SEKS PAYMENT
LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Manila night club operator seeks recovery of $10,000 he says is due him on a promissory note signed by landholder, Victor Cugat. A suit was filed last week in behalf of Ted Lewis by Ben Pennington, film producer, to whom Lewis assigned the note for collection. Lewis' attorney advised funds due Cugat from Cugat's Night Club here.

FBI Seeking Two Fugitives
Mik George Montos and Lila May Nail, Federal fugitives being sought by the FBI, may be active in this area.

LOAN OFFER NOW FENCE
BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts Public Works Commissioner John Volpe reported last week his department has loaned out five miles of snow fence this summer. The principal borrower was the Little League, a baseball organization of boys. Some 20 teams have encircled their playing diamonds with snow fence sections.

A complaint charging Montos with unlawful flight from Georgia to avoid prosecution for the bank robbery and beating of two elderly persons was filed before a U. S. Commissioner at Waycross, Georgia, on Aug. 25, 1954.

On Sept. 8, 1952, Montos, who had been convicted previously for violation of the National Motor Vehicle Theft Act, possession of burglar tools, burglary, receiving and concealing stolen property and escape, was added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Montos has channeled his recent activities between the Great Lakes region and the Florida Keys, using Chicago, Ill., as a base of operations. He has used high-powered late-model cars to traverse this area, and may have a posing boxer dog with him.

Unaided, Montos widened his flight and continued his criminal activity. On March 4, 1954, a Federal warrant was obtained for Montos at Chicago, Ill., charging him with a violation of the Interstate Transportation of Stolen Property Statute in connection with the $150,000 robbery of an art dealer in Kenosha, Wis., on Feb. 4, 1954.

Investigation has reflected that Montos has frequently been accompanied in flight by Lila May Nail, who is charged in a Federal warrant obtained at Chicago, Ill., on May 14, 1953, with harboring Montos, a Federal fugitive.

These fugitives may be armed and should be considered dangerous.

Self-Rating Scale

What Is Your Driving Performance?

The Florida Highway Patrol has cooked up another little safety test for drivers, one that you can score yourself on. But, it is like playing a hand of solitaire—you can cheat. Yet, isn't that sort of what you're trying to test? You be the judge! If you're a good driver your score will be from 80 to 100. If your score is 60 to 80, you're fair. If your score is below 60, your friends might be leering the roads and time to "Lord, I'm Coming Home" to sing when they attend the funeral. For, had your days are numbered. Here is the first of a five question test in a series of tests. Score 20 for each answer given correctly.

1. You are driving at 40 MPH in clear weather on a good, black top (asphalt) road. Suddenly, you see that the highway ahead is wet from rain. Do you slow down? ()
2. You are driving at 50 MPH in clear weather on a good, black top (asphalt) road. Suddenly, you see that the highway ahead is wet from rain. Do you slow down? ()
3. You are driving on a highway on which the posted speed limit is 50 MPH between two towns 10 miles apart. If you read your speedometer once each mile, how many times would you be under the speed limit? ()

Col. Howie's Burial Will Be Tomorrow WASHINGTON (AP)—Col. R. G. Howie, 63 Florida's civil defense director who died yesterday, will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. at the Ft. Myer Chapel and burial will follow with full military honors.

Howie received his retirement from active Army duty in 1950.

He had an operation for a minor intestinal disorder a month ago at Jacksonville, his home. When his progress was not as good as expected he came to Walter Reed Hospital where he died. Death was attributed to complications after the operation.

Dulles Accuses Reds Of Violating Truce

New Protest Being Sent Red China Through Britain On Plane Incident

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today sharply accused the Communists of violating the Korean armistice. But he said that on balance the violations were not serious enough to justify resuming the war.

In a news conference, Dulles also disclosed that a new protest has been sent through Britain to Communist China over the loss of three American lives in the shooting down of a British airliner almost two weeks ago off Hainan Island.

Dulles said, on another Far Eastern question, that United States warships and airplanes would protect Formosa against any enemy attack but that this government has not made any decision to enter into a formal alliance with the Chinese Nationalist government there.

As for Southeast Asian defense arrangements, Dulles said he hoped decisions would be made in a week or 10 days on the time and place for holding a conference on conclusion of a defensive alliance.

Dulles told questioning reporters he could not go into detail on the latest U. S. protest over the shooting down of the British airliner. But he said the main U. S. argument is that Red China is completely wrong in arguing that because the aircraft was British the United States government does not have a claim to present on behalf of the damages suffered by its own citizens.

The Korean truce situation came in for discussion. It has been dramatized in recent days by the visit here of South Korean President Syngman Rhee who has demanded that the United States send a military mission to South Korea.

The United States, Dulles said, would be sympathetic to seeing the commission report on the Korean situation. He said the United States is still engaged in a losing battle with the Communists.

If we continue as we are now, we are fighting a losing battle. Don't back down, means disaster. In the evening at a dinner in his honor attended by 1,500 people, he renewed the plea he made to Congress last week for American backing in an attack against the Communists in Asia.

To take the offensive now, he said, would give the free world a chance to "stop the Communists and actually push them back. Such a triumph is desperately needed for the cause of free mankind."

"Time is drawing short for our side because we are getting weaker and the enemy is getting stronger," he added.

Potash Thrown In Man's Face; Eye Is Injured Issuing a stern word of warning, Constable J. Q. Galloway today told of his arrest of Mary Lou Wilson, 44, 2809 W. 13th St., on a charge of throwing potash in the face of John Bentley of the same address.

Galloway pointed out that this was the second case of this type in his district within a month and said: "I am going to see hereafter, that anyone taking part in such a dangerous happening will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

Bentley, the Constable said, is in serious condition, suffering from severe facial burns and may possibly lose the sight of his left eye. His attacker has been placed in the County jail under a bond of $500, Galloway said.

Building At Park Being Renovated The center frame portion of the old Jim Spencer building, formerly located at Park and French Aves. has been moved to Fort Mellon Park, Warren Knowles, City Manager, said today.

