge of aggravated assault at about 3:39 p.m. Monday.

When police arrived they reported meeting the suspect on an outside stairway and he reportedly told them he had dropped the gun into nearby bushes. The gun was recovered. Police called to the area stopped a tagless car and by 2:07 a.m. charged the two occupants of the car with burglary and theft, despite their reported protests that they shouldn't be charged since the grill had been returned, a police report said.

Charles Dennis Durden, 25, of 802 E. Magnolia St., Apopka, and Ronnie Lee Horne, 31, of 1601 E. Jeanette St., Apopka, have been charged in the case. Horne has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court July 27 and Durden was being held on $2,000 bond.

Steele was charged on Feb. 1 while he was transporting the animals to Flea World in Sanford for a display. Charging him was Lt. John Moran, wildlife inspector for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, Orlando.

Moran said he had been watching Steele for a couple of months and in February saw Steele transporting the animal. He said he followed Steele as he lest a convenience store in a Mustang convertiable with the lion riding with him. The other animals were in a van behind Steele's Mustang.

As the vehicles traveled north on U.S. Highway 17-92 toward Sanford, Moran said he was waiting for an appropriate site and chance to order the vehicles to stop when the Steele vehicles stopped at another convenience store. Moran then issued a citation to Steele for improperly transporting the animals.

Steele's van was inspected and Moran sald the plastic and wooden cages inside the van also violated state requirements that such wild animals be caged in steel or re-enforced aluminum cages for transportation. Moran said it was Steele's second citation for the same offense which upgraded it from a second-degree misdemeanor to a first-degree misdemeanor.

Killers Executed In 2 States

By United Press International

A Texas killer was executed by lethal injunction for fatally shooting an elderly woman trying to escape a robbery and a Mississippi murderer went to his death in the gas chamber early Wednesday for the 1981 slaying of a convenience store clerk.

John R. Thompson was pronounced dead at 12:20 a.m. CDT. Thompson was convicted for the murder of Mary Kneupper, 70, who was shot during a 1977 robbery at a mini-storage warehouse in San Antonio.

Connie Ray Evans was pronounced dead at 12:22 a.m. CDT in the gas chamber at

The Supreme Court denied stays for both Thompson and Evans about five hours before their executions.

Mississippi Acting Corrections Commissioner Don Cabana said Evans made a final statement in which he expressed regret for the crime and apologized to the victim's

The executions brought to 83 the number of people put to death since the Supreme Court reinstated capital punishment in 1976. Texas leads the nation in executions with 25.

Thompson's execution came just a little more than 24 hours after a 41-year-old man was put to death in Virginia for the murder of his next-door neighbor.

The Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles. a federal judge, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals had all rejected the appeal of Thompson, 32, before the Supreme Court acted Tuesday night.

Thompson's attorneys argued, among other things, that emotional testimony by the victim's husband might have prejudiced the jury that sentenced Thompson.

The Supreme Court already had rejected one appeal from Evans and Gov. Bill Allain later denied Evans's plea for clemency, saying Evans had had his day in state and federal courts and as governor he must uphold Mississippi's capital punishment laws.

As officials readied the gas chamber at Parchman, Evans, a vegeterian, ordered a last meal of cheese omelet, fried okra and

Evans, 27, was sentenced to die for the 1981 murder of Jackson convenience store clerk Arun Pahwa during a $140 armed robbery. Evans admitted the killing. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of appeals refused Monday to grant Evans a stay. rejecting his argument that blacks were excluded from the Hinds County Circuit Court jury that sentenced him to death.

The court noted that four of the jurors that sentenced Evans to death were black and that the 12-member jury was selected from a pool that was 38 percent black.

At his trial Evans said he didn't mean to shoot Pahwa, but his accomplice in the robbery said Evans told him he killed the clerk because "I was cold-hearted.

Richard Whitley, who said earlier he wanted to die on television with no hood to cover his face, was pronounced dead in the electric chair at the Virginia state prison in Richmond at 11:07 p.m. EDT Monday.

He had no final words, merely touching his shaved head to that of his chaplain before he was strapped into the electric

It was the 6th execution in Virginia, and the 81st in the nation, since the Supreme Court lifted the death penalty ban in 1976.

The Supreme Court rejected Whitley's last appeal four hours before he died. He was condemned for the 1980 sex murder of Phebe Parsons, 63, who lived next door to him in Fairfax County.

Lawyer Timothy Kaine contended that Whitley, who had a history of violent crime and was accused of sexually assaulting his mother and his stepdaughter, was 'feeble-minded" under Virginia law and did not understand the severity of his crime.

But prosecutor Robert Horan said, "Of all the things you could call Richard Whitley. feeble-minded is not one of them."

COMING EVENTS Police Ponder Newswire

Departments In Seminole Give Mixed Reviews

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

A proposed police news wireservice to serve Central Florida media is getting both positive and negative response from Seminole County lawmen. Although they don't know too much about the idea suggested by Maitland police, some say they would be willing to give it a try.

Others, such as Seminole County Sheriff John Polk say, "If I were a newspaper publisher, I wouldn't want it."

Those who voiced opposition to the proposal, for which news outlets would pay a $500 monthly fee to recieve information fed into the system by lawmen through a computer-telephone link, primarily expressed concern over the news media accepting information filtered through a police spokesman, rather than pursuing stories independently through personal interviews and review of written police reports, which are part of the public record and the "official" versions of events.

Even Maitland police spokesman David Robb, who is promoting the wire service based on a successful model in Scramento. Calif.. said reporters couldn't expect police to enter anything into the system, which "would make me (police) look like I have egg on my face. I'm not going to put out stories that would make me look bad.

Reporters who want to pursue additional information would still have access to written reports and to police spokesmen. Robb said. "This is not to replace the existing system. This is to enhance it." he

The system would provide leads to stories that would otherwise be missed. Robb said. He added that the Central Florida Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists will be asked to outline the needs of the media.

Complete police reports would not be entered into the system. The product would be a police version of events, which news agencies could accept as is or could elaborate on through further independent probing. Robb said. He said with police issuing computerized versions of events they would not have to worry about being misquoted and they would not have to repeatedly spell names for reporters. They would also not have to call news agencies to alert them to a breaking news story.

Former Seminole sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said that if he were a news reporter, the only acceptable version of a police news wire would be a system in which complete police reports were made available, just as written reports are now. "That's 20 years down the road, if ever," he said. "That would be great. But I question the value of anything less."

For the system to work the police agencies would have to have a public information officer dedicated to daily process current information into the system and to update it though out the day. That person would, Robb said, be expected to take a portable computer to crime scenes to send out information as a case breaks. That person would also field follow-up calls and questions from reporters who arrive at the scene alter checking their computers and becoming alert to the event.

Currently, Seminole County police agencles do not have staffers who could be assigned to accept full-time duty for extensive feeding of information to the press. Oviedo Police Chief Robert Hancock said in some ways he would like to see improved communication between his department and the news media. But a police operated news wire, he said, could be a double-edged sword.

"We'd like to see good things in print. But. when it's bad, we'd rather not see it. It seems like this would be a large expense for a little return for the media."

in considering possible participation in a police news wire, Handcock wondered where he would find a police spokesman who would represent his department views in addition to being capable of writing versions of stories that would meet media

"You would get the police department's view of the news. You wouldn't necessarily get answers to the questions you would ask. I'm not dismissing it, but I see strong drawbacks." he said.

"Law enforcement is not in the business of writing for the news media. If that's what it would be," Polk said. "Next they would be wanting us to video tape for them."

Polk said he doesn't believe reporters should trust the news judgment of police. "Reporters are trained to pick up on certain things. That's their livelihood. It's not as simple as filling in a form. Newspaper reporters have questions that wouldn't occur to a law enforcement officer. I would have to look at the proposal."

Handcock raised the question of police agencies requesting from their commissioners or councilmen financial support for a staffer whose primary function would be to serve the media when public records are already available to the press.

Although Robb said most police and news agencies already have computer systems. and the fee charged news outlets would cover cost of portable computers and telephone linkups. Handcock said he is concerned that the cost of implementing the technology would be more than the fees would cover.

He also wondered if his department would have to provide an information officer with a beeper and a car, and if that person would have to be on call around the clock. He also said that within his department only supervisors and detectives are admitted to crime scenes after the first officer arrives. "Would this person have to be a supervisor or a sergeant?" He asked.

There are many questions and Seminole County lawmen have not been included in any discussion of the system, which Robb said he expects to be on line by Sept. 1. He. said he would like to have participation in Seminole and Volusia counties. So far Robb has commitments from Orlando and Winter Park police departments, the Orange County Sheriff's Department, the State Attorney and the FBI, he said. Area radio and televison stations and an Orlando' newspaper have expressed interest in linking into the system. Robb said.

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harritt said he: would not join in the network by Sept. 1 or; any time in the immediate future. 'As far as; I'm concerned we don't have a problem. I' don't have personnel to use in such a role."

Harriett acts as the sole spokesman for his department. He said it is convienient for the information to be channeled through him; and he doen't have to worry about a spokesman making statements the would contradict department policy.

Harriett makes a point of being available to the press and when he is out of town one; of his two captains takes over the duty of spokesman, he sald.

"The concept is good," he said of the police wire. "However you're still going to need to be available for personal com-

Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning would like to see improved communication between his department and the news media and he would be willing to "give it a shot" after he sees how it's going to work.

"We need better communications day to! day. It's a good idea (the wire service), but; the cost may be prohibitive. I don't know iff it will fly." Manning said. He could see his! community relations officer and two licutenants sharing his department's responsibility for dispensing the information. which is part of their current duty. He does see a problem in that "90 percent of the departments don't have a full-time media relations representative," he said.

