Achieving "true and permanent brotherhood" requires a collective and continually reinforced commitment to caring from all sectors of society. according to Pearl Bailey. The 68-year-old entertainer/author and self-described philosopher offered her concepts of unity and spiritual growth to about 350 receptive local citizens at the Sanford Civic Center Wednesday afternoon. Miss Bailey's entry and exit were marked with standing ovations.

She relied heavily on personal experience and wit to convey home-spun wisdom and "truisms." Her concepts promote a return to basic values, such as those found in the Bible, in the family and the community.

In an hour-long talk, Miss Bailey provided a message of "peace, hope, love and unity." She said these ideals can be secured with a conscious effort from all parts of society. Miss Bailey also said she

Miss Bailey's appearance at the noon luncheon was part of Sanford's weeklong tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Among those at the luncheon were State Rep. Art Grindle, Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, and Greater Sanford See BAILEY, page 12A

Missile Test Without Hitch 9 More Protesters Arrested

Trident-2 missile, newest of the Navy's submarine-based rockets, blasted away from a land firing pad today and streaked toward an Atlantic Ocean target area as anti-nuclear activists protested.

The four-story-tall, three-stage rocket was launched at 10:25 a.m. and left a long white trail of smoke in its wake as it raced into the cloudless sky. The unarmed missile was visible for about two minutes.

"It appeared that everything went off just like clockwork." Navy spokesman Lt. Cmdr. Bob Pritchard said.

"The first booster separated at 65 seconds as advertised and the second went off at about 130 seconds, which again is just as it should be."

Security was heightened around the perimeter of the missile test center in response to a week of "Cancel the Countdown" demonstrations organized by three anti-nuclear groups protesting deployment of what they said was a first-strike offensive weapon.

Nine protesters, anticipating the launching, were arrested earlier today during an early morning vigil near the gates of the Cape Canaveral Air Forc Station, the Air Force reported.

Spokesman Herb Illingworth at nearby Patrick Air Force Base said the protesters were arrested by Brevard County sheriff's deputies, bringing to 55 the number of demonstrators arrested since Friday at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station, Patrick

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - The first nuclear submarines are equipped with 24 missile tubes, compared with 16 for Poseidon submarines.

"What is significant, and why we are focusing on the first Trident-2 launch is that it is a first-strike weapon." said Judy Freiwirth, spokeswoman for National Mobilization for Survival, an activist group based in New York.

Secret Slips Out, Job In Jeopardy

A television reporter may lose his job over releasing Wednesday the then-secret launch time of a pro-testor-plagued trident missile that was scheduled to lift off today from Cape Canaveral Air Force Station.

In trouble is Mike Victor, of WCPX-TV, channel 6. Victor told reporters he has been asked to resign, but early reports said he had quit.

Tom Hauff, news director for the station, blamed the ill-timed broadcast of the launch on miscommunication and declined to discuss the incident in-depth.

"We're going to meet in the next few minutes," said Hauff at midmorning.

"I'm not comfortable discussing that right now," he said referring to whether victor has been asked to resign or had quit. "We may have screwed up, but Wednesday. Air Force Sgt. Mike Beeman called news organizations and told them of the launch time on the condition they embargo it and keep it confidential. The time is given to the media so they can coordinate and plan coverage. Victor agreed and was given the information, according to Beeman. He then called the TV station's just before noon to update the protest situation. At that time, Victor reportedly mentioned the launch time. but did not mention that it was embargoed. He assumed the station knew of the embargo, according to Hauff.

Community To Help Pay Luncheon Shortfall

Former Chamber of Commerce President Shirley Schilke will apparently be reimbursed the $4,000 in personal funds she put up to bring Pearl Bailey to Sanford for a Martin Luther King tribute luncheon.

A $4,000 shortfall was expected due to poor ticket sales and disappointing response to requests for luncheon contributions from private citizens and businesses.

Mrs. Schilke, who just completed her term as president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, said today a number of community representatives are now saying they'll help cover any shortfall that remains after ticket receipts are added up. She said the pledges of support are response to word earlier this week that the luncheon would apparently fall $4,000 short of the break even point.

Miss Bailey charged $8,000, plus expenses, to come to Sanford.

"I think we're going to come out OK." Mrs. Schilke said. "I've been getting calls saying if you're having difficulty breaking even, I'll help out."

The luncheon, held Wednesday, was initially hoped to come in at a profit.

with these monies going for scholarships in King's name.

Mrs. Schilke sent 75 letters to local business and private citizens in December, asking them to contribute to the luncheon. She said last week she'd received five replies. The disappointing number of responses combined with slow ticket sales led to her assessment late last week the luncheon was going to come in around $4,000 short.

Mrs. Schilke put up the $4,000 in December to cover the deposit for Miss Bailey's appearance.

and the nearby Kennedy Space Center.

Before dawn, dozens of protesters gathered peacefully at the base's south Jate h chanting slogans and displaying banners reading "Blessed are the Peace Marchers" and "Teach Peace."

Several of the protesters joined hands and briefly attempted to block the station's entrance before being moved off the road by Air Force security.

"People were actually hurling their pink bodies in front of cars in an attempt to disrupt traffic," said Lt. Col. Bob Nicholson, spokesman for the Air Force, which was in charge of security. No one was injured.

Twenty to 25 test flights are planned before the missile becomes operational in 1989, Pritchard said. Up to seven ship-based launches also are planned.

The $23.7 million Trident-2 is scheduled for deployment in December 1989 aboard Ohio-class nuclear submarines. The weapons can carry at least 10 warheads, each with up to 500 kilotons of explosive yield.

The 126,000-pound, 44-foot-tall rockets are thought to have a maximum range of up to 6,900 miles. depending on how many warheads are carried.

The $1.5 billion USS Tennessee, launched Dec. 13 at Groton, Conn., is the first submarine built to carry the Trident-2 missiles. The Ohio-class

The station then broadcast the time on its noon segment raising the ire of the Air Force, which complained about the broadcast.

Victor. 35, has been with WCPX for about 6 months and covers Brevard County.

About 40 protestors have been arrested at the Cape in connection with the launch. Launch of the trident, a 130,000-pound missile designed to carry nuclear warheads, was delayed several times this morning. -Deane Jordan

County To Lease Land For Neglected Kids' Home

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission this week directed its staff to prepare a low-cost lease for property to be used as a home for abused and neglected children.

The lease would be for property at U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 427, known as the Five Points area.

Lesee would be Sharing Concern for Seminole County Shelter Children (SC3).

Before finalized, the lease would be brought back before the commission in early February.

SC3 is headed by Seminole-Brevard Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler who plans to solicit about $250,000 in private donations to build a home large enough to house 12 children, ages 6 to 17.

The home would provide temporary shelter and care for youngsters who have been removed from their families under emergency conditions.

The staff recommended 1.5 acres next to the juvenile detention center at the county operations complex be given to the group under a long-term lease. It is off U.S. Highway 17-92, south of Sanford.

One possible stumbling block remains and that is the route of the proposed expressway to go through Seminole County. That decision is expected to be more definite by August, and so the shelter's plans remain somewhat indefinite until then.

A second choice of land, if the Five Points acreage is not available, is next to a sewage treatment plant on Dodd Road in south Seminole County.

The county also encouraged Leffler's group to continue looking for a private benefactor.

In other action, the commission:

 Approved an interlocal agreement with the city of Winter Springs, ending a lawsuit brought by the county. The agreement is on how annexation will be handled because of a road right-of-way on State Road 434 annexed by Winter Springs and now coming back to the county:

 Denied a request to build a single-family home on property said to be in the 10-year and 100-year flood plain. Owner Renata Coffman said the property, at the corner of North and Oliver streets, was sold to her and she has a $90,000 bank loan for which she was not told she needed flood insurance. She said her builder assured her he had contacted the engineering department and the lot was buildable. It was to be built on stilts, and commissioners were concerned that muck and water would flow beneath the house, barrinig access to emergency vehicles:

· Moved to begin condemnation on a residential property in the Stevens addition to Midway (Lot 43, Block C) because the owners are deceased and the house burned down. The commission considered it a "haven for rats and snakes" dangerous to children and others in the See COUNTY, page 12A

Seminole Votes Water, Sewer Rate Hike

The Seminole County Commission approved on a 4-1 vote a 26 percent rate hike in water and sewer fces. which will mean about $7 extra per month for the average residential customer.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen voted against the rate hike, commissioners Bob Sturm, Bill Kirchhoff, Sandra Glenn and Fred Streetman voted for it.

