Easter People

By REV. JAMES MARTINEZ

Our commemoration of Easter has come and gone. Our people have come out to pay tribute and give honor and glory to The Risen Christ. How wonderful this is. Ask any pastor and he will tell you of the joy in his heart because of the attendance at Easter Services. Christ is really with us. His presence - Fils life is keenly felt and the mass of Christians Resurrection of Christ and what it means in their lives.

And that is the question which each of us must ask ourselves of the Resurrection. For some, the celebration of the Resurrection on Easter is just another excuse to join the crowd and appear religious in the sight of men. It means to go to church, because it is nice, or something that nice people do on Easter as they do at Christmas. For some, it could mean just doing something religious on a religious feats.

Who can really fathom what the Resurrection means in its totality? The acts of the Apostles give us a glimpse in Chapter 10:40-43: "They killed Jesus, hanging him on a tree, only to have God raise him up on the third day and grant that he be seen, not by all, but only by such witnesses as had been chosen beforehand by God, by us who ate and drank with him after he rose from the dead. He commands us to preach to the people and to bear witness that He is the one set apart by God as judge of the living and the dead. To him all the prophets testify saying that every one who believes in Him has forgiveness of sins through his name."

The Apostle points out the relationship of the Resurrection to the sufferings of Christ, the Paschal meal, rrection is not just the final act in the life of Jesus, it is the beginning of a new life for mankind. Others have come forth from the dead, such as the daughter of Jairus and Lazarus. Individuals have come back to life, but to this life. Jesus came forth to a new existence, a glorified existence. He came forth with a human body that had new properties because it shared a new life, a new existence. The hope of sharing this new existence with Christ will be espaired of if we do not and can not bring ourselves to share this present life with our neighbor as Christ did, even before he rose from the dead. Learning to live in harmony, learning to sacrifice, learning to love like Jesus increases our chances of sharing the Risen glorified life with Christ to the degree of certainty. Going to church on Easter or any other time is only the beginning the step in the right direction. However, starting in that direction unites us to Carist, gives cause for great joy and encourages us to say and sing with St. Augustine: "We Are Easter People And Alleulia Is Our Song."

raised by the hard fighting which is taking place in Vietnam.

Why has Hanoi finally released its own trained, experienced and solidly armed forces for this offensive which has, in its initial stages, presented the spectacle of North Vietnamese troops offering battle in very much the

Why was this scheduled half-way between the visit of President Nixon to Peking and Moscow, communist powers who have backed Hanoi and, it must be presumed approved this

What impact will this have on world and domestic opinion?

The logical answer to the first of these must be made in three parts, too. First it shows that Hanoi no longer fears ground attack by the allied American-South Vietnamese infantry and that the withdrawal of the United States divisions invited such a tactical decision.

Second it demonstrates that the North Vietnamese command has little, if any, doubts about the ability of their forces to rout the South Vietnamese That they have now decided-as so many victorious high commands have done before them-that the final decision is not made by the support forces, but by foot-slogging, determined and inspired infantrymen.

Third, it is an answer to the action of President Nixon in stopping the "peace talks" in Paris. They evidently are accepting the military challenge as the way to stop this war.

Timing of this offensive is one of those matters which can be approached from several viewpoints. On the battleground, it was launched at a South Vietnamese force which had not been blooded and was expected to be as it proved, incapable of strong resistance.

On the calendar, it does have the position of about midway between the talks which President Nixon had with the Communist leaders of mainland China and will have with the Kremlin triumvirate next month. The latter will, therefore, take place after the United States' reaction to the offensive is more definable.

And though there are some industries which are without question technologically far advanced in their operations, there are many others which operate today almost as they did in the days of the horse and buggy—at least in some of their

The average time it takes for a new discovery in space or in some other scientific area to be adapted to the production line is ridiculously long. This then is the thesis behind President Nixon's new drive for productivity-spearheaded by programs designed to cut the time between discovery and use. But these plans, as recently unveiled by the White House with quite some fanfare, are a jumble of ideas that merely skim the surface. One reason for this pale broth is that there is so much squabbling within the government's scientific community that a forceful program of technological promotion is all Each agency with a scientific function—the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Commerce Department, the Pentagon, the National Science Foundation, the Atomic Energy Commission-is off and running in different directions. The White House has a science applications group aimed at pulling all these strings together. But these Nixon aides are discovering how little influence the President of the United States has over his own scientists. Th White House men are learning in fact that while Mr. Nixon may be very powerful in foreign affairs, he has very little clout in bringing the government's own scientists and technical men into a coordinated program.