Manning forsees that within some agencles the information would become backlogged and would not be available before it was outdated.

Although Hancock would like to see more open channels of communication between the press and police he said that a police newswire would probably be more effective in a large city. New York or Los Angeles. On a local level he said there might be other ideas that would be less expensive, but!

Hancock said he would be willing to particapate in a program in which his; department would send a list of the calls his men responded to that day through a hard-copy transmission system. Reporters could review the list to see if there was anything they wanted more information on. That he said, seems to be a bit more practical than a police wire service in this location, at this time.

What About Nicaragua?

Oliver North's scheduled congressional testimony today is probably as good a time as any to bring up a touchy subject—Nicaragua. Someday in the current congressional session, Democrats will have to bite the bullet and vote on wether to renew military aid to the Contras.

It's a touchy subject because we imagine that in spare moments when they haven't been detailing the life and times of Albert Hakim, Fawn Hall and Southern Air Transport, the Iran-Contra committee menbers probably have been keeping up on the press coverage of life in Nicaragua. It's not a pretty picture. Sandinista Nicaragua is now being described as a place of increasing political oppression, censorship, human-rights abuses and economic deprivation. But hardly anyone in Washington has time for any of that these

Instead we have the daily spectacle of a congress—which keeps saying it wants a role in the formation of U.S. foreign policy—fixated on an investigation of the foreign policy bureaucracy. That means, of course, that the foreign policy bureaucracy itself has to set aside its normal responsibilities so it can share in the fixations of congress. Over the weekend, for instance, White House Chief of Staff Howard Baker was describing how his operation has combed through all of Oliver North's wanderings around the building to prove that he never had direct, private access to the president.

Now, we have no particular complaint if congress wishes to spend the bulk of its current session trying to discover whether the executive branch violated an amendment to a 1984 or 1985 appropriations bill. Certainly the Constitution doesn't deny Congress the right to be affronted at great length-though as Gordan Crovitz describes nearby, the legislative record shows that the meaning or intent of five Boland amendments is somewhat less than clear. But what about Nicaragua? Somewhere in the ozone of the Iranamok committee's agenda there must be some connective tissue linking this recurring committee phrase, "the Contras," with what is going on right now in Nicaragua. A recent sample of press coverage out of Nicaragua would include the following:

In a series of articles, James Lemoyne of the New York Times has reported on the Sandinistas' forced uprooting of villages, displacing perhaps 100,000 Nicaraguans; human rights abuses, including the shooting of fleeing refugees; and peasant defections to the Contras (the series also described instances of Contras forcibly impressing peasants into their forces).

In May, William Branigin of the Washington Post produced a lengthy description of "a pattern of human-rights violations, including arbitrary arrests and torture." A recently formed Managua group, Movement of Mothers of Political Prisoners, has been the subject of government crackdowns.

The Journal's Clifford Krauss last month described the deep antipathy among the local population toward the policies and surveillance techniques of the Sandinistas' Internal Trade Ministry. In the Americas column published on this (Wall Street Journal) page last Friday, Douglas Payne described Nicaragua's growing economic integration with the Soviet bloc. And yesterday (Monday, July 6) on the Washington Post's op-ed page. La Prensa publisher Violeta Chamorro described the extent of press censorship. "The reaction from the free world," she wrote, "and the leaders who call themselves democrats has been little."

Well, the democrats in Washington are busy. Today they will interrogate Col. North and some other day they will interrogate Adm. Poindexter. But eventually Mrs. Chamorro will get her reaction from Capitol Hill. The Contra reauthorization will come up and the Democrats will vote either to pull the plug on the Contras or rearm them. The House's recent 213-201 vote forbidding U.S. citizens from traveling Nicaragua to assist the government's military operations suggests some recognition of the nature of the Sandinista regime.

In its most recent vote on the Contras, of course, Congress supported military aid. Will Congress really reverse itself once again, with evidence of the totalitarian nature of the Sandinistas growing daily? Either Congress is going to overturn administration policy and let Danny Ortega work his will, or it is not. If it is, it takes responsibility for what happens in Nicaragua. If not, it tacitly admits that in 1983 and 1984 Congress was wrong on the central issue, and Ronald Reagan and Oliver North were right.

A Fiction Saga: Caribou Vs. Arctic Oil

The caribou rescue call has gone out again, protesting possible oil drilling in the Alaskan arctic, but this time the entreaty wears thin.

Wasn't it less than 15 years ago that we heard similar warnings of the caribou's demise if reckless oilmen got their way and built a pipeline south from the North Slope?

And didn't the development go forward anyway?

And aren't there now more caribou in the area of Prudhoe Bay than before the oilmen arrived?

of Prudhoe Bay than before the oilmen arrived?

This quiz is a setup, obviously. The answer to all the above questions is yes.

Not that the central Arctic caribou herd flourished as a result of oil development. Such herds wax and wane in cycles. The recent growth is a coincidence and nothing more. Yet had oil production shocked the caribou to the extent critics predicted, surely the herd would have slipped at least into minimal decline.

Now the Interior Department wants to permit oil exploration on the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, less than 100 miles east of North America's largest petroleum tield at Prudhoe Bay. To no one's surprise, environmental groups once again object. They'd like Congress to bar development altogether.

They are wrong for several reasons. The first has been suggested: The arctic oil industry is no longer an infant. Prudhoe Bay production began in 1977, and two adjacent fields have since been opened, too.

What's more, the Canadians have explored for oil across the border, east of the wildlife refuge, a fact that apparently escaped Ottawa's notice when it joined environmentalists in protesting interior Department plans.

True, the caribou herd that summers in the refuge is not the one near Prudhoe Bay. It is far larger, too. Yet why that should make a difference defles understanding.

Only 8 percent of the refuge would even be explored — in the winter, incidentally, when the animals have migrated southeast into Canada. If no oil is discovered, the development "risk" expires on its own.

And if oil is found? Then it would be folly not to proceed.

The three North Slope fields alone contribute 20 percent of U.S. domestic oil supply, yet their output already has peaked.

No one knows for sure how much oil might be found because exploratory drilling has yet to occur. Yet clearly the coastal main could conceal a black bonanza: perhaps several billion barrels of oil.

That's not fanciful, either. The three North Slope flelds together shelter an estimated 11.2 billion barrels. To put that in perspective, only 13 billion-barrel flelds have been found in the entire history of U.S. drilling.

Before Congress blocks exploration in the coastal plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge, it should ask itself: If not there, then where? People serious about limiting energy imports do not renounce the most attractive drilling frontier their nation has left.

Who's Lying Now?

You have probably noticed how strenuously President Reagan's critics have tried to get the words "Reagan" and "lie" into the same sentence recently, in connection with the Iran/contra affair.

The most successful such effort to date involved a poll that offered people just two choices: either to assert that President Reagan had told all he knew about the matter, or that he was "lying." The media were able to announce, with technical accuracy, that according to the poll such-and-such a percentage of the American people thought "Reagan" was "lying."

Well, politics is a contact sport, and I suppose we mustn't complain too much. But recently The New Republic's Michael Kinsley, writing in the magazine's "TRB" column, not only smeared Reagan but exhibited in the process such a brazen contempt for the intelligence and information of the American people that the matter deserves to be called to your attention. It is a truly spectacular example of dishonest journalism.

The New Republic is, of course, the journal of opinion that has been staggering around in left field for upwards of 70 years. Recently, especially on foreign policy issues, it has often teetered across the line into sanity; but it still sounds like Eleanor Roosevelt on domestic affairs, and it rarely misses a chance to take a personal swipe at Ronald Reagan.

The swipe in question appeared as the opening paragraph of Kinsley's column in the July 6 issue:

"First he said he knew nothing about it, then he said he knew all about it and in fact had ordered it and it was perfectly legal, and then he said, 'I wasn't giving those orders because no one had asked or had told me what was truly happening there,' and now he says there's 'no smoking gun.' How much more of this management style are we expected to take?"

Say, rather, how much more of this out-and-out journalistic lying are we expected to take? The quoted paragraph is a masterpiece of deliberate deception, which counts heavily on the reader's ignorance or stupidity. It manages to hide the pea under two very different shells.

With that sort of nanky-panky going on, it's small wonder that some Americans think President Reagan has been "lying" to them, spectacular example of dishonest journalism.

The New Republic is, of course, the journal of opinion that has been staggering around in left field for upwards of 70 years. Recently,

But the 32-year-old Mead belies those claims. She was born in Anchorage, graduated from the University of Alaska in Fairbanks and lives in a small town near Juneau, the state capital.

But she is outraged by the notion of opening ANWR's pristine coastal plain, a 1.5 million acre area in the state's far northeastern corner, to the intense industrial development that accompanies petroleum production.

Moss has twice visited the remote ANWR in recent years. She spent two weeks kyaking down the Canning River and another week hiking along the banks of the Hulahula River. Her opposition to the oil companies' ambitious plans is based, in part, on encounters with "rusting oil barrels and other junk left on the tundra."

Moss and others describe the unique wildlife refuge as having "an almost spiritual and mystical quality." This suggests that too much of the debate over ANWR's future has focused on the future of the Porcupine Caribou herd while Ignoring the likelihood of far more profound destruction, degradation and dislocation.

Even the Interior Department, which enthusiastically endorses the petroleum industry's plans, notes that "the Arctic Refuge is the only conservation system unit that protects, in an undisturbed condition, a complete spectrum of the arctic ecosystems in North America."

The department also notes that the coastal plain, which lies between the northern foothills of the Brooks Range and the Beaufort Sea, "is the most biologically productive part of the Arctic Refuge for wildlife and is the center of wildlife activity."