County Administrator Ken Hooper said before the Tuesday vote the increase was needed for improvements in the system and expansion for all customer needs, and he said there hasn't been an increase since 1982

Protesters of the rate hike, including Art Davis of Sanford and Grant McEwan of Casselberry, said they felt the money would eventually go to pay for the county's purchase of property known as Yankee Lake, and they objected to the purchase and the money being used for that purpose.

Two others wrote letters of protest and one other objector presented questions on why the increase was needed.

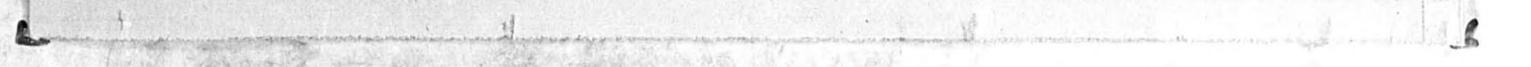

Since the increase was approved. higher rates will begin showing up on customers' bills next month. The increase is intended to raise $1.4 million during the next two years to help pay for improvements to the county's sewer system.

. Hooper said customers are not supposed to help fund construction required because of growth, but the rate revenue must be pledged toward the repayment of $50 million worth of bonds to be sold soon to fund expansion and renovation of treatment plants.

The increase raises the sewer bill for county customers who use 10,000 gallons of water a month from $19 to $26.

IN BRIEF Two Men Arrested Following Unprovoked Attack On Patron

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported arresting two men on an aggravated battery charge as they were driving away from Charlie's Bar, 2000 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park, the scene of a reported unprovoked attack on a bar patron.

Deputies were called to the bar at about 12:50 a.m. Wednesday and witnesses pointed out the pair of suspects who were in a car. Deputies approached and questioned the suspects. One had blood on his pants and shoes.

The victim, Thomas Colvin, told deputies the man with blood on his clothing, James Allen Jay Bozeman, 25, of Orlando, had for no apparent reason hit Colvin with a napkin holder while both were in the bar. The other suspect. Steve Glenn Coulter, of Winter Park, then allegedly hit the victim with a glass.

Colvin suffered cuts to his forchead and was treated at Winter Park Memorial Hospital, Winter Park, a sheriff's report said.

In additon to the aggravated battery charge a search at the jail, which reportedly turned up several partially smoked marijuana cigarettes in Coulter's pocket, brought him an additional charge of possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana. They have been released on $1,000 bond each and Bozeman is scheduled to appear in court Feb. 2. The date of Coulter's court appearance has not been

Jailed On Forged Check Charge

A 30-year-old Orlando man has been charged with uttering a forgery after allegedly trying to cash a stolen. forged check at an Altamonte Springs bank at about 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Officials of Pioneer Savings, State Road 436, were suspicious of the check presented at a drive-up window. They checked the signature against their records and it didn't match. Altamonte Springs police were called to the bank and questioned the suspect who was a passenger in a car that was still at the bank.

Bank officials contacted the owner of the check, an Elizabeth Thompson, and she said her checkbook had been stolen and she had not written the check, police reported. David Roger Sylvester, arrested in the case, was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Driving Under Influence Arrests

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

-John Edward Tilghaman, 20, of Deltona, was arrested at 9:12 p.m. Tuesday after his car was in an accident on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford.

-Darryl William Smith, 25, of Polk City, Fla., on Wednesday morning after his car failed to maintain a single lane on U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood.

Train Crash Engineer, Brakeman Test Positive For Marijuana Use

By Frank T. Coongos WASHINGTON (UPI) - Drug tests show the engineer and brakeman for a Conrail had used marijuana within the 24 hours preceding the accident. investigators said.

Also Wednesday, Maryland motor vehicle records revealed the engineer. Ricky Gates, has been convicted of 11 traffic violations - two for which his license was suspended - since 1972, and was charged with drunken driving last month.

"The engineer and the brakeman of the Conrail movement both tested positive for presence of cannabinoids (marijuana) in both the urine and plasma," the Federal Railroad Administration said in a statement Wednesday night.

An FRA spokeswoman said there was no evidence either man had been drinking. Crew members of the Amtrak train, which rammed the Conrail locomotive, tested negative for both alcohol and drugs.

The statement emphasized 'the findings do not constitute an allegation of fault or determination of probable cause."

"These findings will be considered with all other evidence developed during the investigation" of the Jan. 4 accident 15 miles northeast of Baltimore, the statement said.

The drug findings also will be whether to file criminal 87 nanograms per millilter.

The accident occurred when the three-engine Conrail locomotive ran through a stop signal at a crossover switch into the path of Amtrak's Bostonbound "Colonial." The 12-car passenger train rear-ended the locomotive at 105 mph, killing 16 people and injuring 175 others in Amtrak's deadliest accident.

The FRA statement did not say how soon before the accident Gates and brakeman Edward Cromwell had consumed mari-Juana.

Coordinator acting as an adviser to officials investigating the accident, said the tests indicate "they had used marijuana a couple of hours before (the accident) but no more than a day before.'

A urine sample taken from Gates 2 1/2 hours after the accident showed levels of THC. the intoxicating ingredient in marijuana, in a concentration of 67 nanograms per milliliter. the FRA said. Gates's lawyer, Stephen Tully, declined to comment without having seen the FRA report, but added, "The issue is what is the state of somebody on the day in question.

New federal regulations prohibit employees from reporting to work impaired by alcohol or drugs and ban on-the-job alcohol or drug use. These regulations, contested in federal court by the railworkers, authorize drug and alcohol testing after accidents or when there is a "reasonable suspicion of impairment." Gates had been arrested Dec. 5, a month before the train accident. on charges of drunken driving and running a stop sign and a red light. Baltimore County police spokesman Jay Miller said. Gates's trial was set for March 4.

The Washington Post reported that Jerome Evans, the Amtrak engineer killed in the wreck, had two speeding convictions since 1981.

Court: Tenants Can Sue

But Mike Gimbel, the WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Baltimore County Drug Abuse Supreme Court ruled Wednesday tenants in Roanoke, Va., could file a lawsuit to enforce a federal law imposing a ceiling on rents charged in public housing projects. The public housing tenants charged they were overbilled for utilities, which are included in the rent, and brought suit in federal court to enforce the Brooke Amendment to the Housing Act of 1937, which imposed a ceiling on rents.

However, federal courts held private citizens could not bring suit to enforce the act and that right was reserved for the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The Supreme Court, on a 5-4 decision, reversed those rulings.

Justice Byron White, joined by Justices William Brennan, Thurgood Marshall, Harry Blackmun and John Paul Stevens, said nothing in the "Housing Act or the Brooke Amendment evidences that Congress intended to preclude" such lawsuits.

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor dissented and was joined by Chief Justice William Rehnquiat and Justices Lewis Powell and Antonin Scalla.

Arctic Blast Chills Plains

By United Press International

An arctic blast of Canadian air swept into the north central part of the nation today, dropping wind chills to 50 below zero in the northern Plains just two days after the region was basking in unseasonably warm weather.

The wintry blast pushed temperatures to the single digits from the northern half of the Rockies across much of the northern Plains, the National Weather Service said. Belowzero readings were recorded from Montana to Minnesota.

Wind chill factors fell to 35 below zero across much of the northern Plains. At 2 a.m. EST, Grand Forks. N.D., reported a temperature of 1 degree below zero, with winds gusting to 35 mph.

Accompanying the wintry chill was light snow that dusted the northern Plateau, the northern Rockies and parts of the northern Plains.

"It's incredible. I didn't wear a jacket for the last two days. and today I wake up to snow," said Loris Eberhart of Bismarck, N.D., where it was 30 degrees and snowing Wednesday afternoon.

"I don't like it, but there's nothing you can do about it, so why complain?" said Nettie Monroe, also of Bismarck.

Snowfall in Idaho Wednesday totaled 5 inches at Grangeville. Moscow and Nampa, and 4 inches at Mullan and McCall. Up to 3 inches fell in northeast Nevada, with up to 8 inches in the higher elevations.

But the cold Canadian air ended the warm spell. At Williston, N.D., the temperature plunged to 7 degrees below zero Wednesday compared to a reading of 42 on Tuesday.

In contrast, much of the eastern half of the nation basked in unseasonably warm weather Wednesday. Records for the date included 48 at Binghamton, N.Y., 46 at Green Bay, Wis., 42 at Greer, S.C., 45 at Alpena, Mich., and 41 at Marquette, Mich.

Elsewhere, winds gusting to 30 mph and higher were predicted for the northern mountains of southern California, and fog stretched from the central gulf coast to the lower Great Lakes. Rain fell from Florida to the Ohio Valley.

The cold weather in sections of the United States and all across Europe has proven itself no respecter of persons. Jordan's King Hussein left for Rome 90 minutes late today as his Royal Jordanian Airlines chartered plane had to be unfrozen twice before taking off.

