

Seven-Inch Snow Dumped On New York

United Press International
Thundershowers soaked a wide area of the nation today from east Texas to the nation's capital. A freak snow storm left up to seven inches of snow in parts of south central New York.

More rain or snow were forecast for upper Minnesota where it could feed the flooding Mississippi River.

The flood crest pushed downstream today, threatening scores of communities in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa. Volunteers worked around the clock to fight the rising river.

Half inch hail hammered streets at Jackson, Tenn., during the night and hail the size of golf balls was reported at Waco, Tex.

More rain pushed inland across the Pacific Northwest and central California. The heaviest amount was reported at Brookings, Ore., where 3.05 inches fell Sunday.

The New York storm left seven inches of snow in some areas. Binghamton, N. Y., struck with three inches of snow Saturday, picked up seven more inches Sunday. Eight inches was reported in Tioga County, Pa. At least seven traffic deaths were attributed to the storm in New York state.

Easter Sunday sightseers hampered cleanup operations in tornado-devastated areas of Michigan and Indiana.

In Hillsdale County, Mich., traffic jams were so vast that heavy cleanup equipment could not get through narrow roads leading into disaster areas.

Altamonte WMU To Host Meeting Of Association

By Julia Barton
The Wekiwa Associational Women's Missionary Union of Southern Baptist Conference will meet from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Tuesday at Friendship Baptist Church located on SR 426 in Altamonte Springs. Approximately 175 women from 50 churches are expected to attend.

Speaker for the morning session will be Miss Ruth Bagwell, Girls Auxiliary director for the state. Those attending are to bring a sandwich lunch for the noon meal. Beverage and dessert will be provided by the hostess church. The afternoon conference will begin at 1 o'clock. Phases of work to be covered include prayer, community missions, mission study, stewardship, Sunbeam, Girls Auxiliary and Young Women's Auxiliary. Committee chairmen, appointed by Mrs. Edward L. Kelcey, president of the Friendship Baptist WMU, are Mrs. James Spencer, conference room; Mrs. Leslie Bryan, registration, and Mrs. Robert Bradford, social and nursery. All members and friends are invited to attend.

Miami Dunned For $248,000
MIAMI (UPI) — The City of Miami has been given until Oct. 1 to pay the Beverage Department $248,701 due to an error in cigarette tax computations in the city's favor. If the money isn't paid back by then, the department said, it will start taking the funds out of cigarette tax rebates due the city.

Election Slated By Art Members

Election of officers will highlight the May 10 meeting of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association at the Cultural Arts Center.

President Erma Smith has named a nominating committee. Mrs. Lily Chen, a native of Hawaii who studied painting in China, demonstrated Oriental painting techniques and color to association members at the last meeting.

Mrs. Chen donated the pictures she painted during the demonstration and they were auctioned to members. Funds derived will be used for center furnishings.

Club To Meet In DeBary

By Mrs. John Leone
DeBary Extension Homemakers Club will have its April meeting at the Community Center beginning at 10 a.m. Thursday with a workshop conducted by the president, Mrs. Isabel Herick, on "Magic With Marbles."

Members are asked to bring a sandwich lunch with beverage to be provided by hostess committee for the month. Social hour will follow with afternoon session convening at 1:30 p.m.

Fire Ant Control Program OK'd

By Donna Estes
The Longwood City Council, at a continued session, granted permission to the Florida Department of Agriculture, Division of Plant Industry, and to the United States Department of Agriculture, Plant Pest Control Division, to apply insecticidal bait by aircraft over the city for the control of the imported fire ants which infest several thousand acres in Orange, Seminole, Lake and Volusia Counties.

The purpose of the application is to drastically reduce the populations of imported fire ants and to retard their further spread to non-infested locations.

'Circus' Slated By First Grades

By Jane Casselberry
Two first grade classes at South Seminole Elementary School at Casselberry will present "Fairlyland Circus" at 2:25 p.m. Friday on the school playground.

The classes of Mrs. Mary Lili Dunn and Miss Virginia Neale will present the circus as a climax to a special physical education program in which the two groups have been participating. Street children will be taking part and Linda Van Esopel will be ringmistress.

As nearly as possible, the program has been planned by the pupils, who have made the props, including instruments for the rhythm band.

Some of the acts to be included in the show will be barrel racers, horse races, clown corner, high wire artists, acrobats, midjets, ballerinas, and an assortment of bears, lions, panthers, tigers and elephants.

All interested parents and friends are invited to attend.

Health Council Sets Meeting

By Jane Casselberry
The Seminole Public Health Nursing Advisory Council will hold its next meeting in Casselberry at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Town Hall located adjacent to the Fire Station.

Dr. Brooks Smith will speak on diabetes and the public is urged to attend.

Dr. Frank Leone, county health director; Mrs. Grace Fisher, supervisor of county health nurses, and Kenneth McIntosh, president of the advisory council, will be present to explain the home nursing services and distribute literature.

The meeting is being held in Casselberry in line with the council's new policy of meeting in various communities in the county to better acquaint the public with the visiting nurse program.

'Not Time To Deal' With Reds: Dirksen

Bulletin

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A bill that would permit substantial teacher pay raises at a cost to state general revenue of $19 million for the biennium was introduced today by four senators.

Sen. G. T. Melton, of Lake City, the chief sponsor, acknowledged the bill, if passed, could not be financed without new or increased taxes, but said he felt the people are willing to pay more for good teachers.

The bill would take the additional money from the state sales tax revenue, upping the amount of this fund which goes back to the counties for school purposes from the present $550 to $1,000 per teacher unit.

Instead of "bombs away!" it's going to be "dodecahoroctahydro away!"

That's right. That's the name of the bill that's going to be dropped on the county the next two months to try to eradicate the fire ant.

They say the new bill, more popularly known as "Mirex," is highly effective.

The Seminole County Board of Commissioners discovered it would have to advertise for bids on its share of the amount used in the county even though there is only one known manufacturer.

The bids will be opened May 3 at the courthouse. The county is planning to dish out $10,000 for its share of the program.

It also is being asked to provide 12 men for use as flagmen in the program. The county may find it easier to pay $10,000 than to furnish its employees as flagmen.

The average annual salary for principals and teachers in Seminole County is $5,650.79. That's well below the Florida average of $6,130.23 and the national average of $6,161. Dade and Broward counties pay the highest salaries in the state.

Bill Toews, who has a collection of 5,000 picture post cards, showed some of Sanford dating back to 1870 at a meeting of the Sanford Historical Society. Attending the meeting were Jack Holt, Eldred Jennison, Mrs. S. O. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Howe, Jim Talmadge and Russell Talmadge.

Five students from this area are candidates for degrees Thursday night at Florida State University. They are John Davis Wheelchel, Sanford; Richard A. Miller, Altamonte Springs; Marian C. Fabry, Oviedo; Lucille S. Alexander, Maitland, and Stephen J. Anderson, Goldenrod.

John D. Taylor Jr., Route 2, Sanford, is one of 62 graduating seniors from the University of Florida's Army and Air Force Reserve Training Corps program. He will receive his commission in the Army April 26 as part of the university's annual commencement program.

Admiral C. T. Booth, writing to say "thanks" for the hospitality during the Bombing Derby writes: "Particularly I remember the fine fresh corn prepared under the supervision of Sheriff Hobby. It was indeed a rare treat."

U. S. Sen. Everett Dirksen, vacationing at his home in DeBary, said today he does not believe now is the time to negotiate for an end to the war in Viet Nam.

"I believe any effort to initiate negotiations would indicate a sort of weakening of our position," the Senate Republican leader said.

Dirksen said he has generally supported the President's policy on Viet Nam and has "nothing new" to add to previous statements he has made on the floor of the Senate.

The GOP leader also said there is the possibility that Congress may pass some legislation "in regard to Viet Nam" but did not indicate what type of legislation this would be.

Touching on work remaining to be done in Congress, Dirksen said there is much to be done.

"We haven't really touched any of the appropriations bills," he said. President Johnson's controversial voting rights bill remains to be dealt with and Dirksen said that may take some time.

"I expect it will take three weeks to take action on the voting rights bill," Dirksen said.

He said he did not anticipate a filibuster on the measure.

Parking Violators 'Crack Down' Due

Sanford City Commissioners, expressing "loss of patience" with store owners and downtown employees who "park all day long in front of downtown business establishments" ordered Police Chief Arnold Williams to "crack down" on violators.

"I want those tickets put on every car that is parked on the street or in the First Park parking lot for more than two hours and no exceptions," said Commissioner Earl Higginbotham.

One exception was made, however. The area between Park and Oak Avenue on First Street that was changed to parallel parking last week has proved confusing to motorists since old lines were not erased.

Full Hearing Advocated By House Solon

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House public schools committee, following a heated debate, temporarily shelved bills allocating $6.9 million for junior colleges in Alachua, Highlands, Seminole and Leon counties.

Rep. Lawton Chiles, of Polk County, a committee member, staved off efforts by some other members to have all of the bills thrown to a subcommittee for further study.

Chiles said the bills need the chance for a full hearing and he was unwilling to vote "no" and kill them before they get out of the committee stage.

Following recommendations by House Speaker E. C. Rowell to closely scrutinize any measures which also must go before the appropriations committee, the public schools group discussed the Seminole proposal for more than an hour.

State junior college director James Wattenbarger was questioned thoroughly on the proposal.

Wattenbarger said it was "up to the Legislature" to decide if any one of the four schools should get priority over the others.

The bills would appropriate $2,295,833 to start a new two-year college in Alachua County, $960,833 for one in Highlands, $1,471,000 for one in Seminole and $2,174,120 for a junior college in Leon County.

NOT ENCOURAGING

School Board Chairman Mason Wharton told The Sanford Herald: "We knew it was going to be rough going but this is not encouraging. I know our legislators are doing everything they can. We'd be satisfied to get the initial $30,000 we asked for to get started. I hope we can find out more about this today."

School Supt. R. T. Milwee stated he had conferred by telephone this morning with state education officials at Tallahassee and "I am confident our junior college measure will be brought up again for further study" by the committee this session.

In other action the board approved the application of advanced planning funds from the Housing and Home Finance Agency. The agreement calls for the expenditure of $8,500 for public works planning.

Latin Nations Take-Over Seen By Cuba Chief

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said today Communist guerrillas will take over Guatemala, Colombia and Venezuela because national armies in those Latin countries are ineffective "mercenaries."

In a two-hour, 15-minute Havana radio-television speech that concluded at 1 a.m., Castro also expressed confidence that there are "no traitors" among his own Communist-indoctrinated forces.

He presided at ceremonies marking the fourth anniversary of his victory over a refugee invasion force at the Bay of Pigs in 1961.

The premier claimed he has captured enough American weapons smuggled into Cuba over the past six years "to stage 100 revolutions in Latin America."

"The American Treasury has paid for a large part of our arms supply," he added, "although, of course, we have many more powerful and better weapons. But in case of an invasion, we have sufficient arms."

Castro said his armed forces are sufficiently organized to detect "mother ships carrying speedboats" when they are far offshore. He said one Castrolite patrol plane, near the limit of its range, bombed one of these mother ships more than 200 miles at sea. He gave no details.

