Diesel truck stalls traffic

SANFORD — A leaking diesel truck stalled in the westbound Interstate 4 lanes at the crest of the Lake Monroe bridge caused a three-mile back-up in westbound lanes during rush-hour this morning.

An unknown amount of diesel fuel spilled into the St. Johns River, said Florida Highway Patrol lieutenant Leonard Zimmerer. Environmental agencies were notified of the river contamination and hazardous materials teams from Volusia and Seminole County repsonded to soak up the fuel on the roadway.

Zimmerer said the truck driven by Elzeai L. Vanmoorhan stalled due to a pressurized fuelleak at about 6:30 a.m. The scene was cleared by 8:30 a.m. No charges were filed.

Satellite problem prompts delay

CAPE CANAVERAL - NASA abruptly called off tonight's launch of space shuttle Atlantis because of a problem with the satellite on board. Officials predicted a delay of five to seven days.

Mission managers scrubbed the flight about 10 a.m., or nine hours before the scheduled 6:51 p.m. EST liftoff. The cancellation took place a half-hour before fueling was to begin.

NASA spokesman Dick Young said the trouble was with a guidance unit on a rocket attached to the $300 million missile-warning satellite. The rocket is needed to boost the satellite from the shuttle's orbit to 22,300 miles above Earth.

Atlantis' six astronauts still were asleep when the countdown was halted. The countdown had gone smoothly until late this morning: the only concern had been the threat of rain.

The astronauts' plans were uncertain, but they were expected to return to Johnson Space Center in Houston, probably later today.

Suspects nabbed in burglary

SANFORD - Three Jacksonville men were arrested by Sanford police behind a closed Orlando Drive restaurant this morning minutes after the burglary of a 25th Street convenience

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett said the three men were found by a parked car behind the closed Holiday House restaurant, 4200 Orlando Drive, at about 4:40 a.m. An alarm at the Lif Champ convenience store, 1119 E. 25th St., had alerted police 20 minutes before, Harriett said. Police found a front door of the closed convenience store had been smashed out by a large rock and cartons of eigarettes had been disturbed, Harriett said.

Officer Frank Bilton, who discovered the men while on routine patrol, searched the 1988 Buick and reported finding a bag of plastic trash bags and a screwdriver, which Harriett said could be used for a burglary. Also found was half of a concrete block, which Harriett said may have been used to smash the Lil' Champ door

SANFORD — Plans to improve the downtown Sanford area face several problems. They include to many separate groups, and the lack of continuing efforts.

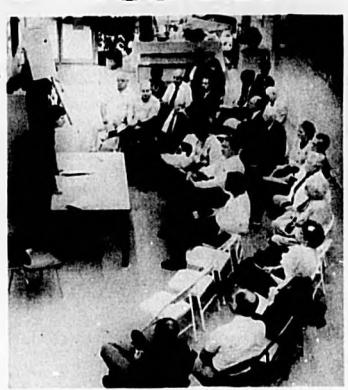

The observations were presented by four members of the Sanford Development Corporation at this morning's meeting of the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association, SHDWA.

Cal Conklin, one of the leaders of the Corporation, explained how the organization was first formed in 1976, and has been operating since that time, at various levels of activitity. "When we first organized." he said, "the people who started this put in their own money. They didn't always depend on the City to finance everything."

Another Corporation member, Sara Jacobson added. "We found that if we made our own efforts to improve

Police chief aids merchants

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Downtown crime was brought to the forefront last night. Local business owners discussed the problem with Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett.

Several dozen downtown merchants met with Harriett at the First Street Gallery, in a meeting called for by the downtown shop owners. The purpose, as perceived by Harriett was, "To get together and come up with a long term solution to the crime problem.

Harriett admitted crime had recently increased. "The character of downtown Sanford has changed, and not necessarily for the good," he said. "We would like it to return to the old hometown image, but we cannot. Last year, crime was more frequent than ever before.

He explained the most common and recent crime is what he called, "Smash and grab, that is, where a burglar sees a desired item in a store window, breaks the window, grabs the item and flees within only seconds, a time much too quick for law caforcement to react in most cases

Among the problems voiced by various downtown merchants were the following:

• The need for better downtown lighting. Harriett suggested, "It would certainly lielp reduce crime. I would be all in favor of an improved lighting system in

SANFORD - The resignation of veteran Semmole County Planning and Zoning Commissioner Sue Lewis has brought joy to the heart of county commissioner Larry Furlong, who will name her replacement

'As far as I'm concerned, that's the best piece of correspondance I've seen since I've been a commissioner." Furlong said.

