Schroder Says 7,000 May Be Dropped From State Rolls

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—President Roosevelt submitted to Congress today a report by Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau that there was no need to lift the present $45,000,000,000 legal limit on the public debt.

The report added that the $50,000,000 limit on long-term bonds should be removed, however, and the President asked that Congress take "such action as may be necessary."

The Administration continued efforts to obtain an additional $150,000,000 from Congress to carry on the WPA until July 1. Col. E. C. Harrington, work relief administrator, made public statements today that he would not make any reductions in the WPA job quotas unless more money is voted.

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 20.—(AP)—Schroder, Florida Works Program administrator, said today he had orders from Washington to drop 7,000 workers from the state WPA rolls by Apr. 5 unless Congress appropriate an additional $100,000,000.

Col. E. C. Harrington, work relief administrator, would make it necessary to drop at least 2,500 persons even if an additional appropriation is made.

Visit To Tampa Home Brings Praise Of Salvation Army

The last detail in plans for the annual Salvation Army campaign was checked today and everything was pronounced in readiness for the opening of the annual Maintenance Fund Campaign of the Salvation Army tomorrow morning following a "kick-off" dinner in the Woman's Club building tonight.

Regarding the work of the Salvation Army, Mrs. Julius Dingfelder headed a party from Sanford on an inspection tour of the Salvation Army's Home for Women in Tampa last week and on returning she highly commended the work of the Salvation Army and the institution in Tampa which she declared is operated efficiently and effectively.

"Major Eunice McFay, head of the home, deserves much credit for the good management of the home for she combines the happy faculties energy, sympathy and a keen sense of humor. She is not only a mother to the inmates but a pedagogue. Instead of compulsory assignments, she invites participation in the study and discussion of the Bible," Mrs. Dingfelder said.

"The home is well located," Mrs. Dingfelder pointed out, "and patients seem happy and contented in an atmosphere of dignity and in a well regulated home. The maximum capacity of the institution is 21 persons and 22 girls were at the home during the time of our visit."

"In the seven years of operation of the institution, we were told that more than 300 babies have been born and many more have died, which speaks well for the efficiency in which the work of the institution is carried on."

The Hillsborough Medical Association renders medical assistance at the home," Mrs. Dingfelder continued. "The patients are taught domestic science and the duties of the home are distributed among them according to individual taste and talent, and Major McFay contends that the success of their efforts for permanent rehabilitation.

Those making the trip were Capt. and Mrs. E. K. Rose, the Rev. L. E. Thompson, Dr. E. Keith Tracy, Mrs. Ruth Austen Smith, Mrs. H. J. Tolly, Mrs. V. E. Proctor, Mrs. E. A. Douglas, Mrs. Ross Adams, Mrs. Esther Ruige, Mrs. W. J. Gary, Mrs. Meeds, Mrs. A. W. Lowe and Mrs. Dingfelder.

"The announcement, carried in the Press Saturday said: "With this issue the Spokane Press announces permanent suspension of publication. Today's issue will conclude 27 years of publishing a daily paper in the City of Spokane."

"It is with regret that we make this decision, but prevailing costs of operation over which we have no control, in addition to the burden of taxation, make it impossible to operate without facing continued heavy losses."

Czech Annexation To Receive Stern U.S. Condemnation

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—(AP)—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, in collaboration with President Roosevelt, last night worked on the final draft of a vigorous formal note to Germany condemning the annexation of Czechoslovakia and isolation of Britain and France in a "stop Hitler" drive.

The note, probably still to be made public here and in Berlin tomorrow and may serve to break the slender thread of diplomatic politeness which at present keeps this country and Germany on speaking terms.

Mr. Roosevelt, in outline prepared to meet with his congressional lieutenants, from a 3 to 5 and out of capital session to the Administration, from anti-Nazi measures, including the imposition of heavy penalty duties on German goods, and his plea for neutrality law changes to strengthen his hand in dealing with the dictators.

The formal protest may go further than Welles' informal denunciation last Friday in which he said the United States looks upon the "extinguishment" of Czechoslovakia as being only temporary. It is understood it will excoriate Germany as an aggressor and a violator of treaties, and praise the Nazi government of being a menace to civilization. It will also make it clear that like Britain and France, the United States cannot recognize the legality of the Czech "seizure."

The outcome of this meeting with his legislative leaders and European developments during the next few days may determine whether Mr. Roosevelt will go through or abandon plans to leave the White House next Friday for a journey to Warm (Continued on Page Two)

Rumania Fears Attack By Nazis

Formation Of "Stop Hitler" Bloc Is Sought By Britain

ARMY'S MARCHED AGAIN IN Europe today as Germany appeared on the threshold of a new conquest and Britain tried to rally "anti-aggressor" nations into a "stop Hitler" bloc.

