Waiting For Spring

The brilliant successes of the British in North Africa, encouraging as they are, should not be mistaken for the main show. The entire Italian end of the Axis...

In the Spring, perhaps sooner, weather permitting, the big show will begin again, just as it did last Spring after a long dull winter. German troops already are being concentrated on the Spanish border...

It is these Nazi troops in the Balkans which are causing the most widespread speculation now. Some see them purely as a protective device against British invasion from the south...

The most interesting speculation we have seen, however, visualizes the German Balkan armies as part of a gigantic scheme to facilitate Japanese conquests in the Far East...

But Japan cannot afford to run such a risk with Russia free to act on her northern borders. It is but a short flight from the Russian port of Vladivostok to Tokio...

But several hundred thousand German troops concentrated on the Russo-Rumanian border as a constant threat to the Red armies might well cause Moscow further reflection when tempted to stab Japan in the back...

The world dictators are engaged in a cut-throat game with marked cards and daggers in their boots. Before long we may know who is going to get skinned, but it looks now as if they are all due for a little knifing.

Automobile Taxes

In view of the fact that additional State tax levies will probably have to be made in order to meet the growing cost of government and to make up for declining revenues elsewhere...

The current business upswing is expected to continue through 1941 and it seems probable that substantial gains in highway revenues will again accrue to the State during the coming year.

The present high-tide flow of highway tax dollars to the State should enable it to speed up the completion of its highway program...

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

DO NOT SIDE STEP THIS CALL: The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few.—Matt. 9:37.

The Trio

(From Spirit) Now Calla, with the first frost on her hair, Dances her new cello; Charlotte, Fiddles, bringing out the air; The Ivories are swept By Alice, swaying there.

So all the room is intertwined with sound; The melodies weave richly in and out; I sit as one whom meteors fall around, And this is what I talk about When I say, "music."

It is not perfect music; and a dial's turn Would summon sounds to substitute for bliss, Perfect, precise and far—inventive's child— And greatly to be praised—but never that!

For there's a bridge that all of us must build From what we are to what we are to be; And here within this room are three who build A bridge of tranquility, As arch to be a rainbow toward the last, With Mozart, Schubert, Brahms, they blend The unknown future to the certain past.

Though all the world around them is in flux, This is secure. So let the arrogant car Yield to the deeper mind that understands. This feeling is not faltering of the heart, But only of the hands. MARGERY MANSFIELD

Wonder what ever became of Lord Gort, the leader of the B. E. F. after Dunkirk? The Italians have lost more soldiers, in killed, wounded and captured, than the British lost in the Battle of Flanders.

Grand Son Will Run For Third Win In Race Tonight

Two Dogs Will Have Chance At Upsetting Fast Runner

Grand Son, undefeated and unbeaten, will go after his third straight victory tonight in the feature race at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club. It will be the 10th time since Grand Son's first start since Nov. 1931 that he has won the race.

So far, no dog at the track has been able to creep into the lead of Grand Son, but tonight's race will be a severe test and the favorite is likely to lose it on the chin.

The ninth race is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. The same distance over which Grand Son won the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club race is a little different.

The opening night track was closed from rain and Grand Son showed an advantage that he never lost when he caught fast runner, Smokey Rammer, far out in front of the pack.

Smoking against him tonight are Smokey Boy, Rambling Nora, Smokey Rammer, Red Pine, Dolly, Grand Son and Rita's Girl. Smokey Boy and Rambling Nora will be allowed the real chance to win the championship.

Are Out Of War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The State Department announced today that a delegation of American officials would leave for London Jan. 17 to work out the formal lease for the American air and naval bases acquired from Great Britain.

The Italian forces were said today to be falling back hastily before the Greeks in Albania. South-Central Albania, Greek shock troops were reported to have captured.

From "ured Khaura in Greek shock troops were reported smashing on the road to the drive toward the port of Valona and Berat, oil center.

In Cairo, the British disclosed the full magnitude of the Bardia conquest—4,868 Italians, captured or dead, and large quantities of armament seized or destroyed.

The British count thus placed the number of Italians rendered ineffective since the desert blitzkrieg at about 100,000.

The announcement that "Khaura has fallen" was taken to mean that the last Italian positions in the area had been wiped out. With Khaura in Greek hands, the Hellenic forces now are expected to force the fall of many of the Italian positions.

University Class
Visits Farm Here
In Study Of Crops

Studying the production of celery and lettuce in this section a group of students and their professor, Dr. R. E. Moody, of the University of Florida visited a farm near Sanford and Ovidio yesterday under the guidance of C. R. Dawson, county agent.

The group composed of a class in agricultural economics and their inspection of the production process included the setting of celery, harvesting, washing, cooling and loading in cars.

Mr. Dawson, county agent, led the class, planned the itinerary and explained the various processes on the field trip.

As a class in economics of agriculture, their principal interest was the cost of production, returns on crops and methods of farming, according to Mr. Dawson. The students showed an interest in farm machinery and were particularly surprised to note the amount of machine or tractor farming done in this local area.

