177 Area Citizens Seek To Conceal Guns

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

As of Aug. 25, 177 Seminole Countians have applied to the state for approval to carry concealed firearms. Licensing Director David Register said he expects that most who apply will be permitted to secretly arm themselves.

This is a sharp contrast to the single concealed weapons permit issued to a private investigator through the Seminole County Commission under the old plan, before state lawmakers this year ordered such licensing taken out of the hands of local officials. Lawmakers said this shift in responsibility for licensing is an effort to make the gun regulations more consistent throughout the state.

The issuance of only one such permit in Seminole County under the old plan was cited by promoters of the new law as an example of the inequities of past concealed weapons rules that were set by each county. Statewide, Register said, about 11,000 have applied for the concealed weapons permits, which won approval in May and will be legal Oct. 1.

"We'll be ready to issue the first licenses by Oct. 1, but they'll be the conversion licenses for people turning in their county licenses for state ones," Register said. "We anticipate it will take 30 to 60 days for the other applicants to get fingerprint checks from FDLE and we'll be issuing their licenses in 90 days."

Register said gun owners who already have county concealed-weapon licenses will not have to be screened by the FDLE and their local sheriffs, as new applicants will be, so their state licenses can be processed more swiftly.

Seminole County sheriff's Lt. Randy Pittman said he will be checking local records on applicants to see if they might have histories of having been involved in incidents reported to law enforcement agencies, but which may not have led to arrest. The FDLE will do a more thorough background check on the applicants, Pittman said.

Secretary of State Jim Smith's office has prepared application forms for concealed-weapon licenses with a warning that packing a pistol does not give a gun owner the legal right to fire it.

Smith's Division of Licensing has prepared a booklet and packet that will be sent to the applicants. The packet, which includes application forms in triplicate and an FBI fingerprint card, also contains a form letter from Smith — a former Florida attorney general — urging gun owners to use their licenses prudently.

Florida Leads In Prisoners

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Although Florida's prison population is 35 percent higher than the national average per citizen, other states may catch up because they are filling their prisons faster. In Seminole County, the prison population per county resident is 31 percent below the national average.

Nationwide, state and federal prison population jumped almost 5 percent the first half of this year to a record half a million convicts, the Justice Department said Sunday. Figures for Florida were not immediately available but the state has periodically released some of it over 38,000 prisoners to keep its prison capacity at 99 percent. The program is to prevent overcrowding and avoid possible legal problems that could arise if the prisons reached 100 percent of capacity.

Nationwide, there is one prisoner for about every 480 citizens. In Florida the average is about one prisoner for every 314 citizens. Further, the rate of Florida's population increase is outstripping the national average. From 1980 to 1985, the latest figures available show Florida's population increase more than 10 percent with 1,359,554 new citizens making a 1985 total of 11,368,000. Nationally, the population increased 14 million in the same time span, from 226 to 240 million. Florida ranks sixth among the states in total population.

September figures are not in, but as of August, Florida had 36,158 prisoners in 33 prisons throughout the state. That does not include road camps and prisoners at vocational institutions nor any of the inmates in the county jails of Florida. Today the inmate population at the Seminole County jail was 384.

In Seminole County, the ratio of prisoners to population is one prisoner for every 628 residents.

Ordinance Effective Pending November Referendum

County Set To OK 1-Cent Sales Surtax

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioners are set to approve an ordinance Tuesday night which will levy a one-cent sales surtax pending the results of a November referendum.

A hearing on the ordinance is scheduled as the last of eight public hearings at the 7 p.m. meeting in the commission's hearing chambers at the San Carlos Avenue entrance to the county administration building.

The local option sales tax was authorized by the Florida Legislature last spring. The law requires that revenues from the additional sales tax be used for infrastructure improvements, such as construction of roads, public buildings and sewer systems. The tax can remain in effect for up to 15 years, and Seminole commissioners are proposing that it remain on the books for the full 15-year period.

Proceeds from the tax would be distributed among the county and the seven cities within the county on a formula agreed to among them. The cities have submitted lists of proposed projects for which their share of the money would be used.

At the Nov. 3 referendum voters will be asked to vote either for or against a "1 cent sales tax to provide for the costs of public facilities and lands (infrastructure)." The ballot wording will explain. "Local governments in Seminole County require additional revenue sources such as a surtax on the state sales tax equalling one cent per dollar sale. These new revenues would be used by the county to build or improve roads and bridges. City projects would include roads, bridges, storm water management/drainage, public safety, water, sewer, parks, recreational, and civic facilities and administration buildings for local governments."

A resolution expected to be passed by the commissioners Tuesday will adopt the list of projects proposed by the cities, and the county, for their share of the funds.

The county has proposed $125 million worth of road projects to be funded by the tax, with the proposed Seminole County Expressway costs accounting for almost half of that. Cities' proposals for their share of the tax did not include cost estimates.

Proposed county projects to be adopted Tuesday are: —$60 for the Seminole County Expressway from State Road 426 to County Road 427 and Highway 17-92.

Twin Boys Separated

Brothers Joined At Head Are Given A 50-50 Chance

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Doctors say Siamese twin boys who were joined at the head have about a 50-50 chance of survival now that they have been separated in a delicate 22-hour operation that involved a 70-member medical team.

"We have done everything humanly possible, the rest is up to God," said Dr. Benjamin Carson, a pediatric neurosurgeon who headed the largest surgical team in the 98-year history of Johns Hopkins.

Twin 7-month-old brothers Patrick and Benjamin Binder of Ulm, West Germany, were separated in an operation that began at 7:15 a.m. EDT Saturday and ended at 5:10 a.m. Sunday.

The boys were in critical but stable condition early today as they rested in separate cribs for the first time since their birth Feb. 2.

"We believe they have been successfully separated. But we would prefer success to be (seeing) the Binder twins return home entirely healthy and normal," said Dr. Mark Rogers, director of pediatric intensive care. "We are not now in the position to guarantee that in any way, shape or form."

During the separation surgery the infants were given medication to put them in an artificial coma in order temporarily suppress brain function.

The twins were born joined at the back of the head and sharing a major vein, but they had completely separate brains, doctors said.

Benjamin does not have enough tissue on the back of his head to cover his scalp, said Dr. Craig DuFresne. Until swelling

Deltonans Vote On City Status

Deltona taxpayers will have a chance Tuesday to determine whether their city remains an unincorporated part of Volusia County or joins the ranks of Florida cities.

Tuesday's election will climax months of debate over incorporation which has deeply divided the community. Everyone seems to agree that incorporation would mean higher taxes for Deltona residents, but there is disagreement about whether

German Hostage Released

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — West German Alfred Schmidt was released today by his pro-Iranian kidnappers in west Beirut after more than seven months in captivity and spirited to his country's embassy in Syria.

His kidnappers said they freed him because of Bonn's assurances related to a Lebanese held in West Germany and charged in the 1985 hijacking of a TWA jetliner to Beirut in which an American sailor was killed.

In a telephone call to Lebanon's National News Agency, an anonymous caller claiming to speak on behalf of the "Strugglers for Freedom Organization" said Schmidt, 47, was set free at 4 a.m. at the entrance to Beirut's southern suburbs. The Foreign Ministry in Bonn confirmed the release.

A ministry spokesman said Schmidt, a biotechnician with the Siemens electronics company, was taken to the West German Embassy in the Syrian capital of Damascus. Schmidt was said to be in good condition and was expected back in West Germany Monday night, sources said.

"Mr. Schmidt is in our hands," said Thomas Freudenhammer, West German charge d'affaires in Damascus. He declined to say why the former hostage was not publicly handed over at the Syrian Foreign Ministry.

An embassy spokesman declined further comment in line with an official blackout about the kidnappings of Schmidt and another West German hostage in Lebanon. "You will get no comment all day from here," the spokesman said.

"Please do not waste your time," Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk al-Sharaa told reporters waiting outside the ministry for Schmidt.

Diplomatic sources said Schmidt was spirited out of Lebanon with a Syrian escort following his release and doubted he would reveal much about his ordeal to reporters to avoid hampering negotiations.

The last hostage to gain his freedom was American journalist Charles Glass, who was kidnapped June 17 south of Beirut and escaped last month after 62 days in captivity.

The clandestine "Strugglers for Freedom Organization" said earlier today it would release Schmidt because of Bonn's guarantees and positive moves. There was no explanation of those guarantees, but the group said in a statement Friday it would release one of its captives if the Germans freed suspected terrorist Mohammed Ali Hamadi.

Diplomatic sources said the pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem Hezbollah, or Party of God, released Schmidt in Beirut to Syrian representatives. But Hezbollah never took responsibility for Schmidt's abduction Jan. 21 or for the Jan. 17 kidnapping of West German Rudolph Cordes.

Schmidt and Cordes, 53, business manager of a West German chemical and pharmaceutical company, were believed held by the same group

Ft. Lauderdale Murders Jump

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — The homicide rate in Fort Lauderdale has doubled over last year and the city could become the second deadliest city in the country behind Detroit, a published report said today.

If the homicide rate of 48.9 per 100,000 residents continues through the rest of 1987, the city will become the new murder capital of the south. Last year there were 24.5 homicides per 100,000, said the Fort Lauderdale News/Sun-Sentinel.

The figures, developed by the FBI, are attributed mainly to violence involving the sale of crack cocaine.

"It's like Dodge City out there," said Sgt. George Hurt, supervisor of the homicide bureau. "Who knows when it's going to stop?"

Last year the city's homicide rate was ranked 21st highest among U.S. cities with populations of more than 100,000. The deadliest year in Fort Lauderdale was 1983, when 53 people were murdered, giving the city a rate of 34.8 per 100,000.

The death toll this year could reach 78 if the trend for the first six months continues. So far there have been 47 murders and 39 of those occurred in the six-month FBI reporting period which ended June 30, the newspaper said.

Drug-related murders accounted for 15 of the homicides which happened before June 30. Eight people were killed during domestic quarrels, five people were killed during robberies and three were shot by police.

Homosexual incidents accounted for five deaths. One teenager was killed while playing Russian roulette and an infant died from a beating. The motive for the murder of one victim has not been determined.

Forget Picnics, Get To Beach!

Staff And Wire Reports
Surf's Up! In fact, the best it's been in a long time so grab your boards and head for either Daytona or New Smyrna: waves are 4 to 6 feet, glassy and good form. Besides, you don't need to worry about getting wet.

For stay-at-homes, the chances of rain are excellent in the late afternoon, so finish your picnic early.
Now for everyone, this is the period of the full moon. Thought you should know since the overcast has been so total in recent nights, the light of the moon wouldn't shine through. Take a look every once in a while, though. It's up there.

Now for the news from the Caribbean - weatherwise, that is.
A tropical depression slowly garnering strength on its westward trek across the Caribbean was on the verge of being declared a more powerful storm today, and forecasters say another depression in the far eastern Atlantic posed a threat only to shipping.

Forecasters estimated top winds for both storms at 35 mph, slightly below tropical storm strength of 39 mph.

The Caribbean depression at last report was about 550 miles east southeast of Kingston, Jamaica and was moving almost due west at 15 mph. It was expected to continue that motion through today and conditions appeared favorable for its development, forecasters said.

"That's an indication the system does have tenacity," said forecaster Bob Case of the National Hurricane Center. "Once it gets into the middle Caribbean we would expect to see it develop."
"Systems in this location at this time of year have resulted in threats to the United States," said forecaster Miles Lawrence. "We'll be watching it closely."
There was an 8 percent probability the system would pass within 65 miles of Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, by Wednesday morning and a 2 percent chance it would brush past Puerto Rico by then, forecasters said.

The Atlantic depression, which Case dubbed "the weaker twin" of the two systems, was about 850 miles west northwest of the Cape Verde Islands at last report.
Case predicted it would turn today toward the north, where the cooler waters would prevent it from developing into a major storm.
"It appears as though it will spend its entire life over the Atlantic, being a problem only for marine interests," Case said. "It could develop into a minimal storm but we don't expect to see much more than that."
Forecasters said they would not issue another advisory on the Atlantic depression unless it posed a threat to land.
There have been eight tropical depressions so far during the Atlantic-Caribbean hurricane season, which runs from June 1 to Nov. 30. Only two have developed into tropical storms. The first, Arlene, grew into the season's only hurricane on Aug. 20, but like Tropical Storm Bret, which formed Aug. 19, it never touched land.
Strong winds whipped up surf along the mid-Atlantic coast today, closing some beaches, and rain fell in Virginia and the Carolinas where lowland flooding had been reported. Gusty storms blasted Texas with 53-mph winds.
Showers and thunderstorms also doused Virginia and the Carolinas.

