

Misunderstanding Of Words Is One Trouble Source

Wrong Interpretation Generates Mistrust, President Learns

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23. —(AP)—The President is having word trouble again, and no wonder. Half the troubles of the country arise from mistrust and misunderstandings generated by words and phrases that some people understand one way and others a different way, and come that some people don't understand at all.

Pat Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which handles tax matters, joined the President in urging the press to find a substitute for the word "appreciation" as representing the administration's new policy toward business.

The word appreciation came into general use after Prime Minister Chamberlain explained what had happened at Munich. The democracies had to "appreciate" the totalitarian nations to keep from having a fight.

Well, said Harrison, coming from the White House, if anybody wants to get in the President's hair let him continue to use the phrase "appreciation of business" as representing Mr. Roosevelt's attitude. Maybe it is appreciation but it isn't the kind that comes from being "screared," as were England and France at Munich. Or at least it won't do any good to carry on the idea that the President is so scared that he is going to give business everything it wants. That is what Harrison intimated.

The President promised to go to his thesaurus to find a better word and told the press to "go thou and do likewise." Anyway, he said, the press invented the word, not the President.

Well, there are others having word trouble. Jerome Frank, Securities and Exchange commissioner, said that certain words stirred up bad association and prevented clear thinking. So he invented a trio of new ones and said others could be designed.

He was discussing monopoly. Monopoly, he said, sounds like a crime, but certain monopolistic systems are socially desirable, possibly telephone and water systems. To such monopolies he applied the name Ugeweg.

In turn, he said regulation of industry often seemed to mean excessive governmental intervention or regimentation. Yet some regulation is highly desirable. He calls it Agweg.

Again, he said, when business men got together among themselves, or with labor, buyers, and producers, or any two or more of the lot got together, it was immediately interpreted as a conspiracy to fix prices and rob the ultimate consumer. But at times such consultation is highly desirable, and to the "good consultation" as distinguished from "conspiratorial" in restraint of trade, he gave the name Wilweg.

They were splendid words, but even Frank could not tell which meant which after he had once used them.

Off hand we can think of a half dozen other words that could use a bit of revising. The word "purge" used in Germany to extinguish opposition by use of the axe was employed here during the last political campaign and befuddled the issue handsomely.

And yet, the New Dealers who suffered from employment of the word "purge" have no true complaint coming. Early in the New Deal, liberals who happened to differ with New Deal methods were arbitrarily deemed as "conservative forces."

Nowadays, in the eyes of some New Dealers, every disoriented conservative is a "fascist."

In the eyes of some disoriented conservatives, every New Dealer is a "communist."

Such usage makes good headlines, but plays havoc with sensible understanding.

Last Of Big-Time Gangsters To Go On Trial Mar. 27

By JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK, Mar. 23. —(AP)—Squid-bland Johnny Torrio is going to trial—the last of the big-time prohibition racketeers and gangsters still unpunished.

The government legal trap is baited and set, and it will be sprung with testimony from the most notorious gangster of them all—Al Capone—who reportedly learned all he knew of mob methods from Torrio.

Al and Johnny cut their first gang fangs as kids together in the tough old Brooklyn navy yard district. When Johnny was getting up in the world as bodyguard for "Big Jim" Colosimo in Chicago, he sent for Al.

After Colosimo had been mowed down with gangland lead in 1920, little Johnny Torrio took his underworld crown and when he abdicated five years later, he passed it on to "Boss" Al Capone.

Torrio, 66, has reputedly made more than $10,000,000 out of his various operations. When he was arrested in nearby White Plains in 1936, his wife produced $104,000 cash for his bail.

When the trial opens, there'll be only one of the former big-name racketeers on the outside looking on. That's Owen V. (Owey) Madden. But Owey has served his time and retired. At last report, he was living quietly in Hot Springs, Ark.

All of Torrio's other big-time contemporaries are doing stretches in prison or have died from underworld games.

Dion O'Bannon is dead. His funeral was one of the flashiest Chicago ever witnessed. It was at that time that Al Capone was shot.

