MOSCOW Subway Trust Officials Sentenced To Die For Swindle

MOSCOW, July 12.—Large-scale thefts of commodities, including bread; misappropriation of public funds and unlawful speculation are rampant throughout a large section of the U. S. S. R., according to newspaper reports from various centers.

Charged with speculation and the theft of bread in wholesale lots, five officials of the Kiev bakery trust were sentenced to confinement of their property and ten years' imprisonment.

As a means of alleviating bad conditions the local Communist party committee in Soviet Central Asia is mobilizing 2,000 Young Communists to replace incompetent or untrustworthy shop managers, salesmen and bookkeepers.

In Kiev sixteen persons were arrested on charges of swindling state enterprises in connection with fraudulent sewage suits.

Custom Receipts In Miami Show Increase

MIAMI, July 12.—Customs receipts for the port of Miami for the year ending June 30 show an increase of 24 percent over the previous year, John Klein, deputy collector in charge of the office, reported recently. Receipts for the fiscal year 1933 totaled $189,033.68 as compared with $237,937.18 for 1934.

During the past year 645 boats arrived in Miami from foreign ports as compared with 571 for 1933. This does not include 18 vessels which were not required to file entry papers. In 1933 these ships discharged 11,093 passengers as compared with 14,543 for 1934.

Arrivals of airplanes from foreign countries decreased, although the number of passengers carried by them increased. In 1933, 1,175 airplanes arrived in Miami from foreign airports as compared with 1,095 for 1934. The 1934 total does not include 41 planes which were not required to file entry papers.

Most of these ships belonged to the United States Navy. Airplane passengers arriving from foreign countries jumped from 9,781 in 1933 to 11,004 in 1934.

Movie Houses Get Relief On System Of Block Booking

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—(AP)—Motion picture distributors of ten major studios Wednesday came to the rescue of theater owners faced with ruin through boycotts and censorship of films, and broke up their system of "block booking" on all films made prior to July 15.

The step probably will cost producers more than $10,000,000, according to executives of the Hays office, who said scores of films already released, which have been proscribed by church and other organizations, probably would not be shown in hundreds of towns of the country.

It has indicated that the breaking of contracts between distributors and exhibitors over certain films to which strenuous protest had been made, might even extend past the July 15 date.

The exhibitor, who for years has been at a disadvantage in his dealings with the distributors, will benefit greatly through the

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

SUPPLY IS SURE: Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shall thou be fed.

One thing you can say for the Darrow board, it didn't take both sides of the question.

Minority Bondholders May Force Tax Increase: headline in St. Petersburg Independent. Why don't you try the Wilcox bill?

The Herald has got some special kind of type it is using to use when the Mayfair Hotel reopens. But it isn't going to print it in red ink.

See where they're having another one of these FEBA strikes down in Sarasota. We used to think the English dote was pretty hot, but at least they never had anyone refuse to accept it.

Senator Thomas is all hot and bothered over the prospects of stabilizing the American dollar. But he won't be. To make the dollar stable now would be like locking the barn door after the horse is stolen.

Did you hear Hitler's speech to day? It reminded us of one of the stories told shortly after the "purging" process a couple of weeks ago. One of the victims was reported to have committed suicide until it was discovered that he had six bullet holes in his body.

The Sarasota Herald has a good idea on what to do with Key West in view of the "deplorable conditions" down there. That newspaper suggests that instead of going to all the trouble of making a tourist resort out of the island, it might be better to enlarge the new Everglades National Park somewhat so as to take in Key West. Strikes us as a rather good idea. It would sort of preserve it in its original state for the benefit of posterity as it were.

"It is significant," says Paul Mallon, Washington correspondent, "that nearly everyone worth being called a financier in this country believes (or says he believes) that the government will come to monetary inflation." Inflation is the kind of delusion which ruined many. Like dope, it makes people feel better while completely destroying them. But the supreme court can prevent inflation in this country if it wants to. You can't do much inflating if you have to pay gold bonds with gold.

The Clermont Press closes a very long editorial about the primary frauds in Tampa with this declaration: "It is needless to state that the findings of this Grand Jury upon the conduct of the two primary elections will be awaited with deepest interest by the people of the entire state." Well, if so then the people of the entire state have mighty little to busy their minds. For all of them know that no matter what that jury shall find, nobody will be punished for election frauds in Tampa, and that at the next election the frauds will be repeated.—St. Petersburg Times.

