Negotiators Tangle Over Supervision

Split Comes After Cease-Fire Line Agreement Signed By U. N.-Reds
MUNBAN, Korea, Nov. 27—(AP)—True negotiators signed a cease-fire line agreement today and immediately developed two vital differences on how to supervise an armistice in Korea.
United Nations delegates insisted on:
1. Joint Allied-Communist inspection teams with "free access to all parts of Korea."
2. Provision against military buildups by either side.
Neither point was included in a plan proposed by the Reds, who have never permitted outsiders in Communist Korea.
The differences developed in a session described by the top Allied negotiator as "short and sweet."
The full five-man negotiating teams—all in full dress except for two drably clad Chinese generals—approved a cease-fire line agreement, opening the way for an armistice within 30 days. Then they plunged into the next issue question: That is supervision of an armistice. (Continued on Page Eight)

Terminal Sponsors To Meet Thursday

All subscribers to the proposed Terminal Warehouse, Inc., project were today requested by Albert Pitts, temporary chairman, to meet Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Yacht Club to elect a board of directors of the new organization. "The papers of incorporation have been approved by legal counsel," said Mr. Pitts, "and as soon as the subscribers have duly elected the directors, they will proceed with plans to petition the City for the lease of the terminal area and will draw up the necessary papers asking for the approval of the County and State Commission for the issuance of stock." Subscriptions range from $100 upward. Mr. Pitts declared.

Caudle Tells Of Fishing Off Florida Coast

He And IRB Counsel Were Entertained By Carolina Man Having Tax Trouble
WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—Former Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle testified today that he and Charles Oliphant, chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, were fishing with a North Carolina manufacturer under investigation for tax fraud. Caudle told a House Ways and Means Subcommittee he and Oliphant flew to Palm Beach, Fla. in the summer of 1947 in a plane owned by Troy Whitehead of Charlotte, N. C.
The witness, fired recently by President Truman from his Justice Department post, denied that he knew a tax fraud case was in the works against Whitehead June 25, 1947.
"If I had known Mr. Whitehead was in tax trouble, I never would have invited Mr. Oliphant," Caudle said.
Today's testimony came as Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlop prepared to let loose with the biggest broadside yet in his announced drive to improve efficiency and weed out "parasites" (Continued on Page Two)

Santa Claus Arrives Tomorrow For Annual Christmas Parade

Sanford and Seminole County kiddies are eagerly looking forward to the big annual event of the year, a gorgeous Christmas parade in which many of them will participate tomorrow afternoon, at 3:00 o'clock climaxed by the appearance of Santa Claus, himself riding in a beautiful float with sleigh, reindeer and all.
Schools will be dismissed in plenty of time so that children from far and near can see the parade.
Supt. T. W. Lawton, promised:
More joy than ever is in store for the youngsters who get to ride on a merry-go-round and a ferris wheel which will be right in the parade.
To the beat of drums, the parade is scheduled to get under way at 3:00 P. M. on First Street opposite the Chamber of Commerce Building. The line of march will be west on First Street to Oak Avenue, south to Second Street, east to Palmto Avenue, south to Fourth Street, east to Sanford Avenue and back to the starting point.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—Joseph T. Ferguson, contending business tax "subsidies" put $1,200,000 behind the 1950 campaign to re-elect Senator Taft (R-Ohio), clashed sharply today with Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) She accused him of "making statements you can't back up."
In the witness chair at a Senate election subcommittee, Ferguson flared back: "I didn't hear you question Senator Taft yesterday about some of his statements."

Recruiting For 43 Division European Army Is Expected To Begin In Spring, NATO Told

Kirkman Refuses To Explain Why Officer Shifted
ROME, Nov. 27—(AP)—Communist shouting protests against the Atlantic Pact surged through downtown Rome tonight. Police reported that 400 persons, including a number of women, were taken into custody. Demonstrators crowded into Piazza Colonna heading toward the Italian foreign ministry. They were met by squads of clubs swinging riot police and quickly dispersed.
ROME, Nov. 27—(AP)—French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman told the Atlantic Alliance today that recruiting of a 43-division European army can begin in April.
Schuman's report was the result of 10 months of negotiations in Paris by France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg and West Germany.
The French Foreign Minister said he would be able to present a full-scale treaty establishing the European army for present at the Atlantic Council's meeting in January. Such an announcement would be a landmark (Continued on Page Eight)

City To Contact Giants On Plans For Sanford Club

The City Commission last night promised action to determine whether or not the New York Giants will sponsor the Sanford baseball team this summer in the Florida State League, or to conduct spring training operations here.
Mayor Fred Dixon was directed to telegraph the Giant organization in order that plans for the operation of a local club may be determined.
The action followed a request by Judge Douglas Stenstrom, chairman of a Jaycee committee, to find out if the Giants will enter a local team in the League. He stated that if this was not the case, the Jaycees would like to assist in getting another club here.
John Keller, president of the Florida State League, appearing as a baseball committee chairman of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, told the Commission in response to their questions as to the status of the Florida State League, that the Giants had paid in advance to the Florida State League sufficient deposits to maintain their local team franchise.
Mr. Keller stated, however, that (Continued on Page Eight)

Higginbotham Is Candidate To Run For Commission

Earl Higginbotham, prominent local business man and civic worker, today announced his candidacy for County Commissioner, District No. 1, subject to the Democratic Primaries next May.
This District comprises the area beginning at Lake Monroe east of Melville Avenue to Sixteenth Street and running south following the railroad to Park Avenue and Sixteenth Street, then the eastern side of Park Avenue to Five Points, across Lake Jessup to the east side of Black Hammock, and north of Little Hammock to the north end of Puzos Lake.
In complying with the new state election law, Mr. Higginbotham said he has selected the Sanford Atlantic National Bank as his postoffice, and named himself as treasurer.
"I can appreciate one's personal friends want to feel as though they are a part of your campaign, by making contributions," he said. "In my case all I ask is that you go to the polls and vote for the person of your choice. Give your full contribution to your church or to your favorite charity. I personally will handle the entire expense of my campaign and will feel that it has been money well spent if I can bring about the following conditions:
"To bring about a better understanding between the people of Seminole County and the County Commissioners. Eliminate excessive party politics by the Commissioners of their responsibilities, and at the same time appropriately advising the people what our intentions are while in session.

