Four die in apartment fire

EAST BOSTON — Four people were killed and a child was in critical condition after a fire swept through three apartment buildings early Monday, sending some 40 people in night clothes running into the street during the middle of a snow squall, officials said.

The child, whose name was not released, was reported in critical condition at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. Two other people were being treated for smoke inhalation, Boston Fire officials said.

The blaze destroyed a three-story wooden dwelling and damaged two adjacent buildings in a heavily-populated neighborhood.

The names of the dead were not released and the cause of the fire was not known, authorities said.

Would-be pet rescuer burned

SOUTHGATE, Calif. — A man escaped from a burning trailer with his wife early Monday but suffered first-degree burns when he ran back into the home in a futile attempt to save their pet bird from the flames, authorities said.

The man, identified as Jerry Smith, was sleeping in the trailer at 10001 W. Frontage Road when smoke seeped into the bedroom and his wife began coughing, awakening the couple, Los Angeles County Fire Battalion Chief Vincent Canales said.

Shuttle enters day four

NASA stays mum on landing date

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — The Atlantis astronauts worked through their fourth day in orbit Monday with no word from NASA on when the military mission might end or on the status of a "spy in the sky" satellite presumably launched over the weekend.

The shuttle's five astronauts, sources said, had been expected to deploy a high-tech radar reconnaissance satellite Saturday but with a total news blackout in effect, the status of the cargo, the five all-military crew members and the orbiter was a complete mystery.

Circling the globe every 92 minutes, the crew had put more than 1 million miles on Atlantis by Monday morning. NASA promised to reveal the ship's landing time 24 hours in advance but there was no immediate word from NASA on a possible Tuesday re-entry.

In keeping with the clandestine nature of the flight, NASA steadfastly stuck to a "no comment" policy regarding the 27th shuttle mission, which Soviet foreign ministry spokesman Gennadi Gerasimov described as an "unfortunate coincidence" in the days before Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's visit to this week to the United Nations.

"This particular spy in the sky was many months in preparation so I tend to think that it was not put into orbit as a welcome sign for Mr. Gorbachev's visit to this country," Gerasimov told United Press International in New York Sunday. "I think this was just an unfortunate coincidence."

The duration of Atlantis' mission, like all other details about the second post-Challenger flight, was classified. But before blastoff Friday,

Here's a switch; IRS has some money to give away

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

If you're missing some money, the Internal Revenue Service has some checks that it's looking to unload.

More than 3,200 refund checks worth $1.72 million belong to North and Central Florida taxpayers but were returned as undeliverable by the postal service, according to the IRS.

For Seminole County, 111 checks worth $24,131 have been returned. The checks belong to people with addresses in Sanford, Maitland, Casselberry, Altamonte Springs, Winter Springs, Longwood, Oviedo, Lake Mary, Chuluota and Winter Park.

The checks range from $1 to $39,581, the IRS said. The highest amount is due to a Melbourne taxpayer.

The IRS hopes to hear from the people who apparently did not notify it that they either had moved or changed their last names during the year.

"Every year, there are thousands of undelivered refunds, 80,000 in the nation," according to Amanda Michanczyk, IRS assistant public affairs officer in Jacksonville. In the nation, about $47 million is waiting to be claimed, she said.

This year, in North and Central Florida, there is nearly $1 million more in undelivered checks than in 1987, when 3,000 checks worth $730,000 were returned to the IRS as undeliverable, according to Michanczyk.

For Seminole County, this year's 111 undelivered checks are worth $24,131, or an average refund of $217. Last year, 96 refunds were undeliverable, amounting to $24,045, or an average of $250 per check.

Michanczyk said it's difficult to pinpoint the reason for the increase. It may be because of higher standard deductions in 1987 for a single person or bigger tax breaks, she said.

"There are individuals who have very big refunds," Michanczyk said.

The IRS makes a considerable effort to contact the individuals before resorting to advertising, she said. In fact, she said, before any newspapers publish the list, possibly more than 30 percent of the refunds already have been delivered to the taxpayers as a result of their efforts.

First, they're sent to the regional financial center in Birmingham, Ala., where they are canceled and a label is made which goes into the national computer center.

The IRS uses that label to credit the accounts, Michanczyk said.

The national computer center creates a label for the service center in Atlanta, Ga., which

TIED-UP MONEY

While most people get wrapped up in the forms and headaches of income tax returns, the IRS has just as much trouble on its end of the ledger.

The folks in Washington who manage the taxpayers' money are wrapped up in an excess of refund checks, most of which were returned as undeliverable.

The number of checks, what they're worth and where they're supposed to be delivered follow:

NOTE: The amount of the checks range in value from $1 to $39,581. IRS officials say 80 percent of the checks will eventually find their way to the rightful owners.

LOTTO jackpot rises to $26 million

TALLAHASSEE — The lack of a LOTTO winner for the third consecutive week means the jackpot for next Saturday's drawing will be at least $26 million. Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said Sunday.

Saturday night's drawing produced more than $25,000 winners of cash prizes, but no ticket sold matched all six winning numbers. A complete match of the numbers 12, 13, 21, 37, 38 and 49 would have guaranteed the winner at least $16 million. No winner means the jackpot rolls over to the next drawing.

"With a LOTTO jackpot estimated at $26 million, we may start the month of December with a touch of LOTTO fever," Paul said. "We're anticipating long lines at many lottery outlets near the end of the week."

The last grand prize jackpot winner was University of Miami architectural student Carlos Sanabria, 22, who won $8.3 million and was the fifth grand prize winner in a row.

The number of winners of $4.5 million in prize money from Saturday's drawing and the prize amounts for the three winning categories:

- 203 5-of-6 winners receive $5,885
- 14,976 4-of-6 winners receive $116,50
- 310,499 3-of-6 winners receive $5.50

Poll: North Florida most conservative

JACKSONVILLE — Residents of North Florida are more conservative than other Floridians on race relations, premarital sex and other social issues, a university poll shows.

The Florida International University-Florida Poll found social issues to be the only area where pronounced regional differences are apparent, the Florida Times-Union reported Sunday. No major regional differences were found in earlier polls on taxation, crime, growth, education and the environment.

"This is one area where the old stereotype of upstate-downstate differences are more pronounced," said J. Arthur Heise, director of FIU's Institute for Public Opinion Research. "Your folks (in North Florida) are a little more conservative than the rest of us."

The poll suggested residents of Central Florida are nearly as conservative as those in the north, while West Floridians are nearly as liberal as those from the south.

Among the poll's findings:

—Premarital sex. 30 percent of the North Floridians polled said sex before marriage is "always wrong." Only 20 percent of those in South Florida agreed with that statement, followed by 24 percent on the West Coast and 27 percent in Central Florida.

—Pornography. In North Florida, 48 percent of those polled said pornography should be banned. Totals for the rest of the state ranged from 34 to 40 percent.

—Race relations. Only 30 percent of the North Floridians polled said they would not mind if a son or daughter married someone of a different race. Elsewhere, 39.5 percent to 51 percent said they would not mind.

—Prayer in school. Sixty-four percent of those polled in the north disagreed with the Supreme Court decision banning prayer in school. Elsewhere, from 57 to 62 percent disagreed with the ruling.

—Immigration. Only 13 percent of those in the north said Florida's influx of people from other countries is a "good thing." Elsewhere, the approval rate ranged from 19 percent in Central Florida to 27 percent in South Florida.

Floridians statewide were in relative agreement on several issues, including obtaining a divorce (26 percent said it should be easier to do), busing to achieve racial equality in schools (about 66 percent opposed) and the Equal Rights Amendment (about 15 percent opposed).

Reasons to witness executions vary

TAMPA — Although virtually anyone in Florida can witness an execution, there appears to be little interest in all but the most notorious cases, a published report said Sunday.

Since the state resumed the death penalty in 1979, about 200 people have watched 19 executions. State law requires that at least 12 people be present each time the death penalty is administered, said The Tampa Tribune.

Most residents say they favor the death penalty, but the state Department of Corrections hasn't been overwhelmed by requests from the public, the newspaper said.

"We've got about 50 or 60 requests from people who want to see Ted Bundy executed," said Kerry Flack, a corrections administrator who handles the requests. "There has been more interest in his than anybody else's."

Bundy killed two Chi Omega sorority sisters at Florida State University in January 1978 and later killed a Lake City girl.

The department usually gets about a dozen requests, mainly from people who have some special interest in a case, said the Tribune.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Release of child abuse records refused

United Press International

BARTOW — Officials have refused to release the details of an investigation into the death of an abused toddler who was kicked in the head by his mother, who bore another child the day her son died.

Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services officials have confirmed the agency conducted an investigation of abuse involving Joshua Collins, whose mother, Mary Lee Collins, was charged with first-degree murder in his death.

But such investigations are exempt from Florida's open records statutes, meaning it would be against state law to reveal certain details, they said.

Meanwhile, 22-month-old Joshua, who died Nov. 25 after being kicked in the head Nov. 23, was buried Saturday. Police said his mother kicked him before leaving that Wednesday to deliver her baby.

Two days later, her boyfriend carried the dying child and his 4-year-old brother, Nathan, to the hospital to pick up their mother and her newborn child.

When Collins checked out of Tampa General Hospital she discovered the unconscious baby in the car and immediately ran with the boy's body back into the hospital, but it was too late.

HRS officials have said that before Joshua's death 53 visits were made to the Collins home but, because of state law, have refused to disclose when the visits occurred.

They have said that guardians were appointed by a judge to represent Joshua's interests in court, and that the Human Development Center of Pasco, a non-profit mental health agency, sent counselors to teach Collins parenting skills and to work with her in times of crisis.

The agency is forbidden by law from revealing any specific information on its cases, said HRS General Counsel John Miller.

The law states in part: "In order to protect the rights of the child and his parents or (guardians), all records concerning reports of child abuse or neglect ... and all records generated as a result of such reports, shall not be disclosed except as specifically authorized by law."

The illegal disclosure of certain information on an HRS child-abuse case is a second-degree misdemeanor which carries a maximum penalty of 60 days in jail, six months probation and a $500 fine.

Bill Chamberlin, director of the Brechner Center for Freedom of Information at the University of Florida, a clearinghouse for media-law information, said public scrutiny of government is necessary for accountability, but he said he understands the rationale behind keeping HRS case records secret.

"In dealing with some public issues, there's a struggle between providing information for accountability and the need to protect individuals that come under the responsibility of that agency," Chamberlin said.

The problem is that unscrupulous officials can hide misdeeds behind confidentiality laws, but writing a law balancing the need for public access to records with the need to protect the identity of the child is tricky, he said.

HRS external affairs director Michael Powers said the agency is accountable because its records are available to police, and cases involving deaths automatically are reviewed by the department's inspector general, whose reports are public. He said the particulars of the case will be made public should the case come to trial.

He said HRS would rather release all of the records at once, but the agency also must protect its clients.

"We're here to help these people, not to turn them into spectacles," Powers said. "We always want to say more than we can."

Police say HRS to blame for 5-month-old's death

United Press International

AVON PARK — Avon Park police say much of the blame for the death of a five-month-old infant belongs to the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Tammy Janette Loray, 15, has been charged with killing her son, Christopher C. Cook Jr., the Tampa Tribune reported Sunday. Investigators told the Tribune the child's death could have been prevented if HRS had informed them Loray had once again run away from her foster home.

Police spokesmen also said HRS officials attempted to block the criminal investigation of Cook's death. An HRS official denied that allegation.

The police said HRS knew two weeks before Cook died that Loray had run away from her foster home. Loray had left foster homes at least seven times before, and each time she ran directly to her boyfriend's home, where her son lived.

HRS had obtained a court order barring Loray from unsupervised visits with Cook because of their suspicion that she had abused her daughter, Marcia, Cook and Marcia, born when Loray was 12 years old, lived with Loray's 23-year-old boyfriend, Christopher Cook.

When Loray ran away in the past she almost always went to her boyfriend's apartment in Avon Park, where police routinely picked her up and sent her back to her foster home in Polk County.

Over the past two years, the Highlands County Sheriff's Office had picked Loray up at the home twice and Avon Park police found her there about five times, said police spokeswoman Sheila Green.

"It was a real shocker when our investigators found out that she was on runaway status," Green said. "It seems like HRS didn't do a whole lot to protect the children."

"They (HRS officials) knew she was abusive and they knew when she ran away that was the first place she would go. They just didn't tell us."

Green and Avon Park Police Chief Joe Silva both said HRS attempted to block the police probe of the baby's death. HRS refused to allow police access to records in the case, and refused to let them speak with Loray or even reveal where she was.

"They tried to protect her from our investigators," Green said. "You'd think they'd be trying to help us, given there was a death of a child involved."

Investigators appealed without success to top officials in the Sebring and Lakeland offices of HRS.

They eventually turned to the State Attorney's Office, which told HRS officials that charges would be filed against two HRS employees if they did not cooperate with the Avon Park police investigation, Silva said.

HRS spokesman Tony Edwards declined comment on the case, but denied HRS would block a police investigation.

Yost urges 'politically connected' drug czar

By STEVE GEIMANN
United Press International

OPA-LOCKA — Coast Guard Commandant Adm. Paul A. Yost, a key figure in the nation's drug war, urged appointment of a well-connected, "powerful" politician as drug czar rather than a drug specialist.

Yost said appointment of the drug czar, a position opposed by President Reagan but created by the Congress, should help in the fight to reduce drug use, but only if the individual has a high profile.

"I think that the drug czar needs to be an individual who has the confidence of not only the president but all of the Cabinet secretaries who are involved in this thing," Yost said. "He needs to be a person, a man or a woman, who has good political credentials and is well respected by that level of government."

"It can't be somebody whose just maybe very knowledgeable about drugs. We've got lots of people knowledgeable about drugs. I has got to be someone somebody who interfaces well on an equal level with all the Cabinet secretaries."

Without naming a candidate, Yost mentioned Chief of Staff-designate James Baker, Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, former Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger or current defense chief Frank Carlucci.

"I think that the drug czar needs to be an individual who has the confidence of not only the president but all of the Cabinet secretaries who are involved in this thing."

Adm. Paul A. Yost

Yost said Vice President-elect Dan Quayle, although barred from holding the job, would have the status he feels is necessary to accomplish the job.

"I think the vice president could fit very well, because he would have that level of authority," Yost said. "It needs to be someone powerful."

Yost discussed the drug czar during an interview at the Guard's Miami Air Station at Opa-locka Airport, where the commandant met with commanders to discuss his five-day tour of the Caribbean.

