600-Pound Woman Cut From Home For Hospital Trip

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Relatives of an ailing, nearly 600-pound Sanford woman had to cut out part of a wall in her house so rescue workers could extract her from the building and transport her to the hospital, according to Casselberry paramedic Gene Fry.

Altamease Cherry, 54, of 909 W. 12th St., was listed in serious, but improved, condition at Florida Hospital-Altamonte today after she underwent surgery for an abscess on her leg, her brother, Herbert Cherry, said. She was also suffering from kidney malfunction and shortness of breath, he said.

It took eight rescue workers about four hours Friday to get the woman out of the house and to the hospital, paramedics said.

Upon arrival at the scene, City Ambulance called the Sanford Fire Department for more manpower to help move the woman. Lt. Jim Poovey of the fire department said. After it was determined the ambulance was too small to carry her, the Casselberry Fire Department was called in because its ambulances have larger compartments, according to Fry.

Because of her weight and her illness, paramedics said she could not walk or be moved through the door to the ambulance. So family members proceeded to cut the partition between two windows in her bedroom, creating a four-by-five-foot hole.

Rescue workers then took wooden planks and made a make-shift slide leading from the knocked-out window to the ambulance.

The woman, still in bed, was hefted by the sheets onto a tarpaulin laying on the slide, Fry said. Workers were unable to use a stretcher, Fry said, because the ones they had "are not designed for that kind of weight."

After successfully shimmying her down the slide, Fry said she was placed on the floor of the ambulance where she rode all the way to the hospital.

Fry, calling the incident "unique," said the workers were fortunate the woman's bedroom was not located in the interior of the house.

Herbert Cherry said he was extremely "pleased with the way people in the community, especially our firemen, responded to my sister's aid. It makes you proud to live in a community where people are so helpful and unselfish. The firemen were absolutely great."

Cherry said his sister's condition is improving since the surgery, but said her condition before entering the hospital had been worsening until she developed the infection. He said she had not been bedridden until a few days before her recent problem, and before that was able to walk about.

Modular Plan Set For Jail Addition

Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The majority of the Seminole County Commission tentatively approved a pre-cast concrete, modular design for the proposed $9.7 million addition to the county jail at a workshop session Monday afternoon.

The jail is to be expanded to triple the inmate capacity from 236 to 736.

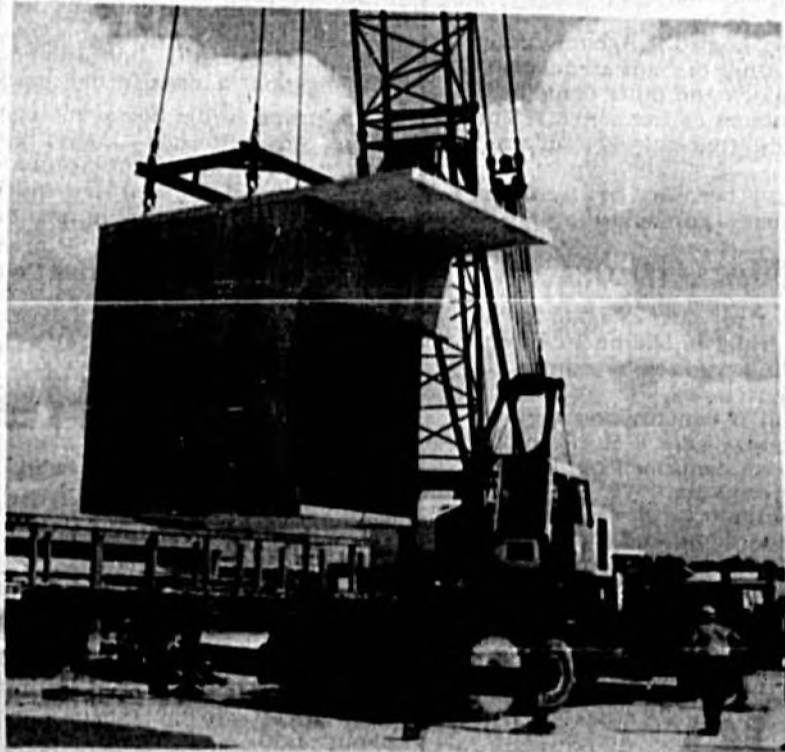

Commissioners Sandra Glenn, Robert Sturm and Barbara Christensen instructed county staff members to work out a contract for design, construction plans and construction supervision of the facility with architects, Watson & Co. of Winter Park, for final approval by the full commission at the conclusion of today's 7 p.m. meeting.

Commissioners Bill Kirchhoff and Robert G. "Bud" Feather, absent from Monday's meeting, were expected to be on hand at tonight.

The three commissioners also approved the wording for the ballot at the Nov. 6 general election seeking approval of the voters for a special one-cent sales tax for one year beginning Jan. 1, 1985 to finance the jail addition to provide cells for 500 more prisoners, to build access roads to the jail complex at Five Points and to renovate the county courthouse to convert it to purely judicial functions.

The special tax, if it wins the voters' approval, is estimated to bring in $13.2 million in revenues in 1985.

The commission gave its stamp of approval to the type of construction recommended by Sheriff John Polk and patterned after a facility recently built in Pinellas County.

A crane at the Pinellas County jail construction site hoists a pre-cast concrete cell. Seminole commissioners have opted for the same type of construction for the county's planned $9.7 million jail expansion.

The addition would have five octagonal shaped pods of two stories each branching out from a central core. Each pod would house about 100 prisoners in two-person cells. Medium security beds for 200 prisoners and minimum security beds for 300 would be provided.

Water and sewer service, food service, laundry facilities, storage, medical care and staff support facilities in the core of the addition would be sufficient in size for the ultimate 1,000 inmate capacity expected by the year 2000.

Representatives of Watson & Co. said the two-person cells would be factory built of pre-cast concrete and joined together in pods at the site.

The architects said the pre-casting will reduce maintenance and security problems.

The precasting technique will allow cells to be built with only

Diana was located just south of Myrtle Beach, S.C. and moving northeast at 8 miles per hour. The problem, however, is that the storm is following no clear path, making forecasts and warnings to coastal residents difficult. It was feared the storm would spawn tornadoes along the coast today.

Hurricane Growing, Heads For Carolinas

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — Hurricane Diana, its strength building dangerously, wobbled toward the Carolinas today and hundreds of coastal residents fled the threat of its 110 mph winds and 10-foot storm tides.

Neil Frank of the National Hurricane Center in Miami said Diana, the season's first hurricane, was wobbling like a top and warned coastal residents "if it wobbles to the left, we might not be able to give people a lot of lead time."

The center of the storm was 85 miles south-southeast of Myrtle Beach, S.C., moving north-northeast at 8 mph. Forecasters said Diana strengthened into a "dangerous hurricane" during the pre-dawn hours and could grow even stronger today.

"This represents a more immediate threat to the Carolina coasts," forecaster Robert Sheets said. "Residents of this area should be prepared to rush actions to completion on short notice for this dangerous hurricane."

Sheets said Diana was meandering in weak steering currents, and "it could come to a standstill or go west," Sheets said, and a westward shift would threaten Georgia's coast.

He said the storm could spawn tornadoes in the coastal areas today.

"If I were a coastal resident on one of those offshore islands to the Carolinas, I would get to the mainland where my destiny is not left to fate."

Sheets said hurricanes are "very fickle and many times we don't have a handle on it and right now this is the situation."

Lt. Gov. Mike Daniel put South Carolina's National Guard and state agencies on emergency alert and residents of Grand Strand beaches were urged to move inland.

Georgetown County officials said about 350 beachfront residents had heeded the call to abandon their homes.

Shopping Trip Ends In Rape, Pool Dunking

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando woman says she was raped by a man who took her on a shopping spree before the attack and then dumped her in a motel swimming pool afterwards.

The 24-year-old victim told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she was walking along Hillview Drive, Altamonte Springs, on her way to Playless Shoes from a friend's house at about 2 p.m. Monday when she accepted a ride from a stranger.

The man took her to the shoe store and then followed her to Kmart on state Road 436, Altamonte Springs. The victim told deputies that the man agreed to drive her to Lochmann's Plaza, state Road 434, Longwood, and then to the Altamonte Mall, state Road 436, Altamonte Springs, by a back route.

As the pair rode along, the woman realized they weren't headed for the mall when she saw a sign giving the mileage to DeLand/DeBary, deputies report.

She protested and began to call for help, but passing motorists did not respond.

The man parked his older model, compact car in a wooded area of Volusia County and told the woman he wanted to "make love," a sheriff's report said.

The woman refused and the man got out of the car and opened the passenger side door. The woman tried to flee, but was forced back into the car where the suspect removed her clothes and raped her, the report said.

After the attack she again tried to get away, but the man threw her to the ground and began choking her. She bit his hand and he released her and ordered her to dress, saying he wanted her "to go swimming," the report said.

He took her to the Deltona Inn, Deltona, where he threw her in the swimming pool as a man watched, but did not intervene, the report said.

The rapist then ordered the woman back to his car and drove her to state Road 434 at Orlando Blvd., Longwood, and released her.

The friend she had been visiting before she was picked up reported the attack to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, but the case has been turned over to Volusia County lawmen because the alleged rape occurred in that county, the report said.

Pistol Packing Permits Hard To Come By Here

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Being a pistol-packing mama — or papa — in Seminole County isn't easy.

In fact, only one person in eight years has received permission from the county commission to carry a concealed firearm, and renewal of his permit was scheduled to be discussed by the commissioners today.

The situation is different in neighboring counties.

In Brevard, 229 non-law enforcement people legally carry a hidden gun. Of those permits, 29 are up for renewal, according to that commission's secretary. In Orange County, 45 people have received permission to carry a concealed weapon, though about half of those permits are held by members of a sheriff's auxiliary. Of the remaining Orange County permits, a quarter have expired, according to a county clerk's spokesman.

The probable explanation for the large number of permits issued in Brevard and the lack of them in Seminole, is the conservative nature of Seminole's commission, according to a county attorney.