"If we had long-range bombers they wouldn't have a single piece of wood left afloat," he said. He reiterated his previous offer to send "volunteers" to Viet Nam if they are requested by the Communist Viet Cong. He said "Yankee imperialism" must be defeated there as well as "everywhere."

In specifying Venezuela, Colombia and Guatemala as those Latin nations where guerrillas will first achieve victory, Castro said the United States "knows" the armies of those countries cannot win.

"However, calling them 'armies' is a misnomer because they are just mercenaries," he said.

Are You Growing Aspirin Plants?

Mary, Mary, quite contrary, How does your aspirin grow? As you can see, this bit of doggerel is different from the childhood version. But the chances are you really are growing a form of aspirin in your garden.

Aspirin, the most widely-used medicine in the world, is a salicylate. And the salicylates can be found naturally in many garden flowers, or the willow tree, or the plants of various kinds, including orange, apple, cherry, grape and strawberry. Colorful plants that contain salicylates are hyacinth, tulip, marigold and pansy.

Grass has a wider range than any other plant, occupying virtually all parts of the earth and tolerating both torrid and extremely cold weather.

Burns' Bill Half-Way

Senate OKs Free Fair Measure

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Haydon Burns' $1.2 million proposal to make Florida's World's Fair exhibit free this summer is halfway through the Legislature and only slightly worse for a rousing Senate battle.

The bill now goes to the House, where a similar measure already is under consideration in committee.

The $1.2 million World's Fair bill introduced and backed by gubernatorial forces provided the main action in the Senate Monday. It was the first major administration bill to get through either house.

It passed despite an unwritten agreement in the Senate that no spending would be considered until the general appropriations bill was out of the way.

The bill cleared the upper chamber by a 34-9 vote. The bill is to finance the state exhibit at the World's Fair for the rest of the year and make it free to the public.

The Senate amended the measure, however, to require the money to be used only to pay off the exhibit's debts and finance its operations, and that the funds be audited within 120 days of the closing of the fair.

The two-hour debate over the measure saw Senate President James Connor, a strong ally of Burns, leave the rostrum and go to the floor to argue in favor of the bill.

Objections by opponents included charges that the money is not needed on an "emergency" basis, and that the $1.2 million would push spending above income for the coming biennium and cause new taxes.

"If you pass this bill," said Sen. B. C. Pearce, of East Palatka, chairman of the finance and taxation committee, "I don't see how we can hold in any committee bills calling for taxes until the appropriations bill is approved."

Burns has stressed he wants absolutely no new taxes or increases in present taxes. The House Monday passed and sent to the Senate a handful of bills including part of the Legislative Council's mental health package.

A House judiciary committee sent to the floor a bill it hopes will cut down on alligator poaching in the state by providing a fine of up to $1,000 or a year in jail for unlawful possession, sale or transportation of alligator skins.

President's Offer Held Open For Viet Nam Peace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's offer of "unconditional" Viet Nam peace talks remained open today but it appeared—at least on the surface—that there were no takers.

The State Department, admittedly "disappointed" at the Communist world's negative response, had under study a new North Vietnamese radio statement on the matter. But at first glance it appeared to be even more negative.

The statement, by the official North Vietnamese news agency, appeared to be a strong rebuff to the recent call by 17 neutral nations for countries involved in the Viet Nam conflict to agree to talks without preconditions.

It was issued about the same time Monday that a high State Department official, speaking in Detroit, was urging Communist capitals to reply soon "and in responsible terms" to the neutralist appeal.

In his speech, which had been prepared before the Hanoi statement, Leonard Unger, deputy assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, said Johnson's unconditional discussions offer remained open despite the negative Communist response.

The new North Vietnamese statement appeared to boil down to this: Hanoi would "consider" a peace conference only when the United States "nixed" the Communist terms for a settlement.

These included U. S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam, an end to bombing of the North, and apparently a neutral coalition South Vietnamese regime pending reunification of North and South.

This was in contrast to Johnson's stated terms of an independent South Viet Nam, an end to Communist aggression, and some system to guarantee that aggression would not resume.

The State Department's expression of disappointment referred to a weekend communique by Moscow and Hanoi.

Issued Saturday, the Soviet-North Vietnamese communique reiterated demands from Hanoi that the United States stop bombing North Viet Nam and withdraw its forces from South Viet Nam. It also said that if the United States intensified its raids in the North, Russian volunteers might be allowed by the Kremlin to go to fight in Viet Nam.

Crazy Horse Saloon

Strip Mining Solid Gold In Paris

By Rosette Hargrove
PARIS — (NEA) — Alain Bernardin has made a goodly fortune in 10 years by making people feel "devilishly devilish."

Bernardin's Crazy Horse Saloon, temple of the strip tease in Paris, has just marked its 10th birthday—and nobody could be more surprised at the Crazy Horse's success than its owner.

In a plush pseudo-Wild West decor with dark plaid upholstery and crimson carpeting, Bernardin has evolved a most sophisticated and unique show. A pioneer in the art, all he had to go on were a couple of magazine stories and a movie.

He decided that he could do better—and did. So this ex-antique dealer, ex-restaurant owner turned producer, impresario, electrician and announcer, and opened his cellar on the swanky Avenue George V, just about a block away, as the crowd filed, from the world-famed Lido.

"The trick," says Bernardin, "is to make people feel 'devilishly devilish,' not to shock them. The girls are beautiful, seductive, and they are all trained dancers."

In the past 10 years Bernardin has engaged some 100 girls who have earned a global reputation for the Crazy Horse Saloon. What does he first look for in a candidate stripper? Her eyes.

"If a girl's eyes are lacking in expression, then she cannot mime an act." Only when she has passed this test does he consider her anatomy and has her parade on his minute stage under the spotlights.

"Then I have a long talk with her," he explains, "to learn something about her character. Then it is easy for me to create an act which fits her personality."

Mississippi Siege Running Full Force

LA CROSSE, Wis. (UPI) — The siege of the Mississippi continued full force today against scores of communities along a 500-mile stretch of river from Minnesota to central Illinois.

Three hundred volunteers, worked through the night to build up a threatened dike at La Crosse, where the record flood waters chewed through two dikes Monday.

Upstream at Winona, Minn., police routed 1,000 persons from their homes as the city braced for the river's full height.

Far downstream at Quincy, Ill., worried authorities feared the runaway river would cut across 8,000 acres of rich farm land.

Up and down the mighty river, makeshift dikes and sandbagged levees groaned against the powerful flow of water.

Nearly everywhere, the Mississippi was running at record levels. In some places it held steady, in others it lashed ominously upward.

A tense situation developed at La Crosse Monday when the river cut through a dike and pounded huge bulk gasoline tanks to a precarious tilt. Authorities feared the tanks were leaking and that a spark would set off a sea of flames through the town.

Fire experts were called in and Monday night determined that the tanks, containing 15 millions gallons of fuel, were not leaking.

The river was running 17.3 feet deep past La Crosse early today, with a crest of 18 feet expected Wednesday. Civil defense spokesmen said the crest will be maintained for two of three days.

Alabama DAR Goes 'Way Back

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Daughters of the American Revolution have come up with a rare find: A member only two generations removed from a Revolutionary War soldier.

The new Daughter is Mrs. Nellie Strange Christopher, 73, of Lister, Ala. She submitted documented proof to the DAR recently that she is the granddaughter of Sgt. Abner Strange, who joined the Continental army in Albemarle County, Va., and served through most of the Revolution.

A DAR spokesman said most members trace their connection with the Revolution back over six or seven generations.

show is over. But most of the girls go home at night after the show. Several are married.

Ever since the beginning of the Crazy Horse Saloon its owner has steadily fought against his dancers falling into the old "bumps and grinds" routine of American strip tease.

"But you have to watch them all the time" says Bernardin. "The moment I turn my head—there they go."

His latest show is a concession to what he considers "pop art." This is expressed by five girls dressed in key bits of football gear—helmets, shoulder pads, socks and cleated shoes, leaving the bosom and other portions of the anatomy mostly bare.

A newcomer, Bertha von Parshoum, acts out a satire on Hitler's Germany, with much use of the swastika in the lighting effects. Bertha does the goose step to the strains of martial music wearing jack boots and a Prussian helmet. She ends up wearing nothing but a swastika G-string.

The Crazy Horse Saloon is one place where you do not have to drink champagne, and you can even order soft drinks without shirking. First drink sets a patron back about $6. After that it is $2 a drink.

Longwood VFD Saves Car Of Area Reporter

Herald Reporter Maryann Miles of Bear Lake-Forest City area credits quick action of the Longwood Volunteer Department for saving her car from being lost recently when fire broke out at Don's Repair Shop at Sanlando Springs where the vehicle was in overnight for work.

Don and Sandy LaPoma, owners of the garage, report that they received a call at their home just at midnight that the shop was afire. By the time they got down, Longwood firemen already had the fire out with only an approximate $200 damages in what could have been a severe and costly loss.

Cause of the fire is attributed to wiring short circuit.

Cherokees Say:

White Man Still Speaks With Forked Tongue

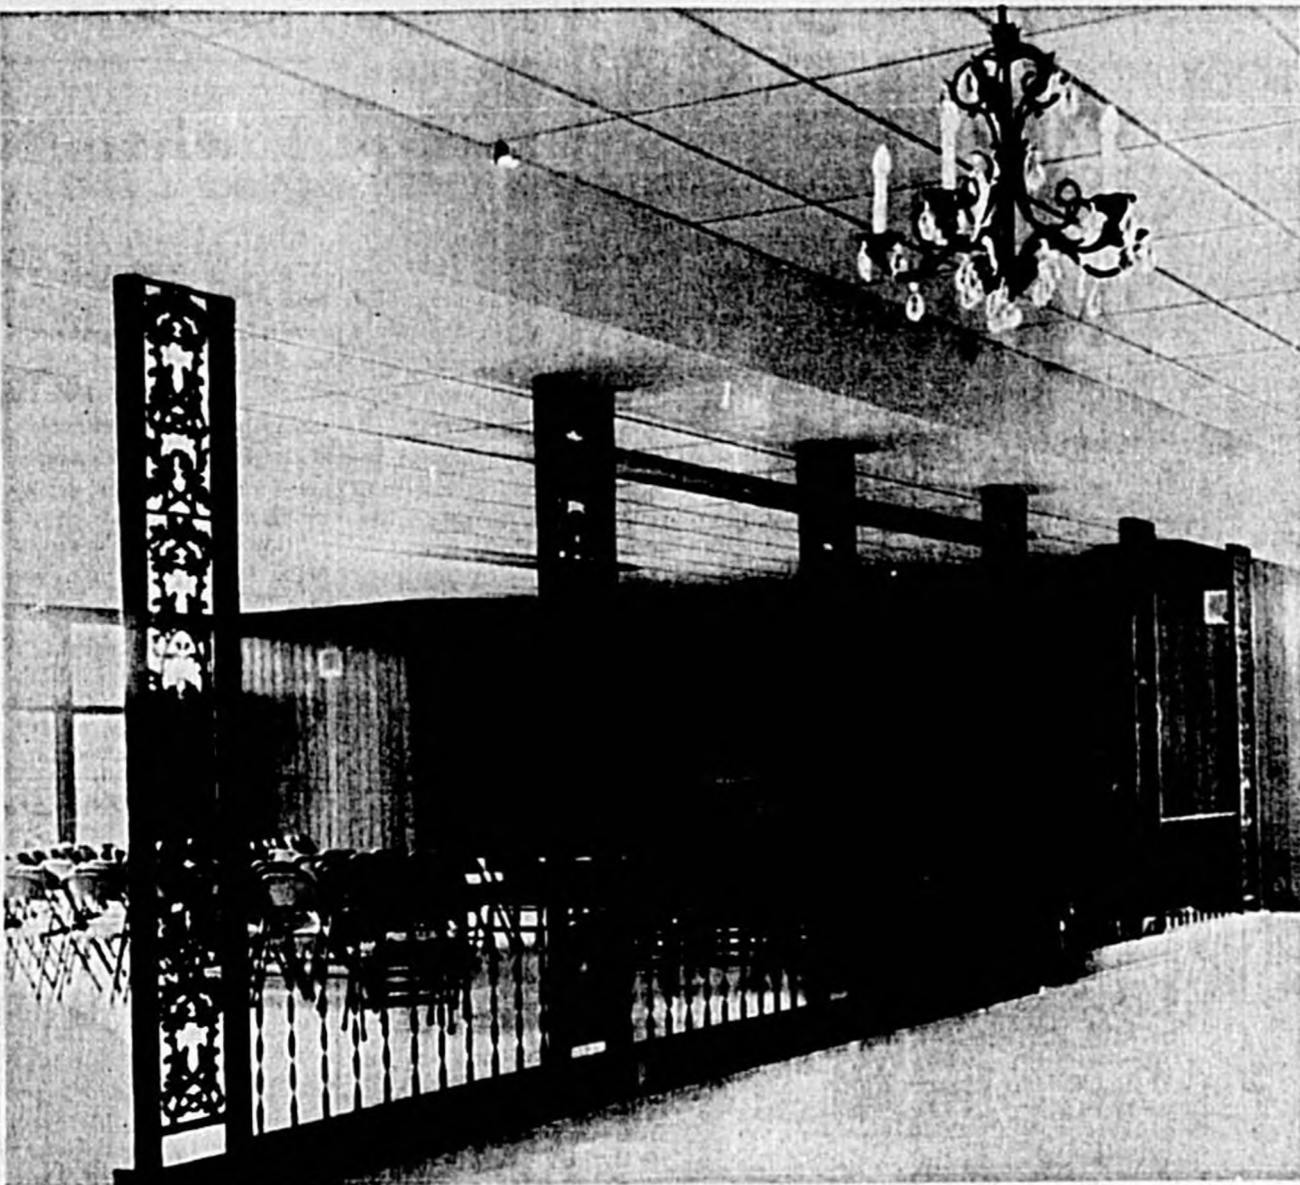

CHEROKEE, N. C. (UPI) — A band of disgruntled Cherokee Indians seemed convinced today that, after all these years, the white man still speaks with forked tongue.

The Tribal Council of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians expressed opposition to a proposed compromise to legislation which would keep state game wardens off their hunting and fishing grounds.

A bill introduced originally in the General Assembly would let the Cherokee regulate all hunting and fishing on their reservation, appoint their own game protectors and enforce the same state laws that members of the state wildlife commission now enforce.

A compromise bill would let the Indians regulate hunting and fishing on the reservation, but would extend the trout season for two months until Oct. 31.

Some members of the tribal council, still committed to the original bill, said they would rather have no legislation than the compromise.

Home Nursing Program Slated

By Jane Casselberry
All residents of the Casselberry area are invited to a meeting of the Seminole Public Health Nursing Advisory Council at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the town hall (next to the fire station) to learn more about the services offered by the home nursing program.

A special speaker, Dr. Brooke Smith, will talk on diabetes. Dr. Frank Leone, county public health director, Mrs. Grace Fisher, supervisor of nurses, and council president Kenneth McIntosh will be present to distribute literature and explain the program.

Fire Chief Paul Bates particularly urges all members of the Casselberry Volunteer Fire Department and their wives to attend. The council recently initiated the plan for meeting in different communities in the county in order to reach more people.

Church Men Meet

Dr. David Sloan, of Leesburg, will be guest speaker at today's 6:30 p.m. covered dish supper meeting of the Men of the Church of Presbyterian Church of the Covenant. Dr. Sloan is a professional man, a ruling elder of the First Church in Leesburg and is immediate past moderator of the Presbytery of St. Johns.

Romney On High Pitfalls Ahead

By Bruce Blossat
LANSING, Mich. (NEA)—Michigan's Republican Gov. George W. Romney, at 88 fairly launched into his second term, keeps on building political "star quality" and thereby freshly confounds his bewildered adversaries.

With the 1968 GOP presidential nomination beckoning on the far horizon, the governor's progress on his home grounds is a matter of moment well beyond Michigan's borders. A new visit reveals him to be riding high, though not without pitfalls to skirt in the months ahead.

Different now in some ways, he is basically what he was when he charged into the political arena three years ago—unpredictable, unorthodox, so "good" that it hurts. Says one Democratic appraiser:

"That clean life he's leading is really paying off." Seldom does the governor let anyone, including himself, forget his rigid Mormon upbringing. A political adversary who truly admires him declares:

"It's his virtues that frighten me, not his sins." The first time Romney invited top state officers to his office, a fellow who enjoys his pipe observed: "Governor, I don't see any ash trays here."

Responded Romney: "That's right, you don't." The official added: "I'd hate to spill ashes on this beautiful carpet."

Romney snapped back: "I wouldn't advise it." Naturally he avoids all profanity. Yet listeners thought change might be in the wind when they heard the governor's annoyed rejoinder to a remark by Democratic House

THE ROMNEY IMAGE "That clean life"

Speaker Joseph Wowski: "Oh, Joe, fiddle-faddy poppycock!"

Romney's partaking of exercise is by now legendary. His fast early morning brushes with the golf course go on. By Mormon precept, the body is the temple of the spirit and must be well maintained. But for five days this winter the temple shook a bit. A veteran newsmen notes:

"Believe it or not, this man had a cold." Provoked by his "goodness," Romney's rivals won't stop trying to take the shine off or push him into displays of temper. He, of course, never admits anger but says simply that he "gets intense."

A needling Democrat comments: "He's been intense a lot lately. In other words, madder than hell."

As is well known, the governor's unique make-up causes as much bafflement among potential Republican allies as among Democrats looking for the "handle."

Despite his "I'm a team player" and his stepped-up out-of-state visits to party functions, many hard-shelled professionals still add together his strong religious bent, his moralizing, his evoking of "proven principles" that somehow seem beyond GOP doctrine, and come up with the tag of "maverick."

One crusty veteran of the national party never will forget Romney telling him "money isn't everything" when he visited the governor on a fund-raising mission.

Republicans can't really fix him philosophically. Moderates and liberals applaud his concern over civil rights and other "people's problems."

Goldwaterites perk up when they hear him thrash everything big, forgetting that he includes business. Romney's brand of individualism strikes one appraiser as of the rugged, western, "you don't build no railroad through here, we'll take care of it ourselves" variety.

Zing into spring! in a new Chevrolet

If you've been sitting tight waiting for just your kind of car, with just your kind of power, at just your kind of price—wait no longer!

Chevrolet. It's a bigger, more beautiful car this year. Which is why that handsome silhouette could be mistaken for cars costing a thousand—even two thousand—dollars more.

Chevy II. No car so trim looking has a right to be so thrifty. But thrifty it is, with brakes that adjust themselves, a long-lived exhaust system, and lots of other money savers.

Chevrole. This one's got lively looks, spirited power, a softer ride—and a remarkable amount of room atop a highly maneuverable wheelbase. No wonder it's today's favorite mid-size car.

Corvair. Ask any '65 Corvair owner how it feels to drive a car with such easy steering, tenacious traction and responsive rear-engine power. And be prepared to do a lot of listening.

Aid To Cribbing

One of the occupational hazards of classroom cheating is that the cheater may be caught.

This risk has now been substantially reduced by the invention of a cunning little gadget which makes fudging in exams so safe and easy that a truly conscientious cheater would almost hate to take the grade.

This battery-powered gimmick is about the size of a pack of cigarettes. The eager student jots down facts he wants to remember on a roll of paper inside and the little machine is placed in a shirt or jacket pocket in easy vision of the cribber.

The paper glides past a transparent slot in the top of the machine when a button is pressed.

If the student is the lazy or super-cautious type, there is a further refinement. For a few extra bucks he can buy a phony wrist watch which has a mechanism to start the fact-flashing machine.

A wire runs down the student's sleeve from the machine to the fake watch. When the student bends his wrist, the machine goes to work.

Did the creator of this device have any idea his brainchild might not be used strictly for character building?

Of course he didn't! Not even when he solicited 2,000 students to buy the machine. He is interested, naturally, in furthering education.

Let us hope he never discovers the sinister potential of his genius. The shock might spoil the satisfaction he must be experiencing in a reaction to his gimmick which, in his innocence, he never dreamed would be so lively.

You're Worth More

An expert in such matters says that chemicals in the human body which were valued at only 98 cents in the 1930s are now worth $800.

This could be written off, of course, as just another case of exaggerated inflation, and to tell the truth it doesn't seem to have caused much of a commotion in the stock market.

Nevertheless, it's a mighty comforting bit of news to some of us who get to wondering now and then why we haven't made more out of ourselves.

Anyone who can take a measly 98 cents worth of anything and build it up to $800 can't be such a bum. And if he can also manage to jigger those juices in chemical experiments so they spark some brain power and energy, he's really got it made.

Test tubes, anyone?

Phil Newsom Says . . .

Water Over The Dam

By Phil Newsom

Back in July, 1961, the late President John F. Kennedy declared that "the immediate threat to free men in West Berlin . . . West Berlin is the great testing place of Western courage and will."

Much water has gone over the dam since then, and in the intervening years seeking rather than Moscow seemed to pose the greater long-run threat to world peace, rejecting co-existence and fostering violent revolution everywhere.

Since mid-1962 the Berlin issue has been largely a dormant one.

Yet it has remained the greatest single threat of conflict in Europe and a flash point which could erupt in global conflict. And of this, the Russians have issued occasional reminders.

Strategically for the Russians Berlin has many advantages over South Vietnam.

And if the Russians sought to divert or divide U. S. attention, Berlin 110 miles inside Communist territory is ready-made.

It was perhaps with this thought in mind that the Western occupying powers in West Berlin agreed only reluctantly to the meeting of the full West German Bundestag, lower house of the West German Parliament, in West Berlin beginning Wednesday.

The West German Federal Republic regards occasional such meetings as essential to emphasize West Berlin's status as a separate state of the republic.

The Bundestag met there in 1957 and again in 1958, but under Allied restraints has not met there for the last seven years.

Soviet and Communist East German reaction renews the pattern of both 1957 and 1958.

In the weeks preceding and following the 1957 Bundestag Berlin session, the East German Communists attempted to establish authority over the air corridors linking Berlin with the West.

East German police began interfering with the free movement of Western officials.

Walter Ulbricht, Communist boss of East Germany, followed the 1958 meeting with a declaration that sovereignty over all Berlin rested with the East German People's Republic.

It was the beginning of a series of ultimatums issued by Nikita S. Khrushchev, threatening a separate peace with East Germany and the surrender of all controls, including Berlin access, to the East Germans.