The commandant said drug interdiction efforts now account for 27 percent of the Coast Guard's national operation, as cutters and aircraft intercept airplanes and vessels headed to the United States carrying drugs.

Yost said his forces are frustrated by a lack of resources to spot the smugglers in the air. Within 18 months, he said, new sophisticated detection radar should improve detection and raise the level of risk for smugglers.

When smugglers perceive there is a greater risk of capture, Yost said, they will be discouraged from flying their shipment through the detection network.

But even with those devices, Yost said the national drive to halt drug smuggling will require a new attitude in society, a change unlikely to occur for 20 or 30 years.

"We need to wait, not for your kids, but your kids' kids to have the attitude drugs are bad, their dumb," Yost said. "We're a generation, maybe a generation and a half away from that."

Yost said the Coast Guard's work apparently has succeeded in cutting the flow of marijuana into the country, although cocaine — now the drug of choice — remains a principal shipment.

Coast Guard patrols have discouraged the shipment of marijuana by boat, and the commandant said smugglers have resorted to more expensive means of shipment to get their marijuana into the United States.

"The supply of marijuana is down in the United States, and the price of marijuana is up," Yost said. "It means we're effective. We're hurting them."

She was arrested at the Oviedo police station. The attack occurred outside Duncan's house, Hatcher, who suffered a 6-inch long cut on his left shoulder, and a cut lip, was treated at Winter Park Memorial Hospital, Winter Park. Man threatens group at his home

SANFORD — A man, whom Seminole County sheriff's deputies report threatened four persons at his house with a gun and who fired a shot through a door, is charged with aggravated assault with a firearm.

Warren Bynam, 63, of 201 Collins Drive, rural Sanford, was arrested after he left home, following the incident at about 8 p.m. Sunday. The four persons who said they were threatened at Bynam's house told deputies he also threatened to kill an unidentified woman who lives on Lake Dot Circle, Sanford. Deputies reported finding Bynam near Lake Dot Circle. He was arrested at his house and is also charged with discharging a firearm in a house and carrying a concealed firearm. Deputies did not report a motive for the reported gunplay and threats.

Deputies battered, escapee recaptured

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man who got into a confrontation with Seminole County sheriff's deputies is accused of battering deputies at Spirit Bar, 1146 State Road 436, Altamonte Springs. A couple came to his aid and were jailed, but the accused assailant fled to be recaptured two hours later.

Dennis Glen Anderson, 32, of 802 Camella St., Altamonte Springs, was charged with escape, battery on a policeman, resisting arrest with violence and disorderly intoxication. He was arrested at home at 7:46 p.m. Bond is $5,000.

Arrested at the scene of the fight and charged with resisting without violence were Timothy Wayne Anderson, 27, and Laurie Ann Anderson, 26, 2112 Sandy Lane, Apopka.

Roommate reportedly battered

SANFORD — A man accused of smacking his roommate when she tried to leave their house was charged with battery at about 2:03 a.m. Sunday.

Emoral Grant, 34, of 2023 McCarthy Ave., rural Sanford, was arrested at home after Sherry Skiver, 24, of the same address, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she was battered.

Man arrested for burglary

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man found sleeping in a vacant house at 634 Moss Drive, rural Altamonte Springs, is charged with burglary.

Russell Edmund Doughty, 24, of 604 Moss Drive, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 4:38 a.m. Sunday. He is accused in a 12:16 a.m. Sunday burglary to Gracie's Child Care Center, 710 Orange Ave., Altamonte Springs. Deputies reported he is also a suspect in an Altamonte Springs police case, a burglary to Scotty's State Road 436.

Several arrested on DUI charges

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

- Vernon William Lewis, 46, of Evans, Ga., was arrested at 11 p.m. Saturday after he was seen driving erratically on Eagle Circle, Casselberry.
- David Brian Furtado, 23, of Orlando, at 4:06 a.m. Sunday, after his car with faulty lights was stopped on State Road 436.
- Michael Joseph Dria, 42, of Valrico, at 10:55 p.m. Sunday on 20th Street, Sanford, after he pursued another car from Casselberry to Sanford and then allegedly almost ran over a Sanford policeman involved in the traffic stop. He is also charged with aggravated assault with a motor vehicle on a policeman.

Man arrested after writing threatening letter

SANFORD — A 70-year-old rural Sanford man free on bond after alleged attacks on neighbors with walking canes is jailed again today.

Merle Eugene Parker, of 5456 Lake Ave., was early today charged in connection with writing a threatening letter to a neighbor involved in one of the walking cane incidents. He is also accused of standing in a roadway near his house dressed in black tights, a red cape and a mask as he allegedly fired shots into the air on Nov. 26. Seminole County Sheriff's Capt. Roy Hughey said because Parker is accused of wearing a mask during the reported gunplay that charge is upgraded from a misdemeanor to a felony.

Parker, who was arrested in downtown Sanford, is charged with writing threats to kill or do bodily harm, and improper exhibition and discharging a firearm in public. Bond is $3,000, but since Parker was free on bond when arrested, it is expected that a judge today may order him held without bond, deputies said.

The Seminole State Attorney issued warrants for Parker's arrest Friday, but he wasn't located until this morning, sheriff's deputies said.

Parker has been involved in a dispute with some of his neighbors for more than a decade. On Nov. 26, he was charged with aggravated assault after allegedly hitting with a plastic cane a van in which Stephen Pfeiffer, 28, of 5591 Lake Ave., was riding with Eric Esterson, 44, of 1235 Myrtle St., Sanford. Parker told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that he too had been attacked. No one else was arrested in that case.

On Nov. 28, sheriff's deputies allege Parker wrote a threatening letter to Pfeiffer, whom Parker calls "Mr. Butcher."

In October, Parker was also arrested for throwing a deadly missile, a metal walking stick, at another vehicle near his house. He was free on $5,000 when he was jailed the second time. After the second arrest he was also released on bond.

The incidents all occurred in Parker's neighborhood, where sheriff's deputies report, he tries to stop speeding cars.

Woman accused of shooting at neighbor

By SUSAN LODEN

SANFORD — A 29-year-old woman accused of firing two shots at a neighbor during a dispute Sunday is charged with attempted murder and is held without bond in the Seminole County jail.

Kathi Denise Williams, of 17 Higgins Terrace, also is charged with use of a firearm in a felony and use of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Sanford police report that at about 2:41 p.m. Sunday, Williams was involved in a dispute with Casta Layet Turner, 24, of 23 Higgins Terrace, outside Turner's house.

They argued over a fight between their two sons, police said.

Williams, police report, went into her house and came back out with a hand gun. As Turner fled into her own house, police said Williams fired two shots. One shot hit the door and the other hit a screen door. There were no injuries, police said.

Blackaller wins regatta

SANFORD — America's Cup skipper Tom Blackaller, of Sausalito, Calif., sailed to victory Sunday on Lake Monroe, capturing his second consecutive Red Lobster Cup Regatta championship. The regatta, now celebrating its 16th year, is one of several leading up to January 2nd's Citrus Bowl game. A record 489 vessels competed on six courses Sunday.

For Blackaller, skipper of the USA in the '87 America's Cup trials, it was a first place regatta win in the Hunter 23 celebrity division. Ed Baird, of St. Petersburg, finished second and Ed Adams of New Port, R.I. took third place.

Jeff Alter of Capistrano Beach, Calif., won the Hobie 21 celebrity division. Alter is the youngest son of Hobie Alter who designed the Hobie Catamaran in the 1960s.

Bill Whitehurst of Fort Walton Beach finished second and Charlie Johnson of Jacksonville took third in the Hobie 21. John Gardner, lead organizer for the event, said Monday morning, scores were still being tabulated.

Pentagon reportedly let pilots use unsafe goggles

United Press International

SANTA ANA, Calif. — At least 134 servicemen died and 62 military helicopters crashed in the past 10 years while pilots wore night-vision goggles the Pentagon knew were unsafe, it was reported Sunday.

In crash after crash, qualified military pilots wearing the light-amplifying goggles at night flew their helicopters blindly into mountains, wires, trees, oceans and one another, the Orange County Register reported in a copyright story based on a six-month investigation.

In 52 crashes since 1978, 62 helicopters have been destroyed, a loss of more than $180 million in equipment, according to reports obtained from the U.S. Army Safety Center, the U.S. Navy Safety Center and the U.S. Air Force Inspection and Safety Center.

Most of the crashes occurred during difficult, ground-skimming flights while pilots looked through outdated goggles that were not fully tested for flight, the paper said.

At least 134 servicemen were killed and 103 others were injured, the paper said. Forty-one of the crashes involved Army flights, eight involved the Marine Corps and the Air Force reported three, the paper said. The Navy refused to fly helicopters with the goggles.

The goggles were designed and tested for ground troops and truck driving. Their designers and manufacturers never considered their flightworthiness.

The Pentagon has blamed all but two of the night-vision goggles crashes on pilot error. The finding has allowed the continuation of using the goggles for flying and a Pentagon official said there are no common links to the crashes, which would justify grounding the goggles.

But several recent crashes and inadequacies in the goggles have led Rep. Frank McCloskey, D-Ind., a member of the House Armed Services Committee, to request a congressional investigation. That request is pending.

The Register examined more than 50 military crash reports over the last decade, declassified at the newspaper's request and obtained through the federal Freedom of Information Act.

The paper also received military manuals, training guides and interviewed dozens of pilots and night-vision experts.

The research, the paper said, showed that Pentagon officials were aware of the dangers, but chose to risk flying with infantry goggles because of the tactical advantage night flying offers.

"I kept saying, use these for the mission they were designed for — driving," said former Army engineer Edward Firth, who presided over development of the infantry night-vision goggles before retiring in 1974. "They just don't give you enough to fly at high speeds. It was an Army decision to put them in helicopters. They are aware of the risks."

Firth told the paper the goggles' maximum safe speed limit is 35 mph, far less than typical helicopter speeds of 100 mph.

Military officials told the Register accidents should decrease during the next three years, when the old infantry goggles gradually are replaced by improved, state-of-the-art systems designed specifically for pilots.

Both types electronically amplify starlight and moonlight, displaying green-colored images of night landscapes on two tiny video screens embedded in a binocular-like goggle. The new goggles are two to four times more powerful than the old devices, but they cost twice as much and will remain in short supply for several years.

Meanwhile, Army and Marine spokesmen told the paper the ability to fly at night — even with flawed goggles — is crucial to national security.

"We believe we have to keep doing this so we can be ready when the time comes," said Lt. Gen. Charles H. Pitman.

Actor Busey undergoes surgery after motorcycle accident

United Press International

CULVER CITY, Calif. — Actor Gary Busey, who won an Academy Award nomination in 1978 for his electrifying performance in "The Buddy Holly Story," was in critical condition following brain surgery for severe injuries he suffered in a motorcycle accident Sunday, officials said.

Busey, 44, lost control of his Harley Davidson motorcycle about 11:40 a.m. while traveling westbound along Washington Boulevard in Culver City, a Los Angeles suburb, police Sgt. Karin Reagan said.

The former college football player from Goose Creek, Texas, fell from the motorcycle and struck his unprotected head against a curb, sustaining extensive head trauma, Reagan said.

"Our investigators have not been able to interview Mr. Busey and we don't know what happened in the accident," the sergeant said. She added, however, that no other vehicles were involved in the accident.

Busey was taken to Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, where he was in critical condition late Sunday following 90 minutes of brain surgery, hospital spokesman Ron Wise said. Wise would not elaborate on the operation.

Earlier, doctors performed a CAT scan — a method for diagnosing brain and other soft-tissue disorders — to determine the extent of damage to the actor's brain. Results of those tests were not available to the press.

Busey, a resident of Malibu, gained widespread fame for his role as rock 'n' roll legend Buddy Holly. But drug abuse and an inability to cope with the sudden success quickly reduced the strapping actor from instant stardom to instant has-been.

Before starring in the title role of the Holly biography, Busey was just another young actor working in second-rate movies. His credits included "Dirty Little Billy," "Lolly Madonna" and "Gumball Rally."

A big, strong former college football player, Busey has shambled through Hollywood like an out-of-control bear. He began drinking too much alcohol and tapped into drugs.

His success with "The Buddy Holly Story" was followed by a series of box-office disappointments: "Foolin' Around," "Straight Time," "Big Wednesday" and "Carney."

Fireman injured in apartment blaze

DELTONA — One firefighter sustained second-degree burns in a fire apparently caused by an electrical problem in a four-unit apartment house early Sunday. Two of the units were destroyed and damage was estimated at $100,000.

The fire, which was reported at 2:51 a.m., began in attic wiring over the kitchen of Apt. B and quickly spread to the kitchen, destroying much of it, said Bob Stevens, Volusia County fire inspector.

The tenant, Robert Schuman, was uninjured. Stevens said the investigators originally thought the fire began on a kitchen stove, which was destroyed, but found no evidence to support that theory. The fire spread through the attic into the adjacent, unoccupied Apt. A, destroying much of the ceiling and roof of that apartment, Stevens said. Stevens said the fire was brought under control at 3:44 a.m.

The fire caused an estimated $75,000 in damage to the building and $25,000 in damage to the contents, Stevens said.

Volusia County fire Capt. David Faer was injured when Apt. B "flashed" — burst into flames — causing second-degree burns on his face and shoulder, a fire official said. He was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital, treated and released.

Homework poses boon for people

Should a woman who knits skillfully be allowed to pick up a few extra dollars by doing piece work in her home for a commercial company? Big Labor says no and through its power has imposed a narrow, self-serving restriction on the nation during the last 45 years.

At long last, the Labor Department has rescinded the ban against homework involving gloves, mittens, embroidery, buttons, buckles, handkerchiefs, and certain kinds of jewelry. This could clear the way for an expanding cottage industry in other goods and services.

The homework ban was imposed in 1943 by a Congress worried about workers being exploited in cramped, unsafe, and unhealthy working conditions. Although sweatshops were a problem several decades ago, there is practically no evidence now that homeworkers are being victimized by greedy employers.

On the contrary, the vast majority of persons who have circumvented the laws these many years by working in their homes have done so because it is more convenient and cost effective.

That many homeworkers are women with small children is a case in point. Who can blame them for wanting to earn some extra money without the expense and inconvenience of packing them off to day-care centers five days a week? It strikes us as perfectly reasonable for a mother to be able to work at her own pace in the home and to raise her children as well. Dissenting labor unions would have us believe that federally sanctioned homework will enable companies to evade the minimum-wage and child-labor laws. Nonsense. Actually, employers using in-home workers must be certified by the Labor Department and thereby required to comply with all federal statutes governing wages and hours.