We were much interested in seeing the other day that England had agreed to come again to the rescue of France in the event Belgium should be invaded. That's what got England into the last war, and until very recently, it seemed to be the consensus of opinion over there that England would never do such a thing again. However, the crisis in Germany seems to have changed a lot of men's ideas. Perhaps the English realize that the only way an immediate war can be avoided is to form a defensive alliance for the benefit of the French. Otherwise that country would prefer to fight at once before Germany has had time to get ready.

Hungry Nations

Yesterday we read an interesting story about a fight between a big black bass and a water moccasin in a lake near the city of DeLand. It seems that the snake was swimming across the lake, probably looking for something to prey upon, when the bass suddenly seized it from underneath and began the rather sordid process of devouring its evening meal. The moccasin naturally objected to this unseemly discourtesy and fought back. The battle, witnesses relate, lasted for half an hour, with the snake trying vainly to reach shallow water and dry ground, and the bass finally succeeding in carrying its victim to deeper water where its repast was concluded.

Not many weeks ago we read of a similar contest. This time it was a wrestling match between a rattlesnake and a king snake. The two had been put into a box together "to see what would happen." No prodding was required to bring the two together and almost before the spectators had time to get settled comfortably in their chairs, they were on their feet again cheering first one side and then the other as the rattlesnake struck this way and that trying to sink its fangs into the other's hide, and as the king snake finally got a half Nelson on the rattlesnake and proceeded to break its neck, later devouring it whole.

Both of these spectacles were pretty sorry testimonials to the "survival of the fittest" theory. But one hardly expects anything better from serpents, denizens of the deep, or other carnivorous animals. With them it is simply a question of who will eat whom.

But how well has the "survival of the fittest" theory survived even the passing of the cannibalistic instinct? How much are the acts of individuals, of business heads, and political leaders, of states and nations moved, swayed, directed, and controlled by the "survival of the fittest?" We see today great masses of people, at the instigation of their frantic leaders, loading themselves up with arms, ammunition, ships of war and awful engines of destruction. We see long borders lined with impregnable fortresses behind which thousands of airplanes are prepared for action and millions of men rest upon their well oiled arms.

These things are not so because men, like the fish and snake, must kill each other in order to eat each other. Men no longer eat men. But they do wage wars that may have more land upon which to raise crops, support cattle, and produce the other things which men eat and wear. It is simply to survive that men fight. If all the peoples of the world could be assured that henceforth there would be no fear of starvation for them, no more danger of rags and filthy living conditions, if they could look forward to economic security for themselves and their families, that is all they would want. There would be no more wars.

But in Germany, for instance, the land is densely populated (about 300 to the square mile as compared with 30 to the square mile in this country). The land in Germany cannot produce sufficient food to feed that country's population. Nor can its lands raise the necessary cotton with which to clothe them. Germany must secure these things from other countries if its people are to exist. But they have no money with which to buy, and they have no goods or manufactured articles which the world will accept in exchange. The hungrier they get, the more belligerent they become.

So it is with many other countries. Facing starvation, they prepare to fight for more lands, more food, more worldly goods. We in the United States do not know what that means. Here we have more than we know what to do with. Here we slaughter pigs and cows to get rid of the surplus. Here we plow under cotton because it cannot be sold at a profitable price. Too much of it. Here we strictly limit the amount of wheat, corn, and tobacco that a man may grow because the lands are so plentiful and the soil so fertile.

All this must seem very strange to Europeans and Asiatics who are preparing to fight for these very things which we so innocently destroy.

Tax Reduction!

It has been so long since anything like tax reduction has broken into the public prints that we had to read the story, coming out of Tallahassee yesterday, twice before we could believe our own eyes. Nevertheless it is true. Governor Sholtz has announced a tax reduction in the state ad valorem taxes of one-half mill, representing a saving to the taxpayers of approximately $150,000.

The reduction was made possible through an earlier balancing of the state's budget. That too in these days is something almost unheard of. It is the first time the budget of Florida has been balanced since the boom days. Then too there have been certain economies in the confederate pension fund which made possible a reduction there. In addition to balancing the budget and reducing the millage, $100,000, borrowed sometime ago from the school fund, has been repaid, and over $500,000 in accumulated bills have also been met.

Governor Sholtz says that the tax reduction is only a step in the right direction. A half mill out of nearly a hundred mills which the average taxpayer has to pay to city, county, and state, is not very much. But this reduction, coupled with the balancing of the budget, and the payment of old bills, makes quite a long step in the right direction. No one will begrudge Governor Sholtz the credit which he deserves for this business-like administration of the state government.