Wesley Gordon, who once took time off from the liquor business to produce a big Broadway musical show, is in federal prison.

Charles "Lucky" Luciano, not so lucky after all, is serving 30 to 60 years for compulsory prostitution. Capone, in the federal correctional prison on Terminal Island, near Los Angeles.

They remain only quietly, almost unheeded, publicity-hungry Johnny Torrio. In the underworld they call him "The Immortal." Now the government is out to prove the underworld is wrong. And it's using the same weapon—the income tax law—used successfully against Capone.

is rather to be chosen than great riches!

Thus spoke a philosopher who summarized the experience of thousands of years.

STILL TRUE TODAY

American inventive and business genius have wrought many improvements in our home life, as compared with that of our fathers and grandfathers. But although the electric refrigerator is an advance over the cool milk-house . . . the hot-water heater over the old kitchen stove . . . modern life has evolved no improvement over the moral backlog of our fathers. A good name is still more valuable than wealth . . . and it is the only name that will stand the test of advertising.

They used to call it a tyranny; nowadays it's a totalitarian government.

It's a poor day these times which doesn't develop new men in Europe.

Everyone is wondering what Hitler is going to do next, or rather, who he is going to do next.

As we get it, nobody has anything to worry about from the coming session of the Legislature except the taxpayers.

Don't forget to file your application this year for home-lease exemption. That is a little detail which must be attended to every year.

The WPA announces that the payroll will be cut Apr. 1. It's not a cut in pay, it's a cut in hours.

The judge gave that fellow money illness. New York lottery racketeers, four to eight years in prison following conviction on lottery conspiracy charges.

Coming home late the other night we were surprised to hear someone about from a darkened corner of the living room.

We were driving to a neighboring town recently and picked up a girl hitchhiker. He didn't have a whole pair of trousers to his name.

One reason why the Legislature sometimes fails to accomplish as much as it should is because it does not truly represent the will of the people.

No one seems to have any idea as to what Herr Hitler would do with that $200,000,000 gold which he is hoarding.

The indignation of Americans at seeing certain persons trying to import prejudices and hatreds from abroad, and seeking to fasten the same upon the United States, is natural, but it should be restrained.

Those people of German descent who have been so thoughtless and so irresponsible as to foster these movements are a very small minority of the German-descended population of the United States.

An Alien Arrives

In the light of recent events in Europe, as reported widely in this country in the press and over the radio, one can sympathize with the feelings which prompted Herman Leopoldi, a popular Viennese song writer, upon his arrival in this country following his exile from Austria, to throw himself down and kissed the ground as he stepped off the gangplank.

Leopoldi is a Jew. He was one of Vienna's most successful song writers and popular cabaret entertainers during the Schuschnigg regime. When Hitler's Storm Troopers marched into Austria a little over a year ago, Leopoldi was thrown into a concentration camp where he was detained for nine months.

And so America acquires another alien and the alien upon his arrival here is overcome with joy and kisses the ground of perhaps the only land in the world which would take him in. Here at last he has found the "land of the free and the home of the brave" where every man has equal rights and enjoy equal opportunities.

Americans will welcome him here and hope that he will follow the example of so many other immigrants from Austria, from Germany, from Rumania, Hungary, Italy, France and England, who have come here before him to become Americans and to support American institutions. We hope that he too will become an American.

Less than a generation ago Michael Pupin stepped from a ship in New York harbor just as Leopoldi did the other day. Pupin on that day had exactly five cents in his pockets, was a stranger in a foreign land. Today he is one of the big names in America's nine hundred million dollar radio industry.

Not everyone, unfortunately, who comes to this country of freedom from the oppressed nations of Europe wants to become an American citizen. Though they may take out naturalization papers, they still think it foolish to have three separate and independent branches of government, to have laws made by representatives of the people's own choosing. They think a dictator, like those they have in Europe, would make this a better country.

Such immigrants are too busy standing on soap boxes at busy street intersections lecturing the American public on how they should run their government and operate their national economy, to find themselves a job. They have to depend on the WPA and various charitable organizations to provide them with a living. They are not satisfied with the country they came to as it is; they must make it over into some European model.