What really bothers Big Labor, of course, is that homeworkers will not become dues-paying members of unions. And why should they? After all, they are semi-independent contractors, and working conditions pose no problem, inasmuch as these persons enjoy the comfort of their own homes. How then can the unions hold away over such individuals, much less exhort them to strike?

Nor does the unions' anxiety end there. They are worried about the proliferation of homework in such industries as telecommunications and information processing. As personal computers become more commonplace, opportunities will expand for a large, home-based, clerical work force. No wonder the AFL-CIO wants a total ban on all clerical work at home.

Predictably, several labor unions are threatening to mount a legal challenge against the Labor Department's homework decision. We must hope that the courts will reject any litigation that would restrict a budding enterprise that would benefit the economy and enable many families to have more control over their lives.

Random thoughts on ticket-splitting

WASHINGTON — Well folks, you've done it again — given the White House to the Republicans and Congress to the Democrats.

This business of ticket-splitting, which has been going on for most of the time since 1952, has the experts flummoxed. The pundits and the professors find it inherently illogical to vote for a chief executive with one ideology and program and then vote for lawmakers with opposing views who are likely to be in a position to block or override the president.

A number of theories have developed about ticket-splitting. One is that people do it to keep the president from becoming too dominant. This year, in fact, one reporter said a voter told him without prompting that he was splitting his ticket to support the constitutional concept of checks and balances.

Without examining that rather high-minded idea too closely, it does seem that there must be some other reasons for the ticket-splitting trend.

First, this really is a one-way phenomenon. Since 1952, it has involved Republican presidents matched with a Democratic Congresses. If voters consciously want to put reins on a new president, why didn't John Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson and Jimmy Carter have Republican congresses?

There may be a couple of clues there.

The first is that while the Democrats have held Capitol Hill majorities most of the time since 1932, it wasn't until recently that congressional turnover became relatively stable. In the 1930s, 50- or 75-seat party changes in the House and Senate shifts of 10 to 15 seats were not uncommon. In 1988, 98.5 percent of House and Senate incumbents — mostly Democrats — were re-elected. The second has to do with the political unity and the organizational structure of the two major parties.

On the former, the Republicans in recent years have had fewer glaring conflicts between regions, special interest groups and ideologies than the Democrats, who still have splits on major foreign and domestic policy issues.

Paradoxically, this may have helped Democrats running for Congress, state or local office. When their party nominates a perceived liberal for president, no one finds it odd when a conservative Democrat running for some other job simply ignores or even disowns the top of the ticket and runs on his own platform. Republicans, on the other hand, seem to expect everyone running on the GOP label to support the national candidates and platform.

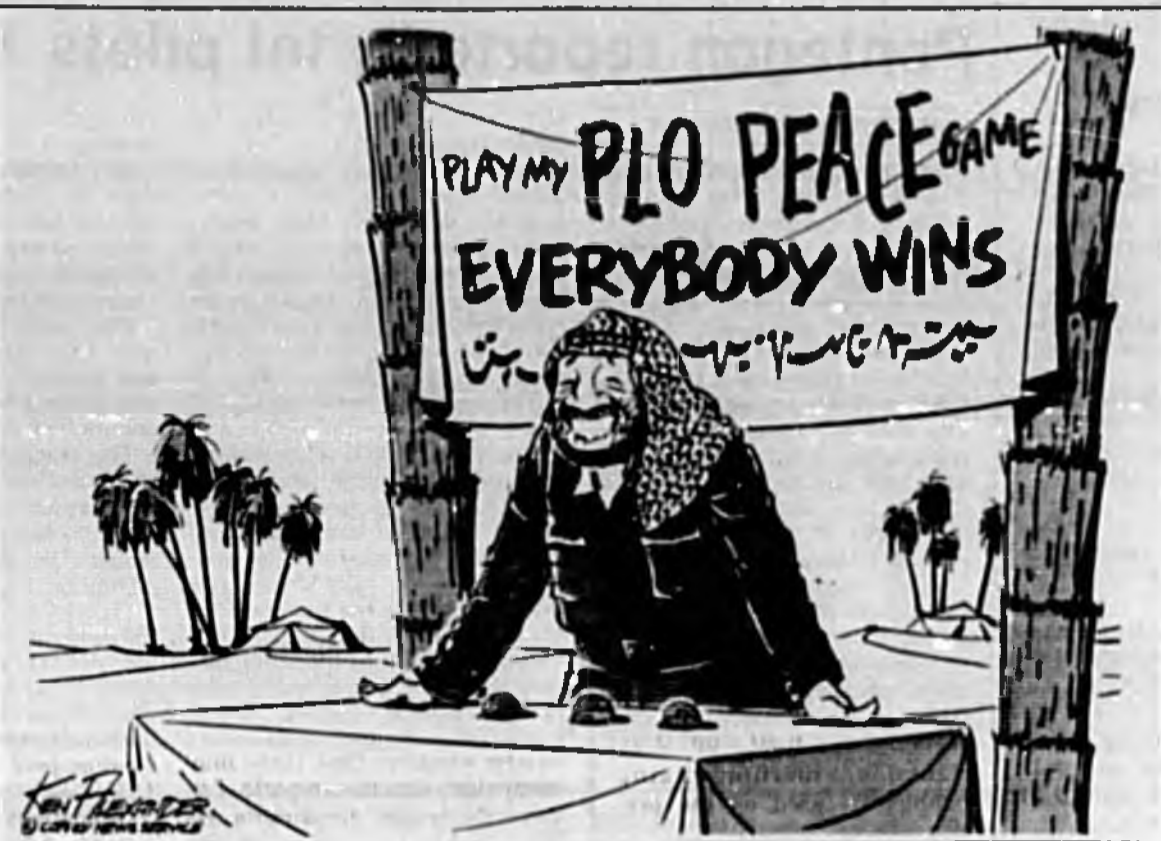

Also paradoxically, the Republicans, who oppose "top down" government as an article of faith, have a very centralized party structure. Every four years, permanently assigned Republican National Committee field operators who have been helping state GOPs build their strength between elections become part of the presidential campaign with the great advantage of "on the ground" experience.

The Democratic National Committee has no such sophisticated network in place, partly because state parties don't want Washington types telling them what to do. Its presidential candidates often have to send people into states they don't know much about to issue orders that more often than not offend the locals who must do the work.

Arnold Sawislak is a senior editor with UPI.

Republicans in recent years have had fewer glaring conflicts between regions.

GEORGE F. WILL

Arafat's apologists abound

WASHINGTON—A majority of the regimes represented at the United Nations—regimes that favor majority rule only at the United Nations, not at home—may schedule a General Assembly session in Geneva as a megaphone for the world's favorite terrorist, Yasser Arafat. This redundant act of self-diminishment would be the U.N.'s response to the Reagan administration's decision to deny Arafat a visa. That wise decision offers the Bush administration an opportunity for self-definition.

Libertarians, who consistently try to circumscribe society's right of self-defense, view the visa denial as a First Amendment issue—as though Arafat, who plays the media like a Stradivarius, has difficulty finding forums. Granting a visa would have required the administration to exempt Arafat from the law prohibiting entry into the country of people associated with terrorism.

Arafat's apologists do not deny his collegial association with terrorists and his support for terrorism. The executive committee of the PLO's "parliament" includes Abul Abbas, convicted of murder in connection with the killing of Leon Klinghoffer during the Achille Lauro hijacking.

The U.N.'s moral authority evaporated in the 1970s when it became dominated by radical Third World regimes. Since then, the inherent, incurable trouble with the United Nations has been glaringly, blaringly apparent.

The U.N. should be called the U.R.—United Regimes. The United Nations has little to do with representing nations, properly understood as peoples united by political and cultural affinities. One reason U.N. hostility toward Israel is so unremitting is that Israel is a real nation with a representative regime. To most U.N. members, whose national cohesion is based on coercion, Israel is either unintelligible or a reproach.

The PLO, an organization formally dedicated to the destruction of a U.N. member, was granted U.N. "observer" status in 1975, the year the United Nations passed the resolution equating Zionism and racism. Actually, Zionism is an especially defensible nationalism. It is the belief that the Jewish people, having survived a uniquely hazardous history, require the protection and deserve the fulfillment of revived nationhood.

On the principle that the best defense is a good offense, President-elect Bush and his nominee for Secretary of State, James Baker, should say to the United Nations: Go to Geneva—and do not return until you have rescinded the Zionism-as-racism resolution. That resolution is integral to the U.N.'s principal enterprise: the delegitimization of Israel.

In Israel and among Israel's friends there is anxiety about Bush and Baker. This is not because either is "anti-Israel," but because neither is equipped, by emotional makeup or intellectual capital, to be properly empathetic.

Bush lacks the sentimental and romantic streak that caused Ronald Reagan to respond to Israel as an embattled salient of shared values. The fact that Israel is an immensely important strategic asset should be sufficient reason for a U.S. policy of strong support. But rational policy sometimes needs to be supplemented by a visceral response.

Baker is having a "British" career, moving from one complicated portfolio to another. He is a quick study. But, like many British counterparts, he is an intelligent amateur heavily dependent on the permanent government. The State Department's permanent government regards Israel as an inconvenience, an impediment to the principle of utilitarian diplomacy; the least friction with the greatest number of nations.

Furthermore, Baker is the quintessential American politician. He believes that all problems have solutions achievable by splitting differences. And he liches for success measurable in the coin of agreements. These attributes are ingredients of impatience and, in the Middle East, trouble.

Bush and Baker can send a reassuring signal by taking the offensive. Before the Republican National Convention, Bush met with advisers on Middle East policy. According to a participant, Bush read the recommendations "page by page and paragraph by paragraph." They became the basis of the GOP Platform section that includes this:

"The Republican Party reaffirms its support for rescission of U.N. Resolution 3379, which equates Zionism with racism. Failure to repeal that resolution will justify attenuation of our support for the U.N."

If the United Nations wants to squander more millions on a Geneva homage to Arafat, let the sum be deducted from U.S. obligations. If 3379 is not rescinded, America's obligations should be radically reduced.

Consider today's zero-sum budget game. The rules are set by Bush's adamant opposition to new taxes and by Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction requirements.

The U.N.'s moral authority evaporated in the 1970s.

Pot production now high-tech

WASHINGTON — There is one technological race that the United States isn't losing. But the only people who take pride in the victory are those who get rich preying on others.

The United States is on the "leading edge" of the horticultural revolution when it comes to marijuana growing, according to a secret report by the Drug Enforcement Administration.

That means that marijuana growers in this country are using high technology to improve the potency and yield of their crops. It also means the growers are moving indoors to greenhouses, barns, caves and chicken coops, where they can operate year-round without worry.

ing about the weather or the prying eyes of the law.

These aren't little plants growing in the kitchen window of a hippie hideover. In Truckee, Calif., the DEA found a greenhouse that had been producing up to 5,000 pounds of marijuana a year for probably two years with an annual sales value of more than $17 million. It was powered by a diesel generator with a timer to flood the plants with radon grow lights. The lights were on tracks so they could be moved around the plants for maximum effect. Thousands of feet of pipe carried fertilizer to the plants on an automatic drip system.

The techniques are no secret. At least seven "how-to" books for growing marijuana indoors have been published, and one has sold more than a million copies.

Growers in Oregon, Washington and Northern California have caught on to the new technology in a big way, but growers in other states aren't far behind.

Pennsylvania growers are moving indoors, according to the DEA — a shift that would enable them to keep production up during the long winters there. But even in Georgia, where the outdoor growing season is long, the DEA has found some elaborate indoor crops, including a few produced underground. The growers are bringing their crops inside to hide them from aerial surveillance.

Oregon pioneered the greenhouse technique. In Josephine County, at least one-third of the marijuana growers have moved inside. In southern Oregon, most growers start their plants in greenhouses, then move outside after the last frost.

In the state of Washington, about 85 percent of the marijuana is grown indoors, the secret report says. The growers prefer rental property because the law allows the state to seize the land where marijuana is found growing, and no smart farmer would risk losing his own land to the state.

Alabama and Mississippi growers favor chicken houses, because those are a familiar sight on the landscape. If growers put pot in every chicken coop in Alabama, there would be more than 1 million greenhouses in that state.

These indoor gardeners are catching on to hydroponics, the science of growing plants in soil-free, mineral-rich solutions. It is most commonly used for cucumbers and tomatoes. But pot growers were borrowing the technique by 1981. That was the year the first hydroponic greenhouse was seized in a drug raid in Novato, Calif. Police found 200 "lush, bushy and potent" plants that "appeared to be growing faster than normal," the secret report says.

The rest is history. Word spread that California marijuana grown hydroponically could beat "Colombian gold" for quality and speed of growth.

Market moderate, prices up

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened higher Monday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 9.60 Friday, was ahead 6.93 to 2099.21 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 491-315 among the 1,312 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 12,500,000 shares.

The stock market gained 17.60 points last week but retreated Friday amid economic concerns tied to the Labor Department's report on November employment.

The report showed that the nation's civilian unemployment rate rose 0.1 percent in November but the economy added a surprisingly strong 463,000 workers to non-farm payrolls, nearly double what market watchers had expected.

Dollar drifts lower gold, silver higher

United Press International

The dollar drifted slightly lower Monday in quiet trading on major foreign currency markets. Gold was mostly higher.

In Tokyo, the dollar eased slightly against the Japanese yen, closing at 121.53 yen, down 0.11 from 121.64 yen on Friday.

Currency dealers said some foreign banks sold yen to purchase dollars in the morning on reports that ailing Emperor Hirohito's condition had worsened but yen-selling tapered off as Hirohito's condition reportedly improved and market sentiment turned bearish toward the dollar, they said.

In Europe, the dollar began the week in Frankfurt at 1.7225 West German marks, down slightly from 1.731 marks Friday.

The dollar began the day in Zurich at 1.442 Swiss francs, down from 1.45 in Paris, the dollar opened at 5.8855 French francs, down from 5.9225.

The dollar opened in Brussels at 36.27 Belgian francs, down from 36.43 and began the day in Italy at 1,273.50 Italian lire, down from Friday's close of 1,281.30 lire.

In London, the British pound began the week at $1.87 compared with $1.8575 last Friday.

In early New York trading, the dollar was slightly lower against key foreign currencies in thin trading.

LOS ANGELES — Gasoline prices nationwide dipped nearly half a cent in the last two weeks, tumbling to an average of less than $1 per gallon for the first time since July, an oil industry analyst said Sunday.

An oversupply of gasoline and crude oil plus the usual drop in driving as winter nears, helped lower prices, said Trilby Lundberg, publisher of the Lundberg Letter.

