WIN AT BRIDGE

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Bridge score table with columns for North, South, West, East and various card counts.

Opening lead—

Here is another hand to illustrate the use of the rule of the ace and the king. South would have held a very sound one-spade response without the ace of hearts.

decides to use Blackwood with full intention of bidding six if South shows one ace. When South shows two aces North tries five notrumps but settles for six after South shows no kings.

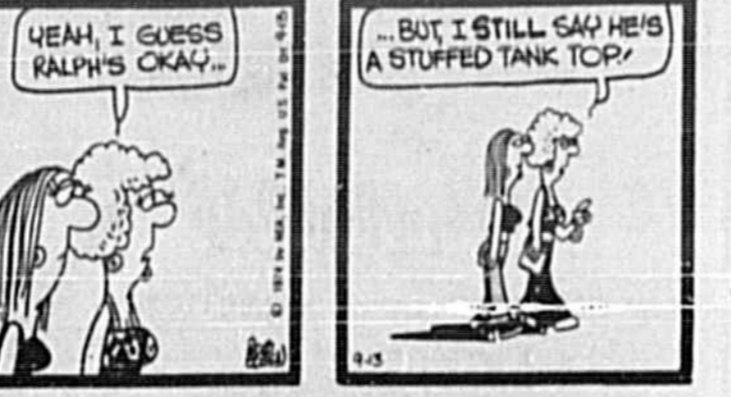

All slams aren't ironclad. The club finesse is going to lose and a heart lead would defeat this one, but after South makes his normal opening lead of the queen of diamonds South has time to draw trumps and lose the club finesse.

Oil Overcharge Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A loophole that was deleted from a first draft but later inserted in a published set of oil allocation regulations without proper authorization may have cost the public more than $100 million in overcharges, a Federal Energy Administration spokesman says.

The loophole could be interpreted to allow oil companies to collect twice for the same oil, FEA general counsel Robert Montgomery said on Friday. "Who did what is unclear," he said. "We're trying to reconstruct what happened."

Ford Delays Return Of Nixon 'Gate Tapes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the request of the Watergate special prosecutor, the White House has agreed to halt at least temporarily the planned transfer of Richard M. Nixon's tapes and records to Nixon's control, an informed source said.

The agreement by Philip Buchen, counsel to President Ford, came Friday during a two-hour meeting at the White House with Henry Ruth, deputy special prosecutor, and Phillip Lacovara, counsel to the special prosecutor.

Economy Stagnating, Food Prices On Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continued high inflation and food prices are predicted by Cabinet members, while a decline in industrial output has signaled further stagnation in the nation's economy.

Consumer prices are currently 11.8 per cent above what they were a year ago. Similar predictions have been made by Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, and Kenneth Rush, a White House economic coordinator who is to become ambassador to France.

ONE INJURED IN COLLISION

Dorothy M. Wilson, 35, S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, was listed in "fair" condition Saturday at Seminole Memorial Hospital intensive care unit after being injured when her station wagon, above, collided with a truck loaded with sod at W. 25th St. and Airport Blvd. Police said the station wagon attempted a left turn in front of the oncoming truck. Damage to vehicles was estimated at $4,500. Truck driver injured in the accident.

