Violent Protests Against Duvalier

Haitian Congress Declares State Of Siege

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Haiti's rubber-stamp congress declared a state of siege today as thousands of Haitians staged violent protests in the most widespread demonstrations against President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier.

The announcement was broadcast over state-owned television and was followed by an order by the police chief closing the church-run radio stations that have been encouraging the opposition to Duvalier and broadcasting news of the increasing protests.

The 48-member congress, handpicked by Duvalier, declared the Caribbean country under a state of siege, the announcement said. The order, made after an all-night session, suspends all normal rights of citizenship.

The order closing the religious radio stations came minutes after Baptist-run Radio Lumiere announced that crowds in Jeremie had destroyed a militia headquarters Thursday and fires were raging throughout the southern city.

Lumiere also said demonstrations flared anew in the towns of St. Michel de L'Attalaye, Petit Goave and Gonaives, where crowds Thursday paraded through the streets chanting a death march and carrying coffins bearing the names of Duvalier and his wife.

The Legislature's announcement came amid rumors of the imminent departure of Duvalier, who inherited power from his father, Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier, in 1971.

In Washington, the State Department said it has received conflicting reports as to whether Duvalier had fled to Paris. "Some say he has and some say he has not," one official said.

The Legislature met through the night and state-run television, which usually signs off at night, stayed on the air. An announcer came on at about 1 a.m. and advised viewers, "Stay tuned for an important bulletin."

But, hours later, there had been no news. Entertainment programs were broadcast with the words "stay tuned for an important bulletin" superimposed at the bottom of the screen.

Anti-government demonstrations broke out in at least seven cities Thursday despite government orders that security forces "take all

Botha Offers Some Reforms

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — President Pieter W. Botha outlined plans to reform some aspects of apartheid today but stopped short of announcing full equality for the nation's black majority and said schools and living areas would remain segregated.

Botha also offered to consider freeing jailed black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela if the Soviet Union freed two well-known dissidents and Angola released a captive South African soldier.

Mandela, president of the exiled African National Congress, is in the 23rd year of a life sentence for sabotage.

In a keynote speech to the opening session of Parliament in Cape Town, Botha said he would establish a National Statutory Council to give advice on legislation to reform apartheid — the country's system of legislated racial discrimination — and that blacks would be included in the council.

Botha did not announce immediate changes but said legislation would be drafted this year to restore South African citizenship to blacks in four tribal homelands regarded by Pretoria as independent.

He also said the government would move to implement its promise to give blacks the right to own homes in ghetto areas included in the 87 percent of

Parents Hear School Zoning Plans

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

With Lake Mary parents on hand voicing support for Plan G, Seminole County Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes received proposed new middle school zone plans in packed school board chambers.

Another meeting, with the entire school board, is scheduled for 7 p.m. February 24 at the school board, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford, and the public is to have the opportunity to express their opinions on the plans. The school board is expected to vote on the matter March 12.

The presentation at the school board building Wednesday followed more than four months of work by the County-Wide Middle School Zone Task Force, comprised of parents and administration representatives from all eight of the county's middle schools. Sandy Robinson, a parent from Lake Mary and chairman of the task force, made the presentation to Hughes.

The information submitted for Hughes' review includes all ten plans which were considered by the task force, including Plans C and G, which were recommended. Also presented were all suggestions and modifications the force received from the public during the past several months.

New middle school attendance boundaries are necessitated with the opening of the new Greenwood Lakes Middle School for the 1986-87 year. The school will have a maximum capacity of more than 1,300 students, but it is possible it will open with as few as 708 students, to allow for community and student population growth, a school official has said.

Mrs. Robinson thanked her committee members saying, "This is the final meeting of the task force. Our job is now complete."

She said the group did "the best job we could possibly do."

Jack Heisler, Director of Secondary Education, reviewed the two proposals recommended, C and G, going over each plan by each boundary.

An estimated crowd of 100 parents, many from Lake Mary, broke into applause twice during Heisler's review of Plan G. The loudest response came when Heisler pointed out that in that proposal, students living between Logwood-Lake Mary Road on the west and U.S. Highway 17-92 on the east, north of County Road 427 and south of Lake Mary Boulevard would be zoned into the Greenwood Lakes Middle School, rather than Lakeview as in Plan C.

Plan G has their support because their children would not be bused to schools away from home.

The audience again applauded when Heisler pointed out that in Plan G, the area in the Teague zone east of 427 and north of 436, including Jamestown, San Sebastian, and Northwood which was zoned for Rock Lake in Plan C, would remain in the Teague area, meaning those students would be able to continue to walk to school.

Hughes remarked that the ten plans submitted to him, plans A through K, could have easily grown to A through Z.

"It was important to get as much interest and involvement."

Sanford Marine Visiting Dying Father Killed After Hopping Onto Kennel Truck

A U.S. Marine on emergency leave to visit his dying father was fatally injured in an unusual traffic accident and died a day after his father in the same hospital.

Killed Thursday in the traffic accident was Michael Francis Dougherty, 21, of 1605 Terrace Drive, Sanford.

His father, Daniel F. Dougherty, 54, of Longwood, died of natural causes Wednesday night. Both men died at South Seminole Community Hospital in Longwood.

The younger Dougherty had been on emergency leave from Camp Lejeune, N.C. for about a week, police said.

According to a Longwood police report, the marine was walking eastbound on Dog Track Road in Longwood when he hopped on the back of a slow-moving kennel truck that had pulled out of the dog track complex. The incident occurred around 6:45 p.m. and the driver was unaware the man was riding on the back, hanging onto a spare tire.

The trucked traveled about 200 feet then turned north into a kennel, throwing the marine onto the westbound lane of the road where he was run over by a westbound Ford two-door.

No charges are expected against the car driver, Morris Gazmarian, 54, of Fern Park, or the truck driver, Scott Delepine, of Oregon.

Dougherty is the fourth traffic fatality of the year in Seminole County.

Seminole Seeks Room To Grow

By Sarah Nunn
Herald Staff Writer

Space limitations for county government operations have prompted Seminole County to look at buying four buildings for future office space, including two structures within Sanford's historical district.

County commissioners voted Tuesday to make a $350,000 offer for the purchase of Kirk Plaza at Commercial and Hood Streets, adjacent to the county courthouse. Assistant County Administrator Montye Beamer said the building has been appraised at $390,000.

The commission also decided to consider buying the Kent Garage and parking lot on 2nd Street and discussed purchasing the Masonic Lodge on Park Avenue.

Ms. Beamer said the purchases would be for "existing need and future expansion."

The Kent Garage is appraised at $250,000 and the Masonic Lodge at $225,000, she said. Both are located in the downtown historical district.

Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said the county needs the three buildings in conjunction with its long-range planning.

"I'd like us to look at warehousing land around the courthouse for future expansion," he said.

The county is also considering buying the old Southern Bell building on U.S. 17-92 and Airport Boulevard in part to house laboratory facilities for the environmental services division. The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Senior Citizens

Kirk Plaza at the corner of Commercial Street and Hood Avenue could become the newest location for Seminole County government operations as the county seeks buildings for future office space. The county has offered $350,000 for the building and is also eyeing the purchase of three other structures, two in the Sanford historical district, to house expanding county services.

Committee, however, has suggested the building be obtained for a senior center.

Environmental Services Director Jim Bible recommended the county lease the

DUI Manslaughter Charges Filed

A Casselberry police investigation and review by the state attorney's office has brought DUI manslaughter charges against a 25-year-old Casselberry man in connection with an Oct. 8, 1985 traffic fatality.

Paul Sarbough Jr., 63, of 485 Seminole Drive, Longwood, died after being airlifted to an Orlando hospital, following the 10:41 p.m. traffic accident on Oct. 8, Casselberry police records show.

Assistant Casselberry Police Chief Win Gates said today the accident was not a hit-and-run, but the arrest, which was made on a warrant at 6 a.m. Thursday was delayed until the office of the state attorney in Seminole County issued the warrant, following the investigation.

Sarbough, Gates said, was riding a Moped, which ran a redlight while exiting from Zayre's Plaza to cross to Seminole Plaza on State Road

436. The moped was struck by a Volkswagen driven west on State Road 436, by Raymond Howard Barret, 25, of 602 Brittany Court, according to police records.

Barret, who works for a Winter Park painting company, was arrested at his home by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy.

He was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Gates said he did not know if Sarbough was under the influence of alcohol at the time of the accident, but tests reportedly showed Barret was.

Under Florida law, in a traffic fatality, a driver, even though "not at fault" in the accident can be charged with driving under the influence-manslaughter, depending on the outcome of investigations by police and the state.

If convicted, Barret faces a possible 15 year prison sentence.

Hughes, Hendrix Actions Upheld

Robert Hughes, Superintendent of Seminole County Schools, and a school principal, were cleared of any wrongdoing in the handling of an alleged fondling of two boys by a teacher in 1983. No disciplinary action will be taken against Hughes, or Rosenwald Exceptional Child Center Principal Rudy Hendrix, State Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington ruled Thursday.

"I am delighted to know the state has completed its investigation, and has upheld our very careful handling of that incident," Hughes said. We have cooperated fully with the prosecutor and I have given a deposition. Other school employees have also cooperated."

Piece Of Shuttle's Nose Section Recovered

By William Harwood
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A jagged hunk of Challenger's outer skin that was just a few feet from Christa McAuliffe's seat on the doomed shuttle was brought to shore today, an emergency "rescue" sign still poignantly visible on its pitted surface.

Coast Guard recovery crews gently lowered the black-and-white piece of the shuttle's nose section to a Navy dock along with large, twisted fragments of its fuselage, wing control flaps and what appeared to be a section of its tail fin.

Two large cone-shaped objects attached to parachutes — believed to be remnants of the Challenger's solid rocket boosters — were found bobbing in the Atlantic and hoisted aboard a Coast Guard ship.

The debris was gut-wrenching proof of Challenger's brutal destruction and a sad start for a day that space teacher McAuliffe once planned to spend holding class in orbit as the first private citizen to fly in outer space.

Search crews in the Atlantic resumed their grim hunt at daybreak for more pieces of the Challenger disaster. The surface search, pushed north by currents, focused on a 6,800-square-mile area off of Daytona Beach, north of the cape. NASA divers were expected to be sent down to the ocean bottom closer to the shuttleport, where some chunks of the spaceplane are believed to have sunk.

The dead ex-commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, 46, co-pilot Michael Smith, 40, Judith Resnik, 36, Ellison S. Onizuka, 39, Ronald McNair, 35, Gregory Jarvis, 41, and McAuliffe, 37.

Members of the official NASA review board, struggling to explain the events that led to Challenger's destruction, flew to Houston for the remembrance, taking a one-day break from the round-the-clock search for clues to what caused Challenger's giant fuel tank to explode 72 seconds after blastoff.

NASA will not comment on the possible causes of the explosion, but speculation has focused on presumed problems with one of the shuttle's solid rocket boosters or its external fuel tank.

Back at the Florida shuttleport today, the task of recovering the wreckage from the crash continued, with Coast Guard, Navy and Air Force units concentrating on the area where the fuselage fragments were found Thursday.

NATION

Nation Contributes To Fund For Astronauts' Children

WASHINGTON (UPI) — From a Florida kindergarten class to a songwriter "recognized by many," Americans are channeling their sorrow for the shuttle tragedy toward a trust fund established on behalf of the children of the fallen astronauts.

"We've had a handful from $5 to $25," Vickie Tassan, a spokeswoman for American Security Bank where the fund was established, said Thursday about the donations received thus far.

The idea for the fund was proposed to the bank by attorney Delbert Smith, whose clients have included the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and space technology firms.

"Late Tuesday, Del Smith came to the bank with the idea and the need for such a fund for the children of those people," said Roger Conner, vice president for public affairs at the Washington, D.C.-based bank. "The bank said, we hear what you're saying. Let's go."

Barely 12 hours after the shuttle exploded, the fund was created, and Conner said the first mail contributions arrived at the bank Thursday. The bank kicked off the fund with $1,000.

Five of the seven astronauts had children as survivors. Shuttle commander Dick Scobee had two children: Kathie, 25, and Richard, 21. Co-pilot Michael Smith had three children, Scott, 17, Allison, 14, and Erin, 8.

Mission specialist Ellison Onizuka had two children, Janelle Mitsue, 16, and Darten Lei Shizue, 10. Ronald McNair had two children, Reginald, 3, and Joy, 1. McAuliffe had two children, Scott, 9, and Caroline, 6.

Payload specialist Gregory Jarvis was married and had no children. Mission specialist Judy Resnik was single and had no children.

An 'Opportunity To Say Goodbye'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Laboring through a foggy night, workers at the home base of the astronauts prepared to pay a national — and personal — tribute today in a lakeside park to shuttle Challenger's dead.

The memorial service comes on the day that Challenger space teacher Christa McAuliffe, selected to become America's first private citizen in space, had hoped to turn the shuttle into an orbital classroom for the nation's schoolchildren.

Those planning to join in mourning the loss of McAuliffe and her six crewmates ranged from President Reagan, families of Challenger's crew and members of Congress and astronauts to secretaries and engineers who work alongside the space pilots and support their missions.

"This is our opportunity as an institution, and as individuals, to express our grief at the loss of our friends and say goodbye to them," said space center spokesman John Lawrence.

Reagan hailed the seven Challenger astronauts as heroes Thursday night and said their deaths "will only serve to strengthen the resolve of America" to continue exploring space.

Military Health Care Probe Set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department, worried about the quality of military health care, has set up an unprecedented review by civilian doctors of medical and surgical procedures at its 168 hospitals worldwide.

"Creation of this civilian-military partnership for military medical excellence is a giant step forward to build credibility and confidence in the quality of military health care and to ensure our quality of care is, indeed, the very best possible," the Pentagon's chief doctor, William Mayer, said Thursday.

A $4.6 million contract was awarded to the Commission on Professional and Hospital Activities of Ann Arbor, Mich., for a year of civilian monitoring of military medical care, Mayer said in a statement.

The contract can be renewed for a second year for $5 million and for a third year for $5.3 million, it said.

"This unprecedented external peer review of military medicine, similar to the one for Medicare patients, will dramatically complement the quality assurance programs we have put in place in the past two years," said Mayer, the assistant defense secretary for health affairs.

Sailor Faces Death Penalty

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — In a verdict that could lead to the Navy's first execution in 137 years, a military tribunal has found a black sailor guilty of deliberately stabbing his white superior officer to death on the high seas.

The court-martial jury of officers and enlisted men deliberated nearly four hours Thursday night before finding Petty Officer 3rd Class Mitchell Garraway guilty of one count of premeditated murder, rejecting defense claims that the sailor acted impulsively in a rage brought on by racial prejudice.

The conviction carries either the death penalty or life in prison. A unanimous vote by the eight-man jury at the Newport Naval Base is required to impose a death sentence, which also carries an automatic appeal.

Garraway, 21, of Suitland, Md., showed no emotion when the jury convicted him of using his combat knife to murder Lt. James Stern, 35, of Woodbridge, N.J., last June 16 aboard the USS Miller while on a patrol near Bermuda.

Support Hormel Strikers

ALSTIN, Minn. (UPI) — Workers from five states headed for Geo. A. Hormel & Co.'s flagship plant today for a solidarity rally with picketing meatpackers that the strikers' parent union says is part of a "suicidal strategy."