All five members of Seminole County's commission are Republicans.

State statutes, which permit full-time law enforcement personnel when off-duty to carry a concealed weapon — if it is their agency's policy for them to do so — also set a minimum criteria county commissions must require an applicant to meet before they can issue a permit. The permit is valid for two years unless revoked by the issuing commission. County commissions can set additional requirements.

Carrying a concealed gun without a permit is a third degree felony punishable by 5 years. Carrying a concealed gun after a permit expires is a first degree misdemeanor punishable by one year in the county jail.

While the state statute does not require an applicant to demonstrate a need to carry a concealed gun, both Seminole and Orange counties require by ordinance that applicants show such a need. Brevard County does not have a need criterion though it did prior to 1980, according to the commission's secretary who keeps such records.

According to a state statute, if a person in Florida wants permission to carry a concealed weapon he must obtain permission from each county commission governing the county where he wants to wear the weapon. He also must prove he is at least 18-years old, free of any addiction to drugs, has no felony convictions involving a gun, and is mentally competent.

Further, application to each commission must be accompanied by $100 which is not refundable. Renewals must be accompanied by $45 which is not refundable.

If a permit is issued, it is good only for use within the county where it is issued, according to Guy Minter, an attorney for Seminole County.

In addition to the state requirements, Seminole County requires applicants to complete a training program designed to develop skill and safety in the use and handling of the pistol for which the application is made. The applicant must also furnish supplemental information about his moral character and post a bond.

Further, permission to carry a concealed weapon can be denied by the Seminole County Commission if the applicant has been convicted of any felony or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, or has been dis-

Williams Wants To Be Paid For Explicit Penthouse Photos

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Former Miss America Vanessa Williams claims she owned the sexually explicit photos of her that appeared in Penthouse magazine, and has sued to be paid for their publication.

The deposed beauty queen, who resigned in July after it was learned the photos were to be published, sued photographer Tom Chappel in New York Supreme Court Friday, but attorneys declined to reveal details until Monday.

Her lawyer, Helene Freeman, said the suit seeks damages in "excess of $10,000," with a jury to set the exact amount.

Williams, 21, of Millwood, N.Y., also wants to be paid money that Chappel received from Penthouse for selling the pictures. Chappel was paid what Penthouse called the highest sum ever for such photos.

The suit claims the pictures were published "without consent or written authorization," a charge denied by Penthouse.

Legal action against the magazine is being considered, Ms. Freeman said.

Weapons Chips May Be Faulty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department has halted delivery of thousands of pieces of military equipment, including sophisticated weapons systems, that contain suspected faulty computer chips, the Pentagon says.

The microcircuits — the heralded silicon chips that revolutionized electronics and run everything from pocket calculators to satellites — were produced by the Texas Instruments Corp. of Midland, Texas and were suspected of being faulty when the company uncovered testing irregularities, the Pentagon said Monday.

A spokesman for the Defense Logistics Agency, John Goldsmith, said 4,700 different kinds of chips are involved but it is not known which weapons and other equipment carry the suspected semi-conductors as components. The number of weapons and parts that may be affected similarly is unknown, he said.

But the DLA said no lives have been lost or aircraft or other equipment destroyed because of part failure.

Volcano Prompts Evacuations

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Bad weather again forced scientists out of the rumbling crater of Mount St. Helens where a continuing dome-building eruption forced precautionary evacuations at nearby Spirit Lake.

Pumpling station workers and a construction crew at Spirit Lake were evacuated Monday after U.S. Geological Survey crews flying over the peak confirmed the volcano was undergoing a dome-building eruption.

Aerial observers reported continuous, glowing avalanches tumbling to the base of the dome and glowing red cracks were spotted on the surface of the mound on Sunday night. But there were indications the dome-building may be slowing.

Drug Dealer's Mansion Might Become Museum

WINTER PARK (UPI) — A convicted drug smuggler owns the 85-year-old mansion and the Internal Revenue Service has dibs on it, but the mayor of Winter Park is determined to make the aging home a tourist attraction.

Mayor Hope Strong has high hopes that he can turn the Brewer House on Lake Ocochea into a museum — a sort of symbol of old Winter Park.

But the red tape is thick and long.

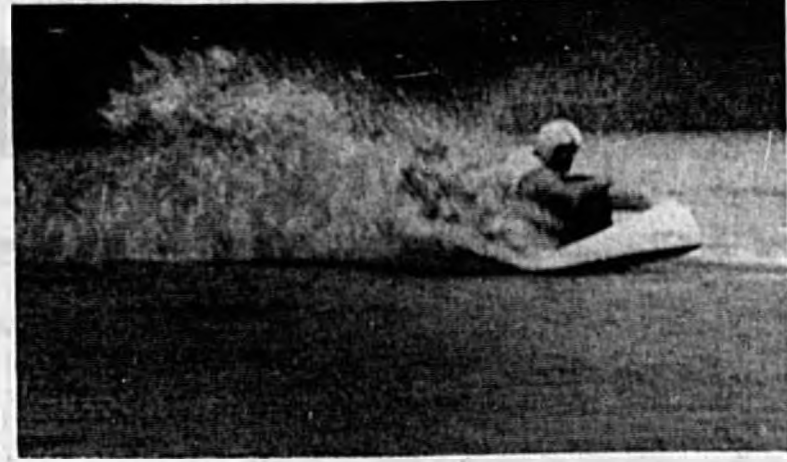

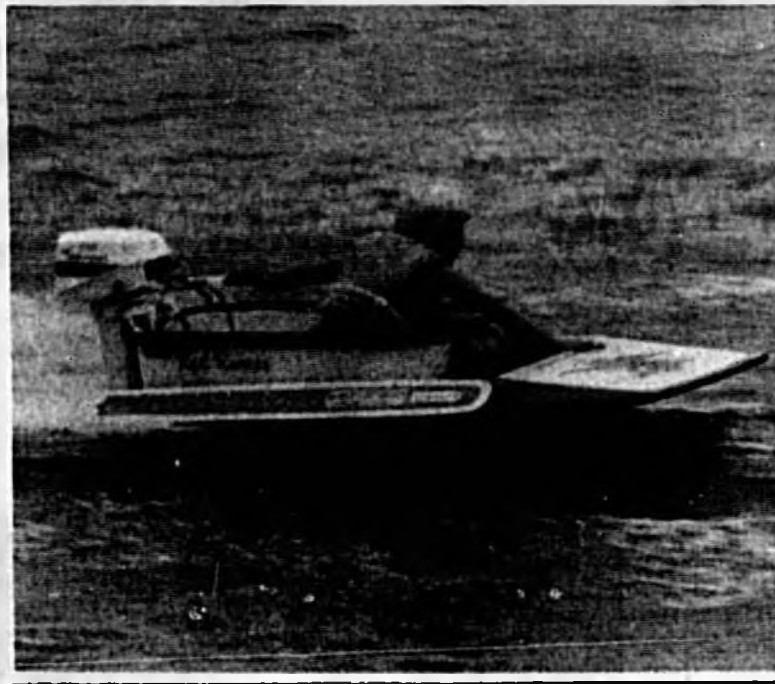

Strong must convince the IRS to give the city control of the $1.2 million stucco house. The IRS has placed liens in back taxes on all of drug dealer Robert Govern's property since Govern was convicted in 1982.

Strong also must get the approval of city commissioners, citizens and neighbors of the house.

Citrus Canker 'Serious Problem'

WINTER HAVEN (UPI) — Agriculture officials admit the discovery of citrus canker at a Polk County nursery is a "serious problem" but say they will not know how serious until testing throughout the Florida citrus belt is completed.

"If it's confined ... and we've caught it early, no problem," said Richard Gaakala, assistant director of the Division of Plant Industry in Gainesville. "If it's widely spread, we've got our hands full."

Boating Bathtubs

This was the kind of fast-paced action that thrilled spectators at the Flea World Cup bathtub regatta over the weekend at Northlake behind the Interstate Mall in Altamonte Springs. Proceeds from the event went to the Central Florida chapter of the Easter Seals Society.

Donovan Calls Probe 'Rehash'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan's former construction company is under investigation again, this time on suspicion it falsified figures about its minority subcontractors to win construction work.

Theodore Geiser, a lawyer for the Schiavone Construction Co., asked U.S. District Court Judge Leonard Sand to block a grand jury investigation.

"They're picking over a carcass which is geographically and legally far from Bronx County," Geiser said.

Sand said he would reconvene the hearing today and promised a quick ruling.

Donovan served as a vice president of the company, located in Secaucus, N.J., from 1959 until his appointment to President Reagan's Cabinet in 1981.

In a statement, Donovan called the investigation "a rehash of old charges."

According to the Schiavone complaint, a Bronx prosecutor told a lawyer representing Donovan the grand jury probe was "99 percent complete" and "an indictment or indictments, if forthcoming, are imminent."

Bronx Assistant District Attorney Steven Kartagener said at the hearing Donovan and Schiavone executives had been invited to

Raymond Donovan

...tenure as Labor Secretary has been marred by allegations of wrongdoing testify before the panel.

Kartagener said indictments resulting from the investigation could include charges of "false filing and grand larceny possibly."

Geiser said he learned last week that Bronx District Attorney Mario Merola was presenting grand jury evidence about a minority subcontractor on a 1975 Schiavone construction job for the New York City Transit Authority.

Schiavone submitted a bid to the authority in 1975 for the construction of a subway tunnel.

A subcontractor on the job was the Jo-Pel

Construction & Trucking Co. The firm qualified as a minority-owned business because it was owned by Pelligrino William "Billy the Butcher" Maselli and state Sen. Joseph Galiber, who is black.

Maselli is serving seven years in a federal prison for a hijacking conviction.

According to a federal law covering projects that use money from the government, 10 percent of the project's value must go to minority-owned firms.

The Bronx prosecutor is investigating allegations the company made false statements about the size of Jo-Pel's participation in the project to defraud the agencies funding the subway project.