Last week, county commission chairman Fred Streetman received the resignation notice of Lewis, dated Nov. 7, which stated it was effective immediately. The letter offered no explanation for her decision. Streetman said he had no knowledge of Lewis resignation prior to the letter.

Crossing the street to the north side, he explained how better interior lighting at the Slim and Sassy store would help brighten up the outside area. Store owner Sharon Konegig had previously told the Chief that she had been told it was better to turn the store lights off than leave them on.

"I've heard that twice from people," Harriett said. "but it's just not true. Light up the front of the store and officers passing by can see much better."

He also pointed to a nearby business with a large sign stretched across the front window. "Here's another bad point," he said. "Never cover up the window like this. If someone has entered through the back of the store, it makes seeking a burglar that much more difficult

The sound of the alarm could hardly be heard outside the closed store, and according to a check by Harriett. "You have the right to confront and detain someone you suspect. and hold them while the police are called. Also, if you have to use reasonable force, and the person resists, that will add to the crime charges against him."

• Persons who ride around on bikes collecting garbage, or park their bikes in the downtown areas: - Harriett said, "They are actually not violating any law. but we try to keep a close watch on them." He added that consideration is being given to re-locating some of the bike racks. away from the downtown bust-

"but they wouldn't like it any more than you would downtown if the City told you what you could or could not use your building for."

• The marked increase in drug

The Chief summed up the meeting, saying, "I can't guarantee no more crime. All we can do is be aware of the fact that we are all succeptable. Recessions produce less buying power and more theft. Even if we double or triple the size of our Police Department, it won't mean less crime."

He suggested continuous contact with Officer Bill Crapps, who has been designated as the Sanford Police Department liason officer for the downtown area. "Get to know Bill, and let

Car and appliances taker

Evelyn J. Horenstein, of 38 Unde Street, in the Town & Country RV Park, has been gone from her home since May 1. When she returned Saturday, she found her 1979 Dodge van missing, and a number of items removed from her home.

According to a report from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, Horenstein had asked a neighbor, identified as Patrick Turner, to watch her van and residence while she was gone. Turner has since moved away. A neighbor told officers Turner had not been seen since October.

In addition to the van, a TV set, VCR, vacuum cleaner, small appliances, and a number of kitchen furnishings were missing. No sign of forced entry was found at the residence, and Horenstein is said to have found evidence of someone living in her home while she was gone.

Investigators with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department are looking into the situation and seeking information on the whereabouts of Turner.

Theft and arson charged

Seminole County Sheriff's deputies and other officers were summoned to investigate gun shots heard near County Road 427 and Marker Street, early Sunday morning. When they arrived, they questioned four persons sitting in a 1992 Jeep

According to deputies reports, a rag in the gas tank area had been previously ignited and caused fire damage to the left rear of the vehicle. Also, while the motor was running, there was no key in the ignition, and the left rear window had been broken.

Officers found the vehicle had been reported stolen from Sanford Motors, on Saturday. The driver of the vehicle, Michael Eugene Johnson. 16, of 2549 S. Oak, Sanford, and a passenger, identified as Frederick Ramon Davis, 19, of 391 Oviedo Street. Oviedo, were both arrested and charged with grand theft auto.

Four shots were reportedly fired from the vehicle, killing a dog. Officers also charged Davis with carrying a concealed weapon, having found a 22 caliber handgun and an ammunition clip during their check of the vehicle and its

Road plans include traffic sensors

LAKE MARY — By 1994, Interstate 4 from Lake Mary Boulevard to south of downtown Orlando will feel it when traffic begins to bog down and notify read watchers.

That's the future-here-today proposal included in the state's five-year plan for read and other traffic improvements for Seminole County. The public had an opportunity to review the plan in Orlando today. Comments from local governments will be considered, then the final recommendation for spending will be sent to Talihansee for legislative approval by January.

In addition to the 965.5 million road and bridge spending plan for Seminole County is $3.2 million to install under-pavement sensors on 1-4 between Wymore Road overpass at the Orange-Seminole County line to Lake Mary Boulevard. The sensors would be connected to a central receiving area.

When the sensors indicate a traffic slowdown, Florida Highway Patrol dispatchers in Orlando will be able to train one of several cameras in the direction of the County.

The 905.5 million spending plan represents a similar level of spending included in the road agency's previous two five-year.

"It's roughly equivalent to what it was last year," said Homes. "Which was considerably more their what it was two years ago."

The state increased the gasoline tax by four cents this year and increased some vehicle fees, generating more revenues for road projects. But Heman said if cash-

New to the plan is $0.3 million to widen 2.5 miles of State Read 434 from Tuskawilla Read to the expressway, now under construction beginning in 1997. The state had previously included about $4.5 million in its spending plans to widen 2.1 miles of $R 434 from State Road 419 and Tuskawilla Road beginning in 1996.

