Agricultural Entrepreneur Andrew Duda Dead At 80

Pioneer farmer and rancher Andrew Duda Jr. of Oviedo died Sunday of a stroke at Florida Hospital, Orlando, at the age of 80. Born April 7, 1906 in Czechoslovakia, he moved to Oviedo from Ohio in 1912. He lived at 2360 Mikler Road, Oviedo.

Son of Andrew Duda Sr., who started A. Duda & Sons, Inc., with a small celery farm in 1926, he and his brothers, Ferdinand and John, built the company into one of the nation's largest family-owned agricultural conglomerates.

After the death of their father in 1958, they continued to expand their farming interests into a $200 million-a-year agribusiness operating in several states in addition to Florida and Australia.

Duda retired as chairman of the board of A. Duda & Sons, Inc. in 1978, but stayed on the board until the annual meeting in 1985, when he was replaced by his wife, Elizabeth.

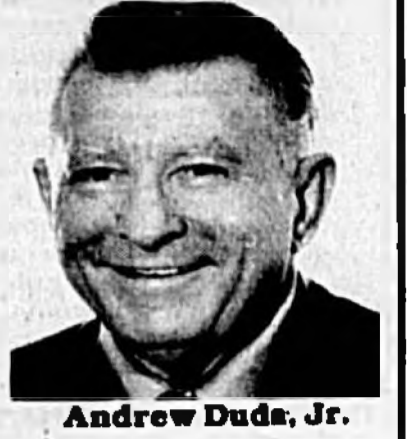

His nephew Edward Duda, who is now president and chairman of the board, said, "Uncle Andy" provided great leadership for our company. The examples he set for us in personal integrity and work habits will continue to strengthen us in the future. He loved his God, his country, his family and his work. He left his mark on all who came in contact with him."

He called his uncle "one of those rare people who could translate vision into action. He was a devout believer in Christian principles. He taught stewardship and challenged the rest of us to do the same."

He was a founding member and officer of the Fruit and Vegetable Association, a founder and former president of Agribusiness Institute of Florida, a former member of the Governor's Council of 100, and a member of the Florida Agriculture Hall of Fame and the Mid-Florida Business Hall of

Bombs Explode Near U.S. Installations

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Two bombs exploded outside U.S. military installations today and nine others were defused around the island. Independence groups claimed responsibility for the attacks, which slightly wounded one person.

The bombers, from a group known as Los Macheteros, left a letter in a park condemning the United States for actions against the nationalist movement and for planning to cut trees in El Yunque, the island's tropical forest.

The attacks came a day after news reports said Puerto Rico was being considered as a site for the training of rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government but the letter made no mention of the reports.

"The Popular Boricua Army-Macheteros, jointly with brigades of the Organization of Volunteers for the Puerto Rican Revolution and the Armed Forces of Popular Resistance, attacked a whole series of enemy military objectives throughout our occupied country and inside the belly of the monster — the United States," the letter said.

In August 1985, the FBI arrested 13 Puerto Ricans it said were members of the Macheteros, or machete wielders, who officials said took

Keogh Pleads No Contest To Theft; State To Ask For Year Jail Term

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A former Lake Mary City Commissioner has pleaded no contest to grand theft in connection with personal use of at least $18,000 from a private cemetery association.

Collin Keogh, 30, of 115 W. Lake Mary Drive, faces a guidelines-recommended sentence of up to five years probation, but the state is going to ask for at least a year in the county jail. Sentencing is set for Dec. 9 in Sanford before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor.

The maximum sentence for the offense is five years in jail.

Tom Hastings, assistant state attorney on the case, said he will ask for the jail time because Keogh was in a position of trust as chairman of the Lake Mary Cemetery Association. He will also ask McGregor to order Keogh to make restitution.

Keogh entered the grand theft plea Friday at an unscheduled hearing.

"I wouldn't let him plea to anything less," Hastings said.

Keogh's unscheduled plea was in keeping with another unscheduled appearance Keogh made at the courthouse in September to have a public defender appointed to defend him. The case was to go to trial that month with Keogh, not a lawyer, providing his own defense. The trial was rescheduled to this week after McGregor agreed to appoint Keogh a public defender.

The money was "converted" to Keogh's own use from the association's in the spring of Martinez insists the state shouldn't impose laws on local governments if it won't help fund their implementation.

Pajcic Snubs Local Debate

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

The state Legislature shouldn't pass laws requiring new funding without providing the money for local governments to implement those laws, Republican candidate for governor Bob Martinez told officials from Seminole County and its cities at a "debate" Monday where his Democratic opponent Steve Pajcic failed to show.

Martinez made the well-received comments during the Seminole County Council of Mayors Florida gubernatorial Forum at the Allamonte Springs Hilton Hotel Monday night.

"If they pass a law, then they should fund it," Martinez said. "The cost shouldn't be passed onto local governments."

The council hosted the event, designed to probe gubernatorial candidates' positions on municipal issues. "This is going to be a little one-sided, but it wasn't designed to be that way," said Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess, introducing the speaker to more than 300 persons in attendance.

Fess is chairman of the council of mayors.

Democrat Steve Pajcic was reportedly in North Florida campaigning Monday night, refusing to meet Martinez in Seminole County because Martinez refused to meet him in Martinez and his running mate, State Rep. Bobby Brantley (R-Longwood), are scheduled to be at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce at 8 a.m. Wednesday to meet with members of the community, said chamber President Dave Farr.

Miami Wednesday.

But Pajcic apparently had the date in Seminole County since last June, agreed to by his campaign officials.

They said Monday lack of a statewide television network to broadcast the debate was a main factor in his decision not to debate Monday.

Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith expressed disappointment that Pajcic did not attend.

"The Council planned this as a service to the community, and central Florida is a key to this election," Mayor Smith said.

"We kept hoping all along that he would change his mind," she continued. She said the Council worked all weekend and most of Monday trying to convince Pajcic to come.

Seminole County Republican Party executive director Ray Valdez said Pajcic's absence was difficult to explain.

"He said he wanted more debates, and then decided against coming," Valdez said.

Martinez said he was disappointed by Pajcic's actions.

"I don't think he wanted to come before this group," Martinez said.

The event cost the council about $13,500 to put on, and the cost was underwritten by Courtesy Pontiac, Danis/Shook of Florida, Financial Security Corp., Industrial Waste Services, Rehabilitation Specialists, Inc., Cardinal Industries, Inc., the Seminole County Republican and Democratic parties, Southeastern Municipal Bonds, Inc., and the Swann & Haddock Law Firm.

The event was promoted by Image Engineering, and assisted by the Junior Women's Club of Sanford.

Martinez also told the group cities and counties should write

County Workers' Scheme Foiled

Two former Seminole County public works employees have been arrested and a third man is wanted in connection with a scheme using county equipment and materials to further their own business, said Sheriff John Polk.

The arrests came after a 5-week investigation by the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

Arrested Monday at the sheriff's department was Joseph Albert Hill, 25, of 548 E. Osceola Road, Geneva. Marlon Preston Priest, 53, of Canal Street, Oviedo, was arrested 45 minutes later at his home.

Hill is charged with four counts of grand theft and Priest with one count of grand theft.

Also sought by deputies is

Joseph E. Priest, 44, Rt. 1, P.O. Box 455, Oviedo, a cousin and business partner of Marlon Priest. Officials said they expect to have Joseph Priest arrested by Wednesday. They plan to charge him with four counts of grand theft.

Marlon Priest was a county employee for 18 years, according to investigators. Hill has resigned from a county post and Joseph Priest was fired from a county job, investigators said.

Polk said the employees use other county employees as well as county equipment and materials.

Investigator Lt. Randy Pittman said that the criminal acts occurred from January 1984 to June of this year at various work sites in the county.

6th Church Pulls Out As Polling Place

A sixth Seminole County church has decided it doesn't want to be used as a polling place this election year, because a state statute allows political campaigning on polling place property.

The state statute allows political campaigning outside a 50-foot radius of polling places, which means campaigning can be done on church property if it serves as a polling place.

The churches didn't like lottery campaigning on their property earlier this year, and the latest church to join the protesters had threatened to join five other churches who gave the voting machines the boot in August.

The latest church to refuse voting machines is the First Baptist Church of Sweetwater. Rev. Howard Taylor told a reporter the potential for campaigning for issues such as homosexual rights and abortion is the reason his church decided to not be used as a polling place.

Elections office manager Carylon Cohen said 1,092 voters from precinct 71 and 1,612 voters in precinct 82 who formerly cast ballots at the church will now vote at the Shoppes of Wekiva on Wekiva Springs Road.

In August, five other county churches refused the voting machines two weeks before the Sept. 2 primary. Similar refusals were reported in Orange, Osceola, and Volusia counties, because lottery campaigning was being done on church property.

The Sweetwater church eventually agreed to let voting be held there in September because problems were encountered in obtaining a new polling place.

"We're just fortunate that they let us use the church for the primaries," Ms. Cohen said. "We knew we'd have to make a change for the general election."

She said the new shoppes location was confirmed Friday.

A second church has also been replaced, but reportedly not for campaigning concerns. There was enough room for 573 voters at Prarie Lake Baptist Church for precinct 23 voters, so the site has been changed to the American Legion Hall, 2706 Wells Ave., near U.S. 17-92.

Ms. Cohen said notices of polling place changes have already been sent to voters in those three precincts.

Selph Sentenced For Traffic Violation

A Casselberry legislator and a lobbyist who both claimed responsibility for a minor traffic accident in Tallahassee in May pleaded no contest Monday to reckless driving charges.

Carl Selph, R-Casselberry, and Kenneth Powell, of Orlando entered the pleas before Leon County Judge John Cruse.

Cruse found Selph guilty and fined him $500 and sentenced him to six months unsupervised probation. He was also ordered to perform 25 hours of community service in Seminole County.

Cruse fined Powell $250 and ordered him to attend DUI school and also perform 25 hours of community service.

Both men had been charged with DUI but

Truck Overtakes

A cement truck went out of control on a rain-slick road Monday and overturned at the intersection of State Road 427 and County Road 15, south of Sanford.

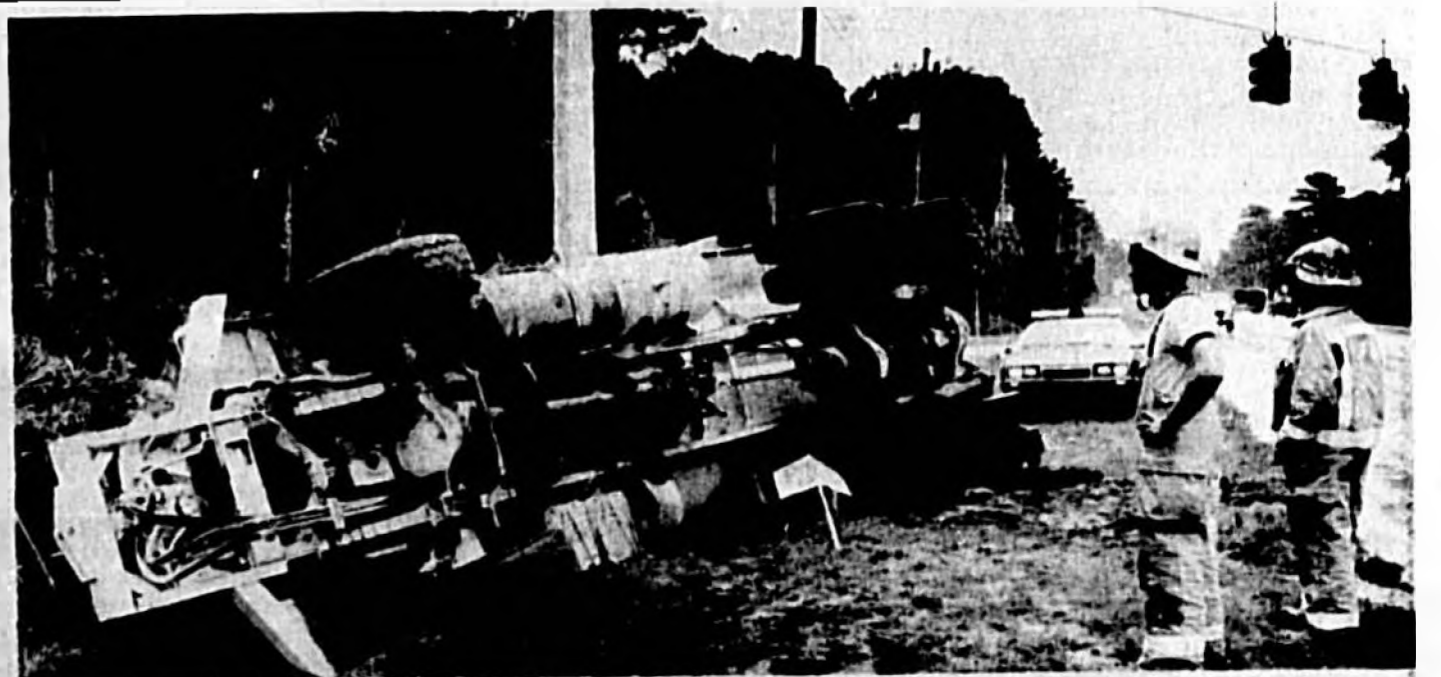

Wade Hughes Morris, 29, Winter Haven, was uninjured in the 11:30 a.m. incident. No charges were filed and there was no damage estimate early today.

Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Robert Lovring said the truck was northbound on SR 427 near CR 15 when the traffic signal turned red. Wade applied the brakes and the truck began to skid.

The rear wheels continued to slide and Wade lost control of the vehicle. It crossed the southbound lane of traffic then left the road rolling onto its side.

Wade was driving the truck for C.O.P. Materials of Longwood, the report said. The accident is under investigation.

NATION

IN BRIEF

Vermont Elections For Top Slots Could Make History

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI)—Vermont, once a Republican bastion of lackluster elections, could make political history next week by becoming the first state in the nation to elect women as governor and lieutenant governor.

The Green Mountain State, with a political landscape altered in the last two decades by New Yorkers and Bostonians escaping urban congestion, could also see its gubernatorial race decided by the Legislature.

A Senate race pitting incumbent Democrat Patrick Leahy against the GOP's popular former four-term Gov. Richard Snelling — once rated one of the nation's closest contests — is now considered a comfortable win for Leahy.

Democratic Gov. Madeleine Kunin is considered the front-runner in her re-election bid, but GOP state Rep. Susan Auld is favored in a tight battle for lieutenant governor with Democratic state Rep. Howard Dean.

If Kunin and Auld prevail, it would mark the first time in U.S. history that women have held both the governor's and lieutenant governor's posts in any state.

Contra Training Site Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration has not ruled out the possibility of Nicaraguan rebels being trained in a Central American country but is moving ahead with plans to teach them military tactics at a U.S. base if necessary, officials say.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Monday he did not know of concrete administration plans for training of the Contra rebels. But other officials said planning has been under way for several months because of refusals by four Central American nations to train the guerrillas.

No specific U.S. military installations have been chosen as training sites, said the officials, who indicated the training would be confined to unit commanders, not raw recruits. They dismissed as speculation reports of possible training in Puerto Rico or at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

Prep School Owners Plead Guilty

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two women who owned a chain of prep schools have admitted they hired Alabama mercenaries charged with firebombing the cars and homes of former teachers who complained to authorities about being fired.

Charlotte Ruth Wyckoff, 52, and Elizabeth Leta Hamilton, 39, both of Dana Point, Calif., pleaded guilty Monday to charges of racketeering and being accessories after the fact to the bombings.

"We told the (mercenaries) to do whatever they had to do with these former employees" to end suspected vandalism and complaints to authorities by the teachers, the women said in a prepared statement to U.S. District Judge Alicemarie Stotler.

Manhattan Mulls Driving Fee

NEW YORK (UPI)—Motorists would soon have to pay $10 to drive into Manhattan and some would lose the privilege altogether under measures being considered to reduce pollution and comply with federal clean air standards.

The city has until the end of 1987 to meet the standards that call for reductions in major pollutants, including carbon monoxide and ozone, or lose $300 million in federal highway funds. Public hearings on the problems began Monday.

Health Commissioner Stephen Joseph testified that carbon monoxide levels in Midtown and Lower Manhattan exceed national standards by up to 66 percent.

New Flu Expected In United States

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new flu called Taiwan A that has caused epidemics in Asia and Australia is headed for the United States, prompting public health officials to urge vaccination of the elderly and everyone under age 35.

