3 YEARS TO LIFE

STICK UP?

Don't try it!

Florida law now requires that anyone convicted of armed robbery must spend a minimum of three years in prison with no possibility of parole

Sigs at store entrances and billboards warn of a new Florida law.

New Gun Law Publicized

MIAMI (AP) — A group of businessmen is spending $1 million to give potential criminals something to think about before they use a gun to commit a crime — a mandatory three-year sentence.

"Almost all the time, publicity about crime involves talking about prevention," said Diana Monahan, an Orlando-based public relations woman who created the advertising campaign.

"People are told to lock their doors. But this time, we're not aiming at the good guys, but at the bad or potentially bad guys."

Under a law passed by the 1975 Florida Legislature, use of a weapon during commission of any of 11 serious crimes means a minimum of three years in prison upon conviction.

Ms. Monahan said the problem was in publicizing the new law.

"(The law) was aimed at the 85-age group, which commits half the felonies in the state," she said. "We went into high-crime areas and, in interviews with 425 people, found that 81 per cent were unaware of the new law. In the larger cities, 88 per cent didn't know."

"Businessmen realize that if it stops just one robbery, or keeps just one person from going to jail, it will be a success. But we're hoping we'll do a lot better than that, not only in stopping crime but in keeping people from going to prison."

The Florida Outdoor Advertising Association is donating about 200 billboards for six months to a year, storekeepers are displaying decals concerning the law, and a barrage of public-service announcements are planned for radio and television.

"Altogether, we estimate that the business community will spend as much as $1 million," Ms. Monahan said.

Ms. Monahan, the designation she prefers, said she knows of no similar campaign being waged elsewhere.

"Since the word got out, we're receiving a lot of inquiries from other states," she said. "Businessmen realize that if it stops just one robbery, or keeps just one person from going to jail, it will be a success. But we're hoping we'll do a lot better than that, not only in stopping crime but in keeping people from going to prison."

Judge Says FBI Should Clean Files

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several times before 1966, a Texas man named John Brent Tarlton was held on various charges by local police and a record of each arrest was sent to the FBI.

Each time, an FBI clerk dutifully recorded the arrest on Tarlton's "rap sheet" in the FBI's Washington headquarters.

Upon request, almost any local police department, judge, prosecutor, bank or potential federal employer would have been provided Tarlton's FBI criminal record.

None of the arrest entries on Tarlton's pre-1966 criminal records shows what happened to the initial charges. For all the FBI knew, the accusations might have been dropped.

Yet, until Friday, the FBI must call the action "a taking of property" without compensation, while others said the council is "penalizing the citizens of Lake Mary just in case the state does this or that (with) additional right of way."

In other action, council — Adopted on final reading ordinances governing the placing of signs in the community and the installation of utility lines in city and right-of-way.

Smith's decision came as a result of a suit filed by Tarlton, who complained that his file carried 20 years' records more than 20 years old.

"Balancing personal rights with the valid needs of the criminal justice system, the court cannot order the wholesale expungement or non-dissemination of criminal records not meeting an arbitrary yardstick," the judge said.

Nonetheless, he said, "The FBI cannot proceed undisturbed by the serious danger of individuals caused by unrecorded dispositions and state files, nor can it totally relegate responsibility for such deficiencies to local agencies and courts."

Smith also told the FBI it must — Find a new way to update years-old arrest records that failed to show what happened to the initial charge.

"Pass on challenges to the accuracy of FBI criminal records to local police departments and other law enforcement agencies."

Gradually remove entries of all less serious offenses like drunkenness, vagrancy, traffic violations and juvenile crimes from FBI files. The judge directed the FBI with already starting that task.

In his 15-page order, the judge also disclosed some interesting facts about FBI criminal files.

For example, each work day, 7,000 federal, state and local police agencies send in 10,000 fingerprints for filing with the FBI.

And he said nearly 70 per cent of the FBI files include at least one entry of an arrest that fails to show what happened to the charges.

The judge noted an FBI estimate that it would cost $3.12 to remove each less serious offense from one person's criminal record.

Over the past two years, for a small fee, 2,145 persons have requested and obtained copies of their FBI criminal records.