The land directly east of the ANWR coastal plain lies in Canada, and the Northern Yukon National Park has been established there to protect the marshy plain that, is home to more than 200 species of wildlife.

Indeed, Canada consistently has been more sensitive than the United States to the region's needs. The Yukon Territory's legislature voted unanimously to oppose development. Canada's central government agreed on the grounds that "the risks associated with opening the coastal plain to development far outweigh the potential benefits."

Canada's concerns include the fear that industrialization of the coastal plain, which lies about 100 miles east of Deadhorse, will irrevocably alter the economic, cultural and social values of the region's natives, who live in the coastal village of Kaktovik and inland communities.

In other words, one of the most remote regions of Alaska will experience what already has occurred throughout the "lower 48" states and in Hawaii — the virtual obliteration of cherished traditions and rich cultures embraced for centuries by proud natives.

Japanese Find Tax Shelter

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Recent changes in U.S. tax laws coupled with the dollar's fall against certain foreign currencies, particularly the Japanese yen, have made investment in American property and businesses uniquely attractive to investors abroad.

Within the past 18 months, major office buildings or hotels in cities all across the country have been sold to Japanese companies that deal almost exclusively in foreign real estate — mostly in the United States.

States.

For example, it was recently announced that the legendary Algonquin Hotel in midtown Manhattan had been purchased by a subsidiary of the Aoki Corp., a major Japanese real estate company.

Such announcements are now almost weekly occurences.

In the past year alone, foreign investment in the United States has increased more than 13 percent to $209.3 billion, according to official government figures.

Why this sudden Japanese interest in U.S. investments? Part of the answer lies in the rapid fall of the value of the dollar relative to the yen. Today the dollar stands at a post-World War II low compared to the yen.

This differential means that a Japanese investor buying American property gets the equivalent of a 30 percent discount.

The Algonouty for instance cost

The Algonquin, for instance, cost Aoki $29 million. But since the purchase was actually made in yen, the actual cost was about $21 million. A relative bargain.

Further, given the value of the yen, if a Japanese investor finds himself in a bidding situation for a choice property, he can bid 30 percent more than his American competitors — while effectively paying the same amount.

But the strong yen is only one reason that many Japanese companies are investing in American companies and real property. An even stronger incentive may be that Japanese businessmen view the United States as a major tax haven.

To most Americans, this is a startling concept. When you think of tax havens what comes to mind are small European nations like Monaco and Liechtenstein, or Caribbean or Latin American countries like Aruba or Panama.

'Moderate' Rafsanjani Actually A Terrorist

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Hashemi Rafsanjani, the Iranian leader the White House believed was "moderate" enough to do business with, has been deeply involved in Iranian-sponsored terrorism — and still is.

Rafsanjani, speaker of the Tehran parliament, was the Iranian behind the Reagan administration's arms-for-hostages deal. President Reagan, Lt. Col. Oliver North and others in Washington were convinced during the 1985-86 "initiative" that Rafsanjani was not only sensible but anxious to improve relations with the United States and the West

But he is not, and never was. We've compiled our own dossier on Rafsanjani, from CIA and other intelligence sources as well as Iranian sources. This is what we've learned:

- Rafsanjani supervises the Iranian government's cooperation with Hezbollah, the Shite extremist group that still holds American hostages — and which has been behind almost every anti-American act of terrorism in the Middle East since April 1983.

Hezbollah's Tehran office is in a building at No. 1-61 on a street known as Akabar Restaurant, near Nistan Seventh Avenue, in the northern Tehran neighborhood of Saltanabad.

The Hezbollah leader in charge there is Haj-Hossein Shami; his deputy is Abdulrahaman Ghaysar. Shami usually keeps in touch with Hezbollah headquarters in Lebanon by courier, though he spent 10 days there early last month.

Rafsanjani uses as a go-between a

Lebanese man in the Iranian Hezbollah office by the name of Abuiman. The Eighth Bureau of the Iranian Information Ministry also has connections with the office.

A recent contact between the Tehran office and an Iranian official based in Lebinchuded open boasting about "pulling off" recent terrorist bombings in Italy.

Rafsanjani himself has bragged publicly about Iran's connection to the hostage kidnappings. On April 3 he said in a prayer sermon: "We rendered the French so abject that they begged us. They said, 'We will expel the Mojahedin.'' He was referring to the expulsion from France of Massoud Rajavi, leader of the People's Mojahedin, the largest and most effective anti-Khomeini group.

on April 6, in an interview with an Iranian newspaper. Rafsanjani sneered at the U.S. response to hostage-taking: "For years they had been repeating their slogans about not paying ransom ... but it became evident they were lying. They have paid ransom. Those who told France. Britain and others not to pay ransom, themselves paid ransom. Of course, they had previously paid ransom, too: in connection with the TWA flight, they had 1,000 prisoners released and I intervened then, too."

— Rafsanjani had his onetime personal pilot. Ali-Akbar Mohammadi. murdered in Hamburg last Jan. 16. Having received political asylum in West Germany. Mohammadi denounced Rafsanjani and the Khomeini regime on televimen as he was returning home from taking his daughter to kindergarten.

 Ahmad Kan'ani, expelled from Tunisia on March 29 for terrorist activity, is a known protege of Rafsanjani. From 1982 to 1984 Kan'ani personally directed terrorism from offices in Syria and Lebanon — Iran's budget for terrorism, called "aid to the people of Southern Lebanon," is personally approved by Rafsanjani. The amount budgeted for 1986-87 is about a billion rials, or $12.5 million.

— Rafsanjani was identified by the People's Mojahedin, whose information is usually accurate, as the man behind the plot to disrupt the annual Moslem pilgrimage to Mecca last summer. Saudi police arrested more than 100 Iranians, who had gathered to carry out activities in Saudi Arabia and to plan activities in other countries.

 Finally, Rafsanjani is believed to have engineered the hijacking of an Air France plane in August 1983.
 Only two months earlier, he had openly threatened to crack French

Tax Or Revenue Enhancement? Definitions Debated In Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) - An administration tax expert. challenging House Democrats on the distinction between "taxes" and "revenue enhancements," says President Reagan will oppose new taxes not included in his own $6.1 billion revenue package.

in a question-and-answer session that dwelled on definitions. Dennis Ross, the Treasury Department's tax legislative counsel, told the House Ways and Means Committee Tuesday that Reagan "continues to support the $6.1 billion of additional governmental receipts shown in the president's budget proposal."

The committee was to continue its hearings today in an effort to find ways to raise $64.3 billion in new taxes over the next three years.

"They are revenue increases," Ross said of Reagan's proposals, which include raising fees for people who use federal lands and waterways, requiring employers to pay Social Security taxes on employees' tips and repealing certain exemptions from gasoline excise taxes.

Women's Activists Hail Kiwanis

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A decision by Kiwanis International to allow female membership, coming on the heels of similar action by Lions clubs and a Supreme Court defeat for Rotarians, is being hailed by women's rights activists as the "death knell" of men-only organizations.

Kiwanis delegates decided Tuesday to allow women to join the 72-year-old organization, marking the official end of a debate that has dogged the community service group for years.

"This decision sounds the death knell for male-only economic organizations," said Eleanor Smeal, the president of the National Organization for Women, who called even the male-dominated Congress a "dinosaur."

Kiwanis President Frank DiNoto said he backed female membership because trying to keep the club all-male would mean expensive and frequent "losing battles" in the

Trade Protectionists Win Round

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Protectionists in the Senate have won another victory in the omnibus trade bill debate, voting to strip the president of his current power to deny relief to domestic industries hurt by imports by imposing higher tariffs or quotas.

Today the Senate was scheduled to consider another major amendment on giving workers 90 days advance notice about plant closings and mass layoffs.

The showdown on one of the most controversial parts of the trade bill came late Tuesday night after a four-hour debate on an amendment by Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore.

The 55-41 vote defeating Packwood's amendment means the Senate trade bill will retain language that limits the president's discretion under current law to deny import relief if he thinks it is in the nation's economic interest. Packwood's amendment would have eliminated that

Vance: Time For Mideast Talks

NEW YORK (UPI) - Former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance says a "window of opportunity" is open for regional Middle East peace talks but warns that the chance might be lost if the Reagan administration fails to act by year's Vance, speaking Tuesday at a news conference called by the Business Group for Middle East Peace and Development, said the group of U.S. business leaders believes recent developments have improved prospects for regional peace talks.

Vance said the signs of progress include overtures by Jordan's King Husseln and "Palestinian factions" as well as resurgent U.S. diplomatic contacts, but he cautioned that American leaders must seize the initiative before they become distracted by the 1988 presidential campaign.

IN BRIEF Vets Call VA Firing Political, Administration Denies Charge

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Gov. Bob Martinez is in hot water with Florida veterans over the firing of the state's veteran affairs director.

Jon Peck, Martinez' deputy press secretary, moved Tuesday to calm offended veterans, saying partisan politics had nothing to do with the dismissal of Simon "Smokey" Stover as director of the Division of Veterans Affairs in the Department of Administration.

Stover was fired by Administration Secretary Adis Vila effective Tuesday. Del Hasty, who has been an official in DOA's Division of Retirement, was named acting director.

Hospital Costs Rise 10 Percent

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - The state has released the fifth edition of its shopper's guide for people about to enter the hospital.

Florida Hospital Cost Containment Board officials previewed "The Patient's Guide" Tuesday, saying costs aren't the only factor someone about to be hospitalized should consider, but it should be one of them.

