

Russian Life Has Improved, But USSR Consumer Still Suffers Agony Of Soviet's Bygone Period

EDITOR'S NOTE—William L. Ryan, foreign affairs specialist for The Associated Press, writes here the impressions he drew from 16,000 miles of travel across the Soviet Union, encountering a wide variety of people passing his different areas, the previous year in Russia in 1968 and 1969. Ryan is fluent in Russian and thus able to talk to the man in the street and plumb its underlying attitudes.

MOSCOW (AP) — For one who has seen the Soviet Union in the last days of the Stalin era, a fresh visit creates an immediate impression of all-around betterment of the average Russian's life. Yet much of the dreary side of Soviet life has resisted change. That is equally striking.

As was to be expected in view of the Communist party's long-term policy, the Zvolzki strike—the great projects such as hydroelectric stations, dams, and the huge heavy industrial installations cherished by the party's planners—have been multiplying all along. In addition, there are many new airports, hotel buildings, glistening business buildings of steel, aluminum and glass; many new apartment buildings and new roads leading into Soviet cities.

There are more and bigger stores. At first glance there seems to be more and better goods in the stores, and in some respects this is true. It also appears that there are more people with money to spend in the stores.

However, behind all the outward glitz, there is much that is the same as ever before. A prolonged walk in any one of the cities now open to foreigners suggests that the consumer is not much better off than was his father. It suggests that the party isn't particularly interested in the consumer or in acquiring much besides retaining its own position as a ruling elite.

Goods in the stores remain mostly shabby and outrageously expensive. Soviet production for the consumer side still strikes the Westerner as scandalous for a nation so fantastically rich as the Soviet Union, in all manner of resources.

There is no shortage of wealth and skills for a consumer to construct centralized power, for the military, for the space program and for all communications, for heavy industry. Little remains for the consumer.

Moscow is unlikely to do this because such things threaten to erode centralized authority. Without an extraordinarily strong hand at the helm, the consumers in another sort of economy might have been imposed upon it over the years, and permitting a large degree of local discretion, initiative and autonomy.

must continue to be plagued by domestic and outdated theories. On the plus side, more Russians are well dressed and more seem generally much better off than they were in the last days of Stalin. They are still far away from Western standards but there is no much yardstick available to Soviet citizens for making comparisons. Pay and large they seem to feel their

Grape Growers Ready For Labor Conference

By LYLE W. PRICE
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California table grape growers who have withstood a five-year worldwide boycott by organized labor are ready to deal with unions, spokesmen say.

The spokesmen outlined their position at a news conference Tuesday at which they support

Gov. Ronald Reagan's recent call for mediation in the labor dispute. They said they represented more than 60 per cent of the state's table grape growers.

The growers said they were moving to avert disaster to the San Joaquin Valley, which represents nearly 90 per cent of the nation's table grapes.

The growers conceded they are being badly squeezed by the table grape boycott pushed by the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organization. The boycott, headed by Cesar Chavez, the union has signed contracts almost daily the past week with other growers who had held out for years. The union estimates it now has 17 per cent of California's 78,000 acres of table grapes under contract, covering about 10,000 union members. A year ago the union had no table grape contracts.

The union has held about 15 per cent of the 200,000 odd acres of California wine grapes under contract for several years.

Grinding Wreck Claims One Life

By BILL SCOTT

The first Seminole County Fourth of July holiday fatality occurred at 7 a.m. today when a landscaping service truck traveling on SR 419 toward Orlido and approximately one and one-half miles from U. S. 17-92 went out of control, left the road and overturned.

Dead on arrival at Seminole Memorial Hospital was Larry Daniel Watson, 24, Route 1, Box 133-B on SR 46 West.

Listed in "fair" condition in the hospital's intensive care unit is Paul Millard Watson, the deceased's 16-year-old brother and only other occupant of the truck.

Shaeriff John Polk reported the accident was being worked by Florida Highway Patrol troopers Robert Lovinger and L. P. Tompkins and they listed the Town and Country Garden Landscaping Service truck as being demolished in the mishap.

Both brothers were employed by the firm, located on Lake Howell Road, and reportedly had just left for work.

A hospital spokesman reported the younger Watson sustained several injuries in the mishap, but was resting.

A second one-vehicle accident occurred at 5 a.m. today within the Altamonte Springs city limits and resulted in the hospitalization of Dennis W. Fox, 20, Lake Howell Arms Apartments, only occupant of a 1970 model car, which was totally demolished when it struck a utility pole on SR 436.

Fox was transported by ambulance to Winter Park Memorial Hospital for treatment of head injuries. His condition is listed as "fair" by a hospital spokesman.

Altamonte Patrolman Phillip Stoneburner charged Fox with failure to have vehicle under control.

Tell The World An American Privilege . . . BORN FREE!