By 1978, about two-thirds of the FBI's 21.4 million criminal records will be computerized and will be produced at the touch of a button.

Lyman Carries County Banner In Mat Tourney

LONGWOOD — Led by their premier wrestler, Doug Peters, the Lyman Greyhounds were able to finish the first two rounds of the regional wrestling tournament Friday with 19 points — good enough for a fourth place in overall team standings.

Far back in the pack going into Saturday's round was Lake Howell with 16 points, Lake Howell with 14, Seminole with 5 and Oviedo with 4.

Peters, a senior, won his 109 pound match in the afternoon when he pinned Zophie of Lake Weir in 4:45 and then came back at night to pin Al Shack of Paxon for his 110th career win.

Undeclared this season, Peters expects to improve on his third place finish last year in the state finals. As a sophomore the 123-pounder finished in the top eight while as a freshman he was defeated in the districts.

Other Seminoles who came out of the districts were Lyman's Armando Payas, Lake Howell's Donnie Barton, Oviedo's Jerry Zayas and Lake Brantley's Andy Abramson.

Payas first defeated Robert Wilcox of Mosley by a margin of 17-5. Then he pinned DeLand's Lindsey after 5:43 had elapsed.

Barton, who weighs 130 pounds, pinned Vic Sola of Orange Park and then defeated Washington's Don Doria, 8-2.

Zayas' wins both came via the decision route when he first took the measure of Wheat of Spruce Creek by a 9-2 margin and then came back to defeat Fletcher's Pat Tosey, 12-8.

Abramson came through as expected in the unlimited class with a pair of wins. But he got a scare from Clay's Samec. After pinning Rutherford's Jim Simmons in just 1:40, Andy was fortunate to get past Samec by a close 7-5 margin.

Other matches involving Seminoles County wrestlers included: 102-pound class, where Seminole's John Trinkle lost a 15-10 decision to Columbia's Gary Casco; 109-pound class with Lake Brantley's Tim Timothy winning on a forfeit, in the first round, ousted later by Orange Park's Dave Chalmers on a 15-10 decision; 116-pound class, where Lyman's Mike Perry winning a 14-4 decision over Kurtz of Forrest, but in round two he was upended by Mosley's Pete Silva on a 5-3 count; 171-pound class, where Lyman's Greg Lang easily defeated Niceville's J. Phillips, 7-3, but then dropped a 13-2 score to Leesburg's Buckner; 189-pound class, where Lake Brantley's Brad Machara took only 35 seconds to pin Englewood's C. Cooper but then he himself was pinned, this time by Mosley's J. Brown in 4:55.

Seminole's Kenny Adams had a similar experience when he pinned Raines' Ron King in 40 seconds and then lost to Clay's Maxwell on a 3-15 pinning; Unlimited — Seminole's Robert Charles narrowly got by Mosley's B. Peterson by a 1-0 count, but was then pinned by Ken Riddle at the 4:50 mark.

Rounds three and four were held Saturday morning and evening with the top four finishers in each of the weight divisions advancing to the state finals next weekend in Winter Park.

Kozakiewicz—described by Ripley as having "perfect" (vaulting) form; not like me, I'm all over the place"—finished second this time at 17-0, missing three times at 16-4.

The slender Ripley thought he had cleared 184 on his record vault, because that was the announced height of the bar before he began his approach. But it was reannounced after the bar sagged slightly in the middle and fluttered when he went over 17.

"It was a shocker to do it tonight," confessed Ripley, who had burst out of obscurity last year with a record vault of 18-1.

Ali Wins In Five; Coopman Real Million Dollar Baby?

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Ripley admits his pole vaulting style is somewhat "crazy," and Dwight Stanes obviously is nothing but a "flop" as a high jumper.

But despite their idiosyncrasies, they set world records in the indoor amateur pole vault mark four times, regained the record, clearing 18 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

The confident Stanes, usually unawed by anything he accomplishes, surprised even himself, lifting his indoor high jump record to 7-6 1/2.

