Strange Mystery Ends In Time To Avert Tiff Between Japan, China Over Official

NANKING, June 13.—(AP.)—The strange case of Elmei Kuramoto, Japanese vice-consul who disappeared four and a half days ago, was cleared up today in time to avert threatened difficulties between China and Japan.

Kuramoto was found sitting in a graveyard beside an ancient tomb of the Ming Dynasty. He was unkept, hungry, and uninterested in the fact that soldiers and warships had been called out by the two nations because he had failed to achieve promotion in the Japanese consular service.

Apparently he had not planned during his sojourn, and the pang of approaching starvation saved him from self destruction. "Hunger forced me to hold onto life," he said.

Japan had informed the Chinese government officially that it would hold the government responsible for the safety of the vice-consul who dropped from the sky last Friday.

Japan backed up its note with warships which it rushed to Nanking. Chinese authorities offered a reward of 10,000 Mexican dollars or about $300 United States for information leading to the whereabouts of Kuramoto.

He told authorities his inability to gain promotion sent him to the cemetery to commit suicide.

President Signs Reciprocal Tariff Bill, Assumes Sole Power To Fix Import Sales

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt signed the Administration's new tariff bill last night and immediately assumed sole power to fix sales on all articles imported into the United States and to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements with other nations.

Under the new act the President for the next three years has authority to increase or decrease existing tariffs by 50 percent and to make new agreements with other nations in which excessive tariffs and other trade restrictions are to be eliminated on a reciprocal basis in the expectation of reviving American foreign trade.

The act was signed last night after all customs houses in the country had closed for the day so that all provisions of the new act and minor changes in tariffs in effect would go into effect simultaneously this morning at all ports of entry.

Long placed in power when he transferred his office activities to Washington two years ago.

TO MYSELF

Whitewash your memory, fool! Keep no account of those Tall peaks of rapture. Leave the cool blue midnight Out of memory and let The quicksilver touch be gone. Forget, likewise, the coming of dawn Over his proud body. Allow no inner flame To fire your heart.

Whitewash your memory, fool! Learn to bleach it clean. Patterns of vine and violet Learn to welcome the adverse signs.

Professor Tugwell doesn't seem to tug very well with certain members of the Senate.

Say, wouldn't it have been a good thing for Florida if the 1926 hurricane had come during the New Deal!

One of the troubles with price fixing is that the government can't fix prices so as to satisfy the producer and the consumer at the same time.

Isn't it funny that when a man makes a success of his business, he always claims the credit for it, but when it goes sour, it's somebody else's fault.

Professor Tugwell says he's no radical; he's a conservative. Which only goes to substantiate that old saying that the best way to make a conservative out of a radical is to put him in office.

Max Baer and Primo Carners are going to hold a debate in Madison Square Garden Thursday night to determine which of them is the real head of the beef trust.

Senator Gore points out that in 1860 the total cost of our national government was only $60,000,000 a year. Throughout January of this year our government spent that much every two days. And in 1860 they complained of high taxation.

J. P. Morgan & Co., most famous international banking house in the United States, has finally decided to abandon the security sales and to devote itself entirely to its deposit business. Its final decision has come as a result of the Securities Act of last year which provided for the divestment of commercial banks from security affiliates. No more can J. P. Morgan use depositor funds to float security issues.

One of the winners in the recent Irish sweepstakes who thought he had won $75,000 has already discovered that gambling doesn't pay. He read in the papers that a man by his name had won. He had bought a ticket so he naturally supposed he was the man. Later developments however proved that his nephew had also bought a ticket but had bought it in the name of his uncle "who was always lucky." It was this ticket which he had bought. Naturally the man who holds the ticket gets the money.

This Strenuous Life

Many a parent has had the experience of seeing his children become unruly and unmanageable at the close of a happy Christmas day or after some other period of unusual excitement and emotional strain. Playing too hard or too long, or becoming too excited, upsets the child's nervous system and invariably makes it cross or irritable. If this goes on day after day illness usually results.

Dr. George W. Crile, of Cleveland, the famous physician, says that something of this nature is happening to all mankind. We are living too fast, playing too hard, thinking and worrying too much for our own nervous systems. High-strung modern life stimulates too frequently and too powerfully the thyroid and adrenal glands, the brain, and the nervous system, with the result that eventually the entire body will be destroyed.