A National Guard spokesman said late Thursday that 500 Guardsmen, left from a contingent of 880 sent to the plant Jan. 20 after violence broke out, would "hold fast" at a nearby armory today unless Gov. Rudy Perpich orders them to the plant.

More than 2,000 union members from Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin and North Dakota — including teachers, auto workers and meatpackers — prepared to demonstrate on behalf of Hormel meatpackers who have been on the picket line since Aug. 17.

Officials at the Austin plant said they expected to have about 800 workers on the job today — about 450 people hired as replacement workers and 350 strikers who have returned to work.

Two City Agencies Propose New Environmental Plans

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Rather than accept the irreparable eradication of Sanford's natural and man-made landmarks, two city agencies are spearheading efforts to ensure their perpetuation.

The Historic Preservation Board hopes to expand its jurisdiction as a means of protecting Sanford's architectural heritage and the parks department is offering residents discount rates to subscribe to its tree planting program.

The department opened wholesale bids Thursday it had received from local nurseries and will ask the city commission to approve the low proposal of $54 for Laurel Oaks and $65 for Live Oaks.

The purchase price includes delivery, planting and a 90 day guarantee on the trees. Those wishing to take advantage of the program may place their orders with the parks department by calling 322-3161.

The Historic Preservation Board has called for Sanford demolition crews to cease their "unnecessary destruction" of city structures that are more than 40 years old.

Board member Lon Howell said the approximately 100 buildings in Sanford that pre-date 1946 "should not be destroyed and turned into parking lots."

According to Howell, although "Sanford has more than enough parking lots," its architectural heritage is being greatly diminished with each pre-WWII building that is razed. Already, "too many of these buildings have been leveled," he said. "I'm really concerned that the demolition is going to continue."

In an effort to prevent this, the preservation board wants its charter expanded to include review of any demolition requests that involve structures more than 40 years old.

Howell said if the city commission grants its approval, the board would deny demolition permits "only if we think its a historic structure."

Because these buildings are located throughout Sanford, the amendment would grant the board authority beyond the downtown district it currently governs.

Establishing such jurisdiction would be difficult, according to City Attorney William Colbert. "You're looking at something that's almost the same as rezoning a parcel of property."

Colbert said the process to effect this includes sending notices to the property owners and scheduling public hearings.

"I'm not saying it's a bad idea, but it would involve quite a lot of staff work to do properly," he said.

Howell said he plans to pursue the request by ascertaining exactly how many buildings would be involved and where they are located.

The preservation board will then arrange to meet with the commission during a workshop session, he said.

Indicators Post Best Showing In Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Index of Leading Economic Indicators increased 0.9 percent in December, the best showing since last January, and a healthy 5.8 percent for all of 1985, the Commerce Department announced Thursday.

The index, intended to forecast economic changes, told analysts what they already knew based on earlier reports on production, sales and orders — that the economy seems to have rebounded in December and continues to be healthy in January.

However, most of the 0.9 percent increase was based on two indicators, a 0.39 percent increase in building permits and a 0.33 percent increase in stock prices.

Without the increase in stock prices, the growth in indicators would only have been 0.6 percent.

Among the negative factors, the most important was a 0.15 percent decline in orders for consumer goods.

The Commerce Department said that for all of 1985 the index rose a healthy 5.8 percent, compared to a 0.4 percent increase in 1984.

"These indicators... serve as a clear signal of the gathering momentum in economic growth at the end of the year," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said.

Speakes said the U.S. economy "continues to expand, creating jobs and opportunity for record numbers of Americans."

But Jerry Jasinowski, executive vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said in a statement that the "increase in the indicators is dominated by stock price increases, much of which has been due to speculative mergers."

Oil Prices Drop

United Press International U.S. oil prices slipped another notch Thursday as Iraq blamed non-OPEC producers for the "turmoil" in the world oil market and Kuwait pledged to spare no effort to end the current pricing war.

The presidents of Mexico, a major independent producer, and OPEC member Venezuela, opened a two-day summit in the Mexican resort of Cancun on measures to halt the relentless oil price slide.

Malaysia, an outside producer generally sympathetic to OPEC price stabilization efforts, said it has no immediate plans to cut its crude prices even though oil traded on the open market has tumbled by about $7 to less than $20 a barrel within the past two weeks.

But Exxon Corp., Amoco Corp., and Atlantic Richfield Co. slashed the price they will pay for West Texas intermediate — the key U.S. crude — by as much as $2 to $2.5 a barrel. Since Jan. 1 the average posted price for the benchmark crude has fallen by about $3.50 a barrel to the lowest level since 1980.

Spot prices for Britain's main Brent crude rebounded by $1.05 to $19.75 a barrel in Europe Thursday after dropping sharply Wednesday. West Texas intermediate for immediate was unchanged at $19.66 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Saudi Arabia, OPEC's principal producer, has been driving down prices by dumping oil on the already glutted market in a high-risk campaign to force non-OPEC members to curb their output and prop up prices.

In Baghdad, Iraqi Oil Minister Qassim Taki al-Orabi accused non-OPEC producers of precipitating "the current state of turmoil" in the oil market, the OPEC news agency reported.

OPEC, which pumped 30 million barrels a day in 1979, had been forced to nearly halve its output by mid-1985 because non-OPEC members were producing about 22.5 million barrels a day.

Lake Mary May Name Acting Police Chief

City Manager Kathy Rice says she will recommend that the Lake Mary City Commission appoint an acting police chief until a new one is hired.

Chief Harry S. Benson leaves office on March 1.

Benson submitted his resignation from the force, effective March 1, in a December 27, 1985 letter to the commission. The 64-year-old, 11-year veteran of the Lake Mary department, will pursue other career interests, including psychotherapy.

Since the availability of the chief's position has been advertised, Ms. Rice said her office has received 50 requests for information, and 20 completed applications. The bulk of applicants are from central Florida, Ms. Rice said, but some have come from Iowa, Illinois, and New York.

The deadline for applications is February 14.

Ms. Rice said the police chiefs of Altamonte Springs, Winter Park, and Seminole County Sheriff John Polk will act as a screening committee for the applicants and narrow the field to between four and six. Mrs. Rice said the final group of candidates were expected to be selected by March 15. They would then be interviewed by the city commission.

She said the screening committee would conduct the background checks on the finalists.

Mrs. Rice said she would recommend that the commission appoint an acting police chief during the period between Benson's departure and the hiring of the new chief.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Southern California residents chased from their homes by mudslides were allowed to return early today after heavy rains subsided, but officials warned that heavy weekend storms could force them to flee once more. Light snow fell from eastern Montana across western North Dakota and eastern South Dakota early today. Gusty winds caused drifting and blowing snow, prompting travelers advisories throughout the area. Gale warnings were posted for the northern California coast and the Oregon coast, where winds were expected to hit 50 mph today. Heavy rains that lashed the southern Pacific Coast Wednesday and Thursday subsided by evening, allowing some 40 people evacuated because of mudslides in Matilija Canyon to return to their homes. But residents were warned more rain was on the way. "We have a deputy standing by the entrance to the (Matilija) canyon warning citizens that it's dangerous to go back into that road," said Ventura County Sheriff's Department Lt. Mike Gullon.

"He's going to be there for the next 24 hours, or longer if needed," he said. Another storm was expected to hit about dawn today, said Michael Lewis, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service. The new storm was expected to bring less than an inch of rain to the Los Angeles basin and from 1 to 3 inches in the mountains above Los Angeles, Ventura and Santa Barbara.

Pope Heads For Populous India To Preach Against Birth Control

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II will speak out against artificial birth control during his 10-day trip to India, one of the world's poorest and most populous nations, Vatican sources said.

The pontiff, also expected to call for religious harmony in the nation of diverse beliefs, was scheduled to leave Rome tonight for the eight-hour flight to New Delhi — his 29th foreign tour and his third to Asia since he became pope in 1978.

Vatican sources Thursday denied the pope, in deference to Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's government, would avoid discussing the church's ban on artificial birth control.

"It's simply not true," a senior Vatican official said. "He definitely will speak on birth control, including the natural methods that the church allows."

Gandhi has said his top priority is to halt the population explosion in India, which has 2.4 percent of the world's land and 15 percent of its population.

Pope Paul VI visited India briefly in 1964 to participate in a religious conference but this visit is the first time a Roman Catholic pontiff will tour predominantly Hindu India as a head of state.

John Paul will deliver his first major speech Saturday at the Raj Ghat monument marking the funeral pyre of Mahatma Gandhi, who preached non-violence during the country's struggle for independence from Britain.

Fundamentalist leaders have promised to mount demonstrations to protest the papal visit, saying John Paul will lead some 200,000 to convert to Catholicism.

Arab League Nixes Libyan Request

TUNIS. Tunisia (UPI) — Arab League nations turned down a Libyan request that they remove some $80 billion in capital from the United States and reduce U.S. imports in retaliation for Washington's economic sanctions against Tripoli. The League was to meet today to consider a Syrian-proposed resolution condemning this month's resumption of diplomatic relations between Israel and Spain. An Arab diplomat said Syria hoped economic measures could be taken against Madrid. Representatives from 20 Arab nations and the Palestine Liberation Organization — which make up the Arab League — spent five hours Thursday night debating Libya's call for punitive economic measures against the United States.

They ended up approving a resolution that expressed the League's "total solidarity" with Libya and condemned the United States for the sanctions. But the resolution made no mention of the sanctions requested by Libya.

Libyan Foreign Minister Ali Treki had asked member nations to withdraw their holdings from the United States — estimated at $80 billion — reduce exports of U.S. products and carry out other "actions" against U.S. companies. He did not elaborate.

Americans Leaving Libya

TRIPOLI, Libya (UPI) — Some 100 Americans — among the last of the estimated 1,500 U.S. citizens ordered to leave Libya by Saturday — flew out to comply with President Reagan's clampdown of full economic sanctions in retaliation for terror attacks in Europe.

Scores of American oil workers and businessmen — some reluctantly — caught flights to Malta, Rome, London and Frankfurt in a low-key departure Thursday.

Tripoli airport is off-limits to foreign television crews and reporters and their departure went unremarked by Libya's leader Col. Moammar Khadafy.

There is one more flight by a European airline to Rome today before the deadline expires.

But the 100 or so travellers leaving Thursday said they believed all their American colleagues had already left, although about 15 American journalists are still in Tripoli covering the story.

Mobile Home Tax Is Claimed Illegal

Michael McClelland
TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida owes $20 million in illegally-collected taxes to 80,000 mobile home owners, the director of the Federation of Mobile Home Owners of Florida said Thursday.

The Department of Revenue has collected $50 million in sales taxes on non-dealer sales of used mobile homes in the last 13 years, Fred Yonteck said, though the state statute of limitations will allow recovery of damages going back only five years. He urged affected home owners to join a class action suit against the state now under consideration in a Leon County court.

"At issue here is whether or not sales tax was collected illegally," Yonteck said. "We're looking at $20 million."

State statutes do allow for a sales tax on sales of new mobile homes, Yonteck said, but not until last year did the Legislature approve the tax on resales that do not involve a dealer or realtor.

Department of Revenue officials have said they never intended to exempt non-dealer sales from taxation, and the remedial 1985 legislation merely "affirms" that fact.

"This is the first time they've had the authority to collect sales taxes on isolated and casual mobile home sales," Yonteck said. "I don't understand how a representative of the state of Florida can go out and collect a tax and then have the Legislature validate it."

Palm Beach residents Claude and Annette Moore filed suit last October against the Department of Revenue and Comptroller Gerald Lewis to recover $2,100 in sales taxes on 12 mobile homes they purchased since 1981. On Jan. 15, Judge Miner certified the case as a class action suit.

Anyone who paid sales tax on a non-dealer mobile home purchase between July 19 1981 and June 30 1985 has until April 1 to apply for a refund, Miner ruled. If the case is eventually decided against the state, those applicants should get refunds ranging from $100 to $1,800.

Dominic Calabro, executive director of the self-styled government watchdog group Florida Taxwatch, said the department's claim of a remedial tax was legally questionable and would "pull the rug out from under taxpayers."

"It could set for taxpayers a very dangerous precedent," Calabro said. "An entire section (of proposed tax law) was omitted 13 years ago. Then the department discovered and said 'uh-oh.' They kept on collecting it, when they should have stopped collecting and had the legislature remedy it right away."

Mobile home owners who think they have a claim can get claim forms from their local tax office, Yonteck said.

Libyan Embargo Stiffened

By Ira R. Allen
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration prepared new regulations Thursday to block American oil companies from transferring their production of Libyan oil to other nations and letting Moammar Khadafy "reap a windfall."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the administration had no evidence to back up a report in The Washington Post on Thursday that four U.S. oil companies had evaded the spirit of the economic sanctions President Reagan ordered earlier this month by selling their production to companies of allied nations willing to do business with Khadafy.

The sanctions, plus an order for all Americans to leave Libya by Saturday, were imposed to punish Khadafy for his alleged role in worldwide terrorism, particularly the Dec. 27 airport assaults in Rome and Vienna that killed 19 people, including five Americans.

The Post, quoting diplomatic and industry sources in Tripoli, said the oil companies' actions technically comply with Reagan's original order but in effect undercut the embargo.

As a result, Libya has not lost any oil income, which was one of the aims of the embargo, the Post said.

"We have no evidence that U.S. oil companies have shifted operations or assets to third countries or foreign subsidiaries," Speakes said.

The companies involved, the newspaper reported, are Occidental, Amerada Hess, Conoco and Marathon.

Under the transactions, one industry source said, the four companies transfer their share of Libyan oil to subsidiaries in Britain or "in certain foreign tax havens."

Conoco Inc. said in a statement: "We are not now and have not since the executive orders were issued lifted any Libyan crude, sold any Libyan crude, made any payment to Libya or profited in any way from any Libyan activity, contract or arrangement."

Occidental also denied in a statement from Vice President Frank Ashley that it has exported or transferred "a single barrel of oil from Libya since the sanctions were put into effect."

Speakes said new guidelines will be issued soon and, "We fully expect companies to comply with the executive orders issued by the president and we have no reason to believe they are taking actions inconsistent with the orders."

"Our goal is that U.S. economic ties with Libya be sharply and expeditiously reduced and ultimately severed, that all Americans working in Libya leave, that other nations be encouraged to take actions against Khadafy and that Khadafy not reap a windfall," Speakes said.

"We are determining what actions should be taken with regard to Libyan-related activities of certain companies in order to reduce their involvement with Libya without at the same time providing any economic benefit to Libya," he said.

If Reagan refuses to accept the arrangement for loaning the oil output, "The effect could be Americans would simply have to abandon their Libyan holdings," allowing the Libyans "to take over billions of dollars' worth of assets for nothing," a source told the Post.

As for allies who are taking over oil production from the American firms, Speakes said they technically were living up to promises not to undercut the embargo because the pledge was that the governments themselves — not necessarily businesses — would refrain from taking up the slack.

Shhhh!

Don't tell anyone only 17 more couples can enroll in our class. Seems many people planning to build a house want to better understand and manage the actual construction. They know it'll save them a lot of money. In our two-day class we cover all the facts from how to choose a contractor to lot purchase, permits, scheduling, pay policy, insurance and laws. We also include workshops to review and evaluate actual house plans and detail energy-saving options. And the total class fee for a couple is only $150. So, if you want to be one of the remaining 17 couples able to attend this valuable class, call us today for details.