To The Editor:

In a time of National crisis as we prepare to celebrate our Independence Day, this July 4, 1970, I believe it is fitting that we not only use this day as one of leisure or one to have a picnic or one to just watch the fireworks, but as one when we stand up and tell the world where we stand and just how proud we are that we are Americans.

As Americans, let's briefly review our great heritage and our great accomplishments from our birthday to the present.

Just 250 years ago a handful of pilgrims sailed from Plymouth, England to cross the cold and harsh Atlantic Ocean in search of a new land where they could be free to live, work, and to worship as they chose. They reached our Continent and anchored in Cape Cod harbor, where they formed and signed the Mayflower Compact which was their instrument for self-government and discipline before landing and founding a colony at what is now Provincetown, Massachusetts.

By 1776, thirteen colonies had been founded and a whole new society of stout-hearted men, women, and youth were busily building schools, churches, institutions of higher learning, building industries, developing their natural resources, and trading with European countries. And by this time they had compiled a long list of grievances against the King of England which ultimately resulted in "the shot heard around the world" and sparked the American Revolution against England. About the same time a number of courageous men authored and penned the Declaration of Independence which was adopted by all thirteen colonies on July 4, 1776, thus giving birth of our Independence Day and to The United States Of America.

HUGE LAND DEAL COMPLETED FOR NORTH ORLANDO AREA

By MARION BETHEA

Florida Land Company, a subsidiary of Florida Gas Purchase, has completed purchase of all lands held by the GAC Corporation in North Orlando. Purchase price for the 2,250 acre transaction was $17.75 million. The sale was completed last night and will be so recorded Monday morning, according to Mayor of North Orlando, Clifford Jordan.

The purchase includes the North Orlando Water and Sewer Corporation. Mayor Jordan stated that "I am happy to have such an outstanding community make such a tremendous expenditure in the village. I am confident that the residents and the council will welcome any orderly, well planned growth in this area. I am also considerably pleased that the concern will be utilizing the most exciting and modern concept of planned unit development (PUD). If the development is executed properly it will make North Orlando a model community with wide-spread recognition."

The property includes several parcels, lots, and tracts north and south of SR 434 and east of U. S. 17-92. The corporation has plans to develop a small number of lots for sale to outdoors, with residential development to follow.

The homes will be in the moderate price range in a park like setting.

Fear And Prejudice

By FATHER JAMES MARTINY
St. Augustine Catholic Church, Casselberry

In this year of 1970 I'm proud to be an American. My country right or wrong is not my idea of patriotism. I am aware of the problems of democracy and the difficulties in overcoming the stereotypes of our society. That we have the freedom to do this makes me proud to be an American. As we celebrate our independence, our freedom, I think God has what He has given us and I pray for those men who have died to preserve the freedom that we enjoy.

The freedom of our country is scarred by the slavery of prejudice within. Laws have been made in an attempt to eliminate this. By the same token laws have been made to eliminate murder, rape, theft and violence. The success of such efforts will only be realized when men eliminate these evils from their hearts and make the efforts to treat all men equally. It is encouraging to know that Christianity is trying to overcome fear and prejudice, despite some Christians and people who claim to be God-loving, but act to the contrary.

Christ set about to change attitudes in his own time. His society was marked by a prejudice that enslaved the people. How often to the people do we find Christ associating with people who were not a part of the acceptable society. How the Jews hated the Samaritans! And yet it was through the story of the good Samaritan that Christ taught fraternal charity. The Women of the Well was a Samaritan of questionable reputation. Jesus' concern for her must have been obvious. What love did anyone have for the tax collectors? Jesus had a great love for Zacchaeus. Despite the crowd, despite the gossip and the side glances, he took time out to dine with Zacchaeus. The little tax collector open his heart and his purse to restore anything or anyone he had wronged.

The people afflicted with leprosy were ritually unclean, feared, and legally ostracized. Yet Christ reached them, cured them, and gave them the same courtesy as he would give to anyone else.

The tendency for those who have not felt the oppression of prejudice, or who do not know the pang of hunger, is to sit back and say, "God is in the heavens and all is right with the world." But we know that all is not right with the world. All is not right with our country, as great and wonderful as it is; it must be made better.

Laws can help. On the books they look good. Until they are etched in the hearts of all will they really produce the effect that is intended — equal freedom and independence for all Americans. We must unlearn the hate that was taught, overcome the fear that was inflated because some people were different by reason of their skin, their religion, or their language.

With the freedom and independence given by our forefathers we can work and pray and hope for a better America. If it does not come in this generation, perhaps it will in the next where Americans can live without the necessity of police and armies. It sounds like a dream. With our former President John F. Kennedy we can dream and say, "Yes, we can!"

Methodist Bishop Calls For Peace

By LOUIS CASSELL
UPI Religion Writer

"Whatever else we're fighting for in Vietnam, we're not fighting for the freedom of the Vietnamese people. They are not free."