Hussein, who ended a threeday visit in which he won French support for a new Middle East peace initiative, arrived -Monday just in time for a cold snap that two days later brought the capital's heaviest snowfall in 21 years.

Hussein and his wife, Queen Noor, waited once for the plane's body and wings to be unfrozen with alcohol, but in the time it took to exchange pleasantries with Prime Minister Jacques Chirac and board the plane, it froze again in 14 F weather.

After alcohol was applied a second time, the plane took off at

Residential Street Out As Clinic Access

A city ordinance protecting perites. residents' privacy has been Accor unanimously upheld by Sanford Semino commissioners.

Commissioners's action reaffirmed an earlier Planning & Zoning Board recommendation against allowing a residential roadway to be used as access route for a mental health clinic's vans.

No Respecter Of Ignorance

There is no cure for AIDS. There is only prevention.

Doctors once spoke of high-risk groups. They now speak of high-risk behaviors. They once called it an outbreak. Now it is threatening to become pandemic.

AIDS. is breaking out of the homosexual community and into the general community. It now threatens anyone who is exposed to the virus through blood or sexual practice.

Scientists are working on a cure for AIDS and a vaccine against it. But researchers say they are at least five years away from either.

What can we do now to prevent millions of people from being exposed to AIDS?

Proposals have been made for legislation requiring public high school junior and senior high students to learn about AIDS - and how not to get it. The first step would be to purchase existing AIDS education videotapes and distribute them to the public schools. The second step would be to set up a program geared to students.

Why do teenagers need to know about AIDS? Because they are coming of age in an era of sexual danger unprecedented in modern times. Groups that are concerned about the moral impact of AIDS-prevention education on youth should weigh the danger of letting kids not know what mortal danger they may face.

Many junior and senior high school students are sexually active. A number use intravenous drugs. People with the deadly AIDS virus often don't know they are infected - and can infect others. The best way to prevent AIDS from spreading like wildfire among young people is for students to say No to sex and No to drugs - Yes to health. AIDS is considered almost 100 percent fatal. The threat of death is a powerful inducement to teens to remain virgins and drug-free - if they are told the facts.

GEORGE McGOVERN

Decency Sometimes Prevails, Not Often

The prevailing view of politics is that successful politicians must be cynical, devious and clever, but not too decent, straightforward and sincere. "Nice guys finish last," said Leo Durocher about baseball, but he could have been speaking about the accepted view of political behavior.

Niccolo Machiavelli wrote, "Whoever desires to found a state and give it laws, must start with assuming that all men are bad and ever ready to display their vicious nature, whenever they may And occasion for it:"

Acting on this assumption, Machiavelli laid down the animalistic qualities of a successful ruler: "A prince being thus obliged to know well how to act as a beast must imitate the lion and the fox, for the lion cannot protect himself from traps, and the fox cannot defend himself from wolves. One must therefore be a fox to recognize traps, and a lion to frighten wolves."

There is doubtless considerable insight in this view of politics. Such diverse political leaders as Caesar, Napoleon, Hitler, Alexander Hamilton, Franklin Roosevelt and Richard Nixon have borrowed heavily, and successfully, from Machiavelli. I do not make this observation from contempt; these men were able to command powerful political forces partly on the basis of clever and cynical manipulation of human beings.

When I sought the presidency in 1972, I was repeatedly asked by political observers if I was not "too nice."

"Are you a big enough s.o.b. to be a good president?" asked one news magazine editor.

I tried to assure doubters that I had the necessary qualities of meanness, toughness and cynicism to be a successful president.

But I must confess that the Machiavellian view of political leadership has never much appealed to me. I don't feel it in my "gut." And as I get older, I increasingly sense a widespread hunger in America and elsewhere for a leadership based on decency, fairness and compassion. This is not to say that such qualities will always prevail. It is to say that from time to time such benevolent concerns will win out - perhaps by a narrow and temporary majority.

It seems to me that decency is now struggling to prevail in the Philippines under the leadership of President Corazon Aquino. No one can be certain that this seemingly honest and benevolent woman will remain in power in the long-troubled Philippines. But who will dispute Time magazine's brilliant choice of Aquino as "woman of the year"? And who can dispute the thrust of Time's thesis that, after the greed and cynicism of Ferdinand and Imelda Marcos, the people of the Philippines yearned for the old fashioned decency and simplicity of a Corazon Aquino?

is it possible after long years of wandering in the wilderness of Vietnam. Watergate and now Irangate that the American people are looking with some degree of wistfulness and envy at Aquino's miracle in Manila?

Duke University Professor David Barber recently wrote: "The Reagan-era American has been asked not what he can do for his country but whether he is making more money than he was before."

ROBERT WALTERS Debating About Debates

WASHINGTON (NEA) - With another presidential campaign getting underway, it's time to rescue a valuable but endangered institution - the non-partisan candidate debates sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

In 1976, the league revived the debates, which had not been held since 1960, then sustained them in 1980 and 1984. As a result of these nationally televised face-to-face confrontations, millions of voters could assess presidential and vice presidential candidates.

Now, however, the two major political parties want to assume sponsorship of the debates, an audacious move certain to endanger the institution's integrity and independence while posing the threat that it may be abandoned.

Although the organizers of previous league-sponsored presidential debates have occasionally been supercillous and self-important, they have generally done a first-rate job of performing a complex, politically delicate task.

ROBERT WAGMAN Expulsions Backfire

WASHINGTON (NEA) - A wellpublicized effort by the Reagan administration to "stand tall" against the Soviet Union has apparently boomeranged. The net result

The United States had long relied on Sovicts as cooks, chauffcurs, plumbers and laborers and had relied on them to spend the long hours necessary in Moscow to shop

Lasers In Super Computer

By Gayle Young UPI Belence Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) - European scientists have successfully used lasers instead of electricity to create computer circuits, a high technology achievement toward the type of super computer that number crunchers dream of.

Scientists say laser circuits in computers are potentially faster and smaller than electrical circuits and could permit the simultaneous processing of calculations.

The ability to calculate significant amounts of data simultaneously is known as parallel processing and would allow massive amounts of information to be processed in less than a second.

Most current computers process calculations individually, in rapid succession. S.D. Smith and his colleagues at the Department of Physics at Heriot-Watt University near Edinburgh, Scotland used tiny lasers in model computers they designed. The computers contained a new circuit system that uses a thin filter to keep the beams of light consistent and on track. They reported in the British science journal Nature that the new system worked well and could be used in parallel processing. "Optics can be exploited to give unrestricted interconnections between large numbers of points in parallel, a performance inconceivable with electronic interconnections." they wrote in their report. Computer experts in the United States said the achievement was significant but said years of research stand between the computers in use now and laser computers that can parallel process. "There are many who argue it can never be done," said a computer expert at a large, private research facility who asked not to be identifled. "I would say this is an early step toward an optical digital computer."

Don't Be Misled

The media are mesmerized by Mikhail Gorbachev's highly publicized campaign to open the Soviet Union's closed society. Hardly a day passes without yer another glowing account of the communist leader's courage as he nudges the balky Soviet bureaucracy forward an inch or two.

Lest our readers be carried away with the purported greening of Gorbachev, we would remind that, despite the release of a few prominent dissidents, life remains basically the same for those under the heel of the totalitarian state. A case in point is the inability of most Soviet citizens to leave the country.

The new Soviet emigration law that became effective Jan. 1 is frequently heralded as an example of the Kremlin's new flexibility. Yet, there is every reason to believe that the so-called reform could, in fact, make it even more difficult to depart Mother Russia.

The statute, for the first time, codifies the grounds for seeking — and for denying — emigration from the U.S.S.R. The operative word here is denying. Soviet authorities are empowered to walt "in certain circumstances" up to six months before ruling on an application to emigrate. Moreover, persons deemed to be in possession of knowledge that could affect Soviet state security may not leave until expiration of the circumstances. This provides an open-ended excuse that could lead to the indefinite denial of emigration applications. Don't look for a mass exodus from the Soviet Union anytime soon.

The statute also stipulates that potential emigres provide a letter of invitation from an immediate family member living abroad before their application can be considered. This proviso effectively rules out most persons who wish to emigrate for religious or political reasons; few have close relatives outside the country. More ominous still, the law makes no provision for "repatriation" grounds that numerous Jewish activists have cited in applying to emigrate to Israel.

An estimated 30,000 Soviet Jews attempted to emigrate in 1986. During the last two years, the Kremlin has granted less than 2,000 exit visas to Jews compared with the 51,000 who were permitted to leave in 1979. It should also be noted that would be Jewish emigrants often lose their jobs and then are prosecuted for being unemployed.

