Temps Threaten Citrus, Irk Winter-Weary Tourists

By United Press International
An overnight freeze predicted as far south as the Everglades threatened Florida's billion-dollar citrus industry and the cold irked winter-weary tourists. But forecasters said warmer weather is expected by Tuesday.
Meanwhile, power companies braced for record-high electricity usage today as Floridians warmed up this morning.
Predictions for the night called for lows around 10 across north Florida from the Panhandle to Jacksonville. In the citrus belt, forecast lows ranged from 12 in Volusia County to 22 in the northern Everglades.

"I would say tonight will be probably one of the coldest nights in history in Florida — certainly for December anyway," National Weather Service forecaster Ron White said late Sunday.
U.S. Agriculture Weather Service specialist Don McGlynn said temperatures across Florida's citrus-growing regions would drop below 28 for eight to 12 hours. Crop damage normally occurs if the citrus is exposed to those

'I would say tonight will be probably one of the coldest nights in history in Florida...'

temperatures for five consecutive hours, he said.
Citrus farmers attempted to protect their crops by pumping water over them. The water is generally warmer than the air and causes warmth rise, protecting the oranges and grapefruits. But growers said the water probably would do no good in such cold weather.

"Everyone will be out there pumping, and no one ever gets enough (water) in a freeze like this," said Dale Cassens, a Fort Pierce grower. "There were so many days of warm weather that trees are unprepared."

But warmer weather was in store. Lows Monday night were forecast for no lower than the 20s. The National Weather Service said highs in the 40s and above were in store for Tuesday for north Florida.
Earl Wells, a spokesman for Florida Citrus Mutual at Lakeland, said it was too early to make any assessment of damage to central Florida's billion-dollar citrus crop.
Wells said the chill early Sunday was the worst freeze since January 1982. Damage estimates in that cold snap reached $500 million.

Sunday was the coldest Christmas in history for Florida. Jacksonville's low of 11 was a record for the month. Daily records were set throughout the state.
Tourists who had fled sub-zero temperatures in the Midwest last week got out winter clothes they had worn on their way south as the temperatures dived from a high of 75 in Miami Saturday to 41. Beaches were deserted and hotel lobbies were packed as visitors looked for something to do.

Power Outages, Crop Damage

Record Cold Grips Central Florida

From Staff and Wire Reports
If you thought this morning was just about the coldest morning Central Florida has seen, you were right. The official all-time low temperature for Central Florida of 20 degrees was matched at Orlando International Airport. The 20 degree mark had been reached twice before, in January 1980 and in December 1962.
Farmers and citrus growers report crops have suffered extensive damage, and power companies were forced to begin rotational blackouts to avert total power failure and equipment damage.
There was an unofficial report of an 18 degree reading in Sanford this morning and that reading matches an unofficial report of an 18 degree temperature reported in the 1960s.
At 8 a.m. today a 10 mph wind chilled the temperature to 3 degrees and Sunday a 17 mph wind reduced the actual temperature to 8 degrees.
Central Florida power companies can't meet energy demands as customers drain energy supplies in an effort to fight the frigid cold. To help reduce the burden on power sources spokesmen for both Florida Power Corp. and Florida Power and Light Co., which both serve Seminole County, say that throughout today their customers will face rotational blackouts.

A rose may be a rose by any other name but when its petals are frozen it's not too soft as Van Beech, 70, of 1004 Elms St., Sanford, would agree.

The blackouts will generally last for 15 minutes or less, but Tracy Smith, of Florida Power said that as customers come back on the line the additional burden of so many heaters and furnaces running at the same time may cause other problems, which could extend the blackouts for an additional 30 minutes or more.

Bruce Burger, general manager of Florida Power and Light, Sanford, said that about 100 major energy users, who are on a curtailable rate plan, have been ordered to reduce their power usage. But residents home for the holidays and faced with severely cold weather are creating a greater drain on the systems than the energy companies can cope with, without cutting some service.
FP & L, which supplies power to north Seminole County faced a serious problem Sunday in Osteen, Deltona and Lake Ashby. Burger said that about 2,000 customers in that area were without power for up to 10 hours.
"It was like everybody turned on everything at once. The demand was double what we had ever expected to be peak demand," Burger said.
Florida Power and Light has been working around the clock to restore power to all customers that area, but Burger said that users will have to cutback their demand for electrical power usage to make it through this cold snap.

Getting a taste of their future as frozen concentrate, dozens of young Orange trees at Walter Meriwether Farms, East Celery Avenue, Sanford, were sprayed with water to give them a coating of ice for protection. Meriwether said the theory is iced trees stay at 32 degrees while outside temperature may drop further.

Not wanting to lose an opportunity to ice skate even if it is without blades, David Morgens, 13, left, and Jamie Dingle, 10, both of Sanford, look to the sidewalk today like hockey skaters. Their 'rink' was a bit small, but the duo gave it their best if only find out just how slippery ice can be.

EDB Crisis Topic Of Meeting

Sanford's Mayor Lee Moore said that the city's water crisis, caused by EDB (ethylene dibromide) contamination to six of 15 city wells, will be added to the agenda for the regular city commission meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall.
Friday the commission, in an emergency meeting, declared the city to be in a crisis state, because with additional wells pulled from the system citizens will have to conserve water until temporary water supplies can be found.
Progress made in that search for new water sources and other solutions to the problem will be discussed at Tuesday's meeting.
The Commission will also discuss downtown development, now that the suit that prevented Sanford from going ahead with plans to improve and beautify the downtown area has reached its legal limitations. John Mercer, who will speak for the Sanford Development Corp., said he expects the city to proceed with development plans since Aigie Speer, Sanford lawyer, is apparently at a dead end in his legal battle against improvement and growth in the downtown area.
The request of United Solvents of America, Inc., to rebuild its Sanford plant, which was destroyed by fire in November, will also be addressed by the commission.

Sanford Man Among Florida Highway Fatalities

A Sanford man was one of 14 highway fatalities in Florida during the Christmas holiday.
Michael Eugen Tyson, 20, of 320 Live Oak Blvd., died early Friday morning on his way to work when the car he was driving crossed the medium strip of Interstate Highway 4 in Orlando and struck another car. He was alone in the car, according to his father, Terry Tyson, also of Sanford.
Tyson died later the same morning at the Orlando Regional Medical Center. He was the only fatality from Seminole County during the three-day count.

At least 13 other people died on Florida roadways during the holiday and at total of 40 highway fatalities were expected by tonight, the Florida Highway Patrol reported as the 72-hour weekend entered its last day.
At least three of the deaths resulted from alcohol-related accidents, the patrol said.
The holiday weekend began Friday and lasts until 6 p.m. today.
There were 14 traffic accidents in

Seminole County since the period began, but, but no fatalities.
A 3-year-old boy from Tallahassee, Tony F. Tate Jr., was killed in St. Augustine Sunday when he dashed out from between two parked cars and was run over, the Highway Patrol said.
Katherine Dorsey Johnson, 45, also died Christmas Day when the car she was driving crossed the median of Cypress Creek Road in Pompano and struck a pole, the Pompano Police Department reported.

Edward Machado, 32, of Miami who was killed Sunday when the car he was driving was hit by another vehicle that ran a red light.
Pinellas Park troopers were investigating the death of Barbara Baker Rabaglia, 43, who was killed when she fell or jumped out of a car and was struck by another vehicle late Christmas Eve.
Bryan Shakley, 16, of Lakeland, Fla., was killed Saturday night when the car he was driving was struck headon by another vehicle that jumped the median.

Reed West Davis, 71, of Plymouth, Fla., was killed Saturday when he became lost and began pulling into a driveway.
Patrolmen said he then had a heart attack and the car slammed into another vehicle in the driveway and then careened into a nearby house. He died of his injuries, police said.
David Craig Sumner, 32, of Apopka was killed north of town Saturday when his speeding car went out of control into a ditch, overturned.

Health Behind Bars County Jail Boasts Superior Medical Care Program

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer
"Jails are notoriously bad as far as medical services go," said James C. Shoultz, director of corrections at the Seminole County jail. But Shoultz's facility boasts an outstanding medical department, which has won accreditation from the American Medical Association.
Shoultz said his concern for the health of the 10,000 inmates who annually pass through and become a part of an average daily population of about 250 at the jail is really an insurance policy for county taxpayers. "Most of the law suits against sheriffs and jail administrators are over poor medical care, over-crowding or food service. The majority are medical related suits, so it's very important for a jailer to protect himself, by having a medical program that meets all state and AMA standards established for jails.
"Once you have met those standards and own an accreditation you have an automatic defense against suits. They can't attack jail standards and any suit would have to be against a doctor for malpractice."
Shoultz, who earns about $30,000 a year for his administrative services, said that if sheriff John E. Polk can avoid one costly law suit, because of the accreditation, the program will have paid for itself, and will have provided excellent care for the inmates in the process.
When Shoultz stepped into his position one year ago the jail, which was just two years old, already had the basic equipment needed to meet all requirements. He said: "I haven't had to do much. I'm lazy and this has

'I Tell people not to complain about this jail until they've seen it for themselves.'
—James C. Shoultz

been the softest touch I've had in terms of operating a jail."
During his first few months on the job Shoultz, 64, added one nurse to the unit, at a cost of about $15,000 a year. That brought the staff up to requirements and Dr. Benjamin G. Newman the county medical supervisor and the jail physician wrote standing orders, which cover about 500 different medical problems, for the six person nursing staff to follow in his absence.
The county paid a $500 fee for AMA inspectors to visit the jail and check the medical unit. In October, Polk and Shoultz went to Chicago to accept the AMA accreditation for the jail, making it one of only three of the state's 67 county jails that qualify for this certification.

Shoultz, who was director of correction for Orange County for nine years, developed the state's first accredited jail medical facility there. Broward County also has a similar unit.
Sheriff's department comptroller Betty Simcoe said that last year the county spent $10,531 on medical supplies for the jail and an additional $38,155 was spent on outside medical care received by the inmates. Any inmate who has been injured or who is ill at the time of their arrest is not admitted to the jail until the arresting officer has taken him to an outside hospital for treatment. The county picks up the tab for this as well as for any required hospitalization or outside medical care the inmates need to survive.
Shoultz said he will not accept a prisoner with a health problem whose condition hasn't been certified by and treated at a hospital. This he said is another precaution against law suits.
The first thing a prisoner faces when brought into jail is an "eyeball medical exam" conducted by one of the five licensed practical nurses on staff or by nursing supervisor Carol A. Guemple, RN. And the first record made on a prisoner is a complete medical history.
If that history shows and existing condition, like a heart problem, the jail staff will confer with the inmate's doctor to determine what treatment that person will need while in jail. But Shoultz said that once a person is booked into the jail Newman and his partner Dr. Robert

Taxes Coming Down Some Social Security Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The last stage of President Reagan's cut in personal income taxes goes into effect Jan. 1, but some Social Security taxes also will increase.

And for the first time, wealthier recipients will pay taxes on part of their Social Security benefits.

The changes in tax regulations and benefits were ordered in several laws Congress passed since 1981 and that are just now becoming effective.

In a money-saving move, Congress ordered a six-month delay in cost-of-living increases for railroad pensioners and Social Security retirees, survivors and disability recipients. They get a 3.5 percent cost-of-living adjustment in January, with future adjustments also to be made in January rather than July.

Other moves to strengthen the Social Security system include requiring more Americans — including all new federal employees, members of Congress, administration officials, most federal judges and most nonprofit employees — to contribute to the system beginning Jan. 1.

But the most far-reaching tax change in 1984 will be the final installment of President Reagan's across-the-board tax cut, approved in 1981.

Drug Tests A 'Witch Hunt'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former member of the U.S. Olympic team says the International Olympic Committee is engaging in a "witch hunt" by enacting a stringent drug testing program.

But Dr. Roy Bergman, a physician for the U.S. Olympic team defended the tests. The two appeared on the CBS news program "Face the Nation" Sunday.

"We feel, from the Olympic Committee ... that it's a privilege to be on the Olympic team ... and one of the conditions to make the Olympic team will be to subject yourself to mandatory drug testing," Bergman said.

But a former Olympic silver medalist, who appeared anonymously on the show, said the International Olympic Committee's search for drug users amounted to a "witch hunt."

"I do think that massive use of steroids is wrong. I think the abuse of drugs is wrong. But used sensibly, it is a useful tool in getting stronger for your particular sport," the athlete said.

Christmas At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan spent his third consecutive Christmas in the White House without getting the gift he had wished for: peace in the Middle East.

The president and his wife, Nancy, gathered with family members and friends Sunday to open presents and feast on turkey, cracked wheat dressing and monkey bread, a traditional holiday favorite.

Insulated from the bitter cold and looking forward to ringing in the new year with friends, the Reagans planned to remain at the White House today before leaving Tuesday on a week-long trip to California.

Police Seek Gunman Who Killed Officer

MIAMI (UPI) — Police questioned suspects in shooting death of a police officer killed while trying to stop a holdup man, but officials said one questioned had been charged.

Officer Robert Zore, 25, was shot three times with his own gun as he struggled with the robber Christmas Eve minutes after a clothing store robbery. He died Sunday at South Miami Hospital at 2:50 a.m., more than eight hours after the shooting.

Police were on the lookout for a late-model Ford LTD, the unmarked police car Zore had been driving. It was stolen by the gunman along with Zore's .38-caliber service revolver, the weapon that killed him.

Zore was married and had one pre-school age child. He was a veteran of more than two years on the Metro-Dade County police force.

Blocked Firefighters

Oviedo Nurseryman Arrested At Fire

An Oviedo nurseryman was arrested this morning at 4:44 a.m. when he allegedly refused to allow firefighters to enter his property to extinguish a bonfire.

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy reported that the man refused to unlock a gate, which blocked access to the fire.

Stanley Thomas Lukas, 30, of 1500 E. Red Bug Road, posted $5,000 bond and was released from the Seminole County jail this morning. He faces charges of preventing or obstructing extinguishment of a fire.

A deputy reported that firefighters eventually entered the property off of Red Bug road, Oviedo, and put out the fire. It has not been determined who was responsible for the fire, the deputy said.

SHOVEL ASSAULT

A Pine Hills man was allegedly assaulted by a second Pine Hills man who attacked him with a shovel. Robert Allen Dyes, 23, of 3821 Robbins Ave., said he was attacked Saturday around 11 a.m. by a man who was digging a ditch in the backyard at 9409 Via Palma Cir., Apopka.

Dye's wife Ditra, 19, was a witness to the fight between her husband and a suspect named in the case.

The Dyes reported to a Seminole County sheriff's deputy that the two men began arguing and the suspect struck Dye in the head with a shovel. He was also hit in the leg and other areas of his body.

Dye was admitted to Florida Hospital South, where he is under treatment for head and leg injuries.

The Seminole County sheriff's department have scheduled interviews with other witnesses to the attack for Wednesday morning, a report said.

A LITTLE POT

A Longwood man who was stopped for careless driving on Longwood Lake Mary Road was charged with possession of a controlled substance after a sheriff's deputy spotted what appeared to be a small bag of marijuana and a resin-filled pipe on the front seat of his car.

John George Dimetry, 18, of 202 Markham Woods Road, who was arrested at 9:55 p.m. Thursday, posted a $500 bond and was released from the Seminole County jail Friday. He is scheduled for a court appearance Dec. 30.