A campus radical speaking? No, a Methodist bishop. And he's not one of those "way-out" liberals who say anything to be considered "relevant." He's a soft-spoken patriot from the Midwest farm belt who doesn't think it's cool to link "God and country"—provided you put God first.

His name is James Armstrong. He is 67, he is the bishop of the Dakotas in the United Methodist Church. In another time, his country might be focused on parcelling out parishes or meeting budgets. But Bishop Armstrong has had an experience he can't forget.

And he's only one of thousands of non-Communist political prisoners who've been jailed by the Hanoi-Ky regime. This is the kind of "freedom" we're defending in Vietnam.

Even if he could be certain that the Vietnamese people are free, it would still have grave doubts about the morality of America's role.

"The truth is that our overwhelming fire-power is simply destroying these people and their land," he said, and an election, he said, he shuddered visibly at some of his memories.

Bishop James Armstrong is a study and eager to bring America to the attention of the world. But with the best will in the world, he cannot honor what his country is doing in Vietnam.

Other U.S. churchmen, he wishes to see for himself what his country was doing there. He was appalled by what he learned—or perhaps one should say, thought he learned, for who can know for sure what is the truth about that confused and controversial situation?

"The Saigon government is run by a band of generals who need to keep the war going in order to stay in power. They do not represent a majority of the non-Communist in South Vietnam. General Thieu and General Nguyen, the 1967 "free election" because they were popular opponents weren't permitted to run against them. The man candidate who did give there a race was imprisoned as soon as the election was over—and is still in jail.

"And he's only one of thousands of non-Communist

Swimming Safety Should Come First

Almost 30% of early summer drownings result from exhaustion of one's physical ability to swim after a winter of inactivity.

Some of these people will drown simply because they are not in the same shape physically as they were when the summer ended last year.

All swimmers should NEVER swim alone. Non-swimmers should be accompanied by a lifeguard or a person who has received first aid at several locations in Orlando by Red Cross Volunteers.

In an emergency the first thing is to avoid panic, next to think calmly and preserve your strength.

Cramps affecting the fingers, toes, arms or legs are usually caused by fatigue and over-exertion. Often merely changing a stroke and relaxing will bring relief, but if it continues, rubbing and kneading the cramp may help. The most important thing is to stretch the muscle. Don't fight a current but swim directly across it. You may go

Fourth Of July, 1970: Time Of Dedication

Observance of every national holiday in this fourth year of 1970 is colored by the critical times in which we live. July 4th—Independence Day—is no exception. Controversy swirls around the Continental Congress meeting in the heat of July in Philadelphia, where the daring and as yet untried rebellious colonies forged the Declaration of our national government in Washington today. At issue then and at issue now is the constitutionally defined powers to declare war and make war.

which took place in 1787 and surfacing in 1970 was researched and developed by AP's Don McLeod. To him we defer our tributes and bid order the files to shrill and the drums to roll. For the difficult situation in which we find the Congress and the President is not at all unique or novel. Starting with President McKinley at the turn of the century and down through the rambunctious TR (Theodore Roosevelt) and Woodrow Wilson, Harry Truman, General Eisenhower and LBJ, the presidential order has sent American armed forces into conflicts without benefit of formal declaration of war by the constitutionally defined power of the Congress. Do these names recall past events? Boxer Rebellion in China, Marines in the Caribbean, Peleling in Mexico, the Posan Perimeter in Korea, American "helicopters" in Vietnam and troops to the Dominican Republic. Tomorrow's celebration of the "Glorious Fourth" need not be shadowed by this debate, still not settled.

nor should controversy be allowed to dominate the honoring of the day or distort its meaning. Liberty and freedom are still honest and inspiring words. But they need to be kept to some definite words, too. Liberty from what? Freedom for what? The patriots know very well that when they spoke of liberty they were talking about liberty in its pure sense. It was a concept of liberty which would make the United States of America the standard of governmental accomplishment which would inspire great moves all over the world. That some of these were misconceived and distorted is not to the shame of the Founding Fathers but to the untalpy and yet inescapable vagaries of the human condition. As for "freedom," this word was carefully and precisely used and understood in the eighteenth century. Freedom was not license. Freedom was not the shucking of responsibilities.

Rather it was the assumption of responsibilities which would make the western march of the American frontier a saga of conflict and controversy but in essence the practical witness to the great forces which were set in motion by the Declaration of Independence. Harnessing these forces, controlling these forces, guiding these forces is the unending challenge which has come down for 194 years from the Franklins, Madisons, Hamiltons, Hancock and their peers. How we meet this challenge, in the crises of the 1970s will spell out plainly and for all to read and exult or to read and regret the manner in which this national holiday takes hold. Let July 4th, 1971 show that a watershed did take place in 1970 where the waves of discontent, carrying criticism, vicious violence and racial intolerance smoothed out to the rollers of co-operation, wise comments and unity which alone can create the formidable waters on which the American Ship of State should sail!

