JURY IS NAMED FOR TRIAL OF FORREST LAKE

Election Is Finished
(After 33 Veniremen Had Been Examined In Quick Procedure)

Evidence Will Be Presented Today

Defense Counsel Uses All Of Its Challenges Allowed By Law

A jury to try Forrest Lake, alias Sanford banker, on a charge of embezzlement and misappropriation of $10,000 of funds belonging to the Seminole County Bank, was convened at 12:30 o'clock today and court was recessed until 6 o'clock when the prosecution will begin presenting evidence in the case.

The jury was completed after veniremen had been examined, of them being called during the session yesterday. As soon as shortly before the court recessed for lunch, the jury composed of the following:

J. C. Ellsworth, Farmer, Sa-

M. C. Thompson, railroad man-

N. L. Stratton, clerk, Sanfor-

s, S. M. Weller, Farmer, Gabrielle

H. C. Parker, Farmer, Gabrielle

T. A. Deacon, Developer, Sanfor-

Selection of the jury was more speedily accomplished than was anticipated when the trial got under way—so it attaches better to the record and avoid publicity which followed over the case.

And there is a prejudicial effect on the people. In many instances prosecutive jurors were found to have opinions which would be liable to the evidence and which might be induced in the jury.

Several of those summoned to serve stated they were biased

in their favor and impartial yet

thus far, thus point.

India Hinchcliffe, the aviator's wife, told International

News Service:

"My husband's representative has not informed me that my huband set out to fly across the Atlantic without making a top off."

Mrs. Hinchcliffe, the aviator's wife, told International

News Service:

"The other was accompanied by a lady passenger. A heavy fog hung over the field as Hinchcliffe took off. The plane turned westward after leaving the aerodrome.

Hinchcliffe hopped off in a sun-scorched cockpit similar to that used by Brock and Seltzer in their attempt to fly around the world.

The plane was heavily loaded in deleting that a long flight was anticipated. It took off only with the greatest difficulty.

The name "Adventure" and a British Union Jack on the side of the fuselage identified the plane

as the same one in which it returned last week from India.

As soon as possible, the case will be referred to the appropriate counselor or upon the partition of the action named in the in-court.

Testimony for the defense, headed by Tom Palmer of Tampa, took place at all the five prearranged times permitted by law, and for an extra one, which was denied. The defense stated that in exercising one of its peremptory challenges, the jurors had made no ground for challenge of any kind.

Ku Klux Klan Begins Task Of Moving Its Headquarters To Washington D. C.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(INS)—The Ku Klux Klan today began the moving of imperial headquarters and general offices from Atlanta to Washington.

A large fleet of motor vans unloaded desks and other office par-aphanels and carried it into the old red brick building at 1325 Massachusetts Avenue, just across the street from the Knights of Columbus evening school.

Dr. Hiram Wesley Evans, im-

ENGLISH AVIATOR DEPARTS ON HOP ACROSS ATLANTIC

Cabinet Member Appears To Be Slightly Nervous When Being Questioned By Walsh

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13.—(INS)—Andrew W. Mellon, millionaire secretary of the treasury, told the Joint Public Lands Committee under today he had refused to trade a $10,000 check to the Roundhead National Committee in return for signature of Harry F. Sinclair.

Captain W. R. Hinchcliffe, who hopped off from Cranwell Aerodrome, at 8:40 o'clock this morning in an attempt to fly the Atlantic, passed over Mizen Head, County Cork, Ireland, this afternoon flying in a westerly direction, said a Central New Dispatch from Dublin.

"My husband's representative has not informed me that my husband set out to fly across the Atlantic without making a top off," Mrs. Hinchcliffe, the aviator's wife, told International News Service.

Walsh Discusses Various Developments In Training Camps Of Major Leagues

By David J. Walsh
International News Service

CLEARWATER, Fla., Mar. 12.—(INS)—The writer had privilege today of gazing upon a $200,000 ball club. At least, the payroll said it was a $200,000 outfit, a fact that might be deemed sufficient to promote the late Charley Eberle's tune turtle in his tomb. For the Brooklyn Dodgers used to be Charley's ball club and this once was Charley's money.

Years ago, in a moment of eloquence, Charley delivered himself of the dictum that baseball still was in its infancy. What he probably meant was that it soon was to go into its second childhood. When a ball club which holds the lead of the second division as its abiding ambition, is willing to pay and does pay Arnold Stutz a salary of $10,000 for the season, the faculty of reason fairly totters on its throne.