The value of the marijuana was not determined, the deputy's report said.

home Thursday at about 10:30 p.m. and discovered that someone had entered their trailer home and turned on all four burners on their kitchen range.

The couple said they turned the range off and as they took their dog for a walk and noticed that a small fire had been set at the rear of their home, Seminole County sheriff's deputies said damage to the trailer was minor.

STOLEN CAR

A thief drove away in a $5,727 Chrysler that was parked behind a flower shop at 3895 Wekiva Springs Road, Longwood, Thursday at 2:45 p.m.

Gloria Beauchamp, 39, of 100 Hollyhook Drive, Altamonte Springs, said she left the car unlocked and the keys in the ignition when she parked it behind her business. The car belongs to Richark Kirkham of Fairway Chrysler, Orlando, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

CONSTRUCTION THEFT

A construction trailer at Fern Brook Trails, Howell Branch Road, Winter Park, was ransacked and about $600 worth of items were taken between 4:30 and 7:10 p.m. Wednesday.

William Schrader, 53, of Deltona, who is vice president of Wenco Development Corp., owner of the property, said the thief entered through a rear window of the trailer. A tape recorder, a calculator, two deadbolt locks, two shovels and a set of post hole diggers are among the items listed as missing on a Seminole County sheriff's report.

FLAG THEFT

An American flag valued at $40 and a $60 Cardinal Industries logo flag were stolen from the entrance of Rolling Woods Apartments, Casselberry around 3 a.m. Thursday. Manager William Romaley 57, of 2860 Red Bug Road, Casselberry, reported the loss to the Seminole County sheriff's department.

STEREO THEFT

Jennifer A. Perin, 19, of 144 Mill Run Drive, Lake Mary, reported that someone entered her locked car, which was parked at her home, and took a $300 cassette stereo. Ms. Perin reported that one window on the car had been partially open and the thief probably forced his way into her car through that window. The theft occurred between 12:30 and 8:15 a.m. Thursday, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

HOLIDAY THEFT

Two Christmas wreaths valued at $150 disappeared about 15 minutes after Roger F. Ancona, 48, of 1440 Suzanne Way, Longwood, put them on his door. The holly wreaths, adorned with red ribbons, were stolen about 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

BREAK-IN

James E. Giles, 51, hasn't determined the value of a shopping list of items a thief took from his Lake Monroe home between Dec. 16 and 21. He said his master bedroom was ransacked and the thief filled a pillowcase with a man's diamond ring, three sets of gold cufflinks, a diamond pendant, diamond earrings, a pearl necklace and ring, two rifles, three handguns and other items. A Seminole County sheriff's report said the thief apparently entered the home through a bedroom window.

COAT CAPER

Jewelry valued at about $3,600 has been reported missing from the pocket of a coat that was hanging in the bedroom closet of Roy J. Meadows, 43, of 180 Archer Point, Longwood.

Meadows said the theft occurred between Dec. 17 and 21.

In addition to the jewelry, the thief also took two boxes of Christmas lights, a chain saw and a telephone, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

CAR BREAK-IN

Sheree and Eddie Esch of 208 Acorn Lane, Longwood, reported that between 11 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday someone broke into a car parked in their driveway and took two speakers, two pairs of sunglasses, a wallet, a graphic equalizer and other items with a total value of about $300, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

CASH THEFT

A bank bag containing about $125 was taken in a break-in at the Sabal Point Golf Club, Longwood, between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 6:45 a.m. Wednesday. The thief broke a rear door window and cut a screen to enter the building, according to a deputy's report. Five sets of keys to the club were also taken, the report said.

...County Jail Boasts Top Health Program

J. MacMurray, are the ultimate authorities as far as medical care is concerned.

Shoultz said: "We give people survival assistance. We see that they receive whatever medical care necessary to maintain their health status, but we do not give elective treatment. If a person comes in with a condition they've had for 20 years and thought they could come to jail and get the taxpayers to pay for a cure they're wrong."

"We also do only emergency dental work, which means we eliminate pain and do extractions. If an inmate needs outside dental care and can afford to pay for it we can make arrangements for that."

Either Newman or MacMurray are on call 24 hours a day and hold a clinic in the diagnostic center of the jail two days a week. Newman is under contract with the county and receives $23,000 for his services to the jail and he pays MacMurray for his assistance.

The nursing staff of two men and four women receive a combined annual pay of $105,984. They hold a sick call for the prisoners on the days the doctors are not scheduled to work. In the medical unit there are 12 cells where sick prisoners are isolated from the general population and are treated, if they do not require hospitalization.

Ms. Guemple, who has been supervisor of the department for about one year, said she had never worked in correctional nursing before and took the job because she wanted daytime work. But she said: "I don't feel I'd ever leave it. You see such a variety of problems. Here I get to use my psychiatric nursing background and on rare occasion my maternity skills: that sort of thing. We try not to make a habit out of handling maternity cases."

"We've had only one delivery since I've been here. The child was born at Central Florida Regional Hospital and the mother was back in jail within eight hours after the delivery. The child was turned over IIRS (the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services). We definitely do not have and do not care to have the facility to handle infants here. There will be no nursery in this jail."

Maternity patients are cared for by doctors who work in the county health department clinic. They are, Ms. Guemple said, transported to the prenatal clinic under tight security.

About five percent of the jail's population is women. Shoultz said that the women there are generally involved in much more serious crimes than the average man in jail.

"I'd rather have 100 men to cope with that 10 women. They all have very special problems. Some of them are mean and vicious."

But Shoultz's current premier prisoner isn't a woman. In what Shoultz called "a very special cell for a very special prisoner," near the front booking section of the jail, confessed and convicted woman-killer Gerald Stano, wiles away his days in sleep on the floor.

Shoultz said: "In spite of the fact that a jail isn't the place for crazy people, we have a lot of crazy people here. We just added a psychologist to the staff about four months ago to help us deal with some of these people."

That psychologist, Dr. Dennis Phipps, spends six hours a week with the inmates. He is under contract with the sheriff's department and earns $20 an hour for his services.

There is also a special drug abuser program operated by The Grove counseling center. Shoultz said that about 30 percent of the jail's population is there as the result of involvement with drugs, either as a user or a seller. He said there are 16 volunteer inmates who participate in the counseling program. They have their own separate, structured society within the jail and spend 12 hours a day together "soul searching" and trying to work through their problems.

The nutritional needs of the prisoners are met with a six-week rotational meal plan that was developed by a hospital nutritionist. Shoultz said that the inmates receive 3,000 calories a day, which is 1,000 more than required to maintain health. "They get more than most people on the street eat," he said. "Anybody under doctor's orders can receive a special diet, also religious folks can receive a special diet, if we can determine that they didn't just join a particular sect the day before. We could adapt for vegetarians, but normally we just tell them not to eat their meat."

Three professional cooks and a supervisor are assisted in food preparation by trusty inmates.

Shoultz said that most of the inmates in his jail have not been convicted and retain all of their rights, except that they are locked up. He said that until they are convicted they cannot be ordered to work in the jail. But he said most inmates do work, which supports the jail, to break the boredom while they are imprisoned.

The prisoners, who are housed in three areas with 16 people per cell block, where there are a total of 240 beds, are under constant surveillance by cameras and audio monitors. Shoultz said his staff of 68 is adequate to secure the inmates. "We have a ratio of one employee to every four prisoners. The state institutions have a one-to-two ratio, but we have a nice modern facility and don't need as many people."

"This place is a business and has to be operated like one. It never shuts down, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. The inmates here have lost the most important thing they own. We get the smartest and the dumbest coming through here. I tell people not to complain about this jail until they've seen it for themselves."

...Freeze Grips Central Florida

Burger said that the demand for power was so great yesterday that rotational blackout were ineffective. He urged users to not use any unnecessary electrical appliances during this crisis and suggested that cutbacks in using electric dishwashers and televisions would be a good starting point for conservation.

Smith said that about 30,000 of Florida Power's 250,000 Central Florida customers will be affected by the power crisis. Florida Power Co. serves south Seminole County as well as portions of several other counties.

Casselberry topped the local list today of the city with the most cold-broken water pipes.

The below-freezing temperatures snapped 25 to 30 pipes in that city, according to a spokesman at the police department. Police were kept busy fielding calls on frozen pipes and power failures.

Lt. John Fisher, of the Casselberry Fire Department, said his department has received five or six calls relating to overheated gas heaters but no structure fires.

Altamonte Springs Police Department reported its greatest problem was dealing with four or five disabled cars.

Lake Mary citizens reported 12 broken water pipes and several complaints regarding the brown-outs but no other weather-related problems, said dispatcher Jan Behrens.

In Winter Springs, one ice-bound pipe was reported, according to dispatcher Ruth Little. The Sanford Fire department also reported one broken water pipe at Orlando Helicopter Airways at Sanford Airport. A Sanford police dispatcher said that department had received two frozen pipe calls.

Among the cities reporting no weather-related problems were Winter Park and Longwood. An Oviedo dispatcher said there was no way to tell until Tuesday if the city had any weather-related calls.

Southern Bell's Group Manager of Operators, Janice Lassiter, said there have been no direct weather-related problems with the operations of the telephone system. But she did say, however, that the 15-minute brown-outs in the central Florida area was said to be affecting the phone service. Ms. Lassiter said the difficulty some customer's had today contacting an operator was expected Christmas traffic.

Central Florida crops are suffering in the cold. "The damage is extensive, it looks like 1962," said Rex Clonts of Clonts Farms, Oviedo. "We had as much ice as I've ever seen (in the fruit). It looks like it will be a salvage operation for citrus growers. We'll have to pick it as fast as we can get it and will be lucky if we get it all. I expect there will leaf damage on the citrus trees, especially in high areas where the winds dehydrated the leaves. As for wood damage we'll have to wait and see."

He also said that there was damage to his carrot crop.

In Sanford, farmers were out inspecting freeze damage to their crops. There was ice in the cabbage heads, but if the warming trend is gradual they hope to salvage some of the crop. Many had young cabbage plants and other vegetables which were wiped out.

"The damage is pretty devastating," said Henry Schumacher of Schumacher Farms. "We won't know for a while, the cabbage is still full of ice, but it is very severe. I'll be tickled pink if we get half the normal yield. There was no lead in time and everything was tender. It went from September to January overnight."

"If it warms up too fast and there is high humidity or rain there will be fungus on the damaged tissue," he added. "Look for vegetable prices to go sky high, virtually all vegetable crops in the east, as well as Texas have been wiped out by the cold."

Seminole County's thriving foliage industry is particularly vulnerable to the cold weather.

At the Central Florida Zoo, special precautions had to be taken to protect some of the animals who need to have temperatures above 50 degrees, but a zoo spokesman said this morning the animals seemed to be in good shape in spite of the frigid temperatures of the last few days. Tropical birds had been brought inside, and the primates and other animals from tropical climates had to have their cages heated.

IN BRIEF

Japanese Prime Minister Gets New 4-Year Term

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone was re-elected to a four-year term today after bowing to demands he cleanse the government of the influence of his political mentor Kakuei Tanaka, who was convicted in the Lockheed bribery scandal.

Nakasone's re-election in parliament today ended a stormy week of back-room negotiations in the wake of embarrassing parliamentary elections during which his pro-Western ruling Liberal-Democratic Party temporarily lost a majority in the Lower House of the Diet, or parliament.

Earlier today, in the first step toward reorganizing the government, Nakasone's entire 21-member Cabinet resigned and the prime minister prepared to announce a new lineup.

The 65-year-old premier, first elected chief executive in November 1982 on a platform of closer defense ties with Washington, won 266 of 509 ballots cast in a roll call vote in the law-making Lower House. Two members were absent from the 511-seat chamber.

His closest rival, Socialist Party Chairman Masashi Ishihashi, got 113 votes while leaders of other opposition groups each collected a small share of votes.

Lebanese Truce Shattered

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Muslim militiamen attacked Lebanese government troops around Beirut's southern suburbs today, shattering a short-lived truce and forcing thousands of civilians back into basement bomb shelters for a second day.

A Lebanese army spokesman said the government troops came under rocket-propelled grenade and heavy machine gun fire in the Farhat Street neighborhood outside the Chatila Palestinian refugee camp.

"The cease-fire was holding until the sudden attack. Contacts are under way to contain the violence," a Lebanese army spokesman said.

The shooting was the worst in the city since a cease-fire was declared Sept. 26 between the government and the country's warring Christian and Muslim factions.

A hospital near the front line of the fighting between the army and the Amal, a Shiite Muslim militia, said it received 18 dead and 10 wounded in Sunday's fighting. The Muslim Murabitoun radio station reported at least 50 people killed in the fighting in Beirut's southern slums.

No American casualties were reported.

Jordan, Egypt Sign Pact

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — Jordan signed a new agreement to upgrade trade relations with Egypt and end a nearly five-year economic boycott.

Cairo's second move in a week away from its isolation in the Arab world.

The trade protocol was signed Sunday on Jordan's behalf by Industry and Trade Minister Walid Asfour and for Egypt by Economy and Foreign Trade Minister Mustafa Saeed.

"The agreement represents a progress in economic relations to what existed prior to the recent boycott," Saeed told a news conference at the Amman Chamber of Commerce before signing the agreement.

"We hope to resume trade relations with all the Arab countries during the coming year," he said.

Warning

Jackson Told To Stay Mum On Case Of Shot-Down Flier

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House is signaling Democratic presidential hopeful Jesse Jackson to stay out of the case of a Navy flier shot down over Lebanon and being held by Syria.

White House spokesman Mark Weinberg insisted Sunday that the administration is pressing for the release of Lt. Robert Goodman despite Jackson's suggestions to the contrary. Goodman was shot down over Syrian-held territory in Lebanon Dec. 4.

Calling Goodman's captivity in Syria a "source of tension," Jackson said Sunday in a telephone interview from Chicago that he would go to Syria next week after a briefing from the State Department Tuesday.

Jackson said he received a telegram on Christmas Eve from Syrian Ambassador Rafiq Jouejjat that said he would be allowed to travel to Syria with a delegation of his choosing.

"I am most pleased to bring to your kind attention that the government of Syria extends to your reverence their warmest welcome and also to the members of the delegation you deem fit to have with you," Jackson quoted the telegram as saying.

Weinberg, in response to Jackson's criticism, said efforts were being made through diplomatic channels for Goodman's return.

"At the president's direction, diplomatic efforts are under way, as they have been since Lt. Goodman's capture, to secure his release," Weinberg said.

"History has proven that efforts of this type have a better chance for success when they are not politicized," he added.

The White House statement came amid reports that presidential envoy Donald Rumsfeld did not raise the Goodman matter during recent talks with high-level officials in Syria, contrary to what Reagan implied during a news conference last Tuesday.

Pope's Christmas Message:

Arms Race Halt Could End 'Sorrow' Of World Hunger

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II issued an impassioned Christmas plea to the superpowers to end the arms race, saying just part of the funds now spent on weapons could end the "unspeakable sorrow" of world hunger.

Some 80,000 pilgrims gathered in St. Peter's Square Sunday to hear the pope's Christmas message, breaking into applause when he prayed for "the men and women who are dying of hunger while enormous sums are being spent on weapons."