Part of the problem is prestige. Right now, Mr. Nixon wants applications that will beef up the technologically faltering areas of industry, government and the services. But prestige in science does not lie here—it is in basic science, however unrelated to life. Thus, within NASA a group fights to hold down a program on the applications of satellites to earth problems—agriculture, mapping, electric power, mineral exploration—to get more money for esoteric programs which will win them citations in scientific conferences.

Should a Preacher Speak for Himself?

Every few years the topic returns for comment and lebate: Should clergymen used canned sermons. Most people in the pew know that a preacher must have vast strations, texts and ideas to produce a sermon every Sunday. They are also aware that books of sermons are published annually, giving the best (or so considered by an editor) from the skills of the leading preachers in the land or even the collections from a single source. Other helps and aids flourish, such as "1,000 illustrations for Sunday School talks" or "1,200 outlines from the Sermon Masters." Needless to say, there is lots of material for the pastor who feels that his mind as well as his library is empty and here comes another Sunday.

An article in the Wall Street Journal touched on the topic of canned sermons and hinted that quite a few men of the cloth were heavily dependent on the scholarship and skill of other writers. Yet I wonder if this is the full story. Most major seminaries devote much time and effort to courses in sermon preparation and delivery. New Testament Studies encourage a preacher to do his own work and research; practical courses demonstrate the way to get it across. This writer never once heard of a "sermon series" or pulpit manual being suggested, endorsed or advised in seminary. Even sermon illustrations from compilations are dangerous: Who wants to hear the guy down the street using your "material" or

The Wall Street Journal piece mentioned several serv. ices that helped the weary pastor. Yet the largest had only 5,500 clergy customers—which is not much of a dent when you add 250,000 Protestant ministers and 100,000-plus Catholic priests. Maybe the Sunday speakers are doing more of their own work, after all.

It is our guess that the faithful in the Sunday service are not so charmed by a polished, memorized sermon from another hand. They look forward to the interpretations and direction that come from personal experience. Yet there may be a justification for a canned sermon, if it comes from a historic leader of the faith and the congregation is so notified

Donna's Deliberations

By DONNA ESTES

I've started this column several times and discarded each effort. I'm a bit disturbed by something that I see happening in my hometown -- Longwood.

You know Longwood is a wonderful town and most of our people practice the golden rule not only to the letter of the law, but in spirit as well.

Back in the mid-1960's there was so much dissension and so many ugly things were said and done that twisted the city's image beyond belief.

Remember when the councilman was hung in effigy from the city hall flagpole and statements from city officials were filled with hatred. Threatening telephone calls were received by many including this reporter. It was a bad time indeed. Many of us hoped that times like that were in the past and would remain there. The community - at least certain segments of it - are smouldering again with the same type of emotionalism. June Lormann, widow of former mayor Al Lormann, is the object of the vehemence. Mrs. Lormann, who only four months ago, came within 27 votes of winning election to the mayor's office is being subjected to severe criticism. A lawsuit was filed in her name, a few days ago, against the city challenging the constitutionality of a recent annexation. The city apparently approved the annexation in good faith and felt obliged to defend it. Not one of the citizens who has taken time to make views known to me, appears willing to consider that Mrs. Lormann may genuinely feel a wrong has been done and should be

There is nothing wrong with that alone. What bothers me is the bent of the criticism directed her way and the harshness of the words being uttered. One person suggested there are ways to make Mrs. Lormann suffer monetarily for he action and another is said to be preparing a letter inviting the woman to leave town.

Doesn't the Constitution protect our rights to redress of grievances against our government? Is it a great sin in the United States to sue our government whether it be city, county, state or national? Are we to be considered traitors for taking the legal actions guaranteed by the Constitution? I, as one citizen, do not know whether the city or Mrs. Lormann is right. Yet, I hope no one thinks I am a traitor to my city for making that statement. The courts will decide the issue. I realize the suit will cost the city several thousands of dollars and I have no doubt the city government believes it is right or it would not authorize the expense.

John Stuart Mill said, "The only freedom which deserves the name is that of pursuing our own good in our own way, so long as we do not attempt to deprive others of theirs or impede their efforts to obtain it."

