The "fish breeding grounds" you read about. Take up one side and down the other. There is more certainty of a good haul of fish from this water than will be found anywhere, and the variety simply is left to the angler; however, you're just as likely as not to get a "big Speck" when you are casting for bass (and we do mean big). The advantage in this fishing lake is that you won't need to worry about how the wind is blowing—just fish the off side. It's just lined with creeks and coves on the east side. Going in from the St. John's River is "Nacy's," then "Salt Run," and in order "Sweet-water," "Little Gator," "Big Gator," and right off the middle is "Bird Isle"; way up is "Soldier Creek," then down what is known as the "west side."

"You can take your choice in Lake Jessup fish in deep water, shallow, around the bunnets, cypress trees, around the grass, or way up on the flats. It's just one big fishing heaven. And again you'd better not start out with a sorry line. Also see that you don't have a run hook on that plug because it'll just be one strike out for you."

"These big-mouth bass must get out of bed every morning. If it's surprise you're looking for, he'll surprise you. First, he'll hit like a house-afire, turn for cover, and that's where you gotta have that good line or he'll probably come up shaking right in a big bunch of lily pads. When you get him out of that mess, he'll head straight for the boat. You think for a minute you can catch up with him, but that's just another error on your part. About the time you know he's off the hook, he'll come up on the other side and shake some more, and this is when he'll get in his dirty work. More than likely you'll find your plug sailing in the air. It may fall in the boat, or even just disappear. You'll have the jitter a-plenty, but that thrill will be in a class all its own. Don't forget the big one nearly always gets away. You don't need worry so terribly because after you have made the usual excuses to the paddler, or your buddy, just get your tackle all untangled, and get set for the next go round. He'll more than likely be waiting for your new plug just on the next point.

"It's possible, too, that most any time you'll get mixed up with one of those high powered "Jacks." About the only difference is that he may not furnish the kind of dance indulged by the black bass, but he will jump in about three directions at once. It's built for speed, of course, it's our opinion they should have named him a "fresh water sail fish." Unless the hooks are wrapped around his head, you'll only see him when he makes his second jump. You can tell them at the corner drug store about the other big-uns that get away."

"If it's a nice, still, quiet fishing jaunt you want—say when you take the lady for a little outing—anchor off from the island (the man from whom you get your bait will show you about the spot) and get set to really angle for speckled perch. They'll be there, and some of the largest ones you ever had any dealings with. As always, we suggest a good strong line because a big bass can come along and give you a fit most any time."

"Lake Harney is a very wide spot in the St. John's River. The channel busts it wide open, and while it runs out quite shallow from the banks and has plenty of holes, this lake is almost 100% hard sand bottom. You can see the bottom in as deep as four feet of water, and believe it or not, it's full of fish. There are also grass pockets on the edge running out for a good distance, and for early morning fishing this lake cannot be beaten. It is also good just before sundown. We have seen the time that the limit could be caught battle of tanks—during which the antagonists had swept back and forth across the desert like fleets engaged at sea.

Such steel land ships were in action, but their numbers had been far diminished by heavy losses on both sides and the course of the struggle thus changed; the British reverted mainly to ancient practice—the rifle, the bayonet, the blockade, and appeared to be slowly cutting their way forward generally.

On his right wing—that beating forward in the bloody battle area around Bezeq just below Tobruk on the Mediterranean—Sir Alan Cunningham was sending up heavy reinforcements of infantrymen, depending upon his superior communications to break the Axis forces under the German General Rommel.

While Berlin claimed that Rommel also was bringing up reinforcements, Cairo reported there was no sign that he was getting new support of consequence.

The British position thus appeared the more favorable, in the view of the fleet's command in the Mediterranean, but the quick and decisive victory that had been so eagerly sought in London did not seem in sight.

Both sides showed the strongest disinclination to make sweeping claims.

While Sir Alan's columns of the right were inching forward toward Tobruk both from the east and south, his extreme left still appeared to be sweeping unhalted, along a line far to the south, toward the Gulf of Sirte and during the day announced the capture of the town of Agula above the oasis of Gialo.

This thrust, which had carried more than 200 miles from its starting point about Giarabub near the Egyptian frontier, seemed restrained only by the problems of supply and British informants said that if those problems could be adequately met would almost certainly reach the sea and thus cut off northern Libya and block exit to the west.

British Troopers Forging Westward South Of Tobruk

Trend Is Turning In Favor Of English As Nazi Force Is Cut Off At Rezegh Axis Soldiers Fighting Hard Italy's Last East African Stronghold Is Captured

British Cairo headquarters reported today that their mechanized forces are "forging their way westward" from the Rezegh battle area, south of Tobruk. The Tobruk garrison and the British forces from Egypt, which yesterday were reported to have made "direct contact," are apparently in a drive to open communications and a supply path through Tobruk.