The pontiff will carry his quest for reconciliation and redemption Tuesday to Rome's Rebibbia Prison, where judicial authorities said he will conduct a prayer service for 1,000 inmates.

He also will meet with Mehmet Ali Agca, the Turkish terrorist who shot him in a failed assassination attempt May 13, 1981.

Speaking from the main balcony of St. Peter's Basilica after celebrating a Christmas morning mass, the pope delivered Christmas greetings in 43 languages, including English, Russian, Swahili, Chinese, Arabic, Bulgarian and Polish.

But his "Urbi et Orbi" or "To the City and the World" message, televised to 35 nations, also dealt with sober political and social realities.

Dressed in white vestments with a gold-trimmed white mitre on his head, the pope raised his voice to a hoarse shout to say:

"Look upon the unspeakable sorrow of parents witnessing the agony of their children imploring them for that bread which they have not got but which could be obtained with even a tiny part of the sums poured out on sophisticated means of destruction, which make ever more threatening the clouds gathering on the horizon of humanity."

Police Fear Blast May Signal More IRA Terror

LONDON (UPI) — Police feared the Irish Republican Army would continue a Christmas terror campaign into the post-holiday period, saying a bomb blast that injured two people in a popular shopping district may be a warning.

The Christmas Day blast in the largely deserted Oxford Street area came eight days after the IRA set off a bomb at Harrods department store that killed six people — and police said it might be a sign the bombers were not finished.

"It is too soon to say definitely the IRA was responsible but indications are that they were," said Commander Bill Huckleby of the anti-terrorist squad.

"We think the device was put there in order to let us know that they are still there."

Bomb disposal vehicles searched central London Sunday night for more devices as police gradually reopened the area sealed off late Christmas Day after the blast detonated.

A police spokesman said no warning was given for the bomb, which went off in a trash can on Orchard Street, just off Oxford Street.

U.S. Should Not Pull Out Of UNESCO

The U.S. government is threatening to pull out of the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization.

UNESCO was founded to promote development of schools, cultural institutions and scientific discoveries in underdeveloped nations. It has done a difficult job of bringing the most modern discoveries to the most remote villages.

But in recent years, the UNESCO headquarters in Paris became a bearbaiting ring, with the non-Western majority charging the United States millions of dollars a year in membership fees to be the bear. Arab nations used UNESCO as a propaganda tool to flog Israel and threaten it with expulsion. Third World countries, like Iran, angered by news coverage by the Western media, sought to write rules for international news reporting. These rules would amount to U.N.-sanctioned censorship.

At a recent meeting of UNESCO, the Reagan administration said enough is enough. Either UNESCO stop its press censorship effort and curb its budget or the United States would pull out.

That threat is not trivial. The United States pays over $70 million a year to maintain UNESCO — one-third of the UNESCO budget. If the U.S. delegation exited, the integrity of the organization would be compromised. It would also lose many American specialists working on UNESCO projects, doing the important tasks for which UNESCO was founded.

UNESCO reacted to the U.S. threat by a change of tone at the last meeting. The anti-American rhetoric was largely absent. Press rules were tabled.

Despite these improvements, the Reagan administration is considering whether to pull out altogether. The deadline for the decision is Dec. 31.

Freedom House, a non-profit watchdog of human rights in foreign countries and a frequent critic of UNESCO, says the United States should stay in the organization and use its vote and its financial leverage to influence UNESCO policy. Instead of pulling out, it urges the United States to monitor UNESCO activities more closely and report its concerns on an ongoing basis to the directorate.

UNESCO's real accomplishments have been drowned out by rhetoric. So many schools, museums and laboratories need to be built. America should stay in the organization and fight for its values, not pull out and put its head in the sand.

Recall Flight 007

So much has occurred since Sept. 1 when the Soviet Union callously shot down a Korean Airlines Boeing 747 jumbo jet, killing all 265 persons aboard. In recent weeks, Grenada, Lebanon, Euro-missiles, "The Day After" and more have dominated the front pages and television news. So it has been easy to forget the atrocity committed with impunity only 15 weeks or so ago.

To be sure, President Reagan and other Western leaders had harsh words for the Kremlin. But no action matched the rhetoric. Americans showed their anger in spontaneous grassroots protests and demanded measures to punish the Soviets. Nevertheless, it's been business as usual. And, the Russians still exhibit no sign of contrition. Incredibly, they continue to maintain the plane was on an espionage mission.

The rest of the world knows this to be mere fiction. Any lingering doubt on that score should have been put to rest when, after a thorough investigation, the international Civil Aviation Organization rejected the Soviets' spy mission allegation. The ICAO found that the Korean plane had unintentionally strayed into Soviet airspace.

Even so, the Soviets seem to have been let off the hook.

The White House, preoccupied with other matters, says nothing more about Korean Airlines flight 007.

Meanwhile, the relatives and friends of the 265 murdered KAL passengers grieve on without comfort over the barbarism of Sept. 1. The rest of the world should not forget either.

The United States and all other civilized nations should insist the Soviets at the very least provide financial restitution to the victims' families.

CUSTOMER SERVICE?

"Am I to assume this means you can't handle another return or exchange?"

By Susan Loden

If you receive interest on savings or dividends from investments watch your mail between now and Jan. 1, because you should be receiving a card from the payor of that money asking you to supply or confirm your IRS tax number (usually your social security number) for your account.

After Jan. 1, financial institutions are required by the IRS to withhold 20 percent of the interest or dividends paid to persons who do not have a tax number on file or who have an incorrect number on file with an interest or dividends payor.

This is the result of action taken in October, by Congress, after the rule ordering institutions to withhold 10 percent of interest and dividends earned (an effort which was intended to cut back on tax cheating) was dropped in July.

The 20 percent withholding, called backup withholding, can be applied to the taxpayer's liability when 1984 taxes are due. But if the IRS determines that the error was intentional, through comparing dividends and interest forms filed by banks and corporations against 1040 forms filed by taxpayers to make sure the tax numbers and the payments and liabilities match, a fine will be assessed against the taxpayer.

Merlin W. Heye, district director of the IRS said the penalties for failure to report taxable interest and dividend income have been stiffened. Failure to report this income will constitute negligence and a negligence penalty of 5 percent of the underpayment that is attributed to under-reporting will be assessed against the taxpayer. An additional penalty of 50 percent of that 5 percent fine will also be charged.

Once invoked, in most cases, the backup withholding will remain in effect at least until the beginning of the next year. Taxpayers, except those who do not have a proper number on file with payors of interest or dividends, will receive at least four notices before the IRS will order a financial institution to withhold 20 percent of the taxpayer's earnings. If you do not have a proper number on file now, that withholding will start on Jan. 1, 1984.

Before ordering backup withholding IRS agents will consider several factors: If the underreporting has been corrected they will not pursue the case; if there is a bona fide dispute as to whether underreporting has occurred they will wait until the dispute is resolved before continuing with the withholding; if it is warranted; and, they will make considerations for hardship cases.

If you have questions about your tax number or about the backup withholding rule contact the financial institution or the corporation that pays your interest or dividends and clarify your situation, before Jan. 1.

An Open Letter To Tip

NEW YORK (NEA) — Dear Tip: Many thanks for your letter. It isn't often that a lowly conservative like me gets a communication bearing at the top the Great Seal of the United States, followed by those resounding words:

The Speaker
United States House of Representatives
Washington, D.C.

And then you addressed me as your "Friend." As far as I can recall we haven't met, but I guess maybe you've seen some of my columns, eh?

Anyway, about your request that I become a Contributing Member of the Democratic National Campaign Committee: I dunno, Frankly, Tip, your arguments are a little slippery. For example, you say, "President Reagan always proclaims that his tax policies are absolutely equitable to all. But it's simply not true. The fact is that since he took office the income of America's richest families has risen by a handsome 6.7 percent."

Now, it's downright impossible to know what you're really saying there. Was it solely lower taxes that produced this alleged rise in their "income"? Or, does that tricky word "income" include all sorts of things that had nothing to do with? If so, what's the relevance? Anyway, as everybody knows, in 1981 President Reagan pushed through Congress a major reduction in everybody's taxes over a period of three years — 5 percent, 10 percent and 10 percent, remember? What was he supposed to do reduce taxes less, or not at all, on those who pay the most?

And, by the way, Tip, it's very misleading to say, as you do in your letter, that "Families who earn over $80,000 a year will save an average of $15,130 in taxes. The truth is that the average person earning, say, $85,000 a year will save less than $5,000 in taxes. You inflate that to "$15,130" by averaging the tax savings of such people with those of much bigger taxpayers like Ted Kennedy and Averill Harriman and Jane Fonda.

Anyway, Mr. Speaker, your conclusion in the letter is that what America needs is still more Democratic congressmen, and I'm not so sure about that. You complain about the budget deficits that have developed under the Reagan administration, but there is not one word in your whole four-page letter about raising taxes in order to reduce these deficits. In fact, you seem to be promising that more Democrats will spend still more money — and thus produce still higher deficits — in order to "guarantee" that every American is safe from "unemployment... malnutrition... ill health... and other assaults." If we still aren't spending enough on these problems, Mr. Speaker, what's "enough" and who's going to pay for it? Your letter doesn't say.

As a matter of fact, O'Neill, the more I think about your pitch the more deceptive I realize it is. Your letter starts out with a frank appeal to envy: lots of talk, most of it misleading, about "America's richest families" (your italics).

Very truly yours,
William A. Rusher

Drug Firm Wants Painkiller Back

WASHINGTON — It takes a corporation the size and strength of Johnson & Johnson to survive the evaporation of $100 million. That's the estimated loss in profits and damages from the publicity over the poisoned Tylenol capsules.

Now just as the pharmaceutical company is climbing back from the brink, another product has attracted unwelcome headlines. It's the painkiller Zomax, which has been associated with 10 deaths and 2,161 mild-to-critical allergic reactions among consumers.

At least that's what the Food and Drug Administration alleges in the files it has kept on the popular painkiller during the two-and-a-half years it has been on the market. The harried company withdrew Zomax from the market last March, but it is eager to get the medication back on drugstore shelves.

OUR READERS WRITE

Reader: Polygraph Valid

Your editorial blast at the polygraph in general, Dec. 21, although accurate in many respects, omits very important facts, either inadvertently, or deliberately, and leaves the impression with readers that the polygraph is not a valid scientific instrument. The general tone of this editorial is all but "hysterical," in my view.

The fact that questions are asked which are not what are called "relevant questions" is an absolute necessity in order to establish a pattern to determine when a particular question evokes an abnormal response on the four separate recording needles used in the test.

Your statement "there is never any guarantee what questions will be asked," is totally false. A qualified polygraph operator goes over every question in a pre-test interview so the subject knows exactly what is going to be asked when the test begins. All questions must be carefully phrased so that a "yes" or "no" response can be given.

As an example, among the general questions may be age, date and place of birth, education, present address, etc. None of these questions should evoke an emotional response, but they must be asked in a way so that they can be answered "Yes," or "No." Thus the polygraph examiner would ask, "Are you now living in Sanford, Florida?" "Were you 29 years old on your last birthday?" "Are you now employed as a teacher in a Seminole County school?" Then comes a "relevant question": "Have you personally used any illegal drug in the past sixty days?" Following this "relevant question" a series of non-relevant questions will follow, to establish if there is a different response in the various areas of involuntary body functions in the relevant question when compared to the questions which should not evoke any emotional reaction. Such a test will normally last at least thirty minutes, and the relevant question will be repeated in different wording at least three or four times to get a true reading.

In only a few instances, which in all cases work in favor of the person being tested, an "inconclusive" reading will result due to the fact that either all questions evoke responses, or that even "test" questions used to prove the person can and does react when he or she is lying, fail to evoke a response. Only about two percent of the population fall into a category where a polygraph test will not yield usable results. When complaints about prying into "personal privacy" are voiced, this is always when the person examined either did not understand the purpose of such "test" questions, or deliberately chose to attack the polygraph procedures for ulterior reasons.

The "test" questions are questions which should evoke an emotional response, and are always discussed with the subject beforehand to assure that there is some area in the person's life where a "secret" of some kind has enough emotional impact to produce a result when the polygraph test is taken. This type of question is solely for the purpose of establishing that the subject will respond in such a manner when he or she is lying to produce a positive result on the polygraph instruments, and not for "prying" purposes as often is charged.

So let's get the record straight, at least on the question of how a polygraph examination is conducted. As to its validity in pre-employment screening, that is not the point I am taking issue with, and for the most part I will agree that this is probably not an area where the polygraph can be of the most assistance. In dealing directly with the drug peddling problem in schools, which is where War on Drugs, Incorporated, shall push for its use, it is a very valid method of seeking out persons with what polygraph operators call "guilty knowledge." The public will be hearing more about that later — unless, of course, the "press" chooses to give this new non-profit corporation's activities a total "news blackout" as it has to date!

RUSTY BROWN

Women In Shogun Society

TOKYO (NEA) — The traffic jams are horrendous. The city blazes with neon lights. "Sophie's Choice" is at the movies and the Washington Ballet is coming next month. There's a McDonald's around the corner and a local theater company is staging "Cats."

This is not Chicago or Los Angeles. It is downtown Tokyo — as American as baseball, Apple II and Calvin Klein.

But for all its modernization, in one very important respect a visit to Japan is like going back 30 years. I became aware of this disparity when talking to Japanese women. They remind me of U.S. women in the '50s — before the women's movement.

The majority of Japanese women focus on marriage and family. They are not particularly interested in careers, political activism or equal rights. There are some independent and professionally successful women — one of whom I spent an evening with — but they are exceptions.

There are feminists but, for the most part, they are closet feminists. Anecdotes illustrating this fill the pages of Susan Pharr's new book, "Political Women in Japan" (University of California Press).

In one incident, a young woman waited until midnight to put up political posters so no one would see her. She said she didn't want anyone to think her parents had raised her badly.

A woman in an anti-pollution rally tied her hair back and wore wraparound sunglasses hoping no one would recognize her and tell her husband. She knew he would laugh at her for taking a stand and "trying to look strong."

The Japanese tell me almost as many women as men attend college, yet few get jobs other than as clerks or secretaries. One survey of 1,700 companies turned up 400 that won't even interview female graduates. Executives say these women tend to be "headstrong and leave soon to marry or have children."

Laws forbid women to work overtime or at night, and large numbers find only part-time jobs with no benefits, no minimum wage. I was told that female government workers in one area must arrive at work 30 minutes before the men to get the tea ready — at no extra pay.

While most women here seem reasonably content with the status quo and have no intention of making waves, one woman I met stands out. She is Mari Nakayama, 32, a career-minded executive with Mobil Oil of Japan.

She makes $23,000 a year and is the only woman planning analyst. She tries to predict gasoline sales and, among other things, how much oil will be needed by iron and steel companies in coming years.

"After college," says Ms. Nakayama, "I was lucky to get a receptionist's job at Mobil, a company that because of its Western ties gives more opportunities to women." She soon rose to secretary and after four years sought more responsibility.

She took Mobil's annual exam for advanced degree scholarships, which are awarded to the top three scorers.

BUSINESS IN BRIEF

Strickler Elected To Freedom Bank Board

Sanford Southern Bell manager Larry P. Strickler has been elected to Freedom bank's Seminole County Advisory Board.

