Bird May Battle Blind Mosquitoes

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Beautification and Civic Improvement Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has chosen a new project — encouraging purple martins to settle in the city.

The project was not selected because committee members are bird lovers, but because purple martins eat winged insects. The committee hopes the bird, if it lives here only part of the year, will develop a taste for blind mosquitoes.

The bird, a member of the swallow family, is about 8 inches long. The male of the species is a beautiful dark purplish blue color.

Purple martins, which nest in colonies, usually build their nests in birdhouses made especially for them. The pairs require very little room to build a nest in the birdhouses, which are usually divided into many apartments. And they return to the same birdhouse year after year.

Armed with this information, Vic Arnett, chairman of the chamber committee, encouraged the group to promote the erection of the special purple martin houses in the lakefront area.

The bird came to his attention in September when he read a story in the Evening Herald about a special project conducted in Griggsville, Ill., by a civic organization.

The Griggsville civic organization was concerned about the mosquitoes and flies at the community's fairgrounds. Up to 8000 was being spent annually on pesticides to rid that area of the insects, but without permanent results.

Twelve purple martin apartment houses were built at the fairgrounds and the insect problem was solved.

After reading the story, Arnett thought a similar project could be tried here to get rid of the blind mosquito and wrote Griggsville for additional information.

Arnett presented the information to the local committee Wednesday and the project was approved.

"We showed a film about the purple martin. It is an attractive, friendly and clean bird and apparently likes to be around people and where there is a lot of activity.

Arnett said the committee will speak to other civic organizations and to classes at schools to promote the building and erection of purple martin houses in Sanford. "We will have regular purple martin times," he said.

"Sanford had quite a few purple martins in December," Arnett said, adding that with a little encouragement they will come back again.

ASSESSING THE DAMAGE
How did the fruit fare? Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bates check crop damaged by the recent freeze. Mrs. Bates said most of the specialty fruit from her groves at Paola, west of Sanford, was ruined. That includes Navel oranges, Temple oranges, Tangerines and Tangelos. But she said their largest crop, Hamlin oranges, escaped damage. Hamlin oranges are early fruit and most of the Bates crop was picked before the freeze. Their grapefruit crops being picked now to be sent to the juice plant and the Bates' said their remaining concern is the trees. A little rain would help, they said. Meanwhile, Florida Sen. Paul Hawkins has announced she will be seeking federal disaster relief for Florida growers. Officials estimate $100 million damage was done to state crops. Stories on Page 2A.

4-Hour Meeting

Khomeini, Officials Weigh Their Options

By United Press International

In Algiers, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher waited today for the last link in a hostage release deal — Iran's formal response on letting the captives go.

In a major step Wednesday toward a last-hour deal with the Carter administration, Iran's parliament empowered the government to conclude negotiations to free the captives in exchange for about $6.6 billion in undisputed frozen Iranian assets.

The legislature, or Majlis, also removed a major obstacle in the negotiations by approving a bill allowing international arbitration of an additional $2.2 billion in assets encumbered by claims.

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajavi and Iranian chief negotiator Behzad Nabavi conferred with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today in what Iranian sources said was a discussion of Iran's final terms for release of the 52 American hostages.

The broadcast did not say what the talks among Rajavi, Nabavi and Khomeini involved, but Iranian sources contacted in Tehran said the meeting centered on Iran's final conditions for the release of the Americans, who spent their 439th day in captivity.

But still absent in the negotiation chain is Iran's formal response to the last U.S. proposal of Dec. 19 and its reformulation on Jan. 2, which included the provision for allowing Iran to submit its claims to third-party arbitration.

In West Germany, Capt. Chris Weber, public affairs officer at the Lindsey Air Force Base near the U.S. Air Force Hospital at Wiesbaden, said he had not been told of any special preparations in anticipation of the hostage release.

Thirteen hostages who were released early in the crisis and Richard Cheney, the captive freed first year, first went to U.S. Rhein Main Air Force base near Frankfurt and were taken from there to the hospital at Wiesbaden.

Chiles Urges Social Security Changes In Sanford Visit

U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., listens to a question from Bob Daehn, chairman of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's Senior Citizens Committee.

U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Laekland, will be introducing in the spring legislation designed to cure many of the problems plaguing the social security system.

During a question and answer session this morning before a crowd composed mostly of senior citizens in the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce this morning, Chiles promised the legislation will provide not only short range, but also long range solutions.

Formerly chairman of the Senate committee on the Aging and now a minority member of that committee, Chiles said there are two major sets of problems confronting the system.

He said the problems have been defined by three separate commissions which studied the system and in hearings held by his committee.

Chiles said the short-term, serious but not critical problem, is caused by the high cost of living increases in social security benefits, brought about by inflation.

One of the major social security trust funds is almost depleted while two other trust funds have ample money. Borrowing between those trust funds could correct the money deficiency situation by 1984, he said.

The critical problem will occur about the year 2005 because of the population trend change. He pointed out that since 1936, when the system began, there have been more persons entering the labor market than retiring. For a period of time, however, that trend will change until there will be more persons retiring other appeals pending in their cases. The court's unsigned 12-page opinion was unanimous.

It said it made no difference what kind of information the justices had access to in reviewing capital cases.

In deciding whether to uphold or reverse a death sentence, the court said, its role is not to weigh or reevaluate the evidence of aggravating and mitigating circumstances.

"This court's role, after a death sentence has been imposed, is review, the opinion said. After determining if the jury and judge acted correctly in applying the law, the court must ensure a relative proportionality among death sentences which have been approved statewide, it said.

Any confidential information the justices may have seen, it added, played no role in their review of the death sentence.

from then entering the labor market. In addition those who are retiring are living longer.

There are three possible solutions to this problem, he said. Benefits could be cut, "but this is unacceptable since 65 percent of those retiring have social security as their only income," Chiles said. Only 35 percent of those retiring have other pensions. Persons should be encouraged to acquire additional means of income for their retirement years, he said.

Secondly, social security taxes could be increased. "This is also unacceptable," Chiles said, adding further increases in social security taxes would be inflationary. Employers would pass the additional cost on to their products or services, he said.

Chiles suggested if a tax cut is to be given this year that it be in the field of Social Security.

He said a viable solution is eliminating the mandatory retirement age, noting that business executives, testifying before his committee, said that contrary to popular belief, persons over 65 are more loyal. They have less turnover and fewer accidents.

"I want to deal also with the earnings limitations are causing the seniors to cheat and lie to be able to earn additional money.

He added that retirement age for social security needs to be gradually increased to 68 years old by 2005. By then, with the change the social security system will be sound again, Chiles said.

"It costs less than 1 percent to administer the social security program. The program is one of the success stories of our time," he said.

Another big problem with the system is the credibility gap, with many young people believing they are paying into the system and nothing will be there for them when they need it.

Although Chiles' Sanford meeting was originally intended to formulate an election campaign committee, it ballooned into a public meeting as word spread that he would be here.

Chiles said that some single interest groups won elections in November and "feel they are going to purge the rest of us."

He said those groups can find a senator or congressman who'll get 99 percent right on the issues. The single interest group separates those law-makers who vote wrong one percent of the time out for defeat.

"If the voters of Florida decide they want someone else, that's all right, but I want them to have the facts and to look at all the record," Chiles said.

"There are single-interest groups to the right and the left and the middle is getting narrower and narrower," he said. Before long the people will not have a representative who can look at all issues, Chiles said.

"If I can spend 10 days in Florida, I can feel more comfortable in voting. It's easy to be in Washington and feel you are doing good work. But you need to come home and find out what the people are thinking," he said.—DONNA ESTES

Court Rejects Death-Row Claims

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The state Supreme Court today rejected a claim that 123 men on Death Row, including two whose executions had been scheduled, should have their sentences vacated because the justice looked at psychiatric reports and other documents not available to defense attorneys.

The court dissolved stays of execution previously granted Carl Ray Songer, who killed a state trooper at Crystal River in 1977, and Lenson Hargrave, who murdered a convenience store clerk in Miami during a 1974 robbery.

The action does not mean Songer and Hargrave are in danger of being electrocuted any time soon. New warrants would have to be signed and there are

Investigators Suspect 2 Boys In Big Brush Fire

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Investigators still aren't sure what caused all of Tuesday's record 27 brush fires, but two small boys are the prime suspects in the largest blaze which burned 150 acres of parched brushland four miles west of Sanford.

Gil Artman, district supervisor for the Florida Forestry Service this morning said "we're still studying the case. Right now, we don't know what we're going to do."

No charges had been filed Thursday morning.

Artman said the youths, ages 8 and 10, may have been involved in setting past fires in the Lake Markham Road area where they live and where Tuesday's largest blaze occurred. "We're still looking into that," he said.