In an effort to ready the structure for immediate use as a civic center and recreation facility, Knowles told that an entire crew has been placed on the job of renovation. It is hoped, he indicated, that the work will be completed this week.

ARRESTED A. C. Hill, address unknown, was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Police Sgt. Russell Trench on a charge of drunkenness, according to the police docket. Hill was creating a disturbance behind Palmetto Grocery when Trench made the arrest. He is being held under a bond of $27, the records show.

Big Sewer Lines Being Laid Today E. C. Holcombe, Clearwater contractor, began laying 10-inch sewer lines today, according to City Manager Warren Knowles, who said that the work was taking place on the railroad south to 24th St.

Knowles further said that the materials for re-casting water main extensions, part of contract No. three, also held by the Holcombe concern, has not yet arrived in the city. It was learned that it would be necessary to re-pipe the pipes last week, when Dave Newman, field representative of Angus and Associates, consulting engineers, used a stop-work order on the project.

DENVER (AP)—The FBI has seized two more alleged top Communist agents in a 24-hour roundup that has netted seven arrests.

Agents picked up Joseph William Scherrer, 24, and his wife Maria, yesterday. Scherrer was arrested at his home in Pueblo, Colo., and his wife at Denver's Municipal Airport, where the FBI was waiting for someone.

Four other arrests were made Sunday. They were Arthur Bates, 42, his wife Anna, 29, Harold Zepher, 25, and Lewis M. Johnson, 31.

Almost simultaneously Mrs. Patricia J. Blau, 42, was arrested at her Los Angeles home.

All seven were arrested before 11 a. m. and were charged with violating the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to advocate foreign overthrow of the government.

The six arrests were the result of a search for individuals who were allowed individual $100,000 bonds by U. S. Commissioner Joseph Neff. They are held in Denver County Jail.

Mrs. Blau is in Los Angeles County jail in lieu of $25,000 bail. A hearing on her return to Denver is scheduled Thursday.

Preliminary hearings for the six arrested in Colorado have been set for Aug. 10. They are expected to appear before a federal grand jury convening here Aug. 23.

The FBI said Scherrer and his Brooklyn-born wife have been active in the Civil Rights Congress, an organization on the attorney general's subversive list. Mrs. Blau, the FBI said, was named to the list for Communist Party Executive Committee after serving as organizational secretary of the Communist Political Assn. in Buffalo, N. Y.

Cabinet Votes To Defy Gov't On Cotton Issue

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The Florida Cabinet voted today to defy the federal government in its attempt to pick up the cotton crop.

The Cabinet instructed state hospital Supt. W. D. Rogers to proceed with the picking of 35 acres of cotton on the institute's 150-acre plantation despite a federal Department of Agriculture order that 25 acres of it be ploughed under.

Secretary of State R. A. Gray said the state hospital was advised last year its cotton acreage quota was 10 acres. The hospital, however, planted 35 acres, proceeding on the basis of the question mark on the state's cotton quota.

The cotton—some 25 bales—now is ready to be picked but federal representatives have ordered all of the cotton except that grown on the quota acreage ploughed under. The hospital has been threatened with a $1,500 penalty if it fails to destroy the over-quota cotton, Gray said.

He said in addition to the 25 bales of cotton it raised, the hospital will buy on the open market about 150 bales from the market tree factory supplied.

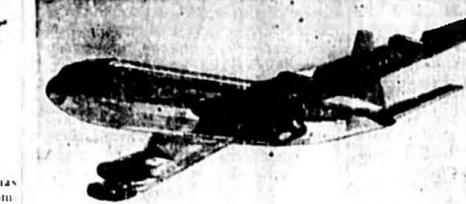

The Cabinet instructed Dr. Rogers to have all the cotton picked but asked Atty. Gen. Richard Egan to take up the matter with Washington to see if a friendly agreement couldn't be reached.

Nunan made no comment as he was confined. His attorney had asked that his age of 57 be considered.

In sentencing Nunan, Judge Bruchhausen said he was not at all concerned with the actual collection of tax that Nunan had failed to pay, but was interested only in giving "adequate punishment" for Nunan's deeds.

The judge said that the fact that Nunan was well acquainted with the law and tax collection rules only served to "emphasize his guilt."

Nunan could have received a maximum sentence of 25 years in prison and a $50,000 fine. The judge sentenced him to five years on each of the five counts, with the prison terms to run concurrently, and $3,000 fine on each of the five counts.

Mrs. Inez Meredith Chides Commission For Plat Action

The regular session of the Seminole County board of commissioners was key-noted by the appearance of Mrs. Inez Meredith, Forest City real estate developer today when she told the body that "As I told you before, someday you're going to swallow an elephant and strangle on a pig."

Mrs. Meredith made this comment after the commissioners had refused to certify a reproduction of land plat.

Her appearance before the board came as no novelty. Several times before she has engaged in controversies with the body. Today, however, she failed to meet legal specifications regarding the plat deeds.

In accordance with custom, the commissioners refused to allow certification. Clerk O. P. Herndon told the commissioners, "I'm not willing to take a chance of you are, but it isn't right to allow an improperly presented contract for your signatures."

The real estate developer indicated that she would return. Hattie Marjesty, Forest City, appeared before the board and requested that Classberry be made to conform to a Sunday ban on liquor sales or "open the entire County. It isn't fair," she said.

"For the rest of us to suffer for the sake of the town's ordinances," she called attention to the fact that neighboring Volusia County is open Sunday and said that though that isn't "any affair of ours, we are being prejudiced to."

Marjesty's plea was rewarded by the board's voting Classberry would be asked to conform to the County ordinance. The commissioner told Marjesty that they would consider his request if this plea to Classberry failed. Commissioner John Meish objected sternly, saying that he was opposed to Sunday liquor sales in the County.

