Some state park fees raised

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez and the Cabinet voted to keep state park entrance fees for Florida residents at current levels, but agreed to raise other fees to meet growing recreational budget needs.

"It still says to the people of Florida, 'Come use our parks,' and everybody can afford them," Education Secretary Betty Castor said of the new fee schedule.

"But if you're going to use extra facilities, if you're going to rent a canoe or a cabin, you're going to have to pay a little more," said Castor, who opposed entrance fee increases for state residents.

Hospital care questioned

WASHINGTON — A federal report said today the government paid about $1.2 billion during a six-month period to hospitals giving "poor quality" care to Medicare patients and a watchdog group failed to identify most of the abuses.

Richard Kusserow, inspector general of the Health and Human Services Department, described an internal investigation that found 464 Medicare patients in 159 hospitals received substandard care.

Bush banking on convention

NEW ORLEANS — Republicans, fully aware George Bush is lagging behind Michael Dukakis in the White House contest, are banking on a picture-perfect national convention to put their candidate within striking distance.

With less than a week before the conclave opens in the giant Superdome, GOP leaders believe they are crafting the kind of party gathering that can send Bush steaming out of New Orleans and into the campaign with the party's right wing and its moderates firmly behind him.

Altamonte whips Texas

WINDERMERE — Altamonte Springs Coach Baird Lyons went back to his regular batting order and the team went back to their scoring ways as they opened the Junior League Southern Regional Tournament with a 19-5 thrashing of Western University of Houston, Texas Tuesday night at the Dr. Phillips-Windermere Little League Complex.

Lyons, who had juggled his line-up for the state final last week and got only two runs, went back to the order that had carried them through the first 11 games and it paid dividends immediately as they scored nine runs in the bottom of the first inning.

Shuttle test a success

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — In a thundering trial by fire, the shuttle Discovery's three main engines finally roared to life today, 11 days late, in a "super" 22-second unmanned test firing marking a major step toward the first post-Challenger flight.

"It was a great success today," Rear Adm. Richard Truly, chief of the shuttle program, said in an interview. "The crew is ready to fly. The launch team is ready to count the vehicle down. We're just itching to get this flight out of the way so we can get on to the next one."

In NASA's second attempt in six days to pull off the critical test, the 12 million-horsepower engines flashed to life in a staggered burst of dirty orange flame at 7:30 a.m. and quickly throttled up to 100 percent power in the first such launch pad firing since Challenger blew up 2 1/2 years ago.

As engine operation stabilized, the 6,000-degree exhaust changed to a pinkish, almost transparent, fire that instantly vaporized torrents of launch pad cooling water, sending a billowing cloud of steam thousands of feet into the Florida sky.

Gulping more than 1,000 pounds of liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen rocket fuel a second during the critical "burn," the three engines were shut down, one at a time, beginning about 19 seconds after ignition. The first engine started, main engine No. 3, was the last to be shut down at about 22 seconds.

"Super job, a super team," NASA Administrator James Fletcher told launch crews in the firing room. "I can't begin to say how well everything's been going. Congratulations on a super job by a super team."

Echoing Truly's comments, launch director Robert Steck thanked his team for an "excellent performance."

"You should be looking forward to the launch count with confidence," he said.

Discovery was attached to the launch pad by four giant bolts at the base of each of its two solid-fuel boosters and elaborate computer safeguards were in place to make sure the spaceship stayed put on launch pad 39B.

results awaited close analysis of test data from $1.4 million in instrumentation and sensors. Good results would preserve a slim chance for NASA to launch Discovery in the last few days of September, an option most engineers believe will ultimately slip away as inevitable problems crop up closer to launch day.

In any case, Truly said he did not plan to set a formal launch date until after a final solid-fuel booster test firing next week and the repair of a

Happy birthday Maude

Maude, the Central Florida Zoological Park's resident elephant, celebrated her 14th birthday Tuesday. Area children were on hand for the festivities, which included a parade march with a hay birthday cake, feed wrapped as a present and an elephant-size birthday hat and card. The Altamonte Springs Rocking Horse Child Care Center has sponsored Maude's birthday party for the past seven years, and on Tuesday the kids gave $200 to the zoo to help keep Maude well-fed.

Probe is sought of clerk's office credit card use

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners have called for a state attorney's investigation of the personal use of two county credit cards by Clerk of Court David Berrien and his two top assistants.

"I have concerns about the misuse of funds and the concealment of records," said Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, who called for the investigation. "To protect the county's finances, I think something needs to be done."

"There has been no misuse of public funds," Berrien responded Wednesday. "I made an error in judgment but nothing more than that."

To assure public trust, Kirchhoff called for a temporary resignation of Berrien until an investigation is complete.

"If the clerk wants to step down from office, I think that's an appropriate act for him to do until we investigate," Kirchhoff said.

"I think he's looking for a little stronger medicine than is required," Berrien said.

Commissioner Chairman Fred Streetman and Commissioner Barbara Christensen supported the request of the state attorney's office. Commissioners Bob Sturm and Sandra Glenn were at a national commissioners' conference in California and not present at the meeting.

Kirchhoff also called for an audit of the charge card accounts by the county auditing firm, Arthur Young & Co. Berrien, in a memo dated Aug. 8, said an independent auditing firm was examining the records to "certify" no county funds had been used for the expenditures, but Arthur Young works for the county, not the clerk's office.

Commissioners, before Tuesday, had not authorized that audit requested by Berrien. They voted 3-0 to fund the audit, but have Arthur Young report the results to them.

Berrien, Chief Deputy Clerk William Jacobs and county finance director Brad Lang, using credit cards issued by Sun Bank and Southeast Bank about three years ago to the clerk's office, purchased items for personal use, raising questions of whether public funds were used to pay for personal items and the possible illegal use of public credit for private benefit.

Denes Balo, director of the clerk's finance department, said the expenses were never paid by the clerk's office, and to his knowledge, were always paid by the three users.

City searching for new home for youth center

By WAYNE MIZE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Along with every good-intentioned turn of the wheel that makes city government go around, is another wheel turning in the opposite direction. It's called the flip side.

Thus surfaces the ugly head of the latest dilemma facing the city commission and city hall. What is going to happen to the youth wing at the Sanford Civic Center, which will soon be displaced by construction of the senior citizen center?

"It is a matter of finding a place," Mayor Betty Smith said.

The city commission approved the senior citizen center in May. It is to be located in the wing of the civic center currently used for youth activities by the city's parks and recreation department.

According to Jim Jernigan, parks and recreation director, the youth wing with its pool tables, various table games, table tennis and other activities, bustles with an average of 45 children per day. This is in addition to the summer day-care program, which enrolls another 200 youngsters.

"We do have good participation down there," said Jernigan. "We're staying fairly stable with those figures."

"The youth wing has been the misconception of a lot of people for many years," Jernigan continued. "They think it is not used a lot."

The youth wing also houses the offices of parks and recreation supervisors Jeff Monson, Mike Kirby and Jim Adams. In addition, a full-time clerk-typist was to join the youth wing soon.

Jernigan is particularly concerned about where the youngsters will go after the youth wing is closed.

"The growth of our city has taken away a lot of the opportunity for kids to get to places," said Jernigan.

Martinez releases Everglades report

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez has proposed the money the state collects from agricultural leases of state land in the Everglades be devoted to cleaning up the fragile marsh and lake habitat.

In a meeting Tuesday of the state Cabinet, Martinez said the proposal makes sense, "since the state, by virtue of its leasing program, also helps to pollute the area."

"It will be a recurring source of revenue that, obviously, as the lease values go up, so would the revenue base to work on the Everglades," Martinez said.

He said $3.5 million would be made available for cleaning up agricultural water discharges containing fertilizers and other pollutants damaging the Everglades and Lake Okeechobee.

Martinez also marked the fifth anniversary of the state's program to restore the Everglades to the pristine conditions experienced around the turn of the century by releasing a report detailing progress over the past 90 days.

The aquatic system that includes the Everglades and Lake Okeechobee is critical to south Florida's water supply.

The report notes the enactment of federal legislation to expand Big Cypress National Preserve by 146,000 acres, creation of a task force to plot purchase of 75,000 acres to expand Everglades National Park and acquisition of 5,100 acres in the east Everglades by the South Florida Water Management District as steps toward preserving the ecology of the area.

Barron: Dredging would mean violence

TALLAHASSEE — Sen. Dempsey Barron and some of his Franklin County constituents say allowing dredging for oysters on Apalachicola Bay bottom land leased from the state could lead to bloodshed and death.

Gov. Bob Martinez and the Cabinet on Tuesday at least temporarily defused that possibility, voting to prohibit dredging until the state can consider legal alternatives to the troublesome situation.

The panel voted unanimously after Barron, D-Panama City, warned that allowing dredging would set the stage for violence.

"We're going to have bloodshed, and we're going to have people killed," Barron said.

Many of the 40 or so oystermen who attended the meeting said Barron's prediction was accurate.

Voters to decide on $80 million stadium

MIAMI — Voter approval of a referendum on an $80 million stadium, approved by the commission, could boost the city's chances to enter the bidding for a major league baseball team, backers of the stadium predict.

"Baseball would put Miami in the national spotlight 81 times a year," said John Blaisdell, executive director of the Miami Sports and Exhibition Authority.

Blaisdell is among several sports boosters lobbying for a stadium which is the first step in luring a major league baseball team to the city.

The city, he said, must be in a position to provide a stadium as well as the financial backing for any ownership group and commitments to buy season tickets for the team.

The Miami City Commission voted unanimously Monday to place the issue on the Oct. 4 ballot. If the referendum is approved, the city could issue up to $80 million in bonds to build the stadium.

Admiral rejects appeal of instructors

PENSACOLA — Four Navy instructors sentenced to pay cuts and rank reductions more than a month ago in connection with the death of a recruit lost their appeal of the punishment.

"Admiral (Ron) Thunman has formally denied the non-judicial punishment appeals of the four enlisted personnel charged," said Cmdr. Dennis Hessler, a spokesman for the chief of naval education and training.

"That's the final decision under military law," said Hessler. He said Thunman reviewed the cases of the four petty officers but did not give a reason for denying the appeals.

The four were among six Navy men blamed in the March 2 death of Lee Mirecki, 19, of Appleton, Wis. Mirecki had a heart attack and drowned during a training class at Pensacola's Rescue Swimmer School.

Mirecki had been diagnosed as having a phobia of water a month before his death. Instructors apparently did not know a psychologist warned that Mirecki should be pulled from the water if he panics.

Bishop condemns controversial film

ST. PETERSBURG — Bishop W. Thomas Larkin of the Roman Catholic Diocese of St. Petersburg says the controversial film "The Last Temptation of Christ" is blasphemous and should be protested by Catholics.