The British said that German forces, attempting a diversion thrust into Egypt, are now trying to rejoin Axis forces west of Rezegh in Libya. The British admitted "determined opposition," but claimed the trend is slowly turning in their favor.

The Italian high command admitted the fall of Gadar, Italy's last stronghold in east Africa, after a 10-hour assault by the British.

British imperial troops have smashed Axis tank lines four miles north of the recaptured battlefront of Rezegh to make a decisive turning point in the Libyan campaign.

This vital desert meeting occurred at 24 Duda on the tenth day of the great Libyan offensive. That point Rezegh was captured by the Tobruk troops in a stab which carried them ten miles outside their defenses.

New Zealand troops, supported by American-British tanks and armor, joined with Tobruk's men in a push from the south after overcoming violent Axis opposition. The desert point of Bir El Hammed was taken enroute.

Then the British now have a tenuous communication line curving over 100 miles from the Egyptian border near Sid Omar northward to Tobruk.

House Group Passes Plant Seizure Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—At the direct request of the Administration, the House Labor Committee has abandoned the idea of compulsory arbitration as part of the legislation to eliminate strikes in defense industries.

The House Labor subcommittee approved a measure to permit the seizure of strike bound defense plants. The Senate Labor Committee, also rushing work on anti-strike legislation was told by Senator Herring, Democrat of Iowa, that the proposal he is sponsoring to make it a crime to call a defense strike has been approved by William S. Knudsen, director of defense production.

The government would be authorized to seize the plants of non-conforming employers. This provision reportedly was included in the belief it would allay criticism that the measure directed solely at labor. The President already has seizure powers.

Reds Report Enemy Losses 'Tremendous'

Soviets Admit That Moscow Is Facing Grave New Threat On Southern Flank

By Associated Press
On the Russian front, the Soviets admitted today a grave threat to Moscow today, but said the Germans are suffering "tremendous" losses, with as many as 15,500 killed in a single day. In the Kalinin sector, 19 miles north of Moscow, the Russians claimed the invaders were driven back with the capture of many villages. The Germans reported striking hard on the southern flank of the Moscow defense line.

The situation on the Moscow front still was obscure but admittedly perilous for the Russians who said the gravest Nazi threat was in the Volokolosk sector, 65 miles northwest of the capital. German pressure there was said to be "enormous."

The Russians also acknowledged heavy German attacks in the Kalinin area, 95 miles to the north-west and at Stalingorsk, 120 miles southeast of Moscow. The Germans were reported losing heavily at the latter point, but "will they do not relax their pressure northward."

BOOKS AND AUTHORS
By MRS. IRVING FEINBERG

Some idea of the scarcity of dramatic hits on Broadway this season can be gleaned from the fact that Random House, which usually publishes the new play successes a half dozen at a time, has yet to offer a single one this Fall under its distinguished Rockwell Kentian imprint. Two smash hits are in the offing, however, in "Junior Miss," the Fields-Chodorov adaptation of Sally Benson's Book-of-the-Month Club novel, and Clifford Odets' "Clash by Night," and Random House promises to have them in book form in time for holiday shoppers.

Further news about Sally Benson's "Junior Miss" is going to be a coast-to-coast radio feature, too, and Miss Benson herself is fashioning the scripts. She is also finishing a new book about home life in Saint Louis about 1905 that will be published in the Spring under the title of "Meet Me in Saint Louis."

Publisher's prediction: "Junior Miss" will be the biggest hit in playform since "Life With Father" and "Meet Me in Saint Louis" is even a greater natural for the stage.

Diana Forbes-Robertson, whose book, "The Battle of Waterloo Road," will be published on Nov. 28, is the wife of Vincent Sheean and the daughter of the late Shakespearean star, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson and sister of Maxine Elliott. The statement has been made that she is the most beautiful author in the world. She will be in New York for the publication of her book, but Mr. Sheean is far off in Batavia, in the Dutch East Indies, collecting material for what is expected to be his most important work, since "Personal History."

Sinclair Lewis has embarked on his first country-wide lecture tour in many a day. He will appear in New York on Nov. 24 and 25, Ann Arbor on Dec. 2, Cincinnati on Dec. 9, Los Angeles on Jan. 5, San Francisco on Jan. 9, and Portland on Jan. 11. That doesn't seem to leave much time for work on his new novel, but Mr. Lewis still thinks he may have it ready for early Fall, 1942. He has no further theatrical plans for the moment—having financed and directed Sam Byrd's latest venture which, unfortunately, closed after a night's run.

Donald Klopfer, toying with the binding design for one of the beautiful limited editions that are issued from time to time, told the story the other day of the English Lord who purchased an especially bound book from the great English binder, Sangorski, for 1000 pounds some years ago. A week after the book had been delivered to him the Lord came back to Sangorski with a grave complaint. "Your precious binding has cracked straight down the back," he exclaimed. Sangorski, tore the book from the Lord's hands, examined it for a moment, and turned on the Lord in a rage.