School Book For The Board

A thick book containing the floor plans and site plans of all 41 schools in Seminole County has been published, and the School Board of Seminole County got its first look at it during their regular meeting Wednesday night.

Assistant Superintendent for Facilities and Transportation Benny Arnold delivered the book, titled "Florida Inventory of School Houses - Floor Plans for Our Schools" to board members.

He said publication of the book was the culmination of two years of work, and it would continue to be updated as changes are made.

One of the uses of the book will be that board members, contractors, and maintenance departments will rapidly be able to pinpoint classrooms reported to need repairs or service throughout the district, it was said.

Pentagon's TOEs Need Trimming

Terrorism is the most clear and present threat to our national security. No wonder the Reagan administration has beefed up the Pentagon's counterterrorism program. Manpower of special forces has been increased from 10,000 to 25,000 and the budget this year is $1.2 billion.

But the special forces aren't ready for combat. When the TWA jet was hijacked by terrorists over the Mediterranean, the Army's counterterrorist Delta Force was alerted at Fort Bragg, N.C., but there were no transport planes available to take them to the scene of the action. The special forces lack air support and equipment. Operational plans have not been coordinated.

The problem is so serious that the Pentagon's senior civilian in charge of special forces is ready to throw up his hands. Noel C. Koch, the Pentagon official, said in a recent news interview that he would support proposals in Congress to create a single joint agency to take over direction of special operations. That would put commandos like the Delta Force and the Navy's Seals under an independent command and take them partially out of the control of the separate services.

"We've got bands that are in a higher state of readiness than some of our special operations assets," Koch said.

The special forces are treated like stepchildren by the services. They are passed over in favor of regular units at budget time. It took 17 years for the Army to deliver new field radios to its special forces. Regular Army units had higher priority.

And there are jurisdictional rivalries between the services. One service doesn't like to provide support or backup to another service. All the services want to play the leading role, and all of them want a part of any important action.

Thus the Delta Force depended upon Navy helicopters with Marine pilots to carry them to the U.S. Embassy in Tehran to rescue the hostages in 1980. The mission might not have been aborted and eight Americans might not have lost their lives if the Air Force had handled all of the air transport for the mission. The Air Force had suitable helicopters and pilots trained for long flights over land, but they weren't used. The Navy didn't want them flying from a Navy carrier.

The Air Force doesn't much like the support role, anyway. Recently it proposed to transfer its long-range helicopters to the Army, and the Army agreed, but Congress put its foot down. The Air Force doesn't want any of its pilots to be helicopter pilots. They don't fit the Air Force image. They don't take off for the wild blue yonder.

We have a defense establishment to carry out certain urgent, life-and-death missions, vital to our national security, and not simply to strike romantic poses for recruiting posters. Fighting men must have esprit, but they also must be realists, with a keen sense of goals and objectives. Warriors they must be, loyal and true, but combat is not an end in itself. The aim of every operation is success and survival. War is not a game to be played by adolescents pumped up by college cheerleaders.

The special forces problem is not the most serious problem in the Pentagon, only the most acute and most visible, because the terrorist threat is so immediate. If we had to call on our regular forces for action, we would discover readiness problems with many of them, too.

If the problem were confined to the special forces mission, it could be solved in isolation. It is not. Creation of another joint command would assure no better control over the budget than the existence of joint commands for other missions has done. The last word remains with the separate services, and the Joint Chiefs roll logs for each other when they sit around the table at the highest joint level of all.

The military hierarchy must be unified at the top, for once and for all. Such action is contemplated by the Congress. Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Sam Nunn, D-Ga., and Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., are pushing for Pentagon reform. The effort will fail without widespread interest and public support.

BERRY'S WORLD

GEORGE MCGOVERN

A Proposed Formula To End The Deficit

The Congressional Budget Office and the Office of Management and Budget have recently agreed on one important projection: Both agencies now believe that the federal deficit for the current fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, will be $220 billion — a record high exceeding last year's previous high of $212 billion. The current fiscal year also saw the national debt exceed $2 trillion — a doubling of the debt level in the past five years.

I'm sure that my readers don't expect me, a longtime Democrat, to agree with very much that Ronald Reagan does as president, and they are right; I disagree heartily with nearly the entire thrust of this administration, both at home and abroad. But no development during these past five years has so surprised me as to see a supposedly conservative president add more to the national debt on his watch than all his predecessors combined have added in the last two centuries.

Some authorities, including the highly regarded Northwestern University Professor Robert Eisner, argue that we are exaggerating the danger of the deficit, but as a liberal often accused of supporting too much spending for government programs, I am alarmed about the fast-mounting deficits of recent years. The interest on the national debt is now the third largest part of the federal budget — exceeded only by the cost of the Pentagon and Social Security. Borrowing $20 billion every month to service that debt drives up the cost of interest to all other borrowers. It also leaves less money to educate our children, protect the environment and support a strong, healthy system of agriculture and transportation.

A considerable number of the most liberal members of the Senate, myself included, were defeated in the Republican election wins of 1978 and 1980. But it is precisely in the years since those liberal defeats, and Mr. Reagan's victories of 1980 and 1984, that the deficits have boomed out of control. This cannot all be the result of "liberal spending."

Actually, the current deficit boom is largely the result of an excessive tax cut in 1981 and excessive, unnecessary increases in military spending.

The president has said that he will not permit a tax increase, and that he won't tolerate any cut in his military spending plans or in Social Security. If we are to address the deficit effectively, Mr. Reagan will have to give way on those positions.

If the three major components of federal spending can't be touched — the military, Social Security and carrying charges on the debt — there will never be a balanced budget. Indeed, the deficits will get larger and larger.

If the tax revenues of the government can't be increased, it is equally clear that talk of a balanced budget is nothing but talk.

I would recommend immediate and substantial cuts in military spending by cancellation of the Star Wars nonsense and the ill-advised, redundant MX-missile. The president could then be free to accept the rest of Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev's offer for a mutual end to nuclear testing, accompanied by substantial cutbacks in nuclear weapons on both sides. Nothing could contribute more to the security and stability of the nation than to end the self-defeating arms race that has been heated up so strenuously in the last few years.

Beyond this, the president should press for reform of the tax structure to remove its most glaring inequities and then call for a combination of increased revenues.

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., recently reported the results of a public survey that indicated that most Americans prefer reducing the deficit even if it means more taxes — provided those taxes are fairly distributed.

My formula for ending the $200-plus billion annual deficits is a cut in military spending of $100 billion in annual arms spending, plus a $100 billion increase in revenues.

A Real Chance Needed

WASHINGTON — When Rosa Alexander, a black entrepreneur who scrubbed floors for a living, landed her first big cleaning contract, she went out and hired 85 women who were on welfare and immediately pulled them out of poverty.

Unfortunately, you didn't see Mrs. Alexander's story — or anything remotely resembling it — in the recent spate of television programs about inner-city poverty and the disintegration of the black family on welfare. Her story apparently didn't fit in with the Washington news media's myopic view of poverty.

But the truth is that what Mrs. Alexander did to combat poverty could be done by countless other black entrepreneurs if Washington would sweep away government-created obstacles that have prohibited many poor minority-group members from entering the nation's economic mainstream.

Mrs. Alexander was raised in the poor rural tobacco-growing country near Dunn, N.C., and worked as a restaurant manager, an aircraft cleaner and a part-time janitor.

At age 50, when most people are thinking of retirement, Mrs. Alexander gambled her life savings, $16,000, and started her own cleaning company, working 17-hour days to make it succeed. Today, the A&B Janitorial Service of Norfolk, Va., employs several hundred people and is a thriving business that has grossed nearly $3 million a year.

Through her talents as a businesswoman and her ambition to make something of herself, Mrs. Alexander became an effective weapon against poverty, not just for herself, but for the hundreds of people who have worked for her — from welfare mothers to college-bound black youths.

But with 35 million poor people in this country, we obviously need more Rosa Alexanders. Although white unemployment was down to 5.9 percent by the end of last year, black unemployment is nearly 15 percent — and the jobless rate among black youths is running around 30, 40, 50 percent and more in many inner cities.

Spare Parts Could Break Kremlin's Hold

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — As certified critics of the Pentagon's penchant for extravagant projects and hidebound suspicion of new ideas, we are delighted to break the news of an ingenious, small-budget program the military has been running without fanfare for more than a year. It even has a catchy nickname: "Bear's Spares."

The idea, like most good ones, is simplicity itself: Offer Third World countries maintenance and American-made spare parts for their Soviet military hardware. The aim is to make it easier for these nations to cut the strings the Soviets always attach to their military aid, yet avoid the need to buy new weapons they can't afford.

The Pentagon has deliberately kept the modest program under wraps. But we've learned that the two sparring partners of the Reagan Cabinet, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Secretary of State

DICK WEST

Plant Sex Life Lit

WASHINGTON — Night-lights on the Potomac? Seems like a good idea.

You never know when you might want to take a post-midnight swim in the river and the night-lights should help you avoid stumbling over bridges, fallen airplanes and other obstacles.

These night-lights, however, would not be installed for the purpose of helping bathers avoid stubbing their toes, or putting on another bather's swim suit or something equally stupid that might take place in the dark.

Their purpose would be the confounding photoperiodism.

What? You don't know the meaning of "photoperiodism"?

That's what comes of swimming in the Potomac. Your dictionary gets soggy.

After the pages are dry, if you look up the word you will find that photoperiodism has to do with the development of plants according to the length of day.

Hydrilla, for instance, responds to artificial light much like it does to sunlight.

What? You don't know know what hydrilla is either?

Well, permit me to quote the Agriculture Department. It defines hydrilla as an "extremely fast-growing aquatic weed" that has infested rivers, channels and other waterways "in more than a dozen states, from Florida to California."

But don't confuse hydrilla with Godzilla, or gorilla, or guerrilla, although it can be equally monstrous.

"If uncontrolled," the Agriculture Department says, "dense mats of the hardy plant can entangle swimmers or boaters, snag fishing lines and interfere with irrigation and flood control."

Now do you see the value of fake photoperiodism?

You should if you have enough sense not to go swimming in this part of the Potomac.

Despite various cleanup programs dating back to President Lyndon Johnson's administration, the river still is polluted.

"My! Look at the angry sewage!" I remember a Washington visitor exclaiming some years ago when the wind was whipping up graycaps on the Potomac.

His daughter, incidentally, now runs a sailboat marina not far downstream from the Alexandria, Va., site of scientific experiments in hydrilla control. Should she profit from the research, it would be somewhat akin to falling overboard.

Anyway, the tests indicate that mounting lights above the surface so they shine on the hydrilla an hour or so each night is more effective than underwater strands.

Let that be a lesson to you when installing night-lights about your home. Don't put them in the bathtub or some other place where they might get submerged.

"Our strategy was to shine overhead lights on these plants at a time when they need stretches of darkness to form reproductive buds," one researcher explained.

The result was a 50 percent cut in hydrilla growth at the experimental site.

"If we start earlier in the year," the researcher said, "we might get better results, such as a 75 percent to 95 percent drop in reproduction."

Or, better yet, maybe Congress will make hydrilla subject to the Gramm-Rudman amendment.

Met Star Crusades For Sick

By Deltha Ricks
UPI Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A prima donna who has graced operatic stages on two continents is turning her talents to the design and construction of hospitals for Alzheimer's disease as a tribute to her husband, a neurosurgeon who fell victim to the incurable brain disorder.

All told, 10 hospitals are planned nationwide by lyric soprano Dorothy French, a Metropolitan opera star who for the past four years has been on a crusade to raise research money to fight the fatal neurological disease.

"Right now there are no special treatment centers for Alzheimer's disease," said French, whose husband currently is hospitalized at a Los Angeles-area nursing care facility.

"The decision to put my husband in a convalescent hospital was the most heart-rending decision I ever made," French recalled. "But I had no choice. He would turn on the gas jets without realizing what he was doing and it just became too dangerous to keep him at home."

Dr. John Douglas French, diagnosed as an Alzheimer's patient four years ago, is the co-founder of the Brain Research Institute at the University of California-Los Angeles and had been highly regarded worldwide as a brain surgeon and researcher.

"He was studying it (Alzheimer's) before he was diagnosed and I firmly believe that he diagnosed himself. I found a lot of information about Alzheimer's disease in his desk," French said.

The first of the new hospitals aimed specifically at treatment of Alzheimer's disease is scheduled to open in southern California in the spring of next year.

Plans also have been drawn up for another of the special treatment centers in California, as well as in Massachusetts, South Carolina and Florida. Additional sites eventually will be chosen in other areas of the country, French said.

"All of the hospitals will be named the John Douglas French Centers for Alzheimer's Disease and they will have special day treatment programs to permit families to leave their loved ones there for a few hours a day," French explained.

experts how to maintain their Soviet arms, and buy needed spare parts from American companies.

Small U.S. contractors are understandably enthusiastic about the program; more surprisingly, the big boys are, too. A Pentagon source explained: "They know the countries can't afford the big-ticket items, so it's a way for them to make a few bucks they wouldn't have made otherwise."

Another advantage of the program is that it probably saves American taxpayers a bundle by preventing the necessity of U.S. military aid grants to buy new, expensive weapons.

The possibilities of the program are truly exciting. In the next decade, it would not be farfetched to imagine that "Bear's Spares" could play a major role in prying loose from the Kremlin's embrace such countries as Mozambique, Guyana and Suriname. Even Libya might be susceptible, once Muammar Khadafi is gone.

Wet Pair Charged In Water Pump Theft

Two Longwood men allegedly stole a water pump from a Lake Mary construction site and were allegedly trying to steal another when spotted by police and nabbed, a Lake Mary police report said.

Police spotted an unsecured pickup truck with tools and lumber in the bed parked at Crystal Lake Estates at about 10 p.m. Wednesday, a police report said.

Two men found in the area by police both reportedly said they were using the bathroom in nearby woods. One of the men had wet clothing and appeared to have been sprayed with water, the report said.

After questioning, police reported determining the pair was allegedly attempting to steal a water pump and motor and had already taken one from the site to the home of one of the suspects.

The pump and motor sets are valued at $250 each, the report said.

James Ernest Jacobs, 31, of 2910 W. Brantley Court and James Harold Henson, 31, of 226 A. Orange Ave., have both been charged with grand theft, loitering and prowling and attempted grand theft. They were being held in lieu of $1,000 bond each.

ILLEGAL DRUGS

A 31-year-old Sanford man questioned and searched by Sanford police after being spotted in an area known to be a drug trafficking site has been charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and for possession of Valium and tetrahydrocannabinol, for which he allegedly had no prescription. He was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia.

The arrest was made at about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday on 13th Street at Pomgranite Avenue.

DUI ARREST

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Terence Michael Mullane, 21, of 512 David St., Winter Springs, was arrested at South Seminole Community Hospital, Longwood, following a 1:37 a.m. Wednesday traffic accident on State Road 434 in Longwood. He was treated and released from the hospital and jailed at 4:30 a.m.