If Gorbachev is truly sincere about opening Soviet society, let him allow those who want to leave the Soviet Union to do so. Failing that, he should be regarded as yet another Soviet wolf in sheep's clothing.

Letters to the editor are welcome for publication. All letters must be signed and luclude a mailing address and, if possible, a telephone number. The Sanford Herald reserves the right to edit letters to avoid libel and to accommodate space.

Scores of items must be negotiated prior to each debate. Among them:"

How many television cameras will be used and where will they be located? How will the lighting be arranged? What format will be used to question the candidates? If there is to be an audience, how will it be selected?

Will the candidates stand or sit? How far apart will they be? If there is a podium, how high will it be? If there are tables and chairs, how will they be arranged?

Even if the political parties took over the debates, they would need a trustworthy neutral intermediary like the league - to negotiate those details. In addition, Nancy M. Neuman, league president, notes that party sponsorship poses even more serious, substantive questions:

"Would they put the interests of the public ahead of their own? Can we expect them to pressure can-didates (to accept) lively formats? Would they be likely to put the heat on one of their own nominees who did not want to debate? Would they even consider including a thirdparty or independent candidate if one posed a viable challenge?"

The story of how the Republicans and Democrats decided to fix something that wasn't broken dates back to February 1985, when a Commission on National Elections was assembled by the Center for Strategic and International Studies.

JACK ANDERSON

is that U.S. diplomatic and esplonage efforts in the Soviet Union have been hurt and U.S. counterespionage efforts here are in turmoil.

It all started after the arrest last August of Soviet U.N. employee Gennadi Zakharov on spying. charges. He was eventually allowed to plead no contest and return home.

Then the tit-for-tat round of expulsions began.

President Reagan expelled 25 members of the Soviet U.N. mission in New York on the grounds that they were involved in espionage. White House officials let it be known that among the two dozen were the KGB station chief in New York and his principal aides. They also hinted that, as a result of the expulsion order, the Soviet spy network at the United Nations had been dismantled.

The Soviets immediately retaliated by expelling five U.S. diplomats from their country.

This might have ended it, but tnose close to the president thought this was a perfect time for him to show Mikhail Gorbachev that he could play hardball. So Reagan immediately ordered the expulsion of an additional 55 Soviets from their embassy in Washington and their consulate in San Francisco.

That move effectively lowered the number of Soviet diplomats here to 251 and left 256 American diplomats in the Soviet Union.

The Soviets then expelled an additional five Americans, evening out both diplomatic rosters at 251.

That was expected — but at the same time the Soviets ordered some 200 Soviet citizens out of U.S. missions in Moscow and Leningrad.

for the rank-and-file diplomats. To say the least, this action was unexpected.

In the following days there were pictures in the papers of U.S. Ambassador Arthur Hartmann driving his own car and of his wife. pitching in to herp prepare the embassy's lunch. Editorial cartoons poked fun at U.S. diplomats fixing cars and carrying plumbers' plungers.

It was all treated as good fun, but experts at both the State Department and the CIA knew that, in the long run, the joke was going to be on us. They were worried.

They knew that eventually they were going to have to replace the Soviet workers with Americans and those Americans would be counted against the new limit of 251. Put simply. U.S. diplomats and spies would have to be sent home to make room for cooks and chauffeurs.

At first the State Department sought to reduce the impact by trying to find diplomats whose wives - who do not count against the 251 limit - could fill some of the jobs. A few were found, but not enough. Now the State Department has contracted with a private Los Angeles firm, Pacific Architects and Engineers Inc., to provide about 80 service employees for Moscow and Leningrad.

As each arrives in the Soviet Union, an American will have to be sent home. Reportedly the State Department and the CIA are bickering over whose people are more important as the lists of those to be sent home are drawn up.

Scientists have attempted to design computers that parallel process using electronic circuits but they have proved unwieldy, he said.

Beams of light are not only faster than electricity but travel at a constant speed, according to the report in Nature. The beams also do not interfere with each other, which can be a problem with parallel electrical circuits.

However, there are a myriad of problems with light beams that still need to be worked out, the report said. Potentially, a laser can diminish in intensity if it traverses through several circuits.

SBA Lobbying Tactics May Go To Jury

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - Allegations that the Small Business Administration's chief congressional lobbyist may have broken the law have been referred to the U.S. attorney for possible presentation to a grand jury.

The referral was made by the agency's own inspector general after an investigation into complaints about the way a demolition team of high-level SBA officials tried to get Congress to approve President Reagan's plan to dissolve the agency. The campaign failed; Congress kept SBA intact.

Sources told our associate Stewart Harris that the inspector general looked into the possibility that Richard Nelson. SBA's top Capitol Hill lobbyist, broke the law in an effort to help his superiors cause the agency to self-destruct. The sources declined to give specific details of the possible violations for fear of

In addition to Nelson's role in the suicide mission, the inspector general examined the legality of an SBA pamphlet, "The Future of the SBA," which argued how easy it would be to dissolve the agency and turn its remaining functions over to the Commerce Department.

Also mentioned in the inspector general's report were acting administrator Charles Heatherly and communications director Richard Utley, who with Nelson spearheaded the lobbying campaign with Congress.

SBA employees, both current and former, blame the three officials for low morale within the agency. On his first day in charge - April 1, 1986 - Heatherly fired the regional SBA administrators in Boston. Philadelphia, Dallas, Denver and San Francisco: the Chicago director was fired the next day.

The Senate Committee on Small Business, a staunch advocate of been denied a copy of the closely held inspector general's report. A congressional source told us the committee expects to receive a copy once the federal prosecutor decides whether to pursue the allegations against Nelson.

Last May the committee, then chaired by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., asked the comptroller general to investigate the possibility that Heatherly and his cohorts had violated federal law in expenditures made during their kamikaze attack on the SBA.

As we first disclosed, the comptroller general cleared Heatherly and other agency officials of all but one charge. According to the comptroller. SBA officials violated a federal ban on the use of appropriated funds for "publicity and propaganda" when they pre-pared editorials for use by newspapers favorable to Reagan's plan to scuttle the SBA.

"The editorials," the comptroller their origin and reasonably constitute 'propaganda' within the common understanding of that term."

The comptroller did not refer his findings to the federal prosecutor. because of "the difficulty in determining the exact amount expended illegally as well as the identity of any particular voucher involved" in the production of the pamphlet.

"We recommend, however, that the administrator of the SBA take action to ensure that future violations do not occur," the comptroller added.

Footnote: Nelson said he had not heard of the investigation, and said the inspector general didn't interview him. The U.S. attorney's office would neither confirm nor deny that it is studying the inspector general's report. Acting inspector general Raymond Randolph did not return repeated telephone

IN BRIEF

Florida Guardsmen Participate In Panama Canal Defense Training

ST. AUGUSTINE (UPI) - More than 600 Florida National Guardamen leave for Central America later this month to take part in the Panama Canal defense exercise currently under way.

Maj. Ken Forrester said members of the 53rd Infantry Brigade will be in the western Panama province of Chiriqui for two weeks beginning Jan. 31 as part of the six-week-long "Kindle Liberty-Candela '87."

The annual exercise began Monday and will have involved 4,000 U.S. and 500 Panamanian troops by the time it ends Feb. 25, said Forrester. That is twice the number involved in last year's exercise, but comparable to the number trained in Kindle Liberty the year before, said Forrester.

Single Ceremony For Officers

FORT PIERCE (UPI) - Two detectives shot to death during a drug probe will be eulogized in a single ceremony with full honors Friday, and buried 12 feet apart in matching metal caskets.

The funeral for Fort Pierce police Lt. Grover Cooper and Officer James Wouters, who both died of injuries in the gunfight, is set for 10 a.m. at the National Guard Armory in Fort Pierce.

"They were really close friends in life as well as in work. Very close," said Claude Hobbs, director of Haisley-Hobbs Funeral Home.

The gunbattle Monday night also wounded Officer Robert Spring and killed drug suspect James Daniel Hunt. Spring. 84. was in serious condition Wednesday night at Lawnwood Medical Center.

Jury Wants Tapes A 4th Time

MIAMI (UPI) - Jurors for a fourth time may hear secretly recorded tapes of drug smugglers talking to some of the seven former police officers accused of operating a multi-million dollar strongarm drug theft scheme.

The jury requested to hear the tapes Wednesday, but U.S. District Judge Kenneth Ryskamp ordered them to continue their deliberations and scheduled a hearing on the matter 9 a.m. today. The panel has been deliberating for a week.

Defense lawyers objected strongly when jurors requested to hear the tapes for a third time. Ryskamp overruled them and the tapes were played Tuesday.

