Clinic Board Tries To Oust Buratti, But Move Fizzles

By Diane Petryk Herald News Editor

An attempt to oust Teri Buratti from membership on the board of directors of the Central Florida Migrant and Community Health Center falled Sunday when the board was unable to muster the required two-thirds vote.

The effort came during a special meeting at the clinic's Sanford office when the board voted 8-4 to remove Buratti following a letter from the board chairman questioning whether she "acted in a manner detrimental to the corporation."

Murder Witness Examined

Defense lawyers began their cross examination today of Susan Barret Assaid about her contention that her boyfriend beat and tortured her 5-year-old daughter to death last

In testimony Friday, Mrs. Assaid claimed her boyfriend, Donald Glenn McDougall, abused Ursula Sunshine Assaid while she stood by and watched. Mrs. Assaid, 30, said McDougall also deprived the child of food and water.

Friday was the first day of testimony in the trial of McDougall who is charged with first-degree murder and aggravated child battery. The trial is expected to last at least a week. Seminole Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. moved the trial from Sanford to St. Petersburg because the case received such extensive news media coverage in Central Florida that attempts to pick an impartial jury in Seminole County bogged down.

Mrs. Assaid said that after Ursulla died in September, 1982, she and McDougall put the girl's body in a canvas bag and threw it into a pond in Altamonte Springs.

McDougall and Mrs. to California after Ursulla's death and Mrs. Asseald told police in Riverside, Calif. in November that McDougall had killed her daughter and he was arrested there.

Mrs. Assaid later pleaded guilty to manslaughter in connection with the child's death and is serving a 15-year prison sentence. If convicted, McDougall and could be sentenced to death.

Polk Still Skeptical On Computer Dispatch

By Micheal Beha Herald Staff Writer

Development of a computer-aided dispatch system to speed response to fire and police calls is going well and should be completed by January. Seminole County Computer Services Director Jack Harward said today.

Sheriff John Polk, however, remains skeptical.

Harward who was asked to develop a system to enhance the county's fire and police dispatching capabilities using the county's IBM System 39 computer, sald he will have no problem in meeting a January deadline. He sald design work on the project has been completed with the programming left to be done.

Polk said he doesn't believe Harward can come up with a system which will work without buying a new computer. said today he's advertising for bid proposals for his own computer aided dispatch system. Daring June budget hearings, Harward was given the assignment of adapting a computer program already in use in Manatee County to fit Seminole County's needs. Faced with a possible budget deficit and growing needs for more dispatchers in both the Sheriff's Department and the Department of Public Safety, county commissioners voted to spend about $20,000 to adapt the Manatee County system.

County Administrator T. Duncan Rose promised to have a CAD system developed for Public Safety by Jenuary and to tie the Sheriff's Department in within another six months. If the deadline is not met. Rose said, the county should examine other systems.

Rose admitted trying to adapt the Manatee County program "is a gamble" but said the in-house work could save the county several hundred thousand dollars by not purchasing new computers for the system.

CAD systems tie into telephone systems to provide dispatchers with immediate information on the location of incoming calls and tells them the location of the closest emergency

By using the CAD system Polk and Public Safety Director Gary Kalser believe they can save time in responding to calls and avoid adding new dispat-

Brazen street crime which has residents of a low-income residential area near Altamonte Springs living in fear has prompted a meeting Tuesday between Seminole County Sheriff John Polk and the city's black leaders to discuss ways of combatting the problem.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the New Bethel A.M.E. Church, 307 Marker St. Church pastor, the Rev. James E. Stephens, and a large number of area residents are expected to attend.

The meeting comes in response to a petition signed by more than 100 persons who live in the high-crime area, according to slieriff a spokesman John Spolski.

The petition, calling for a crackdown by authorities, was presented to Polk when he held an initial meeting with black leaders last week, Spolski said.

Blacks Want More Police Protection

Many residents in the area of Marker, North and Jackson streets are "alarmed" and "feel intimidated" about the crime situation in their neighborhood, Spolaki said. "Long-time residents of that area, including teachers, nurses and business people, see drug transactions being conducted on street corners when they walk through their neighborhoods," Spolksi said. Some have seen displays of guns and have heard guns discharged. They have asked us to put an end to these activities and we are going to oblige them." he said. He said the sheriff's department has received 321 calls from that area during the first nine months of the year, including disturbances, suspicious persons, narcotics transactions, speeding vehicles and drug seliers brazenly harassing motorists.

At Tuesday's meeting. Polk is expected to detail his plans to use marked and unmarked patrol cars in the area, police dogs to sniff out drugs and video equipment to record drug transactions, Spolski said.

The unlawful assembly law - allowing authorities to disperse groups of three percons or more - will be more rigigly enforced, Spolski said. "We have aiready used a helicopter to take aerial photographs of the area to detect hiding places," he said.

'We are on top of this situation. We have the cooperation of the area residents and we are going to enforce the law," Spolski said.

Cal-Berkeley Professor Wins Economics Prize

United Press International

Gerard Debreu of the University of California at Berkeley won the 1983 Nobel Prize for Economics today.

The French-born Debreu, 62, won the prize for refining the classic theory of supply and demand in economic systems, the Royal

Swedish Academy of Sciences announced. Debreu received the award 11 years after his research partner, Kenneth Arrow of Harvard University, won the Nobel award in 1972. Debreu has expanded on a mathematical model designed by the two men in the early 1950s that confirmed the logic of Adam Smith's "theory of general equilibrium" in which prices, supply and demand tend to reach a balance within a free market economy.

Reagan A Candidate

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan signed documents today making him a legal candidate for re-election and began a multimillion-dollar fundraising drive by his "Reagan-Bush '84" campaign committee.

In a late morning meeting with Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., Reagan signed a letter to the Federal Elections Commission technically establishing his candidacy for a second term.

His new re-election campaign headquarters on Capitol Hill also opened today

Campaign director Edward Rollins said in an interview on ABC-TV Sunday that even though little opposition is expected, $21 million will be spent in the primaries to promote Reagan.

Tylenol Trial Begins

CHICAGO (UPI) - Federal prosecutors expect the extortion trial of James Lewis, accused of trying to extort $1 million to "stop the killings" during last year's seven cyanide-Tylenol deaths in Chicago, to last about a week.

Jury selection began today in the court of U.S. District Judge Frank J. McGarr.

Authorities have said Lewis is not a suspect in the Extra-Strength Tylenol deaths and investigators admit they have no motive and no suspects in the case.

Lewis allegedly sent a hand-printed letter to Johnson & Johnson Co., the parent company of the maker of the popular pain reliever, demanding $1 million to "stop the killings."

The mayoral candidates, like many other local politicians, concede they want the support.

"The only cause you need in Miami to be accepted in the Cuban community is to wrap yourself in the anti-communist flag," said Miami Commissioner Joe Carollo, who is seeking re-election and facing opposition from both Inside and outside the Hispanic community.

According to Miami political observers, the growing Hispanic voting bloc supports most any kind of anti-Castro effort, even if terrorism is involved.

Five of those incidents were publicized, including an Mayor Maurice Ferre and his leading opponent, Xavier attempt to free reputed terrorist Orlando Bosch. Bosch was accused of masterminding the 1976 bombing of a Cubana Airlines jet in which 74 persons died. He is imprisoned in Venezuela.

But according to the Herald, one incident in which Ferre became involved was previously not made public.

The newspaper said Adam Klimkowski, former acting police chief, asked for a federal grand jury investigation following Ferre's interference in a Miami Police Department investigation on terrorism. No official investigation was undertaken.

Klimkowski said Ferre discussed with him the impending extradition of two suspected terrorist bomnti-Castro effort, even if terrorism is involved.

"There is a great deal of rejuctance to say, 'I condemn (about) bombings coming up." The now-retired police

But Ferre refused to provide specifics.
"I was flat irritated," Klimkowski said. "Here the mayor was saying he had information (on terroism) and he won't divulge it to me."

Ferre said he was not trying to interfere. He said he wanted to make sure the suspected terrorists would not be turned over to Cuba once they were returned to Mexico. He also was concerned that police might have been harassing one suspect's wife.

Cost May Hurt Federal Dioxin Cleanup Effort

ment is beginning a nationwide effort to investigate, and clean up where necessary, as many as 200 sites contaminated by the deadly chemical dioxin.

But a potential pricetag of $100 million annually for 10 to 12 years could hurt

The program, spun from an as yet unpublished Environmental Protection Agency "dioxin strategy" paper, is being undertaken as a reaction to Missourt's massive dioxin problem.

Michael Cook, deputy director of EPA's office of solid waste, said that cost figures still are wild guesses because of variables - such as whether herbicide manufacturers can be held legally responsible for cleanup costs.

EPA has "quite a ways to go before we have numbers together" on the longrange costs, he said.

But agency sources put the cost at $100 million a year for 10 to 12 years.

Other sources said officials of the Office of Management and Budget are so worried about the financial implications of the new dioxin effort that they sought late last week to delay release of the strategy paper pending further review.