Mr. Wilbert Robinson, the open-faced, Swiss movement president-manager of the club, seems to be the sponsor for this policy of prodigality. It is to be doubted that Charley would have listened very attentively to Stutz's $10,000 salesmanship. Nor would he have paid Max Carey and Bill Doak anything more than polite attention; anyhow not $10,000 each. It is an open question whether Jess Petty would have shaken him loose for $15,000. He probably would have granted Dazzy Vance his $20,000 but I fear that the capitulation would have been marked by that spontaneous enthusiasm a noticeable in a man conceding a five rod putt.

As for David J. Bancroft, player manager of the 1927 Braves, Charley would have had him arrested if he had requested a $15,000 contract plus a $30,000 bonus, $15,000 in all. But Mr. Robinson says it is alright and as far as the rest of the world, including Bancroft, is concerned, that just about closes the transom.

"Bancroft is the key man of the ball club, not the penitentiary.

Jack Sharkey And Johnny Risko Battle Tonight For Chance To Fight Tunney

NEW YORK, Mar. 12.—(INS)—Lady blow! That va, how Herky Jack Sharkey, of Boston, is standing once more on the threshold of a million dollar match with Gene Tunney.

Last summer it was Jack Dempsey who barred the way. This time it is the stoic treacherous Rybo who bulk-formidably in the door top of Tunney's safe-node.

Temperament may play the leading role tonight at Madison Square Garden. The high strung, irascible, whimsical Sharkey should win if he chooses to yield everything in this one cat.

It all depends on his frame of mind when he starts or after a few rounds of attuning himself to Risks' plopping style.

Against Tom Heeney, another plopper, Sharkey was never unmixed by the spark of aggressiveness after he had leered in right heavily on Heeney's nose in the first two rounds without visible effect. He permitted Heeney to make the fight.

Risko is another "poxay" boxer. He can punch effectively with both hands and should be able to break up Risks' headlong attacks by simple superior number of those brief injuries to the body.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 12.—(INS)—Walt Hays, star pitcher of the world's champion New York Yankees, will deliver with Colgate Jade Ringier over his contract today while the Colonel's friend in memory, ex-star left with the Boston Braves in their first exhibition of the season.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Mar. 12.—(INS)—Bill Walker, rookie pitcher from Denver, stood as high with John McGraw today. Walker allowed only two hits in the last five innings yesterday when the New York Giants bathe that night to a 4 to 3 win with Walker Johnson's Newark Bears at St. John's.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Mar. 12.—(INS)—It is rumored that Ruth Bressler, holdout outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, is negotiating to purchase his release from the Reds and join the Brooklyn Robins.

TAMPA, Fla., Mar. 12.—(INS)—Manager Bucky Harris is somewhat worried over the Senators' shortstop job. Three youngsters, Reeves, Gills, and Hayes are all trying for the berth, but none of them are displaying any batting regularity. The heaviest hitting in the spring exhibition games probably will get the job, as there is little 18 hits were scattered.

situation here," Mr. Johnson declares. "Our great pitching last year failed to put us over for two reasons: first, our infield was a first class sieve; second, we had no hitting, or at least I never caught the boys at it."

"Well, we still have the pitching and more. To my regular staff of Dazzy Vance, Jess Petty, Bill Doak, Watson Clark, Ruth Ehrhardt and Doug McWeeny, the best in all baseball in my opinion, we will add the services of Louis Koupal, who was with the Pirates. Unless I'm crazy Koupal will do this time."

"Bancroft will improve our infield 100 per cent. He is an infield in himself and with a better man at first and third bases, the whole works will be tighter and more efficient. And if you think an old head like Bancroft's won't steady a young player like Partridge at second base, then you and I must agree to disagree."

"I'll admit the club hasn't a tearing punch but you will see more runs and more victories this year. Also less games lost by one run. With pitching like ours, anything is possible."

Bancroft, as claimed is the key man of the club. If he is the old Banay, which is to be doubted, he can and will make an infield out of any three men. The Braves say he has slipped beyond all reason but Bubba only smiles at that crack.

The infield are Del Bissonette at first base; Jimmy Partridge at second and Harry Ricondo at third. The latter has been up and down in a freight elevator for the last six months, year with Al's, winter the time and he is down enough down here to take the place away from Howard Ferguson.

Darby Flowers, former Cardinal, is available in case Bancroft bags down by Len Lader, of Jacksonville and New Orleans; "Chief" Corcoran, Kansas City, and Hal Lee, are not for this life, apparently. Bill Rhinel, another infielder, already has been sent to Atlanta.

"Bancroft is the key man of the ball club, not the penitentiary.

