County named outstanding government

SANFORD — Seminole County Government has been named the Outstanding Local Government by the Association of Fundraising Professionals.

Seminole County is receiving the award for showing commitment to community organizations through advocacy and financial support, and through encouragement of County employees and residents to take leadership roles in community service, according to a Friday news release from the county.

The award, being given for the first time this year, will be formally presented to Seminole County at the National Philanthropy Day Awards at 8 a.m., Tuesday, Nov. 15, at the Presidential Ballroom, Church Street Station, in downtown Orlando.

The breakfast ceremony will also recognize corporations, philanthropists, non-profit agencies, and individuals who have made an impact in philanthropy and community service in Central Florida.

Seminole County has a history of community partnerships.

In the last three years, employees have donated more than $63,000 in funds to area agencies. Through other county programs, area non-profit organizations will receive $3,990,000 in funds for services and facilities by the end of the fiscal year.

The Association of Fundraising Professionals Central Florida chapter was formed in 1983 and currently has more than 150 members representing community organizations in Brevard, Highlands, Lake, Marion, Orange, Osceola, Seminole, and Volusia counties. Hurricane Katrina causes concern about fuel supply

SANFORD — Effective Thursday, Sept. 1, all Seminole County School Board bus transportation for field trips was canceled until fuel delivery gets back on a regular schedule.

Julie Murphy of Seminole County school bus operations said they are taking the situation day by day. A tanker truck was due Thursday night and another over the weekend, but both trucks arrived early Friday morning.

She said price is not the problem for the diesel fuel the buses use.

"It's all about getting the deliveries," she said. Hurricane Katrina shut down much of the fuel production in the Gulf of Mexico and gulf states.

Deliveries of fuel may be interrupted, a news release from the school district said Thursday.

SANFORD — Deputies arrested two Seminole County senior citizens Wednesday for sex crimes against children, in separate incidents.

Dave E. Trust, 68, of Santa Barbara Drive in Sanford, was charged with two counts of sexual assault, and one count of sexual molestation of a victim under the age 12.

Trust, a salesman for Truck Pros in Longwood, is accused of sexually abusing an 11-year-old girl at Truck Pros back in April 2005. The victim stated that Trust touched her inappropriately outside of her clothes, and also underneath.

The father of the victim, who apparently knew Trust, called him while the Sheriff's office conducted a recorded phone conversation. Trust said during that phone call he'd agree with anything the 11-year-old girl said.

"Well then, okay, I did," the report quoted Trust as

Larry the Cable Guy happy here in Sanford

By Steve Paradis
Herald Staff

SANFORD — Daniel Lawrence Whitney, better known as Larry the Cable Guy, had a rare day to relax at his Sanford home Wednesday less than a week after shooting his first feature film.

"I've lived here since 1993," he said in a telephone interview. "I'm not really a big city guy," he added, then briefly broke into his Cable Guy accent, "I love Sanford."

Larry has become a national star performing sold out comedy concerts, appearing on Blue Collar TV on the WB network, and now with a five-picture deal from Paramount.

Time in Sanford will be even more precious as his career ramps up. Larry said he makes it home about seven months out of the year.

He likes to spend the summer in Nebraska, where he said he was born on a pig farm. Officially he was born Feb. 17, 1963, in Pawnee City, Neb. He owns a couple of farms in the Cornhusker State.

"I like to go up there and herd cattle," he said, adding, "Sanford's my home." He also said he doesn't own any pigs.

Some people may be surprised to find out that Larry has never actually installed cable.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Competent clerk? The title of "city clerk" is a pretty unassuming designation. It doesn't carry the same panache as "sheriff" or "mayor." But what the job lacks in a fancy title, it makes up for in the importance of its duties. The clerk is responsible for maintaining the official records of the city and ensuring city elections are fairly conducted. In Sanford, City Clerk Jan Daugherty has failed on both accounts.

First, she admitted to Florida Elections Commission (FEC) investigators that she called one candidate about filing an nomination for phone solicitations and did not call the other candidates in the March run-off election. She has yet to clearly explain why she gave one candidate a heads up about the rule and failed to tell the others. It would have only taken two additional phone calls. I know it seems like a minor little detail, but ask Bernard Mitchell whether he thinks it's minor.

Mitchell lost by 69 votes to District 1 City Commissioner Art Woodruff. Woodruff, in my opinion, was scared of losing the election and filed two complaints with the FEC one day before the election. One of those complaints was that Mitchell had not filed the phone solicitation authorization. The FEC, by a 9-0, vote cleared Mitchell on both counts, but it should not have taken an FEC investigation to clear Mitchell's name. If Daugherty had been doing her job, the candidates would have been informed of the requirement. Furthermore, if she had any sense of fairness, each candidate would have received the same phone call.

It doesn't end there. Daugherty's ability to bungle the simplest task has stopped a major city project dead in its tracks. After months of negotiations, a three-party contract was signed to provide funding for restoring the north shoreline on the city-owned Marina Island. The Downtown Community Reinvestment Agency (CRA), the city commission and private developer Bob Horian each agreed to pay one-third of the cost to fund the project. Then Mayor Brady Leonard signed the contract for the city, as did Horian and CRA Chairman Bob Farrell.

As keeper of the official records, Daugherty was responsible for filing the contract for safe keeping. Guess what? She can't find it. I know what you're thinking: Why not print out a new contract and have everyone sign it? Well, Linda Kahan is now the mayor, and she's wants new language put into the contract. She also wants the city's portion to be funded by a grant that the CRA would have to provide matching funds for. In essence, the city's not putting a dime of its own money into the deal while the CRA and Horian pick up the tab. We can argue over which agreement is better, but the fact of the matter is there is a signed and sealed deal floating around City Hall.

Daugherty lost the contract. Perhaps it's time she lost her job, too.

Gas prices: I've long wondered how gas stations, particularly those that are corporately owned, can get away with selling gas at different prices. For instance, the 7-Eleven located at the intersection of Ronald Reagan Boulevard and Langwood/Lake Mary Road is usually about a nickel to a dime more than the 7-Eleven at French Avenue and 1st Street in Sanford. I'm sure 7-Eleven has negotiated a set price with its vendor to purchase gasoline for all of its stores in Central Florida. So why does the company charge different prices for the same gas? Because it can.

Beginning today, The Herald will list the price consumers are paying for gas in the North Seminole County area. So what are people paying for gas? At noon Friday, Sept. 2, the lowest gas prices for 87 octane in Sanford were:

- 7-Eleven @ 100 N. French Ave. - $2.779 per gallon
 - Circle K @ 2631 Sanford Ave. - $2.799 per gallon
 - Chevron @ 4700 SR 46 - $2.799 per gallon
 - Kangaroo Express @ 303 25th St. - $2.819 per gallon
 - Exxon @ 101 S. French Ave. - $2.889 per gallon
- At noon Friday, Sept. 2, the highest gas prices for 87 octane in Sanford were:
- Racetrac @ 4530 SR 46 - $3.199 per gallon
 - Smeese @ 2623 Orlando Drive - $3.199 per gallon
 - Racetrac @ 3760 Orlando Drive - $3.199 per gallon
 - Valero @ 217 S. Park Ave. - $2.999 per gallon
 - Smeese @ 4730 SR 46 - $2.999 per gallon

Just in case these gas prices haven't spiked your blood pressure, here's something else to stew about: Exxon Mobile Corp. rang up a 44 percent gain in profits during its first quarter and a 35 percent increase during the second quarter. The company also has about $30 billion in cash reserves. The other major oil companies are in a similar financial position.

Labor Day

Monday, Sept. 5th is Labor Day, an event observed in the United States and Canada.

Historians believe it was started with a parade on Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1882 in New York City by Peter J. McGuire, a Carpenters and Joiners Union secretary. Although the event was not official, in the following year a union resolution declared it to be held on "The First Monday in September" of each subsequent year, and was to be called "Labor Day".