Mayor Ken Brown is the first to agree that Mrs. Lorman's suit is not to be taken personally and that she as an American citizen has the right to disagree. Hopefully, those citizens who are so aroused will look at the issue objectively before this matter gets out of hand.

Quick Action

Thanks for letting me let off some steam.

On to other matters. Here is a good one for the "no sooner said than done yesterday" department. Altamonte Councilman Tom Radloff at the city council meeting on Tuesday relayed the complaint of some citizens that the flag at city hall was tattered and a new one should be purchased. It was taken care of Monday, Police Chief Justus East informed, asking, "Didn't you see the new flag when you came into city

Construction boom continues in that city with a record month in building seen in March. A total of 99 building permits were issued for value of $7,015,031. Permits included 75 single family homes at cost of $3,564,600; commercial building in the Altamonte Square valued at $600,000; Palm Springs Apartments (325 units) $2.4 million; service station at Wymore Road and 436 $50,000; Ramada Inn motel (150 units) $1,084,746 as well as fourth floor addition to the Wilson Knott "100" building on 436 at $225,000 and the Palm Springs Drive Baptist Church Educational Building $50,000. Total new building with 226 permits issued since January 1 of this year in Altamonte is $11,938,533 compared to all of 1971 to 378 permits valued at $18,712,235 and 1970 of 178 permits worth $3,016,318. Some increase, huh? Precinct Station Planned

Incidentally, Altamonte Police Chief East is very proud of the fact that his department will have a "precinct" office at the planned new fire station to be built west of Interstate 4.

And contrary to rumor, Logan Browning now has a trio of Seminole County cities to serve as fiscal agent. He added Altamonte Springs to his list that already included Longwood and North Orlando.

Chief Walter Bachelor of the North Orlando Police Department reported to the City Council this week that he and his men put in a total of 812 hours during the month of March. Before anyone starts figuring and finds there were only 744 hours total in March, let us add quickly that the time includes both reserves and regulars and many were working during the same periods. Complaints received or action taken during the month totaled 85 with 30 summons issued, 38 oral warnings and 15 dog complaints. The chief worked 223 of the 812 hours him-

In addition officers officers were on call another 96.5 hours. Donated time by the reserves totaled 130 hours.

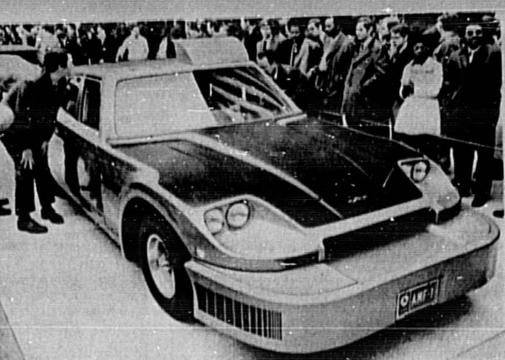

Residents Grateful

Police Chief R. E. Sweat's Longwood police force and Fire Chief Carl Lommler's fire-fighters were given high praise by the Woodlands subdivision residents who attended a city council work session this week. The fire -fighters during the past month extinguished two blazes in the development just outside the city limits, and a resident reported the police department acted rapidly on a complaint about excessive noise in a city area. Both departments are "great," according to the two esidents, but apparently not great enough to entice the people there to annex to the city. One of the men said Longwood taxes would amount to about $100 annually per home.

Charter Election Proposed

July is the goal of the Longwood Charter Revision Commission for a special election to consider a new charter under home rule provisions of the Florida Constitution. Changes to be recommended include creation of a fivemember Council including four councilmen and a mayorcouncilman. This would give the mayor a vote which he currently does not have.

Lyman High School 'To Present Carousel

judged the most brilliant of all the classic Rodgers and Hammerstein collaborations and Richard Rodgers' personal favorite - has been selected as the 1972 school drama production of Lyman High School, A "first" for Lyman students, the Broadway stage play will be presented in two evening and two matinee performances: April 14 and 15 at 8 p.m. and April 15 and 16 at 2 p.m. in the Lyman auditorium. Admission price is less for advance tickets.

A combined effort of the school's Drama Club, drama classes, band, and chorus, this school-wide production will feature the dramatic and musical talents of approximately 75 youth under the direction of Barbara Kuhn, drama teacher: Karen Warder, chorus instructor; John Blair, band director; and Clinton Smith, shop instructor in charge of set construction.

