

Col. Cochran Describes Feats Of 'Joker Squadron' In Africa

NEW YORK, June 11, (Special) — One of the most storied fighter pilots in the Army Air Forces sat down yesterday on a green love seat at the Waldorf-Astoria, and with a broad smile remembered now it was in southern Tunisia on Jan. 10 when he made a one-man toby in a P-40 and demolished a German Army headquarters building at Kasrrouan.

"The Germans," he said, "kept telling us by radio on the 8th and 9th that they were going to give us hell. Said they'd take roundouk. I figured it would be a right idea to do something to 'em, push 'em off balance, upset 'em."

"So I put one bomb in the plane and flew over to this hotel where they had their headquarters. I made a deal like that you fly low, go at the building below roof level, then raise up just enough to miss it and stay alive and let the bomb go."

Wrecking the hotel, he said, was easy, but two minutes later, hugging the ground to avoid flak, he found himself a few feet over a walled Arab cemetery full of anti aircraft barrels. He got out of there in a hurry, and soon a Vocke-Wulf 100 shot him in the tail and smashed his right aileron.

"I guess he didn't know who was hit," Col. Cochran grinned, "but he damn near killed me. If he'd kept it at me, that would have been it."

Col. Cochran, who has a square deeply-tanned face, stands five feet seven inches tall, and weighs 160 pounds, went into the war as just a competent pilot, trainer and soon became almost a legendary figure for his fighting and commanding in Tunisia.

He is thirty-three years old, hails from Erie, Pa., is unmarried, is the model for the character Major Philip Loren in the comic strip "Terry and the Pirates," and carries a chess, full of decorations—the Silver Star, Soldiers Medal, Distinguished Flying Cross with two Oak Leaf Clusters, Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters and the Croix de Guerre with stars.

That patch of decorations, all won in Tunisia, attest the size of the job he did there. He was a major when he went into the war in Africa on Nov. 11 with the Allied invasion. For a distressing period of inactivity, he trained pilots near Casablanca and then was ordered, with a squadron—more than thirty P40s—to a far advanced airfield near Kasserine.

"The Joker Squadron," Col. Cochran said, shaking his head.

The German lines were ten minutes away. Battered wings were rounded up on a hand-to-mouth basis, communications as times were non-existent. Flares were shot down and there were no replacements, either for parts or for men.

The Joker Squadron, as Colonel Cochran called his team, was so far out ahead of the Allied lines that it was on its own.

"We just used our initiative," he said. "Once I had the enough initiative to disregard an order to go back to Oran."

He figured that his superior officers had no way of knowing that he and his men were getting along well, shooting down Nazis every day, machine-gunning roads and railroads and remembering when the Germans quit trying to move supplies by day, and utterly ruining the enemy communications. So he just didn't go back to Oran and later, the superior agreed that he did right.

"We were bombed or strafed just about every day," Col. Cochran said. "Sometimes a couple of times a day. We lived in caves in a ravine and a lot of times," all we had to eat was canned steak and kidney pie. We were just holding on and then they just sort of gobbled us up."

Col. Cochran and what was left of his squadron were pulled out of their airfield in mid-February when the Nazis stormed through Faid Pass and Kasserine and tossed the Americans and the French nearly back to Algeria.

From then on until he left Africa and arrived in New York on Monday, Col. Cochran was busy training pilots near Casablanca, and after a rest in Erie he expects to do the same thing for a while in this country.

"Then I hope I get a chance to go back to the war," he said. "That's a trite thing to say, I guess, but it's true, damn it, everybody who's been in there wants to get back."

Princess "Young Kids" the young American lady who fought with him.

"Our young kids," he said, "struggling to find the words to match his intense feeling." "I'm not sort of automatically wonderful in Germany they have to be beaten over the head here at home like them. And the Americans have this fascination, and what have we got? We've got our own and they've got something. I guess they're just being a gun, but they get it back and see them, well, they get it from the map on the wall."

Africa Troops Call For Harsh Steps In Strikes 'Stars And Stripes' Reports 90 Percent Willing To Trade

ALGIERS, June 11, (AP)—The Stars and Stripes, American soldier newspaper, in its North African edition published a survey of comments of United States troops on the strikes back home, especially the coal mine walkout. (The survey obviously was conducted before it was known that the mine union had ordered the strikers back to work last Monday.)

