House Writing State Spending Bill; Warns New Taxes Necessary

Top News In Brief

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has ordered Ambassador James P. Richards to wind up his special mission to the Middle East and return to Washington as soon as possible, the State Department announced today.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — President Luis Somoza ordered a general mobilization of the army today "for the legal defense of our northern frontier" in Nicaragua's 50-year-old border dispute with Honduras. In a statement issued early today Somoza said Nicaraguans would take up arms to repel Honduran aggression. Nicaraguans charged that 25 of its soldiers were killed in a Honduran attack Wednesday on the frontier town of Mocorua.

John Doe Enlists In Army Reserve

By A. W. FAUST
For years our country has used the name "John Doe" to represent "average citizen USA." The name "John Doe" has been used to advertise everything from washing machines, saving bonds and bank accounts.

The Army Reserve in Orlando has enlisted John Doe and believe it or not, its official. This is for real.

The service has used the handle of John Doe for a physical examination of where a man should sign his name on the many various forms, but John Doe from Sanford, isn't just filling in blanks as is, he's for sure John B. Doe.

5-Year School Program Tentatively Okayed

Building To Cost $2 Billion

WASHINGTON — The House Education and Labor Committee today tentatively approved a five-year school construction program to cost 2 billion dollars.

The action was taken as the committee completed its second day of closed-door work on the bill, a compromise reached by Eisenhower, Republicans and liberal Democrats.

President Eisenhower had asked for a four-year $1,300,000,000 program. The Democrats had proposed a six-year $3,600,000,000 program.

Chairman Graham A. Barden D.N. C. announced after today's secret session that his committee had approved the size of the program—five years at 400 million dollars a year.

The committee action is subject to reconsideration when the members vote on final approval of the entire program.

Also tentatively approved was a complicated system under which the federal money would be divided among the 48 states. Half of the yearly money, or 200 million dollars, would be allotted to the states on the basis of their school populations. The other half would be allocated according to a formula relating the number of students to the state's income.

The allocation formula was one of the controversial issues that caused the defeat of a similar school construction bill last year.

Annual Social Welfare Forum Set May 8-10

Mrs. Abbie W. Boyd, County Chairman of the Florida Conference of Social Welfare announces that the Annual Forum will be held at the Angelika Hotel in Orlando on May 8-10.

The Florida Conference, established in 1911, has as its purpose, said Mrs. Boyd, the bringing together of professional and lay leaders from all over the state to explore the health and welfare needs of the state and to develop plans for meeting them.

The workshops planned for Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning of the conference include: The Juvenile Court, Keeping Families Together, Family Care in State Mental Health Programs, Child In Group Care, Medical Social Work, and Community Support in Welfare Planning. Also on the program is a panel discussion on "What Is Happening to the Florida Family Today."

It is hoped, said Mrs. Boyd, that staffs and members of local organizations: Welfare, Health, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Mental Health, Schools, Churches, PTAs, and similar organizations will participate by attending.

Further information can be obtained on the conference by calling FA 21472 or FA 2-1672.

Krider To Join Waterways Assn.

The Atlantic-Gulf Intraoceanic Waterways Association of Jacksonville, with only four projects which it is supporting, has invited John Krider, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and Seminole County Commissioner, to become a member of their organization.

Projects which the Atlantic-Gulf Intraoceanic Waterways Association is supporting, includes: The Intraoceanic Waterway, Cross Florida Barge Canal, The St. Marks to Tampa Bay waterway, and the Sanford Titusville Canal.

Krider today said "I have accepted the invitation of this group of civic leaders to become a member of their organization."

Commissioner Against Industry Proposal Presented By Krider

John Krider, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, staked out at the Commissioners Room at the Sanford City Hall last night when he met with an answer of "I'm against it" after proposing that city-owned property be used for an industrial development.

Krider told the Board of Sanford City Commissioners at a special meeting to hear a report by Mayor David Gatchel that "It is highly possible that we can secure an industry for our community with a little give and take."

He proposed that an area located near the well field owned by the City of Sanford be turned over to a company which he failed to name for the location of an industrial building of huge dimensions.

"We have yet to locate a single industry in Sanford or Seminole County and we must make a start somewhere," he said.

"Because of the high wages and salaries paid by such an industry which we are contemplating for our area," said Krider, "it would be an asset economically."

However, one commissioner's answer was "I'm against it."

With this answer, Krider said to the commission, "If that's the way you want it, gentlemen, that's the way it will have to be" and turned and walked out.

No other commissioner spoke. (Continued on Page 10)

114 Planes In Sky Over Eastern Med Trouble Area

ABOARD USS FORRESTAL. — A mighty armada of 114 planes from this floating fortress has been ranging the skies over the Eastern Mediterranean trouble area with live ammunition in their guns and needle-nosed rockets tucked under their swept wings.

The rockets are put aboard the planes only when the fleet smells possible trouble in the air. They have found none. But the armament carried by the planes which roared into the skies from the canted decks of the Forrestal in relays earlier this week underscored the seriousness that the 6th fleet attaches to this "routine training mission."

Usually the jet interceptors and fighter bombers fly unarmed, their rocket grips empty.

Late yesterday for the first time since the fleet raced into the eastern Mediterranean at the height of the Jordan crisis, the planes of this super carrier were krumpled.

But big guns boomed out in a target practice session marred by the loss of a target-towing plane. The craft, a Douglas Skyraider, (Continued on Page 10)

Texas Counts 20 Dead As Floods Continue In State

DALLAS, Tex. — Dallas baled out of another flood today and the biggest crest on the Sabine River in 12 years roller slowly eastward, flooding out miles of east Texas and western Louisiana.

The death toll from 13 days of tempests, cloudbursts and floods in Texas rose to 20. Three hundred persons were flooded out of their homes in east Texas.

A thousand oil wells, whose combined output is worth millions of dollars a week, were under water and most of them were out of commission until the flood subsided.

An Air Force B44 plane, caught in air turbulence near Pittsburg, Tex., Wednesday night blew up in flight. Three crewmen parachuted to safety, but the fourth was missing.

A 302 inch cloudburst, of the type that caused a $6,500,000 flood along the Trinity River a week ago, hit Dallas. It rained all night and was still drizzling today.