Samuel Hakam, radio operator of the Lehigh, made these photographs of the sinking of the American freighter from the lifeboat in which he escaped. The Lehigh was torpedoed in the south Atlantic, about seventy-five miles northwest of Freetown, Africa. Top, the stern can be seen dipping under the water. Center, the water comes amidship and the bow lifts clear of the sea. Bottom, the ship seems to stand on her stern, the bow pointing straight to the sky. All aboard were rescued.

"You've been reading this book!" he cried.

George Stewart, author of the new novel, "Storm," was stalled in an automobile in the middle of the Painted Desert when his publishers tried to reach him with the good news that the Book-of-the-Month Club has chosen his novel for December distribution. They finally caught up with him by a wire phoned from Gallup, New Mexico, to a souvenir shop in the Hopi reservation. Seems that both the phone operator at Gallup and the owner of the trunked emporium were subscribers to the Book-of-the-Month Club; they were waiting for Stewart with the local map and official photograph when his dust-caked caravan limped into town.

The advance sale on "Storm," including the Book Club printing, totalled 205,000 copies. Astronomical figures are being quoted for the picture rights.

Frances Parkinson Keyes, author of "The Great Tradition" and "Fiddling's Folly," has just had her latest and most mature novel, "All that Glitters," published by the firm of Julian Messner.

The background of the lavish novel is the national Capital. Here indeed all that glitters is not gold. The shifting scenes are furnished by the startling changes which take place as the extravagant twenties are succeeded by the lean thirties, which in turn usher in the chaotic forties. Mrs. Keyes has always written with prodigality but never before have so many vital and arresting figures moved through the pages of her books.

Four women dominate the scene—Helen Morton, the sensitive, exquisite daughter of a conscientious Senator with a dominating wife; Veronique Alfieri, the gorgeous and willful offspring of a Corsican robber-baron and an American patent medicine heir; Isabel Windsor, the beautiful aristocrat with more charm than character; and Zoe Wing, the vital, ambitious Washington Journalist whom nothing frightens and nothing stops.

The men with whom the lives of these women are interwoven are equally provocative—Giles Arnold, the sophisticated and embittered naval officer; Alfredo Tarrasa, the young Mexican diplomat; Bob Morton, the resourceful and steadfast midwesterner; Guy Grenville, the high-minded and persevering Englishman; and Welly Hunter, the Virginia sportsman, in whom adversity develops unexpected strength of character.

With scores of other these people live out their dramatic stories. Here, too, are the haughty dowagers who ruled Washington society with a rod of iron only to tetter from their thrones, leaving their empty mansions to be turned into lodging houses or to be razed to the ground. Here are great heiresses whose fortunes have vanished in the depression, becoming social sectaries, enjoying vicarious triumphs and taking petty revenge through the perquisites of their positions. Here are the feted members of the Diplomatic Corps being gradually relegated to the background after the beginning of the Second World War when their presence becomes an em-

Vote Of Confidence Given To Churchill

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(P)—The British House of Commons gave Winston Churchill another towering vote of confidence in himself, his government and his war methods yesterday after hearing the bitter charge from John (Jack) McGovern, long a prominent parliamentarian, that "America is prepared to use British bodies to blast her way into the markets of the Continent."

By the vote, 326 to 22, the government beat down an attack by the unregenerate Independent Labor party, a 4-man group of extreme left-wingers, to amend the traditional House reply to the recent speech from the throne by inserting a note of regret that the speech contained no definite proposals for changing the present economic system. J. E. P. wants a "socialist charter" for after the war.

HEALTHY PRISON MIAMI, Nov. 23.—(P)—Bookies and crookiers who are caught this winter may acquire a healthy sunbath by being assigned to road-side parkways. The step was considered after County Engineer Edmund Friedman revealed a scarcity of convict labor for keeping up the roadways.

arrangement to the hostess. Here in the picture of Washington's evolution as old dignities melt away, and new ones triumphantly take their places.

This revealing and dramatic novel will take a high place among the romantic annals of American life.

"Windswept," by Mary Ellen Chase, was reviewed on the front page of both the New York Times Book Review and the Herald Tribune Books for Sunday, Nov. 16. I haven't seen the Tribune review, but the Times review is superb—one of the most favorable and enthusiastic reviews I have ever seen on a book. Let me quote a few excerpts:

"Strength and beauty, understanding, fundamental in human life—these are integrated in the whole content of the book itself. WINDSWEPT is the most beautiful and the strongest novel that Mary Ellen Chase has written, the most distinguished in its kind, the most readable in its kind, the most far-reaching in its significance."

"It must be a dull reader who does not realize that this novel weaves a broad and noble pattern of pertinent truth, set in the delicate artistry of Mary Ellen Chase's exquisitely right and lovely prose; a pattern of truth not for one time and place and group but for America in the world.