"This year influenza will be a particularly difficult problem" because of Taiwan A, Dr. Richard Duma, president of the National Foundation for Infectious Diseases, said at a symposium Monday.

Assistant Health Secretary Dr. Robert Windom joined other physicians in saying people under age 35 should be vaccinated against Taiwan A because they may not be old enough to have been exposed to the virus and to have developed immunity during the last outbreaks of a similar Asian flu in the 1950s.

And although the prime targets of the Taiwan virus are young people, those over age 65 also should be inoculated against it in addition to receiving a regular flu shot and pneumonia vaccine, the doctors said.

Flu is especially dangerous to the elderly because they are more susceptible to such potentially fatal complications as pneumonia, the sixth-leading cause of death in the United States.

The newly developed Taiwan A vaccine protects only against that strain. The other available flu vaccine protects against three kinds: Chile, Ann Arbor and Mississippi flus. All are named after their point of origin.

People at high risk for other types of flu, including those with serious diseases such as diabetes, those who provide in-home care to high-risk patients and medical personnel should receive both types of flu vaccine.

Dr. William Jordan of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases said Taiwan A has caused epidemics in the Far East, Indonesia, Singapore, Australia and New Zealand, where it has struck mostly young people.

Though scientists are unable to be sure, if Taiwan A follows patterns set in the past it is likely to reach the United States, said Dr. David Fedson of the American College of Physicians at University of Virginia.

Doctors disagreed, however, about the potential severity of any Taiwan outbreak in America. Duma estimated it could cause 20,000 to 50,000 deaths, but Fedson said it "may not be that much different from years in the past."

Other physicians, who said one problem is that Medicare and Medicaid do not cover flu vaccines, predicted there could be 40,000 deaths from all types of flu and pneumonia this year.

The comments were made at a luncheon to kick off a campaign to encourage adults to protect themselves against diseases for which there are vaccines.

The doctors stressed that vaccines exist for hepatitis B — a major risk among homosexuals and health workers — as well as measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and rubella or German measles.

F.B.I. Says U.S. Spy Motivated By Spite

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Silicon Valley aerospace technician who "wanted to get back at the Air Force" for forcing him out of the service was charged with trying to pass defense secrets to an FBI agent posing as a Soviet contact named "Ivan."

Alan John Davies, 33, told investigators he "just wanted to burn the government," according to an FBI affidavit filed in federal court.

Davies was arrested Monday at his job with Ford Aerospace and Communications Corp., in nearby Palo Alto, where he had worked as a laboratory technician since October 1984. U.S. Attorney Joseph Russonello said.

A naturalized U.S. citizen born in Eastleigh, England, Davies served in the Air Force for 10 years but was involuntarily discharged June 11, 1984, because of "poor job performance," Russonello said.

"The motive for passing the information is one of the most difficult to guard against, that is spite," Russonello said. "He wanted to get back at the Air Force, do some damage to the United States."

Russonello said Davies did not ask for money.

U.S. Magistrate Frederick Woelfen ordered Davies jailed pending a hearing Thursday on a government request that he be held without bail. He was charged with one count of trying to deliver national defense information to aid a foreign government and faces a maximum sentence of life in prison if convicted.

Davies allegedly met outside Golden Gate Park's Hall of Flowers on Sept. 22 with undercover FBI agent Richard M. Dyer, who was pretending to be a Soviet contact called "Ivan."

The affidavit said Dyer was given detailed oral information about Air Force reconnaissance efforts based on Davies' experience in the Air Force during 1983 and 1984.

Davies had a security clearance for secret material and worked as a maintenance technician on electronic systems such as missile homing devices and radar, according to the Pentagon.

In a tape recording made during a meeting with Dyer, Davies explained that he waited two years to provide the information "just to make sure they couldn't link me with it if I told anybody. Just sort of ... hide my trail."

Davies met again with Dyer Oct. 5 at a San Francisco Holiday Inn, where he provided more information, the FBI said.

The government said Davies tried to make contact with the Russians by telephoning the San Francisco Soviet Consulate. Russonello said there was no indication the Soviets were even aware of his effort and declined to discuss how the FBI learned of the attempt.

Ford Aerospace spokeswoman Susan Pearce said Davies had "absolutely no access to classified information" at the satellite-manufacturing firm in Silicon Valley, a major center for the high-tech industry.

"I got kicked out of the Air Force," the soft-spoken Davies told the magistrate during his court appearance. He said the government was trying to collect $1,200 he received at his discharge.

A Pentagon spokesman said Davies was a staff sergeant and served in the United States and abroad, including Japan, Korea and Germany.

Three FBI agents searched Davies' two-story condominium in San Jose for more than three hours after his arrest. Papers were strewn about the floor of the $104,900 unit, which Davies shared with his brother, Brian. The agents left with a carton of papers and several briefcases, but the FBI declined to say what they contained.

'Berrylift' Begun To Aid Laplanders

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)— Eskimo and Indian women have launched "Operation Berrylift" to send berries, salmon and other native foods to Laplanders whose lands in the Soviet Union and Scandinavia were contaminated by radiation from the Chernobyl disaster.

A group called Sovereign Indigenous Women of the Arctic, which in the past has campaigned to stop violence against women and children, plans to fly in the first shipment of food Dec. 18, said spokeswoman Dea Jacobsson.

"Operation Berrylift" will send berries, salmon and wild meat to the Lapps, also known as Samis, who live in northern Scandinavia and the Soviet Kola Peninsula, she said.

Jacobsson said she came up with the idea for the berrylift project when she heard that the Samis had to destroy tainted reindeer and that radiation contamination from the nuclear accident at Chernobyl last spring could affect Laplanders for many years to come.

The Samis are a nomadic people who tend reindeer herds and live off the land north of the Arctic Circle in Norway, Sweden, Finland and the Kola Peninsula of the Soviet Union, between Finland and the White Sea.

"Can you imagine how America would go ape if French fries were cut off or Mom's apple pie were cut off or if we shut all the Safeway stores?" Jacobsson said.

The 2-year-old women's organization, with an undetermined number of members, plans to continue shipping food after Dec. 18. "The problem is not going to go away next year or the year after that or in 10 years," said Jacobsson.

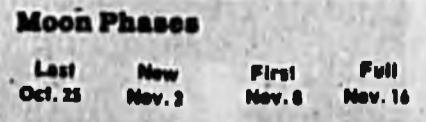

The group is spreading word about Operation Berrylift through the "Mukluk Telegraph," the Eskimo version of the grapevine — word of mouth.

Rains, Heat Hit Sunshine State

Rain doused the Northeast and parts of the Ohio Valley and Florida early today and a mixture of clouds and fair skies spread over much of the rest of the nation.

Rain was scattered over northern New England, along the northern Atlantic Coast and from central Pennsylvania and central New York state across Ohio and Indiana, the National Weather Service said.

"It's nothing heavy," weather service forecaster Harry Gordon said. "It's scattered along the northern (Atlantic) coast primarily."

In New York City, the rain lifted in time for the New York Mets and the Boston Red Sox to play the seventh game of the World Series Monday night but fog cut visibility to near zero in parts of the metropolitan area, making travel hazardous. The game was rained out Sunday night.

The fog blanketed New England, eastern New York state and parts of New Jersey.

Rain also lingered over the southeast coast of Florida, where warm air pushed temperatures to record highs Monday. Miami, hit with nearly an inch of rain, reported a high of 89 degrees, topping the previous record 88 set in 1985. An 87-degree reading in Hollywood, Fla., surpassed the 86 set in 1981.

Gordon said warm temperatures were expected again in southern Florida Tuesday but record highs were unlikely.

Rain also fell in western Washington state and northern Wyoming.

The weather over much of the rest of the nation was mixed, Gordon said. "Some places have clouds, and some of them have clear skies. It's just kind of normal for this time of year," he said.

Much of the nation reported temperatures in the 40s and 50s Monday night, but readings dipped to the 30s in the Upper Great Lakes and mountain areas in the West. Temperatures in the 60s and low 70s were recorded in Florida, south Texas and the desert Southwest.

A non-explosive dome-building eruption at Mount St. Helens — the 17th eruption since the volcano roared back to life with devastating fury in May 1980 — has been declared finished by the U.S. Geological Survey.

Scientists inside the crater of the southwest Washington volcano on Monday reported decreases in earthquakes, gas emissions and deformation of the 918-foot-tall lava dome, said Pat Pringle, a USGS spokesman at the Cascades Volcano Observatory.

"Seismicity, deformation and gas emissions have decreased markedly since extrusion of a new lobe on the dome last week," Pringle said. "Officially, the dome-building eruption is over."

A restricted zone around the volcano remained closed as a precaution but was expected to be reopened soon, Pringle said.

The latest dome-building activity apparently began the night of Oct. 21. Scientists first noticed new lava extruding from the top of the lava dome the following day.

The dome-building eruption, which added an estimated 70 feet of lava to the top of the dome, was the first at the peak since May 9.

The lava dome is a protrusion of hardened magma pushing up from the floor of the 1,800-foot-deep crater. It is about 2.6 billion cubic feet in volume — nearly 40 times the size of Seattle's Kingdome sports facility.

Mount St. Helens ended 123 years of dormancy on May 18, 1980, when a powerful eruption blew ash and gas miles into the air.

Geneva 2nd Graders Study Spanish

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

Le gustario aprender un poco de Espanol? Or, "Do you want to learn a little Spanish?" asks Jennie Hernandez of her second-grade foreign language class at Geneva Elementary School. A little young to learn a second language you say? Not so, said Mrs. Hernandez who is piloting a Spanish in Elementary School program new in the district this year.

"The children are more enthusiastic at this age, and it's easier for them to get the correct sounds," said Mrs. Hernandez. "They are really very excited about it and doing very well."

Spanish is being taught for the first time in the second, third and fourth grades at Geneva Elementary only, and the school has been assured a grant for at least the first year, according to Principal Nancy McNamara. It was one of the school board's priorities to begin foreign language in the earlier grades. Mrs. McNamara was anxious to get Spanish underway because she said it would be of most benefit to students as they grow older and begin to look for jobs.

"Spanish is most helpful getting a job in Florida," she said, "particularly, look at Disney World and Epcot. This really opens the way for all kinds of employment."

The reason Spanish isn't being taught in the fifth grade is that next year those students will go on to middle school where they won't have Spanish lessons. It is Mrs. McNamara's hope that by the time the younger students reach middle school, Spanish will be available for them to continue.

"Everything we have read so far says to start (Spanish) in the early grades," she said. At the end of the year, even the youngest students will know simple greetings, short sentences, the names of the days and months, and names of colors. The older ones will be reading Spanish storybooks, their teacher said.

"I feel it is very important and should be a part of our whole school curriculum in the near future," added Mrs. McNamara. "We hope to make this show a success and get other schools involved."

Mrs. Hernandez came to Seminole County from the Orange County school district where she taught Spanish for three years. Before that, she taught English in Puerto Rican schools for 11 years. In her experience, it has been easier to teach foreign language to younger students.

"The way I see it, the younger the students the easier it is for them to learn the language. They learn to speak with a degree of fluency and with an acceptable accent; and they acquire a better pronunciation. It also prepares them for middle and high school, where we have so many Spanish speaking children."

But she has found teaching Spanish to English-speaking students is easier than the reverse "because of the political situation in some countries." In Puerto Rico, she said, there was some animosity associated with learning English, and the students preferred to speak Spanish. She finds the English language is the more difficult to learn, "but grammar is harder in Spanish."

Mrs. Hernandez was born in Puerto Rico where she lived until she was a teenager.

Her family moved to New York City where she spent her high school years. Then she went back to her home country and received a degree from the University of Puerto Rico, and she came to the Winter Springs area in 1979 where she still lives.

She and her Spanish-speaking husband have two daughters and grandchildren. "We speak Spanish all the time at home. I want all my grandchildren to speak it, too, because I really love the language and it's so important today," she said.

Architect Sought For Cultural Center

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford is advertising for an architect to redesign the city's Cultural Arts Center in anticipation of a late 1987 re-opening.

Ambitious remodeling efforts will extend beyond the lack of handicap access and general deterioration that prompted the center's closing 18 months ago.

Lighting to enhance displays, a new climatic control system, restoration of fireplaces and appropriate landscaping are also planned for the one-and-a-half story green structure, which is located at the corner of Fifth Street and Oak Avenue. It was built in the late 1920's, and served as the city's library before opening as a cultural arts center in 1964.

City commissioners have budgeted $100,000 this year for the center's rehabilitation. The monies will hopefully cover all necessary work, said Engineering and Planning Director Bill Simmons.

Commissioner John Mercer wants the re-opened center "to be as usable for as many different groups and individuals as possible."

Mercer and his fellow commissioners are indicating that Sanford-Seminole Art Society workshops and displays will be welcomed back to the center and that city advisory boards could also meet there. Additionally, commissioners are considering the center's serving as meeting place for various local organizations, including the Ballet Guild, Photo Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, Concert Society and United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Commissioners say additional uses for the center will be considered as the rehab project progresses.

Discussion of the center's restoration began at a recent city commission work session. Staff said their survey of the structure was complete and recommended an architect be sought to incorporate their findings into the center's re-design.

Simmons said he wants the architect to expound on staff's findings by "going over the center with a critical fine tooth comb."

The architect will probably be chosen later this fall and will work with approximately 6,500 square feet of space in the center's three rooms and along its inside balcony.

Design construction should begin in late summer and be complete before the end of 1987, Simmons said.

Soviets Return, 'Disgusted' With U.S.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two Soviet citizens who emigrated to the United States in the 1970s returned home today saying they were disgusted with life in America and had not found the freedom they sought.

"I got fed up with all those freedoms which actually mean the liberty to be of no use to anybody," said Alexander Belkin, who spent nine years in the United States.

Also returning was Israel Glickman, who left for United States in 1974. The men were warmly received by Soviet officials as they stepped off an Aeroflot jet from New York.

Tass, the official news agency, did not say in where the men lived in the United States.

Their return was the latest in a series of Soviet stories highlighting disgruntled returning emigrants and American citizens settling in the Soviet Union. The official media frequently carries stories about the problems of emigrants living in Western societies.

"I did not live in poverty in the United States," said Glickman, 61, a resident of the Black Sea port of Odessa. "I am not a bad taller and quite capable of earning a living, but I could not live in a society which is alien to me by its spirit and customs where everything is sacrificed to one god — the dollar."

"I am glad that my husband has finally put all that nonsense out of his head," said Glickman's wife, Sofya, who had not seen her husband in 12 years.

Belkin, from the Ukrainian city of Kiev, said he was simply "fed up" with American life.

Earlier this month the Soviet media gave extensive coverage to the request for political asylum in the Soviet Union by the Lokshin family from Houston.

Arnold Lokshin, a cancer researcher, his wife and three children, came to the Soviet Union to avoid what they said was harassment by the FBI and CIA for their political beliefs.

The Washington Post said the Soviet Embassy in Washington has received more than 1,000 applications from Soviet emigres to the United States seeking to return home.

Four Incumbents Deserve Support

Four incumbent Democratic cabinet members are seeking reelection to their respective posts: Doyle Conner, Commissioner of Agriculture; Bill Gunter, State Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner; George Firestone, Secretary of State; and Gerald Lewis, Comptroller. Only Gunter had Democratic opposition in the primary election and he cruised past his opponent with more than 85 percent of the votes.

Doyle Conner is the dean of the cabinet members, having served for 26 years. His last close race was his first, a primary win over Buster Hancock in 1960. Since then he has not been seriously challenged. His opponent, Republican Charles Bronson of Satellite Beach, is an agricultural and marketing executive who won his primary battle with 64 percent of the vote.

Bill Gunter is seeking his third term against challenger Van Poole, a Broward County insurance agent.

George Firestone faces Republican Jim Smith in seeking to retain his seat as Secretary of State. Smith is a businessman from Clearwater and a former member of Florida's House of Representatives.

Craig Kiser, Republican and a Tallahassee attorney, is challenging his former boss Gerald Lewis for the post as Comptroller. Kiser served twice as Lewis' general counsel before resigning after he was demoted.

Members of the cabinet have the responsibilities of managing their respective departments, and also to serve as trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund, State Board of Education and as final arbiters in matters concerning Florida's environment, coastways and waterways, conservation and land management and public and recreational land. The challenges in these areas in the next four years are enormous.

The years spent on the cabinet by these four incumbents are a valuable asset for the state. Each of the four has been conscientious and resourceful. The affairs of the state have been well handled. The experience gained has been beneficial and their handling of the challenges of the past gives confidence for continuance.