—Susan Marney Fox, 37, of 292 W. Sabal Palm Drive, Longwood, at 11:10 a.m. Wednesday following an accident on Hornbeam Drive in Longwood. She was also charged with driving too fast for conditions and having an improper driver's license.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Kevin Mark Trudeau, 22, of 2352 Sierra Lane, Maitland, has given Seminole County sheriff's deputies the name of an Indiana woman whom he alleged took about $60,000 worth of orders and customer's credit card slips from him between Jan. 26 and Thursday, and allegedly told him he could have the slips back if he deposited $3,000 in her Indiana bank account, a sheriff's report said. The woman is reportedly owed two weeks pay by Trudeau, the report said. The case is being investigated as possible extortion.

The 1977 Chevrolet of Margaret S. Motes, 24, of 2500 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park, was stolen from her home Wednesday. A sheriff's report said the car is valued at $500.

A thief took $48 cash and a .22-caliber handgun from the home of Norman Neal, 31, of 1215 Wynn St., Sanford, a sheriff's report said.

About $300 worth of gasoline, 200 gallons, was stolen from eight vehicles at Danella Construction, 1830 Longwood-Lake Mary Road, between Jan. 2 and Wednesday, according to a sheriff's report filed by John Charles Clapper, 40, of Brookstone. Two batteries were also taken.

Canker Fight Needs $80 Million, State To Tell Federal Government

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Florida agriculture officials will present to the federal government Monday a study that claims $80 million will be needed in the next five years to rid the state of citrus canker.

Dr. Sal Alfieri's estimates include $70 million for eradication and another $10 million for further research. The estimates will be presented to the House Select Committee on Citrus and Agricultural Funding, which will examine what can be expected in fight against canker.

Alfieri, director of the Florida Department of Agriculture's Division of Plant Industry and one of the paper's authors, said Thursday he also expected new finds and tree burnings to go on for "at least two more years."

Canker, a bacterial disease that causes defoliation of the trees, fruit drop and a general weakening of the plant, was discovered in Florida in September 1984. It is generally regarded as the greatest threat ever to Florida's $1 billion citrus industry.

"We expect that by the time this fiscal year ends, we will have had to burn another 3.6 million trees," Alfieri said. "The primary means of spreading the disease has not been satisfactorily proven or even identified, so it is reasonable to expect that we will continue to find citrus canker."

Prison Road Gangs Reappearing

LAKE CITY (UPI) — After a 30-year hiatus, prison road gangs are returning to Florida highways, cleaning ditches and right-of-ways as part of a new program that will put prisoners to work for cities and counties.

The state already uses about 650 prisoners on roads in a program sponsored by the Florida Department of Transportation, but the new program allows cities and counties to "requisition" prisoners for work details, with the state picking up the tab for unarmed guards and trucks for transporting the inmates.

The first crew went to work Thursday in Columbia County. Chain gangs, once familiar sights along Florida's roadways, were disbanded in the 1950s. At one time, a state official said, the services of chain gangs were even sold to private industry.

"More than 90 percent of the people want to see it again," said Rep. Wayne Hollingsworth, D-Lake City. "It's about time we put the prisoners back to work."

"I have no qualms about the program," said Assistant Corrections Secretary Harry Singletary. "It's not the same as the old chain gangs. The prisoners are not shackled and the guards are not armed with shotguns, like they used to be." Singletary said idleness is the biggest problem in the state's prisons and work on the outside is part of the rehabilitation process.

2 Charged In Venom Murder Plot

BARLOW (UPI) — A licensed herpetologist and an accused cocaine trafficker have been charged with plotting to use poisonous snake venom to kill a Polk County sheriff's detective and an informant.

Tom Del Rose, 30, of Eagle Lake, and Lloyd Wayne Hill, 42, of Winter Haven, were held in Polk County jail today in lieu of $100,000 bond each, set by County Judge Dick Primer during a first-appearance hearing Thursday.

They are charged with two counts each of conspiracy to commit first-degree murder and solicitation of first-degree murder.

Del Rose, an elevator service manager, was arrested at his home late Wednesday night, and Hill, a herpetologist and well driller, was arrested Thursday at his home where he keeps several poisonous snakes.

Tom Boney, special agent of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, said the two are accused of agreeing to kill detective Dan Miller and informant Earl Bragg by injecting them with poisonous snake venom, and with soliciting another informant to carry out the murders.

necessary measures" to end the uprisings that began Sunday.

The demonstrations were the most widespread since Duvalier took over the presidency from his father, who ruled for 14 years.

As the protests raged Thursday, the government reported the deaths of five people it said were trampled or suffocated during a raid on a food warehouse in Cap Haitien Wednesday. The announcement pushed the death toll for this week's disturbances to eight, and brought to 12 the number killed in the past two months of demonstrations.

Radio reports said crowds in Cap Haitien, about 160 miles north of Port-au-Prince, broke windows Thursday at an automobile showroom owned by Ernest Bennett, Duvalier's father-in-law.

Many Haitians resent the Bennett family's accumulation of wealth and power since Michele Bennett's 1980 marriage to Duvalier.

Baptist-run Radio Lumiere reported members of the elite "Leopard" counter-insurgency corps were sent to the northern town of Gonaves, where thousands of residents crowded into the streets at 8 a.m. Thursday.

The crowd, singing a traditional Haitian death march, paraded through the streets with coffins emblazoned with the names of Jean-Claude and Michele Duvalier.

Radio Lumiere said every street in the town — 90 miles north of Port-au-Prince — was blocked with crowds burning tires and vowing not to retreat.

The people of Gonaves have been at the forefront of opposition to Duvalier since security forces shot three youths to death during a Nov. 28 in the city.

...Botha

South Africa zoned for white residence.

In addition, he promised the hated "pass," the document all blacks are obliged to carry, would be replaced by a common identity document for all races. About 500 blacks are arrested every day for so-called "pass law" offenses and more than 2 million have been prosecuted under the law in the past decade.

The speech marked the first major policy statement by South

Africa's white-dominated government since last August, when Botha disappointed an international audience by failing to announce any significant move to abolish apartheid.

Botha also opened the door for a deal that could lead to the release of Mandela.

"I am conscious of the fact that Mr. Mandela has been in prison for a long time and that he is now in his sixties. I have given this matter much thought," he said.

But, he noted, if it was possible to release Mandela on humanitarian grounds, it should be possible for the Soviet Union to free Andrei Sakharov and Anatoly Shebaransky on the same grounds. And, he added, Angola also should be able to release Capt. Wynand Du Toit, a South African soldier captured in the northern Angolan Cabinda enclave last year.

"A positive response to this question could certainly form the basis of negotiations between interested governments," Botha said.

Botha offered to release Mandela last year if he would repudiate political violence, but the ANC leader rejected the offer.

...Shuttle

In addition, doctors planned to examine a burned piece of bone and flesh attached to a blue sock that was found earlier Thursday many miles away.

The burned six-by-four-inch bone and tissue fragment washed ashore on the beach in Indian Lake about 30 miles south of the shuttleport.

"We assume since it was attached to a sock that it was part of a foot," said police officer Steven Oakes. But it was not known if the fragment was from Challenger, and NASA could not even confirm if the material was human.

Search teams have found a small mountain of shuttle debris since Tuesday, but the fragments returned to shore early today were the first clearly identifiable segments of the once mighty spaceliner.

Lt. Cdr. James Simpson said the fragments were found floating above a debris-littered seabed that promises to reveal even more large pieces of the ill-fated ship.

"We also have had multiple sonar sightings in the area of some large object or objects on the bottom of the ocean," he said.

The section of outer skin that was found once wrapped around the lower right side of the pressurized crew module, McAuliffe, Jarvis and McNair were seated in the lower deck of the module just a few feet from the bright yellow "rescue" arrow pointing to a section where rescue workers could cut into the spacecraft in an emergency.

The crew module itself was not among the objects returned to shore today.

Simpson said earlier Thursday that along with the fuselage sections, recovery teams reported finding what they believed to be debris from the ship's cockpit, but NASA stressed its engineers had not yet seen the material.

The section of outer skin that was recovered looked as if it had been ripped away from the nose of the shuttle.

But many of its heat insulation tiles were remarkably intact with their serial numbers clearly visible, and the bright yellow "rescue" sign painted on its side was a particularly painful reminder of the helplessness of the crew in an explosion that obliterated the shuttle in less than a second.

participation and ideas as possible," he said. "and the attendance here today indicates a high level of awareness."

He said achieving balanced enrollments in the county's middle schools is important, but "the emotional aspects are difficult for all."

"Everyone wants new schools," Hughes said, "and everyone wants their children to go to the school closest to them, but any change of boundaries would not please everyone."

Hughes is to present his review to the board at the Feb. 24 meeting.

Also, cost estimates for implementing the plans will be examined, along with curriculum for middle schools, enrollment projections for the next five years, transportation safety and racial balance.

The second portion of the meeting will be for public input on any additional plan suggestions or modifications, and concerns. The board will also be able to ask questions of the system's staff regarding implications of adopting a particular plan.

Hughes said at the regular school board meeting following the February 24 work session a one item agenda meeting will be scheduled for March 12 and the first official vote on adopting a plan will be taken. The vote will be made official after making sure all legal requirements for adopting the plan have been met.

Hughes said the rezoning procedure has been open to all and the work of the task force was a "massive undertaking for a school system of 40,000 students, growing at a rate of 1,500 new students per year."

"We appreciate all the work you've done. Thank you," he said.

Addressing the parents who were in attendance he said, "Schools are no better or worse than the people who are involved with them. Education is number one in Seminole County."

"While we not be able to adopt a plan that will please everyone, I hope that we will be able to unite the community," he said.

After the meeting, Hughes received petitions from Greenbrook subdivision parents opposed to redistricting the students away from Teague Middle School to which they walk. Lake Mary residents said they support community schools, but objected to division of their community in the rezoning process.

Also left for Hughes were at least 43 hand delivered letters from parents concerned about the redistricting.

the State Department of Education, which investigates charges against certified teachers, found no improper handling of the case by Hughes or Mrs. Hendrix, and Turlington's ruling rendered.

J. Martin Burns is charged with the alleged fondling while employed at Rosenwald in March of 1983. According to reports, Burns may go to trial for the third time this year. In the first case he was convicted but the verdict was overturned, and a mistrial resulted during the second trial in September reports say.

Mrs. Hendrix reported the incident to Hughes, according to school spokesman Karen Coleman. Hughes then notified Professional Practices Services, as required by law, Mrs. Coleman said. Health and Rehabilitative Services was not notified, but in 1983 when the incident happened, HRS notification was not required by law, as it is now, according to Mrs. Coleman.

She continued, "The implication was that the superintendent didn't follow the law, but the investigation found that he did everything proper in handling the incident."

17,000-square-foot building for $146,000 per year.

Faced with such rental costs, however, commissioners agreed that the county should receive a "ballpark" appraisal for purchasing the building and also at alternative office space for rent.

Bible said office space near Five Points, where environmental services is located, is in short supply. The complex itself, he said, is "extremely congested."

The county could look at installing a modular type building at Five Points, Commissioner Barbara Christensen said. She called the cost for leasing the Southern Bell building "pretty darn expensive" and "wasteful," commenting that it would cost the county over $1 million to lease the building for six years "with no ownership."

"We need to get something that's ours," Christensen said.

Commissioner Sturm said leasing may be "putting the cart before the horse" and that the county would be "better off purchasing than renting."

Schools' Lobbying Plotted

By Paul Schaefer

Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County School District's interests and concerns will be represented in the state legislature by the district's lobbyist, Carey E. Ferrell, as the result of action taken at Wednesday night's regularly scheduled School Board of Seminole County meeting.

Ferrell, the district's assistant superintendent for business and finance, submitted the proposed 1986 Legislative Program for approval of the board during the meeting.

The 13 page document was approved by the board, and will be used by Ferrell as a guideline for his lobbying efforts.

In the funding policy portion of the document, Ferrell will lobby the legislature to "provide sufficient funds to enable school districts to increase the level of instructional salaries to that of the upper quartile of the state."

He will also ask the legislature to "provide for equalization of resources among school districts so that each district has the full capability of providing programs equal to those in other school districts throughout the state."

Ferrell said that the Seminole County district is third from the bottom in state ranking in receiving funding.

Ferrell will also express the support of the district for efforts to upgrade the standards for instructional and administrative personnel in public schools through certification. He will say that the legislature should "recognize and accept the responsibility for upgrading salaries of instruction personnel, commensurate with the establishment of higher standards for certification," and that they should "consider the impact that higher standards, coupled with the projected future teacher shortage may have on the ability of school systems to obtain teaching personnel."

As part of teacher certification, Ferrell will tell the legislature that Seminole County's school board urges them to "require fingerprinting of all applicants, including applicants for a substitute certificate."

He will also ask that the Home Education Law, passed by the legislature in 1985, be strengthened. He will say that the law passed "effectively prevents a school district from ensuring adequate enforcement of the compulsory attendance law, and permits parents to remove their children from school without adequate safeguards to ensure that they get minimal education."

Jim Romaniszyn, the first-year coach of Spruce Creek's sixth-ranked Hawks, wants to make one thing perfectly clear.

Jon Fedor is not a one-man team.

He offers this bit of evidence:

Tuesday evening at Daytona Beach, Romaniszyn faced these impossibilities while trying to register his team's 18th victory in 20 games.

●The Hawks were without a starter and a top reserve due to the flu.

●Fedor, considered one of the best players in the nation, went to the bench with his fifth foul with 3:43 to play in the game.

Mike Polite, Mainland's stand-out center, already had 33 points.

●Spruce Creek trailed Mainland by 10 points.

Time to throw in the towel? Hardly.

In the next 3:39, the Hawks scrambled back to tie the game at 62. They regained possession with four seconds left but they were underneath Mainland's basket.

No problem. Two very quick passes and an 18-footer by Corey

Basketball

Bell later, the Hawks had a 64-62 victory.

"It was a thriller," Spruce Creek assistant Tim Ludwig understated. "We have won six games by a total of eight points. The kids have been there (under pressure) before. They know how to react."

Spruce Creek, which lost a game at the buzzer Wednesday night at Orlando Edgewater, brings its lightning-quick guards and the imposing Fedor to Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium tonight to meet Seminole. Tipoff is 8 p.m.

It should be a torrid battle inside and outside. Fedor, who has already committed to Florida State, is a tremendous player. At 6-9 and 205 pounds, he has the muscle to overpower inside, the touch to fire away from 15 feet away and the finesse to befuddle with backdoor passes.

"Jon Fedor is an outstanding player," Romaniszyn said. "He averages about 15 points, 12 rebounds and five blocks per game. It could be more but he's a team player. He also handles the ball well and is effective against the press."

Fedor's accompanying cast includes 6-2 senior forward Kenny Southall, 6-1 junior forward Johnnie Bennett, 6-0 junior guard Victor Coks and 5-10 junior guard Levon Darthard. Bell, a 6-0 junior, Lowell Lucas, a 6-5 junior, and Terry Massey, a 6-4 junior, provide excellent depth.

Romaniszyn was hired last year to replace Roger DeLo, now an assistant to Ray Rignour at Daytona Beach Community College. Ludwig said Romaniszyn is quite different from the excitable Dorio.

"Jim is just what the program needed," Ludwig, who has watched them come and go at the Port Orange school for six years, said. "He's quiet and very, very low key. Tuesday night was the first time I've ever seen him jump out of his chair."