Lundberg's latest biweekly survey of 12,000 gasoline stations was completed Friday. It determined the overall national price of a gallon of gasoline, averaging all fuel grades at both self-serve and full-serve pumps and cash and credit prices, dropped 45 of a cent to 99.61 cents.

July marked the last time the average price was less than $1, she said.

Gasoline prices fell more at the wholesale level than the retail level in the last two weeks, indicating pump prices could fall further.

Kremlin signals end to Cold War

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Kremlin pumped up expectations Sunday of this week's visit to New York by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, casting his transition summit with Ronald Reagan and George Bush as a sign the Cold War may be over.

At home, the Soviet government is playing down the session Gorbachev will hold Wednesday on Governor's Island with his outgoing and incoming American counterparts, his most ambitious move yet in a recent diplomatic offensive.

But Communist Party Central Committee member Nikolai Shishlin, in an interview on NBC's "Meet the Press," said Gorbachev "will have in his pocket very interesting ideas and very interesting initiatives" when he arrives Tuesday in New York.

Moreover, he predicted that as a result of Gorbachev's luncheon with Reagan and Bush, "the Soviet-American dialogue will go forward and by mutual efforts, I think we can kill the Cold War."

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerastmov, speaking on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley," added: "President Gorbachev is not going to travel from Battery Park to Governor's Island just for small talk."

Gorbachev will address the United Nations and take in the city sights during his stay in New York. U.S. officials, caught off-guard last month by his desire to bid farewell to Reagan and size up Bush, welcomed the chance to highlight the progress made in U.S.-Soviet relations over the past four years.

Shuttle

NASA promised to announce the ship's landing time 24 hours prior to touchdown at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

It had been thought that shuttle skipper Robert "Hoot" Gibson and co-pilot Guy Gardner could guide Atlantis to a landing as early as Monday but as Sunday wore on, there was no word from mission control in Houston on when the shuttle and its all-military crew might glide to a touchdown in the high California desert.

Gibson, Gardner and their crewmates — Richard "Mike" Mullane, Jerry Ross and William Shepherd — presumably began working through their fourth day in orbit around 1:30 a.m. EST Monday, based on crew schedules from previous missions.

With the "Lacrosse" radar spy satellite presumably launched and on its way, it was not known what Gibson and company were up to Monday, although sources said the flight was on schedule.

Director

County administrator Ken Hooper announced on Thursday his plans to hire Lefebvre, 43, from a field of 50 applicants to replace Bob McIntosh, who resigned this summer amid allegations he mismanaged the department.

Hooper found few of the applicants qualified and advertised the position twice before deciding on Lefebvre, an early applicant. Lefebvre said he accepted an offer of $31,000 a year for the job.

Hooper's decision was endorsed Thursday night by the Animal Control Board, which approved his hiring unanimously.

Diane Albers, board chairman, said she was pleased with Hooper's selection. "Lefebvre was the only choice," she said.

Although Lefebvre has worked as an electrician for more than two years, he was executive director of the Broward County Humane Society for nearly 9 1/2 years. He and society officials there said he left over a dispute in program changes, including elimination of a 24-hour animal ambulance service.

Previously, for 19 months he worked as an animal control officer at the Broward County Animal Control Department. He also has been shelter manager at the Broward Humane Society for 13 months.

Lefebvre comes into a department that has been embroiled in turmoil for more than two years. By the time McIntosh had left in August, five employees — one third of the department's staff — had resigned, saying he was a poor manager and had created an atmosphere of low morale as a result.

McIntosh had been the department's director between 1978 and 1986, when he resigned to help develop an equestrian facility in Altamonte Springs. He said he left earlier than he planned because of two complaints by women in the department charging sexual discrimination and harassment. He denied the allegations.

Other complaints had been made against him at the time similar to those made this year, which he also denied but resigned rather than generate more controversy.

Mine explosion kills 11 in Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary — An explosion rocked a coal mine in north-central Hungary Sunday, killing at least 11 miners and seriously injuring another 23, the official news agency MTI said.

A preliminary finding by a committee of mining experts said the accident occurred after workers detonated an explosive charge without authorization from the chief engineer, MTI said.

Eleven bodies were recovered from the mine by Sunday evening. Of the 23 miners hospitalized, four suffered critical burns from the explosion, which occurred at Lencsehegy Mines of Dorog, about 25 miles northwest of Budapest and near the Hungarian-Czechoslovak border.

Two of the dead and 10 of the injured were Poles, MTI said. The coal mine was extensively damaged and operations were halted, the committee of experts said.

12 dead in tribal violence

DURBAN, South Africa — Zulu tribal vigilantes ambushed a house near the town of New Hanover, killing 12 people and injuring two others in one of the worst outbreaks of political unrest in the area in many months, police and witnesses said Sunday.

The vigilantes were identified by residents as supporters of Inkatha, the political movement of Zulu tribal leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi, and the victims as supporters of the United Democratic Front.

The shooting occurred early Saturday morning in Trust Feed, near the Natal province interior town of New Hanover, according to residents who have fled the area.

They said vigilantes opened fire on the house after a resident opened the door. Police reported 12 people died, including seven women and four men and another man found stabbed to death in a nearby house. At least two other people were injured.

Supporters of the UDF and Inkatha frequently have clashed despite efforts to negotiate a truce between the ideologically opposed groups. Last year, hundreds of people were killed in UDF-Inkatha clashes in Natal.

Venezuelans elect Perez president

CARACAS, Venezuela — Populist social democrat Carlos Andres Perez was elected president Sunday, early unofficial results showed, making him the first person in Venezuela's modern democratic history to regain the office.

Computer projections by major television stations gave Perez, president from 1974 to 1979, about 51 percent of the vote vs. 38 percent for conservative challenger Eduardo Fernandez.

Marxist leader and former guerrilla Teodoro Petkoff, was projected to finish a distant third. Another 20 minor parties were running mainly for a share of the 228 seats being contested in the upper and lower legislatures. Official results were not expected before Monday.

The Venezuelan constitution bans presidents from serving consecutive terms. Perez, who becomes the first to regain the office, will begin serving his five-year term in February, succeeding Jaime Lusinchi.

Perez, 66, said he would work to fulfill his campaign pledges — more jobs, less poverty, and a tough line on Venezuela's $33 billion foreign debt.

Roh makes sweeping changes in cabinet

SEOUL, South Korea — President Roh Tae-woo, in an effort to shed the "negative legacies" of predecessor Chun Doo Hwan, made sweeping changes in his administration Monday, replacing all but three of the 23 cabinet members and his intelligence chief.

The overhaul, which was quickly criticized by Roh's political opponents, followed up Roh's Nov. 26 promise to reshape the government made while he was appealing to the nation to forgive his predecessor Chun Doo Hwan based on Chun's apology for his misdeeds involving corruption and influence peddling.

The new cabinet lineup included 14 former and present members of the National Assembly, including a former opposition politician. Even so, it drew immediate criticism from opposition parties, which threatened to refuse parliamentary consent for the new prime minister.

The main opposition Party for Peace and Democracy led by Kim Dae Jung said in a statement that under the constitution the president cannot appoint a prime minister and other cabinet members at the same time.

Sudanese leader says cease-fire in sight

KHARTOUM, Sudan — A cease-fire in the 5-year-old civil war in southern Sudan could take effect within two weeks, Prime Minister Sadiq al Mahdi said in an interview Monday.

"If all are willing, it should not take more than two weeks," Sadiq told the British Broadcasting Corp. in Khartoum.

Sadiq said government officials would leave for Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, on Wednesday to open talks with rebel leaders.

On Thursday, Sadiq accepted the broad provisions of a draft plan brokered last month in Addis between the southern rebels and the leadership of Sudan's second largest coalition grouping, the Democratic Unionists, or DUP.

The negotiators will begin working out the basis for a constitutional conference to settle the future of the war in the famine-hit East African nation, said Sadiq, who heads the largest parliamentary grouping — the Umma (Nation) Party.

Carlucci arrives in Bahrain

MANAMA, Bahrain — U.S. Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci arrived Monday from Oman on a two-day visit to Bahrain as part of a Persian Gulf tour, the Manama-based Gulf News Agency said.

Carlucci was scheduled to hold talks with Bahraini Defense Minister Maj. Gen. Sheikh Khalifa Bin Ahmed al Khalifa on bilateral relations and issues of common interest.

U.S. and Arab diplomats said Carlucci's tour, which will include Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, was aimed at reaffirming Washington's commitment to maintaining stability in the Gulf.

Hungary opening mission in Seoul

SEOUL, South Korea — A Hungarian diplomat arrived in Seoul Monday to open a permanent mission in the South Korean capital — the first such mission to be established by a communist-bloc country since Korea was divided in 1948.

Sandor Etre, a ranking official of the Hungarian Foreign Ministry, will activate the mission officially after presenting his credentials to the government, Foreign Ministry officials said.

Etre will have the status of an ambassador and the mission will be accorded many of the same diplomatic privileges as an embassy, officials said.

Etre, 47, a former Hungarian ambassador to North Korea, is the first diplomat from a communist nation to be posted in South Korea since the two nations were divided three years after World War II ended.

Establishment of Etre's office in Seoul was the result of an agreement on Sept. 13 between Seoul and Budapest to exchange permanent missions between South Korea and Hungary. A South Korean permanent mission to Budapest already opened Oct. 25.

Cyclone death toll surpasses 2,000

United Press International

DHAKA, Bangladesh — Rescue teams have recovered bodies of hundreds more victims of the strongest cyclone to hit Bangladesh and eastern India this century, officials said Sunday, raising the death toll to at least 2,300.

Thousands of people remained unaccounted for after the storm smashed into impoverished Bangladesh Tuesday night.

Health authorities also reported a shortage of safe drinking water in areas affected by the cyclone, bringing on an epidemic of diarrhea and claiming at least 50 more lives.

Unofficial reports from the Sunderbans forest area said there were hundreds of corpses drifting out to sea from the network of rivers and creeks that crisscross the world's largest mangrove forest.

The state-run newspaper Dainik Saturday placed the death toll at 1,500 in Bangladesh, saying damage to property and livestock was "enormous."

Relief officials in Dhaka said at least 365 additional bodies were recovered Sunday, raising the death toll in Bangladesh to more than 1,800.

Indian officials in Calcutta said they had confirmed 500 storm deaths, adding that the toll could rise to 700 or more.

Authorities assessing the damage to wildlife in the Sunderbans area said the isolated region had been severely depopulated of tigers, deer and monkeys.

A forest official said the extent of human casualties and damage from the storm in the Sunderbans could only be estimated until relief workers could make their way into the swamps and report back.

"It looks like a battered battleground," the official said of the Sunderbans, where some 50,000 people were known to be gathering honey, firewood and other forest products when the storm hit.

He said initial attempts by rescuers to enter the devastated Sunderbans were unsuccessful because of high tides and blocked rivers and creeks.

"We returned for it is difficult to enter the forest with huge numbers of broken trees," he said. "We do not know what happened even 500 yards inside the forest."

The cyclone — the most powerful to hit the area since 1876 — roared out of the Bay of Bengal and left a path of destruction across much of Bangladesh and parts of eastern India before dissipating early Wednesday.

It brought 110 mph winds that created 15-foot-high tidal waves. Officials said the onslaught in Bangladesh injured more than 20,000 people and destroyed the homes of some 2.5 million others.

One dead, 102 injured in Tokyo train crash

United Press International

TOKYO — The engineer of an inner-city commuter train may have shut off an automatic braking system moments before his train rammed into the rear of a stopped train Monday, killing himself and one passenger and injuring 102 others, railroad authorities said.

Two East Japan Railways trains collided at 9:37 a.m. at the Higashi-Nakano Station on the Central Line, one of the three major arteries crossing the capital, authorities said.

The two 10-car trains were each carrying about 800 passengers, many of whom were thrown from their seats on impact, fire department officials said.

The driver of the moving train, Teruki Hirano, 28, and Yoji Abo, 31, a passenger in the third car of the same train, were killed, a spokesman for the Nakano Fire Department said.

Firefighters worked for seven hours before they could free Abo, who was pinned between a seat and the floor of the train, the fire department spokesman said.

Seven cars derailed and several hundred firefighters worked two hours to pull the injured passengers, including 13 in serious condition, from the orange-colored trains, the spokesman said.

The other 89 injured passengers suffered slight injuries, he said.

The accident was the first fatal train accident in the Tokyo area since 1962 when a commuter train collided with a cargo train, killing 160 people and injuring 246.

Police said they were investigating the accident and had not determined the cause. But railroad officials speculated the driver of the inbound train may have overridden the automatic braking system but failed to stop the train in time manually.

The National Railway Workers Union said the railway management has been increasing the frequency of trains to more than one every four minutes in some cases, and putting pressure on drivers to stick to the schedule.

The railroad company has a system designed to automatically stop an incoming train when the track in front of it is occupied.

Four killed, two wounded in shootings

LOS ANGELES — Four people were killed and two wounded in a series of pre-dawn shootings Sunday, one of them a 15-year-old boy shot in a drug-infested two-block area where a reputed gang member and another man died.

Two people were shot and killed about 4 a.m. Sunday in the Wilshire District, police said. One of the victims was a reputed gang member.

One block away at about the same time, a 15-year-old boy was shot and wounded, police said. The teenager was treated at Children's Hospital of Los Angeles and transferred in stable condition to County-USC Medical Center, a Children's Hospital nursing supervisor said.

The neighborhood where the shootings occurred is known for heavy street drug sales. Young men and boys typically commonly sell cocaine and marijuana openly on the streets and Barron said detectives were investigating the possibility the shootings were drug-related.

In South Central Los Angeles, a 19-year-old former gang member was shot and killed early Sunday in an apparent drive-by shooting while leaving a wedding party, detective Gil Herrera said.

More than 100 people were attending a wedding party in the 800 block of East Adams Boulevard just before the attack, detective Bernie Skiles said. Cecilio Martinez left the celebration about 12:55 a.m. and was walking around the corner when at least two shots were fired, Skiles said.

California escapees caught in Denver

DENVER — Two fugitives who broke out of jail in Southern California last month by cutting through a fence and sliding down a rope of knotted sheets were arrested by the FBI in the Denver area Sunday, officials said.

The two suspects were identified as Steven Wilson, 26, a transient facing trial on charges of robbery, kidnapping, assault with a deadly weapon and burglary, and Richard Fluharty, 26, Garden Grove, Calif., facing trial for burglary, said Lt. Richard Olson, a spokesman for the Orange County (Calif.) Sheriff's Department.