Stand Up, Tell The World; I'm Proud Of America

* Continued From Page 1 On July 20, 1969, just 30 years after the birth of our Nation, our contemporary United States of America landed the first man on the Moon, an American and an American of the South. Freedom, the opportunity, the will and determination that makes us Americans what we are. He and his fellow astronauts are almost worshipped by people and leaders of all other Nations, friend and foe alike. Other Space Age pioneers from Alan Shepard to our brave Apollo 13 crew have laid their lives on the line because they had faith in our mission to explore outer space and because we Americans must continue to pioneer as did our forefathers as they founded and developed our Country. In the intervening years between 1820 and 1970, we developed the entire eastern part of our country, we made the Louisiana Purchase, purchased the State of Florida, purchased Alaska, ultimately adding States until we counted 50 States and several Territories, we opened our country to immigrants from all over the world. They came from England, Scotland, Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Poland, Russia, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, France, Italy, Palestine (now Israel), the near east countries, China, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, Africa, etc. to name most of their native lands from whence they came and our Statue of Liberty at tests to the highest honor as aged and proud France could bestow on a fledgling, but fiercely independent United States of America. These millions of immigrants came to our country because they sought a free land where they could have the opportunity to prosper in our free enterprise system and where they could have a voice, a vote, in their government. And these immigrants all contributed to the building and the enrichment of our country and its culture. During the pioneering and building of our great country we built impossible railroads, bridges, highways, dams, meat and structures. We built the impossible Panama Canal and conquered the dreaded Yellow Fever at the same time. We built world-renowned institutions of higher learning such as Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, and great Military Academies such as West Point, Annapolis, and the Virginia Military Institute. Our Hall of Fame at New York University lists a hundred Americans who made their places as giants of the human race for their contributions to many fields of accomplishment for the betterment of our kind. Men such as Alexander Graham Bell, Thomas Edison, Eli Whitney, Thomas Jefferson, Booker T. Washington, Lowell Reed, James Russell Lowell, and Wilbur Wright, to name a few. From 1820 to this day we have fought nine major wars, all of them very difficult and very costly in lives, resources, and in money, to keep our freedom. And when we thoroughly whipped our enemies into surrender, our compassion for them moved us to immediately help them to recover, rebuild, and start a new, at tremendous costs to our citizens. Refer to the Marshall Plan as one example of our beneficent attitude towards a beaten enemy. And we have given billions of dollars of our money to people all over the world to help them have a better life that their own systems have failed to provide. Even our present enemies have benefited greatly from the toll of American citizens at our own expense because their systems are a flop. Today we bear American malcontents and misfits lashing out against us and at our system, the system that has given them the greatest freedom on earth, the highest standard of living anywhere, the best housing, the finest of material things, the finest of safety security from barbarous enemies on the outside. We believe these malcontents and misfits have had it too long. It is possible by people such as you and me, and we believe these people should shut their mouths forever, or immediately depart for their utopian happiness in some other land such as Castro's Communist Cuba or some other Communist paradise such as Communist East Germany, or even the birthplace of world Communism, Russia. We don't believe these malcontents and misfits understand or appreciate what made and what keeps our country what it is. In conclusion, I shall give a brief sketch of my life as an American, then maybe these malcontents and misfits can understand why I have served my country in the military during World War II, and an ecstatic ridding in my heart at the sound of our National Anthem and the sight of Old Glory, make me know that I am proud that I am an American. I have therefore known hard times, hunger, depression, strife and war; but I have also known that the love of God, love of country, concern for my fellow man, the smell and feel of dirt, the pain of labor, and long arduous years of voluntary military service during World War II, and an ecstatic ridding in my heart at the sound of our National Anthem and the sight of Old Glory, make me know that I am proud that I am an American. Stock Taking

The time is never more appropriate than the Fourth day of July for taking stock of ourselves as a nation and, individually, as citizens of that nation. And never more appropriate, perhaps, than this Fourth, when few Americans can fail to be disturbed by what we see. If, as historian Arnold Toynbee has said, the development and achievements of a people are determined by a process of challenge and response, the American people today certainly face no shortage of challenges. At home and abroad they cluster thickly. We are engaged, indefinitely it has almost come to seem, in a war that defies military or diplomatic resolution, only becoming more complex with every intended move toward those ends. At many other points, our resolve and capabilities in promoting our own world interests and as a guarantor of world order—a role we half sought, half fell into after the second world war—are being tested.