The guide shows that hospital charges rose 10 percent last year, a dramatic increase, but only half the growth of the early 1980s. It also shows that south Florida hospitals continue to be the most expensive in Florida, with north Florida facilities the least expensive.

It reflects dramatic differences in charges among hospitals within a single county. In Dade County, for example, Hialeah Hospital charged $22,526 for treating a stroke victim, while Doctors Hospital in Coral Gables charged $4,507. The statewide average for stroke treatment is $6,742. Miami General charged $7,033 for a back injury not requiring surgery, while Doctors Hospital charged only $2,334.

Elderly Population Growing

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - The burgeoning population of elderly Floridians will open new jobs in health care while straining services in counties not equipped for the change, says a study out today from the University of Florida.

The Center for Gerontological Studies published elderly population projections indicating the number of people in Florida over 85 will grow 110 percent - from a population of 173,000 in 1986 to 364,000 in 2000.

This compares to a growth rate of 31 percent for the state population overall. "What these numbers tell me is there's going to be a much heavier demand put on both private and public services over the next decade, especially in the area of health care," sald John C. Henretta, a researcher with the center.

U.S., Kuwait Have Policy Misunderstandings

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Kuwait and the United States apparently have different ideas about U.S. protection for Kuwaiti oil tankers in the Persian Gulf, differences that threatened to affect today's House debate on gulf policy.

The House, taking up legislation dealing with Coast Guard programs, faced a decision between banning American flag protection for 11 Kuwalti tankers or demanding that it merely be delayed for 90 days. The Senate was expected to consider a non-binding resolution on the same issue. The new wrinkle surfaced Tuesday when a 12-member delegation of the House Armed Services Committee returned from the gulf and reported that what Kuwaiti officials have in mind is a tanker shuttle service, something that might need more simply to escort the oil vessels. The Kuwaitis, said committee Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., want to shuttle oil out of the strategic gulf on supertankers for transfer to smaller vessels that would make than the nine U.S. warships counted on

The U.S. understanding, Aspin noted, was that the re-flagged Kuwaiti tankers would be escorted in convoys through the gulf, which would require only about five protective runs a month as tankers plied the 600-mile-long waterway in the shadow of the nearly 7-year Iran-iraq war.

Congressional concerns about the administration's policy have centered on threats from Iran to attack the tankers despite U.S. protection because Kuwait has helped lraq in the war.

Window Shatters At Courthouse

Portions of a shattered exterior fourth-floor window at the Seminole County Courthouse rained glass on floors below Monday startling clerks and secretaries.

The 60- by 80-inch tempered glass window fell in pieces around 8:55 a.m. There were no injuries. The window, threeeighth of an inch thick, was an decorative exterior window several feet from the windows to offices at the courthouse. The window was located on the top floor on the northeast corner of the building.

Some witnesses said the window made a cracking noise when it broke. Others said it made a wave-like sound before the small pieces of glass fell. One witness said the falling glass sounded like a lot of chimes sounding at the same time.

Don Myers, who owns a glass company in Sanford, was to inspect the broken window and determine the cost of replacement. Myers said tempered glass is unpredictable and a several things from heat to a fired BB could have caused the pane to shatter. He also said tempered glass, which is heated and cooled when made, can also shatter without apparent cause. shatters into small pieces lessening the chance of injury should someone hit it. The glass is often called safety glass. Myers damaged in hurricane weather.

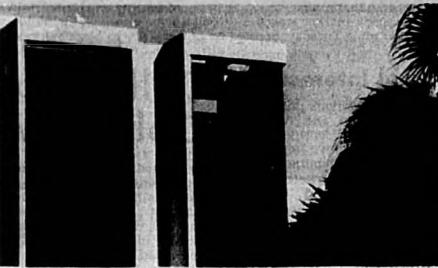

At the courthouse, pieces of the window, which was part of an exterior concrete shaft, covered the ground. Bits of glass were on window shelves from the fourth-floor down and many were propelled with 10 to 15 feet away from the window. Some of the glass fragments on the ground were clean others appeared to have been rained on raising speculation that the window shattered sometime over the weekend. If that happened, a portilon could have fallen when the tinted glass shattered and then more pieces fell Monday, Myers said.

The window is located about a yard from a lightning rod and county workers were going to inspect the rod to see if it had been struck by lightning. Myers said he thought it would take a direct hit by lightning to have shattered the glass.

No one was occupying the conference room next to window when it broke. Inner windows kept the glass out of the building. Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor's chambers are one floor below the window and Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler's chambers two floors below. The ground floor room under the window is storage space.

Myers said to his knowledge it When it does break, however, it is the third window that has had to be replaced at the courthouse which opened in the 1970s. Reportedly the earlier ones were

Seminole County will have to replace a 60- by 80-inch exterior glass window that shattered this week on the north east corner of the county courthouse. Courthouse employees were startled when its hundreds of coin-sized pieces plummeted four floors, bouncing off interior windows and frame work. It is the third window to break since the building was built in the 1970s.

Candidates Agree On Debates

WASHINGTON (UPI) - All major presidential candidates have agreed to participate in four debates to be jointly sponsored by the Democratic and Republican parties during the 1988 general election.

The debates, to be organized by a 23-member bipartisan advisory commission, will be held at roughly two-week intervals in the fall of 1988.

"But beyond that," Gunter added, "we have got to have an audit of the police department and all the merchandise turned over to the city. Each item is supposed to be assigned an incident number and there should be a record of when it is received and when, for how much and to whom it is sold."

Gunter says that for some years fees for copying documents, fingerprinting and making vehicular identification number checks done at the police station were also put in the PBA account, even though city supplies, equipment and personnel were used.

Gunter said he asked one officer who was the president of PBA and he said that he didn't know who the officers are because they never had a meeting. Gunter said that the Police Benevolent Fund is supposed to go to things like helping care for widows of police officers or sending flowers for a new baby. but he has learned that it is being used as a slush fund or credit union. He said he has heard several officers owe PBA money they have borrowed to purchase merchandise for their homes.

Gunter also said PBA business is done by personnel at the police station with city equipment and supplies on city time.

Gunter also wants an audit of PBA funds since public funds were used "even if it takes a court order." Waller said he has not discussed this with Colby

Gunter said three gold rings. which should according to city code have been sold at auction were sold to a local jewelry store operator and the money put into the Police Benevolent Association fund; members of the police department were permitted to pick and choose items and pay the price established by the chief of police or the captain; and that bicycles were the things most in demand by the police depart-

"Money from the sale of items sold at auction was given to police officers. Here is a quote from a police officer contained in a 1986 internal investigation report: 'The captain or the chief would say, hey, take um..take 10, 15, 20 bucks, whatever, go have a good dinner. But bring your receipt and stick it in there. um.. the one year that sticks in my mind we went to Seasons. We all had a nice meal."

Gunter said that what has been going on in the police department is "no different than if people in the water department failed to put money in the cash register when receiving money from people paying a water bill or took money from the cash register and went to lunch... Pure and simple it is called theft of public money.

"To be specific in this case, I suspect that what we have is grand theft."

Other complaints against Manning brought out by Gunter include:

 An arrest for gambling in Volusia County in 1984 and a document missing from Manning's personnel file concerning the gambling activity.

· A pay raise that Manning gave himself that was legalized after the fact by the city commission.

 Permitting police officers to receive payment for services from another public organization in violation of the personnel policy. • "Disruptive, insubordinate, antagonistic and injurious to the city" conduct on the evening of Jan. 19 at a work session after he was questioned by Gunter about the report on a 1983 boating accident. The accident involved boats owned by Manning and another police officer, Steven LeBruno, who has since left the department.

 A FDLE report stating Manning's not filing the accident report properly was a second degree misdemeanor. This could not be prosecuted because of the statute of limitations. (The accident report was filed at Longwood Police Department rather than in Lake County where the incident occurred and was the subject of a recent investigation by the FDLE at the request of the city. The FDLE found though Manning and LeBruno failed to file the report properly, a misdemeanor, there was no criminal misconduct. The commission later voted to accept the report and take no further action.)

· The fact that a city emergency vehicle was taken on the 1983 Lake County outing (where beer was consumed by police attending) and used to tow Manning's private boat.

· Use of an unmarked city vehicle for personal reasons, including a trip to South Carolina.

 A trip with Lt. Frank Taylor to Quantico, Va., to attend the graduation of Capt. Terry Baker from the FBI academy, for which Manning was paid $455 to cover their expenses.

Even the K-9 Corps came into question. Gunter said a police dog named Jeffrey became medically unfit for duty and was given to Baker. Because of allergic reaction to the dog in Baker's family, Baker gave Jeffrey to Manning to take home as a pet. Gunter said the dog does not have a handler and hasn't worked for the city for months. but the city has his vet bills and has paid for his food and shampoo. "Would the city be liable if the dog bites somebody?" Gunter asked.

Meanwhile Jeffrey's former handler, who was given a dog named Cajun as a replacement, left the city to go to work for the Seminole County Sheriff's Department and asked to take Cajun with him. Manning agreed to let him have the dog, which was city property, for $800. "As I understand, and I think Mr. Waller can certify, the city owed the officer about $2,000 from which that amount was deducted," Gunter said. "The transaction wasn't approved by the commission, and the total amount which should have been reported as income for tax purposes was not."

Strategies Changed, But Aim Still To Get Drunk Driver Off Road

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

The growing number of "creative" defenses mustered to fight drunk driving charges has forced some law officers to get creative.

Take the case of an accused drunk driver whose attorney said a test for blood alcohol level in his client could have been influenced by hydro-carbons. found in the gasoline he works with all day long. The defense theorized that the suspect's blood alcohol level of .16 when tested following his arrest by Longwood police in April 1986, was caused by his occupation, not drinking.