"We as Catholics should do everything in our power to protest this scandalous portrayal of Our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ," Larkin wrote in a letter printed in many parish bulletins Sunday.

Kimball undecided on Olympic trials

United Press International

TAMPA — An attorney for Bruce Kimball, the diver charged in a traffic accident that killed two teenagers, says the 1984 silver medalist has not decided whether to compete in the U.S. Olympic diving trials that begin next week.

Kimball, 25, is charged in Hillsborough County with two counts of vehicular homicide as a result of an Aug. 1 traffic accident that killed two young people and injured six others.

The father of one of the victims and member of Mothers Against Drunk Driving have started a campaign to keep Kimball from representing the United States in the Summer Olympics in Seoul, Korea, because of the felony charges.

Kimball was charged after his car slammed into five parked vehicles and a group of young people at a popular gathering spot on a dead-end road near Brandon, a bedroom community east of Tampa.

Investigators said at the time the accident "probably was alcohol related," and blood samples were sent for blood alcohol tests.

The results have been turned over to the state attorney's office, which has not released them. But The Tampa Tribune reported over the weekend it had learned the alcohol content was 0.20 percent, twice the level the state considers legally intoxicated.

If the blood alcohol level is as high as the newspaper reported, the charges could be changed to second- or third-degree murder by the state attorney's office.

Robert Bedell, whose 19-year-old son Robbie was killed, said Monday he plans to write to U.S. Olympic diving officials and try to have Kimball banned from competing for a spot on the U.S. team. Tom Slattery, president of the MADD chapter in Hillsborough County, said the organization is collecting protest letters from local residents and will send them on at the end of the week.

An attorney for Kimball said the diver's plans were undecided.

"We believe he has the right to compete and that he should be allowed to," said Lee Fugate of Clearwater, one of Kimball's attorneys. "Whether he will or not is a personal decision, and it's too early to say. We are going to look at all the facts and decide what to do. It's a tough situation for everyone involved."

Richard Gossie, father of the second youth killed, said he had not considered writing a protest letter, but said he objects to Kimball being allowed to compete.

"I don't think he should compete, my gosh no," Gossie said. "He's supposed to be a clean-cut kid that's going to represent our country after what he did? No!"

"It's just outrageous that he'd be allowed to represent the country ... after he's killed two people," Bedell said.

"We're going to write a letter as the voice of the victims," Slattery said of MADD's involvement. "As far as convicting him, we'll leave that up to a judge and jury."

The outcry from Hillsborough County is that they do not want this person to represent the United States at the Olympic Games.

Kimball had been living and training in Brandon under his father Dick Kimball, former Olympics coach and longtime coach.

Montesano was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital by a Rural/Metro ambulance, treated and released.

Ronnie DeSillers' mother faces contempt citation

United Press International

MIAMI — Maria DeSillers risked a contempt citation by missing a judge's deadline to turn over a BMW car, jewelry and other property she bought with money donated to pay for her late son Ronnie's liver transplant, lawyers say.

DeSillers had been ordered to surrender the property by 4 p.m. Tuesday but sent word instead that she was trying to retain a new lawyer, and Dade County Circuit Judge Francis J. Christie extended the deadline until today.

Attorneys in the case said DeSillers still faced a contempt of court citation for missing the original deadline and for failing to comply with a previous order to turn over receipts for some purchases she made with donations left over from the fund to help her son.

Ronnie's plight galvanized the nation when $4,000 collected by classmates at St. Anthony's Catholic School in Fort Lauderdale was stolen. His mother led a drive to replenish the fund that brought $690,000 in donations, including $1,000 from President Reagan. But the 7-year-old died in April 1987 in Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh while awaiting a fourth liver transplant.

Christie ruled in July that the donations should have been used to pay the medical expenses of Ronnie or other sick children, but DeSillers spent $200,000 on herself after her son's death.

Monday, Christie gave DeSillers 24 hours to turn over some of the property, including jewelry, her title to a 1985 BMW she bought with $13,500 and a car phone.

DeSillers had said she would comply with the judge's order, although she labeled the decision "unfair and unjust."

Karen Gievers, the court-appointed curator for the estate of Ronnie DeSillers, had expected the mother to turn over the property in a private meeting Tuesday. The meeting never took place.

"It is not up to me to be pleased or displeased" with the delay, Gievers said, adding it would be up to Christie to determine whether DeSillers was stalling.

Despite the delay, she said she did not anticipate "any major difficulties" in taking possession of the goods. Gievers also said she said she understood that DeSillers failed to appear on the advice of her new lawyer, identified as Frank Johnson.

DeSillers' current lawyer, Harry Robbins, said DeSillers felt "at this point of the appeals process someone needs to be retained who is more specialized."

DeSillers has argued that she is the rightful heir to her son's estate and that she spent donated money to support the defunct Ronnie DeSillers National Foundation and to maintain her professional appearance as its president.

The judge also ordered DeSillers to surrender one unused burial plot at Woodlawn Park cemetery next to where her son is buried. A lawyer for DeSillers said she wanted to use the plot for herself or to build a memorial to her son.

Cabinet revises land-buying list

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez and the Cabinet made several revisions Tuesday in the priority list of the Conservation and Recreational Lands land-buying program, one of the state's major land acquisition projects.

Nine new sites were added to the CARL priority list while five were dropped. The Department of Natural Resources follows that list in deciding which properties it will try to purchase using CARL's $31 million treasury.

Added to the list were Brevard Turtle Beaches in Brevard County, Pine Island Ridge, Broward County, Highlands Hammock Addition, Highlands County, Wabasso Beach, Indian River County, North Lantana Hammock and Ohio Key in Monroe County, Three Lake-Prairie Lakes Addition, Osceola County, North Fork St. Lucie River, St. Lucie County, and Gandy-Bellemeade, Volusia County.

Dropped from the list were the Stark Tract in Volusia County, Stone Lane, Citrus County, Manatee Estech, Manatee County, and Cotee Point, Pasco County.

Borrow allegedly sold property from Douglass Attaway, when Attaway was visiting Borrow at 102 Lake Dot Drive, Sanford on March 3.

Checks stolen from Attaway were reportedly cashed at Albertson's in Lake Mary and fingerprints on those checks were reportedly matched to Borrow by investigators.

Sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen the $150 lawnmower of Francis Phillips of 111 E. Crystal Drive, Sanford, between Sunday and Tuesday.

Longwood will challenge employee union petitions

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — City Administrator Gene DeMarie said today he will challenge petitions filed by all three unions who are trying to organize several groups of city employees.

DeMarie said he has received confirmation from the Public Employees Relations Commission in Tallahassee that the International Union of Operating Engineers (IOUE) and the Central Florida Police Benevolent Association have petitioned the state for the right to hold elections to determine if the majority of employees in the police and public works departments want them as bargaining units.

The IOUE purportedly represents the public works employees and clerical workers, but DeMarie said he has not seen a copy of the petition so he does not know specifically which employees are included.

DeMarie said he will challenge the Operating Engineers' petition because he does not believe they can properly represent the clerical workers since they traditionally represent public works and heavy equipment workers. "I am surprised that out of all the unions they could have had representing them they would choose this one," DeMarie said. "I don't see how they would know or be concerned about issues concerning secretaries," he said.

DeMarie said ironically he has not yet received official confirmation from the International Association of Fire Fighters, when it was the city's firefighters who first signed intent cards to organize. Everyone except the chief and assistant chief, who are not eligible, signed. If the firefighters vote officially to go union they will be the second fire department in the county to unionize and the first to have IAFF as a bargaining unit.

He said he would also challenge inclusion of fire department lieutenants in the IAFF local because they are usually viewed as managerial. He will also challenge the CFPBA petition on the grounds that detective sergeants are privy to a lot of confidential information and work directly with high ranking officers on sensitive issues.

The flurry of union activity among city employees followed elimination of an employee merit bonus from the proposed 1988-89 city budget to save approximately $150,000 for use on reconstruction of Wildmere Avenue. Deserving employees were scheduled to receive bonuses from three to six percent of their salary. The employees will still receive an across the board five percent cost of living allowance and are paid for unused vacation and sick leave time.

However, many of the workers say it is not just an issue of money, because there are other issues at stake.

N.Y. commissioner orders review

United Press International

NEW YORK — Police Commissioner Benjamin Ward, under fire for what critics call a "police riot," ordered a review of officers' behavior during a bloody battle with demonstrators protesting a curfew at a Manhattan park.

Mayor Edward Koch said Tuesday that the internal review is to focus on "managerial aspects" of the clash, which escalated Saturday night from a demonstration at Tompkins Square Park to a battle between 450 officers and hundreds of protesters and bystanders.

Community residents have scheduled a meeting with police for 6 p.m. today to discuss the incident, which has resulted in 52 complaints filed with the Police Department's Civilian Complaint Review Board.

Casselberry man lottery finalist

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — With the attention of the state's lottery players focused on the giant LOTTO jackpot, the monthly drawing for instant game players who purchased "ENTRY" tickets has been all but forgotten — by all except those who sent their entries into the Lottery Department this month.

Lottery officials announced Tuesday they selected the seven finalists for a drawing to win up to $1 million, including a Casselberry man.

The finalists are: Charles Thorpe, 40, Casselberry; Robert Boehert, 53, Pinetta; Amelia LaViers, 44, Panama City; K. M. (Kathy) Zerressen, 49, Fort Walton Beach; William N. Dulin, 44, Greenacres City; Clarence Preston, 59, Leesburg; Charlie Williams, 51, Hastings.

Longwood sewage now on line with Seminole facility

LONGWOOD — The city's sewage, formerly treated at Columbus Harbour and Skylark treatment plants, began flowing to Seminole County's Greenwood Lakes wastewater treatment facility Monday.

Cindy Wright, deputy director of the county's Environmental Services, said problems at the main lift station that were causing delays were corrected so that Longwood's system could go on line with the county.

Now all that remains to be done before the official ceremony is some paving and grading at the lift station. The lift station is located near the Skylark plant, which will now be torn down to make way for park expansion.

The county has agreed to provide up to 325,000 gallons per day capacity to begin with at the rate of $5.75 per gallon. The city will have a reserve capacity of 600,000 gallons per day at Greenwood Lakes. Connection fees for capacity over the 325,000 gallons per day will be calculated using a rate of $1 less per gallon than the county's wastewater fee in effect at the time of application.

Chinese officials seek aid following typhoon

United Press International

BEIJING — Authorities plan to seek international aid after the biggest typhoon to hit eastern China in 30 years left at least 117 dead, thousands homeless and destroyed grain crops, officials said today.