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

George Griffin Herring, Jr. has received an appointment from Senator Duncan U. Fletcher as First Alternate to the Naval Academy. He will report in Jacksonville on Feb. 16 next to stand his mental examination.

The site for the government building has been decided upon and Hon. D. L. Thrasher of the Sanford Hotel Co., in whose name the property was offered to the government, has received word from the Treasury Department that the lot has received favorable consideration and as soon as the usual formalities are completed with the lot will pass into the hands of the government. The lot is the property of the Sanford Hotel Co. and is the corner of First Street and Palmisano Avenue. The lot was given in at the very low price of $7,500 which is responsible for business property located in this fine position.

A. P. Connelly will leave today for Washington, New York and other points combining business with pleasure for a week or more. Eudor Curlett, the business man in Geneva, was in the city today calling on his many friends and

A copy of the May, 1934 issue of the Congressional Record is available for the use of all persons who will call at the Chamber of Commerce building. The new book arrived yesterday, and it has been added to the large library of books, magazines, and city directories which the public is invited to use.

H. Robt Jaing, official of the Sanford Overlook Truck Growers, Inc., expects to leave here Sunday or Monday for New York state where, until about Dec. 15, he will handle a vegetable "deal" in association with J. C. Hutchinson, general manager of the local organization.

Alex R. Johnson of the farmers' committee which secured for Sanford the first State Farmers' Wholesale Market, was exhibiting a letter today from Secretary of Agriculture Mayo authorizing the committee to make a contract with E. J. Moughton, local architect, who is to draw plans for the new plant.

Seven members of Sanford Elks Lodge No. 1211 participated in the "house warming" exercises staged in New Smyrna on Wednesday night as New Smyrna Elks held their first meeting in a remodeled lodge headquarters. The local group included Peter Thurston, George Thurston, Frank Rensch, Wm Toll, Meade Fox, S. R. Runce, and H. N. Tamm. Exalted Ruler F. C. MacMahon was scheduled to be in the group but he missed his ride.

Jack G. Craft, widely known Florida hotel owner and operator, was in Sanford again today contacting members of the City Commission in connection with a proposed lease or sale of the Mayfair Hotel. Mr. Craft has been here many times in connection with this property. Despite numerous developments which have prevented the closing of any deal, Mr. Craft is still thought to be interested in the hotel and a year or more ago he had the local plant to the other properties in which he has an interest.

The average daily circulation of books at Sanford Municipal Library for June was 228 books, it was reported by Mrs. E. J. Moughton, librarian, today. Exactly 500 books were issued during the 22 days the library was open. The largest daily circulation was 109 books, while the smallest daily circulation was 66 books. New readers registered in June totaled 41, while 44 persons used the reading and reference rooms. Fifty-one books were purchased, and 11 were donated during June.

One additional boat line is operating into the city from Jacksonville, it was revealed at the Chamber of Commerce today. It is the Florida Towing Corporation, Inc. of Jacksonville, and it is handling fertilizer, oils, and general cargoes brought here by barges that are hauled by the tug "Cherokee." The J. H. Coppeler and Co., firm of Jacksonville has been operating the tug "Arma" into this city for some months, handling Florida Power and Light Co. products principally.

Piggly-Wiggly stores in Sanford are not included in the group cited as violators of the NRA code, it was stated this morning, by Mark Galbreath, manager of the Magnolia Avenue and First Street branch store. The announcement was made in connection with a report that NRA had announced an out-of-court settlement of code violation charges against Wm & Lovett Grocery Company of Georgia, doing business in Georgia and Florida as the Piggly Wiggly stores. The settlement will result, reports stated, in back wage payments between $2000 and $10,000, and the posting of a $7500 bond against future violations of the retail food and grocery code. The company is said to have admitted all violations.

As an indication of the scope and type of work which is directed in this city each month by Parks Superintendent James Moughton, the following excerpt from his report for June, under the heading "hauling," tells its own story: Hauled 30 gallons of refuse oil from Gulf Refining Co. plant to incinerator, three loads of old brick to the pier, five loads of asphalt and eight loads of old concrete from gas plant to pound yard, six loads of old auto parts to dump, one load of chairs to Fire Department for meeting, 80 chairs from Woman's Club to storehouse, one load chairs to Masonic Hall, large roller from high school to ball park, 72 loads of material for street, sewer and other repairs, and cut and hauled five loads of firewood for incinerator.