Worry Clinic

Lola's problem is very common so be sure to scrapbook this case for future reference. If you have trouble controlling your emotions then memorize the rules below and send for the booklet offered today.

But for the sexual motivation underneath Lola's problem, read the follow-up tomorrow.

CASE V-468: Lola P., aged 29, is a neurotic wife.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I am becoming an alcoholic, much as I am ashamed to admit it."

"And though I try to reform, I simply can't resist temptation."

"So how can a person ever learn to control the emotions?"

"There are several axioms to remember, including one from the Bible, which warns: 'Look not on the wine while it is red!'"

Which means, keep away from whatever tempts you to break your sensible resolutions.

Walter Ulbricht, Communist boss of East Germany, followed the 1958 meeting with a declaration that sovereignty over all Berlin rested with the East German People's Republic.

It was the beginning of a series of ultimatums issued by Nikita S. Khrushchev, threatening a separate peace with East Germany and the surrender of all controls, including Berlin access, to the East Germans.

she'll devour 50 grams and then quit.

But if she faces a much larger pile of wheat, she'll eat from 85 to 100 grams before she stops gorging herself!

So keep any tempting food, candy, cigarettes or liquor out of your home. Avoid them!

Then you can't "Look on the wine while it is red," as the Bible warns.

Also, drop out of clubs or social organizations where you will also be tempted to drink or smoke or engage in illicit affairs.

And become more active in constructive work so you will drain off your surplus energy in worthwhile projects.

For much of the incentive to smoke or drink is due to pent-up energy.

It isn't a chemical or nicotine hunger that makes smokers crave their cigarettes, but a "muscle hunger."

When tense, they want to indulge in muscular activity.

But at social events they can't jump up and do shadow boxing! Nor can they run the quarter mile around the block, or people would think they were peculiar.

Yet their muscles cry out for activity.

So they fish for a cigaret, light up, and then wear that hand and arm in hemispherical callisthenics for 5 minutes.

This bizarre muscular action is now socially approved whereas shadow boxing at a formal party would be voted as ridiculous.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many people who are trying to get ahead in the world take self-improvement courses of one type or another. That is the hard way.

I can tell you how to enhance yourself in the eyes of your friends, neighbors, relatives and associates with no effort at all. It is called the "instant expert" method.

The system was accidentally discovered by a friend of mine last summer when he was taking some house guests on a tour of the National Art Gallery. One of them paused to admire a Rembrandt portrait.

"I wonder how long it took him to paint that," she mused.

"It took 2-1/2 years," my friend replied.

He told me later he didn't know what caused him to say that. The figure just popped into his head.

"Thereafter," he said, "whenever anyone expressed curiosity over some obscure point, I would manufacture an answer. It made a great impression on my guests."

"But isn't that kind of dishonest?" I asked.

"In a way, yes," he said.

"On the other hand, my guests enjoyed their visit to the gallery much more than they would have otherwise."

"Since then, I have practiced instant expertmanship on a number of occasions, always with splendid results. Within my circle of acquaintances, my prestige and social standing have measurably improved."

"People who once regarded me as something of a wash-out have begun to look upon me with new respect. It has changed my entire life."

"Of course, you have to be discreet about it. Never give answers that are likely to be remembered or checked. An instant expert must choose his spots carefully to avoid exposure."

"You also have to be careful not to overdo it, or people will mark you down as a big know-it-all."

"Okay," I said, "I'll try it." And this week, while my family was watching the Academy Awards ceremony on television, I did.

The opportunity arose when the cameras showed a close-up of Eitel Waters, a singing star of an earlier generation.

"I wonder how old she is now," my wife said.

"She's 76," I said, picking a random number.

Later on, we caught a glimpse of Francis X. Bushman, who starred in silent movies. My daughter wondered what the "X" stood for.

"Xavier," I said, making a wild guess.

I kept this up for the rest of the program, which endeared me to my family more than ever. I can hardly wait to take them to the art gallery.

THE HAPPY PEOPLE YOU NOTICE TODAY HAD THEIR EASTER PICTURES FINISHED - BY - Weibol's Camera Shop 112 S. PARK AVE.

By Dotie Austin
NEW SQUADRON VAH-6 is beginning to get settled in now and the officer's wives are getting their club organized for social activities at their new duty station.

Last week the skipper's wife, Anne Underwood held a coffee at her home on Scott Avenue and persuaded those wives attending to volunteer for the various chairmanships.

Jeanne Moore was named NOWC representative; Eleanor Shevlin, bridge chairman, Lanny Skelly, publicity chairman; Ellen Vought, thrift shop; Linda Davis, bowling team and Becky Thompson, treasurer and "Sunshine Suzie."

Cdr. Charles Smith, executive officer, his wife Helen and their eight children arrived Friday and Mrs. Smith, along with Mrs. Underwood will host a luncheon in May for the Six "O" wives.

The first squadron bridge will be held at the home of Jan Sarajian, Wednesday, Jan received an engraved silver disc at the coffee meeting and Lanny Skelly was presented with an engraved silver baby cup in honor of her new little Arthur Jr.

Cdr. and Mrs. Underwood had as their weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Glasener and their three children from Asheville, N. C. Mrs. Glasener is Cdr. Underwood's sister. The daughter, Janet plans to attend Stetson University next year.

ANOTHER SET of matching babies have arrived at the home of Lt. Richard Daum and his wife Clare. Clare gave birth to twins again on April 5th.

The girl has been named Margaret Mary (she weighed in eight pounds and was born first) and the boy has been named Richard Jr. That little rascal weighed eight pounds and four ounces!

The new twins join 17-month-old twin sisters, Patty and Polly at the Daum's 414 Salsuma Drive, Ravenna Park home.

THE EASTER BUNNY was very busy Saturday on special call at the Chief's Club where he hid dozens and dozens of colored eggs for the children of the CPO's and their wives. The children were divided into groups and prizes were given in each group. Golden egg winners included Bruce Pierce in the one to three year old group; Mark Elgin in the four to six group; Peter Stanekiewicz in the seven to nine and Laurie Pope in the ten to 12.

Finding the most eggs were Cindy Booker, one to three; Randy Martin, four to six; Roger Pope, seven to nine; Laurie Botta, ten to 12.

Winners of the Egg on the Spoon contest were Debbie Ganderion, Rick Higgins, and Michele Reeves in the one to three, and in the eight through 12 group, winners were Earl Willford, Peter Stanekiewicz and John Warnick.

After the egg hunt the children were served refreshments and Chairman Betty Smith reported that "everyone had a good time."

Special thanks were extended to Chief's Club Manager Hank Knowles and to Betty and her committee.

The regular meeting of the CPO Wives will be held Wednesday and will start promptly at 7:30 p. m. with a program which features a film on cancer. Dr. Thomas Largent will be the speaker and President Audrey Reeves urges all members to attend and bring a guest.

DOSSIE deGANAH is off to Athens and her husband, bearing in hand, for special delivery, the "activities" scrapbook made up for the husbands of VAH-6. She'll report on what's going on in Sanford and is expected back in a couple of weeks to tell the wives what's going on "over there."

Dossie recently made the news when she accepted in Cdr. John deGanah's absence, one of the Bombing Derby trophies at the presentation ceremonies recently.

JUDY TURNER was expected in town last week, af-of her adventures and show us all her pictures and souvenirs.

TERRY SHATTUCK was slated to present the program to members of the VAH-11 with a talk about choosing the proper patterns and fabrics for the individual figure and style.

At another meeting on April 27th, Richard Keogh, from Florida State Bank, is scheduled to talk to the wives about budgeting.

This meeting is set for 7:30 p. m. at the NW room. The nursery will be available.

LOTS OF NAVY FAMILIES had house guests last week during the Bombing Derby and Carol O'Shea of RVAH-13 "O" Wives has furnished us with a list of those from her squadron.

Lcdr. Ray Vehorn and wife Carolyn had as guests Ray's brother Cdr. Dale Vehorn who is stationed at Andrews AFB. Cdr. Vehorn piloted Admiral Gillette here for the Derby.

LA. (Jg) Glenn Dalgle and his wife had Glenn's parents Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dalgle of Labadieville, Louisiana with them.

LA. (Jg) Paul Stokes and Betty were visited by Lt. (Jg) Bill Woodward, his wife Pat and their two youngsters from VAP-62 in Jacksonville.

LA. Bob Renner and Carol entertained Carol's sister, Cheryl Cottrell from Oceanide, Long Island, N. Y. and her cousin, Gwen Meyer of Baldwin, Long Island.

LA. (Jg) Don Estes and his wife Barbara enjoyed a visit from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Estes of Basile, Louisiana.

LA. (Jg) Joe O'Shea and Carol had as guests Dorris Tibbets and her four sons. The Tibbets were formerly in Guam and were in VAP-41.

Leaving after welcoming the new Daum twins was maternal grandmother, Mrs. Richard Halsepuch, who departed for Vallejo, California after a two month visit here.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law invited my husband and me to have Easter dinner at their home. Just as we were getting ready to leave for their house, they presented themselves at our home all dressed up. This is the way she put it: "You son decided to take ME out for Easter Sunday dinner instead, just the two of us. Wasn't that sweet of him?" And off they went! Since we had planned to have dinner at their home, I had nothing prepared at home, so my husband and I went to a restaurant and ate by ourselves.

A few days later I found out that my son and his wife went to HER parents' home for Easter Sunday dinner. This upset me terribly and has been preying on my mind. What is your opinion of a daughter-in-law like that?

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: It was a very shabby trick, but your daughter-in-law had to have the full co-operation of your son in order to pull it off, so he is as guilty as she is. Don't let it fester. At the opportune time, tell them both that you are wise, and clear the air.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion of my problem. My husband is retired and his hobby is walking. There's no harm in that, but besides taking long walks outside, he walks back and forth inside our house half the night. He weighs over 200 pounds and when he walks, the whole house shakes. I tell him that walking in the house is not the same as walking outside, and he should please go outside and walk around the block as many times as he wants to, but he says I am being unreasonable. I have never asked him to stop walking before 10:30 p.m. I like to go to bed early and, with his feet stamping, I can't tell you how nerve-racking it is. So who's unreasonable?

WALKER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: He is. Ask him to walk to his doctor's. Your husband (or you) into a nervous breakdown.

DEAR ABBY: Some- where I had heard that during an electrical storm it is always best to leave a cellar window open so that if lightning strikes, it can find a way out of the house. Do you, or any of your readers, know anything about this? My husband has turned it into a big joke, and I have no way of knowing if what I heard was true or false. I hope you can come up with an answer because I am tired of being called—

"FLASH"

DEAR "FLASH": According to Mr. Charles C. Benford, who has been the Chief of the Beverly Hills Fire Department for 40 years, this is false. Lightning seeks the "ground" (that's the purpose of a lightning rod), not a "way out." Chief Benford added that this tale is superstition—like the old Pennsylvania myth that if you put MONTE CARLO (UPI) — Ken Fletcher and Bob Hewitt of Australia won the men's doubles title in the Monte Carlo tennis championships Sunday with a 6-1, 6-4, 6-4 straight-set victory over Jose Luis Arilla and Juan Couder of Spain.