He cites the case of the Irish elk which by various evolutionary processes gradually developed larger and larger horns. From generation to generation the horns of the elk grew bigger and bigger. This trend doubtless started in the beginning because of the fact that large powerful horns were necessary to defend the elk against its enemies. The elks with small or stunted horns were killed by the animals.

But as time went on, the horns of the elk grew larger and larger until the animal could no longer support them. The last generation staggered around for a few years under the burden of its great horns and finally starved to death from sheer inability to move. And the Irish elk became extinct.

It is hardly likely that the brain of the human being will become so over-developed that because of its size alone man will be unable to support the burden of his own head and therefore die. But Dr. Crile does insist that its constant stimulation throughout the ages at a constantly increasing pace will so weaken the body as to make men particularly susceptible to certain types of diseases peculiar to the kinetic system.

When one contrasts the speed, with which one lives today, motor cars that idle over the highways at eighty miles and hour, airplanes that make the motor cars seem slow, and all the noise and excitement of street cars, radios and saxophones, to the calm of the horse-and-buggy days, the strain on the nervous system would seem to be excessive.

But if modern America suffers from these new inventions, at least it is spared the threat and worry of constant Indian attacks. If we today are likely to fall victims of this strenuous life, at least there is no danger of poison arrows from Comanche bows.

Perhaps there is a compensation which will carry us through for another generation or two at least.

Invaluable Dogs

"Eyes for the blind" is the thought behind a recent article appearing in the Literary Digest. This is not a miraculous surgical operation of some patent medicine cure. It is the simple expedient of training a police dog to lead his master carefully from one place to another avoiding traffic jams and the dangers of busy thoroughfares.

Since the war the use of these dogs for such purposes has become increasingly popular. The idea started in Germany where this particular type of dog predominates. Every German soldier who returned home from the war, blind, but not otherwise incapacitated, was given a police dog. Improved methods of training have made it an invaluable asset to those who are unable to see.

The dog simply walks beside its master, suiting its pace to his, keeping a steady pull on the harness which surrounds its shoulders. The dog is trained to avoid all obstructions, holes in the sidewalks, or awnings or signs which may hang too low. It stops at curbs, sits down, and watches carefully in all directions until the street is clear. Then, standing up, it leads its master safely across.

The dog is further trained to respond to certain commands. The master must know where he wants to go, count the blocks and turns, so as to keep his sense of direction. The dog will lead him there through such commands as "Forward," "Right," "Left." There has never been a serious accident on account of these dogs. Such minor accidents as have occurred were caused by skidding cars, and in at least one case by a drunken driver.

It takes about four months to train a police dog to lead a blind man, three months alone and one month with its future master. The training usually is not begun until the dog is fourteen months of age. And it is confined largely to females which have been found to be gentler and more eager to please.

Mr. Morris Frank of Nashville, one of the blind who has been given a new lease on life as a result of his well trained dog, says, "Buddy is more intelligent than I am. She almost does my thinking for me." His dog leads him safely through the heaviest traffic of the large cities, on trains, among street cars, buses and automobiles, with never a slip.

The dog is surely this man's best friend.

SHOE MERCHANT DISCUSSES U.S. LABOR SITUATION

Relationship Of Capital, Labor, Public Is Outlined By Johnson

By GEORGE F. JOHNSON (President of Endicott-Johnson Shoe Co.)

(For the Associated Press) BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., June 12.—The relationship of labor, capital and the consuming public, is little understood by the average mind. We must all live off the consuming public charging them all costs, however great. Failing to meet competition, we lose business. Competition, therefore, becomes a most vital factor in industrial relations.

I should say, one great error capital makes, is to over-capitalize in "boom times," selling their securities on basis of possible earnings, rather than on original cost or replacement. They cannot pay good wages to labor, because they are pledged to pay interest on "watered stocks," or inflated capital.

Unfortunately, this puts them in a poor position to compete with concerns more conservatively organized and capitalized. This, then, creates an almost impossible burden, and even their small competitors give them worlds of trouble.

"Overhead" is a troublesome element of cost, created by over-paid executives, every and all kinds of extravagance in operation, bad management, and over-capitalized securities based on "boom time" earnings.

If "big business" had not made so many blunders and mistakes, they would find it much pleasanter when the "lean years" come. Earning interest on inflated values, and trying to pay good wages, is like trying to ride two horses at one time—a fairly difficult and dangerous operation.