American Diplomat Relates Interview With Adolf Hitler

(Continued from page one) tion in the central part of Europe, an upheaval in Germany would disastrously affect all other parts of Europe and even business conditions in your own country. Because of rapid transportation and speedy communication, the whole business world is now interlocked. A disturbance in the Reichsbank in Germany or the central banks of England, France, Italy or any other power will register its effect with delicate precision also in Wall Street.

"To avert civil war, bloodshed and untold suffering in a country that already has been sorely tried over a period of years, I had to act with speed and dispatch, with firmness and determination. The usual course calls for criticism from various quarters. I only hope that those who are inclined to find fault with what I have done may have the wisdom to hold their judgment in abeyance until they learn the truth.

"In my opinion, it was my imperative duty to come to the aid of the lives of a few conspirators and traitors who were actuated by selfish ambition and thirst for power, rather than to permit the country to be plunged into the vortex of civil war, whose hundreds of thousands of innocent men and women would be the victims."

"I must say that I am partly amazed and not a little chagrined at the fact that the outside world now hangs almost upon me for having my duty as a servant of my people, by having caused to be removed a few unscrupulous men and traitors who were plotting against the government, while little or no criticism is directed against Austria, where a few months ago hundreds of people were killed because of an attempted insurrection."

At the end of the opposition the strikers were asked by a show of hands to vote acceptance or rejection of the settlement. Newspaper men covering the story were requested to act as judges and their opinion was that the settlement was ratified by a two-to-one vote.

As the strike committee reported this back to the farm office, Henderson refused to concede defeat.

"Do you consider the strike over?" a reporter asked him.

"No," he replied. "The strike isn't over yet, not by a damn sight."

Whereupon a group of three field potato growers, anxious to get back to their potatoes and away from strike potato diggers, called at Henderson's and advised him of their plan.

"Lynch him!" "Throw him off the farm!" and "Run him out of the country." A few moments the former professor, who stood his ground defiantly.

Fourteen policemen escorted Henderson to an automobile in which he started off towards his field. Henderson was going along to good applause until he made the tactical error of turning on Henderson, the strikers' attorney, charging that he had "sold out."

Henderson then did some soap-boxing of his own, shouting that Henderson was "a damn liar." The crowd liked that, and from that point on the lawyer had an easy time of the ex-professor. Henderson explained the poor terms and said it was a question of the strikers returning to work at the terms they insisted upon, 30 cents an hour for the men and 25 cents for the women, or of continuing to face violence, including police clubs and tear gas, and of risking the loss of their homes and the threat of starvation.

While denouncing Henderson, Henderson did not spare Henderson, the farm owner. Although Henderson had informed Governor A.

CENTRAL DIG UP MAN SLAIN IN WOMAN'S GARB

Stranger's Victim Is Identified As Detroit Factory Worker

ST. CLEMENS, Mich., July 13.—(AP)—The body of a man, found dressed in women's clothing and lying on a golf course here with a rope around the neck June 28, was examined and identified as authorities began an investigation of a case which police admitted was as mystifying as it was bizarre.

The body was identified as that of Paul E. Ostin, 36, Detroit factory worker, and the exhumation was ordered by Ostin's widow, Estelle, after Ostin's car was found within 200 feet of the spot where the body was found. A baffling angle, police said, was the fact that the car was not seen at the place where it was found at the time the body was discovered.

In the vehicle was found every article of clothing worn by Ostin when he vanished the morning of June 28, in addition to a pair of woman's pajamas, a blue dress, an opened package of cigarettes and 73 cents which Mrs. Ostin said her husband had with him when she last saw him alive.

The body was dressed in a white hat, a green coat, a yellow slipover dress, a brassiere, three pairs of underclothing and two pairs of stockings. A rope was around the neck and was fastened to a tree limb but was not fast, and authorities said the limb could not have supported a man's weight. At the time of burial death was declared due to strangulation, however, although authorities doubted Ostin had taken his own life.

SHARK CAUGHT

SARASOTA, July 12.—While the capture of a shark by the tail, with the captor armed only with a fish-knife, was not contemplated when the Sarasota County Angler's club decided to award a special prize for fourth of July anglers, Oliver Lang, local youth, who got the shark, was awarded a special prize. The directors of the club, in weekly session, took official cognizance of Lang's feat and decided to double the prize awards, by giving Gus Bins, of Chicago, who caught a 122 1/2-pound jewfish on a rod and reel, and Lang each a level winding reel.