One of the most fascinating pictures I have seen in a long time is "The Yellow Rolls-Royce." Rex Harrison is perfection, Ingrid Bergman plays her part to the hilt, and the so well-liked Art Carney is really great.

There must be many more "lady skin-divers" than I thought. Deep-sea divers have watches all their own, and the two new ones designed by Bulova are very popular with the Scuba ladies. Put yourself in the South seat today and look over the dummy. You note that your partner didn't quite have enough for his positive response to your opening two bid and are glad that you settled for the small slam.

You also note that the slam is not a lay down and look around for the best way to play the hand.

The simple way is to play some trumps and continue with king and a small spade with the intention of finessing if the queen does not appear. Then you note a slight improvement in this method. Before trying the spade finess you might play the ace of diamonds to see if you can drop either the king or queen. In that case you won't need the spade finess at all. Now see if you can find a better method. There is one! When you attack the spade suit you lead a low spade from your hand and put in dummy's eight. If East produces the queen your worries are over. If he doesn't you abandon the spade suit temporarily and lead a diamond to your ten spot.

Later on you will overtake your king of spades with dummy's ace and take a second diamond finesse.

This really is a good play. It wins any time that East holds the queen of spades and wins the first spade trick with it. It wins any time that either East or West hold the doubleton or singleton queen of spades and assuming that the spade play does not work it still wins unless West holds both the king and queen of diamonds.

96 Beginners Are Registered At Pinecrest

H. R. Heckenbach, principal of Pinecrest School, announced 96 children who will enter first grade there next year were registered at the recent pre-school round-up. He urged that parents living in the Pinecrest area whose children will be six years old on or before Jan. 1 register during any school day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Birth certificates must be presented at the time of registration.

Heckenbach also announced that the school is planning a four-week orientation program during the summer for some children who will begin school next year. The program is to begin July 19 and end Aug. 13, with three-hour sessions each week day. Parents must provide transportation. Parents interested in having their children participate in the program are requested to visit the school office and fill out an application form. Selection of children for the program will be based on information given on the application. Parents will be notified if their child has been accepted, since the number of children who can be accommodated in the summer orientation program is limited.

State Trooper To Be Guest Of Area C Of C

By Donna Estes Trooper J. D. Harrel will speak on "Death on Highways of the State of Florida" and show films to illustrate his talk at the regular meeting of the Longwood Area Chamber of Commerce scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday at the Civic League Building on Church Street. Still photos taken at scenes of accidents by Trooper Harrel will be placed at vantage points in the meeting room. Harrel is in charge of investigating traffic deaths in Seminole, Orange and Volusia Counties. Interested persons are invited to attend and are reminded that the meeting will begin promptly at 8 p.m. William Baumholser, president, will be in charge and refreshments will be served.

W. L. HARMON of Lake Mary has been elected a vice president of the newly organized chapter of the Piano Technicians Guild of Central Florida. The purpose of the Guild is to help raise piano service to a higher standard. Harmon has a fully-equipped shop and does all types of piano work.

Peace Corpsman Dies In Nigeria

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Peace Corps has announced that one of its volunteers was killed when his motorcycle ran off a road near Enugu, Nigeria. The victim was Stanley Edward Kowalezyk, 21, of Gilman, Wis. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Kowalezyk, live on a farm near Gilman. The youth, first volunteer to lose his life in Africa, joined the corps last June after training at Central State College in Wilberforce, Ohio. He was in Nigeria to work on an agricultural extension project. Before joining the Peace Corps, Kowalezyk attended the University of Wisconsin for two years. He also worked as an apprentice cheesemaker.

Mariner 4 Bombarded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Space scientists reported today that Mariner 4 is being subjected to increasing heavy bombardment by tiny meteorites as it moves farther from the sun and closer to Mars. The 545-pound spacecraft's scientific findings during the first half of its 228-day flight to Mars were reported at the annual meeting of the American Geophysical Union. In the first 3,100 hours of its mission the spacecraft was hit by at least 77 micro-meteorites. These are dust sized particles of matter which swarm in space.

Horatio Alger Come To Life

Jeno Paulucci Wins National Honors

Jeno F. Paulucci, president of the Chun King Corporation, Duluth, Minn., who maintains a winter home in Sanford at 2020 Washington Avenue, has been named one of 11 winners of the 19th annual Horatio Alger awards by the American Schools and Colleges Association.

JENO F. PAULUCCI

Although Paulucci spends most of his time either in Minnesota or traveling on business, Mrs. Paulucci and their three children are still in Sanford. Two of the children are attending school, Cindy at Southside Primary School and Mickey at Florida Central Academy. The youngest child is Dina, 3. The family will return to its Minnesota home after school recesses for the summer.

Paulucci's sister, Mrs. R. J. d'Aversa, lives in Sanford at 401 Summerlin Avenue. Among the other 1968 winners of the Horatio Alger Awards are Rev. William F. (Billy) Graham, one of America's best known-spiritual leaders, and William A. Patterson, president of United Airlines, the nation's largest domestic air carrier. The bronze plaque which gets its name from the "rags-to-riches" success stories of the fictional Horatio Alger novels will be presented to Paulucci in the Starlight Room of New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on May 17. The Horatio Alger Awards, according to Kenneth J. Beebe, president and founder of the awards committee, are dedicated to the American tradition of equal opportunity and the free enterprise system which enables youth to overcome humble beginnings and achieve success through hard work, honesty and determination. Each year Horatio Alger medals are awarded to a group of Americans whose careers mirror the results of initiative, hard work, honesty and adherence to traditional ideals. Paulucci's success, according to the committee, is in the true Horatio Alger tradition and proves that opportunity still knocks for those who want to hear and heed it. President and chairman of the board of the nation's largest producer of canned and frozen American-Oriental foods, Paulucci began his career in 1925 at age seven picking coal along the railroad tracks to keep the family house warm, and by selling iron ore samples to tourists. During the depression, the son of Italian immigrants unloaded coal cars for 50 cents a day, worked as a handy man in a local market, hawked vegetables from street corners and helped operate a family grocery store in Hibbing, Minn. Forced to abandon his pre-law studies at Hibbing Junior College after a year-and-a-half, Paulucci became a wholesale food salesman in the depressed Iron Range of

Appreciation Dinner-Meeting Slated By USO

Annual USO appreciation dinner meeting slated for 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Civic Center will feature Commissioner Norman S. Marshall, a member of the USO board of governors as the main speaker with William C. Fransa as master of ceremonies. The 1964 yearly report will be given by Richard Barnett, council president, and installation of new council officers will be held with Maj. Kimber Cox, USO director, officiating. Music will be furnished by the Salvation Army brass ensemble from Orlando. Opening ceremonies will be led by a color guard from the U. S. Marine Barracks at Sanford Naval Air Station.

Marine, Sailor In Exercises

Marine Sgt. James H. Moody, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moody, 119 Elm Avenue, took part in Exercise Quick Kick VII aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Guadalcanal. Quick Kick is a joint services operation held off the southeastern coast of Puerto Rico in March and early April. Also taking part in the exercise from Sanford was Fireman Apprentice Albert H. Kramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kramer, 1903 Summerlin Avenue.

less energy and passionate faith in the power of free enterprise converted what began as a simple beansprouting venture into the food-growing, packaging and marketing complex that is the Chun King Corporation. The total $60 million sales complex owned by Paulucci includes: The Chun King Corporation of the U.S.A.; the Chun King Corporation of Canada, Ltd.; Northland Foods, Inc.; Etor Realty Corporation in Duluth, and the Chop Chop Corporation. Paulucci contributes much of his personal time to civic activities in his native state. The following organizations have benefited greatly from his efforts: Northeastern Minnesota Organization for Economic Education, which he founded and now heads; Northeastern Minnesota Development Association, now funded with more than $1.25 million for industrial development and of which Paulucci is vice president, and the Duluth Chamber of Commerce on which he serves as vice president and director. Paulucci also has spearheaded efforts to develop plans and obtain financing for a $6.1 million municipal arena-auditorium. Recently, he and his corporation gave Minnesota a complete agriculture research center for the purpose of furthering development of peat and other agricultural products. In 1962 Paulucci received the Duluth Hall of Fame Award, given by the American Legion.

"The Horatio Alger Awards committee," Beebe said, "believes that Paulucci's experiences and those of the other prominent Americans honored this year will convince the nation's youth that free enterprise is not dead. These men," Beebe stressed, "have pulled themselves up by their bootstraps in the true Horatio Alger tradition. They are living proof that success can still be achieved by those willing to work for it."

Garden Building Dedication Set Wednesday

The Sanford Herald

State President Will Officiate

THREE PLANNERS, Mrs. D. K. Dorman, building chairman, Mrs. J. M. Fahey, president and E. R. Wood, general contractor confer on last minute plans for the completion of the Garden Club of Sanford. Note used brick wall behind the group.

By Dottie Austin
Dedication ceremonies for the new Garden Club of Sanford building at Sunland Estates will begin at 2 p.m. Wednesday with a ribbon cutting, followed by appropriate ceremonies.

Mrs. Frank Hewlett, of Miami, president of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs, will officiate, along with Mrs. F. M. Fahey, local president.

Guests, which will include dignitaries from Sanford, Seminole County and Florida, will be invited to tour the beautiful 5,500 square foot building, and will be offered refreshments.

Inside the spacious building visitors will enter a 30-by-foot lobby, separated from a large 40-48-foot auditorium by eight decorative black wrought iron columns, entwined in an oak leaf design. Between the columns is a ribbon-twisted wrought iron fence and railing.

The east wall of the auditorium is a bank of windows, floor to ceiling, alternating with strips of plate glass.

At the front is a small semi-octagonal shaped stage, raised about two feet off the terrazzo floor, with the back wall paneled in redwood. Behind the wings of the stage are two dressing rooms, with convenient doors leading from the stage.

Overhead spotlights stand ready to shed their brilliance on the eight-by-25-foot stage.

This auditorium can hold at least 300 persons seated and more than that at a dance or "stand-up" social event.

The central lobby, which allows seating capacity for 200 more persons, has a complete view of the stage. The west wall of the lobby is made of mellow used brick imported from Greensboro, N. C.

Overhead in the lobby are three skylights interspersed along the ceiling of fibreglass panels are beautiful wrought iron chandeliers, and hanging from each chandelier are beautiful tear drop ornaments.

In the auditorium artificial illumination comes from three banks of recessed lighting panels.

Throughout the building piped FM music spreads its strains and is also connected with the public address system which will penetrate to every corner of the edifice.

Two air-conditioners, each a five-ton unit are strategically placed so that they may be used either to cool the lobby-auditorium side of the building, or the conference room side, or both at once.

To the west of the lobby are a series of smaller rooms, the largest of which is a 24 by 24 foot conference room which will seat 50 persons. It has a private entrance so that if a meeting is going on in the main part of the building, those in conference room may enter or leave without disturbing or being disturbed.

Next room is the "buffet" room where tables can be set up to serve food through the kitchen service window. Directly behind this room is the kitchen, a modern up-to-date room filled with all the latest appliances.

A small library and reading room occupies a 10 by 14 foot space and an office of similar size opens just off the lobby.

The office will be furnished as "The Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson Memorial" office room, with furnishings donated by trustees of the Wilson Memorial Fund.