At the request of the defense attorney and orders of the Seminole State Attorney, Seminole Sheriff's Lt. Jerry Riggins spent a day in June re-enacting the activity of the suspected drunk driver on the day he was arrested. To eliminate the possibility of long-term buildup of hydrocarbons, Riggins and the suspect both took breath tests as the day began. They both had negative readings of .00.

Then Riggins and the suspect relived that man's workday, exposing themselves to gasoline as the man routinely would. At day's end both received negative results to a blood alcohol level breath test.

The suspect is expected to plead guilty to the drunk driving charge.

In another case, Riggins is to check if exposure to alcoholbased cleaning fluids may have throw off the results of breath tests at the time of a recent DUI

Riggins said if the outcome should be positive the experiment could have far-reaching impact on the validity of alcohol breath tests. And he said the absorption of alcohol through the skin is possible. But even if that is the case, Riggins said, the question would then be. Does it matter how the alcohol got into your system if your blood alcohol level is above the legal limit and you drive?

Riggins said such experiments are not a matter of routine and have to be ordered by the State Attorney, must not hold a possibility of injuring the subjects in the test and must be an attempt to pinpoint something which could be specifically determined by such controlled testing, such as hydro-carbons in the first case.

Perhaps creative defenses have sprung up because the stakes are higher than ever for suspected drunk drivers. In addition to the social stigma associatated with being a threat to the lives of others as well as their own, Florida drunk drivers face stiff penalties, which are no longer at the discretion of a judge. The minimumin sentences in each case are mandatory, with the fourth or more conviction being a felony of the third degree, which demands five years in state prison and a $5,000 fine.

In any case, if the convicted driver's blood alcohol level was .20 or higher at time of arrest, the punishment is automatically doubled, Riggins said.

All convictions bring suspension of driver's licenses, for six months on the first conviction. one year on the second, and five years on the third. All convictions also mandate attendance to a "counter alcohol" program, Riggins said.

A first conviction demands no less than a $250 fine and can bring up to six months in jail. Fifty hours of community services is mandated.

A second conviction mandates from 10 days to nine months in jall and a $500 fine. On a third conviction a $1.000 fine is mandatory along with 30 days in jail. The jail time can be extended to 12 months. All DUI convictions accrued over a lifetime are added into the total when individual cases are evaluated, Riggins said. The Seminole County Sheriff's Department no longer budgets for beefed up patrols to nab suspected drunk drivers. Instead, manpower is shifted to preventive programs in the high schools, which, Riggins said, seem to be having an impact. Of the 125 breath analysis tests of suspected drunk drivers administered by sheriff's deputies this year, Riggins said only two suspect were under the age of 21. One was 20 and the other 19.

Riggins, who supervises the department's anti-DUI efforts. said that between the school resource officers, Florida Highway Patrol trooper Ron Davis presenting his anti-alcohol program in the schools, and himself, the preventive message should be heard by almost all students at least once a year.

"I think it does help," Riggins said. But, despite that Riggins said there is no shortage of drunk drivers, who are typically white males between the ares of Many potential drunk drivers do, he said, designate a non-drinker as their driver or accept alternate transportation.

For convenience, sheriff's deputies have surrendered to Sanford police the primary responsibility for the breath testing of suspected drunk drivers nabbed by deputies.

The majority of the testing. which up until a couple of years ago was done primarily by deputies at the Seminole County jail, is now done by police in the 'BATmobile' van. Riggins said he expects the BATmobile test count will total at least 500 by years end, with about 40 tests a month being performed at the jail when the mobile unit is not available.

Sanford police Lt. Bucky Hayden said that the BAT-

The BATmobile is on "patrol" four days a week and on holidays. It is always available, Hayden said. Through Wednesday in its year of operation the BATmobile has been the sight of 441 breath tests, he said.

Riggins no longer maintains extensive statistics on DUI arrests in the county. But records show that between Jan. 1 and Dec. 1, 1984, 666 DUI suspects were tested at the Seminole County jail.

For his department, Riggins said, the focus of anti-DUI actions may have changed, but the battle to get drunks of the roads continues. According to U.S. Department of Transportation statistics, from 1982 through 1985, about 95,000 people died as the result of alcohol-related traffic acci-

Korean Political Prisoners Freed; Dissident Rights To Be Restored

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) - President Chun Doo Hwan freed 357 more political prisoners today and will soon restore the civil and political rights of 2,100 banned dissidents, including arch-rival Kim Dae Jung, officials

The 357 released detainees, all political convicts, were freed from prisons across the country at 4 p.m. (2 a.m. EDT) under Chun's July 1 promise for sweeping democratic reforms; the Justice Ministry said.

The release was the second this week. On Monday, 177 political detainees were freed in the first move under the reform promise.

Today's release coincided with funeral preparations for a student killed by an exploding tear gas bomb fired by police during demonstrations last month.

Kenyan Air Force Planes Collide

NAIROBI. Kenya (UPI) - Seven Kenyan air force officers were burned to death when their planes collided and burst into flames during exercises watched by horrifled relatives and friends, the Standard newspaper said today.

The accident, which was blamed on poor weather conditions, occurred Monday afternoon shortly after the planes took off from Matungu airstrip, some 110 miles northeast of Nairobi.

The father and friends of one of the officers killed watched in horror as the planes took off, collided, burst into flames and crashed to the ground, the paper said.

HONG KONG (UPI) - A crude bomb exploded at a shopping center jammed with lunch-hour crowds today. injuring 14 people, police said.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for the bombing, but authorities said the management of the shopping center received an anonymous phone call five minutes before the blast warning that two bombs had been

The caller gave no reason for the bombing. Police said they were searching for a second bomb but speculated the device may not exist. They said the bomb that exploded was a small, unsophisticated device, probably made of gunpowder.

181 Injured In Train Crash TOKYO (UPI) - A four-coach express train carrying about 480 passengers smashed into a trailer at a railway crossing in western Japan today, injuring at least 181 people, five of them seriously, officials said.

"It's the biggest accident in many years and a large number of policemen were thrown into rescue work," a police spokesman said.

Police said 181 people were treated for injuries at 30 hospitals. Five of the injured required hospitalization. The accident occurred this morning at a railway crossing of the Meitetsu private railway in Nishiharu outside Nagoya, a major port city about 175 miles southwest of Tokyo, when a truck pulling a trailer stalled.

The truck driver jumped out of the vehicle and tried to stop the oncoming train by waving his arms, but it was too late, local news reports said. The second and third coaches

Officials Scale Back Original Death Estimates

Dead, 23 Missing In Tanker Inferno

HERBORN. West Germany (UPI) — A gasoline tank truck with bad brakes crashed into the wall of a crowded shopping complex and burst into flames. triggering explosions and fires that left one person dead and 23

Police said today only one person, a woman, was found dead in the stores and houses wiped out by the accident Tuesday night, and rescuers sifted though smoking ruins for the 23 people still missing.

At least 30 people were feared dead initially, but police said today the final toll appeared likely to be lower. They said 29 people, including the truck driver, were injured. The tank truck's brakes overheated and failed as it was driving through downtown Herborn just before 9 p.m. Tuesday, sending it hurtling into the wall of a building in a complex containing an ice cream parlor, a popular pizzeria and a clothing store.

The truck's 9,000 gallons of gasoline exploded into flames. triggering explosions in natural gas lines to adjacent houses.

Three houses in the rural Hessian village of 22,000 people were virtually leveled and nine others were damaged by the fires that raged into the night.

Authorities said it was a stroke of luck that the popular pizzeria was closed at the time of the accident and that the gasoline did not burst into flames instantly, giving the patrons of the ice cream parlor a crucial few minutes to flee.

Firefighters continued to play jets of water on the smoldering ruins of the town center today. and police said there was a danger of further explosions because gas fumes filled the air and gasoline had spilled into the sewer system.

The accident occurred after the tanker truck left a nearby autobahn, or freeway, and entered Herborn, about 60 miles east of Bonn and 80 miles north night.

Police said the truck driver had told them his brakes had overheated and malfunctioned before the crash.

The natural gas supply to the town was shut off as a precaution against further explosions. and the center of town was evacuated.

Police issued radio and television bulletins asking motorists to avoid the area so that rescue efforts could proceed unimpeded.

Sanford Juniors Attempt To Shed Runners-Up Role

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

With 15 players who manager like Maples maintains could all be starters, the Sanford Junior League All-Stars hope to shed their bridesmaid image at the Florida Junior Major League District 4 Tournament.

Sanford, which has been minner-up in the tournament four of the past five years, drew a Arst-round bye in the tourney which opened Tuesday night at the Nova Recreation Center in Ormond Beach.

in Tuesday's opening-round games, a pair of pitching masterpieces carried host Ormond Beach and Port Orange to Victories.

In the opening game, Mike Campanella tossed a one-hitter, struck out 10 and walked four as Port Orange routed Edgewater,

In the nightcap Tuesday, Len Settlemyre fired a one-hitter, struck out 13 and walked none as Ormond Beach trounced

Holly Hill, 14-1. In tonight's winners' bracket action, Port Orange faces Sanford at 6, followed by Ormond Beach against New Smyrna Beach at 8. New Smyrna Beach also drew a first-round bye in the six-team tournament. 'I think we have a good chance this year," Maples, who managed Knights of Columbus to an unbeaten record and the league title, said. "All 15 players are qualified to start. We have just about everything it takes to be good. Solid defense, good pitching, consistent hitting and some people who can hit it out." The two mainstays of the Sanford pitching staff will be Mike Taylor of Knights of Columbus and Kiwanis' James Jackson, both second-year allstars. Taylor posted a 10-0 record for the Knights this season while Jackson had an 8-3 record.