Based on preliminary reports, Artman said the boys may have been playing with a cigarette lighter when the fire broke out. The resulting blaze which was spread by steady winds and fueled by dry vegetation, blackened 150 acres and threatened several homes. One firefighter was hurt when gasoline splashed in his eyes while refueling a portable water pump. The firefighter was treated and released at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

As a result of the extremely dry weather and the recent killing frosts which have left much vegetation dead and dried out, the state Forestry Service is heavily restricting all open burning.

Bell's fire was borne out by the fact that Seminole County firemen had to battle a dozen more brush fires Wednesday, one of them located in a five-acre tract of the marshy Sabal Point Wilderness Area.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Salvador Rescuers Stymied In Fight To Free 800 Men

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — In the biggest battle of El Salvador's six-day, all-out civil war, leftist rebels fought off government troops sent to rescue an 800-man elite paratroop force trapped inside a provincial capital.

At the same time, El Salvador's President Jose Napoleon Duarte said 100 guerrilla commandos launched a sea raid from Nicaragua against a Salvadoran town but were crushed.

In Managua, Nicaragua, a government spokesman denied the raid was made from Nicaraguan territory, and observers said Duarte's charges may be a government ploy to justify further U.S. aid and possibly an attempt to seek U.S. intervention.

The United States Wednesday resumed $5 million in military aid to El Salvador, saying the guerrillas were armed with "sophisticated weapons from abroad" and had been more effective than anticipated in their all-out push to oust the ruling junta.

Solidarity Issues Warning

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Solidarity union warned the government of new strikes if workers who refused Saturday shifts are punished and the Warsaw chapter of the labor federation debated whether to call a transport strike today to support farmers seeking their own union.

The national Solidarity committee in Gdansk issued a tough statement Wednesday threatening strikes if the government took reprisals against workers who stayed off the job Saturday to heed Solidarity's unilaterally declared five-day work week.

Warsaw trams and buses flew flags and displayed placards Wednesday to protest possible government reprisals against the workers and were ready to strike for two hours today if the local leadership ordered the show of support for the farmers agitating for a Rural Solidarity union.

Union Leader Meets Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II and Lech Walesa met for the first time today in an emotional private audience in which the pope praised Walesa's Polish independent trade union movement for its maturity in pushing for expanded worker rights.

Walesa, who fell to his knees in prayer when he met the pope in the papal private audience, said he considered a controlled disease, the March of Dimes has taken the prevention and treatment of birth defects as its main goal.

The meeting between the two men who have put Poland at the forefront of world events came on the fourth day of Walesa's visit to Italy, his first trip outside his homeland.

They talked alone in the papal library for 25 minutes before being joined by Walesa's wife and later by a delegation of Solidarity union leaders.

Pravda Attacks Brzezinski

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski came under fierce attack Thursday by Pravda, which said he was chiefly responsible for the failures of Jimmy Carter's administration.

The Communist Party newspaper, which has consistently criticized Brzezinski's hard-line foreign policy advice, said now that he is leaving office, "It is high time for Brzezinski to stop sounding important and teaching the entire world."

The article by Yuri Zhukov, who has authored many of the paper's attacks on Brzezinski, said members of the Carter White House ask themselves these days who is most responsible for "the crushing failure of the former White House boss, President Carter?"

"Predictably, Zbigniew Brzezinski is hit most strongly by his past colleagues. This is not without reason."

FBI Probes Savings And Loan Robbery

The FBI is investigating a Wednesday afternoon robbery at the Security First Federal Savings and Loan in the Longwood Village Shopping Center on State Road 434 in which a lone male bandit got away with an undisclosed amount of money.

According to FBI agent, Perry Doran, a short fat man entered the savings and loan about 12:15 p.m., pointed what appeared to be a .22 caliber, chrome-plated revolver at a teller and demanded money.

The robber forced the teller into a back room and fled. The office camera, designed to film such holdups, may not have been working properly at the time, Doran said. "The film hasn't been developed yet, but we don't expect to get any pictures out of it."

The thief was described as a white male, 25-to-30 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 230 pounds, with brown hair and eyes and a mustache. He was last seen wearing blue jeans and a blue jacket, possibly corduroy.

CRIME IN STREETS

Leroy Howard of Orlando got an object lesson Wednesday in the literal meaning of crime in the streets.

According to a Seminole County sheriff's report, Howard was sitting in his car at the intersection of North and Jackson streets in Altamonte Springs when two men yanked open his door, hit him in the face several times, pointed a gun at him and took $100 out of his wallet.

Two persons were in satisfactory condition in Seminole Memorial Hospital Thursday following a two-car accident near Orange City Wednesday afternoon.

POSTER CHILD

Seminole County joins Central Florida in the Mother's March for the March of Dimes Jan. 17 through Jan. 25.

Wende Jacobs, (center), 5, of Pine Hills, Orlando, is Central Florida's March of Dimes poster child. Since polio is considered a controlled disease, the March of Dimes has taken the prevention and treatment of birth defects as its main goal.

They talked alone in the papal library for 25 minutes before being joined by Walesa's wife and later by a delegation of Solidarity union leaders.

Pravda Attacks Brzezinski

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski came under fierce attack Thursday by Pravda, which said he was chiefly responsible for the failures of Jimmy Carter's administration.

The Communist Party newspaper, which has consistently criticized Brzezinski's hard-line foreign policy advice, said now that he is leaving office, "It is high time for Brzezinski to stop sounding important and teaching the entire world."

The article by Yuri Zhukov, who has authored many of the paper's attacks on Brzezinski, said members of the Carter White House ask themselves these days who is most responsible for "the crushing failure of the former White House boss, President Carter?"

"Predictably, Zbigniew Brzezinski is hit most strongly by his past colleagues. This is not without reason."

GOLDLOCKS CROOK

Sanford police today are still looking for the person who burglarized a Sanford home and may have taken a nap in his victim's bed afterwards.

City police said Samuel Lee Newkirk, 31, of 1014 W. Eighth St., came home from a weekend trip Tuesday to find that someone had entered his home through an unlocked bedroom window and stole an estimated $750 worth of goods.

Taken was a $200 set of silver flatware, a .38 caliber pistol, 28 glasses, eight of them bearing a gold "N," and some linen.

Two persons were in satisfactory condition in Seminole Memorial Hospital Thursday following a two-car accident near Orange City Wednesday afternoon.

Track Owner Paying Lobbyist $500,000

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — "There's big money in lobbying, I made good," former House Speaker Don Tucker said in a statement last year for a grand jury investigating allegations he solicited a bribe from a fellow lobbyist.

The proof of that statement was made public Wednesday. A copy of an agreement to pay Tucker a $500,000 fee to get a dog racing bill passed through the 1980 Legislature was released by State Attorney Don Modest.

The lobbying contract was between Tucker and owners of the Seminole Greyhound Park in Casselberry—Bill Demetree, Jack Demetree and Paul Dervaes.

The legislation approved the conversion of the facility off Seminola Boulevard from a harness track to dog racing.

Common Cause, a citizen's lobby, said the incident should motivate the Legislature to pass a bill requiring lobbyists to disclose the amount and nature of the money they are paid in influence legislation.

"We cannot tolerate a situation where large amounts of cash change hands in secret," Chairman Jerry Cope said. "If special interest groups want to use high priced Tallahassee lobbyists to represent their views, that is their right. But Florida voters are entitled to know who is paying and where the money is going."

The letter of agreement on Tucker's deal with the holders of the racing permit was part of a previously confidential investigative file in the grand jury investigation. The jury found insufficient evidence to support criminal charges on the bribe allegations, but recommended tighter rules governing lobbying.

Tucker said Wednesday, through his attorney, Dexter Douglas, that while the fee was contingent upon passage of one bill, he has to lobby for the client who pays it for the next 10 years without additional salary.

The letter made no mention of "part of the arrangement" the bill, switching a harness racing permit to allow dog racing at a track near Orlando, passed in the hectic last days of the session.

The letter says Tucker would be paid a $400,000 retainer and $60,000 upon passage of the bill and the balance on a basis of $25,000 a year from 1982 through 1995, and $50,000 a year for the next six years.

Injured were Doris Sinatra, 54, of 73 Quail Root St., Deltona, and David Bernier, 34, 513 N. Stone St., Deland.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, the car driven by Mrs. Sinatra's husband, Joseph, pulled into the path of Bernier's car on State Road 15 just south of Orange City about 4:40 p.m. Wednesday.

Bernier slid 102 feet before colliding into the left front of Sinatra's car, a patrol spokesman said.

Americans To Honor King

By United Press International

A rally and a march to the gravesite of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Atlanta were among events planned nationwide today in observance of the 52nd birthday of the slain civil rights leader. Hundreds of city rights activists and public officials were expected to attend a "Tribute to King Rally" at Atlanta's Henry Grady High School early today and participate in a subsequent march to his gravesite, next door to King's former church, Ebenezer Baptist.