Arrangement May Double Range Of Guided Missiles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—The effective size of a sea range for testing U.S. guided missile and pilotless bombers may be doubled by a new agreement with the Dominican Republic, officials here and in Ciudad Trujillo yesterday, gives the U.S. Air Force permission to set up tracking and control stations along the north coast of this West Indies island.
When built, these stations will extend the chain of radar and radio points authorized last year in the British Bahamas Islands.
When officials went before Congress to get the money to start the long-range missile center in 1949, they talked in terms of control and monitoring stations over the first 500 miles of a course that would eventually extend 3,000 miles into the South Atlantic.
Stations authorized on five islands of the Bahamas group provided a 400-mile stretch of coast control. The stations to be built in the Dominican Republic will close the 500-mile gap from the Bahamas to Puerto Rico. The Air Force already has control points in Puerto Rico, about 1,000 miles from the launching base at Cocos on the east coast of Florida.
The present range of Air Force guided missiles is secret, but officials are now talking about extending the range to send pilotless bombers as far as 6,000 into the South Atlantic.
The first squadron organized specifically to man pilotless bombers came into being at the Florida guided missile test center on Oct. 1. Its announced mission is to become combat ready by intensive training in the operation of the Martin "Matador" B-61 pilotless bomber.
The agreement with the Dominican Republic will run for ten years and may thereafter be canceled or extended by either party. It provides that sites and "other installations," not detailed, may be set up to acquire test data and to maintain continuous control over guided missiles.
The agreement provides that the missiles are to be flown over waters under Dominican jurisdiction, not over the mainland. U.S. personnel is not to exceed 100, except in exceptional cases it may reach 500.

Nelms Emphasizes Need For Special Citrus Controls

With Florida's citrus industry doubling in output over the last 15 years, and with a tremendous increase in production last year, the need for control and spacing of shipment of fresh fruit to avoid glutted markets was stressed today in a talk to the Lions Club by Morris Nelms, Lakeland, grove relations supervisor of Florida Citrus Mutual.
This year Florida's citrus crop is expected to reach the high mark of 112,500,000 boxes, and Mr. Nelms, who with the aid of stereoscopic pictures, contrasted this with the 25,000,000 box production in 1930-31 and the 40,000,000 boxes of citrus fruits marketed in 1949-50.
Last year, he said, 10 percent of the citrus crop in the state was marketed in fresh fruit form, and the balance was canned or in the form of concentrates. If the whole crop were placed in boxes, had end to end, they would reach one and a half times around the earth, he declared.
Including packing houses and equipment, the Florida citrus industry represents an investment of more than one billion dollars, he asserted.
Mr. Nelms, by means of charts, pointed out the disastrous plunge of citrus prices during the 1948-1949 period, when the industry went into the red due to overlanded markets. At that time oranges sold as low as 25 cents a box on the tree, and grapefruit, 10 cents.

Arrested Drunk Driver Has Been Reason

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 27—(AP)—State Highway Patrol Detective H. N. Kirkman "walked out" on a group of county officials and business leaders here today with out definitely answering their demand that Patrol Capt. W. W. Townsend be returned to duty here.
He later returned to appear before the group but said that he would not discuss that matter further in the presence of a newspaperman. State Attorney J. F. Hancock, as the group's spokesman, threatened to sue the one reporter present to leave the room.
The walkout was interpreted as a refusal to accede to the demand. The delegation, headed by Duncan, immediately had plans to appear before the State Cabinet in Tallahassee next Tuesday to renew the pressure for Townsend's return.
Before walking out, Col. Kirkman told the group that Townsend's transfer here today was because the patrol needs men in the weights section, and that the move constituted no reflection against Townsend.
"We want a yes or no answer," Duncan told Kirkman, "on whether or not Townsend is going to be left in this county. We don't feel that you have treated us right in this matter. Last Tuesday we had an appointment with you to appear before the Cabinet."
You failed to keep that appointment. It was your problem to work out. But you've given us the run-around on it."
"I don't think I've given you the run-around," Duncan said. "It is sometimes necessary to (Continued on Page Eight)

Ex-Hatchet Man For Czech Rulers Fired, Arrested

LONDON, Nov. 27—(AP)—Moscow-trained Rudolf Slansky, one-time hatchet man of Czechoslovak Communism, has been fired as vice premier and arrested for "activities against the state," the Prague radio announced today.
The arrest was ordered by Communist President Klement Gottwald at the suggestion of Premier Antonin Zapotovsky, the announcement said, because "investigations into activities of subversive groups" brought out facts that convict Slansky.
Slansky was removed from his job as secretary general of the Czechoslovak Communist Party last September in a move tried by Western observers to Moscow or orders to the Czech Communists to tighten their ranks against hordes of "Trotskyists."
The announcement at that time said Slansky would get "another important state post," but did not (Continued on Page Eight)

Senate's Report Says Collective Bargaining To Stay

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—A Senate labor subcommittee made public today a specialist's report saying that collective bargaining "is here to stay" and with it the right to strike—but possibly not in all fields.
The report was written by Dr. Gustav Peck, senior specialist in labor for the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress. It was printed as a committee document in a 57-page document, wrote:
"Dr. Peck's survey is a factual study and, of course, does not purport to commit the subcommittee or any individual senator to its conclusions."