Also new to the plan is $4.1 million to purchase land needed to widen State Road 436 between Pearl Lake Causeway west of 1-4 to Douglas Avenue, about 2.3 miles.

Previously approved plans include the widening of 4.7 miles of I-4 between SR 434 and Lake Mary Boulevard, a $1.1 million project scheduled to be underway in the state flacal year beginning July 1, 1983.

Sanford-based officials with the Job Service of Florida and the Florida Unemployment Purchase still Compensation claims office, said they will move their offices to Reflections by next June. The Job Service of Florida office has been located at 2460 S. Park Ave. for about six years. The unemployment office has been located at 112 S. Sanford Ave. for about the same length of Managers of both the job service and unemployment compensation offices said the move was needed because they have outgrown their current

"Ours is one of needing more office space," said Cheryl Maughan, manager of the Seminole County state job service offices. "We have outgrown our facility."

Maughan said the 15. employee office currently serves about 200 to 250 clients per day who are looking for jobs. She said there are few lines but quarters are cramped. She said the number of clients represents a 30 to 40 percent increase over this time last year.

Mary Barrett, manager of the unemployment office, said their office has also seen a substantial increase in the demand for services. Barrett said she was unable to provide specific numbers of clients or an estimated increase during the last year because her offices were "swamped" with clients seeking information about extended benefits.

Barrett did say her staff has increased from four to 12 during the six years at the same

Official's drug

SANFORD — State Attorney's Office investigators are still interviewing witnesses to Sanford Commissioner Lon Howell's cocaine purchase in Old Sanford. an official said today.

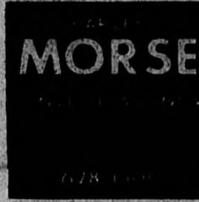

"We are still talking to wit-nesses," said Jack Scalera, the Seminole County assistant state attorney assigned to review the incident. "We don't expect a decision before Wednesday."

Sanford Police Chief Steven Harriett personally delivered Police Officer Jim Spear's one-page report of the Oct. 24 incident to State Attorney Norm Wolfinger in Titusville on Oct. 25 and discussed the facts of the incident with Wolfinger. Harriett said he turned the case over to Wolfinger to avoid any impressions of impropriety in his handling of the incident.

Wolfinger could not be reached, but said last week it should not be difficult to decide whether to file charges against Howell said he bought the drugs in a sense of outrage after he was accosted by three drug dealers while he was driving along Magnolia Avenue between Fourth and Seventh Streets. Howell said he accepted the third offer and bought two pieces of what he believed to be crack cocaine for $20. He said he was angry drugs could be obtained so readily in Old Sanford and wanted to prove it to nay-sayers.

Howell said after the purchase was concluded, he contacted the police department and made arrangements to meet an officer at First Street and Sanford Avenue.

A peace, at last

The international peace treaty ending 21 years of war in Cambodia is more than just a victory for global diplomacy. It's a sign that the tremors from the collapse of the Soviet empire — and from the end of the Cold War — have rumbled all the way to Southeast Asia.

Until this year, Cambodia's frumas actions resisted international peace cross. Victorian and the Sovieta backed the Hum Ben and the Soviets backed the Hun Ben government in Phnom Penh. The United States supported the non-communist factions in exile from Cambodia, China supported the Khmer Rouge, who murdered more than a million Cambodians and led a resistance movement to regain power.

As long as everyone was stuck in concrete, peace seemed remote. Now, with the international game board changed, Cambodia, Victnam and Lace — all of them isolated and battle-weary - seem poised to rejoin the rest

In Cambodia, the new treaty calls for the United Nations, in its largest peace-keeping effort ever, to administer the nation until elections can be held in 1993. The United Nations still needs to come up with the $2 billion required for this essential task.

Meanwhile, the United States is offering an olive branch to Vietnam, Cambodia's neighbor, urging talks to normalize relations and holding out the possibility of ending a 16-year economic embargo.

No everyone likes the idea of normalizing relations with Vietnam. Vietnmese refugees in this country still rightly louthe Vietnam's communist government. And Vietnam War veterans rightly insist that Vietnam needs to answer lingering questions on prisoners of war and MIAs. These emotions are valid, but we can't cling to old hostilities forever.

Howell deserves support

In regards to the article in the Sanford Herald on Nov. 14, 1991 about Commissioner Lon Howell.

Although I may not always agree with what Commissioner Lon Howell does, I do feel he is being railroaded for trying to prove a point. Let's fact the facts. Sanford does have a problem with drugs, prostitution and other crimes.

If our city commissioner is willing to stick his neck out for the citizens of Sanford then I think it only fair that we as citizens should stand behind our city commissioner. Lon Howell.