7 Disciplined For Leaks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti says a lengthy inquiry proved there was no plot to destroy Abcam or other FBI probes with news leaks that led to the disciplining of five agents and two federal prosecutors. Civiletti announced the disciplinary action Wednesday — including pay cuts and demotions for two FBI supervisors and a 30-day suspension, without pay, for the bureau's official spokesman in New York.

Defiant Judge Faces Fines

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — A state judge defying a desegregation order by escorting three white girls to all-white Buckeye High School was ordered into court today for a contempt hearing. He faces possible fines of $1,000 a day.

Porters from throughout Louisiana, including Ku Klux Klan members, planned to gather outside the courtroom during the hearing to denounce federal Judge Nauman Scott's desegregation plan and show their support for state District Court Judge Richard Lee.

U.S. To Support Chrysler

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government says it will approve the Chrysler Corp.'s revised application for $400 million in additional federal loan guarantees Friday, and Chrysler President Lee A. Iacocca called it a "super deal." Under terms required by the government, the No. 3 auto-maker would freeze the wages and benefits of its employees for the next 30 months, pay half of its outstanding debt with preferred stock, obtain at least $5 million in concessions from suppliers and try to raise capital through a merger or other means.

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — A request by the attorney general's office to seize assets of Challenge Inc., which has been linked to superpromoter Glenn W. The attorney general's office contends the company actually is engaged in a pyramid scheme, which is illegal under North Carolina law.

Reagans In Washington To Get 'Running Start'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect Ronald Reagan, five days away from taking office, is focusing on solutions to the nation's economic woes as part of his effort to get a "running start" next Tuesday.

Reagan and his wife Nancy arrived in chilly Washington Wednesday after an emotional goodbye to friends and neighbors in Los Angeles.

"We're looking forward to the events of the coming week — the inaugural — and looking forward to actually getting in and wrestling with the problems that have to be faced," he told reporters upon arrival at Andrews Air Force Base.

Asked if he was nervous about his approaching responsibilities, Reagan said, "No."

Reagan planned to spend part of today, his first full day in the capital, meeting with economic advisers and his Cabinet.

Edwin Meese, designated presidential counselor, told reporters aboard the presidential plane that carried the Reagans to Washington: "We really are 'off to running start.' He said past presidential traditions have focused on appointments and the budget, not on policy. For the first time, Meese said, a president also will take office with a list of policy options in all areas.

Meese said at the meetings this week, which include 7½ hours with economic advisers and three hours with Cabinet nominees, Reagan would hear policy options culled from the public.

CBS News reported Reagan plans to present his economic recovery proposal in his State of the Union address during the first two weeks of February.

The package would include the Kemp-Roth tax cut — 10 percent a year for three years — coupled with across-the-board federal spending cuts to balance the budget in four years; changes in monetary policy; new deregulation of business; the sale of revenue bonds to finance the strategic petroleum reserve; and elimination of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, CBS said.

Reagan has backed away from his campaign pledge to make Jan. 1 the effective date of the tax cut. While he has not flatly stated its effective date would be delayed, he has said that change in monetary policy; new deregulation of business; the sale of revenue bonds to finance the strategic petroleum reserve; and elimination of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, CBS said.

Polk County Deaths Related?

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (UPI) — The body of missing cab driver William Evans Sr. has been found in an orange grove about a mile from where his cab was discovered a short time earlier. Sgt. Bill Watts of the Polk County Sheriff's Police said Evans had been shot twice in the head. Evans, 41, disappeared shortly after 11 p.m. Jan. 4.

Polk County officials have hinted there may be some connection between his disappearance and the shooting deaths about 5 a.m. Jan. 9 of deputy Theron Burnham, 27, and Darrell Beasley, 21, near the Lakeland airport.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. # 3 Wishes Highlight Carter's Farewell

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's farewell to the nation is a request of three wishes — for control and reduction of the "horrifying dangers" of nuclear weapons, for wise use of natural resources and for victory in the struggle for human rights.

Just six days from the end of a controversial four-year term the country refused to renew in November, Carter spoke publicly for the last time as president on national television Wednesday night.

Carter said the United States "must and will remain strong" militarily to avoid giving an impression of national weakness that could "tempt aggression."

But with equal determination, the United States and all countries must find ways to control and reduce the horrifying danger — posed by the world's stockpiles of nuclear arms," the president said.

However, he did not use the speech for a final appeal for a SALT II Treaty, which he had hoped to see ratified during his term.

The president warned against "single-interest" politics just as Dwight Eisenhower spoke out against the military-industrial complex in his valedictory 20 years ago.

"As people have become more doubtful of the ability of the government to deal with our problems, we are increasingly drawn to single-issue groups and special-interest organizations to ensure that whatever else happens, our own personal views and our own private interests are protected," Carter said.

"This is a disturbing factor in American political life. It tends to distort our purposes because the national interest is not always the sum of all our single or special interests."

The president pledged to support Ronald Reagan "to the very limits of conscience and conviction."

In his 17-minute talk, Carter concentrated on general issues he said the new president would face.

Citing the Declaration of Independence's promise of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," Carter said: "For this generation, ours, life is nuclear survival; liberty is human rights; the pursuit of happiness is a planet whose resources are devoted to the physical and spiritual nourishment of its inhabitants."

The president spoke from the Oval Office. His tone was quiet and a slight smile came to his lips several times as he gave the speech he worked on for more than a month.

In the only deviation from his advance text, Carter pledged to continue to work and pray for release of the 52 U.S. hostages in Iran, but said again he could not predict when they would be freed.

On resources, Carter said: "There are real and growing dangers to our simple and most precious possessions: the air we breathe, the water we drink and the land that sustains us. The problems are 'easy to observe and predict but difficult to resolve,'" he said, but added, "There is no reason for despair."

Carter said the fight for human rights "overrides all differences of color, nation or language."

"I believe with all my heart America must always stand for these basic human rights — at home and abroad. That is both our history and our destiny," he said. "America did not invent human rights. In a very real sense, it is the other way around. Human rights invented America."

Woman Held On Neglect Charges

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (UPI) — Only hours after she fainted at the sight of a row of flower-covered caskets that contained the bodies of 11 of her children killed in a fire, a pregnant, unmarried mother was arrested on neglect charges.

Virginia Williams was being held set for her arraignment.

The St. Clair County state's attorney said the 28-year-old woman, who is three months pregnant with her 13th child, had been warned previously about leaving her children unattended.

"We believe she did not give adequate supervision to the children on the night of the fire," said state attorney John Baricovic. He said she faced a year in prison and $1,000 fine, or probation, if convicted.

Several hundred people turned out at Sunset Gardens Cemetery Wednesday for closed-casket services for the victims, who ranged in age from 10 months to 11 years and included two sets of twins.

When Miss Williams first saw the row of flower-covered caskets, only one of which was adult-sized, she cried out, "Oh Lord, look at my babies."

Her oldest and only surviving child, Elizabeth, 15, had returned from Mississippi for the funeral and gripped at the edge of a casket containing her 11-year-old sister, Jeanette.

"My sister, my sister, don't take her," she cried.

As three ministers began the ceremony, Miss Williams fainted and was carried to a limousine by East St. Louis Mayor Carl Officer. Elizabeth sobbed, "Momma, don't leave me," and soon joined her mother and huddled weeping in the front seat of the car.

Because Miss Williams is unemployed and on welfare, the state paid for part of the funeral with the Officer's Funeral Home covering the rest. The flowers were donated by local florists.

Miss Williams was out with her boyfriend, Will Arthur Jones, the father of seven of the dead children, when the fire broke out at 2 a.m. Sunday. Jones returned to check on the house and found it in flames. He and several neighbors tried unsuccessfully to rescue the children.

Reagan-Portillo Meeting Positive

The deft touch Ronald Reagan demonstrated in his graceful encounter with President Lopez Portillo augurs well for the future of Mexican-American relations.

Indeed, both men seemed eager to open a new chapter in relations between their respective countries on the best possible note.

President-elect Reagan signalled his own manifest desire for improved ties by becoming the first incoming U.S. president to request a meeting on Mexican soil with that country's head of state. This respectful gesture was not lost on Lopez Portillo.

For his part, the Mexican president dispensed with normal protocol, and technically violated Mexican law, by striding to the American side of the border bridge connecting Ciudad Juarez and El Paso to extend a generous greeting to Mr. Reagan.

It was heady stuff for the representatives of two neighboring nations so much at odds in recent years.

The ensuing 70 minutes of discussion were private and, reportedly, unstructured. Presumably, the two leaders, who had met only once previously, simply wanted to get to know each other better.