State Asks Death For Waitress In Cabbie's Slaying

CHIPLEY, Fla., Nov. 27—(AP)—The State asked the death penalty for a 21-year-old chestnut haired ex-waitress charged with the knife murder of a cab driver.
Testimony in the trial of Joyce Laverne Taylor for the slaying of James D. Toole May 15, 1950, began in circuit court this morning.
A full day was required yesterday to select the jury.
State Attorney Mercer Spator told the jury he would bring evidence to show that Miss Taylor had said of Toole, "I'm tired of him messing with my business and he ought to be killed."
Later, he said, Miss Taylor drove out into the country with Toole and "a person or persons unknown." He said she watched as Toole and the third party got out, then backed up the cab for Toole's body to be stuffed in the trunk.
Spear said Toole's body was slung with 58 knife wounds, 67 of them about the arm, back and torso. The 58th, he said, all but severed the head from the body.
B. L. Solomon, court-appointed defense attorney told the jury: "All we have to offer is Miss Taylor's denial that she was present."
Sgt. Ormon E. Ward Gets Overseas Duty
Sgt. Ormon Ward has asked and received permission for overseas duty, according to a letter received by the Herald today.
Sgt. Ward said one of his reasons for requesting Korean action was to determine "what makes the North Koreans tick."
"The way they will be smoke on the water and the land and on the sea, when our Army and Navy meet the enemy is very true," he expressed his confidence that America will win this conflict too, basing his prediction on his observation of the nation's military strength.
The 40-year-old Sgt. Ward is a former resident of Sanford. He is attached to special Radio Relay Co., which is made up of old veterans of World War II. In spite of this Sgt. Ward feels he will see some action.
Sgt. Ward's duties will consist of repairing radios and operating radio-telegraph machines. He assures all his friends he is quite happy and feeling fine.

Life In Tripoli Is Like America, Says U. S. Women

By CARTER DAVIDSON
TRIPOLI, Nov. 26—(P)—Home life in Tripoli is just like suburban life in the United States with dirt, Arabs and language difficulties added—according to some Americans who are living it.

Some 380 of the 400 American families who are in Tripoli because of the military air transport service base at nearby Wheelus Field, are almost unanimous in liking their way of life.

"It's really not much different from life at home," says Mrs. Marilyn M. Stanley, wife of Maj. Stanley, Wheelus Field's Public Information Officer.

The Stanleys, formerly of Lexington, Miss., have an eight-year-old son and a six-year-old daughter, both enrolled in a "dependents' school" on the field. They live in a small villa they rented in this ancient Arab town of Tripoli, about seven miles from the field.

Wives of the officers have formed a "wives club" that meets each Wednesday and sponsors such projects as old clothes for Arab orphanages, bingo parties and rummage sales.

"Bridge, canasta and taking care of the household and the children take up the rest of the time," said one wife.

Many of the wives have jobs here, working either in the Wheelus Field Post Exchange and Commissary, or with a civilian construction firm now improving the field's runway and building new warehouses.

The dependents' school runs all the way from kindergarten to high school and has an enrollment of 170. The faculty includes four women teachers hired in the U.S., two wives of Wheelus Field officers, a lieutenant and a sergeant.

One of them is Miss Frieda Lipo, 7-year-old native of Pineville, Mo., and formerly a teacher in Columbus, Mo., schools.

She explains she took the job to get overseas teaching experience to train for a position with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. In off duty hours, Miss Lipo is studying art in Tripoli under Prof. Corso Malverna, formerly of Rome.

"The pay," she said "just about averages out the same as in the United States, plus the advantage of free travel." The salary is lower than in the U.S., but the low cost of living makes up the difference.

Dependent families living in Tripoli do nearly all of their shopping at the field commissary, but buy vegetables, eggs, and some items at the local market.

Eggs in Tripoli are 25 cents a dozen, tomatoes eight cents a pound, beefsteak 40 to 50 cents a pound. Top grade English woolens are expertly tailored into men's suits for up to $500, on the Coast Victoria, Richmond, Tripoli's only dressmaker.

Most of the American wives have at least one Arab servant, usually a "safaqi" or cleaning boy. Most of them prefer to do their own cooking.

One drawback because it would offend the Moslem religion, Tripoli wives are sternly admonished by their husbands "never wear slacks or shorts on the streets."

Cheaper Flying Rates Due For Trip To Europe

By WAYNE OLIVER
NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(P)—It appeared certain today that low priced air coach fares such as those in effect in this country will be extended to trans-Atlantic air travel come spring.

About the only uncertainty is the exact price for the service without frills—how much less it will be than the $711 present fare for round trip first class between New York and London. That's due to be ironed out tomorrow in Nice, France at a conference among United States and foreign air lines flying the Atlantic.

They probably will agree on one of two proposals:

1. That of Pan American World Airways for a $405 round trip coach fare all year.
2. That of Trans World Airlines for a $477 round trip during peak summer months and $307.50 during off-season winter months. A starting date of Apr. 1 is expected to be agreed upon.

The booming air coach business in the United States is expected to play an important role in the conference. All the major domestic lines now offer air coach service at lower cost, but with fewer frills and more passengers per plane than on regular fare flights. Most of them report air coach has brought substantial increases in business without hurting their regular first class passenger service.

Indications have been that the air coach service at lower fares has attracted persons who otherwise would not fly. Pan American says air coach service to Europe would have the same result—tap a new market. After seven previous unsuccessful attempts to obtain an agreement from other air lines, Pan Am announced several weeks ago that if the others wouldn't go along this time on a trans-Atlantic air coach service, it would go it alone at the $405 rate.

Air coach service really got its start in this country after World War II when the non-scheduled or irregular air lines started carrying passengers at cut rates, omitting some of the extras such as free meals offered by the regular air lines.

Pan American became the first scheduled air line to try air coach, inaugurating the lower fare flights to Puerto Rico in September 1948. Capital Air Lines followed suit a couple of months later on domestic routes and the coach service spread to other lines and other routes until it was practically on an industry-wide, nationwide basis in 1950.

Pan Am says its own business in Puerto Rico—from New York to San Juan—was trebled by air coach while first class service over the route continued to gain.

By 1950, says Pan America, the domestic air lines had gained $43 million in additional revenue, and first class service at the same time gained $14 million.

Two says its air coach business increased 38.2 per cent in the

All we ask is Test it 2 ways

1. Road Test a Mercury for Proof of Performance

We ask little of you. We ask you first to get into a Mercury and to drive it.