As citizens we should join forces with Lon Howell to rid our city of unwanted, blatant criminal activity on the streets of Sanford.

Howell acted in good faith

After reading the Editorials/Opinions in the Herald Sunday, Nov. 17, I would be remise if I did not take a few moments out to write these few lines to express my opinion about the drug purchase in which (Sanford City) Commissioner Lon Howell was involved.

First of all, I would like to say I do not believe in committing an offence to detect a crime. This has been done day after day in this country and can be seen on drug "busts" and also in the case of prostitution. This simply says that Lon Howell did what has been done by other people. The only difference is Lon Howell was not authorized to do so while other people were.

I do agree that three offences were committed. #1, offering the drug for sale; #2, the purchasing of the drug and #3 destroying the evidence. We all make mistakes and this time Mr. Howell made one.

The key word in this case is intent, which should be proven. Was it that Mr. Howell purchased the drug with intent to use it? He admitted buying the drug and explained that his intent was to show how easy it is to purchase drugs on the streets of Sanford. In view of the fact that he turned it over to the police was enough to show his intent and this shold be honored. I do hope and pray that Mr. Howell will be forgiven for his mistake instead of it being blown up to something that can be very costly.

Mr. Howell acted in good faith to show his concern for the city in which he lives and show more concern in that portion of the city he represents. That is to show that he is a concerned commissioner who gives representation.

As a resident of the City of Sanford and living in the now District #1, for the past 34 years, that Commissioner Howell represents. I can truthfully say, I have seen the best.

In the light of all this I do hope that Chief Harriett will give thought and act on the suggestion I offered at the City Commission meeting approximately a month ago. That is to have some volunteer citizens deputized to assist the police. By doing this, the citizen would be protected by law. Having served eight years in the police force in Jamaica. West Indies, I know some of the things that can be done here. Lon Howell's concern as a commissioner is one that any good citizen should

Here again I commend you Lon for your concern and efforts in trying to make Sanford a better place for us to live. We the residents of Sanford do appreciate you and will stand behind you. Keep up the good work Lon you are not alone.

Economy raises Democratic hopes

After eight months during which President Bush seemed to go from strength to strength and there appeared to be no hope of preventing his re-election, the nation's Democratic professionals re-election, the nation's Democratic professionals are beginning to perk up a bit. It's not that they really believe they can beat him — not yet, anyway. But the possibility doesn't seem quite so remote as it did a few months ago.

Pirat and forement, there's the recession. It isn't particularly deep as recessions go: The unemployment rate, at 0.8 percent, is actually attributely lower than it was (7.4 percent) when the last Democratic president, Jimmy Carter, left office in January 1981 — and nobody, certainly not the Democrats, was arguing that we were in not the Democrats, was arguing that we were in a recession then.

But in these things it's the perception that matters, and with no war or, and nothing much else to complain about, the liberal media have been free for several months to dwell on the supposedly desperate state of the economy. Having finally established that the numbers technically justified the term "recession," they have speculated gleefully that this one would turn out to be one of the W-shaped, or "double-din," variety. Lately I have even noted one or two far-fetched attempts to label this a "depression," rather than a "recession."

When this sort of thing has been dinned into the public's ears for a while, it's easy to conduct a poll in which a majority of potential voters identify the state of the economy as "America's number one problem," and one problem." and George Bush is given comparatively low marks for his handling of it.

From the stand-point of Bush and his re-election strategists, of course. things look rather different. If there must be a dip in the economy's perfor-mance, this is surely the time to have it. It is scarcely conceivable that conditions won't have changed beyond recognition.

ches between now and Election Day.

Still, the Democrata can hardly be blamed for thinking that the aituation is perceptibly better, from their partisan standpoint, than it used to be. With the Cold War over, and the memory of America's victory in the Gulf receding day by day, a well-advertised recession is just what the Democrats' doctor ordered. Who says the American people may not decide, in 1992, that it's time to give the GOP a rest?

Moreover, such reflections undoubtedly go far to explain Mario Criomo's quickening interest in the Democratic presidential nomination. A man with the New York governor's powers of analogy and grasp of history must have been struck by the leason implicit in Harris Wosford's defeat of Richard Thornburgh for the Pennsylvania Senate seat that was up on Nov. 5. Like Thomas Dewey running against Harry Truman in 1948, Thornburgh sat motioniess atop an all but insurmountable lead (at least, according to the polls) and let it melt away. May Bush not do the What's more, the Wolford-Thornburgh contest apparently launched a major issue, well suited for national exploitation by the Democrats. Wolford seized on national health insurance.

Should Aristide be returned to office?