The traditional joint communique issued following the Reagan-Lopez Portillo talks suggested only that both governments had much to gain by cooperating with each other. On a more substantive note, Mr. Reagan's national security adviser, Richard Allen, disclosed agreement on a series of future meetings along the U.S.-Mexican border with the first such conference to take place within the next six months.

Even so, the significance of the first meeting lay clearly in its symbolism at a time of increased friction between Washington and Mexico City.

Both countries are plainly groping for a new, mutually beneficial relationship defined by the economic and geo-political realities of the 1980s.

The United States needs Mexican oil and natural gas. In addition, a Reagan administration struggling to cope with explosive change in Central America and the Caribbean would be gravely handicapped without a measure of political support from Mexico City.

Mexico, plagued by very serious economic and social problems despite its newly discovered oil wealth, needs American technology and investment capital. And the day might not be far off when Mexico will also require the kind of security assurances only the United States could provide.

Meanwhile, both nations are challenged to find mutually acceptable solutions to such problems as illegal immigration, water resources, pollution and fishing rights.

Building this new relationship will be doubly difficult given Mexico's resurgent nationalism and its understandable resentment of the casual neglect too often manifested by its giant neighbor.

The strikingly positive, even ebullient, tenor of the Reagan-Lopez Portillo meeting in Ciudad Juarez is evidence that tact, patience and an ample measure of good will can yet overcome the legacy of a troubled past.

Dixie Yields To Desert

By EDWARD R. HAVENS

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Dixie is yielding its claim as the land of cotton as production expands in the desert Southwest.

Arizona now grows more cotton than Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Florida and Missouri, say agricultural researchers. It trails only Texas and California.

But they have doubts about Arizona's future as a leading cotton producer.

Tourists, visualizing Arizona as a land of cactus, sagebrush and sun-splashed mountains, find the landscape along parts of Interstate 10 dotted with irrigated cotton fields.

Dr. Robert S. Fitch, University of Arizona agricultural economist, says Arizona typically exports 85 to 90 percent of its cotton, helping the nation's balance of payments problem in world trade.

Much of the cotton is shipped to textile mills in Japan and Taiwan.

"Let's face it, a lot of that cotton goes to pay for the Toyotas and the Datsuns," says George Learning, a private economist headquartered in the cotton farming town of Marana, 25 miles northwest of Tucson.

Despite favorable growing conditions, the long-term outlook for cotton production in Arizona is questionable because of "artificial, politically inspired restrictions" on the use of water, land, insecticides and herbicides, Learning says.

U.S. production of Upland and Pima cotton for 1980 was estimated at 11,839,000 bales with Arizona's crop of 1,413,000 bales setting a record.

Texas was the leading producer with 3.2 million bales, down from 1979 because of drought. California was the nation's No. 2 producer with 3,000,000 bales. Mississippi, a 1,500,000 million bales dropped to fourth ranking.

"Cotton is one of the best crops we have in Arizona for returning income to farmers," says Andy Kurtz, executive secretary of the Arizona Farm Bureau Federation representing 4,000 member-families.

"Cotton, because it can be grown in so many areas of the state, is a high user of water."

The federal government is building a $1.9 billion aqueduct and pumping station system called the Central Arizona Project to transport water from the Colorado River to central and southern Arizona but Indiana, copper mines, manufacturing and municipalities will have heavy claims on the imported water.

CAP is no panacea for the water needs of cotton farmers and "major expansion" of the Arizona crop is unlikely, says Dr. B. Brooks Taylor, U of A agricultural researcher.

Following government deregulation of cotton production in 1973, "cotton moved west to those who could grow it best," Taylor says.

Today, the "No. 1 threat" to the 1,400 Arizona cotton growers — mostly family farms — is water availability, followed by a pesticide spraying controversy that stems from urban encroachment in previously agricultural areas, Taylor says.

Nixon's Genial Side Stars In Other Tape

WASHINGTON — Although former President Richard Nixon had the grace to decline an invitation to Ronald Reagan's inauguration, there are signs he is emerging from his Watergate-induced hibernation. In fact, he seems to be blossoming as something of a social butterfly in his enforced retirement.

The redoubtable Nixon literally kicked up his heels, for example, at an elegant soiree last month in a luxurious Waldorf Towers suite. Imelda Marcos, the beautiful and ambitious first lady of the Philippines, was the hostess.

She put on a glittering party in the former president's honor on Sunday, Dec. 14. The guest list included Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, widow of the late general of the armies; New York financier John L. Loeb and widow; John Swearingen and his wife. Mrs. Nixon did not attend.

With apparently unconscious irony, the Philippine first lady proceeded to tape the evening's festivities. But her guests were videotaped, and contained no "smoking gun"

End Waste, Buck-Passing

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Here's a hint of things to come, provided by the folks who promised to bring under control the buck-passing and evasion of responsibility which the federal bureaucracy has become notorious for.

It involves the controversial declaration of "morning attire" as the only authorized form of dress for male members of Congress and other men who are official participants in the inauguration of President-elect Ronald Reagan.

"(For the benefit of sartorial backsliders, "morning attire" is a very formal gray suit, striped trousers and a striped tie.)

The dress code was unveiled by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Inaugural Ceremonies, who decreed in a letter to his colleagues in the House and Senate: "President-elect Reagan has suggested that participants at the inaugural ceremony, including members of Congress, wear morning attire to the swearing-in."

That wording seemed to leave no doubt that Hatfield himself had established the dress code. But that's not the way the president-elect's emissaries to pre-inauguration Washington told it.

When James Brady, spokesman for Reagan's transition operation here, was asked about Hatfield's announcement, he blurted out a firm disavowal: "I haven't seen it, and I don't believe it."

Next in line with a disclaimer was Robert K. Gray, co-chairman of Reagan's Inaugural committee, who said, "It's important to note that the swearing-in ceremony and all things pertinent to it are the Congress' prerogative and not ours."

Added Gray, "So far as members of Congress are concerned, they should come as their individual preference dictates."

That's the latest word from the people who have spent the past four years regaling the country with tales of hapless businessmen forever being whipsawed by conflicting regulations issued by different government or 18-and-a-half-minute gap. Instead, according to two privileged viewers, the film shows Nixon in a genial, carefree mood that would astonish those who remember the hunched, bitter president at bay during his final months in office.

When the hostess offered a flowery toast to the guest of honor, Nixon topped her with a lengthy, sentimental tribute to Mrs. Marcos. He had been moved, apparently, by her visit to San Clemente in the early days of his exile, when he was a pariah even to fellow Republicans.

But it was during the after-dinner entertainment that Nixon truly shone. Mrs. Marcos sang a native song. Nixon played the piano. Then a Philippine song-and-dance troupe performed. And the dapper Nixon, with manicured hand gestures and robot-like movements, joined in one number.

The dance is called the "Tinkling" — and it's no simple footwork or slow waltz. It is a sort of Filipino sword dance, involving the rhythmic clapping together of bamboo sticks, which the dancer must skip over like a jumphop, or suffer a painful bark on the shins.

The former president made it through the tricky dance with nary a bruise. "He was very sprightly," one polite observer told my associate Lucette Lagnado, adding, "He seems to have gotten over his phlegmias." But another witness confided that Nixon cheated, stepping safely outside the bamboo sticks raised between them. He was "out of step" and danced as if he had "two left feet," whispered this observer.

Mrs. Marcos took the videotape home with her, presumably to show her husband as evidence of her social coup. So Richard Nixon, whose long career has never lacked for surprises, is now an international film star of sorts.

Longwood Delays Condo Rezoning

Two rezoning ordinances up for public hearing and final approval by the Longwood City Commission Monday night hit a snag when city residents turned out to voice their objections.

Action was tabled on rezoning of 16 acres on Range Line Road from B-1 (light commercial and professional) to RM (multi-family residential) and on Florida Residential Condominiums. The commission voted to table action on the rezoning request until work on a planned drainage system is completed. At that time another public hearing will be held before action is taken, according to the motion made by Commissioner June Lormann.

The delays canceled out advantages gained by a streamlined procedure used by the commission to expedite the two rezoning petitions at the last meeting on Dec. 15. City Attorney Marvin Rooks had been advised in advance to prepare ordinances in case the petitions were approved enabling the ordinances to be approved on first reading at the same meeting.

Developer Edouardo Arango wants to rezone the property he is purchasing in order to build 240 condominium units instead of business and professional offices allowed under the present zoning. Arango promised to build condominiums, not apartments as called for in the original application and permitted under RM zoning.

Rooks told the commission it would be impossible to hold the developer to such a pledge as contract zoning is illegal.