True, we can tell you here of a Mercury's performance. We can describe its handling, its roadability, its balance. We can try to explain all this by detailing its new-type springing, wide-view visibility, super-safety brakes, prize-winning V-8 engine.

We can write words until we run out of space and it won't tell you half as much as just a few minutes behind the wheel. We ask you to sit there soon. Then—we ask you to try it on your budget. We believe you, too, will want a Mercury!

2. Budget Test a Mercury for Proof of Value

Does it have a down-to-earth first price? Mercury's price tag is one you can understand—a big dollar's worth for every dollar invested.

Will you be sure of good gasoline mileage? Mercury has proved its more-miles-per-gallon by winning officially sponsored economy tests.

Is it famous for long life? It is indeed! 92% of all Mercurys ever built for use in the U.S. are still on the road, according to the latest official annual registration figures.

Does it represent solid value? Mercury owners say YES! So will you when you get the rest of the story. Drop in today and see.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

A good example is like a candle in the darkness, it can be seen a very great distance. Neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel.—Mat. 5:16.

All roads lead to Sanford tomorrow for the annual Christmas parade.

It's a poor day when some government official doesn't turn up with a wife in a mink coat.

In Kalamazoo, Mich., a baby was born the other day three minutes after its mother's death. The mother had polio. The baby is reported in good condition.

Senator Kefauver of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee has indicated his willingness to run for the presidency. He would get more votes than almost any Democrat we can think of.

The Defense Production Administration has allocated the use of more steel for the production of schools and hospitals, indicating the importance with which these institutions are viewed by defense officials.

"The purpose of Governor Warren's recent tour of Florida was to recoup popularity," says Jim Powell in the Tampa Tribune. For what? He can't run again. But maybe he just got tired of being at such a low ebb.

Allen Morris, author of Cracker Politics in the Orlando Sentinel, seems to believe that Dan McCarty is the man to beat in the gubernatorial race. "McCarty's position as the man other candidates must beat," says Morris, "was again emphasized in a statewide newspaper poll which saw 92.3 per cent of the participants listing the broad-shouldered cattlemen-citrus grower as their choice for governor."

Senator Taft denies that any special interests dumped campaign funds into his 1950 election efforts, charging that the millions spent by his opponent, contributed largely by the CIO, constituted the only effort that he knows of to buy that election. One of the peculiar mental twists of most politicians seems to be that the "money contributed to my opponent is tainted; but that to mine ain't."

Senator Fulbright who used to be something of a football player himself 25 years ago, now says "college football is a phony." "College football pretends to be amateur," he says, "but in reality it is not." Professionalism in football has taken the game away from the college students and given it to the professionals. It should be returned to the students where it belongs, win, lose, or draw.

Five automobile accidents over the Thanksgiving holiday, with three persons seriously injured finally culminated early Saturday morning in a collision between six Negroes in an automobile and a train at the Altamonte-Forest City crossing. All six of them were killed, four instantly. Fog may, or may not, have been a contributing factor in the accident. Speed certainly was. A person should never drive faster than he is able to stop within the distance he can see.

With the federal debt now past the 250 billion dollar mark, the legal limit of 275 billion is expected to be passed some time next year. Of course the ceiling will doubtless be raised by Congress, just to make it legal. But let's keep it from further increasing your dollar and your pocketbook.

Ready For 1952

The first presidential nominee for 1952 has been chosen. The Prohibition Party believes in taking time by the forelock and has already held its convention, choosing the cowboy evangelist Stuart Hamblen as its candidate. An effort to get a nominee of nationwide prominence failed when Douglas MacArthur declined to carry the party flag.

The Prohibitionists have never been able to cash in on the widespread dry sentiment of the nation. Though they have had some fairly well known candidates since their first campaign in 1872, they have never polled a substantial number of votes. In 1948 they had 93,000, and that was more than they have sometimes received. O. Lon Chaney, the Michigan party chairman, may be right when he says that they need a new name.

Once they did tip the scale in a presidential election. In 1884 they ran former Governor John P. St. John of Kansas, a Republican under whose regime the state had enacted its first prohibition law. He attracted the votes of many Republicans who disapproved of the G.O.P. candidate, James G. Blaine, but could not bring themselves to vote for a Democrat. St. John got 26,000 votes in New York State, many times more than the party's best previous showing. Blaine lost the state by 1,100 votes, when carrying New York would have given him the presidency. Thus the Prohibitionists may claim credit for the first election of Grover Cleveland.

The Need For Scrap

Scarcity of scrap metal, so prominent in World War II, again is hampering the steel industry. From the appearance of the great piles of metallic junk which accumulate between periods of acute need, it might be supposed that no use would ever be found for all of it and that metal was being wasted on a grand scale. Before the war scrap metal was exported in huge quantities. But now steel mills are sorely in need of it. Approximately half a ton of scrap goes into the manufacture of a ton of steel.

America has often been called the most extravagant nation in the world, because we do not often wear things out. We are inclined to use things until they break or become sufficiently worn to impair their appearance or efficiency, and then discard them in favor of new replacements. Yet in the case of metals we apparently do not discard things fast enough to keep up with the need to melt some of the old down to make the new.

Sometimes we are wasteful even with our scrap metal, however. Too often a discarded article is simply tossed aside out of the way, and forgotten. Those pieces of discarded scrap metal, simply rusting away in fields, garages and cellars, might make quite a difference in the supply. Scrap metal should not be permitted to lie idle, out of reach of the channels of movement to the mills. It should be turned over to the junkyards, from where it can be put back into production.

Christmas Card List

The number of Christmas greeting cards used in America each year amounts to an average of more than thirty-five for each home, according to the greeting card industry. The figure probably will seem low to most makers of family Christmas card lists, who find each year that the list somehow has grown by several names, and there always arises the question of whether to take the new list as it is or try to pare it down to the previous year's size.

We are likely to groan about it a little when the time comes to address the envelopes and put on the stamps, but we wouldn't have it otherwise for the world. The size of the Christmas card list is an indication of the human capacity to make friends and the human urge to share a bit of cheer and good will with them. It makes us realize, perhaps for the only time in the whole year, how many friends we really have.