Further, their responses to questions concerning education, utilization of the Conservation and Recreation Land act and the Save Our Coast program indicates a level of understanding of not only the problems, but of solutions to many of the challenges to our state caused by growth.

The Evening Herald believes that in Doyle Conner, Bill Gunter, Gerald Lewis and George Firestone, Florida has four experienced, capable cabinet members who have earned and deserve to continue in their posts for another term.

Sharps And Flats

Spending one's life "ticking the ivories" is more soul-satisfying and lots more fun than heading a world organization.

At least that's what Javier Perez de Cuellar of Peru thinks.

After being unanimously re-elected to a second five-year term as secretary general of the United Nations, he confessed he'd rather be a concert pianist.

"I would adore to be a concert artist even more than being secretary general. Piano music — that's my real passion."

On the other hand, the celebrated concert pianist Vladimir Horowitz has never expressed any desire to be U.N. secretary general.

Maybe that's because a piano emits only the sounds the pianist forces from it, whereas whoever heads the United Nations cannot control the cacophony raised by so many diverse nations, each defending its own interests regardless of the discord that results.

Lying For Country Assumed By Diplomats

By Arnold Sawislak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In 1604, Sir Henry Wotton wrote, "An ambassador is an honest man sent to lie abroad for the commonwealth."

In 1982, Arthur Sylvester, the official spokesman for the Defense Department, told reporters after the Cuba missile crisis that during times of national peril it may become the duty of government officials to lie to the public and the press.

Sir Henry's comment has endured as the cynic's view of diplomacy, but it also serves as a reminder that the current furor about "disinformation" is nothing new and Sylvester's statement framed the circumstances under which government officials would admit telling lies and argue that they were justified.

So what's all the excitement about the U.S. government deliberately putting out false information earlier this year in an effort to shake up (and hopefully bring down) Libya's Moammar Gadhafi?

The campaign reportedly included leaking phony stories to both the American and foreign press to the effect that Gadhafi was planning to step up terrorism against the West and that the United States was preparing another strike against Libya. All this was supposed to drive Gadhafi crazy or provoke his associates to oust him.

It might be noted that while the campaign didn't get rid of the volatile colonel, it did lead to the resignation of a highly regarded U.S. official, State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb.

Kalb emphatically absolved Secretary of State George Shultz of telling lies, but made clear he was resigning because of the disinformation campaign.

What disturbed many people both in and outside journalism (Kalb has been both) was the apparent belief of whoever planned and carried out the campaign that the press was a legitimate instrument to use in furthering the foreign policy goals of the government.

The print and broadcast media is subservient to government in some countries, but it is not in the United States and many other democracies. The press in this country is guaranteed freedom from government interference by the strongest constitutional language because the founders of the nation wanted the press to be a check on potential abuses of government power.

This is not really a gray area, but for some reason government officials and politicians never seem to get it into their heads that reporters, to paraphrase Wotton, are not their ambassadors whose job it is to tell lies for the government.

Nor does the situation fit the circumstances Sylvester was talking about. The terrorism sponsored by Gadhafi is a real problem that is difficult to deal with, but to date it simply does not constitute the kind of imminent threat to millions of American lives posed by the Soviet missiles in Cuba 24 years ago.

Many Americans might approve of using psychological methods rather than military means to get rid of Gadhafi, but they can ask themselves in this case whether that goal would be worth the price of newspapers and news broadcasts that may or may not be reporting deliberate lies planted by their own government.

ROBERT WAGMAN Kennedy Runs In Maryland

BALTIMORE (NEA) — Barring a major political upset, at least one of the "next generation" of Kennedys will claim a House seat in November. Joe Kennedy is almost certain to capture the seat being vacated by retiring House Speaker Tip O'Neill. But his older sister, Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, is in a tough race in Maryland's 2nd Congressional District.

Townsend, the oldest of Robert Kennedy's 11 children, is trying to unseat first-term GOP incumbent Rep. Helen Bentley in a district that encompasses working-class suburbs of Baltimore and much of rural northern Maryland.

Two years ago Bentley, a former maritime reporter for the Baltimore Sun and head of the Federal Maritime Commission during the Nixon administration, defeated the Democratic incumbent Clarence Long in a tight race. There were two major issues in that contest: Long's age (75) and the fact that he opposed, on environmental grounds, the dredging of Baltimore Harbor for shipping.

Bentley favored dredging, got the business community's support and funding, and won the contest by arguing that dredging equaled new jobs. In the last two years the dredging has taken place and continues.

Townsend, 35, a lawyer and mother of two, gave up her job as an assistant state attorney general to make the race. She has lived in the district, and the state, for only two years since moving there from Boston with her husband, who teaches at St. John's College in nearby Annapolis.

This has given Bentley the "carpetbagger" issue. She claims Townsend only moved to the district for this race and has no real interest in the people of the district or their problems.

"How would you like it," Bentley has asked rhetorically, "if someone came in and said, 'Young lady, move over, we're the family and we're going to take over Maryland?'"

Townsend calls this "nonsense," pointing out that local Democratic leaders begged her to run and that she had to win a hard-fought primary for the nomination. She has also tried to play down her "Kennedy image" and to run on her own experience and ideas.

JACK ANDERSON

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Did a Louisiana oilman who contributed heavily to Republican Party candidates, and who had himself paid a fine for price gouging, improperly prevail on Vice President George Bush to press for an end to federal regulations that made possible the prosecution of oil price-control violators?

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., suspects the worst.

General Accounting Office auditors investigated the situation and concluded that "there appears to be nothing illegal or improper about the oil producer opposing" the regulations, and they "could not determine to what extent, if any, the producer influenced" changes in the rules.

Dingell, chairman of the House Energy Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, acknowledged that the oilman's solicitation of the White House was not illegal, but the congressman is concerned that high-level administration officials allowed themselves to be influenced unduly by the oilman. Dingell has asked the GAO to take a close look

ROBERT WALTERS

Judge Bit By 'Gator'

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) — The political campaign originally launched as a right-wing vendetta against the chief justice of California's Supreme Court now threatens the integrity of the judicial system in California and elsewhere.

Chief Justice Rose Elizabeth Bird is virtually certain to be deposed when Californians vote in early November on whether to extend her tenure an additional 12 years. Indeed, no recent survey of public opinion suggests that she has any chance to survive the election.

The court's conservative critics are also seeking to unseat two of the other eight justices. No member of California's highest court has ever been dumped from office, but the expected success of the conservative campaign against Bird is likely to embolden ideologues elsewhere to mount political campaigns against judges with whose decisions they disagree.

Retired California Supreme Court Justice Otto Kaus likens judges' fears about public reprisals over unpopular rulings to living in a house with a crocodile in the bathtub.

"You cannot forget that you have a crocodile in the bathtub," he notes. "You keep wondering whether you're letting yourself be influenced and you do not know."

A more immediate threat faces three of the six justices whose continued tenure must be approved by the voters this year — Bird, Cruz Reynoso and Joseph Grodin.

All have been targeted by the court's organized critics and are cited by name in a television commercial that stars the grieving mother of a 12-year-old girl killed in the late 1970s by a convicted sex offender.

"The man who kidnapped and killed her is still alive," the mother says in the ad. "Rose Bird, Cruz Reynoso and Joseph Grodin overturned his death sentence, as they have for so many other brutal killers. Your vote can stop them from letting other killers escape justice."

That murderer's conviction was overturned on a relatively technical point — the Supreme Court held that the trial court judge erred when he allowed prosecutors to introduce evidence of the defendant's prior convictions for molesting young girls.

But the advertisement conveniently ignores the fact that the murderer has been retried, has been convicted a second time and again faces a death sentence.

The principal criticism of Bird is that she has voted to reverse the convictions in every one of 57 death penalty cases to come before the court during her tenure. Not mentioned by the critics are two important facts: She voted with the court majority in 54 of the 57 cases and in no instance has a convicted killer been freed because of a court reversal.

Bird, however, must share some responsibility for her expected defeat. Virtually all of those who have sought to help her in recent years have left exasperated and frustrated by her refusal to conduct the political campaign necessary to retain her post.

She has come to be perceived as a strong-willed woman determined to become a martyr to the cause of judicial independence. One observer suggests that "her insistent adherence to principle" has become more of a liability than an asset.

SCIENCE WORLD

Home For Health In 2001

By Larry Doyle
UPI Science Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) — The year is 2001 and a man has had a heart attack. He spends his entire hospital stay at home, his vital signs monitored by a computer patched into one of the few hospitals remaining.

None of the drugs he takes has a brand name, and most of the contact he has with doctors or nurses is via a two-way cable television hookup. He's more than 100 years old and a Medicare patient.

The man is not that atypical and he's not a character of science fiction.

"This is not fanciful," says Marvin Cetron, president of Forecasting International. "We have hard numbers to back this up. This is going to happen."

Cetron, acknowledged as one of the top business forecasters in the country, has taken on the task of predicting what American health care will look like in the next century.

He asked 10 professional health organizations for their best guesses, surveyed 1,200 health professionals on the likelihood of those guesses, and crunched the numbers together into a picture of the future and a forthcoming book, "Health Care into the 21st Century."

A summary: "Health care is going to be the biggest business in the United States by 1990."

But at the same time, Cetron says most people will belong to health maintenance organizations or similar groups, "so there's going to be a lot less choice. Doctors and patients alike will have less to say what type of treatment you get, all that will be done by the third party payors and insurance companies."

Economizing, a trend blossoming into the status quo, will be well entrenched by the year 2001. Generic drugs, now a small fraction of the drug market, will constitute more than half of all drugs prescribed. Community-based outpatient therapy — and even surgery — will become commonplace as expensive hospital stays are discouraged.

"Patients aren't going to be running to the emergency room anymore, he'll go to the local Doc in the Box, the 7-11 Convenience Clinic, whatever you want to call it," Cetron says.

When Oil Talks, George Bush Listens

at this aspect of the affair. The Louisiana oilman, Dalton Woods, hasn't exactly run for cover. He told us he considered Dingell's actions "harassment," and pointed out that the GAO had cleared him after a full investigation. The GAO auditors, he fumed, would do better to "investigate Dingell."

As for the $51,000 refund he was ordered to pay by the Energy Department for overcharging on his oil during the period of price controls, Woods responded with the succinct outrage of an aggrieved sports fan. "I wuz robbed!" he told our associate Lucette Lagnado.

Woods had appealed the department's finding administratively and lost. He eventually wound up having to pay a total of $93,000, including interest, for the price-control violation.

The oilman believes there is no need to apologize for his determined efforts to eliminate the Energy Department regulation that required oil companies to retain records on the price-control period, 1973-1981. The records were vital to the government's prosecution of violations.

In a letter to Bush in February 1984, Woods recalled discussing the record-keeping requirement with the vice president "during the Reagan Finance Committee reception at your home in Washington," and asked Bush's help in eliminating the rule. He even suggested as a "political move" that the rule be eliminated as part of the Paper Work Reduction Act — a stratagem that was in fact followed.

Woods also raised the specter of "a hostile administration being elected at some future time (that) could reopen a wave of audits and arbitrary assessments of punitive charges and fines against our industry" if the oil companies' records were retained.

He closed with an appeal for "your help in bringing this issue to a close" by the issuance of a rule change eliminating the record-keeping requirement.

On the same day, Woods wrote to then-Energy Secretary Donald Hodel, recalling their discussion of the detested regulation "during the Louisiana Mardi Gras in Washington." He added: "I have also discussed this issue with Vice President Bush, and he was visibly disturbed by the postponement of the proposed (rule change) and offered to lend his support if needed."

Woods received replies from both the vice president and the energy secretary — courtesies befitting a Republican stalwart who had, the GAO reported, contributed $51,950 to GOP causes in 1979-80, $80,000 in 1981-82 and $68,800 in 1983-84. Woods was informed that the record-keeping rule was being reviewed.

The regulation ultimately was changed. Dingell wants to know just how much the bureaucrats who changed the rule were influenced by oilman Woods.

For his part, Woods is standing his ground. "It is my duty and my pleasure to work on behalf of the oil and gas industry," Woods said. He characterized the regulation as "designed to harass and rob the gas industry."

Regarding contacts with Bush and Hodel, Woods said: "I am a Republican. I have worked with these people ... I fought a clean battle."

Guys Guide Pumpkin Squasher

Horse playing two days in a row helped a sheriff's deputy locate a bunch of guys who squashed a pumpkin display at a grocery store in Longwood.

According to an incident report, a clerk at Albertson's, 2381 State Road 434, saw four guys in a jeep run over a pumpkin display at the store. The incident occurred around 1 a.m. Saturday.

Twenty pumpkins were destroyed for a total loss of $53.60. The young men in the jeep had earlier been asked to leave the store after causing a disturbance, the report said.

On Sunday, a deputy responded to the area of Wekiva Springs Road following a report of a jeep causing a disturbance. The deputy located the jeep which also fit the description of the pumpkin squasher.

The driver of the vehicle denied driving over the pumpkins but a passenger confirmed the incident.

No arrests were made in the case.

DUI ARRESTS

The following people have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol and had their bond set at $500:

—Walter Clint Lummas, 44, of 450 Topaz Lane, Lake Mary, arrested 12:08 a.m. Sunday on Lake Mary Boulevard west of 5th St. after his white Chevrolet two-door with its headlights off was seen crossing the center line.

—Robert Darrell Simmons, 27, of Lincoln Park, Mich., arrested Monday at 2:21 a.m. at State Road 600 and County Road 427 after his 1972 Buick failed to maintain a single lane on SR 600.

—William James McCullen III, 26, of Orlando, arrested Sunday at 1:48 a.m. at 820 N. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, after his burgundy Pontiac Grand Prix failed to maintain a single lane.

—John F. Christopher, 34, of 442 Nothern Way, Winter Springs, arrested Saturday at 2:29 a.m. at Tuskawilla Road near Winter Springs Blvd., after his vehicle was involved in an accident.

—Jackie Carpenter, 37, of 730 Holly Hill Ave., Casselberry, arrested Saturday at 1:58 a.m. at Sanford Ave. and Airport Blvd., in Sanford, after traveling in the wrong lane.

SMOKING POT

Two Volusia County men were arrested in Seminole County on marijuana charges after their truck was seen after dark in a park that closes at sunset.

According to a deputy's report, he and another deputy saw the 1986 Nissan truck in Lake Jesup Park around 9:21 p.m. Saturday. The deputy, approaching the truck to find out why it was in the park, smelled the odor of burning marijuana and ordered the men out of the vehicle. The deputies found some marijuana in the vehicle and arrested both men.

Charged with possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana were Layton John Oblesby, 23, of 121 N. Madison, Enterprise, and William Ernest Goodwin, 22, of DeBary. Bond was set at $1,000 each.

LEAD PIPE ASSAULT

A Sanford man was arrested on a charge of aggravated assault after he reportedly tried to hit his female roommate with a lead pipe.

According to a Sanford police report, the woman said she was lying on a couch at 2540 Byrd Ave., when her roommate hit the couch next to her head with the lead pipe. The pipe put a hole in the couch. The incident occurred Saturday at 11:45 p.m.

The officer said the woman did have a large bump on her head.

Arrested and charged with aggravated assault was Barry

Leonard Montgomery, 22, of the same address. His bond was set at $1,000.

RESISTED ARREST

A Longwood man was arrested on a charge of battery and resisting arrest after his wife called the 911 emergency number.

According to an arrest report, while the woman was on the 911 line, someone took the phone and hung up. The incident occurred 5:45 a.m. Saturday.

When the officers arrived, no one would let them in though they could hear people inside. One officer went to a window where he saw the couple and heard the woman crying. He told the man to open the door upon which the man told the officer to leave. The officer said if the man did not open the door, they would break it down. The man opened the door, according to the report.

The officers reported the man became violent after the woman said he had hit her on the head. The man scuffled with the officers when they tried to handcuff him. He was subdued with the use of an electric baton.

Charged with battery and resisting arrest with violence was Andie Dallas Leith, 33, of 1413 Sparrow St., Longwood.

SHORTNESS OF BREATH

A Lake Mary woman died a day after having plastic surgery, according to a sheriff's report.

Paula Craig, 70, of 459 Hampton Crest, in the Heathrow subdivision near Lake Mary, called for rescue at her home Friday complaining of shortness of breath. When paramedics arrived the woman was having a heart attack.

According to the report, the woman died in the emergency room of Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford. That occurred at 9:51 p.m.