The typhoon struck eastern Zhejiang Province early Monday as residents were recovering from two other weather disasters — a killer heat wave and the worst flooding in 40 years that claimed as many as 500 people lives last week.

At least 117 people were killed and more than 1,184 injured across the province in the storm that destroyed nearly 50,000 homes and cut power in the provincial capital of Hangzhou, said an official at the Zhejiang

Flood and Drought Control Headquarters.

In the ports of Ningbo and Zhoushan, officials said 14 fishing boats sank and seven were missing at sea, leaving two fishermen dead and 110 missing. Another 58 boats sank in the Qiantang River.

Local officials said the extent of the damage was particularly serious as the typhoon marked just the latest incident in a summer of bad weather.

An official at the flood control headquarters said the province planned to ask international relief organizations for help in recovering from the recent natural disasters.

In a rare official admission of the devastation, Zhejiang Governor Shen Zulun described the damage as "extremely serious."

'Official' means different things

The campaign to submit a referendum on the Nov. 8 state ballot designating English as the official language in Florida has been successful. The necessary number of signatures on petitions were secured and the state's election's division director has officially certified signature requirements and the referendum.

Now the fight begins. The opening salvo came from Hispanic business groups decrying the campaign as racist, bigoted and anti-Hispanic. Proponents denied the allegations. If enacted, Florida will be one of about 15 states to designate an official language.

The idea of taking such action is of recent vintage and, though contrary to custom through more than two centuries of the nation's existence, the reasons for such lack of legislation may differ somewhat from that which is asserted by opponents of the referendum.

The thirteen original states were predominantly populated by English-speaking Colonists. There were Spanish colonies in the area now known as Florida, Alabama and Mississippi. French colonists lived in portions of Canada, the Great Lakes region and along the Mississippi River to New Orleans. There were frequent clashes between the young nation and its neighbors to the south and west. That no "official" language was adopted was caused by a lack of real consideration. Colonists, with few exceptions, didn't speak anything other than English, and certain Indian languages.

Immigration into the United States was virtually uncontrolled during its early years and retained its primarily English flavoring. Outside of the young nation, Greeks came to Florida and Louisiana; Sicilians joined the Spanish and French in New Orleans; nationals from other Mediterranean countries came into New York; and Scandinavians immigrated into the midwestern regions of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

The young nation became a melting pot for immigrants from throughout Europe in the early 19th century but language ceased to be a barrier past the first generation. The nation was predominantly rural and the vast majority of people living outside the upper Atlantic area were of English extraction. Language diversity was mostly differing brogues and accents.

During this century millions have immigrated from throughout the world although limitations placed on various nationalities continued to favor those coming from certain nations in Europe. Conflict over language is a very recent controversy.

The American school system is far behind most nations of the free world. For example, a student completing 12 years of education in Sweden is fluent in four languages and in Finland, five. English is mandatory in both nations beginning in the third grade. In the United States, we allow students to graduate from high school often without any foreign language requirement. In fact, proficiency in English writing and grammar fluency is often suspect.

The referent: im to make English "official" will not affect Sen. ... County to any great extent. However, we can have concern because the matter is a two edged sword which can cut this state badly, either way.

If the proponents or vocal advocates are motivated by an Anti-Hispanic spirit, the damage to our state's reputation, image and spirit will be fast coming. On the other hand, if the opposition is primarily to perpetuate previous folkways and signify a reluctance to totally join the new nation, the damage there is equally obvious. Cultural enclaves with total ethnic identities quickly become separated from the mainstream of national life and most often suffer economically and socially.

The referendum question needs to be studied from both an emotional and intellectual standpoint. It is too important a question to be decided on the basis of false national pride — either way.

'S' people gain strength through Dukakis

It is something of a mystery to this otherwise omniscient columnist that the Socialist idea retains continuing vitality.

The great fissure in the Democratic Party, papered over in Atlanta by a lust for November victory, remains, as ever, the Jackson passion for "redistribution" and government control as against the more "mainstream" and "pragmatic" people around Dukakis.

Yet who doubts that the high-tax and redistributionist wing of the Democratic Party is determined and able to exercise its clout.

"We need you. We want you. We can't win without you," Gov. Dukakis told a throng of Jackson supporters in Atlanta. The governor spoke nothing less than the truth.

Meanwhile, the Dukakis forces, though victorious, admitted the Jacksonites into the very body of the Democratic Party, to positions on the Democratic National Committee, positions in the state and local campaigns, positions on policy-making committees, and positions on a prospective Dukakis transition team. Remember, a presidential election is not only a personal popularity contest. You not only vote for an individual but for the whole administration he pulls in behind him. And in a Dukakis administration the Jacksonites would be a potent force, not only in numbers but in passion and belief.

Gov. Dukakis, at least for campaign purposes, has adopted the position that the tax-rate cuts of the Reagan administration should not be reversed. Here he collides head-on with the Jackson people, who passionately believe that some people should be taxed more heavily in order to provide benefits and services to others.

Mr. Jackson's most vitriolic rhetoric is reserved for businesses and free enterprise. Not surprisingly, Jesse Jackson was introduced to the Democratic convention by William Winpisinger of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, an avowed Socialist.

The "S" people sang the "Internationale," not "God Bless America."

Probably the senior avowed Socialist in the United States now is Michael Harrington, author of "The Other America," who now has been stricken, sadly, with terminal cancer. Though dying, he is an affable and humorous man who likes to joke about the "S" word — Socialism. At a tribute to Mr. Harrington in Manhattan recently the leading "S" people showed up: Ed Asner, Teddy Kennedy, Gloria Steinem, Eleanor Holmes Norton of the Jackson campaign, Cesar Chavez, Jules Feiffer — and you guessed it, William Winpisinger.

At the end of the proceedings, the "S" people sang the "Internationale," not "God Bless America."

Mr. Harrington urged the Democratic Party to come clean and simply call itself the Socialist Party, and maybe he had a point. But he likes the Democrats as he sees them nevertheless. "I share an immediate program with liberals in this country because the best liberalism leads toward socialism...I'm assuming the election of Michael Dukakis. That's the first step... A Democratic administration always opens up a space for those who stand on the left." Yes, indeed.

Though he now supports Dukakis, Harrington previously supported, of course, Jesse Jackson.

Immigrants should car-pool

Stephanie Brush

I once told a friend that I could identify that capital of Norway. "Wow!" she said. "You must be really good at 'Trivial Pursuit!'"

It is people like her who are keeping America the world-class superpower it richly deserves to be.

It's just been revealed that Americans are the most geographically ignorant people on the face of the earth, based on an international Gallup survey. There's been a lot of hand-wringing about this: ("How could this have happened?") "Where were these studies conducted?" "Well, so what if a bunch of Swedes know where 'Moscow' is, and we don't. We have the guns.")

The National Geographic Society—which commissioned the survey—has made the mistake of trying to convince Americans that geography is a "subject," rather than what it has become in common usage—"a trivia category." (Basketball is a "subject.")

When you tell people at parties that you have long suspected there is another country immediately below North Korea, they say, "Who-a-a! Sounds like you've been watching 'Jeopardy!'" They say it in the same tone they'd reserve for, "Who-a-a! Sounds like you've been collecting small, eight-legged insects!"

Most Americans' working knowledge of foreign countries concerns the degree of inconvenience inflicted on American life by foreigners. (As in, "Complete the following phrase: 'Foreign ———.'" The correct response being, "transmission.")

I watched an episode of "Nightline" devoted to this unhappy subject, and it included extensive "man-in-the-street" interviews with cheerful folks who, one-after-the-other, shrugged and admitted they didn't know where Asia was, or where Dutch people came from; they didn't know their Addis Ababa from a hole in the ground.

It took me a while to figure out what really bothered me about these people and this telecast. Something frightening was missing: Shame. Good-natured to the end, the only thing more fulfilling for these citizens than being profoundly ignorant was the opportunity to be profoundly stupid on National Television.

No one proceeded to commit ritual suicide on-camera to avoid bringing disgrace on their families. NO ONE ventured the words, "GEE—I PROBABLY OUGHT TO KNOW THIS."

In one sense, it is easy to understand why Americans take a dim view of diluting their brains with facts about alien cultures. Foreign-policy issues are a lot less thorny to handle when you don't know where anyplace is anyway. Sixty-six percent of the people in the Gallup survey had no idea where Vietnam was, though a number of them had "seen the movie." Ditto, the Persian Gulf. (This would explain my bafflement while sitting through the movie "Top Gun" in which Tom Cruise shot down a huge number of "enemy" aircraft, even though no one ever said where these aircraft were "from," and even though it was my impression that at the time we were not at war with anybody.)

We live, after all, in the Greatest County in the World (so who's going to tell us we can't be ignorant?). The majority of fabric-softener commercials (and the President) tell us we live in the Greatest County in the World, so it would be pretty goddam embarrassing if we actually went somewhere else, and someone presented us with contradictory evidence.

It's peculiar, though, since we are, by definition, a nation of immigrants. We are a nation of people who came from Somewhere Else; so presumably someone had to be navigating.

At the recent Democratic National Convention, this was striking: First, Jesse Jackson talked about his tough, hardy, noble ancestors who arrived in America from Africa. Then Lloyd Bentsen talked about his tough, hardy, noble ancestors who arrived in America from Denmark. Then Michael Dukakis talked about his tough, hardy, noble ancestors who arrived in America from Greece.

"For Pete's sake," said my American friend watching the telecast. "They could have car-pooled." And I just realized that 66 percent of the people reading this, will not understand why this is a joke.

Stalled memo caused death

WASHINGTON — If not for government red tape, Carole Doster might be alive today.

In 1985, the 44-year-old State Department secretary wrote a memo asking security officers to keep her son out of the building where she worked. He was prone to fits of violence and Carol Doster feared for her life.

Nearly a month after Mrs. Doster made her request, her 20-year-old son, Edward Steven Doster, smuggled a rifle and a knife into the heavily guarded State Department building in Washington. He shot and stabbed his mother to death and killed himself, just 120 feet from the office of Secretary of State George Shultz.

The story behind the 1985 murder-suicide is that a piece of paper that might have saved Carole Doster's life was lost in a stack of paperwork until it was too late.

Steve Doster had a dependent's pass that allowed him entrance to the State Department building without going through metal detectors and without being searched. Because his mother was afraid of him, security guards in her building signed the paperwork to revoke that pass on June 21, 1985, but it was too late. She was killed that day, before the paperwork left the security office.

Steve Doster had walked into the building with a break-down .22-caliber rifle hidden in a canvas bag. Once inside, he assembled his weapon in a restroom.