Ten years later, only about half of the states were holding the observance, but on June 28, 1894, President Grover Cleveland signed into law an act making it an official legal holiday for federal employees and the District of Columbia.

For some reason, unknown to me, Labor Day is observed in 76 other countries, but on May 1st, providing that date was a weekday. If it fell on a Saturday or Sunday, the event would be held the following Monday. Why? Because workers are supposed to have a day off, and if it was on a weekend day, they would be off anyway.

As may be expected, stock exchanges, most banks, most all government agencies and many businesses will close down for the holiday.

In the past, Labor Day was a day for picnics and outings to the beach, as it was traditionally, the last holiday before the start of the school year. Boy, has that changed over the years.

C'mon now, not many folks are going to observe Labor Day as a day in which to focus attention on those who work for a living. The same holds true for saluting our organized labor unions. There won't be many parades across the nation, with possibly the traditional event in New York City or a few other major cities.

I do ask you, however, to at least give it some thought during the day, and possibly discuss it with your family, especially the children. And while you're thinking about the laborers who may have the day off work, think about those who have to work, not only on this holiday, but all year 'round. These should include law enforcement officers, firefighters, service jobs such as waiters, cooks and waitresses, and many others. I doubt if we could function if EVERYONE took off work for the holiday.

While I'm discussing Labor Day, keep in mind, this is the weekend of the annual Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Association Telethon. The event is to raise money for research into the possible cure for over 40 neuromuscular diseases. This will be the 51st year of the telethon.

The telethon was not telecast in Central Florida last year because of the hurricanes, but this year it is scheduled locally, to be on PAX, Channel 56.

I was personally involved in the telethons, having served as local host when it was on Channel-2, beginning with the second year of the nationwide broadcasting. I survived a total of 14 telethons. Believe me, it was heart-warming when folks would stop by and donate to the drive - even children who gave us their piggy banks full of coins.

The most difficult part of being a host however, was interviewing young children who were suffering from some form of Muscular Dystrophy. Knowing that they would not survive long was rough for me, but hopefully, it helped folks watching the telethon to know the importance of obtaining funds for further research to help youngsters in the future.

As in the past, local firefighters, Sanford, Seminole County and others in the area have been out on street corners holding their "boots" in which you are asked to donate to the telethon. Last year, even though the telethon was cancelled, our Florida firefighters still managed to obtain over $1,295,000 in donations.

The money is well-used. In addition to research, free medical services are available at MDA's clinic at Lucerne Medical Center and Nemours Children's Clinic. It also provides a summer camp tailored to the needs of children with muscular dystrophy.

Blame Mother Nature, not President Bush

By now you've probably heard about the lunatic comments of Robert F. Kennedy Jr., the Cindy Sheehan of the environmental movement, who blamed Hurricane Katrina on President Bush and Mississippi Governor Haley Barbour for not buying into the global warming hype, and not signing up for the thoroughly-discredited Kyoto Treaty.

Mike Reagan

RFK is not alone in his delusions. In Europe the president is being castigated for not falling in line with all those Old World socialists eager to use the alleged warming of the world climate to create a new world order organized along the lines laid down by Karl Marx.

Their cynicism and political opportunism has drawn the scorn of the widely-acclaimed British social anthropologist Benign Peiser, a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society whose research focuses on the effects of environmental change and catastrophic events on contemporary thought and societal evolution.

Here's what he just wrote about the attacks on President Bush by the global warming fanatics:

"Notwithstanding continuing rescue and support efforts, the calamity has triggered a rather opportunistic and cynical reaction by opponents of the current U.S. Administration. In an eerie development that echoes the political exploitation of the Indian Ocean tsunami disaster last December, environmental campaigners, Green journalists and European officials are blaming (once again) the U.S. and its people for the devastation caused by Hurricane Katrina. Instead of supporting the rescue efforts, demagogues are using the human tragedy in a futile attempt to score points. At a time of utter desolation and misfortune, propagandists in high office and parts of the media are abandoning America and its victims for purely political goals."

What he said next should endear him to every American: "Europeans in particular, who have been rescued and liberated from themselves by the U.S. no less than three times in the course of the 20th century, should feel ashamed for kicking a friend and ally when he is down. Let me reassure our American friends and colleagues that this pitiless mind-set of environmental activists is not representative for the vast majority of Europeans who are following the heartbreaking events with great concern and empathy."

Nobody could have said it better. I hope Germany's environmental minister Jürgen Trittin was listening. He blames George Bush for hurricane Katrina despite the fact that that statistics don't show a particularly increase in the frequency of hurricanes in the U.S. in the last decades.

According to Herr Trittin, President Bush has neglected environmental protection and shut his eyes "to the economic and human damage that natural catastrophes like Katrina inflict on his country and the world's economy."

He and his Econut pals should listen to Professor Kerry Emanuel of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who told Britain's The Independent: "I don't think you can put this down to global warming."

Dr. William Gray, a Colorado State University meteorologist, considered one of the fathers of modern tropical cyclone science, says worldwide weather records were too inadequate for a thorough examination of trends. "The people who have a bias in favor of the argument that humans are making the globe warmer will push any data that suggests humans are making hurricanes worse, but it just isn't so. These are natural cycles," he told the New York Times.

In a 2001 paper in Science, by Stanley Goldenberg of the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Association (NOAA), it was explained that the Atlantic goes through decades-long stretches where it creates extra hurricanes while there are equally long lulls where the number of hurricanes is low.

Over recent decades we have been in a lull period. According to Professor John Molinari, of Albany's State University of New York: "We were way below normal levels for hurricanes in the 1970s, '80s, and '90s." Now he says it appears that Goldenberg and his colleagues were right, and that the east coast of the United States is in a period of increased hurricane activity that could last 20 years or more."

And George Bush has nothing to do with that. It's all Mother Nature's fault.

He retired as a Chief Petty Officer where his main jobs were both working and supervising of welding and hydraulics on many types of naval aircraft, both during the war and peace time duties. While at Sanford NAS, he was first stationed with HATR0N7, and later with Squadron VAH-7, working on the ASD Skywarriors as the head line Chief of the Squadron.

Shortly after retirement, he went back to his first love of horticulture and opened Walton's Seed & Nursery, which he ran for over 25 years in Lake Mary. He became one of the largest watermelon seed distributors in Florida and Georgia. He was also a member of the Florida Foliage Association. He retired from the seed business in 1986.

He was a member of First Baptist Church of Sanford for over 50 years. He also belonged to the Seminole Fleet Reserve Association, the Duke Woody Branch 147 and served as past president. He also belonged to the American Legion Post 53 in Sanford, and was a member of the SAER, as he was a descendant of George Walton, the representative from Georgia who signed the U.S. Declaration of Independence in 1776.

Walton is preceded in death by his first wife, Frances Walton, and his second wife, Virginia Spitzer. He is survived by daughters Rosemary Walton LaFollette of Sanford, and Glenda Walton of Lake Mary; three grandsons, Chris, Matthew and John Scott, all of Sanford; one sister, Rena Mortenson of Atlanta, and many nieces and nephews.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, Sept. 10 at 4 p.m. with Full Military Honors. Services will be at the Baldwin-Fairchild Funeral Home, Oaklawn Chapel, Sanford. All services will be held inside the chapel, as there will be no graveside services held. Walton's desire was to be laid to rest in his hometown of Quitman, Ga.

The Way We Were:

A salute to Pinecrest 50th

As a salute to Pine Crest Elementary School's 50th anniversary, we looked back on the beginning of the school last week. The majority of the information was taken from some memories that Patty Johnson Swann wrote for a school memory book a few years ago. Patty had been one of the school's first students and she later taught there. We continue today with more of Patty's memories of Pine Crest.