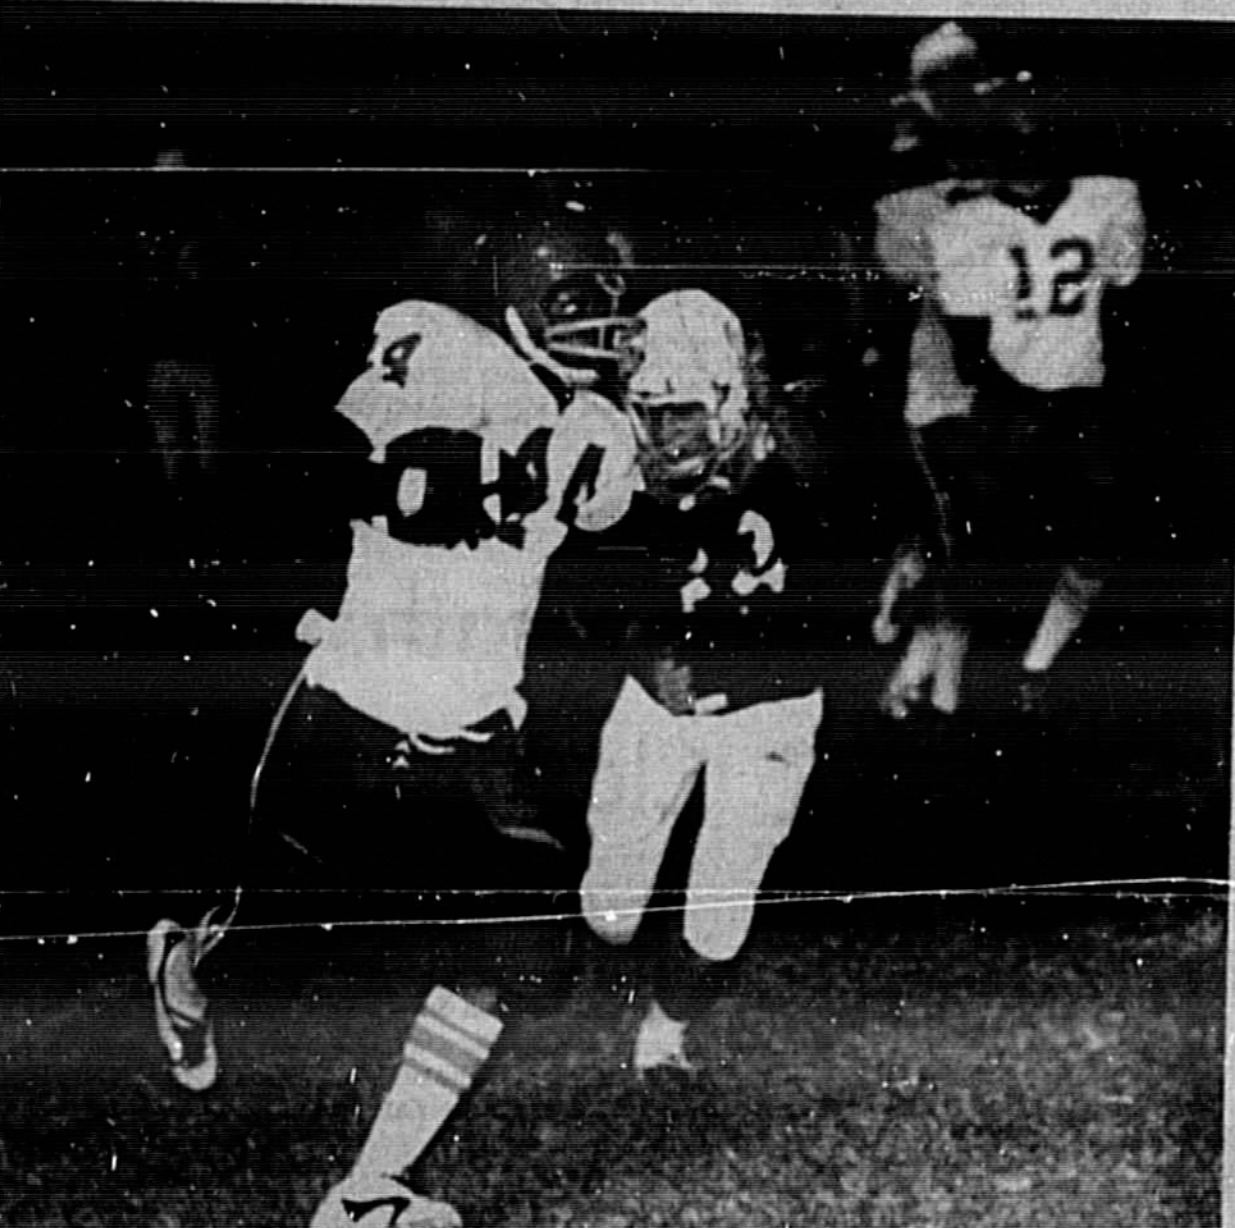

Under the terms of the agreement announced last Sunday at the same time that Ford pardoned his predecessor, the tapes and documents would be transferred from their storage cache in the White House basement to a government building about 10 miles from Nixon's San Clemente estate.

Cheerleader captains for the county's other four high schools appear on the Seminole Magazine cover — Jana Wallick, Lyman, blue and gold; Vicki Van de Houten, Lake Howell, blue and silver; Melanie Warren, Lake Brantley, red, white and blue; Lisa Van Camp, Oviedo, orange and black. Miss Cash was not available for the group picture.