Officials said it has yet to be decided

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The govern- whether EPA will revamp its Superfund toxic waste cleanup program to include dioxin sites that do not now qualify for top-priority under its current hazards ranking system, although dioxin is considered the most dangerous chemical made. The agency also could seek special legislation providing funds for up to 1,500 man-year's work over the next decade, the sources said. The agency still is exploring ways to clean up dioxin sites, such as pouring cement over contaminated soil or incinerating it.

EPA's Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response already has begun implementing parts of the new strategy by seeking information from present and former herbicide manufacturers whose products and manufacturing wastes were contaminated with the most dangerous type of dloxin, detectable levels of which have been lethal to laboratory animals.

Missouri's dioxin crisis surfaced when it was discovered that Russell Blise, a Rosati, Mo. salvage oil operator, used dioxin-contaminated wastes from a former Agent Orange and Northeastern Pharmaceutical plant to spray roads and horse arenas for dust control.

Fern Park Service Station Bandit Being Sought

Authorities were continuing their search today for a gunman who robbed a Fern Park service station of an undetermined amount of cash Saturday night.

The man entered the Phillips 66 station on State Road 436 at Oxford Road at about 10:20 p.m. Saturday, a Seminole County sheriff's report said. The man asked the attendant if he could use the rest room, then entered the office and pulled a blue steel revolver on the attendant, the report said.

The gunman ordered the attendant to hand over a blue and white Flagship bank bag which contained the daily cash receipts, the report said.

The gunman then ordered the attendant to get under a desk and the gunman ran out of the station. The Altamonte Springs police canine unit was called to the scene and the dog traced the gunman's path to the parking lot of the Sun Bank on Oxford Road where the gunman apparently had a getaway car waiting, the report said.

The 21-year-old attendant was not harmed. SANFORD MAN ARRESTED

Proposition 1 'Not The Juggernaut We Think'

KISSIMMEE (UPI) - Political polister Lance Tarrance Jr. says if a vote were taken now, the Proposition 1 tax-cut proposal would pass easily, but he insists "it's not quite the Juggernaut we think."

Tarrance told the Florida League of Cities annual convention Saturday that support for the amendment would be reduced considerably if the proposition were pitted against alternative tax relief measures.

Proposition 1 would reduce state and local revenues in 1985 to 1980 levels, partially adjusted for inflation. Under the plan, property taxes could not rise more than 5 percent without voter approval.

The poll showed 65 percent of Florida residents would vote for the amendment.

Tarrance, whose polling operation is based in Houston, said Proposition 1 got only 35 percent of the voter support when pitted against an alternative measure that offered property tax relief, Tarrance said.

State officials predicted that if the measure passes, the state's $11.4 billion budget would be cut 22 percent during the first year and could be cut in half during the next decade.

'Bloodbath' Predicted

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - As a federal judge in Tampa considered written arguments intended to save a man from the electric chair Tuesday. those attending an anti-capitol punishment meeting this weekend were offered a grim sort of hope for death row inmates of the future.

A Tufts University proffessor predicted a pending "bloodbath" of executions could trigger public disgust that would change America's attitude toward the death penalty.

"We are surrounded by a potential bloodbath, an avalanche of executions without precedent that may begn to unfold," author and educator Hugo Bedau said in his opening address Saturday at the Florida Conference Against the Death Penalty.

Written arguments filed on behalf of Joseph Brown, are being studied by U.S. District Judge W. Terrell Hodges. Gov. Graham signed death warrants Sept. 23 for Brown and Charles Messer. Messer was granted a stay of execution Friday by U.S. District Judge William Stafford.

MIAMI (UPI) - Eastern Airlines Chairman Frank Borman said Sunday he was confident the ailing carrier can reverse its severe financial woes and make a profit as early as next year.

Borman made his assessment three weeks after he had asked Eastern's 37,500 employees for wage concessions, sparking a labor crisis that, threatened to force Eastern into bankruptey.

Borman said he expected the results of an independent audit on Eastern's financial troubles to lead to a recovery plan that will end the airline's losses. Eastern has lost more than $300

The results of the audit, being conducted by Lazard Freres & Co. and Locker-Abrect Associates Inc., are expected to be complete within several weeks.

Water Beds May Help Premature Babies Sleep

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) - Water beds help regulate the breathing and heart rate of premature bables by simulating the womb and may improve their behavioral development, researchers at Stan ford University Hospital say.

Dr. Anneliese F. Korner, professor of psychiatry and behavioral science who heads the three-year study funded by the National Institute of Mental Health, said she is seeking to determine whether the rhythm and motion of water beds affect development in premature babies.

Dr. Korner said her research will determine whether premature infants should sleep on plain water beds, water beds with continuous oscillations or ones that move only at intervals.

The water beds are programmed to move in the pattern of maternal biological rhythms that the infants would have experienced if they had not been born prematurely, Dr. Korner said.

"We believe lack of exposure to such rhytnms may be one of the factors responsible for the disorganized sleep and movements frequently seen in premature babies," she said.

"The continuous water bed movements are based on the maternal respiration rhythm, about 12 to 13 are based on the basic rest-activity cycle, which for adults alternates between quiet and activity about every 90 minutes."

In the last decade. Dr. Korner has found that gently moving water beds can significantly reduce apnea, or periodic stops in breathing, and bradycardia, or slowing of the heart rate.

A pilot study showed premature infants lying on water beds for long periods were more alert, less irritable and showed more mature spontaneous motor responses than babies in the control group.

What effects water beds have on long-term development remains to be seen. Dr. Korner said.

Myron said in addition to organized groups, a main source of concern would also be "the individual crazies ... the guy that has never been identified before as a potential troublemaker." Myron said security planning also includes the possibility of chemical or biological warfare and said special teams trained by the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta will be on alert to deal with such emergencies.

He refused to specify the number of sheriff's department personnel that would be used to staff the department's two areas of responsibility - the velodrome in Carson, Calif. - for cycling events - and Pepperdine University in Malibu, Calif. - for water polo. Of the 100, he said, about 20 are domestic, including Los Angeles street gangs, and the rest are foreign.

Flexible Russians

Less than a month after a Soviet warplane shot down an unarmed civilian airliner, President Reagan, speaking to the United Nations General Assembly, was heard to say: "I urge the Soviet Union to match our flexibility (on arms control). If the Soviets sit down at the bargaining table seeking genuine arms reductions, there will be arms reductions."

If that is the case then there will be no arms reductions. Prior to these comments, Mr. Reagan had described the details of yet another U.S. proposal to reduce U.S. and Soviet levels of intermediate-range nuclear weapons in Europe.

This newest offer, like all the others, featured U.S. concessions, or, as Mr. Reagan said, "flexibility." The United States would reduce the number of Pershing II and cruise missiles it plans to deploy in Western Europe beginning in December, if the Soviets would destroy enough of their nuclear-tipped, three-warhead, mobile SS-20 missiles, to match the U.S. total in launchers.

The new feature of this proposal is that the U.S. is now willing to accept reductions of SS-20s on a "global" basis. That means that we'll cut our deployment of Pershings and cruises to Europe from 572 to 75, if the Russians will cut back their missile total, including those stationed in Western Asia. In other words, we'll back off on our commitment to the defense of our allies in Western Europe if the Russians will cut back their missiles aimed at Japan and China. They could meet these conditions by just moving 168 SS-20s back into Central Russia, out of range of Europe.

The President has come a long way since November 1981, when he boldly proposed his "zero option," meaning no U.S. deployment in exchange for no SS-20s aimed at Europe. The Soviets' efforts at flexibility are limited to the ingenuous suggestion that they retain 162 missiles - the same number of weapons as essed by the British and French - and the U.S. scrap its deployment entirely. That is, 162 modern, sophisticated, multiwarhead Soviet launchers to match antiquated, inaccurate, single warhead missiles not under U.S. control.

As a premium, the Reagan admnistration is now willing to consider cutbacks of U.S. nuclearcapable F-111 fighter-bombers, now stationed in Great Britain.

Essentially, the debate over intermediate range nuclear weapons is a sideshow. Today, the Soviets have the conventional military strength to overrun Western Europe without resorting to nuclear arms. The terrible decision to use them would be left to the NATO allies. Thus any movement towards reducing or delaying the deployment of new U.S. theater nuclear weapons is welcome to the Soviets, although only marginally important.

That is because the Soviet military plan for Europe, should it one day be launched, doesn't give any considertion to the butcher's bill. Casualties, military or civilian don't matter in the Soviet scheme. If the West wants to limit them, so much the better. But should NATO forces fall back on their nukes, the Soviets will accept the invitation to return fire.