Among ourselves, we have become so polarized on great issues—the war, race, national priorities, poverty amid affluence, the confrontation of generations—that room and patience for national debate have been severely diminished. And it is unfortunate that at this point some may be fearing for our purpose and very future as a nation. It is ironic that this should be the case as we approach a milestone anniversary in one of history's greatest success stories, an experiment in self-government that for almost 200 years has effectively balanced individual liberty and social stability. History offers few other such examples of enduring adventure in freedom.

And it is unfortunate that too often, particularly among those few quick to carry differences of view to the extreme of violence, the meaning and symbols of that adventure are being misused. It is all too easy in great public debates for opposing sides to appropriate to themselves the role of true keepers of the faith, wrapping themselves in the flag and seeing all who oppose them as enemies of that flag and of what it stands for. This is not patriotism but an emotional travesty, and we do not need it in these serious times.

What is needed is a little discrimination, in the best sense of the word. We need to discriminate between the irrational rock throwers and head clubbers at both extremes and the great masses of concerned citizens who sincerely believe that our best interests as a nation require that we stand firm in Southeast Asia or that we rapidly disengage, that a thoroughgoing social revolution is essential or that institutions must be protected from too rapid change.

Further, we need to keep in mind that the American system was designed to permit questioning of the established order and change without resort to force—and also resistance to change. And lastly, we need to remember that we have been here before. We have been challenged even to the point of civil war, and have responded—instinctively, courageously, successfully. The man who constructed this system—and while we are at it, it is worth remembering that many were the young turks of their day, without the disident youth of 1970 there would have been no revolution and no adventure in freedom built to last and to accommodate controversy and change. And that it has, and can.

Germany's Changing Times?

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst When Walter Ulbricht, Communist party leader of East Germany, returned from Moscow early in June, he brought with him a remarkable change of attitude. Vanishing Act In Congress

By MIKE FEINSHLIEGER WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Russians are always accused of rewriting history to serve their purposes. The Congress of the United States is another apt practitioner of making events vanish. The rules of Congress permit any member to revise, extend or purge from the Congressional Record anything he says on the floor of the House or Senate which he doesn't want Washington to read the next morning. It happened just a few nights ago, while the Senate was going through the congressional version of the twinning dealmaker's meeting days to discuss foreign policy and rights to deal with domestic affairs. The Russians hope the agreement will bring increased West German trade and technical assistance. The first debt ceiling was $2,328,945,000. Last Monday night, Congress finished raising

Still Needed!

By DON OAKLEY, NEA Editorialist Cheerful thought for Independence Day: As many as 10,000 Americans, most of them children, may suffer painful and possibly crippling injuries from fireworks over the holiday. The prediction is based on a study of over 2,000 fireworks incidents in 1969. The survey, just released by the National Fire Protection Association, covered the entire country but represents only a portion of the actual number of incidents. Among the 2,000 incidents recorded, there were five fatalities. Injuries ranged from blisters—42 cases—to maiming—36 cases—to burns, cuts and abrasions. In 237 cases the victims were holding the fireworks when they exploded and 294 were injured from fireworks thrown at them. About 72 per cent of the victims were under 21, 88 per cent were 15 or younger and almost 20 per cent were aged 1 to 10. The most significant finding of the survey, according to Charles J. Morgan, general manager of the association, is Florida Living Nursing Center has opened its doors and the first patient is Mrs. Alta Thompson from Orlando. An open house is being planned July 26, from 2-4 p.m. At present there are 16 patients. When the center is completed there will be room for 100 patients. The center is operated by the Seventh-day Adventists. It is to provide skilled nursing care for patients who do not require extended hospital care, but who need professional care. Van McGowan, administrator, states that patients convalescing from accidents, strokes, or surgery and aged persons suffering from chronic illnesses may benefit from the services of the center. The nursing center is centrally located and air-conditioned and each room is individually controlled. Rooms are either private or two-bed semi-private providing a large degree of privacy for each patient. The nursing center is located next to the Florida Living Retirement Community on SR 436 in Forest City.

WE PROUDLY SALUTE OUR COUNTRY AND OLD GLORY.
I Am Old Glory: For more than nine score years I have been the banner of hope and freedom for generation after generation of Americans. Born amid the first flames of America's fight for freedom, I am the symbol of a country that has grown from a little group of thirteen colonies to a united nation of fifty* sovereign states. Planted firmly on the high pinnacle of American Faith my gently fluttering folds have proved an inspiration to untold millions. Men have followed me into battle with unwavering courage. They have looked upon me as a symbol of national unity. They have prayed that they and their fellow citizens might continue to enjoy the life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, which have been granted to every American as the heritage of free men. So long as men love liberty more than life itself; so long as they treasure the priceless privileges bought with the blood of our forefathers; so long as the principles of truth, justice and charity for all remain deeply rooted in human hearts, I shall continue to be the enduring banner of the United States of America.