Landmark Case Pits Vets Against VA

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — After four years of pretrial wrangling, thousands of radiation-exposed veterans get their day in court this week in a landmark case aimed at upending a Civil War-era law that limits their ability to fight for disability benefits.

What began for former Marine Master Sgt. Reason "Fred" Warehime as cleanup detail at Nagasaki, Japan, after the atomic bomb blast of 1945, is about to now become his solitary vigil in a federal courtroom.

Now 61, Warehime is the sole survivor of the three former servicemen who originally signed the lawsuit in 1983 challenging the Veterans Administration's handling of disability benefits. The two other men died of cancers that they had blamed on radiation exposure suffered in the military.

The three men, the widow of a fourth and the National Association of Radiation Survivors, representing 6,000 members, attacked the constitutionality of an 1862 law that limits veterans to paying $10 for lawyers to defend them in benefit cases.

Initially intended to protect Civil War widows from unscrupulous lawyers, the law effectively bars all veterans from hiring attorneys to wage claims fights against the Veterans Administration. It may affect as many as 220,000 veterans exposed to radiation in World War II or during atomic tests in Nevada and the Pacific.

Without lawyers to represent veterans in complex cases, 4,961 of the 7,781 radiation claims filed have been denied by the VA, according to Dorothy Legarreta, director of NARS.

Only 17 veterans have been granted 100 percent disability and all but one of those men were dead by the time the VA ruled, she said. Several hundred more are awaiting VA rulings.

VA spokeswoman Amy Brown said the agency could not confirm the NARS figures. She and Theodore Hirt, head of the VA's 22-lawyer team, refused all comment on the lawsuit prior to this week's trial.

The case is being heard in U.S. District Court before Judge Marilyn Hall Patel. The non-jury trial, set to start Tuesday, is expected to last one month.

If the vets win, the ruling could spill over to benefit veterans exposed to the chemical defoliant Agent Orange in Vietnam or suffering post traumatic stress syndrome. The two groups could total hundreds of thousands of people.

Warehime walks with crutches and suffers from lung cancer, bone disease, muscle atrophy, sterility and cataracts.

He says his health problems resulted from exposure to radiation in Nagasaki and again at Camp Desert Rock, Nev., in 1953, when he was 3,000 yards from ground zero at a 43 kiloton atomic test blast.

Warehime wants his 60 percent disability rating — which translates into payments of $671 a month — increased to 100 percent. The VA has refused.

Disability can range from $69 a month for 10 percent rating to $1,355 per month for 100 percent rating, according to a court statement by both sides.

"They (the VA) have kept us, over the years, at a disadvantage," Warehime said from his home in the Central California town of Riverdale. "I had to use my own ability to fight 840 attorneys at the VA."

"How I spend my money is my business — not the government's. If I want to spend it on an attorney, I should," Warehime said.

Warehime and the others say the attorney fee limit deprives them of the right to due process and to redress their grievances with the government.

The VA, the third largest agency, is the only one in the federal government that is not subject to court review of its decisions. Appeals go to the Board of Veterans Appeals in Washington, the VA's internal Supreme Court.

Although the VA won't comment on specifics of the case, it has fought hard to defeat the suit, taking an earlier ruling in the case, favorable to the vets, all the way to the Supreme Court.

In the earlier ruling, Patel in 1984 issued an injunction that barred the VA from enforcing the fee limits in terms of the Civil War-era law.

The Supreme Court overturned the injunction, ruling that the law served to protect veterans. But the court sent the case back to Patel for trial to determine whether radiation-exposed veterans, without lawyers to handle their complex claims, were being denied their constitutional rights.

Gordon Erspamer, head of a team of 10 lawyers working without charge for the veterans, called the treatment of veterans exposed to radiation "a national disgrace."

"In this country an attorney is appointed for criminals at government expense," he said. "Yet, we forbid veterans from paying an attorney at their own expense. That is one of the deepest ironies in this case."

Erspamer's own father was exposed to radiation at the "Crossroads" atomic test in Bikini Atoll in the Marshall Islands in 1946. He died of leukemia in 1980.

To win, Erspamer must show two things — that there is a high error rate in the VA's benefits procedures and that help from attorneys would cut the error rate sharply.

The two other veterans who signed the lawsuit but have died were former Seaman 1st Class Don Cordray, 55, of Concord, Calif., and former Sgt. Albert Maxwell, 60, of Logan, Utah.

Cordray was exposed to radiation during the "Crossroads" test. He died in 1984 of a rare cancer linked to radiation exposure.

Maxwell, as a prisoner of war, served as part of the cleanup team at Hiroshima in 1945.

Four of Maxwell's children died of radiation-linked birth defects. Maxwell died of leukemia in February, 1987, while fighting to have his 40 percent disability for failing eyesight increased to 100 percent.

Albert Maxwell's Life And Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Albert Maxwell, a former Army tank commander, survived the 1941 Bataan death march, forced labor as a Japanese war prisoner and radiation exposure in the cleanup of the atomic blast at Hiroshima.

In February, the Logan, Utah, man died of multiple myeloma, a cancer. As he fought for his life, he also was battling the Veterans Administration, hoping to convince the agency that his disease resulted from radiation exposure.

Maxwell, 60 when he died, wanted his 40 percent disability payment of $259 per month raised to 100 percent, based on what he saw as radiation-related health effects.

His death came six months before the scheduled start this week of a trial on a class action suit by veterans challenging the constitutionality of a 125-year-old law that restricts their right to hire lawyers in defense of veterans claims.

Sgt. Maxwell, his 6-foot-2 frame wasted to 89 pounds, survived the Bataan death march along with 4,000 other GIs while 16,000 of their buddies perished.

After the war, four of Maxwell's five children died very young of rare birth defects linked to radiation exposure, lung atelectasis and a heart defect called tetralogy of Fallot.

Maxwell himself was diagnosed with multiple myeloma in 1980 and began seeking increased benefits from the VA because of lost work due to long hospital stays.

He eventually sold his home and fled for bankruptcy to pay the increasing health costs.

In 1983 he joined two other veterans and the National Association of Radiation Survivors in a landmark class action case that will finally go to trial in U.S. District Court Tuesday.

With his death in February, only one of the three veterans who originally filed the suit survives. Reason "Fred" Warehime, a former Marine now living in Riverdale, Calif.

Bork On Press Is Surprising

Liberals tend to stereotype U.S. Supreme Court nominee Robert H. Bork as a down-the-line conservative. But civil libertarians would find it hard to fault one First Amendment case he heard as an appellate judge — a case that illustrates the perils of trying to predict Bork's future rulings based on his purported politics. He rendered this surprisingly strong pro-First Amendment opinion in a libel case triggered by a syndicated column written by Rowland Evans and Robert Novak.

The case — Ollman vs. Evans — represents an important victory for journalists, as the ruling and subsequent decisions greatly expand the constitutional protection accorded to opinion writing. More important, however, Bork's concurring opinion settling out his First Amendment views helps to dispel false notions about his judicial philosophy.

For example, Bork's critics who argue that he would "turn back the clock" on certain reforms and that he is too rigid on questions of "original intent" of the U.S. Constitution's framers, will not find much ammunition in Ollman to support their charges.

"There would be little need for judges ... if the boundaries of every constitutional provision were self-evident," Bork wrote in the Ollman decision. "They are not. In a case like this, it is the task of the judge in this generation to discern how the framers' values, defined in the context of the world they knew, apply to the world we know. ... A judge who refuses to see new threats to an established constitutional value, and hence provides a crabbed interpretation that robs a provision of its full, far and reasonable meaning, fails in his judicial duty."

If anything, Bork turns the clock forward, recognizing that the framers could not foresee developments in mass media technology and myriad constitutional problems that would arise.

Other critics fear that Bork will practice "judicial activism," that is, legislating through the courts. Bork has argued strenuously against the court's behavior as a legislature for any purpose, liberal or conservative. But even though most judges would subscribe to the view that Supreme Court justices should interpret the Constitution and the laws according to neutral principles without reference to their personal views as to social or legislative policy, that rarely happens.

Would Bork become an activist? No one can accurately predict that, though history is replete with examples of justices who have not followed pre-confirmation expectations.

The Ollman case also tends to dispel the notion that Bork, along with Associate Justice Antonin Scalia, would anchor a solid, unwavering right-wing majority. In the Ollman case, Bork was diametrically opposed to Scalia, who wrote a dissenting opinion that labeled the Evans and Novak column "classic and coolly crafted libel."

This is not to say that Bork is 100 percent pro-press. His decisions in libel and prior-restraint cases have been hailed by First Amendment advocates, but in freedom-of-information cases, he has almost uniformly sided with government interests against disclosure.

Nevertheless, his First Amendment rulings provide a glimpse of justice sensitive to First Amendment concerns — a far different picture than that of Justice Scalia whose antipathy toward the First Amendment is well-documented.

Proxmire Leaves As Respected Leader

By Arnold Sawlsak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When William Proxmire came to Washington in 1957 as Wisconsin's first Democratic senator since the waning days of the New Deal, he got a conquering hero's welcome.

No less a personage than Lyndon B. Johnson, then at the peak of his power as Senate Democratic leader, led a delegation of party bigwigs to National Airport to greet the new senator, whose special election victory gave the Democrats a 50 percent increase in the 49-47 majority they had at the start of the 85th Congress.

Most of Washington expected the freshman senator to keep his eyes open, his mouth shut and his vote in Johnson's pocket. It didn't take long to find out that Proxmire was not going to be a potted plant in Johnson's garden.

For one thing, he was completing the term of the late Joseph R. McCarthy, which ended in 1958, and had to make his mark quickly. Secondly, he was from a state famous for such mavericks as Robert LaFollette (senior and junior) and McCarthy. Just about the last thing he wanted was to be regarded as one of Lyndon Johnson's lackeys.

Within a few months, Proxmire had established himself as a loner who cared little for the sensitivities the Senate "club" or the traditions of party loyalty that supposedly gave the majority party control of the legislative program.

Proxmire never really made much of his party affiliation, either in Wisconsin or Washington. He relied far more on hard-won and carefully nurtured personal links to the voters rather than on any party organization to keep his job.

Proxmire was not the first maverick to give Senate leaders Excedrin headaches, but he was the forerunner of a wave of senators and representatives who declined to fall in line in Washington and voted as they thought right or as their constituents wanted them to.

In 1958, Proxmire was elected to a full Senate term and another 13 freshman Democrats, many of them from the West, joined him for the start of the 86th Congress. The pundits predicted Johnson, with 64 votes, and Speaker

Sam Rayburn, with a 130-vote House majority, would be running Washington.

It didn't happen. The new members, especially the Westerners, were anything but Democratic rubber stamps. The Democratic leaders passed some of their program, but even when they won close contests on controversial partisan issues, they frequently were stymied by President Eisenhower's vetoes.

The trend away from party unity in the Senate predated Proxmire's arrival — some might say it began 20 years earlier when Democrats deserted Franklin D. Roosevelt on his Supreme Court packing plan — but it seems to have reached a peak in the late 1950s.

The North-South Democratic split over civil rights in the 1960s masked the more basic change, but it became clear in the following decades that there were precious few domestic or foreign issues on which the party leaders, especially the Democrats, could expect to deliver bloc votes.

DICK WEST

Chaucer? What Did He Know?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the National Endowment for the Humanities reported recently that 64 percent of the 17-year-old literary students it surveyed didn't know Geoffrey Chaucer wrote "The Canterbury Tales," I could readily believe it.

Chaucer, after all, was an English poet and the pilgrims in his magnum opus had nothing to do with Martin Luther King.

Literary teachers tell us that English poets fade quickly from memory and their work suffers from translation.

But when the Endowment also reported that 60 percent of the American students it contacted didn't know Walt Whitman wrote "Leaves of Grass," the survey began to tax my credulity a bit.

Whitman, if memory serves, was an American poet and "Leaves of Grass" is quintessentially memorable.

If today's high schoolers don't learn to read poetry in history class, what do they learn, for Pete's sake? History?

Flat Don't make me laugh! About 80 percent of the history class students couldn't place the Civil War in the correct half-century.

The next thing we know, they'll be protesting the credulity tax. And then we'll all be in trouble.

In their favor, it may be said that 17-year-olds are frightfully young. Most of them weren't even born until 1970, which was after King was fatally shot. Hence, they missed the entire decade of the 1960s, when the credulity tax was being protested, along with most other things, right and left.

Still, you would think they would have enough sense to do literary lessons during history class.