My conception of the true relation of labor and capital, is for each industry honestly capitalized, honestly organized and economically conducted to pay labor as much as possible, with a due regard for the rights of the investing and consuming public.

This would bring into control and for distribution an immense amount of capital now squandered by management in useless overhead, taking from labor and the consuming public both, what fairly belongs to them, and if given to them, would change the whole appearance of the picture as between labor and capital.

We must either force labor down, or force the consuming public to pay more than the purchase is intrinsically worth, plus a fair profit under good management. The first recourse is to force labor to take less than its fair due, and then to make the consuming public pay more than a fair price, and between the two evils most of the troubles occur.

Bad management and over-capitalization are the two chief factors. In unsuccessful operation. I do not believe in "standard wages." This compels some companies to pay more than they can afford, and permits other, and stronger companies to pay less than they can afford. What constitutes a fair wage and a fair dividend between the two partners, labor and capital, is all that is possible to give to labor, with sufficient guarantee to the investor, and fair service and fair price to the consumer.

In co-operation with labor, large industries should provide homes needed by workers, on a fair basis of interest charges, and sold at cost with no profit. They should, if possible, operate a full and complete medical department, to take care of illness of workers and dependent members of their families. Thus "co-operative medicine" will be furnished them for half the cost if bought in the open market. All these things are vitally important.

President Signs Tariff Bill Which Gives Him Powers

These provisions were repealed by Congress because of the conflict with provisions of nearly all American trade treaties calling for equality of treatment under most favored-nation clauses.

The total tariffs collected on all such articles amounted to less than $200,000 in 1933, of which $102,707 was collected on coal imported from Canada, Mexico, and French Indo-China. Tariffs imposed on motor cars and parts amounted to $3,000; paper products $13,000, and bicycles $6,000.

State department officials believe new reciprocal trade agreements eventually will be signed with 25 nations with whom the United States carries on approximately 75 percent of its trade.

A treaty with Columbia, designated as the "model of the series," has been negotiated and signed. A new treaty with Cuba is expected to be signed within three weeks. Other trade agreements, negotiations for which were interrupted pending passage of the tariff bill will be consummated with Argentina, Sweden and Portugal in the immediate future. Germany, Spain, Canada and a dozen other nations have been tentative overtures for similar negotiations.

The tariff legislation prohibits the transfer of any article between the dutiable and free lists.

Carrying out a principle laid down by Congress, the act provides that when the President proposes new duties and import restrictions in a pact with one country, the same shall apply to all other nations. However, if American products are not discriminated against by a foreign country, the President may suspend the application of the new duties to that country.

Authority to terminate at any time proclamations reducing or increasing import duties also is given the executive.

To preserve the flexible provisions of the 1930 tariff act, the legislation stipulates that it shall not be applicable to any article imported from the United States entered into by this country.

Every trade agreement concluded will run for three years, if not terminated at the end of that time, the agreement will continue unless cancelled upon six months' notice, cancelled upon six months' notice, treatment to Cuba under an existing treaty.

More Money Set Aside To Probe U.S. Naziism

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—The merit of the Nazi investigation and whether German-American do or do not approve it stirred a sarcastic debate in the House Monday as it appropriated $20,000 more for the study being made by a special committee. Chairman McCormack (D-Mass.) of the special committee argued that $40,000 is appropriate in addition to the $10,000 already allotted. The House declined and by a standing vote of 170 to 87, adopted a resolution making $20,000 available.

DEMOCRATS AT CAPITAL PRAISE ROOSEVELT PLAN

Social Legislation Is Also Criticized As Political Document

WASHINGTON, June 12.—(AP)—Without exception, congressional Democrats who commented on President Roosevelt's message on social problems, praised it; some Republicans did likewise, but others viewed it as a political document, or a call for more expenditures.

Among the latter was Congressman Reed, Republican of New York, who said: "I regard the document as a notice to the people to expect larger expenditures to carry out a more ambitious program when the next Congress meets in January, 1935."

By contrast the Senate Democratic leader, Robinson of Arkansas, said: "The President sponsors a program for social legislation that is admirable. Legislation during the next session will be based on the message."

"I have nothing to say," said Senator McNary of Oregon the Republican leader. Other comments included: Speaker Rainey: "This is an absolutely new era upon which we are entering and the success of the government and its perpetuity depends upon taking away from its nationals the element of fear. They must be assured that they will be safe during periods of sickness and unemployment and they must be sure that they will be taken care of when old age comes."