Baseball '

Mike Maples Sr. is banking on balance to carry his Sanford Juniors.

Taylor is a good fastball pitcher and holds up well under pressure." Maples said. 'Jackson has a fairly good fastball with an exceptional curve and drop ball.'

With Taylor and Jackson as the two starters. Eric Washington of Ball Motor Line and Moose's Al Perkins with be the main relief men for the Juniors. Washington is also a second-year all-star.

Maples, who is assisted by Lonnie Taylor and Guy Brewster, said he will not decide on a starting lineup until after he sees Tuesday's game between Port Orange and Edgewater.

The infielders for the Sanford Juniors include first baseman Floyd Henderson (Knights of Columbus) second baseman Erskine Howard (Knights of Columbus), Jackson and Taylor changing off at shortstop with Mike Maples (Knights) and Washington at third base. Anthony "Redman" Roberts (Knights) is one of the most versattle players on the team as he can play any outfield or infield position.

LEESBURG - Dark clouds surrounded the Susan Street Recreation Complex all night Tuesday. But, as the game between the Sanford Americans and Leesburg Nationals went on. It became evident that the rain was going to stay away and the Americans were going to lose.

Leesburg rapped out 12 htts and took advantage of some uncharacteristic fielding mistakes by Sanford en route to a 19.2 thrashing of the Americans in the opening round of the Florida Little Major League District 4 Tournament.

Sanford drops to the losers' bracket where it will face Ormond Beach in an elimination game tonight at 6. In tonight's second game at 8, Leesburg faces Ocala Highlands. In Tuesday's first game. Ocala downed Ormond Beach, 10-8.

The Americans committed as many errors Tuesday, seven, as they did in four games in the sub-district tournament. Sanford also had trouble at the plate with only three hits off Leesburg lefty David Amburgey. Amburgey was not overpowering but kept the Americans off balance with a lot of offspeed pitches. Amburgey struck out six and walked four.

Adarval Jones started on the mound for Sanford but lasted only one inning before giving way to Merkerson who finished out the game.

'We gave our pitchers no support tonight," Raines said. "The kids have to realize that complishments. They have to play hard every day and take it one game at a time.'

Sanford will go with acc right-hander Britt Henderson tonight against Ormond Beach, The Americans will have to do it the hard way, through the losers' bracket, if they want their first district title.

Aussies To Cash In On Pat's Act

I was glad when Pat Cash won the first set Sunday, It was about 10:30 a.m. and I would have plenty of time to go on to church, get back and settle in for the fourth and fifth sets.

After all, Ivan Lendl is the No. 1 player in the world. Losing the first set to the net-rushing Aussie was only a minor incovenience on Lendl's way to the title. The Wimbledon title - the one championship that Ivan Lendl courts more than any

I got back home at just after noon and rushed to the television set. Bud Collins was conducting some sort of interview about teatime in England - must be raining and the match has been suspended. I thought.

Oh well, I'll just wait it out. After the interview they went to the taped replay of the women's doubles. What's going on? could Cash have won? Could Cash have won in straight sets? Not possible, I thought. Then rather off-handedly. Collins mentioned that the new Wimbledon men's singles champion was Pat Cash. He had won in straight sets, 7-6, 6-2, 7-5. It was being said that he had played a truly great match. I could not believe that he had won and I could not believe that I had missed most of

it. Oh well, that's what VCRs are for, so I made a few calls and found someone who had it on tape. Another Baptist for sure I just finished watching the tap and they were wrong. Cash did not play a great match: Cash played perhaps the most near-perfect grass court match in the history of the game. He played an aggressive, forward-moving game that simply kept too much pressure on Lendl. The second set was a perfect set for Cash on his service games. Always looking to take over the net. Cash served and volleyed with awesome precision and power. He approached at every opportunity and even his topspin backhand lob turned into an offensive weapon. When it was over, a shaken Lendl could only applaud and comment that on this day Pat Cash ws just too good.

So the Wimbledon men's single goes back to Australia. John Newcombe was the last Aussie to win the men's title and that was in 1971. Sixteen years without the title. That was hard to take for a tennis-proud country, one that had 14 titles at Wimbledon between 1952 and 1971. That's 14 out of 20 for that timespan. Now it's back down under

Pat Cash is only 22 and has many, many Wimbledons left. He may win more but it's not likely. Boris Becker, Stefan Edberg, Ivan Lendl, Mike Pernfors and maybe even John McEnroe will be back in the hunt next year and any one of them plus a host of others will probably be ranked ahead of Cash at the

For now, though, this refreshing young Aussie has played the tournament of his life. He went through the fortnight losing only one set along the way and in the end was, as Ivan Lendl said, just too good.

Australia will feel the effects of this Wimbledon triumph for years to come. Youngsters in Brisban and Melbourne and Sydney and Perty and Tooroanga will quit kicking the football and go back to tennis.

This once-dominant tennis country may emerge again as the tennis capital of the world. Pat Cash will go home a national hero, and that you can take to the bank.

Castle Shocks Perez-Roldan

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) - Baseline specialists Kent Carlsson, Aaron Krickstein and Jimmy Arias, relying upon consistency, took advantage of the slow clay courts at the U.S. Pro Tennis Championships to stem a wave of upsets

All three payers advanced Tuesday to the third round of the $293,400 event, which has lost five seeds in the first two days.

No. 3 seed Carlsson of Sweden cruised past unseeded American Jimmy Brown 6-4. 6-3; No. 6 Krickstein overpowered Fernando Luna of Spain 6-0, 6-1; and No. 7 Arias outlasted Christian Miniussi of Argentina

6-2, 6-7 (3-7), 6-2. In two upsets, Tom Nijssen of The Netherlands, ranked No. 148, knocked off No. 8 seed Tarik Benhabiles of Algeria. 6-3. 7-5, and Andrew Castle of Great Britain.

ranked No. 172, eliminated 12th seed Guillermo Perez-Roldan of Argentina, 7-6 (7-5), 6-2. Castle is a Seminole Community College product.

Tennis

Until this week. Castle had never won a clay-court match on the Grand Prix circuit. He used his serve-and-volley style, bestsuited to grass, with great effectiveness on the gray clay at the Longwood Cricket Club. "I wasn't expecting to get too many games off him (Perez-Roldan), much less win," said Castle, who is best-known for having taken Mats Wilander to five sets in the second round of Wimbledon in 1986.

Cubs Vow To Punish Show After Beaning

United Press International Eric Show is now Public

Enemy No. 1 in Chicago. The San Diego Padres' right-hander has become a hunted man because of a brushback pitch that struck Andre Dawson in the face and sent the Cubs' slugger to the hospital with a lacerated lip and bruised cheekbone.

The incident occurred in the third inning of Tuesday's game, which was won by the Cubs. 7-5. Dawson had hit his 24th homer and second in three days against the Padres in the first inning and when he stepped to the plate in the third, following a homer by Paul Noce, Show flattened him with a pitch that struck him on the left side of the face.

As Dawson hit the ground, Cubs pitcher Rick Sutcliffe rushed to the mound to confront Show. Moments later, Dawson climbed to his feet and also took off after Show, who retreated to the Padres' clubhouse for safety.

Sutcliffe and Dawson were both ejected from the game and the incident triggered a beanball war that later resulted in five other members of the Cubs. including Manager Gene Michael, being ejected.

Two Chicago pitchers, Benito Santiago and Scott Sanderson, were later ejected for throwing too close to San Diego batters yet Sanderson remained sympathetic to Show's plight.

"I know Eric a little bit and I guarantee you he feels bad about it." sald Sanderson.

Some of Sanderson's teammates were not so sure.

"There is nobody we are mad at except the man who threw the ball." Cubs catcher Jody Davis said. "Eric Show is the man we're after.' "I don't like balls thrown up at a player's head," added Michael. "There's always room for an accident and pitchers will use that."

Show was so shaken by the incident that he issued a formal apology through the Padres' public relations department. San Diego Manager Larry Bowa and even one Cub player insisted that the pitch was unintentional.

"I sincerely regret the unintended pitch that hit Andre Dawson," Show said,

"I apologize to the Cubs, the fans of Chicago and especially Andre Dawson. It was unfortunate, and I'm sure I'll regret it for the rest of my life. I don't know any other words to express my feelings at this time."

David Martinez homered in five at-bats.

Howe Gets Minor-League Okay

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) - Pitcher Steve Howe, suspended from professional baseball in the United States for drug use. Tuesday was given permission to sign a minor-league contract and could pitch in the majors again.

The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. which oversees all minor-league teams, said the former Rookie of the Year can pitch in the minors if he continues drug-use treatment and agrees to random drug tests.

"After a review of his current drug treatment program, the National Association is satisfied that Howe can be given the opportunity to resume his playing career." said John Johnson. the organization's president.

Howe, suspended by Johnson last year after testing positive for drugs, requested reinstatement. Howe, 29, had been pitching professionally in Mexico.

"If Steve Howe can demonstrate compliance with a drugtreatment program over a reasonable period of time and does not show any indication of a resumption of drug use, the office of the commissioner will, with the proper safeguards, consider the assignment of his contract to the major leagues," Ed Durso, executive vice president of the major leagues, said in a statement Tuesday.

The New York Yankees, 11 days after overcoming a ninerun deficit, refused to be disadvantage.

Report Says Bianci To Become General Manager For New York

NEW YORK (UPI) - Al Blanchi, former Phoenix Suns assistant for 12 seasons, this week will be named general manager of the New York Knicks, the Daily News reported in its early Wednesday edition.