Experiments were granted to the City of Sanford for sewer projects in the vicinity of the hospital site. This was in accordance with a prior agreement and is part of the city's water and sewer program.

The commission received its morning session shortly before noon and was scheduled to resume the meeting at 4:30 p. m. today. The agenda was to be consideration of the 1954-55 budget.

Two Sanfordites Arrested For Theft

William Holloway, 22, and George Dixon, 23, both of Sanford, were arrested in Orlando this morning on charges of theft of an automobile tire and wheel. Constable J. Q. Galloway reported to day.

The alleged thieves were nabbed by Orange County authority George Jump, after Galloway had followed clues which led him to Orlando. The automobile parts were taken from a car owned by M. E. Webb, W. First St. Orlando, Fla.

Both were held under bonds of $100 each in the Seminole County jail.

CHARGES FILED MIAMI (AP)—Manslaughter charges were filed today against Albert C. Pike Jr., 31, in the traffic death of Pfc. Charles F. Perlicky Jr., 24-year-old Marine, after being struck while mopping a stalled automobile. Officers said Pike's car crashed into him.

Popular Uprising Possible

Resentment

GUATEMALA (AP)—Guatemala's ruling military junta ordered Castillo Armas' private army to disband and go home today, but the action generated rising public resentment.

An American Embassy spokesman said there was a possibility of a popular uprising in the capital.

The junta ordered the disbanding of Castillo Armas' armed "liberation army" which sparked the overthrow of Communist-backed President Jacobo Arben Guzman after regular army units and military academy cadets had battled the 100 irregulars sporadically for 12 hours yesterday with military and tanks.

The regular session of the board of commissioners was key-noted by the appearance of Mrs. Inez Meredith, Forest City real estate developer today when she told the body that "As I told you before, someday you're going to swallow an elephant and strangle on a pig."

Evacuating Suez

Prime Minister Winston Churchill was able to quell a rebellion in his parliamentary showdown on his government's decision to agree to eventually evacuate the Suez Canal Zone. British troops have been stationed there for 72 years and at present their strength is estimated at 85,000 men.

Within Churchill's own Conservative Party there was some opposition to the idea of evacuating Suez. Opponents claimed that Prime Minister and his Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden were pressured into the move by the United States. Just as there is in the United States an element that will blame anything that happens, including droughts and floods, on Great Britain, so there is in England a faction which sees the United States at the root of every British woe. It is ironic that Churchill and Eden, who were recently criticized in this country for what was called "appeasement" of Russia, should now be criticized in their own country for just the opposite.

The Prime Minister maintained, in the debate in Parliament, that atomic and hydrogen bombs have made the military base at Suez obsolete. Opposition Laborites could have toppled the Churchill government had they voted with the dissident Tories. Instead they abstained from voting and the Churchill-Eden plan was approved 257 to 26.

Methods of warfare change and defense techniques must change with them. The agreement to evacuate the Suez Canal Zone will eliminate one of the points that have caused friction between Britain and Egypt. It is important to the West to have loyal and satisfied allies in that part of the world. The plan may strengthen rather than weaken the position of the West there.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Priest Critical Of Indian Treatment

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP)—"I always like the spirit of these people."
In this simple sentence the Rev. Stephen R. McNamee, who calls himself an "ecclesiastical hobnob," sums up 36 years of service to the American Indian.
To thousands of Indians here on the largest reservation of the Sioux nation, the Jesuit priest, now in his 80th year, is known as "Papa" or "Black Blanked," from the color of his cassock. Others affectionately call him "the Father from the Blue Cloudland." For more than a quarter of a century "Father Mac" has baptized them, married them and buried them. In the Holy Rosary Mission School he has labored mightily to teach their children while man's love to make them self-sufficient, the love of God to

Robin Hood And Roland

Was there really a Robin Hood? This bold outlaw who is said to have lived in Sherwood Forest and robbed the rich in order to give to the poor, has long been a favorite of English tradition. In this country the adventures of Robin Hood and his merry men, Little John, Friar Tuck and George-a-Greene, have delighted generations of children. That is achievement enough, and perhaps it does not matter if there really was such a person.

Prof. William E. Simeone of Southern Illinois University has been trying to find out if Robin Hood really existed. He finds record of a minor court official of that name who lived in the 14th century, and when the lord whom he served was disgraced, followed him into exile, perhaps taking refuge in Sherwood Forest. That is as much evidence as can be unearthed. Out of such meager information has arisen the whole Robin Hood legend.

A parallel is the career of Roland, Charlemagne's knight, who led the rear-guard at the pass of Roncesvalles and was killed through treachery. There is some historical basis for his existence, but that is unimportant. What is important, is that the genius who wrote the Song of Roland added an immortal character to our list of popular heroes.

The Old Trout Stream

"As new homes for the aged are being built," said Edward Charlow of Toronto, addressing a conference of superintendents and matrons of homes for the aged at an Ontario Department of Welfare meeting in London, Ont., "they could do worse than plan the home around a trout stream."

It's a good idea. The old need some sort of occupation to keep interest in life, and fishing always was a pleasant occupation. There is healing as well as relaxation for mind and body in watching the soft ripple of water, and if an old chap catches a fish, he's one fish to the good.

Elsie Stanfield, psychologist, another speaker at the same conference, says the steeple-chair attitude among old persons is bad.

"It's completely false to think you can't teach an old dog new tricks. Old persons may be slow in learning, but they are sure, and bring a ripened judgment to bear on their problems, gained only through experience."

Both ideas are good and true with each other. Behind them lies a new attitude of social workers and the public toward welfare work—that is that the problems be considered with understanding of people as individuals with individual needs.

The picture of the aging inmate doing a bit of useful work for his home in the morning and going fishing in the afternoon is one most of us approve of.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—The concerts have a name but likely no one knows it. Technically they are the Guggenheim memorial concerts and they are given on the clear summer nights on the mall in Central Park, sometimes with old Edwin Franko Goldman leading the brave, loud and good band and sometimes with his son, Richard, at the helm. However, to the people who invented the first pair of daily light and harassed by their nerves, they are dreamland.