The combination of dish garden and flowering or foliage plant is increasing in popularity. Remove the house plant from its clay pot and place in a shallower container. Then plant a few small garden-type plants beneath the larger plant.

E. R. WOOD, general contractor for the building of the Garden Club of Sanford.

General Contractor Started Here In '58

E. R. Wood, general contractor for the Garden Club of Sanford building, came to Sanford from High Point, N. C. in 1953 and began his present business in 1958.

Wood is a member of First Baptist Church, serves as a deacon and has been a trustee for the past five years. He is president of the Brotherhood of Baptist Men, a teacher of intermediate boys class and serves on the building committee of the church.

The local contractor is a member of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and enjoys golfing and fishing. He is married to the former Lottie Pugh and they reside at 2104 Sanford Avenue.

Nation's Patriots Remembered

A grove of "trees that look at God all day and lift their leafy arms to pray," has been dedicated at Valley Forge, according to Frederick Brown Harris, D.D., Chaplain both of the U. S. Senate and Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. The grove will be a living national memorial. Each tree "will speak" the name of a patriot who has won the nation's highest "medaled honor."

The grove will be planted where George Washington knelt and prayed, in refusal ing a peace that "crucified liberty," according to Chaplain Harris, who added: "How movingly appropriate that 60 acres of that same sacred soil should be consecrated forever to the nurture of growing trees whose roots draw strength from the same rivers of water which nourished the firm faith of the Founding Fathers."

The Chaplain concluded: "There are tongues in these trees, and the word they shout is Freedom at any cost."

Center Reflects Perseverance Of Club Women

Dream Of Year Is Culminated

At the entrance to Sunland Estates, south of Sanford, stands a new monument, symbol of the determination and perseverance of a group of women and the generosity of many citizens who caught the reflection of these women's dream.

It is the new Garden Club of Sanford Center building—conceived in the hearts of those who appreciate the beauty of nature and dedicated to spreading that doctrine throughout Sanford and Seminole County.

For many years, Sanford Garden Clubwomen dreamed of and hoped for a beautiful structure, built just the way they wanted it, with room and space to accomplish all the things they wanted to do and to help make their community a more beautiful place in which to live.

Today the key is in the door, the terrazzo floor polished to a mirror-finish, every speck of construction dust has been flicked away, the reception line is forming, the ribbons are in place, ready to be cut and dignitaries are coming from all over the state to share in the triumph of the women of the Garden Club of Sanford.

Hundreds of people have been invited to share their pride and hundreds will meet before the beautiful air-conditioned building to see what has been done.

As they approach the building visitors will be impressed by the mica stone front on the right of the building and the vast expanse of concrete and glass which forms the remainder of the building.

MRS. D. K. DORMAN, building chairman for the new Garden Club of Sanford goes over a long list of last minute things to do before the opening Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Activities At Center Outlined By Chairman

Mrs. D. K. Dorman, former president of the Sanford Garden Club, is one of the persons who has contributed uncounted effort, time, service and determination to the culmination of the Garden Club's dream—a beautiful new building of their own.

Other members of the building committees include Mrs. W. L. Gramkow Jr., Mrs. Volte A. Williams Sr., Mrs. C. W. Baker, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Herbert McCreland, Mrs. Irving Pryor, Mrs. S. L. Wiggins, Mrs. Blanton Owens, Mrs. Charles Cole, Mrs. Charles Robinson and Mrs. Jo Peck.

Because of her continuing interest in this ambitious undertaking Mrs. Dorman was named chairman of the building committee.

She lives about one block from the site of the new building and as she states it, "I've spent more time over here than I have at home, in the past six months."

"It has demanded a great deal of my time, but it is well worth all the blood, sweat and tears that we have poured into this project when we view this beautiful building which we now are ready to open to the dozens of functions for which it will be applicable," Mrs. Dorman said.

She noted that the Garden Club plans to hold workshops, exhibits, clinics, displays, meetings and numerous other activities in the center.

"It's going to get a lot of use—we have all sorts of plans and can really let ourselves go on full scale educational program, including

MRS. J. M. FAHEY, president of the Garden Club of Sanford.

Dignitaries Invited To Club's Dedication

Newest and one of the loveliest of Seminole County's structures is the Sanford Garden Club building at Sunland Estates which is holding open house Wednesday at 2 p.m. with the public invited to view the proud accomplishment of the women of the club.

Invited to officiate at the dedication of the building is the state president of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs, Mrs. Frank Hewlett, of Miami.

Other state officials will include Mrs. W. T. Chennell, district director from Orlando; Mrs. Mary Compton, a past state president, also of Orlando, and Mrs. Vernon Conners, of Mt. Dora, a past state president, past district director and presently Deep South regional director.

Among the dignitaries will be J. Bralley Odham, who donated the land on which the building stands; Joseph Shifalo, who donated the architectural plans, and E. R. Wood, general contractor.

They will be greeted by Mrs. J. M. Fahey, president of the Garden Club of Sanford, and Mrs. D. K. Dorman, building chairman, among others.

Clyde West, Central Florida district manager of Sears, also will be on hand, along with J. L. High, Sears comptroller, Sanford city commissioner,

Proper Soil Conditioning

Home gardeners who anxiously try to "mother" their garden each Spring by inundating the soil with costly nutrient fertilizers may actually be doing more harm than good.

In their zeal they may be overlooking half their gardening problem simply by failing to properly condition a soil which lacks necessary aeration and moisture control. They may be jumping to rarefied solutions for troubles which are, in fact, basic.

Often not considered is the simple fact that good soil contains about 25% water and 25% air in addition to the 50% solid matter. From the standpoint of expediency and expense, it stands to reason that this should be the first area investigated in any batch of problem soil. It is quite possible that the answer lies here and not in sophisticated nutritives.

Mrs. Cole Heads Landscaping

Mrs. Charles Cole, of Geneva, is the landscape chairman of the new Garden Club of Sanford building and plans call for making the outside of the building a living example of what a garden club can do when called upon to landscape their own building.

The plans were drawn up and donated by Bert T. Foster, of Orlando, landscape architect.

Mrs. Cole is implementing the design, which calls for the planting of full grown Sabal palms, podocarpus, pfizer junipers, viburnum, suspensum, dogwood and sago palms, all hardy cold-resistant plants which will remain green and beautiful the year round.

In the specially prepared beds surrounding the outside of the building, mulch and peat have been incorporated in the soil before planting to insure a good start for the plants.

Surrounding the plantings which will be set close to the building and also the roadway, will be lush green grass.

The club owes this sodding to the generosity of the general contractor, E. R. Wood, who donated the sod and saw that it was put in place before the opening to present a beautiful vista of lawn, plants and trees to visitors who arrive for the event.

When arranging daffodils or any other cut-bulb flowers, remove the lower white portion of their stem because it prevents absorption of water.

Thick stemmed flowers, such as Easter lilies and hydrangeas, should have their stem ends split to facilitate absorption of water.

THE STAGE of the Garden Club of Sanford is ideal for conducting meetings, Mrs. J. M. Fahey, president, demonstrates.

Trading Stamps Are Invaluable

Hundreds of persons have donated money, equipment and supplies to the building fund and furnishings of the new Garden Club of Sanford, which opens Wednesday.

Furnishings in the lobby of the building, including, couches, chairs and other items of comfort have been donated by the Wilson-Maier Furniture Company, of Sanford.

Bookselves are needed in the library and in the office and it is hoped that these, or the lumber to build them, might be donated by some firm or person.

A typewriter for the office is needed and a vanity stool (or two) for the women's restroom.

Ten more large metal folding tables are needed, preferably with formica tops.

Fifty more steel folding chairs for the auditorium and meeting rooms are needed. Names of donors are to be engraved on the backs of all chairs. Mrs. Dorman said that books of trading stamps are invaluable and have helped a great deal in getting needed items.

Donors To Center Are Many

The unusual custom-designed formica-topped receptionist's desk in the lobby of the new Garden Club of Sanford building, which will be officially opened Wednesday was built and donated to the club by the general contractor, E. R. Wood.

In addition to the contribution of the desk, Wood also donated the sod which covers the front lawn of the club grounds.

Another donor was Art Brown, of Art Brown's Pest Control, who pre-treated the entire building for termites at the time of construction and donated his product and labor to the Garden Club.

The terrazzo floors used throughout the building were done by Robert Barber Terrazzo Company, of Leesburg.

Fiberglass ceiling panels and the roof deck were done by Anning and Johnson Contractors, of Orlando. A five-ply built-up roof was constructed by the Steinmeyer Roofing Company of Sanford.

Electrical contractor for the building was E. L. Burns, of Burns Electrical Contracting Company, in Sanford. Air-conditioning was installed by Wall Plumbing and Heating. The air-conditioners, two five-ton General Electric units, are arranged strategically to condition all or half of the building at once.

Mahogany panel doors and panel-fold doors and other lumber used in the building were furnished by Mills and Nebraska Lumber Company, of Orlando, and Gator Lumber Company, of Sanford.

Kohler plumbing fixtures and plumbing in the bathrooms and kitchen were installed by Henson and Hearn Plumbing Company, of Sanford. Color schemes of the women's restroom is gold and white with a full length vanity table and mirror along one wall.

Masonry work in the Sanford Garden Club building was done by the Clifton Taylor Masonry Contracting Company, of Sanford, and painting contractor was Robert Adams, of Sanford.

The jalousie windows came from HarCar Aluminum Company and the plate glass windows from Senkarik Paint and Glass Company. All windows use the new gray, non-glare glass.

Structural steel in the building, which is encompassed in the roof beams and joists, was installed by Polle Brothers, of Oviedo.

Plastering work was done by Carl Lommer, of Longwood. Paving in the parking lot was done by Wilkins Asphalt Company.

New Gardeners Need These 12 Basic Tools

If you're a new homeowner and you have a pile of fill dirt for a front yard—and you don't know the first thing about gardening—then one question stands between you and action. What tools are you going to need in my first gardening venture?

There are two ways you can get the answer to this question. You can start buying everything in sight indiscriminately, or you can take a few tips from a company that has been in the tool manufacturing business for 190 years and now produces over 3,000 different tools for lawn and garden, industry and agriculture.

This firm has compiled a list of a dozen basic tools that each novice gardener or new homeowner should have:

- 1) Long-handle, round-pointed shovel for digging.
- 2) Leaf rake for removing grass clippings, litter and leaves.
- 3) Garden spade for preparing flower and vegetable beds.
- 4) Warren hoe for cultivating, making rows for planting and weeding.
- 5) Iron rake in one of three types—bow rake, level-head rake or a lawn groom rake—for soil preparation.
- 6) An edger for edging lawns, flower beds, around plantings and gardens.
- 7) Grass shears for trimming.
- 8) Hose with hose reel for watering lawns and garden.
- 9) Pruning shear for trimming plants, shrubs and small trees.
- 10) Grass whip for keeping high grass and weeds bordering yard cut down.
- 11) Trowel for planting bulbs, plants, small shrubs.
- 12) Lawn weeder for removing weeds like dandelion from turf.

Lawns Can Be 'Great' All Year . . With Care

"How does your lawn look?"

"Pretty good now, but don't ask me in July."

By following a few simple rules, you can answer "Great" to that question every month of the year—including July and August.