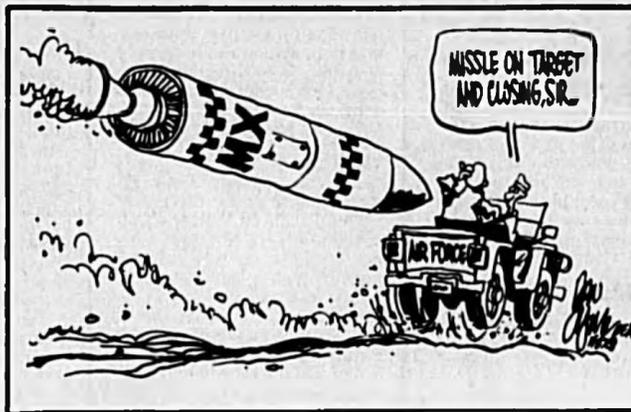

Most students today must be yuppies. Or else yuppie puppies, who are the children of yuppies.

It was good to discover that when confronted with King's "I have a dream" speech, only 12 percent of those surveyed couldn't identify the author.

Maybe that's because they are reading oratory, rather than poetry, in history class. Which certainly doesn't speak well for the younger generation.

The next thing we hear they may be reading about the Civil War in history class.

According to another recent survey, this one conducted by the Gallup polling people, more than 75 percent of their parents favor "higher academic standards."

'Secret' Statistics

New York City has a black police commissioner named Benjamin Ward, a conscientious, honorable man. Recently he got himself into very hot water by telling a conference of journalists at Columbia University that most of the city's street crime is being committed by young black males. The journalists did not offer to refute the commissioner. They merely booed him for his honesty.

The next day, the commissioner was cheered by an audience of black Baptist ministers when he told them "I am sorry that I had to say what I said last night, that our little secret is out of the house." He added that young black men "are committing the genocide against blacks, they are ripping off the neighborhoods, they are doing the shooting out in southeast Queens and killing innocent people as they fight over their drug locations."

Bravo, Commissioner Benjamin Ward. It takes courage to say things like this these days, as Ward found out at Columbia. But he is wrong that this situation is in any sense a "secret." It is usually not addressed directly in public, especially by political figures, but it is part of a very widespread shared knowledge. That is why Bernhard Goetz not only was acquitted but became a kind of hero to the ordinary people, black and white, who have to ride the subways and walk the night streets.

Commissioner Ward knew what he was talking about. Approximately 25 percent of the residents of New York City are black. Of those arrested for major felonies last year, 58.7 percent were black. Sixty-nine percent of those arrested for robbery were black. And, of course, anyone who is street-smart knows how few crimes actually result in an arrest.

When we begin to talk about murder, the statistics get even grimmer. Some 78 percent of black homicide suspects are, for 1986, accused of killing other blacks.

A New York Times/WCBS-TV Poll asked a sampling of New Yorkers the following question: Would you feel unsafe if you encountered rowdy black teenagers on a subway car? Seventy-one percent of the white respondents said yes, and 51 percent of the blacks. That is the state of affairs today in New York.

But unlike Commissioner Ward, the big windbags refuse to look at the facts honestly. "The biggest criminal acts in this city," Jesse Jackson commented, "have taken place on Wall Street this year." Shove it, Jesse. Ivan Boesky robbed other people like Ivan Boesky. The woman who has to ride the IRT is not afraid of Ivan Boesky.

Rep. Charles Rangel of Harlem of course rebuked Commissioner Ward, talking about getting at the "root causes" of crime and so forth.

The fact of the matter is that experts on the subject do not know what the "root causes" actually are. Poverty? Well, crime was at an all-time low during the 1930s Depression.

The root cause of black crime probably resides in the disintegration of the black family as promoted by our welfare system, and in the ethos of the black subculture which values entertainers, athletes, and macho "cool" types far more than physicians, lawyers or PhDs.

Besides these problems can be addressed they must at least be faced. If more black "spokemen" resembled Commissioner Ward we would be a lot further along the road to a solution than we now are.

Polio's Recurrence Puzzling

By Charles S. Taylor

WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI) — The mystery of why thousands of ex-polio patients are experiencing a recurrence of their symptoms 30 years after the great poliomyelitis epidemics of the 1950s remains unsolved, but there is some new knowledge about the syndrome, a rehabilitation expert said.

The new knowledge is mostly about what the syndrome is not, rather than what it may be, although the very exercise prescribed to keep polio victims active is believed to be a contributor.

Also, there still is no agreement on exactly what symptoms constitute the "late effects" of polio, said Dr. Paul E. Peach, medical director of the Roosevelt Warm Springs Institute for Rehabilitation. "It is a diagnosis of exclusion," Peach said.

In a paper he has written on the subject and in an interview, Peach said the late effects of polio are not the result of a new polio virus infection or the reactivation of the original infection.

This "most disturbing theory" was proposed in 1984 when the plight of the polio victims, who were having new symptoms, first gained widespread attention, said Peach. Subsequent research laid it to rest.

Also, the onset of pain, muscle weakness and fatigue experienced by an estimated 75,000 of 300,000 polio victims is not a manifestation of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (Lou Gehrig's Disease), Peach said.

ALS is a progressive, non-infectious, often fatal disease of the nervous system affecting the same cells involved in polio.

"Comparison of the symptoms, their rate of progression, the clinical outcome, and other studies indicate that ALS and the late effects of polio are quite separate entities."

Investigators also have discovered that there is nothing new about the late effects of polio. The first cases were seen more than 100 years ago, in 1875, when three patients were reported in French medical literature.

The Roosevelt Warm Springs Institute, where President Franklin D. Roosevelt came to swim and exercise his polio-crippled limbs, was the scene of two research symposiums on the late effects of polio in 1984 and 1986.

Some of the common symptoms of the post-polio syndrome are decreasing endurance, fatigue, new muscle weakness, sometimes in both affected and formerly unaffected muscles.

A Talk In The Congresswomen's Room

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The vastly outnumbered women members of Congress have been complaining for years about unequal treatment by their male colleagues, but they actually have at least one perquisite the men don't: a suite of rooms in the Capitol building for their exclusive enjoyment.

The hideaway suite, unmarked save for the room number, 235, was set aside in 1961 as the Congresswomen's Lounge, and has been one of the Capitol's best kept non-secrets. The ornately furnished suite includes a large, high-ceilinged main room with an elegant crystal chandelier, a fully equipped kitchen, lavatory facilities and a small area where the lounge attendant has her desk, takes messages for the congresswomen and schedules luncheons, receptions and conferences in the suite.

In fact, it was an incident involving the position of lounge attendant that has threatened to disrupt the discreet operation of the Congresswomen's Lounge with the kind of publicity usually associated with the smoke-filled rooms where male members of congress hang out. It seems that Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., who oversees Suite 235 as head of the Congresswomen's Caucus, is just one of the boys where patronage is concerned.

Kathleen Hill had been the suite manager, and she told our reporter Gary Clouser that her grandson-in-law, Rep. Bob Carr, D-Mich., had gotten her the job. The same week that Carr's divorce became final, Hill was fired. Carr declined comment, but Hill said she suspects that he asked his friend Schroeder to fire her.

Ann Thornburgh, administrative assistant in the House doorkeeper's office, was the one who told Hill her services were no longer required. Thornburgh told us Hill was a "lovely lady" and had done a fine job running the Congresswomen's Lounge.

Thornburgh acknowledged that Hill's replacement, Ann Murphy, was hired at Schroeder's recommendation. Murphy's husband, Richard, was congressional liaison for the ill-starred presidential campaign of Gary Hart, former Democratic senator from Colorado and a close associate of Schroeder. Since Hart abruptly dropped out of the race in a sex-related scandal, Schroeder has been considering a race for the presidential nomination herself.

Dan Buck, a Schroeder administrative assistant, acknowledged that the lounge attendant's job is a patronage appointment and that Schroeder "has a role in filling the position." But he pointed out that losing a patronage job is not a reflection on the employee's performance or competence.

Buck said that Schroeder, who used to complain publicly and often about the second-class treatment of women members, now believes congresswomen have made significant strides toward equality in access to Capitol Hill facilities. Schroeder also is gratified that congresswomen have made gains in leadership positions, which is "more important than whether they gather in a tent, a room or a coliseum," Buck added.

The Senate, which has only two women members, has no separate facilities for them. Female House members, who currently number 23, have a separate gymnasium from their 412 male colleagues. The House swimming pool is segregated, with separate hours scheduled for men and women.

Footnote: By an irony of history, the main room of the Congresswomen's Lounge is known as the Adams Room. It was named, not after Abigail Adams, the influential wife of President John Adams, but after their son, John Quincy Adams. The only ex-president to become a member of the House, he collapsed in the Capitol and died in the chandelied room in 1818.

Jackson Expected To Announce Second Run For The Presidency

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jesse Jackson, saying his Rainbow Coalition has "shaped a consensus," said today he will formally announce he will seek the Democratic nomination for president on Oct. 10.

Jackson, interviewed on ABC's "Good Morning America" program in Pittsburgh before making Labor Day stops there and in Cleveland and New York City, said he has been testing the waters and has expanded the base of voters he built in his unsuccessful presidential bid in 1984.

Jackson added "with the help of God and the support of the American people" he will announce his intentions to seek the Democratic Party presidential nomination Oct. 10 during the convention of the Rainbow Coalition in North Carolina.

Sens. Joseph Biden of Delaware, Albert Gore of Tennessee and Paul Simon of Illinois already have declared their Democratic candidacies formally, as have Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt.

Suspects Sought In Suffocation

KANKAKEE, Ill. (UPI) — Authorities are searching for two more suspects in the kidnapping and death of businessman Stephen Small, who apparently suffocated when his captors buried him alive in a plywood coffin that did not have a sufficient air passage.

Small, a former media executive whose body was discovered Friday night, was buried in a wooden box about 4 feet underground by kidnapers who issued a $1 million ransom demand.

The kidnap plan went awry almost immediately when Small apparently suffocated soon after he was buried, said Kankakee County Coroner James Orrison. He said the kidnapers bungled their attempt to keep Small alive because a 20-foot pipe they wanted him to breathe through was a "Mickey-Mouse rig" that could not provide sufficient oxygen to Small.

Three people were arrested and police were looking for two more suspects. Kankakee Police Chief Timothy O. Nugent said early today he expected "further arrests will be forthcoming."

Small, 39, was the nephew of the publisher of a family newspaper chain and a great-grandson of an Illinois governor. He was buried in a rural area about 13 miles southeast of Kankakee, about 60 miles south of Chicago.

More Gangland Killings Expected

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two gangland-style slayings within four days and a few city blocks indicate disarray within organized crime, and more killings are likely, the head of a state law enforcement task force says.

The killing of one man Sunday and two others Thursday show organized crime has gone on the defensive due to a lack of stable respected leadership in New York's five organized crime families, persistent attacks by law enforcement officials, the jailing of reputed Mafia leaders and losses of property, said Ronald Goldstock, who directs the state Organized Crime Task Force.

The latest victim, Santo Curatolo, 42, was gunned down and killed at 2:10 a.m. Sunday in the Bensonhurst section of Brooklyn, police said.

Curatolo, who was shot twice in the head and three times in the chest, was found wearing rings, watches and chains had $18 in cash and was carrying a .25-caliber automatic pistol when he was killed, police said.

Police said they did not immediately know Curatolo's background but they were investigating whether the killing was connected to Thursday's slaying of reputed Lucchese family member Carmine Varille and Colombo associate Frank Santoro.

Six Injured At Concert Shooting

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of two men arguing after an anti-drug concert in Queens early today whipped out a gun and fired at the other and at bystanders, injuring five, including a 12-year-old girl, before fleeing, police said.

A sixth bystander was trampled as the crowd at the Queensbridge Park fled the gunfire, said Sgt. Maurice Howard, a police spokesman.

There was a large crowd leaving the Urban Development Against Crack and Crime concert in the park in the Long Island City section of Queens when two men began arguing at 1:10 a.m., Howard said.

Police identified the man who reportedly began the fight as Herbert Headen, 25, of Queens, Howard said. Headen was taken to Elmhurst General Hospital with a gunshot wound in the right knee.

Reagan Wraps Up Vacation, Plans For Month

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — President Reagan ended one of the longer vacations of his presidency Sunday and began what aides say will be the busiest, and perhaps most important, month of his administration.

With the most pressing of the nation's foreign policy issues and the most politically significant domestic policies on the agenda, Reagan will be traveling, conferring and speaking publicly nearly every day, juggling controversy that could make or break the legacy he wants to leave in the history books.

Boosting Reagan's confidence as he goes on the political offensive are new figures from his pollster, Richard Wirthlin, showing a 55 percent job approval rating and 74 percent personal popularity. Reagan spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says the numbers show the president is still politically healthy after the Iran-Contra hearings.