You walk up the long, tree-shaded lane to the mall, the warm evening, past the assorted, mostly staid statues of long forgotten mayors of New York, to gentlemen who invented the first pair of daily light and harassed by their nerves, they are dreamland.

Old young men who in years ago made poetry and told girls with long blond hair that their faces were like shields with the sun on them, lean back and remember the truth of those days.

And on the night wears on. You lie there in the darkness, too relaxed to fight off the art making the long journey across your forehead, and you say, why don't it always be like this. But it isn't. Soon, the concert ends, and you sigh and get up and follow the crowds out of the park. And you must begin again to work. There ought to be a law against it.

Young Richard Goldman is steering the gentlemen of the ensemble through his father's Grand March of triumph, a white, but before you pay your music attention, you buy an ice cream pop. Then, as if in a mystic, fa-berian ritual, you loosen your tie, take off your jacket and drop it on the grass and sprawl out under a tree, easily managing the difficult task of allowing ice cream while lying down. F.W. You then the sounds in the night around you take over.

"Look, Harry, I know you'll make a good husband to me; I've never heard of a girl who has a soft voice says, 'honey' to you in the dark, but it lowers and fades and you don't hear what she is really saying about."

A monstrous, French, possible stroll past and contemplates your shoes thoughtfully. A fat little man of fortune, under a white, contemplates the possible "Dug" announces the boy, who is around two and should have been aged to the boy, but he merely eyes you coldly. Comments like that are for two-year-old boys to know it.

McCarthy In His Third Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy and three-alarm fires have one thing in common: you don't have much time to get bored with them. McCarthy's name has been in the third investigation of him by fellow senators in three years. He's mixed up in the third one before the second one is finished.

The probably sets a record for the Senate. No one there in recent memory has taken up so much of the Senate's time. All three inquiries were forced in McCarthy by fellow senators.

But McCarthy, unlike a fire, hasn't been put out yet. At this moment no one can predict where the latest investigation will lead or how long it will last. Weeks, possibly months, more likely.

The first investigation of him—it took a month and ended Jan. 7, 1952, with a report which made no recommendations—was inspired by former Sen. Benton (D-Conn.), who accused McCarthy of various forms of misconduct. The committee which investigated McCarthy investigated Benton too.

The group was made up of two Democrats—Senators Hennings (Mo.) and Hayden (Ariz.)—and a Republican, Sen. Hendrickson (ND). While they made no recommendations against McCarthy, they accused him of deliberately trying to thwart their work, saying:

"This little piece of the city, here in a grassy hollow in the old and tired park, has come to a soft stop, in the gentleness of the evening."

These sitting and lying here are people who will sit in movies and saloons and living rooms, usually and unable to stop their minds from thinking how to do their fellow men out of a dollar—but the hand music and the children and the ice cream pops have done it for them.

Soon, the concert ends, and you sigh and get up and follow the crowds out of the park. And you must begin again to work. There ought to be a law against it.

that six times he refused to testify before them. They criticized Benton too, but not for refusing to answer questions.

When Army officials last spring made charges against McCarthy and his staff, and when the senator responded with countercharges, the members of his own Senate investigations committee decided to look into the case. The public televised hearings took weeks. That committee still hasn't made its report.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) started McCarthy's latest troubles by demanding the Senate censure him. His accusations were more general than specific and it was decided to create a select committee to look into the various charges which other senators voiced in support of Flanders' move.

It had seemed around Washington a week ago that Flanders' proposal would be "tabled," which is a parliamentary device for shutting off debate and calling for an immediate vote. It seemed certain that the Senate would not vote censure and that if a vote were forced on a motion to table, McCarthy would win. Strangely, none of the votes seemed tried to force such a vote.

Since McCarthy wouldn't testify before Hennings' group, he might do the same in this latest inquiry. The Hennings group didn't try to force him, since he's a senator. And the select committee now might not try to force him to answer questions either if he stayed away.

Instead of staying away, he expressed great eagerness to cross-examine the senators who made these latest accusations against him. The select committee will have to decide whether to let him. If McCarthy is permitted to cross-examine, no senatorial accusers no doubt will demand the right to cross-examine him.

That would probably be much rougher than anything McCarthy experienced during the hearings on his row with Army officials. There the government officials and their lawyers never quite forgot he was a senator who should be treated carefully. But when McCarthy talks with fellow senators, they're all equal.

None of the senators who talked against McCarthy and may testify against him has shown any liking for him.

Before anyone can guess who will testify, Vice President Nixon must appoint the three Democrats and three Republicans who will make up the select committee. Then the committee will use more time deciding on its rules for handling the investigation, whether it needs a staff, who the staff should be, and whether the hearings will be public or behind closed doors.

For a man so free-wheeling as McCarthy, hitherto able to nimble from case to case, calling his own shots, he has been amazingly hobbled in 1954. The Army hearings took all his time and energy for weeks. The new ones may do the same. Instead of being an issue in the November election, he may turn out to be a side issue.

Employment Has Seasonal Drop, According To FIC

TALLAHASSEE—According to James T. Voelke, chairman of the Florida Industrial Commission, the number of employees in nonagricultural establishments declined seasonally from May to June.

Employment in June at 821,000 was two per cent above the year ago level. Previously this year this margin of growth has averaged three per cent. May to June changes in employment approached seasonal expectations for practically all industries.

The greatest reductions in employment from May came in manufacturing, trade and service industries, but these industries also experienced significant expansion during the year. Contract construction was the only major industrial division to increase from May to June, but this seasonal increase merely brought it to the year ago level.

Unemployment continued to climb in June to a high of 23,400. The top 500 firms for last June, and its 19,000 above May's estimate of 14,000.

There were 2,000 more factory workers in June of this year than last. The drop of 3,500 from last month came principally in firms whose activities are related to the citrus industry.