Fluharty, Wilson and two others escaped the Orange County Jail Nov. 20 during a recreation period by cutting through a chain-link fence that encloses the recreation area, crawling over coiled razor wire surrounding the roof and climbing down to the ground with a rope consisting of knotted bedsheets.

A federal judge in Santa Ana, Calif., charged them with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution on Friday, allowing the FBI to join the case, Olson said.

When the two men were arrested Sunday they were found with a car they allegedly stole from a resident of Santa Ana several hours after the escape.

Dole at U.N. may, may not be true

ATLANTA — President-elect George Bush reportedly has chosen former Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole to be U.N. ambassador, but a spokesman for her husband, Sen. Robert Dole, said Sunday the report is untrue.

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reported Sunday that Bush had selected Dole to represent the United States at the world body and quoted congressional sources close to the senator as calling the nomination "a done deal." The newspaper also reported that the announcement could come as early as Monday.

However, Walt Riker, spokesman for the Senate Republican leader, said Sunday, "I've spoken to both Doles and I can tell you flat out that the story has no foundation and is inaccurate."

The newspaper, however, quoted Riker as saying he could not "confirm or deny" the report.

Dole, 52, resigned as transportation secretary 14 months ago to help her husband campaign for the White House. The senator dropped out of the race in March after a heated battle with Bush for the GOP presidential nomination.

Bush defeated Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis in the Nov. 8 election and last week met with the Senate Republican leader. The two promised to work closely during the Bush presidency.

Warhol's gems sold for $1.6 million

NEW YORK — In the final auction Sunday of pop artist Andy Warhol's estate, Sotheby's sold $1.6 million in unmounted gemstones, jewelry and watches found hidden in a filing cabinet at his Manhattan townhouse.

About 400 people attended the auction that brought in $1,644,555, significantly exceeding Sotheby's $1.2 million estimate for the 300-lot sale, Sotheby's spokeswoman Laura Stewart said.

"The sale fetched well above the estimate," said Stewart, noting that 98 percent of the lots sold. Sixteen lots did not sell but "nothing estimated for a large amount of money failed to find a buyer."

Warhol died of a heart attack in February 1987 following a routine gall bladder operation at New York Hospital.

Curators of the Andy Warhol Foundation discovered the trove while removing drawers to lighten a metal filing cabinet they were trying to remove from a storeroom at Warhol's Upper East Side Manhattan townhouse last June.

Twin Cities plagued by murders, arson

United Press International

MINNEAPOLIS — Police in the generally safe and calm Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul are at a loss to explain a rash of murders and other violent crimes since Thanksgiving Day.

There have been 14 violent deaths since Nov. 24, including seven from fires officials believe were caused by arson.

"It's very strange," said Sgt. Marvin Rovick of the Minneapolis homicide unit. "We go months without any murders, and all of a sudden there's a burst. It's hard to understand why."

Lt. Russell Bovee, of the St. Paul homicide unit, said there was no explanation but he agreed that "murders do come in bunches."

Bovee said his investigators are spread thin by the four homicides reported last week, including three in four days.

Over the years the Twin Cities have scored high in quality of life surveys but their "safe" image is in jeopardy.

Minneapolis has had 56 murders this year, already breaking the record of 48. Some of the latest crimes:

Bryan Guzman, 35, was stabbed to death early Saturday in St. Paul. Police said his girlfriend was a suspect.

St. Paul police also were investigating the strangling death of a young woman Friday in her West Side apartment Cheryl Prokop, 23, was found dead shortly after noon. Her 4-year-old daughter was found unharmed inside the apartment. No arrests have been made. Police believe two intruders seen by the little girl killed the woman.

A Minneapolis man was charged Friday with first-degree murder in the fatal stabbings of a Bloomington woman and her

2-year-old daughter. Larry Lee Jobe, 27, an account supervisor at Pillsbury Co., was accused in the Wednesday slayings of Debra Louise Ritacco, 30, and her daughter, Andrea Lynn.

Two suspects from suburban St. Paul were charged Friday in the assault of a family in Montgomery, Minn., last month. Le Sueur County Sheriff Pat Smith said that evidence found in the Jerome David home led to the arrest of two 24-year-old Woodbury men — Peter King and Shannon Johns.

The suspects, one with a knife and the other with a gun, are accused of terrorizing the family.

Seven nabbed in $134 million bust

United Press International

EAST NORWICH, N.Y. — Undercover agents tracking 850 pounds of cocaine to Long Island from Texas Sunday arrested seven reputed members of Colombia's Cali drug cartel and seized $134 million in cocaine, officials said.

Three men were arrested in New York City, two others on Long Island and two in Houston, where another 850-pound cocaine load awaited shipment to New York. Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman Robert Strang said.

"We were fortunate to identify the top five people responsible for receiving and distributing Cali cartel cocaine in the New York area," Strang said.

The 1,700 pounds of cocaine has a street value estimated at $134 million.

Further arrests were expected. Federal agents in Houston learned last week that the Cali cartel would send half of a 1,700-pound cocaine shipment aboard a Delta Air Lines jet Saturday, sparking an intensive 12-hour surveillance effort in New York that began at LaGuardia Airport, Strang said.

The first shipment arrived about 1:45 p.m. Saturday and was loaded by several suspects into a Ford van, Strang said.

Agents trailed the van to a house in Queens, where the drugs were switched to another van, then taken to the Nassau County town of East Norwich. Other suspects were followed to several locations in Queens, he said.

The agents were forced to drop their cover and to coordinate the arrests shortly after midnight when one suspect, Thomas Silengo, 36, of California, became suspicious and tricked an airport hotel worker into identifying the undercover team, Strang said.

"Silengo went up to the doorman at the Royce Hotel, says he is a New York City police officer and is looking for his partners. The doorman pointed to the parking lot and said 'They're all out there,'" Strang said.

"These people are trained to identify surveillance," Strang added.

No one was hurt and none of the suspects resisted arrest.

The undercover surveillance was broken before anyone arrived to pick up the van, which was filled with 1-kilogram bundles of cocaine neatly marked "Rolex," a trademark of the Cali cartel. A loaded .357 Magnum pistol also was found inside the van.

Agents who raided the house in Queens seized $15,000 in cash and financial ledgers filled with records of transactions representing "large, regular flows of cocaine coming into New York," Strang said.

Newspaper: Selenium poisoning in soil poses national threat

United Press International

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Selenium, a trace element in the soil in the Western United States, has been found in food from supermarkets across the country at levels high enough to slowly poison millions of Americans, it was reported Sunday.

The Sacramento Bee said tests of food bought in markets in seven cities — including Chicago, Washington and Atlanta — showed elevated levels of selenium in meat, poultry, fish and grain products.

Low amounts of selenium are considered by scientists and nutrition experts an essential part of the human and animal diet.

In its copyrighted story, however, the newspaper said the elevated amounts measured by the tests were sufficient to expose even healthy adults to more selenium than is deemed safe under federal guidelines.

Effects on such low-risk people could be subtle downward shifts in overall health and resistance to disease and infection, the newspaper said.

But high-risk groups — the young, the elderly, the chronically ill — could suffer far more serious effects ranging from digestive problems to paralysis or even, in rare instances, death, it said.

Selenium also poses a significant threat to the health of rural families in seven Western states because they consume well water and food tainted with selenium on their own farms, the newspaper said.

The Bee said selenium can threaten consumers nationwide because it enters their food from three sources. The first is grain grown in selenium-tainted soil in the West. The second is the use of the grain as a feed for poultry and livestock. The third is the commercial marketing of the element as an animal food supplement.

U.S., Israeli agents operated secret counterterrorism pact

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Amiram Nir, the Israeli link in the Iran-Contra scandal killed in a plane crash last week, said in June the United States and Israel had a secret counterterrorism pact in 1985 and 1986. The Washington Post reported Sunday.

Nir told The Post that he and Oliver North supervised activities under the agreement, which President Reagan apparently kept secret from Congress. Such an accord would give weight to North's arguments that his actions in the foreign policy affair were approved by superiors.

North faces criminal charges that he conspired to divert U.S. funds for unauthorized activities. Nir told The Post he expected North to maintain at a trial that the joint operations financed by Iranian arms sales were authorized by the secret U.S.-Israel counterterrorism agreement and so were legal. North's lawyer declined to comment. The Post said.

But Secretary of State George Shultz, appearing Sunday on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley," said, "We have all sorts of discussions with Israel about many things. We are both opposed to terrorism; we both have many interests in common. But as far as the sort of thing being inferred in The Post article, I have no information on that."

When pressed on how such an accord could exist without his knowledge, Shultz said, "Apparently a lot of things happened in the Iran-Contra business that the secretary of state didn't know about."

Nir, who was traveling under the alias "Pat Weber," died in rural Mexico in a plane crash Wednesday that also killed a Mexican passenger. A Canadian woman passenger, who also used an assumed name, is recovering from her injuries in a Mexican hospital. The pilot also survived.

The Israeli, who was a special counterterrorism adviser to two Israeli prime ministers, was instrumental in the first U.S. arms sales to Iran in late 1985. He persuaded U.S. officials that there were "elements" in Tehran's radical Islamic government who were interested in better relations with Washington.

Israel had brokered that 1985 deal but in early 1986, the United States started selling weapons directly to Tehran in an effort to purchase the freedom of American hostages held in Lebanon by pro-Iran Moslem extremists.

Nir described the U.S.-Israel counterterrorism agreement in general terms during 13 hours of June interviews in London with Post reporter Bob Woodward. He said President Reagan and Shimon Peres, then the Israeli prime minister, had agreed to the accord.

Hirohito's health worsens

United Press International

TOKYO — Japan's ailing Emperor Hirohito suffered the worst day of his 11-week illness Monday, prompting palace officials to reconsider a decision to avoid using a life-support system.

Hirohito's blood pressure dropped to the lowest level of his lengthy illness and could have left the bedridden 87-year-old monarch with brain damage, a senior palace official said.

"We said we would not use life support systems, but under these conditions we may decide to use them," said the senior official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Hirohito lost a large amount of blood early Monday, said chief palace spokesman Kenji Maeda.

Hirohito's upper blood pressure fell to about 40, compared with the normal level of 120, Maeda said.

Doctors brought the emperor out of the crisis with two blood transfusions and by mid-morning, Hirohito had returned to stable condition, Maeda said.

"The low blood pressure might have affected his brain," the palace official said.

Extremely low blood pressure can cause brain damage if sustained for several hours.

Hirohito last suffered a severe drop in blood pressure on Nov. 8, which resulted in a clear reduction in his ability to respond to conversation, Maeda said.

Hirohito, who has been bedridden since Sept. 10 with suspected abdominal cancer, has been receiving blood transfusions and intravenous feeding as his main treatment.

Palace officials had earlier ruled out using life support systems, such as a respirator, as inappropriate for the emperor.

The palace, however, has reportedly purchased $2.08 million worth of life support equipment in the past two years.

"The basic thinking of the court physicians is against extending the emperor's life through life support systems," said the senior official.

In 1987, palace officials debated whether it would be appropriate for doctors to operate on the emperor.

They decided to go ahead, and Hirohito became the first Japanese emperor to be operated on when doctors removed a small growth from near his pancreas in September 1987.

Hirohito ascended the 2,600-year old Chrysanthemum Throne in 1926 when the reigning emperor was considered a living god.

After World War II, Hirohito denounced his mythical divinity, but many of the old traditions surrounding the emperor lived on.

Bakker: Christianity in disarray, blames ministers, press for troubles

United Press International

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Jim Bakker, facing likely indictment on criminal charges stemming from his operation of PTL, said Sunday that Christianity is in disarray and if it would help he would "get a gun and blow my head off."

In a related development, former PTL co-host John Wesley Fletcher said in a Penthouse magazine interview that he told a grand jury Bakker "had sex with me... three times" and that he procured young men for Bakker.

"I was Jim Bakker's male prostitute," said Fletcher, publicly detailing for the first time his alleged homosexual liaisons with the former PTL leader. He recently appeared in Charlotte before a federal grand jury reported to be on the verge of indicting Bakker and four associates on wire and mail fraud and violation of federal tax laws.

Fletcher, who claims he set up the Bakker-Jessica Hahn tryst that led to the downfall of the PTL, told his story in the January issue of the magazine, which released the interview to the news media Sunday.

Bakker, speaking Sunday before a congregation of several hundred at a Charlotte skating rink, said churchgoers across America are hypocrites when they say they love God but betray their brothers.

"Woe is me," said Bakker. "Church people are turning each other in. Don't talk about the communists when we're so much worse ourselves. Don't call yourself full-gospel when you're acting like a deacon."

"Everyone else is as pure as the driven snow, and Jim and Tammy are causing the church to go to hell in a hand basket," he asked. "God has given you the power to forgive every man of his sins. For the cause of Christ, stop this hideous holocaust on Christianity."

"If I thought it would help Christianity, I'd get a gun and blow my head off," Bakker said. "Then I'd be gone and you'd have no one to blame your problems on."

Bakker's 90-minute sermon left little doubt that his criticism was directed at Tennessee evangelist John Ankerberg, who appeared on CNN's "Larry King Live" more than a year ago to accuse him of homosexuality.

Although he said after his sermon that he has forgiven the Rev. Jerry Falwell and loves him, it also was apparent one target of his criticism was Falwell, who took over PTL after Bakker resigned in March 1987 over a sex scandal and who was instrumental in circumventing Bakker's return to PTL.

"Oh my God, let me die as a bum in the gutter before I destroy my friends," said Bakker, weeping openly.

Bakker also had a few unkind words for news reporters, several of whom were in the congregation.

"The press and the media couldn't wait for this to happen," he said. "They loved every minute of it. They reveled in it."

Bakker said it would be very difficult for him to fight criminal charges that may be filed this week by the federal grand jury in Charlotte.

For the first time, Bakker admitted publicly he may be facing time in prison.

"I will not destroy another man to save my life," Bakker said. "I will rot in prison before I hurt my brothers. I do not have a chance for a fair trial in this county any more than a snowball has of lasting you know where."

"How can I get a fair trial when so many people are lying?" Bakker asked.

"My attorneys met with the grand jury this week," he said.

"The rumor is Jim Bakker will be indicted in a few days. My attorneys said, 'What do you want?' and here's what they said: 'We want him in prison for 40 years.'"

Cavallers gun down Nuggets

The NBA's leading defense ground the top offense in the league to a halt.

"It was a slow pace," Denver Coach Doug Moe said following the Nuggets' 122-103 loss Sunday night to Cleveland. The Cavaliers held Denver to its lowest point total of the season.