"There's no way we can convince you of our intent or good faith. We are not landlords, we are developers. We want to sell condominiums, not rent apartments," Arango said. "Thirty percent of the land at most would be covered. We're going to be as much concerned about flooding as you are... we're not coming to wreck but to add. We don't want enemies."

Longwood Delays Condo Rezoning

Two rezoning ordinances up for public hearing and final approval by the Longwood City Commission Monday night hit a snag when city residents turned out to voice their objections.

Action was tabled on rezoning of 16 acres on Range Line Road from B-1 (light commercial and professional) to RM (multi-family residential) and on Florida Residential Condominiums. The commission voted to table action on the rezoning request until work on a planned drainage system is completed. Panthers Roll Up 99 Points In Rout

Record-Cracking Crooms Crushes Kowboys

Crooms' Panthers broke their scoring record of 83 points in a single game as they trounced the Kissimmee Kowboys 99-34 last night at Seminole High School.

The location of the game was originally set for Crooms, but faulty heaters in the Crooms gym forced the game to be moved. It mattered little, however, as the Panthers put the heat on the Kowboys, rolling to a 24-1 first period score.

The Panthers jumped to a 6-0 lead after 1:26 had been played, then the explosion occurred. Taking advantage of missed shots and bad passes, the Panthers ran up an 18-0 lead with still 3:24 left in the period. Crooms scored six more, making their total 24, before Kissimmee's Steve Wilson put the Kowboys on the board with a shot that should have made it. He scored once more in the period, while the Panthers chalked up eight more.

Panther William Mitchell was responsible for eight of the thirty-two, as were Steve Alexander, also with eight, and William Wynn with six.

The second period continued as the first, as Panther coach Chris Marlette emptied the bench. It was outstanding play by the reserves that put 17 second period points on the board for Crooms.

Miller scored on two lay ups with no one around him after stolen passes by a sharp Panther defense. The Crooms defense gave up just seven points during the rest of the first half, with five coming on free throws. The halftime score stood at a tremendous 49-11 Crooms lead.

Part of the reason, most probably, was the fact that four Kissimmee players, including a starting player, failed to show for the game. Crooms was at no disadvantage, although Grey, Mitchell, Bruce Franklin, and William Brooks complained of flu before the game. Brooks was taken out of the game because of his illness.

But the Panthers made their best showing this year, capitalizing on almost every mistake the Kowboys made.

With Crooms players revolving in and out of the game, they made twenty-four more in the third period, while Kissimmee squeezed out another eleven from a stingy Panther team. This led to a 26 point fourth period for Crooms, while a meager nine were put up by Kissimmee.

Panther coach Chris Marlette remarked, "If any team deserved to score a hundred points, it was them. They worked hard, starters and reserves." "And, as long as I have been at Crooms, 83 was our highest total in a single game."

"Mitchell played an outstanding game, considering that he had the flu." And Marlette was right, as Mitchell scored a total of 10 points and stopped at least five Kissimmee scoring opportunities.

Alexander, who finished with 16 points, said that, "Our triangle offense worked well against their zone defense." Mitchell probably did the best tonight, because he had the flu but he played great."

Panthers Ike Walker, Eugene Nathan, Tracy Holloman, all reserve players, scored six or more points in their victory, while Ricky Whittaker, Reginald Medlock and Kelvin Robinson, put in eight points among them.

...Crooms (9) Alexander, 8-16, Miller, 7-14, Mitchell, 5-10, Wynn, 5-10, Walker, 3-2-2, Collins, 2-1-7, Grey, 3-0-4, Whittaker, 3-0-4, Holloman, 3-0-4, Robinson, 1-2-4, Sullivan, 1-3, Medlock, 0-1-1, Totals: 49-11-99

Kissimmee (34) Wilson, 7-2-16, Eacober, 1-3-5, McClrim, 1-2-4, Scauf, 0-3-3, Carter, 1-0-2. Totals: 11-(12-26)-34.

Seminoles Fall From Favor As Colonial Nips Tribe

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

ORLANDO — Falling from favor didn't take long for Seminole's Richard Grey. Just 24 hours earlier, Tribe Chief Bill Payne was throwing accolades usually reserved for all-stars.

Wednesday, though, against Colonial, Grey and the rest of his teammates fell apart during the fourth quarter as the Grenadiers rallied for a 38-34 victory.

The setback snapped a six game Tribe winning streak and dropped them below the break even mark at 8-9 for the season.

Saturday, they travel to Orlando to take on Metro power Evans. The Grenadiers, playing without star swingman, Grey Way (flu) improved to 10-7.

In last night's streak snapper, Colonial guard George Hastings bulldozed down the lane with eight seconds left, dropping in a layup before crashing into Seminole Lenny Sutton.

The basket put the Grenadiers ahead 36-34, the first time since the early going of the second quarter. Sutton was awarded a one and one, but back rimmed his first shot and the Seminole were shot. Senior David Dorminy added two free throws with six seconds to go for the final count.

Getting back to Grey's fall from grace, however, is when the ball game turned around. Tuesday, Grey had the patience of Job on offense. Wednesday, he more resembled Rodney Dangerfield pulling his tie.

With 6:11 remaining to play, the Tribe held a 28-26 advantage courtesy of a Grey followup bank shot. At this point, Grey was whistled for a foul. It was the feisty little guard's fourth and he reacted vehemently toward the official which drew a technical.

"If that technical costs us the game I'll," screamed Payne at his little guard. Grey was immediately extracted from the game and banished to the end of the bench — never to return.

His absence was not immediately felt as junior center Barry Sullivan missed the free throw. Sutton and Grace each then muscled inside for power move baskets and a 32-28 edge.

And when Bernard Merble dropped in a 10-footer for a 34-28 margin — the 'Noles looked to be home free with victory number seven with just 3:40 to play. It was, however, the last time they would get off a shot.

Without point guard Grey, the Tribe's attack became porous. Five straight turnovers after not turning the ball over the entire first five minutes, doomed the Seminole. Five second half misplays compared to four before intermission.

"We not only turned the ball over. We turned it into layups," said a disgusted Payne. Colonial's last three field goals of the quarter were of layin variety.

First, Donny Leighton stole a pass at midcourt and scored making the score 24-30. Then John Searies picked off an errant toss and was fouled by Merble. Searies connected to make it 34-32. Tribe. It was Searies again after a "Nole turnover with 2:09 remaining with a nifty baseline move for the game 34 all.

The Tribe attempted to hold the ball, but Mike Gaudreau, who had a nice shooting night with 11 points, missed connections with Steve Grace, who threw the ball into Dorminy's hands trying to

Five Star Mat Test Opens Friday

ALAMONTE SPRINGS — Lake Brantley's Patriots will host the Five Star Conference wrestling tournament Friday and Saturday for the nine conference schools.

Mat action will commence Friday at 7 a.m. with first round matches. The second round is Saturday morning at 10 a.m. followed by wrestling, consolation and the championship at 8 Saturday evening.

Lyman's Greyhounds, third in their own Christmas Tourney play the favorite's role. Glenn Newman (115), David Henley (128), Eric Smith (141) and Terry Barrett (158) were all voted number one seedings.

The Greyhounds also have Hay Hunzicker (100), Mark Schuster (135), Matt West (146), Jeff Burris (170), Chris Breen (188) and Steve Schofield (223) as number two seeds.

"If we don't get killed by the flu, we should be all right," 'Hound Coach Skip Pletzer said confidently. West and Cory Stanley both missed Saturday's Southridge match due to illness.

Elsewhere, Seminole's best

Lyman's tenacious Terry Barrett is undefeated this year and finished fourth in the state meet last year.

Gibson Gets 'Fame'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Gibson, a 251-game winner and one of the greatest World Series pitchers in history, was the only player elected today to the baseball Hall of Fame in the annual balloting by 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Gibson was the only one of 36 eligible candidates to meet the requirements of 301 votes or 75 percent of the ballots to gain election to the Cooperstown, N.Y. shrine. He received 337 votes or 84 percent.

Behind Gibson were Los Angeles right-hander Don Drysdale with 245, Cincinnati's 241, Hank Williams 239, Hoyt Harnen 238 and Juan Marichal 233.

This was a common occurrence at the Lyman Christmas Invitational. Several wrestlers were injured. Seminole trainer Jim "Doc" Terwilliger administered aid as Lyman student trainer (right) Mike McLaughlin looks on.

Nole Chip Roll is third at 158. And at 158 pounds is the quality wrestler of the meet,

Tribe's Jane's Five Goals Enhance Rout Of Rockledge

Senior John Jane booted five goals as the Seminole soccer team overwhelmed Rockledge 8-0 Wednesday afternoon at Seminole Stadium.

Jane's awesome quintuplet onslaught was supported by single goals from senior Jeff Fogg, junior Marty Mann and sophomore Scott Meek.