The allegations were touched off by a murder investigation Merola had begun at the behest of federal officials. Donovan was not involved in the murder investigation, Merola said.

Donovan's tenure as Labor Secretary has been marked by investigations into his links with Schiavone.

In a nine-month investigation in 1983, a special prosecutor concluded there was no evidence to support allegations Schiavone paid "no-show" salaries to union officials on the job and that Donovan knew of the alleged payoffs.

If Only He Had Heeded The Warning ...

A 27-year-old transient who could have gotten off with a warning for speeding, was jailed by Oviedo police after the suspect became upset and fought with officers in an effort to keep them from searching his van. The search turned up a small quantity of marijuana, police report.

The man's van was stopped on state Road 419 in Oviedo at about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday by police who said the man had been driving 72 mph in a 55 mph zone. Officers said they wouldn't charge him if he would call someone to take him home. Two other officers approached the man's van and he became abusive, ordering them not to turn a light on inside the vehicle and not to enter it, police report.

The man began to fight the policemen and the three of them subdued and handcuffed him. His vehicle was impounded and a search turned up a small quantity of pot, police report.

Michael Leon Campbell, no address given, was charged with battery to a law enforcement officer, resisting arrest with violence, possession of a controlled substance, speeding, driving with a suspended license and not have a registration for his vehicle. He was being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Former Prime Minister Menachem Begin Hospitalized

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Doctors kept Menachem Begin in a hospital today while deciding whether the former Israeli prime minister needs surgery for a urinary ailment. Dr. Michael Rosenblatt, director of Shaare Zedek Hospital, said Monday that routine tests this week would determine Begin's condition. Begin, 71, hospitalized Monday with a prostate problem but was feeling well and in good spirits, hospital officials said. The prostate is a small gland surrounding the urethra, the tube that carries urine from the bladder. In older men, it frequently becomes enlarged and blocks the flow of urine. Begin, reclusive since his abrupt resignation on Sept. 15, 1983, had been widely reported to be in ill health.

31 Trapped In Mine Cave-In

CRICIUMA, Brazil (UPI) — Firemen wearing gas masks tunneled through fallen rock today in a frantic effort to reach 31 coal miners trapped in a mine cave-in triggered by a methane gas explosion. Two miners were known dead. "Twenty firemen are digging through the fallen rock in a race against time," said Jose Natalino, a Criciuma Fire Department spokesman. "They'll dig all day and beyond, if necessary."

Natalino said 31 men were trapped inside the mine, "but we don't think there's much chance they're alive." Natalino said firemen found two bodies after the methane gas explosion and cave-in at the Urusanga coal mine in the southern Brazilian town of Criciuma, 550 miles south of Rio de Janeiro. The mine consisted of a series of tunnels dug into the side of a mountain.

Canadian Crowds Cheer Pope

MONTREAL (UPI) — Pope John Paul II was to face the largest crowd of his Canadian visit today in a city still jittery from a bomb blast that killed three people last week in an apparent warning to the pontiff. John Paul, on the third day of a 12-day Canadian tour, was to pray at the tombs of the "miracle healer" Brother Andre, who died in 1937, and Sainte Marguerite Bourgeoys (1820-1700), the first woman given sainthood by this pope. The pope arrived in Montreal late Monday after a day highlighted by meetings with handicapped people in Quebec and Canadian Indians and Inuit in Sainte-Anne-de-Beaupre. The day's most emotional moment came when the pope reached out to about 500 handicapped at a rehabilitation center, placing his hand on the foreheads of some, embracing others, kissing one elderly woman on the cheek.

Peres Nears Goal To Lead Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Labor party leader Shimon Peres today neared a successful end to his quest for the premiership, a goal he has tenaciously pursued since 1977. Peres won final approval Monday from his Labor party to form a national unity government with the rival Likud bloc and become Israel's eighth prime minister in the nation's 36-year history. Peres will present his new government to the Knesset, the Israeli parliament, Wednesday or Thursday. However, he will share the premiere's post with Shamir under a rotation system that will give each leader 25 months in the job.

Fate Of Radioactive Cargo In Doubt

OSTEND, Belgium (UPI) — Tossing seas left in question today the fate of 225 tons of radioactive cargo held inside a sunken French freighter that was ripped open under the continuous pounding of a North Sea storm. More bad weather was expected today and it was uncertain whether storm-force winds would dissipate enough to allow diving operations to determine whether containers holding the substance, uranium hexafluoride, had rolled out of the hold and onto the sea bed. "Right now, no one can tell precisely what has happened to the cargo, although we don't rule out that some containers may have been displaced, even sitting on the (sea) bottom," said a spokesman for the French atomic energy commission following the break up of the ship in wind-whipped seas Monday. The ship has "literally been ripped open," said Klaas Reinigert, director of the Dutch salvage firm Smit International. He added, however, that the containers were "extremely tough." The freighter Mont Louis was on its way from France to the Soviet Union with 30 drums filled with 225 tons of uranium hexafluoride to be used in the production of nuclear fuel for French and Belgian power plants. The freighter sank Aug. 25 after colliding with a ferry 12 miles off the Belgian coast and was lying on its starboard side on the edge of a sand bank. Adding to the problem was the rupture of one of the Mont Louis' fuel tanks during the violent breakup. Reinigert said "oil is now streaming into the sea." A slick of 2.2 miles by 200 yards was reported by Belgian health officials.

Divers had cut a 40-by-10-foot hole in the double-hulled flank of the ship, which emerges from the sea at low tide. Reinigert said the ship broke apart where the hole had been made. Heavy seas last week tore away a 45-foot section of the deck, and several empty containers — destined to bring back enriched uranium from the Soviet Union — floated into the sea but were recovered. "We have to let the situation settle to determine whether it will be safe enough for divers to go into the wreck," Reinigert said. The U.S. Department of Energy said in a statement last month the containers were designed for long-term resistance to corrosion, and can "easily withstand" the water pressure at the 50-foot depth where the Mont Louis sank. Earlier Monday, representatives of the environmental group Greenpeace and of the British National Union of Seamen called for a ban on sea transport of radioactive material until strict international regulations are agreed upon. They had arrived in Ostend aboard the Greenpeace boat Sirlus en route to the French port of Cherbourg where they planned to protest a shipment of plutonium to Japan. Jim Slater, NUS general secretary, claimed that every week four trucks with uranium hexafluoride are being shipped aboard car-and-passenger ferries from the English port of Hull to the Dutch port of Rotterdam for the Dutch uranium enrichment plant in Almelo. "It is a criminal act to put these materials on board ships where passengers are being ferried and my union is no longer prepared to do this," he said.

Dialing For Dollars

Phone Companies Rated For Long-Distance Service

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A comparison of 17 phone companies shows Satellite Business Systems "Skylite" long-distance phone service costs about 30 percent less than American Telephone & Telegraph and often underprices Sprint and MCI. The comparison of 17 phone companies by Consumer's CHECKBOOK, a nonprofit watchdog organization, also found that next to AT&T, SBS offered the best quality of connection, the highest number of completed calls and the most accurate billing, with any billing inaccuracies in favor of customers. However, SBS, which serves mainly business customers, is not available nationwide. The company also has a $15 monthly minimum, compared to $5 for Sprint and none for MCI, AT&T's biggest competitor.

But the group said although MCI advertises rates that are as much as 40 percent less than AT&T's and Sprint claims savings "all the time," many consumers will save less than 15 percent using the services because the lowest rates apply to calls made between major cities. The study, published as "The Complete Guide to Lower Phone Rates" by CHECKBOOK president Robert Krughoff, was based on a computer analysis of phone bills from 900 residential and medium-size businesses. The comparisons were based on rates effective Aug. 1. The guide is aimed at helping customers decide which company to pick as their primary provider of long-distance phone

AT&T and its former local phone concerns fared reasonably well in the first six months after the Bell System was dissolved. The break-up created a host of long-distance providers. A consumer group has rated 17 of them to help individuals and businesses decide which is best suited to their needs. The group made 2,000 calls to gauge how many calls get through the first time they are dialed. They found no problems with AT&T. With SBS, 3 percent of the calls were not completed, AllNet, 4 percent, and MCI, ITT and Telecover, 9 percent.

their calling habits before choosing a long-distance company or discount calling plan. Rates vary during different hours of the day and companies with the lowest daytime rates may not offer the best deal on holidays or evening hours. "This shows there is plenty of room in the market for lots of different carriers," an MCI spokesman said. "Competition is going to be good for people. There is no such thing as an average customer." In testing 20 calling plans against the habits of 72 hypothetical callers, the group found that the least expensive plans are SBS, Savenet, Pace-Net, Telecover, U.S. Tel and NCR, with SBS saving many customers an average of 30 percent over AT&T. None of these companies, however, serve all parts of the country. AT&T goes everywhere and MCI and Sprint serve virtually all areas. The study compared each company's rates based on time of day and distance. For instance, a daytime call to a city 3,000 miles away would cost between 69 and 48 cents per minute on direct-dialed AT&T, between 59 and 43 cents on Sprint, 56 to 41 cents on MCI and 39 cents on SBS. In rating the alternative phone companies' "quality of connections," SBS scored closest to AT&T.

one ceiling joint made from an epoxy cement mortar, harder than concrete, architects said. The older building method, such as concrete block construction, uses multiple joints in the cells, joints which inmates can chip to create hiding places for contraband. Cell walls, ceilings and floors will be formed from precast concrete, a material which is the strongest concrete on the market and twice as strong as the concrete block which has been the accepted standard, the architects said. They said the precast concrete modular design will permit the cells to be converted to maximum or minimum security as future needs dictate. Watson & Co., with offices in Winter Park, Tampa and Ft. Myers, designed Pinellas County's new minimum-maximum security jails. Watson & Co. was chosen by the county commission as architect for the Seminole County facility on recommendation of a special staff committee. The county commissioners, Monday, also tentatively approved a timetable for the architects' design work, estimated to cost $167,000, prior to the referendum. Project scope is to be completed by Friday, programming and long-range concepts by Sept. 28, schematic design phase by Oct. 12 and design development by Oct. 26. The pre-cast concrete, modular facility is expected to be completed within 18 months, rather than the 22 months required to build a conventional jail addition. James Shoultz, former Seminole County jail administrator and one of those who worked on an analysis of the county's jail facilities and needs, said no more than 30 percent of the county jail population needs maximum security facilities. He said constructing a combined minimum and maximum security expansion at one time to house 500 additional prisoners will be "infinitely cheaper" than building an expansion "piece meal." In a related matter, Polk told the commission he is working with an attorney to set up a political action committee to accept donations for campaign materials designed to sell the one-cent sales tax idea to Seminole's voters. Polk again reminded that 30 percent of the tax will be paid by tourists and shoppers from elsewhere.