Must Race Be Ignored?

The National Association for Advancement of Colored People branch at Rochester, N. Y., has asked the local school board to throw away a kindergarten book describing the adventures of "Little Black Sambo." It seems, according to the NAACP, the story is somehow "not good for human relations and democratic principles."

How this ancient little children's tale could be considered a touch against the Negro race mystifies us. As we recall, little Black Sambo was quite a clever tad who gave the devastating tigers to chase each other until they were melted down to butter. True, he was described as "black." "Negro" is the Spanish word for "black." And he was supposed to live in a jungle. As a matter of fact, many Negroes do live in the jungle. Where does this little story libel the colored race? Over-sensitively as to his race, a member of one race or another, unless by blood he is a combination of several. It is silly to deny that human beings are not subdivided in such a manner—just as silly as to deny that there are different breeds of dogs, cats or horses, each with distinguishing external characteristics. Yet many good people, anxious to eliminate racial tensions have tried to do so by asserting that a person's race should not be mentioned.

An intelligent colored educator in Tulsa recently questioned the newspaper practice of mentioning the race of Negro criminals. The Tribune's editor explained that newspapers also mentioned the race of distinguished Negroes, like Ralph Bunche, Marian Anderson, and Jackie Robinson, and that Negroes far from complaining, were proud to have their race associated with such people. Yet these could not be double standards. If good Negroes are to be mentioned as Negroes, so should bad ones.

When a man belongs to a race that happens to be in a minority in his community it is some journalistic practice to mention his race, since it is his most obvious distinguishing characteristic. It is a little more difficult to mention the race of a Negro who is in a majority in his community. But if he is mentioned as a Negro, it is no less logical to mention the race of a Negro who is in a minority.

DREAMING OF A WHITE CHRISTMAS

Santa Claus

Christmas Eve is just around the corner. Formerly, it was announced by Al Wallace, Jaycee parade chairman.

Bright balloons of all shapes, including that of Mickey Mouse, will be sold by the Jaycees to aid in the Orphan Christmas Shopping Tour, a Jaycee project designed to bring orphans to Sanford from all parts of this section, and to provide them with funds to buy Christmas presents.

Merchants who are sponsoring floats may pick them up tomorrow at the Mayfair Inn, garage. Andrew Stine, president of the Sanford Merchants Association, said this morning. He added that there are still a number of unsponsored floats available to merchants for entry into the parade. Small floats will be pulled by Boy Scouts in the procession.

Many cash prizes of $5 to $20 will be presented to kiddies of the one to five, six to nine and 10 to 13 year old age groups for the best decorated bicycles and other self-decorated vehicles in the parade.

Parade Chairman Wallace stated that many letters had been received by the Jaycees commending them for their work on the Christmas Parade.

One of these from a Sanford Tourist, Miss Julie Hartman from Chattanooga stated: "Last year was fortunate in seeing the Christmas Parade in Sanford, and it was the prettiest, the best planned Santa Claus Parade that I have seen in my lifetime. It was a large town than Sanford, and it is my home town but when it comes to staging a Santa Claus Parade, I'll hand it to Sanford. Now that we are approaching another Christmas season I am hoping you will plan another parade as nice and thrilling as the one you had last year. Anyhow I am sticking around to see what happens."

Starting tonight, the downtown section will be beautified by the lighting of the many colored lights strung over First Street and Sanford Avenue. The Florida Power and Light Co. is donating the current for the lights throughout the holiday period.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL EAY

You probably never thought of yourself as being one of Joe Stalin's little helpers. If anybody accused you of being one, you would probably kick his teeth out. Like a lot of other folks, you are inclined to believe that anyone doing anything to aid and comfort Stalin must necessarily be a Communist.

Unfortunately, such is not the case. Thousands and thousands of folks like you and me are unknowingly and unintentionally helping the cause of the Kremlin.

A lot of us have been thinking too much about "Heartbreak Ridge" in Korea and not enough about "Heartbreak Ridge" here at home.

You don't have to worry about the one in Korea. Our fighting men will take care of that. It is the one here at home we should be concerned about.

Stalin isn't very much concerned about Korea. He doesn't care how many Chinamen are killed or whether the line is north or south of the 38th parallel. Korea is just one little pawn in his international chess game.

He is concerned with the United States and what is happening here. One corrupt politician, crooked contractor, dishonest public official or radical labor leader means more to Joe than a thousand dead Chinamen.

But more helpful to him than any of these is the indifferent, selfish, apathetic average citizen. The millions of men and women who are not concerned, who are willing to sit back and see their country ravaged by petty politicians and pressure groups.

Those smug individuals who are content to ignore the destructive waste and extravagance, a general lowering of public morals and the placing of personal gain or advantage above that of the national welfare.

Men of little minds and lesser ability have been permitted to elevate themselves to positions of great power through the indifference of those who have failed to vote or who cast their ballots in the interest of selfish aims.

Disregarding the welfare of the nation as a whole, the ambitious, self-seeking politicians have learned that the easiest way to gain and retain power is to cater to a few minority groups that, through organization, have been able to swing elections and force their will on an apathetic majority who must eventually pay for it in tax tribute sufficient to meet the selfish demands of those power minorities.

The health of a nation is not advanced when the sovereign votes of the people are bought either from the individual on the street corner or the pressure group by legislative action.

America's "Heartbreak Ridge" today is Capitol Hill where the intended government "of the people, by the people and for the people" designed by our forefathers is besieged by minority groups and blocks, each demanding its "pound of flesh" without regard to the welfare of the national body.

The farmer must have his subsidies—what matter if crops rot in the field, surplus is dumped into the sea and God's abundance be cast aside. Labor must raise its gains and obtain higher and higher wages or coal will not be mined, trains will not run or ships will not sail.

Veterans and senior citizens must have their pensions and security and a hoard of bureaucrats must strengthen their hold on the national economy, bisecting the public treasury while the advancement of socialistic ideas and plans that history reveals have wrecked every nation as foolish as to adopt them.