WASHINGTON - Before a coup robbed Haitian President Jean-Bertrand Aristide of his country and his clout, he steered $2 million in foreign aid to an orphanage run by his close friend. That turned some heads, but the alarm didn't sound until the friend was arrested months later in a big cocaine bust.

Aristide reacted to the arrest in September by ordering police to release his friend. Our sources tell us that Alvin Adams, the vocal U.S. Ambessador to Haiti, protested, but Aristide did not bend.

This is one of many disquieting tales about the sevenmonth presidency of Aristide, a man whom the United States is now forced to stand behind because he was demi-ocratically elected. As more leaders, in the Western Hemlsphere learn about their neighbor Aristide, the less jubilant they are about helping him get his job back.

what he now knows about Aristide. Publicly, the State Department has said the Bush administration will support all efforts to return Aristide to office, even though the administration acknowledges some problems with the populist priest. Privately, the language is stronger. One top diplomat says he is sickened by what he now knows about Aristide.

One top dip-

In the month since the Haitlan military overthrew Aristide's government, his record has been examined under a microscope. Aristide has emerged as a reckless populist who uses democracy when it suits him. Yet, because he was voted into office, the State Department and the Organization of American States are obliged to support his struggle.

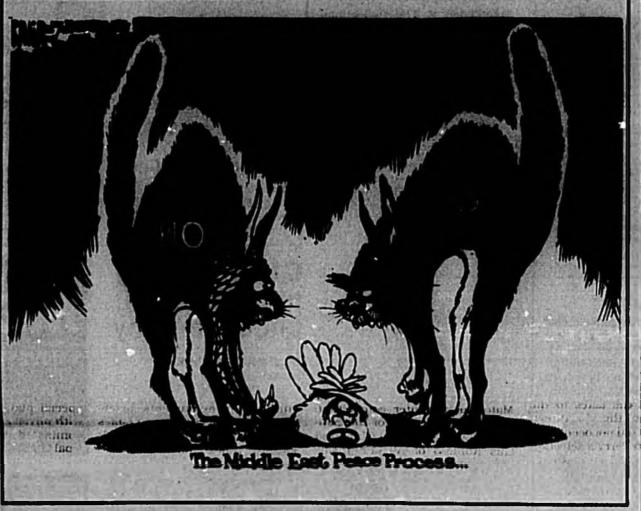

Aristide incites mob violence. He made entrees to Cuba's Fidel Castro and Libya's Moammar Gadhaft. His minister of planning flew to Libya last April to attend the fifth annual America-bashing ceremony in memory of the U.S. raid on Libva. Aristide is vengeful, paranoid and not afraid to use unruly mobs to get what he wants. Some of his rivals have been killed by "necklacing" - the practice of hanging a tire around the victim's neck and setting the tire on fire. In a venomous speech Aristide delivered outside his palace on Sept. 27, he appeared to endorse the hideous method of execution. The translation of the speech that appeared in the Haitian Observateur quoted Aristide as saying of the necklace, "What a beautiful tool! What a beautiful instrument! What a beautiful device! It's beautiful, yes it's beautiful, it's cute, it's pretty, it has a good smell. Wherever you go you want to inhale

A Haltian Embassy spokesman told our associate Jim Lynch that Aristide was not promoting necklacing, but was using it as a 'symbol" and as a "warning to the enemies of the people of Haiti." And the spokesman said Aristide never reached out to embrace either Libya or Cuba.

What to do with this democratically elected president? Last summer, the OAS passed a resolution that never considered a man like Aristide. That resolution said the OAS will act forcefully and quickly to prevent the overthrow of any democratically elected government. The resolution didn't take into account someone who was elected democratically and went on to behave dictatorially.

The OAS had Chile in mind when the resolution was passed, expecting that former dictator Augusto Pinochet would try to squelch the elected government that succeeded him. Now, the overthrow of Aristide has given the OAS its first real test. Vulnerable democracies in Argentina. Venezuela. Guatemala and elsewhere in Latin America are watching closely to see if the United States and the OAS are selective in which democratically elected governments are worth fighting for.

U.S. once fed starving Russians

WASHINGTON - Winter-like weather is already settling in over much of the Soviet Union, and with it the chill winds of a potential human calamity. He has recently appealed for $10 billion to $11 billion worth of grocery credits from America alone. and President Bush has responded by vowing that "nobody is going to starve" in the

There is of course a sense of deja vu in the circumstances. The two nations have been through this kind of thing once before. The Soviet Union was punished by a terrible famine after World War I, and Herbert Hoover. then the U.S. secretary of commerce, organized a massive effort to provide food and medical supplies. Dwight Miller keeps a complete account of the earlier aid. He is senior archivist at the Hoover presidential library in West Branch. lowa, and he says parts of the original program may still be applicable today: "Hoover was a great administrator, and there are certain fundamentals of his plan that could be used again this winter."