An autopsy shows that the woman had long-term medical problems and had breathing problems during the week prior to the surgery.

ATTACKED FROM BEHIND

Sanford police investigated a strong-armed robbery Sunday night on S. Poplar Avenue. Minevah Williamson, 77, of 202 S. Poplar Ave., told police she was unlocking her back door about 8:20 p.m. when an unknown man knocked her down and took her purse, containing $15.

LIQUOR STORE ROBBED

The owner of Liquor Garden in Country Club Square Shopping Center, 2477 Airport Blvd., told police a robber entered about 10 a.m. Saturday and pulled out a hunting knife. The robber reportedly took all the cash, $42, from the register drawer, cut the phone wires and fled.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Philip T. Holmes, 34, of 305 W. 9th St. in Sanford, told police burglars broke into his home Saturday and took a microwave oven, but they had to pull off the burglary bars on the window to do it. Police said the burglars gained entry by removing the bolts from the bars and swinging them out of the way.

Ronald W. Cowher, 54, owner of a car lot of 1120 Sanford Ave., told police that burglars over the weekend entered the lot and took several items including a '79 Cutlass, totaling $3,825.

FIRE CALLS

Sanford fire fighters have responded to the following calls, details based on fire department reports:

- SATURDAY
- 9:50 a.m., 908 Locust Ave., rescue. A 32-year-old woman reported feeling ill after failing to take prescribed medication. She declined hospital transport after receiving on-scene assistance.
 - 10:25 a.m., 110 E. Commercial Ave., Sanford Flower Shop. Store's lights reported flickering. Firemen contacted owner after survey.

Kitten Survives Bomb Squad Blast

RAMONA, Calif. (UPI) — When the bomb squad was called to an office of Home Savings of America in eastern San Diego County Monday it found a package that was tied with tape and had holes punched in it.

The deputies X-rayed the package and discovered it contained something alive.

Recalling a similar incident in which a rattlesnake was left in a box in a woman's driveway, the bomb unit set an explosive charge on the package and blew it up.

When the smoke cleared, the deputies discovered the package did not contain a rattlesnake or a bomb — it held four little kittens. Three of them were killed.

But one kitten managed to survive the blast and — after being treated by a veterinarian — was taken home by bomb squad member.

The kitten was named lucky.

Couple Take Own Lives

A sickly Altamonte Springs couple apparently took their own lives Saturday by carbon monoxide asphyxiation after parking their running car in their converted garage.

Dead are Clarence Kenneth Green, 76, and his wife Salmie, 72, of 464 Tulane Drive. Mrs. Green had been sick for several years and was reported to be in progressively failing physical health. Green was also reportedly in poor health and did not want to see his wife go to a nursing home. The couple were childless but have a nephew in the area, neighbors said.

According to a sheriff's report, the couple drove their new Oldsmobile into a room that was once a garage converted by a previous owner to an office with large sliding glass doors. A piece of black tubing was connected to the exhaust pipe and put through the car's right rear window. The car was left running and the couple succumbed to carbon monoxide poisoning.

The couple was discovered around 5:30 p.m. after a neighbor became suspicious because their paper had not been picked up from their driveway.

High Court Upholds Appeal Of Child Sexual Assault Conviction

A Casselberry man sentenced to life for sexually assaulting an 8-year-old girl may get a new trial because jurors were not told they could have found him guilty of a lesser charge.

Jeffrey Scott Caulder, 29, of 508 Elm Drive, was sentenced to life imprisonment in October 1985, for a sexual battery and 15 years for lewd and lascivious assault. The 5th District Court of Appeals upheld the lewd assault conviction but reversed the sexual battery conviction, according to court records.

The state has automatically appealed the ruling to the state Supreme Court.

Caulder did not deny that he had sexual contact with the girl but termed the situation "educational" and said the girl was a willing participant. The assaults usually occurred while the girl's mother was at work at a toy store. The girl did not remember the exact dates of the assaults but did associate them with what presents she received year to year at Christmas.

The turning point of the trial in November, 1984, was the girl's explicit testimony under the questioning of Assistant State Attorney Angela Blakely. The jury was apparently convinced the girl's intimate knowledge was learned from the encounters.

The high court ruled this month that jurors were not instructed that they could have returned a verdict of guilty to the lesser crime of battery.

Up To 35 Soviets Killed In Afghan Rebel Ambush

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Afghan rebels ambushed a column of Soviet troops withdrawing from Afghanistan, destroying vehicles and killing up to 35 soldiers, a Western diplomat said today.

He and another Western diplomat, speaking in separate briefings, also reported the defection of a high-ranking Afghan military official to the guerrillas.

The diplomats spoke on condition they not be identified. Their reports could not be independently verified as Western journalists have rarely been allowed into Afghanistan since Soviet forces invaded in December 1979 to back the communist government against Moslem rebels.

One diplomat quoted a diplomatic source in Kabul as saying rebels ambushed a column from one of the withdrawing regiments last week as it made its way up the Salang Road, the main highway linking the Soviet border with the Afghan capital.

Syria Warns Of Retaliation

LUXEMBOURG (UPI) — Britain got a bit of sympathy but little of substance from European Community partners it asked to take united diplomatic action against Syria for alleged involvement in terrorism.

Britain broke off diplomatic relations with Syria Friday, accusing Damascus of involvement in a plot to blow up an Israeli El Al jumbo jet in London.

Meanwhile in Paris, Prime Minister Jacques Chirac is under fire from President Francois Mitterrand's Socialist Party as well as some of his own supporters over reported plans for a major new sale of arms to Syria.

The arms deal threatens to become a sticking point in French-British relations. Britain is asking its European neighbors to initiate diplomatic moves to isolate Syria while France is trying to improve relations with Damascus.

In Syria, the Syrian state-owned news agency warned of Arab retaliation for Britain's decision to sever diplomatic ties, and officials met to consider how to counter British charges that Damascus was involved in a plot to blow up an Israeli airliner.

Bell Suggests Prisoner Swap

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Former Attorney General Griffin Bell has suggested a prisoner swap for American flier Eugene Hasenfus, on trial before a People's Tribunal for his part in supplying weapons to Nicaragua's Contra rebels.

Bell, who came to Managua last week to advise Hasenfus's Nicaraguan lawyer, Enrique Sotelo Borgen, offered Monday to try to work out a long-shot deal to exchange Hasenfus for 19 Nicaraguans held in U.S. prisons.

All but one of the 19 are in prison on drug-related charges and Bell admitted there was "hardly any chance" such an exchange would take place.

Leaders Gather For Funeral

MAPUTO, Mozambique (UPI) — Thousands of mourners lined the streets and main square of the capital today as President Samora Machel's body was placed on a newly painted gun carriage for the slow drive to his burial place in a tomb reserved for national heroes.

The charismatic 53-year-old Marxist, who led his country's struggle for independence from Portugal, died Oct. 19 in an airplane crash that is being investigated jointly by South African, Mozambican and Soviet experts.

Controversy continued to overshadow the solemn occasion with allegations that South Africans plotted his death.

Tampa Transients Mutilated In Vicious Attack

TAMPA (UPI) — Two transients slashed repeatedly by two black men wielding large, broad-bladed machetes were in critical condition at Tampa General Hospital today after undergoing hours of surgery to repair their wounds.

A third victim of the savage, an apparently unprovoked attack was reported in stable but improving condition.

Their assailants — described by witnesses as in their 20s and each about 6-foot tall — remained at large.

Michael Ellis Morris, 57, and Robert James Bronson, 46, were in critical condition, while William Bonker, 35, was in stable and improving condition. All three are white and police said they had "at large" addresses.

The attack occurred about 11 p.m. Sunday and Morris and Bronson were in surgery until late Monday.

A police spokesman said the transients were sleeping in an alcove of a closed blood plasma center to avoid steady rain when they were attacked.

Colombian Journalist Released

MIAMI (UPI) — A Colombian journalist whose name is listed in an Immigration and Naturalization Service "lookout book" of suspected subversives was freed after being detained for less than 24 hours in a Miami hotel.

INS officials said Monday they were satisfied with Olga Behar's explanation that she was in the United States to visit her sister. They refused to elaborate on their reasons for detaining the Mexico City-based journalist, who writes for a small Bogota, Colombia weekly called Zona.

"The immigration inspector has the responsibility of determining whether someone is excludable, and there were questions raised on security matters," said Perry Rivkind, district director of the INS.

Activist Heads West On Mower

MIAMI (UPI) — Driving a souped-up lawn mower to symbolize "trimming the nuclear arms race," Ben Garcia traveled nearly 1,200 miles down the Eastern Seaboard and pointed his vehicle west.

Garcia passed through Miami Monday and stopped long enough to have the lawn mower serviced on his way into the Everglades. He drove 1,182 miles from Portland, Maine to south Florida and intends to take his anti-nuclear message all the way to Los Angeles.

"We have to trim the nuclear arms race," Garcia said. "If you drop one bomb, especially in light of the Chernobyl incident, what is going to happen to the world?"

Despite his extensive experience with mowers, Garcia said he last cut his own lawn about three years ago after surviving one of six heart attacks. Yes, he said, he has been asked to cut lawns along the way, "by about 4,000 people."

Florida Income Up 1.6%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Floridians personal income rose 1.6 percent in the second quarter of 1986, second only to Arizona at 2.3 percent and Nevada at 1.7 percent, the Commerce Department said Monday.

Arizonans watched their income swell by more than twice the national average in the April-June period. Wage boosts from manufacturers, state and local governments and especially tourist-related service industries contributed to the rise.

By region, growth of income from all sources except agriculture — total non-farm personal income — was strongest in the Far West.

Cumulative income growth was an estimated 1.5 percent in California, Nevada, Oregon and Washington, followed by 1.2 percent in the mid-Atlantic states and 1.1 percent in the Northeast, according to a survey taken by the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis.

The national average was 1 percent. Income creation in the Far West was spread across the industry spectrum, with advances in durable and non-durable manufacturing and service industries, bureau analysts said.

California, Kansas and Wyoming experience wage rises of 1.5 percent. New York, New Jersey and North Carolina posted 1.4 percent gains. Income growth was 1.3 percent in Illinois, Georgia, Oregon, Minnesota, Connecticut and Hawaii.

Arizonans have seen their total income rise by 9.7 percent since the second quarter of 1985, tying New Hampshire for the swiftest pace of income creation over the last year.

But the Southwest as a region did not fare so well. Overall income growth in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and even Arizona, held back by a lull in oil and natural gas drilling activity, rose only 0.8 percent in the second quarter.

The Great Lakes region also showed a sluggish 0.8 percent rise, while the Plains states, the Southeast and Rocky Mountain states held to the national average of 1 percent.

Alaska, hit hard by the drop in energy drilling and exploration, saw its income fall 0.9 percent during the quarter and 0.2 percent over the past year.

The drop in mining income also hit Louisiana, where total income fell 0.9 percent, and sluggish industrial production accounted for a 0.9 percent drop in Delaware. Non-farm income remained virtually unchanged in Michigan but advanced in the other 46 states.

The quarterly figures contrast somewhat with those of the first quarter. In the January-March period, income growth was strongest in the Northeast, up 2 percent over the previous period.

The Northeast as a region still leads the nation in income creation over the past year, with 6.8 percent growth, followed closely by gains of 6.6 percent in the Far West and Hawaii. The Plains states trailed the nation — excluding Alaska — with 4.1 percent.

The national average for the year was 5.5 percent.

Farm income is usually excluded because government subsidies cause broad swings in agricultural income. If it is included, income increased 1.4 percent nationwide during the period, led by a 13.4 percent gain in North Dakota.

Study: Government Shutdown Cost $33 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This month's half-day shutdown of the federal government, forced by congressional squabbling over a spending bill, cost taxpayers at least $33 million, said a study released Monday.

About $28 million of that will be paid to 556,000 furloughed employees despite their time off, said Andrew Feinstein, staff director of the House civil service subcommittee, which conducted the study.

Other costs included printing furlough notices, securing files and shutting down computer system, Feinstein said, basing his estimate on figures from two previous government shutdowns.

But Edwin Dale, a spokesman for the Office of Management and Budget, disputed the study's findings.

"We just don't think there's a proper method for estimating the cost of a shutdown," he said.

Twenty-five percent of the federal workforce, from National Park Service employees in the Rocky Mountains to office workers in the nation's capital, were sent home at noon Oct. 17.

At NASA, 99.8 percent of the space agency's 21,911 employees were deemed non-essential and eligible for the half-day holiday, along with 98.3 percent of the people working for the Education Department, and 73.4 percent of the Treasury Department's employees.

After an agreement was reached on the government spending bill, which triggered the shutdown, Congress approved a provision to pay the workers for the afternoon they were sent home.

"It was Congress' fault that it happened... they figured it was an injustice to these people," a Reagan administration official said.

The subcommittee study estimated the government loses $62 million a day — in salaries, administrative costs and lost productivity — when it closes non-essential services.

Since this year's shutdown lasted only half a day, the study estimated the cost at $33 million.

Feinstein said it is impossible to calculate "lost fees for people entering national parks that day, or the cost of catching that many fewer people cheating on their taxes because auditors were not working."

"It is shocking that we are making victims of the taxpayer and innocent government workers," said subcommittee Chairwoman Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo.

Hostage's Sister Criticizes U.S. Release Efforts

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The sister of hostage Terry Anderson criticized the Reagan administration's efforts to win his release from Lebanese captors and urged school children to send him letters to mark his 50th birthday today.

"I think it's important to note that Terry's been held longer than the Iranian hostages, the Achille Lauro, the TWA (jettisoned hostages) and Nick Daniloff put together," said Peggy Say at a news conference.

Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press and a native of Batavia, N.Y., was kidnapped in Beirut March 16, 1985.

"I won't be satisfied about what is being done until Terry and the others come home," said Say, adding, "I think everybody has to question the wisdom of quiet diplomacy. It's never been an issue in any other hostage situation. I don't understand how it happens to be one now."

Say said it seemed the hostages have been "sentenced to serve an unnamed term for an unspecified crime by the use of quiet diplomacy."

The Reagan administration has refused to detail what is being done to attempt to free the hostages.

Their captors, a pro-Iranian Muslim group called Islamic Jihad, has demanded the release of 17 convicted terrorists in Kuwait in return for release of the hostages.

Rogers Quietly Moves To Front Of County Pack

Robin Rogers has quietly stepped into the Seminole County spotlight this cross country season and has not relinquished his leading role. His record against county runners remains unblemished.

The Lyman High School junior has the top county time of 14:57.8, which he ran Saturday at the Gator Invitational held in Gainesville.

"Robin, biomechanically, is one of the best runners I've ever coached," Lyman coach Fred Finke said. "He's a level-headed kid and really doesn't demand any attention so I can concentrate on my other runners."

Rogers has won four major races this season and has never been out of the top five in every meet. His competitiveness and determination, along with a summer in which he logged over 700 miles has turned Rogers into a state contender.

"His goal for the state meet is to finish in the top five," Finke said. "And when you run that well, it's just a matter of who is on a better day that separates first from fifth."

Rogers' long-range goals are to some day compete in marathons.

"I'm not going to worry about that until after college," Rogers said. "I'll just take it step by step until then."

Rogers came off a hamstring injury last season and said he has steadily been brought back to form by both Finke and Olympic trainer Dr. Bornstein who has put Rogers through orthotics, which is a slow-healing process.

"I had to pull him off the track last season and tell him the season was over for him after the Freshman-Sophomore meet," Finke said. "I think he might have been a little upset at the time but he understood and has really come on this year."

Finke believes a large amount of credit goes to Rogers' parents for the support.

"They never push Robin," Finke said. "They're always behind whether he runs 18 minutes or 13 minutes. His parents are always out to see him run and are behind the program 100 percent."

Rogers also excels in the classroom as his grade point average is above 3.0 out of a possible 4.0.

"He fits in well with the team," Finke said. "The only difference with him and the others is that he is usually out in front of them."

Finke also feels Rogers takes some pressure away from him as a coach.

"Our only conversation after a run is usually 'how are you doing?' and he usually says 'fine' and I can concentrate on the rest of the runners."

Though Rogers is coming off one of his major goals for the season, breaking 15 minutes, he is still preparing for the district, regional and state meets.

Though many runners may have the pressure on them right now, Rogers seems to have a relaxed approach for the upcoming meets.

"I'll worry about those meets when the time comes," Rogers said. "I'm just hoping the team wins."

Rogers is planning to stay in Florida to continue his running career and is looking at Florida State as a possibility.