Each worker earned an average of $1.25 per hour in June, a considerable improvement in certain women who had previously had very dry skin.

Do Hormone Creams Have Cosmetic Value?

By HERMAN M. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AMERICAN women spend millions of dollars yearly on beauty preparations to improve the appearance. Cosmetics also serve an important function as a psychological morale builder.

Use of Hormones
It has been known for years that hormones in adequate amounts will bring certain changes in aging skin. For this reason, many hormone creams are now being used for the purpose of eliminating wrinkles and rejuvenating skin.

Test Group
In order to test this theory, a group of women between the ages of 35 to 45 were recently tested. A hormone cream was used on one side of their faces; the other side was treated with an identical cream without the hormone.

Results
It was found, after months of treatment, that the only apparent change to be observed was a

Social Events

It's picnic weather, indoors as well as out—whether we like it or not—so why not make the most of it and have a picnic right at the dining room table? After all, fingers served made before knives? You're not absolutely obliged to eat the Hot n' Handy chicken in your fingers, but if the temptation to do so proves irresistible, you'll find it a surprisingly tidy process, as well as lots of fun. And the chicken itself is delicious, tender pieces encased in crisp, crusty jackets of crumbs made from crushed yeast-raised bread. Pretty as a picture too, served with butter-bright corn on the cob and waffle slices of best-tasting tomatoes, both at their freshest right now.

HOT 'N' HANDY CHICKEN
 6 slices enriched yeast-raised bread
 1 egg
 2 tablespoons milk
 1 tablespoon salad oil
 2 chicken parts (leg and breast)
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Pinch of pepper
 1/4 cup flour
 Trim crusts from very dry bread. Fresh bread may be dried out in a very slow oven. Grate bread to make fine crumbs. Sift to remove coarse pieces. Beat egg slightly with a fork, blend in milk and salad oil. Remove crusts from chicken parts. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Roll in bread then egg mixture and finally in bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat (365° F.), turning once, until golden brown. Makes 6 servings.

All Outdoor Cooks Will Be Interested In Barbecued Pork

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 If you are the prepare before-hand type of outdoor cook, you think you will be enthusiastic about our latest discovery—Barbecued Porkies.
 In the quiet and convenience of your own kitchen, you simmer a thrifty boneless pork shoulder butt until tender, and make up a quick and spicy tomato barbecue sauce. Then you pack your picnic basket with ham sauce, sliced cooked potatoes and fat for frying rolls, skillets, coffee and coffee pot, long handled fork and spoon, foaming tank, and the necessary eating utensils. You also take along something for outdoor mending: ceters and radishes with cheese, for instance. For dessert you supply watermelon or some other refreshing fruit.
 When the coals are glowing, ham and sauce are put together in one skillet and heated. Potatoes are fried golden brown in the other skillet, colls broasted coffee made. It's a neat and orderly cook-out, but mightily good eating! The barbecued porkies are made as follows: Barbecued Porkies as much as you like, you will prepare them for in-door suppers too.

BARBECUED PORKIES
 Ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/2 cup finely diced onion, 1/4 cup firmly packed light brown sugar, 1 cup tomato juice, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 6 tablespoons cider or other salad vinegar, 2 to 2 1/2 pounds boneless smoked pork shoulder butt, cooked in sandwich loams.
 Method: Melt butter in large skillet, add onion and cook over low heat until it begins to get tender. Add sugar, salt, chili sauce, tomato juice, Worcestershire and vinegar, simmer for 10 minutes, occasionally stirring. Add pork, cover and cook for 1 1/2 hours. At serving time, quick fry heat ham (cut in about 1/2 inch thick slices) in sauce. Serve ham and sauce over split bread and with hush puppies.
 Note: To cook the pork, cut over it with boiling water in a kettle, add a slightly crushed garlic clove, 6 whole cloves, 6 pepper corns, a bay leaf, cover and simmer until tender. Fry for 2 hours.

Mrs. N. Vaughn Is Surprised At Class Party

Mrs. Nellie Vaughn was the honoree at a surprise birthday party given by the Truthseekers Class of the First Methodist Church when it met Friday evening at the home of Mrs. G. H. Carlton.

 The dining table that held the birthday cake was laid with a lovely lace cloth and held an attractive arrangement of pink and yellow hibiscus.
 Mrs. R. W. Turner read the biography of the beginning of the class and Mrs. Vaughn followed with a reading entitled "I'm Going Back to Grandpa's." Refreshments were later served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. B. Crawford, Mrs. R. E. Greenhaw and Mrs. R. W. Turner.
 Those present were: Mrs. Nellie Vaughn, a visitor, Mrs. Milton Way, Mrs. E. Harker, Mrs. J. B. Crawford, Mrs. G. W. W. Wilson, Mrs. R. W. Sturdivant, Mrs. Della M. Starke, Mrs. J. M. McAvail, Mrs. M. E. Blumhard, Mrs. John Morgan, Mrs. Grady Herman, Mrs. Ross Adams and Miss Aline Chapman.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN
 "SALIBIST of all the child's children," as Cynthia had learned, were the ones who were not wanted. The ones who had no home to return to, no love waiting to sustain them. The ones who must spend the rest of their lives in boarding homes or institutions.
 These weighed heavily on Cynthia's heart and mind, yet they also brought her much joy. Their progress, no matter how slow, their stammer, no matter how limited, became her own to rejoice in; their mistakes and inadequacies were burdens to be carried on her shoulders, too. When any of them had a seizure, as were taken ill, she, as well as those more closely associated, suffered and hoped and prayed for their speedy recovery.
 And she knew that Walt felt much as she did. Parents would say to him, "Please make my child whole and well again." The children themselves came to believe that he alone could cure them in his hands, each one treated so that it was no wonder the children were so much to him.
 How could any one woman expect ever to take their place or want to usurp it?
 Well, she could hope for just a little niche or corner. Half a soul was supposed to be better than none. She supposed she was selfish, and young to want more. Maybe by the time she was old and gray, and Walt woke up and offered that fraction to her, she would not want more.
 Walt phoned that evening at dinner-time. He said he had thought several times before when he had not received an answer, he had thought perhaps she had changed her mind and gone home to Indiana, after all.
 "I'm still around," Cynthia returned. "I have no intention of going so far away as Indiana. The reason you got no answer was that I've been out shopping every day. You see, I'm getting ready for a wedding."
 "A wedding?"
 "Yes." His voice had sounded so started that it amused Cynthia. She realized that she had not said what she meant to say. She decided not to. It takes a long time to shop for a trousseau, she added sweetly. If he wanted to think it was for her own wedding, let him.