Strong, forthright leadership is the nation's greatest need today. Such leadership can only come from an alert, aroused and militant people who are willing to sacrifice selfish interests, insist on a sound economy and unite to defend and maintain our Constitution and American way of life.

The hour is later than you think, the danger greater than you realize. Your thought, your voice and your vote are weapons at your command that can be effectively employed in the service of the nation. Use them to strengthen and safeguard America.

West Point Ears Reappointment Of Expelled Cadets

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—None of the 90 West Point cadets dismissed for cribbing last August will be considered for reappointment under a policy laid down by the Department of the Army.

This was disclosed today after at least three members of Congress re-nominated boys who had been ousted for violating the West Point code of honor by accepting or giving help to aid in passing examinations.

The adjutant general's office sent to each of three house members—Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass.) and Clegg (R-Ohio) similar letters stating that in view of the circumstances the boys would not be reconsidered for reappointment.

An Army spokesman told a reporter today that a flat policy has been adopted "by the Department of the Army" under which any cadet separated from the Academy because of an honor violation will not be reappointed even if recommended by a member of Congress.

The spokesman declined to say just who in the department drew up the policy. The adjutant general's office, he said, is merely carrying out this policy when it notifies members of Congress that the boys they nominate are being turned down.

The Army had previously said, on Sept. 28, that the discharged cadets could be re-nominated but that their acceptance would have to be approved by the Academy.

Rep. Davis on Oct. 16 re-nominated Ronald Clough of Waukegan, Wis., a senior honor student, one of the 90 dismissed. Davis said Clough was a superior student and received no information himself but merely helped out some of the football players involved.

The names of the boys re-nominated by McCormack and Clegg have not been disclosed. The spokesman said he did not recall whether any of the other cadets had been re-nominated.

Clough is now enrolled at Notre Dame. He is one of a group which accepted the offer by an unknown manufacturer who agreed to pay certain of the costs of any of the 90 who might enroll at Notre Dame.

The dismissals wrecked the Army's football team which this fall had one of its worst seasons in history.

Finally Police Capt. J. D. Latture remembered he had a cousin who once worked at the station. The cousin contacted an employee and Chadick didn't have to spend the night in the small room.

Czech Vice Premier

The Czech government shakeup was believed to have been linked with growing unrest in Czechoslovakia at the rising demands of the ruling Communists for greater production to feed the Soviet war machine. The demands on Czech economy created critical shortages and passive resistance among some of the workers.

An underground source reported from Czechoslovakia last month that the Slansky ouster came because the Gailis case backfired. The Czech Communists imprisoned and convicted Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis as a "spy," sentencing him to 10 years. The trial was denounced throughout the non-Communist world.

Slansky, editor of the Prague Communist newspaper Rude Pravo for 15 years, fled to Moscow when World War II started in 1939. President Gottwald went with him. Two were considered "Moscow Communists."

Gottwald himself took over the job of secretary general—party boss—when Slansky gave it up in September. Slansky became just one of a number of vice premiers. As vice premier, Slansky was to have the job of coordinating the nation's economic plans, reporting back to the Czechoslovak politburo.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—American officials and Czech exile leaders voiced belief today that the arrest of Czech Vice Premier Rudolf Slansky was due to an internal struggle for power in the Communist-run country.

Dr. Jura Slavik, former Czech ambassador to the United States, said Slansky was a rival of President Gottwald.

"Gottwald wants to be number one alone," Dr. Slavik said. "Slansky tried to be more Communist than Gottwald. He lost out. That's the way things happen in Communist countries."

"Factors in Successful Collective Bargaining."

"All too often the emphasis is out on breakdowns in collective bargaining," Humphrey's foreword said. "A useful background for legislation in the field, it was thought worth while to explore what most experts in the field agree is the more characteristic condition, successful collective bargaining."

"Many businessmen and economists," Peck wrote, "can find much in the reasoning of union leadership which seems to them incompatible with the successful operation of the private competitive economy and with its long-term welfare."

He added, "at the same time a fair appraisal of the progress of the industry during the period in which collective bargaining has been flourishing must lead to the conclusion that collective bargaining has been compatible with the needs of American industry. The probabilities are great that collective bargaining has contributed some positive benefits to our economy."

Peck said he found "the strike threat and its occasional use is essential to effective collective bargaining in competitive industry."

"Limitations on its use may be necessary in certain cases where the conditions of competitive industry do not exist," he continued, "or where a paramount public interest or an essential service must be continued. This is tantamount to saying that collective bargaining cannot be applied to certain definite spheres of our social or economic life."

The Associated Press learned today that the United Nations would be invited to meet in the Jan. 1 Gator Bowl football game at Jacksonville, and plans to accept the bid regardless of the outcome of a poll of the other 16 conference members requesting approval.

Several bowl officials announced several days ago that Miami's opponent would be announced in Jacksonville tomorrow. Playing in Miami's Orange Bowl last Jan. 1, Clemson defeated Miami, 16-14.

Clemson, it was learned, has polled the conference schools seeking permission, under conference rules, but school officials are expected to send the team to the Bowl no matter how the rest of the conference votes.

Townsend, who has lived here for nine years, recently was shifted to the weights section of the patrol over protests of local law enforcement officials and business leaders. He is now understood to be in either Orlando or Jacksonville.

"I didn't make the transfer policy," Kirkman said. "It is an established policy and I merely follow it."

Duncan said that he had been in telephone conversation with Attorney General Richard Bin last night, and that Bin had told him that the Cabinet would change the policy during the next 60 days.

"He told me," Duncan said to Kirkman, "that the Cabinet didn't intend to change the policy while the heat is on in the Townsend case. He said, however, that the Cabinet had delegated him to draw up a change for policy which would abolish the transfer regulation now existing."

One member of the group, who declined to be directly quoted, said that the whole "Townsend affair" originated five or six years ago when Townsend, in the pursuit of his duty, arrested a prominent Alachua county man on a drunk driving charge.