Our associate, Scott Sleek, has seen the recently declassified report of the State Department Inspector General's Office, which investigated the shooting. It shows that nearly two weeks may have passed from the time Doster wrote the memo to building security officials and the time she actually submitted it. The investigators also found that the memo may have sat on a security officer's desk for another 10 days.

The practice of giving passes to employees' family members dates back to the Iran hostage crisis.

Steve Doster had been issued a dependent's pass at his mother's request in February 1985.

While living with his mother, he displayed a violent temper. Steve Doster moved out of the apartment after she asked him to leave. Then, on May 30, Mrs. Doster wrote the memo requesting that her son's pass be revoked. She stamped her memo urgent, but for some reason did not submit it to the department's message center until the week of June 10. She may have been afraid of igniting her son's temper, or she may have been distracted by personal problems, the report said.

On June 11, Steve Doster showed up at the State Department carrying two knives. He was arrested by police on a prior assault charge.

After Doster's memo arrived at a security officer's desk, it sat unattended for more than a week. The officer told investigators that he routinely makes a quick check of all the mail before putting it in his "in-box" for later action. The officer didn't recall seeing Mrs. Doster's memo in that basket until June 10. It may have been stuck or paper-clipped to another document which hid it, according to the investigators' report.

The officer, described in the report as meticulous, drafted an order to security personnel as soon as he saw the memo on June 10. But he didn't sign the final order until June 21, the day Steve Doster used his pass for the last time.

Market moderate, prices dip

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened lower today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 28.27 Tuesday, was down 12.10 to 2067.03 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 627-177 among the 1,240 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 8,030,000 shares.

Prices closed sharply lower Tuesday as the market expressed its disappointment over a decision by the Federal Reserve Board to boost the discount rate.

The Fed Tuesday raised the discount rate to 6.5 percent from 6 percent. The rate is the interest rate that the Fed charges member banks for loans.

The central bank said it took the action to "reduce inflationary pressures."

"The market's response to this kind of a rate hike is alarming," said Al Goldman, market strategist with A.G. Edwards & Sons in St. Louis.

"A hike had been widely anticipated in light of the Fed's snuggling over the past few months," Goldman said, referring to the Fed's recent policy of a slow but steady tightening of credit conditions. "Yet the market fell out of bed."

Goldman said the market's retreat indicated "that its own internal condition was weak."

"We didn't see any panic selling. What we saw was steady selling with few people willing to step up to the plate and buy. The advance-decline line, the broad market, was hit a lot harder than the 30-stock Dow, which is much more important and indicative of the breadth of the decline."

Balo said the cards were issued using the clerk of circuit courts agency credit, not the credit of the three individuals. He said although his department pays for business expenses submitted by the three individuals, he had no way of telling whether the expenses were charged on the credit cards or paid by some other means.

Berrien said he made an error in judgement in not restricting the use of the cards since they were issued in 1985 and 1986 for business uses. He admitted he, Lang and Jacobs had used the cards for personal as well as business uses. He said all six cards had been paid off approximately two weeks ago.

Kirchhoff expressed concern that Lang is handling the county's $85.2 million in investments. Last week he asked Lang to appear before the board Tuesday with the credit card receipts. Lang failed to appear and the clerk's office said he was not at work Tuesday.

"We've got to do something to protect our funds," Kirchhoff said. "After he didn't respond to the memo, it puts doubt in my mind. I'm not sure the rest of the county's funds are not in jeopardy."

Kirchhoff called for the commission to request Lang turn management of the county investment funds over to someone else until the investigation is complete, but Christensen and Streetman failed to support him.

Kirchhoff was successful in stymying the commission from voting on a $336,500 budget transfer sought by Berrien to fund county court services through the end of the year and two weeks of county employee child support payments to the clerk's office.

Kirchhoff had the items removed from the clerk's agenda earlier in the meeting and after the investigation and audit were approved, Streetman sought action on the two items.

Kirchhoff then walked back into the chambers and said the items should be addressed later that night.

Dollar higher overseas; gold, silver open mixed

United Press International

The dollar was higher against major foreign currencies in brisk trading today as traders continued to react to Tuesday's hike in the U.S. discount rate. Gold was mixed.

The dollar soared against the yen in brisk trading in Tokyo Wednesday and closed 1.34 yen higher at 134.92 yen.

Dealers said the greenback's rise was the result of inflation fears following the announcement by the U.S. Federal Reserve Board of a half-point rise in the official discount rate to 6.5 percent.

The closing rate, however, was 0.01 yen down from the dollar's opening rate in Tokyo and 0.23 yen lower than Tuesday's New York finish.

Both Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita and Finance Minister Kieichi Miyazawa said there was no reason to fear that the higher U.S. discount rate would fuel inflation and he saw no need to change Japan's monetary policy.

In Europe, the dollar started trading mainly higher Wednesday against major European currencies.

The dollar started the day in Frankfurt at 1.9190 West German marks, up against 1.9392.

Youth

"We used to have a core area city, but not any more."

Bill Simmons, engineering and planning director, proposed that the wing be used for the seniors because most of their organized activities already take place in the civic center.

Dances for the seniors are held regularly at the center and at the visitor center, and shuffleboard courts are nearby, said Simmons.

Jernigan was also in favor of the senior citizen center, and still supports it.

"I supported the use of the youth wing for the senior center on the premise that we get a place for the youth wing. The seniors have been made a lot of promises in the past and I support them," said Jernigan. "But, when you uproot this (youth) program you have to have some place to put it."

The money for the senior citizen center project is already in place. The cornerstone of the project is $175,000 in the 1988-89 fiscal budget earmarked for the project. In addition, a $150,000 cultural grant has been received from the state to help with the project.

The design for the 6,000 square-foot senior citizen center has been completed by architects. Construction should begin in October, according to city officials.

"I have recommended that the city utilize the (vacant) downstairs of city hall for the youth wing," said Jernigan.

Jernigan said he made his recommendation in a memorandum to City Manager Frank A. Faison two weeks ago and has not yet received a reply. In his letter, Jernigan requests that the entire youth wing, complete with equipment and offices, be moved to city hall so the youngsters will have a place to go.

Faison is currently out of town, attending the funeral of his mother, and could not be reached for comment.

Smith has suggested that a temporary place, such as a vacant store, be rented for the Youth Wing.

Jernigan proposes that city-owned property off of S. Sanford Avenue, near 26th Street be used to construct a new youth community center.

"It will take a lot of money," Jernigan said.

Smith concurs, saying, "With city finances, the money would probably have to come from a state grant."

Fed hike stuns Wall Street

United Press International

WASHINGTON — If anyone wondered whether the Federal Reserve Board would pull punches in the fight against inflation to help the Republican Party, the questions may have been answered by the central bank's discount rate increase.

"This clearly hurts the Republicans," said David Wynn of Data Resources Inc., speaking for many fellow economic analysts in responding to the election-year action Tuesday.

"Higher interest rates are evil if you are a voter."

The Fed moved to push up consumer interest rates as an anti-inflation policy by taking its benchmark discount figure a half-point higher to 6.5 percent.

The increase is part of a gradual rate-tightening campaign that started in the spring, said Lou Crandall, chief economist of R.H. Wrightson & Assoc. By Election Day, he predicted, consumer interest rates "will have risen two to three points from where they were in the spring."

leak in a steering rocket system aboard Discovery.

The engine firing came 11 days behind schedule but it nonetheless marked a critical milestone on the road to resuming shuttle flights.

The valve problem that derailed NASA's first attempt to fire the engines last Thursday was not in evidence today, thanks to the installation of a $95,000 replacement valve over the weekend, and changes in computer programs used to monitor valve operation.

But given the 11 days lost trying to complete the engine test firing, engineers say privately that Discovery cannot be launched on the first post-Challenger flight until around Sept. 29 at the earliest, and that schedule assumes no more problems or delays.

Most engineers believe Discovery's launch inevitably will slip into October, although NASA hopes to minimize additional delays.

The flight readiness firing, the first such launch pad engine ignition since Challenger's destruction in January 1986, was designed to subject Discovery's propulsion systems to the rigors of the launch environment for the first time since the shuttle's last flight in August 1985.

The test firing last Thursday was stopped on computer command just a half-second before the ignition command was to have been sent to main engine No. 3 in the reverse-order start sequence.

The problem main engine No. 2's hydrogen "bleed" valve was not rotating closed as fast as a control computer had been programmed to expect. The valve must be closed prior to ignition to prevent 6,000-pound-per-square-inch engine operating pressure from damaging systems not built to withstand it.

Engineers later determined the valve had worked properly but a sensor recording its position had not, apparently because of the effects of exposure to liquid hydrogen fuel at minus 423 degrees in the closed environment of Discovery's frigid engine compartment.

As it turns out, sensors manufactured prior to 1985 do not exhibit such symptoms but those made after 1985 occasionally do. Two of Discovery's engines, Nos. 2 and 3, were equipped with the newer sensors.

The valve responsible for last Thursday's countdown cut off was replaced with an older sensor that is a veteran of five previous shuttle launches.

To make sure no problems cropped up with the valve in engine No. 3, NASA managers approved a change in computer programming that would allow the engine to start, within limits, even if the valve sensor indicated slower-than-expected performance.

Senate leaders hoping for agreement on Contra aid bill

United Press International

WASHINGTON — After weeks of tough negotiations, Senate leaders hoped for agreement today allowing a showdown vote on a Republican plan to resume sending weapons to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia tentatively offered Republicans the prized legislative vehicle they demanded for amendment with their $16 million military aid package — an emergency general appropriations bill that President Reagan will sign. But Byrd was confident he had 53 Democratic votes as a majority to kill the military aid proposal backed by the White House and Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas.

Upon the expected GOP defeat, Byrd was ready to vote on his counterproposal to provide only non-lethal aid to the rebels opposing Nicaragua's Sandinista government: $27 million in food, clothing, medicine and similar supplies.

Byrd planned to use as a Democratic vehicle the Pentagon appropriations bill that threatens to invite a presidential veto because of various arms policy disputes. The move to veto would be more difficult for Reagan if the measure included aid for his vaunted Contra "freedom fighters."

There was no assurance the competing proposals would come to a vote today as Byrd suggested. He told the Senate late Tuesday, "We've come as close as we are going to get. None of us can have it exactly their own way."

Republicans were seeking one vote now on military and humanitarian assistance for the guerrillas fighting the Soviet-supported Sandinistas. Byrd's plan as of Tuesday called for a separate vote later on possibly providing the $16 million in previously approved lethal aid — and under restrictive conditions.

Republicans protested that a second vote could be snarled in a parliamentary thicket because it would have to come first in the House, where Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, is a leading opponent of resuming Contra military aid.