Rev. Billy Graham Calls For U.S.-Russian Arms Summit

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — Saying evil and "satanic powers" are at work in the world, the Rev. Billy Graham called for a face-to-face meeting of the superpowers to end the arms race. Speaking before rows of mass graves at Leningrad's Piskarevskoe Cemetery, where most of the million or more Leningraders killed in World War II are buried, Graham warned Monday that "never was peace so fragile, and never was the potential for catastrophe so great as is the case today." The U.S. evangelist, who had an official invitation to visit, was scheduled today to meet the Soviet Peace Committee, address students at the Leningrad Theological Academy and preach at the Leningrad Baptist Church. Graham Monday told Soviet officials and his hosts in the Orthodox and Baptist churches that as a Christian, "I know there are evil, satanic powers behind the daily headlines. "But I know also that man himself is responsible for his actions. We have become giants technologically, but morally and spiritually we are pygmies. "If the nuclear button is pressed, it will be a human being who presses it. The ultimate problem is within men's hearts," he said. Graham recalled the Soviet Union and the United States had fought side-by-side to defeat the Nazis in World War II. But, now "selfishness and greed have taken the place of love and compassion," he said. "Let us call upon our world leaders to take concrete steps toward peace ... let us urge them to renounce inflammatory rhetoric which can only increase tensions," he said. Calling for a resumption of nuclear arms talks, Graham said, "I would hope as well that the leaders of the two great superpowers would meet together and sit down to discuss matters face to face." A small group of Baptists, some of whom traveled from Soviet Central Asia to hear the evangelist speak, stood nearby.

charged under other than honorable conditions from the armed forces of the United States or possesses a violent and ungovernable temper. Today, Harvey Morse, of Longwood, who operates Locaters International, in Altamonte Springs, will ask the commission to extend his permit for two more years. Morse was denied permission to carry a concealed gun when he first applied in 1977 but won approval in 1982. He was turned down in 1977, according to commission records, because he did not meet the criteria though the specific failure was not mentioned in his file nor how it was resolved by 1982 so he could receive a permit. Also scheduled for consideration today is a first-time application by Thomas Bell, a bondaman in Altamonte Springs, according to Mary Mantzaris, administrative aid to Commissioner Bill Kirchoff. Morse, on his successful 1982 application, said he has had permission to carry a concealed weapon for at least 17 years from various local and state governments. He said he needs the gun in his job which involves the delivery of summonses for the court, the delivery of subpoenas, criminal investigations, surveillance, drug and narcotic investigations, the locating of missing people and providing body guard services. Then Morse did not get permission to carry a concealed firearm by unanimous vote of the commission because at least one commissioner felt he did not demonstrate a need for such a gun, the same reason why almost all applicants are denied permission to carry concealed weapon in Seminole County, according to Kirchoff. Kirchoff said that by Morse's own account, he had not once in 17 years in business had to use a gun, draw one or indicate he had one while doing his job. Kirchoff said the carrying of concealed weapons by law enforcement personnel is the only liability the county should accept in allowing concealed weapons. By issuing permits, the commission assumes responsibility for assuring that the person who wears the concealed weapon is worthy of the trust and not dangerous. He said the county should not be liable for the actions of someone who does not have a need and only wants to carry a concealed gun to feel secure. Kirchoff said he prefers only sworn law officers be allowed to carry concealed guns. Wanting to feel secure by carry a concealed gun is a poor reason to want such a gun, he said. "You may feel secure, but the other guy is dead," he said. He said, however, he has no objection to someone having a gun in their home. The Senate is expected to pass the bill.

Tougher Cigarette Pack Warnings?

Military Media Rules Fall Short

Imagine this: a group of reporters chosen from a national pool scrambles to join U.S. troops during a surprise military operation.

These are the journalists who will be let in on the secret, allowed to accompany the troops. U.S. officials will tell them what they can and can't do as the price for gathering their information, and what the public learns of the operation will depend largely on what these journalists transmit.

Pentagon officials say they plan to rehearse just such a scenario to test their new guidelines for media coverage of operations.

The ground rules grew out of media unhappiness that reporters weren't included in the initial landing of American troops in Grenada last year. A panel of military officers and former journalists set up by the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff came up with the recommendations.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger is to be commended for trying to reach detente with the media, but we don't think these new guidelines are either necessary or desirable.

Not that the ground rules are all bad. They generally acknowledge the public's right to know about the combat activities of its U.S. troops.

But the Pentagon should not be dictating to the media. There's no point to this policy. Grenada presented a rapid action on a small Caribbean island. Other military operations might have an entirely different set of circumstances.

The relationship between the Pentagon and the media doesn't hinge on guidelines anyway, but on the competence of its spokesmen and a willingness to provide timely, accurate information.

Ultimately, the Pentagon still reserves the right to bar the media from any American combat action for security reasons. What it declares off-limits may determine whether the Pentagon will have another media uprising on its hands.

We agree with Assistant Defense Secretary Michael I. Burch when he said, "The most important thing is the safety of our forces and the security of the mission."

But, reporters have shown themselves willing to cooperate with the military. During World War II, American correspondents were briefed in advance on some of the most sensitive troop maneuvers in Europe. They didn't blow the whistle prematurely then. There's no reason to expect they would now.

If the Defense Department insists on having a media guideline, we suggest a rule of thumb: Unless there's a compelling security risk — and that should be extremely rare — step aside and let the reporters do their job.

Leaded Gas

Lead is a health hazard, especially to small children and pregnant women. But many drivers, even of cars that specify "unleaded fuel only," use leaded gasoline.

In the Environmental Protection Agency's drive to reduce and eventually eliminate lead in gasoline, owners of some — but not all — older cars will suffer an economic loss because they will have to modify their cars or buy new vehicles.

But the human costs of leaded fuel far outweigh the economic benefits to these car owners. Besides, the EPA has proposed lenient standards on leaded fuel, which it will review after a period of public comment. Lead in gas would be reduced to one-tenth of a gram per gallon effective Jan. 1, 1986. Total elimination would be called for by 1995, when, according to an EPA estimate, only one-tenth of 1 percent of the cars on the road would be affected.

As the EPA opens hearings on leaded fuel, old-car owners who wish to delay the rules should remember that our most precious resource is young people, not old autos.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Is something wrong? You don't seem very charismatic today."

About 40 homeless, long-haired dogs will get the beauty treatment of their lives Sept. 25 at the Seminole County Humane Society's Animal Shelter.

The canines will get a clipping and bath at 1:30 p.m. Shelter staffers hope this will make the dogs more appealing and adoptable.

Kathy's Klippers, a mobile grooming unit from Oviedo, will groom the dogs and get them into squeaky clean shape. All they will need is a home.

The Humane Society says October is "Adopt A Dog Month." Everyone adopting a dog from the Seminole County shelter during the month will receive a free adoption kit containing pet care information and sample treats for the pet.

The adoption fee of $45 for dogs and $25 for cats includes some shots, deworming, spaying or neutering. Visitors are welcome Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the shelter on County Home Road in Sanford. For more information call 323-8685.

The Seminole County chapter of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities will hold its first meeting for the 1984-85 school year Sept. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at Winter Springs Elementary School. Officials from Seminole County Public Schools will speak and answer questions on new staffing procedures at the schools. These procedures are required for students to enter exceptional education programs.

Seminole ACLD is affiliated with the national and state ACLD. Membership is open to parents and professionals interested in advancing the education of learning disabled students. However, one need not be a member to attend the meetings. The chapter will meet on the third Monday of each month at Winter Springs Elementary School.

EDWARD J. WALSH On The Canadian Disease

Canadians were proud, and with good reason, of the performance of their Olympic team during the recent Games at Los Angeles. And Calgary, Alberta, in Western Canada, will host the Winter Olympics in 1988. Unfortunately, Canadians haven't much else to be proud of. As they watch the United States soar into its third year of economic boom, their own economic performance slogs along at a sick 1 percent annual growth rate. Unemployment stands at 11.2 percent.

A few months ago, the Canadian dollar sank below what was thought to be the psychological bottom, 80 cents against the U.S. greenback. Right now it's at about 76 cents. The Canadian budget deficit, at $20 billion, is bigger than the U.S. shortfall as a percent of gross national product. Meanwhile, the Canadian Restrictive Trade Practices Commission, in a replay of the mid-seventies, is chasing down Canadian oil companies with antitrust charges and penalties.

Why are things so tough for our giant northern neighbor? Canada's history mirrors our own in many ways. It is a nation of immigrants, who came to North America seeking political freedom and economic opportunity. While the first is there, all right, the second barely exists at all.

As a late member of the British Commonwealth and a borrower of American political ideas, Canada offers its citizens the best tradition in Western political institutions. However, Canada suffers from a deep overdose of classic European continental socialism. Sixteen years of leadership by Liberal Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau set the country firmly in the rut of the welfare state economics that most Western European nations are still stuck in. The ironic exception, it appears, right now, is France, whose socialist President Mitterand, a one-time Trudeau hero, has just purged the worst welfare state from his cabinet and is moving back to free enterprise.

Unluckily for our Canadian friends, their government seems intent on acting like a U.S. enemy. There seems to be not even a glimmer of awareness of what's wrong between the Conservative and Liberal parties, who contested the national leadership last week. Both major candidates had nothing to offer but more taxes, to the citizens of a country that is the third most heavily taxed in the world.