Although any Broadway musical presents a challenge to high school students, "Carousel" offers, in addition, tremendous diversity: there is music, pantomime, dancing, serious drama, comedy, and a compelling theme enhancing a tender and bitter-sweet love story between a carnival barker and a simple mill girl in New England of the late 1800's. In order to give as many students as possible the opportunity to participate in the play, "Carousel" has been double-cast in several roles. Taking the leading roles of Billy Bigelow are Curt Medsger and Brian Luby, and por-

Lindsey and Adel Davey. POLLY'S POINTERS

Uses Half-Shield On Sleeveless Dresses

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY-Helen wrote about shields for the inderarms of sleeveless dresses. I want to tell her that I cut a piece of bonded knit the same color as the dress, in the shape of a half-shield, and sew it inside the bottom of the armhole. Tack it down on the seam to hold in place. All my sleeveless dresses stay real nice between cleaning and washing time.—HILDA

DEAR POLLY-I want to tell Helen that as an alternative to dress shields, which I find annoying, I have had very good results using an aerosol product which, when sprayed on the inside of a garment, protects against stain and odor. This is used in addition to a personal deodorant. While it cannot remove a stain, it does quite a good job of neutralizing an odor that may be in a garment. Such a product can be bought in the notion departments of stores here in Peoria.—MRS. W. G. R.

DEAR POLLY—My 5-year-old son has been a hospital patient many times and one of the best ways I have found to keep him happy without a lot of expense is the following: I cover a regular coat hanger with ribbon and then buy a lot of small inexpensive items at the dime store. These are wrapped in bright paper and fied to the hanger with ribbon. The toys cost very little so I can usually buy enough so he has one to enjoy after each meal. This gives him something to look forward to and the hanger is kept hanging where he can see it .- JANET

Mayfair

In last weekend's monthly tournament sponsored by the men's association, Ralph Simas, Fletcher Cockrell, this writer and Jack McGrotha turned in a four under par 68 to capture the low gross prize. We were actually four under par at the end of four holes, and then parred the next 14 holes in succession. The four under came as the result of an eagle three at the second hole by Ralph, a birdie at the third hole by Fletcher and another birdie at the fourth hole by both Ralph and Fletch. Actually, Jack and I did very little to aid the championship tournament It's match play competition and the only scores I have to date come from the championship flight. Within that flight, Lib Robertson defeated Vivian Pierce, Vivian Conklin (current club champion) beat Minnie Filley, Betty Daniels won over Ada O'Neil and Margaret Botts defeated Doris Spencer.

In regular weekly play, the women competed in a tee-togreen tourney which saw. Vivian Conklin take the prize in "A" flight, Hazel Durzzo win "B" flight and Genevieve Woodruff capture "C" flight.

Stella Brooks recorded her best round ever this past week, when she toured the Mayfair layout in 89. Congratulations, Stella!!!!

Last Saturday, the Rolling Hills Men's Golf Association sponsored a two partner, best ball tournament. Reed Gregory and John LaRoche combined for a three under par 69 to walk off with the low gross money prize.

In the low net division, where a good bit of wheeling went on, Fred Tannier and Henry Tucker turned in a 62, which was good enough to win first place. Three teams had to settle for a share of second place money. One shot off the pace at 63 were Henry Tucker-Lyle Nelson, Bob Richards-Don Sefton and Bill Harris-Herm Homzie. In third place with a 64 and tying were John Dowling-Bob Richards and Fred Tannier-Lyle Nelson. Fourth and final prize also had to be split between the teams of Pete Lytle-Frank Eators Sr. and Bill Cape-Mike tournament, and we will report further on that next week. Play day for the ladies at Rolling Hills, which was yesterday, consisted of low gross, low net with an added award for the fewest putts in each flight. In champion flight, Carey Strong found herself in the winners circle once again after turning in a fine 82 to capture low gross. In low net, Freddie Taylor win first place with 72. Barbara Privee took second spot with a 74 in a match of cards over Virginia Stockman. Kathy Munn won the special award with the fewest putts. She had 30.

Doris Bortner captured low gross in "A" flight with a 93. First low net was decided in a match of cards, with Edith Galey winning out over Grace Barnhart. Both players shot 74. Grace was second place winner. Ann Warden won the feature with 31 putts.

"B" flight saw Gloria Williamson win low gross with a 101. Georgene Wright was the low net winner with a 73. Gail Williams took second low net with a 76, but had to overcome a match of cards with Jeannett Kidder. The feature was won by Lucy Weinman with 33.