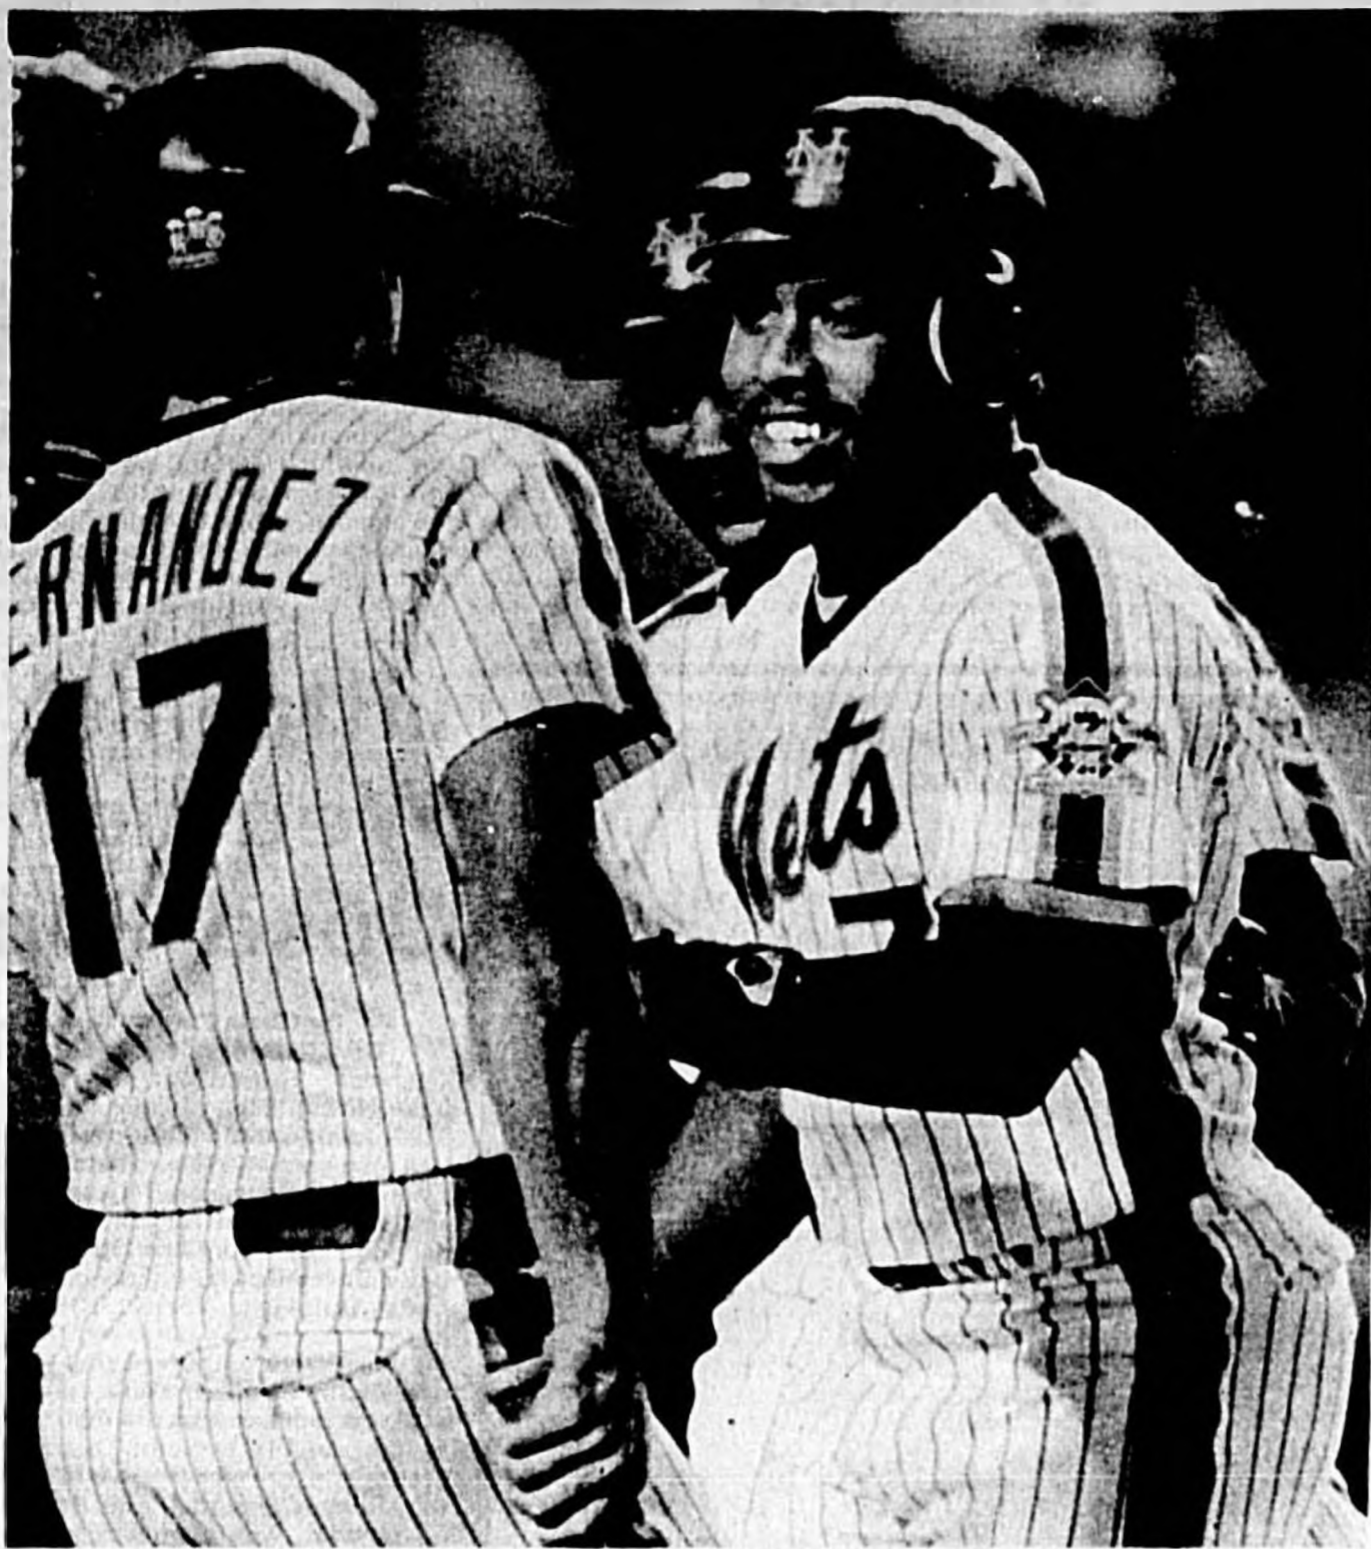

"I want to stay in Florida. I'm not real sure of which college yet, though," he said.

Finke and Rogers will look to be ready Nov. 8 for the district race which has three tough runners competing for the individual title. Alan Salyers of Colonial, Ken Gamber of Winter Park and Rogers will look to hook up in a battle to the finish.

Rogers has the edge as he has defeated both runners in the last few races to gain confidence and momentum going into the district race.

Comeback Mets Collapse Boston

New York Overhauls 3-0 Deficit To Capture Baseball's Top Prize

World Series

NEW YORK (UPI) — Comeback has been the No. 1 characteristic of the 1986 New York Mets. Collapse has been the trademark of the Boston Red Sox for the last 68 years.

So when Boston led 3-0 in the sixth inning of Game 7, with its hottest pitcher on the mound Monday night, the outcome of the World Series was never in doubt.

The Mets would win. Sure enough, they did.

"This club has shown the ability to come back from adversity all season," Keith Hernandez said after New York captured its first Series crown since 1969 with an 8-5 victory. "We had our backs against the wall in the league championship series, and it came down to winning four of five (games) from Boston."

"When we were down 3-0 tonight, I said on the bench that if we could tie it up, we'll win it. And we did."

Of course they did. After all, they were playing the Red Sox, who have now lost four straight Game 7s in the World Series since Babe Ruth pitched them to the championship in 1918.

Three times they were one strike away from wrapping up the title Saturday night, but a Bob Stanley wild pitch and a Bill Buckner error made them play another game.

And that, of course, meant another loss.

"We'll probably be remembered as chokers," said second baseman Marty Barrett, who tied a Series record with 13 hits. "But we were supposed to come in fifth place."

"I don't care what the fans think. (Game 6) was a one in a million comeback ... and they did it."

The Mets did it again Monday night. But to win, they had to follow the formula: give the Red Sox an early lead, then roar back. Make 'em think they have a chance, then snatch victory away.

Dwight Evans, who drove in nine runs in the Series to set a club record, homered off Ron Darling leading off the second. Rich Gedman, the next hitter, then belted a 1-2 pitch that deflected off right fielder Darryl Strawberry's glove and over the wall for a 2-0 advantage. Wade Boggs' two-out RBI single gave Boston a three-run edge.

Meanwhile, Bruce Hurst was dominating the Mets. The left-hander, seeking to become the first to win three Series games since Mickey Lolich in 1968, allowed just one single through 5 1-3 innings. But it all came apart after that.

"My job at that point was to protect the lead and not let it slip away," said Hurst, who was able to pitch on three days' rest after Sunday night's rainout. "That

Champagne Drowns Tension, Anxiety

NEW YORK (UPI) — A season's worth of tension and anxiety was drowned in a sea of champagne Monday night in the New York Mets clubhouse.

Even before spring training commenced, the Mets were expected to be the best team in baseball. They relished the role of favorites, both playing and acting as if they were baseball's best.

"It's something this team had to face all year," said outfielder Mookie Wilson. "It was, 'You guys were supposed to win it. If you don't, maybe you were overpublicized.' We heard that all year."

"People said we weren't as good as we thought we were. But we were good enough to win the championship, and that should quiet people."

The Mets won the championship with an 8-5 victory in Game 7 of the World Series. As the champagne flowed and the television cameras rolled, the Mets embraced and chanted, "Let's Go Mets."

If not for the World Series victory, the club-record 108 victories, the 21 1-2-game winning margin in the National League East and tough NL Championship Series triumph would have meant little.

"The season just would have felt like a long one after accomplishing what we did and not winning it all," said outfielder Darryl Strawberry. "You have to be pleased with the way things turned out, but it would have been a very disappointing season for this ballclub if we hadn't won."

According to second baseman Wally Backman, the Mets still have not fulfilled their own expectations.

"Even when we did win this thing we still didn't show the best Mets," he said. "We were the better ballclub, but we didn't play good for a few ballgames and put our backs against the wall."

"We made the situation where we had to play well or it was over. And we rose. We played well. We got it to the seventh game, and we showed them who was boss."

New York faced almost certain defeat in Game 6, trailing by two runs in the 10th inning with two out and no one on base. Three times they were one strike away from ultimate defeat. In Game 7, they overcame a three-run deficit.

"In the bad old days, three runs down and this club would have died," Wilson said. "We just would have went through the motions and wait for the game to be over. The most impressive thing about this club is that these doggone guys never give up. Nothing seems to stun 'em."

"If I never accomplish anything else in baseball — and I have every intention of accomplishing more — I don't think anything could ever replace your first championship."

"This is probably the greatest feeling since I started playing ball, and I've been playing a long time."

FANS: WAIT 'TIL NEXT YEAR

BOSTON (UPI) — As quiet, subdued Red Sox fans filed out of watering holes near a darkened Fenway Park, one unifying promise seemed to emerge from many of the emotionally drained faithful: "Wait 'til next year."

With only a few bitter remarks toward the team's performance, fans stared in shock and disbelief as the final out was made, ending the game that gave the New York Mets the World Series title over Boston Monday night.

"I really thought they were going to do it," said Marc Crenner, a manager at the Cask 'N Flagon, located in Fenway's shadow. "We can say anything we want but what's done is done. Wait 'til next year."

"I know a lot of people said that if the Red Sox lose, they shouldn't come back to Boston," said Scott Tyldesley, a bouncer at the tavern.

"But they deserve a warm welcome back to town," he said following New York's come-from-behind 8-5 win.

Even before the last pitch was thrown, the bars were being emptied as the sometimes tearful fans milled about nearby Kenmore Square. They quickly dispersed under the watchful eyes of dozens of Boston Police officers, who stood by silently.

Throughout the crucial Game 7, Red Sox faithful sat teetering on their chairs and cemented to their television sets, riding an emotional roller coaster each time it looked as though Boston would regain control over the Mets.

"It's a tough break," said Matthew Montano. "They should have won it Saturday night. They'll be in the playoffs next year. They have a good club but they just had a few tough breaks."

The year that was touted as "The Possible Dream" for the Red Sox gave way to improbable nightmares in the World Series, as Boston came within a whisker of winning its first title since 1918.

"That's baseball. It's one of those things," said 92-year-old Dick Casey, an usher at Fenway Park when the Red Sox won the 1918 World Series. "Now I have to wait until next year."

Rozelle Plan Blocked; Union Claims Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The NFL players union is claiming victory following an arbitrator's ruling that blocked Commissioner Pete Rozelle's unprecedented plan to randomly test players for illegal drugs.

Arbitrator Richard Kasher ruled Monday that Rozelle's plan violates the players contract with management and the commissioner lacks the authority to implement such a program without going through the usual bargaining process with the union.

Kasher's ruling, issued from Bryn Mawr, Pa., came in response to a grievance filed by the NFL Players Association.

In a 78-page decision, Kasher said Rozelle could not unilaterally alter the 1982 collective bargaining agreement, ruling the commissioner is not endowed with "absolute" and "unqualified" power.

"It was a victory for the players from the standpoint that we were trying to protect the collective bargaining agreement," said Gene Upshaw, the executive director of the union.

"This is probably the most important decision concerning the commissioner's powers that has ever come down," Upshaw said. "We feel very strongly about our collective bargaining agreement. We had an obligation and a duty to go out and protect it and that's exactly what we've done."

However, Kasher's ruling was not an unqualified victory for the union.

The decision upheld the commissioner's "general rights to impose discipline," giving him the power to implement a program of fines and suspensions against players found to be using drugs. Kasher also endorsed a central laboratory designated by Rozelle to handle the processing of the tests, which the union had opposed.

Jack Donlan, the executive director of the NFL

Management Council, the bargaining arm of team owners, downplayed the importance of Kasher's decision because it came in the final year of the five-year agreement.

"I've said from the very beginning we're going to be in negotiations over this issue no matter what the award is," Donlan said in a telephone interview with United Press International. "I'm sure the union is not going to like certain parts of the award. Obviously, we don't like certain parts."

"I'm gratified that the arbitrator has upheld this office's authority to institute an augmented drug program of education, treatment and discipline," Rozelle said in a statement. "I'm disappointed, however, that he has ruled against unscheduled drug testing. I am convinced that minimal, unscheduled testing is a necessary part of any fully effective, league-wide anti-drug program."

The collective bargaining agreement allows the NFL's 28 teams to test players for drugs during the mandatory preseason physicals and during the regular season only when a team doctor rules there is "reasonable cause" to suspect drug use.

Parcells' Experiments Pay Giants A Dividend

Football

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — New York Giants Coach Bill Parcells did some experimenting Monday night and found the formula to cure his team's offensive ills.

Parcells wanted to try different formations and personnel combinations against the Washington Redskins to snap the Giants from their scoring slump. The Giants opened the game with two tight ends for the first time, and the new look confused the Redskins and helped Joe Morris to an 181-yard rushing game.

Morris scored twice, including on a 13-yard run with 1:38 remaining, to lift the Giants to a 27-20 victory and into a three-way tie with Washington and the Dallas Cowboys for first in the NFC East.

"We didn't plan to use it that much," Parcells said of the two-tight end look, "but once we got it going we were going to try and make them stop it. We're just trying to get a little bit more power."

The Giants occasionally have used two tight ends on short-yardage situations. But because Mark Bavaro and Zeke Mowatt are the only tight ends on the roster, Parcells resisted using them together. Injuries to both players also made using them together difficult.

However, the Giants needed offensive change after a 17-12 loss to Seattle. They used Otis Anderson at fullback Monday and found him to be a pretty solid blocker. The Giants even paired Anderson and Tony Galbreath in the backfield on their second possession in hopes of taking some pressure off Morris.

Morris turned into the workhorse anyway. He carried 31 times to roll up the second biggest game of his career and the fourth largest single-game rushing total in Giants history. His 11-yard TD run gave New York a 10-0 lead en route to a short-lived 20-3 advantage.