Police in boats and squad cars rescued 75 to 100 persons from their flooded homes and others fled on their own. Forty-three streets in Dallas and 10 roads in Dallas County were cut by the floods.

Weather

Considerable cloudiness tonight and Friday. Occasional showers; low tonight 45 to 70.

Golden-Glazed Lamb Chops

Golden-glazed Lamb Chops with Pineapple—they're every bit as good as they look and that's wonderful! The lamb chops of this meal are Lamb Shoulder Chops—neatly, full-of-flavor, large and hearty enough to make a remembered serving, modestly priced. These chops, cut from the lamb shoulder, are usually about 3/4 inch thick, weighing 6 to 8 ounces each, depending upon the "style" of chop chosen—the smaller "round bone", the larger "blade bone" which makes them easily identifiable. Both are tender and tasty, and may be used in many ways beside the usual "pan-fried".

GOLDEN-GLAZED LAMB CHOPS
Yield: 4 servings (1 chop per serving)

4 lamb shoulder chops, about 3/4 inches thick	2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper	1 tablespoon cut chives, if desired
4 slices canned pineapple	1/4 cup or more syrup from canned pineapple
1/2 teaspoon powdered thyme

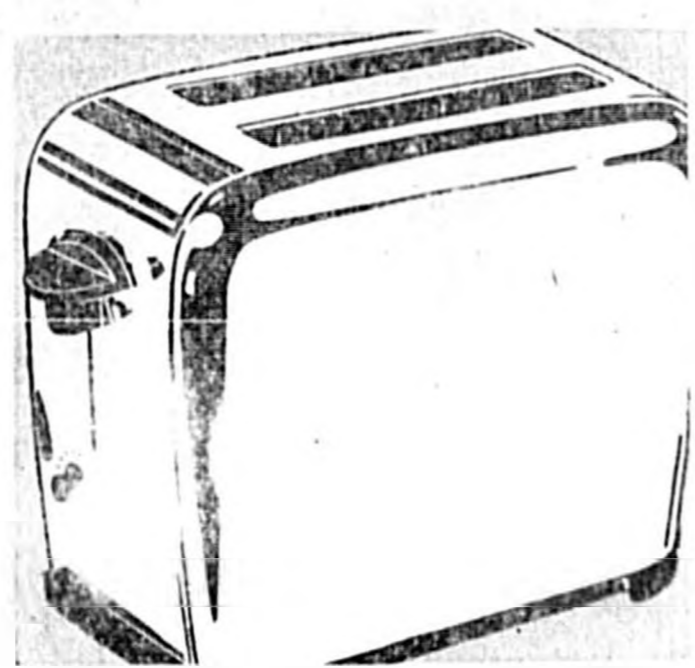

Heat butter in skillet. Add chops and brown slowly on one side; turn, brown other side. Sprinkle chops with salt, pepper, and thyme. Place a slice of pineapple atop each chop. Sprinkle with parsley and cut chives. Add 1/4 cup syrup from canned pineapple, more if liquid cooks low. Cover skillet tightly, and cook slowly until the chops are fork-tender, about 40 minutes for 3/4-inch thick chops.

Public Should Be Informed Of All Accidents On Streets Of Our City

Automobile accidents are increasing at an incredible rate in the City of Sanford. Hardly a day passes without the report of some serious collision or accident reaching The Sanford Herald.

However, your local newspaper has a policy of not reporting an accident unless the facts can be gathered at the scene where a reporter's keen eye and sound judgment can bring readers an account, accurate in as many details as possible.

Police Officers are trained to search for data and information surrounding an accident which is useless for newspaper reporting and in bringing local citizens a word picture of what happened, how it happened, when it happened, and who was involved.

Newspaper photography, to bring The Sanford Herald's readers a graphic account of an accident, is of much better quality than police photography.

The Sanford Herald believes that the citizens of Sanford and the Sanford area should be informed of every automobile accident which occurs within the City limits. Unless they are informed no one can know the seriousness of the present day situation in regard to the traffic problems here.

Property damage is tremendous. In three accidents alone during a four-day period, one reported and two which were not reported, damage has been estimated at a minimum of $5,000. One automobile which turned end over end on French Ave. early this week, scattered prisoners at work on the French Ave. whiteway, took a heavy toll in property damage alone.

An informed public is a safety minded public when it comes to accidents on the streets of our community.

Support Mental Health Drive

Several months ago, the world-renowned psychiatrist, Dr. William C. Menninger, created quite a stir with his declaration that the toll of mental illness is "one-in-one." Of course, Dr. Menninger did not mean by this that every one of us is a subject for a mental hospital. He explained that mental illness does not show up only in extreme cases — of the kind which necessitates mental hospital treatment. Mental illness, he pointed out, can come in less severe forms, affecting every one of us in our daily lives.

Much of the trouble which people have on their jobs, or in school, or in marital relations, are evidences of mental ill health, he said. Many of the physical illnesses which we suffer—such as headaches, indigestion, ulcers, heart ailments—also originate from emotional disorder, in most cases.

He stressed strongly the need for "mental and emotional first-aid," to deal with these problems, and pointed out that most communities lack the first-aid devices—mental health clinics, guidance service, mental health programs in schools and in industry. It is time, now, to recall Dr. Menninger's words and apply them to our own community and to ourselves. It is time, now, to stop thinking that mental illness is someone else's problem. It is time to join the citizen's army against mental illness. An effective weapon is available now, with the Mental Health Campaign underway in our community. That weapon is your chance to give—wholeheartedly—so that the suffering of our present victims of mental illness can be prevented. Join the fight by supporting your Mental Health Campaign.

The Mental Health Association of Seminole County, headed by George Touhy, and the Bell Ringers' March sponsored by the Sanford Pilots Club with Mrs. R. E. Chapman as chairman, are striving to reach a goal of $2,500.

A little help from a lot of people would certainly mean that their quota will be reached and the program get underway here in Sanford and Seminole County.

Faith, Health Theory

Eleven years ago all patients at Bellevue Hospital in New York had to be seen by a minister. This recognition of the importance of religion by a hospital was then termed unique.