Cleveland, 11-3, matched its best start in history, equalling the mark set by the 1976-77 team.

"I never know what we're going to hold a team to (in points)," Cleveland Coach Lenny Wilkins said. "But I know if we play good defense, it will present more opportunities for us. Then we have to take advantage of the opportunities. Good defense without some kind of offense isn't worth anything, but we got both tonight."

Ron Harper scored 28 points to lead Cleveland, including 12 points on dunks.

Denver got 21 points from Walter Davis and 19 from Michael Adams.

Elsewhere, Detroit edged New Jersey 102-99 and the Los Angeles Lakers topped the Washington Bullets 119-112 in overtime.

Benz-Huston win mixed event

LARGO — Amy Benz and John Huston shot a 67 Sunday to win the $400,000 Mixed Team Golf Classic.

Benz and Huston, each winning for the first time since joining the LPGA and PGA tours, earned $80,000 each with a 19-under-par total of 269.

"This is probably triple my biggest check," said Benz, in her sixth year on the tour.

They started the round tied for third, one shot off the lead but made the turn in front after a blunder front nine. Their biggest margin was three strokes after 12 holes.

Martha Nause and Larry Mize, tied with Lori Garbacz and Mike Hulbert at the start of the final round, had a 70 and were two shots back at 271. They won $30,000 each.

Missie Bertotti and Rocco Mediate had a final-round 65, and Beth Daniel and Steve Hoch had a 69 to tie for third at 272.

Devils blast Flyers, 6-2

Mark Laforest beat the New Jersey Devils as much with his offense as with his goaltending.

Laforest stopped 34 shots and notched two assists Sunday night, leading the Philadelphia Flyers to a 6-2 victory over the Devils to extend its unbeaten streak to four games.

With Philadelphia leading 3-2, Laforest assisted on two second-period goals as the Flyers pulled away.

"I've always felt strongly about what I can do with the puck," Laforest said. "I made some good decisions with the puck tonight."

Scott Mellanby took a pass from Laforest, went in alone on a breakaway, and beat Saive at 12:47 of the second period to give Philadelphia a 4-2 advantage.

In other NHL action, Calgary rolled over Winnipeg 6-3, Edmonton ripped the New York Rangers 10-6 and Pittsburgh and Boston skated to a 3-3 tie.

Pioneers crush Wildcats

WINTER PARK — The balance of power in District 4A-10 boys basketball tilted even more towards south Orlando last Saturday night.

Apopka, Orlando Boone, Winter Park, Orlando Evans and Winter Garden West Orange all have shots at reaching the state playoffs, but Orlando Oak Ridge's 85-59 thrashing of host Winter Park in The Tip-Off Classic's title game served notice that the Pioneers are ready to usurp Evans as district king.

"We had shooting practice and a team meeting at noon Saturday, and all coach (Ron Smith) talked about was rebounding and stopping (Willy) Daunic," said 6-foot-7 junior center Willie Fisher, whose slam dunks stirred the 1,001 fans on hand. "Coach told us we had to come out strong, that we couldn't afford to come out flat like we did against Mainland."

Fisher, senior forward Alonzo Harris and team barber and junior guard Brian Dixon made sure there would be no close shaves like Friday's come-from-behind (70-65) win against Mainland.

Fisher, who finished with a game-high 14 rebounds, including 8 on the offensive end, scored eight of his game-high 27 points in the first period, and Dixon contributed outside firepower as the Pioneers ran to a 19-9 first-period lead.

Meanwhile, Jimmy Chambers, Patrick Gordon, Greg Hall and Harris all took turns shadowing Daunic, who had hit 8-of-13 three-pointers entering the game.

Daunic, 1-of-7 from long range Saturday, showed the effects of defensive pressure. Evidence was his one first-half field goal — courtesy of Fisher's goal-tending call — and more missed free throws (4-of-8) in the first two periods than he'd missed all season.

"This was our third tough game in a row, and all the starters had 25 to 30 minutes (of playing time) in each of them," Daunic said. "We also were a little gunshy at first, and our exchange students (Dan Ostergaard and Andre Ringqvist) were a little intimidated.

Dodgers deal for Murray; Reds sign ex-Brave Mahler

United Press International

ATLANTA — A lot of odd things have held up baseball deals through the years, but never an elevator.

The announcement of a major deal that sent Eddie Murray to the Baltimore Orioles to the Los Angeles Dodgers was held up 46 minutes Sunday because the principal club officials were trapped in a hotel elevator.

The topper to the opening day of baseball's winter meetings came when the Philadelphia Phillies called a press conference to say they had re-signed Mike Schmidt — and announced the deal had come unstuck.

"We thought we had a deal — two hours ago," Philadelphia General Manager Bill Giles said. "We do not. The disagreement was (in the contract language) interpretation of what happens under certain injuries."

Murray was traded to Los Angeles for pitchers Brian Holton, Ken Howell and shortstop Juan Bell, 20, brother of Toronto left fielder George Bell.

"I've had a few snags in deals before," Los Angeles General Manager Fred Claire said. "but this is the first time one's been held up by an elevator."

Murray, 32, batted .286 with 28 home runs and 84 RBI last season — but Baltimore finished last in the AL East.

"In Eddie Murray we're getting an excellent fourth-place hitter," Los Angeles Manager Tommy Lasorda said. "He can provide us with power, which we need. It's exciting to get a player we feel will one day be in the Hall of Fame to be on our ball club."

In 12 seasons Murray has a .295 career average with 333 home runs and 1,190 RBI. He had become withdrawn, embittered and a casual defensive player — roughly coinciding with the Orioles' decline since they won the World Series in 1983.

"Sometimes when you stay in one spot too long, you can lose that little extra drive," said Baltimore Manager Frank Robinson, who won a Triple Crown for Baltimore when traded by Cincinnati in 1966. "I know it gave me that little extra spark when I got traded."

The Cincinnati Reds also got the winter baseball meetings off to a quick start by signing free agent Rick Mahler, who pitched for the Atlanta Braves last season, to a guaranteed two-year contract calling for $750,000.

Polk outlasts Raiders

From staff reports

WINTER HAVEN — Number one ranked Polk Community College made 15 of 17 free throws in the final six minutes to withstand a tremendous comeback attempt by the Raiders of Seminole Community College to win their tenth straight game of the season, 81-69, before 301 fans at Winter Haven.

Polk got 22 and 20 points, respectively, from guards Reggie Shields and David Carter as they moved to 10-0, Seminole getting 18 points from Vincent Emerson and 13 from Robert Thomas fell to 9-4.

Seminole's next home game is Wednesday, December 7, against Valencia Community College of Orlando in a big Mid-Florida Conference contest. Both teams are 1-0 and are coming off upset wins over the pre-season conference favorites, Florida Community College of Jacksonville and Central Florida Community College of Ocala.

Both teams came out playing strong defense and Polk held an 8-3 lead after five minutes of play. Seminole then outscored Polk eight to four as Thomas scored two field goals and Emerson and Terrell Barnes added one each to make the score 12-11 Polk with 13:46 to play in the half.

Polk then outscored the Raiders nine to three to take a 21-14 lead with 9:56 to play. In the spur forward Jim Horn of Polk made two 3-pointers and Carter had a dunk and a free throw. Also hurting the Raider cause was Barnes picking up his third foul and going to the bench until the middle of the second half.

Polk continued to stay hot for the remainder of the half and led 36-25 at the intermission. For Polk Horn had 10 points and Carter had nine; and for Seminole it was Thomas and Emerson with six points each.

Oak Ridge's Greg Hall skies to block a shot by Seminole's Kerry Wiggins in Tip-Off Classic action last week at Winter Park High. Oak Ridge roared to the championship on Saturday, defeating Winter Park, 85-59.

"As a team, we missed a couple of shots early and lost our confidence. I felt like I got out of control and started forcing shots."

"We felt like we had to take Daunic out of the game since he runs the whole show," Smith said. "We tried to dictate the game with our defense and felt we took Willy out of the game in the first half. We dominated the game"

Who's open?

Seminole's Amy Williams looks for someone to pass to while Dr. Phillips' Gretchen Adent moves in to defend. Seminole High returns to action tonight at 7 at home against Orlando Bishop Moore. For a roundup of Saturday's games, see Page 3B.

Lake Brantley, Lyman, DeLand excel at quad

By DAVID CORCORAN
Herald correspondent

LONGWOOD — The high school wrestling season shifted to high gear Saturday in Seminole County with a four team quad meet at Lyman High School before 251 fans. Lake Brantley, DeLand, Cocoa Beach and host Lyman were involved in a format that had all four schools facing each other once, and when it was over five hours later, everyone felt that their respective squads did well.

In the six matches for the day, Lyman, Lake Brantley and DeLand each had a 2-1 record while Cocoa Beach lost all three, with DeLand defeating Cocoa Beach, 54-24 and Lake Brantley, 45-42, while the Bulldogs were on the short end against Lyman, losing to the Greyhounds, 48-26.

As for Lake Brantley and Lyman, both came out the strongest of the four as both squads have some fine looking athletes in their respective weight classes. Both teams looked good in their first two matches, with the Patriots splitting with Cocoa Beach (63-15) and DeLand (42-45), while the Greyhounds won both of their against Cocoa Beach (59-12) and DeLand (48-36).

And in the final match of the afternoon, it was the Patriots rolling over the Greyhounds in the biggest surprise of the day, 51-27.

DeLand showed some strength in the middle weight classes, and their lower weights weren't bad either with Dave Brown (119), Andre Vice (140) looking good in the lower to middle weight classes. But the standout for the Bulldogs has to be Willie Postell who won all three of his matches by pins.

As for Lake Brantley and Lyman, you have to give the edge to the Patriots over the Greyhounds on this day because of the greater experience (seniors) that the Patriots had on their team compared the youth of the Greyhounds. And that experience showed for the Patriots in their match against Lyman as the Patriots used their strength in the lower and middle classes and took a 30-3 lead and never looked back.

Kevin Carpenter, coach of the Patriots, felt his team did well, but also said "we've got a lot work to do to improve on what we did here."

And for Jeff Hess coach of the Greyhounds: "Our youth showed against Brantley. But my kids also had to wrestle three times today, and they were tired at the end. But my kids got their feet wet today as many had their first varsity action. We'll get better as the season rolls along."

In other matches, West Orange defeated Oviedo, 54-22 and Apopka downed Boone, 48-27.

Oviedo upended by West Orange

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

West Orange dominated the lower and middle weights and took a 54-22 decision over Oviedo Saturday night in prep wrestling action at West Orange High School in the season opening match for both teams.

West Orange's Jay Reisler opened with a pin to get the Warriors off to a quick 6-0 start. The next two divisions were decided by pins also as West Orange's Tom Childers and Rodney Whitney helped their team build an 18-0 cushion.

Eric McDowell then took a decision in the 125 pound weight class to up the lead to 21-0. Oviedo then got on the scoreboard when Ken Schrupp pinned Darrin Dau in the first period, taking his opponent to the mat in 1:29.

The Lions Paul Isaacson

followed with a pin over Raul Torres at the 3:53 mark to make things interesting as the score was cut to 22-12.

West Orange, though, went on another streak to put the match out of reach. Charles Adkins started the run with a pin that took just 38 seconds. Eric Trowell came up with another pin before William Mathias took a technical fall to up the lead to 42-12.

James Smith ended the streak for West Orange as he gave the Lions six more points by pinning Matt Millikan in 1:10. Nick Keoppen then took a major decision over Chris Isen to up the lead to 48-18 with two weight classes to go.

Oviedo's Mike Kobia came up with a 12-4 decision to give his team its final points. Rob Clayton, though, won the heavyweight division for the final points of the night.

Lady Patriots knock off Tampa Leto, 3-2

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald sports editor

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots reinforced their image as a state powerhouse Saturday afternoon as they claimed a 3-2 victory over previously unbeaten Tampa Leto at Tampa.

The Lady Patriots, who some people may have begun to speculate about after they lost their season opener, raised their record to 4-1-1 overall. Brantley has a big week ahead as it plays at Oviedo on Wednesday, then hosts Lake Mary Friday night.

Not only did Lake Brantley beat a worthy opponent on Saturday, but accomplished two things not many teams have done against the Leto Lady Falcons recently. The Lady Patriots were the first team to score on Leto (4-1) this season and handed the Falcons their first home loss in three years.

Karen Kopp opened the scoring for Brantley as she put in a penalty kick after being taken down in the penalty area. Leto tied it on Melissa Iyer's goal and it remained 1-1 at the half.

Lake Brantley then scored the next two goals to take a 3-1 second-half lead. Tara Harding broke the tie as she scored off an assist from Beth Schaefer, and Kopp's second goal, on an assist by Lisa Rock, gave the Lady Patriots a two-goal advantage.

Leto pulled within 3-2 in the last minute of play, but could not mount another threat as Brantley maintained possession the rest of the way.

Along with its success on offense, Brantley also played a solid defensive game on Saturday with Cindy Becker leading the way. Goalkeeper Kimi Kurz came up with seven saves while Margaret Bothe made one of the biggest defensive plays when she made a head save of what would have been a Leto goal.

Lake Mary tops Gaither

From staff reports

Lake Mary's Lady Rams completed their west coast road trip in fine fashion Saturday with a 2-0 victory over Tampa Gaither.

Lake Mary, which defeated Clearwater Central Catholic on Friday, ran its record to 6-0 overall with its fifth shutout of the year. The Lady Rams host Seminole High on Wednesday night, then go to Lake Brantley Friday.

The Lady Rams dominated the offensive play against Gaither but could not put the ball in the goal until 23 minutes had elapsed. Tracy Rupp, playing in only her second varsity game, scored the goal on an assist from Marcy Lazar. Rupp had been moved up from junior varsity for the trip since several varsity players could not make Saturday's game.

Lake Mary put an insurance goal on the board with five minutes left to play when Amy Alexander scored unassisted. Lake Mary fired 23 shots on goal while limiting Gaither to just two shots. Lake Mary goalkeeper Tammy Scott made one save for the shutout.

Defensively, sweeperback Amy Paschoal, Jamie Dombelink and Sandy Powell kept Gaither from mounting any real offensive threats.

SMB TOPS W. ORANGE

Shannon Sundvall continued her outstanding play with a goal and an assist and Bobbie Osborne came up with the shutout as Seminole High defeated West Orange, 3-0, Saturday at Winter Garden.

The Lady 'Noles, 3-2, have a big game tonight as they host district foe Orlando Bishop Moore (7 p.m. start). Seminole then plays at Lake Mary Wednesday and hosts Deltona Friday.