Too often we look at our lawn in early Spring and see that it is lush and green and forget about it until it begins to get a little sparse and weedy during the Summer. A few chores now will almost assure you a good green lawn throughout the Summer.

One of the most important things is proper mowing. To do a good job of mowing you must, naturally, have a good mower. Most gardeners today prefer a rotary mower for all lawn work. You'll want one that will start easily when you need it because in the early Spring you may be out mowing several times a week instead of the usual once. Look for a mower that has easy, finger-tip starting. Also, be sure the mower blade is sharp. Nothing will hurt a lawn more than being torn to shreds by a dull blade.

Be sure you feed your lawn as early as possible. Don't stop there, however. Feed it at least twice more during the year, once before Summer and again in early Fall. One of the best fertilizers you can use is one that has a 20-10-10 ratio. Very often a single, light-weight bag of this ureaform fertilizer will do your entire lawn.

After feeding, weeding is the next important job for early Spring. Some crabgrass killers must be put on early if they are to be effective. Be sure to check the package for the proper time of application. Other crabgrass and broad-leaf killers (for weeds like dandelion and plantain) should be applied to the foliage of the weed itself which means they are put on later.

How high you cut your lawn is also important. Most average lawns should be cut at about an inch and a half high. This adjustment is made on the mower itself by adjusting the wheel height. Some of the newer varieties of grass can be cut lower. No matter what height you cut at, be sure to cut often enough so that you are not cutting any more than a half to three quarters of an inch off the top.

There are two schools of thought on watering lawns. One is to water lightly but frequently—every day that it does not rain. This will work effectively just so long as you don't miss many days during the heat of the Summer.

The other way of watering is to set a schedule of once a week and water very thoroughly until the soil is wet several inches deep.

Insects, we all know, can cause damage to a lawn. But, like weeds, they can be kept in check with regular applications of an insecticide that kills a broad spectrum of pests. Such a material can be on as a liquid or granular powder.

The way to the most beautiful lawn in town is to keep just one step ahead of your lawn. Feed it before it gets hungry; water before it gets thirsty; kill weeds before they grow or get established; and mow before the grass looks as if it needs cutting.

Brailey Odham Donated 2 Lots For Center Site

One of the primary donors who helped extensively in bringing to present day reality the new Garden Club of Sanford building is Brailey Odham, builder and developer, formerly of Sanford and now of Orlando.

Odham gave the building plans a tremendous impetus when he donated two lots in his building project, Sunland Estates, to the Garden Club for its new home.

The lots together make a plot of land about 260 feet deep and 125 feet wide, enough for the 5,500 square foot building and the large parking lot, as well as the extensively landscaped area all around the building.

At ground-breaking ceremonies held on Aug. 4, 1964, Odham and Joseph Shifalo, Winter Park architect, who drew and donated the architectural plans for the building, lifted the first shovelful of dirt, along with Mrs. Auburn Rector, who was then president of the Garden Club.

Later Mrs. Rector resigned and Mrs. J. M. Fahey, the present president, was appointed. A former president, who spearheaded the final drive to bring the building plans to actual construction, Mrs. D. K. Dorman was named chairman of the building project General Contractor for the building was E. R. Wood.

United States Ranks No. 1 Nation Of Gardeners

The Sanford Herald April 20, 1965—Page 5-A

Try 'Soil-less' Soil For Plant Success

Experts estimate that the population explosion, if allowed to continue unchecked, will conceivably reach that point where every man, woman and child on earth will be limited to one square foot of living space.

Equally startling, and even closer to realization, is the prediction that the day is not long coming when every available inch of the earth's topsoil will be cultivated in an attempt at feeding the world's population.

Anticipating these bleak prospects, today's agricultural scientists are experimenting with a variety of "soil-less" compounds, aimed at producing, as an alternative to soil, a high-quality growing medium which is both uniform in performance and easily obtained.

Researchers believe that they have found their soil alternative in a vermiculite-peat moss compound which has provided significant results in tests conducted on the East Coast. When compared to plants grown in soil, the soil-less mix not only produced consistently better quality plants with greater yields, but succeeded in eliminating soil-borne diseases as well.

This successful soil substitute is achieved when vermiculite, a type of mica which is processed by exposure to high temperatures, is combined with equal parts of sphagnum peat moss and lesser amounts of nutrient elements (3-10-5 fertilizer or ammonium nitrate).

Although horticultural experts caution that the mix is not intended to eliminate soil as a growing medium, they do recommend it for trial in every gardener's program.

The youthful beekeeper of the Alamana Apiary held the group captive with her adaptation of "Bees in the Garden," covering her subject with information logically assembled and in a most charming and gracious manner. Her detailed oration and clever dialogue was fascinating to the Circle, with the members all in complete agreement that this program excelled all others for the year.

In capsule form, Mrs. Stubbings explained why honeybees and their service of pollination is so important to gardeners and fruit and vegetable growers, stressing the growing menace caused by use of killing insecticides, including helpful insects such as bees.

"Arriving on the scene" with a frame of bees, the affable apiarist described a bee colony and the three kinds of

Number Up Last Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States now ranks as the No. 1 nation of gardeners.

Even so, not all the petal pushers own green thumbs; 32 per cent of existing gardens are not flourishing.

These and other gardening facts were unearthed from a 50-state study made by one manufacturer of gardening tools.

The study found that the number of gardens has increased in the last 12 months from 30 to 42 million. This total means one garden for every five persons, the researchers figured.

England ranks second with one garden to each seven persons, followed closely by Ireland, Switzerland, and Denmark.

The manufacturer made the study in co-operation with 314 women's gardening clubs plus door-to-door questioning.

Its conclusions were based on talks with 82,000 people, growers of gardens large, medium and small, and of both vegetable and flower types.

The 1965 study did not go into the number of vegetable gardens compared with flower

Indoor-Outdoor Compact Plants Find Favor

Living plants that do double decorative duty — either indoors or out — are finding increasing favor among modern homemakers, according to a recent study among professional growers and florists.

And along with the increasing popularity of these dual-purpose plants to enhance year 'round decor, there's a new trend toward "compact" plants, such as chrysanthemums and azaleas. The technique of keeping plant stems shorter, without sacrificing lushness and beauty of foliage or flowers, has been greatly advanced.

In both the double-purpose and compact plants, porous red clay flower pots play a basically important role in maintaining plant health and beauty, from professional grower to ultimate consumer.

Plants grown and purchased in porous clay pots enjoy extra health benefits not found in other containers. They are automatically safeguarded against overwatering — the commonest cause of most house plant failures — because tiny pores in the clay walls permit excess moisture and harmful salts to leach out the sides. Roots of clay-potted plants thus cannot become waterlogged. In addition, the porosity supplies built-in cooling and air-conditioning which roots need to thrive.

Use These Timely Tips Your Power Mower Can Perform Better

A little consideration and attention on the part of the home gardener toward his power lawn mower can add many extra seasons of trouble-free use to the machine's life.

And, if the home gardener is planning to buy a new power mower this Spring, the care and service he has rendered his power mower in the past will pay off in added trade-in value.

The gardener has two alternatives when it comes to tuning up and properly conditioning his power mower for the season ahead. He can do it himself by following the manufacturer's manual, or he can, at a very modest cost, take advantage of his local authorized power mower service dealer.

Let's assume here, however, that you are going to do it yourself. Here, then, is what experts suggest:

- 1) Drain all remaining gasoline from the tank. Squirting several drops of oil in the combustion chamber and pull the engine through two or three cycles, with the switch off.
- 2) Remove spark plug and check it for cracks or other damage. Clean off carbon and oil and reset the spark gap.

For balanced-power engines a spark gap of .025 is recommended. (Check your owner's manual for other makes.)

- 3) Remove the rotary cutting blade, sharpen and balance it. The blade is so important to efficient cutting and, at the same time so reasonable in price, it is both wise and economical to replace the nicked and out-of-balance blade rather than attempt to service it. Re-tighten blade nut securely.
- 4) Check all connections, movable parts and wheel assemblies for damage or wear. Examine the engine and housing for loose bolts and nuts.
- 5) Wash gas tank out with fresh gasoline. Remove sediment bowl and wash it clean.
- 6) Gas up with fresh fuel. For 2-cycle engines mix one-half pint of oil to one gallon of gasoline. For 4-cycle engines, drain oil from crankcase, flush and fill to proper level with clean oil and fill tank with straight gasoline.
- 7) Remove the gas line at the carburetor and open the shut-off valve. Permit the fuel to flow freely for two or three seconds to clean out line. Then close the shut-off valve and replace the gas line. Re-open the shut-off valve.
- 8) Start the engine and let it run for a few minutes. After the excess oil in the cylinder has burned off, adjust the carburetor for the smoothest operation. Do not be alarmed at the amount of smoke when you start the engine—that is merely excess oil burning off.

That's it. Now you're ready to go. Just a few simple tools and about 30 minutes time, and your power mower should be ready for the Summer ahead.

If you receive a hydrangea plant, cut it back drastically after it stops blooming and plant it outdoors.

NOT ONE, BUT TWO OVENS are to be found in the kitchen of the Garden Club of Sanford.

Bees 'Service' Gardens, Apiarist Avers

By Doris Williams

Petite comely Genevieve (Mrs. Carl) Stubbings, attired in khaki coveralls and a helmet with her face veiled in heavy net, could really have been a member of a safari bound for the vast wilds as she spoke to the April meeting of the Palm Circle of the Sanford Garden Club at the Mayfair home of Mrs. Helen DeWitt.

The youthful beekeeper of the Alamana Apiary held the group captive with her adaptation of "Bees in the Garden," covering her subject with information logically assembled and in a most charming and gracious manner. Her detailed oration and clever dialogue was fascinating to the Circle, with the members all in complete agreement that this program excelled all others for the year.

In capsule form, Mrs. Stubbings explained why honeybees and their service of pollination is so important to gardeners and fruit and vegetable growers, stressing the growing menace caused by use of killing insecticides, including helpful insects such as bees.

"Arriving on the scene" with a frame of bees, the affable apiarist described a bee colony and the three kinds of

Dear Friends:

The officers and members of The Sanford Garden Club wish to take this opportunity to express our deep and grateful appreciation to our many benefactors.

Your many generous gifts of love, labor, time, talent, money, materials and encouragement have made our dreams for a Sanford Garden Center a reality.

Special recognition is given to Mr. J. Bralley Odham, donor of the property; Mr. J. Shifalo for the building plans; the Seminole County Commissioners for assistance in acquiring deeds for the property; Mr. Bert Foster, landscape architect, and Mr. E. R. Wood, the General Contractor for our new home.

You are cordially invited to attend our Open House, Wednesday, April 21 at 2 p.m.

Fire Chief Mack N. Cleveland, Sr. will tell the Jaycees about his 45 years with the Sanford Fire Department at their luncheon at the Civic Center Thursday.

Capt. James O. Mayo is being honored by civic leaders at a luncheon Monday and we're sure Mrs. Mayo will be there, too. However, the Naval Officers Wives are planning a special farewell celebration for Mrs. Mayo, herself, in the form of a tea at 2 p.m. Thursday.

The closing of the Mayfair Inn and motel as tourist quarters will have an unexpectedly "excellent" result. The lack of any large facility of this kind in Sanford will give Sanford's city commissioners a first rate selling point to attract a really outstanding motel-restaurant-nightclub facility for the lakefront marina development.