The intent of the amendment is to stop what Havill calls unnecessary tax and fee increases by all government bodies in the

But Proposition One may be the only thing on which politicos from both parties can agree. They all think it's bad. They also think it's going to pass. Seminole County officials oppose Prop One because they feel it makes the county's current growth problems almost unsolvable. Thousands of new residents pour into

Seminole County annually, increasing the demand for roads, water, sewer, police and fire protection. If they're tennis players or golfers, they create a need for more recreation facilities. If they build a house or open a business, inspectors must look over the house and clerks must license the business.

If Seminole County has to rol! back taxes and fees to their 1980-81 levels the county will have to reduce or eliminate services at a time when demand is continually increasing.

County and city staff are opposed to Prop One on a personal level. For administrators, planners, directors and aides, they believe Prop One means the people have lost faith in their ability to administer, plan, direct and aide. Ultimately, it means job instability.

School officials share the negative feeling. Growth also impacts the schools, creating a need for more teachers, more buildings, more buses and more administrators.

But administrators are in a quandary about how they'll be able to meet those increased demands with reduced funds.

Of course, Prop One allows voters to approve higher taxes for themselves but that's sometning they seldom do.

Herbs May Help Fight Cancers

PEKING (UPI) - Preliminary studies by the Peking Cancer Institute indicate certain Chinese herbs may help the body fight cancer. Using Western clinical methods for the first time, Chinese doctors found the use of herbs can help strengthen or enhance the body's natural defense mechanisms.

When herb doses are combined with radiation and chemotherapy treatments, patients who have not reached the late stages of cancer may be cured or have their lives extended by years. said Sun Yan, the head of research in traditional medicine at the institute.

The test results were announced at an international symposium on the interaction of traditional Chinese and Western medicines.

Now, with its first commercial cooperative agreement with a foreign company. Newport Pharmaceuticals International of Newport Beach, Calif., the institute hopes to sell the herbs to hospitals and pharmacles abroad.

Sun and Newport Pharmaceuticals officials cautioned, however, that meticulous, time-consuming research lies ahead before the herbs can meet regulations set by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and similar bodies

They would not even guess when the testing may be completed. If further testing fails to meet Western standards. Newport Pharmaceuticals and the Peking Institute probably will have to lower their ambitions and market the herbs as simple health additives, which would not require FDA

"There is a treasure house of traditional Chinese medicine," said Lu Weibo, one of Sun's chief assistants. "Our people could contribute to the whole world," he said. The herbs now exported are confined to traditional Chinese medicine shops in Asian communities. To prove they are effective in enhancing the body's natural defenses and can supplement cancer treatment, the herbal components will require purification, measurement and testing. "The Chinese have been using the herbs for hundreds of years and know they work," said Gene O'Brien, vice president of research and development intercom: "We are right on our flight arrive at the San Diego airport 22 plan.

I am flying from New York to San Diego as the first leg of a national journey to check opinion a year before the 1984 presidential election, but at the moment my old feeling about the symbolic meaning of a great jet airliner moves into the foreground. This DC-10 is immensely powerful as is our modern civilization. But like that civilization, it is also immensely vulnerable. We had an intimation of that during the oil boycott. The international banking structure is quaking under the burden of bad loans to Third World and communist countries. The word "crash" is being murmured at the highest levels of banking. And yet, for all its fragility, this enormous passenger jet is an exhilarating experience - in that. again, it is like modern civilization.

The plane is full of ordinary Americans who want to fly, for whatever reason from - breathtaking thought -New York City to San Diego. It will take only a few hours.

The bicycle the automobile, the airplane: all of them great instruments of freedom, mobility, and Individuality. It cannot be an accident that all of them are inventions of Western civilization.

From that perspective, there is a poetic appropriateness in the fact that the Soviets shot down the Korean Boeing 747 passenger jet. The Soviets do not like individualism or personal mobility. Furthermore, the passengers on that plane did not have a Soviet ilcense to be inside Russia, even by mistake. Russia is a place where you can be shot for trying to LEAVE, where you can be jailed for an unlicensed poem. Who should be surprised that they shot down the plane?

I always experience a tremendous emotional lift flying out to California. the plane chasing the sun as both of them cross the American continent. The sun goes faster, you chase it over the plains an the dessert, and then it is going down behind the Rockies.

'We are now ahead of our flight

The pilot's voice comes over the plan," says the pilot evenly, "We will minutes carly.

> We are headed for California, Reagan country, and the pilot's matter-of-fact announcement takes on a symbolic quality of itsown.

For an Easterner flying out to California, it is impossible not to reflect upon what California's president has already achieved, with apparent effortlessness. The appearance of effortlessness has been so successful that some pundits call Reagan "indolent."

On the domestic front, Reagan has entirely changed the American agenda. Even the most left-wing Democrats are not proposing vast new federal spending programs. They are fighting desperately to hold territory already won, threatened by the Reagan onslaught.

Abroad, Reagan has played the Korean airliner disaster as if it were a Stradivarius, and he has driven Yuri Andropov up the wall. Andropov, of course, has to answer to the Politburo for his sorry scorecard, and he has had to admit that during the last month every one of Reagan's political objectives has been advanced, and every Soviet objective damaged. Andropov has utterly falled to stop the deployment of the Pershing II missile, a prime objective, and has even gone so far as to mobilize huge "peace" demonstrations within the Soviet Union itself - from his own point of view a very dublous strategy.

Back again to the domestic front. With inflation all but killed and the economy booming, Reagan can run and win, if he wants to. He even has a large measure of tactical freedom.

Suppose, nominated unanimously by the Republican convention next summer, he engineered the nomination of Justice Sandra Day O'Connor for vice president. There goes the "gender gap" and it would be a hard act for Mondale and Whoever to beat.

My plane is out over the Pacific, the sun is a golden ball of fire heading westward, and we are landing at Lindburgh Field - Reagan country. where anything is possible.

ROBERT WALTERS North Country

Campaign WHITEFIELD, N.H. (NEA) - Some presidential aspirants have made the political pilgrimage to New Hampshire's north country in the balmier days of the fading summer, while others surely will follow in the frigid days of the approaching winter. On this day, however, it's Sen. Alan Cranston's turn. With the state's famed autumn foliage providing a brilliant scarlet, gold and orange backdrop, the car carrying the California Democrat slices across the White Mountains, from

Littleton to Whitefield to Berlin. Cranston is perpetuating a unique some would call it bizarre - tradition that has transformed presidential campaigning from an esoteric enterprise into a multimillion-dollar quadrennial industry in New Hampshire. No other state is more enthusiastic about presidential politics or more hospitable to its practitioners. Indeed, many other states are openly antagonistic to the notion of politicians from other venues badgering their citizens for support more than a year before the general election. New Hampshire, however, guards the first-in-the-nation status of its presidential primary with a degree of ferocity other states reserve for protecting their leading industries. That's because presidential paigning is a big industry here — and New Hamphire's voters and politicians are determined to prevent it from being lured to another state. Several years ago, for example, when allen jurisdictions were threatening to schedule presidential primaries ahead of the contest here, New Hampshire retaliated with a warning - half in jest but half in earnest — that it would, if necessary, hold its election during the halftime ceremonies at the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day. Some of the more determined challengers refuse to be intimidated. however. lowa's precinct caucuses precede New Hampshire's primary by one week and almost - but not quite - rival the political significance of the voting here. Two neighboring states, Maine and Vermont, have started to compete for early attention in recent years. Maine's Democrats not only are pressing for early precinct caucuses next March but this month staged a political extravaganza whose only purpose was to lure politicians and voters to the state capital of Augusta for an unofficial straw poll. The amount of money expended by the candidates on that dubious enterprise demonstrates how lucrative presidential politics can be. Former Vice President Walter F. Mondale acknowledged spending $100,000 on the oneday event, but the actual figure may have been closer to $200,000. Cranston spent another $100,000 and the other five candidates probably spent a total of $100,000. For that money, suggests Maine political activist Gordon

Weil, "You could have carried each one of these people (the 1,900 Maine Democrats who turned out for the event) into the convention hall in a sedan chair.' Determined not to be outdone. New

Thatcher Tried To 'Blackmail' Reagan ti-black, and a large percentage of WASHINGTON - Margaret Thatcher tried a bit of diplomatic blackmail on President Reagan during her recent visit to Washington. It was the best-kept secret of a supposedly chummy confab.

Thatcher's little power play was confided to my associate Dale Van Atta by sources familiar with the incident. They said she succeeded only in getting Reagan's Irish dander up. Here's the story:

The British occupy a strategic, little piece of earth that straddles the routes into southern Mexico, It's called Belize, and it's tucked under Mexico's big toe.

The toe is heavily infected with Marxist revolutionaries who are biding their time until Mexico becomes ripe for revolution. Given the raging inflation and rampant corruption that afflicts Mexico, this could be all too soon.

However determined President Reagan may be to stop a Marxist takeover in El Salvador, he is 10 times more concerned about Mexico. He does not want the revolutionaries, therefore, to get arms from Cuba. Happily, the most convenient smuggling routes through Belize have been effectively blocked by the British.