Before the new Seminole High School was built in 1961, all Sanford schools were overcrowded. Junior high students, especially, were distributed among several schools. Some went to the old junior high on Palmetto Avenue. Others went to Seminole High School on French Avenue where classrooms had been added in the back for them. Several went to Pine Crest.

Patty went to the old junior high for seventh grade then went back to Pine Crest for the eighth. She recalls that in the strip center east of the school, there was a small drug store where some of the eighth graders walked for lunch. Patty and her walking partner would stop there on their way home from school for a Coke.

In the early fall of 1966, before her senior year of college, Patty observed at Pine Crest during pre-planning and the first few weeks of school. Mr. Herald Heckenbach, principal, talked with her and hired her to teach the following year, pending the completion of her BS in elementary education. They shook hands which both considered binding.

She was later asked to sign a contract to teach at the school where she interned, but because of the handshake, she turned it down. She therefore gave up an air-conditioned classroom in Griffin, Georgia and a salary almost double what she had been offered in Seminole County.

She came back to Pine Crest where they was no air conditioning or fans in the classroom, a monthly paycheck of $406 and Navy jets screaming over the school every 20 minutes as they practiced touch and go carrier landings.

Patty sent her entire teaching career at Pine Crest, working under eight different administrations. She taught second, third and fourth grades and STAR/Alternate Education (drop-out prevention).

Patty was co-chair for the school's 40th anniversary celebration in 1995. At the time they planted four oak trees on the east side of the building, one for each decade. They also sold bricks from the old building that had been torn down. On them were plaques that said "Pine Crest 1955-1995".

Patty retired in 2000 and since then has been doing substitute teaching, mostly at her former school. She has been referred to as "The Mother of Pine Crest" because of her long association there. She states that if she had it to do over again, she would still spend over 30 years teaching there. She has fond memories of staff, students and parents.

If you have other memories of the early days of Pine Crest, either as a student or teacher, give me a call at 407-322-4381.

Julian Stenstrom Remembered

When I called Douglas Stenstrom for information on a Vintage View, I received more than I could use with that, so will give it to you here.

Julian Stenstrom served overseas in World War II with the Army in 1940-45. But in about 1930, when he was serving as Brotherhood Director with the Florida Baptist Convention in Jacksonville, the army recalled him. This was really not legal as he had served his time, but Julian could not convince the army. He was stationed in Atlanta when a representative from the Southern Baptist Convention contacted him to serve with the Convention in California. Julian said that he would, if they could get him out of the army. They did, and he went to California as the first Executive Secretary of the California Baptist Foundation.

After the war, several Southern Baptists had moved to California where they found work, but there were no Baptist Churches. Julian's main purpose was to plant Southern Baptist Churches and during his 13-year tenure there, he organized 561 churches in the state.

He came back to Sanford during the mid 1940's because of his wife Be's ill health. She died soon afterwards and Julian later married Louise who he had met while teaching at South Seminole Junior High. She was school secretary.

(As an aside, Julian was my Sunday School teacher at First Baptist Church while he was a student at Stetson. It was 1946-47 and we were a class of about 12 first-year old girls. I remember that he taught us a series of lessons on the travels of Paul. He was taking that course at Stetson).

Wynn started career with Lookouts

By Grace M. Stinecpher
Herald Correspondent

(Note: Doug Stenstrom came to the Herald office to identify the "unknown" person, as Calvin Griffith, Jr.)
Eddy Wynn, who was later inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame, started his professional career with the Sanford Lookouts in the 1930's. It is said that he arrived in Sanford, Sanford and 16 years old, and left as a pitcher for the Cleveland Indians. He came back to the area in 1972 as manager of the Orlando Twins. This picture was probably taken during that time.

Wynn is holding a picture of the 1937 Sanford Lookouts for which he was a player. Sanford's Al McMillan is the baby, seated in front.

John Krider came to Sanford to play ball in 1936 so probably he played on the same team as Wynn. After World War II, Krider was among those who were instrumental in convincing the New York Giants to form a farm team in Sanford to play in the Florida State League. He was the first general manager of the Sanford Giants. He became area Amoco distributor and served on both the Sanford and Seminole County Commissions.

Julian Stenstrom, Sanford native, was the official scorekeeper of the Sanford Giants and also their announcer. He later broadcast their games over WTRF. Following his graduation from Stetson University and a stint as Director of the Florida Baptist Brotherhood, he went to California as executive director of the California Baptist Foundation.

He returned to Sanford after 13 years when he became public relations director for Cardinal Industries and also served as a city commissioner. For several years he wrote the "Way Back When" column for the Herald.

Buddy Laha was, I believe, the first Sanfordite to play in the major league. His team was the Boston Braves. Babe Ruth was on that team with him after being traded to the Yankees. Buddy hurt his arm, so returned to Florida where he played on several Florida State League teams including Sanford.

His most memorable game was against DeLand, in DeLand, in 1947. It was a double header, and after playing on the team for the first game of seven innings, Buddy pitched a 19-inning no hit, finally winning the game for Sanford with a home run. He owned the Thrifty Service Station on East Second Street for many years.

Stetson's Corner A season of blessings

Florida often gets a bad rap for not having a true change of seasons. People express a certain wishfulness when they remember time spent at more northern latitudes. For some reason fall brings a yearning out in us. It's the powerful magnet that draws Floridians to the Carolinas each year. There's a cool snap in the evening breeze, something changes in the angle of the sunlight, and the leaves begin their colorful show.

Recently I stopped in a Hallmark store and was overwhelmed with their lovely fall decorations. Now I don't own stock in Hallmark and have no promotional agreement with them, but I have to admit the store put me in the mood for fall. Pumpkin colored candles, slender fall earth angels, fat acorns, and the autumn floral displays made me forget the 97 degree oven ten feet away. For a few minutes I was mentally whisked to a scenic bend on the Blue Ridge Parkway.

My husband and I recently spent some vacation time in northern Michigan, visiting a dear friend near Traverse City. The hilltop home where we stayed was built by his father as a summer residence in the fifties. From a high, heavily forested hillside, its wide wood deck and huge picture windows gave us sweeping views of Crystal Lake that connects to mighty Lake Michigan.

Temperatures had been warm these, above normal all summer. When we visited in mid August, locals wore shorts and soaked in every minute of the 82 degree sunshine. You know, it's all in your perspective. They were holding on to their summer, white knuckled, savoring every last ray. For us, the temperature was a refreshing change and reminded me that fall, at least on the calendar, was right around the corner. Our friend shared that many tourists had already left the area. "It was beginning to empty out." I felt a little sadness for them that their summer was already packing its bags.

Our evenings in Michigan were wonderfully long. I had forgotten that daylight extends after nine pm, and what "good sleeping weather" means as the fresh evening breezes blew through our open windows.

There's an old saying, "a grateful heart is a happy heart." As we enjoyed our visit to a peninsular state quite opposite of Florida, I was led again and again to the theme of gratefulness. I appreciated our mild Florida weather that is not squeezed into a couple of months. Michigan's rule of thumb is eight months winter, 4 months summer. For areas depending on tourism, they must make every day of the short summer count, which if you're running a business, leaves them less time for their personal warm weather fun.

Our friend's miniature schnauzer, Rufus was thrilled with the attention we lavished upon him, not knowing his happy presence compensated for missing our own mini's Hansel and Greta. I applauded his bravery as he fetched his big stick in Crystal Lake by yelping into the wind, and then hurrying himself from the pier into the chilly lake water-over and over again!

Closer to home, when I visited the new Hagerty High School this week, an older couple stopped me in the school parking lot, and asked if they were in the right place for the Hagerty High hurricane shelter. They had driven up from south Florida and had been given a typed list of shelters. As I write these words I watch the oak trees bend and rustle in the autumn breezes of Katrina and am grateful for obvious reasons.