 There was such a long silence from the other end of the wire that whatever young Dr. Seibars was thinking must have taken some time. After this process had been completed he said, "I see. His tone still sounded staid, but at any rate it did not sound as though he saw through what she had just told him at all."
 "Is everything going along all right at the clinic?" Cynthia asked.
 "Everything's going along splendidly," Dr. Seibars informed her as usual. "I'm just splendidly." "That's fine," she did not feel that it was. It proved that the clinic, and Walt could do without her. It was too bad it was not going to be her wedding.
 "This was another phase. The wires seemed to be humming. But the people at each end of this line had apparently nothing to say to each other."
 "Wait," she hesitated. Cynthia might not explain that a trousseau about getting ready for a wedding shopping for a trousseau was a matter of some time. She would tell him about it. After all, he was still her fiancé.
 As for Cynthia, she decided she would not explain a thing.
 "I just wondered if I should ask Miss Whiting to stay on for another week," Walt said. "Not that I'm trying to rush you, but if you feel you want to take another week, or even longer, just say so."
 "I really hadn't thought about coming back," Cynthia informed him, but quite honestly. As Nurseman had said, nothing was far in love. And was she beginning to wonder which this was? But Walt could make her so angry with him. Like saying he was not staying here that was a laugh! As long as Miss Whiting is doing so nicely, I might as well take another week or so. He smiled in that same sugary tone.
 "That's perfectly all right, but 'boss' said 'I'm sure Miss Whiting will be delighted to stay as long as you wish.'" long as you want her to substitute for you. In fact, she told me only today that she wished she could remain indefinitely."

 "Oh, she did?" The sugar turned to vinegar. The laugh might be on her. There was not room, yet for two brides in the clinic. "Well, in that case," Cynthia said, "I'll let you know when I do decide to come back. And if anything should happen to change my plans, I'll know it won't upset you, or the clinic."
 "I don't mean," Dr. Seibars' voice sounded staid and puzzled again. "That the clinic could get along without you, Cynthia. You are good as promised that I could count on you. You wouldn't let anything prevent a wedding—keep you from returning, would you?"
 "If he thought it was the wife was going to be married, why didn't he come out and say so, the doctor's impudence as well as anger. He said, so that her voice was so simple. "Oh, you can't get rid of me so easily," she said. "I told you I'd probably still be working in the clinic when it's old and gray. You don't lose any sleep—nothing will prevent my coming back."
 "That's good," yet the way he said it did not make it sound so. At least his voice did not have a very cheerful ring. "Work it was nice to talk with you, Cynthia."
 "Oh, it was lovely, just lovely!" she returned. She remembered what Nurseman had said about wondering if Walt ever laughed. Not at himself, anyway, she was sure. For no one good, someone, of something, ought to make him do that much, if nothing more. For if you could not learn to laugh at yourself at all, what was the use of living?
 Yet, after she had hung up, Cynthia felt more use having a good cry. She decided, however, she simply would not shed any more tears over Dr. Seibars. She would try to follow her own advice and laugh. She would go downtown and do some shopping on her own. Buy a whole new outfit, really elegant. For there was nothing that could turn away the blues, and she was more than willing something pretty to wear. Something you did not really need. And could not really afford.

How to Suit a Man

Today's "Mr. America" is better built than at any time but, too often, he neglects to put his best figure forward. Women, with their keen fashion sense can assist their men on color, style and fabric. To help the ladies, Stanley Goldman, Style Director of Eagle Clothes, Inc., offers these tips:
 1. Men's suits are specially designed for all builds from "extra large" to "petty." Make sure your spouse selects his proper size.
 2. Men's choice fabrics that are available and flattering. Small patterns for the petty—vertical stripes for the short.
 3. Avoid the false economy of "one color" colorless. The "blue serge" combination will go with gray, blue, maroon (he can shift from brown to blue).
 4. Suspend his pants on his wardrobe with fabric like the blue, white, highlighted with metallic threads or wadded splend with multi splashes.

The possibility of Willie Mays bettering Babe Ruth's home run record has faded to a faint memory in the past few weeks. The Giant center-fielder now has compiled a total of 36 circuit blasts, leaving 24 homers necessary to equal the Babe's mark which was set in 1927.

Actually, Mays is ahead of Ruth's record pace, having number 36 on the books three days prior to the date Ruth notched home-run 35. On Aug. 1, 1927, Ruth had hit 34 homers. He didn't get his 35th until Aug. 5. Mays shows no signs of slackening, however. It is also to mention the record-breaking possibilities among the New York Giants.

Willie's roommate in Monte Irving tries to protect the 23-year-old pace-setter from well-wishers and even newspapers which concern themselves with his latting pace.

As for himself, Mays feels he is better off not knowing just how he stands. "Don't tell me, I don't want to know," he squeals to any one who approaches him to point out he is ahead of Ruth's record stop. "I'm better off if I don't know," he says.

There can be no doubt that the powerful hitter is a main factor in the Giants' National League pennant drive. Today they are five full games out front of second-place Brooklyn, which is a like number of hits ahead of third-running Milwaukee.

Incidentally, Mays can better the National League home run record without touching the Babe's. The senior loop's mark is 54, against the 60 which holds supreme in the American.