Morris declined to talk after the game, but his teammates praised him.

"I'm going to let the statistics speak for his accomplishments," New York center Bart Oates said. "I can't speak any better than what he did on the field. I can give you a lot of adjectives. Like superb, outstanding, wonderful, determined ..."

"I thought Morris was great," Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs said.

Brown's, Sanford Rake In More Ribbons

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The way Brown's Gymnastics and Sanford Gymnastics Association competitors have been performing in 1986, the two clubs might consider renting a storage facility for all those ribbons the gymnasts are winning.

Brown's and the SGA raked in some more ribbons this past weekend at the Class IV Qualifying Meet at the Brown's gym in Altamonte Springs. It was the last qualifying meet before the Class IV Sectional Meet which is being held Nov. 22-23 at Bay Meadows Gymnastics in Jacksonville. The sectional meet gives gymnasts one last chance to qualify for December's state championships.

Leading the Brown's group were four state qualifiers in the 9-11 age group. They included Kim Ford (32.10 all-around), Tasha Matheson (31.85), Amy Arnold (31.80), Marissa Gray-Lewis (31.30) and Jennifer Durs (31.20). Those five join eight other in the 9-11 age group who qualified for state at the first meet of the season. The initial qualifiers are Lynn Kennedy, Jennifer Dickinson, Stefanie Iles, Laura Viles, Melissa Shelley, Kristie Polvani, Angela White and Jenni Beathard.

Brown's also had a pair of 9-11 girls who competed for the first time this past weekend and qualified for sectionals. They include Marri Bear (28.0) and Lauren Gaines (26.60). Wendy Bidwell, who qualified for sectional the first meet, came up with an all-around score of 30.45 this time out and just missed the state score of 31.0.

Joy Gardner qualified for sectional in the 12-14 age group with a score of 29.95 which was led by a dynamic first place performance (9.35) on floor exercise. Jennifer Naylor was a sectional qualifier in the first local meet. Kennedy came away with the all-around title in the 9-11 group this past weekend with an impressive score of 34.70. That included a first on the uneven parallel bars (9.0), third on vault (8.95), fifth on balance beam (8.0) and tied for 10th on floor exercise (8.75).

Gymnastics

Dickinson took third in the all-around at 34.2 including a first on the vault (9.05), third on bars (8.8) and fourth on beam (8.15). Iles was fifth in the all-around (33.7) with an 8.5 vault (tied eighth), bars 8.7 (fifth) and floor 8.85 (eighth).

Viles took sixth in the all-around (33.0) with an 8.65 bars (seventh) and beam 7.95 (tie sixth). Shelley's 32.90 all-around was good for eighth place and was led by an 8.75 on the bars (fourth) and beam 7.95 (tie sixth).

Polvani followed in ninth in the all-around with a 32.65 led by an 8.8 on the vault (fourth).

Also taking individual ribbons for Brown's were White on the vault (8.6, seventh); Ford on the vault (8.5, eighth) and bars (8.3, ninth); Matheson on the floor (9.05, fourth); Arnold on the beam (7.9, ninth) and Gaines on the floor (8.75, tie 10th).

Brown's also had three competitors in the 7-8 age division qualify for the sectional meet.

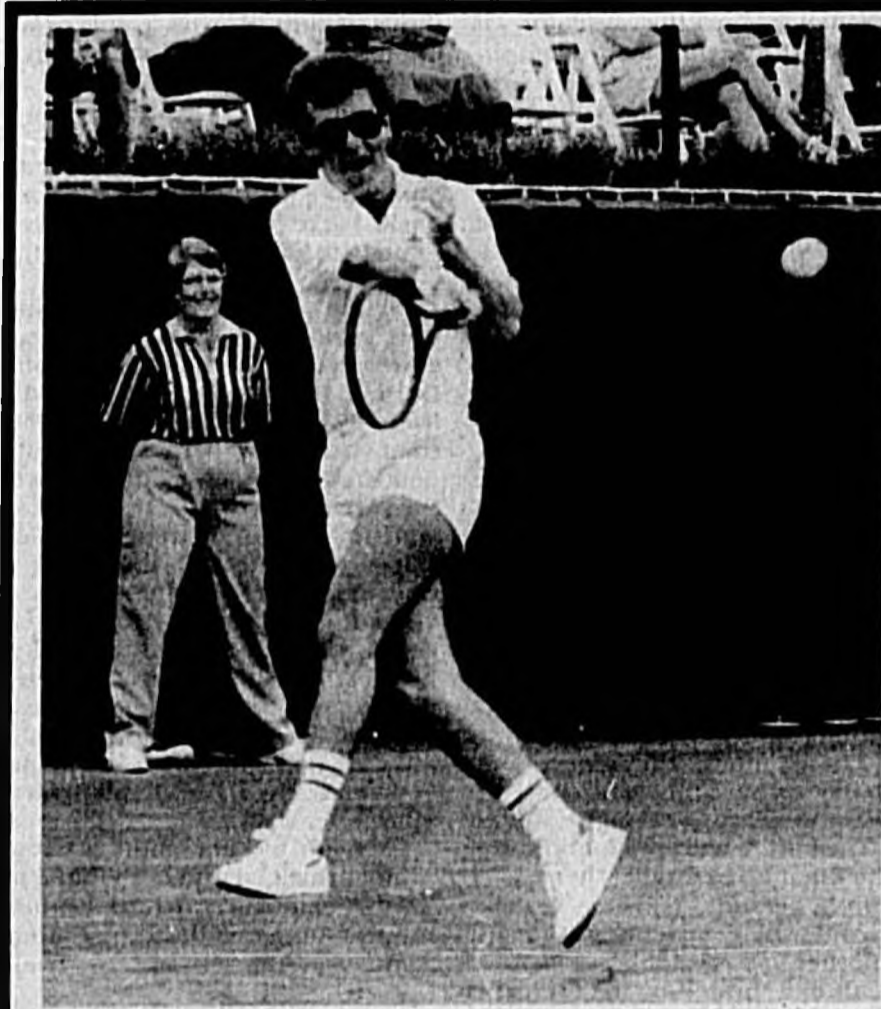

Leading the way was Tracy Tombros who claimed sixth in the all-around with a score of 29.95. That included an 8.55 on the vault (second), beam 7.0 (third) and floor 8.6 (fourth).

Jessica Durs qualified behind an 8.35 vault (third), beam 6.8 (fourth) and floor 8.45 (sixth) while Allison Bartholomew qualified with a 7.3 on the bars (fourth) leading the way. For the Sanford Gymnastics Association, Sammy Wongsuwan and Brett Leckie turned in excellent performances to qualify for the Class IV State Meet.

Wongsuwan tied for sixth in the all-around in the 9-11 age group with a score of 33.0 with a third place on the beam (8.25) and sixth on floor exercise (8.95) paving the way. Leckie finished with an all-around score of 31.0 led by a 10th on the beam at 7.9.

Previous sectional qualifiers who competed this past weekend were Abbie McClintock (28.0 all-around) and Christen Horn (22.2). Also competing for the SGA in the 9-11 group were Darna Ferguson (25.4), Karen Nicholas (22.7) and Jenny Garber (18.85).

SGA representatives in the 12-14 age group were Litsa Halkis (22.5), Tammy Woods (22.9) and Kim Allen (19.3). Halkis took home a sixth-place ribbon in the vault with a score of 8.4.

'In The Thicke Of It'

An exhausted Alan Thicke and a rested Bill Cosby, right, shake hands following a point in Heathrow's Royal Grand Prix Tennis Tournament Saturday. Actually, Cosby was jokingly apologizing to Thicke for allowing his partner to run him ragged. Cosby, dancing upper right, left the court, as did Thicke's doubles partner, while Cosby's partner Vitas Gerulaitis ran Thicke from side to side before finally putting him away. Cosby entertained the crowd with his play by play: "Alan, this guy played at Wimbledon. What are you doing on the same court with him? You can't play with this guy. He's a pro." Thicke, upper left, kept up for a while before finally running out of gas. Cosby and Gerulaitis proved to be a winning combination Saturday but Cosby couldn't return for Sunday's finals. Dynasty's John Forsythe and pro V.J. Arnitraj won the celebrity doubles competition while Gerulaitis and stand-in Janet Jones finished second. In the corporate doubles, Jennifer Savidge and Howard Freedman finished first while Jack Gilardi and Don Budge were second. Dale Barnett, an account manager for JFP and Associates, said Jeno Paulucci's tournament raised $50,000 for the Transplantation Immunology Research Funda at the Duke University Medical School, $10,000 for the Florida Symphony Orchestra and $10,000 for the Miami University Mallman Center.

Littrell's 'Stormi' Weather Rains Upset On DeLand

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

It was "Stormi" weather at Lake Howell High Monday night as DeLand's Lady Bulldogs visited for a nonconference match.

Stormi Littrell served up seven straight points in the third and deciding game as Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks upended the Lady Bulldogs, 15-13, 13-15, 15-3.

Lake Howell improved to 11-7 overall and strengthened its shot at a top four seed in the district by downing 4A DeLand. District seedings are based on 4A, non-tournament records, and Monday's win would make Lake Howell's mark 7-5.

The Lady Hawks return to SAC play (5-3 record) tonight at home against Lake Brantley (5-15 overall, 3-5 SAC).

Monday night marked the first time Littrell has been used for her booming serve. She had been injured early in the season in the Winter Park Tournament.

"Her (Littrell's) serving really got us going in the third game," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "It's really the first match she's been at full strength since her injury."

Manuel served the Lady Hawks from a 6-3 lead to a commanding 13-3 lead with two of her serves being aces. Lake Howell got the ball right back and closed out the match on Tammy Lewis' serve with Carey Manuel's front row play paving the way. Manuel came up with a block for the 14th point and put down a spike for the 15th and final point.

Volleyball

"I haven't used Carey (Manuel) that often this year," Luciano said. "But she's improved significantly over the past two weeks."

Neither team had more than a four-point lead in the opening game and it went down to the wire tied at 13-13. A missed spike by DeLand gave Lake Howell a side out and Jaudon Jonas served the 14th and 15th points.

OAK RIDGE DROPS LYMAN

Lyman's Lady Greyhounds played a valiant defensive game Monday night but could not match Oak Ridge's offensive output as the Lady Greyhounds dropped a 15-5, 15-9 decision at Orlando.

Lyman, 0-11 overall, returns to SAC play (0-8) tonight at Oviedo. The last time Lyman met Oviedo, the Lady Greyhounds took the Lady Lions to three games before bowing out.

"Our defense covered well all night but we stayed on defense too long," Lyman coach Karen Newman said. "We need to pick up some more offense."

Defensively, Newman said Diana Boyesen picked up a number of spikes by Oak Ridge's big front line while Jodie Vega's hard serve accounted for most of Lyman's points.

Offensively, Newman said Julia Callerman and Emily Rosenfeld had their moments.

Oviedo Blizzard Buries Kowgirls

OSCEOLA — Kissimmee Osceola's Kowgirls were buried by a blizzard of spikes by the Oviedo trio of Jill Knutson, Suzanne Hughes and Kelly Price Monday night as the Lady Lions roared to a 15-4, 15-10 victory at Oviedo High.

Oviedo ran its record to 18-2 overall with its ninth consecutive victory. The Lady Lions return to Seminole Athletic Conference (7-1 record) play tonight at home against Lyman High.

Knutson, Hughes and Price combined for 91 percent accuracy (32 of 35) in spiking on the night. Knutson, a multitiered junior, converted 13 of 14 times she was set while Hughes, a promising sophomore, converted on 10 of 11 and Price, a relentless senior, 9 of 10.

"Suzanne (Hughes) had one of her better games tonight," Oviedo coach Anita Carlson said. "And Jill (Knutson) and Kelly (Price) put down some excellent spikes."

Most of Oviedo's points in the match came on the hitting of Knutson, Hughes and Price while Kelly Davidson and Knutson did some crafty setting and Cindy Wood had a solid serving game. Wood, Mikki Eby and Trudy Ferguson did an excellent job handling the serve of the Kowgirls.

Wood broke open a close first game by serving the eighth through 13th points. In game two, Osceola stayed within 12-10 until Davidson served an ace for the 13th point and Kim Marr's hit was good for the 14th point.

Kissimmee had the serve two more times, but Knutson and Price cranked out impressive spikes to kill any Kowgirl hopes for a rally. Eby then came on to serve the 15th point and it came on another "Jill Kill" by Knutson.

Crowd-Pleaser Pernfors Trims Hlasek

PARIS (UPI) — Sixth-seed Mikael Pernfors of Sweden brought a Paris crowd to its feet for the second time in four months Monday with a spectacular 6-3, 7-6 (7-5) victory over Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland in the first round of the $625,000 Paris Open indoor tennis tournament.

The stocky Pernfors, 23, who gained his first fame in tennis by reaching the French Open final in June, fought off set point three times in the second set to win the two-hour battle over the 6-foot, 3-inch Hlasek.

Kevin Curren of the United States advanced to a likely second round meeting with two-time Wimbledon champion Boris Becker of West Germany by defeating Czechoslovak Tomas Smid, 7-6 (7-2), 6-3. Becker plays qualifier Hector Nunez of Ecuador in the first round Wednesday.

Sweden's Jonas Svensson outfoxed the hulking 6-foot, 7-inch Milan Srejber of Czechoslovakia with clever passing shots and lobs for a 6-4, 6-2 victory. Spanish qualifier Sergio Casal defeated Matt Anger of the United States, 6-2, 6-1, and Italian Paolo Cane beat Mexican Francisco Maciel, 6-7 (5-7), 6-3, 6-0.

Tennis

"I suppose in the back of my mind I think about it a little but I try to play well wherever I am," Pernfors said of his return to Paris for the indoor event, which carries the top prize money of any non-Grand Slam tournament this season, including about $100,000 for the winner.

"I'm sure the memory of Roland Garros means something."

Pernfors, currently ranked 11th in the world, was a rising, but little known, player on the circuit before making the French Open final, where he lost to Ivan Lendl.

He defeated Hlasek with tenacity on long exchanges and clever play at the net. He brought the thin crowd at Bercy Arena to its feet in applause when he fought off set point with a behind-the-back volley.

The South African-born Curren, 28, showed the devastating serve against Smid he will need if he faces Becker in the second round, which would be a replay of the 1985 Wimbledon final won by the West German.

Becker, coming off consecutive victories in Sydney and Tokyo, asked organizers not to schedule his first round match until Wednesday.

Frenchman Yannick Noah, the second seed, is to play Sweden's Jan Gunnarsson and fourth seeded Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia meets Frenchman Tarik Benhabiles among Tuesday's matches.

Football

"I'm not sure whether we are good enough to have a chance to beat them. They are without question the most talented team in the country — the results of their games and their ranking prove that. This is one game where we can't make mistakes. If we do, we'll have no chance."

DYE: STILL HAVE BEST

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Bo Jackson may be gone, but Auburn Coach Pat Dye says the Tigers still have the best run-ing back in the nation.

Brent Fullwood, who spent three years as a backup to the 1986 Heisman Trophy winner, has jumped into the spotlight to lead Auburn to a 7-0 record this year. The 5-11, 209-pound senior tailback rushed for 179 yards and three touchdowns against Mississippi State Saturday night to earn United Press International's Southeast Offensive Player of the Week award.

"I still say he's the best running back in America," Dye said. "They can talk about Lorenzo White at Michigan State and anyone else they want. Don't ask me. Ask the people that play against him."

Add Mississippi State to the list of Fullwood converts. He broke what was expected to be a close game open early in the second quarter by racing 88 yards for the second longest rushing touchdown in Auburn history.

Fullwood, who has had a variety of minor ailments this year, would own the record if he hadn't been caught from behind at his own 11 after an 85-yard run against Tennessee earlier this year. Against Mississippi

State, Fullwood said he was determined not to be caught.

"It felt good because I had heard people say that I was getting fat and slow," Fullwood said. "I proved that I still have breakaway speed."

Fullwood also proved he can be as hard as Jackson was to bring down, dragging Bulldog linebacker Willie Monroe for several yards before breaking his grasp and powering through three more tacklers on a 10-yard TD run in the third quarter.

"He plays like that every week," Dye said. "The opposition changes — Brent doesn't."

Bowden: Best In Nation Vs. Not Too Bad — Fullwood Cited

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida State offense, which has bettered 50 points in each of its last three games, has three players questionable for its showdown with No. 1 Miami Saturday.