Strickler serves as area manager for Southern Bell's Corporate and External Affairs and his career encompasses ten years management experience with Southern Bell in Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and Orlando.

"We are pleased that Larry has accepted this appointment. His supportive contributions in Seminole County make him a valuable asset to Freedom," said Robert M. Klinger, Freedom president, Central Florida Division.

Strickler serves as president of the United Way and is a board member of the Private Industry Council, as well as a member of the Seminole County School Based Management Task Force, Junior Achievement, and the Rotary Club. Holding a Bachelor's degree from Carson Newman College, Strickler, 36, is a native of Kingsport, Tennessee. He and his wife, JoAnn, and their two children reside in Sanford.

Sanford By Gaslight Supper Club To Re-Open With New Orleans Motif

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The Gaslight Supper Club and Restaurant will open Tuesday, Dec. 27, at 119 Magnolia Ave. in downtown Sanford, in the building previously occupied by Mr. P's Supper Club, until it closed a few years ago.

The club has been completely renovated and redecorated in a New Orleans motif—complete with gaslights, parquet floors and wrought iron.

A gala New Year's Eve celebration is planned for Dec. 31 with unlimited champagne, party favors, and a choice of prime rib or filet mignon.

Flora Buzlea, who also owns the triple-screen University Drive-in Theater in Orlando, is the new owner.

Nick Monte, who was

'We're not a bar or a nightclub, but a place to go for quiet dinner and dancing.'

formerly manager/maitre d' at Mr. P's, will be the manager of the Gaslight. He said he will be doing some singing as he did at Mr. P's and the Deltona Inn.

Monte managed lounges in Ormond Beach and at the Deltona Inn prior to his return to Sanford. He predicts The Gaslight will be a "success."

There will be three dance floors and live entertainment each night, Tuesday through Saturday, by a four-piece band.

"The Gaslighters," which will specialize in the "big band" sound.

Specialty acts are to be offered from time to time, he said.

Lunch will also be served Monday through Saturday beginning at 11 a.m. There will be a full dinner menu, salad bar, wine list, and full bar service. Dinner is served beginning at 6 p.m.

The club, including seating in the balcony, will accommodate 300 persons.

Except for two alcoves, every seat in the house has a view of the stage, according to Dave Buzlea, son of the owner, who will be helping operate the club.

"We're not a bar or a nightclub, but a place to go for quiet dinner and dancing," Buzlea said.

Fighting Big Mac

By Jeffrey J. Simek

FREEMONT, Maine (UPI) — Residents calling themselves "The Mac Attack" have apparently lost their battle to keep McDonald's out of this small community, but did persuade the hamburger chain not to put up its golden arches.

After more than 25 hours of public testimony early this month, the opposition group's bid was quashed by the Freeport Zoning Board of Appeals, which granted McDonald's a conditional use permit to build its restaurant, with modifications.

"This was the last chance to save our neighborhood," said Gordon Hamlin, a spokesman for "The Mac Attack" who lives near the site, a 19th century mansion. "It wouldn't surprise me if a number of houses go up for sale."

The group can appeal the town's

'This was the last chance to save our neighborhood. It wouldn't surprise me if a number of houses go up for sale.'

decision to Superior Court, and Hamlin said Friday, "We're looking at it."

As the fight against the Chicago-based McDonald's Corp. progressed, several concessions were made in an effort to accommodate community concerns.

The corporation hired an architect who designed plans to retrofit Gore House, the mansion that was first to be demolished to make way for the fast food restaurant. It is located on Main Street, several blocks from L.L. Bean, the famous mall order sporting goods store.

McDonald's also agreed to erect a modest wooden sign in lieu of the traditional plastic yellow golden arches that dot thoroughfares across the country. Plans for a drive-through window and a playground were scuttled by town officials.

"I live in this town, and I'm comfortable with it. They belong in this town, they will fit in this town, and they will be an asset to this town," McDonald's attorney James Palmer said. "I would not want to look at it as a monument to my selling out."

Town Manager Dale Olmstead said he "tried to stay out of this because it's a no-win situation for an appointed official. But now that it's over, my personal opinion is that McDonald's had selected the wrong area."

While Freeport, an affluent community about 15 miles north of Portland, boasts a citizenry of only about 6,000, it attracts nearly 3 million tourists each summer — prime "Big Mac" customers.

Hamlin said the town has "granted carte blanche to any developer."

But Olmstead said, "I don't think we'll see the domino effect of a dozen fast food restaurants."

Julian Leslie, a 37-year resident of Freeport said there can be only one reason the town fathers would allow McDonald's to move in: Money.

"They don't take the money directly. But the moment they can get it into the coffers they can use it for higher salaries and paving streets," he said. "They call this progress."

Service Firms Glum On Overseas Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — A survey of U.S. service companies operating overseas shows many believe foreign countries have stacked the cards against them, with little likelihood that extended efforts will be worthwhile.

"We were surprised to find that so many respondents do not consider themselves to be potentially attracted to international trade," said Joseph E. Connor, chairman of Price Waterhouse.

"If we are building a service-based economy and a major segment of business does not see the advantage of international trade, we are not going to be competitive."

The survey in August and September by Price Waterhouse of 76 businesses listed in the Fortune 500 list of service companies included banks, financial services, diversified services, life insurance companies, and retail, transportation and utilities firms.

The pessimistic findings included 64 percent who said foreign barriers to trade in services are an increasing problem, and 72 percent who believe other countries are taking unfair advantage of the United States' open services trade policy.

"About 85 percent of the respondents were only guardedly optimistic about future services trade," the survey concluded. "They expect it to increase only moderately, remain essentially flat, or decline."

"This is significant in view of the fact that over half of those replying experienced more than 20 percent growth in export trade between fiscal 1980 and fiscal 1982."

2 Receive Holiday Inn Promotions

Holiday Inn-Lake Monroe has promoted Bernard C. Banner of Sanford from food and beverage director to general manager and Cindy Hamelin, Sanford, from front office manager to assistant general manager.

The promotions were announced by Fred Salgado, Holiday Inn-Lake Monroe owner/manager.

Banner has been with the inn for four years. Prior to coming to Sanford he was food and beverage director for a private country club in Miami Beach.

"Mrs. Hamelin has been an excellent employee for 14 years," Salgado said.

In addition to the two promotions, the inn has added to its staff Tonda Chastain of Casselberry.

Ms. Chastain will become sales and catering manager.

She comes to the inn with more than eight years experience as a hotel sales and marketing director, Salgado said.

To Feature Artificial Sun, Indoor Lake For Swimming, Surfing

Canada Plans North America's Zaniest Shopping Mall

By Robert Lee

EDMONTON, Alberta (UPI) — Construction will begin this spring on the final phase of West Edmonton Mall, making it the largest and zaniest shopping center in North America, and possibly the world.

The mall will include an 18-acre Water Wonderland covered by a glass dome capable of spanning five football fields. Under it will be a six-acre lake for swimming and water-skiing, or, when the wave machines are turned on, surfing.

Weary shoppers will be able to tan on its sandy beach under artificial sunlight created by a revolving ultraviolet lamp 30 feet wide. Or they could frolic on water slides.

Nearby will be a roller-skating rink, bowling alley, miniature golf course and 360-degree movie theater. Further on will be a Marineland, stocked with all manner of aquatic life and performing seals, walrus and killer whales.

Shoppers will travel from the lake to the marineland along a series of canals in the comfort of miniature submarines. Outside, they will be carried from one of 30,000 parking stalls to their destination by monorail.

And of course, there will be an amusement park, with carnival rides.

These attractions are only the trimmings on a covered city of 700 shops, 15 nightclubs, theaters, art galleries, a museum and a public library.

When finished in the fall of 1995, the mall will cover 3.95 million square feet and have cost nearly a half-billion dollars.

Mall president Rubin Stahl, 50, calls it "the eighth and ninth wonders of the world."

"It's so spectacular, I can't even imagine it myself," he said. "We've even hired a director of tourism. Now can you imagine a mall that needs a director of tourism?"

West Edmonton Mall is only half-finished now and already the fourth-largest mall in North America, at 2.2 million square feet. According to the Canadian Shopping Center Directory, the largest currently is Torrance, California's Del Amo Fashion Center, at 2.54 million square feet.

The mall already contains an NHL-sized ice-skating rink, aviaries stocked with 3,000 exotic birds and an indoor amusement park called Fantasyland. Its salt-water aquariums will be supplemented soon by four tanks of man-eating sharks.

West Edmonton Mall has drawn criticism by merchants in the city's downtown core, who complain its unfettered growth is leading to inner-city decay. Advocates of sterner Sunday shopping laws are disturbed the mall is open seven days a week until midnight.

Stahl said Sunday openings enhance the quality of family life which so many of his opponents wish to protect. "This is more than a shopping mall, this is a recreational facility," he said.

The mall is owned by the Ghermezian family, once among the largest distributors of Persian rugs in the United States and today among Alberta's largest land owners.

The publicity-shy family, who seldom grant interviews and detest having their pictures taken, is led by patriarch 84-year-old Jacob, a Tehran rug merchant for most of his life, and his four sons: Eskandar, Nader, Raphael and Bahman.

The family owns and operates the mall, as well as office towers and apartments in Edmonton and Calgary, under the umbrella company Triple 5 Corporation.

They opened the first phase of the mall in 1981, as Alberta entered the worst throes of the economic recession. Surprisingly, the $110 million mall had sales of $135 million in its first 12 months.

Stahl attributes its success to its special attractions. "For too many years, retailing was a one-way street," he said. "Now we've started to give something back to the people in terms of all these amenities. And they've responded."

Frigid Conditions Expected For Dallas-Rams' Showdown

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams, who expect to be a feature in the playoffs for years to come, and the Dallas Cowboys, who in the last two weeks have had their confidence shattered and record besmirched, face each other today for the right to move a step deeper into the NFL playoffs.

Frigid conditions were expected for the seventh post-season meeting between the two teams in the past 11 years. The game will be televised at 2:30 p.m. on Orlando's WCPX, channel 6.

Los Angeles, having made the playoffs for the first time since 1980, will have a certain degree of momentum going for it since it rallied to beat the New Orleans Saints a week ago.

Dallas, meanwhile, is coming off perhaps its worst two-week stretch since the Cowboys became a winning team in 1966.

"We are walking around without any momentum," said Cowboys wide receiver Drew Pearson. "If we don't get some emotion for this game then we will be in the off season in a hurry."

If the Cowboys (12-4) manage to get off the ground and beat the Rams, their next assignment will be to take on the San Francisco 49ers in Candlestick Park. Dallas was there a week ago and lost, 42-17.

A Los Angeles victory would send the Rams (9-7) to Washington for the divisional round of the playoffs.

The Cowboys have become regular fixtures of the NFL playoffs, making it to the Super Bowl chase for the 17th time in 18 years. They clinched this year's post-season trip more than a month ago.

But the Rams have been a surprise this year, reaching the playoffs under first-year coach John Robinson after posting a 2-7 record and finishing last in the NFC a year ago.

Just because Los Angeles has already exceeded expectations, however, does not mean Robinson thinks his team should be satisfied.

"I think we want to win," the former USC coach said. "I don't think we are any less hungry now than we were earlier in the season. We can't afford to be. "A lot of people want to want to pat us on the head and say we have a nice little team. I say the heck with that. We obviously think we have a chance to win this game. "We have accomplished a lot. We have the Rams back where we are contenders. I think we are a team that is going to be seen in the playoffs most of the time from now on. At least I hope so. "We are not going to start counting what we've done until it's all finished, and we are not finished yet."

NFL Playoffs

Seattle 30, Denver 7

SEATTLE (UPI) — After hovering around the .500 mark for the entire regular season, the Seattle Seahawks all of a sudden look like a hot team with a hot quarterback. In the first playoff appearance in the eight-year history of the franchise, the Seahawks easily defeated the Denver Broncos 31-7 Saturday behind Dave Krieg's three touchdown passes.

But that was a game between two fairly evenly matched AFC wild-card teams. Next up for the Seahawks is one of the top teams in the league, the AFC Eastern Division champion Miami Dolphins.

The Seahawks and Dolphins meet next weekend in Miami with the winner advancing to the AFC final.

"I don't know anything about them (the Dolphins)," Krieg said. "All I can think about is how warm it is there."

It would be hard to be much hotter than Krieg was against the Broncos. He connected on 12 of 13 passes for an even 200 yards and the three touchdowns. And just as important from Seattle's point of view, the Seahawks played their second straight game without a turnover.

"It's hard to beat anybody when they execute the way they did," said Denver Coach Dan Reeves.

Seattle now has won three games in a row for the first time this season. The playoff victory over Denver and the 24-6 win over New England the week before which put Seattle into the playoffs were probably the team's best two games of the year.

In particular, Seattle Coach Chuck Knox was pleased with his club's second-half dominance of the Broncos. After leading Denver by only 10-7 at halftime, Seattle did all the scoring in the final two periods to turn a close game into a rout.

"I don't think I've coached any team that's played any better than we played in the second half," Knox said.

Knox, in his first season with the Seahawks, became the only coach in NFL history to lead three different teams into the playoffs. With previous tours of duty in Los Angeles and Buffalo, Knox has been to the playoffs eight times in 11 seasons as a head coach.

Seattle's win over Denver was vintage Chuck Knox football, based on a solid running game and minimizing mistakes.

County Teams Try To Snap Metro String As Lady Hawk Opens

Tuesday's games

Not since the first Lady Hawk Invitational in 1977 has a Seminole County team won the top girls' basketball tournament around. Two Metro Conference schools — Edgewater and Evans — have hogged the championship trophy for the past five years.

This year, however, optimism has never been higher among county coaches. Is this finally the year when either Seminole, Lake Howell or Lake Mary break the Metro domination?

Seminole coach Ron Merthie thinks so. He points to his team's 8-1 record, which includes seven straight wins as the main selling point. But he knows it won't be easy.

Edgewater, unbeaten and the only team to beat the Lady Seminoles, has to be the favorite. Coach Denise McCarty's powerhouse won the championship three straight years before surrendering the crown to conference rival Evans the last two years. Evans whipped Seminole in the title game by six points last year, the first appearance in the finals for the Tribe.

Although Edgewater handled Seminole (63-51) in the UCF Sun Roast Tournament earlier this year, Merthie said he feels he may have the equalizer on his side this time.

"Flashy senior guard Maxine Campbell didn't play in that game because of an attitude problem." Since she's gotten her act together, though, Campbell has been an excellent addition to Merthie's cast.

"Maxine might be the edge we need to win the tournament," said Merthie. "We played Edgewater a pretty good game the first time without her. We'd sure like to get another shot at them."

Before the Seminoles have that opportunity, nevertheless, they must get past first-round opponent Merritt Island. That shouldn't take too much doing since the Lady Mustangs didn't win a game last year and shouldn't be in Seminoles' class this year.

"They're better than last year," said Merthie said about Tuesday's 6 p.m. opponent. "Their coach said they had a couple of big girls."

Other first-round games Tuesday include Edgewater and Lake Mary at 2 p.m., West Orange and Evans at 4 p.m. and host Lake Howell and Winter Park at 8 p.m. The tournament semifinals are Wednesday at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. while the championship is Thursday at 8 p.m. Consolation games will also be played Wednesday and Thursday.