Sundvall got the Lady Tribe rolling Saturday as she scored five minutes into the match on a direct kick. Freshman Jennifer Campbell then got into the scoring act as she scored her first goal, unassisted, 26 minutes in for a 2-0 lead.

Jennifer Lindamood upped the lead to 3-0 with 10 minutes gone in the second half when she scored off an assist from Sundvall.

Seminole hammered 22 shots on goal and the only thing that kept it from being a total blowout was West Orange goalkeeper Erin McKenna who made nine saves. Osborne came up with six saves in.

End of a season

Titusville's Lamar Campbell, above, slips out of the grasp of Oviedo's Hector Diaz en route to a 50-yard touchdown run in Friday's 4A-2 Section playoff. Below, Oviedo's Chad Duncan pounds the turf in disgust after he couldn't find the handle on a pass from Matt Blanton. The Lions turned in a strong showing but wound up dropping a 27-24 decision in overtime to the Terriers. Oviedo finished one of its best seasons ever with a 9-3 district and conference, district and region championships.

Polk maintained its eight to ten point lead for the first part of the second half and led 50-42 with 13:35 to play. At this point coach Bill Payne of Seminole put in guards T.J. Scaletta and Mike Gaskill who got the Raider pressing defense working and Seminole outscored Polk 10-0 to take their first lead of the night at 52-50 with 10:28 to play. First Nick Millidakis stole a pass and fed Scaletta who fed Rishard Brown for a layup. Gaskill then got a steal and a layup, and Scaletta did likewise. Polk missed a shot and Scaletta fed Emerson for a dunk, and, after a Polk turnover, Gaskill fed Barnes for a layup to take the lead.

The two teams traded baskets for the next four minutes until a Shields 3-pointer put Polk back ahead to stay at 62-60 with 6:15 to play. First a miss by Seminole was turned into a basket by Shields, then back to back turnovers were turned into dunks by Shields and Marshall Barber and Polk had put the game away.

Besides Shields and Carter Polk also had Barber, 13 points, and Horn, 10, in double figures. 6'9" Center Lorenzo Williams was held to six points by the Raiders but he had a game high 10 rebounds and five blocked shots.

Pioneers

Ringkvist's three-point play and Daunic's ensuing free throw sliced the deficit to 34-22 with 2:03 left before the half, but Dixon scored six of his eight second-period points to put the Pioneers ahead.

Saturday was a big night for the Feulner family of Orlando Bishop Moore High.

In girls soccer action, Stephanie Feulner scored three goals and had three assists as the Lady Hornets shredded St. Cloud, 20-0.

In boys play, Jeff Feulner came up the second hat trick for the family on the night as he led the Hornets to a 3-0 victory over Leesburg.

The Bishop Moore girls improved to 4-2-1 for the season in drilling St. Cloud in its girls soccer debut. The Lady Hornets play at Seminole High tonight.

"I know it looks like we run up the score but we really didn't try to," Bishop Moore coach Larry Betsinger said. "We had the subs in for about three quarters of the match. I just don't like to get to the point where I have to tell the girls not to score goals, that leads to complacency."

Along with Stephanie Feulner, Amy Geltz also had three goals and three assists while Missy Borrero had the third hat trick of the night for Bishop Moore. Jennifer Hanningan, Stephanie Gringer and Suzy Strazzula all had two goals while also reaching the scoring column were Allison Haige, Jill Geltz, Karen Butz, Marcia Castro and Jo-el Fries.

Completing the assist total were Jill Geltz with two and Gringer, Hanningan and Jennifer Dougherty with one each. Bishop Moore shot 55 times in the game while St. Cloud did not manage a shot.

Jeff Feulner pumped in all three goals for the Hornets in their shutout of district foe Leesburg. It was the season opener for the Bishop Moore boys while Leesburg now stands at 1-1.

Giants thunder; Eagles blunder

United Press International

A first-time mistake by Luis Zendejas and a return to form by the Giants Sunday carried New York into sole possession of first place in the NFC East.

Zendejas missed an extra point attempt — the first such mistake of his career — to allow the Washington Redskins to post a 20-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Giants, meanwhile, avenged an earlier loss to Phoenix with a 44-7 blasting of the Cardinals. The Eagles and Giants had started the day tied for first in the division.

The defending Super Bowl champion Redskins, who had lost three straight games to virtually eliminate themselves from the playoffs, recovered from a 19-7 deficit for the victory. Cliff Lemmert hit a 44-yard field goal with one second to play for the final margin.

"It was a pride game for us," Washington Coach Joe Gibbs said. "Tom had it was against Philadelphia, which is going for the playoffs. The guys wanted to show everybody they have a lot of pride."

The loss snapped a four-game winning streak by the Eagles, 8-6, who were left one game behind the Giants with two games remaining.

"It's not a position you want to be in," Philadelphia cornerback Eric Allen said. "Now you have to watch TV and hope other people lose."

Philadelphia received touchdowns from Keith Byars on a 2-yard run and a 12-yard pass from Randall Cunningham, and a 40-yard field goal by Zendejas.

But it was his extra-point attempt on the second Byars TD that sailed right that proved to be the difference.

"Whenever you miss an extra point, it always comes back to haunt you," Philadelphia Coach Buddy Ryan said.

At East Rutherford, N.J., the Giants improved to 9-5 and can win the division with games against Kansas City and the New York Jets remaining.

New York shut down the No. 2 offense in the NFL, took advantage of six turnovers and rushed for a season-high 170 yards. They even gave coach Bill Parcells a Gatorade shower at the end. The bath was reminiscent of 1986 when New York won the Super Bowl.

"Eighty-six is '86," Giants linebacker Lawrence Taylor said. "And '86 is over with. Now we're in what, 1988? We know what we have to do to win. It's all a matter of attitude and I think we have the right attitude right now."

Phil Simms, who missed the last game with a separated shoulder, threw two touchdown passes to Stacy Robinson.

Lions 30, Packers 14

At Pontiac, Mich., free safety Devon Mitchell scored on a 90-yard interception return — the longest in the NFL this season — and Eddie Murray kicked three field goals to pace the Lions, 4-10. Green Bay, 2-12, suffered its sixth straight defeat.

49ers 13, Falcons 3

At Atlanta, Joe Montana threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to Jerry Rice with a minute left in the first half and Mike Ceter kicked two fourth-quarter field goals to keep alive the playoff hopes alive for the 49ers, 9-5. Atlanta fell to 5-9.

Steelers surprise Oilers

United Press International

HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers boast of the Astro Dome as their "House of Pain," but they were the ones dealt the most painful blow Sunday night, by Bobby Brister and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Brister's third touchdown pass of the game, a 18-yarder to Merril Hoge with 20 seconds left, lifted the Steelers to a 37-34 comeback victory over Houston.

"This isn't the 'House of Pain,'" said Brister, who completed 17 of 36 passes for 311 yards. "It's the 'House of Pleasure.' They (Oilers) did a lot of mouthing off and I think their talking got us a little inspired. We took it personally."

Pittsburgh, whose Coach Chuck Noll last year accused the Oilers of playing dirty, needed only 1:10 to move 80 yards in eight plays for the winning score. Brister completed 4 of 6 passes on the drive, the last inside the Oilers 10 to Hoge, who benke two tackles for his second touchdown of the game.

Pittsburgh, 4-10, won its second straight and snapped Houston's 10-game winning streak at the Astro Dome. Houston, 9-5, dropped two games behind AFC Central leader Cincinnati.

At Cincinnati, rookie Ikey Woods rushed for 111 yards and two touchdowns and Boomer Eason passed for a pair of scores to pace Cincinnati. The victory guarantees the Bengals, 11-3, at least a wild-card berth. The Bengals can win the AFC Central by beating Houston next weekend. San Diego fell to 4-10.

Patriots 13, Seahawks 7

At Foxboro, Mass., rookie John Stephens rushed for 121 yards to surpass the 1,000 mark and Robert Perryman put New England ahead to stay with a 14-yard plunge. The Patriots, 8-6, are still alive for a wild-card playoff berth. The Seahawks still can win the AFC West despite being 7-7.

Chiefs 38, Jets 34

At Kansas City, Mo., James Saxon blasted in from one-yard with two seconds left, capping a 14-point comeback in the final 5:22. The finish allowed Kansas City, 4-9-1, to finish its home schedule at 4-4. The Jets slipped to 0-7-1 and fell out of the playoff race.

Raiders 21, Broncos 20

At Los Angeles, Greg Townsend returned an interception 86 yards for one score and Jay Schroeder threw for another touchdown to help create a three-way tie for first place in the AFC West. The Raiders, Broncos and Seattle are all 7-7. Los Angeles and the Seahawks, who play each other Dec. 18, control their destiny while the Broncos will need help if they are to make the playoffs.

Syracuse survives Louisiana Tech

United Press International

For nine minutes, Randy White brought Louisiana Tech to the verge of a big upset Sunday. Then Derrick Coleman returned to shut him down and lead Syracuse to the championship of the Carrier Classic.

Coleman, missing for nine minutes in the second half with foul trouble, dominated the inside upon his return to lead No. 3 Syracuse to a 106-98 overtime victory. Coleman scored 23 points, including 6 in overtime. Grabbed 14 rebounds and blocked three shots to help subdue Louisiana Tech.

"He is a force inside. He can do a lot of things," Louisiana Tech Coach Tommy Joe Eagles said. "They were able to get the ball inside to him, and he was able to make something happen."

Coleman, named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, left the game with 15-48 remaining and Syracuse ahead 63-54. In the nine minutes he sat on the bench, White scored 15 of his 28 points and the Orangemen's lead shrank to 80-77.

"When Coleman went out of the game, White did a good job of getting fouled, going to the free-throw line, and posting up," Syracuse guard Sherman Douglas said.

Coleman returned to the game with 6:43 remaining. White failed to score again and picked up two fouls, including his fifth, which forced him out of the game with 19 seconds to play in regulation.

Syracuse overtook the Bulldogs 16-8 in overtime.

"We wanted to go as long as we could and try to still be in the lead when we brought him (Coleman) back," Syracuse Coach Jim Boehman said. "Derrick is a smart player. He is not going to commit a silly foul at that stage."

Douglas stole the ball from Mark Watley and drove the floor for a layup that put Syracuse, 7-0, ahead 104-96 with 58 seconds left in overtime. Byron Newton scored to make it 104-98 with 19 seconds remaining, but Louisiana Tech, 3-1, came no closer.

Matt Roe, who scored 25 points and sank 8 of 7 three-point shots, but two free throws with nine seconds left in overtime to secure the victory for Syracuse.

Vikings

have to score every time we have the ball. We now they might get some points themselves.

The Viking defense has not allowed a touchdown in 17 quarters. In the last five games, Minnesota has outscored its opponents 167-26, beating Detroit 44-17, Dallas 43-3, Indianapolis 12-2, Detroit again 23-0 and New Orleans 43-3.

"The last time I was associated with a defense playing this dominating was when I was a high school coach in Detroit," said Viking Coach Jerry Burns.

"I don't think it can get any better than this," said Viking linebacker Jesse Solomon, who intercepted a Dayton Wilson pass and ran it back 78 yards for a touchdown. "But we aren't settling on not allowing a touchdown in 17 quarters. We are more concerned with winning."

Carl Lee also had a touchdown on an interception return. He went 58 yards after picking off a Bobby Hebert pass in the second quarter.

"Credit that interception to the defensive line," said Lee. "I'm putting tremendous pressure on the quarterback. He was just trying to get rid of the ball. All I had to do was catch it. Joey Browner made a great block for me."

Browner also recovered a fumble which the Vikings turned into a touchdown.

Bucs

It was the first Buccaneer triumph against a team that ended the season with a winning record since a 20-17 victory against the New York Giants in 1984. A crowd of 49,498 stood and cheered an inspired defense that hounded Jim Kelly throughout and limited the Bills to just 35 yards rushing.

Frula is not a man or a woman, but is a dynamic dance company of Yugoslavian folk dancing.

Slavic dance production free

SANFORD — Villagers toiling in the fields of Yugoslavia once developed elaborate forms of dance to break the monotony of their labor and have some fun.

Frula, a Yugoslavian dance troupe, will demonstrate native folk dancing in a free concert in Sanford next for the sake of a work break, but for entertainment and out of national pride.

The exuberant company of 36 artists will perform Thursday, Dec. 8, at 8 p.m. in the Seminole Community College Health Building, Sanford. Sponsored by the SCC Campus Governance Association, the production is open to the public.

Colorful native costumes, music types and dance styles will represent the six republics of Yugoslavia.

Frula's director, Dragoslav Džadzevic, has taken the melting pot of Yugoslavian folk influences—from Turkey, Greece, Rome, Bohemian and Western Europe—and translated them into choreographed dances.

Musical background is provided by musicians on such instruments as accordions, bass, clarinet, guitar, violin and frulica. Though small in number, the musicians are enough to provide just the right aural backdrop, whether it be a happy chorus or a haunting refrain.

The dance troupe is adept at performing such numbers as "Shepherd Dance from South Serbia," "Macedonian Men's Dance," "Rumanian Dances from East Banat" and "Dances from Dalmatia." A standout number is the musicless "Silent Glamour," in which dancers keep rhythm and counterpoint beat with foot heels.

The dance movements are sometimes acrobatics (handstands and leaps), sometimes ballet (courtly romantic dances), always showing prowess and precision.

Musical solos and humor in the production add the finishing touches for a winning evening of entertainment.

Director Džadzevic has choreographed inter-European (festivals and ice skating programs, is one of Yugoslavia's well-known actors, and is athletically versatile, having been a member of the Yugoslav National Volleyball Team.

Comfy concert

Classical guitarist Stan Bumgarner doesn't always dress this way when he does a concert. In fact, the time he dresses up. To break stereotypes of stiffness in the music form, Bumgarner dresses down for the first half of his concerts, and dons the tuxedo for Part Two. In his concert Thursday, Bumgarner tells an anecdote (above), then starts pickin' and stops grinin' (below). Bumgarner's concert, in the Lake Mary High School auditorium, was the first in the 1988-89 Seminole Community Concert Association series.

'XOXOXO' easy indication for one's affection

A musical composition or work is an "opus." To hear the plural of "opus," you may want to attend the opera.

"Barter" trades or exchanges without using money. How do you get the best of the deal? That's the way barter.

Q: I'm getting holiday cards and, as always, they're signed with at least one "X" and "O." Are those really the abbreviations for hugs and kisses?