The speaker pledged not to obstruct such a vote, but as Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, told reporters, "There is great skepticism of Jim Wright's commitment."

Dole and his GOP colleagues were still weighing options late Tuesday. Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., appealed to Dole and Byrd to forge a compromise that would gain near unanimous approval by the Senate.

"It is far more important than any political statement that could go to benefit any party — if we speak in a united voice on a program we all could vote for," Rudman said.

He predicted defeat for the Republican military aid request and probable passage for Byrd's request in the Democrat-dominated Congress.

The Republican leadership was demanding a vote on arming the Contras before the GOP National Convention next week because it has major implications for the fall presidential campaign; the issue divides the Democratic ticket.

Beryl dissolves, but heat remains across country

United Press International

A blistering heat wave that killed a St. Louis man and at least four Chicago-area residents hampered military exercises in Arkansas and polluted air in parts of Michigan.

There was no rebel in sight as the National Weather Service today predicted temperatures in the 90s and 100s accompanied by humidity across much of the country.

"We're going to continue to have unreasonably warm weather," said Harry Gordon, a NWS meteorologist.

But some areas got a reprieve from the heat Tuesday as tropical storm Beryl dissolved into a tropical depression and dumped heavy rains on the Gulf Coast.

In Missouri, thunderstorms generated a small tornado at the Clark County fairgrounds in the town of Kahoka but no damage or injuries were reported, the Highway Patrol said.

A 42-year-old St. Louis man, identified as Alonzo Allen, died Tuesday from heat exposure after returning to his apartment from outdoors. His body temperature was 109 degrees when he was admitted to the hospital, authorities said.

At least four people have died from heat-related problems in the Chicago area since last week and a spokesman for the Cook County medical examiner said the heat probably contributed to a fifth, a 54-year-old suburban man who collapsed while mowing his lawn Saturday.

Some 18 soldiers at Fort Smith and Fort Chaffee in Arkansas have been treated for heat-related illnesses since Friday, when 1,800 troops began summer training exercises, officials said.

Troops fire into crowds, 36 killed

BANGKOK, Thailand — Burmese security forces repeatedly fired into crowds of unarmed protesters calling for democracy and human rights in 26 cities, killing at least 36 people and arresting nearly 1,500, witnesses and official media said today.

Diplomats put the death toll at more than 100, with about 80 people killed in the capital in shooting on a gun late Monday night.

Crowds of young protesters, estimated at more than 10,000, Tuesday marched through the streets in defiance of the troops and the gunfire.

The demonstrators said they wanted human rights.

Arab boy killed during clash with Israelis

JERUSALEM — A 14-year-old Arab boy was killed and at least 23 other protesters wounded during clashes with Israeli troops during a general strike marking eight months of Palestinian unrest in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Violence erupted in several West Bank towns and in most Gaza Strip refugee camps Tuesday after a weeklong lull that followed steps by King Hussein of Jordan to sever ties to the West Bank.

In the northern West Bank town of Qalqilya, Israeli troops opened fire on protesters. Hussein Abdel Suwat, 14, was killed, and Palestinian sources said he was struck in the head by a bullet.

From United Press International reports

U.N. observer team arrives in Tehran

United Press International

MANAMA, Bahrain — An advance U.N. team charged with laying the groundwork for a new peacekeeping force arrived in Iran today, one day after Tehran ordered a cease fire for the first time in eight years for its forces along the Iraqi front.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, IRNA, said five members of the U.N. Iran-Iraq Military Observer Group, known as UNIMOG, arrived in Tehran to hold talks with Iranian political and military officials and to prepare for the 350-member U.N. force that will monitor the truce.

A similar advance team has been sent to Baghdad, Iraq.

IRNA said the five members will be stationed in southern and western areas of Iran until Aug. 20, when the truce is scheduled to take effect.

There were no reports of fighting along the 700-mile Iran-Iraq border or in the Persian Gulf Tuesday or early today, although rebel forces fighting to overthrow the Islamic regime in Iran vowed to continue their struggle.

The U.N. Security Council Tuesday unanimously approved the dispatch of up to 350 unarmed observers to monitor the cease-fire and ordered the two advance teams to Tehran and Baghdad.

The 15-0 Security Council vote formally established UNIMOG, the latest in an alphabet soup of U.N. acronyms for observer and peacekeeping forces, most of them scattered through the Middle East.

The estimated cost for the first six months of operation is $74 million, and the White House said the United States is prepared to pay "its fair share of the costs."

The Pentagon cautioned it was too early to determine whether the Navy will cut back its force of 27 ships in the Persian Gulf.

But shipping insurers, Lloyd's of London and the Institute of London Underwriters, said news of the cease-fire and its implementation date led them to cut their rates for insuring cargoes in the gulf by up to 33 percent.

In the gulf, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher made a surprise visit to the command ship of the British naval patrol that has protected Britain's merchant vessels in the volatile waterway during the war that erupted in September 1980 after Iraqi forces launched an offensive against Iran.

Direct negotiations between Iran and Iraq to end one of the most brutal wars of the century are to begin in Geneva Aug. 25.

More than 1 million people are estimated to have died and another 1.5 million wounded in the war, which escalated from a conflict between ground forces to attacks against Persian Gulf shipping and exchanges of missile fire against undefended cities.

The Iranian cease-fire order broadcast Tuesday over Tehran

Radio came from Parliament Speaker Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani, who doubles as deputy supreme commander of the armed forces.

"From today, the armed forces must not start any military and armed movement but will carry out their duty of remaining ready and alert to give a fitting reply to any mischief by the enemy in the air, at sea and on land," he directed.

But Rafsanjani warned his troops that Iraq "cannot be trusted," and "it is necessary to remain alert and ready, because it is possible in the next few days remaining before the cease-fire goes into effect" that Baghdad could launch an attack.

Analysts said Rafsanjani's cease-fire order 11 days before the U.N.-sponsored truce was to go into effect may have been an act of one-upmanship to show that Iran was serious about peace.

IN BRIEF

TENNIS

Rain interrupts Cash match

TORONTO — Rain forced the suspension of play during the second round action Tuesday at the $602,500 Canadian Open Player International Tennis Championships.

Australia's Pat Cash, the tournament's no. 5 seed, had his match against Senegal's Yaya Diallo suspended while leading 1-0, 6-3, 5-4 and serving love 15.

Jimmy Connors, seeded No. 4, had a much easier time as he disposed of 17-year-old Doug Flach 6-1, 6-0 earlier in the day.

The second day of play also featured a pair of upsets as Israel's Amos Mansdorf, the tournament's 10th seed, and no. 11 Slobodan Zivkovic of Yugoslavia suffered first round losses.

Other seeded players to win their opening round matches included 12th seed Australian John Fitzgerald who eliminated Canadian Grant Connell 3-6, 6-2, 7-6, 17-5, and no. 13 Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland who outlasted California's Jim Pugh 3-6, 6-1, 7-5.

BASEBALL

NBC: Mobile stays unbeaten

WICHITA Kan. — Wade Ward went 3 for 4 and Wayne Larker drove in three runs to lead Mobile (Ala.) to a 8-6 victory over No. 2 seed Santa Maria (Calif.) Tuesday night in a third round winner's bracket game of the National Baseball Congress World Series.

In an earlier third round elimination game, Roger Brown had a two run triple in the second inning to lead Wichita past Tampa Fla. 3-0, and Ron Orton sent a grand slam sailing over the right center field fence in the ninth inning to give Nogales, Ariz., a 10-7 victory over San Fernando Calif.

The Mobile All Stars, the only team to enter the fourth round of the double elimination tournament unbeaten, sent 10 men to the plate in a six run rally in the seventh inning.

In other third round elimination games Tuesday, Cape Girardeau Mo. whipped Jackson Miss. 8-6 in 14 innings, Kenai Alaska defeated Tulsa, Okla. 7-2, and Lawrence beat San Diego 12-5.

Thompson: Picture clearer

If John Thompson were plotting together a puzzle, he would have a fairly clear picture by now.

The U.S. Olympic men's basketball coach already has established a personality and style for his team, still more than a month away from its first game in the Summer Olympics.

In most respects, it resembles his recent Georgetown teams, particularly those of 1984-85 that won one NCAA championship game and lost another by two points.

The U.S. team will play an aggressive, pressure defense. It won't worry about fouls, except maybe for center David Robinson. It will gamble for steals and interceptions. It will swarm for loose balls and rebounds.

Thompson has called that style "organized chaos" at Georgetown. The general discipline, the motto for the Hoops, has been his motto.

Sinn sets record at amateur

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Pearl Sinn tied a 71-69-140 Tuesday to set a tournament record in the 88th U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

The 21-year-old Arizona State business major from Billower, Calif., came from behind to take medalist honors from Michiko Hattori, who shot a 69-74-143, which tied the previous mark set by Shelley Hamlin in 1966 and tied by Catherine Lacoste in 1968 and Penny Hammel in 1982.

Hattori of Austin, Tex., had taken medalist honors the last three years.

The field of 144 was cut to the top 64 Tuesday. Match play begins Wednesday and will continue through Saturday.

Sinn said she realizes the tournament is just beginning, even though she got medalist honors.

"I've lost in the first round too many times to get too excited about being medalist," she said.

9-run first paves way in 19-5 triumph

WINDERMERE — Altamonte Springs' coach, Rand Lyons, went back to his regular batting order and the 4-10's went back to their scoring ways as they opened the Junior League Southern Regional League action with a 19-5 thrashing of Westwood University of Houston, Texas, Tuesday night at the Phillips Woodcroft Golf & Country complex.

Lyons, who had juggled his line-up in the week-end last week and got only two runs, went back to the order that had carried them through the first 11 games and it paid dividends immediately as the 4-10's scored nine runs in the bottom half of the first.

Lyons' leadoff hitter, the left-handed slugger, Mike Elliott, and Hank Harper, and Mike Lyman, a right-handed pitcher, came from the bench to help the 4-10's.

The game did not start well for Altamonte as Westwood University lead off, scored a run. However, an error by the 4-10's, who hit a grounder back to the mound, was taken away by Harper. Harper, who had a wild pitch, walked on four pitches, including Westwood's first.

When on first and third with no one out, but Harper scribbled down and got Lou Van Winkle on a called third strike. Brett Hodges forced Kaito in, second base, a grounder to the shortstop, Billy Hogan, and Jason Krumborg threw out to first.

Altamonte did not stay behind long as Pablo Alon, Andrew Thompson, Harper, Mike Elliott, and Scott Johnston all walked with Elliott and Johnston getting the 4-10's Matts Lindbeck walked with a hit to help to score Harper. William Ramirez grounded out as Elliott scored. Dan Seidenfaden walked to lead the bases, Nobby Roberts hit a ground ball to short but the throw to the plate pulled the catcher and everyone was safe as Johnston scored and the score was five to one. Alon then put the game away as he blasted a triple into the right field corner to score Lindbeck. Seidenfaden and Roberts, Alon then scored on a wild pitch.