Senator Johnson, Republican of California, said: "I think it is splendid." Senator Fletcher, Democrat of Florida, "splendid."

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan: "An excellent statement of the inevitable new social responsibilities of government. I completely sympathize with these objectives and expect to help carry them out. But social progress does not need to mean socialism. We must avoid the latter while embracing the former. The President's message is a timely and sympathetic postscript to the new declaration upon these subjects by the Republican national committee at Chicago earlier in the week."

House Majority Leader Byrns of Tennessee: "The message is a striking illustration of the difference between the New Deal and the old deal, which under Republican administration has brought the country to a state of distress and almost utter despair."

Congressman Bakewell, Republican of Connecticut: "I suppose it was a good policy I speak of. We all want to realize the three objectives which the President states, but a clear vision of the goal does not sanction every method employed in the endeavor to realize it. The President's message says nothing about the threat of inflation that is involved in the piling up in the deficit. The message itself seems to indicate greater and greater spending and higher and higher debts."

RECEIVERSHIP ASKED FOR BIRMINGHAM

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 12.—(AP)—A receivership for the City of Birmingham, with the ouster of the city commission, yesterday was asked in a petition filed in Jefferson Circuit Court on behalf of five creditors of the municipality.

The petition set forth that the five plaintiffs, Mrs. Clara E. Martin, C. M. Jackson, Effie Brown Banks, William A. Goodby and Peter A. Law, held judgments against the city that they could not collect.

The City of Birmingham as a corporation, J. M. Jones, Jr., W. O. Downs, and Lewey Robinson, commissioners, were named as defendants.

Commissioners Downs and Robinson said the suit for an ouster and receivership was nothing but "politics." Commissioner Jones declined to comment.

SETS GLIDER RECORD

ROME, June 12.—(AP)—Major Umberto Nanni, squadron leader in Marshal Italo Balbo's mass flight to Chicago last year, has established a new Italian record for glider flying. Using a Bialone glider, Nanni was outflown in the air and remained aloft for one hour and a half. He reached a maximum altitude of 6,400 feet.

Major Nanni's flight seems to indicate greater and greater spending and higher and higher debts.

School Buses Must Be Steel, Board Rules

TALLAHASSEE, June 13. (AP)—Florida school buses next year will have all-steel bodies for the protection of their passengers.

The state board of education yesterday adopted a rule requiring the buses to be equipped with steel bodies not later than June 1, 1935.

County school boards were urged to put the change into effect before beginning of the fall term this year if possible.

The buses will be painted orange, with black lettering to make them easily identified as school buses. A state law requires all motor vehicles to stop before passing a school bus when it is stopped to take on or discharge children.

During the past year several school bus accidents have occurred in Florida. In one at Crescent City 11 children were killed when a train hit a school bus.

Queer Music

Amey Cox presents, at the Milano tonight, the Rhythm Aristocrats, featuring Billy Doss, "The South's foremost comedian, a late star of 'Lasses White's Minstrels.'" Biles and Ash—"The last word in rhythm dancing," or the Aristocrats of rhythm, two young and very clever people, are chief among the entertainers; Slatz Randall's Brunswick Recording Orchestra of twelve men. They play the music for the show, and do their specialties; The Bertay Sisters, two very clever and young girls, do very clever acrobatic stunts. Miss Sibyl Hopkins—blues singer, known as "The Little Southern Songbird," sings her way right into the hearts of her audience, and with the Means Twins, forms a trio called "The Three Georgia Peachess." They do soft harmony singing and dancing.

The Rhythm Aristocrats is a unique ensemble of youth, pep, and personality, and they display a marked degree of grace and proficiency. The show is composed of good comedy, singing, and dancing of the highest type with a good band in the back ground playing excellent music. The film is "Now I'll Tell," featuring Spencer Tracy.

Florida Fair Exhibit May Have To Close

JACKSONVILLE, June 11. (AP)—In the name of Governor Shultz, Lorenzo A. Wilson, chairman of the Florida World's Fair commission, yesterday called a meeting of 190 Florida mayors here June 22 to decide whether the Florida exhibit at the Chicago exposition will continue.