Thatcher was aware of all this as she enplaned for Washington. But she also had a worry of her own: She feared that Argentina still has designs on the Falkland Islands. So she tried to persuade Reagan not to resume sales of U.S. arms to the Argentines, whose arsenal was badly depleted by their disastrous attempt to seize the Falklands last year.

So under Thatcher's tutelage, British officials coyly informed their U.S. hosts that Britain was "willing to keep troops in Belize" as long as the arms embargo on Argentina stayed in effect. The implication was that the British might pull out if Thatcher didn't get her way. White House sources reported that the president was infuriated by this "obvious blackmail."

revolution in Central America. It was this situation that Thatcher tried to exploit. The attempt failed, but it left a sour taste. As one source explained, the United States sent the British millions of dollars worth of arms during the Falklands war and had to redeploy NATO forces to cover the loss of British ships. 'And now they threaten to pull out of

Belize, which would risk another war," the source said. "It's damned ungrateful."

Rams Suffer Growing Pains Against Rivals

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

Growing pains can hurt. Ask the Lake Mary Rams.

For the third time this season, a Seminole County team took the Rams out behind the woodshed and whipped them soundly. The muffled cry was that of a second-year varsity program trying to compete with its Counting Friday's lopsided loss to Lake Howell (32-6). the Rams are 2-3. But the two other losses hurt, too. They both came to county rivals Lake Brantley (32-6) and Lyman (20-0). That's a total outlay of 12 points for the Rammies and 84 for the opposition. Ouch!

If anyone seriously believed Lake Mary could compete with the 1983 versions of Lake Howell, Lyman and Lake Brantley - I've got a whole lot of swamp land I want to show you.

Lake Mary is predominately a junior team. Outside of center Ned Kolbjornsen, guard Ed Ades, halfback Neal Wellon, linebackers Jeff Hopkins and Steve Machione and hard-hitting safety Tim Curtin, the Rams rely mostly on the younger fellows.

Without senior leadership at the skill positions (quarterback, running back and wide receiver), it's tough for a young team to beat anybody.

Against Lyman, senior quarterback Greg Pilot and senior fullback Phil Germano made the difference. Against Lake Brantley, a rock-ribbed senior linebacking crew of Donnie O'Brian, Byron Bush, Pat James and rover Scott Horwitz made life miserable for Lake Mary. Friday night, senior fullback Jay Robey tore the Rams to shreds while another pair of seniors - Bill Lang and Darin Slack - each accounted for a touchdown.

Anybody who was expecting the Rams to step into the Five Star Conference and tear it up is delirious. The wins came against DeLand, which the Rams surprised, 14-13, and constantly rebuilding Bishop Moore, 29-3. DeLand has won two games and Bishop Moore hasn't won any.

"For us to be successful," reasons coach Harry "The Ram" Nelson, "we have to get our backs one on one against the opposition. We have a good group of running backs, but most of them are young.

Junior fullback Scott Underwood, junior running back Charlie Lucarelli and sophomore QB Ray Hartsfield have all shown flashes of brilliance. Underwood is built low to the ground and is hard to slew down and knock off his feet. Lucarelli is fast and follows his blockers better than any runner in the county. Hartsfield could be a future star. He's very elusive and his throwing has improved 100 percent Put, he has to grow. "Four or five weeks ago," maintains Harry, "Ray couldn't even throw the ball. Now, he could throw the bomb, and he can feather it if he has too.

Wideout Donald Grayson, too, should be the premier player at his position next fall. He has the speed, strength, size and hands to be a major-college football player. Right now, the 195-pound junior provides half of Lake Mary's offense with 16 catches for 365 yards and

So much for the offense. Defensively, next year, linebacker Bill Caughell will be as good as anybody who's played around here for the past few years. The 195-pound junior is a feroclous hitter out of the Mike Hill-Tommy Johnson-Donnie O'Brian mold. But, he can't do it all by himself, and for about three quarters against Lake Howell, he tried to.

The Rams can move the ball between the 20s which is another sign of an exexperienced, leader-less club, but once it comes time for the big play - it's no go. "We haven't been able to make the short yardage play all year." Nelson has said time and time again.

I've seen the Rams twice and they have not converted on a fourth down play. You might say a lot of teams don't do that - but the good ones do. And Lake Mary has tried its share of them in the games I've seen.

Nelson, in his first year, knows it is tough building a program. Especially a program which you have taken over. "We've got a nice bunch of kids who work hard," he said after Friday's loss. "But, right now, we're just a cute ball club. We're not a tough ball club. "There is a lot of second guessing and doubt when you are afraid to lose. You begin to play tentatively. There is uncertainty. Good teams from established programs don't play that way. They can win, 21-14, when they play badly. That is what we have to learn." he added.

Lake Mary's next game is Mainland. The Bucs are greatly improved after a sorry start. They whipped Seminole and DeLand before losing Saturday to Lake Brantley.

After Mainland, it's powerful Apopka and sporadic Spruce Creek. Both will be tough. Then comes Seminole and Oviedo to close the season. Sanford has floundered after a pretty good start. Oviedo gets better every week, playing Jones very tough last Friday.

The Rams could win four or five games, or they could lose the rest of them.

Richardson got his wish as quarterback Bobby Lundquist tossed him an fiveyard TD pass which helped the Faculty to a 16-6 win despite two touchdowns by the Alumni's Tim Raines. Lundquist also added an 11-yard scoring toss to Ron Merthle for clinching score. Lundquist ran over the first two-point conversion and hit Merthle for the second. RICHMOND - Although the University of Richmond Spiders were 0-5 this season and had lost their last 15 games, Saturday afternoon at Richmond Stadium they showed the University of Central Florida that they were no easy marks as they topped the Knights, 31-26.

While Richmond, a Division I-AA Knights like Virginia Military Institute did last year (VMI 69 UCF 0). the Spiders did make it perfectly clear to UCF and 3,413 fans that there is a difference between a Division II school and a Division I-AA school.

For UCF, the defeat is much easier to stomach than the VMI massacre. In actuality, Head Coach Lou Saban and his Fighting Knights were not out of this game until the final two minutes. Nevertheless, coming that close to victory against a Division I-AA opponent left Saban visably concerned after the contest.

"They (Richmond) haven't been getting any breaks. They got them all today," Saban said. "I am really upset because I wanted these younsters to win so badly, especially since we had a chance." It was breaks indeed that helped

Patriots Slosh Past Buccaneers

DAYTONA BEACH - The Lake Brantley Patriots feasted on the misfortunes of Daytona Beach Mainland's Buccaneers as the Bucs turned the ball over six times in their own territory, opening the door for a 21-6 victory for the Patriots in Mainland's rain-soacked homecoming game Saturday afternoon at Welch Memorial Stadium.

Lake Brantley improved to 4-1 for the season with its third straight victory and the Patriots now stand at 3-1 in the Five Star Conference. Mainland felt to 1.5 overall and 1-4 in the conference. Lake Brantley goes up against conference co-leader Apopka Friday night at Apopka in the Patriots' most important matchup of the season,

"Mainland made some mistakes early," said Lake Brantley coach Dave Tullis. "They fumbled two punts inside their 20 which lead to the first 10 points.

Following one of those punts, the Patriots took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter as Chuck Stallings booted a 28-yard field goal. Lake Brantley's lead stayed at 3-0 at the end of the first quarter, but the Patriots converted a pair of Mainland turnovers into touchdowns in the second quarter to take a 15-0 halftime lead.

Brantley's first touchdown came on a one-yard plung by senior running back Allen Armstrong. The extra point was no good, however, and the Patriois had a 9-0

The Patriots came back before the half ended to add another touchdown after another Bues' turnover. This time, quarterback Dennis Groseclose hooked up with Armstrong on a 15-yard scoring strike. Groseclose completed 3 of 6 passes for 33 yards. He threw one interception. The extra point was missed again as the Patriots built their cushion to 15-0.

Bill Black put the final touches on for the Patriots as he rambled in from nine yards out in the third quarter to give Lake Brantley a 21-0 lead. Mainland continued to have turnover trouble throughout the third quarter and the Bucs finally got on the scoreboard in the fourth as David Jones scored from one-yard out. The two-point run failed to make the final. 21-6.

Fullback Greg Shatto took advantage of the sloshy condition to lead the Patriots in rushing with 75 yards in 11 carries. "As soon as Greg walked onto the fleid, he got a big smile on his face," said Tullis. "There was water all over the field and those big fullbacks like that kind of stuff."

Armstrong added 46 yards in 13 tries while Bill Black chipped in 38 yards on nine tries. The Big Blue outgained Mainland, 186-45, on the ground.

Defensively, the O'Brian brothers - Donnie and Sean combined to keep the Bucs in check. Donnie had a season-high 13 tackles and four assists. He also sacked quarterback Eric Childs once. Sean, starting in place of injured Pat James, contributed seven solos and three assists. Chris Anderson and Bobby Garrison had six tackles each wille Burger King Player of the Week Scott Horwitz added eight stops.