Romaniszyn is a Pennsylvania native. He came to Florida three years ago at the urging of his wife. The 34-year-old coach played professional football for several years with the New England Patriots and Cleveland Browns as a defensive back. He taught at Mainland one year before coming to Spruce Creek two years ago as an assistant football coach.

Despite Spruce Creek's imposing record and host site for the District 4A-9 tournament, he doesn't consider the Hawks a shoo-in for the title.

"Obviously, we're one of the teams to beat," he said Wednesday. "But Seminole and Mainland are both teams to beat, too."

Romaniszyn said he watched the Seminoles at the Winter Park Rotary Tipoff Tournament and came away impressed. "They lost a couple close games there," he said. "But at the beginning of year they had so much potential and it took them awhile to jell."

"Throughout the year, the young kids seem to have matured. I think they're the team to beat in the conference. If their guards are playing well, I know they're tough."

OT Endurance: Brantley Battles By Lake Howell

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots have stared adversity in the face, and conquered it a number of times this season. Thursday night, though, was the first time the Lady Patriots had to come back while saddled with foul trouble.

Despite playing the fourth quarter and the overtime period with four fouls, Sherry "Ice" Asplen and Ashley Thomas provided the clutch play down the stretch and Kim Wain was tremendous underneath as Brantley pulled out a 54-52 victory over the scrappy Lady Silver Hawks of Lake Howell in Seminole Athletic Conference action before 201 fans at Lake Howell High.

Brantley kept its hopes alive in the SAC as it improved to 4-2 in the league and 9-5 overall. Lake Howell's conference hopes dwindled as it fell to 2-3 in the SAC and now stands at 13-5 overall.

League-leading Lake Mary (4-0) tangles with Lyman (2-2) in a big SAC game tonight at Lyman High.

"Despite everything, the girls came together and pulled through," Lake Brantley coach Cindy Frank said. "This is really the first time we've had foul trouble and I was proud of the way Sherry (Asplen) and Ashley (Thomas) got through it."

Asplen, Thomas and Wain each scored 13 points for the Lady Patriots while Wain pulled down a career-high 24 rebounds. Asplen also added six rebounds and six assists.

For Lake Howell, Tammy Lewis and Erin Hankins enabled the Lady Hawks to make a run at the Lady Patriots. Lewis pumped in a career-high 15 points and also had seven rebounds while Hankins, hitting from the outside, popped in 14 points. Carey Manuel scored most of her seven points in the fourth quarter.

Basketball

Lake Howell took advantage of numerous Brantley turnovers to build a 7-2 lead in the early going. The Lady Hawks looked like they would take an 11-7 lead into the second quarter, but Susan Asplen had something to say about that.

Asplen, a sophomore, was fouled after grabbing a rebound and sank both free throws to pull Brantley within 11-9 with 25 seconds left in the opening quarter. Then, with one second left, the younger sister of "Ice" Asplen, came up with a steal and was again fouled. She hit both free throws for an 11-11 tie after one quarter.

Sherry Asplen got the hot hand for Brantley in the second quarter as she hit three consecutive shots from long range to give the Patriots a 19-18 lead. After Thomas hit a jumper to make it 21-18, Hankins and Lewis made consecutive baskets and Jolee Johnson made one of two free throws for 23-21 Lake Howell halftime lead.

Lake Brantley came on strong in the third quarter and led by as much as five, 34-29, when Lewis hit a jumper and Manuel grabbed a rebound and converted the layup at the buzzer to trim the Brantley lead to 34-33 going into the final eight minutes.

It was back and forth most of the fourth quarter but Lake Howell forged ahead by four, 51-47, as Hankins drilled a jumper, then fed a nice bounce pass to Sarina Winston who dropped in the layup with 1:20 left to play.

Lake Howell had a chance to increase its lead with 1:13 left but missed the front end of a one-plus-one and Thomas came back to bank one in with 54 seconds left to pull the Patriots within 51-49.

Lake Brantley's Tracy Brandenburg, right, looks for the baseline jumper with 40 seconds left to tie it at 51-51.

The Lady Hawks were again sent to the line, but missed the front end and Asplen worked free from the defense that had followed her every move all game long and swished in a baseline jumper with 40 seconds left to tie it at 51-51.

"I was trying to get around a pick and managed to get into the open," Asplen said. "I knew I had the shot once I got open."

After hitting the tying shot, Asplen would come back to make a sensational play on the defensive end. Lake Howell had

Anderson Gets 31, Girls Win

Catherine "Kitty" Anderson poured in a career-high 31 points Thursday night as Seminole High's Lady Seminoles held on for a 74-71 victory over Spruce Creek's Lady Hawks at Port Orange.

Seminole now stands at 12-6 overall and has a 4A-9 district record of 8-2. The Lady Tribe returns to Seminole Athletic Conference (3-2 record) play Tuesday night at Lyman.

Anderson, a senior forward, connected on 14 of 20 floor shots and 3 of 5 free throws to pave the way for the Lady 'Noles Thursday night. She also pulled down 14 rebounds, collected eight steals and dished out three assists.

"Kitty" was unstoppable tonight," Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "She came to play and it showed. And she also did a good job of talking to the other girls and inspiring them to play."

Anderson was the only Lady Seminole to hit double figures as Yolanda Robinson added nine points and Adrian Hillsman and Leticia Strickland contributed eight apiece.

Kim Hill poured in 25 points to lead Spruce Creek while Temika Harris hit 22 and Sabrina Williams 14.

Spruce Creek held a 35-30 lead at halftime but Seminole went to it killer man-to-man defense in the third quarter and outscored the Lady Hawks, 21-14, for a 51-49 lead.

Seminole led by eight points with 2:50 remaining, but three straight turnovers enabled the Creek to come back within one. Hillsman then scored to crucial baskets, both on assists from Anderson, to give Seminole some breathing room and the Lady Tribe held on for the win.

SEMINOLE (14) — Anderson 31, Robinson 9, Hillsman 8, Strickland 8, Alexander 4, Long 4, Johnson 4, Hartman 2. Totals: 38 & 107.
SPRUCE CREEK (7) — Hill 25, Harris 22, Sabrina Williams 14, Quarterman 6, Pouschell 3. Totals: 29 & 257.

Team Doctor: All 7 Patriots Were Clean During Super Bowl

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — All seven New England Patriots players known to be drug users by the team were "clean" during Super Bowl XX, according to the team's drug expert.

In a prepared statement released Thursday, Dr. Armand Nicholi also said only two of the 56 players under contract have tested positively for cocaine. The other five who admitted using recreational drugs tested positively only for marijuana.

Nicholi categorized the rate of drug use among the Patriots as "almost negligible."

The Patriots lost the NFL championship game on Sunday to the Chicago Bears by 46-10, the largest margin ever in a Super Bowl game.

Nicholi, the team psychiatrist and drug expert, said, "Our tests indicate that each individual tested was absolutely free of any drug during the game."

Although some of the seven players had remained drug-free throughout the 1985 season, the doctor could only say all seven had been drug-free "for (the past) several weeks."

The day after Super Bowl XX, the Patriots players approved a voluntary drug-testing program, the first-ever by a professional sports team in the United States.

That action has been formally challenged by the NFL Players Association, which Thursday filed an unfair labor practices charge against Patriots' management with the National Labor Relations Board.

In detailing New England's drug problems, Nicholi said, "We have had no severe case of drug dependency and no one who required hospitalization."

"Each player tested volunteered to enter our rehabilitation program that involved regular urine testing and individual private consultations with me," said Nicholi.

Two of the five players who admitted using marijuana had done so "only once during the year. (and) were not even occasional users ... the results of their tests confirm this," Nicholi said.

He noted that because the percentage of players known to have used cocaine or marijuana was 9 percent, compared to the accepted levels of use in society, "the results of our testing indicate that our problem is, indeed, almost negligible."

According to Nicholi, testing began only after coach Raymond Berry had "reasonable cause" to suspect a player of using drugs and confronted the athlete. If the player admitted his use of recreational drugs, he was given "the opportunity to enter our program to obtain help."

Each player who admitted use did submit to the program, said Nicholi.

The Boston Globe has identified six of the players as drug users, including defensive end Kenneth Sims, the NFL's No. 1 pick in 1982.

In a statement also released Thursday, Sims admitted he used marijuana.

"I had a problem with the recreational drug marijuana. This problem does not exist now, with the help of head coach Raymond Berry and appointed, appropriate people. I have been declared clean for several months prior to the present allegation."

Sims, who broke his leg in the Dec. 1 game at Indianapolis and did not play again, said he took part in the urinalysis testing "throughout the past season."

Also named by the Globe were defensive backs Roland James and Raymond Clayborn, running back Tony Collins, and wide receivers Irving Fryar and Stephen Starring. Nicholi said those players who had been through the program and remained drug-free "experienced a dramatic increase in the level of their playing performance."

He said that because the success of the program "rests heavily on trust and strict confidentiality," neither Berry, general manager Patrick Sullivan nor Nicholi had released the names of the alleged drug users to the Boston Globe.

But the statement says that Sullivan "did not deny involvement of the names mentioned when asked — a passive acknowledgement he now regrets."

The testing done on the Patriots during the year was not counter to the current bargaining agreement between the NFL Players Association and league management.

Drug testing is permitted as part of the pre-season physical plus "the right to test again if the team doctor finds probable cause."

Rams Go To Lyman For Key SAC Battle

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Lake Mary's boys' basketball team has found its groove. The Rams have won their last five games in succession.

Lyman hasn't ever lost its groove. The Greyhounds have won 16 of 19 games this year and are on a seven-game winning streak.

All of which adds up to a spectacular prep basketball shootout tonight at Lyman High School. Tipoff is 8 p.m.

"I hope we keep doing what we're doing," Richardson said after Wednesday's blowout 75-38 win over Pierson Taylor. "We must be doing something right. Lyman's going to be tough, but like I said before, we're not the same team we were three weeks ago."

That's for sure. Lake Mary lost several close games as crawling to a 2-7 start. Since then, the Rams have won the close ones and added a pair of routs for a 7-8 record.

Richardson's starting cast includes 6-3 senior Chris Jackson and 6-1 junior Oscar Merthle up front. Kelly McKinnon, a 6-4 sharpshooter, swings between roles while 5-7 Ray Hartefeld and 6-0 Eric Czerniewski handle the guards. Matt Napoli is a solid sixth man.

Lyman, which has developed a reputation as a comeback club, disposed of Colonial Wednesday and Apopka Monday. Like the Rams, the 'Hounds are 3-1 in the Seminole Athletic Conference. They need a victory tonight to pull within one game of 5-0 Seminole and set up Tuesday's encounter with the 'Noles as a battle for first place in the SAC.

"We're really looking forward to Friday," Lawrence said of the upcoming confrontation. "We need a win over Lake Mary worse than anything else right now. We have to win it if we want a chance at the (SAC) title."

Lawrence has a fine quartet of guards in T.J. Scaletta, Robert Thomas, Matt Fitzpatrick and Vince Florence. Craig Radzak, a 6-2 sophomore, Brett Marshall, a 6-3 senior, and Ralph Philpott, a 6-5 senior supply the boardwork.

"We can't go up against Seminole two games down," Lawrence emphasized. "This (game with Lake Mary) is a must win for us. My kids hate to lose and they love the taste of victory."

"It should be a great game." If there ever was a night for great games, it's tonight.

MORE SAC: PATRIOTS HOST HAWKS
Along with the Lyman-Lake Mary clash and the Seminole-Spruce Creek battle, two other SAC rivals — Lake Brantley and Lake Howell — will collide at Brantley's gym in Altamonte Springs tonight at 8.

Lake Brantley and first-year coach Steve Jucker jumped off to a 5-2 start but have fallen on hard times. The Patriots have lost seven of their last eight to fall to 6-9 overall. The Pats are 1-3 in the SAC.

Jucker said the loss of supersub Steve Stark has been the biggest obstacle to overcome. "We didn't have a lot of depth in the front court to begin with," Jucker said. "Losing Steve was really tough."

Lake Brantley dropped a 63-62 heart-breaker to Winter Park Tuesday. The starting five has 6-0 senior Mark Moser and 5-11 senior Steve Hardwick at the guards, 6-3 Wade Wittig at the wing along with 6-3 sophomore Darren Leva and 6-0 Brent Bell up front.

While the Patriots have been in a tailspin, coach Greg Robinson hopes his Lake Howell Silver Hawks are headed in the other direction after breaking a 10-game losing streak last Saturday with a win over Oviedo.

The Hawks are 4-12 overall and 1-2 in the SAC. The Silver Hawks dumped Mount Dora Tuesday night for their second consecutive victory.

"We're playing a lot better," Robinson said. "We've got a couple of seniors but most of the others are young kids and it's taken them awhile to get comfortable."

The seniors are point guard John Lowe,

Richardson

Lawrence

Robinson

who hit 18 in last Saturday's win over Oviedo, and Kevin Lienard, who blocked five shots and controlled the game in the paint. Fred Hicks, 6-3 senior, gives Howell another big man upfront.

OVIDEO JOURNIES TO LEEBSBURG
The only county team not at home tonight is Oviedo. Coach Dale "Digger" Phillips' Lions travel to Leesburg for an Orange Belt Conference game.

The Lions are coming off a big win over St. Cloud in which Mark Stewart poured in 18 points. Phillips had been counting on his 6-3 senior to give Oviedo another gun to go with Al Unroe and Robb Hughes but a football injury hampered Stewart until after Christmas.

Phillips also has 6-6 James Walker up front while Terry Campbell, Randy Ferguson and Grith Bolton handle the backcourt chores. The Lions are 8-11 overall, 0-5 in the SAC and 3-2 in the OBC.

In Saturday's city game, Lake Brantley journeys to Eatonton to play Wymore Career Center.

Virginia Shocks Tar Heels, 86-73

United Press International
A full moon descended on college basketball Thursday night.

The strangest happening was in Charlottesville, Va., where No. 1 North Carolina suffered its first defeat, an astonishing 86-73 loss to Virginia. The decision left Memphis State as the nation's only major unbeaten team.

In Minneapolis, the University of Minnesota played its first game since a rape assault rocked the campus. The team, reduced to a makeshift squad because of arrests and suspensions, received a standing ovation from the crowd of 13,343 and went on to beat Ohio State 70-65.

In Norfolk, Va., the Alabama-Birmingham players fought with Old Dominion fans after being pelted with ice and paper. Officials ordered both teams to the locker room before play resumed.

And in Las Cruces, N.M., the New Mexico State-Fullerton State game was delayed 1 hour and 17 minutes because of a bomb threat. The building was cleared and searched, but no bomb was found.

However, the night ultimately belonged to the Cavaliers, who delivered the season's big blow behind Olden Polynice's 19 points and 10 rebounds. It was the first time Virginia beat North Carolina since February, 1982.

"It was a great team effort and we're deliriously happy," Virginia coach Terry Holland said. "We played hard the full 40 minutes, but I'd like to think we didn't put our whole season out on the floor tonight."

Although the Tar Heels boast one of the tallest and deepest frontlines, the Cavaliers controlled the boards 44-31 and led virtually the entire way.

Basketball

For Virginia, 14-5, John Johnson scored 13 points, Mel Kennedy and Richard Morgan had 12 apiece and Tom Sheehy and Tom Calloway 11 each. North Carolina was led by Brad Daugherty with 21 points and Kenny Smith with 20.