"Almost 90 per cent of the men urged drastic government action against the strike leaders as well as against the strikers themselves," the Army newspaper said. "The Stars and Stripes" said its staff writers conducted a "great many personal interviews" in which the question was asked: "What do you think of the coal strike?" Besides this, hundreds of unsolicited letters were sent to the newspaper office by soldiers.

"Fully 70 per cent declared the strikers should be inducted into the Army and returned to work on 'C' Army rations," the front page article said.

"A substantial minority expressed concern that the people back home still don't realize that the war is going on. None of the soldiers said any use whatever for John L. Lewis.

"Almost without exception the soldiers offered to change places with the strikers."

"The Stars and Stripes" quoted Sergeant Frank Middleford of Lafayette, Ind., a former railway worker and member of the mail clerks' union thus:

"Heading and hearing about strikes in vital industries back home really burn the fellows up. I say induct the strikers into the Army, if they don't appreciate that their lot is better than ours."

In about 10 per cent of the cases, soldier criticism accused labor leaders of trying to prolong the war by holding up supplies and making more money for themselves, the newspaper said.

Staff Sergeant E. Dickson of Kearny, N. J., who said his father had been a Pennsylvania coal miner for nineteen years and that he knew personally what it was to be hungry during a strike, was quoted as saying:

"The government should really outlaw strikes in times of war. If it had to induct the strikers."

Private Henry Parake, of Brooklyn, said that regardless of the reason for strikes, "these can't be bad enough to go through with them now. We can easily lose the war as a result of strikes." "Stars and Stripes" quoted him as saying:

"There is no reason why they can't settle their differences by arbitration," said Master Sergeant Robert Guy, of Wichita, Kan., who has been on four bomber missions. "I remember when the men of my old outfit had finished up twenty-six planes of a struck plant in California so we could get them on their way to England. I'll never forget those rotten days."

The newspaper said that of the 10 per cent who registered approval of strikes, even in wartime, Sergeant Joseph Harris, of Brooklyn, entered a representative view:

"The men in the coal pits deserve every break they can get and if strikes are their only means, let them exercise that American right. Inducting them into the Army won't solve the trouble unless they are sent back to their jobs. But that would set unionism back fifty years. It just wouldn't be true democracy."

SURROUNDED by American sea and land forces, the Jap garrison on Kiska Island in the Aleutians, estimated at 10,000 men, now faces the unpleasant prospect of imminent attack with almost no hope of reinforcement in men or supplies from Tokyo. The map shows how the Japs are reported to have dispersed their forces on Kiska to meet such an assault. Meanwhile, they are under constant bombing attacks from planes based on Adak.

Price Rollbacks Are Planned For Fresh Vegetables

WASHINGTON, June 9, (AP)—Fresh vegetables were put next on the list for price rollbacks while some congressmen this week were attacking the whole theory of food subsidies and representatives of food subsidies and representatives of grocery interests were telling a congressional committee that OPA regulations already in force threaten to break down the country's food distribution system.

Lab representatives counted with a charge that inflation-minded congressmen were attacking OPA to cover their own "stupidity or cowardice, or both."

Shirley Haas, general manager of the Ohio Valley Grocery company, testified before the house small business committee that if the purpose of the Price Administration is to "break down the food distribution system of this country," it has "certainly made lightning speed in that direction."

"Do you consider OPA the enemy of American business?" asked Representative Plosser (R., Mo.).

"It's certainly taken on that complexion, sir," Haas answered. "Can't Stop Rollback"

Meanwhile a spokesman for livestock and meat organizations announced he had had no success in persuading Economic Stabilization Director Vinson to block a 10 percent rollback of meat prices already ordered into effect by means of producer subsidies.

Judge Montague of Fort Worth, Tex., carried the protest to the OES chief, but said he was informed the subsidy would go into effect as planned. Montague carried his petition to President Roosevelt yesterday but said he was advised to go back to price stabilization officials. He price cut.

Regulations Drafted

Richard Gilbert, economic adviser to Price Administrator Brown, told the committee regulations for additional rollbacks were being drafted, with vegetables next in line. He said the planned next to see Chester Davis, food administrator, but expressed little hope of action, saying Davis' opposition to subsidies already had been expressed without effect.

The vegetable price plan came out in a hearing before the senate banking committee, which was inquiring into how far the OPA planned to go in rolling back food prices. Retail butter prices are due to drop about 5 cents a pound this week under a subsidy plan, and subsidies of 2 cents a pound on dressed carcasses, intended to compensate producers for an average retail reduction of 3 cents in retail meat prices in a few weeks, began yesterday. Coffee is also on the list for a retail vegetable project included no subsidy plans to compensate producers.