Jurors first heard the tapes during the trial phase of the proceedings. They requested to hear them a second time shortly after they went into deliberations last week.

Suspected Hijacker Arrested

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — A Palestinian sought in the 1985 17-day hijacking of a TWA jetliner in Lebanon was arrested trying to enter West Germany with explosives in his luggage, officials said today. A spokesman for the Frankfurt Proscecutor's Office said the 22-year-old Palestinian, who had flown to West Germany from Beruit, was arrested Tuesday after Frankfurt Airport customs officials found explosives in his bags.

He said the suspect's fingerprints matched those of a man sought under an international arrest warrant in the hijacking of a TWA Boeing 727 after it took off from Athens for Rome on June 14, 1985. The gunmen ordered the plane to Beirut.

The spokesman declined to say what role the suspect was suspected of in the hijacking but Interior Minister Friedrich Zimmetold a Bonn news conference the man was a "a big fish."

Informed sources said the man was carrying a forged passport and will be charged with planning a terror bombing in West Germany. The United States also is expected to seek his extradition to face trial for the airplane hijacking, the sources said. Moslem Shiite fundamentalists and members of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah, or Party of God group, took responsibility for the hijacking, which was resolved after diplomatic moves involving the United States, Israel and Syria.

After Moslem Shiite gunmen commandeered TWA Flight 847 carrying 153 passengers and crew, mostly Americans, pilot John Testrake was forced to crisscross the Mediterranean three times between Algeria and Lebanon.

PEACE

utline Plans

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) -On the first day of his declared cease-fire, Afghan leader Najib today raised doubts over the future of national reconciliation talks with Moslem rebels by hedging on his general amnesty offer and vowing his Communist Party will never be defeated.

Atghans

Less than 12 hours after the six-month cease-fire offered to Moslem rebels took effect. Najib delivered a speech emphasizing the "revolutionary" polices of his Soviet-backed communist regime would continue.

The capital was calm, although aircraft continued to drop flares to confuse heatseeking missiles often used by the rebels against government planes.

But the meeting of the National Fatherland Front with Nailb in attendance was told rebels in Khost Province near the Pakistan border planned to ignore the cease-fire, which took effect at midnight.

Najob told a coalition of progovernment groups he agreed with Moscow on the "complete return" of the 110,000 Soviet troops in Afghanistan, but said it "will directly depend on the steps taken by the other side."

"It is appropriate to remind those who are supporting and financing the undeclared war that in case of the continuation of aggressions against the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan, the Soviet Union will not let us be alone," Najib said in apparent reference to the United States and Pakistan, who have backed the rebels.

The Afghan government has repeatedly said the Soviet troops will leave after the fighting has stopped and international guarantees against foreign interference are provided. The rebels have refused to lay down their arms until the Soviets are withdrawn.

The Moslem guerrillas have labeled Najib's offer a propaganda ploy to coincide with next month's United Nationssponsored talks in Geneva between Afghanistan and Pakistan on the timetable for Soviet troop withdrawal.

Nallb, who has appealed to Moslem rebels to join him in national unity talks, told the pro-government groups some opponents hope to weaken his ruling party through the reconcillation talks.

"It is necessary to tell these individuals once again that national reconciliation does not mean the destruction of the state and the defeat of the party."

North's 'Operation Recovery' Set Action In Four February Days

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North conceived a step-by-step master plan that envisioned the delivery of 1,000 anti-tank missiles to Iran, the release of delivery of 1,000 anti-tank missiles to Iran, the release of all American hostages held in Lebanon and the stepping down of Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini during a momentous four-day period in February 1986, it was reported today. The long-range plan, drawn up by the former National Security Council staff aide, was found in North's files and dated Jan. 24, one week after President Reagan signed an intelligence "finding" authorizing resumption of secret arms sales to Iran. The Washington Post reported, citing unidentified sources. unidentified sources.

In a separate report, NBC News said Senate documents showed that "North outlined a step-by-step plan to trade arms for hostages, a plan he predicted would lead to the downfall of Ayatollah Khomeint."

President Salutes King Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, speaking on the topic today to American high schools, is saluting the civil rights work of Martin Luther King Jr. even though he opposed the effort that created a federal holiday in memory of King of King.

The White House arranged for Reagan to address students today from the Oval Office with a live broadcast on the Southern Educational Communications Association network and participating Public Broadcasting System stations.

The president's salute extends to his formal declaration of Monday as the second annual federal holiday to mark King's birthday. Reagan opposed efforts by Congress to create the controversial holiday before he held ceremonial duties in the matter.

Reagan's high school address at 2 p.m. EST becomes a step toward reasserting his public profile after last week's prostate surgery. His doctor said Wednesday he is "doing beautifully" but remains on a limited schedule for recuperation.

Discovery's Launch Faces Delay

SPACE CENTER. Houston (UPI) - NASA probably will test fire Discovery's main engines before it makes the first post-Challenger shuttle launch, a top official says, which could force a delay in the blastoff targeted for Feb. 18. 1988.

Discovery's veteran crew for that milestone mission commander Frederick Hauck, co-pilot Richard Covey, George Nelson, John Lounge and David Hilmers - planned to meet with reporters for the first time as a crew today to discuss their assignment.

NASA faces a tough schedule to get Discovery ready for launch with 30 mandatory modifications required for the shuttle alone that will cost some $50 million.

Richard Colonna, manager of the shuttle projects office at the Johnson Space Center, said in an interview Wednesday managers also are considering a "flight readiness firing" for Discovery's three liquid-fueled main

Formal Arms Talks Canceled Get-Aquainted Luncheon Slated

GENEVA (UPI) - The United States and Soviet Union began a new round of space and nuclear arms talks today with a get-aquainted working lunch between the two delegation leaders instead of the usual plenary session. The new Soviet chief negotiator. Yuli M. Vorontsov, had proposed the restricted opening meeting instead of the customary joint session between full delegations.

U.S. officials said chief U.S. negotiator Max M. Kampelman accepted the invitation as a matter of courtesy. The lunch was held in a guest villa in the grounds of the suburban Soviet diplomatic compound.

Today's luncheon was the first time Kampelman and Vorontsov had met and American officials said the session at the Soviet diplomatic mission in Geneva was a good way to become acquainted.

8 Dead, 36 Injured In Philippines

ZAMBOANGA. Philippines (UPI) - Officials rushed troop reinforcements and helicopter gunships to central Mindanao island today to counter a wave of attacks by Moslem rebels that killed eight people and wounded 36.

The armed forces chief, Gen. Fidel Ramos, declared the situation under control.

The rebels, seeking recognition of their demands for autonomy in advance of a scheduled weekend visit by President Corazon Aquino to Mindanao, launched attacks over a two-day period in four provinces.

In Manila, Press Secretary Teodoro Benigno said Aquino is expected to push ahead with her trip to six cities in the strife-torn region.

Government and communist rebel negotiators met for four hours today in Manila, but failed to reach agreement on a common agenda for the second phase of peace talks in the 18-year communist insurgency.

Accused Arsonist A Bird Lover

BOSTON (UPI) - The wife of the man accused of setting the New Year's Eve fire at a Puerto Rico hotel that killed 96 people described her husband as a good-natured birdwatcher and athlete, it was reported today.

"I pray for all the victims," suspect Escudero Aponte's wife, Nilsa, told The Boston Herald in an interview Wednesday from San Juan.

Mrs. Aponte said her husband helped rescue victims from the San Juan fire before coming home to celebrate the holiday with his family.

Urban League Reports Increased Racism

By David E. Anderson WASHINGTON (UPI) — Black Americans enter 1967 besieged by a resurgence of violent racism, economic depression and a national climate of selfishness marked by a retreat from civil rights, the National Urban League said Wednesday.

John Jacob, league president, placed the blame for the blacks' beleaguered economic status — symbolized by the racially motivated December murder of a black in the Howard Beach section of New York City - on the shoulders of the Reagan administration.

"We can't forget that for six years and more. Americans have been told that racism is a thing of the past." Jacob said. "That poverty is caused by the habits of the poor. That government can't do anything about social problems."

"The result is a national climate of selfishness and a failure of government to take a positive role in ending racism and disadvantage," Jacob said.

Jacob made his remarks in releasing the league's annual report, "The State of Black America," a compilation of 12 papers ranging across such issues as education, school desegregation, drug use, blacks and AIDS, and the status of the black family and the underclass.

"The papers show Americans aligping back into being comfortable with resegrega-tion in the schools, with a retreat from civil rights, with drug abuse, failed economic and social welfare policies and increased black poverty," Jacob said.