Communist 'Blast' Kills 46 Vietnamese

By WALTER WHITEHEAD
SAIGON (UPI) — A boat packed with Vietnamese civilians struck a Communist mine in a river near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams today, killing 46 persons.
South Vietnam withdrew 5,000 troops from Cambodia and an announcement in Saigon said military planners would meet Monday in Hanoi to map the pullout of 124,000 more American troops from the war zone.

The mine explosion was the worst toll of civilians in the Indochina War since a Viet Cong attack against the village of Phu Thanh killed 114 persons June 11.
Only four of the 50 persons aboard the boat survived the explosion which shattered the craft, military spokesmen said. The rest were swept away in the fast-flowing Cua Viet River, which flows into the South China Sea eight miles south of the Demilitarized Zone.
Near the other end of South Vietnam, a terrorist threw a grenade into a soft drink shop in the Mekong Delta town of Soc Trang, killing five civilians and wounding 16 others and seven soldiers.
Allied intelligence has predicted the Viet Cong will increase terrorism to save their fighting forces until more U. S. troops are withdrawn.
Cambodian spokesmen in Phnom Penh said today Viet Cong and North Vietnamese reinforcements had moved south from the Laotian border in preparation for intensified attacks against the communication center of Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of Phnom Penh.

195 Ceiling Upheld For Draft Lottery

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's draft lottery ceiling has risen to No. 185 through August and Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr says officials "don't anticipate that it will go much higher" for the rest of the year.
Tarr ordered local draft boards Thursday to add only five lottery numbers for August inductions.
The selective service director's announcement means that men holding numbers in the upper end of the "middle third" — somewhere around 210 to 240 — might escape the service.
He said an influx of low numbered men, primarily college students who have lost their deferments, is replenishing the draft pool and "truly helping our manpower situation."
The White House estimated at the time of the first lottery last December that the lowest third — men with numbers from one to about 120 — would almost certainly be inducted.
It said men with numbers above 240 probably would not. Those with numbers in the middle range were left to wonder about their chances.
Last December's estimates were based on predicted manpower needs of 224,000 men. The Pentagon since has reduced that number to somewhere between 150,000 and 180,000.
Monthly draft calls have shown a corresponding downward trend with the August call of 10,000 the lowest of the year.
Tarr also reaffirmed that local boards need not send men with numbers higher than 215 for pre-induction physicals.

Subdivision Residents Complain Of 'Ponds'

By PHIL PASTOET

One problem yet unsolved concerning the supermode passenger plane: How to get the 1st meal served before landing.
The complaints of residents of a new subdivision relative to polishing ponds in their area being hazardous to children will soon find resolution as a result of recent action by the County Commission.
It has been stated that there are currently five utility companies, under county regulation, which have failed to fence ponds which are not fenced. One which was cited was the Village Green Apartments in Altamonte Springs. However, this complex will soon convert to permanent services of the new municipal sewer service at Altamonte.
Regulations now require all new facilities to have security fences, and existing systems will be required to conform to standards within a given period of time.
Commissioners entered an order requiring all existing ponds and retention ponds utilized by any private utility company, under current county regulations, to completely enclose such areas with a chain link fence, not less than 6 1/2 feet high, with an entrance gate to be locked at all times other than ingress and egress to the area. Period of time to install such fences is not to exceed 60 days.
It was pointed out that several companies have four-foot fences, and a question was raised as to leaving the fences at such a height. County sanitarian, Val Robbins, is to make a survey as to those companies having four-foot fences.
Chairman of the county Planning and Zoning Board, Glenn McCall, hopes to succeed where commissioners have failed in getting a map from the school board designating where new schools will be built. This is a new ruling in which submitals must be made for public buildings.
Commissioner Greg Drummood that the commission has attempted three times within the last year to obtain such maps, with no success and wishes to better his luck.
The county has been advised that David Parr, senior planner with DeKalb County, Ga., will assume his duties at a salary of $12,500 on July 20.
The county has authorized Chairman John Alexander to secure information for its next meeting relative to the procedure for advertising and revising the position of County Administrative Assistant. The position has been incorporated in the county's job classification.
Commissioners have also been advised by Commissioner Robert Parker that he had several complaints regarding maintenance of Big Tree Park. The park upkeep is on a less expenditure with the county. Parker said that although a work session has been scheduled on the park only two Jaycees put in an appearance.