Reunion of the war-lost Memel with Germany seemed imminent, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Lithuanian Foreign Minister Juozas Urbysas conferred in Berlin as reports came of German troop movements toward the little Baltic state.

In London, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Britain's grand new peace program would be reviewed as one of three steps in answer to Germany's eastward drive.

Others were: an attempt to rally anti-Nazi nations into a bloc, and a decision to send a trade mission to America to counter German economic pressure in trade negotiations with Bucharest which have caused widespread concern.

United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy conferred with Vicecount Halifax, British Foreign secretary and an informed source said they discussed close diplomatic collaboration.

Mobilized German troops, meanwhile, straggled through the mountains in Slovakia toward Carpatho-Ukraine, the now narrow Hungarian strip separating them from Rumania.

It was feared Hitler would strike next in Rumania, whose oil wells and fertile wheat fields are in the path of the German drive to the east.

France was reported to have decided on a partial mobilization along the Rhineland frontier as (Continued on Page Two)

Rumania Calls Huge Force To Guard Frontiers

BUCHAREST, Mar. 20.—(AP)—At least 500,000 men, called from a dozen classes of the Rumanian army, last night guarded the frontiers of the Balkan kingdom, rich in oil and wheat.

There was no general mobilization nor were any of the yearly classes called in full.

The standing army of 200,000 men provided the backbone of defense but informed quarters said it had been reinforced by call of an even larger number to the colors from the reserves.

Reserve engineers and artillery men were called from all classes and authorities said enough soldiers were at their posts to prevent a surprise from any quarter.

The population was calm, however, and there was general belief that there would be no attack.

Heavy strength, nevertheless, was mobilized along the southern border of Carpatho-Ukraine, former autonomous province of erased Czechoslovakia which has been annexed by Hungary, Rumanians called it their "new frontier," involving new defense problems.

Before Czechoslovakia was dissolved Rumania had an ally on that border and because of mutual non-aggression treaties defenses there were not developed.

Now in that vulnerable region Rumania must reckon with Hungary which has extensive territorial claims against Bucharest.

The Cost Of Gambling

Speaking in Tampa yesterday, State Attorney General George C. Gibbs declared that the present state-wide drive against illegal gambling is not just a flash in the pan, the usual campaign launched each year in the Spring to bring to an official and the tourist season, but a permanent policy of the Administration to close, and keep closed, all unlawful gambling operations in the State.

Explaining the evils of gambling as it attracts gangsters and racketeers to a community, seeps into politics and undermines law enforcement agencies, Mr. Gibbs declared that any citizen knowing of any public official failing to do his duty in the enforcement of the law should report it to higher officers, adding that he felt sure the Governor would not fail to do his duty.

Illustrating the importance of this law enforcement drive to the economic life of the State, and the cost to the country of gambling operations, the Sarasota Herald quotes life insurance statistics to show that if all the money devoted to gambling last year had been spent in productive enterprise, there would have been no depression.

The Northwestern Life Insurance company, through its Family Economics bureau, the Sarasota paper declares, "has made a breakdown on the gambling bill of the country into its principle parts. Big time gambling, legal and illegal, is estimated at about $2,200,000,000, while gambling houses, bucket shops, big sport pools take another $800,000,000. It is estimated that sweepstakes tickets take $1,100,000,000 of the people's money. Other activities, number games and pool tickets take $1,500,000,000. Slot machines, pin ball machines and punch boards take $1,000,000,000. Bingo games, raffles and other organization contests take $600,000,000. This gives us a total of $7,100,000,000 invested by the American people every year in gambling.

"When you stop to think of it, this is a vast sum of money for the people of the country to spend unproductively. All the manufacturing enterprises of the country in 1936 spent only $14,691,000,000. In various lines of trade the expenditure was $8,195,000,000. In various kinds of service the figures were $7,782,000,000, only a little more than was spent in gambling. The cost of operating the government, exclusive of relief, was $7,185,000,000, or just about our gambling bill.

"The entire income of farmers was $6,022,000,000, less than our gambling bill. In other words, more money was passed in chance taking last year than was produced by all the farmers of the nation in 1936. Like taxes, gambling does not produce any wealth. It simply takes it out of one pocket and puts it into another. If the money uselessly spent in gambling were put to use in productive industry, it would be a long way in relieving the country of its depression. America last year spent twice as much money in gambling as it did for relief."