Sometimes gratefulness manifests itself when things are taken away from us. Without boring you with the gory details, let's just say that we haven't had satellite tv for several weeks. We have seen almost every infomercial ever made, and definitely need to expand our DVD collection; really, how many times can you watch Lonesome Dove and Somewhere in Time? I miss the tag line running along the bottom of the screen. Hopefully today's repair visit will restore our service and re-connect us with the information/entertainment motherhood.

And then we come full circle back to Stetson's Park. Something in our hands, and lost, and maybe found again. First, I apologize if I caused anyone concern over mentioning a prison being built in Geneva.

Apparently this topic occurred more than a few years ago and has either been squashed or faded away. And word is that folks are working behind the scenes to resurrect a park of some type for Geneva. No commitment yet, but things are afoot. So although the billboard was painted over and will soon advertise something new, hopefully Stetson's dream of a park will re-emerge again. Welcome September! Let's don our tank tops, shorts, and flip-flops and embrace our Florida fall with gratefulness for all that we have, and all we have lost that may be found again.

We need you to tell us what you know that is good about Geneva! Please share your information, ideas and comments by calling 407-221-7002, via e-mail at heraldphilips@bellsouth.net, (please put "Stetson's Corner" in the subject line), or with a fax to 407-348-2800. Thanks!

Pauluccis pitch in for storm relief

Jeno and Lois Paulucci of Sanford, through their family foundation, are making arrangements to purchase and transport gallon containers of drinking water to American Red Cross and FEMA emergency operations centers in New Orleans, the Mississippi Gulf Coast cities of Biloxi and Gulfport, and Mobile Alabama, to help bring relief to about 100,000 families who are among survivors of the devastating Hurricane Katrina.

"We want to do what we can to help meet their most essential need — fresh water", said Jeno.

As owners of Michelina's, Inc., producer of Michelina's frozen entrees, "we are going to send food, but that will come later.

The Pauluccis expect to complete arrangements for 20 or more semi-trailer loads of bottled drinking water from companies in Pennsylvania, North Carolina and Texas, within a week.

Jeno and Lois urged others who have the wherewithal to do what they can to help those suffering the worst catastrophe North America has ever experienced. "This is a call to arms! Everyone should get involved to the best of their ability. We must all pitch in, depending on our means," the Pauluccis said.

County encourages conservation

SANFORD — To help fellow citizens affected by Hurricane Katrina, Seminole County Government is taking measures to help conserve energy. "Our goal is to reduce energy use by 10 percent, meeting the target presented by Gov. Jeb Bush earlier today," says County Manager Kevin Grace.

Efforts underway county-wide include:

- Meetings via conference call rather than face to face;
- Carpooling;
- Shutting off extra lights;
- Adjusting room temperatures slightly higher, reducing AC use.

Seminole County Government extends the challenge of reducing energy use to citizens so resources can be diverted to Louisiana and Mississippi. "We're asking citizens to do their part to help in this effort," says Board Chairman Carlton Henley. "Let's help those who came to our aid during Charley, Frances and Jeanne. Let's return their generosity."

Committee will review charter

SANFORD — As outlined in the Home Rule Charter requirements, fifteen Seminole County residents have been selected to review the County's Charter and make recommendations to the Seminole County Board of Commissioners for changes.

Effective Sept. 1, the Charter Review Committee members are: Tom Boyko, Richard Harria, Jane Hammontrae, John Horan, Sid Miller, Linda Dietz, Ben Tucker, Pam O'Leary, Grant Maloy, Jimmy Ross, Larry Furlong, Earl McMullen, Ashley Johnson, Jeff Triplett and Egerton Vandenberg.

The committee will examine a number of subjects in the Home Rule Charter that include the make-up of the commission, how members are selected as well as the members' powers, duties and length of service. Members will also review the responsibilities of the county manager, clerk, attorney, judges and procedures for putting items on the ballot, and provisions for recalls.

The first meeting of the CRC takes place Sept. 22, at 7 p.m. in the Commission Chambers, 1101 East First St. in Sanford.

The committee's goal will be to review the County's Home Rule Charter, and propose any amendments or revisions to the County Commission, to be placed on the November 2006 ballot for voter approval.

Crossing guards still needed

With the 2005-2006 school year already underway, the Seminole County Sheriff's Office is still seeking school crossing guards.

During the school year, the Seminole County Sheriff's Office uses the services of roughly 165 to 170 crossing guards. This year, the agency still needs 15 more crossing guards to meet its goal.

The job is part-time. It pays $8 per hour. A school crossing guard must be available two hours a day, five days a week (Monday through Friday).

Other minimum requirements are that applicants:

- Must have a valid Florida Driver's License
- Must be at least 18 years old.

Must have a high school diploma or GED degree

Must be available Monday through Friday during mornings and afternoons.

Submit to fingerprinting and undergo a background check.

The job is open to people who live in Seminole County.

Those interested can receive applications at the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, 100 Bush Blvd., Sanford, or by honing Linda Moss, Crossing Guard Supervisor at 407-665-6612.

Applications may also be obtained from www.seminolesheriff.org. Go to the left hand column "about", click on "jobs" and follow the link to "crossing guards."

Dean Ray stands with a prop from the upcoming movie titled, "Larry the Cable Guy: Health Inspector."

Larry

"No, I never did," he said. "I used to do it in my act. I just pretended I was a cable installer. That was a moniker that people remembers. This way everybody remembers your name."

Larry started in stand-up, but turned to radio as a side job. Many radio listeners around here remember him from mornings on now defunct WDIZ and later on the Ron and Ron show. He was also on the air in Tampa.

"DIZ had me doing everything, judging bikini contests and attending rodeos," he said. People will bring old WDIZ license plates and hold them upside down at his concerts, Larry said.

His family had moved to West Palm Beach and he had attended college in Georgia. Now he needed someplace in between but someplace outside of the big city. Sanford fit perfectly, he said.

"I love Sanford," he said again. When he's in town he eats at Mel's Family Diner. He loves Mel's too. He also said he hangs out at the Super Wal-Mart and sometimes the Barn.

His brother lives next door to him in Sanford, and his mother may soon move here from West Palm Beach.

Children who wear bracelets for various causes often have one colored in camouflage with his signature saying imprinted: "Git-R-Done."

"That's for diabetes," Larry said. "I do a bunch of stuff for the Diabetes Research Institute. My dad passed away from diabetes last September." A portion of the money for the bracelets goes to the institute.

Where did "Git-R-Done" come from anyway? There must be a great story behind that. Larry could have spun a tall tale about its origin, but he opted for honesty.

"You know what, I just made it up," he admitted.

He does have a good story about his comedy routine where he adopts a pigmy. Larry originally put the bit in his act as an inside joke for his brother.

"My dad was a preacher when we were kids," Larry said. "No matter where you eat, he's going to stand up and do a 10-minute prayer, even if it's a Ponderosa Steak House." During these sermons, the brothers would whisper to each other. "One time I said, 'Why doesn't he just pray for the starving pygmies.'"

Larry put it in his act, but only his brother laughed until about the third time. Then people thought it was funny and he embellished it with a story of adopting a pygmy.

Larry had put his comedy performances on hold while he shot his new movie: "Larry the Cable Guy: Health Inspector." Much of the film was shot here in Central Florida, mainly in Casselberry and Sanford. Filming wrapped up Aug. 27.

"The movies is awesome," Larry said Wednesday. He figures fans like to see him do different things. He is the number one comic in the country, and the TV show ratings are high for a cable show. Now was a good time to do a movie, he said. The feature will be released right after a Disney movie called, "Cars", in which he gives voice to an old rusty tow truck.

Larry did not write the script for his health inspector movie.

"I did a bunch of punch ups on the script," he said. "The script is not far from what I do on stage."

He said he never had a secret desire to be a health inspector.

"We just thought it was a funny idea. Here I am in my cut off sleeves. I'm a slob and I'm in charge of health inspections." Filming was done in one month.