Bianchi, a former NBA and ABA head coach with Seattle and Virginia, is expected to be named to the post today or tommorow. He played 10 seasons in the NBA for Syracuse and then Philadelphia.

The Knicks have been without a head coach or general manager since April 20 when Scotty Stirling and Coach Bob Hill lost their jobs.

The leading candidates for the head coaching job are former Dallas coach Dick Motta and North Carolina State coach Jim Valvano, the News reported.

In other news, Philadelphia 76ers guard Andrew Toney had several large spurs removed from his right ankle and foot, the club said Tuesday.

Dr. Joseph Torg, who performed the surgery at University of Pennsylvania Hospital, said the operation should provide wider range of motion and reduce the pain Toney has complained of most of the last two seasons.

Gonzales Nips Irate Nolasco

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) - The chances of an obscure challenger gaining a decision over an Olympic hero fighting in his hometown are remote if not impossible. Lucilo Nolasco learned this fact of life with so-called impartial judging Tuesday night when he took on Paul Gonzales.

Nolasco knocked Gonzales down once Tuesday night. picked up a point when Gonzales was penalized for rabbit punching and still shook an angry head and fist at a unanimous decision against him.

"I thought I won," Nolasco said after a slow and rusty Gonazles improved to 6-0 in his first fight in one year. "I was robbed. I couldn't believe the scoring.

Walton May Miss Next Season

WHITTIER, Calif. (UPI) - Boston Celtics reserve Bill Walton, who underwent surgery to remove several bones from the right foot, may miss the entire 1987-88 season. marking his fourth absentee year since entering the NBA in

Bones as large as one square inch Tuesday were removed from Walton's right foot and ankle during surgery to correct congenital defects, doctors said. Walton, 34, will remain in the hospital for three to five days, the team said in a statement. His foot will be placed in a cast and periodic evaluations will be made.

Distance Ace Mundy, 77, Dies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Paul Mundy, the top American distance runner in the early 1930s, has died at age 77.

Mundy, who lived in Philadelphia, suffered from cancer and died of apparent heart failure Sunday at a nursing home, a family member said.

The Amateur Athletic Union ranked Mundy the best American distance runner from 1932 to 1935. He was an alternate member of the U.S Olympic track team in 1932. In 1933, he set a national record for the 10-mile run - 48 minutes, 42 seconds. That record was broken in 1954 by Browning Ross.

Green Undergoes Intervention

TAMPA (UPI) - Miami Dolphins linebacker Hugh Green was placed in a pretrial intervention program Tuesday. which will result in the dismissal of a weapons charge if he successfully completes the program.

Green, a former member of the Tampa Bay Buccancers. maintains homes in both Tampa and Miami.

He was arrested at Tampa International Airport June 14 and charged with carrying a concealed weapon after it was detected in his carry-on luggage when it was run through an X-ray machine.

Griffin's Double Lifts USA

MILLINGTON, Tenn. (UPI) - Ty Griffin of Georgia Tech stroked a two-run double in the seventh inning Tuesday to give the USA team a 4-2 victory over Taiwan and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five Pan American series.

Griffin, Ted Wood and Scott Livingston each had two hits for the USA.

Gregg Olson, 1-0, earned the victory. Reliever Chris Carpenter, who picked up his third save, and Pat Combs combined to hold Taiwan hitless over the final five innings.

Bontempi was part of a group of 98 riders - including Manual-Jorge Dominguez of Spain, Jean-Paul Van Poppel of Holland, Josef Lieckens of Belgium, Maechler and Kelly to receive the same time. Maechler retained his overall lead for the fourth day.

Christophe Lavainne of France remained second at 36 seconds back with Switzerland's Joerg Mueller third at 44 seconds off the lead. "I wanted to win a stage of the Tour de France and for me, its better to try it before we reach the mountains," sald Bontempi. a sprint specialist who won three stages in last year's Tour. "(Carrera teammate) Stephen Roche worked for me up to the last kilometer and then I took care the rest myself. Kelly says I bumped him with my shoulder, but that's an old story among sprinters," Bontempi said. The Superconlez and Z teams did most of the work at the front of the pack trying to set up their spinters for the finish, which gave the Carrera riders a break.

Andy Hampsten of the United States was 66th at 7:22 back. Kelly was 68th at 7:31 behind.

Cook Of The Week

Italian And Indian Heritage Great Blend In The Kitchen

By Dorothy Greene Herald Correspondent

In the busy Sanford kitchen of Karen Sillaway, our Cook of the Week, it is not unusual to find a large pot of homemade spaghetti sauce, chock full of beef and pork and other good things. started early in the morning, and simmered gently for hours, sending an inviting aroma throughout the house. "I was raised on a lot of pasta," says Mrs. Sillaway, "and being raised a Catholic, we weren't allowed to cat meat on Fridays. So we had macaroni and beans, macaroni and peas, macaroni and broccoll, and macaroni and cauliflower. I'm not a Catholic anymore, but we still eat all that good stuff."

Of Italian descent, Mrs. Sillaway adds that both her grandfathers were born in Italy. "And my husband, Jim, is an American Indian so I had to get him used to that kind of eating because he was raised on meat and potatoes."

"We had always talked about adopting a little Indian baby out west," reports Mrs. Sillaway. "Well, as it happened, we had our own little Indian baby. We call Jeremy our "cornhusker" once in a while,"

From Nebraska to a Mennonite community in Hagerstown, Md.,

Mrs. Sillaway's homemaking skills began to flourish. "I learned a lot about canning and freezing food from our landlady who was a Mennonite." she says. "She knew how to do everything. I felt a little funny when she asked me if I could do this or that and I couldn't. Well, I finally had her show me how to can, make jellies and jams, and so on. I even learned how to crochet, something I said I would never do because it was boring! My grandmother had tried to teach me when I was a young girl, but I couldn't be bothered. And now I've made quite a few afghans, but I still haven't made one for us, though.'

When her husband retired from the service in 1979, the Sillaways moved to Florida. "We had always said we would retire here," she says, "and here we are. My first years here in the early sixtles were very disappointing at Christmas time because there was no snow, It just didn't seem like Christmas without it, but after having been stationed in the rest of the states during our military career, and having been in the 'Blizzard of 75' in Nebraska while eight months pregnant and snowed in. I love not having snow at Christmas!" Jim Sillaway is now a letter carrier for the Altamonte Springs post office, and Karen Sillaway works parttime at SCC's Writing Center. "I just love my job," she says. "I hadn't worked in 23 years because I never wanted to when the kids were little, but I go to work after Jeremy leaves for school, and I'm home before he gets home so it works out fine."

About two weeks before Christmas Mrs. Sillaway starts baking her best cookies and candies. "I have about fliteen cookic recipes that I use," she says, "and I make about three or four batches of each. Most of them are my grandmother's recipes. I also make about five candy recipes, too, and I dare my

Mrs. Sillaway and her husband do a lot of cooking together, she says."When my two nieces graduated, we catered their parties. It was really nice. I get uptight, though, worrying about whether everything is going to turn out all right. It's a good thing Jim is as patient as he is. In the end, just as se says, everything turns out terrific." For her nieces' parties, Mrs. Sillaway filled each girl's request for what they would like served. and chicken wings, roast beef, ham, potato salad, macaroni salad and relish trays were prepared for about 80 guests at Renee's gathering, while Sheri preferred her aunt's Italian touch to the stuffed shells, chef's salad, spinach dip and all the other delicacies that were served. For the spinach dip, four large, round loaves of pumpernickel bread were scooped out, filled with the dip, and the small pieces of bread were used for dippers. "We did our own kids' graduation parties," says Mrs. Sillaway, "but these were the first two we did for someone else. It was really fun."

When speaking of her husband's heritage as half Seneca Indian, Mrs. Sillaway explains, "His mother was a full-blooded indian, but his dad calls himself a 'Heinz 57' because he's a little Scot, English and German. But Jim has some good roots way back there," she continues. "His great-great uncle. Eli S. Parker, was a very good griend of Ulysses S. Grant. Eli Parker wrote a letter to his friend. Grant, telling him that he wanted to join the military and Grant got him in. Before that, Parker had worked as a surveyor and was the first to survey the Erie Canal." Parker, who became Secretary General to Grant, "drew up the first terms of surrender." savs Mrs. Sillaway, "and when he left the military he was a colonel." Mrs. Sillaway adds that Colonel Parker's house is still standing on the reservation, although somewhat dilapidated, and her husband is pleased to have many of his ancestor's Indian artifacts in his possession.

Aside from her favorite hobbies of cooking, collecting recipes and cook books, and doing needlework, Mrs. Sillaway also enjoys attending the First Baptist Church of Sanford where she works in the nursery. "I love working with the babies," she says. "Once a month I have the nursery, but if I can get in there more, I do."

The Sillaways love to entertain friends and family and that becomes a joint effort in the kitchen to everyone's delight. "Jim and I do a lot of cooking together," says Mrs. Sillaway, "and we make a lot of Italian dishes. He was raised on turkey for all their holidays, and my family always had Italian food so we had to compromise. We always have turkey on Thanksgiving and on Christmas we have ravioli. With all my family and friends that have moved to Florida from New York, last year we had 27 guests for dinner.'

Karen and Jim Sillaway have quite a list of Italian dishes that they prepare together. "We make ravioli and gnocchi, which is a potato dumpling that you serve with tomato sauce," she says. "They're really good, as is the spinach ravioli. We also make stuffed shells. When my aunt from Buffalo, N.Y. came to visit for a week once, she brought all the fixings for homemade manicotti, the special pan to make the manicotti shells, the ricotta cheese, and she even brought Italian sausage. Well, I helped make the manicotti, and they were delicious, but they're too much trouble. I'll make the stuffed shells instead!"