When the game at Las Cruces, N.M., was finally played, New Mexico State defeated Pacific Coast Athletic Association rival Fullerton State 59-57 in overtime.

North Carolina, which has won so many games at the foul line, was undone there this time. The Tar Heels made 9-of-13 free throws to 22-of-29 for Virginia.

Minnesota was playing for the first time since the arrests of Mitch Lee, Kevin Smith and George Williams for the alleged rape of a Madison, Wis., woman a week ago. The school forfeited last Sunday's game at Northwestern.

Acting coach Jimmy Williams replaced Jim Dutcher. Two of the reserves added to the team were football players.

John Shasky scored 19 points and freshman Ray Gaffney added 17 for Minnesota, which used five players practically the whole game.

Elsewhere, No. 8 Michigan ripped Northwestern 82-45; No. 11 Nevada-Las Vegas stopped San Jose State 62-55; No. 13 Bradley beat West Texas State 63-54; No. 16 Indiana lost to Iowa 79-69; No. 19 Virginia Tech downed Richmond 71-67; and No. 20 Pepperdine fell to San Diego 69-64.

Clutch Free Throws Turn Back Oviedo Upset Bid

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

Leesburg's Suzanne Booth sank a pair of clutch free throws with 28 seconds remaining to give the Lady Yellow Jackets sole possession of first place in the Orange Belt Conference with a 45-41 win over the Oviedo Lady Lions at Oviedo.

The Lady Lions were trailing Leesburg, 42-41, when Booth was fouled by Oviedo's Michelle Eck. Booth went to the line to shoot the key one and one. With a shot as smooth as silk, Booth dumped both ends of the foul shots to put the Lady Yellow Jackets up by three.

The loss to Leesburg put Oviedo in a two-way tie for second place with Jones with an OBC record of 5-2. The Lady Lions are also holding at 5-14 overall. They will try to break the tie next Monday at Jones.

With the Lady Lions behind, 32-29, at the end of the third period, coach John Thomas decided it was time to go with a little pressure.

"After the third period, I decided to go with a 2-3 defense," Thomas said. "We brought our guards out and put a little pressure on the ball. It really worked because we got a lot of turnovers and started to make a major comeback."

The Lady Lions put center Stephanie Nelson, who nailed 13 points on the night, on Leesburg's main threat — 6-3 Vanessa Williams.

Williams, who scored 12 of her game high 18 points in the first half, was practically stopped by Nelson in the fourth period. Williams only had two rebounds and two points in the most crucial time of the game.

"She (Nelson) did a great job on Williams in the second half," Thomas said. "Especially the fourth period. I posted her on Williams and she stopped a lot of the lob passes that she (Williams) was scoring on in the earlier part of the game."

Basketball

The Lady Lions were trailing the Lady Yellow Jackets, 38-29, in the beginning of the fourth period, but Nelson and Eck got hot from the inside and out to bring Oviedo to within three with 3:46 remaining.

Leesburg tried to trap but that didn't convert into points in its favor. Instead, the Lady Lions took the game into their own hands to take a 42-41 score off of a Nelson layup with 10 seconds left.

"It was one of the toughest battles I've ever seen," Thomas said. "We played great defense, but it still wasn't there on offense."

The Lady Lions had a chance to tie it up when Evelyn Foster missed the back end of a one and one with the Lady Yellow Jackets up 43-41, but Eck took a shot at the other end that went in and out.

"When we missed the shot we tried to foul right away, but they ran it down to one second by the time we fouled," Thomas said. "I just couldn't believe they got the rebound off of that (Eck) shot."

The shot by Eck wasn't the only thing that wasn't falling for the Lady Lions as they were under 30 percent from the field once again. The Lady Lions converted just 17 of 63 field goals for 27 percent.

"We couldn't get anything to fall for us in the first half," Thomas said. "But we started popping in the second half. Unfortunately, the game didn't turn out as we had planned it."

After falling behind 28-17 at halftime, the Lady Lions outshot the Lady Yellow Jackets, 12-4, to shut down Leesburg's potent offense.

Most of the problems the Lady Lions faced didn't come from the lower levels of the court, according to Thomas.

"Leesburg's got a lot of big girls," Thomas said of the Leesburg height. "They've got (6-3) Williams, two girls that are 5-11 and two that are 5-10. That's a big lineup and we just couldn't stop them."

LEESBURG (45) — Lilly 0, Booth 5, Williams 18, Foster 11, Wallace 9, Bledsoe 2. Totals: 19, 7-24.
OVIDEO (41) — Woods 5, Nelson 13, Eck 10, Kelly 4, Umphenour 4, Hughes 4. Totals: 17, 6-41.
Halftime — Leesburg 28, Oviedo 17. Fouls — Leesburg 20, Oviedo 17. Fouled out — Williams, Technical — Wallace.

Awesome Florida Junior Devastates Lady Raiders

Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders hung tough for a while, but just couldn't keep up with the awesome Florida Junior College Lady Stars. FJC, ranked fourth in the nation, had five players in double figures Thursday night en route to a 102-50 thumping of the Lady Raiders in Mid-Florida Conference action at Jacksonville.

The Lady Stars improved to 21-0 overall and 5-0 in the conference while SCC now stands at 14-9 overall and 3-3 in the league. The Lady Raiders return to action Saturday at home against Manatee.

"The girls actually played a great ballgame," SCC assistant Debbie Scherr said. "It was pretty close until the last four minutes when we made a lot of turnovers and could hardly get the ball past half court."

Kim Lemon was high for SCC with 14 points while Renee Ivey hit 12, including 6 of 6 free throws, and grabbed nine rebounds.

Basketball

For FJC, Vicky Brown pumped in a game-high 17 points including perfect shooting from the floor (7 for 7) and the line (3 for 3). Sanford's Mona Benton, an FJC freshman, had one of her best nights as a Lady Star as she hit 5 of 5 floor shots and 1 of 2 free throws for 11 points.

Wood, Arai Lead At Pebble Beach

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Willie Wood took a deep breath spoke of the terror the struck the field Thursday at the PGA's $600,000 stop on the Monterey Peninsula.

"Everything was going well until the wind picked up," said the 25-year-old explaining 4-under-par 68 that tied him for the lead with Japan's Kikuo Arai.

Golfers were battered by light rain and heavy winds at the tournament which in past years was linked to Bing Crosby.

"It was the first round of the AT&T (this year's sponsor) but maybe Bing was helping it blow a little," said Peter Jacobson, who saw a possible 5-under-par round evaporate to a 3-under 69 in the face of the gale force winds.

"When I got to the 15th hole at Cypress Point I wanted to quit,"

Golf

Jacobson said. "It felt like we had been out there for 30 holes."

Wood said he benefited by his early start at Pebble Beach.

"It was a great advantage to tee off in the first group before the wind kicked up," said Wood.

LPGA: MASSEY HAS 68
MIAMI (UPI) — Debbie Massey, who leads after one round of the $200,000 Elizabeth Arden Classic, is marveling at the play of someone in second place.

Massey, with a 4-under-par 68 Thursday, leads Ayako Okamoto and five others shot 69.

Okamoto's score came as she hit only seven greens in regulation, putted only 22 times, one-putted on nine holes and chipped in from off the green from 20 and 70 yards.

Soccer: Woes Continue For Tribe — Wrestling: Lyman Tops Apopka

Sherril Rumler proved she is just as devastating on the field as in the goal Thursday night but the woes for Seminole High's Lady Seminoles continued.

Rumler scored the tying goal late in the first half and was deprived of a later chance to re-tie the score as the Lady Tribe dropped a 2-1 decision to Trinity Prep's Lady Saints at Seminole High.

Seminole, 4-13-2, will try to snap a four-game losing streak Saturday but will have a tough time doing it at 10th-ranked Lake Brantley.

Thursday night, Trinity took a 1-0 lead 25 minutes into the game on a goal by Stephanie Nelson. Rumler came back two minutes later to score on a breakaway to tie it at 1-1 and that's the way it stood at halftime.

The two teams went back and forth most of the second half until Trinity broke the tie on a goal by Janet Cabascango with eight minutes left to play.

The Lady Seminoles had a chance to tie it at 2-2 when Rumler broke into the open and had a clear shot. But, Seminole coach Suzy Reno said Rumler was taken down from behind in the penalty area and no penalty kick was awarded.

"I couldn't believe that," Reno said. "She was obviously tripped from behind but, instead of a penalty kick, the official gave us a throw in. Both me and Trinity's coach looked at each other knowing it was a penalty kick. Sherril (Rumler) was beside herself."

For the game, Seminole outshot the Lady Saints, 13-8, and Tribe keeper Kim Walsh made 19 saves. Reno said Cindy Bengt turned in a great performance on defense along with Melissa Shuckman, Jennifer Roberts and

Wrestling

Shawna Cole while Vick "Spuffy" Pakovic and Rachel Moton played well at midfield.

GREYHOUNDS WIN, 42-2

The Lyman Greyhounds expecting some fierce competition from the Apopka Blue Darters, easily topped the Darters, 42-28, Thursday evening in a 4A wrestling dual meet at Lyman High School.

Losing the first three matches to the Blue Darters, the Greyhounds looked to be in a state of quandr. However, the 'Hounds put things together in the heavier weight classes en route to the romp.

The first Greyhound to post a victory was in the 122-pound weight class. Senior Chad Dubin scored a technical fall over his Blue Darter foe, 18-3.

Dubin started the destruction of the Darter in the first period where he amassed 10 early points. The second and third periods were completely dominated by Dubin and he put the match away with the technical fall.

At 136, the Greyhounds Rick Bailey won by default over his opponent and at 186 and heavyweight, Benny Glenn and Jimbo Smith each won by forfeit.

Scoring the third Greyhound technical fall of the match was senior Pat Perkins.

The only pin of the night for the 'Hounds came at 171 where senior Greg Hartman disposed of his competitor in 4:40 for the pin.

At 130, Lyman's Eddie Campbell and Apopka's John Blasko butted heads until neither one could go any further. In the end, Blasko outlasted with a one-point decision, 11-10.

Blasko jumped out to an early 8-4 first period lead with six near fall points. The only points scored by Campbell were a penalty point, one escape and a takedown.

Campbell opened the first round with a two-point takedown, but Blasko answered with a two-point takedown of his own and six straight near fall points to go ahead 8-2. Campbell picked up two points in the second period to pull within 8-4.

The third period opened with Campbell scoring a one-point escape and another takedown. But, Blasko dominated the middle part of the quarter with an escape and a takedown to keep his four-point lead.

Knowing that it was now or never, Campbell came on strong with another escape and takedown, but time ran out, saddling him with a one-point setback.

Lake Mary Matmen Host Evans; Seminoles Trek To Lake Howell

The Lake Mary Rams try to remain in the unbeaten ranks tonight as they host Orlando Evans in a big pre-district prep wrestling match-up at Lake Mary High School.

Winning the first Seminole Athletic Conference title last Saturday at Lake Brantley, the Rams went on to beat Seminole Tuesday to extend their winning streak to nine for the season.

Also tonight, two other county grappling teams move into action. The Lyman Greyhounds travel to Edgewater to grapple in a tri-match with the Eagles and the Oak Ridge Pioneers.

The Greyhounds have two conference champions, Chad Dubin and Pat Perkins, and are looking for another win after last night's 42-28 victory over Apopka.

Glenn Malolini's Seminoles try to put a reversal on their 2-8 season when they battle tonight with two other teams. The Turner brothers — Troy and Tracy — lead the 'Noles into Lake Howell to meet the Silver Hawks and the Mainland Bucs. Troy Turner is 14-0.

In boys' prep soccer action tonight, Lake Howell goes to Lyman. Oviedo hosts Jones and Lake Brantley plays in the Gainesville Buchholz Tournament. In one girls' game, Lake Howell also goes to Lyman.

In boys' prep basketball, Spruce Creek invades Seminole. Lake Mary journeys to Lyman, Oviedo goes to Leesburg and Lake Howell treks to Lake Brantley. Lyman's girls also host Lake Mary.

Merthie, Pamar Topple Sunbank

Pamar placed three players in double figures Thursday night en route to a 51-38 victory over Sunbank in Sanford Intermediate League basketball at the Salvation Army Gym.

Mike Merthie, younger brother of Darryl at Daytona Beach Community College and Oscar at Lake Mary High School, led the way with 17 points as Pamar took a 24-20 halftime lead.

Charles Knox followed with 12 points and Thomas Lawson had 10. Isiah Walker and Richard Mobley tossed in six points each.

Mike Burke showed the way for Sunbank with a game-high 18 points. Frank Mitchell added eight while Erskine Howard had six. Pety Teemer four, Carlos Smith two and Kevin Nathan one.

There was no report on the McLain Pierce-Sanford Electric game.

In Sanford Men's Church League basketball Thursday, the New Life Word Center bombarded Grace United Methodist, 64-36, and All Souls Church buried Church of God, 80-28.

Sanford Sets Softball Tourney

The Sanford Men's Softball Association is hosting a Super "C" Softball Tournament on Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 8-9, in Sanford.

Cost is $90 and two blue dot leather balls per team. Awards will go to the first place team and individuals, second place team and individuals, third place team, fourth place team and for most home runs in the tourney.

For more information, contact Jeff Monson at the Sanford Recreation Department at 322-3161 (ext. 261). Deadline for entry is Tuesday, Feb. 4.

Evert Lloyd Pounds Bassett

MIAMI (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd has cruised into the quarterfinals of the $250,000 Virginia Slims of Florida tournament on the strength of her 6-1, 6-0 rout of Carling Bassett.

Bassett, the No. 9 seed from Toronto, started Thursday night's match serving a love game, but Evert Lloyd won the final 12 games of the match. She will face Stephanie Rehe today.

Hartman Announces Retirement

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI) — Kansas State basketball coach Jack Hartman said Thursday he is retiring because the time had come to stop playing.

Hartman announced his resignation, effective at the end of the season, at a press conference in the Wildcats' Ahearn Field House locker room.

Seminole has won 10 of its last 11 games with the only loss to Hempstead, N.Y.'s powerhouse. Coach Bill Klein's rapidly developing juggernaut is 11-4 overall and 5-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

Klein, who witnessed the incredible comeback win over Mainland, said the guards are the key to Spruce Creek's attack. "Fedora is going to be Fedora and get his points," Klein said. "The guards are so quick but if our backcourt can handle the pressure and not turn the ball over, we'll be all right."

Tonight's game is the first of two biggies. The Tribe goes to Lyman Tuesday for a SAC showdown. Seminole holds a 1½-game lead over Lyman and Lake Mary. Both are 3-1 and play tonight at Longwood.

Klein, of course, isn't looking past tonight. "Spruce Creek...sixth in the state...Jon Fedora...Friday night," he rattled off after last week's win over Lake Howell. "That's who we want. We're revved up for them."

What Father-Son Combination Finished 1-2 In The 1984 SunBank 24?

Danny Sullivan, winner of the 1985 Indianapolis 500, will join defending Daytona SunBank 24 champion and four-time Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt this Saturday and Sunday. The team will open Speed Weeks 1986 at Daytona International Speedway.