The movie doesn't mention the name of a town, but Larry said Sanford residents will recognize places in the movie.

"We got as much of Sanford in as we could," he said. "I'd do everything in Sanford if I could."

Local businessman Dean Ray supplied many of the props for the Sanford set on 13th Street on Myrtle Avenue. That includes a redneck backyard that filmmakers gave him $500 to set up in 48 hours. He found restaurant sinks and at least two tubs. The movie backyard also contained an algae-encrusted boat that looks like it was just hauled out of a lake.

"It was," Ray said. "It belongs to Lt. Harding of the Sanford Police Department." The boat has plants growing inside. The crew gave Ray most of the props back. He's asking $200 for the boat and people can see it this weekend on 22nd Street (Colonial Way).

Ray met Larry the Cable Guy and described him as down to earth. One problem, though, Larry chews Levi Garrett tobacco and Ray prefers Red Man.

"I'm trying to bring him back to Red Man," Ray said laughing.

Will the movie premiere here? Not likely, Larry said. People know him around here and premieres have to be done in Los Angeles or New York, he admitted.

Being local is strange, he said, he doesn't sell out concerts here for example. The same thing happened with his friends from the rock group Creed, another Central Florida talent.

"People just think you're local," Larry said trying to figure it out. "They've been hearing you forever, so the premiere will probably be in California."

"I've got a five-picture deal with Paramount, though, and I wanted to try to do three in Sanford," he said. "We filmed the first one here and I'm glad we did."

Larry chuckled when he was asked if he's married because the woman at The Sanford Herald want to know.

"I just got married two months ago," he said. "Tell them I'm already have problems though." And Sanford's funniest resident laughed even harder.

to help. Major Joseph Knobel of the Seminole Salvation Army branch said they always keep a team ready for this type of situation. That team will be working for 10 days, then will switch out with another team. The canteen holds enough food to feed 500 to 600 people for four days.

The local Salvation Army is also taking monetary donations because they have no way to transport other goods, organizers said. They are also working with big corporations for donations.

"We've already got people coming in with donations," Knobel said Wednesday.

Donations can be made at the local Seminole Salvation Army branch in Sanford or they can be sent to P.O. Box 1946, Sanford, FL. Donations can also be made via the internet at www.salvationarmy.org, or by calling 1-800-SALARMY. If writing a check, mark it Katrina, Knobel suggested.

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office joined with Orange and Volusia counties to send people to the gulf states to help.

Spokesman Steve Olson said about 15 people left Wednesday morning with equipment, a large command vehicle, pick-up trucks with four-wheel drive, an airboat, and all-terrain vehicles.

Students from Page Private School in Sanford held a few fundraisers this week and all proceeds are going to go to the American Red Cross.

The Page Girl's Volleyball Team and eighth-grade students are holding a car wash on Tuesday, Sept. 6 from 3:45 to 5 p.m. Eighth-graders are also having their second bake sale for hurricane relief on Friday, Sept. 9 from 8 to 8:30 a.m. Page Private School is located at 100 Aero Lane in Sanford.

Laura Porter, director, and Britt Hartman, a social studies teacher, helped the eighth grade students come together with the fundraisers, and their first bake sale Friday morning collected more than $900, mostly from parents.

"Our parents have just been over and beyond anything we expected," Vicki Mercadante, administrative assistant, said.

The students brought in all the baked goods and came up with the idea after wanting to help out the victims from Hurricane Katrina.

"It's just overwhelming," Mercadante said.

Seminole County Emergency Management Operations Manager Alan Harris said the best way for citizens to support relief efforts was with financial contributions. He said this was the best way for these organizations to support the relief effort in an efficient manner.

These contributions can be used to purchase items such as tents, blankets, and eliminate the added costs of transporting donating goods.

"Though well intentioned, [donations of goods and services] have hidden costs and pose a number of complications for relief efforts," Harris wrote.

Some other local organizations currently involved in this type of collection effort include Southern Baptist Coalition and the Central Florida United Methodists.

Harris mentioned one organization that is currently accepting supplies of nonperishable foods, pet supplies, toiletry items and other types of commodities to be sent to Louisiana. That company is Harvest Time International in Sanford.

In Lake Mary residents from The Cove will come together as a community to help Hurricane Katrina victims. Residents will donate money to the Salvation Army.

"Refreshments will be served and donors will be given the chance to write a message to the Gulf State residents," a news release said.

The Cove was one of 13 Ryland communities that experienced severe water intrusion during Hurricanes Charley, Frances and Jeanne last year.

The Cove Social Committee, founded by Jeannie Caporaso, is sponsoring the Emergency Relief Effort. Caporaso was stunned by what she said were the horrors that New Orleans, Mississippi and Alabama are facing.

"It's devastating, absolutely devastating. I cannot even imagine how helpless and overwhelmed they must feel. Every piece of me felt moved to tears watching the video," Caporaso said. "I felt we had to do something. I have great neighbors and I knew a neighborhood relief effort would be a great way to show we care and to thank them [Louisiana] for being one of the first states to respond when we needed help last year."

Lake Mary's The Cove is a 130 home community off Old Lake Mary Road. They invite anyone who wishes to join the efforts to come Saturday, Sept. 3 and Sunday, Sept. 4 from 1 to 4 p.m. at 2673 Reagan Trail in Lake Mary.

Public schools have mounted relief efforts this week as well. Teague Middle School allowed students to wear hats Friday, but they had to donate a quarter in each class.

Students and teachers at Geneva Elementary are preparing cards and letters and using addresses of elementary schools in New Orleans. A letter from the school has been prepared for every elementary school in the Crescent City.

The Geneva Elementary community also will financial assistance for children at an elementary school affected by Hurricane Katrina.

A representative in the office of the Deputy Superintendent of New Orleans' Public Schools told Geneva Principal Karen W. Coleman that the New Orleans school district would assist Geneva in selecting a school to receive the funds.

At the school's Open House on Sept. 1, the faculty, staff, parents and students donated $3,269 for the fund. The school has a goal of $3,500.

After last year's hurricanes, Gilbert Elementary School in Gilbert, S.C., had a relief project for the children at Geneva Elementary whose lives had been so impacted. New shoes, socks, clothing, food, linens, cleaning supplies, pet food, and other supplies were provided. As part of the writing curriculum at the two schools, both with the abbreviation of G.E.S., students and classes exchanged letters.

Geneva's school family understands what it is like to be on the receiving end of such kindness, leaders said. The school's Hurricane Relief Project is intended to help children and their families who experienced devastation from Katrina, even while some of our families continue to recover from the storms a year ago.

Seminole County, not the government but the rock group, will donate 100 percent of the sales of their self-titled debut album, according to a Friday news release from Devasnac Records.

The duo known as Seminole County are J.J. Thacker, 18, a Seminole High School graduate in 2004, and Byron Hood, known as Byron J, 24.

The group is on tour with the Backstreet Boys and the final show was Friday night. The group will donate 100 percent of the sales of their debut album (available on CDBaby.com) and 50 percent of CD sales at the venue Friday in Ridgefield, Wash., of the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

About 50 employees of Home Depot waited in the hot afternoon sun Wednesday for a bus to take them to Mobile, where they will relieve workers of that devastated area.

"I'll hand out ice, clean toilets, whatever they need me to do," said Vasco Pinho, Lake Mary resident who works in the plumbing department at the Lake Mary Home Depot store.

"It's payback for everything everyone did for us last year," he said. "It's overwhelming what these people are going through."

Pinho's wife, Kim Oddon, also a Home Depot employee, joined him on the trip.

More than 400 employees from Florida headed to the disaster areas this week, according to Sally Buffkin, a regional human resource manager for Home Depot.

General Butler from American Coach Line drove the first group of Home Depot employees.

He said he has never seen anything like what has happened in New Orleans and the other gulf states.

