

Diver Directs His Own Rescue From Icy Waters

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Trapped almost five hours in icy ocean waters, William Wood directed his own rescue from one of his closest scrapes in years of deep-sea diving.

The 48-year-old Wood worked two ordinary auto jacks to lift iron bars that pinned him to the Golden Gate.

Searchlights were played on the scene, 3 1/2 miles off Land's End, and scores watched from shore as Wood was lifted aboard his ship, the Salvager, at 7:30 last night.

Although he was rushed unconscious to a decompression chamber for treatment against the bends, Woods was found suffering only from shock and exposure.

He told reporters he had started salvage operations he thought might net him "some money for Christmas" for his wife and two daughters in Santa Barbara, Calif.

After an hour's struggle, he phoned the Salvager crew to send distress signals.

The Coast Guard brought the eight-pound jacks. They were lowered according to instructions from Wood. After hours of careful maneuvering, Wood dislodged the bars, only to be caught by debris on the way up.

The veteran diver moved that and the crew hauled him up, taking 20 minutes because of the pressure difference.

Suits Filed

In behalf of Charles Mitchell Fields, a three-year old boy, suit has been entered by James W. Fields through his attorney, Volie A. Williams, Jr., against Florence Adams due to alleged head injuries of a permanent nature received by the boy as a result of being hit by an automobile driven by defendant on Highway 41A, four miles east of Sanford on Jan. 14.

Edna S. Lindsay, joined by her husband, Newton E. Lindsay, has entered a complaint through her attorney, George A. Speer, asking damages of $15,000 from Willie Lee Mike for alleged cerebral and other injuries of a permanent nature received in a collision of automobiles on Aug. 20 at French Avenue and Thirteenth Street.

Lillian A. Garrison has filed complaint against the Fellowship Foundation, formerly of Sanford, asking $750 damages for failure to fulfill a contract for a life agreement in the former Homotel here, she charged failure to furnish another room to satisfy her, when the Homotel was vacated, and failure to prorate moneys to be paid by the plaintiff as per agreement. She is represented by Gordon V. Frederick.

A Chinese Communist soldier who grabbed the swinging cable was flipped about like a fly on the end of a bull whip. Two fellow Communists rescued him and helped hold the balloon until the official crew arrived. The balloon became docile under their professional touch.

Jets clashed over Korea today for the first time in five days. The fight came just 12 hours after superforts bombed a new red jet base two miles from Red China's Manchurian frontier.

Two MIG-15s were damaged in a battle in bright sunlight between about 30 Red jets and 30 American F-84 Thunderjets, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported. It said all Thunderjets returned safely.

During the night 12 B-29 superforts ignored an angry cordon of Red jets and roared through intense flak in the first bombing raid on the Communists' Uiju jet base.

The strike was effective, Far East Air Force said. It reported all B-29s returned from the raid two miles south of the Yalu River boundary.

This strike on close to the "sanctuary of Manchuria" pointed out to block off the growing Communist air threat and keep the Reds from settling up bases in North Korea closer to the battle line.

Allied spotter planes recently reported MIGs nesting in Korea for the first time in the war. The field was Uiju, 100 miles from the coast, in a valley. The field was Uiju, 100 miles from the coast, in a valley. The field was Uiju, 100 miles from the coast, in a valley.

Then the big superforts hit last night. The B-29s spilled 100-pound bombs at the 7,100 foot runway and dropped quarter-ton incendiary bombs which burst jagged chunks of steel at planes hidden in revetments.

Communist jets snarled around the B-29s, but F-84s and F-86s made no flying noise. "The whole sky was full of searchlights," one crewman said. "It looked like they were trying to track us."

"We nailed the target and also knocked out a flak battery," another said. "When our bombs exploded the searchlights went out and the flak stopped."

(Continued From Page One) foreign ministers agreed here yesterday on the main principles of a contract to end the occupation of West Germany and give Adenauer's government more freedom. But the agreement falls short of the full independence the Germans want.