The victory improved the ledger for Coach Chuck Ruskakov's forces to 7-3 for the season. The Tribe is 3-1 in the Five Star conference and travels to Spruce Creek Friday.

In Seminole County Friday, Lake Brantley entrants Coach John Stone's Lyman squad.

Robinson Giants' Skipper

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Frank Robinson, who played baseball as a youngster in Oakland and went on to star in the major leagues, Wednesday was named to manage the San Francisco Giants of the National League. That makes him the first black manager hired in both leagues.

He became the first American League black manager when he skippered Cleveland from 1971 to 1977, and was a coach at Baltimore the past two seasons.

Robinson, 45, was named to replace Dave Bristol, who was fired suddenly by Giants' owner Bob Lurie during baseball's winter meeting in Dallas last month. Lurie said there were "philosophical differences" between him and Bristol.

JV Wrestling At Sanford

Seminole High will host a Seminole County junior varsity wrestling tournament tonight with weighing at 5 p.m. and the action starting about 5:30 p.m.

Lyman's junior varsity, fresh from winning its third straight College Park JV Tourney over Christmas held at Edgewater High, is favored tonight.

Rhett Harwell, a 157-pounder, was the key figure as he grabbed a first shot thus giving the 'Hounds a narrow 17-5-14.5 victory over Colonial. Winter Park was a close third with 130 points.

Willie Perkins (169) was another Greyhound who grabbed a first place. Curt Schuster (135) also was first, but will be wrestling varsity in the conference meet tomorrow at Lake Brantley and will not compete tonight.

Sanderson Confirms LSU Class

Bengal Tigers 'Wimp' Tide 59-56

By United Press International
Alabama Coach Wimp Sanderson is ready to confirm the preseason prognosis that Kentucky and Louisiana State are the class of the Southeastern Conference.

Sanderson got a close look at 6th-ranked LSU Wednesday night when his team "played to its potential" and lost to the Bengal Tigers 59-56 at Tusculooosa.

"It's a topsy-turvy league," he said. "Indications are that LSU and Kentucky are the best two teams in the league and I think they are."

LSU ran its SEC record to 4-0 and its overall record to 13-1 but 4th-ranked Kentucky kept pace in the conference by beating Mississippi 64-55 at Lexington, Ky. Other SEC action saw Vanderbilt down Auburn 97-41, Tennessee defeat Florida 78-64 and Georgia edge Mississippi State 66-64.

LSU swept to a 24-17 lead after 12 minutes of play but the Tide came storming back to grab a 34-28 halftime lead and then increased that margin to 42-30, before LSU started whittling away at the lead. Durand Macklin's layup with three minutes to play gave LSU the lead at 51-50 and the Tigers stayed ahead the rest of the way.

"We kept our poise the whole game," said LSU Coach Dale Brown. "That's the best way I know to stay in a game and win the close ones."

Sanderson said he had no excuses for the loss, the Tide's third in five SEC contests. "I thought we had an excellent game plan. Our kids played as hard as they could play," he said. "You can say anything you want to about me, but this basketball team is playing to its potential."

Clutch free throw shooting in the last minutes of the game led Kentucky over Auburn Ole Miss. The Wildcat's last 9 points came on free throws after the Rebels pulled to within six points at 55-49.

The win was Kentucky's 11th game against one loss while Ole Miss fell below .500 at 6-7 overall and 1-4 in SEC play.

Freshman guard Al Miller scored 29 points and Jimmy Gray added 24, 14 from the foul line, in Vanderbilt's victory over Auburn.

Auburn Coach Sonny Smith said Miller was the difference in the contest.

"He was just super and last week against Georgia, too," he said.

Florida, 7-3 overall and 1-4 in the league, was led by freshman Ronnie Williams' 27 points.

Art doesn't seem to be high on Jack McKinney's list of priorities.

ALL THAT JAZZ by Alan Maver

Trail Blazers 110, Kings 91
Rookie Kelvin Ransey scored 32 points and Jim Paxon added 23 to spark Portland. With the Blazers trailing, 51-50 at the half, Ransey sparked two rallies that finished the Kings.

Jazz 110, Warriors 107
Adrian Dantley scored 45 points, including 10 of Utah's final 12 points that held off a furious Jazz rally in the fourth quarter, to lead the Jazz.

Suns 118, Knicks 105
George Gervin scored 28 points and rookie Reggie Johnson added a career-high 21 to power San Antonio and drop New York to its fifth loss in the last six games.

Rockets 109, Bulls 105
Moses Malone scored 41 points and hauled down 14 rebounds to pace Houston and Reggie Theus led Chicago with 28 points.

Suns 128, Nuggets 102
Walter Davis scored 18 points to pace seven Phoenix players in double figures. Alvan Adams added 16 points for the Suns before leaving the game with a sprained ankle in the third quarter.

Clippers 104, Hawks 85
Freeman Williams came off the bench for just 26 minutes in the game to score 22 points and Phil Smith added 21 to pace San Diego.

Bullets 114, Lakers 104
Kevin Grevey scored 26 points and Kevin Porter dished out 15 assists to lead Washington. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led LA with 25.

The Pacers, who were led by Billy Knight's 24 points, missed their first 20 field-goal attempts in the fourth quarter and George McGinnis hit Indiana's first basket in the final period after nearly 10 minutes had elapsed.

Despite the poor shooting, Indiana, which has now won seven straight, managed a 91-91 tie after leading the Pistons, 82-77, at the end of three quarters.

"I'll accept it," said McKinney. "That (the cold shooting) happens sometimes. During that time we played one of our best defense and kept them from putting us away."

McGinnis supported Knight with 18 points and also had 10 rebounds. Mike Bantom added 14 points and 10 rebounds and the Pacers scored 23. Benson scored a game-high 25 points for Detroit and Keith Herron and Larry Drew added 16 each.

"I'm really proud of our team," said Detroit Coach

Scotty Robertson. "We're not very good, but they've done what we've wanted them to do and executed well."

Robert Parish scored 33 points and blocked seven shots and Larry Bird added 22 points to help Boston extend its winning streak to six games. Mike Mitchell paced Cleveland with 22 points.

save it. Grace was limited to nine points and only four rebounds.

With 25 ticks left, Colonial called time out.

"If they went man-to-man we were going passing game," veteran Grenadier Coach Zeb Kinney said of his last play magic. "But with high school kids, it usually ends up playground."

Which it did. After running 15 seconds from the clock, Hastings took off down the lane, arched his layup, crashed into Sutton and watched as the ball bounced once lightly then fell through.

The tribe made a last ditch effort with three seconds left, but senior Clarence Sippo traveled before getting off his shot. It was the fifth and final turnover.

"Colonial took us out of our game. They wouldn't let us get inside," Payne pointed out. "Grace wouldn't play. He didn't want to work."

When asked if he considered reentering Grey to run the Tribe's befuddled attack — Payne's reply was unprintable for a small, community newspaper.

In an earlier junior varsity game, Sanford captured its second straight 53-30 to improve its record to 5-4. Six-foot-2 forward Torie Hendricks paced the attack with 18 points, while Calvin "Kiki" Bryant notched 15. Vernon Law added eight.

Montgomery On Hold, Van Buren Still Intact

NEW YORK (UPI) — The electronic scoreboard at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia flashed the information for everybody in the ballpark to see. Wilbert Montgomery had broken Steve Van Buren's record.

The news touched off a roar of acclamation among the 70,096 on hand.

CBS, which televised last Sunday's NFC championship play-off between the Philadelphia Eagles and Dallas Cowboys nationally, also informed its viewers of what Montgomery had done, so now the whole country knew.

But hold on a minute.

A review of the game's statistics necessitated a correction. It turned out Montgomery hadn't broken Van Buren's all-time rushing record for a championship game after all.

Van Buren had set the mark when he was with the Eagles in 1949 by rushing for 196 yards in their NFL title game with the Rams in Los Angeles. When Montgomery went off tackle for 11 yards late in the fourth quarter of Sunday's contest, he originally was credited with a total of 199 yards, which would have given him the record, but a re-check showed otherwise. He had run for no gain on the previous play, then fumbled.

The ball rolled forward 5 yards, where it was recovered by Eagles' center Guy Morris, and Montgomery at first had been given credit for that yardage. Under the rules, he wasn't actually entitled to those 5 yards, and when the game ended he had a total of 194. Plenty good, but still 2 yards short of Van Buren's championship game record.

Steve Van Buren, who led the NFL in rushing in 1945, 1947, 1948 and 1949 and still holds the Eagles' team record for most yards gained rushing lifetime, 5,860. He's 61 now and follows the fortunes of his old team.

He was at last Sunday's game as a special guest of the Eagles, who felt it would be nice if he was on hand were they to win their conference title, which they did by beating the Cowboys, 20-7.