"The essence and reality of life itself is embodied in one of the finest of contemporary novels: its quiet and unity." WINDSWEPT may very well be the big novel of the year.

Coast-To-Coast Cable System Is Being Completed

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 23.—(P)—Just as the railroad had their driving of the golden spike, the communication systems in another year will have a wedding of the wires to symbolize the historic union of the nation's first coast-to-coast underground cables. Moving at a quickened pace because of the press of defense needs, cable laying crews are expected to finish the job three years ahead of original plans. In December of 1942, possibly sooner, crews facing the west and east, facing the east will meet at Wendover, Utah.

When they do, the country will have a hurried communications system protected against lightning, fire and easily effected wartime sabotage or destruction. And there will be greater insurance that there will be no disruption in the flow of long distance telephone calls, telegraph and teletype message, transmission of pictures and radio programs.

Hard work and lots of it is this $21,000,000 project of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and affiliates, who are burying twin cables from Omaha to Sacramento—1630 miles almost as the crow flies. With exception of a few short gaps, soon to be eliminated, underground cables now extend from New York to Missouri.

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Southeastern regional headquarters of the Federal Works Agency's division of defense public works will be moved from Jacksonville to Atlanta, Ga., on Jan. 1, Lester M. Marx, regional director of the division of public works, said Thursday.

The Southeastern region embraces Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. The move is being made, Marx said, on orders of Washington, to place headquarters in a more central location within the region.

Bumper Christmas Season Predicted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—A bumper Christmas shopping season was predicted Thursday by Commerce Department experts who looked for all retail trade during the holiday period to reach an alltime high of almost $6,000,000,000. This would be about $1,000,000,000 more than went into the store tills for all retail trade last Christmas season.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Fresh grapefruit has been added to the list of surplus foods available to low-income families under the stamp Agriculture Department's plan during December.

Explaining that the season of heaviest marketing was just beginning, the department said its addition to the stamp plan list would provide growers a wider outlet and a broader market was most needed.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE STARS IN THEIR COURSE FOUGHT AGAINST SISERA, BUT IT TOOK DEBORAH AND BARAK AS GOD'S INSTRUMENTS TOO. GOD WILL WIN VICTORIES THROUGH US. And Deborah said unto Barak, Up, for this is the day in which Jehovah hath delivered Sisera into thy hands, is not Jehovah gone out before thee?—Judges 4:14.

NATIVE WOMAN

(From The Lantern)
This girl, with mountains woven in her dress,
With rivers zigzagged in her gaudy shawl,
Is like a symbol of her land,
The all of desert country: red earth,
sturdy blackness, mountains
Of sun-drenched, mountains
where arroyos sprawl,
She is immured in pride that is a wall
Which bars the alien in this wild desert.
If we could understand this wide land of its folk,
Then we might grasp the meaning of its folk.
Conversely, comprehension that reveals
The spirit of this girl might let us gain
A hint about the land that would evoke Discovery of the secrets it conceals.

Appeasement Is Dead

It is peculiarly appropriate that Secretary Hull should have chosen Thanksgiving Day to talk turkey to Japan, even though the occasion was being celebrated in only a few states, with the rest having observed it the week before.

Be that as it may, the Japs have been finally told off, and appeasement, as far as this country is concerned, is dead. Japan now knows exactly where Uncle Sam stands and must realize that she advances further at her own peril.

Despite fears that the United States might make a deal with Japan along the lines of the Munich "peace-for-timely" settlement, under which the Japs could go ahead and continue their ravages in China if only they would not ravage anybody else, it now appears certain that China will continue to have the support of the United States in her fight for freedom.

In effect, Secretary Hull told Japan that Japanese troops would have to get out of China before any permanent settlement of Far Eastern relations could be completed. And he certainly precluded the possibility of any further use of Japanese troops now being rushed in great numbers to Indo-China, if peaceful relations are to be continued.

He upheld the inviolability of territorial integrity and sovereignty, the equality of commercial opportunity, non-interference in the internal affairs of other nations, and non-interference with the status quo except as it might be altered by peaceful means.

While these negotiations were going on with Japan's Ambassador Nomura and Special Envoy Kurosu, the Tokio government continued its preparations for further acts of aggression. Troops are being concentrated on the border of Thailand in preparation for a push through that country and an attempt to cut the Burma Road along which the United States still manages to feed China.

Japan has about as much intention of keeping the peace in the Orient as Hitler the first time when he swore he had no more territorial ambitions in Europe. Any treaty with the present Japanese government would be about as binding upon it as one with the Nazis.

Births And Deaths

Although improved health conditions have reduced the number of annual deaths in the United States to a figure nearly 500,000 below that of 1918, the year of the worst influenza epidemic in the country's history, life insurance companies believe that the continuing growth of the population and the increase in the proportion of older persons will eventually raise the annual death toll to a point higher than it was in 1918, "even allowing for a continuation of the recent great improvements in public health."