"It makes you so thankful for God," he said. "I don't know what I'll be able to do, but I'll do whatever I can."

Lake Mary gas stations run out of gas Wednesday as prices soar

By Joe Hendricks Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — In the wake of temporary supply shortages caused by Hurricane Katrina, and spreading rumors of rapidly increasing gas prices, gasoline became a hard to find commodity in many areas including Lake Mary.

Triggered in part memories of long lines and closed pumps incurred during the 2004 hurricanes, concerned motorists flocked to local gas stations Wednesday afternoon to purchase gas while it was still available. Long lines formed at local gas stations and by nine o'clock Wednesday evening many motorists began to hear a familiar phrase uttered during the 2004 hurricane season: "We are out of gas."

Fayaz Ali, whose family owns a Lake Mary Chevron station, said he spent six and a half hours outside Wednesday afternoon and evening trying to maintain a sense of order as lines of cars formed and extended out into the street.

Thursday morning, the Chevron station received 7,000 gallons of unleaded fuel. In an effort to reduce the chaos of the previous day, station managers decided to close one bay of gas pumps in an effort to better control the flow of traffic to the pump, while also leaving more room drivers to maneuver their automobiles. "If I open all my pumps it will be chaos," Ali said.

By noon Thursday the BP station on Lake Mary Boulevard was out of gas, as were both of the 7-11's on Lake Mary Boulevard. The Chevron station was already down to their last thousand gallons of gas. "That will last another hour or two," Ali said.

All wasn't sure when the next load of fuel would arrive.

"It's pretty bad; if I run out of gas I'm out of gas for three days," Ali said. Ali also mentioned that contrary to public opinion, these spikes in gas sales that lead to temporary shortages are more harmful than profitable. "When people pull in and see the gas is gone, they keep going." This results in a loss of sales on other items such as soda, milk, food, and other convenience store offerings. At 8 p.m. Thursday night, the Chevron station was still without gas.

The situation was better at the Kangaroo Express/Citgo station on the corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Lake Emma road. According Sherri Pendleton, a longtime clerk, the station had about an hour's worth of gas left at noon Thursday. When asked how the consumers were holding up, Pendleton said, "People are getting snappy." Pendleton wasn't sure when the station would receive another shipment of fuel.

A return visit to the Kangaroo Express at eight o'clock Thursday evening revealed a welcome sight: a fuel tanker refilling the station's holding tanks. The Chevron station, the BP station and both 7-11's were still without fuel.

While the gas situation in Lake Mary amounts to little more than a temporary inconvenience, some workers decided to stay home rather than risk getting to work and not being able to get home. Others came to work knowing they did not have enough gas to get back home again. Two office workers at CAR Financial Services in Lake Mary went in search of gas during their lunch hours, but ran out of fuel before gas could be found.

provided buses for the teams and the marching bands for in-county games. All junior varsity and freshman football teams, volleyball teams and any out of county band trips will be required to make alternate transportation plans. Some schools may use charter buses, the release said.

"Of primary concern to the district is the provision of uninterrupted service to all students riding buses to school, and for the after-school activity buses that are provided," according to spokeswoman Regina Klaers. "The current fuel supply will provide that transportation."

Murphy said the school district would try to do little things to cut down on fuel usage.

Drivers have been asked not to idle for an excessive amount of time, for instance, she said.

On average the district uses about 7,000 gallons of diesel fuel per day, she said. Driver training will not take place in the coming week to conserve fuel, she said.

Officials will meet Tuesday morning to assess the situation again.

"We're taking a realistic view and trying not to cut everything out," she said.

The district uses a company called Petroleum Traders, who act as a broker to find fuel at the best prices.

The supply company mainly use BP and Marathon right now, Murphy said. The fuel comes into Tampa and another company delivers it to the transportation center in Winter Springs.

A line of buses fueled up at a Sanford Sunoco station Thursday afternoon.

"That was to just kind of help relieve our pressure here," Murphy said. "Thursday we were not sure if fuel was coming on time, and we didn't want to run out of fuel with students on board. It was just a preventative measure."

Rams roll to 2-0 with shutout of Panthers

By Dean Smith

Scott Perry is making this head coaching stuff look easy. Lake Mary's first-year head man got his second win in as many weeks with a 23-0 whitewashing of previously unbeaten Dr. Phillips. Kashif Vallot, Chris Deluca and Marcus Kendrick led the way as the Rams proved that they could indeed play defense. Last week, Osceola ran for over 300 yards against the Lake Mary defense, while the Panthers ran for over 300 in winning their opening game of the season. But the Rams would have none of that this week as they posted the shutout. Lake Howell handed Osceola its second loss in as many weeks against Seminole Athletic Conference foes as the Silver Hawks won their first game of the season with a 21-14 victory over the Kowboys. Lake Brantley welcomed back star quarterback Brian Bearden and he proved to be the difference, throwing a 28-yard touchdown pass for the game's only score as the Patriots blanked

University, 7-0. The Lake Brantley defense was outstanding, holding the Cougars to only 57 yards of total offense. Trinity Prep won its opening game of the season, shutting out The Master's Academy, 20-0. Second-year programs Orangewood Christian and Lake Mary Prep continued to struggle with growing pains as both squads were thumped for the second straight week, the Rams falling to The First Academy, 46-7, and the Griffins getting whitewashed by Eagle's View Academy, 56-0.

Seminole 'dogged'

Mistakes doom Tribe in loss to DeLand

By Dean Smith

SANFORD — You could tell which team had a game under its belt. Host Seminole was plagued by first-game jitters and mistakes, while DeLand, which had put a scare into state-ranked Mainland last week, basically ran like a well-oiled machine, answering every Fighting Seminoles challenge in posting a 28-12 victory over the Tribe at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium Friday night. Seminole looked to be ready for the game, despite not playing in two weeks because of last week's cancellation with Lakewood Ranch, as the Tribe took the opening kickoff and marched down the field, going 70 yards in eight plays with senior tailback Julian Brown running around the right side for a five-yard touchdown run. But a bad theme showed up early as the extra-point try was blocked. Senior quarterback Travis Goodine was the man on the opening drive, gaining 58 yards on four carries, including runs of 34 and 12, to set up the score. But the Bulldogs wasted little time in taking the lead, as sophomore Nieko Pate ran for 60 yards on DeLand's first play from scrimmage and carried three more times for 11 yards, finally scoring on a four-yard run. Joe Recktenwald's extra point put the visitors ahead, 7-6. The score remained 7-6 until right before halftime, when Seminole again went on a long drive. This time, Goodine carried the ball four times for 42 yards, including a 28-yard scamper, again setting up a five-yard touchdown run by Brown, and the Tribe was back on top, 12-7, with 1:25 left in the half. However, the two-point try failed and the Bulldogs regained the lead immediately as Pate took off on a 65-yard touchdown run on the first play after the kickoff. This time Seminole snuffed the extra point attempt and DeLand took a 13-12 lead into halftime. The Tribe had the first opportunity to score in the second half, moving the ball from their own 16 down to the Bulldog 23, on the strength of a 47-yard run by Brown, but a 40-yard field goal attempt was blocked and Isaac White scooped up the loose ball and went 65 yards for the touchdown that gave DeLand a 20-12 advantage with 6:12 left in the quarter. Fumbles, two lost, would stymie any drive Seminole would seem to have going, and the Bulldogs pulled away on field goals of 32 and 35 yards by Recktenwald.

Goodine would gain 149 yards on 16 carries, but would be 0-for-9 passing, and Brown would run for 93 yards on 19 carries, but would put the ball on the ground three times, losing two. Seminole (0-1) has a very tough road game next week as it travels to Ponte Vedra Beach to take on Nease, which played on ESPN last Saturday, and the nation's top-ranked quarterback in Tim Tebow.