Indoor Nature Study

Children Can Care Leaves, Flowers, and Birds
In Preparation for Arbor Day

INTEREST of elementary school girls drawing the design to be used for the study of leaves and flowers in the early Spring season by placing it on the soap and running it over the lines with a sharp pencil. Remove the paper and it is a new and unforgettable outline deeper with a pen or ink by their parents at home or school until it is about a sixteenth of an inch deep. This is by far the easiest and most effective way to draw leaves and flowers in a new and original way. Subjects particularly suited to this are from different botanical treatises.

To have the design is transferred to the soap, the soap is heated to the point of melting, and then the thin layer of leaves and flowers is cut away, leaving the outlines of the plants. The design is then placed in a shallow dish of warm water and the edges cleaned, and the soap is melted again.

Other water colors or oil paint may be used for coloring. It may be used for coloring. The permanent finish is desired, apply lacquer or varnish on a coat of white shellac.

Patterns for these designs, and booklets on soap sculpture, may be obtained free of charge by writing to Children's Service Bureau, 56 East 11th Street, New York City.

Wrestling Fans In Chicago Uncertain Over Pending Match

CHICAGO, Mar. 12.—(INS)—Wrestling fans have invited me to the Ed Lowe Gymnasium, March 15, to attend the tournament in Chicago, as well as the duals at the gym, which the Chicago fans want to see. It is a question whether Charley can find Ed Lowe by noon to give him a chance to come to a decision on that matter. I am to try to get a definite date for Charley to come to a purely defensive fight for Sharkey. He may take a long time to come down the home stretch. His best chance to win decisively is to exert all his skill and strength in a smashing attack early in the fight.

Sharkey is the faster man and by far the better boxer. He can punch effectively with both hands and should be able to break up Risks' headlong attacks by simple superior number of those brief

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

A SAFE FORTRESS:—As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people from henceforth even for ever.—Psalm 125:2.

PRAYER:—O God, Thou God of our salvation, Thou art our Keeper; therefore the sun shall not smite us by day nor the moon by night.

THE ASTROLOGER IN THE WELL

There once was an Astrologer who fell,
By inadvertence, down a well.
"If you can't see before your feet," they said,
"How can you read above your head?"

Here I might stop, and leave the allegory.
To make its own impression, few there be
Who do not hanker now and then
After the fond belief that men
Can read that secret Book of Destiny.

Of which blind Homer and his tell-taws told—
Chance was its name in days of old,

Now Providence (for 'tis the same).
Yet if its dictates went by rules decipherable by the Schools, Then we should call it by some other name.

Than chance, lot, fortune, all of Haphazard and uncertainty.
Which imply

certainly,
And us for him, whose sovereign mind
Orders all things, and nothing un-designed.

How should His hidden purpose be divined?

Would He print plain in starry syllables
That which the Night of Time in cloud conceals?

With what intent?—to exercise the wit
Of those who on the Spheres and Globes have writ?

From fixed and certain ills Man kind to save?

Or spoil our pleasure in what good we have?

By expectation to rule off it bloom,

And turn it into evil?—come believe it not! Twere error, nay twere sin.

Sanford merchants will offer exceptional values for a dollar in The Herald on Thursday and Friday. Watch for their messages.

The Herald only carries 36 potential advertisers. We hope the others will abundance quickly so that we may have enough to choose from in June.

We are having too many beautiful trees destroyed by some of these people who take great delight in starting fires out in the woods. There should be some way to stop this stunt.

The new Sanford Atlantic National Bank has made the business section at the corner of Magnolia and First Street much more attractive by planting shrubbery and trees in the parkways. This step, we hope, will be followed by others in the downtown district.

The J. C. Penny Company announces today that they are soon to open a new store in Sanford. Big companies like this, indeed, make mistakes. Sanford is sure to be a big trading center and they know it. The entry of the new company is another indication of more prosperous times ahead.

The greatest crop of celery in Sanford's history is being marketed from that place. While it is true that the pests from Sanford, it shows the outsider or visitor that the climate is favorable for a variety of circumstances, indeed, which could compete to keep such a town back for very long. —Umatilla Tribune.

The Driver's Fault

A fast passenger train rightfully striving to keep modern high-speed schedule roars down upon a grade crossing. The crossing guard waves his red flag at an approaching motorist, but for some reason the driver fails to halt his car and is struck by the train.

Perhaps the driver and his passengers are killed or seriously injured or perhaps by a miracle they escape and only the car is demolished. The engineer and railroad officials are sincerely sorry the accident occurred. They point out that the motorist did not heed the warning given by their guard. They say the railroad has done its best.