Westwood had a man reach base on both the second and third innings on walks but the runners were immediately erased on double play grounders.

Alon led off the second and Altamonte with a 1-0 lead from over the center field fence to

Juniors hungry for trip to World Series

WINDERMERE — The Altamonte Junior All Stars figured to encounter some tough competition in the Southern Regional tournament. A 19-5 rout over Texas on Tuesday night's opener, though, also means the competition is not quite up to par — at Altamonte is hungrier than ever for a trip to the Junior World Series.

Frank Harper and Mike Lyman, combined for a four run, three out inning in the bottom half of the first.

Altamonte also used a spectacular defensive effort during three double plays and kept Westwood from putting together any kind of rally. Altamonte committed only one error in the first inning then played flawlessly on defense for the rest of the night.

Shortstop Andrew Thompson and second baseman Pablo Alon teamed up on two of the double plays while Thompson completed the other on his own in the fifth inning to thwart a scoring opportunity for Westwood.

While the defense shut down the Westwood offense, Altamonte offense got off to a quick start and scored in the first inning with the help of six walks, an error and a hit from triple play Alon. Altamonte coasted to its 14th consecutive victory.

Lyons, a 1987 All-American, said his team (Westwood) was the second best team in the tournament. Altamonte coach Rand Lyons said, "I'm not sure about that now. I hope we can keep our offense going in tomorrow's game and continue to play good defense."

Gretzky traded to Kings

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Mark on your calendar: August 9, 1988, the day hockey truly arrived in Los Angeles.

It's a day from Edmonton, Alberta, in the form of Wayne Gretzky, the grown prince of Canadian sport, who Tuesday was dealt by the Stanley Cup champion Oilers to Los Angeles for a king's ransom in a blockbuster trade.

Some six hours after Oilers owner Peter Dinklage announced the departure of hockey's most dominant player at a news conference in Edmonton, Gretzky was being escorted to Los Angeles hotel ballroom as the man who will single-handedly save hockey west of the Rockies and south of the border.

It occurred to us that Wayne could do more for L.A. than he could for any other team, said Jerry Buss, the owner of the Forum who sold the Kings to Bruce McNall last year.

Gretzky, the league's all-time assist leader and No. 1 scorer, was sent with Mike Krushchynsky and Marty McSorley to the Kings for around $10 million. Jimmy Carson, Greg Bodin, Martin Gathlas, Los Angeles No. 1 draft pick in 1986, and first round picks in 1989, 1991 and 1993.

The Oilers will also receive an unexpected sum from the Kings believed to be anywhere from $10 million to $20 million.

Swim trials: Morales suffers disappointing loss

AUSTIN, Texas — World-record holder Pablo Morales suffered the most disappointing loss of his swimming career at the U.S. Olympic trials, failing to make the Seoul Games in his specialty after the best training period of his life.

Matt Biondi and Jay Mortenson defeated Morales in the 100-meter butterfly finals Tuesday night at the University of Texas Swim Center. Morales, who won two silver medals and a relay gold at the 1984 Olympics, said the race was the most disheartening of his life.

"Saying I'm in shock wouldn't be appropriate, because it would belittle a tremendous effort by Matt and Jay," Morales said. "There is a numbness that's involved. It's the feeling you get when you spend a lifetime preparing for something and wind up third. Something like that."

Morales led after 50 meters with a lap of 24.79 seconds, but Biondi and Mortenson closed quickly. Biondi won in 53.09 seconds, the fastest time in the world this year for the event. Mortenson, a former Stanford teammate of Morales, took the second and final Seoul berth in 53.29. Morales was third in 53.52.

"I had trouble on my first turn and my finish was too short," Morales said. "They finished strong and I had trouble finishing. I knew I wasn't finishing as well as I had before. You can't expect to have a sub-par finish here and make the Olympic team."

"Right now I can't come up with too many answers, but I'll be thinking about it," Morales said. "I'm definitely disappointed by the time as well as the overall placing."

Morales, 23, of Santa Clara, Calif., set the world record of 52.84 seconds in the 100 butterfly in 1986. He also owns the American record in the 200 butterfly and the 200 individual medley, the two remaining events where he has a chance to make the Olympic squad.

"I don't know if I have trained any more or less hard on any of the strokes," Morales said. "There's no part of my training regimen I can fault. My training has been the best in my career."

Biondi, who set an American record in the 200 freestyle earlier in the meet, qualified for his second individual Olympic event. The Moraga, Calif., resident believes he has completed the most difficult part of his quest to qualify for four individual races and three relays in Seoul.

"I feel like I'm sort of past Wednesday, over the hump day and into the weekend," Biondi said. "I feel most confident about the other events. I feel like if I wasn't going to make it in seven events, it would have happened by now."

Biondi owns the world record in the 100 freestyle and is a favorite in that event's trials today. Trials in his final event, the 50 freestyle, are set for Friday. Biondi could be the first Olympian to challenge the 1972 medal showing of Mark Spitz, who won seven gold medals in world record times at Munich.

Another highlight of tonight's final is world record holder Janet Evans swimming in the 400 freestyle. She set an American record in the 400 individual medley on Monday, the first day of the six-day event.

Winners at the trials Tuesday also included Mital Kremer in the women's 200 freestyle in 1:58.97, Tracey McFarlane in the women's 200 individual medley in 2:29.82 and David Wharton in the 400 individual medley in 4:18.32. Kremer became the first woman to qualify in two events, having previously taken a spot in the 100 freestyle.

Wharton, 19, of Warminster, Pa., was two-tenths of a second off his American record. He is expected to battle Hungary's Tamás Darnyi for the gold medal in Seoul.

"I was giving a great effort to get the world record, but not getting it doesn't really disappoint me," Wharton said. "I have still got a long way to go."

McFarlane, a Canadian native, was able to compete after being granted U.S. citizenship in April. There had been concern she would not be able to swim for the United States in Seoul because her citizenship request was filed after an International Olympic Committee deadline.

Tabler continues bases-full feat

United Press International

Among the most lethal sports situations in recent memory are Kareem Abdul-Jabbar unleashing a sky hook, Wayne Gretzky maneuvering behind the net, Bjorn Borg guarding center court at Wimbledon and Pat Tabler batting with the bases loaded.

Pat Tabler? Bases loaded? If you don't know by now, Tabler is gaining cult status by virtue of his heroics with men on first, second and third. The Orioles know that now, but by now, it's too late.

Tabler continued his remarkable effort Tuesday night, lining a three-run double with one out in the ninth inning to propel the Kansas City Royals to a 5-4 decision over Baltimore.

Since Kansas City acquired Tabler from Cleveland June 3 in a trade, he is 3 for 3 with the bases full, driving in all nine runners who were on base. This season, Tabler is 6 for 7 with 16 RBI in bases-loaded opportunities, and lifetime, is 35 of 62, a .565 average, with 84 RBI.

"I'm just trying to hit the ball hard and get lucky," he said. "You just think about trying to get those runs in to help the team win."

"It's the most amazing baseball statistic I've ever seen," Royals Manager John Wathan said. "He's incredible. He seems to thrive on it."

"We're not talking about 10 or 20 at-bats here, he has had a lot of opportunities."

And it's surprising the Orioles would put Tabler in such a position to beat them. Kurt Stillwell reached on a bunt single with one out in the ninth. Mark Thurmond proceeded to walk George Brett and Tom Niedenfuer, 1-2, promptly walked Danny Tartabull.

Tabler, who went 3 for 5 in the game, then did what comes naturally, drilling a 1-0 fastball into the right-field corner. He wound up on second, the lone Royal still on base.

The rally gave Kansas City its 10th victory without a loss against Baltimore this season.

"We had a chance to win it," Orioles Manager Frank Robinson said. "Those are the ones that kind of stick with you and hurt you a little bit because you hate to let them get away. We were 0-11 against Cleveland (before winning four straight). But if we do the things to beat them, we'll beat them."

Tabler's double made a winner of Israel Sanchez, 1-1, who threw five innings of relief to notch his first major-league victory.

Elsewhere in the American League, Texas tripped Detroit 6-2, Toronto downed New York 6-3, Milwaukee took the first game of a double-header, 3-2, and Boston the second, 5-1. Kansas City shaded Baltimore 5-4, Oakland routed Chicago 8-1 and Seattle defeated California 4-1.

Mariners 4, Angels 1

At Anaheim, Calif., Mike Moore, 5-13, scattered six hits in ending his losing streak at six and extending Seattle's winning streak to three, equaling its best this season. Alvin Davis broke a scoreless tie by slamming a two-run homer in the fourth off Mike Witt, 8-11.

Miami to decide on stadium

United Press International

MIAMI — City voters in October will be asked to decide whether they want to pay $80 million for a baseball stadium that local officials want to build if a major-league team comes to Miami.

The Miami City Commission voted unanimously Monday to place the issue on the Oct. 4 ballot. If the referendum is approved, the city could issue up to $80 million in bonds to build the stadium.

Under the language approved by commissioners, however, the city would be free to issue those bonds only if a major-league team agreed in writing to use the stadium for its games.

Commissioner Victor De Yurre said Monday's decision was a first step toward making Miami competitive with other cities, such as St. Petersburg, Fla., that are vying for a major-league franchise.

St. Petersburg recently lost in its bid to woo the Chicago White Sox to the Florida Suncoast Dome, which is under construction. The Illinois Legislature worked out a last-minute financing package to keep the team in Chicago.

Cubs rally for night-game win

United Press International

The powers that be decided Monday night was not the right time for the first night game at Wrigley Field and then evidently felt the Chicago Cubs should win the first home night game in their history.

The first scheduled night game was held Monday between the Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies, but was postponed because of rain after 3 1-2 innings.

In Tuesday night's official first night game at Wrigley, fate intervened and kept the Mets from hauling in two long drives, helping the Cubs rally for a 6-4 victory over New York.

In the seventh, Jody Davis — who said he prefers playing under the lights — drove a pinch-hit shot off starter Sid Fernandez, 6-10, to the wall in center, where it hit off the glove of a leaping Len Dykstra and fell to the ground. Rafael Palmeiro, who had singled, scored for a 3-2 Chicago lead.

Roger McDowell relieved Fernandez and gave up four consecutive singles. Darrin Jackson, pinch-running for Davis, went to third on a single by Shawn Dunston and scored on a single by Ryne Sandberg. Mark Grace, singled home Dunston, and Andre Dawson singled home Sandberg for a 6-2 lead.