Reagan's busy September schedule is not likely to include a news conference, aides say. He has held only two this year, March 19 and June 12, and both were largely taken up with the Iran-Contra affair.

The fallout from the scandal is an imponderable for the president, who has vowed to "move forward" to other issues, such as an East-West arms accord and confirmation of his controversial Supreme Court nominee, Robert Bork.

Independent counsel Lawrence Walsh has said he may wish to take testimony from the president as he nears the end of his criminal investigation of the Iran arms scandal.

Reagan returned to Washington Sunday, 25 days after leaving for California. He stopped on the way home in Topeka, Kan., to celebrate the 100th birthday of 1936 GOP presidential nominee Alf Landon.

After relaxing at the White House today, Reagan on Tuesday will make one of several public speeches this month in support of Bork, addressing a friendly crowd of administration political appointees.

On Wednesday, he meets with and gives a state dinner for Swedish Prime Minister Ingvar Carlsson, and on Thursday travels to Miami to greet Pope John Paul II on his arrival in the United States and to hold a substantive meeting with the pontiff later in the day.

On Sept. 15, Reagan will appear on tape on a nationally syndicated television show on AIDS, a problem White House advisers have recognized as a leading domestic political issue going into the 1988 presidential campaign that he hopes to influence.

A senior administration official says while Reagan will not take sides in Republican primaries, he expects to set the agenda of issues facing candidates of both parties and later to build up the GOP nominee as his true political heir.

The issues likely to dominate next year's campaign are in the forefront this month.

Reagan will meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze in mid-September as a prelude to an expected arms agreement and summit in the United States with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev later in the year.

Reagan will also concentrate on East-West policy in a speech to the United Nations Sept. 21, where aides say he will discuss the march of freedom around the world during his term. One official describes that speech as dealing with "the legacy issue" of the Reagan doctrine of rolling back communist expansion.

Two other critical issues are before the president — the Persian Gulf war and the search for a Central America peace plan.

The current $100 million allotment of aid to the Nicaraguan rebels expires Sept. 30, the cease-fire date Reagan has sought for a plan under which all foreign assistance to Central America would end if the Sandinista regime adopts democratic reforms.

Voters Want Honesty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Voters want the next American president to be honest and a strong leader — two qualities they say they do not see in Ronald Reagan, a survey by pollster Peter Hart showed Saturday.

Hart said his survey of 1,201 registered voters in mid-June found that the No. 1 qualities voters want in the next president are honesty and a commitment to play by the rules. Some 56 percent picked honesty, with 46 percent identifying strong leadership as being important. Respondents were allowed to make more than one choice.

Twenty-nine percent said being compassionate and caring about people was important; 20 percent picked patriotism; 18 percent said being forward looking was important; 9 percent chose optimism and hope as an important quality.

Only 9 percent said they thought honesty characterized Reagan, while 49 percent said it was missing in the president.

Twenty-four percent said Reagan was a strong leader, while 22 percent said he was not. In an earlier 1984 survey, Hart said being a strong leader was Reagan's greatest strength.

Hart, who does considerable polling for Democratic candidates, conducted this survey for KidsPac, a political action committee interested in early childhood issues.

The Central American governments have proposed a plan for a Nov. 7 cease-fire with less stringent restrictions on aid to the Nicaraguan government.

Reagan, who promised House Speaker Jim Wright that he would not publicly campaign for Contra aid until the end of this month, is considering a rebel request to put new military funds into an escrow account.

In the Gulf crisis, Reagan is awaiting the outcome of a report from U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar, who is going to the region to seek a positive response from Iran on a cease-fire. If his mission fails, Reagan will ask the Security Council for an arms embargo against Iran and Iraq, officials say.

In addition to the Bork confirmation fight, which White House officials say is close but winnable, Reagan's domestic attention will be focused on the trade bill, the budget stalemate and Democratic insistence on the need for new taxes to achieve the deficit reduction required by the 1985 Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law.

Congress has yet to pass any of the 13 regular appropriations bills, and will begin work this month on a continuing resolution to keep federal spending at current levels in the absence of the appropriations legislation.

Reagan has threatened to veto any tax increases. He also says he will veto a trade bill now in a House-Senate conference committee, which he considers overly protectionist and intrusive into the executive powers of the president.

Reagan also has some high profile ceremonial duties this month, presiding over the recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance on Capitol Hill on Sept. 16, the eve of the Constitution's bicentennial, and speaking in Philadelphia the following day.

In addition to Wednesday's state ceremonies for the Swedish Prime Minister, Reagan will greet Spain's King Juan Carlos and Queen Sofia for lunch at the White House Sept. 25.

Missile Attack on Kuwait Dangerous New Turn in Gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iran has dramatically raised the stakes in the Persian Gulf war by firing three of its Chinese-made ground-to-ground Silkworm missiles at Kuwait.

The missile attacks, which occurred as the U.S. armada was cautiously escorting Kuwaiti oil tankers through the gulf, widened the 7-year-old Iran-Iraq war and threatens to draw the United States and Saudi Arabia into the conflict.

Kuwait had been publicly targeted by Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini for siding with Iraq in the war. Iran charges Iraq gets arms shipments through Kuwait and that the oil-rich emirate helps bankroll the Iraqi war effort.

Kuwait responded to the missile attacks by expelling Iranian diplomats from the emirate on the upper gulf between Iraq and the Saudi kingdom.

Honecker Visits West Germany

EAST BERLIN (UPI) — Erich Honecker closes a painful chapter in his nation's history today when he becomes the first East German leader to visit West Germany, a trip that crowns his political career and fulfills a personal dream.

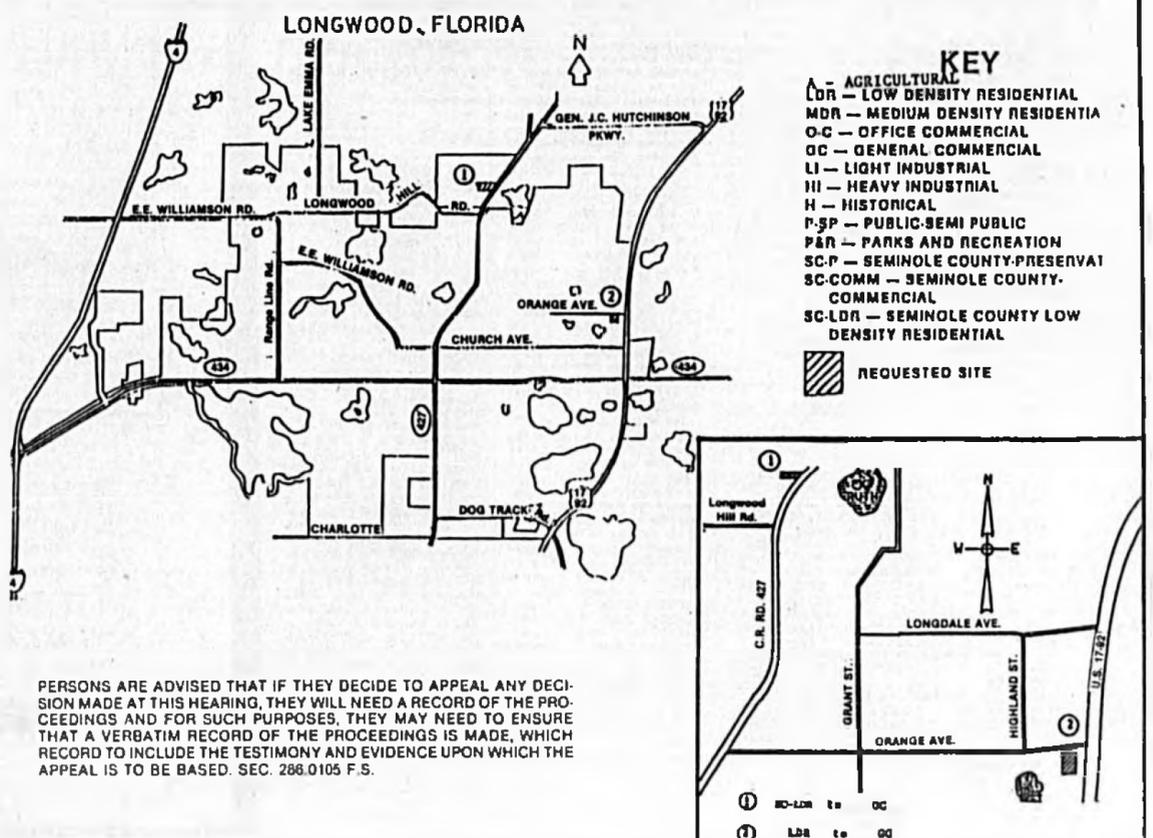

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl decided to greet Honecker with full state honors that lack only the designation of a state visit, adding a major step in the long struggle for international recognition by a communist country.

Officials on both sides of the 856 miles of fences and barriers that separate the two Germanys caution against high expectations from the first German-German summit.

Chances are almost nonexistent that Honecker will offer reunification or to tear down the Berlin Wall or that Kohl will agree to Honecker's list of demands, which includes scaling the status of East Germany through recognition and the establishment of embassies to replace permanent missions.

Jamboree Preview Provides Proof Of Competitive '87

The results of the previews are in. After two nights of jamborees involving Seminole County's six football teams last week, it was evident prep fans better get ready to hold on to their seats. This looks to be one of the most competitive seasons ever.

Traditionally, jamborees are sloppily played outings where players make a lot of mistakes, and get used to blocking and tackling someone besides their teammates.

But at the Lyman jamboree on Thursday night, and at the Lake Howell jamboree on Friday night, all the county teams, plus DeLand and Osceola Kissimmee, played relatively error-free football. None was in midseason form, but looked good for the most part. Both jamborees were played under the most adverse conditions, heavy rain, yet turnovers were kept to a surprising minimum.

In the first half of the Lyman jamboree, Seminole quarterback Jeff Blake, who missed last season with a broken leg, took to the field for the first time. On his first varsity toss in two years, Blake heaved a 48-yard bomb to fullback Curtis Rudolph, setting up J.J. Partlow's 18-yard field goal that gave Seminole a 3-2 decision over Osceola.

Seminole will open up on Friday at home against Titusville Astronaut. The Seminoles will be looking to avenge losses to Astronaut in each of the past two years. They have never beaten the War Eagles.

Seminole's defense, led by linebacker Earnie "Sackman" Lewis, gave up only 50 rushing yards to the Cowboys. Paul Newell, Ralph Hardy, and Myriel Reid all had fine defensive outings for the 'Noles.

At Lake Howell on Friday night, Lake Mary showed that it is going to be a team to reckon with as coach Harry Nelson's Rams shackled defending SAC champion Lake Howell, 10-0.

Ram quarterback Carlos Hartsfield showed that he has matured in a hurry as his 45-yard touchdown pass to Calvin Davis gave the Rams the big play when they needed it.

"I feel much more comfortable this year," Hartsfield, who led the Rams to six consecutive victories as a sophomore last year, said. "A lot of people have all ready written us off this season, and we wanted to come out here and show that we are for real." Hartsfield had a fine night as he went 4 for 7, good for 92 yards with an interception.

Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia, the SAC Coach of the Year last season, said that his team isn't panicking just yet. "Learning is what it's all about," Bisceglia said. "Our defense actually did a pretty good job. We gave up one big play, but other than that, we were strong."

It was the offense, usually Howell's strong point, that hurt the Silver Hawks. The Hawks had two turnovers, one of which led to a Lake Mary field goal. Howell didn't dominate the line of scrimmage the way that it is used to. "We made some mistakes on offense," Bisceglia said. "But we will get better with time."

Lake Mary kicker Alex Birle showed that he is an offensive weapon as he booted a 45-yard field goal, believed to have been the longest in Lake Mary history.

Bisceglia is hoping that his team will be ready for Apopka this Friday when the Hawks will host the Blue Darters. Lake Mary, meanwhile, will entertain Winter Park. No easy openers for these two schools.

In the first half of the Howell jamboree, Lake Brantley proved that it will also be a contender for the SAC crown as it defeated DeLand, 7-3.

"I told you that we were ready," Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon said. "Like I said before, this is the best group of kids that I've had in my three years here, and we will win some football games."

Almon is hoping that his new offense, the wishbone, will eat up the clock while his team slowly marches downfield. The Patriots did exactly what Almon wanted against DeLand

Top Women Breeze — Mac Not So Fine

NEW YORK (UPI) — While the top women at the U.S. Open are waiting for worthy opposition, John McEnroe faces the likelihood of no competition at all for two months.

No. 1 Steffi Graf, No. 3 Chris Evert and No. 5 Pam Shriver sailed into the fourth round with easy victories Sunday, as none of them lost more than three games.