Arle Luyendyk, along with Sullivan and Foyt, represents the latest coup by Fort Lauderdale flea market entrepreneur and sponsor Preston Henn, owner of the turbocharged Porsche 962 GT Prototype.

"You might say I've been lucky," said Henn, who was co-winner of the 1983 SunBank 24 and finished second in the 1984 Lemans 24-hour. "I like to drive and prefer to, but being realistic, I can't drive in this company."

"Besides, when I'm driving our long-tail Porsche 935, I'm too busy wondering what Foyt is doing in the 962."

A sponsorship change has resulted in a new color scheme for Dale Earnhardt's NASCAR Busch Grand National Series car.

The car will now be primarily backed by GM Goodwrench and will appear in striking black and silver colors. Goodwrench is an associate sponsor on Richard Childress' Earnhardt-driven Winston Cup Chevrolets.

Earnhardt will be one of the eight drivers qualified for the Busch Class. "I've won one Busch Clash and I've won one Winston Cup championship, and they both came in the same year," Earnhardt said. "Now I'm not particularly superstitious, but I'd say winning the Busch Clash would be a pretty good indication that you're somebody to be reckoned with for the Winston Cup title."

Auto Racing

At New Smyrna Speedway Saturday night a Japanese crew from Fuji TV will tape the racing program which will include a 100-lap Enduro, a Demolition Derby and the Great American Sack Race, an event during which the driver wears a large shopping bag over his helmet, while a front-seat passenger gives him directions around the high-banked, half-mile oval.

A regular racing program featuring the super late models, thundercars, four cylinders and roadrunners has also been slated for the same night.

Sanford's Casey Hawthorne, featured in this column two weeks ago, won his first thundercar feature last week. He beat veteran Harry Brazee of Winter Springs in his first-ever drive in the new car.

What's your Daytona I.Q.? Here's a quiz to test your knowledge about Speed Weeks at the Daytona International Speedway. Five winners will receive two tickets each to the Area 200 Busch Clash on Sunday, Feb. 9.

Connors Enjoys, Advances

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — His four tournament titles aside, Jimmy Connors enjoys playing at the U.S. Pro Indoor tennis championships.

Connors advanced to today's quarterfinals with a 6-1, 7-6 (7-2) victory over Slobodan Zivojinovic Thursday night. He will play No. 7 seed Tim Mayotte, who advanced with a 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 triumph over Marty Davis.

"I probably enjoy playing in front of these people," said Connors, the No. 2 seed. "I enjoy the surroundings. The two courts never bothered me, they when they change to one court, the lighting is better."

Because of the number of matches, two courts are used, with play going on continuously. In the early rounds of the event and one court is used starting in the quarterfinals.

It looked like Connors was going to defeat Zivojinovic easily serving for the match at 5-4 in the second set. But the Yugoslavian broke his serve and forced the set into a tiebreaker. "I didn't play a very good game at 5-4," Connors said. "I missed three out of four balls for no reason. Now it's five-all and I don't want to go to three sets."

"I felt that once I got to the tiebreaker, I tightened my game up and playing good point-for-point tennis."

Connors and John McEnroe are the only players to win in Philadelphia four times, but Connors has a major obstacle to overcome if he is to win his fifth indoor title — Ivan Lendl.

Lendl, the top-ranked player in the world and No. 1 seed, won his third-round match, dominating Greg Holmes, 6-2, 6-4.

Use Of Chelation Is In Experimental Stage

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Chelation has been around for many years now, and yet the medical profession still has not used it to full advantage. Last year I was found to have atherosclerotic irregularity in the distal abdominal aorta. Now, after my second chelation treatment, my left leg has cleared up and I can walk with no distress in that leg. My right leg is not completely cleared up, but I can walk several blocks before experiencing distress. I believe every doctor should mention chelation as an alternative to surgery.

DEAR DR. GOTT — How accurate is a thyroid diagnosis based on the thyroid-deficiency and basal-temperature tests? I have thyroid-deficiency symptoms; however, the T3 and T4 show I am within the normal range.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 70-year-old grandmother has "splenic flexures" from being constipated from some pills she was taking. She still has some abdominal pain. What should we be doing for this problem?

DEAR DR. GOTT — As the large intestine curves downward at a 90-degree angle in the left upper abdomen, air can be trapped in a knuckle of bowel beneath the spleen. Thus, the "splenic flexure syndrome" is a ubiquitous and uncomfortable entity. Fortunately, treatment is simple: Your grandmother will need to avoid gas-producing foods (cabbage, beans, carbonated beverages) and consider using an anti-gas compound like simethicone. If these measures are ineffective, her doctor may wish to relieve her

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
An early lesson is that trump support plus shortness in a side suit equals an attractive dummy for declarer. Today's deal provides an example of a responder's hand that is completely balanced, at the same time providing a ruffing value. Unfortunately, declarer failed to see this potential trick in partner's 4-3-3-3 shape.
Trading on the fact that neither North nor South ever bid no-trump, West led the ace of hearts and continued the suit. South ruffed the second heart, drew trumps and ducked a spade. When a third heart was played, declarer ruffed and played ace and king of spades. When spades split badly, diamonds were still left, but that suit also failed to behave properly. It was bad luck that neither spades nor diamonds split 3-3, but there was a better play available.

At the third trick, without drawing trumps, declarer should play ace and king of spades and give up a spade. If the suit divides, fine. Then the fourth spade will be good. If the suit does not split, the jack of clubs is still there in dummy ready to do its work, ruffing the last spade.
This type of play is not readily apparent. Think of it this way. If you have a strong primary trump fit and a side suit with potential losers, give thought to keeping trumps in the dummy for possibly trumping losers in the side suit. It's certainly helpful in such a case if dummy's trump is not going to be overruled. (Here the club jack was equal to the ace, king or queen.)

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...
YOUR BIRTHDAY
FEBRUARY 1, 1986
 You are going to be tired up by powerful new ambitions in the year ahead. This will cause you to drive yourself harder because you won't take any comfort in settling for second best.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may cause complications for yourself by acting against your better judgment today. Why ask for trouble? Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Self-doubts and indecisiveness are your worst enemies today. Instead of worrying about whether something is going to work, at least give it a shot.
ARIES (March 21-April 19)

People with whom you associate may try to impose upon you today, even those normally reticent about asking favors from anyone.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be careful not to be overly influenced today by inept advisers. Don't seek counsel from people whose own life and affairs are in disarray.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Before attempting a do-it-yourself project today, be certain you analyze the hazards of what you're undertaking. An expert may have to bail you out later.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Loaming things to others that are not yours in the first place could cause problems for you today. It's best to say no unless you have the owner's consent.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) For the sake of harmony on the home front, it's best not to make any major decisions today without first talking things over with your mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Several tasks you've neglected will stare you in the face today. The minor ones may get a lick and a promise; the bigger ones might not even be attempted.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There has been a sudden change of conditions that affect your finances. It's best not to take any risks where money is involved — play it safe.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Unless everything goes your way today, you could be a rather difficult person to be around. Relax and try not to be too demanding.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually you're not the type who nurses a grudge, but today you might treat someone unkindly because of a past offense.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Unless you're extremely disciplined where your finances are concerned, you are likely to waste your funds extravagantly today on things of little value.

Gardening

Tomatoes A Popular Plant For Most Spring Gardens

If we had to guess the one vegetable that people most often include in their spring garden, it would be the tomato. Nothing quite compares with the fresh taste of sun-ripened tomatoes. And, judging by the popularity of this vegetable, most gardeners feel that raising them is definitely worth the effort.

Believe it or not, tomatoes were once thought of as poisonous. They do belong to the poisonous nightshade family. But, so do potatoes, peppers, and eggplants. Part of the reason tomatoes were avoided was because they were not native to Europe. They originated in South and Central America, and were introduced to Europe by the Spanish in the sixteenth century. The English grew them on trellises as ornamentals. The French considered them to be "peasant food." Folks began to eat them here about the middle of the nineteenth century. Since then, the tomato has enjoyed a rapid climb to the top in popularity.

The large red fruits we enjoy today have little in common with the their ancestors, grown by the Incas in Peru. Those early tomatoes were small and yellow. Today's sweet, juicy tomatoes were developed by the Italians, and eventually found their way to America.

To raise any vegetables successfully, you need to begin with adequate soil preparation. And, tomatoes are no different. They prefer a slightly acid soil, with a pH between 6.0 and 6.8. If the pH of your soil is less than 6.0, it is too acid and must be amended. To be sure, it's a good idea to have your soil tested for pH. Garden soil pH testers are available at some garden supply stores, or you can have it tested at the Agricultural Center in Another important part of soil preparation is fertilization. Some folks believe in fertilizing the soil before planting. If you prefer this method, apply about two-and-a-half pounds of a complete fertilizer, such as a 6-8-8 with minor elements, for every 100 square feet of garden area. Do this a week before planting and mix the fertilizer thoroughly into the soil. Three weeks after you plant the tomatoes, add another two pounds of fertilizer per 100 square feet as a side dressing. Then water thoroughly. Regardless of your fertilization method, make a side dressing of fertilizer every two or three weeks, adding a total of about ten pounds per 100 square feet during the season.

Before you plant, be sure all danger of frost has passed. Choose the healthiest plants from recommended varieties you can find and handle them gently. It's best to transplant on a cloudy day, or late in the afternoon. And, as soon as possible after a rain.

Set your plants slightly deeper than they are growing in the container. You might want to add a cutworm control at the same time. If you wait even a day before controlling cutworms, you may have to buy new plants. If the variety you choose needs staking, you can drive stakes into the soil at the time of planting. Place the stakes three or four inches from the plants. As the plants grow, simply tie them to the stakes with string or strips of cloth.

To help your plants get off to a good start, make up a quarter solution of one or two tablespoons of an all-purpose granular garden fertilizer, such as a 5-6-6 or 8-8-8, in a gallon of water. Pour about a pint of this liquid into the planting hole as you set each plant. Be sure to shade your plants for a few days after planting.

It's a good idea to mulch your plants, too. Mulches help conserve moisture, inhibit weed growth, and minimize fertilizer leaching. Good materials for mulching include straw, dried lawn clippings, pine straw, and black plastic. If you'd like to try plastic, prepare the soil for planting, making sure it's moist. Lay the black plastic over the entire bed, and anchor the edges with soil. Then, cut holes in the plastic and set the plants through it into the bed.

Tomatoes need about an inch of water once each week — it's better than many light sprinklings. If your soil is very sandy, you may need to water more frequently, especially the first week after planting. Never let the soil dry out completely.

Many insects bother tomatoes, causing leaf and fruit damage. A general purpose insecticide will control most of them. Check with your favorite garden supply center.

The most serious diseases of tomatoes are blights, leaf spots, wilts, and viruses. Leaf spots can usually be controlled with fungicide sprays. However, viruses and wilts must be controlled by using resistant plant varieties.

Remember, plenty of sunshine is a must for healthy, sweet tomatoes. IFAS vegetable experts suggest a minimum of 6 hours a day, but sunshine all day is even better.

Happy gardening!

42nd Annual Conference Hosted By Amvets Post 17

Amvets from all over the state gathered at the 42nd Annual Conference held at the Cavalier Motor Inn, Jan. 17-19. Hosting the session was Amvets Post 17.

The session was opened with Commissioner Robert Thomas giving the welcome from the city of Sanford, after the business sessions of the Post and Auxiliary on Saturday.

The Commander and President's banquet was the highlight of the Saturday evening session.

Bringing greetings from the city of Sanford was the Honorable Mayor Bettye Smith, the invocation by State Chaplain

Marva Hawkins
323-5118

Rev. George Byrd, memorial to the late State Commander Sanford E. Sidebottom, led by his wife Mary Sidebottom, Niceville, Florida, and greetings from State Auxiliary President Lucette Henson.

Special guest at the banquet was three-time past State Commander Bill and Bird Cox, past state president, as well as Commissioner and Mrs. Robert Thomas.

Another highlight of the evening was when the President of SEEDCO, Horace Orr, gave a dynamic address which held the audience. His message for the 42nd annual session will always be remembered by all Amvets and guests attending.

The climax of the State of Florida 42nd Annual Conference in Sanford saw the swearing in of the new state commander, King D. Beckton of Ormond Beach. Commander Beckton has been 1st Vice Commander of

An active member of New Bethel AME Church, Ormond Beach, Amvets Post 17 and Auxiliary wishes to thank all persons and businesses who help to make this conference a success. Thanks to the staff of The Cavalier Motor Inn and Restaurant and Sanford Flower Shop.

The State Drivers Excellence

Program will be held in April and the SEC Post No. 30 Orlando will be the host.

Shown enjoying the banquet were Executive Director of SEEDCO Horace Orr, NEC Alternate and Parliamentarian Ruthia Hester, Mayor Bettye Smith and Dr. Robert J. Smith. Also shown congratulating new State Commander King D. Beckton is Post 17 Commander James Milton, Gaines and Morgan Amvets, Sanford.

Happy Birthday to Eva Stephen, Sally Eason, Adolph Barber, Larry Allen, Sallye

Bentley, Mable McClain and Virginia Jenkins.

Mother Wants End To Production Line Of Kids

DEAR ABBY: I'm 17 and have a 9-month-old daughter, and I'm pregnant again. But that's not my problem. I'm receiving state assistance and free medical coverage, but the state refuses to pay for getting my tubes tied, which is what I want.

They told me that when I reach the age of 21, they will, but not until. They say it's the law.

I don't want to risk having another baby. I can't take the pill for medical reasons, and the other methods are not 100 percent safe, plus they are a lot of bother. What should I do?

CONFUSED IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR CONFUSED: I'm glad you wrote. Please contact your local family planning facility at once for instructions on the various methods of birth control. While some methods may seem like "a lot of bother," they would not be nearly as much bother as five children before your 21st birthday. A counselor at the clinic can also explain why a tubal ligation is not an appropriate method of birth control at age 17.

DEAR ABBY: I am 28 years old and have read your column for years, but this is my first letter to you. I am a very much (by choice) and was very much offended by comments made by your readers concerning bachelors.

I am the one who works late, or comes in early when something special needs to be done at the office. I usually work on holidays because I have no wife or children at home, so I allow my married co-workers to enjoy theirs. I also host showers, company parties, neighborhood gatherings, etc. because living alone makes it simpler to be a host. But I am still asked, "When are you going to settle down?" (I have.) "Why don't you get out and meet people?" (I do.) "Are you gay?" (I am not.) And if this isn't enough, I am viewed with suspicion if I'm too attentive to a married woman.

In spite of its drawbacks, I am single, and I like it. I don't appreciate being compared to a mule, or told that I remain single to avoid responsibility.

So, to you married men who fear bachelors: I am happy you have found someone to share your life with, but don't criticize bachelors. If your marriage turns sour, you will probably turn to a single friend for comfort. And as for that reader who called bachelors jackasses, you owe us an apology. Of course we'll never get one because jackasses (no matter how many legs) do not talk. They just make noise.

JOHN H., GARLAND, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: Recently you had a letter from "Louisiana Libra," who didn't know what to say when she was asked, "How's your love life?" You suggested, "It's none of your business," which is true, but it's also rude.

In the early years of my marriage, I was frequently asked, "How come you don't have any children yet?" I replied, "I don't know."

Sometimes, they pursued it further with, "Whose fault is it, yours or your wife's?" I repeated my original answer, "I don't know."