New York has played Mays will be required to accomplish 25 grand blasts in 50 games to set a new mark. Since Ruth's achievement of 27 seasons ago, Mays have tried and failed to top the record. Should Willie Mays be successful in his quest, we shall have witnessed the passing of another great mark in baseball history.

But the antics and feats of Babe Ruth will ever live on.

Bronch Hickey, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has taken a fling at writing, in the current issue of Life Magazine, Hickey presents an astounding formula for computing the average worth of a player to a team. If his plan were ever advocated for general use, every scoutkeeper would have to be a mathematician of some stature.

His article was timely, however, perhaps serving as an excellent guide to distract attention from the floundering Pirates—hopelessly mired 28 games out of first, in the National League cellar.

Pilots Face Test During Five Nights In Race For Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The test of the Lakeland Pilots' championship-winning Florida State League second half comes in the next five nights when they play a rugged schedule of four double headers and a single game.

Tonight the Pilots and the league leading Orlando Cubs play a pair at Orlando. Lakeland plays double at Daytona Beach both Thursday and Friday and at home against DeLand Saturday. The only single game in this stretch is with Orlando tomorrow.

The start of this pitcher killing period Lakeland trails Orlando by a game and a half. Both lost last night, Orlando 7-3 to DeLand and Lakeland 3-2 to Cocoa in 10 innings. In the other game, Daytona Beach beat Jacksonville Beach 5-2 dropping the Sea Birds into the second division behind DeLand.

The DeLand Red Hats included triples by Ron Tschannen and John Imgrund and doubles by Imgrund and Gale Penza in a 10-hit attack on Orlando's Lou Teti and Marty Coleman. Jim Ruiz won his 10th victory in pitching the Red Hats into third place.

After handling Cocoa two unearned runs, Lakeland caught up in the ninth inning only to lose in overtime when Al Roberts walked, scored on Domingo Velez' single. Lakeland loaded the bases in the bottom of the ninth but Joe Drach struck out Al Gandolfi to quash the threat.

Jerry Hooks of Daytona Beach tossed a three-hitter at Jacksonville Beach and it cost the Sea Birds' Ray Konkoleski his fifth defeat against 18 victories. Hooks scored what proved the winning run in the fifth when he walked, moved around on two more bases on balls and scored on Dan Hartley's grounder.

Legion State Tourney Opens
ST. PETERSBURG—Jacksonville plays Miami this afternoon in the opening game of the State Junior American Legion Baseball Tournament.

Pensacola and Clearwater are paired in a night contest. Jacksonville, the defending champion, was a slight favorite. This is a double elimination tournament—a team has to lose twice to be eliminated.

The winner will represent Florida in the regional tournament at Greenwood, S. C., Aug. 16-20.

Give Youngsters Chance To Win Tam O'Shanter
CHICAGO—A youngster never has won a Tam O'Shanter golf title, but at least two of them are conceded good chances to make the big haul this time.

JOHN LANDY, who ran a mile in 3:58, chats with a group of teen-agers on his arrival in Vancouver for the British Empire Games. Landy, from Australia, will meet England's Roger Bannister, the man who first smashed the four-minute mile with a 3:59.4. (International)

South Grid Squad Is Favored In High School All-Star Tilt

GAINESVILLE—There is something plainly familiar about the fact the South probably will be favored in the forthcoming annual high school All-Star football game, to be played Aug. 12 at Florida Field on the University of Florida campus.

This has been the story in five previous sectional contests between the state's outstanding graduating senior prep football players. Interesting point in the history of the series, however, is that the North team has manager to spring upsets in two of these games. The "Yankee" crew, therefore, may tie up the standings by turning the trick again this year.

The South is favored on the basis of their players' statewide reputations for a fine brand of football played during the 1953 season.

The South's 28-man squad will contain eight players who were named for first team All-State honors, as compared to three for the North.

Most recent team All-State honors also were gained by the South which has six, while the North has but three.

North Coach El Stack, Leeburg, indicates he has not thrown in the towel for his charges, and suggests there even may be a number of relatively unsung heroes.

The North's big gun is Ed Sears, Pensacola fullback, while South Coach Charlie Tate can call on an equally well-known player in Guard Wathon Bailey of Gainesville. Both were selected to All-American prep teams.

There are five All-Southern players on the two teams. In addition to Sears and Bailey, there are End Bill Anderson, Manatee; Back Jim Rountree, Miami Jackson; and Tackle Paul Smith, Miami Senior. All but Sears are on the South team.

The two squads will arrive on the campus Thursday (Aug. 5), to begin practice sessions for the night contest. Florida high school coaches will be on hand Aug. 9 to take part in a week-long coaching clinic.

SAYS NO MATCH
CHICAGO—Morris Shapiro, 200-pound wrestler known as the Mighty Atlas, said he was no match for a 19-pound bruntist he Shaprio, defending himself on a disorderly conduct charge brought by Mrs. Shirley Karam, 29, displayed two snapshots yesterday showing a deep scratch on his arm.

He said Mrs. Karam charged him after he flicked ice water on her bare back while she was sunning herself on a Chicago beach.

"My, my, it looks like you suffer more in this fight than in all your previous engagements," remarked Municipal Judge Casimir Owklnski as he fined Shapiro $25.

Rec Department Is Sponsoring Fishing Contest

Weighing stations were announced today for the City recreation department-sponsored bass fishing contest which opened Sunday for a month-long period. John Angel, director, named the stations and pointed out that the contest is open to everyone living in, or visiting in, Seminole County.

Crowds' Fish Camp at the Geneva Bridge, Gene's Texas Service, Hill Hardware, Lemon Bluff and Hill Implement have been selected as weighing centers, Angel said.

"We are expecting a large number of entries and indications are that interest will be high in the contest," the director commented.

SOCIALLY Mrs. Alma Slocum Dupuy is perched atop the car she will drive in European road race. The picture was taken at a New York pier before the auto was hoisted aboard the new 200-ton Italian liner, the Cristoforo Colombo, on the eastbound leg of her maiden voyage to Genoa.