The plan in fact was initially established to help scores of European and Middle Eastern states devastated by the war. Hoover set up the American Relief Administration, which, he says in his book. "An American Epic," funneled 58 million tons of food and clothing to nearly four dozen countries over a nine-year period.

The Soviets needed it as bad as anyone. The nation was not only recling from World War I (1914-18), but from revolution (1917) and widespread drought throughout its southern agricultural region. Hoover believed the famine covered more than 800,000 square-miles, and 25 million people were in danger of perishing.

Archivist Miller says the situation was further complicated by political stratagems. At first, Vladimir Lenin refused to consider outside help. He did not want the brand-new communist system to immediately beg for international alms. He said his hungry people would take two steps forward for every step Events soon overtook the posturing, however. The malnourished Soviets began making "famine bread" out of such things as birchbark, sawdust and even blood. Desperate crowds began battling the authorities for emergency rations. And the conditions led to outbreaks of typhus, cholera, typhoid and smallpox.

Then there was cannibalism. The Hoover Library has photographs of men charged with eating dead fellows. The record indicates that some people picked over the corpses that became too numerous to bury, and bolied the flesh. Some mothers are said to have caten their children; others peddled human meat in the markets. Finally, in 1921, Lenin ordered writer Maxim Gorky to issue an appeal to the world for "bread and medicine," citing the necessity to save a nationality that had made so many contributions to science and the arts. Hoover detested the communists, but decided the United States must at least do something for the Hoover sent more than 300 people to manage the aid distribution. They found chaos in many areas. Armies of farmers were leaving their lands for the cities, murder for food was common, people turned into skeletons, some were prey to dogsxald birds, and the fight for life included the consumption of rats, bones and trash.

As for the cannibalism, one relief agent reported: "Men have lost their reason ... killing and eating their own ... It is very delicate to speak of such occurrences, but they are true, and the fact that they do occur is beyond doubt. Some authenticated cases are attached. but the less said about them the better."

Hoover wrote in his book that The American Relief Administration furnished $127 million worth of food, clothing and medicines to the Soviet Union. It added up to almost 800,000 metric tons of materiel. In one peak month. August 1922, the ARA took care of 4.2 million children and another 6.5 million adults.

The aid program was terminated in the summer of 1923

SANFORD — Seminole County schools are celebrating American Education Week this week.

The national celebration, designed to allow schools to thank those individual volunteers and businesses who have given of their time, money and talents to improving the quality of educa-tion at the school, has taken on a special significance in Seminole County this year.

"It's especially important to the schools this year." said Dick Hofmann, director of community relations for the district. "With budget cuts and the way people have come through for the schools many of the schools find it especially important this year. The district is planning a breakfast on Tuesday to honor some of the top "friends of education," Hofmann said. Other than that, the celebrations will take place at the school

Some schools are inviting parents to come to the schools and see for themselves what educational opportunities are available in the achool. Others are directing their energies to letting the community know who has been instrumental in raising the quality of education in their schools.

"There is no directive from the county-level about what they should do," Hofmann explained.

• Goldaboro Elementary School, 1300 W. 20th St. in Sanford, will involve the students in researching and reporting on significant educators. Ordeal seen as nearly at an end

An AP News Analysis

DAMASCUS. Syria - Finally, the end of the Lebanon hostage ordeal may be in sight. Former British hostage Terry Walte said his Shifte Muslim captors told him the three remaining American hostages could be released by the end of the month.

In New York. U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said the hostageholders. Iran and Syria have offered the release of all Western captives by Christmas.

The overwhelming impression from Monday's release of Watte and American Thomas Sutherland is that the U.N. effort to secure the hostages' freedom is gaining momentum.

Six Westerners have been freed this year - the most in any year since Shilte extremists began their kidnapping spree in Lebanon in 1984.

Sutherland, 60, were freed by Islamic Jihad without the Israelis freeing Arab prisoners

That raised speculation that U.N. negotiators have stitched together a deal with all involved in the complex affair: Iran, Syria. Israel and the Iranian-backed hostage

Monday's double release appeared to underscore the kidnappers' willingness to end the hostages' long nightmare - a trend that surfaced when they freed Briton John McCarthy in August with a letter to Perez de Cuellar offering to cut a deal.

initially, the kidnappers linked to the Hezbollah demanded freedom for about 300 Arabs, mainly Shiftes held by Israel's proxy South Lebanon Army militia.

A few hours after Walte and Sutherland were freed, the Qatar News Agency quoted an Islamic Jihad spokesman as saying that if Obeld were released "the ease of the Western hostages would be resolved altogether."