NEWSPRINT PAPER

A GREAT NEW Florida Industry

THE most startling industrial development in the history of Florida is the fact that young slash pine can now be economically manufactured into white newsprint paper—an accomplishment recently proved by Dr. Charles H. Herty at his pulp mill laboratory in Savannah, Georgia. A North Florida newspaper has actually been printed on paper made at this mill, showing exceptionally good results.

Here is a new Southern industry that can compete favorably with importations valued at $170,000,000 annually—an industry admirably suited to conditions in Florida, one that must inevitably gravitate to this State, if we but grasp the opportunity presented. Raw material is abundant; labor costs are low; climate permits year-round operation; fuel and power supplies are nearby and water transportation is economical.

A recent survey showed that if only half of the timber stand in 37 counties of North Florida were available for pulp mills, it would require sixteen 200-ton mills over thirty years to exhaust the supply. At the end of that period, under fire protection and forestry practices, there would be more new growth pines available for pulpwood than when the operation started.

Most of this country's present newsprint supply comes from Canadian spruce. Paper from Florida pine can be produced for $31.70 per ton as compared with $43.26 for the Northern product.

Facts like these are important NEWS—indicating a brilliant future for Florida's growth and development. We must not hesitate to tell the world about our advantages and possibilities. Broadcast the story of our opportunities—through a carefully planned program of national advertising. Bring people and new capital here... expand our consumer market. Advertise for RESULTS!

NEW DEVICE FOR RAILROADS IN TRANSIT RACE

Coast Manufacturer Develops 'Pancake' Boiler To Gain Speed

OAKLAND, Calif., July 12.—Development of a "Pancake" type boiler by means of which cold water is turned into 1,500 pounds of pressure in approximately five minutes, is expected to give an Oakland manufacturer a lead in the competitive race to produce faster, lighter and lower cost railway locomotives.

As a gesture to prove new forms of power cannot cost too much, the first course of this new energy, an airplane was equipped with picked-up parts of a steam assembly, weighing 500 pounds dry, or 850 pounds with full tanks of water and fuel gasoline, and flown at ninety horsepower.

The crane power plant developed 250 horsepower, but the object was to show a minimum rather than a maximum of power through which steam could be utilized in locomotives, hence the surplus energy merely demonstrated the plant could have been materially reduced in weight and still have been adequate to maintain flight.

Another detour on the experimental pathway was development of a steam assembly for an automobile, and driving it more than 200,000 miles. Engine, serving practically as a boiler, was "burning out" the boilers every 15,000 or 20,000 miles, an inexpensive and short-time operation.

The objective is not aeronautic or automotive, but railway locomotion. The boilers do not conceive any great field for steam in relation with power units of 2,500 horsepower, or multiple units of about 1,500 horsepower each, possibly located in plane wings, cars in demand.

They conceive the present-day maximum for internal combustion engines, as approximately 1,000 horsepower, a unit with the severe limitation of short life, some fifty hours, as is the case with high energy racing planes. Steam plants, they believe, have a promise of a life of 500 to 1,000 hours at 2,500 horsepower.

Mass production of gasoline automotive plants has brought the price down to where, they hold, there is little prospect of a steam automobile ever having a market in competition with the gasoline engine.

Although one or two railway car steam plants are being tested in this country, probably the most comprehensive test of the new assembly is being made in Germany. The government-operated German railroad system has three running and accepted five more and has ordered ten. New Zealand and Australia have one or two each in operation.

Where the large locomotive of general use now requires two or three hours to steam up to 200 to 300 pounds of pressure, more than 1,000-pound pressure is attained by the new boiler development in about five minutes.

A single flat "pancake" coil within a boiler, having water-cooled sides, contains the water which is turned into steam. In the older type locomotive it is necessary to heat a large reservoir of water, and the steam is drawn off from the top.

With oil for fuel, the pancake coil delivers the steam quickly. The boiler efficiency is rated at 84 to 78 percent. The plant occupies a space of about twelve by 8 feet in the front end of a railway car, developing 1,000 horsepower, which is sufficient to pull up to six trailers of virtually standard railway coach size.

name, Old Baldy is seven years old. Some kind person gave him to me. We have even forgotten who in his time, we are told he was a great fisherman. I don't know. He cannot fish for his fish now. We catch them for him, and how he does gobble them up, you know, I should say.

I know you want to hear about the house, its goodness truly will wild eagle that never finds a home in any sea. I am going to write you what I learned about eagles in a picture magazine.