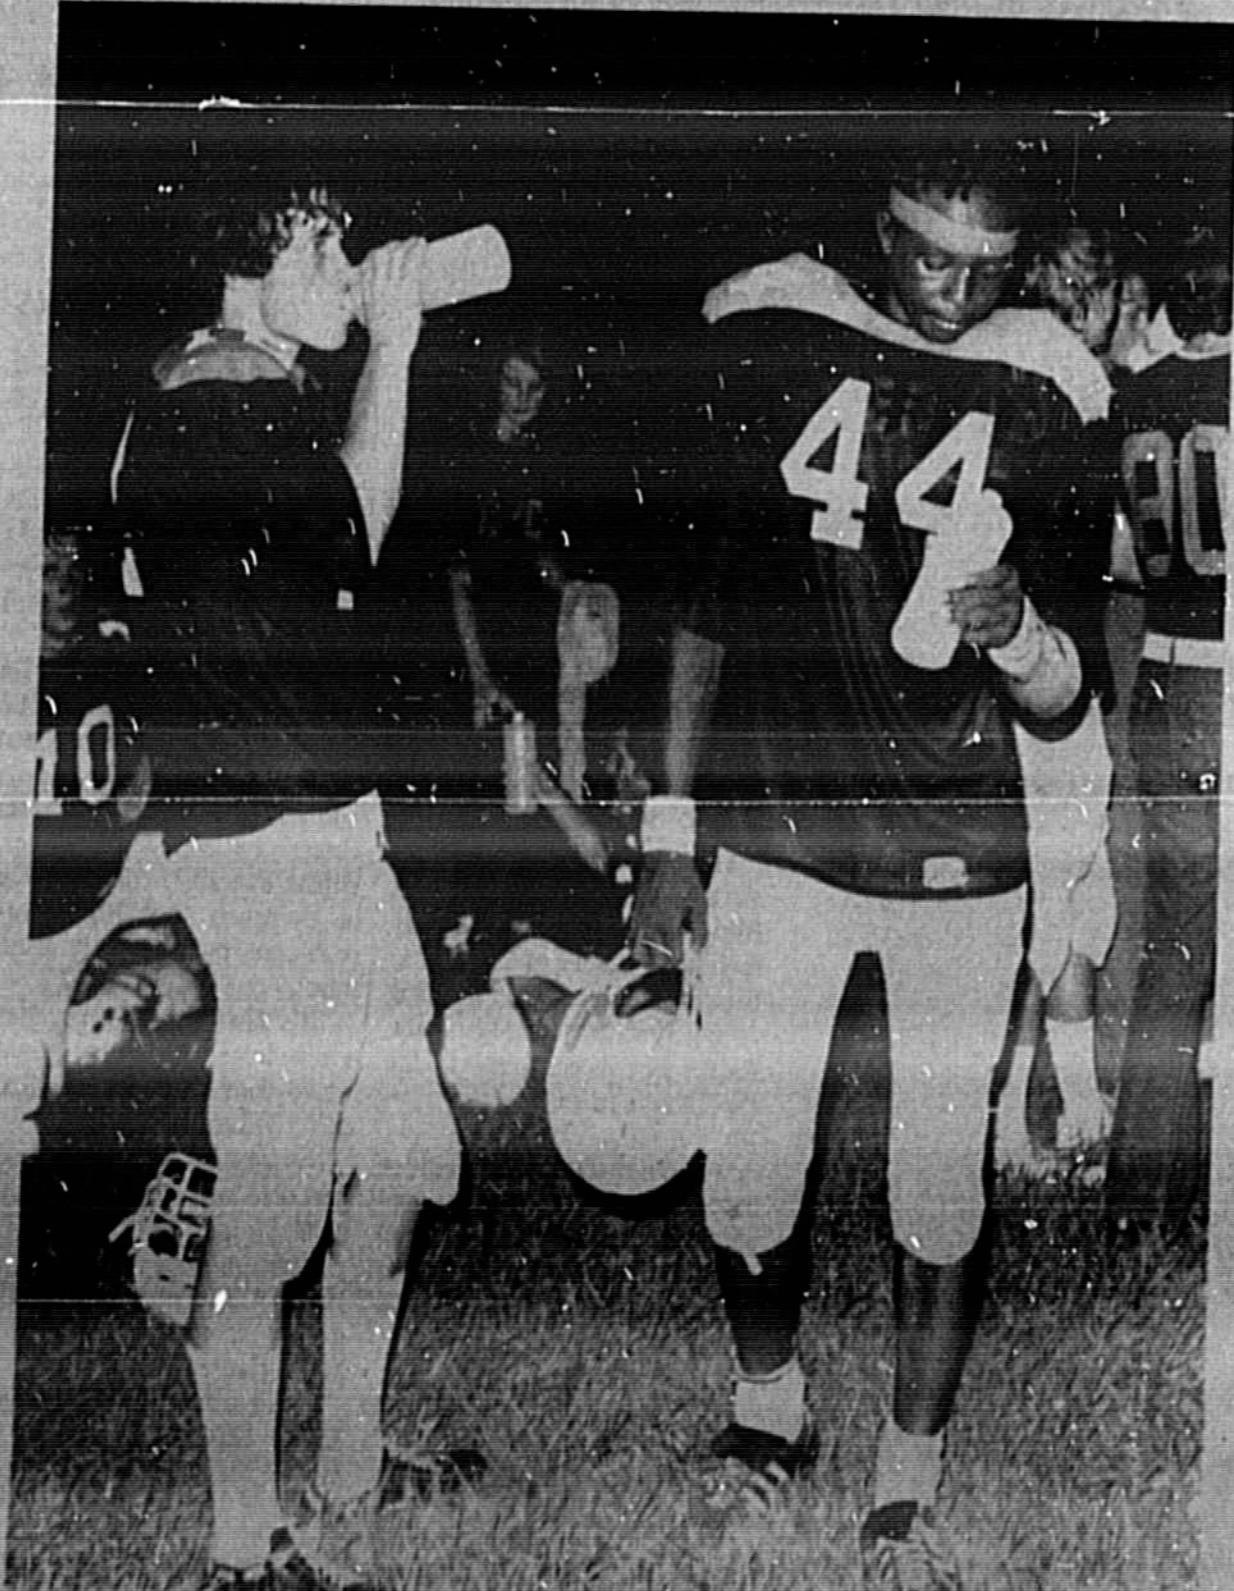

Oviedo Looks Sharp In Local Jamboree

The Lions of Oviedo traveled to Lakeview High School in Orange County Friday for two quarters of pre-season football. After romping over Ocoee 16-0 in the opener, they had to settle for scoreless tie with Groveland in their second quarter. Lee Ward and Clennie Patterson were the offensive weapons for the Lions. Lakeview was also a big winner in the four team jamboree. Oviedo, in dark uniforms, opens at Seminole's new stadium Friday.

WOMEN

Gals Are 'Braced': They Grin And 'Bare' It

By JEAN PATTERSON
Women's Editor

The centerpiece on the luncheon table is a tall pyramid of Segó diet pudding cans.

Each place is set with a tall glass, a straw, a coffee cup and several paper napkins.