Flonnye Lunn, Dottie Norman and Bernice Morris all fired 101 for low gross. In a match of cards, Flonnye took the prize, while Dottie and Bernice took first and second low net prizes, in that order. Virginia Sturgis won the feature event with 33 putts.

Valley Forge

Over Valley Forge way, the gals played a four partner best-ball tournament this past Tuesday. Prizes were given to the first three places.

Taking top prize were Vi Taylor, Pinkie Mioducki. Lovinia Bowman and Wilma Welling, as they finished with an adjusted score of 35. Pinkie Mioducki recorded her best ever round when she turned in a super 79.

In second place at 48 were Eddie Stuart, Maggie Thompson, Ruth Davis and Lorraine Burket. Third spot was won by Jane Montgomery, Julia Bartos, Millie Burch and

An adding machine performs accurately for anyone who uses it correctly. Each person may record a different column of figures. Answers will vary accordingly but each

Life also registers what we give it ... produces results correspondingly. Sometimes we are so harried and hurried with whirling activities we forget to include worship. When we do clear our minds for understanding and prayer with God, good results follow. The Church has accurate answers for modern prob-

ems. Let it help you find correct solutions.

But there he was, in the person of William Marshall, the distinguished actor who has played most of the classics and is now starring in "Blacula." This is the world's first black horror movie.

I'm not sure if this is a step forward or backwards in the civil rights movement, this idea of the black people having their own horror film. However, it's certainly a sign of the times—it's equality, of sorts, and being equal means you have to take all things, including horror movies, in stride.

So there were written. HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — It isn't often you get a chance to meet a black vampire. Especially one hanging around a mortuary. So there was William Marshall and I'm happy to say that he took his fangs off when the lunch break came. The movie is being made by American-International, which specializes in horror movies and it's typical AIP material. It's full of pretty girls and such morsels as biting people on the neck and drinking blood. They were shooting in a real mortuary—the whole film is being shot on location around town—and the cast was warned not to open any doors. 'Blacula' Wants Big Bite of Horror $$ Once, during high school, she was in a play and had to dye her hair, and all her hair fell out. She wore a wig then for a long time and what was even more traumatic than now.

At the same time as her operation she divorced her husband (Bruce Scott) so it was, as she says, "a real housecleaning."

"We were complete opposites," she says, "He's a real longhair and I'm halfway between that and being a square. I just couldn't see being with him when I was 60, that's all.

"I'd have done it a long time ago, but I'm from Texas and divorce was something we never even considered where I come from. It took three years for me to work up to the divorce."

Her father still runs a gas station in Texas. As a child, she never helped pump gas—"I'm not very mechanical"—but her father keeps teasing her.

"If things go wrong in show business," he says, "you can always come back and sit around and eat and pump gas and they'll say, "there goes that fat Duncan girl."

The odds are it'll never happen. Future Looks Rosy Tablehopping She's getting used to the rest of it, too, particularly the lepth perception problem caused by only having vision in one eye. Some things are giving her trouble—for some treason, skiing and knowing when to christle has been difficult. But she's found driving not as hard as she figured it would be.

She's still wearing a wig because her head was shaved completely and her hair grows slowly. Curiously, this is the second time in her young life that she's had to wear a wig. For Sandy Duncan These lessons have been tough. In the first place, she's ut of shape, so there is the normal screaming protest rom her muscles. Secondly, her operation resulted in a hange inside her head and now when she exercises the lood pulsates against the back of her eye.

Assailant Sought In Midway Death

Seminole County authorities are searching for a Midway man wanted for the Saturday death of another Midway resident who was gunned down while standing on his front porch after an argument had ensued between the two. Lt. L. J. Kriz, county investigator, said a warrent has been issued charging Joseph Tucker, 35, with first degree murder in the death of Joseph Green, 54, who died after slugs from a .22 pistol struck him in the heart and left arm.

The alleged killer escaped in his car, which was found later near Sanford. According to Kriz, the two men had an argument early Saturday that culminated with Green striking

Tucker several times. Both men reside in the same area and apparently Tucker returned later to Green's house with a pistol, police said.

When Green came out, he was shot twice and was dead on arrival at Seminole Memorial Hospital. The argument apparently developed over Green's wife, Mae.

Board has scheduled a 1 p.m. work session Tuesday before the regular meeting to discuss proposals to ask voters for a millage election to construct new schools.