While predicting that the number of deaths, instead of declining, will increase at some time in the future, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company takes exactly the opposite view with respect to births. In 1921, which saw the lowest number of deaths since 1918, there also occurred the record high number of births—2,600,000. In 1933, during the depression, the birth figures dropped to 2,000,000 the lowest of any year since 1921.

But the 1921 peak in the number of births is not likely ever to be exceeded or even equalled, it is said, despite recent gains, with a total of 2,360,000 births in 1940, and probably a somewhat higher figure in 1941.

It Gives Milch

Ernest Brown, minister of health, read the following essay he received from a 10-year-old London East End boy who had been evacuated to the country:

"The cow is a mammal. It has six sides, right and left and upper and below. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this he sends flies away so they won't fall into the milk. The head is for the purpose of growing horns and so his mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with and the mouth to moo with. Under the cow hangs milk. It is arranged for milking. When people milk, milk comes and there never is an end to the supply. How the cow does it I have not yet realized but it makes more and more. The cow has a fine sense of smell and one can smell it far away. This is the reason for fresh air in the country.
"A man cow is called an ox. The cow does not eat much but what it eats it eats twice so that it gets enough. When it is hungry it moos and when it says nothing at all it is because its insides are filled up with grass."

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By RUSSELL KAY

I don't go out of my way to use the words "Honorable," "Esquire," or even "Mister" for that matter. But I'm gonna go, however, and apply all of 'em to the guy who is scheduled to hold down the heavy speaking spot on the State Chamber of Commerce meeting in Panama City next week, on account of him being plenty important.

I'm referring to the Honorable Mister Charles B. Henderson, Esquire, Chairman of the Board of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, who, they tell me, has lent over 14 billion dollars to American firms and business men. Now that kind of money staggerer my imagination. I might be able to tell you how much a quarter of a half is, but the only answer I could give to the question "How much is 14 billion dollars?" would be "It ain't HAY!"

Anyhow it seems to me that a bird who can play around with an amount like that ought to be important enough to rate all the dignified titles anybody could wish on him.

"Moneybags" Henderson is going to speak next Monday at Panama City before delegates to the 25th membership and business conference of the Florida Chamber of Commerce, and will probably have a lot of that 14 billion, so if I can rake together enough of the kind of money I've had experience with to buy gasoline I'm gonna try and get up there to hear what he has to say.

Florida banks, insurance companies, railroads, drainage districts, municipalities, agricultural agencies, trust companies, waterworks, housing, docks and terminals and a score of other enterprises, since 1933 to date have borrowed upwards of 45 million from brother Henderson and I imagine Henderson will include in his remarks some pointed reference to Florida borrowings.

I don't know what kind of a chap this Henderson is, but I got a hunch I'll find him as plain as an old shoe and a regular fellow. Most of the really important folks are like that. But if I should happen to meet him and get to thinkin' about 14 billion I'll probably stand there gaspin' as him like a cockeyed water-purifier.

"BUNDLES FROM BERLIN"

"Freedom of Seas" Is Reason For Arming Ships

R. MORGAN M. BEATTY
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—America's traditional policy—freedom of the seas—is the official reason why Congress voted to arm merchant ships and send them into war zones.

In short, Uncle Sam will travel the ocean highways even if he has to pack along a six shooter, and furnish the travelers with armed escorts (naval convoys).
But there are other reasons is more than I can figure out, for after all Harold is just an ordinary guy like you and me. But it seems that this business of being Executive Vice-President of a state chamber of commerce carries more weight than I realized.

Anyhow, Harold has done a swell job and he deserves a lot of credit, and all indications point to the coming conference being the best in the history of the organization.

I understand that just about everybody and his brother and sister plan to attend and since all hotel rooms in Panama City have been reserved for a month or more, there'll probably be a lot of folk's sleepin' in the park. But don't let that keep you away for they've got a darn good park at Panama City and if you have to you can stop off at Merriana or Tallahassee and commute to the meetin'.

Then my experience is that nobody wants to sleep at a convention anyhow, and the folks stay open all night in that neck of the woods.

In addition to Brother Henderson there will be plenty of other worthwhile features on the program during the 2-day session, with outstanding speakers on a variety of subjects from the FBI to Control of Hog Cholera. The theme of the conference, Harold tells me is "Florida—A United Good State." It's a good theme and good slogan. The State Chamber is playing an important part in bringing all sections and all interests under one banner for the welfare and advancement of the State as a whole.

But guess back to Henderson. Cole probably has been sending him a mass of the fanciful statistics that this guy L. J. Punny releases from time to time, and I served to hypnoteize the big R.P. Cole man, but won't be in for an awful howl when he hears that Florida is just a big billion dollar state, baby, baby, baby!

So much for arming ships. But how about travelling in war zones? Why was the administration so insistent on that point?