General effectiveness of the OPA and the whole theory of subsidies and price rollbacks were attacked by senators in the banking committee hearing, but Gilbert retorted that the nation is faced with the threat of a rise of two to five percent a month in living costs. He asserted that OPA proposals to use subsidies "only enough to get the production we ought to have and to stabilize the cost of living."

"If we don't roll back the cost of living," the economist added, "we'll have to permit compensating increases in wage rates."

"I don't see that at all," protested Senator Taft (R., Ohio). "That's all statistics—not facts."

Hershey Says Able Fathers Drafted Soon

House Committee Is Told All Physically Fit Fathers To Be Called This Year

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—The nation's draft age fathers found little comfort in a disclosure by the House Appropriations Committee today that the rate of army inductions would be cut about 60 percent after next December with the bulk of 1944 inductions coming from the 'teen age group.

The committee's information came from Paul McNutt and Brig. Gen. Hershey who said the majority of physically fit fathers, regardless of children, would be in uniform by the end of this year. Their induction is expected to start August and run until the end of the year when the armed forces will aggregate about 10,000,000 men.

The Budget Bureau and Social Security Board drew the committee's attention to the fact that the Federal Reserve Agency, War Manpower Commission and related independent offices for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Lowering physical standards, however, it was reported, would postpone the drafting of fathers for three or four months.

Wilson Predicts Food Shortage Is Facing Country

Colleges Present Him With Watch, Incribed Pitcher

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Senator Hiram Wilson, Republican of Ohio, today predicted a severe food shortage is facing the United States in the fall and winter months.

Wilson, who is expected to be elected governor of Ohio in November, said that the nation's food supply is being depleted at an alarming rate. He pointed out that the government's war production program is diverting resources away from food production.

Wilson's prediction was met with a warm reception by a group of college students who presented him with a watch and a pitcher inscribed with the words "Wilson for Governor."

Bill Barring Strikes Is Up To President

Congress Completes Action On Measure Designed To Curb Strikes In Plants

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Congress stamped its final approval Saturday night on legislation to outlaw strikes in government-operated war industries and to curb strikes in privately controlled plants.

Announced by its opponents as a bill intended to "crucify labor," the striking Connally measure passed by a 235 to 222 vote of the Senate on adoption of a conference report composing previous differences between the two houses. The House has passed the measure 210 to 129 yesterday.

The bill authorizes government seizure of strike threatened war plants and prescribes delaying regulations before workouts can be called in facilities, but taken over, it now goes to the White House where President Roosevelt must decide whether the legislation shall become law. There have been indications that parts of the legislation at least, have White House approval.

Given Statutory Power

Admittedly aimed directly at providing new machinery to deal with the cost wage dispute, the measure clothes the War Labor Board with statutory power to settle all labor controversies in war industries and give it the subpoena power it thus far had lacked to compel President John L. Lewis to submit to its arbitration efforts.

The bill authorizes government seizure of mines or plants where labor troubles threaten or bring about interruption of production and bars strikes in such instances. Labor conditions there are frozen, except that changes may be made by mutual agreement between workers and the employer or by W.L.B. order.

In plants where the government does not choose to step in, workers may strike only after they have given 30-day notice and only if such a move is favored by a majority of employees on a secret ballot. Any violation of this provision subjects the offender to criminal penalties up to $5000 and a year in jail are provided for. Conviction is subject to investigation and prosecution in a plant taken over by the government.

The bill's proponents said one section would prevent the W.L.B. from issuing shop or maintenance orders.

Another provision would bar campaigns and Senators Hatch (D., N.M.) told his colleagues he is drafting a separate measure to place the same ban on employer organizations.

Opposing the measure in final debate, Chairman Thomas (D., Utah) of the senate labor committee asserted "provision to establish a 'cooling off' period would 'foster wildcat strikes' in war industries."

"There is no virtue, even in the long and arduous process of time for the government to step in and over industry," Thomas declared.

German Agent Convicted Of Betraying U. S. Fleet Prior To Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Allied bombers struck anew today at Germany's Rhine-land and the Sicilian gateway to Italy, but on the whole the war fronts from Russia to China were reported in an unnatural mid-June lull in hand fighting.

Obviously the belligerents were catching their breaths, preparing for the summer's climactic offensives.