The agreement—drafted largely during negotiations at Bonn—was approved by Adenauer, U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

Increase Is Sought In Food Production

ROME, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Three working commissions of the FAO began mapping a ten-year program today for the greatest increase in food production the world has ever undertaken.

Title of the plan was laid down by North E. Dodd, director general of the Food and Agricultural Organization.

Dr. Martin B. Williamson, associate professor of Biochemistry at the Loyola University School of Medicine, said these sulfur amino acids are found in the proteins of eggs, milk, wheat, corn and some other foods.

He told the American Chemical Society's Chicago section that his finding throws new light on earlier discoveries that a high protein diet speeds healing.

Tests on experimental animals showed their wound healing rate was much more rapid on high protein diets than on low protein diets.

However, further experiments showed the addition of a sulfur amino acid to the low protein diet produced nearly the same healing speed as the high protein diet.

He said this indicated that it was the sulfur compounds and not the protein diet that speeded healing.

Dr. Bernard Wolpert of the Miner Laboratories, Chicago, reported that the production of alcohol from sugar can be speeded by a new vitamin-like material found in the by-products of sewage purification systems.

The fermentation factor is obtained from dried activated sludge, used heretofore only as a fertilizer.

Sulphur Is Found To Speed Wound Healing Process

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Wounds heal faster when certain sulphur compounds are included in the diet, a medical researcher reported today.

Dr. Martin B. Williamson, associate professor of Biochemistry at the Loyola University School of Medicine, said these sulfur amino acids are found in the proteins of eggs, milk, wheat, corn and some other foods.

The Egyptian remarks were made during a speech by information reports from governments responsible for trust territories and other non-self-governing areas.

With France protesting, the committee argued over whether it had a right to deal with political questions or whether it must stick to administrative details of dependent territories.

A French motion to adjourn the discussion on the ground that the committee had no right to decide such a question was defeated 24 to 17, with four countries abstaining. The majority was made up mostly of Latin American, Communist and Arab countries.

Following the wreck, emergency aid came fast. The third rail current was turned off quickly. Police, fire and hospital units raced to the scene within 10 minutes.

When the crash came, the train derailed a year ago on the Long Island Railroad flashed through the minds of many passengers. In that wreck—Nov. 22, 1950, on Thanksgiving eve—79 persons were killed and more than 125 injured when an eastbound train smashed into the rear of another eastbound train that had halted in Queens.

New Haven railroad officials had no immediate explanation for the cause of yesterday's collision. However, police said the express, specially put into service to help handle the holiday rush, went through a switch.

Traffic was blocked in and out of Grand Central terminal for three hours before tracks could be cleared. Some 20,000 commuters and holiday visitors were stranded.

Temperatures dropped to below zero in parts of Minnesota and North Dakota early today. Lower readings were forecast tonight for most of the mid-continent. A fresh batch of cold air moved into North Dakota and Montana this morning from Canada and was expected to spread over the north central region.

It was mild over most of the Gulf states, the Ohio valley and the Middle and South Atlantic States. For the first time in several days no sub-freezing readings were reported in the South.

Rain fell from parts of Missouri and Arkansas northeastward through the Ohio valley to the lower Great Lakes region and New York state. Thunderstorms were reported in the middle Mississippi and lower Ohio valleys. Some light snow fell over most of Montana and the Dakotas, parts of Minnesota and in the Central Rockies.

Soviet Protest

Persons familiar with the matter said Gromyko charged that an American plane deliberately crossed the border in the area of Vladivostok, that it was pursued and fired upon by Soviet fighters, and was last seen disappearing toward the sea.

These persons did not say the date of the alleged border violation.

Vladivostok is Russia's great naval base on the Pacific. At the coast, Siberia adjoins Korea.

The Russians are understood to have reported that the U. S. plane was of the reconnaissance type.

The U. S. has several types of reconnaissance planes. Most carry two or more men. The term also could be applied to big patrol craft with a normal complement of 10.

The decorations announced in Moscow were made to Lt. Ivan Lukashov and Lt. Moisei Shchukin, navy fliers. They received the Order of the Red Banner for "exemplary fulfillment of their service duties."