But has it? In most larger cities and in some other Central Florida communities the old-fashioned guard method has been replaced by automatic safety devices which the motorist cannot overlook.

Admitting the driver is to blame, is not his life worth the best protection the railroad can provide? Other cities have obtained protection after a series of grade-crossing mishaps such as have occurred in Sanford in the past six months. Orlando with her grade crossings guarded by automatic lights is an example.

The City Commission had a conference with railroad officials concerning the installation of safety devices only a week before the accident at Rand's Siding occurred. Nothing came of it. Since the accident it seems, another conference should be in order.

Railroad and city should find some means of protecting the careless motorist as well as the wary one. With the human element removed from the problem and a sure automatic piece of machinery substituted, the railroad would tend to clear itself of blame and place it upon the motorist who deserves the blind device the railroad has installed for his protection.

The Herald hopes another bad accident will not be required to get the necessary action.

The Joys Of Accuracy

In one of his recent widely published articles Dr. Frank Crane says that a common fault and a common element of weakness is the habit of exaggeration. He recalls the time when we heard a young floozy say that upon such-and-such an occasion she nearly died or that there were millions of people at the ball game, or some other manifest exaggeration.

It is so easy to stretch the story a little in order to make it sound better than a great many people do all the time. A common occurrence frequently becomes a happening of major importance in the minds of some individuals. The relative importance of an event is often lost by a tendency to overdo in describing what took place.

"This is a habit," says Dr. Crane, "that is easily slipped into, but it is an element of weakness."

"The trouble is that people get to discrediting your statements and are apt to believe nothing you say. They think that you always exaggerate everything."

"The Christian Science Monitor points out that one of the values of studying arithmetic is to become accustomed to the joys of accuracy.

"If one will acquire the habit of stating as nearly as it is possible exactly what is the fact, his reputation for stating the facts cleanly once established, it will be a great element of strength."

"Profanity and over-exaggeration and extreme optimism always show that one person contains no information."

"Always state the fact you can just exactly what occurred. Accustom yourself to accuracy and modest claim."

"Then you will be credited with the habit of truth telling and people will believe what you say."

"There may be joy, a certain kind of joy, in exaggeration. It may appeal to the imagination to over-state things."

"But there is as much pleasure after we get to it, in being accurate and in telling only what is true."

WHEN FRIENDSHIP COOLS

TALLAHASSEE NEWS

Not long ago an old friend of mine, a widowed widow, a British actress, moved here to live. She is a woman of some weighty and stony wisdom. We sat talking and she spoke of some of the things that she had learned in her life.

He was speaking of two men, very friendly with each other, who were friends. There was a certain bond between them, and two reasons why they should be friends, a natural and sentimental. Their taste were the same. The same pastime, pastimes. Their ideals were the same. Their opinions, their likes and dislikes. Their way of life was the same. —A son, grandchild, all the usual and familiar things.

But suddenly something happened, something that I do not understand. Neither knew exactly what of me, and grandchild, neither could put his finger on the wrong. It was just that something had cooled. When we met again the next day, the man stood lame, I will not say lame, but the lameness was evident. And when we went in their parlor and sat down, he did not speak.

And by and by there was a silence. Then he began to speak again. The ship ceased altogether. It was a total cessation of the man's speech. Tragedy. Neither wanted it. Both regretted it. The man did not desire to avoid it. But there did get to be a premium on silence.

Both were silent. The man's silence was the greater. He was silent because he did not know what to say. He was silent because he did not know what to do.

Friendship had cooled. When we met again the next day, the man stood lame, I will not say lame, but the lameness was evident. And when we went in their parlor and sat down, he did not speak.

Friendship had cooled. When we met again the next day, the man stood lame, I will not say lame, but the lameness was evident. And when we went in their parlor and sat down, he did not speak.

And by and by there was a silence. Then he began to speak again. The ship ceased altogether. It was a total cessation of the man's speech. Tragedy. Neither wanted it. Both regretted it. The man did not desire to avoid it. But there did get to be a premium on silence.

Both were silent. The man's silence was the greater. He was silent because he did not know what to say. He was silent because he did not know what to do.

Mrs. Berg Entertains Organ Club Members

Richard Barthelmes, the star of "The Patent Leather Kid," at the Milane Theatre, today following its sensational run on Broadway, has ridden in racing automobiles, airplanes, balloons and speeding locomotives, but he got the greatest thrill of his life when he took his first ride in a tank.

Barthelmes was with "The Patent Leather Kid" company at Camp Lewis, Washington, when he was taken over the trenches and through pine woods in a tank. When the wild ride ended, he insisted on driving it, and was accommodated.