Obeld has become a rallying symbol among Lebanese Shiltes since he was kidnapped by Israeli paratroopers from his south Lebanon home on July 28, 1989.

While welcoming Monday's releases. Israel gave no public hint that they plan to free any more Arab prisoners.

But the disclosures by Walte and Perez de Cuellar pointed to a marked acceleration in the process to end hostage crisis.

The delicate and complex trading in human lives has in the past been derailed by other events in the volatile region.

the possibility of him entering some GOP presidential primaries. The former Ku Klux Klansman said if he runs, his goal will be to force Bush "to adhere to the principles of the party and stop the drifting to the left that we've had so long."

Also mulling a challenge to Bush - and for much the same reason - is commentator critic who says the president has abandoned the GOP's conservative base.

Neither Buchanan nor Duke is likely to pose any serious threat to Bush's nomination, but they could disrupt White House plans to focus on the November general election while Democrats battle for their party's crown.

No Black Monday, but economy still troubled

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON - Although history did not repeat itself this time with another Black Monday stock market crash. Wall Street and the U.S. economy are still in for some troubled times, many analysts believe.

They take sharp issue with President Bush, who contends that the economy's underlying fundamentals look sound and that there is no reason to be worried by last Friday's 120-point decline in the stock market.

Instead, they see an economic recovery that has stalled, with the country very possibly headed back into recession.

On Black Monday in October 1987, a 508-point sell-off followed a 108-point decline the previous Friday. This time around, the Dow Jones Industrial average actually rose by 29.5 points on Monday.

But many economists still believe the stock market will head lower in the days and weeks to come as worried investors are buffeted by further gloomy economic

"One of the most important determinants for stock prices is the state of the economy. and the fundamental fact remains that the economy is in bad shape," said Allen Sinal, chief economist of the Boston Co.

Economists were split on how sharp the decline could be. The most pessimistic were forecasting that the Dow Jones average, which closed at 2.972.72 on Monday, could wind up dropping as low as 2,700 in coming weeks as signs of economic malaise mount.

These analysts believe that the market will remain vulnerable to sharp self-offs as long as various business barometers depict a faltering economy.

Awaited today was a report showing whether the country's merchandise trade deficit worsened or improved in September compared with the $6.8 billion imbalance the month before.

In advance of the report, opinion was split.

"Mice" take playoff

CASSELBERRY — The Paddy McGee "Mice" women's softball team from Ovicdo put together just enough offense Monday night to claim a 2-1, eight-inning playoff victory over Crickets to take home the championship laurels of the Seminole. County Recreation Department Women's C League at Red Bug Park.

The team, made of players from Oviedo, Lake Mary and Sanford, had finished the regular season in a tie with Crickets with a 9-1 record. The two teams had split a pair of regular season

Crickets scored their only run in the top of the first inning when consecutive singles by Tammy Black and Effene Thiebaugh preceded and RBI sacrifice fly by Seminole High graduate Lisa Hartman. Black scored the run.

The champs came back to tie the game in the bottom of the fourth inning when Mary Beth McCullough singled and advanced to third on a single by Debbie Leigh, barely beating Black's throw. Lake Mary's Jackie Suggs then lined a fly to left field. The throw had McCullough beat but her slide cluded the tag and the game was tied.

The "Mice" had a chance to win the game in the sixth when Terri Mann, who also plays in the Sanford leagues, reached third with two out. Leigh singled to left center but was thrown out at first base by Black on a controversial call.

The winning run scored in the bottom of the eighth inning when Denise Levinson, just two months a mother, pinch hit and reached on a dribbler to third base. April Lawrence followed with an infield single and Sanford's Teresa Walburger singled past third to load basses. Mann then lifted a sacrifice fly to left with Levinson scoring the winning run.

Sanford's Connie Thomas, Walburger's mother, was the winning pitcher, scattering eight hits and waling none over eight innings.

The defense was also superb with Mann, Suggs. Walburger and Karen Kohs patrolling the outfield and coming up with 12 put outs as well as cutting off several extra base hit tries.

The infield defense was just as good with McCullough at short stop. Jackie Janowiak at second base and Phyllis Baynes at first base having their usual steady games, combining for eight assists and turning and important double play in the sixth inning.

Carlo White

Seminole's White rises to occasion at opportune time

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD - Once again last Friday night it was the Seminole High School detense that rose to the occasion in a must win situation at Thomas E. Wlugham Stadium

And, as usual, it the Tribe's feader, senior nose guard Carlo White, that stood the tallest as the Seminole detense held Leesburg scoreless for almost 36 minutes in a 7-6 victory that put the Tribe into the 4A District 7 playoff next week.