Today the once-unique has become the commonplace. Of the 7,000 hospitals in the United States, 1,100 have some religious affiliations and most have available the services of ministers of three major faiths. This change is cited in an article and editorial appearing in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The point is that American medicine and religion are in closer accord than in any period in modern times.

Why should this be so? The Editorial suggests an answer: That the individual is emerging from the "part-of-the-mass" status which came with mechanization and specialization of society and, helped by the increase in leisure time that has resulted from the decline in working time, "wants to know more and more about himself and how he relates to all men and all things of all times."

Whatever the cause, medicine and religion seem to be on the threshold of a "unified theory" of faith and health. Clergymen are developing a greater interest in medicine, especially as it applies to mental health. In some cases theological students are given training in ministering to the sick, while medical students are offered elective courses in religion to help them learn about the resources the church can offer them in their practice.

This is opening up great new frontiers of service to mankind. Its implications were well expressed by a professor at the Cornell University Medical College who said: "Very often we do not know what it is that brings about the recovery of the patient. I am sure that often it is faith which is a most important factor."

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. MC CANN, United Press Staff Correspondent

Soviet Russia's anger over developments in the Middle East indicates clearly that American policy is paying off.

Pravda, the newspaper organ of the Russian Communist Party, complained on Sunday that the United States is using the law of the East in its dealings with Arab countries.

The Soviet Foreign Office followed up on Monday by accusing the United States of "aggravating" the Middle Eastern situation by "gross interference."

In its special statement, the Foreign Ministry said that the United States will be responsible for "grave consequences" that may develop.

What all this means is that young King Hussein of Jordan has overcome his pro-Russian, pro-Egyptian, anti-Western political enemies who threatened to oust him from his throne.

Nobody can blame the Soviet leaders for being extremely displeased.

Leftists Meet Challenge

It has become evident several weeks ago that the leftists in Jordan were being challenged by the pro-Western king and political leaders loyal to him.

The fight broken into the open when pro-Soviet Premier Sulaiman Nabulsi tried to enter into diplomatic relations with Russia.

A crisis developed. Hussein dismissed Nabulsi. Nabulsi organized riots in Amman, the capital, and other cities. The pro-Russian Egyptian and Syrian governments encouraged Nabulsi. Russia egged on Egypt and Syria.

At a critical time, President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles announced that they regarded the independence and integrity of Jordan as vital.

Next day the President sent the United States 4th Fleet, based on the Mediterranean, to the Middle East. This action was taken, in the first application of the new Eisenhower Doctrine, on the ground that Jordan was threatened by the forces of the international Communism.

The replies to my questionnaire this year numbered in the thousands. Many of the answers were accompanied by letters in which the questions were elaborated on. I have sought to reply to all of those who sent in the questionnaires. If I missed you it was either because the address was not given or it had become illegible in handling through the mail.

I am most grateful for this laudatory response. It shows that the people are awake and thinking, and when this condition exists we have good government. I am also grateful to those who were kind enough to reprint and distribute the questionnaire so that it might reach more people.

Naturally, I will use my best judgment in voting on the various issues raised in the questionnaire, but I think it is most important that I know your thinking, and I hope you will continue to write me your views.

The question on reducing the budget attracted the most comment of any in the questionnaire. Seventy-nine per cent of the replies favored reductions. The answers were heavily in favor of cutting military and economic aid.

Fifty-seven per cent of the replies opposed Federal aid for school construction. Many of those who voted for this aid said they would be against it if there were any Federal strings attached.

Seventy-five per cent of the replies favored statehood for Hawaii.

The questionnaires showed that seventy-four per cent of the people who voted opposed liberalization of the immigration law. On the other hand, fifty-seven per cent said that permanent residence should be given to the 600 Hungarian refugees who were admitted to this country on temporary permits. Many of those who favored the admission said they did so only on the condition that these persons be carefully screened.

Seventy-three per cent favored an increase in postal rates so that the Post Office Department might get out of the red. The editor called for more efficient operation of the department and a demand be made to pay its own way.

Fifty-one per cent favored extension of age and hour law provisions to cover retail and other industries.

BOX SCORE: No quorum of calls missed during the first four months of Congress.

Health Hints

By DR. A. W. WOODALL, HOW CORRECT POSTURE PROMOTES BETTER HEALTH

Good health depends in a large measure upon the way we sit, stand, and walk. The human body should be erect, on a straight line with the center of gravity. That is correct posture. To slouch, to deviate from this straight line is an invitation for an abnormal spine, pain and decreased energy. It also encourages dysfunction and disease.

That is why, each year, the Chiropractic Profession of America has instituted the first week in May to be "Correct Posture Week."

Your doctor of chiropractic knows correct posture promotes better health, and is especially important in growing children. The early correction of faulty body mechanics, spinal curvatures, and unusual length of the legs is conducive to a healthier, happier childhood and a more content adult life.

Distortions of the framework of the body create nerve tensions and irritate nerve energy and bodily resistance. During Correct Posture Week, some 25,000 doctors of chiropractic throughout America direct attention to the interdependence of good health and correct posture. A check-up of the posture of the nation's children is recommended, and its underlining by chiropractors during the special week.

as a member of the newly established Board of Regents of the Institutes for Organization Management. The board will serve under the National Chamber's Board of Directors and will provide overall supervision and guidance for the six institutes for training of association and chamber executives.

BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY — Executive recess was busy for Congressman Billy Matthews. While home "resting" he met in Lake City with political leaders from throughout the eighth district. Purpose was to give background information on principal issues in the Nation's Capital. Ended up as a question and answer session. Plinks from half a dozen communities came to Lake City for the meeting at the invitation of the Columbia County Chamber of Commerce.

SURPRISE ANSWER — 75 per cent of folks in Central Florida are in favor of statehood for Alaska and Hawaii—according to a poll taken during the past few weeks by Congressman Syd Herlong. The question of statehood for Alaska and Hawaii was one of ten that Herlong asked on various subjects in his annual questionnaire to his constituents. Before this year's returns most people in Florida opposed this idea.