Tailback Victor Floyd, who has rushed for 419 yards and four touchdowns, strained knee ligaments in the third quarter of a 54-18 victory Saturday over Louisville. Floyd, with 110 yards on 18 carries against the Cardinals, produced Florida State's lone 100-yard rushing game this season.

Freshman receiver Ronald Lewis and red-shirt freshman guard Tony Yeomans each suffered severe ankle injuries against Louisville. Preliminary X-rays were negative, but trainer Randy Oravetz said both were questionable for the Miami game.

Lewis has caught eight passes for 145 yards this season with three touchdowns as a backup to Darrin Holloman. Yeomans got his first career start against the Cardinals.

"This is a case of the best in the nation going against a team that's not too bad," Coach Bobby Bowden said Monday.

SPORTS

IN BRIEF

Wenzel, Altizer Boot Sanford Under 16 Club Past Deltona, 8-2

Jacob Wenzel and Mike Altizer pumped in two goals each as the Sanford Soccer Club under 16 team romped past Deltona, 8-2, in week six of Central Florida Youth Soccer action.

Also knocking in goals for Sanford were Matt Williams, Chuck Roll, Chris Bowlin and Mitch Albert. Sean Sundvall and Bowlin each played a half at goalkeeper and allowed one goal apiece.

The Sanford under eight squad turned in a strong defensive effort in a 1-1 tie against Winter Park. Sean Gray's first-half goal gave Sanford the early lead but Winter Park finally cracked the tough Sanford defense late in the second half to salvage the tie.

Coach Mike Kyle praised his team's improvement over the past few weeks and said Mike Arrington has shown the biggest improvement on the squad.

In other action, the Sanford under 12 team dropped a 5-0 decision to Matland while the under 10 team fell to Southeast Orland, 6-0.

Leading the Sanford under 12 defense were Neda Williams, Mike Ponzillo, Larry Germain, Greg Rebis and goalie Matt Bowlin. Offensively, Ben Brown and Justin Robinson took several shots on goal but could not get one into the net.

In the under 10 game, Sanford's Tyler Blair allowed only one goal in the first half but the offense could not get on track and Southeast Orland came on strong in the second half. The defense was led by Kelly Williamson, Erica Duffendack, Buddy Keeler and Chris Ponzillo.

Kookaburra II Tops Australia III

FREMANTLE, Australia (UPI) — Upstart Kookaburra II defeated Alan Bond's Australia III by more than two minutes Tuesday to finish the first America's Cup defender series in front of the world's 12-meter champion.

Skipper Peter Gilmour came from behind on the third leg to pass Australia III helmsman Gordon Lucas, dropping Bond's No. 2 boat to 4-6 and upping Kookaburra II to 7-3 and third place.

Kookaburra III, 9-1, retained sole possession of first place with the withdrawal of Eastern Australia's Steak 'n Kidney, 0-10. In the only other race, second-place Australia IV, 8-2, left South Australia a decisive 2:08 behind in the freshening 10- to 16-knot winds.

Australia III, winner of the 12-Meter World Championship last February, was defeated in all four races against Kevin Parry's Kookaburras during the 10-day series.

Horn Apologizes To Players

Oviedo High School freshman football coach John Horn Monday apologized to his team for ordering eight players to cut their hair in front of their teammates and then dismissing five players who did not comply.

Horn said he was asked to apologize to the parent of a player and the player but instead said he preferred to make amends in front of the team.

"I expect them to be honest and truthful with me," Horn said this morning. "Offering that deterrent (cutting the hair in front of teammates) was not right."

"I apologize for bringing the scissors out, but not for the rule. That's been a rule here as long as I've been coaching and no one ever said it was wrong."

Horn said the five players dismissed from the team would not play in tonight's season final against Lyman because they had missed three weeks of practice.

Alabama, Nebraska Fall In Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alabama and Nebraska, both losers for the first time this season in weekend action, each fell six spots in the latest UPI Board of Coaches poll.

Alabama dropped from second to eighth after losing to Penn State, 23-3, while Nebraska, which lost 20-10 to Colorado, fell to the No. 9 spot in balloting Monday.

Miami, which was idle over the weekend, held onto the No. 1 spot for the fifth straight week. The Hurricanes, 7-0, received 47 of 50 first-place votes to earn 745 of a possible 750 points.

Only one point separated No. 2 Michigan and third-ranked Penn St.

Wildcats' Defense Nips Bulldogs

Defense rarely dominates in the game of flag football but that was the case Monday in the Sanford Recreation Junior League game between the Wildcats and Bulldogs.

The only player able to keep his flag on long enough to get into the end zone was Neville Fuller and it was his five-yard touchdown run in the second half that lifted the Wildcats to a 6-0 victory.

Boxer, Manager Head For Jail

NEW YORK (UPI) — A boxer and his manager have been ordered to serve prison terms for removing half the padding from the fighter's gloves to win a bout.

Justice Eugene Nardelli Monday sentenced Luis Resto, 30, who has been barred from boxing, to one to three years in prison.

their own ordinances on the protection of local neighborhoods, in relation to allowing uses such as homes for the elderly in residential areas.

"Cities and counties need ordinances to deal with that issue," Martinez said. "They should make sure that there are codes that provide for that type of zoning, and make them current with today's needs."

That issue has been a hot potato in the city of Sanford recently. The city's commission and code enforcement board refused a special exception to operators of an unlicensed Adult Congregate Living Facility to allow their use of a residential home in a residential district as a care home for four elderly women.

The former Tampa mayor said he favors user fees and impact fees to help local governments deal with the costs of growth.

He said the new burdens of water, sewer, and transportation should be paid by the fees, and added that he supports the one-cent sales tax to be used for municipal capital improvements. But he said when the state mandates signalization of certain intersections, "the state should begin paying for it."

He also said he favored the creation of a "Florida Transportation Planning Commission" to deal with roadway planning and funding.

He said municipal landfills should be built using "the latest and best technology" to protect the water table, and that the state should be the leader in toxic waste disposal.

He said county commissions should take the lead in allowing planned growth without intrusion into environmentally sensitive areas such as wetlands.

On education, Martinez said, "Teachers need to be freed from the paper world," favoring computerization technology. "Education is the only workplace I know that's driven by the paper machine of 50 years ago," he said.

When asked about the revitalization of downtown areas, he said laws can be passed, "but you can't revitalize by law. It must be done by spirit."

They join businesswoman and former County Planning and Zoning Board member Dot Meadors, retired Seminole School teacher Kathy Harrison, Casselberry police Department officer Dennis Stewart, and Earl Jesse, meat department employee with a local supermarket. Incumbent District 4 Commissioner Dave Farr is not seeking re-election.

In District 3, realtor A.B. (Bart) Peterson, 31, declared his candidacy this morning. His opponents are incumbent Commissioner Milton Smith, two former City Commissioners, Eddie Keith and A.A. McClanahan; and community volunteer Martha Yancey.

Peterson, whose family has longtime ties to Sanford, prioritizes "strong, progressive leadership seasoned with historic values."

He wants a "pay as you go plan" for locally controlled issues, strong conservation and law enforcement policies and vows as a commissioner, he would be "readily available for the needs of the city as well as those of individual constituents."

Peterson is a licensed mortgage broker, certified appraiser and a member of the Kiwanis, the Elks, and various realty boards. He has a bachelor of science degree in economics from Centre College, Danville, Kent., and has studied valuation procedures and financial analysis at the University of Central Florida.

Eckstein, who ran unsuccessfully earlier this year in the Seminole County School Board primary, is pointing to 18 years as a Seminole School High School social studies teacher and various retail and financial consulting positions in turning his attentions to the District 4 commission seat.

Eckstein says his "effective way of dealing with people, with an outgoing, friendly personality," could be used to alleviate annexation tensions between Sanford and Seminole County.

The county has launched legal challenges to win back land Sanford expanded its borders with through property owners' voluntary annexations. Eckstein said his concern with the city's growth "and its proper management" also extends to sound fiscal planning, including maintenance and subsequent improvement of Sanford's sound credit rating. He also wants a hand in implementation of the city's wastewater management program, which will probably necessitate a second bond be added to the $16.98 million issue Sanford acquired last summer.

Other "priorities" are strong backing for Sanford law enforcement and expanded offerings for youth and the elderly, Eckstein said.

Eckstein has a bachelor of arts degree in History from the University of Florida. He lives at 103 Aldea Drive.

Dennison points to his District 4 qualifications as including prior positions as vice president and general manager of Shoemaker construction, Sanford, in addition to being a retired Lt. Col. with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Dennison said his civilian and military experiences would be used "to have a good, realistic businesslike government" and channeled into growth "so it's conducted in an orderly way."

Dennison also said his abilities as "a good organizer with excellent people skills" make him right for the commission spot.

He moved to Sanford in 1957, and lives at 305 Dogwood Drive.

Mrs. Waller, slated earlier this month to head city hall's new volunteer program, says she's decided to give up the spot in favor of the District 4 run. "I felt I could do more for the city representing my district as a commissioner," she said of the decision.

And, if elected, "I'll give all my time and energy to it," she said.

Mrs. Waller said her priorities are strong drug enforcement policies and maintenance of close working relationships between the city commission and its appointed boards.

Stocks Open Higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks moved up in early moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, up 9.56 Monday, gained 4.35 to 1846.17 in the first few minutes of trading.

Gainers led losers 525 to 360 among the initial 1,320 issues traded.

Early turnover amounted to about 10,500,000 shares.

Analysts attributed most of the Dow's gain Monday to the strong performance of one of its components — Goodyear Tire & Rubber — which ran up on continued takeover speculation, gaining 4 1/2 points in the day's most active trading. It rose another half-point in early trading Tuesday.

Analysts said takeover situations and firm bond prices buoyed the market throughout the session.

Michael Metz of Oppenheimer & Co., while citing "an enormous amount of takeover activity," said investors also are starting to come back into the market, albeit "rather nervously and cautiously."

pledged to the lesser charge of reckless driving.

Selph, who lost his bid for re-election following a defeat in the September primary, was critical of an Orlando newspaper's coverage of the what he called a minor incident. He said the incident received more coverage than it deserved.

The charges followed an accident outside the Tallahassee Hilton in which Selph's car struck a parked car. Powell, who was lobbying for a bill for Bob Snow, owner of Church Street Station in Orlando, first claimed responsibility for the accident. A few hours after the accident, Selph told authorities he was responsible for it. A cabby, however, identified Powell as the man he saw in the car.

A charge against Selph of giving a false report was dropped because he recanted his original story and a DUI charge was dropped because there was no evidence that he had been drinking.

The men were on their way to meet with other legislators at the time of the incident.

Men From Woman's Past Pose Problems In Future Marriage

DEAR ABBY: I am an attractive 46-year-old woman. I have been divorced for three years, during which time I dated several men. I was intimate with two, but not at the same time.

Dear Abby

I met "Jimmy" eight months ago and haven't dated anyone else since we met. I told him the truth about my past relationships with both men. He grew very fond of me and we were having a very loving romance when both of these men from my past dropped in to see me during the same week! I had not had any contact with either of them, and was completely surprised when they showed up at my door!

Unfortunately, Jimmy was here both times, which upset him terribly. I tried to explain that neither man meant a thing to me now, but I suppose I acted flustered and guilty. He doesn't believe me, Abby. I swore that I have had no contact with either man since I met him, but he is not convinced of my innocence.

How can I prove to Jimmy that I have been entirely faithful? We were discussing marriage before this happened. Now he's unsure. Please help me.

HURT IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR HURT: Your word should be sufficient. And if it isn't, don't knock yourself out trying to "prove" your innocence. I suggest you take a good hard look at Jimmy and be grateful for a preview of this stubborn, suspicious man. He has insulted your integrity. Is this the kind of person you want to spend the rest of your life with?

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem I hope to curb before it gets too far out of hand.

Our 8-year-old son lies to us and others. We've tried grounding him, depriving him of things, but he still looks us right in the face and lies. I know it's not a huge problem, but I don't want it to go unchecked.

Our 4-year-old is starting to do the same thing now. Some people say it's just a phase all children go through, but I don't want to have my sons grow up to be the kind of people no one can trust.

Thanks for any help you can give me.

F.E.D. IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR F.E.D.: You are to be commended for wanting to instill truthfulness in your children, and the time to do it is now. All children tell small lies. Some actually confuse facts with fantasies; some lie in order to escape punishment; others just have vivid imaginations.

When your sons lie, let them know that you don't believe them. Don't come on as though they had committed a cardinal sin, but do "discuss" it, and impress upon them the importance of being truthful. (The parable about the little boy who cried "wolf" can be used.)

I realize that there are just so many things a parent can harp on, but making truthfulness a top priority will do more to build a child's character than anything else.

DEAR ABBY: I've read many anti-smoking letters in your column, but I've never seen my biggest gripe: smoking in public rest rooms.

I have seen employees standing in rest rooms doing nothing but smoking. They use the rest room as an excuse to take a cigarette break when they should be on the job.

Department store and restaurant employees are the worst offenders. It is maddening to go into a rest room and practically gag on the smoke, then have another employee or two come in for a smoke.

What can be done? I hope a lot of business owners/managers will see this and take action.

HOLDING MY BREATH

DEAR HOLDING: A complaint directly from the customer to the owners and managers would be more effective than a suggestion from a newspaper columnist. Perhaps one day we will see "Thank you for not smoking" signs in public rest rooms.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JUANITA JAMISON: I thought your answer was wonderful, but how did you expect me to respond when you failed to give me your address, the name of your newspaper or even the city in which you live?

Aquatic Gala To Benefit Red Cross

Four world class swimmers and the Winter Park High School Symphonic Orchestra will combine talents on Nov. 15 to help raise money for the American Red Cross. Event chairman Betty Wyman says the money will assist the local chapter in meeting hurricane disaster needs and assure that essential services of the local chapter are not interrupted.

The Central Florida Chapter of The American Red Cross will sponsor the second Annual Aquatic Extravaganza, Nov. 15, at the Justus Aquatic Center. Synchronized swimming, world class swimmers and divers, and an outstanding meal served around the perimeter of the "world's fastest swimming pool" highlight the evening.

Wyman says, "the evening will be fantastic! It begins with a wonderful meal served at tables placed around the deck of the 50 meter Justus Aquatic Center swimming pool accompanied by music from the Winter Park High School Orchestra. The entire evening is a tribute to the talent of our young people." American Red Cross officials confirmed that Holly Green of Gainesville who finished fourth this year in the World Championships in the 200m backstroke will be among the swimmers demonstrating their skills during the evening.

Jeff Floaf of Sacramento, Calif., who participated in the 200m free at the 1984 Olympics will also be on hand. Craig Beardsley of Harrington Park, N.J., 1980 Olympic team member and Kim Linehan, now living in Sarasota, place in the 400m free style 1984 Olympic will also swim for the extravaganza.

The well-known Lorelei Synchronized Swimming Team of Central Florida will add grace and beauty to the program. Platform divers will thrill the crowd with precision dives that have won them national recognition.

Tickets for this unique evening of music and aquatic entertainment are available from the Central Florida Chapter of The American Red Cross at 894-4141.

- The Leisure Time Program at Seminole Community College announces that the following classes will begin during the week of Nov. 1. "These classes are self-supported by student fees at no expense to the taxpayer," according to Fay C. Brake, supervisor of the program. Registrations are being accepted in the registrar's office at SCC.
- MOTORCYCLE RIDER COURSE (morning to afternoon) - This course is designed to assist in the development and improvement of riding skills necessary for individuals with little or no riding experience. Motorcycles and safety equipment provided. Approved by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation.
- BETTER BIKING PROGRAM (morning to afternoon) - For the experienced motorcycle rider. This program reviews important riding skills such as proper braking, turning, speed selection and countersteering. Use your own motorcycle. Riders need helmet, gloves, boots, jacket and sturdy trousers. Approved by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation.
- GOLF I (Saturday morning classes) - Designed to teach the student the basic techniques of playing golf - stance, swing and how to hold the club. Students should bring a 4 or 5 iron to the first class meeting.
- GOLF II (Saturday morning classes) - Each session will be designed for the development of golf's most common shots such as short game (putting, chipping, short approach and sand shots); the middle irons; and the long game (irons and woods). Students should bring the 4, 6 and 9 irons to the first class meeting.
- TENNIS I (Saturday morning class) - Instruction in the fundamentals of tennis such as grip, stance, forehand, backhand and service. Scoring rules and regulations will also be taught.
- TENNIS II (Saturday morning class) - A follow-up to Tennis I. Designed for those who possess some knowledge of tennis but need help in developing solid ground strokes and more ball control.
- BECOME INTIMATE WITH YOUR CAR (evening class) - Basic instruction in the care and maintenance of your car. The students will learn about the functions of the various components of the automobile and will get involved with some "hands-on" experience on their own vehicles.
- SLIM 'N TRIM/AEROBICS (morning and evening classes) - One and one-half hours of exercise taught by a certified fitness instructor stressing safe, proper methods of exercise. Ten to 15 minutes of warm-up, 20-30 minutes of self-paced, monitored aerobics for cardiovascular endurance, which consists of choreographed exercise movements to music. Forty minutes of standing and floor callisthenic exercises for muscle strength and flexibility with instruction in use of weights for arms and legs. Ten minutes of cool-down.