In his paper on the economic status of blacks, Director David Swinton of the Southern Center for Studies in Public Policy at Clark College, found that the "deep recession that has gripped the black com-munity throughout the Reagan era has continued."

"Since the advent of the Reagan administration," he said, "black family in-come has declined, poverty rates have increased, and the labor market difficulties of blacks have intensified," he said.

The report noted that 15 percent of the black work by 42 percent of blacks displaced from jobs by plant closing and other layoffs aince 1979 have found new jobs and those with new jobs earn less than 80 percent of their former wages. "Over the past dozen years, the typical black family has lost $1,500 in income while economic need increased," the report said. "This crosion in black purchasing power has had devastating effects on black communities and on the economics of cities in which blacks are a significant portion of the population."

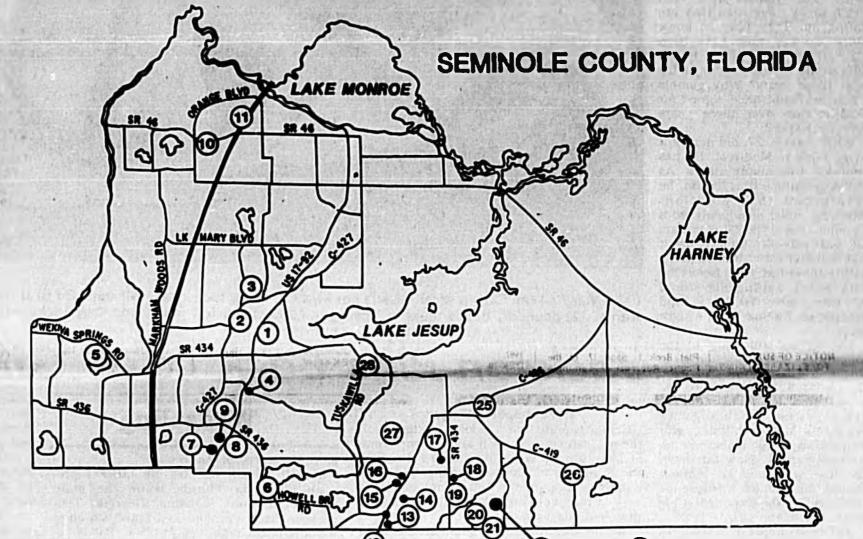

Jacob accused the administration of mounting a "disinformation" campaign on its domestic policies that parallels its foreign policy, such as the Iran arms scandal. "The persistent disinformation campaigns and factual distortions characteristic of the administration's public relations thrust on domestic matters were simply translated to foreign policy," Jacob said.

The league made a number of recommendations, including a broad-based attack on violent racism.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) -Hostage negotiator Terry Waite not want to say anything more said today he has made contact with the kidnappers of Western hostages in Lebanon and that his mission to free the captives is making "great progress."

Waite, on his fourth day in Moslem west Beirut, declined to elaborate on the details of his contacts but said that "everything is OK."

Speaking with reporters after meeting with Mufti Hassan Khaled, a Lebanese Sunni Moslem leader. Waite said there was a secret side to his trip.

"I held several meetings this week with several leaders. ... This is the public part of my mission ... and there is the quiet part of my mission which I would like to keep quiet.

"Yes, there has been great progress made this week," Waite said.

Earlier, Walte was asked whether he had been in contact with the kidnappers during the night.

Atlanta Beckons With Convenient Locale For Raines

Tom Reich is no dummy. He is one of the shrewdest baseball agents around. Tim Raines is one of his clients. Therefore, Raines, an All-Star outfielder for the Montreal Expos the past six years, is no dummy either.

On the surface, it appears that Raines and nine other free agents took a big gamble when they chose to not re-sign with their old club last Thursday. This meant they could not negotiate with their team again until May 1. The season would be approaching a month old.

Is it a gamble or not? There is talk of collusion - the teams banding together and freezing out the free agents to drive down the salaries. There is talk that the free agent will get less from the other teams than his original team is offering.

Who do you believe? It appears Tim Raines and Tom Reich know more than they are letting on. They have to know more. Feelers must have been sent out by other clubs. If not, why would Raines gamble on his next three years? Why gamble when he could have signed for $4.8 million over three years from the Expos?

Why? Raines, 27, did not want to go back to Montreal. He has confided that many times. As the negotiations dragged on, he reinforced that position. Montreal stood steadfastly with its offer. Sure, the $1.6 million per year was nice money, but it was a token raise. Raines made $1.5 million last year. Before he won the N.L. batting title, scored 91 runs, stole 70 bases and became an All-Star for the sixth time. The Expos still cling to the song they have a chance to re-sign Raines May 1. No way. They closed the door on the game's best left fielder Jan. 8. The Expos finished 291/2 games behind the Mets with Raines and Andre Dawson (who also said he will not return). How far down the line will they be without promotion. Raines, armed with six and most consistent performers, is for sale to the highest bidder. bidder. A high bidder in a locale which pleases the tastes of Tim and wife Virginia. Let's narrow down the options. Raines wants to stay in the National League and play for a contender. Or a team which is on the verge of contending. The only way he would play for an If the offer was "too good." Philadelphia. All those areas are crazy. too cold. Raines said he would prefer a warm-weather site. The Mets, due to their bucks and charisma, are a consideration. But they just purchased Kevin McReynolds for left field. That leaves the Western Division. Throw out Cincinnati and San Francisco for the chill factor. Probably not Houston either. They already have Jose Cruz in left. San Diego was a prime consideration until they dumped manager Dick Williams. The Padres are too unsettled. That leaves the Atlanta Braves and the Los Angeles Dodgers. Both areas have all that Raines desires. He yearns for warm weather and attention. LA is a big media market and the Braves have the Super Station. Both, however, were mired in the second division last year. The Dodgers, though, had an excuse - no Pedro Guerrero. The Braves had a lot of excuses - no pitchers. The Dodgers could turn it around in a year with a player like Raines. The Braves? Raines likes Atlanta and his wife and family would love being just eight hours (car) or one hour (plane) from Sanford/Heathrow. Geno Paulucci should have his own airport in a couple of years, too. About the same time Raines gets his pilot's license and Lear jet. Of course if Bob Horner does not return to the Braves, which he claims he will not, Raines would be taking a chance as to when Teddy Turner's boys would contend. A chance he might take.

SCC's 'Spread' Salts Away CFCC By Mark Blythe Herald Sports Writer OCALA — Seminole Commu-

The Raiders improved to 20-2 with the victory and more importantly 4-1 in the Mid-Florida Conference. It was the fifth consecutive 20-victory season for coach Bill Payne. SCC, ranked No. 3 in the state poll, hosts Santa Fe in another conference game Saturday. The Raiders stayed one game behind MFC leader Daytona Beach, which walloped Lake City. 84-68, at Lake City.

The Raiders asserted themselves from the opening bucket of the second half when Hall scored on a short jumper.

Jackson kept SCC close in the first half scoring 12 of his 13 points and dominating the backboards. "I was getting the ball where I wanted," Jackson said. "I had the shots I wanted to take."

The Patriots then concentrated their defense around Jackson and left Hall wide open. Hall took advantage of the opportunity and scored 19 of his 21 points in the half. "I was getting good

'Catfish,' Williams Join Hall

NEW YORK (UPI) - Through six years of eligibility. Billy Williams agonized over his exclusion from the Baseball Hall of Fame, and Wednesday night, his wait ended. Jim "Catfish" Hunter, who shrugged at the possibility of enshrinement, waltzed in on his third try.

"Wait 'til next year' is now a phrase of the past," said Williams, who was named on 354 of the 413 ballots cast by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. "Being elected to the Hall of Fame is like an Oscar for an actor or actress. a Pulitzer for a writer and a Noble Prize for a scientist. I don't Herald Phote by Louis Raimende know whether to laugh or cry right now."

Hunter was inclined to do neither.

"I didn't ever think I'd get to the big leagues, much less the Hall of Fame." he said by telephone from his Hertford. N.C. farm. "It hit me so quick, I don't know what to say.'

Williams' solourn to the Hall of Fame began in 1959, but nearly ended prematurely. While playing for San Antonio in the Texas League that year, he jumped the club and went back to his Whittier, Ala., home. He returned a week later and, in two months, made his major-league debut.

"I thought about quitting many times," Williams said from a news conference in Chicago. "When I was with Ponca City in the Sooner State League, I was the only black player on the team. The white boys went to a hotel on the road and I had to go to a private home.

"I always was the last one to be able to go to sleep. It happened in A ball, too, with San Antonio. A lot of restaurants wouldn't serve me. I had to eat in the kitchen with the help.