A steaming coffee pot and glass jug of thick, purplish liquid is placed on the table and the invitation given, "Lunch is ready, ladies."

Clearly, an unusual luncheon.

The five women who take their places around the table and tuck into what is immediately dubbed "the purple session," have a lot in common. They all share their "meal"; they all talk through clenched teeth, and they're all chubby—though considerably less so than a couple of months back.

They've all had their jaws wired closed as a final desperate measure against compulsive overeating.

Another thing all five women have in common, is a cheerful, unmistakable new pride in themselves and their shrinking figures. For all of them, after lifetimes of battling the bulges, this is the first time they have been able to make inroads on the heaps of fat that padded their bones. A new self respect, as well as a healthier physical and mental condition is the result.

"I'm down 53 pounds," announces Mrs. Bobby Zacco, 55 Queens Mirror Circle, Casselberry, in a voice loaded with excitement. She weighed 252 pounds when she was married 18 years ago, and has never, until the last few weeks, had the pleasure of watching the needle of the bathroom scale stop short of the 200 mark.

Fifteen pounds to go, and she'll be at the point recommended by the medical charts for a woman of her height and age.

Janet Jowers, also of Casselberry, weighed in at a hefty 273 pounds when she was married. Since then she's tried everything to lose weight—diets, pills, shots—all in vain. Since having her teeth wired two months ago, she's lost 40 superfluous pounds.

Getting an orthodontist or oral surgeon to agree to wire their teeth was difficult. Most medical men objected on the grounds they didn't know enough about the subject and wouldn't take the responsibility should something go wrong with either the woman's teeth or her health.

Should she vomit or have a serious coughing spasm, a woman could choke with her mouth wired shut.

Fatties Scaling Down Appetites

By CAROLYN COIL
The Herald Services

Kathy Wallis of Los Angeles was a slim 94 pounds when she was married four years ago. She never worried about her weight because she always had been trim.

"One day, I looked in the mirror and there it was—fat," says Mrs. Wallis. "It had sort of crept up on me, a little at a time."

Besides two children, each pregnancy left her with a legacy of a few extra pounds. "I even tried to blame the pill," says Mrs. Wallis. "My doctor told me I just like my own cooking too much."

The 5-foot-2 Mrs. Wallis weighed 136 pounds and was wearing a size 14 dress when she joined TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly), a self-help group for overweight persons. She reached her goal of 112 pounds eight months ago and has shed an additional pound since then.

She says her husband is so proud of his new slimmer wife that he takes her before and after photos to work and shows them off.

Denise Lund of suburban Lenox says she had tried all kinds of diets and pills without success until she joined TOPS. She weighed in at her first meeting at 264 pounds. Her goal, set by her doctor, was a weight loss of 118 pounds which she has reached.

Although Mrs. Lund has made her goal, she still attends TOPS meetings and is now called a KOPS (Keeping Off Pounds Sensibly). She says going to meetings is an incentive for keeping her weight stabilized.

"You can't go to club and show a weight gain and say, 'I don't know how that happened.' You know it's what you put in your mouth that did it."

Betty Dalton of Orlando is down 30 pounds, and still losing; Rhoda Zeik, who lives east of Orlando, has dropped 35 pounds since her orthodontist fixed those beautiful bands on her teeth.

"I can comfortably fit a size 14 dress now," says Rhoda. "Just for kicks the other day I tried on one of those little halter dresses in a size 12. I was stuffed into the thing, but my husband loved it and made me buy it. He's mad about the way I look now," she glows.

Other wives murmur assent; their husbands are also being marvellously encouraging.