Graf needed only 38 minutes to win and Shriver required just 42. Evert took an almost leisurely 64 minutes but has yielded only four games in her three matches.

Graf defeated one of her best friends, Patricia Tarabini of Argentina, 6-2, 6-0. Evert disposed of 16-year-old Soviet Natalia Zvereva 6-0, 6-2, and Shriver crushed Italy's Laura Golarsa 6-1, 6-2.

As frugal as the women have been with games, McEnroe will likely be generous with his money.

The volatile left-hander is expected to pay fines totalling $17,500 as a result of his outbursts in Saturday's match against Slobodan Zivjovic. McEnroe also faces a two-month suspension if he does not successfully appeal the fines.

He was assessed three separate fines for obscenely berating the chair umpire and a television soundman during his five-set, third-round victory.

According to Ken Farrar, chief supervisor for the Pro Council, the governing body of men's tennis, McEnroe indicated he would appeal the fine and suspension.

"He was probably lucky he didn't get defaulted," Farrar said of the incident.

After viewing tapes of McEnroe's match, talking with chair umpire Richard Ings and discussing the incident with four supervisors, Farrar fined McEnroe $500 for the first instance of abusing the umpire; $5,000 for a second, more prolonged verbal abuse of Ings; and $2,000 for swearing at the court-side soundman.

An accumulation of $7,500 in fines during a 12-month period brings with it an additional $10,000 levy. Because this is the second time within a year McEnroe has exceeded the $7,500 limit, he faces the suspension if the fines stand.

On Sunday, the men's seeds had no more difficulty than their counterparts on the women's side.

No. 2 Stefan Edberg defeated Kelly Evernden of New Zealand 6-2, 6-1, 6-4 in an hour and 40 minutes, and No. 3 Mats Wilander needed only 84 minutes to dispense with Libor Pimek of Czechoslovakia 6-2, 6-0, 6-1. No. 5 Miloslav Mecir eliminated Jakob Hlasek 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Australian Mark Woodforde, the only qualifier remaining in the men's or women's draws, routed Milan Srejber 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 in 66 minutes. Ramesh Krishnan beat Johan Kriek 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 in an hour and 54 minutes, and Andrei Cehanokov needed only 86 minutes to defeat Diego Perez 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Other winners among the seeded women included No. 7 Zina Garrison, No. 10 Manuela Maleeva, No. 11 Lori McNeil and No. 13 Sylvia Hanika. Only two unseeded women, Anne Hobbs of Britain and Jana Novotna of Czechoslovakia, gained the round of 16.

Graf, who has won 58 of her last 59 matches, said it was distracting to play her friend Tarabini.

"It was the first time I played her and maybe I wasn't concentrating," she said. "A couple of times we started laughing, but after that I felt pretty good about the way I was playing."

Bell Hears Ding Dong Of 'Canes

United Press International
The return matchup between the Miami defensive line and Florida quarterback Kerwin Bell was no contest.

The Hurricanes were in Bell's face all day during Miami's 31-4 win over Florida Saturday in the Orange Bowl, sacking him five times, forcing two intentional grounding penalties and three interceptions. Last year, Bell was sacked seven times and hospitalized overnight with a concussion, this year he left the game dazed and with a separated right shoulder.

In other games involving Florida colleges, No. 14 Florida State got off to a good start in 1987 with a 40-16 rout over Texas Tech. Central Florida beat Bethune-Cookman 17-9, and Tuskegee shut out Florida A&M 23-0.

In Miami, the Hurricane pass rush was led by defensive end Danny Stubbs, who had 2.5 sacks and several other near misses on Bell, and had some foreboding news for the senior quarterback from Mayo, after a first-quarter sack.

"I just told him I'd be back, that I'd be here all day," Stubbs said. "I told the team at the half, if they don't score they don't win."

Both predictions came true. Stubbs and his mates on the Miami defensive line pounded Bell consistently, and the Gators managed only two safeties on long snaps that sailed over the head of Miami punter Jeff Feagles and out of the end zone.

The Hurricanes got a 23-yard pass from Steve Walsh to Brian Blades, three Greg Cox field goals, a 14-yard run by Cleveland Gary, and a 41-yard interception return by Randy Shannon.

"Our mistakes were just too many," Florida coach Galen Hall said. "That was the main problem. We need to fix those in order to be the good football team we think we are."

The win was sweeter than usual for the Hurricanes, who were dropped as a yearly opponent by Florida, a move that made the Miami administration feel slighted. The two teams will not meet again until 1992.

"This is a happy day," said Miami coach Jimmy Johnson. "Then again, it's a sad day. It's a sad day because it is the last game in the series for a while (until 1992). We have won three out of the last four, and I guess the only time we'll meet would be in a bowl game."

In Tallahassee, the Seminoles started slowly before outscoring the Red Raiders 27-3 after the first quarter. Senior quarterback Danny McManus threw for a career high 275 yards, completing 19 of 34 passes, including two touchdowns. Kicker Derek Schmidt kicked two field goals and four extra points to become the all-time leading scorer in Florida State history.

McManus threw scoring passes of 11 yards to Bob Lewis and 37 yards to Herb Galner, and ran 6 yards for another score to lead FSU.

"I think it was an average performance," McManus said.

Florida State coach Bobby Bowden was less reserved.

"McManus was fantastic," he said.

Third-string tailback Dexter Carter, starting in place of the injured Victor Floyd and Sammie Smith, gained 60 yards rushing and caught 4 passes for 24 yards.

Herald Photo by Scott Sander

Vinny Testaverde had his poorest outing as a pro Saturday night, completing just 6 of 24 passes for 42 yards as the Bucs lost to Indianapolis. The Heisman Trophy's performance pretty much solidified Steve DeBerg as the starter in Sunday's opener against Atlanta.

Bucs Sign Sileo, On Technicality

TAMPA (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers Sunday signed former Miami Hurricane Dan Sileo, who was declared ineligible by the NCAA last week, a Buccaneers spokesman said.

The NCAA Friday ruled the defensive tackle ineligible because of courses he had taken at the University of Maryland. At the start of his college education, Sileo took nine credit hours at a branch of Maryland to become eligible to play for the Terrapins. He then attended Maryland and played for the Terrapins one year before transferring to Miami.

In Florida, a student carrying a nine-hour credit load is considered a part-time student, but

Football

Maryland calls it a full course load, signifying Sileo has used up all his eligibility.

"His clock started in 1982, so the 1987 year, which would have been his senior year, was forfeited at the University of Miami," Buccaneers spokesman Mike McCall said. "It was just a technicality — there was no wrongdoing on anybody's part."

After the ruling, McCall said, Sileo was considered a free agent because he had been eligible for the NFL draft this year but was not picked. McCall said Sileo will be placed on the active roster.

Tricky Knights Dupe Wildcats

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

ORLANDO — When the University of Central Florida's offense was not producing the way that coach Gene McDowell expected Saturday night against arch-rival Bethune-Cookman, McDowell knew that he had only alternative: turn to the trick plays.

McDowell is known for his penchant at attempting the razzle-dazzle, and as it turned out, it was a pair of fancy plays by the Knights that gave them a hard-fought 17-9 victory over Bethune-Cookman in the Central Florida Classic before a sparse crowd of 9,768 at the Florida Citrus Bowl. The UCF triumph cuts B-CC's lead in the traditional series opener to 4-3. UCF has won three consecutive.

A nine-yard touchdown run on a fake field goal by fullback Perry Balasis and fake punt pass from Bernard Ford to Sean Beckton that set up an Eddie O'Brien field goal accounted for 10 of UCF's points.

The Knights, ranked 10th in the nation in the NCAA Division II poll, will have a week off before hosting NAIA powerhouse Elon College on Saturday, Sept. 19.

Neither team managed to move the ball with any consistency largely due to the fact that the field was drenched from heavy rain before and during the game. UCF outgained B-CC in total yardage, 280-274.

The Knights had their problems moving the ball on the ground as they amassed just 40 yards. B-CC didn't fare much better as it chalked up 91 rushing yards. UCF didn't record a first down until the 7:30 mark of the second quarter.

After B-CC cut UCF's lead to 10-9 on Andre Harper's 10-yard touchdown catch with 4:20 left to play, it missed the tying PAT when Manny Manolas' kick was side. UCF got the ball back and scored an insurance touchdown. UCF quarterback Darin Slack hooked up with Ford on a 50-yard bomb to put the Knights at the Wildcats' nine-yard line. After UCF couldn't move on three consecutive plays, McDowell sent O'Brien in for an apparent field goal attempt.

But when holder Arnell Spencer took the snap from center, he shoveled the ball forward to Balasis. Balasis broke a pair of tackles and darted into the end zone for the clinching score.

"We didn't move the ball the way I thought we would," McDowell said. "I was very pleased with the way that our defense and our special team played, though. I think that the special teams were the difference in the game."

Slack had a fair night as the former Lake Howell all-stater went 9 for 24, good for 208 yards and a touchdown. Slack was picked off once, and was under constant pressure from the B-CC defense as the young Central Florida line didn't give the ex-Lake Howell High star much protection.

"I thought that Darin did a heck of a job tonight," McDowell said. "He didn't have much protection and under the circumstances, he performed well."

B-CC quarterback Greg Ross had a solid outing as he went 21 for 39, good for 183 yards and a touchdown.

Ford was the star of the game, though, as he hauled in six passes for 143 yards. Harper paced B-CC with eight grabs for 48 yards. Spencer had two catches for 67 yards.

B-CC got on the board first when it took advantage of a fumble by UCF tailback Robert

Palm Bay Dominates Summertime Run

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Powerful Melbourne Palm Bay pulled off a double victory Saturday morning, but Seminole County also turned in some promising performances in the Seminole Summertime Cross Country Jamboree at Seminole Community College.

● In the boys' division, fifth-ranked (Class 4A) Palm Bay, which was led by graduate Trent Smith, accumulated a team score of 50 compared to 65 for 3A power Rockledge and 142 for Lake Mary's Rams. Lake Mary would have had a score of 95 but number two runner Eric Petersen was disqualified in a mixup at the finish.

● In the girls' division, Palm Bay, ranked sixth in the preseason poll, finished with a team score of 47 while ninth-ranked Lake Howell was next at 66. Lake Howell's ran three full teams in Saturday's meet, Lake Mary was the only other county school with a full team as the Lady Rams came in sixth at 136.

Seminole County teams open the season this Saturday at the Lake Mary Opener.

Orlando Bishop Moore's Saul Laird was the only runner in the boys' three-mile run to break 16 minutes on the soggy SCC course as he took individual honors with a time of 15:59. Palm Bay's Smith, who graduated last year, was next at 16:11 followed by Lake Mary senior Brad Smith at 16:15.

Lake Howell's Kavan Howell was the next county finisher as he came in 13th at 17:08. Petersen's time was 17:19, but his 14th-place finish did not count since he was disqualified.

"There was a mixup between Eric

Cross Country

(Petersen) and a runner that was about to be lapped," Lake Mary coach Mark McGee said. "Eric ended up going in the wrong direction until the officials finally pointed him toward the finishing chute. He said something under his breath and one official told him to watch his language and he just blew up at the official and they disqualified him."

Lake Mary's official second runner ended up being Matt Suttiff who came in 19th at 17:32. Phil Rueff was 25th at 17:49 followed by Scott Plyler (34th at 18:32) and the top five was rounded out by Chad Driscoll (61st at 19:49).

"Even with Eric (Petersen) we would not have improved our place," McGee said. "Palm Bay is tough, but we couldn't get a good reading on them because their top guy was a graduate. And Rockledge is 3A so we won't be seeing much of them this year."

Seminole High, Lyman and Lake Brantley entered no runners in Saturday's jamboree on the boys' side.

The Seminole girls did have three runners on hand and two of those, seniors Shownda Martin and Dorchelle Webster, finished in the top 10. Martin was fourth and had the top county finish with a time of 13:16 while Webster took eighth at 13:39. The individual champion was Stacy Bowersox of Daytona Father Lopez as she ran a 12:59.

Lake Howell's first team, the Hawks, placed four runners in the top 15. Leading the way was junior Jenny Bolt who was sixth with a time of 13:28 and senior Bonnie Oliver was 11th at 13:49. A pair of freshman also made a strong debut for Lake Howell as Jessica Cardarelli was 12th at 13:51 and Michelle Cook 15th at 14:15. Also running on the first team were Tammy Bolt (40th at 15:37) and Michelle Lee (57th at 16:56).

"It was a good meet for us," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammonree said. "We had a lot of positive things come out of it. I hope we continue to go in the same direction."