Casselberry's Napier Seeks Assessor's Post

Casselberry City Council Chairman Thomas E. Napier, officially announced this morning that he is a Democratic candidate for the office of Seminole County Tax Assessor.
I am announcing my candidacy for the office of Tax Assessor of Seminole County.
The Tax Assessor's Office is a big business, responsible for the assessment of all real and personal property. Keen management and a demonstrated sense of impartiality are prerequisites of the Tax Assessor. I feel that my background qualifies me for this job.
Seminole County is in a period of rapid expansion and changing property patterns. These factors have substantially altered established property values. The Tax Assessor must be vigilant to reflect these changing values.
During the past three years as a member of Martin Marietta's purchasing organization I am required to evaluate the capabilities of subcontractors with whom I do business. I have gained a broad knowledge of business techniques which are effective and those which, although great in theory, do not work in practice. In this position, fair play of equal treatment for all is required. The success of applying fair and equal treatment lies in the understanding of the various Government agencies which are cognizant of Martin Marietta's operation. My record as Chairman of the City of Casselberry has demonstrated my ability to manage a Government body. I promise fair and equal taxation for all citizens of Seminole County. Napier is past president of the Casselberry Lions Club and was named "Lion of the Year" for 1968. The South Seminole Jaycees presented Chairman Napier with their Good Government Award for 1969-70. Cities Vieing For Party

By HENRIETTA LEITH, Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Where and how will the nation's biggest birthday bash in its history?
The debate has been going on for years, even though the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the founding of the United States will not take place for six more years.
Various cities have vied for the honor of holding the major celebration in the form of a huge international exposition. Some have demurred at an observance more relevant to the 1976 needs of a nation.
Soon, President Nixon will make the final decision.
The major factor in the President's decision will be a report from the Bicentennial Commission, which has been wrestling with the problem and has been bogged down with verbal and graphic propaganda by the proponents of various cities and plans for four years.
It was unofficially reported this week that the commission, after holding its final meeting Tuesday night had made its decision to support almost all the plans.
The original bicentennial commission was named by President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1966. On July 4, 1969, President Nixon named his own commission, retaining seven members of the Johnson commission, and adding 10 new ones.
Early in the deliberations, the contest of cities narrowed down to Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and Miami, all seeking the commission's approval of an exposition in their city.
The Paris-based Bureau of International Expositions reserved 1976 as an American exposition, and the four cities submitted proposals for Class I international exposition which would provide space for pavilions of the nations of the world, such as Montreal's Expo '67 and Expo '70 at Osaka, Japan.
As the discussion proceeded, many thought the bicentennial should be more American than international, and proposals were resubmitted, revised, resubmitted.
Philadelphia, Boston and Washington tried to impress the commission with their roles as cradles of history, but Miami's claim was not that it was a great 18th century significance, but that it was "the gateway to the world."
Miami planned to call its exposition "Third Century U.S.A." and emphasized its year-round sunny climate and availability of plenty of space for the exposition.

The recommendation was made in a report on the military's Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services — CHAMPUS — which provides care for military families.
The Pentagon reportedly told the subcommittee the psychiatrist worked 12 to 14 hours a day and had records showing he had earned the average $22 a day he received. The payments he worked six days a week.
The $11,121 overpayment, a subcommittee aide said, was the result of poor bookkeeping.
The $116,000 is the highest known income by a single doctor from any federal health insurance program in California in 1968 and one of the highest in the country.

New Book Rips Governor Kirk

By RICH OPPEL
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Tallahassee foes can barely conceal their glee, but nobody is claiming credit for encouraging or financing a timely paper back profile which rips up Gov. Claude Kirk.
"It sounds like a good free enterprise effort to me," chuckled Harold "Buz" Rummel, press aide to GOP gubernatorial candidate Jack Eckerd.
"The book," "Claude Kirk, Man and Myth" — is heralded the hottest political biography of the year as its back proclaims. It is more like the no-nonsense, age-old news clips of the week.
But it does have the campaign staffs of Eckerd and other Republican gubernatorial candidates, Sen. L. A. "Skip" Bafalis of Palm Beach, almost giddy over its arrival.
"It's the most pleasant surprise I've had this week. I'm sure it will make enjoyable reading around the state," said Woody Woodcock, one of Bafalis' aides.
The 124-page hatchet job was written by Ralph de Toledo, a Washington columnist respected in Republican circles, and Philip V. Brennan Jr. of Boca Raton, a former publicity fan for the U.S. House Republican Committee.
Brennan maintained there was "no involvement" of other candidates in the book.
Kirk had no comment, but his aides privately pointed the finger at Bafalis. Release of the book — the first with Kirk as its main subject — is timely because of the 1970 campaign officially kicks off with the opening of the qualifying period on Tuesday.
A popular cup Thursday was that the book was sure to be well displayed in Eckerd Drug Stores, but Rummel, with a tongue-in-cheek reminder of Eckerd's ban on dirty books, commented: "If it doesn't pass the examination, we won't display it."
Some of the book's comments: Kirk as a candidate for governor — Kirk saw himself as a combination of Louisiana political boss Huey Long and circuit man P. T. Barnum, but "failed to realize that at best he was a back-lagger Huey Long."
His lifestyle — "he has always been one jump ahead of his income. He likes to live lavishly, to ride in limousines and private jets, to wear the best clothes and be seen at the best places."
The book also contains a list of names of people who are believed to be involved in the book's publication.