Prep Basketball

Before Seminole envisions any thoughts of a title game against Edgewater, though, Merthie's girls need to get past Merritt Island and either Lake Howell or Winter Park.

Lake Howell, 8-2, dropped a heartbreaker to Sanford Dec. 15 when 6-2 senior Dieldre Hillery fired in a 15-footer with 10 seconds remaining to give the 'Noles a 79-77 victory at Seminole High.

"Lake Howell played us very tough," said Merthie. "But Winter Park did too. They have a very scrappy team, but I think Lake Howell will beat them."

Merthie sees Seminole, Lake Howell and Lake Mary with a good shot for the finals. He feels the county teams did well last year and it's time for one of them to break the Metro stranglehold.

"It's always been the case that Edgewater and Evans have dominated the tournament," said Merthie. "But the Five Star Conference teams are better this year."

Merthie also thinks Lake Mary will give Edgewater a tough game on Wednesday. "Edgewater better not come in sleeping," said Merthie. "Lake Mary has the talent to beat them if they aren't ready."

If the Seminoles hope to take their first Lady Hawk title, Hillery, junior guard Mona Benton and Campbell will all need strong tournaments. Hillery, a 6-2 major college prospect, has been a model of consistency this winter. The intelligent senior has averaged 17.6 points and 16 rebounds per game. She has been in double figures in both categories in all nine Tribe games.

Benton, the Seminole County Player of the Year last year, is averaging 16.2 points, 5.2 assists and four steals. Campbell, a senior, is the quickest of the group. She is averaging 12.1 points and four steals.

Campbell and Benton have especially tough on the Tribe press, turning many opponent errors into layups. Hillery, Benton and Campbell are joined in the starting lineup by 5-9 Genese Stallworth and 5-7 Catherine Anderson. Sherry Carpenter and Andell Smith are the super subs and 5-8 Tammy Pringle is the first forward off the bench.

Lake Howell, meanwhile, would love to get another crack at the Seminoles. Coach Dennis Codrey's girls had the lead in the closing minutes two weeks ago, but several costly turnovers cost them an upset.

The Lady Hawks' guards — Tammy and Mary Johnson — are both having superb years. If Codrey can get the boardwork from 5-7 Christy Scott and 5-11 Janene Brown to go along with his semir sharpshooters, the Hawks have a shot at the finals.

Seminole Play Clearwater

OCALA — Coach Chris Marlette's Fighting Seminoles basketball team opens play in the Ocala Vanguard Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Classic today at 2 p.m. against Clearwater.

There are three other first-round games involving Washington D.C. Mackin and Palm Beach Gardens (1 p.m.), Spruce Creek and Miami Carol City (6:30 p.m.) and St. Anthony's New Jersey and Lake Weir (8 p.m.).

Seminole, 6-2, finished second in the Ovedo Outlook Christmas Tournament on Friday, losing a 67-60 decision to unbeaten (10-0)

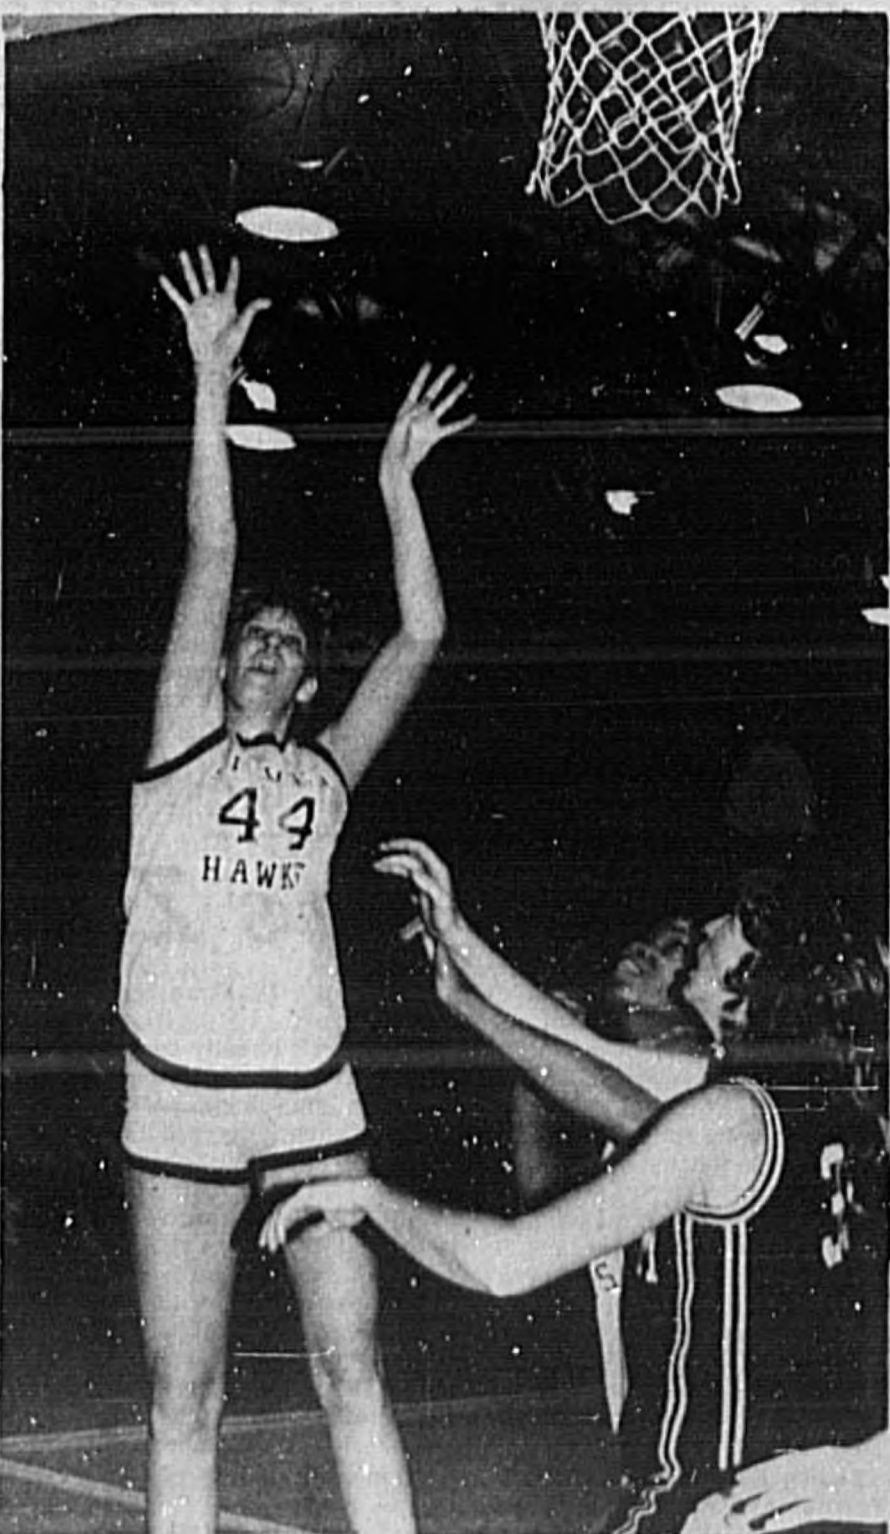

South Fork. The setback snapped a six-game winning streak for the 10th-ranked Seminoles.

Marlette's starting five for today will be 6-3 Willie Mitchell, 6-2 Kenny Gordon, 6-2 James Rouse, 5-8 Bruce Franklin and either 6-4 Jimmy Gilchrist or 6-2 William Wynn.

A victory today pits the Seminoles against the Stuart Martin County-Tampa Catholic survivor Wednesday at 9:30 p.m. A loss today has the Seminoles facing the Martin County-Tampa Catholic loser Wednesday at 10:30 a.m.

Ron Merthie, above, settles down his Seminole girls' basketball team as student trainer Jim "Little Doc" Terwilliger administers the water bottle. Merthie and his Seminoles begin Lady Hawk Invitational basketball action Tuesday at 6 p.m. against Lake Howell. Below, Lake Howell's Janene Brown drops in a bank shot earlier this year. The host Lady Hawks play Winter Park at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Middleton Holds Off Yunick At Speedway

Auto Racing

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — In Christmas Eve stock car racing action at New Smyrna Speedway, former track champion Joe Middleton held off hard-charging Smokey Yunick Jr. to win the 25-lap late model feature.

Finishing third to fifth were Marc Blackner, professor Duke Southard and race car builder Gayle Haines.

The thunder car feature went to Ricky Wood. A scant few feet behind, Mike Goldberg and Pete Starr made contact coming down the front chute and Goldberg crossed the finish line sideways, with "Pistol Pete" right on his back bumper. Rounding out the top five were Tom Balmer and Tommy Paterson.

Top street stock finishers were Ron Di Candio, Pat Weaver, Ben Booth, Joe Strehle and Gary Klein.

In four cylinder action, heat winner Ike Roland outdueling early leader Bill Martino score another feature win. Martino held on for second, followed by Ronnie Orr, 1982-83 rookie-of-the-year Cindy James and young Earl Mark, brother of super speedway pilot Howard Mark.

An errant reinder crossing the backstretch brought out the first caution, with the second yellow flag period caused by a wild spin

Rams, Lyman Begin Pizza Hut Soccer Play Tuesday

After a one-week reprieve to hone their skills, coach Larry McCorkle's Lake Mary Rams resume soccer action Tuesday in the Pizza Hut Soccer Classic at Bishop Moore High School in Orlando.

The Rams take on Daytona Beach Seabreeze at 6 p.m. Tuesday in the first round of action. Other games include coach Jim Buckman's Lyman Greyhounds against Orlando Evans at noon. Lake Brantley versus Orlando Edgewater at 2 p.m. and Winter Park at Lake Howell at 4 p.m.

Tuesday's winners play Wednesday against four teams which received byes. The Evans-Lyman winners takes on defending 4A state champion Miami Killian at noon. The Lake Brantley-Edgewater survivors battles defending 3A statechamps Clearwater Central Catholic at 2 p.m., the Winter Park-Lake Howell plays Boone at 4 p.m. while host Bishop Moore meets the Lake Mary-Seabreeze survivor.

Olajuwon Leads Houston

HONOLULU (UPI) — Akeem Olajuwon scored 8 of his 19 points during the final seven minutes Sunday to lead No. 3 Houston to a 76-73 victory over No. 8 Louisville in the opening game of the Chaminade Classic.

Olajuwon, plagued by foul problems, returned to the lineup with the Cougars trailing 63-60 and 7:47 left. The Nigerian center and Michael Young, who finished with 20 points, combined to spark the Cougars down the stretch in a rematch of last season's NCAA semifinals.

It was Houston's 10th consecutive victory after a season-opening loss to North Carolina State. Louisville, 4-3, was led by Milt Wagner with 18 points.

Houston faltered whenever Olajuwon was removed from the game. He picked up his third foul with 2:44 left in the first half and Houston leading 35-28. Louisville then went on an 8-2 spurt to make it 37-36 at halftime.

When he was benched with his fourth foul with 12:38 to go, Louisville outscored Houston 13-6 to take its biggest lead, 63-60. Olajuwon returned to key a 16-8 burst to ensure Houston's victory.

Louisville led only twice, both times in the second half. Billy Thompson hit a short jumper at the outset of the second half and the Cardinals took the lead again with Olajuwon out of the lineup. Houston led by 8 points in the first half with Young contributing 12 points and Olajuwon and Alvin Franklin adding 9 each.

The Cougars built leads of 6 points in the second half but Jeff Hall, Louisville's reserve guard, scored all 11 of his points during that period and Wagner scored 10 points in the final 20 minutes to keep the Cardinals in contention.

Sanford's Keith Whitney went scoreless, missing one free throw for Chaminade, which lost to Fresno State, 66-59, in the tournament's second game.

McGhee TD Catch Turns Gray Skies Blue

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Buford McGhee of Ole Miss said he used more than his hands to catch the touchdown pass that led the South's 17-13 win in the 46th annual Blue-Gray all-star game.

After the Christmas Day charity game, played in a 12-degree freeze with 12-mph winds, McGhee said he "had to catch that pass against my pads, and I couldn't really use my hands."

With 60 seconds left on the clock, McGhee snagged a 23-yard toss from Duke's Ben Bennett to put the Gray in front.

McGhee said he was knocked out briefly in the first half and had some trouble remembering plays — but was glad to contribute to the Gray's second straight victory.

Only about 2,500 people showed up for the nationally televised game, which benefits vision causes.

"It's a shame we had to play the game when it was this cold," said offensive coach George McIntyre of Vanderbilt. "Still, it was a tremendous game."

McIntyre said the scoring pass to McGhee was a Vandy play.

The South's other scores were on a 1-yard run by Maryland's Willie Joyner and a 31-yard field goal by Bob Paulding of Clemson.

The North, which had a 6-3 lead at the half, scored in the first quarter on a 9-yard pass from Randy Wright of Wisconsin to Brad Anderson of Arizona. The Blue squad took the lead again in the final quarter on a 1-yard run by Michael Guenter of Tulsa, but trailed after McGhee's last-minute reception.

"The kids did a good job despite the weather conditions," said Dave McLain of Wisconsin, defensive coach for the North. "They gave a good performance."

McLain praised the performance of Wright, who was named most valuable player.

The Wisconsin quarterback, who completed six of 16 passes and was intercepted three times, said "losing a game like this doesn't bother you that much because of the relaxed atmosphere. You want to win, but you don't worry about it if you don't."

Bill Dooley of Virginia Tech, who coached the South defense, said the Gray's goal line stund in the second quarter was a big plus for the South. The Blue team drove from the Gray 45 to within a yard of the end zone, but quarterback Tom Tunnell of Arizona was sacked on the final play of the half.

The North almost scored a few minutes earlier on a

Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club Opens Chutes For 49th Season

The Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club in Longwood opens its chutes for the 49th time tonight with an evening performance at 7:30.

While the popular "Pick 6" jackpot will not reach the proportions of the almost half a million dollar pool which accumulated Friday at the Orlando-Seminole Jai-alai Fronton, SOKC's six winners come more frequently, much to the delight of the greyhound patrons.

"We're looking to have an excellent crowd," said SOKC Racing Secretary Tom Bowles. "The place really looks great after the new paint job. It should be an exciting year."

Thirteen races will make up tonight's program with the 12th — the SOKC Inaugural Championship — the highlight of the card. Pactola, owned by Jack HONOLULU (UPI) — A battle to make it back into the Top 20 — that's how today's Aloha Bowl game between Penn State and Washington stacks up.

Both teams were nationally ranked before the start of the season — Penn State No. 4 and Washington No. 16 — but the former tripped coming out of the starting gate and the latter suffered crucial defeats at season's end.

But both teams have one final shot in the Aloha Bowl to climb into the national picture again, though they took opposite routes to reach the warm climes of Hawaii.

Penn State had high expectations at the start of the campaign, but had trouble getting out of the chute. After being blitzed by Nebraska 44-6 in the season-opener, the Nittany Lions dropped their next two games to Cincinnati and Iowa before finishing with a rush at 7-4-1.