Lake Howell's second team, nicknamed the Roadrunners, included Kristie Blaney (25th at 14:54), Stacy Johnson (35th at 15:17), Mariselle Lugo (49th at 16:04), Cindy Oliver (50th at 16:05), Holly Marshall (54th at 16:26) and Trisha Frost (56th at 16:39).

The Lake Howell third team, called Nike Air, consisted of Julie Logan (66th at 17:12), Vicky Collazo (71st at 17:56), Shelly Glass (73rd at 18:10), Amanda Millwood (74th at 18:21) and Joy Chambers (82nd at 19:27).

Lake Mary's Rams also had a good meet despite one of their top runners dropping out of the race. Senior Heather Heikkila led the way as she finished 19th with a time of 14:22 with sophomore Allison Snell close behind with a 21st-place time of 14:36. Tara Brabney completed a solid top three as she finished 29th at 14:59 and rounding out the top five were Tabatha Gano (38th at 15:26) and Kim Blackadar (47th at 15:59).

"All and all, I was pretty pleased," Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson said. "I had Christine (Adamson) drop out because she was sick so that dropped us down some. Heather (Heikkila) is looking as strong as ever and Allison (Snell) looked good, too."

Lake Brantley's Lisa Frizzell, one of the top quarter milers in the state in track, ran as an individual and the talented senior finished 28th with a time of 14:58.

Higuera Blanks Twins At Dome; A's Fail To Gain

A.L. Baseball

United Press International
Teddy Higuera accomplished a difficult feat in a stadium where opposing pitchers have trouble winning: He shut out the Twins in Minnesota.

Higuera, 15-9, yielded just two hits Sunday to pace the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6-0 victory over the Twins. Fortunately for the Twins, they maintained their three-game lead in the American League West as the Oakland A's dropped a 7-6 decision to the Baltimore Orioles.

Higuera has fired three straight shutouts and not allowed a run in 28 1/3 innings, dating back to Aug. 20. Last week the left-hander threw a one-hitter against Kansas City.

"I don't think it's easy for anybody to throw a shutout in here," Milwaukee Manager Tom Trebelhorn said. "He's located the ball consistently real, real well. He's putting it where he wants. He's in a pretty good groove."

The Twins own the best home record in the major leagues. They are 47-22 at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome, which is nicknamed homerdom for its small dimensions. The Twins have been shut out only four times at home this season.

"It was beautiful," said Milwaukee catcher Bill Schroeder. "He's feeling good right now and on a roll. That's the way it is in sports. When you have confidence that things are gonna go right they usually do."

Glenn Braggs, Rob Deer and Schroeder homered in support of Higuera as the Brewers snapped Minnesota's four-game winning streak. Twins starter Steve Carlton, 6-14, lost his fourth straight despite giving up only three hits in seven innings.

Higuera notched his 207th strikeout, equaling his previous club record.

"He's obviously a good pitcher," Minnesota's Steve Lombardozzi said. "He throws 90-plus (mph) and has a nasty hook to go with it."

Elsewhere, Toronto topped Seattle 3-2 in 11 innings. Cleveland topped Boston 3-1. California shaded New York 3-1. Chicago defeated Kansas City 5-4 in 11 innings and Texas trounced Detroit 9-3.

In the National League, it was Chicago 3, Cincinnati 1; Montreal 5, Atlanta 2; St. Louis 6, San Diego 4; San Francisco 4, Philadelphia 1; Pittsburgh 4, Houston 3; Los Angeles 3, New York 2 in 16 innings.

Tampa Group Acquires Deer Run — Sauers Tops MWGA

AmeriFirst Development Corp. has announced the sale of Deer Run Country Club in Casselberry to Golf and Country Club Investors, Inc., of Tampa. The Deer Run sale includes the 18-hole golf course, tennis courts and clubhouse facilities.

Heading the Deer Run operation is Warren Stanchina, a partner of Golf and Country Club Investors, who is also president and owner of U.S. Golf Services and Development Co., which owns and operates five golf courses in Michigan.

Stanchina, 39, is a Class A member of the PGA and will soon become a resident in Deer Run. "We are planning several improvements to the facilities including a clubhouse expansion, new pro shop, extensive landscaping and beautification, enhanced food and beverage services, golf clinics, lessons, exhibitions and a junior golf program," Stanchina said. "One of the major goals we want to accomplish is to get the Deer Run residents more involved in the country club operation. We base our success on three principals: a clean clubhouse, a green golf course and good service."

Based on the popularity of the Deer Run community, AmeriFirst is using it as the pattern for their newest development, Deer Run South, in Southeastern Orange County.

"Lloyd Clifton, who designed Deer Run Golf Course, has also designed the 18-hole course for this new country club community," said Jim Russell, regional marketing manager for AmeriFirst.

MAYFAIR WOMEN — Grace Sauers took top honors at the weekly Mayfair Women's Golf Association tournament with a low net score of 35 for the front 9 at the Mayfair Country Club. Margaret Botts was second with a 35½ followed by Verne Smith at 37½. Peggy Billups, Jonnie Elam and Mary Ann Williams all recorded a 38.

Also competing were Gloria Prosser, Stella Brooks, Helen Killebrew, Donna Dondaville, Annette Hodges, Gerrie Whiteside, Alice Potter, Jane McKibbin, Maude Butler and Pinky Mioducki.

ANSWERS — Last week's question was: What do you do when you hit your golf ball onto a tennis court?

This actually occurred one recent weekend at Deer Run Country Club in Casselberry. The ninth hole, a dog leg left, has tennis courts situated to the right of the fairway with no out of bounds markers around. One player in this reporter's group screamed a drive only to have it slice right and head toward the tennis courts.

The ball was presumed to have landed and stayed inside the courts — the player was not about to scale the fence to find out — or hit on the courts and bounced out. The player took a drop and hit three from near the courts.

If the ball had stayed on the court, and it was not considered out of bounds, would he have been able to play the ball where it lied?

Instead of taking a stroke, he could have taken his putter and tried to squeeze it through the fence and back onto the fairway.

Or, he could have thrown his clubs away, picked up a tennis racket and taken up a new sport.

While it is extremely difficult to be accurate all the time in golf, this reporter and his playing partner also discovered that day that tennis players are also far from perfect.

While searching for his golf ball, the player found a tennis ball in the woods just off the 9th fairway.

GIBSON'S RULE — When in doubt, take a provisional mulligan. That is, the mulligan does not count unless you use it. "It can only work for you," rule-maker Mike Gibson said. "It's like taking a test with impunity."

IN BRIEF

East Germans Take 10 Golds, Reinforce World Superiority

ROME (UPI) — Despite the presence of the United States and the Soviet Union and the tradition of Britain, West Germany and Italy, East Germany again proved its superiority at the World Track and Field Championships.

The East Germans, as at the inaugural World Championships in 1983, won 10 gold medals. But they improved their silver haul from seven to 11 and their bronze from five to 10.

They closed out the Championships with one gold Sunday — in the women's 4 x 400 meters — while the United States won three relays to take second place in the medals table with nine golds. The Soviet Union was third with seven.

Other winners included Douglas Wakihuru of Kenya in the marathon, while the Americans won both 4 x 100 meters relays and women's 4 x 400 — all in outstanding times.

Carl Lewis, who had to be content with a silver in the 100 meters when he finished behind Canada's Ben Johnson a week ago, gained a measure of revenge.

He anchored the American sprint relay team to victory with a devastating burst of speed down the home straight. He brought the Americans home in 37.90 seconds — the third-fastest time in history and only 7-100ths of a second outside the world record he was part of at the 1984 Olympics.

The final track event of the Championships, the men's 4 x 400 meters went to the American team of Danny Everett, Roddie Haley, Antonio McKay and Butch Reynolds who won in 2:57.29, the second fastest in history and the fastest run at low altitude.

Earnhardt Singing In The Rain

DARLINGTON, S.C. (UPI) — Dale Earnhardt overcame the weather and his troubled past at Darlington Raceway Sunday to claim the rain-shortened Southern 500.

"I had always thought about winning the Southern 500," said Earnhardt. "Before today, it seemed like something always happened to me in this race. We would be running good and I would run into the wall or something would happen to the car."

"I've watched David Pearson and Cale Yarborough run good here and win races. It just seems like it's history to do it yourself. It's special because it's close to home and everyone talks about it being the granddaddy of them all."

Rain halted the race, with only 202 of the event's 367 laps over the 1.366-mile course completed. The race, which was first held in 1950, was stopped at 3:43 p.m. EDT. After consulting with weather forecasters, NASCAR officials ruled at 5:15 p.m. the rain would prevent the event from being completed.

Piquet Never Tires, Triumphs

MONZA, Italy (UPI) — Nelson Piquet of Brazil ignored rapidly deteriorating tires and held off compatriot Ayrton Senna to win Sunday's Italian Formula One Grand Prix.

Piquet posted his fourth career triumph on the 3.6-mile Monza circuit and leads the driver standings with 63 points. Senna has 49 and Nigel Mansell of Britain 43.

Piquet was timed in 1 hour, 14 minutes, 47.707 seconds at an average speed of 144.557 mph on a scorching track that tore up tires. Senna, who took the lead of the 50-lap race from Piquet on the 24th lap, finished 1.806 seconds behind Piquet, who was driving the new computerized-suspension Williams.

Sindelar Gets Into New Swing

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (UPI) — Last month Joey Sindelar "was playing the worst golf" of his career, after changing his swing he posted a four-stroke triumph Sunday in the $400,000 B.C. Open.

Sindelar battled a fever and the shadow of his poor performance in the PGA Championship last month to become the first player to capture the tournament twice. He shot a 2-under-par 69, to finish at 18-under 266 and earn $72,000. Sindelar was four strokes ahead of Jeff Sluman and nine up on Mike McCullough and Tony Sills.

Sindelar, a native of Horseheads, N.Y., also won the 1985 B.C. Open.

Owners To Offer Concessions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NFL management said it intends to submit a contract proposal today that it hopes will convince union representatives to delay instituting its strike deadline when they meet on Tuesday.

John Jones, a spokesman for the NFL Management Council, said Sunday the proposal will offer concessions towards a more open free agency system, but will fall far short of the union's major demand of unrestricted free agency.

"I'm not very optimistic on what's in it," said Gene Upshaw, president of the NFL Players Association.

Jones Fires 69, Leads Classic

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Rosie Jones rebounded after missing a 1-foot putt on the fifth hole to shoot a 3-under-par 69 Sunday and take a one-stroke lead after two rounds of the $200,000 Rail Charity Classic.

Jones had a total of 6-under 138 entering Monday's final round. Nancy Lopez, Kathy Postlewait and Mary Beth Zimmerman were tied for second. Lopez fired a steady 71, and Zimmerman, who held the first-round lead, shot an even-par 72. Postlewait had a 71.

Ector. After Wildcat punter George Smith hemmed UCF in at its own seven-yard line, Ector, who was held to 14 yards on the ground, coughed up the ball at the Knight five.

UCF's defense stiffened, though, and B-C-C had to settle for a 24-yard field goal by Manolas with 3:48 left in the first quarter.

UCF retaliated, however, when Slack capped a five-play, 67-yard drive with a 48-yard touchdown pass to Spencer with just 40 seconds left in the first half. The big play gave UCF a 7-3 halftime cushion.

The Knights lengthened their lead to 10-3 with 5:37 left in the third quarter when O'Brien, who is eight for eight in field goal attempts against B-C-C in his career, booted a 32-yard field goal.

The field goal capped a 15-play, 75 yard drive. On fourth and long, McDowell sent Ford in to punt. When Ford took the snap, he hit Beckton on a fake punt pass for a 23-yard completion that kept the drive alive.

B-C-C appeared to have tied the game on Harper's touchdown catch late in the fourth quarter, but Manolas hooked the extra point.

UCF had to play the game without the services of All-American linebacker Wyatt Bogan, who fractured his left foot in practice about two weeks ago, was scheduled to start against the Wildcats but re-injured his foot in warmups. His replacement, sophomore James Goodman, made the most of his chance to play as Goodman recorded 11 tackles.

as they orchestrated a well-executed 11-play, 65-yard drive that was capped on halfback Johnnie Griffin's two-yard touchdown run.

"That is what this offense is designed to do," Almon said. "I'm hoping that we do that three or four times a game."

Brantley will open its season on Friday against Seminole County rival Oviedo. The Pats will also be looking to get even with the Lions as Oviedo has won the last two meetings.

The Patriot backfield looked strong as Griffin, halfback Jeff Bynum, and fullback Mark Sepe each alternated carries.

Quarterbacks Clint Johnson and Scott Meredith both operated the bone adequately.