Van Buren showed up with his grandson, Nathan, 11, and both were guests at a pre-game brunch in the Eagles' offices behind the press box.

When Van Buren brought his grandson back home to his daughter, Lynare, after the game, everybody was happy the Eagles had won. Van Buren had predicted they'd go all the way to the Super Bowl much earlier in the season.

"Bump, they broke your record, didn't they?" said his daughter, who had watched the game on TV. She was unaware of the re-check of the statistics.

"No, they didn't," Van Buren answered her. "He fumbled, so he didn't get credit for a few yards."

For Steve Van Buren that was a big speech. He never was one who had a lot to say, but, oh Lord, could he run with that ball. Now, with his old team heading for the Super Bowl in New Orleans, it's completely appropriate that LSU, his old school, plans to honor him in Baton Rouge next week.

Mother's March For Foundation Gets Underway

"Someday we may reach the goal of giving every baby his birthright — the right to healthy, vigorous start in life," says Dr. James L. Scholt.

Dr. Scholt, Superintendent of the Orange County Schools, has been named the 1981 General Campaign Chairman for the Central Florida Chapter of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

One out of every 12 infants born in the United States this year will have a birth defect, according to the National Foundation of the March of Dimes.

Through its programs the March of Dimes concentrates on preventing such defects. Its programs include research, education, and prenatal care of mothers with high-risk pregnancies. Intensive care units, such as the Neo-Neatal unit in the Orlando Regional Medical Center, have been established for care of critically ill newborns.

Progress now enables medical science to act against certain kinds of congenital damage before birth, at delivery, and even later.

Dr. Scholt, asking for continued community support of the March of Dimes and its programs said, "I urge each member of the community to participate in the upcoming fund raising activities."

Dr. Scholt noted that the Mother's March on Birth Defects will be Jan. 17 - 25.

Depression Glass Show Coming

The first Depression Era Glass Show was held in Springfield, Mo. in 1963. It was billed as including Antiques also.

This show was prompted by the newly released book by Hazel Marie Weatherman "Colored Glassware of the Depression Era".

About this time a housewife in a little town in Michigan by the name of Nora Koch, decided to start a newspaper with a few names of people she had corresponded with. The paper grew from around 100 to over 17,000 circulation today and averages 48 pages.

Back to the shows. They followed next in California, Virginia, Georgia and in 1973 Florida played host to their first Show and Sale. It was held in Sanford. More than 100 shows are held across the country.

This show is held annually and has grown from 24 exhibiting dealers to 34. This is Florida's only all-glass show. It will be held Jan. 24 - 10 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and Jan. 25 - 11 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., at the Sanford Civic Center, downtown Sanford across from the Holiday Inn.

Central Florida Depression Era Glass Club held its first show in September, but they will still participate in this privately promoted show. Homemade food will be available at the snack bar. Also, there will be a "display only" collection of glass animals on the stage. Their friendly attitude and display makes them a bonus for this show.

A small booth will be provided for the National Depression Glass Club, Inc. All the glass at this booth will be donations from its members and total proceeds will go to N.D.G.A., Inc. Books on glass by several authors will be on sale at the show. Door prizes will be given both days.

For information, call Sara K. Myers, 322-6599, afternoons.

Habitual Lying Symptom Of Problems

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I think I'm going crazy. I'm married 12 years, have two fine children (6 and 9), a lovely home and financial security, but I'm miserable. My husband (38) gives me everything I want except an honest relationship. He lies constantly. I've caught him in so many lies, I've lost all respect for him. He's a wonderful father and provider, but he has shut me out completely. I've begged him to share his feelings with me but he says his feelings are his business - not mine.

I had an accidental pregnancy 14 months ago. He persuaded me to have an abortion, saying two children were enough. Afterward he told me that he insisted on the abortion because "he knew" the baby wasn't his. I was crushed. I have never been unfaithful nor have I given him any reason to doubt me. That accusation turned me off completely and we haven't slept together since. (He accepts this, saying it's only natural after 12 years).

Abby, is there any hope for a marriage in which there is no trust, respect or physical intimacy? We are considering divorce, but living in the same house for the sake of the children as well as for economic reasons. Is this a feasible alternative, or are we crazy?

DEAR NEEDS: You are not crazy. ("Crazy" people rarely question the feasibility of their alternatives.) You husband's habitual lying, his unfounded accusations and his refusal to share his feelings with you are all symptoms of some deep emotional problems. He desperately needs professional help, and so do you.

If your husband refuses to get help, get into treatment without him. You need to get your head together to learn how to live with him or without him.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is very nice to me as a rule, but when he's drinking he gets very mean and abusive and picks a fight with me over some little thing. He's even gotten violent to the point of slapping me around.

When he's sober he is gentle and sweet. Don't get me wrong, Abby. He's not an alcoholic. He sometimes goes for weeks without having anything to drink, but when he's had one too many he is like a different person. Sometimes I wonder which of him is real.

DEAR LITTLE ROCK: Alcohol doesn't change a person's personality, it merely amplifies it. (A mean person gets meaner, and a sweet person gets sweeter.) Drinkers who become violent shouldn't drink at all. And their physically abused victims are unconsciously "asking for it" if they hang around after the first slapping around.

DEAR ABBY: We are retired and living in a nice mobile home in Florida. We have lovely neighbors who present a problem as we are reluctant to bring up.

Several in the park have hung those long steel wind chimes on their porches. There are some hanging right outside our bedroom windows. The high-pitched sound is especially annoying at night when the breeze is blowing. The constant clang, clang is driving us up a wall!

Please put a few lines in your column to remind these people to be a little more considerate of their neighbors, Abby. They may see it and take the hint. Sign me...

DISENCHANTED WITH CHIMES
DEAR DISENCHANTED: And what if they don't see it? Simply advise your lovely neighbors in a friendly by emphatic way that their wind chimes are annoying you.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to the woman whose husband makes love with his socks on: When my husband and I were first married, he would frequently come home for lunch to satisfy his appetite (and mine), which, I confess, was not restricted exclusively to food. He had only an hour, so he never had time to take his socks off. It got to be a standing joke for us. Now 11 years and three children later, nothing has changed. Who has time to bother with socks? Besides, impromptu rendezvous are usually the best.

SOCK IT TO ME IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR SOCK: On the other hand (or foot), to some, anticipation is more enjoyable than realization.

Sex Hormone Level Can Affect Drive
Dr. Lamb
DEAR DR. LAMB - If your body isn't putting out enough of the right hormones, can this decrease your desire for sex? After my third child I started taking the pill which I was taking for 15 years. Then I had my uterus removed so I no longer needed the pill. But it seems like ever since the operation I no longer desire sex.

Do you think it's possible that I need the extra estrogen that was contained in the pill? I've also been having some trouble with my breasts hurting me. Could this be caused by a lack of hormones? My doctor has checked them for tumors but didn't find any. He didn't seem to know why they hurt.

DEAR READER - It's true that the level of sex hormones does influence sex drive. After all, a classic example is the young girl who is a tomboy and shows absolutely no interest in sex. But once her body starts manufacturing enough hormones she's less interested in climbing trees and more interested in soft lads.

Because of the intellectual and emotional overlay in humans, the effects of sex hormones are not as clearcut as you will see in animals but, nevertheless, it is a factor.

You didn't say whether your ovaries were removed at the same time you had the hysterectomy. You can have complete hysterectomy and still have your ovaries intact. It's important for every woman who has a hysterectomy to know for absolute certain whether her ovaries were removed or not.

If they haven't been she must have regular evaluations to make sure that she doesn't develop cancer of the ovaries. If your ovaries are intact and functioning normally, you

YOUR BIRTHDAY
January 16, 1981
You have always been basically ambitious, yet you are likely to set even larger goals for yourself this coming year. One reason your chances will be enhanced: Good relationships with persons in key positions who can help you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
The idea of events is taking a major turn in your favor today, yet you still may not be able to see or recognize the good of what's occurring.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Circumstances today may place you in the right spot at just the right time where you could serve as a midperson in putting a profitable arrangement together.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
In matters which could contribute to your finances or prestige you are apt to be a bit luckier than usual today. Listen for opportunity's welcome knock.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You have good leadership qualities today and once more you should be very lucky regarding things you personally manage. Be a take-care person.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Hunches you get today pertaining to the outcome of events could be quite accurate, especially if they are of a positive nature.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23)
Your optimism and enthusiasm can be easily kindled today, but what's more important is that you have the ability to lift the spirits of others in the process.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Priorities should be given today to matters which you feel can add to your resources or enhance your influence. Big things could happen to you in either area.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You can get along well today with just about anybody, but persons born under the signs of Gemini, Libra and Aquarius are especially fortunate for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Something you've been unable to change on your own may be brought about today in a way which might completely surprise you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Sometimes you have a tendency to have too many irons in the fire. Today, the more you have to do the better you perform. Maintain a busy schedule.