There was hope for Canada four years ago, when the voters threw Trudeau out for about six months. His successor, Conservative Joe Clark thought his supporters wanted higher taxes, especially on gasoline and heating oil. He was shortly relieved, and Trudeau rehired. At his acceptance speech to Parliament, he yelled "Welcome to the Eighties!"

JACK ANDERSON

Mexicans Linked To Neo-Nazi

WASHINGTON — The heart of Latin American death squad activity beats most strongly in Guadalajara, Mexico. This is the conclusion of knowledgeable sources interviewed by my associates Dale Van Atta in Washington and Jon Lee Anderson in Mexico, Honduras and El Salvador.

The first clue came last year when an admitted Honduran death squad member told Anderson that his group and others like it received direction from Mexico. He identified the coordinating organization as CAL, the initials of the World Anti-Communist League's Latin American affiliate.

After my report was published, the league belatedly kicked CAL out of the international body. The league's U.S. head, retired Army Gen. John Singlaub, told my office CAL had "knowingly promoted pro-Nazi groups" and was "virulently anti-Semitic." As my investigation has revealed, that was putting it mildly.

CAL has been directed by a secret order called Los Tecos, based

JEFFREY HART

Memo To Stu Spencer

Despite the smooth-running convention in Dallas, and despite the huge Reagan lead in the polls, something is wrong with this campaign. There is a sense that central coordination is lacking, and that some of the players do not know their lines.

You have a George Bush problem. After a three-hour lunch with the president at his ranch, Bush needlessly put the campaign on the defensive by making what amounted to an academic distinction as regards raising taxes. Though Reagan's position was that he would not raise taxes in 1985, Bush told reporters that any president would have to keep his options open. Now that is true, but in 1985, George Bush is old enough to know that he is in a political campaign and not running a seminar on theories of government, and the political point to be made is that Mondale represents a high-federal-spending party and certainly would raise taxes whereas Reagan has a career record of wanting lower spending and lower taxes.

The vice president made another mistake, totally gratuitous, in Dallas. He found himself denouncing Richard Viguerie, the direct mail genius, and Terry Dolan of the National Conservative Political Action Committee, as not really Republicans. The Republican party has to be in the business of expanding its appeal, not narrowing it, and the vice president is not supposed to be in the business of excluding constituencies from the party. Both Viguerie and Dolan, contributed mightily in 1980 to the defeat of liberal senators like George McGovern, Frank Church, John Culver and Birch Bayh — and thus contributed to the present Republican majority in the Senate that made the Reagan tax cuts. This ought to be Republican enough for Mr. Bush.

This Reagan-Bush ticket is getting a free ride for the time being because of the Ferraro-Zaccaro scandals, and may continue to do so. No less than seven independent investigations into the financial and business affairs of that couple are going forward, and this could turn into the never-ending story.

Reagan's acceptance speech in Dallas was no better than B plus, when it should have been the climax of his political career to date. The speech was too long, it was too full of detail — cluttered, in fact — and it waited too long to build to an emotional climax. Reagan could read the telephone book and sound good, but an opportunity was missed here.

Everyone knows that Reagan is against taxes, but the position of the campaign here is too defensive. In fact, it is philosophical mush. The campaign is saying that Reagan will not raise taxes unless he has to, when what it should be saying is that the private sector is the place where income is generated and that lower taxes stimulate such economic activity, and thus generate taxable income.

The campaign has been excessively gentle with Geraldine Ferraro, who is shaping up as a tough, mean cookie. Ferraro-Zaccaro have developed a tactic of pleading ignorance or bad advice for all of their embarrassing items of behavior, but it might be pointed out that their mistakes are always in their own favor. The loans and deals and income tax payments always benefit Ferraro-Zaccaro, never the reverse. We might call this highly profitable ignorance.

Stu, you ran a highly effective campaign for Reagan in 1966 in California when he defeated Pat Brown by a million votes. You almost put Ford over the top in 1976 and you helped save a flailing Reagan campaign in the summer of 1980. You are a tough professional in the tradition of Herb Brownell, Leonard Hall and other tough campaign managers. It's time for someone to take hold of this campaign and discipline it, make the decisions, make sure they stick. It will be too late to do so if the corpse of the Mondale-Ferraro campaign somehow suddenly revives, and in politics you have to be ready for anything.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN Looking For Some New Ideas

Liberal columnist Richard Reeves makes the interesting point that "intellectual ferment has begun on the Left." He says that "foundations in New York, like Carnegie, Ford and the Rockefeller Brothers" and others are beginning to finance studies like nuclear issues. He concludes that "it takes years for ideas to break out, but they will."

Actually, major liberal foundations have provided massive funding for anti-defense groups for years. Mr. Reeves, however, detects and approves the latest push.

These foundations have a right to fund projects that aid the anti-defense lobby, however unwise and hurtful to U.S. interests. Conservatives, for their part, have been active in financing studies that are in accord with their priorities. The conservatives, to be sure, haven't anything like the massive foundation resources available to liberal-left causes.

The battle of the foundations and think tanks is an accepted part of American life. As Mr. Reeves correctly notes, party labels don't mean as much these days as they did in the past. In the mid-1980s, politicians try to sell themselves on the basis of "new ideas." And that's where the foundations and think tanks come in. This approach doesn't always work, of course, as Sen. Gary Hart discovered. His failure to win the Democratic presidential nomination can be attributed at least in part to the fact that his "new ideas" campaign lacked authentic new ideas.

No one should condemn the search for new ideas. We need them in this decade. The world is an increasingly complex place. Citizens have difficult decisions to make on a vast array of public policy issues. Solutions to the problems we face as a nation depend very much on the discovery of new ideas, new approaches, new insights.

The public should insist, however, that it be presented with authentically new ideas, not old propaganda in fresh attire, which seems to be the aim of the foundations that want to give new life to the old nuclear freeze notion.

The fact, however, is that new ideas are hard to find. They arise from dedicated and sincere studies, not from propagandistic desires or political hucksterism. Both liberals and conservatives are guilty of offering "new ideas" of questionable worth.

If ones reads about the liberal "new ideas" in journals of that persuasion, one usually discovers that they are reiterations of concepts developed during the Roosevelt New Deal. Advocates of liberal innovation seem to have their minds firmly set on the year 1932, on the redistribution of income and the build-up of the federal bureaucracy.

in Guadalajara. The secret society grew out of a right-wing, counter-revolutionary force known as Los Cristeros during the Mexican revolution early in this century.

Los Tecos was linked with Hitler's Third Reich when one of its leaders spent time in Berlin studying the Nazi regime. He then infused Los Tecos with a dogma that made enemies of Jews, Muslims and communists — with a bit of medieval-Nordic mythology thrown in for good measure.

Though some Catholic priests and students initially applauded Los Tecos' conservatism, the group's bizarre religious rites led to a schism with Catholics in the 1950s.

CAL-Tecos propaganda, published in their magazine, Replicas, went clearly around the bend with weird stories about Jews, witches, drug addicts and homosexuals taking over the Vatican. During his visit to Mexico, Pope John Paul II was elevated by these propagandists from a homosexual drug addict to the anti-Christ.

A league official described his ousted ex-colleagues in Guadalajara as "extremely bizarre and very crazy." He said the World Anti-Communist League had linked Los Tecos' anti-Semitic publishing efforts to neo-Nazi writers and translators in Europe and this country.

In fact, books such as "Mein Kampf," "The Great Jewish Conspiracy," "The International Jew" and "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion" abound in Guadalajara.

Los Tecos exerts behind-the-scenes control of the Autonomous University in Guadalajara, which was funded partly by the U.S. government and private U.S. foundations in the 1960s. Former Los Tecos members say the group obtains funds through grants and scholarship money given to the university and laundered for Los Tecos' "political" activities.

Though Jews are obviously not encouraged to attend the university, one Jew, now a respected Mexican academic, infiltrated both the university and the secret society in 1978 using phony credentials. He found that they were "distributing their own (pro-Nazi) texts instead of the obligatory government-provided textbooks," and he was appalled at a youth rally reminiscent of a Hitler Youth spectacle, complete with swastika armbands on uniforms.

Los Tecos tries determinedly to convert the university students to its brand of bigotry. And while the national university in Mexico City is so chaotic that few students ever get their degrees, the one in Guadalajara has security guards to keep order, so it is possible for the neo-Nazis to graduate.

Footnote: The Mexican government for some reason looks the other way when Los Tecos misbehaves, though the society's presence in Guadalajara is hardly a secret.

My associate, Anderson, was firmly warned against trying to investigate Los Tecos in Guadalajara because the leaders are known to be unpredictable and extremely violent.

Jason Waits... We Ain't Afraid Of No Ghosts

Four-year-old Jason Stimson isn't much for pomp and circumstance. Above, Jason, a member of Longwood's Under 6 East Green soccer team, sits in a trolley car waiting for the parade to begin at the Seminole Soccer Club Jamboree Saturday at Lyman High School. At the top right, Jason wonders how long he'll have to wait before he starts kicking the ball around. At the right, he accepts the fact that it will be awhile. Meanwhile, below, a marching group of Ghostbusters say, "We ain't afraid of no ghosts."

Solace For Seminole: No One Wilted Like 'Hurricane Bernie'

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

If any of Sanford's Fighting Seminoles are still feeling the blues from Friday's loss to Titusville Astronaut, they can take solace in one fact.

It could have been worse. They all could have played like Bernie Kosar.

Miami's hotshot freshman, who was ready for Hall of Fame enshrinement by some sports writers, turned in the worst TV performance since My Mother The Car.

The Hurricanes, who were playing their third game in 13 days, were probably ready to self-destruct anyway. The pros don't play that many games in that time span.

Second-year man Kosar played more like a sophomore than a senior this time around. He tossed SIX interceptions as Miami lost for the first time and tumbled from the exalted peak of No. 1 in the polls.