The British air ministry did not name the specific targets of the RAF last night and the German radio said no bombs were dropped. Two large bombing waves of American bombers strafed Bremen, Kiel and suffered the greatest loss of the war—20 four-motored planes.

American bombers attacked also London and Cologne, Sicilian airfields, dropping about 200,000 pounds of bombs. No western Atlantic mid-air collisions were announced last week for the first time since the week of Feb. 16, because of recent statements by the United States and British officials that the Axis U-boat menace is being conquered.

But this year, announced Allied and neutral merchant losses in the western Atlantic averaged four a week whereas in 1942 enemy U-boats accounted for a weekly average of 10.

The Office of War Information reported German espionage agents helped the Japs prepare the Pearl Harbor attack, and at least one of them was sentenced to death for his part in the attack.

The report and Edward Julius Kelly, a Nazi agent was tried before a military commission in Honolulu on charges of betraying the United States fleet in Pearl Harbor to the Japs five days before the attack. He was convicted and sentenced to death. His was later commuted to 50 years of hard labor. The basis of the commutation was not announced.

Nathan Mayo Urges Children To Work

TAMPA, June 14. (Special)—Now that school is over, Commissioner Mayo is urging all the students to help the farmers plant and harvest big crops for our fighting men. This is a splendid opportunity to spend your summer outdoors, and at the same time help in an essential war time effort, and earn money to buy War Bonds.

Food is just as essential in winning this war as bullets. With the shortage of manpower and the need for plenty of food for our men, Mr. Mayo says a contribution by children in helping harvest and plant a big crop is real patriotism.

"Children this is your war too," he declares. "You have been taught in the schools how to do a job safely, how to keep away from accidents. This is your opportunity to get on the farm and make real contribution to the war effort, which will help your brothers, fathers and states, and make America the kind of place you and the rest of us want to live in. Children, it's up to you."

Plans Are Announced For Parade To Be Held Here On Fourth Of July

In order to further plans for the Fourth of July parade which will be held in connection with the day celebration, Ned Smith, chairman of the parade committee, today appealed to all merchants and organizations to contribute a display of a coaster wagon or horse and wagon to participate in the parade.

R. W. Deane, chairman of the Coaster Wagon Division, stated there are two models on display at the store formerly occupied by the Emerick Hardware Company, next to the Red Cross on First Street, and he would like for every firm and organization to inspect this display and be represented in the Fourth of July Parade.

Orders can be placed with Mr. Deane. The price of the Coaster Wagon Display is $5.00. If a tri-cycle is required to pull it, it will be $2.00 additional. Mr. Deane pointed out that it is possible for every organization in town to have a display in the parade at a minimum cost of $5.00, which would save the time and trouble and expense of building a float.

The prizes for the best decorated wagon are as follows: 1st prize—$10.00; 2nd prize—$5.00; 3rd prize—$3.00.

Can't Force Children To Salute The Flag

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—The Supreme Court overruled a 1940 decision today and school children can no longer be forced to salute the American flag if they have religious scruples against such action.

Justice Jackson delivered the opinion in the case, which involved a challenge to a West Virginia law of compulsion flag salute.

Prepare For The Future

Large local income taxpayers, many of whom must make payments running into five figures, would do well to study the statement and figures prepared by Mayor Ed Higgins and published in last Friday's issue of The Herald.

And the beauty of this is that it can be done on our local capital without any appeal for funds to Washington officials and without "the selling of our birthright for a mess of pottage" which too often accompanies the donation of funds from the federal government.

Mayor Higgins has shown that it is permissible under the income tax laws for citizens to make donations to the City or County for some specific purpose and reducing their income tax payments at the same time they are contributing toward some much needed worthwhile local improvement such as a hospital, swimming pool, library, or any similar project in which they might be interested.

Now of course not many of us have $200,000 incomes, but the same principal applies on smaller amounts. At any rate the suggestion is well worth investigating.

He must look back on the days of the first world war when, as Secretary of the Navy, he was a target for impassioned partisans who professed not to believe that a good-natured, slow-speaking Southerner was the right type to head a hard-hitting navy.

Florida citizens will join the rest of the country in feeling the pinch of want.

Plant City had a very light movement of vegetables last week with only 25,872 packages being shipped. Peas remain in the leading item, with peas and tomatoes following.

Palatka still has beans, squash, cucumbers, and tomatoes available. Potato digging in this section is nearing completion.

Titusville has a fairly large volume of potatoes. This section is not in the area where growers must obtain government permits for shipping.