The 22-year-old Ripley, formerly of San Jose State University and now an assistant track coach and substitute physical education teacher at Cypress Junior College in California, bettered the indoor amateur record of 18-3 1/2, set only a week earlier by Poland's Wladyslaw Kuratkiwicz.

Rozelle Says Draft Not Far Off

MIAMI (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle says the National Football League's expansion player draft will be held in the near future now that a judge has thrown out a suit against the NFL Players' Association.

"We'll definitely proceed with both the allocation of the NFLPA's motion to dismiss the suit, noting that the court could not rule "on behalf of some yet undetermined guard who may decide that he doesn't want to go to Tampa," during the court hearing, NFLPA attorney Ed Glennon promised that the union would not challenge the draft, but said he could not speak for individual players.

"There is no threat, according to (NFLPA executive director Ed) Garvey," said Glennon. "I can assure you that the Players Association is not going to commence action to challenge the expansion draft."

Then Ali drew a roar from the crowd which jammed the 12,000-seat arena as he came down off his toes to fire a series of head shots that cut Coopman over his left eye and dropped him in his corner to be counted out by referee Ismael Quinones Fala.

"I felt like 500 pounds were falling on me and I fell down," Coopman, who speaks only Flemish, said through an interpreter.

The league's expansion teams, Tampa Bay and Seattle, had filed suit seeking a ruling to uphold the legality of the draft of veteran players and an injunction to prevent the NFLPA from interfering with the draft.

But U.S. District Court Judge Joe Eaton ruled Friday in favor of the NFLPA's motion to dismiss the suit, noting that the court could not rule "on behalf of some yet undetermined guard who may decide that he

Flying high under the big top

Florida State University's Flying High Circus has thrilled young and old alike throughout the Southeast

The greatest collegiate show on earth

Florida State University's Flying High Circus comes to Sanford for two performances Saturday, Feb. 21, at 7:30 and 8 p.m. The performers, who travel all over the south during each 7-9-year annual tour, will be presented over two weeks under the big top of the university campus in Tallahassee.

The Flying High Circus, a whole troupe full of new generation children who left home to join the circus, is a group of performers who are in a chain of audiences that stretches across the world.

These performers have other, more away from the circus, but they're living now.

What does it take to become a member of Flying High? It's a long, hard road. You must receive no academic credits or tuition waivers. The students are required to show some talent after classes.

The FSU circus is actually an aerial and stage performance troupe. It does not include acrobatic, animal acts, and the animals are very safety devices than professional circuses.

The aerial performers often wear safety vests, and attached to a belt around the performer's waist. The vests provide a sense of safety, but don't help the performer to do anything but fall.

A sense of safety is also provided by the fact that the performers fit their own acts and carry their own equipment. It's a person help put up the big top, string lights, and set up the stage.

But there's time for the show, and the music, the circus acts.

The performance at Sanford Saturday, Feb. 21, at 7:30 and 8 p.m. includes one segment of a 10-year-old Steve Seckford of Altamonte Springs, a 19-year-old Steve Seckford of Altamonte Springs, a 19-year-old Steve Seckford of Altamonte Springs, and a 19-year-old Steve Seckford of Altamonte Springs.

Florida State is the only university in the United States with a circus of this size, and it's the only one in the world.

Every year, the circus is presented on several television channels. The circus is the only college circus in the world.

And there are circus fans waiting for them in every town along the way. Expect them to be there to be the best for you. But the circus is the only college circus in the world. It's the only college circus in the world. It's the only college circus in the world.

$5,000 In County Money Earmarked Legal Aid Funding Dispute With Commission Solved

County Commissioner Sid Vihlen Jr. said today he has solved a reported rift between the commission and the county's fledgling Legal Aid Society.

Vihlen said he contacted Ned Julian, the society's representative, and ironed out all the problems associated with a much-needed $5,000 county award to the society.

Last Tuesday the county commission refused to channel $5,000 to the Legal Aid Society. Commissioners said the society had not provided the necessary paperwork needed to comply with grant requirements.

"The problem is solved," Vihlen said. He said he will provide the information needed to the commission on Tuesday.

All that was needed, Vihlen said, was a report from the society outlining next year's program. The report must be placed in the public record, Vihlen said.