The Moscow press similarly treated the awards given in April, 1950, to Soviet fliers who shot down an unarmed U. S. patrol plane over the Baltic Sea. The 10 U. S. crewmen perished.

The money likely would come in an emergency transfer from a $5,788,000,000 congressional appropriation to send military help to Western Europe. The act permits transfer of up to ten percent of these funds from military to financial aid.

Auto Accidents

At 1:30 o'clock this morning, Mr. Harrison's sleep was interrupted by a call to investigate a collision on Celery Avenue two miles east of Sanford. Cars wrecked in the head on crash were a 1938 Pontiac driven by Olden Gordon, Sanford Negro, and a 1946 Ford driven by Sidney Hillman, Geneva. Neither was injured. Damage was estimated at $10,000 to each car.

Another sleep interrupting call came at 3:35 A.M., and Mr. Harrison hurried to the Osteen Bridge where about 150 feet west of the bridge keeper's house he found a 1951 Mercury Coach in the ditch upside down. Its owner is a Negro sailor, Roy L. Burd. The driver, another locally stationed Negro, Charles H. Williams, was turned over to Mr. Harrison on a charge of reckless driving.

Williams, who, according to Mr. Harrison, had been drinking, was unable to give the name of a Negro who had been riding with him, and who it is believed was injured.

On Wednesday night at 8:50 o'clock, William Oscar Deason of DeLeon Springs, was driving two miles east of Geneva on Highway 46 when his 1949 Oldsmobile coach caught fire. It could not be saved in spite of the efforts of Mr. Harrison and Ratliff wreckers, using extinguishers loaned by the Naval Air Station. Loss was estimated at $1500.

At 7:40 o'clock this morning a 1950 Chevrolet sedan, driven by Ruth Jalbert on Fourteenth Street, collided with a 1937 Chevrolet Sedan being driven south on Sanford Avenue by Gertrude Smith, Geneva. No injuries were reported by police.

Training Rigors

Marine Corps training is known to be rigorous, and is sometimes criticized as unnecessarily harsh. No marine, remembering his days in "boot camp," will think that he was handled with kid gloves. But the training is successful in preparing men physically and psychologically for the job the Corps is expected to do. From time to time there is criticism of training procedure in all branches of the service by well-intentioned people. Often the critics maintain that trainees are subjected to overzealous and overzealous disciplinary methods. But the primary object of military training is to teach a man to do what must be done, affording him the best chance for survival in battle. Survival often depends on how well and quickly an individual obeys orders. Obedience and discipline must be assimilated in basic training for all further progress in military learning depends on these two factors. A program must be judged on its results. Again citing the illustration of the Marine Corps, the reputation of the Corps in battle attests to the effectiveness of its training program. Men of all branches of service who undergo hardships during their early period in uniform usually find the more extensive hardships they may face later in combat easier to meet and to survive.

Crossing Accident

(Continued From Page One) form of the straddling car, the forwardmost car, they leaped an instant before the collision. They rolled down the steep incline safely, while behind them the platform disappeared in a tangle of crushed steel. Mrs. J. H. Jones, Austin, Tex., was in the last car on the Southern. She said she thought she had fainted. She was on the floor, dimly aware that a companion was calling to her, hearing the screams. "It was like we had hit a brick wall," said J. T. Brinkley, Jr., a steward on the Crescent. "There was a sudden jolt. I guess I was about to wonder what it was all about, and then the crash came." Cpl. Semmie Harper, Ft. Jackson, S. C., was among the injured, and was brought to Birmingham in one of the loaded ambulances which shuttled the injured to hospitals. "One of the other folks in my ambulance was another soldier," he said. "His face was all cut and..." J. J. Wooten and H. Wooten, Alton, Mo., were also injured. Those in Sheriff P. A. Mero's investigating group were Deputy Sheriff Charles Beck and Highway Patrolman Bob Harrison. Another automobile wreck was reported by police to have occurred in Sanford over the week end. At 9:18 o'clock this morning a 1951 Chevrolet driven west on French Avenue by J. D. Wright, Jr., collided with a Studebaker truck driven by E. F. Waters, Jr., Holly Hill, who was driving south on French Avenue, made a left turn at Twelfth Street. Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $350.