Well, Churchill revealed the German attack on the Norway coast in Parliament. Churchill told this lesson in the

O. E. Peterson

The Board of Trustees of Kivwaha International has appointed as the organization's executive secretary, O. E. Peterson, 42, of Crown Point, Ind. The newly-appointed secretary, who will assume his office in January, has been convention manager of the organization since 1936. He received his education at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn.

Why the government is vitally interested at this moment in the risky business of arming ships and traveling combat zones. These reasons do not appear in the record. But they are more practical than any reasons covered by the flourishing phrase, "Freedom of the Seas."

Let's take ship arming first: An armed ship is more of a problem to an attacking submarine than a helpless one. The more timid undersea captains are tempted to release their torpedoes farther from the target when they know the target is armed.

And there's always the chance that some merchant ship's crew might get a lucky pot shot at a hapless sub before it can submerge.

Then there's merchant marine morale. At the moment, nothing's more important to the Allied cause than sailors' morale.

Unarmed ship's crews have a halcyon, futile, desolate feeling that often hardens on them when the white paths of torpedoes are sighted nearby.

So much for arming ships. But how about travelling in war zones? Why was the administration so insistent on that point?

Well, Churchill revealed the German attack on the Norway coast in Parliament. Churchill told this lesson in the

In the four months that have been only one-fifth what they were in the preceding four months. The com- bined efforts of the United States and Royal navies and their air services have cut losses by four-fifths, though more subs are roaming the Atlantic than ever before.

He said if that continues, and the United States keeps up its ship building program (we ex- pect to build 8,000,000 tons in 1942), the Allies will be ready for an overseas campaign by 1943.

What does he mean by over- seas campaign? Just this: Assuming the Germans do not crash up under the strain of war, any attack against them must be overseas.

If the British can be seen that the 8,000,000 tons of ships we build in 1942, and the 8,000,000 tons we built in 1943 are built, we can win the war.

Leesburg Runs And Passes To 19 To 7 Win Over Feds

An 85 yard dash by Right half Danridge of the Yellow Jackets proved the margin of victory as Leesburg ran and passed to a 19 to 7 surprise triumph over Seminole High's Jerry Feds Wednesday night at Leesburg.

Taking the ball on his own 15, Danridge kicked off to open the second half, the jacket blocking back twisted his way to pay dirt to run the Leesburg total to 13 points.

The Feds came to life in the same period shortly after Danridge's run to race up their seven points, but thereafter, the Leesburg defense was too much for the local eleven.

Leesburg scored soon after the opening kick-off with a pass from Pemble to Alotrook, good for 20 yards, setting up the Pemble pick-off two yards and then Fullback McClain went over.

Sanford's offense failed to function properly during the first half largely because of Leesburg's inspired play, and the Jerry Feds trailed the half, 0 to 7.

After Danridge puffed his stunt, Left half Farrell crashed through the jacket line and eluded the secondary for 46 yards and the "Foot" line marker. Fullback Fleming pluckkicked the point after.

Sanford's aerial offense cracked in the final chapter as Leesburg marched to its final touchdown on several successful passes and runs by Pemble and McClain. With the ball on the Sanford one, Pemble to test to McClain for six points.

The Feds lacked up four first downs, 60 yards by rushing and only two yards by passing. Leesburg, with 11 first downs, made 135 yards from scrimmage and 56 in the air.

Rollins Is Ready For Tough Battle In Season Finale

WINTER PARK, Nov. 23 (Special) No championship or undefeated records will be at stake Friday night when the Rollins Bulldogs of Birmingham, Ala., meet the Rollins Tars of Greater Orlando Stadium, but in spite of these elements being taken into the game will be anything but a punk tea party.

Both Rollins and Rollins rate in the top bracket of the South's small colleges, judging by their consistent records over the past five years. It will be the first meeting between the "bulldogs" of the smaller circuit.

Howard has accepted decisions to Auburn, Alabama, Tennessee, and Miami, and 1-3 Chattanooga, while defending State Hill, 31-0, while defeating Staley Hill, 31-0, Tampa, and Mexico. Rollins had lost to Miami and Presbyterian, and Davidson, and one the ball against Mercer, 22-0; Davis, 25-0; Newberry, 10-0; and Tampa, 11-0.

Both Howard and Rollins lost to Miami, who has beaten but once this year. In three touch-down games, which should make the game a toss-up affair.

Last week the Tars' captain, Jim Nelson, told the Rollins' captain, Fred Presbyter, into consideration of the new recruits' record.

Salvage Branch Of Army Assumes Important Role

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 23 — (Special)—The Army is pointing the way for conservation of strategic raw materials by the salvaging annually of millions of dollars worth of waste products, it was announced here today by Lieut. Col. William F. Ritter, supply officer on the staff of Brig. Gen. James L. Frink, fourth corps area quartermaster.

The quartermaster of each post has an officer whose duty it is to see that nothing of value is thrown away. For instance, a single division will salvage enough scrap paper in one month to fill a box car.