Visual Defects

Did you know that more than half the people in the United States have defective vision? That at least is the conclusion of the Better Vision Institute which says that anyone with perfectly normal eyes can see without blurring everything within his field of vision, that is, objects both near and far. And he can see them this clearly without the aid of glasses.

Explaining the chief four types of visual defects, the Institute says that persons who can see nearby objects clearly, distant ones only dimly, are nearsighted. The exact opposite of that defect is farsightedness, in which the eye sees distant images clearly, nearby objects indistinctly. Other individuals see blurred or distorted images in one or more meridians both near and far, a fault known as astigmatism. The fourth general type of defective vision, though much rarer, is known as "double vision", or crossed eyes.

The most common visual error is nearsightedness, according to the Institute, which says, "For clear vision, the rays of light entering the eye from an object are bent by the lens of the eye so that they converge or come together to form a distinct image on the retina at the back of the eye. In the case of nearsightedness, the rays of light come to a focus at a point in front of the retina. This is because the lens of the eye is too convex, i. e. too rounded, and therefore tends to bend the entering light rays too sharply toward each other. The use of a concave eyeglass lens to spread the light rays slightly apart before they enter the eye, offsets this extra bending and places the image directly on the retina."

Farsightedness, on the contrary, is due to the flattening of the lens of the eye, so that the light rays are not bent enough and come to a focus in back of the retina. This defect is corrected by the use of a convex lens which bends the rays slightly before they enter the eye and permits the focusing of images upon the retina.

The distortion of objects seen through an irregular spot in a window glass is a good illustration of the visual error called astigmatism. This defect is caused by wrinkles on the surface of the cornea, which is the transparent covering of the eye. In astigmatism, the rays of light are not concentrated uniformly, some being bent more sharply than others. For this condition, the corrective eyeglass lens must be cylindrical rather than spherical, like the type used for the other defect. This specially ground lens bends light rays to compensate for the irregularities in the cornea.

The Institute points out that more than two thousand different conditions of astigmatism are found in the human eye.

Annexation Of Memel By Nazis Seems Imminent

(Continued From Page One) A warning to Germany to keep hands off in Lithuania. Soviet Russia last night threw her support into the "stop Hitler" drive while British cabinet ministers in all-day consultation laid the groundwork for a united front against the ambitions of Germany and Italy.

Britain's "inner cabinet," whose Sabbath consultations brought King George back to London for an urgent meeting with Prime Minister Chamberlain, urged a rally of world powers before Chancellor Adolf Hitler had an opportunity again to strike across Europe toward the Black Sea.

Chamberlain summoned his cabinet to meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

It was reported that a four-power conference—Britain, the United States, France and Russia—might be convened to form a bloc against Hitler but diplomats said he plans for such a move had been dropped.

One report published in Paris said Washington and Moscow already had been sounded on the proposal and that Poland and the Balkan states would be asked to collaborate.

While Chamberlain conferred with his ministers the Soviets joined Britain, France and the United States in defiantly refusing to recognize Hitler's seizure of Czechoslovakia.

The daily Mail said that the British government had "formally invited Soviet Russia to consider joining in a pact with Great Britain and France and any other powers willing to co-operate in resisting German aggression."

The invitation was said to have been made by Foreign Secretary Halifax to Soviet Ambassador Malok.

At the same time Britain looked more and more to the United States for help in event of war.

"Hitler cannot stand up against the resources of the United States and the President of the United States happens to believe democracy is something worth saving," said Vernon Bartlett, member of parliament, in the News Chronicle.

The Manchester Guardian said the "awakening of a new spirit in the United States" was "one hopeful sign to lighten the fear and pessimism weighing upon the people of the world" and that "the American case for isolation is breaking down before formidable facts."

The crucial test of Britain's for close collaboration with the Soviets in opposing Hitler, leading perhaps to the first Anglo-Soviet alliance in history, probably will come when the Russians and British take up joint general staff consultations similar to the Anglo-French military accord.

Russia's readiness to join Britain and France in military action, if necessary, to halt the "Nazi march to the east," was believed to hinge largely upon the attitude of Poland, which serves as a "buffer" between Nazism and Communism.

Foreign Minister Beck of Poland will come to London Apr. 3 and may be followed shortly by Foreign Commissar Litvinov of Russia.

Gibbs Says Cone Cases Means Business To Receive Stern In Gambling Drive U.S. Condemnation

(Continued From Page One) The attorney general emphasized that the campaign is state-wide and is not directed at any particular section, and also that neither he nor the governor had any direct jurisdiction over city officials.