Buccaneers bomb Bears

From Staff Reports

For most of three quarters Winter Springs gave No. 3 Class 5A-state ranked Mainland all it could want. But in the end, the host Buccaneers took advantage of every opportunity they had and romped past the Bears, 57-14, at Municipal Stadium Thursday night. Winter Springs fell behind immediately as Tony Wilson, a University of Georgia commitment, returned the opening kickoff 91 yards for a score. The Bears came right back to even the game at 7-7 when Elvir Acorvedo scored on a two-yard run. Mainland took the lead for good before the end of the quarter and scored the only points of the second period, set up by a 52-yard punt return by Kenny Wilson, Tony's younger brother, to lead 21-7 at halftime, but Winter Springs did not quit. Coming out of the lockerroom with a new enthusiasm, the Bears scored again, with 21-14 when Acorvedo scored again, this time from six-yards out. But Tony Wilson broke the game open on the ensuing kickoff with a 56-yard kickoff return that led to another Mainland score. The Buccaneers then capped the blow out by scoring their final two touchdowns on interception returns by Kenny Wilson and Kirby Watson. The Bears' Matt McKinnon threw for 123 yards, but was just 7-for-19 passing and had three picked off, all three leading to Mainland scores. Winter Springs also ran for 121 yards, with Acorvedo carrying eight times for 70 yards, but the visitors could not overcome the Buc's athletic defenses and productive special teams. The Bears' defense also allowed 318 yards. Winter Springs finally gets to play at home, welcoming a good Winter Park squad to the A.W. Oviedo escapes Lyman OVIDO — While winning conference games is nice, regardless of the sport, it's generally more important to Seminole County coaches that their teams play well in them in preparation for the much more critical district games on their schedule. That's why both Lyman coach Bill Caughell and Oviedo coach Greg Register walked away from John Courier Field Friday night's game — won by Oviedo, 13-6 — relatively satisfied with what transpired. "It was a big deal for us not to play last week," said Caughell, referring to the cancellation of the Greyhounds, scheduled season-opener against Miami-Monsignor Pace due to Hurricane Katrina. "It hurt us in a lot of ways." "Our defense was phenomenal. We just made too many mistakes on offense to get anything going." Because of last week's cancellation, the Greyhounds seemed to be suffering from opening night jitters against Oviedo. In the first quarter, Lyman fumbled five times (losing two) and threw an interception. Oviedo turned the miscues into points, Chance Weise kicking a 26-yard field goal after Andrew Harmic's fumble recovery and Jeffrey Crawley's 35-yard interception return set up Andy Lark's 1-yard touchdown plunge. Trailing Oviedo 10-0 with 5:30 remaining in the first quarter, the Greyhounds outscored the Lions 6-3 over the game's final 41-plus minutes. David Muniz cut the deficit to four points when he returned a punt 70 yards for a score in the second quarter. Meanwhile, the Lions only managed to get inside the Lyman 20-yard one more time and that came midway through the fourth quarter when Weise knocked through a field goal from 30 yards. "This was an important game for us tonight, especially for the eight players we have who we're asking to play both ways," said Register. "The weather was comfortable for our first two games (the pre-season classic and last week's 35-0 blowout of Timber Creek). "Tonight was a typical hot, humid Florida night. Our players saw tonight what it takes to be a two-way player in high school football." Muniz led all rushers with 76 yards on 19 carries. Deroy Francis added 30 yards on seven attempts for Lyman (0-1) while Jeremy Drayton chipped in with 13 yards on four carries. Austin Watson paced Oviedo's ground game with 71 yards on nine rushes while Chris Perry carried the ball nine times for 49 yards. Quarterback Cody Williford completed 12 of 16 passes for 93 yards. Garrett Wilkins had five catches for 46 yards with Josh Knight gaining 36 yards on five catches. Lyman will finally play its first home game of the season next Friday when the Greyhounds (0-1) host Lake Mary in another SAC contest. Oviedo (2-0) hits the road for a visit to St. Augustine.

Golden Knights fall short at South Carolina

Special to the Herald

COLUMBIA, S.C. — This was hardly like old times for the Ol' Ball Coach. South Carolina coach Steve Spurrier had a new black visor and the same offensive style, but he needed a fourth-down stop by his defense with less than three minutes to go to save a 24-15 victory over UCF in his return to college football Thursday night.

"It was a tough night," Spurrier said. "But we're one and oh and we're not going to sit around and cry about it because we could've lost the dadgum thing."

Blake Mitchell, a sophomore making

UCF football drops season opener, 24-15, to USC

his first start, threw for 330 yards and three touchdowns for the Gamecocks (1-0).

Despite the late charge, the Golden Knights (0-1) extended the country's longest losing streak to 16 games - the past 12 under former Georgia Tech and Notre Dame coach George O'Leary.

After falling behind 24-3, UCF rallied in the final quarter with Mike Walker's 13-yard touchdown catch and John Brown's field goal.

Minutes later, the Golden Knights had a fourth-and-goal from the 1 with 2:50 left, but Kevin Smith was stopped short trying leap for the end zone by linebacker Ricardo Hurley and defensive lineman Ryan Brown.

Still, South Carolina could not put this one away. Punter Josh Brown ran out of the end zone for a safety and the Golden Knights got the ball back in the final minute on an onside kick. But time ran out on UCF and Spurrier improved to 15-1 all-time in opening games.

This was a game the Golden Knights could have won.

The Gamecocks scored just five plays into the game and then scored quickly again on their second series, making it 14-0.

From then on, UCF outscored its hosts, 15-10, including 12-0 in the final quarter.

Preps going full bore

By Dean Smith
Herald Staff

While most people's thoughts have been with the victims of Hurricane Katrina that also brought back bad memories of a year ago, local sports fans have had the opportunity to get a release from the news as the High School Fall Sports Season hit full-bore this week.

An amazing story is on-going at Seminole High School as the girls' team of David Rogers continues to win in the Seminole Athletic Conference Slow Pitch Softball League.

Wednesday night, the Fighting Seminoles stretched their winning streak over two seasons to 23 straight games, but what is even more impressive is that the Tribe has not allowed a run in four games this season, and that is unheard of in slowpitch softball.

After opening the season with 8-0 and 1-0 shutouts of Lyman and Winter Springs, respectively, Seminole did even better this week, blanking Hagerty, 12-0, and whitewashing Lake Howell, 10-0.

In girls' volleyball, Lake Mary Prep, Orlando and Winter Springs all remained unbeaten in the early going, while Lake Howell is right behind with just one loss.

The Griffins improved to 4-0 by knocking off previously unbeaten Orlando Christian Prep (3-1) in a monster contest, 25-19, 16-25, 25-23, 17-25 and 18-16. Taylor Jones led the way with 13 kills, while Alex Dickson bumped up 16 assists.

The Lions are also 4-0 after beating Lyman and Lake Brantley this week.

Darty had 14 kills and four service aces and Leitchworth had 20 assists as Oviedo got past the Patriots (0-3), 25-17, 22-25, 25-7 and 25-22. The Lions had had an even easier time of it against the Greyhounds as Heroux had five service aces and Benchina two blocks in the straight games, 25-7, 25-7 and 25-17, victory.

The Bears are 3-0 after winning a pair of four-game matches with Lake Mary and Lake Brantley.

Kaitlin Lapp had 30 assists and Shelby Hock 14 kills in a 15-25, 25-23, 25-15 and 25-18, defeat of Lake Mary (1-2) which got seven kills from Malorie Burney. And Briana

A Lake Mary player (right) tries to avoid the net after spiking the ball past a Winter Springs defender during the Bears' four-game victory over the Rams Thursday night.

Berry had 13 kills and five blocks and Hock 12 kills and seven digs in a, 25-23, 17-25, 25-14 and 25-19, win over the Patriots, which got eight kills from Wade.