A recent innovation of the quartermaster corps is the reclamation of wrecked vehicles. Instead of selling the whole machine as junk, the serviceable parts are removed and sent to Motor Maintenance Districts where they are used as replacement parts. Parts that cannot be repaired are sold as scrap metal. This policy has saved taxpayers millions of dollars since its inauguration. Before the first World War, salvage was almost an unknown thing in the Army. The Army was small and the expense then would have made it impracticable. When the Army was increased in size during the war it was found that junk accumulated in such large quantities that it was profitable to sell it. Since that time the salvage branch of the Quartermaster Corps has been one of its most important functions.

Under the critical eyes of Army ordnance officials, the "tank destroyer" is demonstrated at Arlington, Va. Designed by William Bigley of Hoboken, N. J., the destroyer is built to carry a 75 mm. cannon across country at 75 miles an hour. It is basically a metal-tread tank, powered by an airplane engine.

Army Office Set Up In Orlando To Buy Citrus Fruits

ATLANTA, Nov. 23 — (Special)—Florida citrus fruit growers will be paid more than a million dollars by the Quartermaster Corps beginning this week when the field office recently set up in Orlando, starts making purchases of citrus fruits for use in Army posts throughout the United States.

Lt. Norman K. Brown, officer in charge of the field office, 201 First National Bank Building, Orlando, was appointed to maintain the Florida office for the convenience of growers who have oranges, limes, grapefruit, tangerines and possibly vegetables available for sale to the Army.

This is the second field office to be opened in the United States by the Quartermaster Corps. The first is in the Rio Grande Valley, in Weslaco, Tex. The majority of the Quartermaster's perishable food buying has been handled through marketing centers near the major Army posts or

State Hotel Meeting To Start At Orlando

MIAMI, Nov. 23 — (Special)—Under the leadership of S. D. McCreary, president, Florida State Hotel Association, Florida hotel operators will hold a series of business conferences starting at Orlando on Dec. 1; St. Petersburg on Dec. 2; and Miami Beach on Dec. 4; according to an announcement released by the association's office.

"The theme for this year's business conferences," according to President McCreary, "will be advertising for 1941-42 tourist travel and equipment available to handle Florida winter visitors." The State's leading transportation officials will be in attendance at each meeting for the purpose of discussing this subject, and an opportunity will also be given to the hotel operators in attendance to discuss this subject from the floor."

If You Build Will Electricity Be Available?

New electric lines, except to serve National Defense projects, simply can not be built. Materials must go to defense production. Check your electric service requirements with us before completing any construction plans.

Uncle Sam needs copper, steel, lead, zinc and hundreds of other materials for National Defense. Utility companies must now operate under priorities rules. Under this order—Preference Rating Order P-46, of the Office of Production Management—we are permitted to obtain only "materials required . . . either as Operating Supplies or for the Maintenance or Repair of . . . property."

This order does not permit our company to receive materials for constructing extensions of our lines beyond present service areas.

OFFICIALLY DEFINED

Preference Rating Order P-46, issued by Donald M. Nelson, Director of Priorities, OPM, defines these limitations on materials for utilities, as follows:

"DEFINITIONS

"Maintenance" means the up-keep of a Producer's property and equipment in sound working condition.

"Repair" means the restoration of a Producer's property and equipment to a sound working condition after wear and tear, damage, destruction of parts, or the like, have made such property or equipment unfit or unsafe for service.

"Operating Supplies" means any material which is essential to the operation of any of the industries or services specified above, and which is generally carried in Producer's stores and charged to operating expense accounts.

"P-46" does not specifically:

"Repair" do not include Material for:

The improvement of a Producer's property or equipment through the replacement of material which is still usable in the existing installation with material of a better kind, quality or design.

Additions to, or expansion of, such property or equipment, other than the connection of new consumers to the general lowest pressure or lowest potential system of the Producer, and minor improvements needed to retail him serious overhead and other minor capital additions.

Expansion of the service area of the Producer."

FLORIDA POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY

UNCLE SAM COMES FIRST!

Our first duty is to Uncle Sam. Our next is to you, our customer. Part of that duty is to inform you of these limitations.

To safeguard you from possible disappointment and wasted expense, we suggest that you consult with us first, before you build or plan any changes in your electrical requirements. If that way you can have beforehand whether we can make the material service requirements. In many cases we shall be permitted to do this job. In others, we must wait until the priorities rules are lifted.

In this emergency, we must ask additional help of our plans to clear the way for American defense.

In addition to raising the price on a great many passenger car license plates a number of other laws were enacted by the legislature, which affect owners of motor driven vehicles, some of which are as follows:

Chapter 20225 (Senate Bill 763) authorizes the sale of automobile license tags with specially selected numbers when such numbers are available for a charge of one dollar in addition to all other costs, and prohibiting the application or receipt of an automobile license plate with a specially selected number except upon the payment of one dollar.