The Bald Eagle is a bird of great strength. He can fly very fast. He is always to be found near salt water. He has no enemies but man. This bird catches many fish. He does not catch them when they are fighting. He waits until they are swimming on the water. He is very fond of geese and ducks. Salmon is his best liked fish, he will carry to the near-by shores, and how he seems to enjoy it! Eagles have been sometimes to kill foxes and lambs. You can see by this how very strong he must be.

I have told you in another place in this letter about the eagle being our symbol for freedom. There was so much to be said about it that things about the eagle were left out. To me this was a bit of story I liked.

KIDDIES' COLUMN BY MRS. JAMES MOUGHTON

Old Baldy and Girls:

July is the seventh month of the year, but the date is Friday the Thirteenth. Of course I said we must talk about that old number 13. Now some of us think 13 is unlucky and some of us think 13 is lucky. I am for 13, lucky, and I will tell you why. First, though, I must tell you of the American Eagle for you will see he is with us in 13, lucky.

In days gone by our forefathers fought that we might be free. After we were free, the eagle became our symbol or sign. This is the reason that the eagle has its wings spread ready to fly. Some men and women today say the eagle is to show us something more too. That his sign is to show us how we can be free to fly to the air appears true. So our bird gives us two lucky things.

If you cannot find a picture of Baldy any other way, look for him on a quarter. His wings, as always, are spread and ready to fly and be free. You will find him too, on the sleeve of soldiers' coats. Our story, though, is about the eagle on the shield. (Ask your mother to draw you a shield.) Above the head of the eagle, here, are 13 stars. Each of the bird's wings has 13 feathers. In the right claw there is an olive branch, with 13 leaves. The left claw holds a bunch of 13 arrows. Under the roll of paper of the eagle there are some words: "E. pluribus unum." These are Latin words, but they have 13 letters.

Think of 13 again when you think of our great old flag. Each of the stripes is for a state, for we were not called U. S. A. until there were 13 states, so fly with us old 13 in the eagle and in our flag. Show us and tell us how we may work for you in every way that we may have, as snow, good luck and peace and plenty all the days of our lives. Three cheers for you old thirteen!

OUR WHITE BALD EAGLE

You shall find old Baldy with his sharp mad-like eyes at the zoo. As you turn into the top on the right in a large cage there is an eagle with a white head. His head was brown until he was five years old then it became white. This is how the bald eagle has its white of the bells too.

In the Fifteenth Century people who played the piano, played only with the four fingers. The thumb then was not used for playing. The key-board of the piano was not so long then as now.

Now about O'Lave, last we saw him—Old Baler of the Eye. He was a poor hungry, tired O'Lave, who all over the misty lake, from he will give him his answer about Teava of the Ocean. O'Lave can not get come back, I hope you can tell Baler some good, things, I feel sorry for O'Lave. I hope he will wonder if it is better to find a way to get back to Baler without answer.

There are some most wonderful things O'Lave can tell us though that he has found, I hope he won't be too long and too tired.

I hope you boys and girls are all having a good time. If you ever come walking out, my way, just me up, I live at 1021 Union Avenue. Or you can write me, Box 398 Sanford.

Very friendly yours:

PEOPLE'S LOBBY ATTACKS A. A. AS FARM BLIGHT

Demand Land Speculation Ban To Halt Another Collapse

WASHINGTON, July 13. — Scoring the A. A. A. for failure to measure up to the solution of the problems before agriculture, the People's Lobby, of which Professor John Dewey is president, in a recent statement asserted that "action to prevent speculation in farm lands is essential to prevent another farm collapse." It holds that "merely reducing interest rates on farm mortgage debts, or the principal, and preventing foreclosures, may not only not help producing farmers, but may rapidly drag them into another economic quagmire from which federal intervention on speculation can hardly extricate them."

The A. A. A. was attacked as economically wrong and "a bitter injustice to all producing farmers and consumers." It is described as like the N. R. A. in industry, despoiling "producers as producers and as consumers."

The statement says: "The plight of farmers is primarily due, not to low prices farmers receive for their products, on account of alleged surpluses, but to the enormous mortgage debt they incurred because they speculated in farm lands; to heavy taxes that should never have been levied upon them, to their acute individualism which has blocked co-operative or government marketing of farm products, and to the extortionate prices, they are compelled to pay for what they buy."

"Successful agricultural adjustment involves sound economics, not farm subsidies, nor resounding speeches. Low interest rates mean more speculation in farm lands."

"Of the total farm mortgage debt in 1930 amounting to about $9,241,000,000 — $1,098,000,000, nearly one-eighth — was on Iowa farms."