Kosar didn't engineer the great comebacks which knocked off Auburn on Aug. 27 and Florida on Sept. 1. And he had the opportunities. But the sharpness was gone from his arm and most of the interceptions were underthrown.

So Hurricane Bernie is normal. Does that mean he won't join former coach Howard Schnellenberger with the Orlando Nameless next year? Probably so. He'll have more fun in school anyway.

The Fighting Seminoles, meanwhile, had to be at their best if they hoped to beat Astronaut. Coach Jay Donnelly's War Eagles usually make their reservations for the post-season playoffs about this time each year.

Donnelly is the only coach Astronaut has ever had, but unlike that guy who's hanging above the swirling waters of Tampa Bay right now, he wins more than he losses. The 40-year-old coach has won or shared six district and seven conference titles. Astronaut has made four appearances in the state playoffs, but has yet to come away with all the marbles.

That may change this year, however. "It's definitely the best Astronaut team we've played," said Seminole coach Jerry Posey who is winless in five tries against Donnelly.

As defensive coordinator Dave "Mr. Intensity" Mosure points out, when you go chin strap to chin strap with Astronaut, you're playing more than a football game.

"Astronaut was awesome," said Mosure after another session with the films. "They have to be the strongest team we've played since I've been here. Maybe we had our kids too up for the game.

Prep Football

"But I'm not sure it would have mattered. You're not just playing a football team, you're playing a whole community. It's a tradition over there and it's an active tradition.

"They're got everybody involved and everything going for them. It's just like a machine that starts feeding off itself. They just devoured us."

The two early touchdowns didn't help. A good punt return and then an unfortunate bounce backward on Hal Posey's second punt set up the two War Eagles scores which put Sanford in a 15-0 hole right away.

Seminole, which is more adept at sustaining a lead because of its running game, was in immediate trouble. The Tribe played Astronaut even for the next 22 minutes before John David Ross returned a Mike Welchel interception for 25 yards and a touchdown. Astronaut added a meaningless TD in the fourth quarter.

Despite the 28-0 loss, the Tribe several good defensive showings. Linebacker Bryan DeBose earned the Sanford Optimist Defensive Player of the Week award for his all-around performance.

Defensive end Fred Brinson and tackle Anthony Hall also played good games as did safety Deron Thompson and monsterback Brian Brooks, according to Posey.

Offensively, there wasn't much to shout about. Sanford had just 45 yards in 30 carries. The flashy backs just couldn't get out of the backfield before some War Eagle took a bite out of them.

The defensive line of the War Eagles pretty much had its way with Sanford's inexperienced offensive line. Of course, when you can find two of those linemen — David Montgomery and Frankie Glenn — among the three-page spread of Astronaut all-stars, you might find it rough going in the trenches.

Still, nobody threw six interceptions.

TEPEE TALK — The only thing worse than waiting a week to hit somebody is waiting two weeks. The Fighting Seminoles have this Friday off before hosting Lake Howell, Friday, Sept. 21. Then, they can atone for Friday's setback.

Reserved season tickets are on sale at the high school for $20. The $20 fee assured the ticket holder of seats at freshman, junior varsity and varsity games. Call 322-4352 (ext. 232) for the details.

Thompson Lost For Season

Oviedo QB Suffers 2nd Heartbreak On Football Field

Sometimes life isn't fair. I'm sure that's what Kevin Thompson is thinking right now. On Wednesday, Kevin will have major surgery on his knee.

Thompson was the quarterback for the Oviedo Lions Friday night against Melbourne. Early in the second half, Thompson unloaded a pass and was watching the play develop when a defender rolled into his right leg. The body wanted to go down, but only the top half did.

The knee was sandwiched and that's when the tear occurred. It was diagnosed as posterior ligament damage. "It's third degree," said a disconsolate Jack Blanton, Thompson's coach. "He'll be lost for the season."

This isn't the first time

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

Thompson has been victimized by a freak accident. Last spring, prior to the jamboree, the likeable senior suffered a broken finger.

The loss may be devastating for the Lions. They don't have a backup quarterback and sophomore John Morrow will be pressed into service. Morrow, who will be a great one before he's through, is coming off an impressive, two-touchdown showing against the Lake Brantley junior varsity.

But, as Blanton is quick to point out, JV is JV and varsity is varsity. "I think John can do it," said Blanton about his 6-1, 180-pounder. "He has all the physical tools. And he put in a good summer. We just have to get him ready mentally."

For Thompson, nevertheless, the blow is worse. Here's one of the most popular players on the Lions and all he gets to show for his senior year is one-half of football. Oviedo whipped Melbourne Friday night, 7-0.

The 5-8, 180-pounder was probably the most talented QB in the conference. He had great quickness and agility. Last year,

Disney Pulls Plug On USFL Plans; Franklin Out, Miami Gets Muncie

ORLANDO (UPI) — An attempt by a Florida businessman to purchase the troubled USFL Washington Federals and move the team to Orlando is apparently off.

Tampa Bay Bandits owner John Bassett, who holds the territorial rights for any USFL franchise in Florida, refused Monday to budge from the steep terms he set for the transfer of those rights.

Later in the day, former University of Miami Coach Howard Schnellenberger, who was considering becoming coach and general manager of an Orlando franchise, withdrew his commitment to the team.

"I hate to lose it," said Donald Disney, the Orlando businessman who had worked for several weeks to secure the team for central Florida. "We were so close. I feel like I've let so many people down."

Disney said he expected to pay $1 million to acquire territorial rights from Bassett.

Bassett was reportedly asking $1.2 million and 2 1/2 percent of the team's gross revenue; the right to buy 50 percent of the team in the event of a merger with the NFL; proxy rights for certain league votes; required participation in a Florida cable network controlled by Bassett; and the payment of all expenses in an annual preseason Orlando-Tampa Bay game with revenues split between the teams.

Schnellenberger, who planned to become coach of a planned Miami franchise until those plans were scrapped last month, said the instability of the league is forcing him to look elsewhere for work.

"It is not clear whether the league and all parties involved will be willing to work out fair territorial rights in time to properly prepare a team for the 1985 season," said Schnellenberger. "In light of this and in consideration of the many recent changes and continuing uncertainty, I have concluded that my coaching future is not in the USFL."

Disney said he is uncertain what his next step might be.

"I just don't know what we might do," said

MUNCIE IS UNHAPPY WITH TRADE

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins have traded for San Diego running back Chuck Muncie to replace fullback Andra Franklin, who has been scheduled for knee surgery.

Franklin, the Dolphins' Most Valuable Player in 1982, injured his knee in Sunday's 28-7 win over the New England Patriots at the Orange Bowl. He was scheduled to undergo knee surgery today and will be lost for the season.

Muncie missed the Chargers' flight to Seattle for Sunday's game against the Seahawks and coach Don Coryell said the running back was being traded "for the good of the team."

A spokesman for the Dolphins Monday night said coach Don Shula had spoken with the former Pro Bowl player by telephone. He said Muncie was not happy about the trade but was happy to be coming to Miami if it had to be done.

The spokesman said travel plans were being made to bring Muncie in town this week.

49ERS OUTSHOOT REDSKINS, 37-31

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco 49ers coach Bill Walsh knew he would have to hide his battered defense to come away with a victory over the Washington Redskins.

But even Walsh had to be surprised at how well his offensive unit controlled the football and kept his defense off the field Monday night.

The 49ers had the ball nearly twice as long — 19:14 to 10:46 — as the Redskins in the first half and rolled up a 27-3 lead by halftime. Washington rallied in the second half but fell short, 37-31, to fall to 0-2 for the year.

"We did what we needed to do tonight," Walsh said. "We made some mistakes with our young players, but it was a fine team effort."

JV Lady Patriots Show Promise For The Future

Lake Brantley's junior varsity showed there is a lot of promise for the future of cross country for the Lady Patriots Saturday in the Lyman Grehound Opener at Seminole Community College.

Leading the way was Lynn Gomezperalta who finished eighth individually with a time of 15:21. Kim Vileno also ran a good race as she came in ninth at 15:23.

Other times for the Brantley JV included Barbara Pantuso (20th at 16:32), Lisa Bellino (28th at 17:17), Ginny Sutherland (28th at 17:21), Debbie Garrett (29th at 17:26), Rachel Golusinski (34th at 18:27), Wendy Garrett (37th at 18:58), Trudi Gillis (38th at 19:04) and Laura Higgins (41st at 20:30).

Lake Mary had a pair of junior varsity runners including Kim Wager who was 33rd at 18:07 and Kristen Pawlowski who was 35th at 18:35.

Cathy Champ was the top runner for Oviedo on the day as she finished 13th in the junior varsity race with a time of 15:38.7.

LADY SAINTS FINISH 4TH

The Luther Invitational was also held on Saturday at Trinity Prep and Trinity Prep's Lady Saints came away with a fourth place finish. Fort Lauderdale Westminster Academy came in first.

Trinity Prep junior Adrienne Politowicz extended her cross country winning streak as she came in first with a time of 11:36 on the fast Trinity Prep course (15-30 seconds faster than most courses). Politowicz placed first in every meet she ran in last year before missing the region and state meets with an injury.

Tampa Berkley Prep's Laura label came in second at 11:46 and Trinity Prep sophomore Katie Sama finished third at 12:19.

Cardinals Dig Deeper Hole For Mets, 3-2

United Press International
For people who were buried long ago, the St. Louis Cardinals are digging quite a grave for the New York Mets.

The Cardinals beat New York 3-2 Monday night, dropping the Mets seven games behind the first-place Chicago Cubs in the East Division with less than three weeks left in the regular season.

The Redbirds, who were never really part of the NL East picture this season, also beat the Mets twice in St. Louis last week and now stand only four games behind the Mets.

"There ain't no reason why we can't bear down and get into second place," said Cardinals right-hander Dave LaPoint. "We've been talking to the younger players, letting them know that there is some dollars to be made for second place. We can't give up the ship yet."