Let us hope that Leopoldi will not forget that he kissed the ground when he arrived here. He was plenty glad to get away from his old home. He liked America as he found it. Let us hope he doesn't try to make it over.

Just A Stomach Ache

How many mothers kill their own children? No; many, of course, do it on purpose, but a surprisingly large number, with the best intentions in the world, cause their children's deaths by the ill-advised administering of home remedies.

Little Willie comes home with a stomach ache. Mother promptly rushes to the cabinet for a large dose of castor oil. She has found on countless previous occasions that castor oil will get rid of a stomach ache in due course.

This time, however, little Willie's appendix happens to be badly inflamed. The castor oil does that no good whatever; in fact, it makes it worse. So another dose of castor oil is administered. By the time little Willie reaches the doctor's office, he is apt to be beyond repair.

Dr. Vernon G. David, in an address before the American College of Surgeons in Indianapolis the other day, said that 98 percent of all deaths caused by appendicitis are due to complications resulting from improper treatment and the consequent rupture of the appendix caused by such delay. The mortality rate among patients who have gone to the hospital within 24 hours after the first attack is less than one-half of one percent, he said, or almost nothing.

"One-third of the patients brought to hospitals already have suffered ruptured appendices," he said, "and 40 percent have had previous attacks. Nearly 40 percent have taken cathartics and one-third of these have ruptured appendices and are susceptible to peritonitis and the other complications of rupture."

Of course, mother will say you can't take your child to the doctor every time he has the stomach ache. That is, you can't on the incomes which most of us are able to make these days. So there is quite a problem for mother to decide, whether her child has an ordinary stomach ache from eating too many green apples, or whether he has a bad appendix.

Dr. David says this, that if the severe stomach pains continue more than four hours, the chances are it is not an ordinary stomach ache and a doctor should be consulted. Under no circumstances should a second cathartic be administered for the same stomach ache without consulting a physician.

Most German Americans Are Loyal

By WILLIS THORNTON

The indignation of Americans at seeing certain persons trying to import prejudices and hatreds from abroad, and seeking to fasten the same upon the United States, is natural, but it should be restrained.

Those people of German descent who have been so thoughtless and so irresponsible as to foster these movements are a very small minority of the German-descended population of the United States. They are loud, and demonstrative, but they are not representative of the Germanic people who have made so splendid a contribution to the upbuilding of the United States.

No one should be more resentful of the loss of liberty than the honest and reputable people who have never hesitated, for several generations, to have their weight thrown on the side of freedom and democracy. The souls of the

Noteworthy Progress In Florida's Cattle Industry Is Cited By Colee

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 24.—One of the greatest industries in Florida, the beef cattle industry is making noteworthy progress and should soon regain its former importance as a leading Florida industry, Harold Colee, president of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, declared in an address here.

More progress has been made in the past few years than in the several centuries before, Mr. Colee declared, and the beef industry today furnishes employment to approximately 10 percent of Florida's population, having a total investment in excess of $140,000,000.

"It is estimated," President Colee said, "that Florida consumes about 100,000,000 pounds of beef and veal annually. Of this, only about 21,000,000 pounds is produced at home and 79,000,000 pounds is imported from other States. These imports over a five-year period have been valued at some $2,500,000—money that could be going into the pockets of Florida producers!"

"At one time, Florida consumers might have had some justification in preferring Western to Florida beef—but that is no longer true. Imported breeder bulls and better breeding attention have made Florida beef as desirable as the best. There is no reason, therefore, why Florida consumers should not demand Florida-grown beef from their butchers and meat dealers."

"Modern breeding and better herd management over the past few years have raised the average grade of Florida animals from one and a half to two and a half grades. Ten years ago they were graded 'plain, fair and common—today Florida beefs are graded 'prime, choice, good and medium.

they passed the acid test of loyalty.

Today they are not less loyal, but more, for the tyranny abroad which has the impudence to demand their allegiance is a more bitter one than ever a Kaiser dared impose on a proud people.