Nearly $5,500,000,000, over five-ninths, of the total farm mortgage debt, was in the twelve middle Atlantic and east North Central states.

"A very large part of this mortgage debt is due to farmers' speculation in land through the same desire to get rich quick as actuates plungers in the stock market. 'Wallace' Farmer," which now reports about 200,000 circulation, estimates that Iowa farmers will receive about $72,000,000 in corn-bog checks, which is about $5,400,000 more than goes to the farmers in the two states—Illinois and Nebraska.

"The Department of Agriculture estimated that in 1922 taxes on farms amounted to nearly $800,000,000, and there has been little if any reduction since then, while delinquent taxes have accumulated rapidly."

"The result of higher prices for farm products and federal subsidies has been an increase in the selling price of farm lands (where not affected by the drought) which is reported to be in parts of the South and Southwest, about 23 percent, or about as large a percent as the increase in the dividends paid by Standard Oil interests in the first half of this year over the same period last year.

"Unfortunately the only conclusions about the A. A. A. are that it is an evasion of the economic changes essential to save agriculture, a bitter injustice to all producing farmers and consumers, and the counterpart in agriculture of the N. R. A. in industry—an attempt to maintain a system which despoils producers as producers, and as consumers."

WORKERS PROTEST

SARASOTA, July 13. — Although no definite statement has come from FERA workers who protested the escrow system, the lack of sufficient money and other factors entering into the administration of relief in this county, it was learned that arrangements are going forward for a mass meeting.

Other recent developments included: The circulation of a petition among the workers asking for more funds and the dismissal of the present county office force.

MURDER TRIAL STARTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13. — Selection of a jury to hear the trial of Millard R. Hickman, 45-year-old marine engineer accused of the murder of Louise Jeppesen, 23, of Ogden, Utah, continued here Tuesday.

Escrow System For FERA Workers Is Stopped In Orlando

ORLANDO, July 13. —(AP)—Temporary suspension of the escrow system used in paying wages of FERA workers, in Orange county, was announced Wednesday by O. P. Swope, regional director. This will prohibit cash advances to the workmen, Mr. Swope disclosed.

His announcement followed action of the strike committee of the unemployed councils of Orlando and Orange county, in resolving that unless increased wage demands of the FERA workers were granted, a motion would be entertained at a meeting Thursday, for the calling of a general strike throughout the county and picketing of FERA projects.

Following is the resolution given by the strike committee, headed by Eugene Bussey:

"We, the strike committee of the unemployed councils of Orlando and Orange county, resolve that unless our demands are granted, there will be a motion entertained at today's meeting, July 12, 1934, to call a general strike throughout Orange county and picket lines formed if necessary."

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

About one-third of the 450 workers allotted to projects this week, have refused to work, Col. Shearer, director of the work for the county disclosed Wednesday.

Col. Shearer said that many men reported back for work Tuesday morning, despite the fact that strikers had announced they would prevent their working. The colonel said that workers did not fear anything after both the city and the county had pledged protection for them.

He added, however, that scores of workers not on the job, were kept solely from their tasks by the reason that they feared something might happen after they quit their jobs in the evening and went home. They pointed out, the colonel revealed, that while in their homes, they had no protection.

Chicago Orchestra Gives Summer Treat at Fair

Capacity crowds attended opening performance of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in the Swift Bandshell, when that famous musical organization began its first outdoor season since the Columbian exposition. The opening was attended by many notables in the social and musical world, and the orchestra was conducted by Eric Delamar, the progressive disciple of Dr. Frederick Stock, who is a European and who is expected to return before the close of the season. The Swift Band shell is built out into the Lagoon, and 64 feet of water separate it from the theater, which seats 1,700—sit free.

West Coast Strike Risks Food Panic In San Francisco

(continued from page one) after the teamsters walked out yesterday morning, were stopped or overturned. Housewives, expecting a sleigh, began to lay in supplies. Some residents were hoarding staples and gasoline in the face of fire department warnings against the latter.

The teamsters' strike seemingly stopped the movement of all heavy trucks in and out of the city but the strikers indicated they would not interfere with retail delivery vehicles and the bread, milk and laundry carriers would be permitted to operate.

The crux of the strike situation remained in the question of arbitration between employers on one hand and striking longshoremen and marine unions on the other.

The employers agreed Wednesday to submit all questions to arbitration. Later the President's board announced "some of the unions" had agreed similarly and that others would report definitely yesterday.

Three striking Seattle maritime unions voted yesterday by overwhelming majorities for arbitration.