Train Wreck

(Continued From Page One) When the wreckage finally fell from beneath the train Parrish, Ray and Taylor were still in the car. Taylor was the only one found alive, except for Stride. Taylor's legs were pinned to the back of the wreckage when discovered by the investigators. Enoch W. Lewis, 25, ambulance driver for Mosely Funeral Home, stated he got the first call to come to the accident scene at 7:25 A.M. Saturday arriving at the Apopka-Altamonte road at Forest City where the initial collision occurred. When Lewis arrived and saw the extent of the accident, he had highway patrolmen, Mosely Funeral Home and Goetz for two additional ambulances. Lewis then rushed Stride, who was lying close to the intersection, to the hospital. In the meantime, Buell Miller, Mosely Funeral Home, drove a second ambulance from Sanford to the scene. Miller's ambulance and the wrecker were unable to force through a woods to a spot on the tracks where the car was lying. An army surplus truck from Altamonte, however, made its way through the forest to the wrecked car and with a chain helped the workers shove the car into Taylor's ambulance.

Train Wreck

(Continued From Page One) The right hand of Cecil I. Love, Birmingham, Crescent engineer, was partially amputated. "I was dosing, said Grace Osborn, New Orleans. "Then I felt the train come to a sudden stop. Then there was a tremendous crash. We were hurled backwards. "Mirrors on the sides of the train shattered. Seats were thrown from their positions. I heard mothers screaming for their children. A small baby near me was badly hurt. "I guess I was lucky. I suffered, apparently, was a broken toe," said Taylor. Woodstock saw the Southern come to a stop a short distance from the station. "I wondered why it was stopping there, and turned to a companion to comment on it when I heard the other train coming. "It hit with an awful crash. I saw smoke begin to come up from the engine of one. "I let my companion out near the tracks, so he could help with rescue work and I rushed to a telephone to summon help." At Orchard, Idaho, five crewmen were killed when two Union Pacific freight trains collided. In a third wreck yesterday, at Portland, Colo., there were no deaths but livestock and freight were scattered for more than a mile as 13 cars of an eastbound Denver and Rio Grande freight train overturned. Two other deaths were caused Saturday in an accident near...

Letters From Abroad

As a by-product of the collection of garden seeds for the Philippines by the Committee for a Free Asia, it is expected that some correspondence between American and Filipino youngsters may be developed. The Committee is urging children who contribute seeds to include notes listing name, address and age, to be passed along to children in the Philippines who will be urged to write letters. This plan is only one of many for developing exchanges of letters between Americans and people in other nations, most of which are aimed at children of school age. Because there is no way of knowing who may be writing the letters at the other end of the exchange, every child who enters such correspondence has a special need for the counsel of his parents or other adults, to help him understand that the child writing to him from a foreign land may have a very different social and family background, and may have different ideas about the meaning if such things as freedom, schooling and democracy.

Letters From Abroad

With appropriate help in interpretation, these exchanges of letters can be of very great value. Each pair of letter-writers can add a little to mutual knowledge and understanding among the people of different nations.

Energy For Peace

In England, where coal is a strategic material, scientists have discovered a method which can heat buildings with some of the hitherto wasted energy generated by an atomic pile. The process is not ready for general application but the scientists believe that it is potentially a useful way of supplementing coal as a source of heat. The development of peaceful uses for atomic energy has been delayed because of the international situation. It restricts the exchange of information among scientists of many nations. Vast sums are being used to develop the potentialities of atomic energy for war, but little money can be spent in seeking other uses for it. The Russian part in perpetuating the situation becomes even more difficult to understand when it is realized that Russia is one of the underdeveloped countries which might profit most if better and cheaper sources of energy were available. If world peace could be firmly established, progress in the use of atomic energy might be made at a rate that would be beyond our wildest imaginations. The nations now in the poorest economic position might reap the greatest benefits from the resulting transformation.