Do not be deceived by the antics of a rabid few. The vast bulk of American citizens of German descent will be found loyal today as in the past to freedom, and to the land which is now, and in most cases has been for generations, their own.

"ONE OF THE BEST THINGS TO COME!"
The nation's greatest actor in his grandest role!

CHARLES LAUGHTON

Associate Features

'Beachcomber' Proves Robust Screen Fare

"The Beachcomber," which opens tonight at the Ritz Theatre, marks the highest point in the distinguished career of the great screen actor, Charles Laughton.

Based on a W. Somerset Maugham story, the picture casts Laughton in the role of "Ginger Ted," a unique and interesting characterization which he handles with all the adroitness and finish which he lent to the parts of Captain Bligh in "Mutiny on the Bounty" and the title role of "Rembrandt."

At the inception of the action, "Ginger Ted" is disrupting the peace of a remote island, the island, English Romantic man and beachcomber, he is at odds with the scheme of things on the island. The island's Dutch Controller, a missionary named Miss Jones, and her brother Mr. Jones, have a hard time trying to control him. Yet the Controller prefers his company to that of the strict, humorless Miss Jones and her feisty brother. At the same time Miss Jones is having a difficult time keeping "Ginger" away from her native girl students.

In the course of the story, "Ginger" and Miss Jones are marooned on a reef for a night, along with two native boys. She is frantic with fear. But Laughton ignores her—a fact which brings mingled emotions in her reaction. She decides that it is her duty to bring out the good in his nature. Her method of doing this, and his battle for freedom, provide interesting and stimulating motivation for the remainder of the drama.

Charles Laughton's wife, Elsa Lancaster delivers a fine performance as Miss Jones. Tyrone Guthrie, in the role of Dr. Jones and Robert Newton as the Controller, are outstanding members of the supporting cast. Each Premier produced and directed the picture for Mayflower. It has been released in the United States by Paramount.

Poland Is Key To Anti-Hitler Bloc In Europe

Near mission headed by Dr. Helmut Wohlfahrt, contains concessions without precedent in modern economic relations between two sovereign nations.

(An London informed experts said the agreement brings Rumania, politically, militarily and economically into the orbit of German influence and seriously restricts Rumania's sovereignty.)

Experts estimated that 90 per cent of Rumania's wheat and other agricultural products—sorely needed by Hitler—would go to Germany and that industrially Rumania would become "a branch of the German reich."

Germany also will obtain a great part of the 9,000,000 tons of oil produced annually in Rumania and Germans will open up virgin oil fields north of Ploesti.

"There will be very little room left for other customers," said an economic leader, referring to an announcement two days ago that British trade mission was being sent to Bucharest.

It had been expected that the accord would be signed Wednesday but contrary to reports that it had been signed, last-minute questions on several details caused postponement of the signing until yesterday.

The treaty provides for Germany's rearmament of Rumania, Germany's right to develop all of Rumania's natural resources such as oil, coal, timber and minerals, Germany's right to furnish the agricultural and other machinery needed by Rumania, the formation of German Rumanian companies for exploitation of Rumanian resources, "cooperation" between German and Rumanian banks and collaborative efforts in almost every commercial branch.

It was evident that King Carol II's government, faced with the fact that Germany now dominates more than 50 per cent of its exports and imports as a result of the Nazi annexation of Czechoslovakia, had made its choice.

There can be no further question.

tion of Rumanian co-operation in broad lines economic cooperation with the western powers and in order to satisfy the great and complementary interests of Hitler now is the predominating factor over the nation which lies along the route of his "drive to the east" along the Danube.

The government's communique describing the signing of the pact and its importance said: "The pact has furnished new proof of her desire to fortify peace."

The agreement aims at arranging in broad lines economic cooperation in order to satisfy the great and complementary interests of four countries.

Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu and Minister of Economy Michael Brucan signed the treaty for King Carol II's government.

By granting the favoring concessions to Germany the Rumanian government hoped the pact would support against their hostile neighbor to the northwest, Hungary.

