LOCOMOTIVES CRASH

Thrills

At the Star, Thursday.

A Pullman day coach, and a Pullman sleeper and two locomotives are destroyed to give movie fans a real thrill in the Vitagraph's latest release, "The Island of Surprise," The scenes of the railroad wreck were taken near Philadelphia, joining the country estate of J. B. Duke, the tobacco king

The locomotives were placed by March 28th another on a single track and sent with Miss Nellie Zimmer, Harpist crash destroyed both engines, which tralto soloist, Miss Nellie Foster, oppled over into the coaches.

It was in this mass of wreckage that the actors were posed and the made in Friday's issue of The Herscene taken with Lovell, the hero, rescuing the girl whom he is supposed to marry.

Cyrus Townsend Brady, however, from whose novel the film was picturized, is no ordinary story teller, and he finds a way of deciding the point in question.

Fanny Ward That Fascinating Little

Actress Fannie Ward, the distinguished Star of the Lasky Company, who recently created such a furore by her splendid performance in the Lasky production of Hector Turnbull's gripping story, "The Chest," will be seen at the Star Theatre on Pri .day, Mar. 24, in the Jesse L. Lasky production of "For the Defense," a daring detective story by the same author. In "For the Defense" Miss Ward is seen as Fidele, a little Prench novice fresh from the convent. How she witnesses a murder and later is able to secure a confession from the assassin and free the man she loves makes a photodrama of unusual merit.

Prominent in the excellent cast supporting Miss Ward are Jack Dean, Horace B. Carpenter, James Neill and other members of the Lasky all star organization. It is a Paramount Picture.

During the bombardment of Reims seven women of the Red Cross became victims of the bombardment, including Mme. Fontaine-Faudier, Mile. Causse and five sisters of charity.

Many women of the Red Cross give attention to men at the front who have no one to remember them at home. One member, Mme. Richelot, the wife of Dr. L. G. Richelot, is godmother to nine hundred soldiers, which constitutes a record to date.

Regarding the state of mind of wounded soldiers now in the hospitals after sixteen months of war, Mme. Perouse, president of the Union des Femmes de France, said:

"They support their sufferings admirably and are much more anxious to return to the front than were the wounded in the hospitals last year at this time. They talk about active service with an enthusiasm that is contagious.

Mr. Justin Godart, undersecretary for war, in charge of the sanitary department of the army, has just replaced voluntary women of the Red Cross serving as nurses in some of the military hospitals by paid independent nurses. The choice of nurses outside the three Red Cross organizations developed considerable comment, but here was in this no reflection on the devotion of Red Cross nurses; neither does it bring their efficiency into question. Paid professional nurses are more adaptable to military discipline, which must preváil in all military establishments.

Most of the women who devote themselves to hospital work are from well-to-do classes; they are necessarily so, since they are required to give not only their time and sometimes their lives, but also their money to the cause. FEMALE SEX A MYSTERY TO THE HEBREW SAGES.

Classed With Fools as Subjects Beyond Comprehension - Remarks Made by Author of the Book of Ecclesiasticus.

Two subjects seem to have occupied the attention of the Hebrew sages to a marked degree. They are always recurring to them. In the midst of maxims about the conduct of life the sage cannot forbear to take a side swipe at fools and women. He finds them both beyond comprehension,

To get his point of view it is necessary to remember that there were no

PUZZLED OVER WOMEN asylums in the Orient. Every village had its imbeciles, who were a feature of the town life. The village fool was a far more prominent person in the ancient East, and forced himself much more on public attention than the teeble-minded person of today, who usually is kept in the background.

As for women? Well, the ancient world never was able to make them out any way. Their incessant chattering was evidently a great annoyance to the solemn, white-bearded patri-

One of the most human of the ancient sages was the author of the Book of Ecclesiasticus in the Apocrypha, Jesus, the son of Sirach. His book has a distinct flavor, a quality that makes it entertaining reading. The imagination pictures him a man of gracious dignity, reserved, serious, taking his obligations with the gravity of his race. Experience has disclosed to him most of the mysteries of the world-except women.