(Continued From Page One) in an hour. But Whitmar said it probably was after Thursday midnight when the Chinese shelled the hill. Whitmar's story: Artillery has been pounding at the hill for two hours. Three shells fell nearby and brought the dugout's dirt and stone roof caving in on Whitmar, pinning him more than four feet underground. About a half hour later someone jumped into the bunker right on his stomach. Whitmar saw American boots and started to call for help but held off when he spotted the quilted pants Chinese soldiers wear. The Chinese didn't know he stood on a live American. Whitmar heard him open with a burp gun, probably at American troops on the other side of the hill, then move on. A few minutes later... Just before dawn Friday, another Chinese dropped into the bunker. This one jabbed his bayonet into Whitmar's sleeping bag and poached which covered him. "I could feel the bayonet slide through the sleeping bag and into my pile jacket. It was like a finger poking me in the ribs. Seven times I counted the Chinese pushing the bayonet in." The point didn't reach him. Allied artillery and mortar shells fell all the next day, Saturday. "That morning I heard some...

Negotiators Tangle Over Supervision

Split Comes After Cease-Fire Line Agreement Signed By U. N.-Reds

MUNBAN, Korea, Nov. 27—(AP)—True negotiators signed a cease-fire line agreement today and immediately developed two vital differences on how to supervise an armistice in Korea.
United Nations delegates insisted on:
1. Joint Allied-Communist inspection teams with "free access to all parts of Korea."
2. Provision against military buildups by either side.
Neither point was included in a plan proposed by the Reds, who have never permitted outsiders in Communist Korea.
The differences developed in a session described by the top Allied negotiator as "short and sweet."

Sgt. Ormon E. Ward Gets Overseas Duty
Sgt. Ormon Ward has been asked and received permission for overseas duty, according to a letter received by the Herald today. Sgt. Ward said one of his reasons for requesting Korean action was to determine "what makes the North Koreans tick."
"The company," says Sgt. Ward, "there will be smoke on the sea, when our Army and Navy meet the enemy is very true." He expressed his confidence that America will win this conflict too, basing his prediction on his observation of the nation's military strength.
The 40-year-old Sgt. Ward is a former resident of Sanford. He is attached to special Radio Relay Co., which is made up of old veterans of World War II. In spite of this Sgt. Ward feels he will see some action.
Sgt. Ward's duties will consist of operating radios and operating radio-teletype machines. He assures all his friends he is quite happy and feeling fine.

Caudle Tells Of Fishing Off Florida Coast

He And IRB Counsel Were Entertained By Carolina Man Having Tax Trouble

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—Former Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle testified today that he and Charles Oliphant, chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, were fishing assistants of a North Carolina manufacturer under investigation for tax fraud. Caudle told a House Ways and Means Subcommittee he and Oliphant flew to Palm Beach, Fla. in the summer of 1947 in a plane owned by Troy Whitehead of Charlotte, N. C.
The witness, fired recently by President Truman from his Justice Department post, denied that he knew a tax fraud case was in the works against Whitehead June 25, 1947.
"If I had known Mr. Whitehead was in tax trouble, I never would have invited Mr. Oliphant," Caudle said.
Today's testimony came as Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlop prepared to let loose with the biggest broadside yet in his announced drive to improve efficiency and weed out "Primitives" next May.

A full day was required yesterday to select the jury.
State Attorney Mercer Spent today the jury would bring evidence to show that Miss Taylor had said of Tools, "I'm tired of him messing with my business and he ought to be killed."

Spear said Tools' body was slung with 38 knife wounds, 57 of them about the arm, hand and torso. The 54th, he said, slit but severed the head from the body.
B. L. Solomon, court-appointed defense attorney told the jury: "All we have to offer is Miss Taylor's denial that she was present."

Taft Campaign Is Said To Have Cost 5 Million

By JACK BELL.