To every question, I kept saying, "I don't know." They soon got tired of asking, and shut up.

I'm over 75 and still use that response to questions I don't want to answer, and it always works.

JUST H.R.

DEAR JUST: Good suggestion. Another response to a question one does not care to answer: "Why do you want to know?"

Registration Underway For Sloan Wilson Writing Class

On Tuesday, Feb. 4, well-known local author Sloan Wilson will begin a 10-week writing workshop as part of a year-round series sponsored by the Arts Council of Greater Orlando.

The 10-week class will meet on Tuesday evenings from 7-9 p.m. at the Arts & Community Service Center, 1900 North Mills Avenue.

Sloan Wilson's writing career began as a "cub" reporter and he went on to write for Time, Life, and The New Yorker.

Wilson became a freelance writer in 1955 and is the author of 14 books including Man in the Grey Flannel Suit, A Summer Place, and Lee Brothers.

Sloan Wilson's writing workshop is for anyone who is interested in learning the art of writing for publication, wants a general knowledge of this writing process, or finds the discussion of books entertaining.

The emphasis of this session will be autobiographical writing. Honest criticism will play an important part of the writing workshop and it will include a detailed critique of each student's work.

Funds are also being raised to bring in outside editors and agents and to offer scholarships for future workshops.

Sloan Wilson's writing workshop is open to anyone, and the cost of the 10-week workshop is $125.00. Call (305) THE-ARTS (843-2787) for details and reservations.

"It's a jungle out there...."

Right In Your Own Backyard

Story and Photos By Susan Loden
Herald Feature Writer

It's a jungle out there. Even as our environment becomes more urbanized there still may be deer on the doorstep, chipmunks in the chimney, peepers in the pool, lizards in the laundry, pigeons in the park, snakes on the stoop and bats in the belfry.

Feathered, furry or hairless, these often uninvited visitors are as much a part of our cities, towns and suburbs as humans are. To many they are pest, but to some they become backyard pets to provide hours of visual entertainment in exchange of snacks of nuts, seeds or other feed.

Despite experts warnings that the animal-lovers are attempting to attract wild life, not pets, many, such as Irene Miller of Sanford, take these creatures beyond the backyard and into their homes.

Elvira the squirrel has spent her five-year life living much like a hamster in the home Mrs. Miller shares with her husband, Glenn, and two dogs, Simon and Sadie.

"She's the clown," Mrs. Miller said, but added that she has read that squirrels become vicious as they age in captivity. So far, Elvira has shown no signs of malcontentment.

In fact, she loves to drink coffee from a cup, or revert to her baby-days and drink from an eyedropper. The biggest hazard Elvira poses is to Mrs. Miller's houseplants, which she loves to rip into when given run of the house.

Elvira trembles at the thought of the great outdoors, Mrs. Miller said. But that's not the case for one-year-old Sammy the squirrel, who started life as Elvira's roommate, but got a bit rowdy and was booted to the backyard.

Mrs. Miller spends hours at her kitchen window watching Sammy's antics. "Somebody else might not enjoy it," Mrs. Miller said. She finds squirrels more entertaining than television.

When she steps out to hang her laundry, Sammy's likely to run up her pants legs.

He recently brought home a female who's starting to look "fat as can be," Mrs. Miller said. Soon she may have some new squirrels to watch and tend.

Over the years, Mrs. Miller has mothered seven squirrels, and as a grandmother she said, there is a big difference in caring for kids and squirrels. "Squirrels you can put in a cage. You can't do that with kids," she laughed.

When Mrs. Miller found her first baby squirrel in her frontyard a few years ago she couldn't tell if it was a rat or a squirrel. A friend identified it and Mrs. Miller said she had no qualms about taking the animal into her home.

Although vets, she said, don't seem to know much about wild animals, she asked for advice and was told it would be the rare squirrel that had rabies. "You have no concern about disease when you see they're so helpless," Mrs. Miller said.

Sanford's Roy Rice, who gave Elvira to Mrs. Miller from his own backyard sanctuary, said he's a bit more cautious when dealing with wildlife. "There's no way I would take one into my home," Rice, who fears rabies, said.

He doesn't let the 30 or so squirrels that feed in his yard eat out of his hand, even the five that he has named.

"They can't tell the difference between people," said Rice, 65, a former major with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department. That's why, even though he has just admonished "Nate" the squirrel for destroying his wife's flower bed, Nate won't get a hand-fed tidbit in apology.

Rice spends about $5 a month feeding his squirrels and birds and said, "It's something to do. They're amusing. I don't have to go to the zoo. I've got one right here."

Not all wild animals benefit from contact with humans, however. Tree frogs may think they've found a home in a swimming pool, but even if they aren't fished out before they breed the chlorine will keep their eggs from hatching.

Many who move from the city to be 'close to nature' can't cope with the raccoons, snakes, bats, deer, skunks and starlings. These animals can be seen as pests when they cause damage to a home or garden. An outbreak of rabies among raccoon can also send panic through a neighborhood where an animal lover has drawn these creatures close to home. Often when animals are seen as intruders they are killed instead of relocated.

"Humans are relentless and resourceful foes," said Guy Hodge, information director of the national Humane Society.

To eliminate wildlife perceived as pests, Hodge said, "...think like a pest and find out why the animal is there. Then you can render your home or garden inhospitable by removing the source of food that is attracting the animal or by sealing up the entrance to the structure. The use of toxic chemicals or traps to kill the animals should be avoided at all costs."

Irene Miller feeds her "wild beast" with an eyedropper.

For advice on dealing with unwanted animals, Hodge suggested a call to the local animal shelter or county extension agent. There is also a booklet of tips available from the Humane Society, 2100 L St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037.

And on the other side, for those who want to entice animals to their backyard, there is a free information packet available from the Backyard Wildlife Habitat Program, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Another booklet, "A guide to Urban Wildlife Management," is available for $3 from the National Institute for Urban Wildlife, 10921 Trotting Ridge Way, Columbia, Md. 21044.

But experts advise, keep in mind, once you start trying to attract animals you favor the food you set out may draw others that you see as pests and the life in your backyard may become a bit too wild for your pleasure.

Not Only For The Rich

What It's Like At The Betty Ford Center

By Dick Kleiner

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (NEA) — If you can picture Elizabeth Taylor vacuuming her room, Robert Mitchum working as a bus boy, Liza Minnelli taking out the trash and Mary Tyler Moore mopping up the bathroom, then you have some idea of what goes on at the Betty Ford Center.

This is the in place now for treating chemical dependency — people who are addicted to alcohol and other drugs. Many Hollywood celebrities have been among the more than 5,000 people the center has treated since admitting its first patient in 1982.

Yet it's wrong to think the Betty Ford Center is only for the rich.

"That's not true," says Susan Stevens, coordinator of the center's community services marketing division. "In the first place, we don't have those expensive items you have in a hospital — none of the fancy electronic equipment — so our costs and overhead are lower than a hospital.

"We won't accept patients with severe medical or emotional problems — so we don't need that fancy equipment. Consequently, our fee is $155 a day, and that is covered by most insurance plans." (There are, of course, other charges, for such things as medical examinations.)

The Betty Ford Center is a private, non-profit affiliate of the Eisenhower medical complex. The center is housed in a group of small, low buildings, plopped down in the desert here about a dozen miles east of Palm Springs.

Mrs. Ford and her husband, former president Gerald Ford, maintain a home at a nearby country club. Mrs. Ford uses her office at the center frequently to help in the campaign against chemical dependency — sh

There are no more than 60 patients at the Betty Ford

Center at any one time; that's all the beds there are. The center itself does not, of course, reveal the names of its celebrity patients. And not all the celebrities who apply are accepted, just as not all the non-celebs are accepted.

"We get calls," Miss Stevens says, "from famous people who want to bring their masseuse and their secretary with them. I tell them we're not a health spa or a resort."

The patients are housed in three buildings, 20 to a building. One is only for women, one only for men, one is coed. The buildings are furnished — Mrs. Ford had a hand in the decorating — in a style halfway between Spartan and adequate. Most of the rooms are for two people, but each building has one four-bed room. The belief here is that it is "anti-therapeutic" to be alone.

There are no servants — everybody pitches in and does his or her share. They call it "therapeutic duty assignment"

— but it's really mopping, cleaning, vacuuming, waiting on tables, taking out the trash.

The celebrities are treated just like everybody else.

"If you strip away the superficial," says Dr. James West, the Center's medical director, "the core of the disease is the same for everybody. After a few days, they're all the same. In this setting, they behave like the rest of the patients."

"The therapeutic duty assignments, we find, help restore their self-esteem. What we do here is bring back their sanity, teach them how to deal with their illness, which is lifelong."

The philosophy at the Betty Ford Center is that any form of chemical dependency is an illness that is life-threatening and chronic. It doesn't matter whether the patient is addicted to alcohol or to a drug. They are all given the identical treatment.

"Actually, alcohol is the most life-threatening," says most difficult to withdraw from. And Valium takes the longest to detoxify."

The detoxification process takes roughly a week. After that, the patient's day is given over to a pretty rigid schedule:

A meditation walk. Breakfast. A lecture. Group therapy. Doing those "therapeutic duty assignment" chores. An exercise class. Meetings with counselors. An evening session with either an Alcoholics Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous group. And three meals a day, which they all take together in a cheerful dining room. The meals are served cafeteria-style.

There is a swimming pool. Television is permitted only on weekends.

Visitors are allowed only on Sundays. But the center believes that addiction is a family problem. ...

- Dominoes
 - The World Almanac Book of Inventions reports that actual dominoes date back before 2450 B.C. The game of dominoes, however, did not appear until the mid-18th century in France. The term dominoes is derived from the black and white clothing worn by priests, with whom the phrase, "benedictus Domino," meaning "let us bless the Lord," was associated.
- Australia
 - The east coast of Australia was explored by Capt. James Cook in 1771, when the continent was inhabited by a variety of tribes. Within decades, Great Britain had claimed the entire continent, which became a penal colony until immigration increased in the 1850s. Australia became a commonwealth on Jan. 1, 1901.

Will 'Peter' Tell The Truth?

By Andrew J. Edelstein

"Peter the Great" (NBC, Feb. 2-5), the $27 million miniseries, is the first independent American production filmed in the Soviet Union. Critics have charged that, like many recent docudramas, "Peter," which is based on Robert Massie's Pulitzer Prize-winning book about the czar who opened Russia to the West, distorts history to make it more entertaining.

That doesn't bother Maximilian Schell, who plays Peter as a mature adult. He told a recent gathering of TV reporters in Los Angeles that he "is absolutely against historical truth because nobody knows historical truth."

Schell continued: "Even you don't remember what you did yesterday at 4 o'clock. Even you don't remember what you did three years ago. You have 100,000 opinions about historical truth. Somebody like Robert Massie then puts it into a book and then somebody reads Tolstoy and he says the contrary. So everything will be controversial."

Schell says the task of a TV miniseries or film is "not to say the historical truth.

"You collect whatever you know about the person and try to do with the material the best film you can do," he says. So whatever is on television is fake. But, he continued, "Peter" is a good opportunity for people to get associated with Russia. It's wonderful for millions of people to see Russian history, but in a form they understand."

The miniseries also stars Vanessa Redgrave, Omar Sharif, Trevor Howard and Laurence Olivier.

ABC and Walt Disney Productions believe the family-oriented fare that Uncle Walt hosted during the 1950s and '60s will find a new audience among the more sophisticated children of the '80s. On Sunday, Feb. 2, viewers can decide for themselves when "The Disney Sunday Movie" debuts on ABC. The show, airing at 7 p.m. (ET), consists of one- and two-hour original films in the tradition of "The Wonderful World of Disney."

The two-hour debut episode will star real-life husband and wife Bill Hudson ("The Hudson Brothers") and Cindy Williams ("Laverne and Shirley") as a young couple who "borrow" some kids to prove they are the perfect family.

The new show marks a return to network TV for Disney, which recently had been more concerned with the Disney Channel on pay-cable.

"This is the No. 1 priority of the entire corporation now," says Michael Eisner, the Disney chairman. "We have put all of our resources, all our manpower, all our creative impetus into this show."

Eisner is in line to become the show's host, according to sources — but first he'll have to undergo a screen test.

Re-Runs Show Up When Viewers Go Down

Dear Dick — Why are the networks already showing re-runs of some of the prime-time programs? Aren't they supposed to start in the summer? — C.L., Springfield, Mo.

They start them whenever they feel the public is going to be away from home, or not watching as much as they ordinarily do. So the networks often schedule re-runs during the Christmas-New Year's season, when, presumably, the public has better things to do than watching TV.

Dear Dick — I have been watching "Dynasty" ever since it came on TV. Last season, Dominique Deveraux had open heart surgery for a valve replacement. I'm curious to know how she can wear low cut dresses and there's no sign of a zipper on her chest. I've been working in the cardiovascular field for 15 years and I know that with open heart surgery there is an incision on one's chest. Or did she have a fantastic surgeon who did this operation without going through the chest? — H.C., Kalamazoo, Mi.

Maybe through the back? No, the truth is you have stumbled on another case of television license. Or, as the people at "Dynasty" said when I asked them, "This is fantasy land." They simply ignored reality, because Diahann Carroll looks great in low cut dresses and they weren't about to add a scar.

Dear Dick — I am an avid Dwight Schultz fan

Ask Dick Kleiner

and watch "The A-Team" every Tuesday night. I would like to know how old he is, if he is married and if he has appeared in any other TV program or movie. — S.V., Stuart, Fla.

Schultz is a fine actor, and I think he makes "The A-Team" the hit it is. He's 37 and married to actress Wendy Fulton, who played Muffin in "Bare Essence." Schultz' background is all on the stage, except for a couple of small TV roles in episodic shows. "The A-Team" is his only major role on TV. He has done no movie work.

Dear Dick — The answer to this question is a very important issue between my boyfriend and me. He believes that Jamie Lee Curtis played Mary, the oldest daughter, on "Eight Is Enough." I say he's wrong. — C.A.C., Houston, Texas.

He's wrong. Mary was played by Lani O'Grady and Jamie Lee's only series experience was a brief fling on "Operation Petticoat."

Dear Dick — I believe that Elmo Lincoln was the first Tarzan. But my friend says I'm wrong. Who's right? — P.R., Saginaw, Mich.

You are. Lincoln played the role in the very first Tarzan movie filmed, "Tarzan of the Apes," in 1918. Enid Markey, by the way, was the first Jane.

Dear Dick — Please receive a long-standing feud between my wife and me and our best friends. We believe the munchkins in the original "Wizard of Oz" were both midgets and small children. They say they were only midgets. — B.D., Los Alamos, Calif.

They win this one. Only midgets were munchkins. You can read all about it in either producer Mervyn LeRoy's autobiography, "Take One" (which I wrote with him) or Aljean Harmetz' book, "The Making of the Wizard of Oz." Some of the midgets were children — at least teen-agers — but they were all victims of hypopituitary dwarfism.

Dear Dick — My family recently watched an episode of "Harcastle and McCormack" in the show, Mark was on a game show. We are now having an argument as to who played the game show host. Could you please settle this argument before we have "Family Feud: The Final Chapter"? — J.D., Rock Hill, S.C.

That part was played by the veteran game show host, Tom Kennedy. It was actually his first acting role.