"This man said that," the speaker said, "that he'd get 'Doc' Townsend if it was the last thing he did and if it took every cent he owned to get Townsend out of the county and he has never given up. That's the rest of the story behind this meeting today."

Clemson Invited To Play Miami In Bowl

CLEMSON, S. C., Nov. 27—(AP)—The Associated Press learned today that Clemson College has been invited to meet Miami in the Jan. 1 Gator Bowl football game at Jacksonville, and plans to accept the bid regardless of the outcome of a poll of the other 16 conference members requesting approval.

Korean War

The two plans were in general agreement on four points: (1) Shooting to stop when an armistice is signed, (2) A joint commission to supervise the truce, (3) All forces to withdraw from the buffer zone and enemy territory after the armistice is signed, and (4) Armed troops to stay out of what was wanted.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, Chief U.N. Delegate, presented the seven-point Allied plan after hearing the Communist suggestions.

"We started the ball rolling by telling the Communists their proposal wasn't broad enough on the general principles (for supervision). Then we gave them an idea of what we wanted."

The Communists asked for an adjournment until 11 A.M. Wednesday (9 P.M. Tuesday EST) to study the U.N. plan.

The provisional line will become the cease-fire mark if negotiators agree in 30 days by Dec. 27—on terms of a full armistice.

Rides are free to keep up the ground, air and sea fighting during the 30-day period.

It was considered a certainty that air and sea warfare would go on unabated. A lull was expected in ground action on the theory it would be wasteful of men and materials to take new ground and have to give it up almost immediately in the event of an armistice.

An American Shooting Star was knocked down in the first battle Tuesday—a skirmish between 10 MiGs and about 12 of the slower Shooting Stars. Fifth Air Force said the pilot was killed. One MiG was damaged in that battle.

The four MiG kills came in the day's second fight, a clash between 10 U.S. Sabre Jets and 18 MiGs. One MiG was damaged.

It was one of the rare battles in which the American jets met the Reds on even or better terms.

Fifth Air Force said all Sabres returned safely.

The battle lasted nearly 20 minutes from 8,000 feet to ground level. It swung across MiG alley from side to side.

he did not know what the plans of the Giants are for a team here during the coming summer season.

Judge Stenstrom and the Jaycees committee, which included Cliff Ables, Carl Prisco and James Gut, Jr., asked City permission to carry on a campaign to raise funds toward construction of the proposed Tourist Building.

The Commission granted the Jaycees permission to conduct such a drive, indicating that they wanted citizens to feel that they would have a part in the project, plans and specifications for which are being completed by E. J. Beighton, pending the seeking of bids. No definite cost has yet been determined for the construction, but general estimates range from $5,000 to $10,000.

The Rev. J. E. McKinley told the Commission that he had been present at their meeting on Nov. 5, to object to gambling and improper shows held at the American Legion fair last year, but was not granted for the fair for the coming season as advertised by the Legion as the time that they would apply for it. The permission was granted at the meeting on Nov. 12.

Rev. McKinley agreed to confer with the Legion committee on the matter of the shows and gambling and to report back to the City Commission on the matter.

Repeating of a small circular park and of property owned by Col. Paul Chasterton in Highland Park, was approved. The Phillips properties were given tentative approval to revise lot widths in the Wynwood subdivision from 50 and 60 to 90 feet.

Cecil and Lowell Osler, developers, asked information as to the City's ability to install sanitary sewers as required by the terms of their option in the Bel-Air and San Lanta sections. They were advised that the State Board of Health will not permit additional sanitary sewer extensions until a sewage disposal plant is installed.

The Commission said City Manager McKibbin this morning, recommended that a survey be made of the lots to determine which might be served by septic tanks. Option of Osler Weller, Inc., to purchase 40 lots in the above named areas was extended to Dec. 12. It had been originally set to end July 1.

A resolution was passed requesting the County to abandon the application for park purposes of the east half of the block on which the Bell Telephone Co. intends to erect its new building at

How to make old roads seem NEW

PICK a road that you know by heart. Not too good a road. One that has some bumps—some unbanked turns—a tough hill or two.

Then get in touch with us, and let us put you behind the wheel of a Buick, with Dynaflow Drive.

Now you're all set for a new experience. You'll find out this:

Those bumps seem to lose their bobble! You just take them with a smooth and level stride.

Those unbanked turns don't seem so sharp, and those hills seem almost to flatten out.

How come? Well, a lot of things are different when you travel in a Buick.

You're riding on big, soft coil springs that let every wheel dance beneath you, without passing on the jolts to you in the car.

You're driving a car that's plenty inches broader than it is high—a sure-footed road-hugger if there ever was one.

And you're riding behind a Fireball Engine—Buick's time-tested version of a high-compression valve-in-head—engine that packs more power than most people ever need to use.

With this power—and Dynaflow Drive—you don't have to "rush" a hill or the bottom to soar serenely over the top. You just feel the power as you need it—climb with a sure, steady swoop without buck or bobble all the way up.

There's a lot more that we could tell you about a Buick. But such things as room, and comfort, the confident way it steers, and the way it shortens the miles are things you can best discover from personal experience.

So why not follow the routine already suggested? You supply the road—we'll supply the car—and let it speak for itself.

Ground War Halts In Korea On Order To Stop Shooting

Allied Headquarters Denies Sending "Shoot Only When Necessary" Order

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The sudden halt in the Korean ground fighting today caught most Washington officials by surprise today. But those who were in the line described it as a logical turn in view of the tentative agreement on a truce line. "There is no sense in risking lives in a situation in which ground fighting was obviously not needed," was the way one official put it.

By JOHN RANDOLPH
SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Both sides in the Korean war quit the ground fighting today. The U. S. Eighth Army troops received orders to stop shooting and they did so immediately. AP Correspondent Milo Farnell on the Western Front said he saw order and that it came from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters. The Army headquarters denied that it issued the order.

Farnell quoted a U. S. Third Division officer that Allied ground forces have stopped shooting at the Communists "for all practical purposes." The officer said an Eighth Army directive told Japanese front not to fire on Reds unless necessary.