Price Of Celery Rises As Season Nears Conclusion

Chase Survey Reveals Only 600 Acres Of Sand Land Crop Remains In County

Weather Causes Very Low Yields

Market Prices Quoted As High As $3.50 In Latest Report

With about 600 acres of sand land celery remaining in Seminole County, in addition to the late Oriedo muckland crop, the price of the county's principle product is showing improvement on the terminal markets.

M. L. Colburn, sales manager for Chase and Company, reported that his company has made a survey of the celery remaining in this county and that the stock revealed 600 acres in various stages of growth still remaining. He added, however, that some of the late wood celery is harvested and that the price in most instances would be very low.

Next week will be the last heavy week for sand land celery. Mr. Colburn said, adding that an estimate of 400 cars had been placed on the remaining sand land celery, some of which will be harvested until mid-April.

The extremely low estimate of the Colburn sales manager of the remaining celery stock will prevent most of the remaining crop from reaching maturity and a great amount of waste because of disease and insects in the celery now being cut. He added, however, that some of the late wood celery is "surprisingly good."

The average acreage retained the sand land celery in both the Oriedo and muckland sections and is still that shipping of the late Oriedo muckland crop would begin about mid-April.

Today's market report showed a total of 176 held over cars at 16 principal terminal markets with price quotations ranging from the lowest at $2.00 to as high as $3.50 on the New York market, according to the report of the Federal State Market News Service.

To date this season, Seminole County has shipped 2500 cars of the 1938 crop which have been shipped from the state since 1937. To date last year 4277 cars were moved and to the same date in 1937 a total of 4047 cars were shipped.

Canners Speed Up Operations Under Injunction

Processors Desires Repeal Of Minimum Price Regulations

TAMPA, Mar. 25.—(AP)—Grapefruit canners were speeding up their plants yesterday as a result of a temporary injunction by Federal Judge Akerman against the state minimum price law, but they said they would hold production to a low level until the law is repealed by the Legislature or knocked out by federal courts.

Judge Akerman's ruling gave 10 leading canners a temporary restraining order against enforcement of the law and a 32-cent box minimum price set under it.

Usually all canning plants have been operating on a restricted basis for the last week or two. Some were said to have been doing business on a "custom canning" basis while others were paying the 32 cents or less for grapefruit juice.

"We're still got our fingers crossed," said J. Adams Bruce, president of Bruce's Juices, Inc., of Tampa, "and I don't see how the industry can make any progress until this foolish law is repealed or declared invalid."

"We hope the legislature will come to our aid and repeal it immediately," this would result in a complete cessation of the law and we can hope through repeal courts."

"I know we have a temporary injunction, but the industry is not going to take any great chances until it knows what the three judges in New Orleans are going to say."

"I think most people have come to realize that it is a law incapable of enforcement, and I hope we will be permitted to get under way before it is too late."

Seminole Uses More Gasoline During January

330,799 Gallons Of Fuel Is Sold In County In Month

Consumption of gasoline in Seminole County in the month of January increased 8,000 gallons over the month of December according to a report from the Inspection Bureau of the Department of Agriculture in Tallahassee which showed that Seminole county motorists used a total of 330,799 gallons of the fuel during the 31-day period.

Kerosene consumption dropped, however, from 107,274 gallons used in the month of December to 89,406 gallons of the fuel oil in January.

This county ranked 21st in the consumption of gasoline. Dade county held a wide lead, with a consumption for the month of 6,222,660 gallons. Duval second with 3,845,000 gallons and Hillsborough third with 1,904,977 gallons.

Volusia, Polk, Pinellas, Palm Beach, Orange, and Broward counties each had a consumption of over one million gallons of the fuel during the 31-day period.

Strangling Of Wife Confessed By Husband

Cunningham Breaks 19-Day Silence By Directing Officers To Grave In Sewer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 25.—(AP)—The body of socially prominent Mrs. Eudora Cunningham dug by flashlight from a desecrated grave early today after her husband broke a stubborn 19-day silence with a dramatic last-minute confession.

Just a few hours before a scheduled habeas corpus hearing which officers said would have ended in freedom for the 31-year-old Roger Cunningham, he broke a stubborn 19-day silence and confessed to officers that he strangled his wife on Mar. 6 and directed his searchers to the body with a crude map.