They cleared the field for him, but Barthelmes controlled the unwieldy machine from the start, and when he descended from its grimy interior, suggested an obstacle race of tanks through broken country as the thrill of the encounter.

Barthelmes got the greatest "kick" from steering the tank. Turn it, you stop the locomotive on one side, and the other continues going. The effect is similar to running an automobile off a highway into the sand on one side. Usually the automobile turns turtle. The tank cannot do this, but its antics are just about as eccentric.

"What a fine toy a tank would be on a rainy night," Barthelmes declared.

St. Agnes Guild Holds Lenten Study Class

The Lenten study classes being held by the St. Agnes Guild are proving exceptionally interesting and are being conducted by Mrs. Clyde Derby, Mrs. Heyward Walker, Mrs. Raymond Phillips and Mrs. Alfred Lewis. On Monday afternoon a short business session preceded the classes and were brought to the attention of the members. The spring wardrobe for the girls at St. Mary's School on the Mountain which is provided by the St. Agnes Guild, was discussed and planned. It was also voted to donate $1 toward the layette which is being conducted by the Women's Guild, for the Lenten Box to be sent to Tennessee. An appeal for sheets for school was made by Mrs. S. M. Lloyd and it was voted to end them.

Among the members attending Monday's class were Mrs. Braxton L. Pease, Mrs. S. M. Lloyd, Mrs. Clyde Derby, Mrs. Raymond C. Phillips, Mrs. Clarke Leonard, Mrs. R. W. Pearson Jr., Mrs. John W. McEachern, Mrs. Monroe R. Hutton, Mrs. Ernest Hill, Mrs. Walfred Lewis, Mrs. Heyward Walker, Mrs. Clara Matthews, Mrs. George M. Roy, Mrs. M. Minardi, Mrs. W. A. Lettier, Mrs. Grover C. Cochran, and Mrs. Mortimer Glover.

SCHOOL TO GIVE PLAY

"The Marriage of Miss Jill Pumpkintenter and Mr. Jack Spratt Jr." to be presented Friday evening at eight o'clock at the South Side Primary School under the auspices of the South Side Parent Teachers Association will be a most interesting entertainment, just a little different from the usual plays. Little tots from five to eight years of age will portray the characters in the Mother Goose Wedding. There will be nine flower girls, bridesmaids, and other attendants present at the wedding, as well as the relatives of the contracting parties. The minister will keep the audience laughing as he solemnly tries to get over the big words and asks some rather deep questions. It will be an all star cast.

A short business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. J. H. Colclough, was held, and it was decided to sponsor the Y. W. A. mission class for young girls. The visiting committee reported that a large number of calls had been made during the past week, and announced that at the next meeting the annual election of officers for the ensuing year would take place and all members are asked to be present. The next meeting will be held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. A. Zachary on Park Avenue, with Mrs. Zachary and Mrs. J. H. Colclough as hostesses. The members responded to roll call with incidents concerning St. Patrick's day.

After all business had been transacted an unusually delightful social hour was enjoyed. The guests were asked into the dining room where refreshments of a delicious coffee course with sandwiches, fruits, sauted nuts and coffee were served. The tea table was most attractive in its appointments and was decorated with a handsome floral center and centered with a low silver bowl of verbenas, snap dragons and other spring flowers, and prigs of asparagus ferns. The coffee service was passed over by Mrs. Francis E. Bolz. Assisting the hostess in serving were Mrs. W. D. Gardner, Mrs. Guy S. Schuman and Mrs. E. P. Cooper.

Little Bradford Bear was the center of attraction for a few minutes when his mother brought him into the drawing room to attend his first party. Members present were Mrs. J. Shadwick Allen, Mrs. C. A. Anderson, Mrs. R. H. Beaird, Mr. Palmer, Mr. J. H. Bolz, Mrs. Lester Bay, Mr. F. J. Coetzee, Mr. R. F. Cording, Mr. J. H. Colclough, Mr. W. D. Gardner, Mr. T. L. Hale, Miss C. H. Cook, Miss Robert L. Gleason, Miss Tony Pittford, Mrs. Guy S. Schuman, Mrs. Robert Massie, Mrs. B. C. Moore, Mrs. A. Moncely, Mrs. Violette Williams, Mrs. A. Kent Rosser, Mrs. James G. Sizemore, Mrs. A. M. Phillips, Mrs. Clifford Walker, Mrs. W. A. Zachary, Miss Shirley J. N. S. Mrs. R. W. Evans, Mrs. Anna, Mrs. Mrs. Chas. Neumann and Mrs. Grounds.