PLANNED THIS WAY? — Congressman Charlie Bennett is a member of the Armed Forces Committee. Question: Has his association with things military begun to affect his home life? Armed Services Day has been set for May 19th this year—and that is the day that the Bennett expects the new addition to their family. Odd among the Florida Delegation are that he'll miss it—plus or minus three days.

WASHINGTON SAW WIN PENDLETON
MAJOR ADDRESS — Congressman Paul Rogers, West Palm Beach, hit the big time when he addressed the Harvard Advanced Management Association of New York City. He called his talk "Good Government is the Issue" and gave some of the background which led to the introduction of his government accounting reform bill which now is Public Law 903. Senate sponsor of the bill was John Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Rogers' reforms have saved the government so much money that he has introduced a bill that would broaden the scope of last year's successful measure.

Principal feature of the new proposal, Rogers explained, is to set up the entire budget of the Government on an annual accrued expenditure basis, thus eliminating the huge backlog of money which is unused from year to year.

"In fact, Rogers said, 'today we have almost $20 billion in this backlog. The proposed system as yet, realistic would do away with this backlog since the Congress would approve only the amount of money to be spent during the fiscal year.'

Rogers' program follows the recommendations as set forth in the Second Hoover Commission report.

FARTHY ANSWER — Former President Harry Truman has written another letter. This time it was in reply to an invitation from Congressman Charlie Bennett to speak at the upcoming dedication of First Carolina just outside Jacksonville. Truman said he couldn't be there because the dedication of his own memorial library in Missouri would be going on then. Said Truman, "I'd like to be there but I'll be going around like a pup chasing his tail."

Now that the date for the Fort Carolina celebration has been changed, the former president said he would try to fit the new date into his busy schedule.

Protect Your Children From Hazards Of Polio

By NORMAN M. BUNDSM, M.D.
THE polio season will be upon us before we know it. Let's use every available weapon to fight it. Hundreds of thousands of youngsters throughout the nation have been inoculated with the Salk vaccine. Hundreds of thousands more have not.

Some Have Enough
While there is a shortage of the vaccine in some areas, there is sufficient surplus in others. Unfortunately, despite this shortage, a good deal of the vaccine will not be used at all—simply because parents fail to take advantage of the new effective ways we have of protecting our youngsters from this dread disease.

If there is not enough vaccine in your particular area to accommodate everyone, there are other steps you can take to provide some degree of protection for your youngster. I'll tell you about them in future columns.

Begin At Once
If your community does have adequate supplies, make sure your children begin their inoculations right away. While it may be too late to give them the full course types, change of life is another cause.

For Entire Family
If there is enough polio vaccine in your area, and in most places there is, have your entire family inoculated, including your spouse and yourself.

Do not put it off. Do it now. Each inoculation is preventive medicine. The vaccine works, we know that. So, for your own sake, take advantage of the protection available to virtually everyone.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q: I have had chills and sweating most of the winter. What can I do to prevent such an attack next winter?
A: Chills and sweating may be due to a thyroid deficiency or to infections of various types. Change of life is another cause.

Now Hear This!

by JACKY FENWICK

When I was writing yesterday's column about Chief John Thomas, and Warrant Officer Herbert Barkey, I had two other things I had meant to include, but misplaced my notes, so here they are now! During Tuesday's rush time, their last day aboard the Air Station the two men "entertained" all their old shipmates at the Chief's Club, I'm having trouble with this sentence because what I want to say is that they paid the "tab" for all the glasses of a well known beverage that their friends consumed! Understand that all those who managed to drop in and bid farewell had a VERY good time!

Along the same line, and also about these two men, was the little ceremony that took place at 1500 (200 P. M.) at the club of the Naval Station. With a lineup of most of the men who have worked with these two, and many of their friends in attendance, they were honored with the ceremony of being "piped over the side." The expression, of course, dates back to the earliest days of the Navy when the only thing a man was ever "piped over the side" of was a ship! But times have changed considerably and though the only water in sight was contained in the base swimming pool, these two men, upon leaving their final duty station for the last time were, with appropriate words, and the traditional blowing of the "bounty" whistle, "piped over the side."

There have been several transfers, a couple of arrivals, and one "release" in inactive duty over the past week, which I'll now give you. Arriving aboard the Sanford Naval Air Station were Willard R. Glover, BM2, who comes here from VU-1, and Harold M. Brooks, EMC, who comes to us from the U.S.S. Salpan. Johnny F. Lewis was released on April 27 to "inactive duty". Those transferred from this base were four men who have gone on to the Radomanski's in Rainier, Maryland. They are: Herbert H. Row, EFSA, Edwin L. Sergeant, SA, Robert W. House, SA, and Fred D. Shannon, HSSN.

Transferred to the Navy base at Key West, Florida, for school and further assignment, were Charles N. Hord, and Donald C. Moore; both were EFSN. (AND PLEASE don't ask me what those letters stand for!!)

Have recently found out that I can print the names of movies to be shown at the Naval Air Station Theater, and though I don't think it would be a good policy for me to print every day, I'll try and remember to let you know when something especially good is coming up! I don't think it's a secret to anyone, Navy or civilian, that they occasionally show new movies long before they are released to the public. And, providing I know of them, I'll try to remember to mention these. Today is Thursday, so tonight's offering will be "Congress Dances". This one I haven't heard of, but it's supposed to be in CinemaScope. I THINK tomorrow night's is a brand new one, that don't take my word for it, it's called the "River's Edge". This stars Ray Milland and Debra Paget.

The Navy Relief Drive got under way at the Air Station yesterday, and I've been reading a little booklet about it. Did you know that their rescue is solely "New government funds"? This surprised me, and I think it's one very good reason why we all should support it. The Society receives a large part of its money from investments, but the greatest part, by far, comes from contributions by the Navy and the Marine Corps, with a little more derived from benefactors. There's one other fact regarding this organization that I thought was very interesting. That is that there are only 117 full time paid employees, and 12 part-time paid workers! As opposed to this number is the "staggering" number of 3,673 VOLUNTEER workers!