Along with lackluster running stats, Mainland had trouble throwing the ball, too. It gained just 41 yards through the air. Jell Morris pick off one pass and Brantley recovered five fumbles. James, Froemming. Clarke Millikan, Horwitz and Dean Shirley each covered a fumble.

But Benny Perrin picked off the pass at the Tainpa 45 and returned it to the 15 and five plays later Randy Love rammed over from the one.

Lomax threw for three touchdowns for the first time as a pro and Nell O'Donoghue had two field goals, one a club record 52 yards and the other from 43 yards, while Thompson countered with three touchdown passes of his own and Green raced 33 yards with a Lomax interception for Tampa scores.

Lomax, who gave the Cardinals a 13-6 halftime lead by hitting Doug Marsh with a five-yard scoring pass with just 22 seconds to play, broke the game open in the third period with two touchdown passes in a 26-second span.

He passed six yards to wide receiver Roy Green, and then on the Bucs' first play after the kickoff Tampa's Melvin Carver fumbled and defensive tackle Rush Brown scooped the ball up at the 21 and carried it to the 16. On the first play, Lomax hit Marsh for his second touchdown of the day.

but the Bucs rushed for only 74 yards.

NEW YORK (UPI) - While Don Shula appears to be gaining the balance he seeks, Joe Walten is on the verge of losing his patience.

Shula has been looking for balanced performances from Miami's offense and defense and he got them Sunday, thanks to rookie Dan Marino and unheralded William Judson.

Marino, Miami's No. 1 draft pick from Pittsburgh, sparked the offense, passing for 225 yards and three touchdowns. Judson, a second-year man replacing injured All-Pro cornerback Don McNeal. shone on defense, making three of Miami's club record-tying six interceptions that led to a 32-14 rout of the New York Jets.

For Marino, who was elevated to a starting berth last week in an effort to three scoring passes gave him six in the last two games. He had three TD passes last week in his first NFL start, a 38-35 overtime loss to Buffalo.

Marino hit Nat Moore with a 66-yard TD pass on Miami's fourth offensive play of the game, threw a 24-yard bullet to Joe Rose seconds before halftime and then hit Dan Johnson from 5 yards out in the third period to put the game out of reach. Kim Bokamper also had a 24-yard interception return for a TD.

Judson made all three of his interceptions in the first half, one in the end zone and two others deep in Dolphin territory, to help Miami lift its record to 4-3 and drop the listless Jets to 3.4.

"We had to have a football game where we put it all toge her." Shula said. "We were struggling. We had been all offense one week and all defense another week. Today we had a good drive for an early TD and after some injuries to our linebackers, our defense rose to the occasion. When things looked as bad as they could look, our defense rose up and I'm very proud of them.

"I'm very pleased with Marino and the way he operated. He gives us the big-play potential. It was a day where the offense and defense came together and we needed that."

Marino, who hit 17-of 30 passes, said he got lots of help in engineering Miami's fourth consecutive victory over the Jets.

"I think I did pretty well," he said. "I completed a couple of good passes but

Murray's Blasts Propel Orioles Past Feeble Phils

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Not even champagne flowed as freely as the praise for Rick Dempsey did.

"It's the greatest justice in the history of baseball," Baltimore pitching coach Ray Miller gushed Sunday night after Dempsey was named Most Valuable Player in the Orioles' five-game World Series rout of the

"He called the right game for the pitchers," added Baltimore first baseman Eddle Murray.

"He's a gamer," allowed Philadelphia manager Paul Owens. "He's always there when you need him."

Dempsey homered and doubled in the Orioles' 5-0 clinching victory over the Phillies. Murray hit two homers and Scott McGregor fired an artful five-hitter, but Dempsey finished at .385 with five long hits and a game-winning RBI.

A team player on a club that stresses teamwork. Dempsey helped the Orioles capture their first title since 1970 and third overall. It was a rosy performance from a guy whose usual colors are black and blue, and it made him a unanimous choice as MVP.

"I was definitely prouder of my offensive contribu-tions," said Dempsey. "It seemed like the little guys were the ones to do things in this Series, not the big guys. It was a battle of the little guys."

Actually, Philadelphia had some big guys who wound up doing little. Mike Schmidt finished 1-for-20. The team batting average was .195. Baltimore recorded two Weaver. shutouts, allowed only eight carned runs and posted a

It didn't match the classic 1966 Oriole domination of the Dodgers, in which Baltimore allowed only two runs over the entire Series, but that's just as well. To see the "Wheeze Kids" looking any older would have been painful.

"I'm not going on record as saying their pitching is unhittable," said Pete Rose, switched to right field Sunday to allow Tony Perez to play first base. "I don't think we played up to par, especially defensively."

But the Philadelphia shortcomings resulted from Oriole excellence, which in turn reflected well on Joe Altobelli. By winning it all in his first season as Orioles manager, "Alto" may finally escape the shadow of Earl Philadelphia may have lost its chance in the first Inning. With one out, Pete Rose singled and Schmidt came to the plate. If he was ever to break out, this was the perfect spot. But he lofted a harmless fly to right field and the Phils were never in the game.

Murray ripped starter Charles Hudson for a long homer in the second inning and, after Dempsey connected in the third. Murray hit a two-run homer in the fourth for a 4-0 lead. Even the President of the United States was impressed with the shots.

"Joe, I thought Eddie Murray's two home runs were terrific," President Reagan told Altobelli. "Thirty-three was my number when I played football."

Dempsey scored the final run in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Al Bumbry. By then, the Phillies' agony was visible. Phils' catcher Bo Diaz forgot the count in the fifth and rolled the ball back to the mound, thinking the inning was over. In the eighth, Joe Morgan slipped and fell trying to score from third on a ball that would have been a sacrifice fly.

'You can't have any sour grapes in a situation like this," said Morgan. "They deserve credit for the way they went about things."

excited that he received the MVP. Nobody who ever put on a baseball uniform ever tried harder than Rick," added Miller. "He blocks balls better than anyone in baseball. The pitchers never hang a curveball. They can really yank it because they're not afraid to bounce a curveball in the dirt.

Owens Enjoys New Job, Wants To Manage Again

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - No matter what he says publicly, Paul Owens already has made up his mind and expressed himself privately.

He wishes to come back and manage the Philadelphia Phillies again next season, and if that's what he wants, they're not about to tell him he can't: So as matters stand now, he'll be directing the club once more, from downstairs in the dugout instead of upstairs in the front office in 1984.

That wasn't the original game plan when Owens put aside his General Manager's duties and replaced Pat Corrales as the Phillies' field manager last July 18. He was only supposed to be interim manager. It was understood he'd return to the front office now -after the club concluded its season.

Even after the Phillies won their division title and then the pennant, the plan was for John Felske to be their new manager next year. Felske, it was felt, had earned the opportunity by leading the Phillies' Portland club to the Pacific Coast League championship this year and by his other previous years of fine service, mostly in the minors.

But Owens found himself enjoying his new job more and more. He didn't pay a whole lot of attention to the jokes about him managing the Phillies "by committee," meaning with the help primarily of Bobby Wine and two of his other coaches, Claude Osteen and Dave Bristol. His critics could say what they liked. The important thing was that the Phillies were winning and he was having fun. Much more so than he did when he came down fron the front office the first time to take over the Phillies' managership from Frank Luchesi during the 1972 season.

For the past couple of weeks, Owens has been dropping hints to Bill Giles, the Phillies part owner and President, that he might like to handle the club again next season. Giles hoped the 59-year-old Owens would forget about the idea, but he hasn't. On the contrary, the more he thought about managing again next year, the more he saw no reason why he shouldn't especially since it made him feel at least 20 years younger being around the players.

Naturally, he was asked by the media whether or not he had made up his mind after the Baltimore Orioles had closed out the Phillies in the World Series by blanking them, 5-0, in Sunday's fifth game.

'I just don't know," he said, unwilling to reveal his decision right there.

Then, pretending he expected the Phillies to fire him for not winning the Series, he said with a straight face, "I was just informed that I have to attend a meeting at 10 in the morning ...

It was a little joke. He started laughing about it and switched the conversation instead to his players and their showing against the Orioles

"The players certainly have nothing to be ashamed of," he said. "They don't have to walk down any dark alleys. If Baltimore can win again then we'd like to play 'em again next year." Owens was sitting at his desk as he spoke. He looked up into the faces of all the newsmen clustered around him.

"I want to thank you gentlemen and tell you how much I appreciate all the patience you showed during the Series," he said to the writers. "Some people don't like the press, but I don't feel that way."

Owens made no mention of an informal meeting which took place between him and Hugh Alexander an hour and a half before the final game. Alexander is the Phillies Player Personnel Advisor, but more important than that he is a close friend of Owens and one of the best baseball men you'll ever find.