Mrs. Sillaway notes that she and her husband work very well together in the kitchen, but her husband is the "griller" in the family. "I told him that if anything ever happened to him

I'd probably never cook any. thing on the grill because I'm not good at that. He loves to cook chicken, ribs, steaks and roasts on the grill but I can't even do hamburgers." she laughs. "he even makes his own barbecue sauce. And he has some of his mother's Indian recipes that he makes from time to time, like corn soup, beef and barley soup and Indian fried bread. I let him have his way in the kitchen once in a while," she adds with a chuckle, "and he lets me have my way with the dishes afterward. He cooks and I clean up!"

Get ready for some deliciously different dishes from Karen Sillaway's recipe file that are surprisingly easy:

Food for Thought

by Bill Painter

Chuiney has more complex flavors than sweet barbeque sauce. Puree It in the blender and brush onto chicken or lamb before barbecuing.

Add 1 tsp. of minced fresh gingerroot to the water you boil for rice. Cook rice 15 minutes, then garnish with sliced scallions.

Thick cream is just cream? It depends on the butterist content. Half-and-half contains 10.6 to 18 percent; light cream is 18 to 30 percent butterfat, and heavy cream, 30 to 36 percent. If you're whipping heavy cream, avoid the ultrapasteurized version.

Simple dip for begetables: 1 cup yogurt blended with 3/4 tap. curry powder, plus salt to taste.

Wonderful brunch idea: pancakes flavored with cinnamon and alispice, topped with warm sauteed apples and raisins. For a dramatic touch, add applejack and serve flaming.

was married before and has a daughter who is living with her mother in another state. A few years ago, this daughter sent us a picture of herself, and it was beautiful. I bought a nice frame and proudly put the picture on display in our living room for all our friends to see.

A few weeks ago, this daughter send us a new picture. (She just turned 15.) I don't care for this picture at all. She's wearing too much makeup, great big earrings, a sexy, low-cut dress, and her hair is all frizzy. I really would be ashamed to put that picture out for everyone to see. Here's the conversation between my husband and me when we got the new picture: Me: "I don't like this picture."

My husband: "I don't like it either. She looks cheap."

Me: "I agree. She looks like a prostitute.' Well, my husband hit the roof, and said. "Don't ever call my daughter a prostitute again!" I said, "I never called your daughter a prostitute - I just said she looked like one." We had a big fight over this, and he said I owed him an apology. Abby, my husband has called my sister a "whore" many times because she dates many men. She is not a whore: she's Just a popular, friendly woman. I never demanded an apology. Do you think I owe my husband one?

HATES TO FIGHT DEAR HATES: No. but if you hate to fight, in the interest of peace, apologize for saying that you thought his daughter looked like a prostitute. And don't remind him that he called your

DEAR BELIEVER: Since you are so well-versed in the Bible. please recall Matthew 7:1-2: 'Judge not, that you not be judged. For with what judgment you Judge, you will be Judged: and with the same measure you use, it will be measured back to

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with the family in Kansas who recently lost their 4-month-old son. My 6-month-old nephew died in April, also while on a waterbed. However, the coroner's report listed the cause of death as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), not asphyxiation. Several states now require an autopsy whenever there is a sudden death of an infant. This allows the family to know if the child was ill, had a congenital problem, and also to conduct research on this unexplained and unpreventable tragedy.

Maybe the Kansas grandson died of SIDS. If so, it might help the family to know that they could not have prevented his tragic death, thereby relieving them of any guilt.

There may be a local SIDS support group where they can obtain more information. If not, they can contact the National Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Foundation Inc., 8200 Professional Place, Suite 104, Landover, Md. 20785. The toll-free telephone number (outside of Maryland) is (800) 221-SIDS. (In Maryland, the number is 301-459-3388.) Sign me ...

D.V., ALSO GRIEVING

Dear Abby

DEAR D.V.: Thank you for your compassionate letter. Please accept my sympathy on the loss of your nephew. In the hopes that your letter may enlighten other families stricken by this kind of tragedy, I am sharing it with my readers.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter in your column from 'Kiki's Mom" who said that her, 2-year-old daughter received a frightening shock when she stuck her mother's keys into an electrical outlet. She was indeed lucky her daughter was not more seriously injured — or killed.

"Mom" should go to the nearest hardware store and buy some plugged discs that fit these outlets. Her child may not have her keys to play with, but there are other objects such as hairpins that could be stuck into outlets with the same results. Mothers should not attempt to cover electrical sockets with tape - a child will quickly learn how to pull it off.

"Mom" should go through her entire house to ensure that no safety hazards exist. Safety latches for cabinets are a good idea. All household cleaners should be stored out of reach - never under a kitchen sink. The best way to spot a problem is to get down on the floor and view a room the way a child sees it.

Grandparents who frequently have little guests should also child-proof their homes. Most grandparents have forgotten what it was like to have an inquisitive, exploring child in the house.

EVELYN IN TUSCALOOSA

DEAR EVELYN: Thank you for some valuable suggestions. And, readers, wouldn't a halfdozen of these "outlet pluggers" make a fine gift for a baby shower?

Cox Is First Punk Del

Alex Cox is the punk DeMille By Ethlie Ann Vare

While he was hardly the first punk filmmaker - Penelope Spheeris, Julien Temple and a few others could fight for that title - Alex Cox has the distinction of becoming the first mainstream punk filmmaker

Perhaps "mainstream punk" is a contradiction in terms, but Cox. 32, hit a bullseye on the cult circuit in 1984 with his Irreverent "Repo Man," and followed that up in 1986 with the critically acclaimed docudrama "Sid & Nancy."
Now, the UCLA-educated Briton twists the formula again in "Straight To Hell," a spaghetti western not about punks, but starring them. No Sex Pistols this time, but we do have the Clash's Joe Strummer, Elvis Costello. the Pogues, Ten-Pole Tudor and "scenesters" from Dick Rude to Grace Jones taking part in this absurdist spoof. Cox cast Joe Strummer and Dick Rude as sidekicks to Sy Richardson, the "brilliant black actor" who had a part in both earlier films and the upcoming "Walker." In "Straight to Hell," the three play hired killers with a contract in Spain. "But." the filmmaker explains, because of their hangovers and general untogetherness, they fail to kill the guy and leave town very quickly, thereby getting involved in a series of adventures in a small town in the middle of the desert. The Pogues play the MacMahon Gang, a family subsisting entirely on their addiction to coffee, which explains why their teeth are green. Elvis Costello is their butler. It's a really stupid film."

Many viewers have agreed with Cox's assessment of "Straight To Hell" (a title which seems to be the gist of many reviews), although midnightmovie audiences may give it a happy home. Actor Richardson, who ranks Cox somewhere between Cecil B. DeMille and Mother Theresa, excuses "Straight To Hell" on the grounds that, "It was really a practice session for 'Walker' - a chance to shoot a full-length feature in the desert."

'Walker,' the story of a U.S. backed takeover of 1850s Nicaragua being shot in 1980s Nicaragua, is much anticipated as "Film Art."

"I don't think 'Straight To

The common food poisoning types are sensitive to heat and cooking will kill them. The bacteria can cause problems, though, if they contaminate other foods such as potato or macaroni salads which don't receive further cooking before being eaten.

Hell' will be received kindly by people who like Art," said Cox shortly before the film's release. "It's a very crass little film, full of mindless heroes and beautiful girls. Art belongs in galleries. First, I want to entertain."

To Cox, entertainment's zenith is down-and-dirty rock'n'roll. "When I was at UCLA, I'd go to the Starwood every Wednesday and see the punks, and then see more punks downtown on the weekend. I saw the Clash every time they came to town. Nothing has happened in music in 10 years - not Michael Jackson, not Madonna - as important as the Sex Pistols or the Clash."

He earlier directed a rock clip for "Hell" co-stars the Pogues, the controversial "A Pair of Brown Eyes." But in general, this rock-loving director doesn't love directing rock videos.

"It's nice that videos are finished quickly and you get that immediate gratification of seeing it right away," say Cox. "The downside is that when you do see it, the damn thing has been re-edited according to the vision of the managing director of MCA

DEAR DR. GOTT - I heard that doctors can do a test on infants which shows if the infant is a potential alcoholic. If doctors can recognize the missing enzyme or whatever it is, why can't it be replaced? Would this help the addiction?

However, much work needs to be performed in checking this hypothesis before tests can be devised to identify potential aicoholics. Such tests would be extremely valuable in identifying the disease before it produced behavioral problems, but,

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

For all the years I have known him. Al Roth has been an outstanding player, theorist, writer and teacher in the world of bridge. He has also been a "system" player, with a reputation for adhering to his own espoused methods. Thus it was with great interest that I read about one of his early exploits in the Granovetters' new book, 'Tops and Bottoms' [Granovetter Books, 80-85] Dumfries Place, Jamaica, NY 11432 - $11.95 postpaid). Bearing in mind that this deal took place in 1942, you can readily see that the bidding methods used by Roth (seated received the opening lead of his best sult. He assumed that lead to be from four cards, so to further complicate the opponents' defense, he ducked, playing the eight. East continued the suit. Declarer won the club ace and played a low heart to the nine in dummy, forcing the queen. Now East shifted to a diamond, but it was too late. Al cashed his club winners, played a spade to the ace, and came off dummy with the heart jack, smothering the 10 in West's hand to make his contract. This was the 1942 National Open Pairs, and Al and his partner, Toblas Stone, won the event. Their opponents on this round, Harry Fishbein and Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, finished second. Do you think this deal mattered?