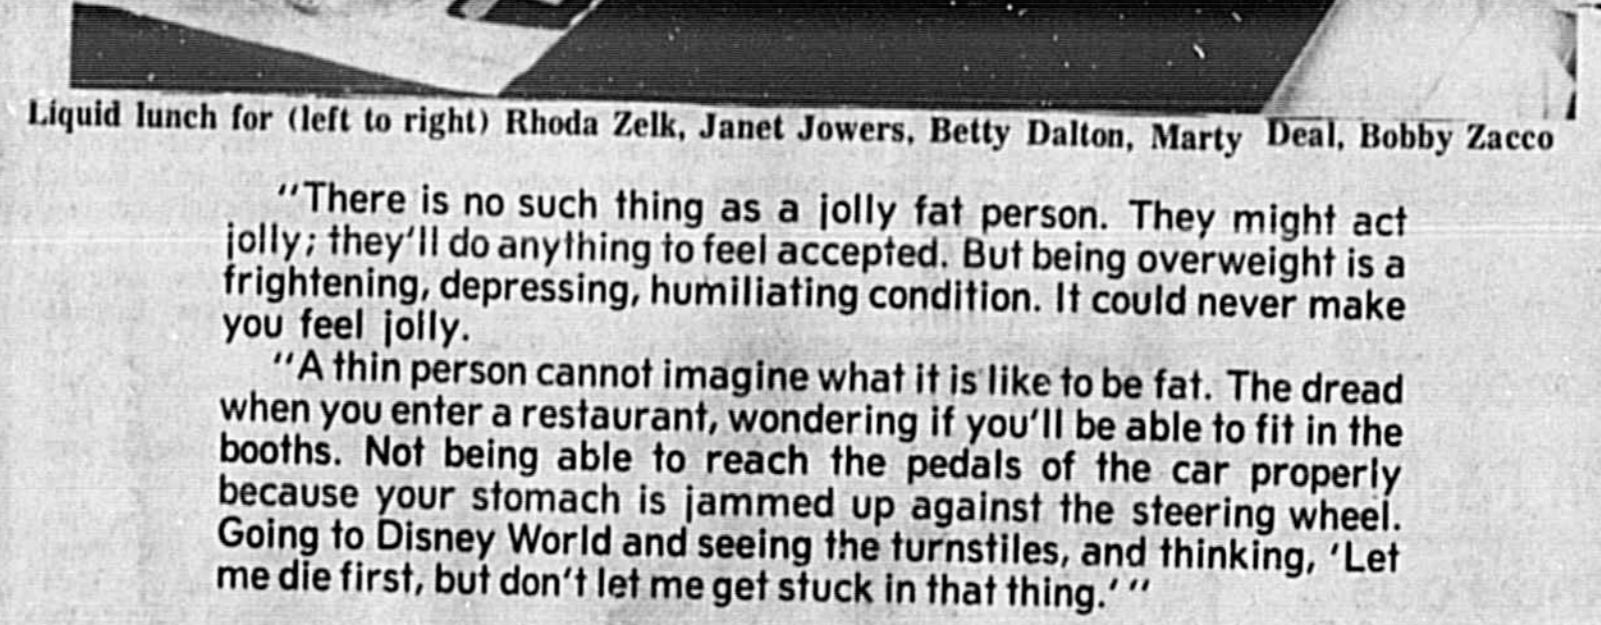

Marty Deal of Winter Park has lost 27 pounds off her large-boned, six-foot tall frame in the past five weeks, and boasts her husband keeps telling her she's starting to look "real sexy."

"And guess what," Marty continues, "I got picked up on the beach last weekend. It was the most super thing that's ever happened to me—and I didn't know how to handle it!" she exclaims.

"There was my husband with all his friends over at the pool, not worried about me alone on the beach. Old Marty can take care of herself; who'd ever try to pick up Marty?" they were thinking. When along comes this gorgeous hunk of a man and starts talking to old Marty, starts asking me to stroll down the beach with him.

"I tell you, it was wonderful—even though I turned down his invitation!"

For all five women, having their jaws wired closed was a last resort. They had all tried every method they knew, short of a bypass operation, to lose weight, and had never succeeded.

For this reason, the women started out with rubber, not wire, bands. But it was too easy to slip them off—not to cough, but to nibble. So now they are well and truly wired, and nothing short of wire cutters will free their jaws.

Every two or three weeks they return to their doctors to have the braces removed and cleaned, and their teeth checked. The savings on food and outsized clothing pays their dental bills, they say.

Although there was some discomfort getting used to their braces, the women agree they are now more comfortable with their braces on than off.

There are disadvantages, of course. "You can't kiss properly," lamented Rhoda.

"My lips got so dry and there's no way I can sneak my tongue out to wet them," Bobby complained.

"You can't roller at our kids," muttered Marty through clenched teeth, admitting with a metallic grin she is probably a calmer and more serene person now for exactly that reason.

But for the first time in their lives, they're losing weight so noticeably that they'll put up with even the downright rude comments from some persons who sneer they must be out of their minds to do such a thing to themselves. The more common admiration that they have restricted themselves to a shurped diet of soup and health drinks, and to muted conversation through rigid jaws in a last stand effort to lose those dangerous extra pounds. And so the luncheon proceeds with much sipping, dabbling at dribbles, and laughing apologies.

But don't be fooled by their determined high spirits.

It's not fun, and there's not a woman at that table wouldn't prefer to lose weight by a more orthodox method.

But if having their jaws wired is the only way they're making a concerted effort to grin and "bare" it—unflattering though their grins may be.

OH, HEAVENS TO BE THIN! "It's not nice to be fat," says Pat Wilkinson of Gardena, Calif., who has shed 140 pounds of fat since she had an intestinal bypass operation. She says she still has a lot more to lose before she reaches her goal.

Big Losers Bypass Diets And Pills

"As far as I'm concerned, I was born again May 1 last year. I've started a whole new life since then."

May 1, a year ago, was when Vicki Baker, Fairfax Drive, Winter Park, had an intestinal bypass operation as the only alternative left for losing weight of a grossly overweight figure.

Sitting on the gold couch in her Spanish style living room, black hair immaculately groomed and dark eyes emphasized with a dramatic touch of black eyeliner, Vicki is half the woman she was 16 months ago—physically.

Mentally, she feels a whole, proud person for the first time in ages.

Always on the chubby side, Vicki started gaining weight rapidly during her first pregnancy, and continued to gain after her daughter was born. She tried every diet, every weight control club, every medication she knew, with no permanent good results.

Finally her doctor gave her the alarming ultimatum: lose weight, or you may be dead within five years due to respiratory failure. For a woman in her early 30s, it's the kind of ultimatum you don't ignore.

Vicki underwent two exhaustive interviews with her surgeon before making the decision to have the bypass operation. She was warned the operation had a high mortality rate; that the danger from infection setting in was even higher, and that the side effects were not pleasant—they could include diarrhea, nausea and "gas."

Since the operation, Vicki has successfully controlled the side effects, although she was seriously ill for a time as a result of post-operative infection.