QUILTING/BEGINNERS THROUGH ADVANCED (evening class) - The following patterns will be taught: Cathedral Window, Log Cabin, Sunbonnet Sue, Grandmother's Flower Garden, plus many more. The patterns may be used to make pillow shams, wall hangings and full size quilts.

DRAWING & SKETCHING (evening class) - Emphasis on fundamentals of charcoal sketching in preparation for painting and working in color. Students will work from still life and landscapes.

FLY TYING (evening class) - This course is designed for both experienced and inexperienced fly tiers. Students will be given detailed instructions in the art of fly tying that will progress from basic to advanced fly patterns.

FISHING ROD BUILDING (evening class) - Custom rod construction allows the angler to build a better fishing rod individualized to his own personal tastes at about half the cost of a manufactured rod. This course will instruct the student in rod designing, making and ordering rod components, and completing the rod assembly.

COLOR, MAKEUP & WARDROBE WORKSHOP (evening class) - Course will cover personal color analysis, makeup selection and application techniques, and will help in the development of an effective wardrobe. Makeup will be removed before the color analysis and makeup sessions begin.

Rose & Angela's Is A Full-Service Salon

Rose & Angela's Beauty Salon a full service salon, is located on Lake Road 434 east of U.S. Highway 17-92 in the Lakewood Center (next to Movie Gallery).

It is a salon for men as well as women which does all kinds of curls and works on all types of hair.

They offer precision cuts, colors, perms, relaxers, weaving facials, manicures (including sculptured nails) and pedicures.

Owners Rose Cantrell and Angela Carter opened their shop on Feb. 28. Rose is a graduate of Creators Beauty School (now Roffler's Beauty College), Forest City, formerly of Jay's in Sanford.

Angela is a graduate of Wilfred Academy, Orlando. Also on the staff is hairstylist Glenda Lewis, a Wilfred graduate. All three are formerly of Green's House of Beauty, Longwood. Glenda has also worked at Arturo's at Altamonte Springs.

They are firm believers in reconditioning and encourage their clients to come in for regular follow-up care. They also explain home hair maintenance and they sell the type of shampoo needed for home use.

And specialize in moisturizing, conditioning and rebalancing dry brittle hair. Every chemical treatment they give is followed up with a deep conditioning. They use Nexus, Carefree, What-a-Curl, Revlon and Elaster products.

Listen to what one of their customers has to say: "The service is top rate. They are always eager to please the customer," said Betty Phillips of Altamonte Springs. "I should know, I come here every week to have my hair done and once or twice a month for a pedicure."

Appointments are not necessary and walk-ins are welcome. Their hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For late appointments call 260-0922.

For a beauty salon that offers up-to-date styles and concern for your hair, Rose, Angela and Glenda say, "We are the ones."

Get Heaters Checked

Now is the time to have a winter maintenance checkup on your heating equipment. Don't wait until cold weather hits to discover you have problems call Barnes Heating and Air Conditioning today at 323-3517.

Owner Ken Barnes is extending his 10 percent discount offer to senior citizens for service and repairs through the month of November.

Barnes Heating and Air Conditioning offers sales, service, installation and repairs. They service most all makes and models of heaters and air conditioners. Free estimates are available.

Ken, who formerly worked for Wall Plumbing and Heating Co. in Sanford for 12 years, has been self-employed for five years in the heating and air conditioning business. Ken has lived in Sanford since 1957 and is a graduate of Seminole High School.

Working with Ken in the business is Ernie Watson, formerly with Southern Air of Sanford Inc. He has 17 years experience in the field.

Bonded, licensed, insured and state registered and certified (RA0042819), Barnes Heating and Air Conditioning is a member of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. They are certified by Florida Power & Light Co. to give rebates in the Watt-Wise program.

"We pride ourselves in prompt courteous service in Seminole and Volusia counties," said Ken.

Some of their recent jobs include installing new air conditioning units in the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building, and installing heating and air conditioning in the new Seminole National Bank building in Sanford.

Buying A Car?

Get The Jim Lash Blue Book Car Treatment

Who knows better about used cars than someone who has been specializing in them all his life? That's right - not a hobby, a sideline or a "get rich scheme," but a career in selling clean, quality, late model cars and trucks. Jim Lash has been serving the car needs of Central Florida for over 30 years in the same location, and in Sanford since 1966. You won't see "Grand Opening" today and gone tomorrow from this dealership. However, you will see many of the same helpful people who have served your car needs over the past years. At Jim Lash's Blue Book Cars, he and son Steve, the general manager, use their knowledge and experience to hand pick each vehicle. This helps the customer take the guess-work out of purchasing a used car or truck. Other comforting notes that each unit is inspected through Blue Book Service Center. Jim Durs, service manager, and his staff use their skills and latest equipment to bring each vehicle to optimum mechanical condition. This is why Blue Book Cars can offer a 30-, 60- or 90-day free service agreement, while most companies either do not offer them, or they are charging for a warranty today. Also important is a large inventory selection to choose from, giving you a price range or payment to fit your budget needs. They also offer direct Barnett Bank financing with preferred customer rates and on-the-spot delivery. Another important point is the clean, fresh appearance of the vehicles. This is achieved by total reconditioning of the car's interior and exterior. Nelson Montalvo, detail manager, and his staff get the job done by having the proper equipment and receiving the years of experienced knowledge from Jim Lash. Credibility is also an important factor when purchasing a used car or truck. Blue Book Cars and Blue Book Service Center are members of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce and the Better Business Bureau. Added to the sales force are Roger Scharlau and Keith Hodge. Roger comes to Blue Book Cars with experience in both new and used cars. Keith formerly sold in Casselberry for four years and invites all his customers to stop by and see his new inventory. All your automotive needs can be taken care at the same location in our Jim Lash's new clean facility at 4114 S. Orlando Drive (Highway 17-92). You can stop and shop under the open showroom, deal in the spacious offices or, if waiting, relax in the customers' lounge at Jim Lash Blue Book Cars.

NASA Confident About Shuttle Booster Design

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — NASA has settled on a new design for the shuttle's faulty booster rockets and a top agency official said Monday he is "quite confident" tests will clear the way for the first post-Challenger launch in February 1989.

But to be on the safe side, the space agency may elect to conduct two additional full-scale test firings of the 14-story boosters, which could play a role in the ultimate launch date.

In any case, John Thomas, manager of the redesign project at the Marshall Space Flight Center, said results of tests so far make him optimistic about making the Feb. 18, 1989, target date for resuming shuttle flights that were suspended when the Challenger was destroyed Jan. 28.

"We see no reason now to deviate from our plan for February 1989," said Thomas.

"Of course, no one knows what the test program might produce, although we're quite confident it's going to be right down the middle and that it is going to confirm that the design we have right now is, in fact, the design we're going to fly."

Challenger was destroyed by a ruptured fuel-segment joint in its right solid-fuel booster. A "preliminary design review" of the new joint configuration, a crucial hurdle, has been completed. Meeting the target date for the first post-Challenger shuttle flight depends on progress testing the new design.

While competing designs for some aspects of the joint are still under study, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has settled on a basic design that features three O-ring seals and a "capture feature" to keep the fuel joints from bulging open during ignition when internal pressure soars to more than 900 pounds per square inch.

"The tests that we've done so far ... I have great confidence in the metal and the O-ring configuration," Thomas said at a news conference.

But an Independent National Research Council panel overseeing the redesign project has suggested the test program needs to be beefed up.

"I, of course, read their recommendation and we understood at the very outset that we had a minimal test program, although sufficient to get us through the redesigns that we had in mind," Thomas said.

He said NASA engineers are examining ways to increase the number of small-scale tests and while only four full-scale test firings currently are planned — the first is set for late January — booster maker Morton Thiokol Inc. has recommended two additional firings.

"There was a proposition by Thiokol when they recommended the two additional motor tests that only one of those would be necessary before flight time," Thomas said. "The two additional motors were added to be tested at the high temperature extreme and the other at the low temperature extreme."

He said the four tests currently planned must be completed by October 1987 to permit a shuttle launch in February 1988.

Morton Thiokol already has test hardware on hand at its Brigham City, Utah, plant featuring some aspects of the new design to study how the new joint fits together and a series of other tests are under way to develop new O-ring material that is more resistant to temperature extremes.

Challenger's faulty booster had two rubber O-ring seals in each of three fuel-segment joints per rocket. The seals were in place to prevent flame from burning propellant inside from escaping in a catastrophic "burn through."

But the joint between the lower two fuel segments of Challenger's right-side booster was weakened at launch by ignition pressure and other factors and later ruptured completely, allowing flame to burn through, triggering the worst disaster in space history.

Thomas said engineers at Morton Thiokol were able to duplicate the Challenger failure during a test firing in September using two booster segments loaded with just enough propellant to simulate ignition pressure.

"Fundamentally, what this did was confirm our earlier conclusions of what happened and also confirmed the design solutions we have under way will, in fact, take care of the problems we did experience," he said. "It only confirmed to us that we're headed in the right direction."

FAA Requires New Equipment To Avoid Midair Collisions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration said Monday it will require sophisticated altitude equipment in planes that operate near the nation's 23 busiest airports to reduce the threat of midair collisions.

FAA chief Donald Engen told a news conference he approved a series of recommendations made by an agency task force investigating the tightly controlled block of air space around major metropolitan regions, known as terminal controlled areas, or TCAs.

The government established those areas in the early 1970s following several midair collisions involving airlines during the preceding decade. The last major midair accident occurred on Aug. 31 when a Mexican jetliner and a small plane collided over suburban Los Angeles, killing 82 people.

The task force recommended that all planes operating in the 23 TCAs be equipped with altitude encoding transponders — beacon devices that tell air traffic controllers the plane's altitude.

Under the current system, an altitude encoding transponder is required for planes operating in only nine of the 23 terminal controlled areas — Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, San Francisco and Washington. The new plan would also require the devices for planes flying near and into Cleveland, Denver, Detroit, Honolulu, Houston, Kansas City, Mo., Las Vegas, Minneapolis, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Seattle, St. Louis and San Diego.

Airliners already carry such devices but other planes are exempted when operating outside the nine busy zones. Under existing regulations, planes flying into and around the 14 busy zones can carry just a basic transponder that does not provide the air traffic controller with information about a plane's altitude.

The FAA said it would take at least eight months to draw up these regulations and to implement them. An altitude encoding transponder costs about $7,500.

"The recommendations are designed to standardize and simplify both the boundaries and procedures used within the terminal controlled areas," Engen said. "These changes, in turn, will increase safety by allowing an improved air traffic environment."

The task force recommendations include a minimum 60-day license suspension for any pilot violating TCA boundaries, up from the current 30-day action.

Engen, noting that the California accident remains under investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board, said he does not believe any of the recommendations could have prevented that midair collision.

But he indicated future disasters might be averted with these changes that also include renewed emphasis on pilot education.

"Since 1978, air carrier aircraft operating in TCAs have been involved in two midair collisions, while there have been millions of flights," Engen said. "Although this is a marked improvement over the earlier record, the accident over Cerritos, Calif., on Aug. 31 made me ask myself if there were any additional ways in which the system might be made better."

NTSB Chairman Jim Burnett said he wanted to study the measures before commenting on them but added, "The threat of midair collisions has been a long-standing concern of the safety board."

Last month, the FAA said it will order airlines to install collision avoidance systems aboard their planes to reduce the chances of in-flight collisions.

Addison's Affects Adrenal Function

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've been treated for Addison's disease for a year and am greatly improved. Can you tell me more about this condition?

DEAR READER — Addison's disease is the failure of the adrenals, the small glands that sit on top of the kidneys and control many body functions. The disease is characterized by weakness, fatigue, weight loss, poor digestion, depression and a patchy increase in the skin's pigmentation. Addison's disease is readily treated by pills that supply the hormones (called glucocorticoids and mineralocorticoids) which the body lacks. The ailment develops insidiously over a period of months. If untreated, it can be fatal.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is there any harm in taking two tablespoons of brewer's yeast daily?

DEAR READER — No, brewer's yeast will not hurt you. Please be sure to build up your intake very gradually; if you're not used to it, even a half-teaspoon of the stuff can send your stomach to Mars.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After a scan, I was told I had a gallstone in the duct. Would a strict diet help or is surgery the only answer?

DEAR READER — A gallstone that has slipped from the gall bladder into the duct leading to the intestine can cause severe abdominal pain and jaundice. Once a stone has formed, diet will not help; the blockage must be surgically removed. At present, many medical centers are experimenting with medicine to dissolve gallstones. Because the drugs are not yet available, surgery probably is your best option.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 32 and have Crohn's disease. My colon was removed, but the disease continues because cortisone proved useless and Azulfine causes peripheral neuritis. When I was given Inderal recently for a 150 pulse and arrhythmia, my Crohn's became unbearably painful. My doctor says it's my imagination, but the pain eased when I discontinued the Inderal.

Now I fear having a heart attack if I don't take Inderal and a Crohn's attack if I do. What's a person to do?

DEAR READER — Crohn's disease, a chronic inflammation of portions of the intestine, can be exceedingly difficult to treat. Drugs like cortisone may control symptoms, but are dangerous for routine long-term use. Surgery (to remove diseased portions of the bowel) may give temporary relief, but the disease tends to recur in other parts of the intestine.

I am not aware that Inderal, a beta-blocking drug that affects circulation, makes Crohn's disease worse.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

How do you play three no-trump? If you're my average reader, your objective is to make nine tricks safely and surely. So take a look at the North-South cards in today's deal and cover the East-West hands so you won't be distracted as you plan the play.

Suppose you win the king of hearts in dummy and play a spade. That would be wrong if East held the spade ace and took it right away to lead back a heart. In that scenario, West would hold the club ace and would be able to take enough heart tricks to set your contract when you eventually played clubs.

What if you won the heart king and played dummy's club queen? East would grab the ace and play back a heart. Because clubs do not split, you would have to try for a spade trick to make the game. West would then take his ace and defeat you once again with his heart tricks.

Fort Lauderdale bridge professional Fred Hamilton showed me this deal recently, citing it as a good "instructional" hand. If you take the heart king and lead a low club from dummy, nothing can stop you. If East ducks, you win the club king and then switch to spades. If West has the club ace and takes your king with it, your A-10 of hearts is safe from attack. And if East rises immediately with his club ace, it beats the air as you play small from your hand, ensuring you of three club tricks and your contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY OCTOBER 29, 1986

The course you are currently steering is right for you, and there will be rewards at your port of call. However, if you start switching directions, you may snag your vessel on a sandbar.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today, if you go shopping with friends, don't let them talk you into buying unusual merchandise or strange gadgets for which you may never have any use. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that will govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In a delicate career situation today, you may cause others to believe you don't need them. They'll let you fend for yourself, and you may not be successful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Re-examine your flashes of inspiration carefully today before springing into action. Under closer scrutiny, they might not look so great.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When working on a new project today, have patience. If you try to accomplish everything in one big leap, you might fall flat.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Just because a companion can talk louder and faster than you, it does not mean that his or her ideas are right. Use your own judgment today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be both tolerant and patient today when involved with people who don't grasp ideas as quickly as you do. It's no big deal to repeat yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Speculating on people or situations about which you know little would be unwise today. It could cost you in ways other than financial.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your impulsiveness could cause a complication today — perhaps a hasty agreement that is not in your best interests. You can avoid this.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's best not to attempt tasks today that require total concentration and tenacity. Your restless attention may not be up to it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Strive to confine your extravagant urges today, so that you do not blow your hard-earned cash on something foolish. Make every penny count.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might not be able to operate as independently as you would like today. Don't make matters worse by straining at the leash.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Monitor yourself carefully today so that you do not tell something confidential to a blabbermouth.