Listed among their late-season victims were Alabama, West Virginia, and Notre Dame — all 1983 post-season bowl participants.

Washington, on the other hand, was 6-1 after seven games, but a three-point loss to UCLA and a season-closing 17-6 defeat at the hands of cross-state rival Washington State cost the Huskies a shot at the Rose Bowl and another detour to Hawaii.

In first Aloha Bowl played last year, Washington edged Maryland, 21-20, in the final seconds of the game.

The season wasn't one of great success for Penn State, but Athletic Director Jim Tarman had a good reason for being in Hawaii.

After traveling nearly 5,000 miles, Tarman said, "I think the essential reason for this bowl trip is to recognize the players for their hard work in coming back from an 0-3 start."

"And they really did work hard to finish at 7-4-1. That was the main purpose, not to make money, but to reward, or recognize our players for the job they did."

Washington coach Don James admitted being knocked out of the Rose Bowl for the second time in as many years was a disappointment, but playing Penn State will have its rewards.

"We recognize that Penn State is quality — their tradition, their history," he said. "From that standpoint, playing them certainly isn't going to hurt us. And being in Hawaii for that isn't all that bad."

EL PASO, Texas (UPI) — It wasn't just the weather that made the 50th annual Sun Bowl game so chilly. The mostly-Texas crowd's response to Southern Methodist likely would have frosted the Mustangs in any case.

And Alabama's Crimson Tide, with unexpected support from the locals, pulled itself together after two games at the end of its regular season and whipped a disgruntled SMU 28-7 Saturday in the most financially lucrative Sun Bowl ever.

In normally warm El Paso, where temperatures had risen to 70 Saturday as the rest of the nation lay frozen under a nationwide cold wave, the mercury "froze" to only 38 degrees.

And SMU, ranked No. 6 with a 10-1 record, had visions of a national championship last year and this year, but found itself ranked second to Penn State last year and even locked out of a New Year's Day bowl game this year.

The Mustangs' bitterness likely contributed to their poor showing Saturday before a record crowd of 41,000, most of whom resented comments about the Sun Bowl and El Paso by SMU players.

One player, bitter at SMU missing a berth in a more prestigious bowl, had called El Paso "a pitiful town."

The predominantly Texas crowd responded by booing the Dallas team and actively supporting Alabama.

"I guess I was a little bit shocked," said SMU coach Bobby Collins. "We've tried to explain our situation to the people of El Paso, and I was a little shocked at the way we were welcomed by the people here. I'm sorry the people here didn't understand."

The Crimson Tide, which lost final season games to Boston College and rival Auburn, recaptured some pride for the players and coach Ray Perkins, who took over this season for the late legendary coach Bear Bryant.

Alabama quarterback Walter Lewis, named the game's most valuable player, led the Tide to 303 total yards and four touchdowns in the first half.

In And Around Longwood

Club Meets For Festive Dinner

The Longwood Woman's Club held its annual Christmas "covered dish" dinner at the club building on West Church Street.

Karen Warner

Club president Elda Nichols personally greeted each arrival to the dinner. Highlights of the dinner were Marion White reading a devotional poem written by club member Lu Carlson and Marsha Watt gave the invocation.

Menas, Eula Scott and Alda Milwee. Starting off the new year, the club will hold its first meeting with a gala luncheon held at the Maison de Crepes Restaurant in Winter Park.

The Rotary Club of Longwood recently had Dr. Glenn Wilkes, a coach at Stetson University, as their guest speaker. Coach Wilkes shared his philosophy and goals in coaching a basketball team, and how he tries to impart his philosophy to the team members.

One thing Rotarians are known for is reaching out into the community and helping others, as they recently demonstrated over the Thanksgiving Holidays, and throughout this Christmas time.

During November, members of the Longwood Club reached out by preparing food baskets to be given to area families in need. Over 20 food baskets were given out this year by the members.

Another tangible way the club reached out this year was by holding their annual Children's Christmas party. Following an early morning breakfast at the Altamonte Springs Racquet Club, club members treated several area children to an early Christmas.

Dressed as Santa Claus club member Cosmo Mantovani and his elf helper, Theresa Montovani, passed out beautifully wrapped packages to the children attending. The smiles on the children's faces made all the work worthwhile.

Tree For Shut-Ins

Residents of the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford spent Christmas day around a tree presented to the home by Cardinal Industries.

Organization Helps People To Say No

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what's the matter with me. I am a 25-year-old respectable, unmarried, churchgoing woman.

DEAR GIRL: In 1979 a small group of men and women, who realized that their lives were out of control because of their addiction to sex, formed an organization that they appropriately named "Sex-aholics Anonymous."

I consider myself a decent person, and it's a miracle that I still have a reasonably good reputation. Sex for me is an addiction — like alcohol or gambling, I can't seem to control it.

For information, write to S.A., Box 300, Simi Valley, Calif. 93060. This is a non-profit organization, so please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope. All correspondence is strictly confidential.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: What is an endocrinologist? I asked my doctor and he didn't know. Thank you.

DEAR MR. D: First, get another doctor. Then get two dictionaries — one for yourself and one for the doctor who didn't know what an endocrinologist was.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to the bride who invited 31 singles to her wedding and complained because 14 of them accepted and indicated they were bringing a guest.

We are surprised that the bride would assume that 31 single people would jump at the chance to attend a wedding alone. Would the bride want to attend a wedding and leave her fiancé or boyfriend at home? Why should married couples get the privilege of coming in "twos" just because they are married?

We are two single women who would feel more comfortable being escorted to a wedding. We realize the bride has a limited budget and we sympathize. We can't offer a solution, but we must speak out for many singles who resent being discriminated against because they are not married.

DEAR K. AND V.: If the bride (or groom) invites single friends who he knows is engaged, living with or going with someone, then good manners would dictate inviting the "significant other." But land sorry to discriminate against those who don't have anyone special, most brides resent a single's presumptuousness in "digging up" a date for the occasion.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who is seriously in love with a boy who will be 14 soon. I will call him "Matthew." He is gorgeous, sweet, kind, polite and a lot of fun. My problem is that I can never get him alone. Matthew always comes over with another kid or several other boys, but he never comes over all by himself.

I would like a close and loving relationship with him, but how do I get into one the way things are going? He knows how I feel about him because I told him. (Was that a mistake?)

When I asked Matthew how come he never comes to see me alone, he said his mother told him it was "dangerous." Abby, where is the danger? I'm not going to hurt him.

Answer soon because I want this guy to like me so bad I am going crazy.

DEAR POUNDING: Slow down, honey. Girls mature earlier than boys, and you are moving too fast for Matthew. And yes, it was a mistake to tell him how you feel about him. (Boys, and girls too, know when someone "likes" them — they don't have to be told.) Matthew sounds like a normal boy his age. Don't try to get him alone or you may never see him at all.

Hormone Analysis Nets Reader Query

DEAR DR. LAMB — With all the talk about infertility lately, I decided to go to a urologist and have a sperm test done, since I was injured as a child. The analysis came back as a count of less than 100,000 ml. and all forms were non-motile. The tests came back the same way twice.

My hormone analysis came back normal. But on examination, they found I had varicoceles. What is a varicocele? Can I be operated on to improve my sperm's motility, as well as count? Am I considered infertile at this time?

DEAR READER — Your count is normal. It usually is said that a man is infertile if his sperm count is 20,000 cells or less per ml. of fluid. But the other requirement is that the cells have to be motile (capable of spontaneous mobility). You might be classified as infertile on the basis of your test. Just remember, it only takes one healthy sperm cell to induce a pregnancy. There are recent reports that suggest non-motile cells can be activated by drinking coffee. These studies probably deserve further observation.

A varicocele is a frequent cause of male infertility. It is nothing more than a varicose vein in the cord to the testicle. It interferes with the normal cooling mechanism. The temperature of the testicles is very important in maintaining fertility. Evidently the varicocele causes the temperature to be too high.

Some studies have shown that by removing the varicocele entirely by stripping out the vein often improves fertility. Varicoceles are discussed in The Health Letter 17-3, Male Reproductive Functions, which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like your opinion on blood clots. I am in my 70s. Last month I was in the hospital a week for a clot above my knee. Since I have been home my leg is swollen below the knee, including my foot and toes. And the skin over the calf is bright red, but not feverish.

I am taking Coumadin and sit with my leg elevated at all times. Is there any hope of the swelling going down? Is exercise bad for this type of leg trouble?

DEAR READER — You evidently still have attraction of a large vein that drains the blood out of your leg. The obstruction is caused by the clot.

While I'm a great supporter of exercise, there are situations when exercise is not wise. When to exercise and how after a clot has formed is a very critical decision.

If you move around too much or too early, the clot may break loose and travel through your circulation to your lungs. It then lodges in the lungs, causing a pulmonary embolism. This can be dangerous. So I would not advise anyone with your problem to do any activity that is not first recommended by his or her doctor.

As the clot contracts, relieving the obstruction, the swelling may disappear or at least become less of a problem. You may need some elastic bandages or support to the leg when you are up. At that point your doctor may want you to be more active on a daily basis.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
DECEMBER 27, 1983
 Happy times are ahead, for you this coming year. In each instance where you go out of your way to help another, greater good will come to you, too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't fear a little competition today, whether it be in the business or social world. You'll do well in either arena. The NEW Matchmaker wheel booklet reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Send $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Mail an additional $1 and your zodiac sign for your Capricorn Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Associates may comprehend only a small portion of the whole today. You'll have a broader perspective. Where they see a tree, you'll see a forest.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be lucky today in joint ventures, especially if you are linked with an enterprising cohort who is trying to launch a mutually beneficial action.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions look favorable today where important negotiations are concerned. However, use your best judgment and pay heed to reliable advisers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There will be beneficial shifts in conditions today which could enhance your earning abilities. These opportunities may be only partially visible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A friendly social contact active in the business community might put you onto something lucrative today. Listen attentively to his proposals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Business and pleasure make a good mix today, especially if you are entertaining important contacts at your place. Have fun while talking shop.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be quite lucky today in getting key people to help you advance your present plans. Don't be reluctant about selling your ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The momentum is with you at this time pertaining to developments which could add to your present holdings. Make every opportunity count.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Inactivity works against you today. The more you have to do, the better you'll perform. Don't fear to tackle projects simultaneously.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions will be brightening considerably in several areas that could add to your income and resources. Lady Luck will play a starring role.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be optimistic about the outcome of events today. This is a time when dreams can be fulfilled. Keep plugging.

with the trump king."

Jim: "Didn't you tell me about the West player in a similar situation who overruled with the ace while saying, 'No better place for it?'"

Oswald: "If West had used this play, South would have had no trouble making four hearts, but West chucked a small spade."

Jim: "West knew he had a better place for his ace of trumps. He wasn't going to lose it, since the ace of trumps is always a winner."

Oswald: "South entered dummy with the ace of clubs in order to lead a trump. East might hold the ace after all. When East followed low, South played his queen. This time West saw that there was no better place for his ace. He took it and led a spade to East's ace. East led another diamond."

Jim: "South was sure to go down. If he ruffed low, West would get his nine right away. When he ruffed high, West's nine became the second highest trump and was sure to score the setting trick."

Home Ec Survey Shows Canned Tuna Popular

Canned tuna use is on the rise among U.S. home economists, according to the results of the annual consumer survey conducted this year by the Tuna Research Foundation, at the annual American Home Economics Association convention in Milwaukee, Wis.

Among the 1,100 responders were home economists in business, educators, supermarket consumer affairs directors, and extension service home economists.

A total of 79 percent reported using canned tuna at least once a week with 32 percent claiming tuna consumption of more than once a week — and only 15 percent stating they eat tuna less than once each week.

This represents a reported usage increase among the group of 11 percent over last year's study when 68 percent said they consumed tuna at least once a week. Again, the main reasons given for using canned tuna were convenience and taste.

Almost half of the survey participants said they "brown bag" tuna for lunch.

Casseroles still hold firm as the number one dish in the "hot tuna" category and the use of canned tuna in salads holds a slight edge over tuna in sandwiches.

Not only is canned tuna a favorite in salads but those attending annual AHEA conventions demonstrate year after year their partiality for tuna salad sandwich spreads that do double duty as dipping sauces.

In past years, the Tuna Research Foundation exhibit featured tastings of Tapenade, the tuna-black olive blend from Provence, the low calorie Tuna-Blue Cheese Dip, chafing dish Tuna Con Queso, baked Tuna Con Queso, baked Tuna Pate, Slimmer's Party Tuna-Cheese Ball, encrusted with sesame and poppy seeds, as well as Curried Tuna Sauce or Spread, flavored with chopped Granny Smith apples and chutney.

At this year's AHEA convention in Milwaukee, two new "idea" recipes were introduced to enthusiastic home economists.

One was a zesty Milwaukee Tuna-Beer Dip, with particularly appetizing crisp whole grain crackers or Melba toast.

The other was a mellow yet peppy Sunshine Tuna Spread of many uses: dipping sauce; stuffing for crisp lettuce leaves, peppers or tomatoes; topping for fluffy, baked potatoes; and, especially, as a sandwich filling.

In fact, to demonstrate how the Sunshine Tuna Spread can be used in a creative way, directions are included for making a layered Tuna Hi-Rise Sandwich, a no-cook main dish that will undoubtedly call for encores.

MILWAUKEE TUNA-BEER DIP

- 1/2 pound Cheddar cheese, grated
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
- 2 teaspoons grated or minced onion
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cans (6 1/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna, drained and flaked
- 3 tablespoons bottled chili sauce
- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 3/4 cup beer or ale

In a bowl blend Cheddar cheese, butter, onion, Worcestershire sauce, mustard and salt. Add tuna, chili sauce and mayonnaise. Blend thoroughly with an electric mixer or wooden spoon. Gradually add beer or ale; mix until smooth. Chill several hours or overnight to blend flavors. Serve with Melba toast, crackers or thinly sliced pumpernickel bread. Yield: About 5 cups.

SUNSHINE TUNA SPREAD

- 2 cans (6 1/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna, drained and flaked
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped or grated
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 small onion, minced or grated
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 3 tablespoons India pickle relish or 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento-stuffed olives

In a large bowl, combine all ingredients. Chill several hours or overnight to blend flavors. (If too dry, add more mayonnaise.) Serve with crackers or whole grain bread "fingers." Yield: About 5 cups.