"But I kept going because I wanted to play in the majors. It wasn't a Jackie Robinson-type thing. It just was the way of life then. It sure made me appreciate the majors more.'

Williams, 48, a lifetime .290 hitter with 426 home runs in 18 seasons, was the only eligible player with more than 400 homers that had not been elected to the Hall. He had held the National League record for most consecutive games played, 1,117, before it was surpassed by Steve Garvey with 1.207 in 1983. He had missed election by four votes last year.

The NL's Rookie of the Year in 1961 twice finished runner-up in Most Valuable Player balloting. His best season came in 1973 when he won the NL batting title with a .333 average, and had 37 homers and 122 RBI.

Hunter, the first player to sign a megabucks free-agent contract, seems to have left his baseball accomplishments behind.

"If I get elected, I'll still live in North Carolina and be a farmer," he had said prior to the voting. "It would not change me that much."

The right-hander had a lifetime record of 224-166 and a 3.26 ERA over 15 seasons with the A's and Yankees. He helped Oakland to three consecutive World Series titles from 1972-74, and had a 5-3 World Series record.

Jackson Pins Back Lake Gibson, 39-33

> After battling Todd Bryant to a 0-0 tie after one period, Jackson threw Bryant to the mat with a hip toss and then pinned him to give the Rams a 39-33 victory over the highly-regarded Lake Gibson squad before 401 fans at Lake Mary High School.

In Wednesday's match against Lake Gibson, a team that won the state championship two years ago, the Rams got some key performances from the top of the roster down to Jackson's climactic pin.

Senior Wayne Clayton had a big carly victory for the Rams as he blanked Don Herbst. 7.0. at 115 pounds. Clayton's victory was an important won since Lake Gibson won three of the first five matches. Lake Mary's only other win in the early matches was via forfeit at 101 pounds.

"Clayton had a big win for us at 115." Peters said. "Lake Gibson's first four kids are state caliber so we needed someone to break them up. Clayton dominated his match from the top position."

Lake Gibson won the next two divisions after Clayton's win but junior Rob Richards broke Gibson's momentum when he pinned Rick Welch in 1:54 at 135 pounds.

'Rob (Richards) is doing an outstanding Job for us," Peters said. "He's been consistently pinning people and that's what we want to see."

Sophomore Shane Stanley kept the Rams

Lake Gibson stuck close with a pin at 148 but Bill Richards, the Rams' senior cocaptain, then came through with a technical fall, 21-4, over Charlie Reynolds at 158.

Lake Gibson picked up a decision at 170 but senior Brad Goeb kept the Rams in front by pinning Tom Gunden in 3:25 at 188. Lake Mary was victimized by some bad luck at 222 pounds as Dustin Simms could not wrestle due to a knee injury during warmups.

"He (Simms) threw his knee out while warming up." Peters said. "It was an old football injury that resurfaced. It forced us to forfeit the match which put Gibson right Into it."

Gibson used the six points from the forfeit and another six from heavyweight Cecil Holcomb's pin to tie the score at 33-33 going into the final match.

"Our heavyweight (Todd Wright) had two takedowns and then threw the other guy down," Peters said. "But he got a little high and the guy (Holcomb) rolled through and caught him in a pin.

"So it came down to the last match," Peters added. "Lake Gibson had a good kid wrestling Troy and it was a back and forth match until Troy put the guy down.

Dead Worm? A Little Fishy But It Works

How can a fisherman doing the best appear to be doing the least? Simple, by using the "dead worm" technique.

The "dead worm" technique, as bass professionals call it, does not appear to be an effective way to appeal to a bass" preference for live bait. However, lishing a dead worm is very similar to ive balt fishing. You simply cast out the worm and wait.

Sounds a little fishy, doesn't it?

The twist to this method is that the worm is only "dead" to the angler. Although the bass angler imparts no action to the worm, the movement and current of the water causes the floating worm to enticingly undulate in a lifelike manner. The ultimate appeal of the dead worm comes from the bass that swims up to inspect the offering. The water disturbance from the bass wimming up to the worm causes the bait to wiggle even more. This action often proves too tempting for even the most finicky lunker.

For best results, use buoyant worms and rig them Texas style. Use no weight unless you are in a current. The hook provides enough weight to keep the worm on the bottom without . burying it out of sight.

To test the sight appeal of a particular worm, simply insert a hook and drop it into a bowl of water. If it sinks to the bottom and lobks like a stick, search for another type of worm.

Many of today's popular brands of worms are extra buoyant and feature tails that float well off the bottom. Curly and rippletail worms are especially productive because they respond readily to the slightest water movement or disturbance.

The dead worm technique is best in areas of open water such as sandbars or mussel beds. The bass can spot the worm at a distance and will be drawn by its seductive undulations.

The dead worm method can work in weeds and grass, but the bait must remain visible for best results.

Bass experts are not sure why this technique is so deadly. Many think that the action of the dead worm makes it appear to be foraging or burrowing in the bottom. The worm appears vulnerable, and easy prey for a hungry bass. For whatever reason, bass are definitely fascinated by the dead worm technique.

Why not impress your fishing bud-dies this weekend by catching a bunch of bass while nonchalantly fishing a dead worm? They may think that you are lucky, but you will know differently.

SHUPE'S SCOOP - When rigging a plastic worm Texas style, it is important to run the point of the hook completely through the worm before you leave the point buried inside the worm. When you set the hook, a path has already been made. and energy will not be wasted by the point of the hook first having to cut through the worm before it goes into the jaw of Mister Bass.

Jackson: Super Bowl Loss Is 'Ultimate Loss'

DENVER (UPI) - Linebacker Tom Jackson says losing the Super Bowi is the "ultimate loss," and the Denver Broncos' defensive leader wants his teammates to be aware of that.

Jackson is one of the few Broncos to have played on Denver's first Super Bowl team, in 1978. He said the 1978 Broncos had been happy just to get to the championship game, and that was a contributing factor in a 27-10 loss to the Dallas Cowboys. He is warning his teammates about such thinking.

"I'm telling them just don't be satisfied to get there." Jackson said. "You think. 'My goodness, we've done it all.' The reality is, we haven't done it all."

Jackson said it's time for the Broncos to stop celebrating and start preparing for the Super Bowl.

"For the first few days, you have such a tremendous feeling of accomplishment that the Super Bowl is almost anticlimactic," Jackson said. "We needed a few days to relax and enjoy this, but it's time to get down to business." The Broncos beat Cleveland

23-20 in overtime last weekend to advance to the Super Bowl XXI against the New York Giants Jan. 25 in Pasadena. Calif.

Jackson, who has played 14

seasons with Denver, is one of three active Broncos with Super Bowl experience. Cornerback Louis Wright and safety Steve Foley also played on the 1977 Denver team. Nose tackle Reuben Carter and offensive guard Paul Howard, both on injured reserve, were also members of that Super Bowl squad.

squad. "We're not going to stop here," said Wright, an 11-year player with the Broncos. "We've got a lot more to do."

That sentiment is shared by Denver Coach Dan Reeves, who has been involved in five previous Super Bowls as a player and assistant coach with the Cowboys.

"We have a lot of players going for the first time, players who are just so happy to be going they lose the objective of winning." he said. "We're happy to be the AFC champions, but we've still got one more to go. We haven't got what we want yet.

"This is what you play these other games for, to eventually wind up with a champion. If we don't win the Super Bowl, we will feel like we've missed something. Nobody remembers the Jackson said Sunday's AFCtitle victory over Cleveland was more satisfying than the 1977 AFC Championship triumph over the Raiders at Mile High Stadium.

"This was better because of the way we did it, fighting that kind of adversity and not having our crowd with us," he said. "It was like it was 45 against 85,000."

Jackson also said the accomplishment will lose much of its gloss if the Broncos are beaten by the Giants.

"The Super Bowl may be the ultimate win," he said, "but it's also the ultimate loss." CONS ARE OUTCONNED DENVER (UPI) — The eager "winners" grinned and signalled a "V" with their outstretched arms, ready to claim their free tickets to the Super Bowl. When they reached out, however, police clamped handcuffs on their wrists.

The police band was playing "Jallhouse Rock" Tuesday for what Denver police called one of their most successful sting operations — a ploy to attract scofflaws out of their hiding places. In all, 67 fugitives were arrested. Sixty-five of those arrested were wanted for felonies ranging from sexual assault to robbery.

Gamblers Confront Worst Day

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Super Bowl Sunday is to compulsive gamblers what New Year's Eve is to alcoholics, and the fact that the Giants are playing may make it even worse this year in New Jersey, the head of a state-funded gambling hotline said Wednesday.

"The Super Bowl is the biggest betting event of the year," said Arnie Wexler, executive director of the Council on Compulsive Gambling of New Jersey.