White had eight solo tackles and six assists to lead a swarming group that smothered the Yellow Jackets' Oran Singleton, the state's leading rusher entering the game.

For his efforts, the 6 loot, 1-inch.

264 pound three sport star, is this week's Sanford Herald Player of the Week

"Carlo had his best game in a long time." said Tribe head coach Emory Blake, who gave the credit for the win to defensive coach Bill Berry. And deserves the award, no question about it, but the whole defense, deserves credit for the win."

White's performance was just one; of several outstanding ones turnedin by the Tribe on this night as they! held the powerful Leesburg offense! to only 184 yards of total offense.

Also turning in strong performances were Emory Green, Johnny Golden, Anthony Roberts, Marlon! Knight, Sam Becker and Matty Parker.

DEAR ABST: After reading the letter you printed concerning all the wonderful benefits of hugging. I had to write to express a contrary opinion.

Except for my husband, small children and animals. I am a person who does not like to be touched, and I think I have the right to feel that way. There is nothing wrong with me, and I am sure there are others who share my feelings.

Granted, a great many people feel that a hug can make their day, but a hug can ruin mine. Occasionally someone I know only casually will hug and even kise me, when I have given them absolutely no reason to believe I would welcome such familiarity. Not wanting to appear rude. I grimace and bear it.

I don't know how this problem can be resolved, since apparently most people don't object. But how is one supposed to know in advance that someone does not want to be hugged? However, once I inform a person that I don't like to be touched. I would hope that my wishes will be respected.

I have even thought of wearing a T-shirt with "Thank you for not hugging me" across the front. Any suggestions?

Just sign me..

DEAR HANDS OFF: Lest you believe you are alone in your averion to being touched, let me assure you that you are not. When a known hugger approaches you. Immediately offer your hand, inviting the hugger to accept a firm handshake. Your body language will signal that that's about as close as you care to get. There is nothing rude about setting limits. DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 35 years. We are both over 60 and have a good marriage, except for one thing — he is much more interested in sex than I am. When I turn him down, he gets upset and accuses me of not loving him. Abby, I do love him, and this is the only thing we disagree about.

I would like to know more about saltpeter. I know it can be ardor. purchased in a drugstore, but does a person have to have a prescription to buy it? Does it have any side effects other than the one wanted? Also, can it be slipped into food or drink without detection?

TIRED IN UTAK DEAR TIRED: I consulted my friendly neighborhood pharmacist, Dave Powells. He said, "Saltpeter, also known as potassium nitrate, can be purchased over the counter without a prescription, but it should not be slipped into food or drink because it can cause violent gastroenteritis. It could raise one's blood pressure to a dangerous level. Also, prolonged exposure to saltpeter may produce anemia, nephritis (kidney disease) or methemoglobinemia (blood disorder). A cold shower might cool the husband's

Delaware's whipping post still has some defenders

Associated Press Writer

NEW CASTLE. Del. - A museum exhibit designed to show the cruelty of Delaware's whipping post - last used in 1952 - found instead that the punishment known as "Hugging Red Hannah" still has a certain appeal.
"I think it's an indication of frustration ... with the ineffectiveness of our criminal justice system. Kathy Bratton, executive director of the New Castle Historical Society, said of museumgoers' reaction. "They see crime rates rising and see it in their neighborhoods and they're ready to try anything."

"If they saw an actual whipping, I wonder if they would feel the same way?" she asked.

Whipping was outlawed in Delaware in 1972. In the book "Red Hannah." author Robert Caldwell estimated that some 1,800 men were flogged in Delaware from about 1900 to 1940. The punishment was last used on a woman in the Whipping came to be called "Hugging Red Hannah" because the whipping post in New Castle was painted red and the offender's arms were shackled around it while the sentence of lashes "well laid on" was carried out.

The exhibit at the Old Library Museum includes a 15-foot replica of Red Hannah - 2 feet shorter than the original - as well as the white prohibits cruel and unusual punishment.

Harry Themal, a columnist at The News Journal in Wilmington, witnessed Delaware's last whipping in 1902. Not only about negging be resurrected, but visient criminals also be whipped in public, he said.

Fingging applied to dozens of crimes; the last man was whipped for breaking into a house and beating a woman. Themal said a warden started at the man's neck and worked the whip flown the man's back and up again.

"There was blood. Not as much as I would have thought." Themal said. "I was not overwhelmed emotionally. Sure. I felt a little knot in my stomach, but I was not completely revolled.

Jerome M. Unruh, a former state representative, sponsored a bill in 1989 to mandate flogging for robbery and assault with intent to rob. At the time, the punishment was a $300 fine or 20 lashes.