The meeting between Owens and Alexander was merely one between two very good friends. It was held in Owens' office and they were the only two in the room. Owens said what was in his heart and Alexander expressed what what in his own and it was at this get-together where Owens revealed exactly

To give you a little background on Alexander, he has been with the Phillies 13 years. He worked for the Dodgers 15 years before that, both in Brooklyn and Los Angeles, and prior to that he was with the White Sox four years and 14 years with Cleveland.

Alexander to 67 years old and looks 10 years younger. He was an outfielder in the Cleveland organization who hit .350 for Fargo, North Dakota. Following his second season in the minors, the Indians brought him up, but his career was abruptly ended when he lost his left hand after catching it in a gear working in an oilfield in Seminole. Okiahoma during the off-season. The Indians then did something few other big-league clubs ever had - they made Alexander a scout at 20. He's been working in baseball ever since and there isn't anyone in the game who doesn't have the highest regard for him or doesn't like him, including Giles, who has enormous respect for his opinion.

Defensive Demon Dempsey Turns Offensive, Wins MVP

would have been something to see, a 21-year-old rookie telling off a respected veteran.

That might have created a fuss, even considering the normally unflappable Baltimore Orioles' personality. Instead, Storm Davis held his tongue and opened his ears to what Rick Dempsey was trying to

"He's such a defensive demon," Davis said Sunday after Dempsey was named the Most Valuable Player in the World Series. "I'm glad his offense came around so he would get some recognition."

Dempsey homered and doubled in Baltimore's 5-0 victory that capped a five-game rout of the Philadelphia Phillies. The veteran receiver finished at .385, including five long hits and one game-winning RBI.

world championship. "I congratulated him on his award," said Philadelphia manager Paul Owens. "I told him, You are my type of player.' He handles those pitchers well. He was a big cog in Baltimere's success."

Dempsey became a favorite of interviewers in the Series long before his offensive contributions began to emerge. When President Reagan called the Baltimore clubhouse, Dempsey was quick as ever with a quote.

"Mr. President, you go tell the Russians that we're having a good time over here playing baseball," said Dempsey. It's doubtful the Russians appreciate Dempsey's performance, but his teammates do.

Baltimore's first World Series victory in 13 years. was scarcely secure in Cal Ripken's glove Sunday night when car horns in Baltimore began to blare and bar patrons to hug each other, screaming with joy. "This is it. This is what we've been waiting for," shouted bar patron Chris Lawson. "Baltimore deserves this. We're a great city. We have pride."

"This means more to me than my girlfriend," he said.

Lawson, wearing the Orioles' colors of black and crange. whipped out a credit card and declared drinks for Orioles' fans

The city planned a parade today at noon to honor the home team, which wrapped up the 80th World Series in five games with a 5-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Sun-

"I wish I was somewhere else ... celebrating like everybody else in this crazy town," moaned Jerry Whitley, 21, an employee on duty at Connolly's Seafood House.

Fans flocked Sunday night to a Memorial Stadium parking lot to await the return of the Orioles. Beer and champagne Garry Maddox's line drive flowed and people climbed atop their cars and vans to ensure the parking lot. 'It really makes it all worth while to come back to this kind of reception," said first baseman Eddle Murray, clutching a bottle of champagne.

Orioles' Finely Tuned Machine Clicks On All Cylinders

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - If the Baltimore Orioles played the same way they indulge in self-analysis, their season would have ended back in June instead of with Sunday's World Series-clinching 5-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

For the five games of the 1983 World dous. Series, the Orioles played like a finely tuned machine, each part complementing and working in perfect harmony with the others.

But when it came to analyzing how they were able to defeat the Phillies so handily - winning four straight games. including three in Philadelphia, after dropping Game 1 in Baltimore - the Orioles had as many reasons as they did players.

"Our strength is someone else doing it every day," said first baseman Eddic Murray, who took his turn "doing it" Sunday by ending a 2-for-16 Series slump by driving in three runs with two towering homers off losing starter three men," said Ken Singleton, who as Charles Hudson.

"The relief pitchers — that was the factor," said pitcher Dennis Martinez, who did not get a chance to do anything except watch the Series.

"All the games were close games, except for today, and that's because the bullpen came in and did the job. Of course, they didn't have to do that today guys just cried all the time how they

Other reasons cited for Baltimore's dominance over Philadelphia included smart menaging by first-year skipper Joe Altobelli: an ability to shut down Phillie third baseman Mike Schmidt, who was 1-for-20; the Orioles' "little guys" making up for a similar slump by Murray; and a burning desire to prevent the World Series history of 1979 - when Pittsburgh rallied from a 3.1 deficit in games to defeat Baltimore - from repeating itself. But, when pressed, most players agreed that better teamwork was their biggest advantage over the Phillies. 'We didn't rely on Just one, two or a displaced designated hitter saw only limited action pinch-hitting. "Each guy in the lineup knew just what he was going to do and what each other guy was going to do. You try to do other things outside yourself, that's when you can get into trouble.

'We play together as a whole. We have guys who knew just what to expect out of each other and they got it."

Catcher Rick Dempsey, named Most Valuable Player both because of timely 5-for-13 hitting and his handling of Baltimore's fine pitchers, said the fact that he was able to contribute offensively was a good example of the teamwork that had carried the Orioles to their first world championship since 1970.

"For the first couple of games, it was the little guys doing all the producing on b.th sides." Dempsey. "It was really a battle of the little guys, and we were the ones who came through. We took all the pressure off our big guys. When Eddle (Murray) came up today, you could see he was swinging free and easy with no pressure on him, and that's because we had come through."

McGregor added. "The way we played. we showed that you can't build a team around one guy. It takes everybody."

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - For the first four games of the World Series, Mike Schmidt had been able to compare his batting slump with that of opposing slugger Eddie Murray.

On Sunday, however, while Schmidt was going 0-for-4 for the fourth time, Murray came alive with two monstrous home runs. Thus, it was the Baltimore Orioles, and not the Philadelphia Phillies, spraying champagne after their 5-0 victory clinched the world champi-

In five games, Schmidt, the National League home run leader with 40, managed just a broken-bat single in 20 trips to the plate. Needless to say, he didn't have much fun.

"It wasn't any fun not contributing." the Phillies third baseman said. "We didn't represent the National League as well as we'd like to. We haven't been beaten two in a row in a month and a half. That team came in and beat us three in a row at Veterans Stadium. They did it. They deserve the credit.

"It's a great thrill to play in a World Series but it sure wasn't as much fun as flow and you can't find it and they're pitching you the way you should be pitched, it's not fun." Schmidt batted .381 and was named

MVP of the 1980 World Series won by the Phillies over Kansas City, but he could never find the groove against the Orioles. Schmidt did not even manage a walk after leading the league during the regular season with 128. 'Any time you keep Mike Schmidt quiet, the pressure is on us throughout the lineup," manager Paul Owens said.

"Schmidt is the type of hitter who can carry a club for two weeks. He can sour once in a while but he's always been there when we've needed him. I think the Orioles keyed on him.' While not contributing was bad enough, Schmidt also had to contend with the boos from most in the crowd of Murray, who entered the game 2-for-16, homered in the second and fourth off Hudson and added a single later off Ron Reed, Series MVP Rick Dempsey touched Hudson for a thirdinning homer.

"The two pitches to Murray were up." Hudson said when he finally faced reporters. "Dempsey hit a fastball up. But all my pliches were up. Even the guys who struck out swung at pitches that were up.

"This is pretty hard to swallow. This being my first year, maybe I wanted it too much. This would have put a cherry on everything, coming back and winning this game and then going to Baltimore and winning two more.

Seattle Uses 8 Turnovers To Flip Flop Raiders, 38-36

United Press International

in the age of awesome aerial displays in the NFL, the Seattle Seahawks scored 38 points and won a game Sunday despite finishing with just two yards passing.

Eight Raiders' turnovers helped in Scattle's 38-36 victory, with five giveaways coming in the second half when Los Angeles blew a 17-7 lead. The Seattle victory pulled the Scahawks, 4-3, to within one game of the first-place Raiders, 5-2, in the AFC West.

"It feels good to win even though we didn't look that good offensively," Seahawks quarterback Jim Zorn said. Raiders quarterback Jim Plunkett threw three interceptions and coughed up two fumbles in the fourth quarter that led directly to Seattle touchdowns.

"It was almost like a nightmare," said L.A. coach Tom Flores. "Everything we did went wrong. You just can't play anyone that way nowadays and expect to win."

The Seahawks also got a boost from Paul Johns, who returned a punt 75 yards for a touchdown in only his second game since returning from a knee injury to give Scattle's Kenny Easley got the Seahawks started when he recovered Marcus Allen's fumble at the Raider 21-yard line on the second play after halftime. Zorn, who suffered through one of his worst throwing days as a professional, scrambled 18 yards for the touchdown to narrow.Los Angeles' lead to 17-14.

After Johns' punt return, Easley picked off a Plunkett pass on the next play from scrimmage to set up a 22-yard field goal by Norm Johnson, but the Raiders responded with Chris Bahr's 42-yard field goal and a safety to pull to within 24-22 at the end of the third period.