A: For centuries, the X has represented a kiss, and the O has symbolized a hug. This shorthand may be helpful when you're writing dozens of cards.

Use "colossal" to describe something huge or gigantic. Don't lose out on this spelling clue the middle of "colossal" is "loss."

"Fritter" wastes or spends but by bit. It's almost always followed by away, a tip you shouldn't fritter.

Q: What do people mean by the expression "take it from scratch? What's scratch?"

A: I haven't been itching to answer this query, because the origin of the expression is uncertain. The likeliest explanation is found in Robert L. Chapman's New Dictionary of American Slang, which points to scratch line. That's the line for starting a race, a line often scratched in dirt. Start from scratch means "begin" or "build from the ground up."

"Mundane" describes something ordinary or commonplace. Its pronunciation begins like Monday, the day that often makes everything seem mundane.

Sing a "lullaby" to quiet or soothe an infant. In spelling, remember the third "l." The lullaby should lull the baby to sleep.

Q: We use mason jars for home canning. Why are they called "mason jars"?

A: Those jars with wide mouths and tight-fitting tops are named for John L. Mason, the American inventor who patented the glass jars in 1858. You'll occasionally see "mason" with a capital "m," but don't let that jar you.

A "dedicator" is one who devotes or officially opens. Remember the "or" of that definition—it's the end of the definition.

"Opine" expresses a thought or an opinion. When you opine

JEFFREY McQUAIN

about your national forests, don't leave the "pine" out of "opine."

Q: I mix up "beside" and "besides." What's the difference?

A: Beside means "next to" or "by the side of." Besides (with a final "s") means "in addition (to), also." Sometimes the meanings are confused, but that's beside the point.

Liquid for drinking, especially alcoholic beverage, is a "potable." It ends in "table," which you'll be under after a potent potable.

"Roam" wanders or travels aimlessly. If you have no destination in mind, you'll find that all roads lead to roam.

OUR LANGUAGE ADVICE: With Election Day safely behind us, we present the Republican Ad-Vice Award this week to a television network's election coverage. This network announced the latest polling results while displaying a question: "Who Would You Vote For?" Under a more watchful eye, that "who" would be corrected to the objective "whom."

"Accredit" recognizes or gives official approval. When you need a formal synonym for "approve," remember the "cred," as in "accredit."

Someone "bartered" feels tormented, continually facing problems. If you come to the point where you're tearing out your hair, you feel bartered.

Q: When I go on business trips, the company I work for pays me something called "per diem." What is that?

A: The Latin phrase "per diem" means "by the day." It's used as a noun to refer to an allowance for daily expenses. Try enriching yourself, though, by adding to your vocabulary at least one word per diem.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Although East was the only one not dealt a potential opening bid, he did have a long suit with which he could pre-empt. In second position North passed because he did not want to bid one diamond on a marginal hand with a 10-high suit. So East threw a curve at South with a three-spade opening. And South had to pass. West had a great hand for spades, regardless, and quickly raised to game. North now made a sensible bid when he doubled. What did that mean?

When the opponents open with a three- or four-bid, an opposing double announces opening-bid values. Of course all South has to do is review the bidding to know that North did not think he had an original opening bid, but there is no law that North cannot hold just a shade under an opening, plus classic shape — i.e., good support for any suit South might bid. So South was happy to bid five hearts. West bid no more for two good reasons: He was afraid of too big a penalty, and he feared that North-South might have a slam.

The play went quickly. Declarer ruffed a spade in dummy, played ace of hearts and came to his hand with a high diamond to ruff a second spade. Then he led a heart from dummy. With East holding the K-J, the defenders could take only one heart trick, and 12 tricks were made. Declarer did not even need to take a club finesse, since the possible club loser went away on the fifth diamond in dummy.

Erythromelalgia rare but can be mitigated

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am afflicted with erythromelalgia. Liquid Atarax keeps it somewhat in check. In order to avoid taking this from now on, I am willing to modify my present low-salt/low sugar sensible diet but have no idea where to start. Can you help?

DEAR READER: Erythromelalgia is an unusual ailment marked by flushing, burning pain and increased skin temperature of the feet and, sometimes, the hands. The cause is unknown; however, certain forms are associated with other diseases, such as blood disorders, hypertension and diabetes.

Symptoms are usually mild but, in rare and severe cases, can be disabling. Attacks of erythromelalgia are triggered by changes in environmental temperature.

Treatment is not always successful. Many patients can be helped if their underlying diseases are brought under control; for example, lowering high blood pressure and reducing elevated blood-sugar levels. Other patients find relief by using aspirin, avoiding temperature extremes or taking medicine, such as ephedrine or propranolol, that prevent flushing. Atarax, a safe anti-itch antihistamine remedy, may aid in alleviating symptoms.

I am not aware that diet (except low-salt food for hypertension) is of any benefit.

I suggest that you analyze the situation with your doctor. He or she may recommend aspirin therapy as an economical and effective first step.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was having terrible trouble with heartburn. My doctor put me on Zantac. What can you tell me about this drug?

DEAR READER: Zantac (ranitidine) is one of a new class of drugs, called H2 inhibitors, that diminish the formation of stomach acid by blocking histamine receptors in the gastric lining. Thus, Zantac is an effective treatment for peptic ulcers and other intestinal conditions, such as hiatal hernia, marked by heartburn and indigestion.

MEDICINE

Zantac is safe and produces few side effects (nausea, vomiting and constipation). Since the drug is metabolized by the liver and excreted by the kidneys, care must be exercised in administering it to patients with liver or kidney diseases. The recommended dose is 150 milligrams taken once or twice a day.

I should add that Zantac (and similar drugs) will often mask or the symptoms of gastric malignancy, which is frequently associated with stomach ulcers. Therefore, patients should not agree to long-term therapy unless the exact cause of the heartburn has been diagnosed. This usually requires an upper gastrointestinal X-ray or examination of the stomach with a lighted, flexible tube (gastroscopy).

Zantac (and its cousin Tagamet) is so effective in curing peptic ulcers that strict dieting and surgery have virtually been eclipsed by this method of treatment.

Designer diapers for choosy bottoms

ATLANTA — OK parents, it's time to dress junior in his finest—a Christian Dior outfit and Reeboks. But first, what to do about that absolutely loathsome plain white diaper that covers baby's bottom with mere mediocrity.

When an ordinary diaper is out of the question, parents can turn to the latest fashion—a personally designed diaper that will ensure the tot has a well-dressed posterior to go with all his other upscale toys.

Designer Diapers is the creation of Atlanta residents Larry Rogers and Cathy Vaughn, who persuaded several investors to back their idea for dressing up plain disposable diapers with Velcro clips and fancy stitching, and selling them for $19.95 a dozen.

"Special occasions and gift giving—that's basically what it's for," said Vaughn. "It's not something a person is going to use everyday. A child goes through eight to 10 diapers a day and it could become a tad expensive."

For $19.95, about eight dozen of ordinary disposable diapers—like Pampers, Huggies and Luvs—can be bought, and even Vaughn admits babies could care less about the color of the cover on their bottom.

Yet she is convinced parents who want the best for their children occasionally will buy designer diapers, and that the "fancy covers" will be hot items for seasonal celebrations and baby showers.

"Yuppies making $60,000 to $100,000 a year want to give their children the best of everything to make up for the time they don't spend with them," Vaughn said. "Even the people who don't have money want to buy what they can't afford. They will go that extra mile for their child."

Procter & Gamble, makers of Luvs and Pampers, and Kimberly Clark, makers of Huggies, control 80 percent of the disposable diaper market, which totals over $3 billion annually, not counting money spent on cloth diapers and services.

Since 1987, Pampers has added teddy bears to their diapers; Luvs has put "Sesame Street" characters on theirs; and Huggies has added a line of clouds, suns, rainbows and stars.

Tina Berry, director of corporate communications for Dallas-based Kimberly-Clark, said the design changes were efforts to improve the product's efficiency rather than dress it up.

Excess pounds got him an early grave

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing in response to your answer to "Anti-Fat." Abby, fat is a killer! Behind it lie medical problems that the mind simply cannot comprehend. I speak from experience.

I had a happy marriage to a wonderful man. We had love, laughter and four beautiful children. Never was a word said about the extra inches that crept onto his waist. Never was a word said as I altered his clothes, or bought the next size bigger because the old ones simply could not longer be buttoned.

When I met him in 1977, he was 20 years old, gorgeous and weighed 160 pounds. It was love at first words. We took our time and were married in 1981.

On March 25, 1988, I came home from the grocery store and found my husband leaning over the kitchen sink trying to breathe. His arms, shoulders and feet were numb. His skin was an awful shade of yellow. He refused to go to the hospital and would not permit me to call an ambulance. I begged and pleaded, so finally he let me drive him to the hospital, which was 13 miles from our home.

I drove the first 10 miles safely, but three miles from the hospital he turned to me and said, "I love you, Babe. Forever. Take care." Then his body stiffened, he started to turn purple and make choking sounds. Then he fell toward me and his body relaxed.

My foot hit the floorboard of the car and I drove like a madwoman, knowing that help was near, and the faster I got him there, the better his chances were. I took the off ramp of the freeway at 90 miles an hour and drove into the emergency room entrance at Burlington Medical Center screaming for help.

The doctors and nurses were beautiful—they worked valiantly for what seemed like hours. I stood back, waiting and praying the same words over and over: "Please Lord, if it be your will—be's only 31." The heart monitor showed only the compressions for CPR and jolts of electricity from the shock paddles. Nothing could save him. I stood there and prayed as I became a widow at the age of 29.

How do you explain to four young children that the daddy they loved would never again roll on the floor with them and play tickle, or read them their storybooks? How can you look at a 3-year-old girl and tell her that her daddy loves her but cannot hug and kiss her again?

ADVICE

The children and I have memories of a beautiful, but short life of a caring man. I now have a pillow that will never again cradle the head of the man I loved. Why? Because he ate too much. I never saw him on the scale, but I'm sure he weighed more than 250 pounds when he died. He was 5 feet 7 inches tall.

On his certificate of death it reads: Cause of death: arteriosclerotic cardiovascular disease caused by overweight.

Abby, if you think this will help someone else, you may publish this. You may use my name.

KATHERINE KERR, DES MOINES

DEAR KATHERINE: Please accept my sincere sympathy on the loss of your beloved husband. I pray that your letter will help others, and thank you for allowing me to use your name.

DEAR ABBY: I hope this gets to "Perplexed in Bethlehem" before she makes the same mistake twice. Here's my story. I married a man who could sell sand to the Arabs. Nine years later, I divorced him because he was an alcoholic, but wouldn't admit it. He used his drunkenness as an excuse for physically and verbally abusing me, gambling and chasing women.

After our divorce was final, he started leaving notes on my car and sending me flowers. He told me that he had joined AA and had become a born-again Christian, so I let him talk me into marrying him again. Two months later I filed for divorce.

Here's some advice for "Perplexed": Don't marry him until you've lived with him long enough to find out if he's changed.

Meese role in McGoff prosecution being probed

United Press International

DETROIT — Federal investigators are trying to determine whether former Attorney General Edwin Meese thwarted the Justice Department's prosecution of conservative Michigan publisher John McGoff, a copyright story said Sunday.

The Detroit Free Press reported that witnesses appearing before a federal grand jury in Grand Rapids had been asked whether Meese encouraged top Justice aides to delay filing criminal charges against McGoff, who allegedly took part in a $70 million propaganda campaign in the 1970s to improve South Africa's public image.

Justice Department officials told The Free Press those delays seriously weakened the case against McGoff, making it impossible to press the most serious charge against him: being part of an alleged conspiracy.

In 1986, seven years after the case was opened, McGoff was charged with a lesser offense of failing to register as a foreign agent. A federal judge dismissed the case, saying the five-year statute of limitations had expired in 1984.

"There was a big push from Meese not to bring the case," a former top Justice official told the newspaper. "This definitely had an aroma about it."

"I was never never able to get completely to the bottom of it," the official added, speaking on the condition that he not be identified. He described the situation as "the tail of a major scandal."

CDC preparing pneumonia vaccine recommendations

United Press International

ATLANTA — New federal recommendations are being drafted for use of the controversial pneumonia vaccine that Americans by and large have refused to accept despite its licensing over a decade ago.

The revised recommendations will suggest there is a problem with waning immunity and that a second vaccination may be necessary, said Dr. Timothy Mastro of the national Centers for Disease Control.

The recommendations from the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices and under study at the CDC will indicate that people infected with the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) should be immunized against pneumonia, Mastro said.

HIV is the causative agent of deadly AIDS which often kills via a pneumonia infection. People with HIV are at much greater risk of pneumonia than others, said the CDC researcher.

The vaccine developed by Merck, Sharp & Dohme was licensed by the FDA in 1977 with a claimed efficacy of up to 90 percent against 14 of the most serious and prevalent strains of pneumococcal, or bacterial, pneumonia. Later it was improved to protect against 23 pneumonia strains caused by pneumococci. There are 83 types of bacterial pneumonia in addition to pneumonia caused by viruses.

Questions about the effectiveness of the vaccine have continued to surface, however, and its use has been limited, although its cost is reimbursed by Medicare for people over 65.

"We have been underwhelmed with the response to the vaccine," Mastro said in an interview.

The vaccine is recommended by the CDC for individuals over 65 and for those under 65 who have chronic health problems. Mastro said the CDC's flu and pneumonia surveillance system found the vaccine's efficacy to be in the 60 to 65 percent range but that other studies showed it to be less effective.

"It's efficacy is something less than crystal clear," Mastro said.

A 1985 survey found that there were 48 million Americans — 27 over 65 and 21 million with chronic health conditions — who probably should have been receiving the vaccine. But the same study indicated that only 10 percent of that number were getting the injection, he said.

"We think it is under-used," said Mastro. Reasons for the vaccine's under-utilization were not known, he said, but that it could be "due in part to physicians not pushing it as they should."

Pediatricians, Mastro noted, are generally attuned to immunizing their young patients against diseases but physicians treating adults "are not commonly thinking of vaccinations."

"We feel that it is quite effective. Some studies have indicated efficacies as high as 70 percent. It does not prevent all pneumonias. The efficacy of the vaccine is somewhat controversial."

Bacterial infection causes 30 to 50 percent of all adult pneumonia in the United States. It, along with influenza, is one of the top causes of death with an estimated 400,000 to 500,000 cases of pneumococcal pneumonia each year and a death rate of about 5-10 percent.

Previously, medical authorities recommended that people getting the vaccine should not be re-immunized, Mastro said. But new information has demonstrated that over a period of years the immunity conferred by the vaccine wears off.