"It's the last game of the year and the compulsive gambler wants to be able to brag to all their friends how well they can pick a winner, and let people know how smart they are." Wexler said.

Wexler said about 400,000 of the nation's 12 million compulsive gamblers live in New Jersey, and about 79 percent of those bet on sporting events.

"It could be someone like a wealthy doctor or an accountant, all the way to someone unemployed and rolling the dice who shows up with a day-old beard at the track," he said.

Usually, though, there are no physical signs marking those affected.

"It's easy to hide when you're a compulsive gambler." Wexler said.

The council operates a 1-800-GAMBLER hotline for people with compulsive gambling problems "and every year we are flooded with calls from people after the Super Bowl," Wexler said.

The callers typically include gamblers looking for emotional support when they see everyone else placing bets, or wives looking for help after their husbands have wagered away the month's rent, he said.

"Many compulsive gamblers will try to get even on the Super Bowl by betting enough to cover the losses they had on the whole football season that just passed." Wexler said. Often, calls from relatives concerning the Super Bowl do not come in until several days after the game, when the money is discovered missing, he said.

Gambling problems are expected to be worse this year in New Jersey since the New York Giants, who play in East Rutherford, are in the Super Bowl and are heavy favorites, he said.

Chevrier Thwarts 46 Shots, New Jersey Tops Blackhawks

CHICAGO (UPI) - Alain Chevrier struped 46 shots, including 22 in the final period, to supply a victory New Jersey Coach Doug Carpenter found difficult to describe.

"It certainly was superb, or shall I say satisfying, or excellent," Carpenter said Wednesday, night after the Devils defeated the Chicago Blackhawks 3-1."It was rewarding for the players. They descreed it."

The Blackhawks outshot the Devils 22-5 in the third period and 47-25 overall. John MacLean scored his 19th goal of the season for the game-winner and assisted on New Jersey's insurance score, helping the Devils win for only the second time in their last 12 games. The victory improved their road record to 5-14-2.

In other action Wednesday night, Hartford topped Boston, 3-1, Winnipeg nipped Pittsburgh, 4-3, Minnesota slipped past Buffalo, 3-2, New Jersey dropped Detroit, 3-1, Montreal and Buffalo tied. 3-3, the Rangers whipped Calgary, 8-5, and Los Angeles blanked Vancouver, 4-0.

Edwards' 61 Leads Hope Classic

LA QUINTA, Calif. (UPI) - First-round 61s, David Edwards will tell you, lose meaning when followed by 18-hole scores that approach Bob Hope's age.

"One round certainly doesn't make the whole tournament or the whole year," Edwards said Wednesday after he eagled two holes and blistered Indian Wells for a course record-tying 11-under par, and held a two-shot lead in the $900,000 Bob Hope Chrysler Classic.

"Maybe it's something that will carry over all week. We'll find out tomorrow."

Andy Bean, playing Tamarisk, shot a 63 and was alone in second place. Dan Forsman shot a 7-under 65 at Indian Wells and was in third place.

Keith Fergus, Mark Lye and Willie Wood matched scores of 66 at Tamarisk, Fuzzy Zoeller had an identical score at Bermuda Dunes, and Andy Dillard and Dan Halldorson the same at Indian Wells. Among those at 67 were Mark Hayes and Tim Simpson, who played Indian Wells: Ed Fiori and Bob Tway, who were at Bermuda Dunes; and Al Geiberger at Tamarisk.

Spinks Skips Town On Ribalta

MIAMI (UPI) - Former heavyweight champion Leon Spinks dropped out of his scheduled 10-round fight against Jose Ribalta Saturday night without notifying promoters. officials said.

They said he left town without a word Wednesday. He and manager Marv Haupt checked out of the Eden Roc Hotel just three days before the fight was scheduled.

Matchmaker Mike Acri said he hoped to announce a replacement to fight Ribalta later today. He said possibilities include veteran Jimmy Tour (42-14) Who has begun a comeback and Philip Brown (34-2) of Hartford, Conn Spinks, 33, has lost his last two fights and was the target of a a humorous verbal attack by master of ceremonies Richard Bergman Monday at a news conference promoting the fight. tional and individual investors for equities spurred the rise.

Traders said a strong appetite for equities by large and small investors has continued unabated since the start of 1987. The market's ability to advance despite some profit-taking has made buyers less cautious about the potential for a sharp correction, they said.

Analysts said investors willing to buy on price dips are keeping the market from backsliding. thus encouraging more aggressive buying.

A recovery in IBM was also positive, analysts said. The beliwether issue dropped about 6 points earlier this week, sliding as Wall Street lowered its carnings estimates for the computer giant.

Private's Fancy Concern To Officer

DEAR ABIGAIL VAN SUREN: This is in reference to the letter from "Private Person," who described himself as a slim. trim, 26-year-old, happily married man who is now serving in the U.S. Army. His problem was that he enjoyed wearing women's underwear. You advised the private to keep the matter private.

To enlighten yourself regard-ing the military and what it can do for those who find themselves burdened with a desire to wear women's underwear, you should call the military's installation hospital and speak to the psychiatrist about the medical and psychiatric assistance that this man is entitled to gratis.

But now that you have already advised the soldier to keep his problem hidden, perhaps you should learn what might happen to such soldiers if they continue to hide such aberrations. Then your advice to others in similar circumstances might change, as it should, in order to be correct.

JAY M. HAMILTON LIEUTENANT COLONEL, U.S. ARMY (RET.). GRANT'S PASS, ORE.

DEAR ABBY: "Private Person" wrote to you about being in the Army - and wanting to wear women's undergarments. You advised him that the two just wouldn't fit together.

When I was with the Navy SEAL Team in Vietnam, we ALL wore panty hose. We were out in the muck of the swamps and jungle for days on end, and the nylon really cut down on the friction, which could otherwise rub us raw. An added plus was that removal of the panty hose also removed many of the leeches that invariably clung to us - sometimes more than 100 per man!

It was always an amazing sight before every mission to see

Navy commandos all camouflaged and painted green and black, struggling to get their hairy muscular bodies into the panty hose. But it worked! Sign me ...

> EX-PANTY HOSE WEARER AND DAMNED GLAD OF IT

P.S. Many of our wives and girlfriends reported embarrassing moments when shopping in San Diego stores for dozens of size XL and XXL panty hose. (We didn't have the nerve to go buy them ourselves.)

JERRY J. FLETCHER, LA JOLLA, CALIF. DEAR JERRY: The things I learn while writing this column! You Navy commandos wore panty hose openly, out of necessity, but the aforementioned Army private wore women's lingerie for kicks, which is guite another matter.

Cross dressing is nothing new: it's been with us for centuries. It's a compulsion - not something that requires "cunning.". unless, of course, it creates marital of martial problems.

The A City Alabeda

C. C. P. Strand, Marin Land Mr. 1

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a person who calls you on the telephone while she is eating an apple, potato chips or hard candy? The sound of her chewing and chomping grates on my nerves! Also it's hard for me to understand her when she talka while she's cating.

W. VA. HILLBILLY

DEAR HILLBILLY: Say: "Goodbye. Call me back when you've finished eating."

DEAR ABBY: I don't care what your survey showed, men do prefer blondes. I am a natural brunette, now 30 years old. attractive, with a very nice figure. I attended a large high school and sat on the sidelines while 'the blondes got all the prize dates.

When I got out into the working world, I noticed that more heads turned when a blonde walked by, so guess what 1 did? I went blond!

It was a drastic changel I worked as a teller at a bank at that time and was very visible. 1 had been in that position for five years as a brunctte, but I didn't get nearly the attention. As a blonde, I've been stopped on the street, in stores, at the movies, at church and in bars by men who wanted to make conversation with me. I was beating them off with sticks! Customers at work told me that they had never noticed me before. Some of my family didn't care for my blond hair. But almost everyone else did.

" aligned a standard and and

Well, my family and a few girlfriends talked me into going back to my natural color. I kept it that way for about three months, then I realized I was no longer very "special" looking, so last Saturday I went back to being a blonde.

lf you can't beat 'em - join 'em!

words, be busy for profitable purposes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your friends won't mind stepping aside today to let you take charge of events. Collectively, they'll sense that you're the one who should call the shots.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be intimidated by any obstacles that might clutter your path today. Challenging situations will arouse your fighting instincts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your greatest asset today is your ability to spot opportunities that others overlook. Although they may be sparse, you'll know how to make something from them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A long overdue debt is going to be repaid today. If you don't get it today, you will in the near future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sometimes it's essential to disengage ourselves from other involvements in order to focus on our own interests. Operate in this mode today.