Having a facility right on Lake Monroe will give the Sanford Naval Academy a fine spot to put their increasingly large fleet of boats of all kinds. They have sailboats, motor boats, whale boats and rowing shells—all good training equipment for the young mariners. One of these days we may expect to see some exciting competitive events on the lake.

Sanford Naval Academy's mascot goat, Snag II, got into some severe difficulties the other night when a pack of dogs jumped the fence of Snag's pen and attacked him. They chewed him up rather badly, but the sturdy mascot seems to be recovering from his wounds.

In case Clock Watchers don't get the connection—the goat's name—Snag—is very clever play on letters. It stands for Sanford Naval Academy Goat. Cuts, huh?

Police Chief Roy G. Williams, who Thursday begins six months of inactive duty pending retirement on Oct. 1, is reported bedded with a serious ear infection. Reports say the venerable Williams elected to stay home rather than enter the hospital as suggested.

Geneva and Chuluota teenagers will wiggle and wobble to "the jerk" and other modes of modern dance Saturday night. Chuluota teenagers are staging a dance from 8 to 12 Saturday at the American Legion Hall. Music by the "441-ers."

The prize-winning "Impalas" will provide the music at Geneva for a teenage dance at the Community Hall. Harry Wilkin, Sonny Kenton, Clifford Cohen and Larry Holloway make up the combo that is becoming very popular in this area.

Pretty Bobbie Lee Watkins, of Casselberry, will represent Seminole County in the "Miss Florida Flame" contest in Jacksonville next month. The Casselberry Volunteer Fire Department believes Bobbie has a good chance of winning the state title. So do we.

Longwood Shop Burglary Told

J. M. Enterprises, Longwood Plaza television and radio sales shop, was broken into Monday night and merchandise valued at approximately $1,200 was taken, according to Sheriff J. L. Hobby today.

The sheriff's report said entry was gained through the front door of the building, which faces on Hwy. 17-92. Six television sets worth approximately $750, five radios worth about $300, and other equipment and petty cash, total value about $300, was reported missing by Jess Moorfield, owner.

Red Infiltration Up In Viet Nam —McNamara

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara reported today that Communist infiltration into South Viet Nam had "increased at a high rate" in recent months.

He said that the war effort against the Reds would be stepped up to counteract the "high-level" of infiltration of men and equipment.

McNamara talked with newsmen at Andrews AFB, Md., after an overnight flight from Honolulu where he presided over a high-level conference of U. S. officials and military leaders.

The defense chief was to report to President Johnson at the White House. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and McGeorge Bundy, Johnson's national security adviser, also were to attend.

McNamara declined to comment on the outlook for the future in South Viet Nam or on what he would tell Johnson.

He said that the air strikes against North Viet Nam had tended to overshadow the importance of the war in the south and the necessity to defeat Red insurgents whose aim was to subvert and overthrow the Saigon government.

The Honolulu meeting directed its attention, he said, to steps for bolstering the South Vietnamese forces. McNamara said that those forces "suffer from a strength disadvantage" relative to the guerrillas. They outnumber the guerrillas about five to one whereas experience indicates a ratio of about ten to one is needed to defeat insurgents.

"HANGMAN"
TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China today accused the United States of escalating the war in Viet Nam. The Chinese described President Johnson as a "hangman."

The Peking charge followed a Communist Chinese statement Tuesday urging the Chinese people to begin "full preparations" to send volunteers to fight in Viet Nam.

PROWLERS
SAIGON (UPI)—U. S. Navy fighter planes prowled the skies over North Viet Nam before dawn today, raking two Communist truck convoys with a barrage of rocket and cannon fire.

It was the seventh consecutive day of around-the-clock raids on North Vietnamese territory.

Cleveland Plugs JC Hq. Building

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Ignoring pleas to hold the line on spending, senators flooded the legislative hopper today with appropriations bills, including one to spend $50,000 for a permanent headquarters building in Florida for the Junior Chamber of Commerce International.

Sen. Mack Cleveland, of Sanford, said Florida may "lose the world Jaycee headquarters" if it is not provided with suitable quarters. The state appropriation would have to be matched by a similar amount of money or land and buildings by a city wanting the headquarters.

USO Placed 'On Its Own'

Local 'Club' Will Operate Independently

By Dottie Austin
Sanford's United Service Organization (USO) is now "on its own" volunteers and council members were told at the annual appreciation dinner at the Civic Center Tuesday evening.

Until the present the local organization had been under the direction of Maj. Kimber Cox, of the Salvation Army, USO director in the Orlando office. Under new national policies, the Orlando office is being closed.

Open hours at the local USO have been cut to four days a week, Thursday through Sunday, and will be dependent on the community for support.

"However, since the Sanford Naval Air Station constitutes an 'impact area,' the Sanford USO will receive a subsidy from the national United Service Organization amounting to more than $3,000 a year," Major Cox said.

"We could not exist without the volunteer assistance that we receive. There is no substitute for the spirit of community co-operation," Major Cox noted.

William Fraass, council secretary and master of ceremonies, and Richard Barnett, council president, commended local clubs, church groups, Navy wives clubs, fraternal organizations, home demonstration clubs, Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, County Commission, City Commission, USO hostesses, American Legion and Florida Power and Light Company for donations of money, time, and services to keep the local USO functioning for the benefit of servicemen.

Main address was given by Commissioner Norman S. Marshall (retired), former national commander of the Salvation Army and a member of the board of governors of the USO.

Commissioner Marshall described how the USO was born and how it became integrated with the Salvation Army. In recognition of the 100th year anniversary of the Salvation Army this year, he told how the work of the Army spread around the world into 75 countries.

Marshall described Salvationists as "sparks blown by the winds of God."

Special commendations were given by all the speakers to Mrs. Mary Washburn, who is now executive director of the local USO under the new autonomy.

Mrs. Washburn said that more than 500 servicemen are entertained at the local club each weekend, "with many more on holiday weekends."

NEW STATUS of the local United Service Organization in Sanford was announced at the annual appreciation dinner at the Civic Center Tuesday. ## New Try Seen On Succession Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—A second attempt was expected in the House today to push through an administration-backed bill to allow Florida governors to succeed themselves.

The House killed the gubernatorial succession bill Tuesday with 46 "yes" and 63 "no" votes, considered a definite setback for the administration of Gov. Haydon Burns.

Although the governor did not introduce the measure or actively support it, he said publicly that he liked the idea and would be disappointed if he was not included in its provisions.

A total of 68 "yes" were needed to pass the measure since it would amend the Constitution.

Meanwhile, administration leaders were reported trying to plug the "hold-the-line" dam on spending and taxes which may have been cracked as the governor's $1.2 million World's Fair exhibit bill cleared the Legislature Tuesday.

Opponents in the Senate shouted when the measure was passed that it would open the floodgates to spending and thus new taxes.

Sure enough, a $49 million teacher pay raise bill was introduced in the Senate Tuesday.

The measure is expected to face stiff opposition from conservatives and the administration although most legislators generally concede that teachers deserve raises.

The Florida Education Association (FEA) is known, however, as a powerful lobbying instrument.

A bill which would have permitted Florida cities to incorporate nearby suburban areas at will without approval of residents in the areas died in a legislative committee Tuesday.

The bill, opposed by the powerful Florida Council of 100, was voted down by the House general legislation committee.

Presbyterians Study Merger

MONTREAT, N. C. (UPI)—A proposed merger with the Reformed Church in America was to be the key issue presented during the annual six-day meeting of the Southern Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., with nearly two million members, is larger.

Membership in the Reformed church numbers approximately 250,000 persons in the New York-Pennsylvania and Midwest areas.

The committee of 24 was to recommend against expanding the "conversations" to include the United Presbyterians because the larger church is now involved in merger conversations with five other Protestant bodies.

"We've been in conversations with the Reformed church now for three years," said Dr. Warner L. Hall, senior minister of the Covenant Presbyterian Church in Charlotte and a member of the committee.

Mrs. Alewine Indicted For Mate's Death

Two indictments one for murder and the other for rape, were returned Tuesday by the Seminole County grand jury sitting for the spring court session.

The jury returned an indictment of second degree murder against Mrs. Beverly Alewine, 22, in the April 15 slaying of her husband, Tony. Mrs. Alewine is presently free on $5,000 bond.

A true bill was returned against Jimmie Drumwright, 18, and Israel Gilley, 17, for the February assault of a young school girl.

Trial dates have not yet been set.

These were the only two cases to be presented to the grand jury before it recessed. It is subject to recall at any time.

Clifford E. Barber served as foreman and Robert H. Powell is clerk.

Seat Belts

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The House public safety committee approved a bill today requiring all 1966 and other later model autos sold in Florida to have seat belts installed in the front seats.

Officers Held In Dope Bribe

MIAMI (UPI)—A top federal narcotics agent and two Miami detectives were to be charged formally today with accepting bribes from a narcotics pusher who turned informer.

The pusher reported he had set up a deal to pay the men $2,000 a month to "keep off the heat."

Federal narcotics agents from Washington and Atlanta and city police swooped down on the three men and the informer in a trap set at his apartment Tuesday.

Eugene Marshall, 39, chief of the Federal Narcotics Bureau for south Florida since 1958, and Detective Sgt. Frank Fountain, 39, head of the city police vice squad, had just accepted $130 in marked bills from the pusher, according to Police Chief Walter Healy.

Detective Roosevelt Tremble, 34, also a member of the vice squad, was in the apartment and was arrested.

Burns Renews Education Vow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Gov. Haydon Burns told a convention Tuesday night that he has "made a college education for every young Floridian who is intellectually capable a personal goal of my administration."

"There must be in our universities total dedication to excellence," Burns added in an address to the annual meeting of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs.

"And there must be no burgeoning bureaucracy that fattens itself at the expense of the students, the teaching faculties, educational equipment and ultimately, the taxpayer."

Burns reiterated his intention of boosting the Haydon Burns Scholarship Foundation next year with another series of governor's balls.

State Gives Fire Alert

Lack of rain during April is causing a critical situation in Seminole County citrus growing.

"If there is no rain within a week citrus production will be cut," Charles Williams, assistant county agent, said today.

"Small fruit is falling from the trees and citrus leaves are curling up," he said.

At the same time, Forest Ranger Al Harris issued an urgent warning, appealing for a stop to all burning.

Harris said the county is suffering from an extremely serious dry period. He said there has been no rain since March 30 and that only an approximate three inches fell during that month.

Already, Harris said, the county has had 64 wildfires as compared to 88 for the whole of 1964. A total of 778 acres has burned over to date this year compared to 439 for all of last year.

The ranger stressed the fact that although grass is green, it holds no moisture and will burn readily if touched off.

If burning is necessary, rangers will assist upon appointment and Harris asks that the fire towers be contacted in advance by those who find it necessary to burn trash or acreage at this time.

Williams said citrus is the only crop being severely affected by the current drought. But he said vegetable crops, such as beans and young cabbage, are being irrigated through the underground system.

He said irrigation of citrus, if it becomes necessary, will be an extremely expensive process.

"Vegetable growers use the old underground tile drainage system for irrigation purposes but citrus growers would have to move equipment into the groves," Williams said.