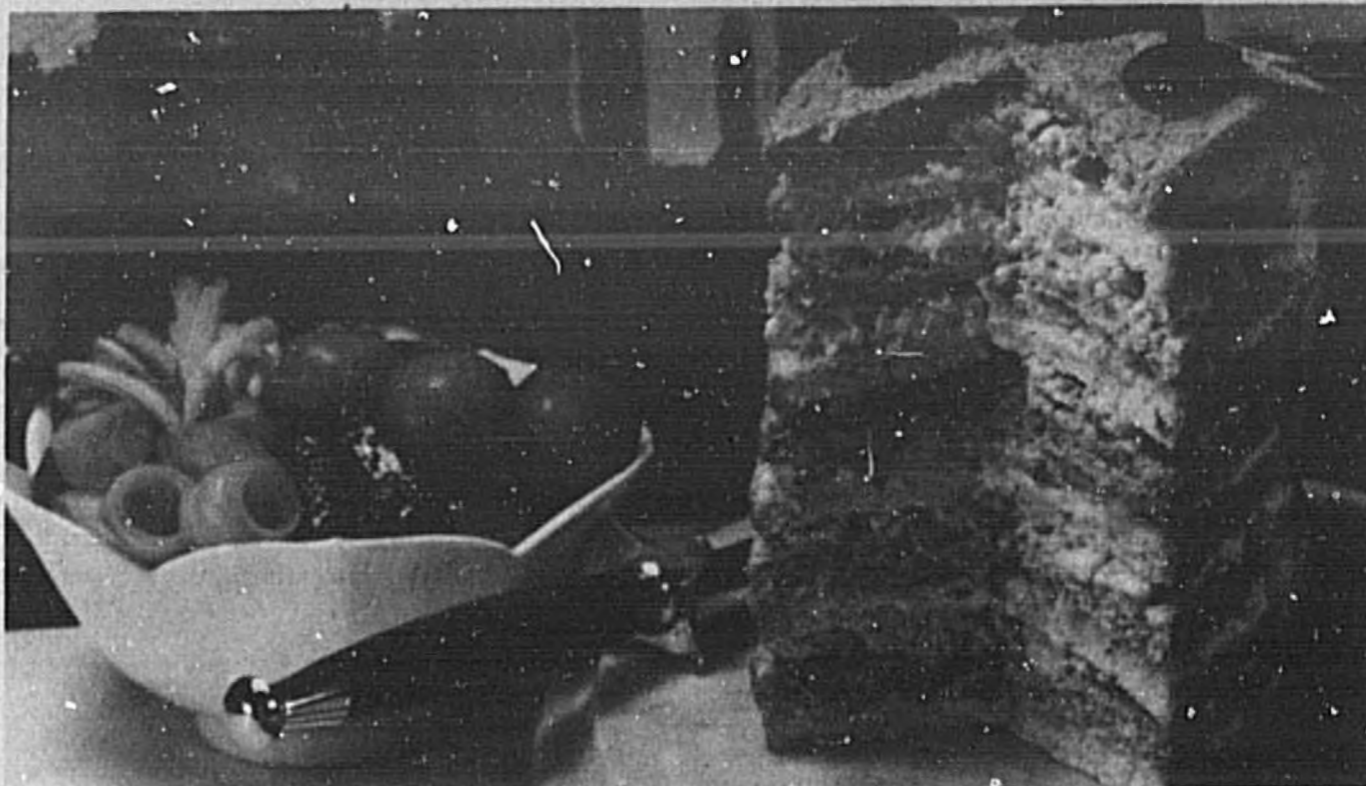

TUNA HI-RISE SANDWICH

- Basic Tuna Spread:
- 2 cans (6 1/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna, drained
 - 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped or grated
 - 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
 - 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 - 1 small onion, minced or grated
 - Juice of 1/2 lemon
 - 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- Additional Ingredients:
- 3 tablespoons India pickle relish
 - 1/2 teaspoon mild mustard
 - 3 tablespoons chopped pimiento-stuffed olives

- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 5 slices white bread
- 5 slices whole grain bread
- Softened butter

In a large bowl, flake tuna. Add chopped eggs, cheese, onion, mayonnaise, lemon juice and Tabasco pepper sauce. Divide into three equal portions and place in smaller bowls. Leave one portion plain. To second portion, add pickle relish and mustard. To third portion, add chopped olives and curry powder. Spread white and whole grain bread slices with softened butter. Spread one slice white bread with basic tuna mixture. Top with slice of whole grain bread; spread with tuna-relish mixture. Top with slice of white bread; spread with tuna-olive mixture. Continue to stack sandwich layers in this way, ending with a slice of whole grain bread.

Lightly press down sandwich stack and hold it together with four skewers. Wrap Tuna Hi-Rise sandwich in foil and refrigerate for about three hours to blend flavors. Cut into quarters on the diagonal to serve. Yield: 4 luncheon or supper servings.

Build a layered tuna hi-rise sandwich.

Salmon Mousse Great Tasting For New Year

With its exquisite flavor and handsome appearance, Salmon Mousse is ideal for festive entertaining. Serve it as an elegant appetizer or part of an impressive buffet. Your guests will never suspect how simple it is to make, and advance preparation leaves you free for gracious entertaining.

Combine convenient Alaska canned salmon in a food processor blender with the other ingredients which include fresh cucumber, heavy cream and dill. A fish mold is ideal for molding the mousse, but any 6-cup mold may be used. It could also be molded in individual molds for serving as a first course at a sit-down dinner.

Alaska canned salmon is the key to creating dishes that are easy to make as well as great tasting. This nutritious seafood also makes a great stocking stuffer or addition to a holiday gift basket, particularly for the person living alone.

SALMON MOUSSE

- 1 can (15 1/2 oz.) salmon
- Cold water
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 cup each peeled, seeded can chopped cucumber, chopped onion and chopped celery
- 1/2 teaspoon each salt and dried dill weed
- 1 cup each mayonnaise and heavy cream
- Cucumber slices, lemon slices and watercress sprigs (optional)

Drain salmon reserving liquid, flake. Add water to reserved liquid to equal 1 cup. Soften gelatin in liquid; heat over medium heat until dissolved. Pour into food processor or blender container. Add lemon juice, cucumber, onion and celery. Process until well-mixed. Remove half of mixture and set aside. Add 1/2 cup each mayonnaise and cream to container; process and remove. Repeat with remaining salmon mixture, mayonnaise and cream. Combine both mixtures and pour into lightly oiled, 6-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold onto platter. Garnish with cucumber, lemon and watercress. Makes 6 servings.

Cobbler Leads Potpourri of Good Things To Eat

American in origin, cobblers continue to be a dessert favorite. From now through the holidays, enjoy fresh cranberries in this cobbler which combines the tart berries with fresh sliced apples, quick-cooking tapioca and few other ingredients. As most fruit pie and pudding cooks know, quick-cooking tapioca thickens subtly without affecting taste or color because it has no flavor of its own. Packaged biscuit mix, a real time-saver, has orange rind added to it, serve baked cobblers with garnish of thawed frozen whipped topping.

CRANBERRY-APPLE COBBLER

4 cups sliced peeled apples (4 medium)
1 cup raw cranberries
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons Minute tapioca
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1/2 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 cup all-purpose biscuit mix
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/4 cup milk

Combine apples, cranberries, 1 cup sugar, tapioca, salt and water in large saucepan. Let stand 5 minutes. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Pour into shallow 2-quart baking dish; dot with butter.

Combine biscuit mix, 2 tablespoons sugar, orange rind and milk. Drop from teaspoon onto hot fruit mixture. Bake at 375° for 30 minutes, or until lightly browned. Serve warm, with whipped topping if desired. Makes 9 servings.

GLAZED FRUITS ON A SKEWER

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
8 pitted dates
2 kiwi fruit, peeled and cut into 4 slices
1 large tangerine, peeled and sectioned
24 cranberries, fresh or frozen

In small saucepan, heat sugar and water to boiling, stirring constantly, until sugar dissolves. Cool syrup to room temperature. On 8 bamboo skewers, thread dates, fruits and berries. Place skewers on wire rack over waxed paper. Spoon some syrup over fruit to glaze. Repeat, applying syrup until all the syrup has been used and fruit is glazed on all sides. Chill and serve fruit within a few hours of preparation. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

FROZEN PEACH CREAM PIE

1 cup sliced peeled peaches (fresh or canned)
3/4 cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 cup coconut, toasted
1 prepared (9-inch) graham cracker crust

In blender container, place peaches, corn syrup and vanilla; cover. Blend on high speed 30 seconds or until smooth. Fold into whipped cream. Fold in coconut. Turn into crust. Freeze several hours or overnight until firm. Before serving, garnish with peach slices and let stand 10 minutes at room temperature. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings. (Select canned peaches packed in own juice. Drain.)

SESAME STEAK

1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup sesame seeds
4 medium onions, thickly sliced (optional)
1/2 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon cracked pepper
2 garlic cloves, crushed
1 boneless beef top sirloin steak about 2 1/2 to 3 pounds cut 1 1/2 inches thick
Parsley sprigs for garnish

Five hours before serving, or early in the day, make marinade: In 10-inch skillet over medium high heat, cook sesame seed in hot oil until golden, stirring frequently. In a 13"x9" baking dish, mix this with onions, soy sauce, lemon juice, sugar, pepper, and garlic. Trim excess fat from steak; place in marinade, turn to coat both sides. Cover. Refrigerate at least 4 hours, turning occasionally.

About 45 minutes before serving, preheat broiler. Place steak and onions on broiling pan; broil 4 inches from heat. Brush often with marinade. Stir onions to prevent burning. Arrange on large, heated platter and garnish with parsley. Serves 8.

RIPE OLIVE BUFFET SALAD

2 lbs. small new potatoes
1/2 cup chicken broth
1/4 cup white wine or water
1 teaspoon onion powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon finely chopped pimiento
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon basil, crumbled
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1 1/2 cups pitted California ripe olives
Butter lettuce
2 large tomatoes, sliced
1 cup cooked ham strips
1 cup cheddar cheese strips
1/4 cup cooked peas
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
Snappy Sour Cream Dressing (below)

Peel potatoes. Put potatoes in skillet and add broth and wine. 1/2 teaspoon onion powder and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil, reduce heat; cover and cook for 20 to 25 minutes, just until potatoes are tender. Drain, reserving liquid. Make up marinade for potatoes by mixing together 1/4 cup liquid from cooking potatoes, vinegar, oil, pimiento, parsley, basil, paprika, and remaining 1/2 teaspoon onion powder and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Drain olives and combine with potatoes. Mix marinade with potatoes and ripe olives and chill thoroughly. Shortly before serving, cover large salad plate with butter lettuce leaves. Drain potatoes and olives and arrange on plate with peas, sliced eggs, ham and cheese strips, and tomato slices. Serve with Snappy South Cream Dressing. Makes 4 to 6 serving.

SPANISH ONION TOPPED CHOPS

1 large or 2 medium Sweet Spanish onions
6 pork chops
1 can (10 1/2-ounce) beef consommé
1/4 teaspoon thyme
1/4 teaspoon basil

1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons water

Peel and slice onion to measure 3 cups rings. Trim fat from pork chops. Render fat in skillet to measure 1 1/2 tablespoons. Add pork chops and slowly brown on both sides. Push chops to one side and saute onion. Arrange onion over pork chops. Add consommé, thyme, basil and pepper. Cover and simmer slowly 1 hour. Remove chops and onions to warm platter. Combine flour and water and add to pan juices. Cook, stirring, until thickened. Serve over chops and onions. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

ORTILLA BEAN SNACK

1/2 pound ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cups drained, cooked or canned kidney

pinto or pink beans
1/2 cup tomato sauce
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 1/2 to 2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
1 large tomato, cut into wedges
10 corn tortillas

Saute ground beef, onion and garlic until beef is browned. Mash about 1/2 cup beans; add to ground beef mixture with remaining beans. Stir in tomato sauce and chili powder. Simmer 5 minutes. Line two 9-inch pie plates with 5 tortillas in each, overlapping and extending about 1/4-inch beyond pan edge. Spoon half of bean mixture into each tortilla-lined pan. Top each with half of cheese. Bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes. Garnish with tomato. Cut each into 5 or 6 portions. Garnish with dairy sour cream, avocado and taco sauce. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 10 to 12 snack servings.

BRILLED RIB STEAKS

Beef rib steaks, cut 1 to 1 1/2 inches thick
Salt and pepper

Place steaks on grill over ash-covered coals so steaks are 2 to 3 inches from coals. Broil at moderate temperature 15 to 20 minutes for rare; 20 to 25 minutes for medium. When first sides are browned, turn and season with salt and pepper and finish cooking second sides. Turn and season. Serve Bearnaise Sauce with steaks, if desired.

Bearnaise Sauce

2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
1 tablespoon minced shallot
1 teaspoon dried tarragon leaves
Dash pepper
2 large egg yolks
1/2 cup melted butter, cooled

Combine vinegar, shallot, tarragon and pepper in small saucepan. Cook over high heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is reduced to about 2 teaspoons, about 2 minutes. Place shallot mixture and egg yolks in food processor bowl fitted with steel knife. With motor running, slowly pour in butter; process until blended. Yield: 3/4 cup.

Cook With Flair Using Handy Frozen Products

Like to cook with flair, but find there just isn't enough time anymore to fix really special dinners? Time's no problem now for the creative cook who uses handy new chicken products from the grocery freezer.

With the help of prepared breaded chicken patties in new shapes, even the busiest person can impress family and friends with tasty main dishes that are both elegant and hassle-free. The boneless chicken products, available in wing and small drumstick shapes, are naturals for appetizers, but also star in entrees like Layered Chicken Florentine, Curried Chicken and Fruit or Chicken Elegante.

Frozen breaded drumstick-shaped chicken patties combine with Ricotta and mozzarella cheeses, fresh tomatoes, spinach and Italian seasonings to produce Layered Chicken Florentine. Hot crusty Italian bread and dessert of spumoni ice cream complete this Neapolitan dinner. And, it takes only a few minutes to assemble Curried Chicken and Fruit, an elegant dish with a taste of the Far East, also made with drumstick-shaped chicken plus canned fruit and seasonings.

Chicken Elegante is a company-ready dish that lives up to its name. A combination of Canadian bacon, Muenster cheese and crispy wing-shaped chicken patties topped with a creamy sauce, it will serve (and impress!) eight. Best of all it can be put together and baked in just 20 minutes total, a short wait for a dinner that is long on flair.

LAYERED CHICKEN FLORENTINE

- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
- 1 carton (15 oz.) Ricotta cheese
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon onion powder
- 3 small tomatoes, chopped (about 2 cups)
- 1 1/2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded drumstick-shaped chicken patties
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese

In medium bowl, combine spinach Ricotta cheese, nutmeg and eggs. Spread mixture evenly in greased 2-quart oblong baking dish. Sprinkle onion powder on top. In medium bowl, combine tomatoes, Italian seasoning and garlic powder. Layer on top of spinach mixture. Arrange chicken in a single layer on top. Sprinkle mozzarella cheese on top. Bake in 375°F oven 30 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 servings.

CURRIED CHICKEN AND FRUIT

- 2 cans (16 oz. ea.) chunky mixed fruit, drained
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1/2 cup packed light brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded drumstick-shaped chicken patties
- 11 carton (6 oz.) plain yogurt
- In 2-quart oblong baking dish, combine fruit and cornstarch. In small bowl, combine sugar, butter and curry powder. Sprinkle mixture on top of fruit. Arrange chicken in a single layer on top. Heat in 375°F oven 30 minutes or until hot. Serve with yogurt. Makes 4 servings.

CHICKEN ELEGANTE

- 18 slices (about 12 oz.) Canadian bacon
- 9 slices (about 8 oz.) Muenster cheese, cut in half
- 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded wing-shaped chicken patties
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- Chopped parsley

On cookie sheet, top slices of Canadian bacon with cheese. Place one piece chicken in center of each slice of cheese. Heat in 350°F oven 15 minutes or until hot. In small saucepan, melt butter. Stir in flour until smooth.

Stir in milk. Cook, stirring constantly over medium heat, until mixture is bubbly and slightly thickened. Stir in nutmeg. Serve sauce over chicken. Sprinkle parsley on top. Makes 8 servings.

Light buffet hits spot

Usher In Year With A Slim, Trim Buffet

This New Year's Eve, weight conscious party hosts can serve their guests a dazzling buffet that captures the celebration of the moment, without sacrificing any resolutions to lose weight. It's quicker and easier than you think, thanks to recipes and a menu planner from Weight Watchers of Central Florida.

Keep in the relaxed spirit of the holiday by setting your buffet table with a host of colorful, tasty creations that are easy and fun to eat. The dishes from Weight Watchers will help you be the star of the party!

Serve steaming hot mustard caps filled with succulent hot crab blended with scallions and cheddar cheese. An asparagus roll sprinkled with sesame seeds can add a healthful, delicate finger food dish.

Why not crown your New Year's Eve table with delectable sauteed scallops on the half shell. They'll add elegance, flavor, and splendid visual appeal.

A smooth, creamy anchovy dip with vegetable dippers can add a special combination of creamy smoothness — and crunch — to harmonize perfectly with your meal.

Be sure to set out a gaily decorated basket of melba slices, rolls or sesame fingers.

You can add to the festive mood of the occasion by serving sparkling champagne in your best, fluted glasses. And for dessert, serve delicious Pears Framboise (pears in raspberry sauce) for a dramatic beginning to the New Year!

Light Another Candle

She Celebrated 113th Birthday

ROOSEVELT, N.Y. (UPI) — The daughter of a former slave celebrated her 113th birthday by sharing a Christmas dinner with a houseful of kin and a chat on the telephone with President Reagan.

Susan Brunson, who has outlived three husbands and nine of her 12 children, interrupted her birthday celebration Christmas Day to take a call from the president.

Reagan, who was spending Christmas in Washington, wished Mrs. Brunson a merry Christmas and asked her how she had attained such longevity.

"By serving the Lord," the sprightly woman said.

The daughter of a former slave, Mrs. Brunson was born in Bainberg, S.C., on Dec. 25, 1870, when Ulysses S. Grant was president. In 1932, she moved to Long Island to make her home with Mrs. McDaniel.

Mrs. Brunson is an active member of the Calvary Baptist Church in Roosevelt, where she is known as the "mother" of the church. Until she was 105 years old, she bowled regularly in a church league.

Three of her children are still alive and many of her seven grandchildren, 15 great grandchildren and 23 great, great grandchildren were with her for the presidential phone call.

To the delight of a houseful of about 50 guests, Mrs.

Brunson smiled and chatted with the president for a few minutes. She then blew out the 113 candles on her birthday cake and helped eat a Christmas dinner of turkey, potatoes, yams and all the trimmings.

The centenarian lives with her daughter, Mary McDaniel, 73 — whom she calls her "baby."

"She's somewhat weak, but she is up and around much of the time," Mrs. McDaniel said. "She takes life easy, and doesn't do too much, because she gets out of breath and has to stop and rest."

Last Christmas, to mark her 112th birthday, Mrs. Brunson received a congressional proclamation and a birthday card from the president.

"She told me that for her next birthday, she would like to get a telegram from the president," said Rep. Raymond McGrath, R-N.Y., who is her congressman and also was present for the celebration.

"I decided to go one better and asked the president to deliver birthday greetings directly, by phone," the congressman said. "He agreed."

McGrath said he believes Mrs. Brunson may be the oldest person in the United States, but conceded he has not been able to obtain adequate records to verify she is the oldest.

Bishop Spends Christmas Home After Fleeing Nicaragua

CAMPBELLSPORT, Wis. (UPI) — A Roman Catholic bishop who fled Nicaragua with more than 1,000 Indians and was feared dead for several days said he will return to the Central American nation to continue his fight for human rights and respect for the poor.

Bishop Salvador Schläefer, 65, returned to Milwaukee Saturday night and spent a "quiet, religious" Christmas at home Sunday with his 89-year-old mother.

He said he spent three days walking out of Nicaragua with more than 1,000 Miskito Indians who were fleeing the country.

The group of Miskito Indians that crossed into Honduras with Schläefer had objected to the Sandinista government's plan to move them off their traditional land. About 10,000 Miskitos have been relocated by the government.

Schläefer said he did not fear for his life during the walk and plans to return to Nicaragua at the invitation of the Nicaraguan ambassador to Washington.

Schläefer has served in Nicaragua 38 years with the Capuchin order.

Asked what he hoped to accomplish upon his return, the bishop said he would "promote human rights and respect for those poor people there."

The bishop said he would not be concerned about his safety upon returning, despite strong statements he made against the Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

"God is my best witness. I have suffered government prosecution," he said earlier in Honduras.

"They cannot kill me, only expel me from the country. This is what I believe. But if I die, I'll die even though I have to die anyway."

Schläefer said the Miskitos decided to leave the country during his visit. About 25 Indians armed

Reagan Rapped On PLO Talks

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel, vowing never to negotiate with the Palestine Liberation Organization, criticized President Reagan's support for the reconciliation between Egypt and the PLO as having "absolved" the guerrilla group.

However, Israeli Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor said Sunday that Washington's praise of the meeting last Thursday between Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and PLO chief Yasser Arafat would not jeopardize the new spirit of U.S.-Israeli strategic cooperation.

"We are not very happy of course with the reception that the United States gave the meeting of President Mubarak and Yasser Arafat," Meridor said following the weekly Israeli Cabinet meeting.

Arafat and Mubarak met, ending a long rift, after the guerrilla chief fled Lebanon from Palestinian rebels backed by Syria. Egypt is the only Arab nation that has signed a peace treaty with Israel — the 1979 Camp David accords.

The United States said the reconciliation was an encouraging development that could revive Reagan's September 1982 plan calling for a Palestinian entity linked to Jordan in the occupied territories.

The plan — rejected by Israel — was shelved after Arafat refused to let Jordan's King Hussein negotiate on behalf of the Palestinians.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir told the Cabinet the reconciliation could actually impede peace efforts.

"Washington absolved Arafat and this will keep moderate Palestinians from joining the peace process in the region," he said, according to Israeli Radio.

Speaking to reporters, Meridor pointedly reiterated Israel's rejection of the Reagan plan and any attempt to persuade Arafat to come to the negotiating table, saying the PLO leader still held the same positions.

"He didn't change, he cannot change them," Meridor said. "And I don't think anyone who wants peace should try to go with or through Arafat."

"Don't forget, in any peace treaty, Israel will be a party. Israel will never negotiate with Arafat — this is a consensus in Israel."

"Israel will never return to the 1967 borders. Israel will never agree to a Palestinian state. Israel will never agree to a partition of Jerusalem."

Israeli Radio said Shamir also reported to the Cabinet on a message he sent Secretary of State George Shultz last week protesting the American support for the Arafat-Mubarak talks.

Ortega: 'Yankee Domination' Ended

United Press International
Nicaraguan Junta Coordinator Daniel Ortega used a Christmas Day message to urge the heavily Catholic nation to rally around its Marxist-led regime, warning the threat of "imperialist aggression" remains.

Ortega made pointed references to the threats facing Nicaragua from anti-government rebels, backed by the United States, who are entering the third year of a guerrilla war against the Sandinista regime.

"December was a month of struggle, sacrifice, pain and work. It was the culmination of a year of struggle by the people to liberate themselves," the Nicaraguan leader said in a radio and television address Sunday morning.

Sandinista officials estimate that strikes by rebels based in neighboring Costa Rica and Honduras, including raids on fuel storage and depot facilities, cost Nicaragua several hundred million dollars in damage in 1983.

"This December day we can breathe — the air is now free in both space and time of the Somoza past — free forever of Yankee domination," he said. "But the threat of imperialist aggression continues."

Managua claims Washington has channeled over $25 million in covert CIA funds to help members of former dictator Anastasio Somoza's national guard topple the Sandinista regime.

Ortega praised the efforts of "the soldiers, the militia, the reserves, and the frontier guards on the front lines of combat."

U.S. officials estimate about 100,000 Nicaraguans are under arms, including the large paramilitary militia.

Ortega's message omitted any reference to the religious nature of the day or to poor relations with Roman Catholic Church leaders, who accuse the government of monopolizing power and abusing religious freedom.

The majority of Nicaragua's 2.5 million people are Catholic.

3 Wounded In Christmas Argument

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An argument at a Christmas party over who owned more property in Mexico ended in a shootout that left three men wounded, police said.

Camillo Hernandez, 33, described as a neighbor and friend of the victims, was identified as the gunman by police who said he was still at large.

The victims, Juan Villafuerte, 31, Raymundo Espinoza, 36, and Carlos Gutierrez, 36, were celebrating Christmas with some early morning drinking at the home of Espinoza and Gutierrez when Hernandez got into an argument over what Detective Sam Jacobellis called "a dispute over ownership of land in Mexico."

Jacobellis said Hernandez left the apartment and came back with a handgun. Hernandez allegedly shot Villafuerte in the chest and wounded the other two men in their legs, the detective said.

Villafuerte was in critical condition at County-USC Medical Center. Gutierrez and Espinoza were in stable condition at Glendale Memorial Hospital.

"Even though the victim's wives all heard the shots, the only witnesses to the triple-shooting were the victims and Hernandez," Jacobellis said.

Jacobellis said all four men live on the same block.

Reveler Celebrates Xmas With Shotgun Blasts

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police searching a residential area for a sniper crashed a Christmas party and found one of the revelers making merry with random shotgun blasts.

No one was hurt, and the party quickly ended.

Police spokesman Jim McClurg said officers in the suburban San Fernando Valley heard several blasts from a 12-gauge shotgun early Sunday and set up a command post to locate the sniper.

Witnesses told officers a partygoer fired shots from a balcony to celebrate the arrival of Christmas and then departed.

Police confiscated the weapon but made no arrests.

Potatoes, Cooked Any Style, Are America's Favorite Vegetable

Baked, mashed, steamed or fried, potatoes are this country's favorite vegetable. Americans consume 119 pounds per capita of this tasty staple each year.

Knowing some basic facts about the potato's origins, care and preparation can enable you to get greater value and enjoyment from this most popular of vegetables. Here are some tips to help you become a smarter spud purchaser and preparer:

• When shopping for potatoes, you'll discover that only those grown in Idaho can be called by that name. An easy way to guarantee that you get genuine Idaho® potatoes is to look for the state's silhouette seal on the bag.

• Inside the bag, you'll find russet brown ovals with few and shallow eyes — characteristics of the russet Burbank — the type of tuber mostly grown in the Gem State. There, the climate of warm days and cool nights, combined with the rich volcanic soil, produce a dry, fluffy and mealy textured tuber.

• At home, potatoes keep best in a cool, dark and well-ventilated place. Avoid refrigeration because the low temperature will cause the starch to convert to sugar. At room temperature, they will stay fresh for about a week.

Stuffed potatoes are a perfect addition to any family meal. Take Tapenade Stuffed Potatoes inspired by the Provençal dish with anchovies and capers.

To prepare potatoes for baking, wash and scrub them well. Once thoroughly cleaned, pierce the vegetables a few times with a fork to prevent them from bursting in the oven and allow not only steam to escape but the ideal dry, mealy texture to develop as well. By all means, aluminum foil should be scrupulously avoided. Foil covering holds in moisture thus steaming the potatoes rather than baking them.

When done, open the potato by piercing an "X" through the skin with fork tines rather than cutting with a knife, which flattens the meat inside, forming a moisture seal. The potato "blossoms" when you press the ends toward the center, lifting and fluffing the contents.

TAPENADE STUFFED POTATOES

- 4 Idaho® potatoes
- 1/4 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (2 ounces) flat anchovies, drained, chopped
- 1/2 cup chopped red pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1 tablespoon capers

Scrub potatoes, dry and prick with a fork. Bake in a 425°F. oven 55 to 65 minutes, until soft. Remove potatoes. Reduce oven temperature to 350°F. Cut a slice from top of each potato. Carefully scoop out pulp without breaking skin. Set skins aside. In large bowl whip potatoes. Add milk, butter, lemon juice, mustard and pepper; beat until smooth. Stir in anchovies, red pepper, parsley and capers. Spoon potato mixture into reserved potato skins. Bake in a 350°F. oven 20 to 25 minutes, until potatoes are heated through.

FRECKLED MASHED POTATOES

- 3 large Idaho® potatoes, unpared, cut in 1/2-inch cubes
 - 1/4 cup warm milk
 - 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Place potatoes in large saucepan with 1-inch salted water. Cover. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, simmer 15 to 20 minutes, until potatoes are tender. Drain. Mash or beat with electric mixer until potatoes are smooth. Add milk, butter, salt and pepper. Beat until potatoes are light and fluffy. Yield: 4 servings.

Chicken Good At Parties

Chicken is the mainstay of everyday meals in many households but smart hostesses also depend on chicken to highlight party menus.

The National Broiler Council notes that a few simple recipes for chicken hors d'oeuvres will help make entertaining relaxed and fun. The pleasure of sharing hospitality with friends should never be sacrificed because of a busy schedule or tight budget and chicken is both economical and easy to prepare. It is also one food everybody likes.

Chicken drumettes, chicken fingers and chicken nuggets, served with a variety of sauces for dipping, are affordable party pick-ups. Buy the drumettes pre-packaged or cut the wings into sections yourself. Cut chicken breasts into strips for fingers or into squares for nuggets. All three can be pan or oven fried after coating with seasoned flour or dipped in batter.

Chicken salad in bite-size tart shells is another good party food idea. Or, make kabobs with chunks of chicken alternated on small skewers with green peppers and pineapple (or your own favorite combination of fruits or vegetables). Marinate or simply brush with seasoned butter and broil.

Don't overlook chicken livers when planning your party fare, either. Chicken livers are a good buy, available in 8 ounce or 16 ounce containers, fresh or frozen. Chicken liver pate is an easy gourmet treat. So is creamy liver dip, served with fresh vegetables.

The high protein content of chicken makes it an especially good choice for appetizers when alcoholic beverages are served.

CHICKEN LIVER TARTLETS

1 pound chicken livers, cut in 40 pieces
 1/2 cup flour
 1 cup cooking oil
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 2 cans (20) flaky biscuits
 1/2 cup melted butter
 1 cup sour cream
 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt

In plastic bag, place flour. Add chicken liver pieces, a few at a time, shaking to coat well. In frypan, place oil and heat to medium-high temperature. Add chicken livers and cook, turning, about 3 minutes or until brown. Drain on paper towels and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Split each biscuit in half between flaky layers; shape into 40 tartlet shells. Brush each with melted butter. In small bowl, mix together sour cream and garlic salt. Spread 1/2 teaspoon sour cream mixture on each biscuit half; place piece of fried liver in center. Shape biscuit tart-like around sides of liver. Place on lightly greased baking sheet and bake in 400°F. oven for about 7 minutes or until brown. Remove from oven and place dollop of remaining sour cream mixture on top of each tartlet. Serve hot. Makes 40 hors d'oeuvres.

If you don't have a caviar budget, serve chopped chicken livers in the same grand manner. Just saute chicken livers with diced onion. Chop livers and hard-cooked eggs; mix with salt and pepper and refrigerate. Serve in small mounds on lettuce with assorted crackers.