Wilson said a crisis in the affairs of the exhibit was impending because of lack of funds. He added enough money was available to support the show through June and July, but continuance through August and September was doubtful unless the balance of $100,000 needed could be collected.

About $50,000 already has been received, Wilson said.

The attack, backing about in a screened-in pavilion used to house tubercular patients, wounded three of his fellow inmates seriously. The attack was made Monday but was not closed by hospital authorities until yesterday. Officials said the man suffered from hallucinations and delusions.

Donner Urges All Merchants To Back Farmers' Mart Idea

Every merchant owes it to himself and his community to get back of this thing, he said after he had pointed out that growers living in every small town surrounding Sanford will increase their yield of vegetables, bring them to Sanford, and spend his money here.

Mr. Donner also recalled that this project had been called to the attention of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce about seven months ago, but the time was not ripe then, the farmer didn't have his back to the wall, and we didn't get anywhere with the plan.

Upon motion, the Kiwanis Club recorded itself as offering congratulations to the Agricultural Club upon its success to date, and letters were ordered sent to Governor Sholtz, Commissioners Mayo and Rhodes, and Mr. Connor of the FERA.

Threat Of Collapse Of Mark Alarms Europe

LONDON, June 12.—A new financial crisis—brought about by the threat of a collapse in the German mark.

Other countries hurried to ward off the impending blow, which, it was expected, would rock the European financial structure. Nations still on the gold standard rallied their best financial brains to keep their currencies on that basis.

The stabilization funds maintained by the United States and Great Britain on the leading world markets to protect their currencies from the shocks of undue fluctuations in other money were geared up to keep the pound and the dollar on an even keel if the storm broke.

NATION WIDE STRIKE SEEMS SURE TO COME

Only Governmental Intervention Can Forestall Walk-Out, Say Leaders of Union

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—The White House today issued a formal denial that the President had ordered General Johnson to withdraw from steel strike negotiations. Karl Johnson himself had denied reports, saying that he had withdrawn after steel labor men had declined his settlement proposal and he found he could do nothing more. Publication of the report brought the first formal denial from the present Administration. The denial generally is regarded as showing the President is standing firmly behind his Recovery Administrator, Stephen Early, secretary to the President, issued the statement declaring the report "without any foundation of fact."

PITTSBURGH, June 14.—(AP)—A convention, dominated by union leaders belligerently demanding "recognition" or a nation-wide steel strike, met for an hour and a half today and then recessed while the credentials of its delegates were examined. Delegates off the convention floor voiced the belief that only governmental intervention could forestall a strike.

As they were filling out of their meeting place, General Johnson, in Washington, was saying "I don't see anything more I can do. If there was anything more I could do I would try it out you can't trade with a man who won't trade. I made a suggestion but they would make no concession."

The convention is attended by 208 delegates from over the country, representing numerous lodges of the Amalgamated Association of Iron Steel and Tin Workers. The Administration in an effort to avert strikes yesterday headed to Congress a bill built around the proposed right of the government to hold secret elections to choose workers for collective bargaining. Administration leaders, at the behest of the White House, spent the day in an effort to ascertain whether the bill could be passed without a controversy so prolonged as to delay Congressional adjournment.

The bill was an abbreviated and amended form of the Wagner labor board and the Weirton Steel Administration had indicated approval but which threatened to throw Congress into prolonged quarreling.

The crisis of the measure was in the workers' election clause. It was on this point that the national labor board and the Weirton Steel Company disagreed.

City Commission Meet Adjourned Monday

A postponed adjourned meeting of the City Commission, to have been held in the City Hall last night, was postponed until next Monday night.

Continued illness of Commissioner T. L. Dumas, confined to his home with erysipelas, and absence from the city of Commissioner S. O. Shubert were given as the reason for a second postponement of the regular meeting.

Storm Moving Into Middle Of Gulf

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—The Weather Bureau today issued the following forecast: "Advisory at 11 A. M. the tropical disturbance central about 25 degrees 30 north and 85 west is apparently moving very slowly westward toward the Gulf coast near the center. Bureau officials said the storm was 200 miles east-northwest of Tampa, Mexico, and about the same distance south-southwest of Cuba."