"A daughter," he confesses, "is a secret cause of wakefulness to a father, and the care of her putteth away sleep." . That seems to have been the general attitude of the sages toward the female aspect of affairs: He enlarges on the subject in another place:

"I will rather dwell with a lion and a dragon than keep house with s wicked woman. The wickedness of a woman changeth the look and darkeneth her countenance as a bear doth. Her husband shall sit at meat among his neighbors, and when he heareth it he sigheth bitterly. All malice is but little to the malice of a woman; let the portion of a sinner fall on her. As the going up a sandy way is to the feet of the age, so is a wife full of words to a quiet man. A wicked woman is abasement of heart, and sadness of countenance, and a wounded heart. A woman that will not make her husband happy is as hands that hang down, and palsied knees. From a woman was the beginning of sin, and because of her we all die, A silent woman is a gift of the Lord."

The "wickedness" to which so much exception was taken seems to have been contentiousness. The wise man of the East, desirous of leading a contemplative life, was simply worn to death by an ill-tempered, talkative wife. That was why a silent woman -was a gift of the Lord The only bit of conversation on the part of Socrates with Xantippe that is recalled is the word, "Hush!"

Fat Woman Has Light Fingers. Step lively. Watch your step. Also keep your eye on any fat woman riding in the subway. To add to the variway travel there has appeared over the underground horizon within the last three weeks a very stout woman with big and light hands who is collecting pocketbooks. She is very quick, very crafty in her general conduct and has been very, very successful. Last night while one of the woman passengers was absorbed in reading the back of a newspaper which belonged to a man across the aisle, the door opened, many left and as it was about to shut again the stout woman leaped up, hit the tired-looking man on the hat and fled, announcing that it was their station. Everyone present smiled and so did the woman, who was reading the other man's newspaper, until she looked for her pocketbook, which had been on her lap. The train had left the station and there was nothing to be done Scores of complaints have been recorded, and uniess the stout woman exercises with frightful energy to disguise herself business is going to slow up abruptly.

Couldn't Feaze Fat Man.

One of those post-Christmas stories that are told . Bene Zene,

-New York Times.

"On a Payre avenue car, Christmas eve, a meek looking man occupied a front cross seat in the back end of the car. (It can be done, Ed.) A 250ounder came in and slammed himself down upon the vacant end of the seat. The meek-looker fidgeted, showed signs of distress, rose and crawled out, and as he went he said: 'You can have it. Help yourself. This is Christmas.' He took a side seat and said to a passenger, 'He wanted my seat. He got it. Take a squint at him-looks like a funny picture in a paper. Some of the passengers smiled, some guffawed, but it didn't feaze the big fellow. When a few blocks further on the meek-looker got off, the fat man gave him a generous gric, waved his hand and shouted, 'Merry Christmas!' "-Cleveland Leader.

GIRL WOULD BUILD WARSHIP

Cannot Be a Soldier So She Starts Movement to Raise Fund for Battleship.

New York .- Marjorie Sterrett, a thirteen-year-old girl of Brooklyn, has ter. started a movement among school children to raise a patriotic fund to build an American battleship. She earned the first dime for the fund by helping her mother in her housework, and sent the money with a letter to a New York newspaper.

Because she's a girl and cannot be soldier she wants to do something for her country, for which her grandfather and great-grandfather fought.

INVENTS ANTI-WIRE GLOVES

Englishman Devises Method-of Handling Entanglements Without @Danger.

London.-Among the inventions now being tested by the war office officials is one credited to George Lynch, a well-known traveler, of a method of ing the invention, says the method consists of the use of a pair of gauntlets made of ordinary khaki cloth lightly padded with cotton wool treated with a peculiar powder, rendering the material practically impervious to the sharpest metal points. Thus, a soldier is enabled to grasp or pull the most formidable type of German barbed wire without the slightest fear of the spikes pentrating the material and scratching his hands ...

The fabric is waterproof, and the gloves can be insulated for the purpose of gripping electrically-charged wires. The claim is even made that when made into vests or leggings the material is strong enough to turn shrapnel splinters.