They were the marine cooks and stewards' association, the marine firemen, oilers, waterfenders and wipers association and the sailors union of the Pacific.

A. H. Peterson, speaking for the 12,000 longshoremen who began the strike May 9, announced that organization would not take a referendum on arbitration "until assurance has been received from the employers that they will consent to arbitration of difficulties with the maritime groups now on strike."

The outstanding issue of the entire controversy lies in the strike of the longshoremen and the seamen. Both have demanded control of the hiring halls, or agencies through which they are sent to jobs. Heretofore the employers have controlled these. The longshoremen repeatedly have refused to arbitrate this issue.

Peterson's statement indicated the longshoremen would take the referendum only on condition the employers would specifically agree to arbitrate with the seamen as well as with the longshoremen and would finally submit the hiring hall issue to the federal agency for arbitration.

The longshoremen previously had indicated a willingness to arbitrate wages and hour.

A score of unions here and 16 locals in the east bay area proclaimed their intention yesterday of either striking at a specific time or walking out at the call of the central labor council. The San Francisco labor council's "strategy committee" will report this afternoon its decision on a general strike.

Whether San Francisco would be plunged into darkness in the event of a general strike because a question as Pacific Gas and Electric Company officials went to Mayor Rossi with complaints that they had been warned to get their maintenance trucks off the streets.

Mayor Rossi announced all possible efforts would be made to maintain light, heat and power service.

Wholesale produce dealers were reported debating the matter of closing their fruit and vegetable checked warehouse today.

Dealers reported San Francisco and other bay cities had enough meat on hand to last about three days.

Los Angeles labor leaders called a meeting of all union representatives to discuss the general strike question. Picketing laborites held a closed meeting to formulate a course of action. Labor sentiment there was further aroused by the wounding of four men by police in a clash Wednesday.

Dave Sholtz Happy Over Financial Condition Of State

TALLAHASSEE, July 13. — Governor Dave Sholtz today repeated his delight at Florida's present liquid financial condition while expressing sympathy with New York state for her threatened deficit of $22,000,000 for the coming year.

"I sympathize sincerely with the State of New York, whose governor has estimated in newspaper stories that new revenues will be required to care for an expected deficit of $22,000,000 in operating revenue," Governor Sholtz said.

"Florida is now, for the first time in many years, on a paying basis," he continued. "We have cleared our decks of all obligations incurred in the fiscal year just past and in addition, through rigid economy in governmental expenditures and through adoption by Tax Collectors of stern measures in discharge of their duties, have paid off $200,000 of debt incurred by previous administrations."

He continued that funds expected from further tax collections within a few days will meet their discharge all of the state's remaining obligations—a sum of $175,000 borrowed from banks by previous administrations and the $220,000 cost of the 1933 Legislature.

"Fortunately for the state, there will be no need of adoption of additional revenue measures when the 1935 Legislature meets," the Governor concluded.

JOHNSON SAYS NRA IS HELP TO FARMERS

"Single-handed he went out to Minneapolis on St. Paul—E. Swope, which—and took the West away from Al Smith and gave it to Herbert Hoover by one single speech. I'll bet he's sorry about that speech."

Johnson said NRA was "blamed and cursed" for everything and that he was getting his share of the blame thrust at that agency. He advised his listeners to tell anyone who claimed NRA had not done all for the farmer that he hoped to "go jump in the lake."

The rest of the "alphabetical group" had millions to give away, he said, but NRA "helpfully" by its popularity was not in the State in Chicago group. He job, he added, "was not to give out to take."

Johnson said that in the year which ended May 31, there was a 22 percent increase in employment and a 20 percent increase in all payrolls, accompanied by a 57 percent jump in the payrolls of manufacturing concerns on which, he said, NRA has had the most direct effect. All this, he added, was accomplished by only an 11 percent increase in living costs.

Referring to Germany he said: "A few days ago, in Germany, events occurred which shocked the world. I don't know how they may have affected you but they were not only shocking and very ghastly, but they also had a very serious effect. The idea that such a catastrophe can be taken care of in a week—about a week—by the action of the state—and that it is such a beyond expression."

"For a long while I thought that surely that the state could take care of anything that they could do, but I have now seen clearly why those gentlemen were apprehensive."

"Showing the situation back—and forward—I say that there is no reason for their fear."

"The power exists in this Administration that has not been fully granted by the Congress and the state legislatures in the White House which is making them."

"During their administration, however, in our government, we just plain bank if there were any I should be among the first to know them and to check in high regard about them. There is no 'with' about."