Estimated Value Of Fruits, Produce Sent From State In 1933-34 Set At $69,000,000

JACKSONVILLE, June 14.—Florida's 1933-34 shipping season will probably have as the total harvested from the state's farms and groves, 133,000 cartloads of fruits and vegetables, with a value of approximately $69,000,000, in the opinion of Frank Scroggs, statistical expert of the Florida State Marketing Bureau. Mr. Scroggs made the estimate in a preliminary report on the season, which does not officially close until July 31, issued yesterday. The total in tonnage compares favorably with the 1932-33 shipping season and the estimated value of the Florida harvest is in excess of the total for the previous season when the value was listed as $58,930,443. This season through June 10 has seen a total of 98,890 cartloads of rail and boat shipments with an estimated gross FOB track valuation of $58,364,000. Mr. Scroggs listed in the report, "Shipments yet to go will probably extend the movement to 102,000 cars, and the valuation to $60,000,000," the report continued. "This compares favorably with the 1932-33 season when 98,430 cartloads were shipped with an estimated gross FOB valuation of $49,136,000, not including 34,125 cartloads of fruits and vegetables trucked out of Florida, or else canned or consumed in the state, with an added value of $9,494,000, making a total value of $58,930,443 for the 1932-33 season."

STATE'S GRANT OF PWA FUNDS HAS BEEN DENIED

Connor Thinks 'Misunderstanding' Will Be Cleared Up Soon

JACKSONVILLE, June 14.—(AP)—Jerome A. Connor, Florida Emergency Relief Administration executive officer, said yesterday a grant of $901,880 of Public Works money previously allotted the state had been held up "because of a misunderstanding." The money was earmarked for improvement projects at state institutions and for construction and improvement of a number of airports. Connor said Comptroller General McCall apparently had declined to approve the grant, because it called for the same expenditure of more than 20 percent of the cost of the projects by the PWA. A section of the Recovery Act provides that on non-federal work projects, only 30 percent of the total cost can be borne by the PWA. The executive officer made public a letter written by Harold Ickes, Public Works administrator, to McCall. Ickes told the comptroller the $901,880 was part of a $2,500,000 allotment made by the PWA to the Relief Administration and could not be classified as a direct PWA grant to the individual projects. Ickes argued the money could be spent under a section of the Recovery Act setting up $3,300,000 to be spent for unemployment relief as directed by the President.

Connor said he believed the "misunderstanding" would be speedily ironed out and the money forthcoming. Eugene Legette, brother of Mrs. W. C. Hill, killed

FOREIGN TRADE TRENDS FOUND AGAINST U. S. 20,000 VOTES

Peek Survey Of World Deals With America In 38 Years Shows Us At Disadvantage

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—George N. Peek in a report to President Roosevelt on a study covering the past 38 years of America's foreign trade, asserted yesterday the trend "has been consistently disadvantageous to us." Peek, special advisor on foreign trade to the President, advocated the creation of a balance sheet between this country and the rest of the world. On it would be placed in black and white the trade balances with each country. He declared imports and exports must balance in the long run. On the basis of the past 38 years, he asserted, the world is in "debt to us for goods" in the amount of $36,946,000,000.

In our international commercial relations we have not utilized the simple device of a balance sheet to discover whether we have been doing business at a profit or at a loss. During the periods covered by the figures, these exports and imports have been grossly out of balance; nevertheless, we have pointed with pride to our "favorable balance of trade."

The United States sold to the world goods valued at $121,200,000,000. The United States bought from the rest of the world goods valued at $84,254,000,000. These transactions place the world in debt to the United States. (Continued on Page Two)

France, Unable To Make Debt Payment, Seeks Extension; England Cool To U. S. Offer

Validity Of Amounts Due Is Admitted In French Note Which Asks For Extension

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—France notified the United States yesterday that it was not able to pay the debt installment due June 15 but was prepared to seek a new debt agreement acceptable to both countries. In a note which Administration officials regarded as more conciliatory than previous French announcements of default, that government placed itself alongside Great Britain, Belgium and Czechoslovakia as countries which have announced they will not pay on June 15.

Shortly before the letters were made public, President Roosevelt disclosed that his government in its note to England last night had simply indicated a willingness to consider new proposals by the British government, including suggestions for part payment in goods and services. Full payment in goods and services would not be acceptable. The French note said that government recognized the validity of the $3,960,772,238 war debt to the United States but because of unchanged conditions would be unable to pay at this time.

France is in default to the amount of $2,308,312 through failure to make any payments since the Hoover moratorium. In addition, it has an installment of $5,000,218 falling due on Friday.