Seahawk linebacker Shelton Robinson returned a Plunkett fumble 9 yards for a fourth-quarter TD and Curt Warner scored on a 6-yard run following another Plunkett fumble to finish Seattle's scoring.

Washington is at Green Bay tonight. Steelers 44, Browns 17

Cliff Stoudt awoke Pittsburgh's slumbering offense by passing for 194 yards and one touchdown and the Steelers' defense parlayed five of six Brian Sipe interceptions into points. The win left the Steelers in sole possession of first place in the AFC Central with a 5-2 record. Bills 30, Colts 7

Joe Ferguson completed 21-of-30 passes for 230 yards and three TDs to lead Buffalo, upping the Hills' record to 5-2 and giving them sole possession of first place in the Patriots 37, Chargers 21

Rick Sanford raced 26 yards with a fumble recovery to set up the go-ahead touchdown by Mark Van Eeghen and Tony Collins ran for a pair of TDs, lifting New England over error-prone San Diego. Broncos 24, Bengals 17

Steve DeBerg completed 25-of-37 passes for 284 yards and two TDs to help the Broncos to their first win at Mile High Stadium since Sept. 26, 1982.

49ers 32, Baints 13

Ray Wersching kicked a team-record six field goals and safety Dwight Hicks returned an interception 62 vards for a TD to lead San Francisco. Wersching kicked field goals of 47, 52, 24 and 23 yards in the second half as the 49ers overcame a 13-6 halftime deficit.

Pro Football Roundup

Lions 31, Bears 17

Billy Sims, seeing his first action in four games, scored his first touchdown of the season and Eric Hippie and Gary Danielson each threw a TD pass for the Lions. Rams 27, Falcons 21

Vince Ferragamo hit Mike Guman on a 2-yard TD pass with 17 seconds remaining following a controversial pass interference penalty to lift the Rams. The winning score came just seconds after Atlanta's right cornerback Kenny Johnson was whistled for interference on a pass Intended for Otis Grant. Cowboys 37, Eagles 7

Danny White threw for 266 yards and a blitzing defense shut down Ron Jaworski to keep Dallas as the NFL's lone unbeaten team. Dallas, which produced a team record-tying 32 first downs, ran its record to 7-0, one win short of its fastest start ever.

Vikings 34, Oilers 14

Minnesota capitalized on a blocked punt and three Houston turnovers - scoring on Charlie Johnson's 50-yard fumble recovery - to spott new coach Chuck Studley's debut. Ted Brown rushed for two second-half touchdowns for Minnesota while quarterback Steve Dils completed 20-of-34 passes for 227 yards.

Chiefs 38, Glants 17

Bill Kenney passed for a career-high 342 yards and four TDs and reserve safety Durwood Roquemore returned an interception 42 yards for another score as the Chiefs handed the Giants their third straight loss.

Harris, Defense Lead Wildcats Past Bulldogs

Anthony Harris' five-yard touchdown run in the first half proved to be all the Wildcats needed as the defense came through with a fine performance in the Wildcats' 6-0 victory over the Bulldogs in Sanford Recreation Flag Football Junior League action at Chase Park.

After Harris' run came with 6:45 left in the first half. The point after failed, but the Wildcats' lead held up the rest of the game. Neither team managed to reach paydirt after Harris' score as the defenses took control.

in Midget League action, Arthur Polk darted for a touchdown in overtime as the Steelers edged the Bucs, 12-6.

Polk scored on a five yard run with 9:45 left in the first half to give the Steelers' a 60 lead. The Bucs' Lorne Jones returned the ensuing kickoff 45 yards for a touchdown to tie the score at 6-6. Both teams couldn't find the end zone in the second half and the game went into overtime. Polk's two-yard run in OT provided the Steelers' with the victory.

Martina Sinks Shriver; McEnroe Suspended — U.S. Trims Europeans For Ryder Cup Title

TARPON SPRINGS (UPI) - Martina Navratilova's 27th birthday is Tuesday and she'll have an extra $28,000 to celebrate it with. Navratilova cruised to a 6-3, 6-2 victory over doubles partner Pam Shriver and the first prize check Sunday in the $150,000 Florida Federal Tennis Open. Her win lengthened her winning streak to 35 matches. Navratilova has not lost since she faced Kathy Horvath in the French Open this summer and her 1983 singles record now stands at 72-1. Navfatllova, the No. 1 seed, has now beaten the second-seeded Shriver in 16 of their 19 career matches including the last six in a row. Shriver's last victory was in the 1982 U.S. Open, when she eliminated Navratilova in the quarterfinals. A crowd of 5,184 watched the 77-minute match between two of the tour's best serve-and-volley players. Navratilova consistently beat Shriver to the net. When Shriver did come in, Navratilova used her improved backhand and passing shot.

"I can't attack her backhand anymore," Shriver said. "I used to chip it to her backhand and come in, but she hits it so hard now. It's a heavy-duty shot now.' "The court is slow and it's easy to hit the top-spin," said Navratilova said. "I never felt threatened by her coming in to the net. My backhand is getting better." Navratilova was able to get in 77 percent of her first serves. In the second set, she lost only one point in four

Later, in the doubles final, Navratilova and Shriver defeated Bonnie Gadusek and Wendy White, 6-0, 6-1.

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) - John McEnroe was fined $1,500 and suspended from tournament play for 42 days Sunday after he abused an umpire during the final of the $255,000 Australian Indoor Tennis champion- suspended for 42

McEnroe was down 3-2 to Frenchman Henri Leconte in the second set when he approached the umpire's chair and said. "How many imaginary lets do you intend to call, you fat ... Umpire Ian Basey, a police officer from South Australia, immediately gave McEnroe a "code conduct" penalty and called in tournament supervisors. After the singles match, the supervisors fined McEnroe $1,500, which put him over the maximum penalty and prompted the suspension. McEnroe came into the tournament with a mere $200 balance, plus a credit of $500 that he won on appeal. The fine put him well over the limit and he was automatically suspended.

McEnroe went back onto the court to play in the doubles semifinal and was unable to speak to reporters.

16-Year-Old Has Best Tips On How To Be A Good Kid

DEAR READERS: It all began when I published "10 Tips on How to Be a Good Wife," followed by "10 Tips on How to Be a Good Husband." Then a reader signed "Old-Timer" suggested that I invite the younger generation to submit its "10 Tips on How to Be a Good Kid." I did, and the response was heartening. (Many elementary school teachers made it a class assignment.) This list, from a 16-year-old Dallas girl, is one of the

1. Show appreciaton. Most parents give more then they can afford.

2. Take responsibility for your own actions. If you want to be treated like an adult, act like one.

3. Remember, parents are human; they get tired, have their bad days and make mistakes, too, so forgive them like they forgive you.

4. Don't lie and sneak around, then expect your parents to trust you. 5. Do your homework and chores without having to be

Environmental Questions To Confront Clark

and resource issues that embroiled James Watt during his stormy term as interior secretary are likely to confront William Clark during his Senate confirmation

They include such politically explosive questions as offshore oil leasing, federal coal leasing, strip mining regulations and protection of national parks, wildlife refuges and wilderness areas.

Clark, President Reagan's personal friend and nominee to succeed Watt as Interior Department chief, has virtually no background in conservation or natural resource policy.

That fact outraged environmental leaders when Reagan made the surprise announcement Thursday. Officials of some environmental groups — including the Wilderness Society and Friends of the Earth - vowed to fight Clark's nomination. Those who didn't - such as the Sierra Club - warned they will be closely examining his positions on the key policy questions.

Your lack of a public record on natural resource, public land and environmental matters concerns us," Sierra Club President Denny Shaffer said in a letter to

Shaffer is asking for a meeting with Clark before his confirmation hearings. "We wish to understand your intentions, your present views on policy matters, and most especially the degree to which you may be bound in your understandings with President Reagan to adhere to the policies of Secretary Watt," he said.

White House chief of staff James Baker put environmental activists on notice Sunday that with Clark there will be no change in President Reagan's push to swing the government pendulum toward development of federal lands.

Baker, appearing on CBS's Face the Nation, defended the selection of Clark, as a logical extension of Reagan's approach to husbanding the nation's vast mineral

In Clark, Baker said, Reagan has chosen "someone who is ... going to pursue his policies, which is important to his basic constituency. He gains someone who is readily acceptable to the strength the president has in the West.

"And I think also that sometimes the best politics is to choose the best person to perform public responsibility." Among Watt's most controversial programs were massive plans to open offshore areas for oil and gas drilling and lease large stretches of federal land for coal mining. Environmentalists and congressional critics called the effort a "fire sale" of federal resources during a period of depressed energy prices.

Watt planned to lease virtually the entire Outer Continental Shelf - 1 billion acres off the Atlantic. Pacific, Gulf and Alaskan coasts - to industry in just five years.