"We aren't challenging the program," he added. "I feel it's a good program and they (society members) are doing a great job."

After the commission refused to release the money on Tuesday, Julian was quoted as saying the society is on shaky financial ground and could go under without the $5,000.

Commissioner Richard Williams said the program is a "good one" and went on to say he predicted no problems once the report is in the hands of the commission.

The society has provided legal aid for 340 indigents. The society is sponsored by the Seminole County Bar Association. Attorneys provide the legal expertise on a rotating basis.

The $5,000 from the county is matched with in-kind donations from attorneys which is then used to secure an $8,000 grant award from the state's Department of Community Services.

Though the full board must approve Vihlen's action, he pointed out that with the report from Julian he anticipates no problems in securing full board approval to release the $5,000 generated from a $2 increase in filing fees.

The commission's acting administrative assistant, Bob Ellis, immediately set up the Vihlen-Julian conference following the board's action on Tuesday.

In other action Tuesday the commission is expected to deliver a report on the impact of Walt Disney World operations on Seminole County during coming years.

Some board members met with Disney officials today to determine what the future holds in reference to Disney's plan to expand.

The commission decided to send representatives to a meeting with Disney officials to better prepare themselves for the expected growth here due to expansion at the Central Florida attraction.

County planners say Disney had the most profound impact this decade on growth in this county which presently has an estimated population of 136,000.

Commission May Bar Gifts By Developers

Two county officials today predicted county government soon — perhaps at Tuesday's commission meeting — will invoke a policy prohibiting "voluntary" contributions from developers.

County Commissioner John Kimbrough charged the rationale behind creation of such a policy is tied to promises made by certain officeholders to developers.

At Tuesday's meeting, the Homebuilders Association of Mid-Florida has scheduled a 10:30 a.m. presentation.

Kimbrough said he anticipates enactment of the policy at that time. At present, no county policy as such exists, but "voluntary" contributions of money or land are accepted from developers in return for the impact their particular development will have on the county.

For example, large developments have been known to "purchase" school sites in return for a construction permit.

The theory behind such practices is that developers — not citizens presently living in the county — should pay a part of the future developmental impact cost.

Now, however, both Kimbrough and Port Authority Chairman Thomas Binford say a faction led by County Attorney Thomas Freeman is out to stop the practice.

"What the group planned some time ago — if they could gain control of the commission — was to do away with what they called 'voluntary' or making developers give away land for schools," Binford said.

"In return political coffers will be filled for ensuing elections," Binford added. Binford, Freeman's first cousin, said for years he was a member of the "group," but broke away because of ideological reasons.

During his 1974 campaign for the commission, Kimbrough said the Freeman power machine was on the prowl.

"John (Kimbrough) doesn't have anything to do but sit back and make big clouds of smoke. He is good at saying the sky is falling, and the people believe it's the truth. He's like Chicken Little," Kwiatkowski added.

Kimbrough, on the other hand, said "lots of funds raised by contributions" would be done away with by enactment of a no concessions policy.

The result, he added, is that taxpayers would be required to foot the entire bill for the impact large developments will have on the community.

Kwiatkowski pointed out Freeman and former County Attorney Howard Marsee both have ruled such "concessions" may be illegal.

Meanwhile, Binford predicted if legal action is passed, it will be on a 3-2 vote, with Williams and Kimbrough dissenting.

Binford plans to make a bid this year for either the State Legislature or the county Commission seat occupied by Michael Hattaway.

Press Barred Again

Circuit Court Judge Joe A. Cowart Jr. today barred reporters from his chambers — the second time in as many months — where a routine "soundings of the docket" for 14 criminal trials was held.

Last month, Cowart, chief administrative judge for the criminal division of the 19th Judicial Circuit, Seminole-Brevard, had a ban on the press. Today when a Herald reporter entered the chamber before the proceeding Cowart said, "I guess you're going to put the burden on me."

He then said, "I'm going to speak with the lawyers in private" and indicated the reporter should leave.

Cowart refused to say what he's mad at the press about and cryptically commented, "All I know is what I read in the papers."