Thunderous Day

We are grateful for the rain for obvious reasons but nothing is quite so discouraging as playing golf in downpour. Since this was Ladies Day at the Country Club, quite a few of us did just that. Between showers and during showers we slogged along, mashing the balls through the water. It was with great dismay that we returned to the Club House to find that our most ardent golfers were sitting this one out, and having a grand time. This was a small group of renowned fame including Dot Powell, Cecil Heard, Fanchon Roberts, Helen Caraway, Jane McKibbin, and Mary Wheelchel. Hard at work over a card table were Roy Syme, Andy Caraway, John Ivey and Harry Toke. Must mention that Keen Ivey had on another of those charming sun costumes she dons for golf. That's probably why it rained.

Trend For Bigger, More Expensive Homes Continues

By ROBERT F. COLL, United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, May 2.—The average one-family home built last year was a three-bedroom rambler selling for about $14,500 a government survey shows.

This continued the trend of recent years for bigger, more expensive new houses, the Commerce and Labor departments reported.

For the past three years, the majority of new homes constructed have been in the $12,000 to $15,000 bracket. But since 1934 construction of homes selling for less than $10,000 has risen.

New homes costing more than $20,000 held at about 10 per cent of all construction started through 1934-35. But last year they soared to 18 per cent.

In the $15,000 to $20,000 group new starts have increased to 26 per cent an increase of 10 per cent over 1934.

But the bulk of new starts have remained in the area of $12,000 to $15,000, despite a mild decline from 29 per cent in 1935 to 27 per cent last year.

The upsurge in building for the upper income brackets has all but kicked the bottom out of low-cost housing starts.

Three years ago, the survey showed, 11 per cent of all new homes were built to sell under $7,000. Last year's starts skidded to a negligible four per cent.

In the past group, ranging up to $10,000 in price, new starts slumped five per cent from their 1934 level of 15 per cent. A mild slump was also registered during the three years in the $10,000 to $12,000 bracket.

Included in the downward trend in low-cost starts was the row house—long an urban housing fixture—the government housing experts said the "small number" of row houses began were concentrated in the northeast and southern areas.

U. S. Crime Total Last Year Tops 2 Million Mark

By HELEN THOMAS, United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, May 2.—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has reported that more major crimes were committed in the United States last year than ever before. For the first time, he said, the nation's crime total topped the 2,500,000 mark. At 2,563,150 it was 13 per cent greater than in 1935.

Hoover said the crime increase could not be principally attributed to the growth in the nation's population. He noted that since 1930 the rate has risen almost four times as fast as the population.

He said that a major crime was committed every 12.3 seconds last year. Every 4.1 minutes there was an act of murder, manslaughter, rape or assault to kill.

Teen-Agers Blamed
The report said major crimes committed by teenagers last year under 18 continued to increase and accounted for 46 per cent of the major crime arrests in cities. Juveniles were blamed for 66 per cent of the nation's auto thefts. Juvenile crime was up 17.3 per cent in urban areas but increased only 3 per cent in the nation as a whole.

Hoover's figures were compiled by the FBI on the basis of police statistics. The FBI said more than 98 per cent of the people living in urban areas and 93 per cent of the nation's rural residents are covered in the so-called "uniform crime reports."

Challenge For Dr. Mays

A new novel by ELIZABETH SEIFERT.

CHAPTER 14
STELLA McCrillis was an especially nice person. About thirty, of average height, slender, she definitely had her own personality, yet she never forced its expression on others. Therefore, until they knew her well, people often misjudged Stella. She thought she was overly quiet and retiring, able to be walked around, if not upon.

On that summer morning, she came into the clinic hall quietly, almost shyly. She returned the receptionist's smile, and said, yes, she had come in for a check-up—or examination; she wasn't sure of the term. One of the doctors had been at her home one evening recently, and had suggested that she come in. . . .

"Would you tell us the doctor's name?" asked the girl. A neat sign on her desk said she was Miss Gebhardt. "We are interested in keeping that sort of record." "I suppose so," agreed Stella. "It was Dr. Mays."

At a desk farther down the hall, a white-capped nurse looked up with interest.

But the receptionist went on, calmly, with the routine procedure. She gave Stella some printed forms and indicated one of several semi-enclosed spaces, each of which contained a desk and chair. "If you'll go in there," said Miss Gebhardt, "and fill out the form. . . . When you're finished, a doctor will be ready to examine you."

Stella took her form to the desk, switched on the light, and began to put down the required data. Name: Stella McCrillis; white; female. Age: 31; married; no children. . . .

As she bent over the paper, Miss Duckett was talking to a man in white. "A woman is here, Doctor. She says you referred her. I thought if she was a special case. . . ."

"We don't have special cases, Miss Duckett."

"No, but you sometimes do take a case through yourself."

He did. Chad had well established that practice.

So when Stella gave a final glance over the filled-in form she rose and met Chad at the opening of the cubicle. She looked a bit disconcerted, but his smile was reassuring. "I'm glad to see you took my advice, Stella," he said in a firmly distinct voice. "Do you mind if I escort you through your tests? I check the procedure frequently."

She suggested he suppose it would insure me extra good care. . . .

He took her along the hall to a glass-paneled door marked "Doctor." He knocked, turned the knob, and stepped aside for Stella to enter. "Dr. Blandin," he told the patient. "Mrs. McCrillis, she's having a routine. Doctor. But I suggested that she come to us because of a dermatitis she seems to have."

John's brown eyes blinked, once. "Routine?" he said quietly. "That's right."

The slender, pleasant-faced doctor took the cubicle forms, and Stella went with a nurse into the examination room. John studied the questionnaire while she was undressed and he robed.

"I told her," said Chad softly at John's shoulder, "that some risk was involved."

John's pencil point lay upon the name which Stella had put down in the space asking, "Your report is of the nature of a . . . ?" Then his cheeks a little red, he stood up. "Since I happen to be on duty," he said quietly, "of course I'll give this routine."

"Of course," said Stella in her crisp white suit. John, equally professional in a white jacket over his street clothes, went almost wordlessly through the tests as they were done for any patient. A rudimentary testing of vision and hearing, blood pressure taken with a manometer.

Her temperature was recorded, her pulse and weight. The stethoscope was used, some palpation made of the chest and abdomen, a pelvic examination given. Then a technician took over to get the electrocardiogram.