He ran into several roadblocks — court rulings. congressional action and lack of interest from industry. The Supreme Court, for example, will hear arguments Nov. 1 on California's challenge to a key part of the offshore oil leasing program. It focuses on the demand of California and 14 other states that federal officials consult with states before conducting the massive lease

Watt also planned to lease 15 billion tons of federal coal by 1985, but ran into tough court rulings and a congressional moratorium this year on further coal

Times: Argentine Navy

Plotted To Kill Prince LONDON (UPI) - The Argentine navy plotted to kill Prince Andrew toward the end of the 74-day war last year between Britain and Argentina over the Falkland Islands, The Sunday Times reported. The plot was one of several undercover operations planned, including attacks on the British military staging post on the Ascension Island in the Pacific and the naval dockyards at Portsmouth, said the newspaper, quoting sources in Buenos Aires and London.

The Sunday Times said the Argentine plot called for a submarine landing of a killer squad on the Caribbean Island of Mustique where the second son of Queen Elizabeth II was staying with American former movie actress Koo Stark.

But the operation was canceled "probably because of the shift in power within the Argentine junta following the Falklands defeat."

Andrew served as a helicopter pilot aboard the aircraft carrier HMS Invincible during the 74-day war that ended with Argentina's surrender June 14 last year.

Marcos Meets Advisers

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) - President Ferdinand Marcos today convened his top advisers for a crucial party caucus that is expected to approve changes in the constitution and avert a drift toward political and economic anarchy in the Philippines.

A government announcement said the meeting would discuss proposed electoral reforms to be taken up in a special session of the National Assembly beginning Tuesday.

A proposal to redistrict election constituencies, along with an offer by Marcos to appoint two opposition nominees to an eight-member election watchdog committee, were seen as major concessions to his political rivals.

The party caucus today also was expected to consider urgent measures to stem runaway inflation and capital flight triggered by the Aug. 21 assassination of popular opposition political leader Benigno Aquino Jr.

Thatcher Shuffles Cabinet

LONDON (UPI) - Prime Miniater Margaret Thatcher, acting swiftly to defuse the bad publicity her government is getting over Britain's sex scandal, reshuffled her cabinet and replaced the diagraced trade minister who got his secretary pregnant.

Just 48 hours after Trade and Industry Secretary Cecil Parkinson resigned, Mrs. Thatcher announced she was replacing him with tough-talking Employment Secretary Norman Tebbit.

The embattled Parkinson, married with three daughters, was forced to quit Friday after his pregnant secretary told the London Times he twice asked her to marry him and twice jilted

Grenada Hardliner Takes Control Of Ruling Party

ST. GEORGES, Grenada (UPI) - The Marxist government of Grenada said today the deputy prime minister, a hardliner who favors closer ties with Moscow, has taken over control of the ruling party from popular Prime Minister Maurice Bishop.

Bishop, who took control of the Caribbean Island in a 1979 coup, has not been heard from since he was placed under house arrest Thursday. A broadcast on the new government by official Radio Free Grenada made no mention of his whereabouts today.

Although the radio insisted Bishop was still prime minister, it said Deputy Premier Bernard Coard has assumed control of the ruling party, the New Jewel Movement.

The radio report repeated charges that Bishop had spread "false rumors" about an attempt to kill him and disobeyed orders from the New Jewel Movement's central party committee.

Marine Killed; Lebanese Fighting Spreads

city's southern suburbs to the mountains east of the capital today hours after a U.S. Marine was killed and airport, military sources said.

U.S. officials, amonding earlier casualty figures, said five Marines were wounded and one was killed Sunday when unidentified militiamen in a Moslem slum opened fire with rocket-propelled grenades and small arms.

The Marines returned fire with Dragon missiles and machine-gun fire during the seven-hour attack on their Alpha Company base at the Lebanese University near Beirut International Airport.

The name of the dead Marine, who was shot in the head, was not released pending notification of his family. A spokesman said today two other Marines were hospitalized for surgery, but three others suffered only minor shrapnel wounds

Military sources quoted by state-run Beirut radio reported sniper fire today aimed at Lebanese army positions near the U.S. Marine base wounded a Lebanese soldier and a civilian.

The Lebanese troops returned the fire, but the Marines were not involved in the incident, the sources said.

The sporadic sniping in suburban Beirut came as violence spread to Souk et Gharb, a strategie town 8

Ten civilians and five israelt soldiers also were killed and wounded in a clash between Israeli troops and local Shilte Moslems in the village of Nabatiyeh, 45 miles south of Beirut, Beirut radio said.

Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said the Marines fired two powerful Dragon missiles, M-16 rifles and M-60 guns in response to the attack Sunday launched from the southern Beirut Shiite slum of Hay el

The unidentified attackers also fired on a Marine the USS Iwo Jima, a helicopter carrier that is one of 12 American warships patrolling off the coast of Lebanon, Jordan said.

Number Of Nucelar Weapons Growing; Now Total 50,000

limitation treaties, the nuclear arsenals of both the United States and the Soviet Union have continued to grow and there are now 50,000 nuclear weapons in the world, a new report says.

The 1983 annual edition of World Military and Social Expenditures by Ruth Leger Sivard also said 16,359,000 million people have died in wars since

The report, put out by several private pro-arms control groups such as the Arms Control Association, said "an arms race no country can afford" continues to crowd out social needs. The report said both superpowers continued to test new nuclear weapons, with the United States out-testing the Soviet Union, 407 to 336, since the Limited Test Ban Treaty of 1963. Despite the SALT I and II treaties, the nuclear arsenals of both the United States and the Soviet Union have continued to increase. In 1971, the year before SALT I, the United States had 4,600 strategic nuclear weapons. Now it has about 10,000. The Soviet strategic arsenal has grown from 2,100 strategic weapons to 7.400 in the years from 1971 to 1983.

The world now has a total of 50,000 nuclear weapons, according to the surev released Sunday, and current worldwide military spending is $660 2.2 million.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Despite arms billion, or just slightly less than the world spends on education. "Two superpowers, locked into cold war antagonism, are the driving force behind an arms buildup without parallel in history," the report said. The report counted weapons owned by countries that officially have nuclear weapons: the United States. Soviet Union, Britain, France, China and India. Others such as Israel and South Africa may have nuclear weapons but have not acknowledged so. The report said military assistance to the Third World by the developed countries has far outpaced economic aid in the last 20 years, $400 billion in military aid to $25 billion in economic

At the same time, according to the survey, about half the world's population lives on an income below $500 per year and "at least one person in five is trapped in absolute poverty.

The survey for 1983 includes a body count of all known wars since 1945. The total number of victims of war, the survey said is 16,359,000 people, 9 million of them civilians.

The most deadly wars in the period were in Asia: the Bengali war in 1971. 1.5 million dead; the Pol Pot government massacres in Cambodia, 1975-79, 2 million: the Korean war, 1950-53, 2 million: and the Vietnam War, 1965-75,

The world's three major concentrations of military power are at a standoff in manpower, but show striking variations in other areas. The U.S. and its NATO allies lead in wealth, total military spending, strategic nuclear weapons and surface warships. The Soviet Union and its ailies are far ahead in tanks and have the edge in the air and underesea. China leads only in pepulation.

Shamir Faces No Confidence-Vote

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) -Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, under pressure to name a new finance minister before a parliamentary no-confidence vote this week. grappled with "mass panie" and work stoppages sparked by Israel's economic crisis. After a Cabinet meeting that extended into the early hours today, Israel Television reported Shamir's choice for the job was Energy Minister Yitzhak Modal, 47, a leader of the Liberal Party with a reputation for being a tough political infighter.

Modal was an outspoken opponent of former Finance Minister Yoram Aridor, who resigned in disgrace last week after his scheme to link the Israell economy to the U.S. dollar was rejected by his Cabinet colleagues and caused a public outery. As Shamir wrestled with his hour walkouts Sunday protesting last week's 23 percent devaluation of the shekel and 50 percent commodities as part of an austerity

Political Solution In Nicaragua Unlikely

United Press International

A high-ranking Western diplomat ruled out a political solution to the conflict in Nicaragua, charging also that the Marxist-led Sandinista government poses a serious threat to democracy in neighboring Costa Rica. The diplomat, who asked to remain anonymous, said in the Costa Rican capital of San Jose that democracy cannot survive in Costa Rica if the Sandinistas remain in power.

"Costa Rica will not survive with a Marxist Nicaragua," the diplomat said, adding "it is too late for a political solution" to the conflict between the Sandinists government and U.S.-backed rebels fighting to overthrow it.

The diplomat said Nicaraguan government agents are inciting strikes and incidents of land seizure by peasants in Costa Rica, the showcase democracy of Central America and the only one of five nations in the region that does not have an insurgent movement.

'They are poisoning the region,' he said of the Sandinista government.

Nicaraguan leaders have repeatedly charged the Reagan administration is seeking to overthrow them by using as proxies four rebel groups maintained with more than $20 million in covert CIA aid.