The defense, led by tackle Matt Thornton and safety Jeff Stanphill, kept the Bulldog offense in check. "The defense did a great job," Lake Brantley defensive line coach Gary Smith said.

"They looked aggressive, and I think that they will surprise a lot of people this year."

In the second half of the Lyman jamboree, which pitted Oviedo and Lyman, neither team could score in the half, but Greg Fulsang's 25-yard overtime field goal gave Lyman a 3-0 victory.

Lyman will open its season on Friday at Orlando Boone. The Braves have had the best of the Greyhounds in the past two years.

"I was very enthused with the way that our defense played," Lyman coach Bill Scott said. "We do have a way to go offensively, though."

Urquidi's .438 Tops ITM Percentage

Fern Park's Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai Fronton completed its first summer season with a bit of the old and bit of the new.

Berica, the fronton's oldest performer at 41, and Ceberio, the youngest at 19, tied for in-the-money (win, place, show) percentage with a .414 average. Berica won 76 games and Ceberio won 68.

Both trailed Urquidi, however, who put together a fine .438 percentage with 63 wins, 65 places and 60 shows in 429 games. Calza (59/82/66 in 381 games) was next at .430. Ricardo was third (74/91/103 in 636 games) at .421.

Other trophy winners included Pardo, most wins, 94; Aguirre, most doubles wins, 90; Mendi, most feature singles wins, 18; Charola, most feature game frontcourt wins, 21; Mendi, most feature game backcourt wins, 17; and Ricardo, most times in the money, 271.

Ricardo, by the way, earned the Iron Man award, playing in 640 games. "Finishing 271 times in the money is quite an accomplishment," Parimutuels Jim "Buzz" Bussard said.

WEEKLY WINS — For the week, Pita won four feature singles games, with all wins coming in the Superfecta. Farah closed win a rush to pick up 10 wins, one more than Garay, Aguirre and Charola last week.

In the feature game singles, Charola won four game while Mendi and Urquidi took two apiece. Mendi was the yearly leader with 18 wins in 105 games. Urquidi, however, won 14 times in just 79 games.

The feature game doubles was won by Charola in the frontcourt with 21 victories and Mendi in the backcourt with 17. The backcourt battle was not decided until Wednesday when Mendi edged ahead of Zarraga (16) and Lecue (15).

Pardo, rebounding from a back operation in early 1986, turned in a strong year with 94 wins.

BRIEF BREAK — The fronton, which closed Friday, will take just a brief break. In the four and one-half week break, Bussard said new air conditioning will be installed, along with the usual painting and repair jobs.

"This was our first season of summer jai-alai and we consider it a success," Bussard said. "Our next season will run for six months, which is two months longer than previous years."

The next meet opens Oct. 9. There will be evening performances on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, along with matinees on Thursday and Saturday.

Rain Washes Speed World

ORLANDO — On Friday night at Speed World, following several attempts to race, after drying the track time and time again, the entire Labor Day Weekend program had to be postponed until Friday, Sept. 11, at 8 p.m.

Included in that "Working Man's Special" will be a 50-lap Bomber "B" Championship, plus a 50-lap Bomber "A" Championship. As a bonus, the winner will receive a black male mink jacket valued at $1,500.

Grizzley veteran Wayne Marshall of Malabar leads the "A" point standings, with talented Orlando pilot Russ Thompson leading the "B" Bomber point chase.

Both drivers steer extremely well-prepared race cars. Both vehicles sport most safety features that are not mandatory but sure come in handy when the goings get tough.

Former World Series Champion David Russell of Apopka is number one in the late model standings and should go on to the Championship with no problems.

Another driver who is on the road to the title is Sportsman division's high point man Sidney Stites of Merritt Island, a master mechanic who works on his race car five nights a week.

Leading the four-cylinder division is 14-year-old Wes Pyburn of Lakeland. But at the rate that hard-charging Billy Hooven of Orlando is going, he could very well catch up and beat the youngster.

Mechanics Crush Woman's Leg In Dispute Over Auto Repairs

MIAMI (UPI) — Three auto mechanics are charged with attempted murder and auto theft for allegedly stealing an unhappy customer's car and running over the customer's wife with the vehicle, crushing her leg so badly that it had to be amputated.

The repairs were being held Sunday in the Dade County Jail without bond on charges of attempted first-degree murder, auto theft, burglary, robbery and aggravated battery.

Police recovered the victims' car Saturday and arrested the three men, identified as Miguel Querejeta, 31, and Carlos Oropesa, 38, of US One Auto Repair, and Rigoberto Avila, 31, Querejeta's brother-in-law.

The repairmen are accused of invading the west Kendall home of Manny and Yolanda Rivers on Aug. 29.

Mom: Embezzler Wanted Arrest

TAMPA (UPI) — A fugitive banker accused of stealing $200,000 may have used his real name and his own American Express card during his five months on the run because he wanted to get caught, say the suspect's family.

Police said David Meser, 29, of Tampa, disappeared April 8 with $200,000 worth of his employer's securities. He was captured in Savannah, Ga., Tuesday.

Parachutist Dies In DeLand Dive

By Denise Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando parachutist plunged to his death in DeLand Sunday becoming the only reported holiday-related fatality in Central Florida as of early today.

Elsewhere in the state, nine people have died in traffic accidents out of the 30 the Florida Highway Patrol have predicted would die in the 3-day holiday period ending at midnight.

Dying on impact was Gary Templeton, 40. It was his 18th or 19th jump and he was participating in an instructor-supervised dive at the time, said Bob Hallett, owner of Skydive DeLand with whom Templeton was training.

It was the first parachuting fatality in over 5 years and 100,000 jumps by Skydive DeLand, said Hallett who has been skydiving for 15 years and has made nearly 4,000 jumps.

The incident occurred around 9:30 a.m. Templeton slammed into the earth near Marsh Road and U.S. Highway 17-92. While the apparent cause of death was the fall to earth, an autopsy is scheduled in Daytona Beach at Halifax Medical Center.

Hallett said Templeton, his instructor and two other parachutists jumped out at 9,000 feet. During the 25- to 30-second dive, Templeton was doing maneuvers his instructor was signaling him to do, such as manipulating his arms and legs control his fall leftward and rightward. The other skydivers were not near the men nor were they involved in the incident, said Hallett.

Templeton apparently did not notice the decreasing altitude and at 3,500 feet the instructor signaled him to pull his rip cord. Templeton grabbed for the cord but only partially dislodged it before he apparently panicked started to tumble out of control, Hallett said.

Although Templeton was geared-up with an automatic parachute releasing device — operated by altitude pressure — it was rendered inoperative by the force created by Templeton's tumbling, Hallett said.

The device, set to open at 1,500 feet, did not open until about 100 feet off the ground. That was enough distance for the chute to open but not enough to fill with air and break Templeton's fall, Hallett said.

The application packet includes a copy of the Florida firearms statute, which would be pistol totes must certify they have read and understood. It has a list of places where concealed weapons may not be carried — such as in courthouses, university facilities or meetings of the Legislature.

"By applying for a license to carry a concealed weapon or firearm for self defense, you are exercising your right as a law-abiding Floridian," Smith said in his form letter. "This right was affirmed by the 1987 Legislature and signed into law by Gov. Bob Martinez."

The new law, sponsored by Rep. Ron Johnson, D-Panama City, with a majority of both legislative chambers as co-sponsors, provides that any six-month or longer Florida resident with a clean criminal record can get a concealed-weapon license. Applicants must pay a non-refundable $125 fee and submit certification that they have taken a firearms-safety course certified by the National Rifle Association — or that they have military training in gun use — and must submit a set of fingerprints for checking by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement. An additional $21 is charged for the fingerprinting.

The fees, Register said, pay for a three-year license and will be used to cover cost of maintaining the program.

Seminole County sheriff's investigator David Smith, who along with Lt. Jim Branley teaches a firearms familiarization course at Seminole Community College, said they have developed a new course which would lead to qualifying for a concealed weapons permit.

The difference in the proposed course, which is awaiting approval of SCC officials, and the existing program is eight hours of time spent on a firing range, after four hours of instruction in the new course.

In the existing course, students in this "leisure time" class do not receive the required time on the shooting range, Smith as pawns in an effort to secure the release of Hamadel.

Hamadel, one of whose brothers is reported to be the Hezbollah security chief, was arrested in January at Frankfurt airport on his arrival from Beirut for possessing explosives. Hamadel is in prison in West Germany awaiting trial for hijacking a TWA jetliner to Beirut in 1985 and killing a U.S. Navy diver aboard the plane.

On June 24 the West German government, apparently out of concern for the safety of the two German hostages, rejected a U.S. request for Hamadel's extradition, but said he would be tried in West Germany. In a videotape released late last month, Schmidt said Hamadel's release would bring his release.

The southern district of Beirut is at the main entrance to the Shiite southern suburbs — home to Shiite Moslem fundamentalists. The suburbs are outside the control of about 7,000 Syrian troops sent to west Beirut Feb. 22 to quell violence and restore order to the terror-plagued Moslem half of the capital.

The Strugglers for Freedom Organization said Friday the German government promised to release Hamadel and another brother, Ali Abbas Hamadel, both jailed in Bonn on terrorist charges. The kidnapers are believed to be relatives of the Hamadel brothers.

"After receiving assurances, guarantees, promises and according to the program agreed upon and which could serve the interest of everybody, we will release Alfred Schmidt within hours as a natural result of the positive steps mentioned in our previous statement," the group said in a statement typed in Arabic and sent today to An-Nahar newspaper and a Western news agency.

"This confirms again our good intentions and determination to dialogue and resolve the issue positively on one hand," the pro-Iranian group said.

"On the other hand, this will put the German authorities in front of its responsibilities toward the promises and guarantees it had given to some countries regarding its adherence to the program agreed upon and the continuing of the positive developments."

On Friday, the Moslem fundamentalist group said it would release one of its captives within 10 days if Bonn fulfilled its promises and guarantees, but warned of "real catastrophes" otherwise.

Until Schmidt's release today, there were at least 23 foreigners missing and believed held hostage by Moslem extremists in Lebanon. The hostages include eight Americans, six Frenchmen, two Britons and Anglican church envoy Terry Waite.

A national study by the department's Bureau of Justice Statistics showed that 25,388 prisoners were added to already strained facilities across the country, led by a substantial increase in California during the first six months of 1987.

The report also showed the highest percentage ever of women prisoners, at 5 percent, and a more than 100 percent increase in the female prison population since 1980.

Bureau Director Steven Schlesinger said the statistics, an actual increase of 4.7 percent, continued a trend begun last year and mean "a continuing space demand of about 1,000 new prison beds every week."

There are now a record 570,519 convicts in the U.S.

state and federal prisons, the report said. The number of state and federal prisoners grew by 7.8 percent last year, it said.

As of June 30, prison populations ranged from a low of 441 prisoners in North Dakota, to a high of 64,737 in California, where the 5,253 new prisoners since the end of December accounted for 21 percent of the nationwide increase so far this year.

Regionally, prison populations grew by 7.8 percent in the West, compared with only 2.5 percent in the South, 4.6 percent in the Midwest and 5.1 percent in the Northeast.

Federal prisons filled up faster than state facilities, the report showed, with the federal penitentiaries reporting a 7.3 percent increase compared with the 4.4 percent reported by state prisons.

More women joined the ranks of prisoners, the study showed, reaching the highest level since record-keeping began in 1928.

During the first half of this year, the study reported that the female prisoner population grew by 6.2 percent, compared with 4.6 for men.

Since 1980, the number of female prisoners increased from 13,420 to 28,314 for a 111 percent increase. The number of male convicts went from 316,401 to 542,205, the study said, a 71 percent increase.

The District of Columbia had the largest increase to date this year, reporting a 15.8 percent rise in the number of prisoners. Arizona reported a 11.8 percent increase, followed by Oregon and New Jersey with 9.2 percent jumps.

The largest drop so far this year was posted in North Carolina, where populations actually declined 4.2 percent, it said.

- $1.9 million to construct a two-lane Chapman Road from SR 426 to SR 434.
- $2 million to extend Lake Harney Road (Jungle Road) to SR 46.
- $1 million for improvements to the bridge on Snow Hill Road.
- $2 million to be used as matching funds for road and drainage special assessments.

Cities varied in the amount of detail they included in their proposed projects.

Altamonte Springs listed five proposed road projects: Widening Montgomery Road from SR 436 to SR 434; four-laning Wymore Road from SR 436 to Lake Destiny Drive; widening Center Street; realigning Douglas Avenue and Markham Woods Road; extending Franklin Avenue from Center Street to Westmonte Drive.