The race becomes particularly interesting because of some mid-season byplay. The Cards and manager Whitey Herzog in particular were getting lots of grief for having traded first baseman Keith Hernandez to the Mets in 1983.

Hernandez, who was accused by Herzog of having spent too much time doing crossword puzzles in the clubhouse, responded by getting some key hits as the Mets beat up on the Cardinals in June.

But no one has been beating on the Cardinals lately. LaPoint started brilliantly Monday night, striking out the first three, and went on to retire the first nine straight.

"Those first-inning strikeouts were a pretty good confidence-builder," said LaPoint. "I've been lucky to get out of the first inning in my last three starts. I'm not a power pitcher, but if I'm throwing my fastball for strikes, then I'm going to get strikeouts on my changeup, which is what happened."

Willie McGee doubled in two runs in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie and LaPoint, 10-10, allowed only four hits over eight innings. Bruce Sutter bailed the Cardinals out of a ninth-inning jam to record his 41st save. Sid Fernandez, 4-5, took the loss.

"We have to win," said Mets center fielder Mookie Wilson. "There is that pressure on us. We can no longer say to ourselves we have two months left. It's counting down toward the last two weeks. This was a game tonight that we could have won. We didn't give it away, but we didn't do very much to help ourselves."

In Chicago, Juan Samuel's throwing error allowed Gary Woods to score from second to cap a three-run seventh inning to rally the Cubs to a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The decision dropped the Cubs' magic number for clinching their first title in 39 years to 12.

Chicago, which had been held in four hits in the first two games of the series at Expos 8, Pirates 5.

At Pittsburgh, Jim Wohlford went 3-for-5 and drove in five runs to lead a 14-hit attack that lifted the Expos. Dick Groat pitched 1-2, pitched 4 2-3 innings for his first major-league victory. Joe Hesketh went four innings to notch his first save. Lee Tunnell, 1-5, took the loss. Tim Lincecum singled and doubled while driving in a run, but didn't steal any bases. He still trails Juan Samuel, 67-64.

Braves 3, Astros 1
At Houston, Zane Smith, making his major-league debut, and Pete Falcone combined on a seven-hitter for the Braves. Smith, a 23-year-old left-hander, went six innings for the victory. Falcone finished for his second save. Nolan Ryan fell to 12-10.

Metrodome Roof Lights The Way, Twins Tip Royals

United Press International
The Minnesota Twins have been waiting for something to light their way to the American League pennant.

They might have found it Monday night along the roof of the Metrodome.

A high fly ball hit by Minnesota's Tim Teufel in the third inning got lost in the lights by three Kansas City players and dropped for an RBI double, paving the way for a 7-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Teufel later scored on a sacrifice fly by Mickey Hatcher and the Twins added a run in the fifth on an RBI single by Kent Hrbek to take a 3-0 lead.

After the Royals got within 3-2, the Twins broke the game open with a four-run seventh that featured six consecutive singles.

The victory enabled the Twins to move into a first-place tie with the Royals in the AL West.

"They got some timely hits but they didn't really knock the cover off the ball," said Kansas City manager Dick Howser. "We didn't play badly, but the game got away from us at the end. What you don't want to do is get swept. If we win one game, we're still in first place."

Mike Smithson allowed eight hits, including homers by Steve Balboni and Frank White, in raising his record to 14-12.

"This is what it's all about," the lanky right-hander said. "A lot of players who have been in this league don't get a chance to be this far. I love this."

Twins manager Billy Gardner, who was ejected in the eighth for arguing a close call, said his team is well aware of its position.

"I don't have to have any talk with these guys. They know where they are and they know they're in first," Gardner said.

Orioles 3, Tigers 1

Yankees 6, Blue Jays 2

At Toronto, Don Mattingly drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a double and Butch Wynegar chipped in with a solo homer as the Yankees handed the Blue Jays their fifth straight defeat. The Yankees boosted their post All-Star Game record to 41-19, tops in the majors. John Montefusco, 3-2, worked six innings for victory and Jay Howell notched his seventh save.

Brewers 7, Red Sox 4

At Boston, Don Sutton moved into sixth place on the all-time strikeout list and Doug Loman keyed a five-run fourth inning with a two-run single, leather Brewers. Sutton, 13-11, struck out four to surpass Ferguson Jenkins on the all-time list with 3,194. Jim Rice and Wade Boggs homered for Boston.

Mariners 7, Rangers 3

At Seattle, rookie Alvin Davis' two-run homer capped a three-run seventh inning and Jim Beattie tossed an eight-hitter to guide the Mariners. Beattie, 11-15, struck out four and walked four in pitching his 10th complete game of the season. The 11 victories represents a career-high for the right-hander.

A's 1, White Sox 0

At Oakland, Cal. Ray Burris pitched a three-hitter over 8 2/3 innings and Bruce Bochte walked with the bases loaded in the third inning to give the A's the victory. Oakland took advantage of three walks and a hit batsman by Richard Dotson, 13-13, to score their run.

Wilson Goes Back To Basics To Take Late-Model Feature

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Getting ready for the Winters Performance Products 200 this Saturday night at Mobile (Ala.) International Speedway, Rick Wilson drove the Murphy Chevrolet 1984 Firebird to a convincing victory in the 25-lap late model feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Wilson, who scored his first superspeedway win last February, when he captured the ARCA 200 at Daytona, had finished fifth in a 100-lap race on the New Smyrna high banks the previous week, but he was very unhappy with his performance.

"I'll be back next week," he said before going back to the shop.

"We were trying all that new stuff, but we weren't going anywhere," Wilson said after his win. So he told his crew chief Robbie Loomis: "To heck with all that...Let's go back to basics."

They made a lot of changes, bolted a fresh Barnes and Reese motor in the car, and after several track-burning laps of practice, Rick turned fast time.

Coming out on top of a crowd-pleasing duel with David Rogers in the fast heat, Wilson came back in the feature to lead every lap but one. Rogers was second, followed by Bobby Newton, Bruce Lawrence and Bob Eggert. Second heat winner was Chuckie Lee.

Fresh from his win in the 50-lap Labor Day Weekend Championship the previous Sunday, World Series thundercar champion David Russell bested Stan Eads, Rick Lokey, Mike Goldberg and Charlie Wheaton to win that division's 20-lap finale.

Second generation race driver David Snodgrass won the street stock feature and will be a strong

Eric Christopher Nixon

Eagle Scout Award

Eric Nixon, a 13-year-old Maitland Boy Scout, believed in going after his Eagle Award literally. To achieve the highest award in scouting candidates must undertake a community service project. Eric chose to help the eagle, the national bird, through Save Our American Raptors, Inc.

He landscaped the organization's eagle exhibit and raised $689 to help SOAR educate the public about eagles and other birds of prey. After 230 hours of hard work, Eric received his award at Westminster United Presbyterian Church Aug. 28.

In addition to helping the eagle, Eric earned 21 merit badges. He is a member of troop 251 and serves in leadership positions as den chief, librarian and senior patrol leader.

Eric's interest in scouting started in third grade in boy scouts. He is currently a freshman at Lake Howell High School. He lives at 2615 Derbyshire Road, Maitland, with his mother and father, Roger and Ann Nixon. — Rick Branson

DEAR ABBY: Now that school has resumed, as a high school teacher, may I make a few suggestions that would greatly improve our nation's educational system and cost the taxpayer's nothing?

Make school attendance a top priority!

A message to students: Stop skipping school because you don't want to face a challenging day. Accept those challenges and do your best. Your whole life will be filled with challenges, so learn to deal with them now — one day at a time.

A message to parents: Stop letting your children skip school to go shopping, to go hunting, to sleep in, to go on a family vacation, to nurse a minor ache, or whatever. It's your responsibility to see that your children get eight hours of sleep each night, eat nutritious meals (especially breakfast) and get to school on time.

A message to business people: Stop hiring students to work during school hours. And please stop hiring teen-age students to work after 8 p.m. on evenings before a school day. They need time to study and get a good night's sleep for school the next day.

A message to doctors, dentists, counselors and social workers: Please stop pulling students out of classes for non-emergencies to accommodate your schedules. Most students are dismissed at

Dear Abby

2:45 p.m., so please give them late afternoon appointments. Their education is as important to them as the schedules of adult patients and clients are to professionals.

Abby, recent studies show that we are a nation at risk. In the last 10 to 15 years, the quality of our education has deteriorated dramatically. An appalling number of our high school students are certified illiterates, and absenteeism is one of the main causes.

Students who do not attend classes cannot be taught.

SMALL-TOWN TEACHER

DEAR TEACHER: Bravo! Well stated. Students, parents, business people, doctors, dentists, counselors and social workers, please take note and make school attendance a top priority.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl and I'm very mature for my age. My boyfriend and I have become very serious, and I don't want to take a chance on getting pregnant. I'm afraid to ask my mom because I'm sure she wouldn't understand. How do you tell a woman who doesn't realize you're grown up yet that you want to go on the pill?

Please, hurry your answer before it's too late.

MAMA'S "BABY"

DEAR "BABY": Tell your mother just the way you told me. She will then realize that you are already in a very serious relationship, and although you seem like a "baby" to her, you are old enough to have one.

I am printing this so you can show it to her. It may get a dialogue going that will be helpful to both of you.

DEAR ABBY: I could have written the letter signed "Outrage." She wanted a snappy comeback for people who joked about the fact that her child's hair color was nothing like hers or her husband's.

My husband's hair is black and mine is blond, and we produced a son with flaming red hair. Believe me, I've heard my share of mailmen, icemen and milkmen jokes.

Here's how we handled it: When our son was about 4 years old, and people would ask him where he got his red hair, we taught him to say, "It came with my head."

TOUCHE INTULSA

DEAR ABBY: I really identified with "Outrage," whose son had a completely different hair color than her husband's and hers. I had the same problem, but I thought it was funny!

When I was pregnant with our first child, we lived out in the suburbs of Seattle, quite a distance from the stores. A truck from a local bakery came by twice a week. The driver was a handsome man with very red hair.