That done, Stella still swathed in the snowy, strychnine robe, and still accompanied by Chad, was escorted to the X-ray room for a chest X-ray, then on to the lab where blood and urine samples were procured, and back to the room where she had left her clothes.

When dressed, she came again to Dr. Blandin seated at his desk. He asked her to sit upon the end of the examination table so that he might look at the dermatitis which Dr. Mays had detected.

John made a slight sound in his throat, and went to Stella's side, took up the dressing on her throat, gazed intently at the lesions, and grunted again. Without replacing the dressing, he sat down again at the desk, motioned to Stella to take the chair beside it.

"Mrs. McCrillis," he said, after a second of silence, "your clinical examination ends here. This clinic is designed to detect symptoms, only. Our hope is that, when warranted, a more complete examination will be made, and treatment given where needed."

"I understand, Dr. Blandin."

"Yes. Now except for this breaking-out on your neck, we have found nothing to indicate any need for treatment. We can't tell and the doctors at County Hospital won't be able to tell, exactly, what the skin trouble is without tissue tests. Often, dermatitis cannot be accurately examined clinically. By that I mean through the sort of examination I have given you. It should have a histologic examination; that is, samples of tissue should be taken and examined microscopically."

"I'm ready to make such a histologic examination of your trouble, should you want me to." He paused, then proceeded rapidly. "But so far as our Clinic Hospital as it now stands, indicating a clinical detection of dermatitis. I understand the lesions tend to recur. . . . How long do the eruptions last, usually?"

"Several weeks—some doctors have called it impetigo. Whatever it is, it leaves scars. I hate it."

"You've never had tissue tests?"

"I don't think so, Doctor."

John was writing upon a pad on his desk. "Clinically, I might call it impetigo, too," he said as he wrote. "But if you want tissue tests made here—independently of the report our clinic will make—" "You mean, as a check on what the hospital will do?"

John Blandin looked startled, then resumed his usual professional mask. "It could serve as a check," he agreed, mildly. "How long will it take?"

"Five minutes will give us the samples. You may have your report to take to the hospital as you leave here this morning. The histologic report won't be ready that soon."

Chad offered to take Stella back to the lab, and his fingers squeezed her arm as they went down the hall. She took a couple of deep breaths, but said nothing. (To Be Continued)

Ultra-Modernistic Home Is Exhibited

NEW YORK (AP)—An ultra-modernistic home that can be folded and stashed in the trunk of an automobile was exhibited here.

The brainchild of architect Frank Lloyd Wright, the structure called the "airhouse"—is composed of two giant balloons, one 38 feet in diameter and the other 24 feet. The balloons, connected by a short tunnel, can be inflated and held up by a regular three-ton air conditioner which also cools and warms the interior.

The airhouse, which is expected to sell for about $2,500, is made of "uberlin," a series of vinyl-coated panels sewn together and said to be "almost impossible" to rip, puncture or burn.

The revolutionary house has several drawbacks. For example, if the air pump should fail, residents would have only two hours to clear out before the entire structure collapsed. Should wind empty the sand from the sandbag "sausages" that keep the airhouse from floating away, the tenant would come home to a floor full of furniture and not much else.

While the house can reportedly resist winds "up to 140 miles an hour," no one seems to know what effect a tornado would have.

The model airhouse was furnished with ultra-modern furniture, appliances, rugs and fireplace and room divider, in keeping with Wright's concept of modern decoration. It is large enough to provide a living room, a large bedroom, a study, a small kitchen and a small bedroom.

Laude Calls Last Nite's Game Because Of Rain

HEADING FOR TOP - - - By Alan Maver

JOB GUTOWSKI, OCCIDENTAL COLLEGE SENIOR, ONE OF THE MOST LIKELY CANDIDATES TO BREAK CORNELIUS WARRIOR'S LONG STANDING RECORDS IN FEBRUARY HE AND BOB REICHARD BECAME 3RD AND 3RD VALTERS TO DO 15 0', AND EARLY IN APRIL HE SET ONE NEW I.C.A. MARK OF 15 4'.

BOB WHO BECAME A 15-FOOTER LAST YEAR, GOT HIS CHANCE IN THE OLYMPICS THROUGH THE SPORTSMANLIKE WITHDRAWAL OF AN OCEANIAN - WAS RUNNER-UP IN AUSTRALIA.

Seminole baseball coach Dave Laude refused to send his charges out into the rain again and called the game with Winter Park last night despite a waning season and rescheduling problems.

Laude excelled the game late yesterday afternoon and said that he would not subject his team to another splashing ball game if he could avoid it. Laude cancelled the game despite it being a reschedule of a previously rained out game.

The Sanford Seminoles will turn their eyes toward Saturday night, however, as they wind up a scrambled schedule by taking on Cocoa in Memorial Stadium.

Laude said he made such a stand because, "Such a ball game doesn't prove a thing. If my boys lose, I want to be able to work on the weak spots. But when they play a game in a downpour with a muddy ball in a field full of mud puddles, it accomplishes nothing. It doesn't even show which team is the best."

Laude continued, "We're a young club and we expect to make mistakes and we expect our mistakes to cost us a few ball games. We don't mind that, but we do mind throwing our boys into mud."

When asked what would happen Saturday night if it was raining again in the face of the last week of baseball's regular season, Laude remarked, "If it's raining like it was yesterday we'll cancel it."

Laude is in charge of football spring training which gets underway May 13.

Big Crowd Is Expected At All Sports Banquet

The first annual Seminole High School All-Sports Banquet, scheduled to get underway at 7 p.m. tonight in Pine Crest School, is expected to draw a capacity crowd, Fred Ganas, athletic director of the school said this morning.

"We have an excellent program," Ganas remarked, "and we expect to have many people on hand."

Ganas said that the event "could be divided into two parts. Beginning at 7 p.m. sharp, dinner will be served. Frank Mohane Jr., executive manager of the Mayfair Inn, will do honors as toastmaster. Then, according to Ganas, the entire assemblage will move into the auditorium, where guest speaker Tom Nugent, head football coach at Florida State University, will address the group and awards will be presented to members of all sports in the high school athletic program.

"We are looking forward to a successful banquet that will include all sports," Ganas said.