The Silver Hawks improved to 4-1 with a 25-22, 22-15 and 25-22 victory over Lake Mary. Brittany Daiger 12 kills, seven digs and five blocks for Lake Howell, while Chelsea Sutton had 11 kills and Tracy Brenton nine assists for the Rams.

Trinity Prep is also 4-1 after bouncing back from a loss to Lake Highland Prep (1-2), 25-16, 25-19 and 25-22, to defeat Ocala Trinity Catholic (1-1), 25-18, 25-16 and 25-18. Bushika had 22 kills in the two matches, 12 against Ocala, while Bahi had 22 assists against Trinity Catholic.

Seminole evened its record at 2-2 on Thursday by surviving a five-game match with Lyman, 25-20, 20-23, 22-25, 25-16 and 15-11, but Fighting Seminole coach Beth Corso was still not happy because she feels they should be 3-1 after giving a match away against Lake Mary on Tuesday.

The Tribe led the Rams 2-0 after winning the first two games, 26-24 and 25-20, but Lake Mary came back to win in five games, 26-24, 25-16 and 15-11.

"We should have won this match in the third game," said Corso. "We played hard, but our serving killed us. We had 15 bad serves and even though our attack was on, we beat ourselves tonight."

"Not to take anything away from Lake Mary, they dig the ball up very well and played a good match."

Chelsea Sutton had 11 kills and Tracy Brenton 16 assists for the Rams, while Lauren Williams (16 kills, 20 digs, 2 blocks), Alyson Kovacs (38 assists, 4 digs), Ashley Traina (11 kills, 4 digs, 1 block), Reanna Bronsel (4 blocks, 7 kills, 5 digs), Laura Suddies (6 digs, 2 kills), Jade Voltoline (11 digs) and Jaime Beda (8 digs) led the way for Seminole.

Corso did reach a milestone on Thursday as the win over the Greyhounds was her 200th in volleyball and 415 victory overall. She also coached softball for many years at Seminole.

"We made it hard on ourselves tonight," said Corso. "We played real tight, but we finally put it together and won in the fifth game. I want to thank all of the girls for giving me my 200th win."

Doing the damage for the Tribe were Williams (23 kills, 7 digs), Traina (18 kills, 5 digs), Kovacs (43 assists, 5 digs, 5 kills), Yesie Echevarria (3 digs, 9 good serves) and Voltoline (5 kills). Whitcomb had 16 kills for Lyman.

Crooms Academy (1-2) got its first win of the season by outscoring Jones (0-2), 22-25, 25-17, 25-22 and 25-23. Franklin led the way with seven service aces and 13 kills, while Armstrong added four service aces and five kills for the Panthers.

The Master's Academy (3-2) split a pair of matches, losing to The First Academy (3-1), 25-14, 25-11 and 25-18, but besting Father Lopez (0-3), 26-24, 25-6 and 25-7. Morris had six kills and seven digs in the loss to the Royals, while the Eagles team was the story in the win over the Green Wave with 30 kills and 42 digs.

Special to the Herald

Responding to the call for assistance at disaster scenes is nothing new for employees of the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC). With their specialized equipment and training, they have been part of relief efforts in both manmade and natural disasters for years. During last year's four hurricanes hundreds of FWC law enforcement officers spent thousands of hours doing search and rescue, security, clean-up and anything other duties they were called upon to perform.

But, for the first time in the agency's history, 87 FWC employees were called out-of-state to provide assistance to victims of a natural disaster.

Twenty-two of those are FWC law enforcement officers from central Florida who left their homes on Sunday enroute to Biloxi, Miss., to provide assistance to the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

And that's where they are now, along with the 65 other FWC employees from around the state, and 82 employees from other state agencies in Florida, assisting in recovery operations in that storm-ravaged state. They include law enforcement officers, radio technicians and mechanics.

Some of what they've done so far includes:

- recovered 2 fatalities
- encountered woman in labor and helped deliver one baby
- assisting Pascagoula Police Department and sheriff's office
- transported a woman with severe leg lacerations to safety
- flying a six county area for search and recovery recon efforts for ground units
- working critical search and rescue with the Harrison County Sheriff in the Biloxi area to rescue stranded survivors by water
- recovered a 94-year-old woman with a broken hip from a severely damaged house and transported by 4x4 to safety
- located an unresponsive 92-year-old man and transported by all terrain vehicle to medical personnel
- assisting Biloxi police and fire departments

Yankees sign Mark Bellhorn

Special to the Herald

The Yankees announced Tuesday that they had signed infielder Mark Bellhorn to a Major League contract. To make room for Bellhorn on their 40-man roster, the Yankees transferred RHP Carl Pavano from the 15-day disabled list to the 60-day disabled list. The Yankees will announce an additional 25-man roster move prior to tonight's game in Seattle.

The 31-year old Bellhorn batted .216 (61-for-283) with seven home runs and 28 RBI in 85 games with the Boston Red Sox this season. He was placed on the 15-day disabled list with a sprained left thumb on July 18 and missed 28 games before being designated for assignment on August 19 and subsequently released by the Red Sox on August 26. A member of Boston's World Championship team in 2004, Bellhorn batted a career-best .264 (138-for-523) and established career-highs with 83 RBI, 93 runs scored and 88 walks (tied for the third-most among all American League batters).

In his eight-year Major League career (Oakland A's, 1997-2001; Chicago Cubs, 2002-03; Colorado Rockies, 2003 and Boston, 2004-05), Bellhorn has played every position except catcher and pitcher. He was originally drafted by the San Diego Padres in 1992, but chose instead to attend Auburn University where he helped lead his team to the College World Series in 1994.

In other news involving local Major Leaguers: Danny Graves made it through waivers for the second time this season and was sent to the AAA-Norfolk Tides by the New York Mets last weekend.

The change of scenery has not helped the former Brandon High School star as he is 0-1 with 18.00 ERA in three appearances. In four innings he has allowed nine hits and eight earned runs with five walks and four strike outs.

The news has been much better for David Eckstein and Jason Varitek.

Eckstein has been on fire, going 14-for-28 (.500) in his last six games and 20-for-45 (.444) in his last 10 games as the St. Louis Cardinals get closer and closer to locking up the National League Central Division title with almost a month left in the season.

And while his average isn't quite as high, having only one game with three hits, Varitek has been an amazing model of consistency as he has hit in 25-of-30 games since July 19th and has not gone more than one game without a hit since June 6th as he helps the Boston Red Sox maintain a slim lead over the Yankees in the American League Eastern Division.

It was 72 years ago this past Thursday, Sept. 1, when Rocco Francis Marchegiano was born in Brockton, Massachusetts. He went on to make boxing history. Of course we knew him as Rocky Marciano.

His superb conditioning led him to fashion an impressive boxing record that propelled him to fight against Jersey Joe Walcott for the heavyweight title (Sept. 23, 1952). Marciano knocked Walcott out. After defending his title a number of times, he retired in 1956, as the only undefeated heavy-weight champion of his day. He died in a plane crash in Newton, Iowa on Aug. 31, 1969. The movie "Somebody Up There Likes Me," was his life story.

Some folks may consider Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay) as being undefeated, but he lost several bouts in defending his title as Heavyweight Boxing Champ. In 1967, he was stripped of his title after a conviction for violating the Selective Service Act. (He refused to join the armed forces).

In 1971, the Supreme Court reversed the conviction. He defended his title nine times and is the only heavyweight fighter who won the title three separate times.

Another historical event occurred in early September. On Sept. 7, 1892, John L. Sullivan was knocked out by "Gentleman" Jim Corbett in the 21st round of a fight in New Orleans, La. I couldn't find out why it took so long but this was the first sanctioned prizefight under the Marquis of Queensbury rules. Before those rules were imposed, fights were done with bare fists. Sullivan was considered the last of this kind.

Joe Louis held the title of champ for 12 years, winning the title on June 22, 1937 and retiring in 1949.