When our daughter was born, she had flaming red hair — and a lot of it! You should have seen the faces on the neighbors when we brought her home from the hospital! It was a riot! Naturally, there must have been recessive genes that picked up the red hair back a generation or so in both families. But I sure gave all our neighbors a lot to talk about. It didn't make me angry because, of course, there was no guilt!

The funniest comment of all came from the neighbor who said, "Boy, when you get bread, you really get bred!"

Tell "Outrage" to just laugh it off. People aren't trying to be mean — the world is full of comedians!

Air Florida Deal —Will It Fly?

By Susan Postlewaite
UPI Business Writer

MIAMI (UPI) — Air Florida won temporary custody of a jetliner Monday to keep its fleet of four intact until at least Friday while it negotiates a deal to fly again with Chicago-based Midway Airlines.

Terms of the plan with Midway are to be revealed in bankruptcy court Friday.

John Olson, attorney for Air Florida, said discussions among executives of Air Florida, Midway and the government continued Monday "in at least three places — Chicago, Washington and Miami — and at various levels of the company."

The two carriers disclosed Aug. 27 they had reached a preliminary agreement in which Midway Airlines would use four Air Florida jets to fly to White Plains, N.Y., Washington D.C. and points in Florida, perhaps under a new name of Midway Express. The flights could begin as early as Sept. 30.

Bankruptcy Judge Sidney Weaver last week gave Great American Life Insurance Co. permission to repossess its Boeing 737, which is currently without engines.

On Monday, attorneys for Air Florida and Great American said they reached a new agreement in which Air Florida will keep the plane until 5 p.m. Friday and also "hang its engines" and replace some missing parts.

Air Florida won a small victory Monday when the bankruptcy judge told Justice Department attorneys he was postponing a price-fixing suit brought against Air Florida by the government a few days after the carrier filed for Chapter 11 under the bankruptcy laws on July 3. The charges allege Air Florida conspired to fix prices on certain Latin American routes.

Attorneys for the Justice Department said they will appeal the judge's ruling, and meanwhile continue the anti-trust case against TACA airline. "Air Florida will come later," said Rangeley Wallace, a Justice Department attorney.

Air Florida Chairman J.R.K. Tinkle said Air Florida has "no funds whatsoever" to pay for a criminal attorney to defend the carrier on the charges. He said when he asked Air Florida's former New York attorneys, who are owed $458,000, to handle the case "they thought I was joking."

UAW Studies GM Proposal On Security

By Michelle Maynard
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union is studying a General Motors Corp. proposal on job security while GM's chairman says he is confident agreement can be reached without a strike.

The union has said it considers job security its top priority. A concessions contract covering 350,000 workers at the nation's largest automaker expires Friday.

GM Monday handed the union a job guarantee plan that UAW negotiators described as "complex and quite lengthy."

They said it would need "a great deal of further study and clarification" before the UAW could respond. Negotiators, who had met during the weekend, held their first evening session to discuss the plan.

GM Vice President Alfred Warren said the job security proposal addresses GM's need to be competitive in the international marketplace and the union's goal of protecting the jobs of its layoff-weary members.

He termed the proposal "one of the most far-reaching and important offers ever made to the UAW. It will significantly change the way we have managed our business in the past." He said the proposal will be "costly" and protects a "significant portion" of the workforce.

UAW President Owen Bieber has said he wants the firm to guarantee all jobs for a longer period of time than the traditional three-year pact. But analysts have said the automaker cannot afford the $16.7 million per year price tag of guaranteeing all 350,000 jobs because of the industry's cyclical nature and the competition posed by the Japanese, whose annual labor costs are about half those of U.S. firms.

Those same analysts have predicted a strike or selected walkouts at key GM plants, saying the issues this year are too complex to be resolved before the deadline.

The last UAW strike was against Ford in 1976 and lasted four weeks.

GM Chairman Roger Smith, speaking to reporters prior to a meeting of the Economic Club of Detroit, said a walkout could be avoided if the two sides continue to "work as hard as they are now with the same dedication."

"Neither we nor the union are looking at things on a holdout basis," Smith said. "What we are trying to do is resolve this without a strike."

He said there was no one issue that would stand in the way of a settlement. "It's trying to get them all resolved between now and the deadline and keep wages competitive, get the things that the workers want and get them all in one package," he said.

"I admit we have more difficult issues to deal with now — some of these issues like job security are new proposals and we and the union are working hard to do the right thing."

The union last week selected GM as its sole strike target after initially picking both GM and Ford. The Ford talks are on hold until after the situation at GM is resolved.

"Thanks, Sanford, For Great First Year," Says Don Myers

Don Myers' Glass & Mirror, 318 S. French Ave., Sanford, is celebrating its first anniversary. Don and Joyce and their son, Steve, invite the many friends and customers who have made their first year in business a success to drop by the store this week for coffee and cake in expression of their appreciation.

An added incentive for coming in during September is their anniversary special which offers 20 percent off on paint and 50 percent off on framed mirrors.

"We've been very fortunate," said Don, "we've had a lot of good customers and we couldn't have done it without them. We want our Sanford friends to know how much we appreciate them."

Although owning their own business was a new experience for the Myers, they weren't short on experience. With 35 years experience in glass work, Don was able to provide expert service and workmanship in residential and commercial glass and mirrors, assisted by Steve, who had three years experience in the field.

They do all types of glass and mirror work, including both custom and standard shower doors and tub enclosures, auto glass, table tops, storefronts, and customized mirror walls.

Don's business has grown this year and he has added a full line of Richard's Paints including varnish, stains and enamels, as well as brushes, rollers and other painting accessories for do-it-yourselfers. "I can save them some money and I'm glad to work with them in mixing the custom colors that want."

Don will be glad to show you innovative ways to use mirror walls in your decorating.

Don also has a good line of sturdy wrought iron furniture and window guards made by an area craftsman.

Don believes in treating his customers fairly and honestly and is looking forward to many more years of service to the area.

Weight Loss May Be All Diabetic Needs

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB - Recently I had a blood test and my blood sugar was over 300. I am 55 and weigh 176 pounds. My doctor put me on a diet and gave me Tolnase pills to take for 150 days. After I finish the pills in five months, I am to return for another test.

DEAR READER - No, it doesn't kill the person who gets professional help and learns to restructure his or her life. It does occur in men, but is more commonly seen in women. Your story is rather typical. I must tell you that this is a dangerous condition, and I Should I take another blood test before five months? What effect does this high count have, and could I go into a coma? What is your opinion of this medication? Is there a better one? What part does it play with my sex life (I no longer have any desire)?

DEAR READER - Frankly, I would like to see you get a little more aggressive management. Since you did not tell me how tall you are, I can't judge how overweight you might be. If you have any excess body fat, you should make a major effort to lose it. Use a sensible well-balanced diet that restricts calories, and increase your exercise by walking and activity that does not create excessive peak exercise levels. In many adult-onset diabetics, elimination of obesity will normalize the blood-glucose level.

Many diabetic specialists believe that patients who can be treated with oral medications can be treated just as well with a proper diet and weight control. When that doesn't work, insulin is needed.

You've got problems. Your loss of sexual capacity probably means you already have diabetic neuropathy, affecting the nerve fibers that control erection. There is evidence that tightly controlled diabetics who do not have markedly elevated blood glucose have an improvement in nerve-fiber function, and this is important in both treating and preventing the progression of diabetic neuropathy. So I think you need careful immediate supervision for better control. You may want to see a diabetic specialist.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 30-year-old woman, 5 feet 11, and weigh 116 pounds. I still consider myself fat. What exactly is anorexia nervosa?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

This week Montreal holds its annual regional tournament, which should serve as an exciting preview to the Spring Nationals to be held there next March. Thanks to bridge chronicler Eric Kokish, I have some dynamic deals from our Canadian neighbors.

Today's action was at the Pierrefonds Club in Montreal, where Harold Goldstein was South, partnered with his wife, Rosalie. I cannot endorse a six no-trump contract off the A-K of spades, but I must heartily applaud the bold and successful play. Harold won the opening diamond lead. Since he had only 11 tricks, the first step toward developing a possible squeeze was to give up a trick. He promptly tabled the queen of spades. West won the ace and returned a diamond.

Now came the hearts - all seven of them. Since East was compelled to keep the spade king, he came down to only two clubs at the finish. Since West had to hold a diamond higher than dummy's nine, he too was forced to reduce to two clubs. Voila! The slam was made with the lowly nine of clubs.

The post-mortem revealed that the slam could not be set after the opening diamond lead, since poor West had the spade ace singleton.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

SEPTEMBER 13, 1984
If you have already charted a course for something upon which you have your heart set, don't alter the compass heading. The objective you envision can be achieved this coming year.

VIRO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You tend to benefit today from doing things that help others as well as yourself. This won't be true in matters where you focus solely on your own interests. The areas in which you'll be the luckiest in the year ahead are revealed in your Astro-Graph predictions for the coming year. To get yours, mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try to associate with active companions today, because they will help accelerate your accomplishments. Sluggish associates will do the opposite.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could be quite fortunate in your material affairs today if you follow your own ideas and instincts. Trust yourself before others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Persons with whom you associate today might not function too well under pressure, but you'll be at your best when challenging situations develop.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're still in a cycle where things tend to work out to your advantage in the long run. Don't be dismayed if you get negative early signals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're a worthy person who is deserving of sincere compliments, but be on guard today if someone you don't know too well flatters you excessively.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If a business contact impulsively offers to do something for you today, accept his offer immediately. Second thoughts may alter his proposal.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you may be called upon to mediate a situation between two people of whom you're equally fond. You'll know how to resolve it properly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Time is not necessarily your ally today. If you are reticent to act when opportunity knocks, you might realize only partial gains.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be extra careful today not to play favoritism where friendships are concerned. If you do, there is a chance you might lose one or both pals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's best today to get your distasteful chores out of the way first. By afternoon, your will to work may wane and you might never get around to them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to be a good sport today and go along with the will of the majority, even if your friends select activities that you're not overly fond of.