By OSCAR FRALLEY

"United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Southpaw Warren Spahn thanked his own Milwaukee Braves hitters for putting him three weeks ahead of his 20-game schedule of last season.

It wasn't until May 17 that he scored his third win last year and so late as June 14 he had a 4-6 mark after dropping five games in a row. But the veteran's start has been sensational this time around as he won and went the distance in all three starts to date.

"The difference is that our hitters are coming through," the thin man analyzes, and the figures bear him out. During that five-game losing streak last spring, the Braves averaged only two runs a game for Spahn. In this year's three wins, they have averaged five runs per game.

Some observers contend the Braves lacked fire and drive to crash through when they had to win a big one. But they seem to have taken on a new aggressiveness since Jackie Robinson's off-season charge that night clubbing by several key men cost them the flag.

Spahn at 37 says that he is "in as good a shape as ever" and feels that he is "as good a pitcher as I ever was."

"A few years ago they were saying that I had lost my fast ball," he grins. "Well, I won't say I'm as fast as ever but the trouble was with my knees. I underwent operations on both of them and, not being forced to favor my legs any more, I feel that I'm pretty well set."

Baseball Tournament Tickets To Go On Sale

Support Is Urged To Make Event Success

Fred Ganas, athletic director of Seminole High School, revealed this morning that tickets would go on sale as soon as possible for only one dollar, the normal price for two baseball games.

Ganas said that tickets entitling purchasers to attend all five games of the tournament would go on sale as soon as possible for only one dollar, the normal price for two baseball games.

"We just want to be able to put the tournament across," Ganas declared. "We are happy to bring the tournament to Sanford and we believe that our people will buy these tickets to assure us of bigger and better things to come."

Ganas hesitantly revealed that Seminole High School had taken on the project at no expense to any of the other teams, as is customary when playing in a fee stadium. Ganas also said that the local school has agreed to bear all expenses of umpires and police patrol.

"We were eager to have Sanford as the site of the Tournament," Ganas said, "and we believe that our people will want to be a success and will turn out to support the team."

The sub-group tournament will determine the team that will represent the area in the group elimination tournament for State. Running from May 9 through 11, the tournament will feature five games, two of them under the lights. The first round gets underway in Memorial Stadium at 1:30 p.m. when DeLand and Oviedo clash in the first half round of eliminations. The first round will be completed that afternoon at 4 p.m. when Pierson battles Florida Military School, Sanford and Seabreeze drew a bye.

The next day, Friday, the second round gets underway at 3:30 when Seabreeze challenges the winner

Sportsmen Invited To Open Foun

Seminole County sportsmen interested in opening a shooting preserve will have an opportunity of learning how to raise birds, plant clover, hunt management, dogs, and public relations Wednesday and Thursday, May 8 and 9 when Charley Dickey, field representative of the Sportsmen's Service Bureau holds an open forum at the Soreno Hotel in St. Petersburg.

Dickey issued a special invitation to Seminole County and remarked that this locality would be ideal for a shooting preserve.

Dickey said that nearly two thirds of the states now have shooting preserves open to the public. Pen-raised pheasants, chukar partridge and other exotics are stocked daily on licensed areas and sportsmen pay a fee to hunt, based either on the number of birds bagged or the number released.

Since pen-raising game is used—hatcheries taking the place of wild production—it is possible to have pheasant and chukar shooting in Seminole County, Dickey remarked.

Dickey said that many states out of the regular pheasant belt, like Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, and Texas have ring-neck hunting on shooting preserves owned and operated by free enterprise. The preserves are open to the public and are run without expense to state game and fish departments.

Dickey said, "Shooting preserves are no cure-all to the hunting pressures, but they do answer the problem of the city sportsman looking for a place to hunt."

As a field representative of the non-profit association of arms and munitions manufacturers—Dickey worked with preserve operators in the east for three years. Recently he was transferred to the southeast to give free consulting

Pinecrest Brownies Became Troop 321

Registration from National Headquarters of the Girl Scouts of America has been received by the Pinecrest Brownie Troop which will now be known as Troop 321.

The April event for the group was a trip to Radio Station WTRR where the girls were taken on a tour of the station by Myron A. Reek, owner and operator. Of particular interest was the news machine which brought in the latest news for broadcasts. Song requests were played for members of the Brownie Troop and in turn the girls put Mr. Reek in the "Mush Pit" by forming a friendship ring around him and singing their Brownie Song.

On Apr. 17, a large flag from the U. S. S. Chloris was presented to the Brownie Troop by Chief Wylie Pitsch. This flag had been given to Chief Pitsch by his commanding officer when he left the ship to be used for a purpose such as this.

Arts and Crafts for the month are being completed and wrapped up and ready for Mother's Day. With an old bottle, a few dashes of oil paints, epsom salts, food coloring and perfume the girls have a "nice" surprise for Mother.

On Apr. 24 the Brownies enjoyed the opening baseball game at Pinecrest School where the Junior High School band was heard. New hierarchies invested into the troop in April were Linda Leaky and Ann Stepmeyer.

In the late 1940's, Florida's St. John River was a major means of commerce for the state.

A PRIEST gives the last rites to a pilot, Robert Zeh, 25, whose body remains inside the wreckage of a light plane that hit a pillar of the Tappan Zee bridge in Tarrytown, N. Y. A student pilot, Eugene Huelman, 19, was also killed as the plane suddenly dipped while on a routine instruction flight. (International)

Methodist Church Announces Plans For Family Week

Methodism throughout America is observing May 5 - 12 as National Family Week. "The First Methodist Church of Sanford plans a week of family spiritual growth, fellowship, and relaxation," announced Abby Jones, chairman of the National Family Week committee.

Family emphasis will begin with the 11 a.m. service. All families will sit in family groups and will take Holy Communion in these groups.

A special invitation goes out from the Senior and Intermediate young people for all church members who have families or who ever expect to have one, to attend the 6:30 p.m. Methodist Youth Fellowship which will have as its program a humorous play. The plot of the play is centered around two families—the Right Family and the Wrong Family. Members of the Right family are: Abby Jones, father; Mrs. Russel McKnight, mother; Rose Mary Southward, high school daughter; Wayne Clemmer, younger brother. The Wrong family is portrayed by: Arthur Beckwith, father; Miss Rachel Beasley, mother; Sandy McKnight, high school daughter, son.

On Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. in McKinley Hall, there will be a Family Night Dinner and program. Each family is asked to bring a picnic style dinner which will be spread together. Jones announces that scenes from real family living will be dramatized; scenes such as that of a fishing trip as enacted by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wiggins and the three little Wigginses. Small children of the Church will contribute to the program. Christian Family Literature and Family Devotions will be stressed throughout the evening.

As a follow-up of Wednesday evening, the Church will sponsor a "Stay at home night" on Thursday. Each family will be encouraged to avoid all meetings, and stay at home with the family for an evening at "Home sweet home" with "my" family.

Sunday, May 12, Mother's Day, mothers will be honored at the 11 a.m. Service. The pastor, the Rev. M. H. Wyatt will deliver a sermon acknowledging the qualities of a Mother.

Lutherans To Hear Laymen's League Representative

A representative of the Lutheran Laymen's League will speak to members of the Lutheran Church of The Redeemer tonight during the regular business session of the church body.

Duane Schwechtenberg of Lakeland will attend the meeting in the evening under the auspices of the Lutheran Church of The Redeemer. Members of the Lutheran Church here will discuss possibilities of a new building program to enlarge facilities which now are less than one year old.

A series of reports will be heard at tonight's business session which begins at 7:30 p. m. Most prominent among the reports will possibly be the tentative plans setting up a kindergarten under the supervision of a qualified teacher.

Possibilities of the Lutheran Laymen's League replacing the original Men's Club of the Lutheran Church of The Redeemer will come before the meeting this evening.

During the lull in the training mission late yesterday, the fleet began unloading and assigning to their proper ships some of the men who had been left behind or taken on wrong ships in the hasty departure from French and Italian ports last week.

From the standpoint of the Forrestal crew, the most important arrival was their paymaster, who had been caught in Paris when the Forrestal suddenly left Cannes last week. Only he had the key to his pay-filled safe.

BARE INDIGNITIES

SUPERSONIC SAFETY gets a boost in Pasadena, Calif., as W. B. Harwell, flight production manager, demonstrates a new contoured ejection seat. The pilot is "rocked" from his normal position (top) until he is on his back (bottom), with his legs securely positioned against his chest by foot supports. In this posture, he is protected from the plane into the airstream by a small rocket motor. The seat is one of two ejection methods being evaluated by the Industry Crew Escape Systems Committee. McCarthy Services Will Be In Senate Chamber WASHINGTON — Funeral services for Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy will be held at 11 a.m. Monday in the Senate chamber where he rose to fame and later was condemned by his colleagues. The Senate services will be preceded by Catholic mass at St. Matthews Cathedral, where McCarthy was married in 1933. Burial will be in Appleton, Wis., at noon Tuesday. The decision to conduct the services in the Senate chamber was announced after Senate leaders conferred with Mrs. McCarthy. The Wisconsin Republican died at Bethesda Naval Hospital late Thursday of a little understood liver malady called "acute hepatitis." The immediate cause of death was failure of the liver to go on working. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, who was among those who talked with the 31-year-old widow, said the Senate will meet briefly at noon Monday and then adjourn out of respect to McCarthy. Death came to the controversial senator, who made hosts of enemies and friends with his attacks on alleged Communists in government, with a suddenness that shocked the capital. He had been ill for a number of weeks but did not enter the hospital until last Sunday. The hospital said he was "seriously ill," but never publicly put him on the "critical" list.

Two Masked Gunmen Rob Atlanta Bank

ATLANTA — Two masked gunmen drove up to the drive-in window of a branch bank on busy Peachtree Street here today and robbed four tellers of $19,253. The men fled in a late-model Chevrolet with an Illinois license but abandoned it a short time after the holdup. The two bandits, wearing stocking-type masks, drove up to the Peachtree 10th Street branch of the Citizens and Southern National Bank to meet the day's banking operations was being taken in by two women tellers in drive-in compartments. "I thought for a moment they were kidding," said Mrs. Zenith Sawyer, one of the tellers. "Then they asked for the money a second time." The men, described as dark-skinned, ordered head teller Gene Jolly, who was delivering the money to the two drive-in booths in the rear of the bank, to hold up his hands. Jolly was accompanied by another teller, Mac Phillips. A policeman who usually accompanies them was not there today. Mrs. Sawyer and Mrs. Betty Cawley, who occupied the other booth, estimated the holdup was executed in about two minutes. Mrs. Cawley said she heard Jolly knock at her door to deliver a cash box and turned to open it. She glanced out and saw him standing with his hands thrust in the air. Mrs. Cawley said the gunman did not speak while he took two metal cash boxes from Jolly. The other man stayed in the car and stood out of the drive-in lane as soon as his companion jumped him. "They were gone before I could pick up a phone and buzz the bank," Mrs. Sawyer said. One of the men was wearing a blue sport shirt, brown trousers and had a heavy beard, police said. Police Activity A flurry of police activity in the Greater Atlanta area Patrol cars fanned out over the city checking tips and looking for men fitting the description of the robbers. Police found the getaway car (Continued On Page 7)

Cleveland Thanked By City For Support Of Gas Tax Bill

The City of Sanford yesterday expressed its appreciation to Representative Mark N. Cleveland Jr., for his support of the bill to increase by one cent the gasoline tax in order to provide funds for municipal and county street and road expansion programs. The letter, mailed to Representative Cleveland in Tallahassee, stated: "The entire city commission wishes to express their appreciation to you for your stand and your vote in the committee hearings on the one cent gas tax proposal. "Even though the bill was killed by committee, you clearly showed the integrity and the belief in your convictions to cast your vote in an effort to support the municipalities and counties of the state," the letter said. "Many times on local activities," the letter stated, "we have seen you knowingly take a firm stand on issues that were not always to your favor politically. Yet few people would even question your action because we know that you do what you honestly consider to be in the best interests of the people you represent." The letter, written by City Manager Warren E. Knowles, on behalf of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners, says by its direction, concluded: "It is this characteristic that, even when defeated, we are proud of our representation in Tallahassee from Seminole County."