With a firm neat hand, the bearded and haggard Cunningham sketched a diagram to show the officers where the body was buried, then retired to his jail cell for the first sound sleep since he has had the week.

Headed by Sheriff George God and the Assistant County Attorney E. W. Brown, weary searchers "raked to the spot indicated by the FHA inspector husband, and tugging in red earth by the light of flickering signal flares, they dug almost eight feet in the ground."

Then Brown signalled officers to hand back the curious crowd and pronounced: "I struck her there she is."

Fully clothed, even to a pitifully jaunty little blue hat, trim brown sport shoes and a tall swagger coat, the body was lifted into a waiting hearse.

"I strangled my wife Eudora Cunningham," said Cunningham in a signed statement to County Attorney Lewis R. Morris, who questioned him.

Lehmann Cites Need For Planned System Of Roads

"Florida's roads have just grown like Topsy," said Karl Lehmann of Tallahassee, secretary of the Florida Highway Council, in addressing a meeting in DeLand yesterday afternoon which was attended by officials of the Seminole County Chamber.

"And," added Mr. Lehmann, "Florida's future road building must be done according to a carefully planned program if we are to get the maximum value for our highway dollars."

The speaker outlined the work that has been going on in Florida for the past three years in the making of a highway survey, in which $400,000 has been expended, and 200 trained engineers, statisticians, draftsmen and clerks have made a careful, detailed study of "where we have been, where we are and where we are going."

Florida's future road building must be done according to a carefully planned program if we are to get the maximum value for our highway dollars."

Attention Turns To Hitler's Axis Partner In Rome

Autonomy For Hungarians In Rumania Sought

Peaceful Penetration Of Neighbor Nation Desired At Budapest

BUDAPEST, Mar. 25.—(AP)—Autonomy for Hungarian and German minorities in Rumania was reported last night to be under informal preliminary discussion among the Berlin, Budapest and Bucharest governments.

Hungarian hopes rose that, moving at Germany's side, she would achieve a peaceful penetration of Rumania and Slovakia as well.

Officials said military measures were being ended and that the nation would be back on a peace-time military basis soon.

"The Slovak defense ministry in Bratislava announced, however, that fighting continued in eastern Slovakia where Hungarian forces had crossed the frontier from Carpatho-Ruthenia.

Political implications of such a campaign would be far-reaching, they admitted, since such (Continued on Page Two)

Mussolini Expected To Press Colonial Demands In Address Tomorrow Morning

Spanish Strife Nears Armistice

Mussolini's uneasy attention shifted today from Berlin to Rome as Germany set to work to put her enlarged house in order and ambitions of Italy, her axis partner, came to the fore.

Premier Mussolini was expected to make what may be a momentous address tomorrow in which some observers expected him to present Italy's colonial demands in France.

This report was encouraged by reports from Spain which said that final negotiations for surrender of Madrid to the Spanish nationalists and for the making of peace in the 28 months old Spanish civil war were nearly completed.

Reports from Iglo in Slovakia said that air and land fighting between Hungarian and Slovak troops was taking place over the Ung River Valley which is claimed by Hungary as her new frontier line.

Bombings of towns behind the fighting zone was attributed to both sides, however, semi-official sources said that an armistice had been arranged.

Germany is understood to be trying to smooth out the dispute on behalf of Slovakia which has Berlin's protection. Germany coped with pressing financial problems with a unique plan for borrowing on the future and with new taxes.

Hull Calls Hitler Threat To Peace Of Worried World

WASHINGTON, Mar. 25.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull, declaring Hitler's latest moves had threatened the peace of the world, called yesterday for "the support of all nations for law and order and sound economic relations."

On his return from Florida, where he spent two weeks recuperating from grippe, Hull said that he, in common with the general public here, had been "profoundly shocked by the recent developments in Europe."

He termed them "new evidences of international lawlessness." Yesterday afternoon he conferred at length with President Roosevelt on the international situation.

Permitting direct quotation of his remarks owing to the gravity of the situation, Hull told reporters:
