

U. S. Takes Paper Step Forward In Space War

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — You might say that America took a "paper step" forward into space today, but space scientists here hardly looked up from their drawing boards—too busy.

Judge Shaken Over Verdict On Whitney

MIAMI (UPI) — Judge Harold Whitely seemed more emotionally shaken than Dennis Whitney Thursday when he sentenced the youthful red-haired gunman to death in the electric chair for killing service station attendant Arthur Kessler.

Whitely, 37, of North Hollywood, Calif., stood with his habitual lack of expression or apparent interest as Vann doomed him.

But Vann had to halt twice, his voice breaking first on the phrase, "May God have mercy on your soul," and then on a brief comment he inserted on his own into the ritualized sentencing, "I'm sorry for you."

The sentence is executed before he is 20, Whitney will be the youngest white person in Florida's history to die in the electric chair.

His lawyers said they planned to exhaust every legal appeal. If these fail, the governor will sign the execution order directing the warden at Ruffalo State Prison to have Whitney electrocuted during the specific week.

The tall, slim youth admitted shooting seven men and one woman in the head with a .22-caliber pistol as he fled from Calhoun County in Florida during February and March.

All but one of the men died. Whitney received a life sentence May 4 for killing the woman, Mrs. Virginia Selby of Blalock.

through of major proportions may be in the making.

The newsmen to this space port on the Florida sands quickly get the feel of this "Cape Canaveral spirit." It's everywhere, but it grows keener the closer you come to a triangular pattern of launching pads outlined against the sky like so many oil derricks.

On the night of June 21 three men paced nervously on a platform not far from the spot where a rocket with a double satellite in her nose was being prepared for space flight. They were scientists who had helped with the payload, working 18 hours a day. But they had come in this final moment to watch their precious product soar away.

Worked pretty hard on this one, did you?" a reporter asked. "Night after night," one of them said fervently. "In and out of divorce courts. That's the price."

Hundreds like them have come here to pour their energies into America's missile and space program.

It was in 1956 that the decision was made to concentrate missile and space development at this one-time dot on the map that has become of major military, scientific, political and ideological importance in a short decade.

That was the year Edwin J. Boyle of Providence, R. I., was 22 and had just graduated from West Point.

Today Boyle, an Air Force captain, has the responsibility for watching the functions of space-assigned missiles from the time they arrive on the pads until the final count-down starts. He is a veteran of seven satellite launchings.

A decade ago Postmaster Oliver Halsten had charge of a fourth class postoffice at Cocoa Beach, the Cape's home town, and did a business of less than $1,500 a year. Today, he has a first class office and has close to $45,000 in annual revenue.

From a 1950 population of 250, the town's populace has boomed to 2,400, not counting thousands who live outside the corporate limit. The city's budget was only $37,000 seven years ago. Today it is $320,000.

"I believe this will be the longest lived of any of our military installations, Brig. Gen. William L. Rogers, vice commander of the Air Force Missile Training Command, predicted in an interview.

'Swinging' King Of Thailand Looks Out Of Place In Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As the son of a Harvard man, the king of Thailand surely must know that crimson is the color of the old school that.

But when he appeared before a joint meeting of the U. S. Congress, King Bhumibol had on a necktie that looked suspiciously like Yale blue. This made me wonder if he and Queen Sirikit might be color blind.

Before the royal couple arrived for their state visit here, I read a report that the Queen planned to follow the ancient Siamese tradition of wearing a certain color for each day of the week.

The color chart for Wednesday called for her to wear green. But when she appeared in the House chamber Wednesday to hear the King's congressional address, she was dressed in something orange, which is Thursday's color.

At any rate, the King is a very interesting fellow, being, as far as I know, the only monarch who plays jazz on the clarinet and saxophone.

As one who has matched hot licks with Benny Goodman, he may have felt a bit out of his element at the White House dinner where the music was supplied by Guy Lombardo.

Lombardo, as you know, plays "the sweetest music this side of heaven" with the soggiest saxophones this side of Lawrence Welk. Fortunately, he did not play a melody from "The King and I."

The main character in this Broadway and Hollywood musical was supposed to represent one of Bhumibol's ancestors. I understand the King was not enchanted by it and I can't say that I blame him.

I would be upset, too, if people got the impression that one of my ancestors looked like Yul Brynner.

Defense Expected To Start Case In Voting Trial

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI)—Defense attorneys were expected to start presenting their case today in the Terrell County voter registration trial, in which the U. S. Justice Department accuses county officials of discrimination in registration of Negro voters.

The chief voting registrar of Terrell County Thursday made the first outright admission that any official involved in registering voters was prejudiced against Negroes.

James G. Raines, a defendant, testified that the deputy voting registrar in 1958, now dead, had "no intention" of giving registration tests to Negroes.

U. S. District Judge William A. Boodle had asked Raines to explain why he said earlier that F. Lawson Cook had been "vehement" in telling him he had given an literacy or good citizenship tests to Negroes who applied between 1946 and 1956.

"Cook had a strong opinion on the subject," Raines said. "He was a person who had no intention of giving the tests. I could not change that."

Defense attorney Charles J. Bloch immediately asked Raines if he shared those views.

"I do not," Raines said. The defense has said repeatedly throughout the four days of the trial that none of the present Terrell registrars discriminated against Negro applicants seeking to vote.

Indications were the trial may end Saturday, or at least be recessed, to allow Raines, Bloch and other members of the defense team to attend the Democratic national convention in Los Angeles.

The government has served notice it will ask Judge Boodle, who is hearing the case without a jury, to appoint a federal voting referee under the 1960 Civil Rights Act.

New Congo President Looms A Man Of The Week

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign Editor

The man-of-the-week: Patrice Lumumba, premier of independent Congo.

The place: Leopoldville. The quote: "Our primary concern will be social justice and progress. There will be no dictatorship. We want to maintain friendly relations with all nations and we will join neither of the two blocs now dividing the world. In international relations we will always fight for freedom and just cause."

The words were high-flown as befits both the aspirations and dignity of a leader about to bring his people into the family of independent nations.

And for the Belgians who for 75 Congo, he had these reassuring words: "Now European residents and Congolese will build together. More than ever we will need Belgian help."

But Europeans sipping drinks in the sidewalk cafes of Leopoldville remained plainly worried. Sabena Airlines had had to call in extra planes to handle the mass exodus of wives and children.

The sources of their worries were manifold. There are other natural boundaries not several interests of the people to the rich, sprawling Congo together as a nation. Here, the Belgians had been the sole unifier.

Trials had run deep and had strong influences on wide split political parties.

It is suspicion and fear, rattling the Congo's future courted on any one individual, rattled on Patrice Lumumba, steed, one-time postal clerk, organizer and trouble-maker.

Lumumba gained the membership by virtue of the fact that his National Congolese Movement won 31 seats in the 137-member Parliament—far more than any other party.

The choice was (from popular vote) illustrated by rival politician who said: "A Congolese government without Lumumba is impossible. But a government with him is unthinkable."

Lumumba's dreams are unfulfilled. He plans a United States of Africa, stretching from the Sahara to the borders of white-dominated South Africa. He has plenty of time. He is only 34.

Drive Picks Up To Stop Kennedy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Stevenson-for-president organization lined up today with the stop-Kennedy coalition.

A memorandum to Democratic national convention delegates friendly to Adlai E. Stevenson advised them not to panic if Gov. Edmund G. Brown of the pivotal state of California should endorse John F. Kennedy for the presidential nomination.

The memo was sent by James E. Doyle, manager of the organization trying to draft Stevenson for a third try at the White House. It said Brown's endorsement "cannot assure the nomination of Senator Kennedy."

This move came while Kennedy was already under fire from former President Truman, who favors Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri for the nomination, and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, now Kennedy's chief rival. Both accused Kennedy of being a party to a rigged convention.

Kennedy gets a chance to give his own answer in a televised news conference today from New York, just a week before the national convention opens here.

Doyle's memorandum was understood to have gone to Stevenson delegates in California and other states. It said "persistent reports" indicated that Brown might endorse Kennedy soon and that the action "would be arranged to make it appear that it is the decisive factor."

He said the Stevenson organization's best estimate indicated that Brown's active support of Kennedy would mean no more than an additional 20 votes for the Massachusetts senator.

"This will leave Senator Kennedy about 80 votes short of a first ballot nomination, even if he exhausts his entire ammunition," the memo said. It said he would lose votes on the second ballot.

Kennedy flies here from Hyannis, Mass., to make his reply at a news conference which will be nationally televised as was Truman's from Independence, Mo., Saturday.

Congressmen Head For Conventions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of Congress headed today for the political conventions, leaving behind a half dozen major bills to be acted upon when they return to Washington next month.

The House and Senate recessed early Sunday morning for the presidential nominating conventions. The Democratic convention opens in Los Angeles next Monday and the Republicans meet in Chicago on July 25.

The Senate voted to reconvene on Aug. 8. The House, with less of a backlog of legislation, decided to stay in recess until Aug. 15. Congress is expected to finish its work by early September.

Awaiting the lawmakers upon their return will be such key election-year items as minimum wage legislation, medical care for the aged, and bills affecting school construction, housing, agriculture and payola.

New Gimmick

A robber with a bent for glasscutting broke into two gas stations Saturday morning.

According to police, the robber used a glasscutter to get into Dekle's Gulf station at 2518 French Ave. The glass had been removed. Then the thief used the oil on the door separating the garage from the inside.

The cash drawer was pried open and $40 in bills and $10 in change was taken, police said.

Harold E. Riggs' Sunoco station at 2711 Orlando Hwy was also entered the same way.

The glass in the front door was cut and knocked through with a rock. The whole cash box was taken, police said. He lost about $40 in change and a title to a Buick. The thief also got the keys to the Coca-Cola machine.

Accidental Nuclear War Possible, Study Shows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A research group says there is a "significant" chance of accidental nuclear war in the 1960s and Red China presents a special cause for alarm.

The researchers said that international tension may increase in the next decade so that "any spark—a false radar warning, an accidental overflight, a failure in communications—could trigger" catastrophe.

They said that among possible causes of a major accidental war, the most serious danger would be the "unintended spread of limited wars."

They said limited wars are a near certainty in the 1960's. The five-month study was headed by Dr. John B. Phelps, a member of the Ohio State Physics and Astronomy Department. It was one of several financed by the estate of the late Col. Ralph D. Meraban, a founder of the Reserves Officers Training Corps (ROTC).

The study, prepared by a research team from Ohio State University, said that when Communist China gets nuclear weapons, the danger of war over Formosa will be greater than the chances of conflict over Berlin.

State's Death Toll At Nine

By United Press International Florida's holiday weekend death toll is running well behind the Florida Safety Council's predicted 20.

United Press International today counted nine accidental deaths during the long weekend which started at 6 p. m. Friday and which ends at midnight tonight.

J. T. Morgan, 33, Port Lauderdale Negro, drowned while swimming in a rock pit near Fort Lauderdale Saturday afternoon.

The state's first double tragedy of the weekend occurred Sunday afternoon when two Orlando Negroes, Dave Owens, 42, and Lester Ward, 36, drowned in a lake near their home.

Flash Floods Lash East

By United Press International Tornadoes, high winds and thunderstorms so heavy they touched off flash floods raged through the eastern half of the country over the weekend.

The violent weather turned a July 4 holiday into a cleanup day for countless Americans. The heaviest hit appeared to be Indiana. Near disaster conditions were reported around Logansport, Peru and Wabash. All state police were called back to duty to help victims of a storm which killed one woman and caused hundreds of thousands of dollars damage. Moving eastward, the storm lashed New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Greenwich, Conn., police estimated that 6,000 persons were without electricity when gusty winds toppled trees on power lines. Two New York State radio stations were knocked off the air for up to 40 minutes.

The storm disrupted traffic, flooded subways and basements and inconvenienced millions in New York City.

Fifty passengers on a subway bound for Coney Island had to leave the train along a tunnel catwalk when the train stalled in a flooded Brooklyn track. Power failures were reported in Brooklyn and Queens. Some homes in Suffolk County, on Long Island, were blacked out for several hours.

Flash floods in Morehead, Ky., sent 100 families from their homes after a 3 1/2 inch downpour in about an hour. Jacksonville, Fla., was soaked with 2 1/2 inches of rain in an hour. The Florida city also was buffeted by 75 mile an hour winds.

A tornado struck the Medicine Bow National Forest 38 miles west of Laramie, Wyo., injuring a fisherman and causing extensive damage to forest land. Another hit near Boxley, Ga., and two persons were injured.

A weekend windstorm with the "express-train roar of a tornado" ripped into the extreme western edge of Kankakee, Ill., demolishing two houses and pulling the roof from a third home.

Holiday Death Toll Over 300; Record Predicted

By United Press International The nation's highway death toll for the July 4 holiday passed the 300 mark today and experts predicted motorists would set a new record before the three-day weekend ends tonight.

"It is becoming more and more apparent that motorists are speeding to a new all-time toll for any three-day Fourth of July," the National Safety Council said.

By 8 a. m. today, the highway toll had reached 304. Another 79 persons drowned and 36 died in miscellaneous accidents for an overall fatality count of 439.

Ohio led the highway slaughter with 25 dead. New York had 21, California 20, North Carolina 16, Texas and Wisconsin 15, Pennsylvania 13, Colorado and Georgia 12, New Jersey 11 and Missouri 10.

The only seven states with fatality free records were Alaska, Delaware, Hawaii, Nevada, New Hampshire, South Dakota and Vermont.

The Safety Council, before the weekend started, had predicted a highway toll of 370. But with the death count rising alarmingly, the council said it now appears the previous record of 376 fatalities in a three-day 1958 July 4 weekend would be broken.

Last month, in the three day Memorial Day weekend, 367 persons lost their lives.

Although most accidents this weekend claimed only one or two lives, death came in large doses, too. Six persons were killed in a head-on collision between two automobiles near Gladida, N. M., and seven died in the nation's worst accident near Spring Green, Wis.

In the Wisconsin mishap, a father and his six young children were killed after a runaway trailer carrying horses tore through the car. Only 94-year-old Mrs. Lorraine Meister, 28, survived.

Two Accidents Mar Weekend

The July Fourth weekend started out with a bang at the intersection of Sanford Ave. and Seventh St., as two auto accidents in as many days occurred there.

Saturday, police said, Sam Brooks, a 44-year-old Sanford Negro laborer, was driving west on Seventh St. without lights when he ran the stop sign and smashed into the car operated by Sam Penerton, a 34-year-old Negro who was also driving without lights.

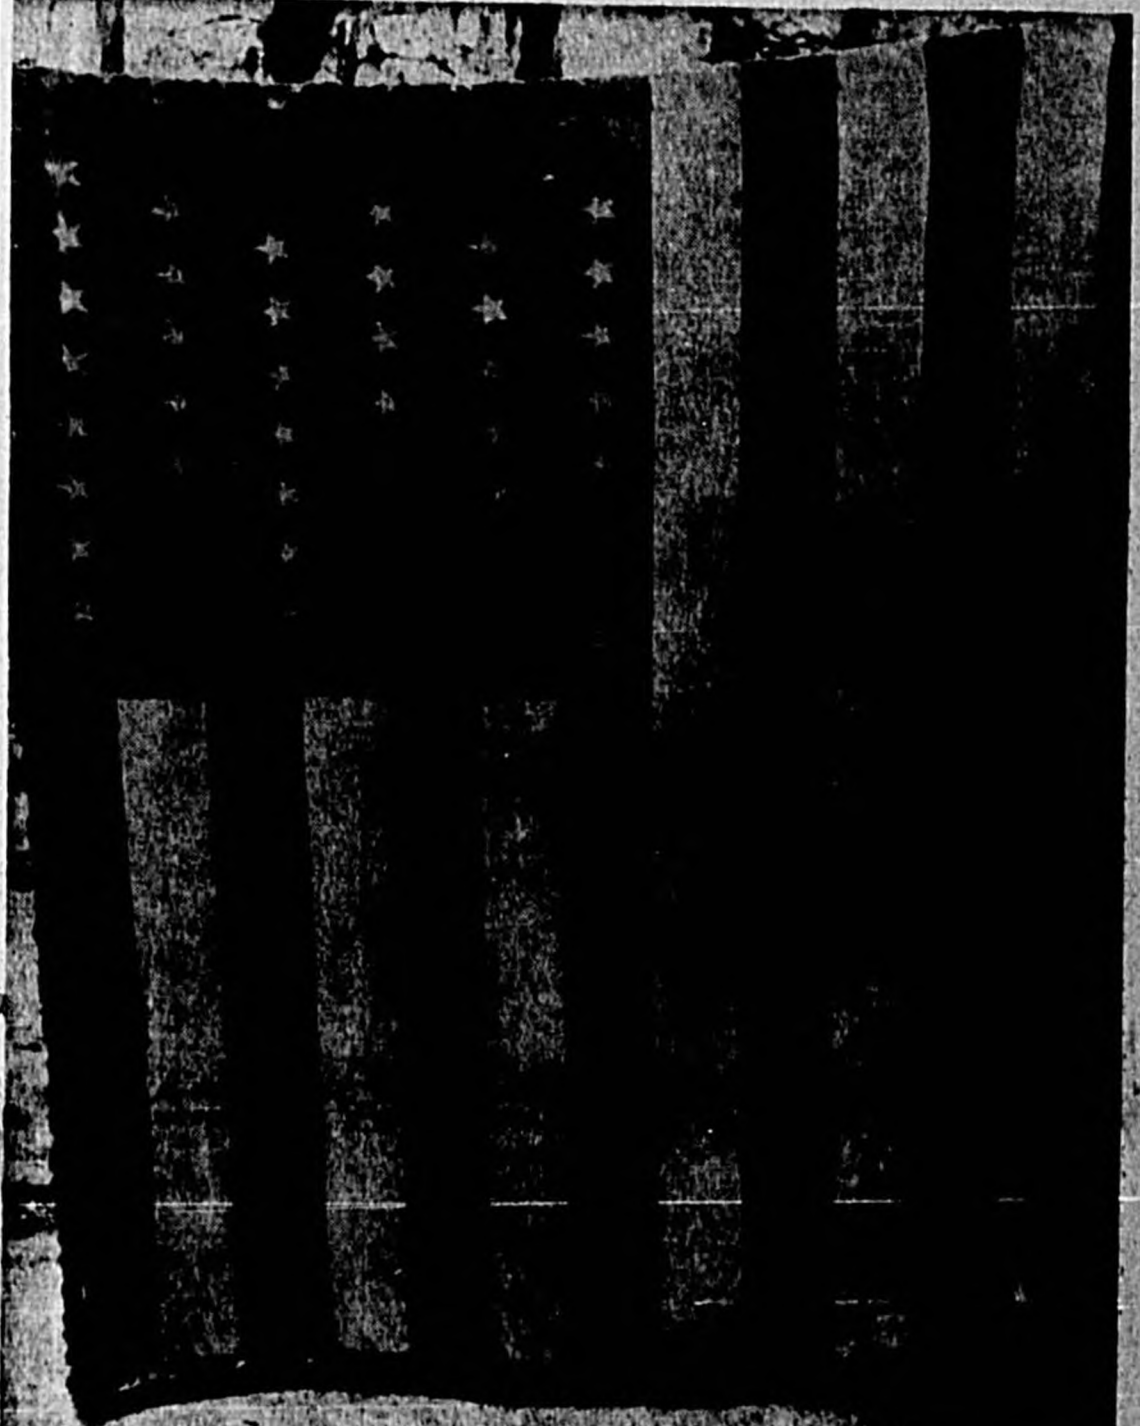

Penerton and his passenger, Ivey Penerton, were treated for bruises and lacerations. Penerton was charged with operating a vehicle without lights and also failure to yield the right of way, police said.

Sunday at 12:15 p. m., Jeannette Estelle Laing, 60, of Sanford, who says she blacked out, ran the stop sign at Seventh St. and hit a car driven by David Michael Roberts, 17, of Sanford. Edgar H. Vickers, a passenger in the first car and the driver were treated for abrasions as they were both thrown out of the car on impact, police said.

Jeannette Laing was charged with failure to yield the right of way, police added. Damage amounted to well over $1,200.

Bevan Critical

LONDON (UPI) — Aneurin Bevan, deputy leader of the British Labor Party, remained in critical condition today at his home near Chesham. It was disclosed Saturday that Bevan, who underwent a major abdominal operation last December, had suffered a relapse.

GRANDDADDY TO NEW 50-STAR FLAG is this 44-star flag which has been in the family of Col. Joseph A. Zielenki (Ret.) of Casselberry for many years and is about 63 years old. Zielenki is a veteran of the Cuban Pacification, a forgotten service of 1908; Mexican border, 1916, and World War I and II. The new 50-star flag was raised in Hawaii, the 50th state, today.

Dearborn To Expand Facilities In County

Dearborn Electronics, today officially announced the signing of contracts for extending and expanding their present facilities on Hwy. 17-92, south of Sanford.

The Herald reported the proposed expansion program more than a month ago.

Ike Holds New Weapon Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower held a powerful new economic weapon today to retaliate against Cuba's Castro regime for its seizure of U. S.-owned properties and other anti-American actions.

Congress approved legislation giving the president the authority to be sought to halt or curtail marketing of Cuban sugar in the United States.

Key lawmakers predicted that Eisenhower would use the new power quickly but some diplomatic officials said they hoped a way could be found to avoid such measures.

These officials were fearful of cracking down on the Cuban sugar quota might boomerang against this country elsewhere in Latin America and bring fresh cries of "Yankee imperialism" from nationalists.

But the chances of avoiding use of the economic weapon appeared slight. The administration itself insisted upon the new authority and there was strong pressure in Congress for action against Castro.

With Castro threatening to seize more American-owned property for every cut in the sugar quota, the two countries appeared to stand on the brink of an economic war that could have far-reaching repercussions.

Quake Recorded In Aleutians

By United Press International A "destructive earthquake" in the outer Aleutian Islands was recorded Sunday at seismograph stations.

The quake registered 7 on the Richter scale at Spring Hill College, Mobile, Ala., according to the Rev. Louis J. Eisele. At Berkeley, Calif., Dr. Don Tschers, head of the seismograph lab, said the quake had a Richter magnitude of 6.75 and was centered 2,900 miles northwest of Berkeley.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Will you please offer a suggestion to help our family (and I'm sure many others) toward a more pleasant dinner hour?

The head of our house has personality, looks, position and a family who could love him, but he makes life miserable for everyone at the dinner table. He picks that time to criticize, scold and berate the children for their grades, dress and past mistakes. And every subject that is brought up, he turns into an argument.

After preparing a delicious dinner, it is very disheartening to go through this ordeal every night. I am deeply concerned when I think how, in years to come, my children will remember "the dinner hour" at our home.

DISTRAUGHT MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Tell your husband (privately, of course) that any criticism or scolding can wait until after the dessert—and then he should direct his remarks only to the one who has it coming. Announce that only "happy talk" is allowed at dinner, and give each child an opportunity to tell something of interest that occurred that day. And by the way, Mother, why not start your dinner with a little prayer thanking God for the food and the blessings of good health which enable you all to sit together at the table? You may find it impossible to quarrel after that.

DEAR ABBY: I am a working girl who is engaged to be married soon. I am planning as nice a wedding and reception as I can afford. I asked two of my aunts if they would pour tea and coffee at my wedding reception. They both refused.

One said, "Hire your own waitress." The other said, "I would like to come to your reception as a guest, not to serve other people."

I always thought it was an honor to be asked to pour tea and coffee at a wedding reception. Or is it an insult?

BEWILDERED BRIDE

DEAR BEWILDERED: It is an honor to be asked to "pour" at a wedding reception. Your aunts' ignorance is showing.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married four years and have never had a place of our own. We've always lived with his people or mine because he refuses to take the responsibility of working steady, buying groceries and paying rent.

We are separated now because he was always getting married life and single life mixed up. I am 21 and he is 22. If we didn't have three babies, I would divorce him. If he doesn't settle down, I might anyway. Have you any advice for me?

ALL MESSED UP

DEAR MESSED: There is precious little advice (but much sympathy) for a 21-year-old girl who has 3 babies and a 22-year-old husband who "isn't ready to settle down." But printing your letter might sober up some of these 17 and 18-year-old love-struck readers who believe all they need is a wedding ring and life will be rosy.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL letters.

Streaks In Hair Aren't Unusual

Dear Edyth: My hair has a black streak which will never turn gray or white, although I have had gray hair for five years. The streak is right in front. What would you suggest?—Ellen.

I would have it. The black streak is rather dramatic and, since women are having streaks dyed into their hair, why not capitalize on your natural one? Wear your hair in a style which will "show off" your streak.

"My feet are always bothering me, so I wear very plain shoes. I do like color but I must have the lower heel. Are colored shoes of this style to be found anywhere? I wear very nice, fashionable clothes.—M."

Many manufacturers make smart lower heel models in bright colors. Just look about you. Colored shoes are so much a part of fashion that you can find even "comfort" styles in attractive colors. If your feet hurt, why not try my home care program? Send me a long self-addressed, four-cent stamped envelope and ten cents in coin. Really try out the foot routine and you will feel the difference.

"I have a royal blue and black wide-striped dress, made in a simple, shirtwaist style. I have gray hair, am tall and not fat. Should I wear a blue hat and all blue accessories? I do not wear the dress very often.—Nelda O."

I think black would be smarter and black accessories would be a nice with your other clothes. A string of matching beads in blue would be smart.

"My husband and I have received an invitation to the wedding of our only son, who is marrying a girl of whom we disapprove and whom we have not had in our home. Should we go to the wedding and send a present? They will live in Europe and are leaving right after the ceremony. Our son is thirty and this is his first marriage. It is his second and she has a small daughter who will go with them.—Mon and Dad."

I think, since your son is of an age to know his own mind, you and his father should meet the bride-to-be and the little girl. You might learn to love them both. You cannot choose your children's life mates and, since he is an only son, you must feel lonely being on the outside. Think this over.

Tourist Flow Up In State

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Tourist flow by car into Florida increased 16 percent last month, compared to May of 1959, Earl McIntyre of the Tourist Services Division disclosed Wednesday.

McIntyre said a count by state welcome stations and the Road Department showed 397,900 tourists entering Florida in automobiles in May, compared to 338,400 for the same month last year.

Phil Silvers TV Comedy Special Comes To Life In Closing Sketch

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Phil Silvers, closing out the comedy specials for the season, scored a final-whistle goal Thursday night that left his cheering fans.

His "Summer in New York" hour on CBS-TV stalled around for the first 45 minutes. And then came the closing sketch, a what would happen if the esteemed drama critic of the New York Times, Brooks Atkinson, happened to drop in on an off-Broadway opening. The comedy catalyst was a mix-up in sections, instead of going downstairs to the basement of a lower East Side tenement, where the improvised, experimental theater was located, Mr. Atkinson and his wife, both luxuriously dressed, walked upstairs and blithely seated themselves on a living room couch in a beat-up flat occupied by a decidedly proletarian couple, rousing portrayed by Jules Munshin and Carol Haney. It was in this setting that Silvers-Atkinson awaited the new play.

The concept of the sketch was a bright one. Filled with rollicking satire and underlines of pathos, it played with sparkle, balance and speed for great impact.

Each time the unknowing, outraged tenant, Munshin, denounced his two capitalist intruders, Atkinson-Silvers would toss out a guest as to the author of Munshin's dialogue. He went through Chayefsky, Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams and Eugene O'Neill, depending on Munshin's oratory. At the end, as the cops dragged him out of the apartment, Silvers-Atkinson pronounced this experimental "slice of life" off-Broadway production a hit. The skit was the brilliant highlight of the show and one of TV comedy's brighter moments.

The rest of the show, dedicated to the proposition that "New York is a summer festival," was interesting at times, mildly entertaining, but hardly outstanding. Carol Haney and Carol Lawrence performed their dances the hard way—on Wall Street and on the Staten Island Ferry. The dances were brisk but the settings swallowed them up. The Empire State Building also played a part in this show. (It's not true, by the way, that the entire show really originated on a new sound stage in Hollywood. You could tell it was really New York because the streets were so empty.)

Permanent Home For Festival Asked

The First Florida Theatre Festival held at Daytona Beach early this month came to a successful climax with a joint invitation from Mayor J. Owen Hubank and Stanley Driscoll, president of the Florida Theatre, to make Daytona Beach permanent headquarters of the annual event, Maurice Gearty of Jacksonville, festival committee chairman has announced.

Several other Florida cities have also sent invitations to host the 1961 festival. Decision on the matter is expected to be made at a committee meeting next month.

The week-long event sponsored by the Florida Theatre Conference included eight stage productions by Community Theatre Groups, a ballet performance, seminars with nationally known speakers and numerous social events.

More than 1,400 attended the various activities and visitors were registered from 26 cities in 17 states other than Florida and representatives from 21 Florida cities were also listed.

Nothing Like Finding An Old Letter From Hero Out Of Past

By DICK WOOD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Almost nothing sets the school world more like the finding of a new letter.

The Library of Congress recently got its hot hands on a "letter" from a hero in four years after his demise.

It is a letter to a young woman, a student at the time, who had written to him in the street.

The manuscript is the first to come to light, and it is a document of great interest.

It was written on the day that he was shot, May 22, 1918, and it was found in a box of his effects.

Imagine the excitement that would be caused by the discovery of a love note from Cleopatra to Anthony.

"Dear Tony: The next time you're out by the pyramid please look around and see if you can find that comb I lost. Love, Cleo."

Now let us examine some other examples of as yet undiscovered correspondence:

Caesar to Brutus: "Whatever happened to that bill I introduced to make it unlawful for Roman to carry concealed daggers?"

Gen. Custer to his wife: "Don't worry about me. There are no Indians around here."

I suspect that a similar other undiscovered letter would be found to be of common knowledge ever so light.

Producer Edgar Peterson has signed 23 well-known writers, including Quentin Reynolds and William L. Shirer, for the documentary drama based on Winston Churchill's World War II memoirs starting on ABC-TV Sunday, Nov. 27.

Sonny Fox bids for Bud Collyer for three weeks on ABC-TV's "Beat the Clock" starting July 12. Collyer will undergo leg surgery. His replacement on CBS-TV's "To Tell the Truth" hasn't been lined up as yet.

Suppose, for instance, that someone discovered a letter written by Boxcar Willie to girlhood chum in a box of his effects on a great flood. Imagine how something like that would be found.

Just a few letters you know how much joy and boy-scouty berry joy it would be to find all well known names has been letting a little more lively. He keeps bringing some gray ani-

Eat Good Breakfast To Get Calories Even On The Run

Are you or your family breakfast skippers? Or just had the sweet roll and coffee kind of meal to start the day? If so, you are missing out on needed nutrients to keep you in good physical and mental shape, as well as looks. It's hard to "make up" those needed vitamins, minerals, and protein during the day. How about drinking your breakfast! Miss Alice Cromartie, Extension Nutritionist, suggests a "shake" to put you in shape to face the day. Beat together the following:

1 glass whole milk	81
2 tablespoons dry skim milk	55
4 oz. (1/2 cup) orange juice	50
1 whole egg	70
1 tablespoon sugar or sweetener of your choice	33
Total	314 calories

This is fewer calories than you'd have in the sweet roll and it's "loaded" with food value. It is the equal to this breakfast menu:

Orange juice — 1/2 cup
Poached egg on toast
1 glass milk

We also know that milk contains the B vitamin, Riboflavin which is associated with looking younger longer! So if you are a breakfast skipper or a sweet roll eater — think twice and give yourself an even chance by a better breakfast — even on the run!

Happiness Through Sleeplessness

(By DR. F. LEO)

We, who are each day conscious of the comforting effects of sleep, might not be too concerned about those who are not so fortunate, unless we have at some time been afflicted with the inability to get restful sleep, or sufficient sleep.

One of the most common causes of sleeplessness is the over-activity of the nervous system. This is often due to disturbed circulation of blood to the brain.

Resistance to normal nerve impulses, is often due to disturbed circulation of blood to the brain.

How To Keep The Food Values In Vegetables

Home Demonstration Agent
You get the most from green vegetables when you treat them right — as you store, cook and serve them in daily meals.

First of all, freshness counts. Tired and limp and wilted vegetables have lost their nutrients as well as flavor and appearance. To keep green vegetables fresh, clean them and put them in the hydrator of your refrigerator as soon as you get home from the store or garden.

If your refrigerator doesn't have a hydrator or vegetable crisper, put cleaned vegetables into plastic bags, fasten the opening securely, and refrigerate.

Keep those left-over matured dried onions, and potatoes, in a ventilated box or in a cool, dry, dark place. Butabaga and winter squash keep well for a few days in a ventilated box or basket when it's cool and only moderately dry.

Frozen vegetables can lose nutrients and quality too, when the temperature gets too warm. Store packages at 0° F. or lower.

Remember that you can wash, soak and cook water soluble nutrients away. Never soak pared vegetables before cooking. To cook, use the smallest amount of water possible — only enough to prevent vegetables from sticking as they steam. After the heat to the lowest temperature required to maintain the steaming. This helps keep vegetables whole and saves food value.

Valuable Vitamins In Honey Dishes

Home Demonstration Agent

With honey, many main dishes, salads, desserts, breads and beverages take on new and different qualities that all taste divine. Here are some ideas for serving honey on your table given by Miss Alice Cromartie, extension nutritionist.

SPREAD—With bread, to a s, pancakes, waffles, or other hot breads. Serve honey "as is," or mix with equal parts of butter or margarine for honey spread.

Or, mix equal parts of honey, peanut butter, and butter or margarine, and whipped cream.

TOPPING—Make a simple topping for fresh fruit, fruit salad, fruit cup, or ice cream by drizzling with honey just before serving. To do this, hold container of warmed honey a short distance above the food and let the honey drop in a fine stream.

Whipped cream sweetened with honey makes a good topping for plain or fruit ice cream or gelatin desserts.

On hot desserts try honey hard sauce. To make it, cream honey with one-half as much butter or margarine until well blended.

SWEETENER—Serve on hot or cold cereals. In beverages, dilute honey by mixing equal parts of honey and water. Use with grape juice, in lemonade or orangeade, hot spiced tea, with milk, and in eggnog.

WHIPPED WITH HONEY—Honey may be used, measure for measuring, in place of sugar in preparing puddings, custards, pie fillings, baked apples, candied and "sweet-sour" vegetables, salad dressings and cinnamon toast. Brushed or drizzled on ham during the last half hour of baking, honey adds flavor and gives a golden glaze.

In cakes, honey can replace as much as one-half of the sugar without making it necessary to change the proportions of the other ingredients in the recipe.

In cookies, the amount of honey that can replace the sugar varies with the type of cookie. For ginger-snaps, for example, replace no more than one-third of the sugar with honey. For brownies, honey may be used for half of the sugar called for. For fruit bars, honey can be used for up to two-thirds of the sugar.

In both cakes and cookies, the honey should be mixed thoroughly with the other ingredients to prevent a soggy layer from forming on top. Combine honey with either the shortening or liquid.

Contrary to popular "old wives' tales" honey is not a good food for the diabetic or the weight-watcher. In fact, for a diabetic it could prove near fatal if not fatal.

Honey is PURE SUGAR. It is concentrated and each tablespoon contains 16.7 grams of pure carbohydrate. This means it contains 62 calories per tablespoon. (granulated sugar contains 50 calories per tablespoon.)

As to honey containing valuable vitamins and minerals, it has very minute amounts which are not great enough to contribute much to total body needs. So, if you like honey — (Except diabetics, please) eat it — for it's good flavor. That's all there is to it! —caloric and good flavor!

Students Forget It's Privilege To Lead Anti-Red Fight

By HOLMES ALEXANDER
WASHINGTON—Students have been holding all over the world these days—Turkey, Japan and Cuba. Now in San Francisco figuratively speaking, they are up in arms against the oath-taking provisions of the National Defense Education Act of 1958. What's the reason? Spring fever, parental neglect, nuclear unrest—or is it their teachers?

This daring afterthought leaped to mind in reviewing the Senate debate on the ripper amendment which is now before the House. There was this nugget of wisdom from Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, who was arguing to leave the act alone:

"I regret that some 20 institutions—universities and colleges—have already announced their refusal to cooperate in the student loan program. I think, Mr. President, these institutions are wronging the young people of this country."

Later in the debate, but dependent on Russell's remark, Senator Dodd of Connecticut, went further in indicting the faculty groups which have been inciting students to intellectual rioting (different inviolence but not in kind from the snake dancers of Tokyo) against the defense policy of this country. Dodd said in a prepared address:

"... these college and educational spokesmen... chose to repudiate a government program... to stir up the students against the act which is aimed to benefit them... chose to liken our government to the Nazi regime of Hitler, to shed crocodile tears and to put on an air of persecution."

Like the Japanese snake-dancer, the demonstrators against oath-taking are a pestiferous minority. The figures show that only 28 out of 1,350 institutions have declined to participate in the student loan program which is controlled by the objectionable oaths. Numbers are not very meaningful, since nose counting never tells much about the right and wrong of anything. In a civilized country the minorities are allowed to have their fling within limits. The thing which sent me digging back into the Congressional Record to review the Senate debate was an episode that happened several days later.

During the testimony of Dr. Linus Pauling, the nuclear pacifist, a sparring of frantic applause burst from a knot of college-age boys and girls when the witness seemed to be getting hostile toward the committee. I went back and interviewed them (not asking for any names) and discovered this unhappy but prevalent situation. As between hostile, lay-down-your-arms witness and the four U. S. senators who were questioning him with the utmost courtesy, the Youth Movement as for the witness—and against the American government.

How did their twigs get bent that way? I think Senators Russell and Dodd suggested the answer. To understand how the faculty groups have been leading their students wrong, let us summarize the oath-taking issue. The student loans were authorized by the 84th Congress in the Smith act. The argument that a National Defense Education Act should be passed to send more people to college.

Since this was a quasi-military measure, it was thought that the students ought to take substantially the same oaths as were required of ROTC students and scholarship beneficiaries under the National Science Foundation. These oaths asked of student loan-takers are two in number. One simply and beautifully pledges allegiance to the Constitution. The other declares that the taker is not a Communist and does not plan to help overthrow the USA.

The anti-oath agitators at first opposed both these oaths. When they couldn't rub out the pledge of allegiance, they concentrated on the anti-Communist statement. In the final Senate action, the anti-Communist declaration was killed, but a much stronger and legally-binding substitute by Senator Proudy of Vermont was passed. Thus despite much public misunderstanding, the anti-oath protesters and their Senate cohorts took a beating.

Left in the embattled air was the plaintive cry that American students were being "singled out" for the anti-Communist statement. Well why not? To be in the van of a movement is to be an honor. Their teachers ought to teach these students that it's a privilege to be first in any fight against communism.

WORRY CLINIC by Dr. G. W. Crane

Do you know how to read and study efficiently? If not, follow the advice to Eva, for thousands of students are too passive in their reading. They turn the pages of the textbooks but things don't register. So use the "True-False" and "four answer" methods outlined below.

CASE F — 407: Eva Q., aged 19, is a college sophomore.

"Dr. Crane, I don't believe I know how to study very efficiently," she acknowledged.

"For I read and read, but when the professor gives us an examination, I still don't make very good grades.

"So I must not absorb the facts when I study my books. Do you psychologists have any rules for improving such methods and making one's study more productive?"

"Yes, inject as much active participation into your study as possible. Don't sit passively looking at pages after page until you finish the chapter.

"Instead, keep a pen and notebook handy. Imagine that it is your job to prepare a 'true-false' or 'multiple choice' exam over that chapter.

"Suppose you are going to be asked tomorrow to write 50 questions for your fellow students, all based on that very chapter you are studying tonight.

"This mental attitude wakens you from the passive role that too many students adopt.

"Besides, it makes you read very carefully. You are constantly probing for facts, such as dates or laws or definitions, etc.

"When ever you find something specific that can be phrased as a question, jot it down. This act of writing down something from every paragraph or page, will help you retain the material.

"Oh, it may slow down the speed with which you cover the entire chapter. But once you've finished the chapter, you will have gleaned almost every fact therefrom, so your professor will seldom be able to ask anything which you don't already have in your own list.

This adds the additional rest, too, of letting you try to out-guess your professor.

If your assignment happens to be history, you can pick out a date and phrase it in a true-false statement, such as:

F (1) Columbus discovered America in 1492. (P. 173).

In parentheses at the end of the statement, list the page in your text where the right answer is printed. This helps you double-check quickly if you should forget.

Many students prefer the four-answer ("multiple choice") format as:

"Columbus discovered America in 1215-1492-1616-1735." (P. 173).

Among these four answers, only one is correct. Again you can list the page where the right answer is to be found in your text.

Improving such methods will improve the efficiency of your studying. For you joy yourself awake and actively do some writing at least two or three times for almost every page.

If you keep your own exams, you can make a quick review in maybe 30 minutes as you ride to school. Besides you will not need to drink black coffee and cram all night long at the end of the term.

For you can easily review an entire textbook in a couple of days if you use the methods outlined in this clinic. You might make a detailed "true-false" or "four-answer" quiz over each chapter as it has been assigned during the semester.

In your true-false quiz, however, don't include two facts in one statement for one might be true and the other, false. This causes ambiguity.

And to avoid fruitless debate about the truth or falsity of your statements, always preface them with this: "Our textbook says:" for that kind of statement is easily answered with a definite "True" or "False."

As a preview, we set off a couple of firecrackers the other night. (Just to see if they worked. "Look out!" BANG!) I think they were slightly illegal. But we are an independent bunch.

The Fourth of July these dependent days simply reminds us how much independence has been blown out of our youth. Surrender to safety, sanity and the supermarket.

We do not sell fireworks in our enlightened community. Therefore, we have to drive over to another county where the inhabitants are crude and full of fun.

BOOM!

In my inane, unsafe youth the Fourth of July started by putting the biggest cannon cracker you had under an empty tomato can. WHAM!

It started at daybreak. All the grownups put their heads under the covers. And every dog in the neighborhood went under the nearest bed.

From the initial explosion we progressed to feats of bravery.

"Betcha you're scared to hold a little one in your fingers while it goes off!"

"I betcha. I'm not either!"

"I betcha. And I dare and double-dare you."

Well, nobody can betcha. And dare and DOUBLE DARE you. CRACK! There you stood. Still shivering. But a hero.

"Heck, that's nothing," we said modestly. "Last year I held one of those big, old CANNON crackers!"

They said, you did not, let's see you do it again.

We said: "I would. Only last year another boy did it and it blew his arm off. So we had to promise our mother not to do it again."

They said: "Yeah? What boy? You're just scared too."

We said: "Oh yeah? You want to fight?"

Those were the good old days.

Torpedoes were an excellent buy when I was driving grownups under the covers and dogs under the bed.

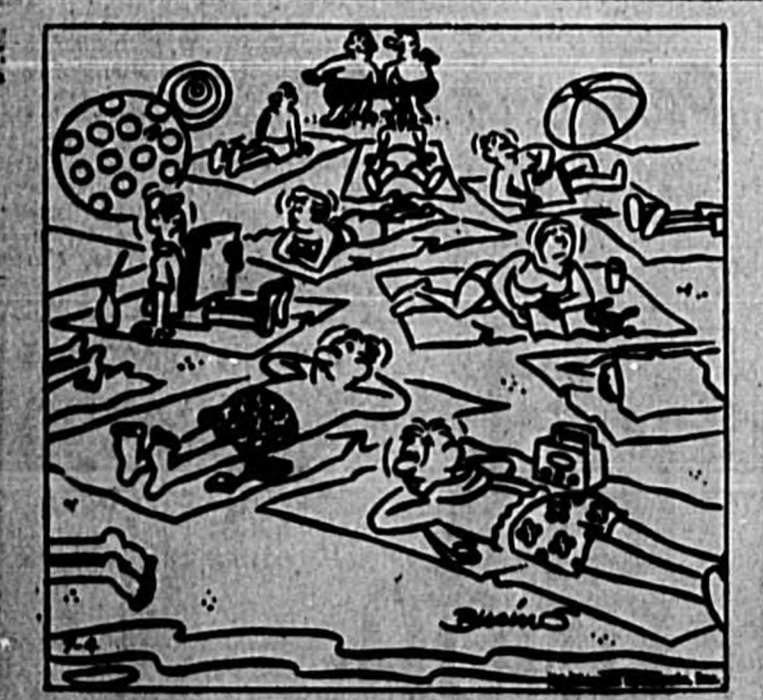

I cannot buy torpedoes these calm days. "We have some nice sparklers," said the fireworks man. I just gave him a look, Sparklers!

You set them all off—CRACK! CRACK! CRACK! About this is the bang-fires. The remains are still smoldering. Among them you see a couple of crackers unblown. Now—do you DARE put your hand in and fish them out?

Medical Advisor For Giant Airlines Says Fear Of Jets Is 'Groundless'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Do jets or conventional piston engine aircraft?

—Cause miscarriages?
—Make people more air-sick?
—Lead to deafness among ground crews?
—Give stewardesses varicose veins and more frequent menstrual periods?
—Create greater fatigue among pilots?

When the jet age began in October, 1958, there were frequent warnings that sonic air travel would lead to various medical difficulties.

But Dr. Otis B. Schreuder, medical director of Pan American World Airways overseas division, says all these fears have proved groundless.

Does jet travel or flying in general cause miscarriages? A review of Pan Am's medical records shows that nearly seven million passengers flew the Atlantic between 1953 and 1959 without a single case of miscarriage reported. Schreuder, in a paper read recently to the Aerospace Medical Association in Miami, which quoted statistical studies which concluded that flying has no ill effect on pregnancy — either in

Try And Stop Me

Housework cannot be measured in dollars and cents was the fact one woman discovered in Pittsburgh, Pa., not long ago.

She had brought suit against her husband for $5,670 claiming that the money was due her under an agreement they had made whereby she would be paid one dollar an hour for housework.

The judge ruled that such work within the home was an integral part of family life for which no payment should be made.

It is not easy to be a good wife, mother and homemaker and at the same time, be at everyone's beck and call. But in God's plan it is one of the most important and noblest tasks in the world.

No amount of money could adequately compensate for all the time, effort and devotion expended by a woman in conducting a good home.

But it takes only a moment to show by word or deed the appreciation you owe your wife or mother. That little word or deed is worth more than any hourly wage she could be paid.

"Let us not love in word neither with the tongue, but in deed and in truth." (1 John 3:18)

Teach me to show appreciation for the blessings as a happy family life, O Lord.

ON THE GULF OF MEXICO—The U. S. Coast Guard has upon discovery—a most startling "find" —by the Humble Oil Company of Texas a number of years ago.

The Humble people were it drilling for oil when they came up with a sample of 99.12 percent pure sulphur. "The only trouble is," they said, "we're not in the sulphur business."

So Freeport took it from there. Now Humble gets 50 percent of the net profits for having found that spot, which is one of the richest sulphur mines in the world, 240 acres and 400 feet thick.

Mining sulphur from the sea was never tried before. It was a $30 million-dollar gamble to build the island of steel, the only such structure with the exception of the much smaller Texas Towers on our DEW line in the Atlantic.

High on this superstructure, Paul Bybee, general supervisor, removed the lid of a steel vat and what I saw inside was a six-inch pipe belching streams of amber liquid—molten sulphur.

It's mined by shooting superheated water, 300 degrees, into a well, melting down the rock, then forcing it up by air.

They had 10 wells working this day. The hot sulphur is piped seven miles to Grand Isle, on the mainland. Soon, Freeport will be mining nearly one million tons a year (at $23 a ton)—pretty lemon-yellow stuff for sulphuric acid, used mostly in fertilizers, paints, steel, cellophane and for sulphur drugs.

Working conditions here aren't bad at all. There are 175 men, only about half of whom are on the job at one time. They're on for five days, then off for five days, and the company flies them by chopper to the mainland. The 60-room "hotel" on the "bridge" is air-conditioned. So are the rooms and cafeteria.

And fishing in the off-hours—down below, off the steel beams—is fantastic. Jim Moyers, who was showing me around, said one morning he and five others snagged 180 fish in four hours. Some of the mackerel they caught weighed five pounds.

The fish congregate there to feed off the algae that forms as the underwater footers.

There is one fear—hurricanes. "If one heads this way," Bybee said, "we clear out and shut down."

On the bulletin board I saw the current weather report: "Tropical disturbance," it read, "off Corpus Christi heading northeast 12 miles an hour."

Ten minutes later, they had me back in the chopper, heading for my trailer—and terra firma.

Except when the water is so ideal that everybody goes to the pool at the same time, it's a little capacity.

Except when the show and being used by children running to swim and the second by teenagers learning to swim, and the middle part for water polo, or underwater swimming.

Except when a person cannot swim across the pool, the pool is a waste of money.

Newcomers Spark Starting Lineups For 1960 Major Loop All-Star Tilt

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Mays and Roger Maris were the most popular selections for the starting lineups of the 1960 major league All-Star Game, but undoubtedly the most pleased players were newcomers Ron Hansen of the Orioles and Joe Adcock of the Braves.

Four Braves players and four members of the Yankees were among the 16 players chosen by their major league colleagues to start in the All-Star Game at Kansas City, July 11, and at New York, July 13.

Hansen, a 22-year-old rookie shortstop who looks like Marty Marion in the field, was favored by a wide margin over Luis Aparicio of the White Sox as starting spot in the American League lineup. Hansen is a good fielder and currently is batting .256 with 47 runs batted in.

Adcock finally was chosen on an All-Star team in his 11th National League season. The 28-year-old first baseman currently is batting .204 with 11 homers and 39 RBIs. Adcock won out in the closest race for any position in either league, beating Bill White of the Cardinals, 82 votes to 63.

Besides Adcock, the Milwaukee players elected were catcher Del Crandall, third baseman Ed Mathews, and right fielder Hank Aaron.

The two other N. L. outfielders chosen were Mays and left fielder Bob Skinner of the Pirates, while Ernie Banks of the Cubs won the shortstop job and Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh will start at second base.

The four Yankees who will start for the American League are Maris, Mickey Mantle in center field, Bill Skowron at first base and Yogi Berra behind the plate. Frank Malzone and Pete Runnels will be at third base and second, respectively, while Minnie Miñoso of the White Sox will play in the A. L. outfield with Mantle and Maris.

Crandall, Mathews, Banks, Mays and Aaron all started for the N. L. last year while Skowron and Miñoso are A. L. starting holdovers.

For the third year in a row, players, coaches and managers met for the starting lineup. The poll was conducted by Frank Slocum, aide to commissioner Ford Frick.

A total of 234 eligible voters participated in the N. L. poll and 237 in the A. L. The major leaguers could not vote for players on their own club.

Yanks Reach July 4th Milestone With Biggest Lead While Pirates Beginning To Lose Edge In National

United Press International. The New York Yankees have reached the July 4 milestone with their biggest American League lead since 1938, but the Pittsburgh Pirates are slowly losing their edge in the National.

Casey Stengel's crew carried a three-game lead into today's Independence Day program on the strength of Sunday's doubleheader sweep of Detroit, 7-6 and 6-2. Pittsburgh's margin was cut to 3 1/2 games as Los Angeles beat the Pirates, 6-2, and second-place Milwaukee defeated St. Louis, 4-3, in 14 innings.

Although there's an old baseball adage that teams leading on July 4 go on to win pennants, the Pirates might be reminded that this has often proved a fallacy. The Cubs now have lost four of their last six games.

A pair of three-run homers by Cleo Boyer and Mickey Mantle stitched the Yankees' winning streak to six games and ran their record to 23 victories in the last 28 games. The Yankees came from behind to deal Detroit its fifth straight setback. Boyer put New York ahead, 7-5 in the opener when he hit his fourth home run of the season in the seventh inning with Mantle and Elton Howard on base. Shortstop Chico Fernandez paved the way for the winning rally with the Tigers' third error of the game.

Roger Maris cut off the potential tying run for Detroit in the ninth inning when his rifle threw out Frank Bolding homered for the Tigers. Mantle's 19th homer off loser Pete Bursade in the nightcap put the Yankees in front, 4-2, in the fifth inning. Boyer and Bobby Richardson doubled home the last two runs in the eighth as Art Ditmar picked up his fifth straight win and seventh of the year.

Los Angeles took its second straight from Pittsburgh by chasing Vinegar Bend Mizell with four runs in the third inning. Gil Hodges hit his first homer since May 24 for the Dodgers and Don Drysdale struck out seven as he won his third straight from Pittsburgh. A bases-loaded single by Del Crandall ended a four-game losing streak and enabled the Braves to salvage the last of a four-set series with the Cardinals. Hank Aaron hit his 20th and 21st homers for Milwaukee and Bill Bruton hit his sixth. Rookie Don Nottebart pitched 3-2 scoreless relief to gain the victory.

In other National League games San Francisco pounded out an 11-5 win over Philadelphia and Chicago whipped Cincinnati, 7-5. Cleveland went into a second place in the American League by trouncing Washington twice, 5-2 and 11-3; Chicago edged Baltimore, 2-1, in 11 innings and Boston bombed Kansas City, 13-2. Willie Mays raised his N.L. batting lead to .309 with four hits that included a triple and his 17th homer. Felipe Alou and Bob Schmidt also homered for the Giants. Sam Jones lasted only two innings but picked up his 10th victory. Tony Taylor and Ken Walters homered for the Phils. Rookie Ron Santo's first major league homer, a three-run blast in the first inning, stood up for Chicago as late-inning homers by Harry Anderson and Wally Post nearly overcame the Cubs' lead. Jim O'Toole, a Saturday bridegroom, was treated unkindly as he fell victim to a four-run Chicago rally in the fifth.

Jim Klippstein's double play pitch to Julio Becquer with the bases loaded in the seventh inning preserved Jim Perry's ninth victory in Cleveland's opener. Woodie Held's 14th homer and Harvey Kuenn's fifth sparked a four-run Tribe uprising in the fifth inning. Homers by Jim Lemon and Billy Gardner averted a Washington whitewash.

John Romano and Vic Power each drove in four runs to lead the Indians' 16-hit attack in the nightcap. Romano's three-run homer highlighted a six-run rally in the third inning. Rookie Johnny Briggs allowed a homer to René Bertoia in winning his fourth game.

Baltimore skidded to third place when Jim Busby's 11th inning error permitted Roy Sievers to score all the way from first on Sherman Lollar's single. Sievers accounted for Chicago's first run with a homer. Gus Triandos hit one for the Orioles.

Ted Williams hit the 500th homer of his career and Willie Tasby smashed a grand slammer as the Red Sox collected 14 hits against the A's. The DeLoach, coming off a three-day suspension for misbehavior, won his second game. Vic Weritz also homered for Boston as Ed Norm Siebera of K.C.

No More Cards

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Interim manager Tom Sheehan, dealing straight from the top of the deck, censured his slumping San Francisco Giants Sunday for all-night card playing and mental lapses on the field.

The stiff clubhouse reprimand came before the game with the Philadelphia Phillies which the Giants won handily, 11-5. Sheehan, who took over the reins of the Giants after Bill Rigney was fired, laid his cards on the table in demanding that all players be in bed within two hours after a night game.

He said "half a dozen or more" players often got together for card games that sometimes lasted until 10 o'clock the next morning. The stakes in the games, Sheehan said, started low but usually grew higher and higher with the result that heavy losers carried unhappy memories onto the field with them.

The So To Spend Holiday Playing You Know What

GETTSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—If the rain holds off, President Eisenhower plans to celebrate the Fourth of July by playing golf. He hoped to play a round this morning and return to Washington after lunch. The famous Civil War battle area here abounded with tourists and amateur historians, some in the blue and gray of the Union and confederate armies remembering Vicksburg's famous infantry charge along Seminary Ridge. Replicas of ancient cannon lined the hillside not far from the Eisenhower farm and a military parade was to pass through the city during the day. The president, however, was not interested and kept his eyes on the ball for 36 holes of golf Saturday and 18 yesterday at the Gettysburg Country Club. Club pro Dick Fleischer had the 18th hole of yesterday and the president deferred his Sunday game until late afternoon, finishing the round at 7:11 p. m. as heavy thunderclouds approached. The president in a buff colored sports shirt and tan slacks, seemed to be playing only a moderate kind of golf. On the first hole, he took three wood shots from the tee before he got one down the fairway. He spent the weekend golfing and playing bridge with a group of close friends including his neighbors George E. Alfors, William E. Robinson, board chairman of Coca Cola, and Barry Lallhead, head of Cluett Peabody. The president went to church alone yesterday. The first lady, recuperating from an attack of asthma, spent the weekend at her Washington residence with her son, Lt. Col. John S. Eisenhower, and his family. The president and Mrs. Eisenhower leave Thursday by plane for a vacation at Newport, R. I. He will break his stay there to visit the Republican National Convention in Chicago July 26 and may not return to Washington on a regular basis until congress is back in session next month.

College Jazz Fans Turn Swank Newport Hotel Into Shamble

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI)—The Newport Jazz Festival announced today it will sue this swank resort for $4 million resulting from its cancellation of three musical events because of a college students' riot. College jazz fans, 12,000 strong, turned this New England millionaire's playground into shambles Saturday night when they rioted because they were unable to gain admittance to the sold-out concert. The post-playground turned into a battleground when students hurled beer cans, whiskey bottles and rocks clashed with city and state police reinforced by the U. S. Marines, Navy, National Guard and firemen. The riot was put down by tear gas grenades and fire hoses. At least 125 persons were injured in the melee, none seriously. Police roadblocks sealed off the island from the rest of the state. The Newport City Council cut the five-day, seventh annual concert short after its Sunday matinee performance. It cancelled last night's concert and two scheduled today.

Lake Mary Youngster Receives Letter From Leper Colony Ask For Help

From a leper colony to Lake Mary came one of the strangest of letters describing a morbid, but sad, tale of one of the Christian world's most modern day tragedies. Susan Stallings, 13 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. H. Stallings of Lake Mary received the letter when she placed her name as a "pen pal" in the small Presbyterian pamphlet called Digest, which circulates in many parts of the world. In March of this year, Susy received a letter from a Philippine lady, whose address was listed as the Cullon Leper Colony, Cullon Palawan, Philippines. Excerpts from the letter read as follows: "I don't know how and where to begin this letter. It is pride that has barred me from doing so. One night I talked with my friends in our dormitory. "We talked until past midnight. I had no wink of sleep though I needed one. Beg, beg, the words kept on repeating—In my mind I closed my eyes wanting to evade the inevitable merciless moments that haunted me, a leper. "I rose from my bed and wrote this letter to you in the hope that you can extend a very little help. "Our condition is appalling, with few exceptions we are clad in rags. There are old men and women, children of all ages so wasted by the disease that they are anxious and eager that death would come soon. I am a part of them.

"If you could come and watch how we are treated by our non-leper brothers and sisters, you would wonder, I'm sure, why there are other Christians so lowly treated. We are the dregs, the unfortunate ones. "The great American Declaration of Independence says all men are created equal, which means that God sees into our soul. Lake Mary Served Barbecue Chicken To 300 Little League Benefited From Holiday Event

July 4 Observance Ends With A Bang

More than 300 adults and young-people watched a giant display of fireworks over Lake Monroe Monday night, climaxing Sanford's July 4 observance.

It was the largest fireworks display in Sanford's history, according to recreation officials who sponsored the event.

The aerial program featured 110 different pieces of apparatus, including multi-color shells, star shells and other shells of all sizes and shapes.

The fireworks display ended a well-rounded holiday program highlighted by a chicken barbecue and various baseball games and sporting events at Ft. Mellon Park.

A giant crowd was on hand for the barbecue with 1,300 pounds of chicken being served as well as 200 pounds of baked beans, 100 pounds of potato salad and 75 gallons of iced tea.

Longwood Volunteer Firemen, holding their first picnic in five years, celebrated the Fourth at a swim party held at the home of Carl Lammier.

Highlighting the Longwood picnic was the debuting of Mayor A. R. Lormann, who dared to go to the swim party without a bathing suit.

DeBary Civic Organizations joined in the sponsorship of a huge bazaar to celebrate Independence Day, highlighted by Kadet drill teams from Casselberry, Maitland, Sanford and DeBary marching in competition.

The DeBary group posed off the Casselberry marchers by one point to take the honors.

S. T. Dickson, based at the Naval Air Station, won the $1,000 bet donated by W. G. Miller, local realtor, with proceeds going to the Kadet troops to sponsor their coming week's camping trip.

Starting with a softball game and ending with a blasting display of fireworks, the DeBary festivities included performances by the Naval Air Station judo team, donkey rides, candy and ceramic displays and the pit lot.

Chuluota's Community Club sponsored a July 4 youth beach party and dance in addition to regular swimming activities at the beach there. Mrs. Eunice Howell and Mrs. Virginia Chadwick chaperoned the event.

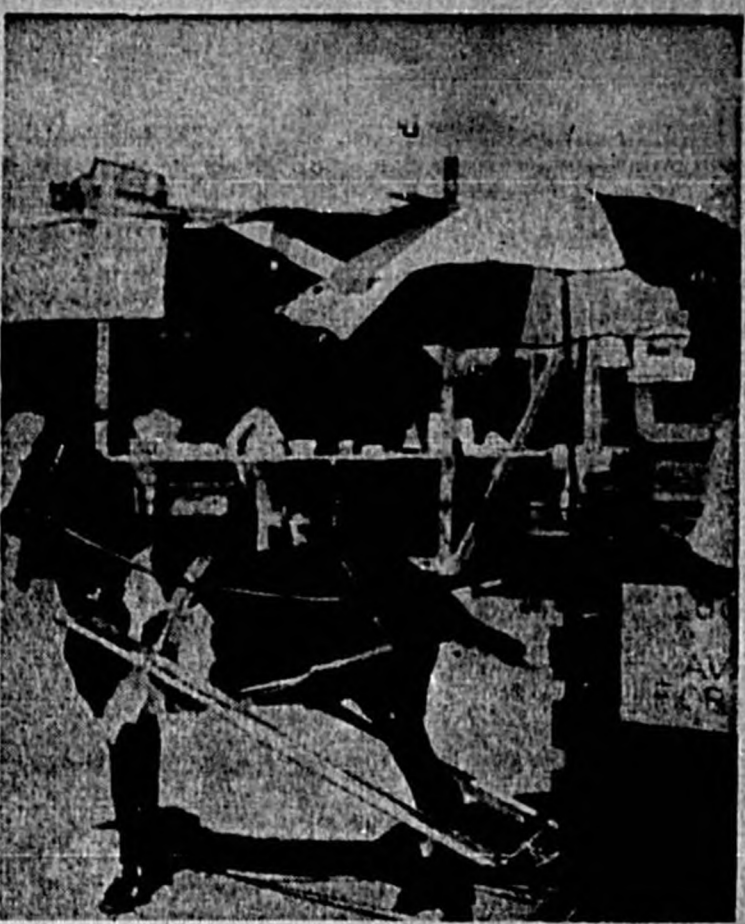

A baseball game Saturday between the Reds and the Giants was the highlight of the Fourth celebration. The Giants won the ball game 10-4. About 200 people ate chicken and trimmings. The barbecue was for the benefit of the Little League.

LITTLE OAK, Ark. (UPI)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus disclaimed any knowledge Monday with an advertisement signed by a group of Louisiana segregationist leaders urging him to head a solid-South movement at the Democratic national convention. "I know nothing about it or the reasons for it," Faubus said. He said he was not contacted about the ad or the movement it endorses.

U. S. Plane Still Missing In Arctic

BODDE, Norway (UPI)—The U. S. Air Force said today a massive three-day search of the Arctic Ocean had failed to find any trace of an American reconnaissance plane that vanished with six men aboard.

Fifteen Air Force planes have been operating around the clock in the area which has 24 hours of daylight. They are under orders to keep clear of Soviet territory.

The last 100-47 disappeared early Saturday on a 10th round of the North Pole.

Board Asked To Stop Bonuses

County Commissioner J. M. Van Hoy today asked the commission to formally protest bonus payments in fee offices in the courthouse and to do everything in its power to stop such payments.

Van Hoy, who was authorized by the board two months ago to conduct a study of job classification and salary adjustments paid to employees of fee offices, said he inspected the books "and it seemed to me there were irregularities in salary adjustments."

Van Hoy made the remark after Circuit Clerk Arthur Beckwith Jr. and Tax Collector John Galloway submitted a base salary classification list of their employees.

Neither list had any indication of a salary adjustment but reflected the pay scales of each clerk.

Tax Assessor Mary Earle Walker informed the board by letter that she could not submit such a list at this time because of the heavy work load but agreed to do so as soon as possible. County Judge Vernon Mize also agreed to cooperate with the board.

Discussing salary adjustments or bonuses, Van Hoy said this practice should be stopped as it is a misuse of public funds. However, he added, that there doesn't seem any way of stopping a fee officer from paying a bonus out of surplus funds.

Chairman John Krider told Van Hoy that if "we have the right to inspect the books there surely must be something we can do if we note any irregularities." Commissioner Lawrence Swoford said that the paying of a bonus "seems to me an irregularity."

In submitting his base salary scale list, Beckwith told the board that upon checking "audit reports on the operation of the office of clerk back to 1943 on no occasion has there been comment made concerning the pay or pay schedule of employees in the office. I feel that this bears merit and is indicative that the auditors have approved, without criticism, this phase of the operation of the office."

Kennedy Says He Won't Step Aside For Anyone

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. John F. Kennedy told the nation in general and former President Truman in particular Monday he would not quit the race as a presidential candidate because of youthful strength, health and vigor is needed in the White House.

The 43-year-old Massachusetts Democrat, front runner for his party's presidential nomination, replied point by point in a television news conference to the challenge thrown at him Saturday by Truman.

To Truman's suggestion that he step aside as a candidate, Kennedy said, "I do not intend to step aside at anyone's request."

The senator said he was the only candidate to enter all the primaries and had "encountered and survived every kind of hardship and opposition."

To Truman's assertion that the convention was "pre-arranged" to favor him, Kennedy said, "to the extent that I have anything to do with it, it will be an open convention — as every convention of our broadly-based party is open."

The senator pointed out that the Democratic presidential nominee had been chosen on the first ballot in all but one convention since 1932, including Truman in 1948.

"Mr. Truman regards an open convention as one which studies all the candidates — reviews their records — and then takes his advice," he said.

Kennedy said he hoped the convention would consider all prospective nominees, including those Truman named and some he did not name. He did not mention Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas by name.

To Truman's charge that Kennedy supporters used improper "pressure" on convention delegates, Kennedy said, "Not one concrete example has ever been named — I do not want any votes that have been pressured."

Johnson Says He's A Candidate