"We are going to do this thing fairly and evenly," he said, "and I am laying on your doorstep the first responsibility. Keep us advised. Go to your local officials first. Then go higher, if necessary."

Gibbs said one of the worst evils of legalized gambling was the element it attracted to the state, and when gambling was closed, the gangsters will leave us.

"I had an opportunity to see some of this gentry," he continued, "and it is gambling that attracts these gangsters. If gambling is closed, the gangsters will leave us."

He thanked the press, the ministry, other organizations and individuals for their support of the cleanup movement, and added special praise of Governor Cone.

"Fred Cone is an honest man," Gibbs said. "He is gallant. He is courageous. He will do his duty, and I am proud to serve under him."

"We entered this campaign honestly and fairly, and let it be known how I represent no group or individual except the state of Florida and its people."

William A. Sawyer, president of the Jaymen's league, assured Gibbs that "90 percent of the people of Tampa" were behind him and the governor in the cleanup.

HERON FLIGHT

(From The Florida Naturalist) Have you seen the white heron in its native marsh? Then this, the thin crescent, is a heron's flight. It is a sight to see. The bird rises, moon mountain or moon spray, stirring in a tall fountain. Have you seen a hundred heron in a fisher's flight, dipping over water, standing in the light, wheeling, dipping, poising, and then, and then, dipping, dipping, dipping. The spirit of the year? After such a vision, you might blind your eyes. That now are in elysian beauty, wise.

ISRAEL VIBKE CONANT

Germany is being told these days what the world thinks of her, but the Germans themselves don't know that.

Hitler reminds us of the man who kept hitting his head against the telephone pole, no just don't give a darn about nothing.

If the next legislature doesn't enact a drivers license law and a compulsory insurance law, we'll be off legislatures for us.

As a glance at the map will show, Germany a few weeks ago appeared to have her mouth open today she is apparently washing her tongue out.

Those who have not seen "The Great Wall" are missing the opportunity of their lives for hearing marvelous music if they don't go when it returns to the Dixie tomorrow.

It may be, as some say, that the government owes everyone a living, but personally we'd be satisfied if it would just pay for a little of the space it asks for the various propaganda agencies.

Congressman Joe Hendricks promises his aid in getting a bill passed for Seminole County, if a new appropriation is used, and we feel sure it will be. The hospital should head the bill, and before the year is out it should be under construction.

Mrs. Dunbar Plans To Attend Convention

Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar of Oregon, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be present at the forty-fifth annual convention of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs in Orlando beginning tomorrow.

Mrs. Dunbar's club service began in 1903 when she was appointed chairman of public health of the Oregon Federation. Her advance was rapid and in May 1938, she was elected president of the General Federation. "Adjusting Democracy for Human Welfare" is the keynote chosen by Mrs. Dunbar for her administration and in her numerous addresses throughout the country through clubs, educational and welfare groups, emphasis is being laid on individual responsibility in matters of welfare in a democracy.

The first board meeting of the convention will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4:00 o'clock at the Sorosis Club house. At 8:00 P. M. an address of welcome will be made by Mayor S. Y. Way of Orlando at the formal opening of the convention. Mrs. Dunbar will be honored at a reception at 9:00 o'clock, with the Sorosis Club of Orlando as hostesses.

On Wednesday night an "Eskiel" dinner will be held at the Orlando Country Club at 7:00 o'clock. Those wishing to make reservations are requested to call Miss Irene Hinton, telephone No. 133-W, before tomorrow at 6:00 P. M.

While serving as chairman of the Department of Public Welfare, Mrs. Dunbar represented the General Federation at the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection called by President Hoover. She was a member of the Public Health Organization section of which Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming was a chairman, and as a member of the speaker's bureau of the Conference carried its message into many states. Mrs. Dunbar has spent the past three summers in Alaska where she was sent by the National Tuberculosis Association to organize the fight against tuberculosis.

In recognition of her humanitarian accomplishment, the honorary degree of doctor of humane letters was conferred upon her by Oregon's Linfield College in June, 1937, the first woman to be granted an honorary degree in the college's 80 years of existence. In his citation, Dr. Marshall N. Dana, associate editor of the Oregon Journal, characterized her as a "humanitarian, educator in public health, leader in women's organizations in America, dauntless warrior against tuberculosis; defender of children, exponent of home making, pioneer of public health nursing; a woman of ability and dedicated life; demonstration of woman's capacity for citizenship, with skill and courage making the world about her safer from the threat of disease and happier for all."