Astros 3, Giants 2

At Houston, Glenn Davis singled home Terry Puhl with one out in the eighth to lift the Astros. The victory was the 21st in 28 games for the Astros, who pulled within a half-game of NL West-leading Los Angeles. Juan Agosto, 8-0, won in relief and Dave Smith earned his 21st save. Kelly Downs fell to 11-9.

Reds 6, Dodgers 0

At Cincinnati, Danny Jackson threw a four-hitter for his fourth shutout of the year and Bo Diaz and Paul O'Neill each homered, sparking the Reds. Jackson, 15-5, struck out eight and walked none in his league-high ninth complete game. Don Sutton, 3-6, went seven innings in a

In the bottom of the third Alamonte continued to pile up the runs as they scored nine more times. Roberts reached on a throwing error and Abreu walked. Thompson reached on a bunt single to load the bases. Harner singled to right to score Roberts. Elliott scored Abreu when he walked. Johnston grounded out to score Thompson. Bullock reached first when after missing a third strike the catcher threw the ball away at first and Harner scored. Bullock stole second as Ramirez walked to load the bases. Seidenfaden walked to score Elliott. Roberts popped up for the second out but Abreu reached second when his bunt attempt was thrown away at first. Bullock and Ramirez scored on the play and Seidenfaden wound up on third. Thompson then singled to center to score Seidenfaden and Abreu, but Thompson was thrown out trying to go to second.

Harner, who had suffered an injured leg in the state tournament last week, slightly aggravated the injury when his cleats slid on the plate as he scored in the third inning. But he once again showed his determination as he came out and pitched the fourth Harner hit

Van Winkle and walked Hodges, but he struck out Kramberg and G.R. Nelson. He then walked four consecutive men to score three runs before he got Kutac to line out to left. This was Harner's last inning and he left after giving up four runs on no hits, striking out four, walking eight, and hitting one batter.

Mike Lyons was brought on to pitch in the fifth. He walked three but got out of the jam with no damage as he got a strike out and a ground out. With one out in the sixth Western University finally got a hit as Hogan's little bloop between Roberts and Thompson was unplayable. After a walk put two on with one out Lyons got back to back strike outs to end the inning.

Lyons was in trouble in the seventh after a hit batter and two walks loaded the bases with no one out. But he got out of it with only one run scoring. Davey Perrin hit into a six, four, three double play to score a run and Greg Alvarez ended the game when he grounded out Thompson to Johnston to send Alamonte to the semi-finals. Alamonte was led at the plate by Thompson who was two for four with two runs scored, and two runs batted in. Abreu, one for four, a triple, four runs scored, and three runs batted in. Bullock, one for two with a double, two runs scored and one run batted in. Elliott, one for three with a home run, three runs scored.

Gymnasts to get private coaching

United Press International

HOUSTON — The U.S. Gymnastics Federation, hoping to end the squabbling among club coaches that has detracted from preparations for the Seoul Games, Tuesday abolished the job of U.S. Olympic women's coach.

Instead, the six females on the team will be accompanied to Seoul by their private coaches, who will work out a strategy for the team segment of the Olympic competition.

Only two coaches are allowed on the floor at the same time during the Olympics.

Susan Polakoff, spokeswoman for the USGF, announced the move one day after Don Peters resigned as coach and Romanian defector Bela Karolyi refused to take his place. Karolyi said he suggested the compromise plan accepted by the USGF.

"There absolutely will not be an Olympic head coach," Polakoff said from the U.S. Olympic Committee headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. "Each personal coach will accompany their own gymnast or gymnasts to Seoul."

"The personal coaches will meet this weekend to talk about who will be on the floor during the Olympics."

She said the coaches will meet in Charlotte, N.C., during an exhibition by the U.S. team.

The change in policy affects the women's team only. The men's squad, composed primarily of NCAA gymnasts, will be led by longtime Coach Abie Grossfeld, who guided the 1984 Olympic team to the gold medal.

It is the greatest incentive I can see happening for the whole sport.

— Bela Karolyi

There has long been political infighting among the coaches of the nation's top private clubs, who compete for the best female gymnasts. The situation appears to have worsened since Karolyi, coach of 1976 Olympic champion Nadia Comaneci, defected to the United States in 1981 and set up his own school in Houston.

In 1984, he was the private coach of Olympic champion Mary Lou Retton and teammate Julianne McNamara, who were officially coached at the Los Angeles Summer Games by Peters, who runs SCATS in Huntington Beach, Calif. To have access to his students at the 1984 Games, Karolyi obtained an Olympics credential with the official supplier of the gymnastics equipment.

During the past four years, Karolyi's school has become the most dominant in the country. Three of this year's team members and both alternates come from his Houston gym.

University of Utah Coach Greg Maraden replaced Peters as U.S. coach last year as the USGF tried to end the bickering among the coaches, but he resigned in January after an acrimonious tenure.

Peters was reappointed to the job and named Karolyi's wife, Martha, and Tom McCarthy of Allentown, Pa., as assistants. Bela Karolyi was named head of the delegation, which would have enabled him to go to Seoul but would not have given him access to the gymnasts.

Karolyi, however, resigned the administrative post during the national championships in Houston in July because of co-gymnasts said might adversely affect them in Seoul.

The controversy continued during the team trials in Salt Lake City over the weekend. Monday, Peters said he was resigning to end the "media sideshow" that was threatening the success of the U.S. team. That step presumably paved the way for Karolyi to take over as coach, but he declined.

Karolyi said he would travel to Seoul only if the coaches with Olympic team members share coaching responsibilities at the Games.

"That's the only way I'm going to be in it," he said. "There is no confusion. Things have been very clearly stated."

Karolyi coaches Olympians Phoebe Mills, Chelle Stack and Brandy Johnson and alternates Rhonda Fahn and Kristie Phillips. The other team members — Melissa Marlowe, Hope Spivey and Kelly Garrison-Stevens — are coached by Mark Lee, Becky Buwick and Bill and Donna Strauss.

Peters guided the U.S. Olympic team to a silver medal in 1984. In resigning, Peters critic red USGF Director Mike Jackl for failing to defend the organization's selection of him.

"(Jackl) has chosen to remain 'neutral' and has been ambiguous at best in his support," Peters said. "This allowed the controversy to swell to disastrous proportions."

Tickling children can be sadistic

DEAR DR. GOTT: What would you say to a man who tickles his children until they cry?

DEAR READER: I would say that he is somewhat sadistic and ought to pick on someone his own size. Tickling has its place in horseplay, but it quickly can become unpleasant and painful. While I wouldn't necessarily label this excessive activity child abuse, it comes close. It becomes abusive when the children regard it as unpleasant, painful, invasive or simply unwelcome. I think that the man should develop more appropriate methods of getting close to his children and having fun with them. As a general rule, youngsters cry when they are uncomfortable. This should be the indication to any grownup that the situation has progressed beyond play and that the adult should lay off.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm an ex-hairdresser and have pulmonary fibrosis. My doctor feels it is from inhaling hair spray. Do you agree?

DEAR READER: The potential problems of inhaling hair spray seem to be of considerable concern to many readers. However, to my knowledge, no reputable scientific reports have identified any consistent lung abnormalities in people exposed to aerosolized hair spray. Therefore, while, in theory, this compound could cause disease, I cannot give you any practical evidence that this is so.

Pulmonary fibrosis is a chronic ailment marked by extensive scar formation in lung tissue; it is associated with severe emphysema and difficulty breathing. The disease appears with time and has a proven association with air pollution caused by tobacco smoke and industrial exposure, such as coal mining and other dusty occupations.

To give you more information,

I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "Living with Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

What reason could you ever have for accepting a game invitation from responder when you opened the bidding with a balance 12 point hand? Holding prime cards for your opening bid — ace and kings — would be one reason. Having good support for responder's known six-card suit would be another reason. Since North had both, he bid four spades. South still had to catch a little luck and use a little skill to bring in 10 tricks.

Faced with five possible losers after the opening lead of the jack of diamonds, declarer had to assume that at least the spade finesse would work if he was to have any chance for his contract. He also saw that the spade finesse combined with a 2-2 trump split would give him a sure thing. He won the king of diamonds and led the spade queen. East covered with the king and South won the ace. Now he played to dummy's club ace, ruffed a club and played a low spade to dummy's nine. When both defenders followed, he ruffed dummy's last club and played ace and a diamond. West was allowed to win the diamond 10 and perform had to play the heart suit. West made his best play, the heart queen, hoping against hope that East held A-J-10, but declarer covered with the king and eventually scored a heart trick to make the contract. Notice that if declarer tries to attack the heart suit before stripping the hand of clubs and diamonds, he will possibly lose three heart tricks and be set.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

What the day will bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
August 11, 1988

Conditions generally look favorable for you in the year ahead. The high point could be centered around a long distance trip.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It may be necessary to speak up today in order to protect your self-interests. Let it be known up front that you will not let anyone usurp your rights. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It won't be too difficult for you to ferret out the facts today in your business involvements. However, there is a possibility that you might not properly use the information you acquire.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your judgment in your non-material involvements will be very sound today, but it could be somewhat lacking where finances or business are concerned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Once your ambitions are aroused to day you'll have the wherewithal to get what you are going after. However, there is a possibility you'll do it the hard way.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may be unduly assertive today in trying to get your point across to others. This could generate negative reactions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your progress could be retarded today if you bring people who are not directly involved into an important situation where they have nothing constructive to offer.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today, guard against inclinations to do something impulsively that you know does not serve your interests. Be cautious, not capricious.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Things could get rather sticky today if you are reluctant to share benefits equally with co-workers. Each must try to look out for the other.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your abilities to run matters will be more effective today than the input of your companions, yet you could experience opposition to a point where they'll prevail.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Early in the day you may be inclined to be argumentative and uncooperative, and you'll be better company for yourself than for others. By afternoon your mood will improve.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) People who are critical and negative will have a deleterious effect upon your outlook today. Avoid them, if possible, and associate with individuals who are optimistic.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're apt to be rather daring today where there is a chance for personal gain. Don't be timid, but by the same token, don't take foolish risks.

Her cooking is Pennsylvania Dutch treat

By JANE HALE
Herald correspondent

LAKE MARY — Our Cook of the Week has won awards for her cookies and takes after her mother, who wouldn't let anyone leave the home without a loaf of bread in their hand.

Annabelle Hetzel was born and raised in Chester, Penn. She attended the local schools and graduated from the high school there.

Her mother, from Lancaster County Pennsylvania, was Dutch and worked in the real estate business. Hetzel's father was Welsh and worked as a copman for the Howman Locomotive Company in Chester. She had one brother who was older than she and has a sister who is younger.