Casselberry listed road projects without specifying any, plus a civic/community center, unspecified drainage easements, municipal structures and recreation improvements.

Lake Mary, proposed using the money to help buy the land for, and construct a new municipal complex and, if any funds are left over, to use them for streets and drainage improvements and maintenance.

Longwood proposed five specific uses: to purchase land and construct a civic center, to purchase land for, and construct a new public works complex, and to purchase land for and construct a new fire station.

Oviado only listed public facilities in general, and a municipal complex as its proposed uses of the funds.

Sanford listed drainage, storm and sanitary sewer improvements and improvements to the wastewater system.

Winter Springs listed seven uses: road construction, paving and drainage of dirt roads, expansion of and/or property acquisition and construction of a new fire station, expansion of the existing public works facility, or construction of a new one; water and sewer improvements; land acquisition for recreation facilities, and construction of a civic center.

In his brain subaldea, doctors have covered that portion of his head with a fabric mesh.

Patrick has enough tissue to cover the area in the back of the head involved in the operation.

DuPrene said the infants also will undergo more surgery to place a titanium mesh in their skull that will become part of the bone and protect their heads in the area where bone was cut away.

The operation was believed to be the first time that the patients' body temperatures were deliberately lowered and cardiac arrest induced to spare brain tissue during such surgery.

"Our biggest concern was to prevent serious blood loss and brain damage during the time when we had to stop blood flow to the brain in order to construct separate brain sinuses (channels for blood flow)," said Rogers.

"The riskiest period of the operation began at 11 p.m. when surgeons induced complete cardiac arrest and zero blood flow in each twin," he added. "The team had less than 60 minutes to complete the separation of the twins, construct new sinuses and re-establish blood flow."

One of the children's brain surgery was finished in 58 minutes and the other's in about 62 minutes, he said.

The infants required 60 units of blood products during the surgery.

The Hopkins team consisted of two sets of specialists in neurosurgery, cardiac surgery, plastic surgery and anesthesiology, nurses and technicians. Surgeons prepared for the operation by using lifelike dolls attached at the head.

Doctors said the huge staff was required because of the complexity of the surgery and because they were performing major brain and cardiac surgery on two patients at the same time.

Team members met for five three-hour rehearsals in an operating room the size of a classroom during the months preceding the surgery, practicing on two dolls whose heads were joined together with Velcro.

"Team members likened the planning to an NFL team preparing for the Super Bowl and their drills (on dolls) to military training," Hillman said.

The parents of the boys, Josef, 36, and Theresia, 20, will not talk to reporters or release photographs of their sons because they have a contract with the West German photo magazine Bunte.

Carson estimated that the frequency of Siamese twin births is about one per 2 million to 2.5 million births. Separation of the twins was thought to be one of only about two dozen successful operations of its kind in the world.

Treatment Of Abandoned Pets Makes Readers Purr And Hiss

DEAR ABBY: "Pet Sympathizer in Hollandale, Wis." completely ruined my day when she described what her husband did when he found a mother beagle and her pup on their doorstep half-dead from starvation and thirst in 96-degree weather. He got his gun and quickly put them out of their misery! The sheer lack of compassion on the part of these farmers horrified me. Instead of water and nourishment, these animals were greeted with bullets!

I was reminded of Maude's oft-heard statement: "God will get you for that!" In this case, I hope he does.

CRISTINE PERTILE, CHICAGO

DEAR CRISTINE: Thanks. I needed your letter. You and I were pathetically outnumbered. A sample of the opposition:

DEAR ABBY: Your harsh criticism of "Pet Sympathizer" for putting the two starved, abandoned dogs out of their misery was not only arrogant, it was flat-out stupid. Those farmers are dedicated to a life of taking care of animals. They eat, sleep and breathe animal care! Abby, for you to sit in your air-conditioned office, unskilled, untrained in animal care, and maliciously damn them in the height of muddleheadedness! You suggested that the farmers take the animals to the Humane Society. Look at a map. They were 60 miles from the nearest city. Also, what percentage of animals taken to the Humane Society are adopted? Perhaps 20 percent — and those are the cutest and healthiest. Why should these farmers prolong the agony of the dogs, then take a day out of their busy lives to drive them 120 miles where they would be put to death anyway?

Dear Abby

They were 100 percent right, lady. You blew it!

BUCK JOINER, MAUI

DEAR ABBY: The next time a stray dog shows up on my father's farm, I'll send it to you! You can judge whether it has been infected with rabies, distemper, internal parasites, or other diseases that will be transmitted to pets, and possibly people. You can also pay for having the animal vaccinated, wormed, neutered or spayed. Then you can find a "pet rescue group" that will accept it. (And if you live in a rural area, good luck.)

Abby, abandoned dogs often travel in packs and are a threat to pets and livestock. Save your criticism for people who dump dogs and cats on rural roads in the first place.

SONDRA KRUEGER FELDSTEIN, GAITHERSBURG, MD.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to "Pet Sympathizer" illustrates the lack of understanding between city people and farmers. Farmers have all the animals they can afford, and they can't run an abandoned pet service for all the animals that get dumped on their property. "Pet Sympathizer's" husband mercifully shortened the dogs' ordeal. You city folks should walk a mile in a farmer's workshoes before you criticize.

GRACE FEIST, SEVILLE, OHIO

DEAR READERS: Score: Cristine, Abby, and a handful of naive city dwellers: 26. Realistic rural folks: 360 — and still counting.

DEAR ABBY: Please encourage your readers to spay or neuter their pets. Nothing is more heartbreaking than to have to take the life of a young, healthy animal.

NANCY CELANI-BAKER, DOUGLASVILLE, GA.

Central Florida Zoo Sets Docent Training Program

The Central Florida Zoological Park is more than a place to see animals. It is an educational facility, used by more than 8,000 school children in organized tour groups during 1986. The youngsters learn about the animals at the Zoo, their backgrounds, characteristics and future in the wild. These children and other groups are given tours by the Zoo's Docents, who are volunteer teachers at the zoo.

The Central Florida Zoo's Education Department will be offering a Docent Training Program starting Sept. 16 or 19 from 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Two classes run concurrently, one on Wednesdays and one on Saturdays for seven weeks. There is no charge for this mini-zoology course and applicants must be 16 years or older. If you are interested in learning more about the Animal Kingdom, how to give tours and assist in animal encounters, call 323-0181 or 843-2341 for additional information.

NEWCOMERS COFFEE

During September in each Central Florida elementary school there will be a night for parents and boys to go back to school and join the Scouting program. Scouting officials will be visiting each classroom to deliver colorful flyers giving School Night details for that school.

For more information on the School Night in your area please call the Scout Service Center at 896-4801.

For more information contact: Bill Cowles, Director of Field Service, Boy Scouts of America, 8-896-4801, or H-298-1873.

FREE DIABETES SERIES

The free Diabetes Series: Update, a special program for diabetics and their families, being offered by Central Florida Regional Hospital which started Sept. 2 and 3, provides more than bare facts.

Both evening and afternoon sessions explain and then map out a personal lifestyle for diabetics for obtainable goals through education and group support.

The course is set for 7 to 8:30 p.m. and will continue every Wednesday through Oct. 7, while the afternoon series is scheduled from 2:30 to 4 p.m. and continues each Thursday through Oct. 8.

To register call Central Florida Regional Hospital, 321-4500 or 668-4441 extension 607.

FHP VEHICLE INSPECTION

The Florida Highway Patrol will conduct driver license and vehicle inspection checkpoints during the week of Sept. 4-10 on Celery Avenue, Orange Boulevard, Sanford Avenue, County Home Road and Old Lake Mary Road Seminole County.

Recognizing the danger presented to the public by defective vehicle equipment, troopers will concentrate their efforts on vehicles being operated with defects such as bad brakes, worn tires and defective lighting equipment. In addition, attention will be directed to drivers who would violate the driver license laws of Florida.

The patrol has found these checkpoints to be an effective means of enforcing the equipment and driver license laws of Florida while ensuring the protection of all motorists.

FREE PARENTING SESSIONS

The Sunshine Connection is a non-profit organization which provides support and guidance to first-time parents, under age 25, who live in Seminole County.

The Sunshine Connection will be offering free training sessions for individuals interested in becoming Volunteer Parent Friends. Training sessions will be held at the Sunshine Connection office located in the Crane's Roost Office Park at 370 Whoooping Loop, Suite 1136, Altamonte Springs.

The Sunshine Connection is in need of caring people to act as role models for first-time parents. With positive parenting information and a stable support system, the chances of child abuse and neglect occurring in this high-risk group can be considerably reduced.

Potential volunteers are encouraged to call (305) 767-8977 for further information.

Change Seat To Avoid Bike Riding Discomfort

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am male, 40, in excellent physical health, and I enjoy sports. I just moved to an area that is beautiful for bike riding. I'm enjoying bicycling again, but after as little as an hour on the bike, my penis gets numb, and there is discomfort in the groin. I've changed seats and bought well-padded biking shorts, but nothing helps. Will this cause lasting damage?

treat each adult and child in the family — simultaneously — with injections of long-acting penicillin. In this manner, the chain of infection can often be broken. Maybe your daughter is a candidate for tonsillectomy. If her tonsils were not removed when she was a child. Tonsils

DEAR READER — You are describing a well-known consequence of bicycling: pressure on (and damage to) the nerves supplying the penis. This is a particular problem in bikers who ride for long distances on the narrow racing seats of 10-speed bicycles.

To avoid this unpleasant effect, try altering the pitch of the seat so that most of the pressure is directed into your buttocks, rather than on the delicate soft tissues between them. Some riders have found relief by changing to a wider, flatter, saddle type of seat and raising the handlebars to avoid riding in a bent-over, horizontal position.

Temporary numbness usually goes away by itself; the damage is not permanent. However, repeated pressure on the nerves (with continuing symptoms) can result in chronic discomfort and concern. Change seats until you find one that is right for you — or change sports.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My daughter, 30, has a health problem and we really don't know where to turn. She has had a strep-throat infection for two years and it refuses to clear up. In the last year, her family of six has had 35 positive throat cultures. She's on a daily maintenance dose of penicillin and it still hasn't helped. Is there something we can do to eliminate this illness?

DEAR READER — Some people seem to be strep "carriers"; they tend to infect those around them without becoming ill themselves. One way of eradicating the strep that may be passed continuously from one family member to another is to

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby South, a macho type, overcalled the opening one-club bid with one no-trump. West doubled, everyone passed, and with a diamond lead the defenders were off to the races. Eventually they took 10 tricks. That was 1100 to East-West, a better score than they could get for a non-vulnerable game that would probably not make.

would have proceeded without a Titanic-like disaster inflicted on South. Another way to wriggle out of the one-no-trump-doubled hot seat is to use the SOS redouble. From a practical point of view, when partner overcalls an opposing opening bid with one no-trump and is doubled, a redouble by the no-trumper's partner should only say: "Partner, we are in bad trouble in no-trump. Please bid a suit and hope for the best." This is a good bid, but make sure your partner will know what you mean before you use it. In today's deal, a mistake in interpretation would turn minus-1100 into minus-2200, which would probably be material for another news column, this time in the homicide section.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring... By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY SEPTEMBER 8, 1987 The lure of enticing investments could be a strong attraction for you in the year ahead. You'll fare well in these situations if you deal with reputable people and firms, and properly do your homework. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could make some bad buys when shopping today if you are more concerned about the packaging than you are with the contents. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail #2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Indecision is your nemesis today, especially in matters that affect others. A wishy-washy attitude could be contagious, and confuse people as well. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't turn your back on a friend who may need your help today. You won't like yourself later if you had an opportunity to lend a hand but didn't. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A well-intentioned friend might provide you with information today that he or she thinks could save you money. Unfortunately, it may be of little merit. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In order to gain stature in the eyes of co-workers today, you might be tempted to make promises that you will later be unable to deliver. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may be a trifle too gullible for your own good today. If someone tells you he caught a Loch Ness monster, request a photograph. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Loss of small but valuable possessions is a possibility today. Don't leave your rings on the wash stand or your purse at the tennis courts. ARIES (March 21-April 19) A friend of yours who is an accomplished time waster may disrupt your schedule today. Don't let this person linger too long over morning coffee and doughnuts. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't do anything today that could encourage loose tongues to wag about your activities. Keeping everything out in the open will frustrate the gossips. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Friends with whom you'll be involved today will not be impressed by airs or affectations. In fact, pretenses will produce results other than those you desire. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone you perceive as an ally might not be as supportive as you think. This individual's intentions are not in harmony with yours at present. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your thinking could be a trifle impractical and disjointed today. Don't waste time and effort designing a vehicle with square wheels. (C)1987, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