Hostage Release Imminent?

U.S., Iran Rush Toward Deadline

By DAVID COWWELL
United Press International

The United States said today Iran had presented a "promising approach" toward agreement to free the 52 American hostages and a group of U.S. financial and legal experts flew to Algiers to work out a proposal being "explored on an urgent basis."

Iran's chief negotiator said "there are absolutely no reasons for the non-acceptance by the American government provided they are really inclined to solve the matter."

Wall Street sources indicated the transfer of the funds may already be under way to meet an apparent 5 p.m. EST deadline set by Tehran in its demand for a "really practical step" on the transfer of assets. The State Department called the reports "rumors."

The State Department said the experts were rushed to Algiers from London. The U.S. Embassy in London said a presidential aircraft carrying U.S. officials involved in negotiations on Iranian assets passed through London.

Airport sources in London estimated there were about a dozen legal and financial advisers aboard the plane. They included Anthony Lake, deputy legal adviser at the State Department. Diplomatic activity intensified in Algiers with hurried comings and goings at the United States' hilltop embassy overlooking the Bay of Algiers — increasing speculation an accord with Iran was imminent.

On landing in Algiers, the experts immediately joined in talks headed by Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, who had driven to the U.S. Embassy at high speed and did not talk to reporters.

In Tehran, Iran's chief hostage negotiator Bezhad Nabavi told the official Pars news agency today that Iran has "announced its willingness to end the issue and we condemn any further waste of time."

However, there was no mention in Nabavi's latest remarks about a deadline by the end of business hours and no reference to a trial of the hostages.

"As the statement of the Algerian government had been previously accepted by both sides and as the methods of implementation for the transfer of our frozen assets have been defined and presented by the government of the Islamic Republic in a completely practical and realistic way," Nabavi said in a statement on Tehran Radio and monitored in Washington, "there are absolutely no reasons for the non-acceptance by the American government provided they are really inclined to solve the matter."

"Contrary to the claims of certain sources, there are no complicated problems and, in the eyes of the government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, there is no obstacle to the ending of this issue. Only the true inclination of Washington can bring about a definite outcome to the issue during the current day."

French radio networks said the two nations had reached an agreement on the assets.

As the calendar wound down on the Carter administration, Iran warned that Washington had to take "a really practical step" by the end of business hours today on transferring Iranian assets.

"The government of the Islamic Republic of Iran has expressed its willingness to end the issue and from our point of view any procrastination is condemned."

French radio networks said the two nations had reached an agreement on the assets.

High-Rise Decision To Shape Altamonte?

By CHARITY CICARDO

A new high-rise development will determine the growth pattern of Altamonte Springs, City Manager Jeff Etchberger said Wednesday.

The Building and Planning Committee will review a proposal by Bill Fredrick of Altamonte Towers Inc., who wants to build three, 17-to-18-story condominiums and a 12-story office building on 6.9 acres at Haines Avenue, just south of State Road 436.

Etchberger said the city has come to a "Y in the road." Either the city will continue to have two- or three-story buildings or start developing residential high rises, he said.

High-rises will increase the population while staying with development of three-story buildings will not, said Etchberger. "There is only so much land. If we continue to build two- or three-story buildings, you can take a calculation and know how many people the city can hold," Etchberger said.

"The question is do we want to increase the density or do we want the community to be made up of three-story buildings and that's all," Etchberger said.

If approved, the proposed development will be the first residential high-rise in the county.

The public will say which direction the city wants to move," Etchberger said.

The public can voice its opinion through avenues like the planning and zoning board, which is made up of city residents, and through public hearings.

Etchberger said his role is to serve the city in whatever way it develops.

"This is not just another development; it's a potential trend setter. It's going to be interesting to watch," Etchberger said.

City Planner Joe Nesbit said the development will have a shopping area, restaurants and offices along with the residential area.

"It's based on the European concept — live, shop and work in the same area, Nesbit said.

Nesbit said in Europe, which has high gas prices, people must live in these types of developments.

The $50 million to $70 million project would include a 2,000 car-capacity underground parking area and a walkway over State Road 436.

Prices for the 300-unit complex would range from $150,000 up to $750,000 for the penthouse units.

Sanford Hires Its First Woman Building Inspector TODAY

Leah Rogers, 22, of Altamonte Springs, has become the city of Sanford's first female building inspector. She is probably the first woman in Seminole County to hold such a position in a governmental agency, Sanford's building official, Gary Winn, said today.

Miss Rogers began work Thursday, Winn said. The annual salary for the position is $12,560.

Her specific title is minimum housing code and zoning violations inspector. On her first day on the job she was in the field conducting inspections with another city inspector, Winn said.

Miss Rogers, a native Floridian, formerly worked for the minimum housing code authority in Orlando and worked as a legal secretary for an Altamonte Springs law firm while she attended college.

She holds a bachelor's degree in public administration and is now pursuing a master's degree in business administration. Winn said he has also recommended that she take some construction courses.

"I was impressed with her qualification and enthusiasm," Winn said today, adding he recommended she be hired. She has lived in Altamonte Springs for the past eight years.

but later postponed.

The meeting is scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday. "We've been waiting for a meeting since we released the report," Simpson told a reporter late Wednesday. "Now you're telling me the meeting is set for Monday. That's the first I've heard about it. It would be nice if they would tell me. After all, I'm the committee chairman."

"That's the way this commission has operated. But I'm not going to keep calling them up. It's not my place. It's possible somebody tried to get a hold of me but they sure didn't try very hard."

County Planner Woody Price said committee members were sent a notice of the meeting before the holidays. Simpson would not say if he would attend the meeting. But committee member Gaylene Wirick, of Sanford, said she

Feds: State Colleges Need More Blacks

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The state has moved too slowly in upgrading Florida A&M University and getting more blacks into the mostly white universities and may lose federal funds if it doesn't act quicker, the U.S. Department of Education said today.

Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington was given 45 days to submit plans to increase the number of whites attending FAMU and the number of blacks at the eight mostly white universities and develop a system to make sure major decisions involving the university system such as expansion of a university won't hinder desegregation efforts.

Florida "has not made satisfactory progress" in implementing the massive plan for greater desegregation of its universities and community colleges adopted by the Cabinet in 1977-78 and approved by what was then the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, U.S. Assistant Education Secretary for Civil Rights Cynthia Brown said in a letter to Turlington.

"Vestiges of the state's formerly segregated public higher education system persist and in some respects the system has become more segregated," Ms. Brown said. "Unless corrective action is taken within 45 days ... I will have no alternative but to initiate enforcement proceedings."

The federal agency might move to cut off Florida's higher education funds if acceptable corrective action isn't taken, said Deputy Education Commissioner Pete Millet, chairman of the Bi-Racial Monitoring Council overseeing implementation of the desegregation plan.

No state has ever lost its federal university and college money, however.

County Land Committee Split As Final Report Nears

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

Born out of a storm of protest over proposed land-use restrictions, the Seminole County Comprehensive Plan Review Committee continues to be embroiled in controversy as it gets set to explain its "Final Report" to the county commission.

Released in mid-November, the report calls for amendments to the Comprehensive Plan emphasizing "minimal restraint" on land use and private property rights. But a few of the committee members are unhappy with the outcome of the group's work; others say the proposals don't go far enough.

And committee chairman Bo Simpson is unhappy with the county commission.

He said the committee asked for a meeting with the commission when it released the report. A meeting date was set would attend, if possible, to tell the commission the committee was poorly organized, met at a bad time of the year, and didn't get much done. She also said she has an objection to the way the group handled some of its data.

Often at odds with Wirick during the committee's sessions, Margaret Cammack, of Geneva, said she agrees with the committee's proposals on all but one point. But she said the committee could have done more and said she intends to attend the meeting and present additional proposals.

The meeting will be held at the county's Agricultural Center at Five Points. The site was selected, said Commission Chairman Bob Sturm, because the commission expects a large number of persons may want to attend.

The center's auditorium can accommodate up to twice as many persons as the 100-seat commission chambers in the courthouse.

The 18-member committee, which met from April 1 to Oct. 1, was appointed after proposed amendments to the Comprehensive Plan came under fire in late 1979 and brought the entire plan into question. The amendments would have banned construction of permanent homes in flood-prone areas and restricted development in areas designated for conservation and preservation.

But property owners, led by Mrs. Cammack, charged that the county was attempting to usurp private property through planning and zoning without affording the owners just compensation. Mrs. Cammack was later named to the review committee by Sturm.

In its report, the committee recommends the county strike