It has been easy to make the physical adjustment to a new, slimmer and most attractive body of course. Adjusting mentally to her new image of a "thin" self has taken more effort. It is wonderful to feel she no longer wants to fade into the woodwork whenever she is with people, or that she has to act the fat clown to be accepted, says Vicki.

She also feels she has wasted so much time, missed out on so many pretty fashions, so many energetic activities, that she is sometimes bewildered how to make up for lost time.

Would she go through the danger and discomfort of the operation, knowing now what she does about it?

"I'd do it again tomorrow," says Vicki with her lovely smile.

In Los Angeles, two years ago, Pat Wilkinson was in the same predicament as Vicki. She'd become an expert at putting on her makeup without looking in a mirror.

If she had to look in a mirror to get her lipstick on straight, then she blanked out the rest of her face and saw only her lips.

"I just wasn't pleasant to look at," says Mrs. Wilkinson. "I was obese. I hated myself. Sometimes when I went to bed I would pray I wouldn't wake up."

A registered nurse, Mrs. Wilkinson says she was at a medical convention when a doctor she had never met came up to her and said she should have surgery to help her lose weight.

"I was so obese that I knew I was facing death if I kept on the way I was," she says. "At night I had to sleep on four pillows so I could breathe."

Mrs. Boody says she is interested in setting the total body chemistry right, "but emphatically not with drugs, shots or fat diets."

"There are no magic foods, no magic shots that mobilize fat in the body, no magic pills that will change a fat person's body quickly and less is absorbed into her body.

The surgery is not without its unpleasant side effects or risks.

Clean Your Plate Not Smart Advice

By KAY JARVIS
The Herald Services

LOS ANGELES — "If you really love mommy, you'll clean up your plate."

"Eat all your meat and potatoes or there won't be any dessert for you."

"There are poor people who would be glad to have that spaghetti you're leaving on the plate."

"Stop crying and maybe we can find a nice cookie for you."

Feelings of guilt, threats and bribery are implicit in the above clichés, but they have been mouthed for generations by parents who think they are doing the best for their children.

Shirley Bright Body, a diet expert, thinks such concerned parents have helped create a major health problem.

"A great deal of adult obesity can be traced to wrongly enforced childhood eating patterns. In later years we find ourselves eating more than we want in restaurants so it won't be thrown away and cleaning up the leftovers at home for the same reason," said Mrs. Boody, president of Eat Yourself Slim. "Food becomes associated with being loved or accepted, a way to soothe our hurt, as an escape from frustration or boredom."

Mrs. Boody says she is interested in setting the total body chemistry right, "but emphatically not with drugs, shots or fat diets."

"There are no magic foods, no magic shots that mobilize fat in the body, no magic pills that will change a fat person's body quickly and less is absorbed into her body.

The surgery is not without its unpleasant side effects or risks.

players will find a sure-fire way to make it. They win the club opening and knock out the ace of spades. Then they cash all the spades, hearts and clubs to come down to three diamonds each in the North and South hands. Meanwhile, they will have seen East show out on the third lead of each: back suit and West follow to suit the declarer's leads. A count will show that West started with nine black cards and three hearts for a total of 12 cards that aren't diamonds. The play of the diamond ace from dummy will account for the one diamond in the West hand and a finesse against East will be a certainty.

Floren To Take Welk's Baton

By MARY SPRINGER Herald Service

LOS ANGELES — Myron Floren, who has made about 150 appearances on the popular television show "The Tonight Show," will be stepping into the shoes of his mentor, Bob Welk, as the new host of the "Bob Welk Show" on NBC-TV.

At the first of a large number of news conferences, Floren announced that he would be taking over the show on Sept. 23. He said he was "honored" to be named as the successor to Welk, who has hosted the show since 1952.

Floren, 37, has been a frequent guest on the show since 1968. He has appeared on it more than 200 times. He said he has known Welk since they were both in high school.

Q: Why do you not see more of the late Dick Cavett on TV? He was a great actor, singer and I believe a comedian. Could I have some information on his whereabouts? I'd like to see him again.

Bernice Bede Oso's this week in astrology

Dear Bernice:
My uncle, born March 6, 1895, was a personable, footloose man who acquired wealth several times and blew it. My son, born March 6, 1968, is also personable and talented and only interested in something he will be master of. Any chance he could end up like my great uncle? --Here we go again!

DEAR AGAIN:
YOUR SON'S HOROSCOPE AND YOUR UNCLE'S, ALTHOUGH NOT IDENTICAL, CONTAIN THE SIMILARITIES YOU DESCRIBED. THERE IS A BIG DIFFERENCE, HOWEVER, IN YOUR SON'S INNER NATURE. SECRETLY HE'S MORE AMBITIOUS AND STATUS-CONSCIOUS THAN HE LETS ON--YET HE IS VAGUE ABOUT HIS GOALS, UNTIL HE LEARNS TO AIM FOR A DEFINITE TARGET IT WILL APPEAR THE TWO ARE CUT FROM THE SAME CLOTH.