Red Successes Reported But Not Confirmed

Counter-Attack Said To Have Crossed Volga, Driven Germans From Towns

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Two British submarines have sunk at least eight Axis troop transports and supply ships carrying reinforcements in men and material to German and Finnish forces at the Marmarak front in the Arctic, the Admiralty announced today. Five other ships were damaged and probably sunk.

MOSCOW, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A powerful Red army counter-attack northwest of Moscow, in which Russian forces were said to have crossed the Volga River on ice and driven the Germans out of town after town in an advance not yet checked, was reported today by the Moscow radio.

The broadcast added that in many places along the hard pressed defense are in front of the Soviet capital the Nazi onslaught has been held at a standstill for several days.

Russia's Ukrainian Army reports the capture of a part of Rostov-on-Don. The Soviets claim the smashing of Nazi assault forces in the key sectors before Moscow and say 9,000 Germans were killed.

Day and night bomber attacks against both Leningrad and Moscow were reported by the German High Command which said that in a five-day period ending last Friday, the Russians lost 103 planes and the Germans only 12.

In Crimea, where news has been scarce for some time, the official German news agency DNB said an infantry division had been driving forward for the past few days through the Yala Mountains toward Sevastopol.

The infantry in the face of clouds of smoke and "icy snow showers," forced their way over the narrow mountain roads "along which it often is impossible for heavy war material trucks and limbers to follow immediately," DNB said.

The Germans were reported split up into four "fighting groups" and to be close to the city of Sevastopol. The "beaten remnants of two Soviet infantry divisions, Naval units and smaller, hastily thrown-together formations which are seeking to escape across the mountains to the Black Sea."

Upon investigating some of the families which the fund will aid this year, Mrs. Langar reported that the Salvation Army will have a greater number of persons to take care of than ever before and it is essential that the donations amount to over the usual total of about $500.

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Two additional Florida offices, at Tampa and Miami, have been established by the defense contract service of the Office of Defense Production, George W. Simons, Jr., state coordinator, announced today, to assist Florida manufacturers, large and small, in procuring contracts and sub-contracts for government-wanted defense materials.

Simons will outline contract details in an address, Dec. 1, to members of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, at Panama City. Industrialists are urged by Harold Cole, executive vice president of the state chamber, to be present at that meeting.

Cole said that lists of Florida's manufacturers would soon be made available to Federal defense contract agencies, and that he expected many Florida firms to pool their resources and set up one or more principals in the procurement of contracts. One Florida firm, he said, is preparing to bid on a contract for six million dollars worth of defense business, and is seeking the cooperation of several other plants in the undertaking.

Shanghai Reports 70 Troop Ships Are Enroute In Move Aimed At Thailand

Tokyo Attacks U. S. Bitterly

High Source Asserts Washington Will Not Change Terms

MANILA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Nazi agents in the Far East are making a determined attempt to bring about a negotiated peace between Japan and China, quarters closely associated with Japan's puppet Chinese regime at Nanking disclosed today.

At the same time an authorized Chinese source asserted any lessening of United States aid to China might force Chungking to accept peace terms.

Many Chinese here believe American aid to China has been more verbal than real and that it should be increased.

SINGAPORE, Nov. 29.—(AP)—All troop leaves at this big British Far Eastern stronghold have been cancelled as a "normal precautionary move in view of the Pacific situation," it was announced tonight.

The Far Eastern crisis grows as Shanghai reports 70 or more Japanese troop ships are sailing for the Hainan Island or French Indo China.

The Tokyo radio attacks the United States bitterly. The Chinese say the Japanese move is aimed at Thailand or the Burma Road. The Japanese cabinet went into emergency session.

Whatever happens in the Pacific is squarely up to Japan, it was made plain yesterday by a high source who said this nation's patience with Tokyo is exhausted and that the United States will not compromise its basic terms for settling the Far Eastern crisis.

These terms call for Japan to get out of China and French Indo-China and to preserve a temporary status quo in the rest of the Far East.

They were handed to the Japanese Wednesday night and are being pondered by the Tokyo Government. On Tokyo's reply depends whether there may be war in the Pacific or whether Japanese-American diplomatic conversations will continue with a view toward a permanent peace settlement.

Authoritative quarters, asserting that negotiations between the two countries have not yet broken down, emphasized, however, that the situation is serious.

President Roosevelt's last official act before entraining for Warm Springs was to confer with his "War Cabinet"—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, Army Chief of Staff General George C. Marshall and Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Harold R. Stark. It was the second such conference this week.

Department Store Sales Up 11 Percent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The federal reserve board estimated Friday that department store sales in the week ended Nov. 22 were about 11 percent higher than in the corresponding week last year.

In the week ended Nov. 15, sales were 14 percent more than a year ago, and in the four weeks ended Nov. 22 they averaged 14 percent more than in the similar period last year. However, comparisons were thrown off somewhat by differing dates of Thanksgiving.