Considerable farm produce in the Live Oak section is being canned. Cotton is late, and the crop is about 50 percent below normal.

Disa And Data About Wartime Ball Nozickoff, Service Men And Thorpe

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Features Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 11. This is the year baseball will get a line on the country vote.

The majors will learn how important the small town fan is to big city ball. For with the gasoline shortage and crowded trains and buses, the diamond enthusiasts from the hinterlands aren't going to trek into the big town too often for games. The majors have always been a bit uncertain as to just what percentage of their gate came from visitors from nearby towns.

RUNS BATTED IN vs LET IN DEBIT: An energetic scribe has checked last year's box scores and come up with this data about Lou Nozickoff, the Cubs' outfielder who yodeled for more dough while Lou, affectionately known as the Mad Roman, knocked in 64 runs, he let in 28 runs, leaving a plus of 36 which isn't so good. The scribe's survey shows Lou's errors and omissions put 34 runs in scoring position and 19 batted. Cubs objected to losing the ante for Lou.

SERVICE SLANTS: Navy's new football coach at Farragut Lake base in Idaho is Lieut. Ray Flaherty, former Redskins tutor. 16 of his Redskins either are at Farragut or headed that way on the Flaherty grid product should be dangerous. Freddie Hutchinson, former Tiger, is drill master on the rifle range at the Norfolk training station when he isn't pitching. Roy Stephen, son, called the Bob Feller of soft ball, is in training at the San Antonio, N. Y. Naval Training Station. He won 46 games and lost only four during the last three years. Among the marines who fought at Guadalcanal was Capt. Ray Fortillo, one-time fullback at Oklahoma's A & M. Fort Sill, Okla., boasts the second best handball player in the (Omar) Set Malcolm Dorfman. He was beaten recently in the finals of the AAU meet.

YOU'VE HEARD OF THE BILL introduced by the Oklahoma legislature to let their body petition the A. A. U. for the return of Jim Thorpe, athlete and his name to the track and field record books.

Thorpe, you'll remember, was forced to turn in his medals when it was discovered that he had played a game of pro football for money. The necessary was made shortly after the 1912 Olympics when Thorpe won the 150-meter dash and 500-meter dash and 100-meter hurdles. Thorpe's 100-meter dash record, 1:22.2 seconds, Olympic record. "Well, Dad, I just elected myself 'telephone warden' for this family. You know, we can waste an awful lot of time just chatting over the telephone. I've been reading about how important it is to the war effort for everyone to make fewer calls and keep all calls as short as possible. You see, Dad, the same telephone equipment we use, has got to serve all the folks who use the 'phone in war work, and if we talk too long or too often, we might delay important war calls. I know none of us here want to do that and as the telephone company says no new equipment can be added, on account of shortage of materials, we should cooperate and use our 'phone only when necessary. Don't you think so?"

The Unadvertised BUSINESS

IS GOING DOWN HILL

"Happy Landing!"

To a boy on leave, Home's the most beautiful place on earth

THERE is something warm and satisfying to all who inject into their daily work a human quality. That is why Florida Motor Lines gets such a lift out of its "home delivery" of our boys in service . . . HOME, the cherished destination, the scene they've dreamed of for months on end. It's been our most heart warming job to help their cause. You'll understand when you see him step out of the familiar car and greet you, swinging open the white pocket gate and hurry up the well-remembered walk. He's the kid whose sweetest name—the one who misses everyone. He's home today and a peek of trouble for the Axis, battling for you and me . . . and this opportunity to steal a few precious minutes home comes like a heavenly blessing.

Sure, young fellow with the service ribbons, the trinkets from Tripoli or gadgets from Gaines, you've earned your way back to a proud Mother and Dad. And it's been our pleasure and privilege to bring you.

In fact, the bus lines are the first and only carriers that insist upon seeing Service Men first. WE'VE ASKED ALL WHO TRAVEL TO AID TRANSPORTATION BY PLANNING

THEIR TRIPS BEFORE OR AFTER THE MIDSUMMER RUSH — BY GOING ON MID-WEEK DAYS AND TAKING LITTLE SACCAGE. It's good to know that civilian passengers have honored these suggestions with eagerness and pride.

For this is only a fraction of Florida Motor Lines' general bus service to America and the rest of the world. Many people go by bus simply to see friends, military camps, shopping, and to take their families and have enjoyed them by way of public transportation. Florida Motor Lines is doing her share of this service and she'll do it every day.