"One student remarked, that he didn't know there was that many kinds of tractors," said Mr. Dawson.

The comparatively new lettuce crop in this section interested the students and they studied the methods of farming of this particular crop. Mr. Dawson said:

Dr. R. E. Moody, associate professor of agricultural economics at the university, visited here. He is teaching his first year at the university, just having come from the University of Wisconsin.

Nazis Join Battle Against British In Mediterranean

ANCIENT INDIAN MOUND NEAR SANFORD

Used as a burial ground by the Timucuan Indians centuries before Florida's famous Seminole migrated from the Creek lands in Georgia, this Indian Mound located on the St. Johns River near the Osteen Bridge now proves its antiquity by the massive towering oak which grow out of its top.

Reichsmarshal Goering asserted today that not one German factory had been "put out of commission" by the British, contrasting with what was termed the destruction of many plants in Britain. A reported threat of the Thailand (Siam) government to bomb three French Indo-China cities in the current border warfare elicited a warning from French officials that if the cities are attacked, French planes will bomb Bangkok. That capital.

Germany actively entered the war against Britain in the Mediterranean basin today, aiding Italy in an apparent attempt to offset her North African reverses and loosen the sea blockade.

The Italian High Command reported a British Naval formation was attacked Friday in the "Suez Canal" by cooperating formations of Fascist and Nazi dive bombers and torpedo planes, which damaged two aircraft carriers, a cruiser, and a destroyer.

The German High Command reported that the British English naval base was "annihilated" with firebombs and explosives in a "large scale" assault. Casualties were believed heavy.

Fleets of German air raiders carried out a concentrated attack during the night on a south coast district, pounding it for some time with incendiary and high explosive bombs.

An observer said the bombers roared over in dives while defense batteries kept up a fierce barrage throughout the raid. The assault, carried out in the now-familiar blitz manner, taxed the district severely.

London was entirely quiet up to the early morning hours. Raiders were reported over scattered sections of Britain such as Liverpool, South Wales, the south coast and west England.

The Air Ministry reported that two German bombers were shot down by anti-aircraft guns in a Thursday night raid on a town in northwest England.

The Thursday night raids were among the most widespread of the war. Some aviation sources speculated on the possibility that the Germans were testing for new defenses in preparation for possible attacks on industrial centers.

Indian Mound To Be Improved As Attraction For Tourists

Shafts of sunlight, worshipped by the Timucuan, sifted through the giant moss hung oaks on the banks of the St. Johns River and fell upon the glistening copper colored bodies of a hundred Indian braves as they formed a silent respectful circle around the grave of one of their tribes.

His favorite spear had been laid beside his body. His long bow and a quiver full of arrows, which to battle evil spirits on his way to the "happy hunting ground" were by his right hand. Three or four pottery vessels, in each of which had been brewed a hole so that they would also be "dead" had been placed at his head.

Slowly the Indians began to chant a solemn melancholy chant. At the hot Florida sun reached its highest point, four of the tallest members of the tribe stepped forward and heaped coal dust earth from the river bank upon the grave. The Indians began to dance and their chant soon reached a feverish pitch of excitement. Still chanting as if to drive away the evil spirits, they danced in a heavy sweat and then fell again around the ancient burial mound. Today, more than five hundred years after this incident took place, with giant oaks of gnarled antiquity growing out of the grave where this Indian and others like him were buried, the sanctity of Indian Mound is still being observed. Soon the brush which has grown up around it will be cleared away, the road which leads to it improved, and an appropriate marker will denote its historic character.

City Commissioner H. James Gut, an archaeologist by avocation, and Edward Higgins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, appeared at a meeting of the County Commission yesterday and asked that the County improve the Indian Mound, located about four miles from Sanford near the Osteen Bridge, and make it a park. The Commissioners agreed to clear the land, and to improve the road to the mound on both sides. An appropriate marker denoting the history of the ancient burial place will also be provided by the Chamber of Commerce.

This mound, which has been excavated since 1892 and 1893, by Clarence B. Moore and his findings were published in the Journal of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia. Mr. Moore and his party first explored the mound on Jan. 28, 29, and 30, 1892, and again on Jan. 22-27 the following year.

Once before the burial mound had been investigated, though only superficially, by Jeffries Wyman, who included his findings in a pamphlet published in 1875 by the Peabody Academy of Science in Salem, Mass.

When Mr. Moore first dug into the Indian Mound, the property was owned by Dr. A. C. Caldwell, and by the time the scientist had returned in 1893 it had come into the hands of J. N. Whitner.

According to the report of Mr. Moore's investigation, the mound had been "superficially" dug into by tourists and excavated about 1892.

It was then described as oval in shape, about 300 feet in circumference, and about 10 feet high. On top is a plateau about 140 feet across. The mound is built of sand upon a shell heap.

In making his excavation, Mr. Moore and his eight workers dug a trench on the northern side of the mound.