Two hours later defense lawyers were still closeted with Cowart in the chambers hearing room. Occasionally peals of laughter could be heard from behind the closed door.

Circuit Judge Volie A. Williams of the civil division told reporters he understands that Cowart's barring the press from the routine docket soundings has "something to do with plea bargaining."

Williams said possibly there had been complaints from defense attorneys who were concerned with possible publicity prior to disposition of their clients' cases.

Last month, when Cowart first barred the press, Circuit Judge Richard Muldrew said he'd never heard of such an action before and said there's nothing in the administrative order governing the courts' procedures about the subject.

Cowart is the only one of the 13 Seminole-Brevard circuit judges to bar reporters from the soundings. The procedure is one in which prosecutors and defense attorneys meet with the court and indicate which of the cases on the docket will actually go to trial and which cases will be disposed of with negotiated pleas.

The sessions are recorded by an official court reporter but the notes can be transcribed only on court order, thus they are not available for public inspection until many weeks after the docket sounding session, if at all.

"The blame should not be put on us," she said. "We elected Nixon."

Calling Ford a "strong man with a strong image," Ms. Zahry bragged that Ford has a record of 38 successful vetoes out of 46 of legislation passed by a "liberal" Congress.

"Last week he vetoed a public works bill that would have cost over $6 billion of the taxpayers' money because it was not the way to handle inflation and unemployment," she said.

Pointing to his work on behalf of the Republicans, Ms. Zahry said Ford in 1972 raised over $6 million to help elect GOP candidates to Congress.

Audrey Holloway, chairman of the local Reagan committee called her candidate's "ideas creative, not stagnant," adding he has encouraged hope "where futility and despair prevailed."

Ford, Reagan Both Have Support

LONGWOOD — Representatives of the local presidential campaigns of President Gerald Ford and ex-Gov. Ronald Reagan of California urged members of the Sanford Women's Republican Club Saturday to make their choice now, but be ready to vote behind the GOP candidate after Florida's March 9 presidential preferential primary.

Former state senatorial candidate Jan Zahry of Cocoa said the party "owes" Ford the election because he has "spent his life working for us in public service for 25 years."

Saying Ford was the man handpicked by ex-President Richard Nixon, Ms. Zahry said, however, all Ford's problems should not be laid on Nixon's doorstep.

Fund Transfer To Be Aired By Sanford City Commission

A request to transfer funds within the city's 1976 budget to provide for the renovation of a hangar and three tennis courts at the Sanford-Central Florida Airport will be considered at tonight's meeting of the Sanford City Commission, scheduled for 7 p.m. at City Hall.

In a memorandum from Director of Aviation S. "Red" Cleveland to City Manager W. E. Knowles dated Feb. 13, Cleveland requested $2,500 be transferred within the budget to cover the renovation expenses, which Cleveland said will be amortized "in about six years."

Also coming under consideration at tonight's city commission meeting will be recommendations from the city's Planning & Zoning Commission that beer and wine sales be approved at three local businesses.

In a memo to the commission dated Feb. 20, Knowles said the city "has had a loose, undefined, unwritten grievance procedure for its employees that has resulted in some grievances going to the Civil Service Board; some by-passing supervisors, etc. This is not acceptable in preparations for unions, etc. A defined grievance procedure must be recorded and made available to each employee."

A continuation of a public hearing to close, vacate and abandon alley between 11th Street and 20th Street and between Chase Avenue and Lake Avenue, is on the agenda, as is a public hearing to consider rezoning property on the West side of Upsilon Road, opposite Lakewood Drive, and North of Two Acres Estates.

DEAR HELOISE: I recently visited a friend who had bought a new King size bed for her master bedroom. I discovered that instead of being a bed, it was a mattress on wheels. I thought, "I've never heard of such an action before and said there's nothing in the administrative order governing the courts' procedures about the subject." I was the only one of the 13 Seminole-Brevard circuit judges to bar reporters from the soundings. ### HELP FOR HOMEOWNERS

The city holds classes each week on how to measure, paint, wallpaper, and other home improvement projects. The classes are held at the city hall and are free of charge. If you are interested in attending, call the city hall for more information.