BERNICE PREDICTS
THE WEEK OF SEPT. 15-SEPT. 21 BEGINS WITH THE OVERALL MOMENTUM MOVING ALONG POSITIVE LINES. BUT UNSTABLE TUESDAY, BALANCE COULD BE REGAINED WEDNESDAY. AFTER MIDWEEK OPINION MAKERS HAVE A MORE ATTENTIVE AUDIENCE. EDITORIALS AND SPEECHES THAT CONTAIN CONSTRUCTIVE CHANGE WILL BE WELL RECEIVED. THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

IF A KETTLE OF WATER IS PLACED ON A HOT STOVE, IT WILL SOON BE BOILING. WHEN WATER IS HOT ENOUGH, IT TURNS INTO A GAS. BUBBLES OF WATER GAS, NOW CALLED STEAM, RISE TO THE TOP OF THE WATER AND ESCAPE INTO THE AIR. THIS BUBBLING IS CALLED "BOILING." THE CLOUD OF "STEAM" WE SEE RISING ABOVE THE KETTLE IS NOT REALLY STEAM. STEAM IS AN INVISIBLE GAS - YOU CANNOT SEE IT. THE CLOUD WE SEE IS WATER THAT THE COOLER AIR HAS CHANGED FROM STEAM BACK INTO TINY WATER DROPLETS.

Dems Using Pardon To Blast GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are starting to inject President Ford's pardon of Richard M. Nixon into the mid-term campaign at the same time a survey shows them headed for a strong showing in November. Underscoring Republican fears that Ford's action may revive Watergate-related issues at the GOP's expense, Democratic gubernatorial candidate Hugh L. Carey in New York and Senate hopeful Jonathan Marshall in Arizona have questioned the pardon. And in California, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., launched a weekend of campaigning by blasting Ford. "It was the wrong time, the wrong place and the wrong person to receive a pre-indictment, pre-conviction pardon," he said. "The governor of New York has a national voice, and he must speak to national issues and issues of conscience," Carey, a congressman from Brooklyn, declared. In Arizona, meanwhile, Marshall, a Scottsdale publisher, opened his uphill drive against Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater by blasting the senator's support of the Nixon pardon. Carey, opening his campaign against Republican Gov. Malcolm Wilson, said he would make an issue of Wilson's refusal to comment on the pardon and other Watergate-related issues. "The governor of New York has a national voice, and he must speak to national issues and issues of conscience," Carey, a congressman from Brooklyn, declared. In Arizona, meanwhile, Marshall, a Scottsdale publisher, opened his uphill drive against Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater by blasting the senator's support of the Nixon pardon. "Why have these outspoken proponents of law and order gone along with this mockery of the law?" he asked. The best Republicans can hope for, according to the survey by AP bureaus in all 50 states, is to hold losses to about 2 governorships and 15 House seats while breaking even in the Senate. Democrats control the Senate 58 to 42, the House 248 to 187 and the governorships 32 to 18. Though most Senate and gubernatorial seats were contested this year are held by Democrats — 20 of 34 Senate seats, 23 of 35 governorships — few Democratic incumbents are rated in serious difficulty. Carey, who won an uphill primary battle last week, seems likely to give a stern test to Wilson, who became governor when Nelson A. Rockefeller resigned last December. Democrats consider their chances better than in any year since Rockefeller was first elected in 1958. In California, where Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan is retiring, the Democrats also are mounting a strong bid. Polls show their candidate, Secretary of State Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown Jr., son of Reagan's predecessor, leading Republican Houston I. Flournoy. Democratic triumphs in California and New York could give the Democrats control of the nation's six largest states going into the 1976 presidential election. Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio, Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania and Dolph Briscoe of Texas are considered leading in re-election bids, while Democratic Gov. Daniel Walker of Illinois is midway through his four-year term. Democrats also hope to capture Republican-held governorships in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Arizona and Oregon. The only incumbent Republican governor running is Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts. The best GOP hopes to gain governorships held by Democrats appear to be in Maine, New Mexico and Oklahoma. None has an incumbent running.

Juvenile Center Head Fay Needs Community

The state Division of Youth Services (DYS) has appointed a new Seminole County juvenile detention center superintendent — one of the youngest men named to such a position in Florida. Tom Fay, 28, has taken over the reins of the facility. A resident of Sanford since his father was stationed at the old Sanford Naval Air Station, Fay attended All Souls parochial school and graduated from Seminole High School. He holds a masters degree from Rollins College and worked four years as a counselor and one year with Orange County. "Our main objective naturally is security — detaining those who are dangerous to themselves and the community, those awaiting court hearing or transfer to state facilities," Fay said. But he plans for the Seminole facility at Five Points to accomplish more than just detention. He plans to have assessments completed on each inmate so that more thorough reports can be made to the courts. Mainly, he wants to encourage community participation. "The children being held at the center," Fay said, "are not just Seminoles. We need whatever expertise they may have from sports to recreation to tutoring." He noted the School Board has provided a good teacher, who is currently conducting tests to determine reading levels. He is also asking Seminole Junior College for assistance. "We need involvement by Seminoles' religious leaders. We have seen the power and influence they have in turning families around in the right direction," he said. Fay is instituting a "token economy" at the center to reward inmates for positive behavior. "With problems the center had in recent months when some personnel were fired in mind, Fay said, "I will be honest with everyone. If mistakes are made, we will be honest about it. If any legal problems develop with staff or any of the juveniles, we will contact the sheriff's department and let them do the investigating."