Foster: Protector Of Press

By MARION BETHEA
"We need a medium ground to protect the people, yet to keep the confidence of the people in the court."
Leo L. Foster, Democratic candidate for the Florida Supreme Court, feels that little has been learned about promptness of the law courts in 1969 years, and that it is not unusual for a case to remain open and active for 10 years or more.
Foster stated that his salary as a trial lawyer was considerably more than that of a Supreme Court judge, that he had spent in excess of the court's quarters of a million dollars, and that his only interest in seeking the office was that he was "interested in the welfare of Florida."
Foster is adamant in his conviction that the press must remain unfettered; that the basic right of a fair trial cannot be consummated or maintained unless it is the handmaiden of a free press. Foster contends that "any time we abridge the freedom of the press, this country is in trouble. He continued that tyranny is always just below the surface and unless the public is kept aware of the course of events by the press, the country is headed toward absolutism." "People," he said, "have the right to know what is going on, and without this right we would assume the risk of secret arrests and oppression."
The erudite Foster takes exception to those who would rid the news media of controversial commentaries with the state ment that one "does not burn down a barn to get fire out of the rats." "The public, according to Foster, will always disseminate the truth from the press and from the editorial page of newspapers."
Foster is firmly committed to the belief that all persons are entitled to a fair and expeditious trial and that the first amendment to the constitution is a "fence against wrong." He succinctly illustrated his point by quoting Caesar, "What happens to the innocent is all you do as a judge."
Foster is a native of Texas and a resident of Tallahassee since the 1930's. He began the practice of law in 1941 with a Tallahassee firm headed by former Gov. Millard Caldwell, and has remained with the firm to date. Foster is a member of the executive committee of the Tallahassee Bank and Trust Company and of the Board of Directors.
Foster received his bachelor's degree from the University of Florida, and his IIB degree with honors from the same university in 1942. He served as first president of the John Marshall Bar Association in 1941 and was elected president of the senior law class of 1942.
He was selected for the Department of Public Safety from April, 1942 to June, 1946 and then from June, 1963 to date. He was an attorney (without compensation) for the special legislative investigation committee of 1963, which was charged with reorganizing procedures of the John Committee. He has served as vice president of the Florida Traffic Safety Council, representative and principal organizer of the Internal Vehicle Safety Commission, and has had a leading role in the commission's efforts for an international compact of states and provisions for vehicle safety inspections. This was the compact which was the catalyst for laws such as Florida's on vehicle examination.

Surprise! Surprise! Surprise! Pre-Nuptial Party Fetes Valerie Rye

By DORIS WILLIAMS
Vivacious Valerie Rye danced her way into the fashionable home of Dr. and Mrs. Tom Largent to a meeting re the proposed new home of Studio of Three Arts, she thought "Surprise! Surprise! Surprise!" With but a few cars parked outside (Pat Largent had arranged for them to be carefully hidden in the nearby Orange Grove), versatile Val glided into the spacious living room to find it carpeted with wall-to-wall people.
After recovering from the initial shock that a surprise bridal shower was being given in her honor and attempting to regain her otherwise composure and poise, the dance instructor commented, "What a swivel! I'm accustomed to directing the show!"
The surprise pre-nuptial affair was actually under the aegis of a festive umbrella, appropriately adorned with a pair of turquoise tie shawls, a grey used, but nevertheless, twinkling.
The chosen colors, turquoise and white, were carried out in the refreshments and decor. A beautiful arrangement of turquoise and white flowers, accented by turquoise tapers in silver holders, centered the turquoise and white refreshment table which was overlaid with candlelight lace. A lavishly gowned bride... a real cake on a handsome refreshment table... graced one end of the table with a silver punch bowl at the opposite end. A sheet cake, embossed in turquoise and candlelight, and silver appointments containing a variety of party fare including turquoise tea sandwiches, completed the picturesque refreshment table.
Assisting the hostesses were Misses Miriam Rye, Debbie Russell and Patricia Largent. Valerie will become the bride of George Wald, a Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve, currently affiliated with Naval Investigative Service, Orlando, on Aug. 1, at First Presbyterian Church of Sanford. Others attending the lovely fete were Mrs. Walter Rye, mother of the bride-elect, Jacksonville; and Misses Luis Perez, Jerry and Myron McCarroll, Edward Yarbrough, Kenneth Echols, Bill Sharp, Tom Galloway and Robert Graham.
Also Misses Jack Greene, Harold Madison, George Mills, A. O. Roberts, Jim Rowe, Marion Roberts, Lloyd Swain, Tom Tomlinson, Richard Van Deyne and R. L. Grover.
Also Misses Bill Beck, Henry Johnson, David Smith, Robert Marwick, J. Brough, Harry Kliffing and Thomas Brown.