Yanks, Indians To Open Series

CLEVELAND—Even with a clut like the pennant-pushing Cleveland Indians, Manager Al Lopez doesn't climb too far out on a limb when it comes to discussing those New York Yankees.

"The cautious senior, who has never claimed to own a crystal ball, says:

"The Yanks are a good ball club. They've won a lot of ball games and they seem to be just as good as in previous years."

Some kind of showdown comes to pass tonight, when the Yanks and Indians open a three-game series in Cleveland Stadium.

But neither Lopez nor Yankee Manager Casey Stengel have given any indication that the series will greatly affect the American league pennant race.

"We can't figure too far ahead," Lopez says. "We just try to win one ball game at a time."

The Indians' manager summed up this way:

"Last year we broke even with the Yanks 11-11. So far this year, it's 7-7. So we must be pretty close."

The Tribe's lead over the Yanks is 2 1/2 games. Even if the New Yorkers sweep the series, the Indians would lead by a slim percentage margin—627 to 622.

Clevelanders enter the series with a 71-50 season record or a percentage of .703 while the Yanks have 70-54, or a 673 mark.

The Yanks climbed past the Chicago White Sox into second place July 2 and have closely trailed the pace-setting Indians ever since.

Since July 2, Cleveland has won 21 of 23 games, while the New Yorkers won 23 of 25.

Sports Roundup

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK—If the minors seem to be withering on the vine as leagues fold from day to day, baseball for the kids of America is enjoying boom times.

The Little Leagues enjoyed a tremendous expansion and now the Babe Ruth League (formerly the Little Bigger League) is spreading to all corners of the nation.

Youngsters who outgrow the Little League class move on to this organization for boys in the 13-14 age group and, eventually, play school or college ball. Some will make the grade with the pros. The main idea is to keep them off the streets and playing organized games.

Perhaps the hottest community in the country for this kid baseball is Stamford, Conn., not too far from New York City.

There, a big, deep-chested boy of 15 has pitched the team to three national baseball championships and is running for a fourth. Andy Wasil Jr. was only 12 when he pitched the team to a National League crown at Williamsport, Pa. He followed that up with Little Bigger League titles the last two years.

Big league scouts can do nothing but drool over this six-footer for the next two years until he gets out of high school. Then it will be up to him and his father, a former semi-pro pitcher, to move as a shipping clerk, to decide whether he turns pro or goes to college.

If Wasil pitches Stamford—the Connecticut champs—to the regional crown in New England-Saturday and Sunday, they will be one of eight teams to compete in the Babe Ruth League world series at Griffing Stadium in Washington, starting Aug. 17.

The young phenom's father, now 42, goes over each game in detail the next day, trying to work out the mistakes.

"Once he looked slow fielding a ball off the mound," he said, "I told him always to be ready to field his position. He catches on in quick time."

A National Guard win over the league-leader would also stahl the Guardians into a tie with Williams-Mater for the third spot in quick time.

Charles, Marciano To Meet Sept. 15 In Fight For Title

NEW YORK—Now it's definite. Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles will meet again, Sept. 15 at Yankee Stadium. They sign the official contracts today with the champ getting 40 per cent and Charles 20 per cent.

Television plans for the rematch of their June 17 brawl are not set but it almost certainly will be a theater-TV job again.

Marciano already has started training at Grossinger, N.Y. The cut over his left eye completely healed. Charles will start work Aug. 15 at Monticello, N.Y., 19 miles from Rocky's camp. In the meantime he will do light training at his Cincinnati gym.

Marciano won a unanimous decision in June but failed to drop the ex-champ in 15 rounds. Charles was a badly beaten fighter at the final bell. He will be the first former champion to get a third chance at winning back his title.

FASRON 51 Has Chance At Top
FASRON 51 will play Robson Sporting Goods tonight in an attempt to move into a first-place tie with long-leading VC-5 in action in the Seminole County Senior softball circuit tonight at Fort Mellon Park.

The second-place outfit is presently one game away from the front-runners, but a win over Robson in the first tilt of tonight's double header, coupled with a National Guard victory over the VC-5's aggregation—in the nightcap—would turn the tables in FASRON 51's favor.

VC-5 boasts a 5-2 record, while the contenders own a 4-3 mark.

A National Guard win over the league-leader would also stahl the Guardians into a tie with Williams-Mater for the third spot in quick time.

INTERCEPTION MAIN—The interception main of the City sewer and water project, which will accumulate all waste materials in sewers along the lakefront, is shown as it was being started in Fort Mellon Park, near Somoza Blvd. The intercepting pipe under the base culvert (far right) which carries Pump Branch, will pump around the excavation keep it dry for work.

EXCAVATION FOR LINE—The 24-inch intercepting line was laid through Fort Mellon Park at a depth of more than 10 feet. Banks of the excavation continuously fall, according to Warren Knowles, City engineer, and workers have to watch to keep from being buried. Falling sand also slows work. The condition is due to the type of sand and to seepage of water. Hot steamers material is used to seal joints of the line.

OUTFALL PIPE ASSEMBLED—The outfall pipe which will take sewage out 620 feet into Lake Monroe is shown being assembled at the mouth of Mill Creek, just south of Highway 17-92 at the bridge west of the City. The pipe was assembled in 20 foot sections and floated back up the creek until the full length was put together. The pipe was hung between barrels and pushed out into the lake under the bridge.

PIPE LAID IN LAKE—A drag line rig is shown approximately 600 feet out in Lake Monroe on a ramp it made itself. The rig was used to excavate a trench for the outfall pipe, the residue of which was made to build the ramp. After the pipe was put in place, the rig covered it up again. The rig sat on mats to keep from sinking into the lake. The depth of the lake averages four to four and a half feet but some holes were about 20 feet deep. (Photos by Warren Knowles, City manager.)