Flooding Feud Session Slated

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The two-year old feud between the City of Longwood and Seminole County Commissioners and between City Engineer Bill Palm and County Engineer Bill Bush over flooding problems in South Island Lake has apparently hit a cease fire level. Bush has scheduled a workshop among the parties for 7 p.m. Wednesday night to iron out the disagreement, but it is unlikely any elected city officials will be in hand. The city council has a public hearing scheduled for 7:30 the same night on its proposal to raise taxes from the current 3.68 mill level to 4. According to a letter from Bush, received by Longwood officials last week, Bush is now recommending that the South Island Lake water be diverted east into Fairy Lake which in turn overflows into Lake Kathryn in Casselberry. In a confrontation with Palm in early July at a Longwood Council meeting, Bush denied that Palm's approved drainage concept which shut off overflow from South Island Lake through Winsor Manor had been initiated with Bush's prior approval. In another informal meeting among commissioners, Bush and Longwood officials in late July, Bush contended the most feasible solution to South Island Lake flooding was to reopen drainage pipes under SR 434 and rework the Winsor Manor drainage system to permit overflow to follow its natural course northward through The Woodlands. Bush at that time criticized Palm's use of a letter written by Bush to the state Department of Transportation (DOT) in late 1971 as the prime reason for shutting off drainage through construction of a dam on the north side of the highway. Bush said at that time that the 30 inch culvert pipe under the highway should be restored. In his latest letter (Sept. 4), Bush said restoration of the pipe cannot be recommended. He cited the reduced flood storage area, increased runoff from Winsor Manor, the runoff from the impending four-laning of SR 434 and inevitable development that will take place on south and northeast arms of Island Lake in the future. "It is apparent that a new high level relief route to the east must be explored without delay to provide a permanent solution to handle the impact of developments that have yet to take place," Bush said. Bush in the letter to Longwood officials, also said that if a 30-inch pipe were to be installed through Winsor Manor, the risk to the Woodlands would be unnecessarily increased. He added if a 10-year storm drainage flow is experienced at a time when Island and Winsor Lakes were already elevated due to rains, there would be serious flooding in the Woodlands.

Union Gifts Uncovered; Conflict Of Interest Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The maritime unions still have $588,000 for political donations, after pouring one-third of a million dollars into campaigns of congressmen who supported them on a hotly disputed shipping bill. Latest campaign finance reports show the unions have given $333,300 to 141 congressmen who supported the bill. The measure would require that eventually 30 per cent of all U.S. oil imports be shipped in American-flag ships, manned by union crews. The unions still have some of the richest political trusts in the nation, the reports show. Federal law sets no limit on political donations by union groups, so long as the funds come from voluntary contributions of members. Direct donations from a union treasury to political campaigns are illegal. Most of the money, $396,000, is held by three trusts run by the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association. Other rich trusts are run by the Seafarers International Union and the Masters, Mates and Pilots, and other maritime unions. The reports show the union money given to incumbents since Jan. 1 has gone almost exclusively to those who voted for the bill or supported it in some way. Maritime donations went to only three congressmen and one senator who voted against the bill. The senator, Jacob K. Javits, of N.Y., gave $8,500 back to the bill's sponsors, got $12,500. Another sponsor, Sen. Bob Packwood, D-Ore., got $10,000. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, a vocal supporter of the bill, received $12,000. He also received a $25,000 loan, not yet repaid. Other big donations went to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., $14,500; Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, defeated for re-nomination, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, $10,000; Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., $7,500 and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., $7,200. Thomas P. O'Neil, D-Mass. He received $18,000. The maritime unions seemed to put their donations where they would do the most good. Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Commerce Committee and one of the bill's sponsors, got $12,500. Another sponsor, Sen. Bob Packwood, D-Ore., got $10,000. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, a vocal supporter of the bill, received $12,000. He also received a $25,000 loan, not yet repaid. Other big donations went to Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., $14,500; Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, defeated for re-nomination, Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, $10,000; Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., $7,500 and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., $7,200.

Candy Bars No Treat; Their Price Rising, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — Manufacturers plan to raise the price of vending machine candy bars to 20 cents because of a strain on the world supply of cocoa and chocolate products. The price increase, on the heels of a jump from 10 to 15 cents with little or no change in candy bar size, reflects the development of a sweet tooth in the rest of the world as active as that in the United States. World cocoa consumption has been expanding along with increases in population and income, says Rex E. T. Dull of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Foreign Agriculture Service. But unfavorable growing conditions in many major producing countries have brought the 1973 and 1974 world crops below consumption needs, sending cocoa prices to a record high, Dull writes in the current issue of Foreign Agriculture. This 20-cent candy bar is being brought on by record high cocoa bean prices but also by higher costs of other candy bar ingredients such as sugar, nuts and milk, Dull says. He says manufacturers also are paying more for labor, packaging and transportation. "Normally, in times of high cocoa bean prices, manufacturers have varied bar weights and increased usage of cocoa butter substitutes and extenders, such as coconut and soybean oils, to keep confectionary retail prices stable," Dull says. "But today, these commodities are selling at very high levels." Cocoa bean prices peaked at $1.30 per pound on the New York spot market in early May, more than double the price of a year before. However, the price had adjusted somewhat by the end of August to $1.06. "Increasing world demand for cocoa in recent years and somewhat disappointing crops in West Africa because of unfavorable weather, have resulted in substantial drawdown in world reserves," Dull says.