"We are not shooting at them unless they shoot at us," the officer said. "I will be a period of watchful waiting while we see how serious the Communists are about stopping the ground war." The provisions concern the line to become a Japanese line only if negotiations reach complete armistice by Dec. 31. The officer said the Eighth Army order instructed all combatants to observe the truce.

Early Approval Is Hope Of Nippons In Jap Peace Treaty

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Prime Minister Yoshida voiced hope today that Japan's world peace treaty will be quickly ratified by the Japanese Peace Treaty and make his country "an active and useful member in the family of nations."

Yoshida's message was delivered by an envoy who turned over to the State Department an official copy of the treaty as ratified this month by the Japanese Parliament, and signed by Emperor Hirohito. Like a second document delivered to the State Department—a Japanese security treaty with the U. S.—the peace treaty was found in velvet and impressed with the imperial emblem.

Commies Refuse To Ban Military Buildup In Korea

Truce Talks Snag As Reds Also Oppose Inspection Teams

By ROBERT E. TUCKMAN
MUNSAN, Korea, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Communist truce negotiators flatly refused today to ban military buildups in Korea during an inspection team to police the truce. The Red stand led Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief negotiator for the United Nations command, to express suspicion the Reds might be planning to resume fighting after a temporary truce.

Joy told newsmen "the Communists came out in the open and said they were completely opposed to our principles" for inspection teams and guarantees against military buildups. "They brought up the question of withdrawal of foreign troops," Joy reported. "They said that withdrawal of foreign troops is the problem 'would be settled.'"

"You see what we are up against?" the admiral asked. "Truce negotiators spent most of Wednesday's session arguing over Allied demands that a truce agreement provide guarantees that military forces or equipment. "What is your objection?" Joy asked. "Is it that you intend to increase your military forces, equipment and supplies?"

Joy said if the Reds didn't change their position: "I can only assume that you intend to build up your forces for resumption of your hostilities at some future time at your own choosing." Joy explained: "We want to set up provisions so that hostilities cannot break out again before the government solve the fundamental Korean question."

Nam II accused Allies of seeking to "perpetuate an armistice" rather than solve the Korean problem. "The withdrawal of all foreign forces is a necessary condition for a complete and peaceful settlement of the Korean question," the North Korean said. This is to be done at a higher level. Nam II said that is where the buildup question should be settled, too.

The Communists said the ideas for inspection teams and buildup limitation were "inappropriate and impossible." United Nations negotiators said they were essential to preventing a resumption of the war. Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief of the U. N. truce delegation, said these two questions are the basis of the Allied proposal for supervising a truce. He added: "The U. N. Command will not (Continued On Page Six)

Willoughby Raps Six Columnists For Biased News

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—General MacArthur's former chief of intelligence has accused six newspapermen of "inaccurate, biased and prejudiced" reporting of the Korean war, and charged their writings give aid and comfort to the Communists.

The officer is retired Major General Charles A. Willoughby. In an article in the December issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, Willoughby named the six individual newspapermen and also criticized three news-magazines. He said they "appeared to go out of their way to create a defeatist thought pattern, and to belittle the country's armed forces."

Newspaper coverage of the war, Willoughby said, may have been the major factor in President Truman's decision to fire Gen. MacArthur.

Coroner's Jury Places Speeding As Cause of Six Negroes' Deaths

By KENT CHELMAN
Herald Staff Writer
"Possible excess speed" was the cause of death for six Negro fruit pickers early last Saturday morning in a car-truck crash near Forest City, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury handed down after a 20 minute deliberation at 3:20 P. M. Tuesday afternoon in the Seminole County Court House.

The jury was unanimous in its decision after listening for one and one-half hours of testimony. The six witnesses presented that from his experience with wrecks of tremendous impact, such as the evidence showed in this case, he would estimate the speed of the car in "excess of 65 miles per hour." Harrison said he felt that the car must have been going at least 70 miles an hour.

Judge Douglas Stenstrom, pointing out dangers to state and national governments from both within and without told members of the Pilot Club last night that democracy itself and the American form of government are in peril.

President Fires Revenue Collector At San Francisco For Failures In Office

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The Truman Administration today fired 31 officials and employees from its scandal hit tax collecting organization.

Top official to get the axe was James G. Smith, Internal Revenue Collector in San Francisco. He was already under suspension. Smith's removal by President Truman was announced at Key West, Fla., where the President is residing. Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said Smith was fired "for failure to manage his office properly."

As a presidential appointee, Smith could be ousted only by the President. Within half an hour after the Key West action, James H. Dunlap, commissioner of Revenue, announced here the ouster of 30 others as part of his drive to eliminate "soft" employees.

It was the biggest single shake-up since an investigation by a House Ways and Means subcommittee formed up a scathing indictment of corruption or inefficiency in many spots in the federal tax collecting system.

It brought the total score since the inquiry to more than 300. Three collectors, in charge of regional offices, fired. Three others resigned while under investigation. Sixteen lesser employees fired, and 6 resigned.

Dunlap did not announce the specific charges against the 30 employees he dismissed today but he said complete files on all the cases were being made available to the house subcommittee, headed by Rep. King (D-Calif.).

Dunlap said disciplinary action was taken against 300 employees in the past year.

He compared the words of Thomas Paine of Revolutionary War days when Washington and the Continental Congress were fleeing to Valley Forge. "These are times that try men's souls," with the times today that are also trying men's souls, stating that it is impossible for the average citizen to come to an intelligent conclusion because of demagogic "factories" in the country today.

The charges against Smith, he said, were the Communist infiltration of the Internal Revenue Service in 1938 there were 15,000 known Communists in the United States, while today there are 50,000.

He called upon all true Americans to do something about the situation by exercising their franchise and realizing that "the success of the American form of government are actually at stake. Every citizen should understand this fact" and also that "Christianity itself is on trial." He cited the fact that during the 1950 senatorial race in Florida 33 people in Seminole County voted by a write-in vote, for a Communist. "Don't think that Communism can't come into our small community, it has come into it already."