Not only did Hetzel's mother teach her to cook, "she was the best cook in Chester, Pennsylvania," Hetzel said. "I remember Mother always being in the kitchen, baking bread. Mother told me from the time that it was bad luck to let a guest leave your house without giving them a loaf of homemade bread to take home with them."

Ever heard of Bot Pie? The dish Hetzel explained, is a homemade pot pie with many fresh vegetables, plenty of meat, a good amount of thick broth and a flaky crust. "It was the first dish I remember fixing, and my family thought it was just delicious," she said.

"I too remember the soups that we use to make, because they would be thick with lots of home grown vegetables that came right out of our garden. This was during the Depression, so you had to make due with what you had in the pantry or in the garden."

While still in Chester, Penn., Hetzel entered a cooking contest and won first place for her Chocolate Spritz cookies as well as her Barney Stone cookies and her Crushed Potato Chip Cookies.

Hetzel went to work as a turbo engine inspector for Westinghouse Corporation, where she met her future husband, Albert, who was manager of the drafting department also at Westinghouse. The two were married in Pennsylvania.

"Albert has often told me that he fell in love with me the first day that he went to work at Westinghouse," Hetzel said. "He has often told me that his love for me grows more and more everyday."

Albert works for the Dynatech Company in the drafting department. The Hetzels have no children, but they do have two French poodles by the names of Shalimar and Touche. "These are my babies," Hetzel said. Hetzel's favorite hobby is cooking and she cooks meals nightly for her husband. Out of a love for doing things for others, she also cooks enough food so that she can share with neighbors and friends.

She enjoys making handicrafts and taught ceramics in Venezuela when she and her husband lived there. While in that country, she was president of her golf club that she belonged to. Collecting is another hobby of Hetzel's, with plates and dolls being chief in her inventory.

The three years the Hetzels lived in Venezuela was an experience she said she won't forget. "I would cook my Pennsylvania Dutch dishes and many of the other women would cook the kinds of dishes that were favorites of the Venezuelan people," she said. "I never did learn any of the recipes though."

Hetzel's involvements with organizations goes broad and deep. Presently she is chairman of the Pre-Natal Pink Ladies at Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs. She is past president of the "SPOKES," the Welcome Wagon of Seminole County in 1981 and 1982, she was president of Philadelphia's Colonial Club, for women tired of also volunteering to do for others and never doing for themselves. Hetzel has been president of the auxiliary at the Middletown Memorial Hospital in Middletown, Penn.

Hetzel's philosophy on life is "Make life better each day and make someone smile everyday. I cannot go a day without making someone smile," she said. "That is why I became a volunteer at the hospital—so I could make someone who is feeling bad, smile. My goal is to make everybody happy."

Listed below are Hetzel's prize-winning cookie recipes as well as other of her favorite recipes.

Recipes add healthy touch to Irish potatoes

On a recent visit to Ireland I was a guest of a family who lived on Celbridge, a small community outside the city limits of Dublin. Rose and Pat McCabe and daughter, Ursula were wonderful hosts—warm, cordial, and friendly and we shared among other things our interest in food and the microwave oven. The McCabes have had a microwave for three years, but as is true with many Americans, the oven is used to reheat. I enjoyed sharing information and techniques about microwaving and will continue to do so via the mail.

I came away from Ireland with wonderful impressions of its people, its green, green landscape and its food. The potatoes were the best I've ever eaten, and I'll probably always be reminded of Ireland when I see a boiled potato, skin on (or in its jacket). If the jacket is splitting open, the potatoes are said to be "laughing." What a delightful sense of humor the Irish have!

My fondness for potatoes—especially those wonderful freshly dug ones that I experienced at the table of the McCabes of Celbridge—prompted the theme of this column.

Potatoes are a good source of nutrients and not high in calories. It's what we put on them that accounts for most of the calories. Here is a unique way to serve the basic potato without adding a lot of calories.

CHEESY POTATO FANS

6-8 medium potatoes
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese
1/4 teaspoon onion salt
Paprika
Dash of pepper
Wash and dry potatoes. Cut almost through potato crosswise, forming 1/2-inch slices still held together on the bottom side. Let stand in ice water about 5 minutes to keep open slices.

Place butter in custard cup. M/W on 100 percent power 45-60 seconds or until melted. Drain potatoes. Place in 12-by-8-inch baking dish. Spread potato fans open. Brush potatoes with about half of butter, coating between the slices. Cover with wax paper. M/W on 100 percent power for 10 minutes, rearranging potatoes once. Combine re-maintaining ingredients. Brush potatoes with remaining butter. Sprinkle cheese mixture evenly over potatoes, allowing mixture to go between slices. Cover with wax paper. M/W on 100 percent power 8-10 minutes or until potatoes are tender, rearranging potatoes once.

Sliced potatoes in a creamy sour cream sauce make a good accompaniment for meats done on the grill. Try this for your next barbecue.

POTATOES ROMANOFF

2 tablespoons instant chicken bouillon
1/2 cup water
6 cups thinly sliced potatoes
1 small onion, chopped
1/2 cup half and half cream
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Combine water, bouillon, potatoes, and onion in a 2-quart casserole. Cover with lid. M/W on 100 percent power 11-12

Irish eyes smile on Sanford

By BRIAN HEDBERG
Herald People editor

NEWBRIDGE, Ireland — Links of amiability in the chain of world friendship were forged recently as 21 members of the Friendship Force of Greater Orlando spent two weeks in Ireland as their annual exchange.

The goodwill ambassadors from Seminole County were: Steve and Eileen Phillips of Winter Springs; Tex Powell, Betty Snyder, and Catherine Russell, all of Sanford; Jean Moore of Altamonte Springs; and Marge Wilschire of Casselberry.

The members left July 12 for their first week in the green emerald isle, spent in the homes of Irish Friendship Force members in the town of Newbridge, population 14,000. In their second week abroad, Seminolians were free to tour Great Britain, said Steve Phillips, president of the chapter.

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith sent a letter of greeting along with the Friendship Force delegation to Newbridge. Her letter was returned by the town's chairman of the city commission (or mayor), Michael Nolan, which states: "It is particularly opportune that your group should be visiting Droichead Nua (Newbridge) at this time, as a delegation of visitors from County Kildare is now in the United States representing us at the Conference of Sister Cities Interna-

Phillips said the Irish eat potato in one or two forms daily. He and his company were surprised to witness a family of three at an Irish cafeteria ordering three bowls of french fries along with three bowls of boiled whole potatoes.

The delegation also visited a local pub, the community gathering place for playing music. There, two men who "looked like they had come out of a mine" played banjo and guitar, and all else joined in the happy-go-lucky singing, Phillips said.

Phillips said he learned that Irishmen are proud of their land and feel blessed that the Ice Age left them with crushed stone, making for fertile soil. The country also is among the foremost for breeding racehorses, he said.

As part of Friendship Force's exchange program, the Greater Orlando chapter members are due to host a South Korean delegation of 42 goodwill ambassadors in December, Phillips said. He said the chapter is looking for host homes and urges those interested to join the organization, which charges only $10 in dues annually.

Friendship Force is a private, non-profit organization active in 40 countries that endeavors to bring people closer through international exchanges. This, the organization holds, sows seeds of friendship across geographical and cultural barriers and promotes better international understanding.

Theories differ on Big Apple name

DEAR READERS: Every now and then someone asks, "Why is New York City called the Big Apple?" I asked my readers. Here's a sample of the responses:

DEAR ABBY: The Bible tells us that the apple was forbidden fruit. (Remember, the serpent in the Garden of Eden dared Eve to eat the apple?) Well, from that time on, the apple signified temptation. And since New York City is the most tempting city in the world, the traveling men named New York City the Big Apple.

My grandfather was a traveling salesman and told me this.
NORMAN IN NEWARK

DEAR ABBY: I once read a story written by a man who used to travel with a circus. He said that when they referred to the minutes or until potatoes are tender, stirring once. Combine cream, flour, salt, and garlic salt. Stir into potatoes. Add butter, M/W on 100 percent power 3-4 minutes or until sauce boils and thickens, stirring twice. Stir in sour cream and mustard. Sprinkle with cheese. M/W on 100 percent power, uncovered, 2-3 minutes or until heated through.

New potatoes and peas combine in this easy side dish.

NEW POTATOES AND PEAS

1/2 pound new potatoes
1 tablespoon water
1/2 cup frozen peas
1 ounce cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon snipped fresh chives
Salt & pepper
Scrub and rinse potatoes. Cut each into 4 wedges, place in 1-quart casserole, add water and cover. M/W on 100 percent power 4-5 minutes or until just about tender, stirring once. Drain. Add peas, cream cheese and milk. Cover, M/W on 100 percent power 3-4 minutes or until peas are tender. Sprinkle with chives, season with salt and pepper.

This recipe is similar to pan-fried potatoes—quick and easy.

POTATO-ONION OVEN FRIED

4 medium potatoes, peeled and sliced
1 medium onion, sliced
1 teaspoon parsley
Dash of pepper
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
Dash of paprika
Combine all ingredients except salt and paprika. Dot with butter. M/W on 100 percent power, covered 15-17 minutes. Stir several times during the cooking. Allow to stand 5 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika before serving.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

town they would be playing next, they called it the "apple." All entertainers hoped that one day they would play New York—the choice spot, the "big one," or "the big apple."

CORNELL THOMPSON, HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: I have researched the Big Apple appellation given to New York City. I offer the following:

Sir Isaac Newton, who discovered the universe's gravitation force, was sitting under an apple tree in New York, when an apple fell from the tree and struck him in the head. He picked it up and said "Wow, that was a big apple!"

Due to his fame as a scientist, New York City was called the Big Apple.

THOMAS E. PENDERGAST

DEAR ABBY: "The Big Apple" was the name of a song which inspired a dance wherein a small group made a circle, held hands and danced to a lively beat. A gossip columnist named Walter Winchell made it popular in 1930. It took New York City by storm—that is why they call New York City the Big Apple.

A. NOLAN, ATLANTA

DEAR ABBY: New York City was named the Big Apple because during the Depression of 1929-1930, all the banks closed and many people were suddenly unemployed, so they stood on the street corners and sold apples for a nickel apiece. There were so many apple stands in New York City, they called it the Big Apple.

MRS. LEONARD COOKSON, PARADISE VALLEY, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: I saw a letter in your column from a reader asking why New York City is known the world over as the Big Apple.

Back in the 1920s and '30s, people in the entertainment world—particularly jazz musicians—talked about making it to the top of the tree. To "play" New York City was to make the big time, or the "big apple," which was a jazz term.
